Municipality On 'Right Side' Of Ledger After August Budget Revision

Indebtedness Maturing During Year Paid On Time; $3,105 Within Revised Budget; $24,139 Within Original

Following its usual custom The Herald is not sponsoring or supporting the candidacy of any man or woman for places on the city commission. Whoever happens to be elected tomorrow will receive our earnest cooperation while in office.

The record of men in office speaks for itself: the claims of those seeking the offices are being weighed by the voters. That is sufficient in a community of Big Spring's size. The people constitute the jury. It is their function to hear the evidence. They are the sole judges of the weight of that evidence and the credibility of the witnesses.

Matters concerning the business of the city government are fundamentally of public interest. It is for this reason that the readers of The Herald are given facts concerning the financial condition of the city government, the items of expenditures from the general fund, the portion of the budget for each department that was spent and left unexpended, and the amount of money paid in interest and on principal of municipal indebtedness during the fiscal year that closed Thursday night.

It is but just that we point out the fact that the government of our city is in far better financial condition than that of 90 per cent of incorporated towns, large and small and middle-sized. This a strong, incontrovertible argument for the effectiveness, the common sense of commission-city manager form of government.

One has but to investigate the finances of various towns to learn that those without city manager, usually are the one in worse condition.

The whole story of the success or lack of success of the city manager form in any community rests in the ability, the efficiency, the honesty of the city manager himself.

CITIZEN OF BIG SPRING

I. B. CAUBLE

"Doc" Cauble is an unusual combination of cattleman, farmer and business man; and if you listen to him long enough you have the feeling that a good preacher or orator was lost somewhere along the road when he turned to the business or replacing range cattle with purebred Herefords. You have a hard time pinning him down to facts. He wants to tell you about West Texas and what West Texas can produce; the future of West Texas is almost a religion with him.

In 1894 he was graduated from a business college in Waco. Six years later he came out to this part of the country.

"Most folks," he said, "thought West Texas began with the west

The City of Big Spring finished its fiscal year March 31 within the annual budget of $3,105.45.

This was accomplished after the budget had been revised August 15 when approximately $25,000 was cut from the budget items for the remainder of the fiscal year.

The city finished the fiscal year within the budget as originally adopted last April 1 by $24,139.61.

Completion of the fiscal year's operations on the "right side" of the ledger was accomplished in spite of the fact that water revenues for the year were $25,973.94 lower than for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1931.

The health and welfare, street and park departments were the only departments that over-ran their budget appropriations.

The over-runs were due to excessive demands due to the unemployment situation of the past few months.

The under-runs of the budget in the other departments were due chiefly to savings made by consolidation of departments.

The report of City Secretary Merle J. Stewart, filed Monday with City Manager E. V. Spence, shows that after transferring at the beginning of the past fiscal year from the general fund to the interest and sinking fund sufficient cash to pay all indebtedness and interest maturing to October 1, 1932—at which time 1932 taxes will be payable—there was a balance of $23,402.13 in the general fund.

Total revenues for the year were $80,723.72, or $1,818.22 more than the amount of 1931 taxes collected. This excess of debt for the year over tax collections for the year was met from water department revenues.

Total revenues for the year were $206,657.26 or $3,717.76 more than the estimate at the beginning of the fiscal year.

Tax collections amounted to $78,905.49 or 70.59 per cent of the amount on the rolls.

Total expenditures for the year from the general fund were $135,475.41. The budget as revised August 15, 1931, allowed for total expenditures of $138,580.86.

To meet the debt requirement for the coming fiscal year, amounting to $80,083.40 will probably require the greater portion of the amount in the general fund in addition to a good sum from the water revenues during the year, the city secretary's statement pointed out.

During the month of March the fire, health and welfare and the street and park departments exceeded their budget appropriations for the month. These over-runs were due to payment of $650 for new house for fire department and the use of a large number of unemployed men for graveling streets and improving the City Park.

All city employees gave one day's pay during the month—amounting to $102.89 in full—for further relief of unemployment. The net over-run of budget allowances for the month of March was $360.17.

