Southerners Claim Truman Trying To 'Crucify' Dixie

HEAVY SNOW, HIGH WINDS BATTER WIDE SECTION

23 Die In Winter Storm

(By The Associated Press)

MARCH howled into the east in blustering style Tuesday causing at least 23 deaths.

New England received a heavy, traffic-paralyzing blow of snow that was accompanied by winds of up to 60 miles an hour at times. Traffic in some sections was at a virtual standstill. Schools and many stores were closed. Some major roads and state highways were blocked by the sudden storm.

The deaths were attributed to overexertion in the cold and snow.

Massachusetts and Connecticut had six deaths each; New York and New Jersey, four each; Rhode Island, two, and Maine, one.

But below normal temperatures were general throughout the country. Scattered snow and rain covered most sections of the Midwest, the Plains states, Southwest, the Mountain states, upper Great Lakes and Valley regions.

Heavy Snows Reported

Only a few Pacific coast and south Florida points escaped the unseasonal cold.

The heaviest snowfall in New England was concentrated over Connecticut. Inland portions of the state reported 25 inches piled up on the ground. At Hartford, 16 inches was recorded.

Fairfield county, Conn., had 20 inches.

Most of Rhode Island had 10 inches with a serious traffic problem. Boston, Mass., had seven inches; New York City reported nearly 10 inches of fall, but rapidly melting precipitation brought a sluggish traffic situation.

New Jersey had seven inches; eastern Long Island reported drifts up to four feet in depth; one to seven inches of snow covered Pennsylvania; central West Virginia had 11 inches and two major highways were closed by the snowfall.

Fruit Escapes Frost

New England's winds, which ranged the section in speeds varying between 40 and 60 miles an hour, drifted into the southeast fruit-growing states. There, the cold of early Tuesday was nullified to some extent by the pushing winds. The anticipated frost was kept from settling by winds and moved away without serious crop damage in the truck garden and peach growing belt.

More cold was the forecast for the East, New England southeast.

The U.S. Weather bureau at Chicago forecast below zero for northern Maine and from zero to 10 above throughout the other New England states.

Some additional snow is forecast for the entire eastern section.

The southeast's fruit and truck crops might get a frost Tuesday night if the winds lessened, the weather bureau said.

Below freezing temperatures were recorded Tuesday morning at Augusta, Ga., Columbia, S. C., Charleston, S. C., and scattered cities throughout the southeast.

FEBRUARY MOISTURE SHORT HERE

March Tames Down After Brisk Start For South Plains Area

MARCH tamed down to almost lamb-like qualities on the South Plains Tuesday after a lionish start earlier in the day.

Light snow whirled over downtown Lubbock yesterday morning, but the clouds soon broke and bright sunshine gave the mercury a boost by midafternoon to 55 degrees. The early morning low was 31 degrees.

The Weather bureau station north of town said that today and Thursday should continue warm. Today is predicted to be partly cloudy with little change in temperature. Thursday will be slightly warmer, the forecaster said.

Moisture Below Normal

A light drizzle is foreseen early today, but this condition is expected to continue for only a short time after sunrise, the weatherman said.

Station records for February showed that precipitation for the month was one half of normal, .29 inch. Temperatures were 1.3 degrees below normal with the year's high of 73 degrees recorded on Feb. 19, and the month's low of 16 degrees marked up on Feb. 1. A number of snow flurries were observed during February but no measurable amount was received.

Battle Of Spreads, Oleo Vs. Butter, Breaks Out Again

By ARTHUR EDSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 1—The so-called battle of the spreads—or butter vs. margarine—broke out again in Congress today.

As usual, the battleground was the House Committee on Agriculture, already pockmarked by margarine and butter patties thrown at previous hearings on this issue.

The committee is considering bills that would knock special taxes off margarine. And this splits these agriculturists, as we poets say, in twain.

Poage Opens Fight

One group, whose constituents grow cottonseed, peanuts and soybeans, wants to knock the tax to smithereens.

The other group, whose constituents are cow milkers, wants to keep the tax.

Today was devoted to the arguments of the cottonseed people.

Rep. Poage (D-Tex) fired the opening oratorical gun. He referred to "the greedy gluttons of privilege, the butter barons."

"Why, he said, "they want to deny the people who pay the grocery bill the right to decide for themselves what food products they will buy with their own money."

37 Persons Dead As Gales Lash Europe

LONDON, March 1 (AP) — Gale winds sometimes reaching 90 miles an hour killed 37 persons in Europe and Britain today and injured hundreds.

The storm burst at the tail end of a mild winter, lashing Britain and wide areas of the continent with snow, sleet and rain. Most aircraft, including the Berlin airlift, were grounded most of the day. Two ships sank and dozens were driven aground.

Floods added to the danger.

War-battered buildings in Germany, crumpling before 70-mile-an-hour gusts, killed 25.

A man was killed in Rome when a wall crashed into a street. A woman in Yorkshire, England, was killed by the collapse of a roof.

Britain had the added danger of floods.

FLIGHT RECORD SET

MIAMI, March 1 (INS)—A Delta Air lines four-engined DC-6 set a new official speed record for commercial planes between Chicago and Miami today by covering the 1,183-mile distance in three hours, 37 minutes and seven seconds. The plane, carrying 55 passengers and a crew of four, averaged 327 miles an hour. The flight normally requires four hours.

GOP To Push Tax Reduction

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 1—The House Republican leadership Tuesday made a cut in wartime excise taxes its major objective for this Congress.

At its first meeting of the year, the party's House policy committee approved a statement saying "the wartime excise taxes should be cut back at once to the pre-war 1941 rates."

The excise taxes are the levies on telephone bills, railroad tickets, furs, luggage, and the like. All of them were raised sharply during the war.

Good Chance Seen

The GOP committee took no stand on the question of general tax increases or reductions. President Truman is asking for a $4,000,000,000 increase in taxes on corporations and people in higher income brackets.

The GOP committee's action was announced by Republican floor leader Martin of Massachusetts. He said he believes the Ways and Means committee will approve an excise tax cut bill.

"I understand five Democrats on the committee favor it," Martin added.

Pension Bill Discussed

There are 10 Republicans and 15 Democrats on the tax-writing Ways and Means committee.

Martin said pending legislation to give pensions to veterans of the last two wars was discussed by the party policy strategists but there was no decision.

The matter of pensions is expected to be brought up next Tuesday at a meeting of all House Republicans.

The policy committee also took a stand in opposition to a pending proposal to create a department of public welfare by merging existing social agencies.

DEMO-LED COMMITTEE SIDESTEPS TAX ISSUE

WASHINGTON, March 1. (AP)—A Democratic-controlled congressional committee Tuesday endorsed most of President Truman's ideas for a stable economy, but sidestepped the issue of a $4,000,000,000 tax increase.

A report approved 7 to 4 by the Senate-House Economic committee likewise took no stand on the President's controversial suggestion that the government build steel and other plants if private industry fails to meet the need.

Hope Fades For Missing Fliers

SAN ANTONIO, March 1 (AP) — Hope waned today for eight airmen, including one of the famed Doolittle fliers, who have been unreported for more than 30 hours.

It was feared ill luck befell them in the rugged hill country of southwest Texas on a scheduled flight in a C-47 transport from Hamilton Air base, Calif., to San Antonio.

The whole area has been cloaked in a fog for two days.

Last trace of the craft was over Wink at 8:26 a.m. yesterday. It had taken off from Biggs Air base, El Paso, a short time before. It was clocked to finish its flight here at 10:06 a.m. Wink is a third of the distance between El Paso and San Antonio.

Four Are Identified

Hamilton Field, the plane's home base, released the names of four of its occupants.

They were Maj. Lucian N.

George M. Schick, Pioneer Hale Stockman-Farmer, Is Claimed

PLAINVIEW, March 1 (Special) — George M. Schick, 87, pioneer Hale county stockman-farmer, died early today in Plainview sanitarium after an illness of about four weeks. He had been a patient in the sanitarium for about one week.

Mr. Schick came to West Texas in the late 1880's, and moved to the Plainview area in 1892. He had celebrated his 87th birthday Monday. Last Nov. 23, he and Mrs. Schick celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary.

Survivors in addition to the wife include a son, George M. Schick, jr., of Plainview; and three daughters, Mrs. Jerome Buchannen of Plainview, Mrs. Carl Sissel of Dumas, and Mrs. Iona Wynn of Spring City, Pa.; 10 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

Labor Secretary Opposes Any Change In HST Labor Proposal

WASHINGTON, March 1, (AP) — Secretary of Labor Tobin said tonight he still is against amending the Truman labor bill in any way.

"I want the bill exactly as it is," Tobin told reporters after a second conference in as many days with chairman Elbert D. Thomas of the Senate Labor committee.

During committee hearings on the administration bill, Tobin opposed all suggested changes. He was asked today whether he had changed his mind about amendments. He replied that he still is opposed to revising the measure.

After yesterday's conference, Thomas said he and Tobin had discussed whether the bill should be "strategically" amended to win votes in Congress.

Thomas said then and again today that he believes it would be "bad strategy" to amend the bill.

'THE COMMUNIST CONSPIRACY'

Committee Placed Hiss On Spot In Effort To Clear Testimony

By ROBERT E. STRIPLING
(Chief Investigator, House Un-American Activities Committee, 1938-1948; Edited by Bob Considine.)

IT WAS a somewhat different Alger Hiss who faced the committee in secret session during the long afternoon of August 16, 1948.

Hiss was perturbed over a premature revelation to the newspapers, by a member of the Committee, that we had questioned Chambers in secrecy the previous week and Chambers had told us enough to convince us he knew Hiss intimately. Hiss now obliquely accused the Committee of questioning him solely for the purpose of obtaining information which we would then pass on privately to Chambers for the latter's use on the public witness stand.

No. 22

Rep. Nixon resented the inference. "What we are trying to do," he said, "is test the credibility of Mr. Chambers, and you are the man who can do it."

"Either you or Mr. Chambers is lying," Rep. Hebert put in. "And whichever one of you is lying is

U. S. REJECTS RED DEMAND FOR PILOT'S RETURN

Russian Army Flier Flees From Siberia In Soviet Plane To Seek Political Freedom Among Americans

By FRANK L. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, March 1—A Russian army flier fled Siberia and landed his Soviet plane in Japan late last year, the U. S. Army revealed today.

"I wanted to find freedom," the pilot declared.

The flier, Sgt. Vladamir Barashkov, 23, told newsmen today that Russian fliers "have the impression the Soviets have the atomic bomb."

He said he left Siberia to seek a haven in the United States.

Barashkov landed the Russian-built C-47 type plane on Rishiri island, off Hokkaido, Nov. 10, 1948, but the Army did not make his arrival public.

(Return of the young flier to Russia for trial as an airplane thief and deserter has been demanded by Lt. Gen Kuzma Derevyanko, head of the Russian mission in Japan, but the demand has been rejected by Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, chief intelligence officer on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff, The International News Service reported.

(General Willoughby countered by pointing out that the young sergeant had requested safe haven and ruled that "the pilot's escape, coupled with such a request, disqualifies this incident as a normal forced landing on military service."

(General Willoughby repeatedly offered during the course of voluminous corespondence with Derevyanko to arrange a meeting between the escaped flier and the Russian mission chief but the offer was not accepted, INS said.)

Barashkov talked with American correspondents for more than two hours. He said the election of President Truman and the defeat of Henry Wallace last year made a profound impression on the Russians.

Barashkov said like other Russians he had been led by Soviet

Kermit Man Dies In Crash

(Special To The Avalanche)

SEMINOLE, March 1 — William F. Rogers, 27, resident of Kermit about four years, was killed early this morning and his wife was injured when the car in which they were riding overturned about five miles out of Seminole on the Denver City highway.

Rogers was employed by a drilling company in Kermit. His death brings the number of South Plains violent deaths to eight since Saturday night, four in traffic accidents three by shootings and one as a result of a stabbing.

The couple was en route to Kermit from Denver City. Investigating officers of the highway patrol reported that the accident occurred between 3 and 6 a.m., and was first reported by early-morning motorists.

A Singleton Funeral home ambulance went to the scene and brought the couple to Tomb hospital here, where Rogers was pronounced dead upon arrival. He apparently died of a fractured skull.

Mrs. Rogers received treatment for cuts and bruises at the hospital and later today was removed to a Kermit hospital.

Car Overturns

Highway patrolmen indicated that the Rogers' late-model Chevrolet sedan overturned, possibly after Rogers fell asleep at the wheel and the vehicle ran off the highway.

Singleton Funeral home of Seminole Wednesday will carry the body overland to Kilgore, where Rogers formerly had lived. Funeral services are to be conducted sometime Thursday in Kilgore, with Singleton directing burial there. Complete funeral arrangements were not known here tonight.

Survivors in addition to the wife include his mother, Mrs. L. Bryant of Eunice, N. M. Other survivors were not known here.

Woods Threatens To Run For Governor

CENTERVILLE, March 1. (AP)—Dr. L. A. Woods has threatened to run for governor next year if the proposed Gilmer-Aikin bill is approved by the legislature.

The state superintendent of public instruction bitterly attacked the school system reorganization plan during a speech here last night before 200 school officials, including a dozen district superintendents.

"I am not making any promises but if my office is abolished I may be a candidate for governor next year," he said. "I think I would make a good governor, at least as good as some we have had recently."

The Gilmer-Aikin bills would abolish Woods' elective office. An elected state school board would appoint the superintendent.

Texas Solon Introduces Bill To Expand Amarillo Vets' Hospital

WASHINGTON, March 1. (AP)—Legislation authorizing the Veterans administration to build a 350-bed addition to its hospital at Amarillo, was introduced today by Rep. Worley (D-Tex.)

Ex-servicemen from parts of five states—Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado, are served by the Amarillo institution, Worley said. He told a reporter his bill would increase its capacity to 500 beds, "barely enough" to meet the demand.

The measure provides for construction of the addition and for erection of living quarters for nurses and doctors and for any other necessary structures. It authorizes appropriations necessary for the work.

Red Group Refuses To Leave Frankfurt

U.S. Begins Blockade Of Soviet Mission

By TOM AGOSTON
INS Staff Correspondent

FRANKFURT, March 2. (Wednesday)—U. S. military police began blockading the disaccredited Soviet repatriation mission at midnight upon Gen. Lucius D. Clay's suggestion that they be starved into quitting the American occupation zone.

The eight mission members refused to quit their Frankfurt headquarters upon expiration of the midnight deadline in the U. S. military governor's recent order.

Lights Blaze In Building

The "Russian squatters" include two women servants.

Lights blazed in the Soviet mission building during the night, probably for the last time, since their electricity is expected to be cut off sometime today.

The mission members, including four officers and four enlisted men who have defied Gen. Clay apparently at the suggestion of Moscow, could be seen through kitchen windows eating a late night meal.

Outside, American military police in jeeps and German police patrolled. Newsmen and cameramen also were outside the building.

Blockade Suggested

It is unlikely anything will happen before 8 a. m. when Col. Sterling Wood, provost marshal acting as Frankfurt post commander for Brig. Gen. R. E. Duff, will call on the Russians.

Clay earlier told a news conference he believed the Russians will quit the American zone "peacefully and shortly."

In case they do not, he remarked:

"If I were Gen. Duff I would throw a guard around their place until they get tired of it and want to go home."

Clay said the Russians will be given a "period of grace" beyond the March 1 deadline "as is usual in international diplomatic relations." He added:

To Lose Privileges

"As long as they are only in their house we have no objection and we are in no hurry to get them out."

Clay pointed out that since the mission, which occupies a building in Frankfurt is no longer accredit-

Court Forbids Man To Teach Children 'Christ Is Myth'

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 1 — A court order today forbade a man to teach his daughter and stepdaughter that the "story of Christ is a myth."

Judge Rudolph F. Desort of superior court issued the injunction against Duane Free, 36, a printer. Mrs. Esther Free, 34, complained that her estranged husband "made fun of the children when they came home from church. Her divorce bill, filed today, alleged that he told the children "there is no God."

New 'Trials' In Bulgaria Hinted

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SOFIA, March 1 — Prosecution testimony opened today in the spy trial of 15 protestant ministers, amid indications more such trials are planned.

The last of the churchmen went to the witness stand in Sofia district court and tearfully confessed. All are accused of treason, spying for the United States and Britain and illegal dealings in foreign money.

Then the first of 53 witnesses for the Communist-led Bulgarian government were called.

Spy Charges Denied

Only one of the 15 ministers—Baptist, Pentecostal, Methodist and Congregational — deviated from a full confession. He was the Rev. Ladon Popov, 36, a Pentecostal pastor. He denied he had been a spy, but said in a quaking voice that he was guilty of illegal currency dealings. He said he had converted dollars obtained from the United States.

"There is only one road to travel and that is with Comrade Georgi Dimitrov (Communist premier)," Popov said.

The others, in the trial started Friday, admitted all charges.

They gave long public confessions, usually speedily, and sometimes with tears and sobs. The original confessions were obtained

Gay New Orleans' Mardi Gras Roars To Tumultuous Finale

By JOHN DE LORENZI
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 1—Blocks of unbroken human masses, swaying as a solid body first in one direction then another, brought the New Orleans Mardi Gras to a tumultuous climax tonight.

The multitudinous subjects of Rex—proclaimed monarch on the premise of every man a king—forged through the streets and made walking anywhere along the parade route virtually impossible.

Rulers of Mardi Gras today were Lester F. Alexander, marine contractor and civic leader who held sway as Rex, and Dolly Ann Souchon, debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edmond Souchon, of New Orleans, his queen of the gala day.

Rex, high atop his green and yellow throne with his colorful entourage depicting Louisiana history, received homage when his followers in scores of gaily decorated trucks fell in behind his court retinue.

Inhibitions were checked under the friendly cloak of a subject's mask.

The age-old story of boy meets girl was repeated countless times

Connally Joins In Filibuster

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 1 — Southern legislators pumped bitter oratory into the two-day Senate filibuster today with cries that the Truman administration is attempting to "crucify" the South.

Senator Russell (D-Ga), quarterback of the southern forces, injected that dramatic note into the lengthening debate over a proposal to curb the filibuster—the device of talking a bill to death.

The proposed rules change, backed by President Truman himself, would permit clamping a time limit on debate by a two-thirds vote of senators present on the senate floor.

Russell declared that the anti-filibuster move was only the first of a series of "sectional bills" designed to crucify his section of the nation.

Connally Hits Proposals

Russell's comment came in the form of an interruption as Senator Connally (D-Tex), opening the second day of the Dixie bloc's fight, said the attempt to limit debate was "for political purposes and political classes."

Connally said it was being pushed to a showdown as an opening wedge for three controversial bills —anti-poll tax, anti-lynching and the "so-called FEPC" measure, designed to prevent racial discrimination in employment.

All of them, he shouted, are "unconstitutional."

Then the 71-year-old-Texan demanded to know when the South was going to be permitted to rest in peace, without being subjected to what he termed constant agitation, aggravation and humiliation.

Committee Stymied

"The people of my state want the freedom of debate preserved," he said. "They want the truth to counteract cruel representations that often are foistered upon them."

Meanwhile, the filibuster blocked the Senate Foreign Relations committee from making a decision on the $5,580,000,000 European recovery bill.

Under Senate rules, the committee had to cut short its study of the proposed second installment in Marshall plan funds when the Sen-

Negro Is Found Guilty Of Murder

A 72nd district court jury, which heard evidence Tuesday in the murder trial of Henry White, about 42, Slaton negro, returned a verdict of guilty about 5:2'5 p. m. to Judge Dan Blair, and recommended a three-year suspended sentence.

White was found guilty of the July 17 slaying of Joe Perkins, about 32, another negro of Slaton.

The testimony showed that Perkins had assumed a common law relationship with White's wife. The two allegedly left Slaton, then returned and continued living together.

Six Shots Fired

On the date of the slaying White and his wife were walking down the street and Perkins allegedly called out, cursing as he did so, that it "won't be like that."

White was said by witnesses to have drawn his pistol and fired. When Perkins ran, White chased him. Six shots were fired and three of them took effect in Perkins' body. Perkins djed two hours later in a hospital.

Even state witnesses testified to the good reputation of the defendant.

