U.S. Soldiers Are Victims As Planes Crash

(By The Associated Press)

THE loss of nine airplanes within the past two days accounted last night for 33 dead and 46 missing.

All those killed and 20 of those missing were the victims of crashed or lost U. S. military planes.

One was a giant B-29 bomber which tore into a mountain in England Wednesday killing 13. A second Superfortress crashed the same day shortly after taking off in the Azores, killing 18. One person is missing and another was injured in the Azores crash.

Three Missing In Month

A Navy long-range bomber with at least seven aboard was reported missing off the coast of Washington. Military headquarters said "either seven or nine men" were aboard.

A Navy patrol plane carrying 12 men was reported lost in the Aleutian area Wednesday night.

A Pacific Alaska airlines transport with 11 persons aboard was reported missing on a flight from Yakutat, Alaska, to Annette island.

The French press agency said in Paris a French military transport with 15 aboard was missing in Indo-China on a flight from France to the Far East.

An American jet fighter crashed and burned in the center of the German resort town of Garmish, killing the pilot.

Others Land Safely

Another U. S. fighter, an F-47, struck a tree while landing near Neubiburg, Germany. The pilot was lightly hurt.

The Denver civil aeronautics administrator said a plane carrying three church of God ministers made a forced landing today 42 miles north of Wamsutter, Wyo.

The CAA said it was informed that "they are all right."

Those aboard were the Rev. Guy Klapp and bishops Grady R. Kent and D. H. Queener, all of the Church of God, Cleveland, Tenn.

Apartment Zone Request Denied

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Avalanche Staff Writer

Members of City Planning commission, meeting in regular session Thursday night at the City hall, rejected a request from Carl E. Maxey and business associates for placing block 2, Thirty-Fourth Street Second addition, encompassing territory between Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth streets and College Ave. and Ave. X, in a zone which would allow construction of a 46-unit apartment house.

The request, which was held over from the commission's Oct. 7 meeting for further study, was rejected on the grounds that numbers of homeowners bought property there and have established their homes in that neighborhood with the belief that it was a residential zone which barred apartment dwelling units, and that these homeowners had bought with the expectation that such a residential zone it would remain.

Maxey and Vernon Thompson appeared at the meeing on behalf of the zone change request. Approximately 30 homeowners who maintain residences in that area appeared in opposition to the requested change. Eugene Guyer, spokesman for the latter group, presented their case with reasons for the group's opposition. Others who spoke as opposing the change were J. Herbert Priddy, Weldon Gibbs, and C. M. Chandler. Points brought out by the opposition group included traffic hazards for children attending the nearby P. F. Brown school and devaluation of property.

Thompson and Maxey, speaking for their proposed project, pointed out need for additional housing in Lubbock and stressed that the apartment building planned would

Freezing Weather Forecast For Today

Cold Weather Will Continue In Area

Lubbock and South Plains residents donned heavy clothing and turned up stoves Thursday night as a biting cold front swept over the area for what the weatherman said would be a long weekend visit.

The temperature had sagged to 38 degrees at 12:30 a.m. this morning and the Weather bureau said there was a possibility that the mercury would skid to 32 or 33 degrees early today.

High Wind Hits Area

It was not known whether the drop would bring a killing frost or not. There have been light frosts thus far this year, but no great damage has been reported.

Freezing weather definitely was in prospect for the area tonight and early Saturday morning as the cold front, which swept out of the Pacific Northwest and over a wide section of the nation moved over the South Plains and on downstate about noon Friday. The dropping temperatures were made more disagreeable by a bitter northwest wind that at one time reached a velocity of 31 miles an hour Friday afternoon.

The wind had abated somewhat early today but continued to bring a chill to pedestrians.

Hits At Noon

The first blast of cold air from the Pacific swept over Lubbock about 12:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. From a 12:30 reading of 70 degrees the mercury plunged 32 degrees in 12 hours. Sand swept along in front of the wintry blast. Late in the afternoon, a cold rain cut through Lubbock and streets and fell at scattered points over the surrounding area. The Weather Bureau measured .03 inches for the fall which ended early in the night.

For the benefit of South Plains football fans, the Weatherman at the station north of the city said at midnight that this afternoon's and tonight's contests would probably be played under clearing but definitely cold skies. The cold wave is expected to continue with even a lower drop in temperatures Saturday.

To Continue Until Sunday

"We do not expect any kind of definite upward trend before Sunday at the latest," the Weather

Americans Warned To Leave Northern Sections Of China

(By The International News Service)

NANKING, Nov. 5. (Friday)—Americans living in several sections of China today were warned to consider evacuation in the face of military developments in North China.