Water revenues for March were $5,989.07, a decline of $182.53 from February and $1,692.28 from March of 1931.

Expenditures from the general fund for the fiscal year, totaling $135,475.41 are itemized in the city secretary's report as follows:

Grand Jury Begins Work, Damage Suit Trial Called Here

While the grand jury began its work for the term, trial of a civil suit for $50,000 damages filed by Mrs. Ida Inez Short for herself and young son against the Texas & Pacific Railway company was started before Judge A. S. Mauley in 32nd district court Monday morning.

Court officials indicated the first session of the grand jury would be finished by mid-week.

Farmers Here Seeking Less Loans Of U.S.

41 Applications Asking For $5,832 Filed In County

Fewer Howard county farmers are applying for government crop loans and individual applications ask lower sums this year than last, according to Ben Carpenter, of the county committee in charge of these loans.

To Saturday night 41 applications had been filed with the Howard county committee. They called for a total of $5,832.

Last year 72 loans were obtained in this county for a total of $13,000.

The county committee, composed of Mr. Carpenter, "Fut" Cantrell and A. W. Thompson, of Coahoma, meets Monday evenings to pass on applications filed during each week. Only four applications had been received at noon Monday for consideration Monday evening.

April 30 is the final date on which applications may be filed with the county.

To date all Howard county applications have been approved in the farmers' seed loan office of the department of agriculture in Dallas with the exception of those of some farmers who obtained similar loans last year. Consideration of these are being held up due to delay in removing the offices from St. Louis to Dallas.

Applications on these are blocked in Dallas due to delay in removing records of last year from St. Louis on applications of 5,000 who had unpaid balances on loans of 1931.

Where the records show an unpaid balance from last year the Dallas office prepares a second mortgage, as instructed by the department of agriculture, using as a basis the balance due as of November 30, 1931, and has sent the mortgage directly to the applicant to be executed and the necessary waivers obtained from the landlord and mortgagee. Such applicants are instructed to return the renewal mortgage to the Dallas office so that the 1932 loan can be completed.

Reduction Of Expenditures Vital Factor

Asks Unity Of Action In Program For Eliminating Costs

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Hoover sent a special message to congress asking the Senate and House to appoint delegates to work with him in framing a "complete national program of economy."

He said a further reduction of expenditures was absolutely necessary, but that various agencies seeking the reduction lacked the necessary unity of action.

The committee would help him prepare a complete program which would be submitted to congress. He said such a course would expedite instead of delay the passage of the appropriation bills. He said non-partisan action is essential. He declared the executive branch had already done all possible to reduce expenditures and only changes in laws allowing the consolidation of bureaus and elimination of minor functions could make further savings possible.

Rev. S. B. Hughes Ends Services At Baptist Church

Sunday marked the close of more than four years of service of Rev. S. B. Hughes as pastor of the East Fourth Street Baptist church. The membership of the church during these four years has increased about fourfold and the activities of the church in the program of the denomination has enjoyed about the same proportionate growth. According to the reports of the last minutes of the Big Spring Baptist Association, this church led all others in contributions to benevolence and missions. In fact this church has always been strongly mission-ary in practice.

Rev. Hughes resigned at the 11 o'clock service. His resignation was unanimously accepted and he closed his services at the evening hour by baptizing three candidates: Miss Marnell Welch, Billie Welch and J. D. Eggleston.

H. G. Castle of Abilene has returned home after a business trip to Big Spring. He visited relatives in the city while here.

Crossing Accidents

THE GRADE crossing is no longer a serious factor in the state's war against traffic accidents, but it is still sufficiently in the picture to warrant continued campaigning against it.

Last year ninety persons were killed at grade crossings and 291 injured in 290 accidents, according to L. A. Guering, chief engineer of the Texas railroad commission.

Eighty-seven persons lost their lives in crossing accidents in which automobiles and trucks were involved. The other accidents were distributed among pedestrians and riders of such various devices as motorcycles, bicycles, street cars, wagons.