The state was represented by District Attorney Lloyd Croslin and by E. G. Pharr, an assistant district attorney. Attorney Nat Heaton of Slaton represented White.

The jury was composed of P. J. Price, J. B. Calhoun, H. C. O'Neal, M. J. Meador, W. L. McDaniel, G. R. Bufe, Ted T. Tipps, J. A. Linkes, Hop Halsey, J. C. Leach,

PHYSICS PROFESSOR ARRESTED

French Fear Red Spies Have Given Soviets Atom Secrets

By ELIE MAISSI
INS Staff Correspondent

PARIS, March 1 — The possibility arose tonight that French atomic energy secrets have been transmitted to Soviet agents by French Communist spies.

Highly reliable French informants told International News Service that one of three espionage suspects grilled by security police in a roundup last night was a French physics professor.

They said the latter, accused of giving secret information to an eastern European military attache in Paris known to be acting for the Soviet secret service, was questioned all night. He is still being held.

Charges Kept Secret

The exact nature of the charges against the professor was not disclosed but these informants said it conceivably could be connected with French atomic research work.

The detained professor is not Dr. Frederic Joliot-Curie.

France recently began operating an atomic pile of its own. Dr. Joliot-Curie, head of the atomic energy commission who has been a Communist for years, declared Jan. 5 he never would relay atomic secrets to Russia.

Ten days later he denied a France-Soir report that he had been rebuked by the Communist party for the statement and accused of "Titoism."

Army Purge Looms

The wave of arrests and parliamentary moves against Communist deputies was touched off by Communist leader Maurice Thorez' recent statement that Frenchmen owned allegiance to Moscow instead of the homeland in case of an East-West war and a Red Army invasion.

High government informants said yesterday's cabinet meeting decided on an immediate purge of the French army and that three or four high-ranking officers may soon be arrested in the crackdown on the Communists.

The arrest of two Communist army officers, one of whom is said to have confessed giving military information to an agent of a "popular democracy" (the Russian name for its satellites), was announced yesterday.

Former Officer Nabbed

The informants said the cabinet agreed to Interior Minister Jules Moch's demand that military authorities initiate the purge and take it out of slow-moving parliamentary hands.

The newspaper France-Soir said that one of the three suspects picked up last night by police is a former superior army officer and commander in the Legion of Honor worked with Maj. Louis Teulery the officer who is said to have confessed he turned over data on latest French armament to a military attache of an unidentified "popular democracy."

The newspaper Franc-Tireur said the military attache involved was a Yugoslav.

Highly reliable French informants said one eastern military attache, whose identity was not disclosed, has received French military secrets over a period of months.

General Marshall Restored To Active Duty List At Own Request

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall, former secretary of state, has been restored to the active list, the Army announced today.

President Truman approved the restoration, the Army said, which does not give General Marshall any active duty assignment or make any changes in his pay and allowances.

General Marshall was voluntarily placed on the retired list to accept appointment as secretary of state.

The law which created the special five-star rank exempted generals and admirals from mandatory retirement because of age. They receive their full pay and allowances for life whether carried on the active or on the retired list.

Army officials said General Marshall has been put back on the active list at his own request. They referred queries as to the purpose of the move to Marshall himself at Pinehurst, N. C.

He was in New Orleans today for the Mardi Gras.

Country School's Chairs Disappear

AMARILLO, March 1. (AP) The children at Bushland school, 12 miles west of here, are getting tired of standing up for classes.

Someone stole—or at least borrowed without permission—the school's 24 chairs during the weekend.

Mrs. T. C. Israel, the Bushland teacher, said she was trying a new game of "musical chairs." The innovation, she said, is that, instead of the usual one vacant spot, there are 24.

Bandit Flees Miami's 'Escape-Proof' Jail

MIAMI, Fla., March 1. (INS)—A 30-year-old desperado and bank robber broke out of Miami's "escape-proof" skyscraper jail Tuesday and the escape touched off a widespread manhunt by FBI agents, sheriff's deputies and city police.

Clyde M. Johnson, alias Horace Alexander, of Glendale, Cal., made his getaway less than an hour before officers were to pick him up and return him to Memphis, Tenn., where he is wanted for participating in a $43,000 bank robbery.

Jumped Into Elevator

His alleged companion in the Memphis robbery, John E. Anderson, 27, of St. Louis, was still in custody in the Dade county jail. The pair was arrested in Miami Beach Feb. 17.

Johnson fled the jail while prisoners were being given breakfast.

No one was certain whether the prisoner was in a cell or in a jail corridor when he made his break—but he managed to run into an elevator when the operator stepped outside to mop up some spilled milk in the corridor.

Elevator operator George Loehr, a jail trusty, said someone gave him a shove and the elevator door slammed shut.

Loehr said he believed Johnson was armed with a long-bladed kitchen knife.

Senate Takes Time Out From Filibuster To Okay Nominations

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—The Senate took a brief time-out from its filibuster late today to approve 87 nominations made by President Truman.

Mark F. Ethridge, publisher of the Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal and Times, was approved as U. S. member of the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine.

Senator Chapman (D-Ky) had been expected to oppose the Ethridge nomination because of past political differences. But there was no objection when Ethridge's name was brought up.

INVADING SOVIETS PLEDGED AID

Red Leaders In Western Europe Give New Slant To 'Cold War'

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, March 1.—Communist declarations in western Europe that an invading Soviet army would be welcomed and assisted set a new pace in the cold war today.

Communist party leaders in France, Italy, Germany and Britain in the past week have spoken along the same line, in marked reversal of the conciliatory tones of the recent so-called peace offensive.

The opinion that a master's voice was speaking and that the new course of Communist strategy indicates the introduction of a more vigorous policy was expressed in American quarters here.

Sabotage Threatened

The latest Communist spokesman to voice threats is Harry Pollitt, general secretary of the British Communist party. He was quoted by the Communist Daily Worker last night as declaring British Communists will try to sabotage any "imperialist aggressive war" against Russia. In event of such a war against the USSR, he said, British Communists would organize strikes and "councils of action."

The marching tune was called last Tuesday by Maurice Thorez, secretary general of the French Communist party. He suggested that if the French people, "in spite of their wish" find themselves at war with Russia and the Soviet army "had to chase the enemy onto our soil" the Communists would welcome the invaders.

On Saturday Palmiro Togliatti, Italy's No. 1 Communist, became bolder. The Italian people, he said, would have the duty "to aid in the most efficient way" any Russian army which might be required to pursue an aggressor into Italy.

German Red Speaks Out

Yesterday, Pietro Nenni, pro-Communist Socialist leader in Italy, was quoted in press dispatches as telling a leftist crowd in Venice to refuse to fight for the present government in a war between Russia and the United States.

In a strikingly similar statement at a rally of Berlin workers yesterday, Otto Grotewohl, co-chairman of the Communist-dominated Socialist Unity party of east Germany, declared "no German hand would be lent" to aid western powers in any "imperialist war."

Many observers saw in the new line a Communist answer to the projected North Atlantic pact—an effort to knit together the national Communist parties of western Europe in a policy threatening to undermine their own governments.

Treason Question Raised

Obviously, the Communist maneuver may be aimed at raising in American minds doubts of the solidity of an alliance containing such Communist elements.

Furthermore, by its reiteration of the idea of war and of a pursuing Soviet army the new campaign might also raise fears in the minds of Europeans who are prospective members of the North Atlantic pact.

Naturally the Communists position raises the question of treason. Togliatti was the most elaborate in giving a defense, to his own satisfaction. Any future war against Russia will be an ideological and class war, not a national war, he declared, and therefore all those who favor "social progress" must fight on one side.

These Communist arguments have not prevented a series of arrests in France, a promise of "firm" action in Italy and warnings from non-Communist politicians in Germany against "acts of treason."

"LANDWRITING" EXPERT—Harry Hartz, left, former auto racing car champion and traffic safety specialist, arrived in Lubbock Tuesday on the first leg of his 7,000-mile "landwriting" tour in the interests of safety. In the photo above Hartz is pointing to the National Safety Council slogan which is painted on the back of his pickup truck, and explaining to Frank Baker, center, auto sales manager, and Lewis Kerr, right, auto dealer, the purpose of his two-month journey. Harry Hartz Makes Tour Over Nation

Safe Driving Urged On Visit Here By Ex-Racing Champion

Harry Hartz, traffic safety specialist and former auto racing champion, arrived in Lubbock yesterday on the first leg of his latest "landwriting" expedition, this time in the interests of safety.

Hartz described his landwriting journey as a system of following a series of highways from town to town as he crosses the nation so that when the route is traced on a map it will spell out the purpose of the trip. In this instance the route followed up and down and across the country will spell out "Drive Safely."

The top of the "D" started at Amarillo, and the tip of the "Y" will be Jacksonville, Fla. The trip which started yesterday will cover 7,000 miles and is slated for termination on April 28.

Truck Attracts Attention

Lewis Kerr, Lubbock auto dealer, greeted Hartz upon his arrival here. The pickup truck in which the former racing driver is making his tour also attracted considerable attention because of its many safety mottoes, and the large map showing the routes he will take on his landwriting trip.

During the tour Hartz will stop at many towns for school and radio appearances to promote safety. Here he made a radio appearance. He plans to drive to El Paso today, and from there start a long loop to the east and north.

The Hartz project is being sponsored by the nation's Studebaker dealers.

Denver Man Says He Has Own System For Keeping Feet Warm

DENVER, March 1 (INS) — Peter Duma, Denver "disciple of Krishna Venta," has figured out a way to nick the high cost of living.

Duma wears no shoes. He has his "aura" to keep him warm.

The temperature was 42 today and Duma, waiting for a street car, appeared quite comfortable in his modish business suit, touched off by a pair of nude pedal extremities.

"No shoes for me, even during the January blizzards," he explained.

"In the first place, I believe in expressing my own nature. Most people wear shoes because everyone else does."

He smiled, "But there is a deeper reason. Heat and cold do not affect me. I am a student of science and other things."

"Other things" Duma said, include the fact that every human body is surrounded with a quarter-inch coating of "aura," a form of energy which travels at a velocity of 3,000 miles a second.

"From my studies with Krishna Venta (the voice), I have learned to understand the control of aura. For those who understand it, the aura pushes away all disturbing influences, like heat and cold."

A passing newsboy stared. "Hey, mister, where's your shoes."

"Lost them in a poker game," Duma snapped back.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

THOUGHT for the Lenten season, which begins today: "You can do more good by being good than in any other way."

As Rev. Claude E. Canterbury explained in a letter to his parishioners, "Lent is a call to spiritual withdrawal and concentration of thought upon the things of the spirit, and self-examination in the sense of self-subjection to the tests which life impose. It answers to fundamental spiritual need, and its absence in the lives of men and women means moral confusion and ineffective religion."

IT seems that the pre-Easter days furnish an excellent opportunity for us to think on the truth that, apart from the life we see objectively, there also is the life of the universal spirit and that it is related to the material world in a way analogous to the relation of the soul to the human body; that it is the ruling principle of the material world.

Emerson wrote of it in his essay on "The Oversoul," that area of the mind and spirit in which all men live. To some, it is the lesser life, but it is there for all of us.

AH, SPRING!

TUESDAY the wind was sharp and the day before it snowed and on first contemplation we would suggest that an optimist is one who can whistle "Spring Song" in March. But on second thought we know that already we have seen forsythia in bloom; that the pussywillow buds are swelling and that the bulbs are pushing their leaves above ground.

These are the days that are necessary; They are the forerunners of spring, which bids fair to be a beautiful season this year.

IN THE MAIL

DEAR Miss Turner: I surely did enjoy looking at the "Home in the Saddle Page" in Sunday's Avalanche-Journal. It was quite a change from brides' and society pictures.

I realize effort was put forth to take all of the pictures but it was well worth it.

Thanks,
Mrs. O. C. Todd.

DEAR Mrs. Todd: Thank you very much for your note. It's true the Sunday pictures took time and effort but we agree with you that readers like a change from customary woman's page pictures. From first to last, that is from the time the young women were called to the time the pictures were in the paper, about seven different people worked on the layout and we'd judge at least 15 hours of labor went into it.

ON HEARTBURN

WE found some quick facts on heartburn which should be of interest to those who are always complaining of suffering from that distressing discomfort. It's caused by eating too fast, gulping down food, washing food down with large quantities of water and free use of chewing gum. All of these practices overstretch the stomach, reverse the normal direction of its food digestion propelling action, cause air and fluids to be forced back into the food pipe and result in heart burn.

Incidentally, the extremely tense, easily offended, over-critical person is also likely to get the disease.

Ceremony Is In Houston

HOUSTON, Mar. 1 (Special) — In a candlelight ceremony read Saturday night at St. Mark's Methodist church in Houston, Miss Sara Jo Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe S. Lee, became the bride of Henry D. Boswell, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Boswell. The Boswell family moved to Houston from Lubbock in June 1948.

Rev. D. E. Sloan and Dr. Marcus Chunn performed a double ring ceremony. Gabbert Wilder and Mrs. J. W. McGown provided the wedding music.

After a trip to Cedar Chest ranch near Bandera, the couple will be home in Houston.

Mr. Boswell is a graduate of Lubbock High school and served two and one-half years in the Army as a second lieutenant, being stationed in Nome, Alaska for a portion of the time.

Solons Vote Increase In Revenue Employes

WASHINGTON, March 1. (AP)—The House Appropriations committee voted Tuesday to give the Internal Revenue bureau 1,500 more employes to check tax returns.

The bureau had asked for 7,000, declaring they would bring in many times their salaries in tax collections.

The committee disagreed, however, saying addition of the full number requested might cost more than the benefits received. It added:

'Penalty' Scored

"The average citizen of this country, who makes an honest, frank income tax return, should not be penalized by the failure of the bureau, through a shortage of employes, to collect what is properly due the government from those who would not voluntarily make a correct return."

Money for the additional 1,500 tax enforcement workers was set up in the first big departmental appropriation bill of the year, carrying funds for the Treasury and Post Office departments. Like all money bills, it will move first through the House, then the Senate.

The bill, as approved by the committee carries $2,045,209,500 for the post office and $1,027,608,403 for the treasury.

The committee approved $525,000,000 in contract authority to carry forward the stockpiling of strategic materials that would be needed if war broke out.

The committee seconded the Post Office department's request for higher postal rates to offset an expected operating deficit of $403,627,300 next year.

Lubbock Police Issue Warrants To Clean Up Old Violations

Did you neglect to answer a police summons at any time in 1948?

If so, read on, for this applies to you:

Police Monday began issuing warrants of arrest for those who had failed to make appearance on summonses resulting from traffic charges.

Fines of $49 were paid by two men alone—$16 by one and $33 by the other. Eight charges were represented in those payments.

Police suggested that, to avoid necessity of issuing warrants and serving them, that persons who received traffic tickets they disregarded in 1948 go to the police station and pay them off or post bond for jury trial.

There are hundreds of such cases on file.

"We will attempt to clean all of them up as soon as possible," Chief of Police Lewis Kittrell said.

Canterbury's general theme for the series of devotionals which he is giving during the duration of the training school is "The Church and Our Part in It."

Among those who are participating in the school are several Abernathy residents who drive to classes nightly. They are Rev. George Turrentine, pastor of Abernathy Methodist church, and Mrs. Turrentine; Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Powell, Mrs. L. A. Suttle, and Miss Judith Dean Stone.

River Projects May Depend On Poage's Support, Jester Says

AUSTIN, March 1. (AP) — Gov. Beauford H. Jester told Congressman W. R. Poage today that the building of several Brazos river dams may hinge on Poage's support of legislation affecting power facilities at Whitney dam.

Jester asked the Waco congressman to back the state and the Brazos River Conservation and Reclamation district in a request for the district to operate Whitney dam when it is completed.

Poage Sets Conditions

Recently Poage wrote Jester that he would not favor the move unless the Brazos River Electric Transmission co-operative was given the right to handle all power generated at Whitney and all other Brazos river dams.

The district directors met here last week and adopted a resolution saying that Poage's demand was "impossible."

Jester told Poage in a letter today that the only future dams planned on the Brazos are "three or four" between Possum Kingdom and Whitney. He said the district had planned to finance the dams from the sale of power generated at the dams.

Jester Gives Argument

"The district has informed me that it could not finance its bonds on a long-time contract with the co-operative," Jester said. "If the district's reasoning and information are correct . . . this would mean that the district could not build these additional three or four dams between Possum Kingdom and Whitney."

Jester said he hoped that Poage would decide "that the needs of the co-operative for its 19 member units can be satisfied with its existing arrangements with the Brazos district, Denison dam, the Lower Colorado River authority and its own generating plant, and that, under all of the circumstances, the district should be encouraged in its efforts in reference to Whitney.

The governor said the state was particularly interested because after the district's bonds are paid out for the dams, the revenue from power sales would go to the general revenue fund of the state.

Byron Skelton To Attend Austin Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner

TEMPLE, March 1 (AP)—Byron Skelton of Temple said today he plans to attend the Democratic party's Jefferson - Jackson Day dinner in Austin March 24. He urged all "true" Democrats to support the dinners.

Morrow has continued in the office.

Three party fund-raising dinners are planned: At Austin, Corpus Christi, and Lubbock.

Skelton told a reporter today in answer to a question:

"Yes, I definitely plan to attend the dinner in Austin on March 24, where our great Texas leader, Sam Rayburn, will be the honored guest."

Cavalry Unit Observes Texas' Independence Day In Japan

TOKYO, Wednesday, March 2 (AP)—The Veteran First Cavalry division raised the Lone Star flag over its headquarters today in observance of Texas' independence day.

Presiding at the ceremony was Maj. Joseph W. Long, of El Paso. Until recently, the division was commanded by Major Gen. William C. Chase of El Paso.

The division was organized at Fort Bliss in 1921. Its four regiments — now mechanized—have a long record of service in Texas prior to that year, however.

The Fifth, Seventh, Eighth and 12th regiments at various times served at Fort D. A. Russell, Marfa, and at Fort Clark. In pre-war days, so many Texans were in the outfit that expansion of the division for World War II evoked the comment from the El Paso Times:

"Furriners' are assisting in our First Cavalry."

'COLD WAR' SOLUTION SOUGHT

Delegates Back Plan To Convene UN General Assembly In Russia

By PIERRE J. HUSS
INS Staff Correspondent

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. March 1 —A plan for calling on Russia to play host to a session of the General Assembly is winning supporters among delegates to the world organization.

Proponents of this "new approach" to Premier Stalin are mainly members of Western delegations but also include delegates from other parts of the world urgently seeking a solution to the "cold war."

The roots of this proposal for an international excursion across Soviet boundaries lie in the recent correspondence between Kingsbury Smith, European general manager of International News Service and the Russian chief of state.

Tests Stalin's Sincerity

Many delegates believe that if Stalin was sincere in his statements to Smith offering to discuss an accord with the West a good beginning could be made by inviting the Assembly to Moscow for a public airing of conflicting viewpoints.

UN Secretary General Trygve Lie was asked at a news conference to comment on the idea. He carefully avoided any commitment and observed cautiously that about 11 months of preparation were required to set the stage for the Assembly in Paris last year.

Those pushing the plan are not concerned with when an Assembly session should be held in the Soviet capital. They are interested primarily in getting such an invitation.

Burden On Lie

The contention at Lake Success is that Lie more than anyone else is obligated to explore every peace channel and he must make every effort to have the Kremlin invite UN to Moscow or compel the Kremlin to turn thumbs down on such a request.

A UN session in Moscow does not necessarily have to be the regular September sitting. The Assembly can be convened in special session at any time on consent of a majority of its members. Palestine produced a special session. An invitation from Premier Stalin to the UN to hold a special "peace talk" session in Moscow probably would draw the unanimous consent of the 58 member nations.

Opportunity To Arise

The first opportunity for such a gesture by Moscow will come this summer, after the second part of the Assembly at Flushing Meadows, New York, is over and before the regular September session gets underway. Early in 1950 also would be suitable, though the urgency of the East-West situation requires a dramatic gesture in the near future.

It is a foregone conclusion that any such invitation will have to come to the UN without any strings. The Soviet government would have to give a guarantee to the UN that radio, cable and mail facilities will not be under restraint and that neither direct nor indirect censorship will be practiced.