The American embassy in Nanking circularized a letter today to all Americans in the Nanking-Pukow area and environs saying "military developments in North China make it appear possible that hostilities may spread further south with the result that normal transportation facilities between Nanking and its environs and the sea may be disrupted."

The letter added:

"Also with the approach of winter and the increasingly shortage of food and fuel supplies, those remaining in Nanking and its environs may be subjected to undue hardships."

The letter concluded by saying:

"Accordingly it is suggested that unless you have compelling reasons to remain, you should consider the desirability of evacuation while normal transportation facilities remain available."

A similar letter has been circularized by the American consul general at Shanghai to American citizens living in Anhwei and Kiangsu provinces.

Truman Returns To Capital For Hero's Welcome Today

HST To Push Demo Pledges

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Victorious Harry Truman marches in triumph back to Washington tomorrow to toss a 1948-model New Deal program at the next Congress.

Returns still straggling in from Tuesday's amazing election made it clearer than ever that the national legislature convening in January will have a new Democratic look. From that Congress he can expect more sympathy and respect, for himself and his proposals, than he ever got from the 80th, Republican Congress he pounded all over the country.

And as he rode eastward by special train from his Independence, Mo., home, Mr. Truman brought no "malice" toward the man he beat or those who predicted a Dewey victory.

After weeks of gruelling campaigning, the Chief Executive still hadn't run down. His momentum produced more talks to crowds at railroad stations along his route. He thanked the people who helped elect him.

Now there was no need to slap at Dewey or take a punch at Congress.

Yet there was no complete assurance he would have his way completely with the new Congress which takes over Jan. 3.

Battered Republicans are sure to put up almost a solid front against his domestic program. For the most part, the same GOP leaders will be in control of party forces, men like Robert Taft, of Ohio and Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska in the Senate, Joseph W. Martin, of Massachusetts and Charles A. Halleck of Indiana in the House.

At his North Attleboro, Mass. home, Martin said he personally would be "glad to cooperate" with Mr. Truman "to solve our problems and build a stronger and better America."

He said the election outcome

Election Shows South's Power

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 4. (INS)—Southern leaders declared tonight the presidential election enabled the south to prove it holds a balance of political power.

The southern leaders also expressed hope that both major parties will remember Dixie's potency at the polls.

Ellis Arnall, former Georgia governor, declared that President Truman's sensational victory could not have been achieved without the south's support.

Arnall Predicted Win

Arnall, who predicted that Mr. Truman would win, told International News service:

"It would not be just nor right to discount or disparage his southern support, without which Mr. Truman could not have won."

Sen. George (D-Ga) pointed out the proof that Mr. Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey both needed southern support to win. He said:

"The election this year certainly shows beyond doubt that the southern vote is tremendously important to Democrats as well as Republicans.

"The results clearly show that had Mr. Truman not carried as

China Marshals Best Troops To Meet Communist Drive

NANKING, Nov. 4. (AP)—The Chinese government was marshaling its best remaining frontline forces in central China today to block any Communist drive south toward the Yangtze river.

Key to the situation was Suchow, major government base only 170 miles north of this capital.

It was estimated more than 400,000 government troops were massed in that general area. These were described as mediocre but the best remaining to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek after Communist victories in Manchuria and North China in the past month.

PACT IS OKAYED

PARIS, Nov. 4 (AP)—American and French official sources said tonight the general principles of the North Atlantic security pact have been accepted tentatively by the U. S., Canada and the five western European union nations —Britain, France, Belgium, Luxembourg and Holland.

HEAVY SPENDING PROGRAM DOOMS TAX CUT TALK

President Expected To Submit $44 Billion Budget To Democratic Congress For Next Fiscal Year

By FELIX COTTEN
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—President Truman is expected to submit to the Democratic Congress in January a spending program totaling $44 billion for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The figure may go higher than that, especially if the new Congress increases federal salaries and military pay and the international situation results in new spending programs abroad. There is little chance that it will be much lower.

Any prospect of a new tax cut, remote even if Gov. Dewey had been elected, is now gone with the wind.

Mr. Truman has vigorously fought Republican tax-cut proposals. The tax reduction bill enacted last spring was passed by the Republican-controlled 80th Congress over his veto.

He is for lower taxes only when international tension is eased, inflation subsides and government spending is reduced. All these are interlinked and all point upward.

The Republican platform pledged still lower taxes. But Rep. Knutson (R-Minn), chairman of the Ways and Means committee in the 80th congress and now defeated for reelection, had said recently that tax reduction would

Soft Words-- No Wallop

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Some of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's top advisers urged him from the start to wage the slugging kind of campaign that helped elect President Truman.

They thought it would be a grave mistake to do anything else.

But they were over-ridden by a majority of the "Dewey team," including the defeated Republican candidate himself, who favored a "high level" campaign based on a "unite America" theme.