No statistics are given for former years, but probably the 1932 record is smaller than usual. Modern highway construction is going after the grade crossing in the only sure-fire way to handle it—by the elimination of such crossings.

Texas is spending over a period of years, millions of dollars in putting the death traps at grade crossings out of business.

Probably there will always be some grade crossings, and as long as any of them exist the need for caution on the part of the motorist will exist. Some states have passed a law compelling motorists to come to a complete halt before proceeding across the tracks, but there is no evidence that such a law is of benefit except to the railroad in avoiding damage suits.

The admonition to stop, look and listen may carry little weight with the average motorist, but it is still good advice.

The Thrill That Comes Once In A Lifetime

THE ESCAPE FROM MUSH AND SPINACH—

the MAN HUNTERS
BY MABEL McELLIOTT
 ©1932 BY MABEL McELLIOTT

HERE TODAY
 SUSAN CAREY is learning stenography in a Chicago business school. Reminded one day for an error, she looks up to see ROBERT DUNBAR, another student, staring at her. She has heard he is the heir to the Dunbar fortune and wonders why he is learning stenography. That night she goes to a party at the home of ROSE MILTON, one of her friends, expecting to have a miserable time since she has no escort and knows few of the guests.

Aunt Jessie's nasal call, "Susan! Susan! Get up this very minute. Breakfast's getting cold." Shuddering, blinking at the light of the girl swung her feet over the side of the big bed which groaned in sympathy. Its springs were old and sagging. She stood in the middle of the little room with its brave, painted dresser and white ruffled curtains. She was slim and youthful, curvaceous, in her thin cotton night-gown, limp from many washings.

"Su-u-san!"
 "Coming!"
 Aunt Jessie was grumbling as Susan came into the kitchen. She continued to grumble as she poured coffee from the spout of the old blue enamel pot and slapped thick slices of bread on the toaster. Susan liked thin toast but Aunt Jessie didn't believe in catering to young folks' whims.

"No egg for me, thanks," Susan remonstrated.
 Aunt Jessie began to scold with fresh vigor. "You girls nowadays—never know when you're well off—string bean shades—no vitality!"

Susan had heard it all so many times before that she scarcely listened. She was thinking: If I present my dark blue georgette tonight I'll walk over to Rose's. Post-mortem parties were always rather fun. Maybe the Miltons would tease her about her catch, Ben Lammpan, the young man who had seemed so excited for Susan Carey had never had a beau. Not that she liked the young man particularly. He was too dark and intense and sort of—well, sultry—to attract her. But he was a young man. A potential admirer. She was tired of having the other girls crowd over her. Even a Ben Lammpan, who couldn't even tactfully, would be better than no body!

Thus Susan's thoughts.
 "You're not hearing a word I'm saying," grumbled Aunt Jessie. "Can't think what gets into you these days! I said it 10 past 11 and you'll be late again if you don't run for the car."

Susan came out of her daze and gulped the last of the coffee. She rushed down the hall and flung on her last year's hat. It wasn't at all like the ones in the shop that Her glowing gray eyes, richly curling hair, and the color that came and went fitfully in her heart-shaped face triumphed over the handicap of last year's millinery.

She hurried back into the kitchen to say good-bye to Aunt Jessie. The dishwasher was making an obligat-white teeth in a tanned face. Susan had time to observe the perfection of his white dotted dark blue cravat before the swinging door into the ante-room opened to admit them Mr. Block, head of the school, frowned at them and signaled ominously at the accusing clock in the center of the room.

"Don't worry about it. I'm not permanently injured," the young man had time to whisper before Susan vanished, very much flustered, into the confines of the ladies' dressing room.

The morning passed more quickly than usual. Susan's half-hour of study on the street car stood her in good stead. She passed the spelling tests without an error and Miss Allen was almost affable. To make matters more interesting Robert Dunbar smiled at her as she returned to her seat after a triumphant bout with dictation.