'Plot' Denied

At first glance, it might seem that the proponents of the plan are striving to maneuver the Soviets into an embarrassing corner. But they dispute this and point out that even if a special Moscow Assembly to terminate the "cold war" fails to achieve its goal, the indirect benefits in the end may prove far-reaching.

Their contention is that the impact of such a meeting under the Kremlin spires will serve to dispel suspicion and give each faction a close understanding of the other.

In anticipation of possible Soviet arguments that Moscow facilities for the accommodation of a UN assembly are lacking, the sponsors of the idea reply that "where there's a will there's a way."

Those acquainted with Moscow claim that the Assembly meetings can be absorbed by the several edifices — including the opera — which the government uses for political gatherings of the Soviet republics.

Oklahoma Prison Guard Fined For Carrying Whiskey In Kansas

COLUMBUS, Kan., March 1. (U.P.)—An Oklahoma state prison guard who went to sleep with a handcuffed prisoner beside him in his motorcar Tuesday had paid a $200 fine for possessing and transporting liquor in Kansas and was back on the road, returning the prisoner to the McAlester, Okla., penitentiary.

E. V. Sharpe, the transportation guard employed by the prison for 25 years, was returning Clarence P. Adams, 54, to the prison when officers from Galena, Kan., found him asleep in the car near Riverton. Adams had made no attempt to escape.

The officers said there were six pints of liquor in the car. They took Sharpe and Adams to Columbus, where Sharpe pleaded guilty to possessing and transporting liquor.

Sharpe told Paul Armstrong, county attorney, that his car was involved in an accident 20 miles south of Leavenworth, Kan., Sunday morning.

"The accident made me nervous," he explained, "and I took some drinks."

Both Oklahoma and Kansas are legally dry, although Kansas is on the verge of completing legislative action to permit sale of whisky.

Holding the two fine Hereford calves is Will Ed Craddock, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Craddock, route 5, Lubbock. Young Craddock's calves are now in top shape and ready for judging in the show. Two more weeks will see them finished out in great condition. Young Craddock placed 18th in the 1948 Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show at Fort Worth and according to Assistant County Agent Joe Jones the boys in the local show will have to have some mighty good animals to beat him out. Will Edd, who is an eighth grade student in J. T. Hutchinson Junior High school, has had three years of 4-H club work. The calves were bred by Hayden Miles of Andrews. (Staff Photo.)

Houston Firm Faces Suit On Charge Of Selling Rotten Meat

HOUSTON, March 1. (U.P.)—A Federal District court Tuesday charged a Houston meat company with selling 42,240 pounds of rotten meat to an Akron, Ohio., market, seeking $10,000 damages.

Akron Standard Market, Inc., charged that the Louis Lampo company, Houston, contracted in December, 1946, to sell 384 cases of boneless cow meat through a Chicago broker.

The Department of Public Health seized the meat in Cleveland, and it was sold for rendering purposes, the petition claimed. The Akron firm said it had already paid $11,827 for the meat, plus shipping and storage costs amounting to $1,701.

Bullitt Assails U.S. Policy Toward China

HOUSTON, March 1 (U.P.) — William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to Russia and France, charged today that the United States had stood idle while Russia swallowed China, and that "every man who gave his life in the Pacific war has thus died in vain."

Returning to Washington after a vacation in Mexico, Bullitt stopped here to see two old friends, Jesse H. Jones and William L. Clayton.

He reiterated his stand against American failure to render "full" aid to Chinese, and his belief that war with Russia is inevitable.

"Under present United States policy, every man who gave his life in the Pacific war died in vain," Bullitt stated.

Cites F D R Policy

"President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull stood firmly against Japanese aggression in China because they knew if that country was controlled by a military dictatorship it would be the foundation for attack on the United States."

Bullitt claimed there has been a reversal of that policy, and that the United States had idly watched a "dictatorship far stronger and far more dangerous than the Japanese swallow the Chinese nation."

Bullitt, who more recently has been a special representative in Nationalist China, cautioned, "it is not too late. It is now the 11th hour and 59th minute, but China can still be saved from the Communists by a firm stand."

U. S. Daily Crude Production Drops Average Of 17,950 Barrels

TULSA, March 1 (AP)—The nation's crude oil production during the week ended Feb. 26 dropped an average of 17,950 barrels daily under the previous week's figure.

The decline lowered the total daily average production to 5,331,150 barrels.

Largest decreases were listed for Indiana, down 1,600 barrels to 22,701; Michigan, off 2,200 barrels to 46,450; Kansas, 7,800 to 276,550; Mississippi, 2,100 to 103,500, and Wyoming, 8,150 to 123,950.

Arkansas dropped 600 to 82,450.

Top increases for the week included Kentucky, up 1,000 barrels to 23,500, Oklahoma 1,700 to 416,650 and California 1,200 and 947,000.

Louisiana gained 900 to 505,850.

Drug Traffic Is Hiked In U.S.

WASHINGTON, March 1. (AP)—The U.S. Commissioner of Narcotics says that illegal traffic in the drug marijuana has increased, "particularly among the young people."

The commissioner, H. J. Anslinger, made this report in testimony on the Treasury department's new appropriation bill. It was made public Tuesday by the House Appropriations committee.

"We have been running into a lot of traffic among these jazz musicians, and I am not speaking about the good musicians, but the jazz type," Anslinger said.

Entire Orchestra Arrested

In North Carolina, he said, an entire orchestra was arrested, and in Chicago and New York "some rather prominent jazz musicians" were arrested.

Narcotic and Customs bureau officials told the House Appropriations committee of large seizures of marijuana on the Mexican border and of seizures of miscellaneous drugs at American seaports. They said:

One of the largest seizures last year was eight pounds of pure heroin from a member of the crew of the British steamer Hong Kong, docked at San Francisco. Five customs agents posed as electricians and steamfitters for five days before making the arrest.

Pure Heroin Seized

Last June, nearly ten pounds of pure heroin was seized from an Air France airliner arriving in New York from Marseilles.

The value of a pound of pure heroin is estimated at $32,000 in the underworld trade.

Another Justice department agency, the Secret service, was shown in the committee testimony to have demonstrated again it will get its man even if it has to track him to the far corners of the earth.

With an extra $16,000 allotment given it last year, the service sent agents abroad who broke up a clandestine drug laboratory in Istanbul, Turkey, and arrested 30 persons.

In Marseilles, France, there were more arrests of persons involved in smuggling dope into the United States. An agent now is working on dope smuggling operations in Italy.

In all foreign activities, it was testified, the Secret service works with local police. It is helping draft drug control legislation for Iran and Turkey.

Prison Farm Official Retires From Post

SUGAR LAND, March 1. (AP)—Capt. R. J. Flanagan has retired after 39 years of service with the Texas prison system.

Household furnishings were being removed Tuesday from the huge white frame warden's home at the Central Prison farm near here.

"Captain Buck" and Mrs. Flanagan have been the only occupants of the house since it was constructed in 1919. Their household belongings now are being moved to a small frame home in Richmond, about six miles from the farm.

Flanagan, 69, retires after almost 44 years of prison work, 39 with the Texas prison system and 30 years as manager of the Central farm, considered the "show place" of the farflung system.

Committee Placed Hiss On Spot In Effort To Solve Testimony

has ever produced."

Hiss shrugged and said he would answer the Committee's questions," . . . if you insist."

I showed him another picture of Chambers. He asserted again that he did not know his accuser. But then he said something which threw a new light on the entire case.

"I have written a name on this pad in front of me of a person whom I knew in 1933 and 1934 who not only spent some time in my house but sublet my apartment," Hiss said, unexpectedly.

"I do not recognize the photographs as possibly being this man. If I hadn't seen the morning papers with an account of statements that he knew the inside of my house, I don't think I would even have thought of this name.

"I WANT to see Chambers face to face and see if he can be this individual."

Hiss did not wish to reveal the name he had jotted down.

"I do not want, and I don't think I ought to be asked, to testify now as to that man's name and everything I can remember about him . . . He was not named Carl and not Whittaker Chambers."

"Let's not ramble," Chairman Thomas said, impatient with both the variety of questions being asked Hiss and Hiss's change of attitude. But there was considerable rambling thereafter, our eventually published record of the hearing showed.

However, Hiss did finally tell the Committee the name, after a long discussion as to whether Mrs. Hiss would be available for questioning.

Name Was Revealed

"The name of the man I brought in — and he may have no relation to this whole nightmare— is a man named George Crosley," he said. "I met him when I was working for the Nye Committee. He was a writer. He hoped to sell articles to magazines about the munitions industry.

"After we (the Hisses) had taken the house on P Street and had the apartment on our hands, he one day in the course of casual conversation said he was going to specialize all summer in getting his articles done, didn't know what he was going to do (about living quarters), and was thinking of bringing his family to Washington.

"I said 'You can have my apartment.' He said he had a wife and little baby. The apartment wasn't very expensive, and I think I let him have it at exact cost. My recollection is that he spent several nights in my house because his furniture was delayed."

The Committee questioned him closely about the physical appearance of Crosley, and finally got to the man's teeth.

"Very bad teeth," Hiss remembered. "That is one of the things I particularly want to see Chambers about. This man had very bad teeth, did not take care of his teeth.

Hiss then related that he had sold Crosley an automobile, and then amended that to state that he had thrown the car in with the rent. I asked him if the car's windshield wipers operated by hand and he said that they did— one of the many statements of that afternoon which checked graphically with what Chambers had earlier told us.

CHECKING point by point on Chambers' veracity, we asked Hiss about his own nickname ("Hilly"), his wife's ("Prossy"), his ownership of a cocker spaniel, ("yes") and dozens of other points which Chambers had raised—and which Hiss then had no knowledge had been raised.

Unknowingly, Hiss confirmed Chambers' assertion that he sometimes vacationed on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, had moved his stepson from one school to another, played tennis, was an amateur ornithologist who had once seen a prothonotary warbler, and, as a boy in Baltimore, sold spring water he had bottled in Druid Hill Park.

Crosley was a deadbeat, Hiss recalled, and about the only payment he ever got out of him was a gift. "He brought a rug over which he said some wealthy patron gave him. I've still got the damned thing," he said with a smile.

Would Not Take Test

Near the end of the long interrogation, Nixon said, "Now, frankly, the Committee has a difficult problem here, and I wonder if under the circumstances, and for the assistance of the Committee in this matter, you would be willing to take a lie-detector test on this?"

Hiss shook his head. "When I was practicing law actively," he said, "we had very little confidence in the so-called lie detector tests. People I have consulted — knowledgeable people—say there is no such thing; that it is an emotion recording test; that it is not scientific, and that nobody scientifically competent, including the F.B.I., regards it as a scientific test.

" . . . It shows emotion, not truth, and I am perfectly willing and prepared to say that I am not lacking in emotion about this business."

Nixon told him the Committee was ready to provide the country's outstanding authority on such tests, Leonarde Keeler. Hiss considered this for a time and said he would let the Committee know his definite answer at a later date.

I MOVED the questioning on to a different channel and asked him, again, if he had ever suspected his acknowledged associates of being Communists. I said:

"I happen to know pretty conclusively that not only is Henry Collins a Communist but he has been a Communist for many years. In fact, when he used to work in the A.A.A. he was notorious, notorious for sitting around talking about Communism."

"I don't think I ever worked in the A.A.A.," Hiss answered.

"You claim you know Lee Pressman," I went on. "Lee Pressman has been accused of being an outright card-holding member of the Communist Party in the public press time and time again, and refuses to deny it. The same is true of John Abt. You know John Abt."

"Yes," Hiss replied.

"And yet you would give us the belief that none of these people is a Communist," I continued. "You are an intelligent person and not naive enough that you wouldn't know a Communist if you saw one. Furthermore, I read a lot of Government files from time to time—and I don't say this disparagingly — but I have seen your name for years in Government files as a person suspected of Communist activity."

Questions Were Evaded

Hiss just looked at me.

"There has to be some basis for all this," I said. "Why would Charles Kramer refuse to say whether he knew you, on the ground of self-incrimination? Why would Henry Collins answer that way? Why would all these people say that?"

"Are you finished?" Hiss asked.

I said I was.

"Do you think those are relevant questions to this inquiry?" he inquired.

"What I'm trying to determine," I answered, "is why a man (Chambers) would come in before a Committee of Congress, under the penalties of perjury, and just out of the blue make up a story and have that story check in almost every minute detail—and then have people come in we know are Communists and ask them if they know you, and they refuse to answer.

"FROM your testimony and your appearance," I finished, "I would certainly be given the impression that you were far removed from Communism, knew no one would could even be suspected of being a Communist, just never heard of the word . . . We are just trying to get the facts."

"Mr. Stripling," Hiss replied, "That had about 15 questions in it." If so, he ignored most of them, as the record will show, and finished, "I can say that I have never had the slightest indication from my superior that they gave credence to what you appear to be giving credence to."

Plainly, there was now nothing left to do except bring Hiss and Chambers face to face.

South Plains Men Will Report Tonight On Tour Of Broiler Chicken Producing Area

Reports from 10 Lubbock and South Plains men who this past weekend made an inspection tour of central and South Texas broiler chicken producing areas will highlight an informal meeting which is to be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Lubbock National bank cafeteria.

The local men included L. E. Settle, Henry English, Allen Kendrick, Sam Bell, H. L. Mathews, Joe W. Jones, assistant county agent, Kirk B. Turner, Joe Christian, Bill Tatum, and Jack Creel, farm director for KFYO and the Lubbock National bank.

Growing Methods Studied

The trip, which was promoted by Lubbock National bank, was made in view of the fact that every year Lubbock imports more than a million broiler chickens. The local group studied the situation in chicken producing areas, which once were primarily cotton growing areas, to see if poultry growing methods there could be put to use in West Texas.

The group, which departed from Lubbock last Friday, visited first in the Waco area, and from there went to Smiley, in Gonzales county, which lies about 75 miles east of San Antonio.

They talked with farmers in the Smiley area whose principal "crop" is broiler chickens, with feed dealers, and with bankers. They visited a number of poultry farms in Gonzales county and inspected the equipment and facilities used by farmers in poultry production.

Evidence of Smiley's importance as a broiler chicken producing center is manifested by the fact that last year farmers in that community produced 18 million broilers for state-wide consumption.

The Texas Agriculture Experiment substation in Gonzales county is the only one in Texas which is solely concerned with poultry work. In charge of the substation is Russell Read, a 1940 Texas Tech graduate.

At tonight's meeting, a question and answer period will follow the reports of the men who made the inspection tour. The meeting is open to the public.

Lockney Lets Water, Sewer Line Contract

LOCKNEY, March 1. (Special)—Lockney's mayor and city commissioners this afternoon awarded contract for $36,687 in water and sewer extensions to Sidney E. Lanier of Haskell after considering eight bids.

Call for bids on the project was issued by Mayor G. M. Brunnier after citizens of Lockney approved a $65,000 bond issue for the purpose recently.

Plans and specifications were prepared by Harry N. Roberts, Lubbock consulting engineer, who will also supervise construction.

Lanier's bid was the lowest of eight submitted. Other bidders and their bids were: Jordan and Tubbs, Plainview, $59,111.50; Harrison, Shirley and Harrison, Canyon, $59,674; Cullum and Hodgson, Lubbock, $60,371.90; Standard Construction company, Lubbock, $60,964.50; F. S. Oldt, Dallas, $66,068.40; Midwest Construction company, Dallas, $74,749.30.

Work on the project will be started shortly, officials said.

Tech Council Refuses Financial Aid For Journalism Congress

The Student Council at Tech voted Monday night to refuse a request for $150 made by the Tech journalism department in connection with the Southwestern Journalism Congress to be held here April 29-30.

The Journalism department had earlier sent the council a letter stating the amount was all that was needed to reach the proposed budget of $2,000 for the Congress.

The council said that lack of funds and fear of setting a precedent kept them from meeting the request.

Big Sandy Team Pick Of Class B

AUSTIN, March 1. (AP)—Impressive records make Bowie (El Paso) in Class AA and Big Sandy (Livingston) in Conference B the pre-meet favorites in the state high school basketball tournament, which starts Thursday.

Conference A has no teams with records outstanding above the rest, but Lampasas and Gaston (Joinerville) are slight favorites to meet in the finals.

Teams Arrive Today

Teams will start arriving tomorrow for the big three-day tourney. It starts with preliminary games in Class B and A. Conference AA competition begins Friday afternoon.

Bowie, the only returnee from last year's tournament in Class AA, has an 18-1 season record and is expected to beat down Port Arthur and the winner of the Waco-Texas City game in the upper bracket.

Lower half pairings send Lubbock, the lower half favorite with a 23-6 record, against Highland Park (17-5). The two dark horses of Class AA, Austin (16-4) and Brownsville (18-2), will meet in the other lower bracket contest.

Waelder Also Strong

Big Sandy in Conference B won 41 and lost one game in regular season play, while Waelder boasts the best record in the lower bracket with a 36-1 mark. Not including regional games.

However, the winner of the Marfa-Martins Mill game has been made the favorite in the bottom half of the pairings. Marfa trimmed Clint, 53-11, in its regional finals.

Lampasas Favored

Other Class B first-round games are Big Sandy vs. Woodsboro and Slidell, the state champion in 1942 and 1943, vs. Shallowater, in the top bracket. Waelder plays Gustine in the lower bracket.

Lampasas has the best regular season record in Class A with 43 victories and three defeats; however, many will be inclined to string along with Gaston which comes from the tough East Texas district that has produced the last two Conference A titlists.

Gaston meets Madisonville and Coleman plays Memphis in the top bracket. Lampasas takes on the 1944 champion, Nocona, and Uvalde tackles French (Beaumont) in the lower brackets of Class A.

Game Thursday Night Open To Public

Texas Tech Accepts NAIB Bid; Will Oppose ACC Quintet Here

Texas Tech yesterday accepted a fomral bid to represent the Border Conference in the NAIB playoff tournament to determine which one of four Texas teams will go to the national tournament in Kansas City, Mo., next week.

The Red Raiders have drawn Abilene Christian college as their first round opponents and will play them in Tech gym Thursday night at 8. The game is open to the public and tickets will be placed on sale as soon as they can be printed.

Meanwhile, East Texas Baptist, representing Texas independent colleges, will play the winner of the Lone Star Conference. This game also will be Thursday night, with East Texas State Teachers college as the probable selection.

The winner of the Texas Tech-ACC game and the corresponding winner between the East Texas colleges will flip for the site of the final tilt, which will be held Saturday night. The winner of this game will be the official Texas representative to the NAIB tourney in Kansas City and will leave Sunday morning.

Texas Tech received appointment by Gus Miller, West Texas State Teachers college coach and NAIB area chairman. Miller offered the bid to Coach Polk Robison of Tech, who delayed until the team had voted whether to accept the bid. They voted affirmatively Monday night.

Tech's athletic council met Tuesday and approved acceptance of the bid and Collier Parris, sport editor of the Reporter-News, Abilene, was appointed to draw for the Raiders. He and Coach A. B. "Bugs" Morris, ACC mentor, drew for the site of the game yesterday afternoon and Tech won.

The athletic council of Texas Tech is scheduled to meet this morning to establish a price for the tickets. Coach Miller of Canyon, NAIB area chairman, has requested two prices of admission and the athletic council will vote on the matter.

Abilene Christian and Tech met last year in the NAIB tournament at Fort Worth. The Raiders had little trouble in turning back the Wildcats 70-47. They built up a long 32-14 lead at the end of the first half and weren't bothered thereafter.

LUBBOCK MORNING AVALANCHE
Sports
PAGE EIGHT, LUBBOCK, TEX. WEDNESDAY, MARCH 2, 1949

Westerners Put Stress On Attack

A lengthy offensive and defensive scrimmage with the Texas Tech freshmen was held by the Westerners Tuesday afternoon at Texas Tech gym.

Coach Roy Morris hoped to sharpen his attack by going against the taller, more experienced fish, and the team did very well. Jim Wilson and Bob Rooker stood out offensively, and they were aided by the smoothy ball handling of Charles Galey, Blair Hankins and the past work of Jimmy Sexton.