None of the minority group is saying now that the stunning outcome of the election can be laid entirely to that decision.

But they all believe it was a big factor.

And what does Dewey think? He says:

"We waged a clean, constructive campaign and I have no regrets whatsoever."

Copied FDR Tactics

That does not necessarily mean he would not go about it differently if he had it to do over again.

What was behind his decision to concentrate on such things as "the dignity of man" and the "glorious future of America" while his Democratic opponent was talking about the Republican "gluttons of privilege" and the "idiot" 80th Congress?

Essentially, it was a decision born of complete confidence that Dewey's election could be taken for granted.

The reasoning was that Dewey did not have to slug this time—at least not very hard.

It was a strategy deliberately copied from the 1944 campaign of the late President Roosevelt.

Then, Mr. Roosevelt's tactics were largely to ignore Dewey, his opponent.

Dewey started this campaign on that tack, and throughout he never mentioned Mr. Truman by name—never even used the words

Five Maryland Coal Miners Are Killed By Smoke Fumes

KITZMILLER, Md., Nov. 4 (INS)—Five miners died of smoke fumes today when fire broke out at the entrance to the Nethkem coal mine near Kitzmiller.

Rescuers wearing gas masks found the bodies about 200 feet from the shaft entrance.

One of the dead, Robert Jackson, 24, of Kitzmiller, was at the mine entrance when the fire broke out, but went in to warn the others.

Other dead were Charles Kifer, 51, of Mount Storm, W. Va., and three brothers, Herman, Clarence and Martin Keller, of Kitzmiller.

The fire broke out in a gasoline engine in the "fan house," which provided ventilation for the mine.

Boys Club Meet Will Open Today

Executive directors and other leaders of Boys club activities in Texas will participate in day-long sessions in Lubbock today in the fall semi-annual meeting of the Texas area council of the Boys Clubs of America.

Discussion meetings open at 10 o'clock this morning in the Pine room of Lubbock hotel, continue through the day and the program ends with a banquet in the hotel at 7 o'clock tonight.

Everett McCullough of Wichita Falls, president of the Texas area council, is to arrive this morning. He will preside at the discussion session beginning at 10 a. m.

Leader In Program

A heavy contributor to Boys club work, he has been on the board of directors of the Wichita Falls club since 1939. He was named chairman of the Texas Area council at its inception in 1945-1946 and has been re-elected twice.

McCullough is a graduate of Indiana university and received a master's degree from Columbia university, where he was an All-American on the basketball team. He operates oil well supply, oil producing businesses and farms. He has been a member of Rotary club 24 years, is also active in chamber of commerce, Community chest and other work.

Others present at the meeting include executive directors of

See BOYS CLUB Page 10

This first major decision in the Assembly's 1948 session was taken over bitter Russian protests. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky said there was no point in new consultations on atomic control since no basis for East-West agreement exists.

He discribed the western plan as fantastic and unreal. It would leave the economic life of other states at the "tender mercies" of a control organ which would be controlled by the United States, Vishinsky charged.

Soviet Proposal Defeated

By a show of hands the Assembly approved the western plan 40 to 6. Four nations— India, South Africa, Afganistan and Venezuela—abstained. Negative votes were cast by the Soviet bloc.

Representatives of the western powers defeated a Soviet counterproposal and an Indian attempt to soften their stand.

Meanwhile, the United Nations Security Council in a resolution called on Israel to withdraw from position won in the recent offensive in southern Palestine. This action was taken after adoption of an American amendment to a resolution eliminating any threat of sanctions.

It was the first American move in the Palestine case since Tuesday's election. An authoritative source said Washington was notified in advance and "presumably" the general principles embodied in the U. S. amendments were shown to President Truman.

Atomic Controls Approved

An Israeli spokesman attacked the proposed amendments, declaring they were the same "in spirit and effect" as the original British-

Thomas Refuses To Testify Before Jury

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. (AP)—Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) who had demanded the right to appear before a federal grand jury investigating alleged irregularities in the congressional payroll today refused to testify.

The New Jersey legislator had specified he should not appear until after the Nov. 2 election.

On advice of his counsel Thomas "reluctantly" declined to testify today in his five-minute appearance before the grand jury.

Thomas, reelected Tuesday, is retiring chairman of the House Committee on un-American activities. He will give way to a Democrat.

Thomas' refusal to testify recalled the tactics employed by several witnesses before his House committee who declined on constitutional grounds to say whether they had Communist ties.

WITH TRUMAN ENROUTE TO WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Word that President Truman is not interested in a third term or in any "reprisal" dismissals from his cabinet was passed to newsmen today by sources close to the victorius Chief Executive.