"Made a killing, haven't you?" whispered Helen Marshall, observing the interchange of glances. Susan shook her head, faintly frowning. It wouldn't do to permit the gossiping Helen, friendly as she was to start that sort of talk at the moment.

But at noon as Susan waited for Helen in the downstairs foyer Helen Dunbar intercepted her.
 "Going to lunch?" he inquired pleasantly. It was by way of being purely a rhetorical order of the moment.

Susan smiled at him, her eyes widening under the brim of her dark hat. "I'm waiting for my seatmate," she said. "She couldn't get on the elevator with me."

"Do come along with me, won't you? I have to lunch alone," begged the young man. "It's rather stiff, the way we all stand on ceremony at that dump upstairs. I know your name—and I suppose I hope you know mine."

The girl nodded. "But I must wait for Helen," she protested half-heartedly. The tall young man shrugged. "Don't you do that every day?"

Susan caught her lower lip between her teeth, debating the matter. But the problem was solved for her because at that moment Helen Marshall emerged from a packed car, giggling and talking eagerly to two girls from the advanced class. The three passed out of the lobby without even noticing Susan and her companion.

"There, what did I tell you?" asked the tall young man in the gray suit, masterfully taking Susan's arm. "She's forgotten about you already. Do come along. I'll be everlastingly in your debt. I'm bored with life and need someone to talk to."

Susan was conscious of a tremendous inward excitement. Things did seem to be happening to her all at just when she had given up the glorious possibility! For a split second her mind, automatically trained to this reflex, registered the thought: What would Aunt Jessie say?

She knew Aunt Jessie would not approve. This adventure would come under the head of "Gallivanting with strange young men."

Susan looked up at the young man striding beside her, trying to suit his steps to hers. The girl was no pocket edition Venus, but Robert Dunbar seemed extraordinarily tall.

"Well, what do you say?" Laughing eyes met Susan's gray ones. To the boy it might have seemed the merest casual encounter. To the girl the occasion was one of tremendous drama.

"I'll come," she said shyly. "Good!" Susan liked his clipped voice. He put his hand under her elbow, the nearest suggestion of protective masculinity, at crossings. He steered her into the great doorway of a marble palace.

"This isn't much," Dunbar said in apology. "Lots of gilt and gaudiness, but it's decent and the young man, smiling with a flash of teeth not bad. And we've only three-quarters of an hour."

Susan opened her eyes still wider. "Not bad," indeed! She was for the first time in her young life within the sacred portals of the "Splendide."

Now she hung back looking with dismay at her shabby cat and skirt. "I'm not dressed to lunch here," she faltered, peony-red with confusion.

Young Dunbar took her arm with a gentle but compelling pressure. "Nonsense," he said firmly. "You look charming and you're lunching here with me."

Forrester, Dennis, Hopper Lead Steers To Third Track Meet Victory

Three Swift Boys From Snyder Furnish Thrills At San Angelo But Big Spring Wins Championship

By BLONDY CROSS
 SAN ANGELO—Three very fast young men from Snyder stole the show and produced the thrills for the spectators at Big Spring when they won the championship.

Coach Gordon Bristow's Big Spring High School Steers stacked up 54 points Saturday in the San Angelo invitation track and field tournament. O. M. (Red) Moore's Snyder High School Tigers were runners-up with 35 1-4. Ed Keyes' San Angelo Bobcats breezed in third with 19 points.

Lloyd Forrester, Big Spring field man, carried off the individual high points honors, scoring 19 3-4, but the try's sensational was furnished by Bedford McClintock, Snyder hurdler; Buck Howell, Snyder sprinter, at 100 yard dash, Snyder half-miler.

For the first time in six seasons a San Angelo half-miler has lost a race to a rival West Texan. Forrester, a spectacular all-around drive, distanced Bill Hixson of San Angelo in a game battle. Hixson finished a stride in arrears after courageously beating from behind as he swung into the next to the final turn. The time was 3:42.