Try Offensive Tactics

The Westerners took the ball first and tried their offensive tactics against the freshmen, trying to work the ball into scoring position. When Tech managed to get the ball, it was given back to the Westerners, and they worked their offense against the set defense.

The freshmen use a close man-for-man for defense, much in the manner of Highland Park of Dallas, and the workout should help the Westerners when they go up against the Scotties Friday night.

Coach Morris stopped the activities several times when the Westerners were on defense to point out mistakes and how to correct them. Tech got most of the rebounds with their height advantage, but the high schoolers were trying hard to out hustle the fish.

Another session against a man-for-man offense will be tried tomorrow, probably against the second string, in the last workout before leaving for Austin.

Westerners Leave Thursday

Plans for the trip call for the Westerners to leave here at approximately 9:30 Thursday morning in time to get to Austin before the workout now scheduled for Gregory gym at 10 o'clock that night.

The balls used in the finals are different from the ones used in regular play by the locals, and they will also be playing on a court with glass backboards, something new for the Westerner squad.

Accommodations for the team while in Austin have been taken care of by the Texas Interscholastic league, and rooms have been secured at the Driskill hotel.

Tinkers Wallop Matador, 52-34 To Win TAF Basketball Crown

Refiners Outclass Blue Flame Quint

Thomas Tinkers overwhelmed Matador, 52-34, last night at Chapman fieldhouse to take first place in the Region two Texas Athletic Federation, basketball tournament.

Getting off to a two point lead after 20 seconds of play on a shot by Ernest Hawkins, the Tinkers were never headed and increased the lead to 30-14 at halftime. The mainstay of the Tinker defense was Gerald Houser who played a fine game and captured rebound after rebound for the winners. In addition to his backboard work he chipped in six points.

Broyles Tops Scorers

Leading the scoring for Thomas Tinkers was Jake Broyles with 18 markers, and teammate Verdell Turner accounted for 12 points. Glen Brotherton scored half of Matador's points, and garnered 17 tallies to lead the losers.

The second half of the contest Thomas Tinkers kept a 20 to 22 point lead, and at the end of the game led by 18 points.

The tournament champions receive an expense paid trip to the state TAF tournament in San Angelo March 11-12.

Levelland Refiners completely outclassed the third place Blue Flame quintet, 64-39, after piling up a 32-19 margin at the rest period. Fred Owens hit the hoop for 19 points for Levelland and Harold Thurman counted 17 markers. The hottest man for Blue Flame was Deacon Johnson with 16 points.

Awards Are Made

Team trophies went to the teams finishing in the first three positions, Thomas Tinkers, Matador, and Blue Flame respectively. Players on the first team received miniature gold basketballs, and the Matadors were awarded silver basketballs.

Listed on the all-tournament team are Glen Brotherton, Matador; J. L. Houser, Thomas Tinkers; Chet Johnson, Blue Flame; Jake Geron, Primm Drug of Brownfield; and Weldon McClure, Thomas Tinkers.

The outstanding player of the tournament was J. L. Houser of Thomas Tinkers, and individual scoring honors went to Glen Brotherton with 56 points.

The team sportsmanship honor was won by Cloverlake.

Majors Open Spring Training Amid Chilly Florida Weather

(By The Associated Press)

Sixteen major league baseball clubs started their 1949 spring training chores today with the chilliest weather in two months reported from Florida training centers and the usual number of holdouts generating considerable heat.

The west coast of Florida, headquarters for six clubs, experienced the first cold spell since New Year's Day with temperatures ranging from 47 to 51 degrees. The chill didn't interfere with the first-day workouts.

The holdout list was reduced a trifle by the last-minute signings of Dom DiMaggio of the Boston Red Sox, Jimmy Bloodworth of the Cincinnati Reds and Vic Lombardi of the Pittsburgh Pirates. This left a considerable number of unsigned and unsatisfied stars, however, with the 1948 champion Cleveland Indians and Boston Braves experiencing the greatest woes.

Tribe In Tucson

The Indians training under warm, sunny skies at Tucson, Ariz., permitted four unsigned players to work out with the club. Second baseman Joe Gordon and pitcher Gene Bearden, two of the World Series stars, talked by telephone with president Bill Veeck in Cleveland. They were permitted to join the drills, although neither agreed to terms.

The Braves at Bradenton, Fla., listed pitchers Warren Spahn and Clyde Shoun, catcher Phil Masi, second baseman Eddie Stanky and out-fielder Jeff Heath as unsigned as they hopped right into batting practice.

Other developments on the holdout front were that Harry Gumbert, Cincinnati pitcher, returned his contract unsigned and Vic Raschi, New York Yankees' hurler, visited the clubhouse at St. Petersburg, Fla., but failed to see general manager George Weiss. Besides Raschi, the unsigned Yankees are Tommy Byrne and Bobby Brown. Johnny Wyrostek hasn't signed a Reds contract but is expected in camp tomorrow.

Seminick Not In Uniform

Catcher Andy Seminick, one of three Phillies' holdouts, was in the Clearwater, Fla., camp but not in uniform. The other two unsigned Phils are Schoolboy Rowe and Buddy Blattner.

The signing of DiMaggio left only Stan Spence on the Red Sox holdout list.

Howie Pollet, only unsigned member of the St. Louis Cardinals, agreed on terms soon after a conference with president Fred Saigh, at the Cards' St. Petersburg camp today.

The Yankees and both Chicago clubs started right off with two-a-day workouts and manager Leo Durocher also gave the New York Giants a stenuous session at Phoenix, Ariz.

Game Permit Bill Goes To House

AUSTIN, March 1. (AP)—A special big game license for Texas deer and wild turkey hunters was approved today by the House Game and Fish committee.

It goes now to the House calendar.

The bill, by Rep. John L. Crosthwait of Dallas, would require that deer and turkey hunters pay $5 for a permit, which would have tags attached to mark each deer and turkey killed. A hunter would be subject to arrest if found with the carcass of an untagged deer or turkey.

The highly controversial minnow bill by Rep. Doyle Willis of Fort Worth was reset for public hearing on March 8. Willis would require that minnow dealers pay a $2 annual fee, and that fresh water minnows offered for sale be graded as to size.

Pete Layden To Quit Baseball For Ranch

ST LOUIS, March 1 (INS) — Only two players on the St. Louis Browns roster remained unsigned late today.

Brownie President Bill DeWitt and Pitcher Cliff Fannin came to terms during a telephone conversation today. Fannin will leave tomorrow by automobile from his Toledo home for Burbank, Calif., where the Browns are training.

DeWitt also talked by phone with outfielder Pete Layden, who said he had decided to retire from baseball and devote all his time to his ranch near Edna, Tex. Layden, who was 29 last December, said he didn't feel there is much of a future in the game for him at his age.

Layden's withdrawal whittles the Brown's roster to 36 players including the two still unsigned—Infielders Jerry Priddy and Andy Anderson.

MEET SHALLOWATER THURSDAY

Slidell Cagers Have Great Mark Over Years; Won State Twice

AUSTIN, March 1. (Special)—Shallowater High school's basketball team, strong contenders for the Class B championship of Texas, arrived here Tuesday.

The Mustang cagers travelled from their homes in private cars and were to stay in a local hotel. They worked out briefly on the court where Thursday morning they open their quest for a state title.

Opposing the Ponies in the first game of the tournament in Class B will be the strong Slidell High school. The Slidell cagers are no strangers to the state tournament. They won the bunting in 1942 and 1943 and have been well up in the running other years.

Develops Top Players

Coaching the Slidell squad is Coach Manuel R. McCarroll, who has been guiding court destinies for the past 13 years at Slidell. During this time the Slidell cagers have won 86 per cent of their games.

Produced during this period have been such outstanding court stars as Hardy Fortenberry, Truitt Cooper, Clifton McNeely and Guinn Phillips. All of these players went on to pace Texas Wesleyan cage teams to successful seasons.

A cousin of Hardy Fortenberry, in fact, is one of the brighter moments on this year's Slidell quintet. He is Fred Fortenberry and opposing coaches have deep respect for him.

Slidell waltzed through the district play this year without suffering a loss and won the regional tournament just as easily. This year's cage crew has compiled a record of 34 victories against five defeats and already has been made the pre-tourney favorite in Class B.

Alternate Players

Coach McCarroll doesn't have any set lineup, but has eight men available for duty. These he alternates constantly without weakening the quintet on the floor.

In addition to Fortenberry, Coach McCarroll can call on Frank Lang, Gaylen Wilson, Tom Maxwell, Jimmy Ellison, Randal Milligan, Charles Lynch, Walter Ashley and Dewey Whiteside. They form the nucleus of the potent Slidell team.

But the Shallowater quintet is confident that the golden opportunity has arrived and the players expect to make the most of it. Coach Charlie Booz is quietly confident that the Mustangs will emerge from the clashing here as the next Class B champions.

And reports from the South Plains seem to bear him out.

Two Newcomers Pace Southern Golf Tourney's First Round

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., March 1. (AP)—Two newcomers to Ormond Beach set the pace today in the qualifying round of the Women's South Atlantic Golf tournament.

Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., and Claire Doran of Cleveland carded 75's, four over par. Miss Doran went out in 39, two over par, and returned in 36. Miss Lindsay took 40 for the outgoing nine but came home with a brilliant 35.

FOOTBALL BOB'S MAJOR SPORT

Westerners' Bob Rooker Racks Up 53 Points In District Tilts

By AL WILLIAMS
Avalanche Sports Writer

When Bob Rooker graduates this year, Lubbock High school will lose an all-round athlete. Besides playing on the Westerner basketball team, he has lettered at end in football one year and two years at third base in baseball.

While playing a hard, hustling game from his guard post, Rooker scored 53 points against ten district teams over the regular basketball season. His best night was against Brownfield February 11 when he hit the basket for 12 points. On two other occasions he scored 10 points, once against Pampa and once against Plainview.

Takes Sport Seriously

Rooker takes his sports seriously and names no special hobbies—just sports. Dancing is another of his likes, and he has a good time at parties.

In college he expects to study journalism, and for this reason picks the University of Texas as his first choice for a school because of the good courses taught there and the fine athletic setup.

Fooball will be his major sport in college, and schools have already tendered him offers of a scholarship to play football. Last season he turned in a fine performance at end and was picked on the all-district second team. He also received honorable mention from one of the downstate newspapers on their all-state team.

The biggest sports thrill in high school came while playing last fall against Amarillo. In the game which the Westerners lost, 14-6, Rooked scored their only touchdown on a 20-yard pass and run play.

The 6-foot, one-half inch Westerner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rooker. 2611 Thirty-first. His parents are avowed Westerner supporters and follow the team on road trips to watch Bob play.

Plays The Harmonica

Last fall before a road trip in football, Rooker bought a harmonica to help pass the time while riding. Since that time he has not only learned to play the instrument well, but has encouraged other basketball players to buy harmonicas. Now they are standard equipment for some of his teammates.

When not playing the mouth organ, Rooker usually sleeps stretched out in one seat with his legs stretched out across the aisle to another and a jacket over his face.

In basketball his best shot is a one-handed push shot, and he hits rather well at close range. He also breaks away for several lay-up shots in each game, and is good ball handler.

He is at his best on defense, and is noted for his aggressiveness, which usually runs up his personal fouls in each game. But if he thinks there is a chance of knocking the ball out of an opponent's hand or perhaps stealing it, he takes the chance. He can be depended on to play a good game.

Grapple Card Is Grudge Meeting

A double demand re-match of the Pat O'Dowdy and Billy Goelz series will be the headliner on the wrestling card at Sled Allen's Arena tonight, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Last week Goelz laid the wood to O'Dowdy by hitting him with a chair. When O'Dowdy recovered he protested the tactics used by his opponent and challenged him to a return match with no referee and no time limit, but state law requires a referee and time limit. The mayhem started even before the bell when O'Dowdy floored Goelz with a right to the jaw.

In the bout the week before Goelz was injured with a body slam to the concrete floor which kept him from returning for the last fall, and O'Dowdy won the match to set the scene for the first return match. Tonight's affair is two out of three falls with an hour time limit.

In the semi-final event, Balk Estes is scheduled to meet Karl Gray. Last week Estes defeated Monte LaDue in two straight falls and is considered as one of the finest scientific wrestlers in these parts.

Gray, on the other hand, believes in the rougher stuff, and is a rugged grappler who takes advantage of any mistake an opponent makes. Lots of action should be in this match, scheduled for two out of three falls with a 45 minute time limit.

The preliminary events pits Buck Weaver of Toledo, Ohio, against Gorilla Poggi. The Gorilla is familiar to grappling fans around these parts and has appeared here several times recently.

Buck Weaver makes his first appearance here since way back when, having wrestled in Lubbock in 1934. Both are old timers in the ring and have lots of experience behind them. This match is one fall with 20 minute time limit.

Entire Syracuse University Football Staff Gets Heave Ho

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 1 (AP) — The Syracuse university football staff, including head coach Reeves (Rip) Baysinger, was fired today.

Relieved, besides Baysinger, were Lew Newton, Ralph (Chubb) Simmons, Bill Johnson, Bill Eschenfelder and Bill Simon.

The wholesale dismissals resulted from a disastrous 1948 season in which the Syracuse football team won only one out of nine games.

Johnny Trout Scores Hole In One At Country Club

Johnny Trout is a member of the Texas Tech golf team and one of the better golfers in Lubbock.

Brown Bomber Joins Fight Promotion Company

Joe Louis Resigns As Undefeated Heavyweight Boxing Champion

MIAMI BEACH, March 1 (AP)—Joe Louis resigned officially as undefeated wrold heavyweight boxing champion today to become a fight promoter.

The Alabama-born negro who has held the heavyweight crown longer, and defended it more often, than any other man in boxing history made his formal resignation by letter to the National Boxing commission.

He asked for and received NBA permission to promote a match between Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott in June for the NBA-recognized world's heavyweight title.

Louis' resignation was submitted to NBA Commissioner Abe J. Greene, of Paterson, N. J., visiting here, and Flamen D. Adae, NBA president, of Miami Beach.

A new fight promotion alliance with Arthur M. Wirtz, James D. Norris, owners of the Chicago stadium, and Louis sharing equal ownership was formed. It is to be called the International Boxing club.

Work Already Started

"I have already begun to work in my new capacity as director of boxing for the club," Louis wrote the NBA. "Our organization has obtained the signatures of Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Wolcott on agreement to engage in a 15-round heavyweight contest this June."

Both contenders, Louis said, have been recognized by the NBA and "other recognized and competent authorities as the top ranking contenders. Their ring records fully justify these rankings."

Both Charles and Wolcott, Louis said, have agreed that the winner of the June fight shall meet either Lee Savold or Gus Lesnevich within 90 days and that the NBA-recognized champion will defend his title at least twice a year.

Louis' decision to quit the ring and go into business was his own.

"Glad To Retire"

"I'm glad to retire," he said, "it takes a great load off my mind. I could see that I couldn't fight any more and rather than lose the title in the ring, I decided to quit."

Norris, one of the world's biggest grain operators, said he and his partner for some time had contemplated a partnership with Louis in the fight promotion game.

Although the new partnership owns the Chicago stadium, largest sports arena in the world, no decision has been made where the Walcott-Charles fight will be held.

Louis, who won the crown from James J. Braddock on June 22, 1937, in Chicago, said he had talked the whole proposal over with "Uncle Mike" Jacobs, aged and ailing promoter who handled all of Louis' 25 title defenses.

"Uncle Mike said he had no beef," Louis said. "I did what I said I would do, stick with Mike as long as I was boxing."

For Uncle Mike, head of the Century Sporting Club, it meant "I'll have to retire, too."

In his winter home here, Jacobs said he told Louis that he ought to stay out of the promoting game.

That the new corporation was blessed by the NBA was brought out in a formal statement by Commissioner Greene. He said:

"Louis' proposal has been submitted in an orderly manner. There has been no attempt to create a new champion by dictum. The championship will be won in the ring, and since all four leading contenders have been consulted and given equal opportunity, the NBA is prepared to sponsor an outdoor championship fight in New York this summer.

In London, Jack Solomons, Europe's leading fight promoter, said he had Lee Savold under contract and would match him with a British fighter in London for the heavyweight crown, probably in September. The British candidate was to be either Freddie Mills or Bruce Woodcock.

Billy Daly, Savold's manager, said in New York that he was "very disappointed" that Louis never had fought his man.

In the 12 years during which Louis reigned the undisputed king of the heavyweight boxing world, he defended his title 25 times.

The only comparable heavyweights to hold titles for a lengthy period were John L. Sullivan, who held the title 10 years and seven months and James J. Jeffries, who came out of retirement to fight Jack Johnson for the championship just over 11 years after he had won it.

Louis, at 28, was the youngest boxer ever to win the crown, when he whipped Braddock.

Louis earned the most money. He piled up $3,887,323.72 from official matches.

STENGEL PLANS IRON HAND

Playboy Era For Yankees Goes Into Ashcan Under New Order

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 1. (AP)—The New York Yankees came to the end of a short-lived era Tuesday.

The opening of the major league spring training season meant journey's end for the playboy tactics which last year cost Bucky Harris his job as manager of the club. Things are going to be different under Casey Stengel, back in the majors as Harris' successor after a long sojourn in the minors.

Harris was discharged because he allegedly didn't keep all of his players in line and the Yankee powers blamed that for their failure to repeat as American League champions in 1948.

Stengel, of course, did not want to discuss that, but emphatically he said:

"Starting tomorrow there will be a midnight curfew. I am not going to have the players trailed or anything like that for I'm sure most of my men know enough to keep in shape and behave themselves."

Stengel was reluctant to go into any details. It was plain, however, that Stengel was serious. If the Yankees don't win this year, or if in the course of events Stengel should also get a blue slip, it won't be because he doesn't keep tab on the activities of his players outside the ball park.

"This is the best ball club I've ever managed," Stengel said. "Look, I'm going to do the best I can with it. I'm optimistic, why shouldn't I be?"

Blood Clots Slow Up Hogan's Recovery

EL PASO, March 1 (AP) — Blood clots have complicated recovery of Ben Hogan, golf star injured in an auto-bus collision Feb. 2, a physician said today.

Dr. David Cameron said Hogan's condition had been moderately serious but added "We feel that he is on the road to recovery."

Dr. Cameron reported a blood clot developed in Hogan's left leg two weeks ago and a small one in his right lung Sunday night. He said "there is another possibility of a blood clot in his leg."

Hogan received a fractured pelvis and other injuries in the accident near Van Horn. He is in a hospital here.

Dr. Cameron described as very indefinite plans for Hogan's return to his Fort Worth home. Before development of the first blood clot, he had planned a return within a few days.

LEASE CLAIMED FORFEITED

Brownies Seek To Evict Cards From Use Of St. Louis Park

ST. LOUIS, March 1 (AP) — Seven weeks before the opening of the baseball season, the St. Louis Cardinals were suddenly threatened today with the possibility of not having a ball park to play in.

A realty firm controlled by the St. Louis Browns announced that the Cardinals have "forfeited" their lease at Sportsmens Park "because of an attempted assignment."

George Simpkins, Cardinals attorney and secretary, said Card President Fred M. Saigh would determine the action his club would take, but added that "obviously we will not surrender our rights voluntarily."

The Dodier realty and investment co. inserted a legal notice in the classified section of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat that the Cardinals contract would be terminated April 1.

President William De Witt of the Browns had no further comment.

The Browns' demand for higher rental has caused trouble between the clubs for some time. The American League club also has objected to the Cardinals' refusal to stop the local broadcast of their road games which compete with the broadcast of Browns home games.

The lease from the realty company was to expire in April, 1951.

Kentucky Accepts NCAA Playoff Bid

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP) — Kentucky today accepted bids to both the NCAA basketball playoffs and the National Invitation tournament.

Asa Bushnell, commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference and director of the invitation tournament opening here March 12, said Kentucky had formally announced its decision to participate in the eight-team meet at Madison Square Garden.

Kentucky, which won the NCAA championship last year, also will represent the third district in the eastern NCAA playoffs at Madison Square Garden March 21 and 22, Bushnell said.

Of the 15 pennants won by the New York Yankees, 12 were won by teams that were in first place on July 4.

Southerners Hit Truman Program

ate met at noon. Tomorrow it will meet at 10 a.m., giving the committee two hours leeway before returning to the filibuster scene.

South's Stand Defended

Other Senate committees were similarly on important legislation. Under the rules, none can meet while the Senate is in session without the unanimous consent of the Senate. As part of their filibuster strategy, southerners have refused to agree to committee sessions.

Senator Connally vigorously defended the southerners' opposition to what he called "obnoxious and harmful legislation" under President Truman's proposed civil rights program.

Solemnly, he told his colleagues that the Senate is the only "remaining forum of free speech" in the world.

First he dealt with the proposed federal ban on payments of a poll tax as a requisite for voting in federal election.

Lynching Declines

"This is absolutely unconstitutional," he said. "Anybody who can read, knows that."

The Texan then read a section of the U.S. Constitution which he said gives each state the right to determine the qualifications of its voters.

Turning next to proposed anti-lynching laws, Connally said this was an attempt to single out one type of crime under special circumstances and make it a federal offense.

"Of course we're against lynching—it's murder," he shouted.

He said lynching has waned to such an extent that there was only one case in the entire country last year.

Applause Follows Talk

At that point, Connally wheeled around to face Senator McGrath (D-RI), chairman of the Democratic national committee and a backer of the civil rights and anti-filibuster proposals, and demanded:

"What are the rules of the Senate compared to a comfortable margin at the ballot box?"

This was an apparent reference to southern contentions that the civil rights proposals are designed, to attract the votes of negroes and other minorities.

"I, for one, would never vote to strike down free debate to get a handful of paltry votes, some of them covered with slime and corruption," Connally said scohnfully.

Connally spoke for one hour and 25 minutes, concluding at 1:46 p.m. As he finished, applause crackled in the gallery.

A threat of late night or even around-the-clock sessions — voiced by majority leader Lucas (D-Ill)—failed to develop as the Senate recessed at 5:46 p.m.

Barring the unexpected, the talkathon will continue at noon tomorrow.

Soviet Flier Flees

propaganda to believe Communism was advancing in the world until he heard of the American presidential election.

The flier said the Red air force had about 1,100 World War II type planes stationed in some 40 airfields scattered through Siberia and the Kurile islands.

He said the Russians have no jet planes in the Asiatic-Pacific area. He added there were no four engine bombers in the area, either.

The young Russian, answering questions as to whether he felt there was a likelihood of war between the United States and Russia, answered:

"Stalin says that we wish peace but because we are surrounded by capitalistic nations we must be prepared for war. That attitude has entered into the daily life of the people of the Soviet Union. The people do not believe there will be a war but some leaders fear it."

He said Russian soldiers are in the army involuntarily and that each is interested in completing his duty and going home as soon as possible.

Airmen Escape Unhurt When Navy Planes Crash In Mid-Air

WITH THE ATLANTIC FLEET ON CARIBBEAN MANEUVERS, March 1. (AP)—A near tragedy was averted today when a jet Phantom fighter plane and a Gruman Bearcat fighter collided in mid-air.

The accident occurred at an altitude of about 6,000 feet off Puerto Rico.

Two feet of a wing of the jet plane was sheared off in the collision but the pilot, Lt. William C. May of Daytona Beach, Fla., managed to nurse the crippled aircraft to a landing at Roosevelt Roads, 30 miles away on Puerto Rico.

The other plane "cartwheeled" —tail over nose—and the pilot, Lt. R. T. Hoppe, bailed out. He landed in the sea near the carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt. A rescue helicopter plucked him from the water and took him to his home carrier, the Kearsage.

Wife Of Civilian Man Fired As Poor Risk Will Get Hearing

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 1 (AP) — Navy officials said today the wife of a civilian employe fired as "poor security risk" would be given a hearing on her own case this week.

The wife, Mrs. Eva L. Brosseau, 30, a permanent civil service employe, asked the grievance committee hearing. She protested a charge of her employment status at the Navy electronics laboratory.

Her husband, Louis Brosseau, 38, was recently fired from a temporary civil service job as assistant librarian at the laboratory.

Capt. Rawson Bennett, laboratory director, said Brosseau was "considered a poor security risk for reasons of personality."

Bond Of $1,000 Is Set For Local Man Accused Of Burglary

Bond of $1,000 was set for Charley Williams, 63, of a trailer encampment here. Williams is charged with burglary Jan. 4 of a house controlled by Robert Dillion, in a complaint sworn to by Dillion and filed by A. W. Salyars, assistant district attorney, Feb. 11 in the court of C. E. Lynn, justice of peace.

A man who indecently exposed himself by the light of a flashlight to a woman resident of 500-block Jefferson was the object of a city-wide search by all police patrol units in the city last night.

Previous Incidents Reported

A description of the car which the subject drove tallied with other descriptions in similar occurrences over a period of months, but positive identification of the vehicle has never been established.

In each of the half dozen or more reported instances, the procedure has been essentially the same. The man reportedly drives to a house where women are alone, honks the horn of his car and when the door of the house is opened exposes himself by the light of his flashlight.

The man has been reported in several sections of the city, usually in outlying districts. None of the several complaints have seen the man's face clearly, nor have they been able to ascertain the license number of the car. In some instances, the subject has been reported to have made indecent proposals to women involved.

Removed To Prison

Jimmie B. Cousins, 27, convicted felon whose recent offer to sell an eye went unanswered except from a relative who criticized him adversely for the proposal, was removed from county jail by a prison transfer agent and started on his way to the state penitentiary, it was announced Tuesday.

His parole from a five-year sentence recently was revoked.

Two theft reports were made to the police early Tuesday.

Frank Fournier of Lubbock route 7 said plumbing tools valued at $50 were taken from a construction project at 3405 Nineteenth.

Faye Allen of 2220 Fifth said a table model radio valued at $17.50 and a man's wrist watch valued at $39 had been stolen by burglars.

Bond of $500 was posted by Jewell Zelotis White, 44, of Shallowater, charged with drunk driving, the sheriff's department said. He pleaded innocent.

Frank C. Bible, 36, a negro, was placed under a $250 peace bond, by Lynn. His wife Ruby swore to the affidavit, saying he had threatened her.

C. K. Hill, 20, of McKinney, was released to Breckenridge officials. He had been sentenced to five years in the penitentiary Monday, by Judge G. V. Pardue of the 99th district, for theft by bailee.

Bulgarian Spy Trials

while the ministers were held prisoners for three months.

The prospect of further trials against Anti-Communist clergymen was seen in the fact that testimony produced in this hearing has mentioned the names of numerous Protestant pastors and laymen who were not listed in the original indictment. The assumption was that this testimony made them also subject to arrest.

The Bulgarian parliament has before it a proposed law whose clear intent is to cut the ties of the nation's Protestants and Roman Catholics with church groups abroad.

Several of the prosecution witnesses, including a pastor, testified they had supplied espionage information to the accused clergymen.

Accuse Each Other

The Rev. Nikola Naumov, Baptist church supervisor who is one of the leading defendants, was said by another defendant today to have declared from a pulpit in 1947:

"Stalin is a bloodsucker."

The testimony came from the Rev. Mitko Dimitrov, 39. He said Naumov also quoted from the Book of Revelations and predicted the West would "smash the red beast of Communism" in a new war.

Naumov made his confession last week.

Money Claimed Received

Dimitrov said he had received $1,200 in American money from Peter Deneka of Chicago, whom he identified as a leader in Baptist church missions, and converted the money in the black market.

(A spokesman for the North American Baptist headquarters in Chicago said no person named Deneka had ever been associated with the headquarters.)

The Rev. Zdravko Bezlov, 28, a Methodist, said the light of Communism dawned on him while he was in jail.

The Rev. Alexander Baharlev, 73, a Methodist and oldest of the defendants, wept as he accused a son-in-law of duping him into collecting spy data. The son-in-law is the Rev. Yanko Ivanov, the Methodist church supervisor who had previously confessed.

CONFESSIONS IN TRIAL IN HUNGARY REPUDIATED

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 1 (AP)—Five defendants today repudiated pre-trial confessions that they engaged in illegal money deals in a conspiracy with Josef Cardinal Mindszenty.

They charged that police intimidation had wrung the confessions from them. Another defendant among the 14 accused also withdrew a part of his confession.

The repudiations came shortly before the prosecution completed its case against the 14. Tomorrow their council will have the traditional "last words" of summation. The court then will retire to arrive at a verdict.

All "Deserve Punishment"

The 14 are accused of "political conspiracy" and illegal financial deals with the cardinal, Roman Catholic primate of Hungary. Cardinal Mindszenty and six co-defendants were convicted three weeks ago of plotting to overthrow Hungary's Communist-led government and to restore the Hapsburg monarchy. The cardinal has appealed his life sentence.

Prosecutor Lajos Hegyvari, in a closing statement to the court today, asked that all 14 receive "sentences which serve the interests of the people." He said they "deserve exemplary punishment."

PRO-RED WRITER ILL

NEW YORK, March 1 (INS) — O. John Rogge, attorney for Dr. Anna Louise Strong, said today the pro-Soviet writer will not appear before the federal jury again until her health permits. The 64-year-old Nebraska-born journalist and author was scheduled to make her second appearance before the jury investigating Communistic espionage today but did not appear.

Dairy Institute Approves Plan For State Board Of Dairying

DALLAS, March 1. (AP) — The Dairy Products Institute of Texas approved a proposal to set up a state board of dairying.

Approval came at the closing session of the institute's annual convention.

L. A. Boswell of Fort Worth was elected president of the institute. John B. Richards of Harlingen was elected a vice president. John D. Simpson of Austin was re-elected a vice president, and Lester L. Levy of Waco was re-named secretary-treasurer.

O. D. Dillingham of Abilene, chairman of the institute's legislative committee, told delegates the proposed board would have no regulatory power. He said the matter would come before the legislature within the next few days.

The institute recommended a governor-appointed board of eight. Two would be heads of agriculture departments at Texas A. and M. college and Texas Tech. Another member would be the state health officer. A fourth member would represent the public. Others would represent fluid milk distributors, ice cream manufacturers, dairy product processors and milk producers.

His majesty was Harry G Black, local hardware merchant.

Featured in the spectacular "carnival of nations" were 11 daughters or delegates of foreign ambassadors stationed in Washington.

Other Texas cities represented were: Miss Mary Brownrigg of Beaumont, Miss Cynthia Harding of San Antonio; Miss Priscilla Ann Scott of the University of Texas; Miss Jean Waggoner of Fort Worth; Miss Peggy Ferris of Dallas; Miss Patsy Patee of Corpus Christi and Miss Joan Rice Farish of Houston.

Bill Odom Reveals Plans For New 'Round-The-World' Flight

OAKLAND, Calif., March 1. (INS) —Flyer Bill Odom said in Oakland today that he plans to make a 28,000 mile round-the-world flight that will carry him over the North and South Poles.

Odom made the announcement while stopping in Oakland on his way to Hawaii where he will make his second try at a non-stop Honolulu to Teterboro, N. J., flight in a light Beechcraft Bonanza.

The flyer said his round the world trip will start in Oakland in the transport version of a Liberator bomber.

Meanwhile, his light plane, the "Waikiki Beech," will be loaded aboard a Pan American clipper for the flight to Honolulu Thursday. Odom, who was forced back by adverse weather on his first try, said:

"Then I'll just sit under a palm tree and wait for the right winds."

Texas To California Gas Lines Approved

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) — The power commission today authorized El Paso Natural Gas Co. and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. to build new pipeline facilities for moving 250,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day into central and northern California.

The commission said it acted in line with the policy of the Texas Railroad commission to prevent waste of natural gas now being vented to the air in West Texas.

The new facilities of the two companies would cost more than $100,000,000.

They would bring gas from the Permian basin in New Mexico and Texas through the El Paso system to a connection with the Pacific gas lines on the Arizona-California border.

El Paso was authorized to build 247 miles of 30-inch and 26-inch line looping the company's present 26-inch line from the Permian basin; about 95 miles of 24-inch line in Texas to reach gas supplies; 102 miles of 26-inch and 17 of 30-inch line from El Paso's Gila compressor station in central Arizona to the Colorado river near Needles, Calif.; and about 50,000 horsepower in compressor capacity. The estimated cost is $52,456,032.

Mardi Gras Ceremony

in side-walk cafes, on the parade streets and in quiet restaurants.

A mass of humanity jammed downtown Canal street imprisoning spectators on one side in "Old" town, or the other in "New" town

Parade Tops Attractions

The majestic Parade of Rex—lord of misrule—was billed as the main attraction of the day. But it was the sideshows that stole the spotlight.

Giant "gorrillas" roamed the streets, and shoe-polish-blackened "natives" dashed madly through the throngs.

Groups of three or four jazz musicians banded together for numerous impromptu concerts, and soon attracted bevies of jitterbugging youngsters.

Even the New Orleans fire laddies—whose duty kept them from full participation—were not forgotten. At the central fire station, in the backwash of the celebration, somebody set a juke box.

Girls Give Show

Its raucous blaring attracted a crowd in minutes, and a group of girls provided a sidewalk show a la French Quarter.

Bourbon street's two-by-four hot spots—staffed by the hoarse-voiced barkers—lured much of the crowd after the principal parades.

Thousands of merry-makers, taking momentary refuge on curbstones, propped against doorways and sprawling in the streets —hung on tenacjously for the final finishing-touch street parade tonight.

Midnight—the official beginning of the Lenten season—rings the death knell of the Mardi Gras and the celebrationists tried to pack each frantic minute with more activity.

One pessimistic French Quarter bartender moaned:

"This is supposed to be our big night—but I wonder how many can last to midnight. . ."

RENT ACTION DELAYED

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—Action on continuation of rent controls was delayed today as some House Banking committee Democrats refused to accept provisions of the administration rent bill.

Controls expire March 31 unless Congress acts.

The report noted merely that this is a matter the President wants studied.

Although it did not call for rent control extension in so many words, it said the abolition of such controls would spell "great hardship."

Demos Okay Report

On the President's tax increase, the report made no recommendation for or against.

All of the votes for the report were cast by Democrats. Three of the four Republicans who voted against it said the document has some good points, but that generally speaking they don't like it.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said the report comes out for granting Mr. Truman 10 "additional powers," and he added:

"Taken together, they create executive powers which could bring about a completely regimented economy and a completely regimented people."

GOPs Assail Program

Senator Flanders (R-Vt.) and Rep. Herter (R-Mass.) filed a minority report which assailed the Democrats' endorsement of Mr. Truman's proposal that he be granted power to restore price controls on a limited basis.

A preliminary draft of the report hit the tax angle much harder, but also avoided outright endorsement of an increase. The final version says no problem before the government is more complex. It adds merely that the tax-writing committees of Congress "will study the problem."

The approved report says this about rent controls:

"In view of the present shortage of housing, the removal of rent controls at this time would result in increases which would work great hardship, particularly in our cities, on wage earners, salaried employes, and those living on fixed incomes."

March Tames Down

One inch of snow was on the ground when the month began.

March has a normal rainfall here of .90 inch, the weather station said in laying the possible pattern for the new month, and normal temperature is 51.2 degrees.

Snow Flurries Reported

Little or no wind was reported from any section of the state as usually windy March made a rather meek, misty arrival in Texas, The Associated Press reported.

Nearly all parts of the state received moisture, mostly a trace. In some sections, especially along the coast and East Texas, the drizzle continued throughout Tuesday.

A trace of snow was noted in the Panhandle, and heavier flurries were reported along the Red river. In most places the flakes melted as they hit the ground.

Floods Hit Two Sections

There were flurries at Sherman, Wichita Falls, and Electra. At Electra the snow, melting as it fell, gave way to a cold drizzle.

Late in the day it was clearing in the El Paso area.

Floodwaters from last week's torrential rains beset two sections.

The Houston Weather bureau posted flood warnings for the lower Trinity. It advised stockmen to remove cattle from lowlands in the Palestine area. It said the crest was near Liberty. Upstream, in the Dallas area, the stream was back in banks.

The Rio Grande at Mercedes overflowed and inundated several fields protected by only small levees. The stage reading was 21.2 feet, just above flood level.

The Rio Grande crest was expected to reach Brownsville late Wednesday or early Thursday. No damage was expected.

Man, Woman Friend Admit Killing Three

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. March 1 (INS)—Michigan police said tonight a "mail order" marriage adventurer and his woman companion admitted the slaying of two women and a three-year-old child.

All three of the bodies had been found tonight—two near Grand Rapids and one in New York.

Police identified the suspects as Raymond Fernandez, 34, a native Hawaiian and reportedly a former British counter-spy, and Mrs. Martha Beck, 30.

Two of the victims, Mrs. Delphine Downing, a 28-year-old widow, and her daughter, Rainelle, were found this morning buried under concrete in the basement of their home, two miles south of Grand Rapids.

In New York, information given by Fernandez to a Queens county district attorney by telephone led Queens and Long Island police to the body of a woman buried in the basement of a Queens home.

Fernandez said he had buried Mrs. Janet Fay, 60-year-old widow of Albany, N. Y., after strangling her. Queens police said the body was "wrapped in cloth and still partly covered with dirt."

Negro Found Guilty

Calvin Stevenson, and H. E. Ewing. Halsey was foreman.

Earlier in the morning session, Jack Horton, 20, a marine private, pleaded guilty of theft Jan. 3 of a car owned by George Burnett. Judge Blair suspended a five-year sentence.

Woman Pleads Guilty

A plea of guilty of forgery was entered before Judge Blair Tuesday afternoon, in absence of a jury, by 35-year-old Mrs. Eva Chrisman, a Lubbock housewife. Sentence of two years was suspended.

Mrs. Chrisman appeared before the court carrying her three-months-old infant. She has two other children.

Under questioning of her counsel, James Denton, Mrs. Chrisman related that her offense was at a time when her husband had been called to Arkansas because of a car collision that killed his stepmother and permanently injured his father. She said the family's earnings were shut off during the period of the husband's absence. Restitution had been made on the check before her appearance in court, it was brought out.

One of four embezzlement indictments filed in two district courts here against Richard A. Woodring will be called for trial this morning before Judge Blair, Croslin said. It charges embezzlement of a $173.83 check from Hub Lee Tire company. Woodring, a tall and handsome man of 26, was bookkeeper for the tire company before going to Oklahoma, officials said. He was extradited from there.

A spokesman of the Frankfurt military post handling the problem said food purchasing, telephone and other facilities will be withdrawn gradually.

Eight Fliers Missing

Youngblood, 30, of Houston, Sgt. H. B. Jones, 35, Wellington, Colo.; Capt. George N. Pennington, 26, Chicago, and Corp. Donald V. Nutt, Baker, Ore.

(Names of others, released tonight by officials at Kelly Air Force base, San Antonio, and reported by The International News Service, are:

(Capt. William R. Barnes, jr., Marshall; 1st Lt. William W. McClure, Venetia, Pa.; 2nd Lt. Glen J. Wurden, Warroad, Minn.; and T/Sgt. Marcus Slaten, Tyrone, Ga., all of Kelly field; and F/N D. H. Stuart, Hamilton field.)

Youngblood was one of the B-25 pilots who made the first bombing raid on Japan under Gen. Jimmy Doolittle. At present he is executive officer of the air rescue service at Hamilton field. His wife lives in San Rafael, near the field.

Jones is married and has two children. His family lives at Vallejo, Calif. He joined the Air Force in 1940.

Weather Hampers Search

Captain Pennington, born in Minneapolis, was a veteran of two years overseas service during the war and has been on duty with the air rescue service at Hamilton field since August, 1948. His mother lives at Chicago. He is unmarried.

Corporal Nutt was enroute to duty at Keesler field, Miss. His mother, Mrs. Daisy Nutt, lives at Baker, Ore.

Aerial search was impossible throughout the day because of low visibility. Planes at several points were poised to take the air in a widespread search just as soon as the weather cleared.

A ray of hope is that some of the southwest Texas area is hardly populated, and the plane could have made a forced landing and remained unreported for a day or longer.

Search Planes Ready

Several years ago a plane was forced down in the fog in the Big Bend area and it took the pilot two days to reach a ranch house.