McClintock showed the way in both hurdle events, displaying fine speed in the teeth of a head wind, was second in the broad jump and was a member of Snyder's three-place relay team.

Howell led the field in the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes, was third in the broad jump and carried the anchor for Snyder's relay entry.

San Angelo won the relay with Big Spring second, but for a mishap Snyder probably would have finished no worse than second. McClintock, Snyder's starter, gave the Tigers a lead over Sheen of the Bobcats. Hixson, San Angelo, picked up the difference against Burnett of Snyder, but Burnett appeared on the verge of pulling away as they swung down the stretch stride for stride and each in the other's lane. As they shot in to swap the batons, Burnett and Hixson almost collided. The stick was knocked from Hixson's hand and by the time he could stop and retrieve it, Passow of the Bobcats was well on his way and Big Spring was galloping second. Forrester turned in a fine exhibition on the anchor lap, trying to catch Delker of the Conchoans, but he needed a motorcycle. The winning time was 3:42.

Ballinger rode fourth in the team points with eight and a quarter. Mills and Water Valley each scored eight.

Forrester's p-intage came with first in the pole vault, broad jump and high jump along with thirds in the shot put and discus and a split tally in the javelin.

Tack Dennis of Big Spring was the individual runner-up with 16 as result of a first in the shot, second in the high and low hurdles and the discus and a third in the 440. Dennis was figured far out of the race in the 440 as he hit the 440-yard dash—Howell (Snyder), Hixson (Big Spring), Denton (Big Spring), Krink (Sonora). Time 53.4.

George Delker was San Angelo's outstanding with 2 1-4 points. He won the 440, lope second in the 220 and led the Bobcat relay team into first place.

Abilene, one of the pre-tournament favorites, did not participate. The squad as result of an April Fool hockey session that dissatisfied the Abilene high school principal was withdrawn.

Three Swift Boys From Snyder Furnish Thrills At San Angelo But Big Spring Wins Championship

By BLONDY CROSS
 SAN ANGELO—Three very fast young men from Snyder stole the show and produced the thrills for the spectators at Big Spring when they won the championship.

Living Texas Artists

To Be Subject Of City Federation April Meet

"Living Texas Artists" will be the theme of the program which the members of the Arno Art Club will present to the City Federation Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. R. W. Henry and Mrs. David Watt have made exhaustive study of this subject and the meeting promises to follow the informative lines which have characterized the year's program.

Many of the officials of the Federation have expressed a regret that more members do not avail themselves of the opportunity of these educational meetings. They are just what some members have clamored for, who do not yet attend.

A few matters of interest will occupy the business hour, such as the selection of a delegate to the San Angelo club convention to begin on April 18, two weeks from today, in San Angelo.

bank of the Brazos River and nothing would grow out there but cattle; but one industry follows another.

He has seen enough in his lifetime to understand the necessity of one industry following another.
About the time he was born the only industry West Texas supported was that of buffalo hides. When the buffaloes were killed out the ranches sprang up and the cattlemen considered the ground consecrated to cattle-grazing. Fences and the farmers were making the big-boned, wiry longhorns an unprofitable business venture about the time he moved from Hill county to Howard county. Farmers were growing cotton to the amazement of the East but they were growing nothing else and the land was being quickly robbed of its fertility.

Hereford Cattle

Doc's brothers, Sam and George, were already in Howard county when he came out and their interest was in cattle. That became his also. He saw at once that better cattle would have to be produced if Texas was to maintain her reputation as the leading cattle state.
He became interested in the movement to introduce Hereford cattle and interbreed the Texas range cattle with the heavy 2000-pound beef cattle whose origin is traced to the borderland of Belgium.

He started at once to practice what he was preaching. Today he has, what has been called one of the finest herds of Hereford cattle in the world.

The comparatively mild climate of West Texas and the fertility of the soil combine to make this section an ideal location for raising matured cattle he believes. Feed can be produced more cheaply in this section than anywhere else in the United States. The same amount of feed that would be needed just to winter cattle in the northern states would be sufficient in West Texas to have them fat and ready for market in the spring.