Air Force rescue service officers here decided to move headquarters for the search to Goodfellow Air Force base at San Angelo. Bad weather has grounded almost a dozen rescue planes at Kelly field. A lift in the heavy overcast here would see the base of rescue operations return here.

A report from Biggs field, El Paso, said air rescue service planes from Biggs, Lowry field, Denver, Hamilton field, Calif., and March field, Los Angeles, were reported either already standing by or on the way to join the search.

The Biggs report said a helicopter from that field went to Marfa during the morning, but landed there when it found the ceiling too low for a good search.

winds piled up drifts into previously cleared roads.

Some 1,400 miles of North Dakota roads had been cleared before the storm, but the new storm re-filled nearly 1,300 miles of roads.

Army engineers reported the flood situation in the Missouri river and its tributaries was "generally improved." Some 94,000 acres of the main stem of the river and its tributaries have overflowed.

In Nebraska the Little Blue river flooded, but is reported falling.

Though the weather was unseasonal, temperatures moderated Tuesday afternoon over the Plains states and most of the Midwest. The coldest readings were -15 at Land O'Lakes, Wis., and nine below at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

In Miami it rose from 50 in the morning to 73 later in the day. Los Angeles, however, held a cool 58.

COMMUNISTS GAIN STRENGTH

China Reds To Absorb Nationalist Divisions Into 'Liberation Army'

By PETER LIU
INS Staff Correspondent

NANKING, March 1 — The Chinese Communists announced tonight that they will absorb 25 former Nationalist divisions into the "people's liberation army."

The announcement, made in a Communist radio broadcast, said the troops were formerly the Nationalist Fourth and Ninth army groups and Eighth Army in North China.

They were commanded by Gen. Fu Tso-Yi, who surrendered them to the Communists when Peiping fell.

Military Conference Held

The "reorganization" program announced by the Communist headquarters was laid out at a military conference Feb. 21 in Peiping. The broadcast said it was attended by all Nationalist officers above the rank of division commander.

The announcement declared the units will be integrated into the Red army "as independent divicions of the people's liberation army" under the Communist for the Peiping-Tientsin front.

The Reds said former Nationalist officers organized into the Red army will be given the same pay and treatment as other Communist officers.

"Advanced Learning" Offered

In addition, the Reds declared, those that wish it, will be given "advanced learning."

The Reds promised that such officers will be allowed to return to their homes for three months. They will be paid for that time, given free transportation and allowed to take personal belongings with them, except their firearms.

The Reds offered the former Nationalists a share of land and declared they will not be prosecuted irrespective of their past conduct "with firearms" provided they comply with the laws and orders of the "democratic government."

The former Nationalist commander in North China, Gen. Fu Tso-Yi, was reported to be enjoying freedom of movement within the walls of Pieping. However, he has not been allowed to leave the city.

He reportedly was seen by members of the Shanghai peace mission which returned to Nanking from Pieping Sunday.

ANARCHIST PLOT UNCOVERED IN NANKINK-SHANGHAI AREA

SHANGHAI, March 1 (INS) —A Nationalist newspaper reported today the breakup of an ambitious leftwing kidnap plot designed to reduce the Nanking - Shanghai area to a helpless state of anarchy.

The Shanghai newspaper Shun Pao quoted reliable sources as saying security police in the two cities—the economic and political nerve center of China—had arrested 20 persons including two women in the sensational plot.

The Kuomintang (nationalist party) sponsored organ declared the plotters planned to kidnap Acting President Li Tsung-Jen, the chief of staff of the Nationalist army and other top Chinese officials.

The political coup was allegedly planned by Marshal Li Chi-Sen, a leftwing leader who is presently reported in conference with Communist chieftain Mao Tse-Tung in Pieping.

The paper quoted its sources as saying that fifth columnists plotted to upset the Nationalist government and create a condition of anarchy.

They were alleged to have planned a series of riots and acts of sabotage coupled with the kidnapping of Acting President Li, the army chief of staff, Gen Ku Cho-Tung, Shanghai - Nanking garrison commander, the Nanking police commissioner and the Nanking mayor.

The newspaper reported the plot was laid following the Communist announcement of a "blacklist" of so-called Nationalist "war criminals" two months ago.

'Sally' Claims She Thought Programs Were 'Entertaining'

By DARRELL GARWOOD
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 1 — A depressed and at times hysterical "Axis Sally" sobbed at her treason trial today that she "never intended to hurt anyone" and thought her Nazi broadcasts merely "entertaining."

"Sally"—Mildred E. Gillars — conceded she passed up a chance to be liberated by American troops, but said she did it only for the love of the professor who became her German radio boss.

She was only "clowning," she said, when she suggested to the GI's that their girl friends were running around at home, and never expected to be taken seriously when she suggested they lay down their "little old guns."

Wanted U. S. To Win

Under cross examination, she conceded that she wasn't "clowning" when she told of the suffering of American soldiers before they died.

But she insisted she wanted the U. S. to win the war, and testified earlier that she was denied food and tobacco because she refused to work with an American "traitor."

Prosecutor John M. Kelley questioned her first about her love for the former Hunter college professor, whom she first met in New York.

She testified that the professor —Max Otto Koishwitz, who died in Berlin in 1945—was not a Nazi, but admitted she was told he had been indicted as a spy in the U. S. Kelley asked:

"If things were unpleasant under the Nazis why did you not hide in Paris until liberated by the Americans?"

A. "Because I wanted to be with Professor Koischwitz . . . I didn't want to be separated from him by any troops."

Tobacco Was Taken

Q. "He meant more to you than anything in the world, didn't he?"

A. "I believe a man generally means more than anything to a woman . . . I would have died for him, yes."

The "traitor" with whom Sally testified she refused to work was Martin J. Monti, now serving 20 years for Nazi broadcasts.

As result, she said, her food and tobacco coupons were confiscated, and she would have been put in a concentration camp except for the intervention of the director of the German overseas radio.

Miss Gillars said hysterically that for a few weeks after her arrest in Germany two armed GI's sat each night at her bedside and kept a light shining in her eyes, and that she had to use a bathroom where "the door could not even be closed."

And she sobbed that a Stars and Stripes reporter had said "We're all looking forward to your hanging," and that others had remarked "You're going to be hanged anyway." She cried:

"All I heard about was death and hanging."

At the conclusion of the direct testimony Defense Counsel James J. Laughlin asked:

Q. "Did you ever betray the United States?"

A. "Never at any time."

Q. "Did you ever adhere to Germany?"

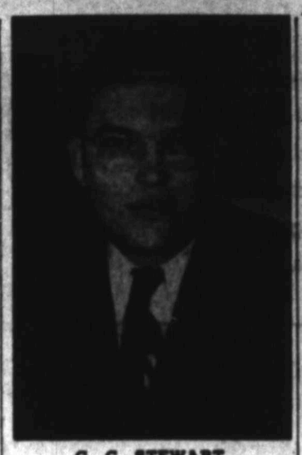

A. "I did not."

Miss Gillars smiled when it was brought out that she gave her birth year as 1909 instead of the correct 1900. She said:

"I don't know many women, especially among actresses, who tell the truth about their age."

BOSTON (U.P.) — City Hospital admitted the oldest patient in its history when 101-year-old Mrs. Mary Gilky was brought in after collapsing at her home. Incidentally, she recovered.

Stewart Is Elected Head Of Optimists

G. C. Stewart was elected president of the Optimist club at Tuesday's weekly club luncheon as an unopposed slate of officers presented by the nominating committee was given a unanimous vote of confidence.

Winston Clark and Billie Davis were elected first and second vice-presidents, respectively, and L. O. Neill and Albert Ohlenbusch were elected as new members of the board of directors.

The luncheon program featured an address by W. O. (Buck) Harbison, a member of the Lubbock chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous.

Emphasizing that he spoke as an individual, and not on behalf of Alcoholics Anonymous, Harbison discussed at length the work of the local organization, which, he said, now has approximately 200 members.

Approximately 40 members and guests attended the luncheon, at which Alfred LaGassa, Woody Myers and J. Wayne Boone were introduced as guests. Jerry Sandlin presided, with invocation by Rev. Cecil Ray.

Rayburn Cracks Down On Use Of Off Color Words In House

WASHINGTON, March 1 (INS)—House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex), by inference made it clear today that borderline and off-color words are taboo in the chamber, despite President Truman's use of the expression "S.O.B."

Rep. Rich (R-Pa), a strong advocate of government economy and other things in which he believes, fired the word "damn" during a brief speech.

As soon as he sat down, Rayburn banged his gavel and said "the word 'damn' will be stricken from the record."

BARGAIN NO BARGAIN

LEXINGTON, Ky. (U.P.)—The manager of a drug store here couldn't figure out why people weren't snapping up his bargain on two packs of cigarettes. Then he found the answer. The special offer had been: "18 cents a pack —two for 37."

El Paso Coroner Calls Inquest Into Deaths Of Four In Family

EL PASO, March 1 (AP) — Justice L. L. Mobley, coroner, today called an inquest Friday afternoon into the tragic deaths of four members of an El Paso family early yesterday morning.

Sheriff Allan Falby said he was certain that John D. Redditt, 34-year-old printing salesman, strangled his wife, Maeline, 30, and two children, David, eight, and Susan, 15 months, then killed himself by crashing his car into a large tree a half mile from their home.

Dr. C. C. Stapp, El Paso doctor, who with a neighbor, Erich Brandes, discovered the three bodies when they went to notify Mrs. Redditt of her husband's death in the car crash, said in his opinion Redditt was "totally irresponsible in a typical schizophrenic reaction" when he allegedly killed his wife and two children before taking his own life.

Completion Of Two Offsets As Producers Expected To Extend New Scurry Oil Field

Further development of the new oil field in west Scurry county, 10 miles west and a little south of Snyder, was in process as two offsets to the Lion Oil company No. 2 McLaughlin recent Canyon lime discovery were preparing to complete as producers.

A drillstem test in the Canyon lime of the Pennsylvanian at Lion No. 4 McLaughlin, south outpost to the pay opener, was taken at 6,696-6,710 feet, with the tool open 23 minutes.

Rate Of Flow Given

Gas reached the surface in three minutes, mud in 14 minutes and oil in 15 minutes. The well flowed at the rate of 40 barrels of oil per hour for eight minutes. Recovery was not recorded.

The venture has now cored ahead to 6,720 feet and was running a Schlumberger prior to setting pipe. Top of the Canyon reef was 134 feet low to the discovery.

It is 665 feet from north and 610 feet from east lines of section 182, block 97, H&TC survey.

A north extension to the pool, Lion No. 3 McLaughlin, 610 feet from east and 1,999 feet from south lines of section 197, block 97, H&TC survey, was bottomed on 6,624 feet, waiting for cement to cure on a string of 7-inch casing cemented at 6,623 feet with 400 sacks.

This prospect has run no tests as yet, but it is running the same as the field opener and should make a well.

Oil String Is Set

An oil string has been set at Southern Minerals corporation No. 1-A University, wildcat which recently indicated a discovery from the Wolfcamp-Permian between the Shafter Lake and Fullerton fields of north-central Andrews county.

The venture was bottomed on 8,445 feet, waiting for cement to cure on 5½-inch casing cemented on 8,423 feet with 400 sacks of cement.

When the cement job sets, operator is to drill plug and make tests of the formation in an attempt to complete as a commercial oil well.

It is 600 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 11, block 13, University survey.

Amended Application

Magnolia Petroleum company has filed an amended application with the Railroad commission, asking for permission to drill ahead to 14,000 feet with its No. 1 Hicks, southeast Gaines county wildcat.

The venture was making hole below 13,084 feet in unidentified sand and dolomite on last report. It was operating on a projected depth of 13,000 feet, making the application necessary to cover further drilling. Operator is to continue to the Ellenburger or granite.

Location is 24 miles southeast of Seminole and 660 feet from west and north lines of tract 16, league 273, Loving CSL survey.

To Abandon Wildcat

Cabot Carbon company was preparing to plug and abandon its No. 1 Bice, wildcat two and one-half miles southeast of the Adair field in Northeast Gaines county.

A three-hour and 20-minute drillstem test at 4,934-77 feet recovered 120 feet of slightly gas cut mud, 30 feet of slightly oil cut mud and 180 feet of black sulphur water.

The dry hole is 675 feet from north and 748 feet from east lines of section 2, block C-31, psl survey.

Cheese Sent To U.S. By Grateful Italians Creates Mail Problem

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)— Don't blame your postman's goats if some of your mail has smelled strong lately. It may have been good Italian cheese.

Gratitude on the part of the Italian people for the assistance offered by friends and relatives in this country has created a problem for the U. S. postoffice, officials told the House Appropriations committee during hearings on a money bill.

"Many reciprocated by sending items, principally delicacies such as Italian cheeses—some of them being quite strong—by first class mail," the officials related.

"In the process of transportation they disintegrated and the letter mail was absolutely ruined. It was necessary for us to ask the Italian postoffice to issue instructions that such was not mailable matter."

Senate Approves Rural Road Building Plan

Jester Okays State Workers' Pay Hike

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, March 1—The Senate today asked the House to join it in providing $30 million for rural road building in the next two years, and both branches of the legislature approved emergency pay raises for state workers.

All state employes except those in the colleges will get 15 per cent pay raises on the first $3,000 of their salaries beginning in March. Gov. Beauford H. Jester signed the pay raise bill this afternoon, putting the boost into effect.

Other Bills Approved

The rural road bill was the fourth major piece of legislation passed by the Senate this session and wheeled across the capitol to the House for action. Earlier it approved the prison system rebuilding measure, and two of the Gilmer-Aikin public school revamping bills.

Although several senators openly doubted whether the bill by Mrs. Neveille Colson of Navasota would result in speedy construction of easily-built roads to get country folks out of the mud, the vote on final passage was 26 to 3.

An amendment by Senator Dorsey B. Hardeman of San Angelo, to permit the highway department itself to build rural roads was defeated 17 to 12. Senators speaking for it said the department had adequate equipment to construct hard top roads with state money and could do so without meeting unnecessarily rigid specifications required under federal aid plans.

Little Opposition Seen

Backers of several rural road bills in the House agreed they had no quarrel with the Colson bill, but Rep. C. S. McLellan of Eagle Lake who has a natural gas tax bill tied to a separate country road building project said he had no idea of dropping it.

There was talk that quick Senate passage of the Colson bill was really aimed at stopping the McLellan tax plan.

Arguing for Hardeman's amendment, Senator Fred Harris of Dallas said the time had come to start building roads, not just talking about them.

"Country people don't want super-duper roads," he said. "They just want to get out of the mud."

Road Building Urged

Senator A. M. Aikin, jr., of Paris said you don't need four inches of concrete slab to make an all-weather road.

"You just need something you can get a school bus over," he said.

The Colson bill allocates $1,250,000 a month from the state's clearance fund, exclusively for the use of rural roads. Senator Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo wanted to know what would happen if there was no unallocated money in the revenue pool, and Mrs. Colson re-

Library Association Officers Are Named

Officers for the coming year were elected at a meeting of the Lubbock Public Library association Tuesday afternoon in Room 110 of the Senior High school.

Mrs. H. F. Godeke, president, Floyd Honey, vice-president, and Mrs. A. F. Rasor, secretary, were all re-elected. Ford Dockray was named treasurer succeeding Marion Key. The latter was appointed chairman of the Legislative committee. Mrs. A. W. Young was named chairman of the membership committee.

Mrs. Ross Ayers, radio chairman, reported that a monthly book report was being presented over KFYO and that the program would continue to be presented in the future. A motion was made and carried that a telegram be sent to Rep. Preston Smith and Sen. Kilmer Corbin of the state legislature urging that they give their support to Senate Bill 113 and House Bill 322. The two bills provide for the appropriation of $200,000 to be spent for the extension of the state library and to establish a loan fund for the public libraries in the state.

Board members present were Mrs. Godeke, Honey, Mrs. Ben Brewer, Mrs. Young, and Mrs John Redwine of Shallowater.

Three Missing After Explosion Aboard Oil Exploration Boat

BEAUMONT, March 1 (AP) — Three men are missing and one is in serious condition in an Abbeville, La., hospital as the result of an explosion on a Sun Oil company exploration boat in the Gulf of Mexico, several miles off southwest pass, Vermillion bay, Louisiana, about 11 a.m. today.

The missing men are S. A. Gravey and Claude Doucet, jr., of Beaumont and W. W. Ballard of Port Neche... The injured man is J. E. Guidry of Church Point, La.

Caso March Hits Education Plan

DALLAS, March 1 (AP) — The Gilmer-Aikin bills proposing to reform Texas education were tagged by Caso March of Waco today as "autocratic and undemocratic legislation" that will destroy your liberties."

March is a Baylor law professon, candidate for Governor in the past two contests and announced candidate in the next one.

In a radio speech March urged Texans to write their representatives their opposition to the bills. He said school teachers of Texas' small schools paid for the broadcast.

Plan Called Undemocratic

"If these bills become law," he said, "they will do more to destroy democratic local government in Texas than any other legislation in the 103-year history of the state.

"They will press down upon the backs of the farmers and small home owners of Texas largely the burden of sustaining the increased cost of maintaining the public schools."

March said the bills' only revenue raising feature is the provision for raising $45,000,000 from local property taxation while natural gas continues to flow out of Texas "almost tax free."

Raps Bills' Provisions

Instead of simplifying school administration on the state level, March charged, the bills will have the opposite effect.

"Four boards would be eliminated and seven new ones created," he said.

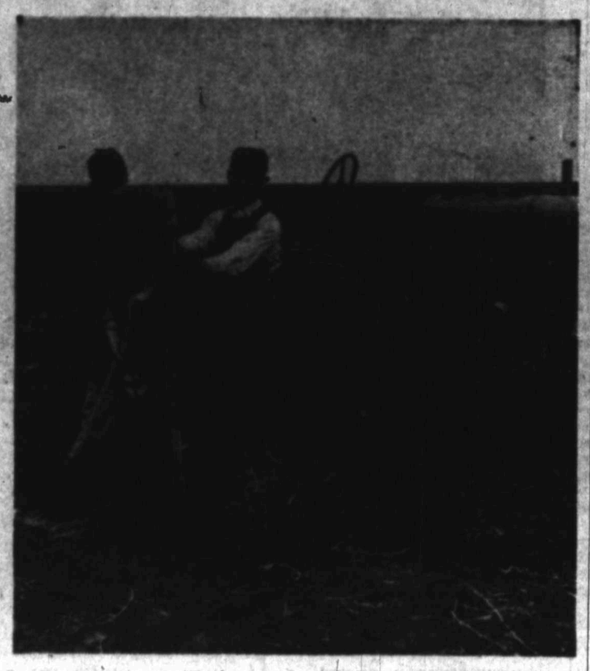

He cracked at the proposed appointment of a state superintendent by a nine-member board.

"When you place responsibility in the hands of nine men elected from nine separate school districts who are responsible for the acts of one man who has more authority than the board that appoints him, you have placed the responsibility in no one.

"It reminds me of the old Louisiana shell game where the sucker attempts to name which shell he thinks the ball is under. He can never win because there is a hole in the table," he said.

TO GO TO HOSPITAL

DALLAS, March 1 (AP)—Dallas County Judge Lew Sterrett said today he will commit Charles A. Gordon, who terrorized a downtown street intersection by shooting from his YMCA room, to the veterans administration hospital in Waco Thursday. The 29-year-old Navy veteran killed a Dallas postman and wounded three other persons Feb. 9 in the wild shooting spree from his sixth-floor room.

CROP DIVERSIFICATION INCREASES

Produce Program Well-Rounded On Most Lubbock County Farms

Lubbock county farmers, recognized as among the nation's most energetic and progressive, and typical of their counterparts in other parts of the South Plains, are moving into a new crop season with a generally well-rounded production program, although the usual fall and winter preparations were held to a minimum by lack of moisture.

And, also typical of the area as a whole, they are entering the season on a high wave of optimism due in part to abundant moisture for early spring operations, and partly because of their ready adaptability to diversified efforts in farm operations.

Cultivated Acreage Estimated

The county has a total area under cultivation placed liberally at 450,000 acres, but officially recorded as 431,434. No official figures have become available on division of this acreage as to crops during 1948, and probable division of acreage for this year is uncertain, partly because of the uncertainty of the grain situation.