Doc is among the ranchmen of Texas who are enthusiastically behind the Hereford-Feeder movement. In fact to him the organization is due its name.

Packing House At Home

He also advocates having one's own packing houses near home.
If the farmers and ranchmen, he says, would slaughter their beef at home they would be doing a good turn for the consumer, as well as for themselves. The consumer would get a superior quality of beef instead of having to buy beef that is fattened purely for market purposes.

"There is something wrong with a system in which the consumer cannot purchase in his own market, the products of his country that are raised just outside his doorstep," Mr. Caudle maintains.

Mr. Caudle is already selling his beef to local markets in Big Spring stores. People who have once eaten it always go back for more.

When the West Texas stockman-farmer has learned to grow the best feed from his land to support the best breed of cattle, West Texas, Doc declares, will bring prosperity and fame to this section that will equal and surpass that of the corn-growing states of the middle West.

self. If you have an efficient man your government is equipped with the most effective agency yet devised or municipal governments. I you do not have an efficient man the city manager plan is criticized, along with the city manager himself and the men who happen to be city commissioners at the time, and it is then that the people suffer.

Flowers for the living being our motto we express the pride and satisfaction that we are sure is felt by the great majority of citizens of Big Spring when we say that every resident of Big Spring owes our present city manager a debt of gratitude for the manner in which he has directed the operation of our municipal affairs.

How many towns are there that can show an annual report like the one issued Monday by our city secretary? Mr. Spence, taking office in the midst of the fiscal year, foresees that tax collections would be below normal, sliced $25,000 from the budget for the remainder of the fiscal year.

In spite of that expenses kept within receipts—well within the budget—through the entire year.

At the same time our city government has done more to relieve unemployment than all other agencies combined.

It has reduced the number of employees practically none at all; it has kept wages at a level nearer that of "boom times" than any city in this section of the country.

We should be thankful for this.
We are sure that the unbiased, unselfish, unassuming citizen will be thankful and appreciative.

We have observed in the past in this column that there are dozens of men in town who would make good city commissioners. In our city government there are two major conditions necessary for successful administration of public affairs: 1. A commission possessing sound business judgment that will deal with all citizens in like manner; 2. A city manager possessed of ability economically, honestly and efficiently to administer city affairs, with a commission willing at all times to support him in every sound and wise effort he puts forth.

No man serves as city commissioner except at a loss of time and energy and never without being subjected to a great volume of criticism, no matter what he does or fails to do. Therefore, no city commissioner who, having been elected by the people themselves, does his best to serve well, should be continually and consistently subjected to personal abuse from the people.

On the other hand, we should cooperate with city commissioners in every way possible. They serve practically without remuneration.
The things they have to solve and the things that confront them if handled in private life would cost a great deal for salary alone. Not one out of 100 citizens would perform the duties they perform for any meager salary.

The Herald always has endeavored to cooperate with city officials in everything deemed worthy and wise. This is done without regard to who the commissioners may be at any given time. It is done because it is best for the community.

It matters not what a man's private business may be, how much or how little of this world's goods he may possess, where he was born, where he has lived—if he makes the sacrifices every man who serves as commissioner must make, if he does the job well he merits the thanks of his fellow citizens.

After all, if you'll check back into your own realm of observation and experience you will find that usually the man who is hunted by the job makes a lot better official than the man who chronically hunts the job.

Damage Suit Filed
As Result Of Boys'
Tunnel Under Bank

ABILENE.—New litigation has grown out of the "tunnel job" case.
Digging of the long shaft from the J. M. Radford building at 94 North First street, which resulted in filing of felony conspiracy charges against four young men, led also to institution of a damage suit against one of the four.

Attorneys for J. M. Radford yesterday filed the suit, asking judgment of $500, against Malcolm W.
Foster. The defendant was identified by Radford as the man who this month called on him in reference to renting the building which is situated immediately behind the Citizens bank.

A writ of garnishment against the Citizens bank, in connection with an asserted account of Foster in the institution, also was filed.
Both proceedings were instituted in the county court.

Petition in the damage suit asserted it will be necessary to refil-the tunnel to prevent collapse of the building, and that repair and reconstruction work will entail an expense of $500.

Foster, with Rupert (Butcher)
Black, Edwin A. Rice and E. Oliver Black, yesterday remained in custody while their attorneys, Ben L.
Cox and J. P. Stinson went about arranging bond. Arraignment of the four, on charges of conspiracy to burglarize the Citizens bank and conspiracy to violate liquor laws probably will occur today.

The attorneys said they had given up an original plan of demanding habeas corpus plan of proceedings for their clients, and would make their bonds before appearance before Justice Carl P. Hulsey.

The conspiracy charge is a felony and in event of conviction would bring a penitentiary sentence of two to five years. Bond in such cases is usually fixed at from $750 to $1,500.

Investigation of the case is being pushed. It will be passed to the grand jury. The 104th court grand jury was recently discharged after completing its work. The grand jury of 42nd court will be empaneled here April 18. It was not thought likely a special grand jury would be called.

Odessa Bank
Thrown Open

ODESSA.—The opening of the First National Bank of Odessa Saturday morning ended a period of approximately a year during which Odessa and the surrounding territory has been bankless, and the citizens of this area celebrated.
The new bank, organized by Judge T. G. Hendrick of Odessa and associates, opened in the building occupied by the former Citizens National Bank, in the heart of the business section. It is generally believed that the opening of a bank here at this time will mean much to the business of this immediate territory.

Not only Odessa will benefit from the use of a bank here, but citizens of nearby towns, who formerly did their banking here, will find the use of a bank so close to their businesses will be of benefit.
Odessa business men left Friday afternoon for a trip to Crane, visiting with the business men and citizens of that city, and inviting them to come here to do their banking.
Saturday, when the bank opened, people from all over this area joined in the celebration.

The officers of the new bank, as announced, include: T. G. Hendrick, president; Wickliff Skinner, vice president; W. B. Rees, cashier, and J. C. Hamilton, assistant cashier. Ewell McKnight, R. T. Waddell and W. H. Rhodes are directors. A number of other local people are included among the stockholders.

Do you always — GET WHAT YOU ASK FOR
when you shop?

When you shop, do you always get your favorite packaged products—the ones you ask for?

Or do you sometimes yield to the persuasion of insistent clerks and let them sell you, instead, other products which they claim are "just as good?"

If you have ever purchased these "just as good" brands, you know how frequently such unfamiliar products disappoint you. Compared with the brands you know and like and ask for, these others often fail to give you the money's worth which you have every right to expect.

Why, then, should any clerk ever urge you to buy them? Usually there is only one reason. But for your own protection, bear it constantly in mind.

Whenever you find any store continually urging you to buy strange products in place of the dependable brands you ask for, this is generally true: The merchant reaps an extra profit, or his clerk a commission, by switching you to the unknown, often inferior merchandise!

Many of the best stores everywhere forbid this practise. When you buy from them you are always sure of getting exactly what you ask for,
with full value in the merchandise you want for every penny you spend.

But if you are urged to buy something "just as good" as the thing you ask for, refuse it! Insist on products you know by experience, or by reputation. Such products are often advertised in this newspaper. Get the brands you ask for, and you'll avoid many a disappointment!

Merchandisers Bulletins

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation, today announced that on April 2 the Corporation will launch perhaps the most gigantic program ever attempted by an industrial enterprise to stimulate business when it opens simultaneously national exhibits of its many products in 55 leading cities. The exhibits, carrying the theme "Work for Many Hands," will continue through April 9.

I. each of the 55 cities the Corporation has engaged the largest available auditorium for the exhibit. The halls have an aggregate floor area of more than 1,000,000 square feet. The theme of the exhibits will be symbolized by two mammoth hands flanking the entrance. These will show the manifold activities of the motor car industry, and how it draws raw materials from every state. Seventy leading orchestras have been engaged for the exhibit.