Farmers in this county and area have in the past, however, displayed quick readiness for adjustment to changing situations, and that will undoubtedly be true this year.

Current indications are that of the 430,000 to 450,000 acres in cultivation in the county, from 350,000 to 400,000 acres will go into cotton. It could be considerably less, however, depending on whether or not price supports are placed on grain sorghums.

Grain Sorghums Needed

Major portion of the other acreage would go into grain sorghums as most farmers move for a supply of feed at least sufficient for home us. A few farmers take the attitude that if everybody else is planting cotton, it should be a fairly good time to plant feed, even as a cash crop.

But that involves only the so-called major cash crops. Other acres will be in gardens, truck crops and produce of different kinds, in alfalfa and mixed grass pastures for hay and grazing, and a relatively small acreage will go into commercial vegetable crops.

The latter probably will be a maximum of a few hundred acres, but producers in the last two or three years have found that these crops pay off, and that they can get more than one crop from the same land in a year.

Diversification Noted

The swing back to a higher degree of diversification is evidenced in most part of the county. During the lush war years, and those immediately following, farmers generally turned to crops that would mean the most cash.

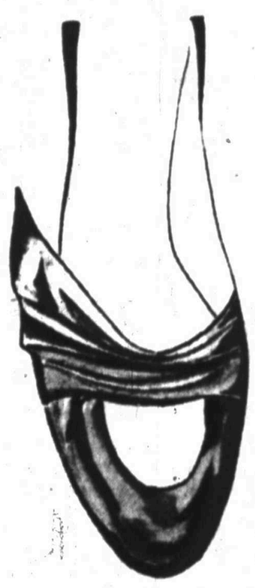

This meant that the cow, sow, hen program of a well diversified agriculture that had gained much headway, drew little attention, be-

FARM ACTIVITY IN AREA—It's a busy time of the year on most South Plains farms as preparations get underway for spring plowing, planting and numerous other chores. Shown above are several scenes taken over the area the past few days. In the top picture, left, fence rearrangement holds the attention of J. C. Cromer and his son, W. E., as they take out a post on the Cromer farm near the Canyon community to change a grazing plot. Young Cromer was having a little trouble with rusty moldboards on the tractor in the background as he started listing. Activity was plentiful as shown in the picture, second from left top, at the J. H. Dawdy farm east of Idalou. Dawdy took time off from helping to build a new residence to show operation of the self feeder in his hog lots, where more than 100 head of hogs are fed. He has metal bin facilities to store about 500,000 pounds of grain. Mrs. J. D. Perkins, is shown top right, in the role of carpenter, taking a hand in construction of a new residence on the farm of her brother, J. H. Dawdy, near Idalou. She halted for the picture under protest. In the bottom photo, chickens galore are in evidence on the Huey Rush farm near Acuff. Shown are a few of the more than 250 hens now producing 20 dozen eggs a day. Foreground are two sons of C. L. Wilks, farm worker, with their dog. They are Windell Wilks, 11, almost hidden brother Johnny, 6. (Staff Photos by Bill Clark.)

FINAL DRAFT OF TREATY AGAIN DELAYED

Administration Leaders Express Concern Over Slow Progress Made On North Atlantic Alliance

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 1 — Administration officials expressed concern today over the slow progress made i nthe formulation of the North Atlantic defense alliance.

The envoys of the Western Union powers and Canada conferred for one houran d 45 minutes with Secretary of State Acheson on the latest version of the pact.

It had been hoped that this meeting would produce a draft text close to the final version of the agreement, committing the United States to speedy support of any member of the pact attacked by an outside power.

But following today's meeting, Sir Oliver Franks, the British ambassador, said that another conference would be held later this week.

The parties involved in the discussion thus far are the United States, Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg.

The delay apparently will make it impossible to publish the text of the pact next week, as had been planned.

The administration is now faced with a problem of timing on its foreign program. The original schedule called for submission of the North Atlantic alliance treaty to the Senate by late March.

Immediately thereafter it had been planned to submit a program for the United States rearmament of the European members of the pact to Congress. This was to call for an expenditure of more than one billion dollars in the first year.

With the delay in a final draft of the treaty, it appears that Europe's rearmament may be postponed several months.

One of the prime matters discussed at the meeting today was the question of fitting Norway and Denmark into the agreement binding North Atlantic nations into a mutually protective military alliance.

Norway is on record as favoring immediate participation in the pact, although the Norwegian government has not, as far as is officially known, made a direct move to join in the current talks.

A heavy majority of the Danish parliament is on record as favoring Denmark's membership in the alliance.

However, the seven nations drawing the pact unanimously favor speeding the work.

It was pointed out that Norway —and Denmark as well, should the matter work out that way — could be taken into the alliance when the agreement is formally signed, probably before April 1.

Diplomatic observers expect quick action on the part of both Norway and Denmark if the United States can give assurance that swift and powerful American military aid would be forthcoming should any signatory power be attacked.

Foreign envoys have been heartened by mounting sentiment in Congress for a United States pledge of armed assistance.

Secretary Acheson has kept in close touch with congressional action on a joint resolution introduced by Rep. Flood (D-Pa.), which would place Congress on record as recognizing the "pressing need" for an effective military alliance of North Atlantic nations.

U.S. Sentences Five As Spies In Germany

MUNICH, March 1 (U.P.) — Five confessed spies, a Pole and four Germans, were convicted today of spying on American forces in Germany and were sentenced to prison terms at hard labor ranging from 12 to 30 years.

The alleged leader of the espionage ring, Theodore Szendielorz, 33, a Pole who admitted he was a Polish secret service agent, receiving the top sentence of 30 years.

Four Germans Sentenced

His four German co-defendants, whom Szendielorz said he hired to gather information on American occupation forces for Poland, were:

Roman Knopp, 24, railroad station porter who said he reported on troop train movement, sentenced to 20 years.

Rudolph Badura, 31, sentenced to 12 years.

Helmut Shostok, 22, sentenced to 12 years.

George Kolodzie, 33, sentenced to 12 years.

Confessions by all five to Army investigation agents were read into the trial before a special eight-man U. S. Military commission. The trial, which is the second of a series of five, began a week ago Monday.

First Family Reduces Usual Program

White House Repairs Dull Social Season Of Capital

By MARTHA KEARNEY
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 1—The 1949 White House social season is just about ready today to creep into history—and it is sure to go down as one of the dullest peacetime seasons the capital has ever known.

Furthermore, history, which never repeats and hardly ever anticipates, can get ready to write off the 1950 season as more of the same.

The beginning of Lent each year, of course, is the signal for the complete suspension of all social activity by the first family. This Wednesday, as Ash Wednesday, does the trick for 1949.

Occupied By Campaign

Even after Easter, when the "little season" has an unobtrusive fling, there is traditionally little or no presidential entertaining.

This year extraordinary factors combined to bring about what amounted to a blackout of presidential social functions.

The usual White House season, for example, is planned to run from the middle of November to the first of March.

This year, however, the chief executive, along with his wife and daughter, were completely occupied with the political campaign right up until the beginning of November and made no plans for any sort of social season.

House Declared Unsafe

Just a few weeks later, while the President and his family were vacationing in Florida, the White House was declared dangerously unsafe for occupancy until certain vital and strategic repairs were made.

A subsequent and more thorough check revealed that the historic executive mansion was in need of what amounted to virtual rebuilding before it could safely house the first family again.

President Truman, the first lady and their daughter, Margaret, therefore, moved to comfortable, home-like Blair House upon their return from Florida.

However, neither Blair house nor next-door Blair-Lee house—which has been connected with it by a second-floor passageway—can accommodate more than a few guests at a time.

Blair House, for example, can comfortably hold sixteen people for luncheon or dinner; Blair-Lee House, eighteen. It is estimated that a maximum of only about 50 people can be received in either.

As a result the first lady cancelled practically the entire social season.

Looking ahead to next year, it seems doubtful that the President and Mrs. Truman will be back in the White House in time for the 1950 season.

Lorenzo Winslow, the White House architect, believes that it will take about 18 months to complete the reconstruction of the executive mansion.

And, although Bess Wallace Truman has no comment on the subject, it seems as though she might be almost pleased at this turn of affairs. A homebody at heart, she seems happier at Blair House than at the impersonal, austere White House.

Although always a gracious hostess, she makes it clear that she would rather entertain a few friends in the Blair House manner than preside at the sprawling, formal White House receptions and dinners.

As for the President—well, what man ever did like to climb into white tie and tails to shake hands and make conversation with a thousand people or so when he could relax instead and read the evening paper?

Texas Family Corners Ribbons At Amarillo Fat Stock Show

AMARILLO, March 1 (AP)—The Meeks family is hauling off most of the grand championships at the Amarillo Fat Stock show.

Today Ferrall Meeks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Meeks of Dalhart, was awarded the grand championship in the boys' calf contest.

Yesterday his father took three out of four grand championships in the judging of purebred single entry herefords.

Reserve honors in the calf show went to Norman Drake of Midland. There were 94 calves in the contest.

In the boys' lamb show, a double of Beckham county, Okla., lads took top honors. Ray Ratzlaff showed the grand champion lamb and Eldon Hixon the reserve. Both are from Sayre, Okla.

The annual banquet by the Panhandle Hereford Breeders association was conducted tonight. Principal speaker at the annual one-day convention of the Panhandle Livestock association here today was Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president of Texas Tech.

CITY SANITATION

First Things First

MOST Lubbock residents will agree unreservedly with the City commission that municipal improvements needed to safeguard the community health should be placed ahead of all others.

Everyone knows community health is endangered when anything like raw sewage is untreated. Thousands of Lubbock people saw and smelled the proof last summer that the City has outgrown present facilities. They can appreciate that a disposal system and plant designed for a city of 50,000 is insufficient for the Lubbock of today and for the future.

Thinking people, therefore, will require no "selling" on the proposition that, regardless of other needs, provision should and must be made with all possible haste for all phases of sewage sanitation. Any avoidable risks of epidemics which might result from failure to take proper care of sewage would be inexcusable.

Members of the City commission undoubtedly can rely upon the support of the vast majority of the people of Lubbock if they attack the problem with a vigor which gets results—and the officials say expansions now in progress will be sufficient for peak disposal needs next Summer.

People of Lubbock unquestionably would like to have many other improvements. But if the situation should get down to a choice, due to finances or for any reason, between sewage protection and almost anything else, nearly all Lubbock residents would put sewage protection first. We believe, beyond the question of doubt, the commission can proceed under this assured assumption in mapping public improvement programs.

An Honest Debt

MANY rural aid schools in Texas faced the prospect of being forced to close early last year for lack of funds to pay teachers' salaries. A special session of the Legislature was urged to provide needed money. It appeared to be the most meritorious of many reasons proposed at various times in unsuccessful efforts in behalf of a costly special session.

The session to provide rural aid needs was avoided when trustees of affected school districts were advised to borrow necessary funds from banks, with assurances that the State would guarantee the loans. Bankers pointed out then that the plan was of doubtful legality. But, rather than risk the closing of schools, they made about $3,000,000 in loans.

An appropriation bill providing for reimbursement of loans has traveled a rocky road in the Legislature. No one, apparently, denies the debt. No one opposes paying it. But questions as to legality and/or constitutionality, have delayed action on the proposition, which pends in the House after having been approved by the Senate.

Doubtless it has been proper to raise constitutional or other proper questions of legal technicality in the matter. But most Texans will regard these loans as debts of honor which should be paid with minimum delay, regardless of the technicalities involved. They owe not only the money, but debts of gratitude, to the banks which refused to let technicalities or other red tape stand in the way when the schools needed money.

Down Memory Lane

(From files of the Lubbock Morning Avalanche of March 2, 1929).

The city commission signed an order calling for the paving of Broadway from the alley west of Ave. O to College Ave., which was called the city's most extensively used boulevard and "long an eyesore and source of much displeasure to Lubbock citizens." The order also provided for paving of Ave. Q from Main to Nineteenth, and Texas Ave. from Fourteenth to Nineteenth. At the same meeting Dr. C. N. James was employed as assistant food inspector.

AUNT Jane had spoken truly when she had said that Marshallville would rise to the bait of an attractive, eligible young visiting man. The telephone began ringing early the next morning, and parties were arranged that would easily have occupied a month of Mike's time, except that Mike said he could only stay a week at the most. He had planned only to stop over for a day and a night, but when everybody protested at that and insisted hospitably that he must stay for "my party on the tenth," he seemed quite content.

The Chamber of Commerce gave a luncheon for him and listened attentively to what Mike insisted was "the darndest fool speech" any fellow could make, in which he spoke warmly and sincerely of his admiration for the town. There were picnics, luncheons at the country club, dinners, and several dances.

On a warm Sunday morning following Mike's announcement that his visit must end on Monday because he had long overstayed his time, he came down to breakfast to find Merry and Aunt Jane dressed for church.

"We weren't sure that you'd care about going, Mike, and you're really not expected to. The morning papers from Atlanta are on the terrace, and we won't be gone long," said Aunt Jane briskly.

Mike said quickly, "I'd like to go with you, if I may?"

"We'd love it, Mike."

"Swell! I'll fall into suitable togs and be right down in a jiffy," said Mike, and seemed honestly to look forward to the experience. "Of course I wouldn't want you to think that going to church is exactly a novel experience, however. I've attended quite often—Christmast Eve and Easter Sunday and at weddings and things."

"Of course," said Aunt Jane, her eyes warm. "It's a part of our life here, Mike. I'd like you to go if you'd care to."

WHEN he came down, Merry smiled warmly at him, and said as they went out into the hot sunshine, 'You drive, Mike. I'll sit in the middle."

Mike nodded and slipped beneath the wheel of her car. The air was fragrant with gardens and woods and fields; the day was bright and sunny and warmer than a northern June. And it seemed to Mike that the sound of church bells laid its own charm on the scene. From all over the town they came — deep-toned, mellow; brisk and hearty.

The church was of ancient red brick, bowered in the camellias for which Marshallville was noted. This morning their leaves were as shiny green as though they had just been waxed, but the blossoms were gone, not to return until the mild winter coaxed them out again.

There were friendly greetings as they passed up the walk, pausing now and then to exchange a few words with friends and neighbors; then inside to the warm, decorous quiet, the organ music, the voices lifted in praise and thanksgiving. And then the sermon. After it was over, and they came slowly down the aisle, once more pausing here and there to chat, the minister came toward them, smiling warmly.

"Good morning, Jane. And Merry, it's wonderful having you back in town again. I dislike very much looking down at an empty pew where you and your family have sat for generations," said he. Merry thanked him and introduced Mike. "Ah, yes, Mr. Channing. I had the pleasure of hearing you at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon. A very good speech."

"That's awfully good of you, sir, but I'm afraid I'm not what even my best friends could call a born speech-maker," admitted Mike.

The minister smiled.

"Perhaps that's just as well, Mr. Channing. We seem to have a plethora of expert speech-makers and a painful dearth of doers!" he said frankly. "I wish I could hope that there was some faint chance of your settling in Marshallville. We need young men like you."

• • •

MIKE'S eyes opened in astonishment, but before he could say anything, the minister had been claimed by another group and Merry tucked her hand through Mike's arm, and smothered a small chuckle until they were once more in the car.

"Mouth's open, Mike," she told him demurely.

Mike stared at her, even as he set the car in motion.

"Did you hear what that perfectly grand old gentleman said? That he'd like to see me settle down in Marshallville?" he demanded.

Merry's laughter ebbed just a little.

"Dr. Lawton is a lamb, Mike. He's been here for 20 years. He loves Marshallville; he couldn't possibly know what a shocking suggestion that was to you—since he knows nothing of New York or all the places that are as familiar to you as Marshallville is to him," she said quietly. "He didn't realize that he was making such an absurd suggestion."

Aunt Jane looked swiftly from one to the other, and then turned her eyes to the road. Inside her neat gloves, her fingers were crossed and she all but held her breath.

Mike said after a moment, "So you think the suggestion is absurd, do you?"

"Of course. What in the world would you do in Marshallville? You'd be bored to screams in no time at all."

Mike's jaw set and he drove without answering her. When they reached the house, Aunt Jane said briskly, "Dinner will be ready in a few minutes, so don't you two children go away."

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

"DO you advise that I buy a home or shall I continue to rent?"

Here is a fine problem one of my readers asks me to help him solve!

His wife keeps on nagging him, he writes.

She is tired of living in a rented house.

She thinks it is foolish to have nothing but rent receipts after ten years of married life.

She wants to be able to establish a homestead for their two children, one a girl of nine, the other a boy of seven.

BRANDEIS

A home is an investment, she tells her husband, since real estate values are steadily going up.

Every successful man should be a homeowner, his wife thinks, and owning a home is every sensible man's duty.

The fellow writes that he has enough money saved up for the down-payment, but that some of it is in government bonds which he would have to sell.

He is in his thirties and gets a good salary, enough to pay taxes and interest and amortization on the mortgage.

Shall he buy a home or continue to rent?

I am not a real estate dealer. I am not a financial adviser. I am not a fortune teller.

But I'll try to answer my inquirer's questions as I see his problem from my own point of view.

There are two kinds of investment.

One is in happiness, in contentment, in peace of mind.

The other is financial. The better the return, the better the investment.

From a financial point of view a home is not a good investment.

I have checked on hundreds of them.

Momentarily values may be greater than they were twenty years ago. But real estate values are going down all over the country.

Figure the repairs, the upkeep, the interest, the depreciation over a period of years and you will find that the financial return on the investment has been nil.

Nothing but rent receipts, says the man's wife.

True, and rent receipts get monotonous.

So, if you own your home, you don't need to bother with the monotony of rent receipts.

You have a much greater variety of receipts. Receipts from the bank, from the painter, the carpenter, the oil company, the glazier, the gardener, the tax collector, the insurance man, and a long string of etceteras.

Homestead for the children? A great majority of the homes we have had offered to us for sale were homes that had become too big because the children grew up and went away.

So—should you buy a home?

I can tell you this much: My wife and I hope to God that as long as we live we will be able to live within our own four walls, step out on our own acre of ground, look up at our own bit of heaven.

That home of ours has been and continues to be an expensive investment.

But we collect our dividends every single day of the year in happiness, contentment, peace of mind.

DEMOS PUT ON SPOT

Bonus Plan Studied

By ROGER WARREN
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Brickbats from an economy-minded public have been thumping against Congressman John Rankin's door since the opportunist Chairman of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs proposed a $90 monthly pension for every veteran in the last two wars at the age of 65.

Nevertheless, the cold sweat of anxiety is increasing on the brow of each Congressman. The President would like to block John's bill, which eventually might cost six billion dollars a year. Spokesmen for the Veterans of Foreign Wars denounced the measure as a "betrayal of aged and ailing veterans."

But the organization still will press for a pension for disabled ex-servicemen subject to income limitations. The even more powerful American Legion also favors disability pentions for all qualified and straight pentions for those reaching 65 years, without the requirement of a "pauper's oath" denoting need.

RECRUITING: The new United States Army is partly responsible for the surrent campaign. The old timers are sore because the base pay of a peacetime soldier starts at $75 a month; battlefield wages were $50 a month.

They beef because recruiting advertisements promise 30-day annual vacation with pay, 3-day passes every two months and most weekends off—in all 140 free days a year with pay.

"What's the big money for?" asks Legion National Commander Perry Brown of Texas. "Is it fighting pay? No. It's for guard duty, KP and for painting the rocks in front of the colonel's quarters."

Veteran spokesmen also gripe because peacetime soldiers can retire in 20 years on a $114-a-month pension and can enjoy all the benefits of the GI Bill of Rights. They think the boys are getting a better break from Uncle Sam than the men who faced bombs and bullets.

TAXES: They say that coal mine unions are leading a labor pension movement and that industries are working out retirement plans. But, they complain, the average hard-pinched veteran finds that he is not even covered by Social Security.

When veterans feel—rightly or wrongly—that they are being treated unfairly, they, like organized labor, keep hectoring their Congressmen and punish at the polls anyone whom they suspect has run out on them. Politicians know this—and shiver.