Mr. Sloan, in announcing the plan, said: "This program was conceived and has been developed as a direct and aggressive attack upon existing psychology—the prevailing attitude of mind of waiting for something to happen before anything is done. As long as this attitude of mind prevails, we are bound to go downward. When it changes we are bound to start upward. There are too many who can afford to buy but who lack confidence or believe it to be the thing not to do. There are also too many who have in mind doing something constructive but are waiting to do it some time later."

"To my mind the automobile industry as a whole has shown great aggressiveness and courage in investing, tens of millions of dollars, in new and progressive products, resulting in by far the greatest values ever offered and probably greater relative values than can be offered for many years to come. If this act could only be appreciated and capitalized by those who are in a position to do so by purchasing, this industry—the greatest in the country, distributing as it does its purchasing power throughout every state in the Union—would broadcast a wave of increased industrial activity which through its accumulative effect would exert a far-flung influence toward reaching the necessary objective."

"General Motors makes its contribution toward this objective in the form of these national-wide exhibitions with the firm belief that a better appreciation of the above facts is bound to be a forward step in the direction that we must go."

The exhibits will consist of a representative line of the more than 150 different models of General Motors cars; various automotive accessories; household appliances manufactured by the Corporation, such as vacuum cleaners, electric fans and iceless refrigeration units; and water and lighting systems for farms.

Among the cities selected for the central exhibits are: Dallas—Fair Park; El Paso—Convention Hall; Houston—Sam Houston Hall; San Antonio—St. Anthony Hotel.

Jolly Tacky-April Fool's Party Given

Boys And Girls In At Odd Contests And Have Great Fun

One of the jolliest April Fool and Tacky parties was that held Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. McCreary when their daughters, Elizabeth and Louise were hostesses to the members of the Intermediate class of the East Ward Union Sunday school and the Gideon Band of First Christian Sunday school.

The guests entered through the back door into a darkened room, where they stumbled over all sorts of obstacles and encountered scary jokers before reaching the main room.

The rooms were decorated with bouquets of vegetables, a graceful collection of carrots and onions centering the table and celery in vases being used for other decorations.

The prizes for the tackiest costumes for the boys went to Clarence Harris and Hattie Ann Hooser and for the girls to Earnestine Golley. A series of lively games and contests were carried on in which Winnie Mary Hull had the widest grin and Joe John Gilmer and Harvey Hooser won the "Foot race."

An enjoyable feature of the evening was the radio music produced by William McCreary over his own radio. His excellent singing was greatly enjoyed.

The guests were first served crackers and April Fool's punch. After more games, delicious ice cream and cake were served. Mrs. McCreary was assisted in the service by her daughter, Miss Mary Carroll and Earnestine Golley.

The guests were Amanda Leigh Nelson, Ruth Bugg, Charlene Fenton, Winnie Mary Hull, Ella Neel Harris, Hattie Ann Hooser, Barbies Alvis, James and William McCreary, John Coldiron, James Stiff, Dee Carter, Boyce Barber, Joe John Gilmer, Harvey and Hartman Hooser, Steve Baker, Jr., and Mrs. J. R. Creath, teacher of the Gideon Band.

Nature Of Sivil Suit In County Court Shown

The Herald is glad to point out the nature of a civil suit filed in county court recently wherein the West Texas National bank is plaintiff and R. L. Gomillion garnishee in a suit for garnishment.

The suit was brought by the bank for the purpose of garnishing funds paid by Mr. Gomillion to a third party—the bank holding a claim against said third party.

The bank alleges no claim against Mr. Gomillion, having filed the suit only for the purpose of conserving funds paid by Mr. Gomillion to his person against which the bank does allege a claim.

Cole Not Chairman Of Community Chest

Mr. Cole, sales manager of the Southern Ice and Utilities company, already is serving as chairman of the Howard county Red Cross chapter. He said that he could not devote sufficient time to the Community Chest work without neglecting other duties.