So far, the rank and file veteran, who takes little part in American Legion or VFW national agitation, have not expressed themselves. They and their families are 40 per cent of the population. As they in a large measure are the ones who will pay taxes for years to finance the Rankin dream, they may not put as much pressure on Congress as was done when the Adjusted Compensation (Bonus) Act for $3,767,000,000 was passed.

PENSIONERS: Men who escape death on the battlefield often live a long time. The last War of the Revolution pensioner was Daniel Fred Bakeman, who died in Freedom, N. Y., in 1869 at the age of 109. Actuaries estimate that in 1995 there will be about 2,600 World War I veterans between the ages of 90 and 94 years.

The last dependent of a soldier who served under Washington was Mrs. Esther S. Damon, who died in Plymouth Union, Vt., in 1906 at the age of 92. The last survivor of the War of 1812 was Hiram Cronk, who died in Ava, N. Y., in 1905 at the age of 105. Uncle Sam paid the final pension to a War of 1812 dependent in 1946.

Only 33 Civil War Union veterans are living. Their latest combined monthly check from the government was for $4,172. But to date the U.S. Treasury has paid Civil War pensions totalling more than eight billion dollars.

RECORD: Approximately 15,000 dependents of the men who fought under General Grant and Admiral Farragut are on the rolls, as are 31 dependents of Mexican War troops, although this conflict was more than a century ago.

The great-great-granddaughter of Martha Washington holds the record for the longest time on the pension books—67 years. She was Mrs. Britannia W. Kennon, wife of Naval Captain Beverly Kennon, who was killed aboard the U.S.S. Princeton in 1844, two years after he had married. His widow received a $50 check every month from 1844 until 1911.

Today more than three million persons are receiving war pensions or compensations from the government.

Nearly seven billion dollars have gone to those in World War I category and more than three billion dollars to those who served in the last war. Since the Revolution the Veterans Administration and its predecessors have paid out nearly 49 billion dollars for veterans aid.

VETO: The size of the possible expenditure under the Rankin measure startles everyone. But the fact that more than 18 million veterans stand to receive a gift from Uncle Sam makes the issue dangerously appealing.

Rankin's drive causes the most pain in Democratic circles. The Democrats control both the Capitol and the White House.

Their machinery must be used to kill the bill or pass a "sop" which will add new, endless taxes. Their own new change of legislative rules prevents them from sentencing the measure to solitary confinement in a committee pigeon hole.

The Mississippi stage manager is seasoned in squiring explosive issues in Congress and into the newspaper headlines.

Eventually President Truman, himself a veteran of World War I, may have to veto the bill. Responsible Republicans would probably step in to uphold the veto. But until duty calls, many G.O.P. strategists are perfectly willing to sit back and let the Democrats suffer the penalties of Congressional control.

It is said human bone is more resistant than the best hickory. Especially if you are trying to convince a bonehead.

It is estimated there are 12,630,000 boys and girls in America between the ages of 14 and 19. No wonder the juke-box craze continues.

We wonder if there ever was a time when a state or nation didn't have an acute need for more revenue?

An old-timer is the one who can recall when a farmer placed more dependence in his almanac than the college of agriculture.

Correct this sentence: "Their little boys seems to have better manners than our little boy."

Marriage has settled down to normal when he leaves for the office without giving her a good-bye kiss.

Human nature is what makes a man put more vim and vigor into his prayer when the prayer is one of selfishness.

Definition of a small town: A place where the clerk in the store is usually related by blood or marriage to the proprietor.

PROGRAM NOW BOGGED DOWN

Reparations Pact Is Ignored

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The very slow progress in the reparations program calling for dismantling and delivery of specified German plants to the victorious Allies and countries subjugated by Nazi armies was revealed here previously from the report of the Inter Allied reparations agency for the year 1948. This covered its operations since its creation by the Paris agreement of January, 1946.

Factors were cited that have hampered the work of the I. A. R. A., which thus far has been able to approve for allocation only 338 out of more than 1,600 plants originally assigned for dismantling. These factors included disagreements among occupying powers; a change of policy by the United States under the Marshall plan to reduce the number of plants to be removed, and resistance in Germany to the program.

Include Food Shipments

The disagreements also go beyond dismantlement. They involve reciprocal deliveries of foodstuffs and raw materials by Russia, as provided by the Potsdam declaration. They likewise concern collateral arrangements under special agreements, such as those reached here in Washington with Sweden and Switzerland in 1946 covering German assets in those two neutral nations, neither of which was a signatory to the reparations agreement.

These cases are interesting as part of the whole problem.

Under the Potsdam declaration, Russia agreed to deliver foodstuffs and raw materials to I.A.R.A. up to 60 per cent in value of the industrial equipment she received from Germany. She made the first delivery in the first half of last year. In May she submitted to I.A.R.A. a proposed list of commodities for the second delivery, which was approved by I.A.R.A.

However, when the three western zone commanders in Germany asked that the second delivery be at the same points as the first, most of which went to Berlin, the Russian authorities refused to make delivery through Berlin and suggested instead that the north German ports be used.

The I.A.R.A. secretary-general wrote the three western zone commanders on December 17 asking when delivery of the second consignment could be expected, and pointed out further that "the agency has still not been informed of the further lists of commodities which, in view of the total amount of industrial equipment so far delivered to the U.S.S.R., I presume should already have been made available to its member governments."

No replies from the three commanders had been received up to December 31.

Others Also Stall

Switzerland, under the Washington accord of May 25, 1946, was to liquidate German assets sequestered there, which were considerable, and pay a certain part to the I.A.R.A. for distribution. But Switzerland still has not carried out her obligations, despite a resolution by the I.A.R.A. assembly last March 16 urging that she complete liquidation with the least possible delay and make available immediately, in the meantime, an advance of at least 100,000,000 Swiss francs.

Switzerland, the report shows, fixed first as a condition to carrying out her obligation that a rate of exchange be fixed between the Swiss franc and the German reichmark, and that she be given a part in fixing this rate. Now she is suggesting, the report said, an arbitration as to interpretation of the Washington accord not only on the exchange rate but on a number of other questions before she will proceed under the agreement.

Sweden, under the Washington accord of July 18, 1946, covering German assets sequestered there, agreed to make available 250,000,000 Swedish kroner, of which 150,000,000 was to be used for financing of exports to Germany to prevent disease and unrest, and 75,000,000 was a Swedish contribution to Allied reconstruction.

She delivered the 150,000,000 kroner as required; but, despite repeated prodding and negotiations, has gone no further on the the second part of the agreement involving the 75,000,000 kroner than to grant to Yugoslavia 10,000,000 of the nearly 15,000,000 kroner due that nation as her share under the Paris agreement of January, 1946.

ANOTHER HICCOUGH CURE

FORT WORTH, Tex. (U.P.)— The best way to cure hiccoughs, says Adolph Newman, is to bend forward with your head between your knees and drink water from the farthermost side of a glass. Newman said he used that method to cure himself after having the hiccoughs for nearly three years.

REPORT SHOWS BUSINESS DECLINE

January Precipitation Boosts Texas Agriculture Prospects

DALLAS, Mar. 1 (AP) — Prospects of the farmer and rancher are brighter, the Dallas federal reserve bank said today in its monthly review of conditions in its district.

Heavy rains and snows during January broke the extended drouth in most sections of the district, greatly improving the outlook for livestock ranges and for crop production, the report said.

The one dark spot during the month was the lower Rio Grande valley where a severe freeze caused extensive losses of commercial vegetables and citrus fruit.

Commenting on business, the bank said department store sales in the district declined by more than the usual amount from December to January and were seven per cent smaller this January than last. Reports indicate a generally favorable consumer response to the substantial mark-down in prices of numerous items of merchandise.

The bank also said deposits of member banks in leading cities declined substantially during the four weeks between January 12 and February 9, but were still moderately above those on the corresponding date of 1948.

The review said the daily average production of crude oil in the United States declined during January, reflecting largely the cutback in this district.

The value of construction contracts awarded in the district during January was only about one-half the large December volume and was considerably under the total for January, 1948. The decline was common among all classes of construction.

Pay Hike Approved

plied she was sure the money would always be available.

Twelve former speakers were welcomed in the House Tuesday. They were in Austin to attend a dinner in their honor.

The Senate's busy day on rural roads and pay raises shoved aside final consideration of the third of the Gilmer-Aikin public school bills. It could be reached Wednesday, and final action on it was expected some time this week. This bill sets up a special fund from which the state would finance the reorganized education plan.

Dallas Judge Overrules Motion For Acquittal In Bank Robbery

DALLAS, March 1 (AP) — Judge T. Whitfield Davidson today overruled a defense motion for an instructed verdict of acquittal for Ollie Otto Prince, 44, Corsicana used car dealer charged with robbing the Rice bank of $4,000 last Aug. 11.

The motion was made shortly after the prosecution rested its case.

"The circumstancial evidence alone is sufficient to carry this case to the jury," said the judge.

Howard Dailey, defense attorney, offered the motion on grounds that the evidence was insufficient to send the case to a jury, and asked that the judge instruct the jury to acquit Prince immediately.

The attorney said the prosecution failed to connect Prince with the robbery by tracing a number of $2 bills and that a bank employe's identification of Prince was not enough.

U. S. District Attorney Clyde Hood said the government evidence proved Prince to be the bank robber beyond reasonable doubt."

A dice game and $2 bills figured prominently in the prosecution's case.

Israel, Lebanon Hope For Early Agreement As Discussions Open

HAIFA, Israel, March 1 (AP)—Israel and Lebanon opened armistice talks today, hopeful of an early agreement.

Armistice talks between Israel and Trans-Jordan, to be conducted separately, were scheduled to start today on the Island of Rhodes.

The delegations recessed until Thursday, to permit both sides to study a proposed basis of settlement submitted by Henri Vigier, the Frech personal representative of Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, United Nations mediator. Details of his proposals were not disclosed.

STOCKS CONTINUE RALLY

NEW YORK, March 1. (AP)—Demand for stocks carried through for the third session in a row today.

Final quotations were up fractions to a point or more but in most cases well under the day's top prices.

The most vigorous buying interest developed before noon while during the afternoon the whole price level tended to sink back a bit. Pressure either way was slight. Railway issues stayed ahead of the balance of the market most of the day but suffered from neglect in the last hour.

Turnover was 720,000 shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .4 of one point to 82.8 which put the market back to where it was a week ago Monday.

The three-day move ahead has recouped all but a small part of the losses scored during a preceding seven-day losing spell.

Some losses up 5 points or more included Firestone Tire at 47½, Douglas Aircraft 55½, American Smelting 49¾, Du Pont 163¾, Allied Chemical 177¼, and Nickel Plate 71.

Others ahead were Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Kennecott Copper, American Can, Dow Chemical, Radio Corp., Santa Fe, Standard Oil (NJ), Texas Co, American Airlines (most active stock), and Loews'.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 1. (AP)—Cotton futures moved lower today under light pressure of hedging and liquidation. Easiness in grains, the 37 point decline in the mid-February cotton parity, and quiet conditions in textiles and exports influenced the selling. There were three March transferable notices issued which induced some switching from March to later months.

Cotton futures turned firm in late dealings on short covering and mill buying, with some deliveries at new highs for the day. Pictures closed 90 cents a bale higher to 35 cents lower than the previous close.

Grain

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, March 1. (AP)—Selling in grains, regarded by brokers as profit cashing and liquidation, knocked prices down at the board of trade today.

Grains showed some nervousness from the start when traders heard that corn purchases on a to-arrive basis amounted to more than 300,000 bushels, the largest in some time, selling became general.

At the finish some recovery from the day's low had been made and wheat was 1¼ to 2 cents lower than the previous finish, May $2.17¾-18. Corn was unchanged to ¼ lower, May $1.34-33⅞. Oats were ⅜ to 1 cent lower, May 67⅛-⅜. Rye was 1 cent lower, May $1.31. Soybeans were 1½ to 2¼ lower, March $2.23¼-⅜, and lard was 13 to 38 cents a hundredweight lower, March $12.30.

LANDMARK RESTORED

MILTON, Mass. (AP) —The Governor Belcher House, a local landmark which dates from 1777, is being restored and redecorated. Now owned by the Milton Historical Society, the mansion was built by the widow of Gov. Jonathan Belcher of Massachusetts.

The walrus is closely related to the seal and sea lion.

Area Farm Activity

cause the farmer, like his city cousin, turned to the thing that would make him the most money in the shortest time.

Thus, livestock numbers dwindled, other similar long-term, dependable living adjuncts gradually slipped backward, and cash crops took over.

But, according to County Agent D. W. Sherrill, who co-operated in a tour of portions of the county near the weekend, the swing back is now gaining momentum.

Cow stock, particularly dairy animals which are depleted probably more than any other farm commodity, are slowly being replaced, hogs are on farms in the county in relatively normal numbers, and chickens are in about the same category, although laying hens are probably down some in numbers.

A typical case in point is the farm of J. H. Dawdy, who lives about three miles east of Idalou.

Now in the process of building a new home on the farm, Dawdy's plan of operation insures a comfortable living, regardless of prices for cotton and grain.

On the farm are some laying hens, several head of dairy cows, and a hog lot containing about 100 head, including pigs. Dawdy makes no particular effort to raise registered or blooded hogs. Durocs and Hampshires predominate, but except in special instances, the hogs all run together in the large lot, and in a "rooting plot" accessible at all times.

Self-feeders are used in the lots, and little trouble is experienced in feeding. Grain comes from a battery of metal storage bins adjacent to the lots. There are nine of the bins, some of them 50,000 pounds capacity and one or two 80,000 pounds, for a total grain storage capacity of about 500,000 pounds.

Dawdy said the bins more than paid for themselves the first year of their operation. He has no spoilage trouble from molds, rodents cannot get to the grain, and control of weevils and other similar insects is a simple matter.

Another farm practice noted in wide use in the eastern part of the county, and to a more or less extent in other portions, is the sowing of wheat or some other cover crop on terrace rows. Sherrill thinks this is a good practice that not only helps to maintain terraces, but helps in control of noxious vegetation.

Lubbock Gets Best Mail Service In History As New Air And Railway Schedules Go Into Effect

Lubbock now has better mail service than ever before.

Recent changes in air and rail schedules have improved Lubbock service on both incoming and outgoing mail, Postmaster Amos H. Howard said Tuesday.

In and out of Lubbock daily now come and go three trains, 10 star routes and 16 air flights which carry mail.

On air mail service, particularly, a letter mailed at nearly any time will be speeding on its way within two or three hours.

Deadlines Are Shown

The accompanying schedule shows the deadlines by which letters must be mailed at the Lubbock postoffice in order to be handled for the next departure.

Mail to towns in the South Plains area is generally dispatched from 6 to 8:30 a. m. These include routes to Morton, Seagraves, Clovis, Amarillo and Spur, and intermediate points.

These "star routes" return to Lubbock generally between 6 and 8:30 p. m. bringing mail to Lubbock from those points.

Houston Train Added

A train from Houston, recently added to the Lubbock schedules, arrives at 8:25 a. m. and letters mailed in Houston one afternoon are in Lubbock boxes the following morning, delivered on routes during the afternoon.

On the return trip, mail leaves Lubbock at 6:15 p. m., arrives in Houston the following morning and makes connections for San Antonio and other South Texas points.

Mail from Dallas arrives on a train in Lubbock about 8:30 a. m. and is delivered on routes the same afternoon. Going to Dallas, mail leaves Lubbock at 9:15 p. m. and arrives in Dallas for immediate delivery the next morning.

Mail from Childress, Wichita Falls and northeastern points arrives at 11:30 a. m. daily for afternoon delivery. On the return trip, it leaves Lubbock at 2:10 p. m. and arrives for delivery the next morning.

Air Schedule Flexible

Mail from Amarillo, northeastern, northern and northwestern points arrives at 2 p. m. Mail going to those points leaves at 2:30 p. m.

Because of the extreme flexibility of air mail schedules, E. J. Ohnemus, superintendent of mails, ordinarily tells patrons that airmail is dispatched within two or three hours after it is mailed.

Airmail receives preferred handling, and goes out in the next dispatch. For example, an airmail letter addressed to Dallas, if mailed at certain times of day, would be sent by way of Amarillo or Oklahoma City for connections to Dallas if it would arrive sooner that way.

However, certain fixed deadlines for direct air connections are included in the accompanying chart.

Man Looks Twice As Far As Ever Before

New Telescope Shows No End To Outer 'Edges' Of Space

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, March 1 — The 200-inch telescope, taking a look twice as far as man ever saw before, has made its first great discovery. There is no outer edge to the universe of stars even that far away, the distance light can travel in one billion years.

Even out there, the telescope found families of stars like our own milky way.

World Of Stars

This new, far-distant part of the universe was photographed Feb. 1 by Dr. Edwin Hubble, the astronomer.

Hubble, in lining up the new telescope fo further polishing of its mirror, turned the instrument northward, and upward, to shoot for distance. In this north region the stars of the Milky way are less numerous. It is good for looking into the complete unknown.

He got some pictures, pin-point size. They were announced at the California Institute of Technology last night as nebulae, a billion light-years distant. Thousands of similar nebulae, much closer to earth, are known. Each one is a world of stars, like the milky way. These star worlds are spaced about a million light-years apart. The star worlds moreover are about uniformly spread up to the previous limits of sight, about half a billion light-years.

Astronomers speculated whether there would be anything twice as far away.

The next study will be to find whether there is any thinning of the celestial families as you go outward.

Another is to find out whether the universe is really expanding at explosive speeds.

One stunning human fact the discovery brings home is that there is more than one star for every human being who ever lived. Nearly every star family, or nebula, contains more than a hundred million individual stars.

Soviet Trade Paper Notes 'Improvement' In Living Conditions

By BEN P. BASSETT
Associated Press Staff Writer

"Living is becoming better all the time."

Soviet citizens were told that Tuesday, along with the announcement of 10 to 30 per cent price reductions in many articles of food, drink, wearing apparel and hardware.

The quotation above, from the Russian trade union newspaper Trud, seems to keynote this latest mixture of Russian economics and propaganda. The whole situation is being made part of a campaign in Russia and satellite countries, designed to convince the citizens there that their conditions are improving while things are bad in the United States.

Living Standards Low

Living certainly can get a good deal better in the Soviet Union before the living standards there approach Western levels. Dispatch through the Moscow censorship notes significantly that:

"The price reductions are a new step toward re-attaining the Soviet Union's prewar standard of living."

That is a back-handed way of saying that conditions in the Soviet Union, three years after the fighting ended, are still below the levels attained before the war. And the conditions known to exist before the war were low by Western standards. For example, housing for the average Russian is hardly comparable with standards in the United States, even when the latter are subject to criticism.

Demonstration On Use Of Braces For Children Is Given Here

O. Robert Warburton of Houston, technical director of the Milton H. Berry foundation, and "Patsy Jones" spent Tuesday at the Guy L. Trow home at 2010 Twenty-fifth to aid children crippled because of paralysis involving the muscles.

"Patsy Jones" is a stuffed rag doll equipped with braces, indicating how such braces can help a child who has lost muscular control through spastic paralysis.

Several children were taken by their parents for consultation with Warburton. The foundation, which operates schools at Houston, Tulsa and other cities, is a nonprofit institution. Consultation points are located in approximately 250 cities. Warburton has visited Lubbock once before.

Money May Not Be Holding Put Because It's Improperly Aged

WASHINGTON, March 1. (U.P.)—If your money isn't holding out the way you'd like, maybe it just hasn't been properly aged.

The Treasury department disclosed during hearings on its appropriation that it ran short of aged currency and had to put some in circulation before it was quite ready.

It doesn't last long that way, E. L. Kilby of the Bureau of Public Debt explained.

Kilby said the paper should be aged for three months after being manufactured and before being printed into currency, and then aged another three months before being put into circulation.

Tech President's Home To Be Ready For Occupancy In April

Announcement that the president's home at Tech would be ready for occupancy in April was made Tuesday by Frank Junnell, assistant to the president.

Junnell said that W. R. Hedrick, college architect had said that Pres. and Mrs. D. M. Wiggins of Tech would be able to move into the building which has been completely renovated early next month.

Dr. and Mrs. Wiggins have been living in an apartment in Women's Dorm 4 on the campus.