These informants said he is content to let his record in history rest on his administration during the next four years.

The smiling President, in addressing a crowd at St. Louis, had voiced a plea that the people "stand behind me."

Meanwhile, persons close to the President gave this picture of his present feelings and plans:

He feels he should concentrate on "securing the peace" and strengthening the domestic economy.

Restores Sagging Party

Mr. Truman's fighting spirit was kindled by those who tried to sidetrack him before the last Democratic convention. With all its burdens, he wanted a second term in his own right. He feels he has been vindicated by his astounding upset victory.

He not only won a victory for himself and helped elect a Democratic Congress but he restored a weak and sagging party.

He thinks he will have an opportunity during the next four years to revitalize that party and help build up leaders to carry it on in the years ahead.

As for his cabinet, there will be no abrupt dismissals based on lack of interest in the campaign.

John W. Snyder, secretary of the treasury and one of his closest friends, will be pressed to remain on.

James V. Forrestal, secretary of defense, will not be pressed to stay.

Nor will Robert A. Lovett, undersecretary of state, who is planning to leave soon anyway.

Secretary of State George Marshall indicated at Paris that he

Rings Reported Stolen At Tech

Two platinum rings, valued at $750 and $75, were stolen from a third-floor room in one of the buildings on Texas Technological college campus Thursday, Mrs. R. O. Short of 2013 Fourteenth street told police.

Mrs. Short, an instructor in music at the college, said the rings were pinned to the inside of a billfold which was taken from the room.

Police Thursday were asked to investigate two thefts of clothing valued at $181.

Velma Key of 2108 Ave. U said a long list of clothing was taken from her residence.

J. M. Mecklin of Dallas reported $81 in clothing stolen from his car parked in 1000-block Main.

Mexican Is Held

Police said Thursday morning they were holding Eliseo Padilla, 35, a Lubbock Mexican, for Big Spring authorities who had broadcast a pickup order, qualifying their investigation by saying he was wanted for questioning into assault with intent to murder.

No further details had been received by police.

Trouble Over Woman

Padilla, the district attorney's office said, had been charged with murder in connection with the Sept. 17, 1947, fatal shooting at a Mexican fiesta here of Moren G. Bitela, but was not indicted by a July term, 1947, grand jury of the 99th district court. Testimony, it was brought out by investigators, disclosed that Bitela had fired at Padilla first. The trouble, they said, was over a woman.

Police arrested the man in a small hotel after locating his car on a Lubbock street soon after picking up a broadcast from Big

HIGH WIND PUSHES BLAZE ON FIVE MILE SWEEP

200 Homes Destroyed, 2,000 Persons Evacuated As Brush Fire Sweeps Down Los Angeles Canyon

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4. —More than 200 homes were reported destroyed tonight by a brush fire sweeping down Topanga canyon toward the Pacific ocean.

Hundreds of residents had left the area, some of them burned out and others abandoning their property to the advancing flames.

Officers were evacuating the residents of Fernwood, estimated by officers at upwards of 2,000, as the fire reached within half a mile of that area, still pushed by a high wind.

In its five mile sweep down the canyon from Woodland Hills, where the fire started early this afternoon, it had swept over an area of more than 10 square miles.

No deaths had been reported, and only minor injuries. An elderly man was reported missing.

Capt. Pete Sutton of the Malibu sheriff's substation said 100 homes were destroyed in the Sylvia Park area, and another 50 in the Topanga Oakes tract to the south.

Deputy Sheriff Hiram Martin reported another 50 or 60 homes were destroyed in Mineral Springs, about three miles below Sylvia Park.

Many of the burned homes are summer cottages, but others are more pretentious year-round residences of half a dozen rooms or more. Some were built at a cost of $25,000.

More than 600 men, including all available fire squads from the San Fernando valley and Santa Monica areas, were on the fire line within two hours. Scores more were pouring in from outlying stations. It was the county's worst fire of the season, and threatened to slop over into canyons in the Santa Monica mountains.

There was no immediate danger to homes of film stars in the Malibu colony, or to mansions located along the Pacific coast highway.

Soviets Holding Thousands In Forced Labor Camps In Europe

By ANATOLI KOMSARENKO
Written for United Press

MUNICH, Nov. 4—I have spent the last six years of my life in forced labor camps—three in Nazi Germany and three in Soviet Russia.

I was fourteen when the Germans picked me up in Kiev and sent me to Esslingen to work. After the war Soviet repatriation officers came to the UNRRA camp and asked us to return. They said they had wonderful jobs for us. I decided to go because I wanted to see my parents and my younger brother.

When we got to Poland we realized something was wrong. Russian soldiers got on the train to guard us with machine guns. The train went to Kiev all right but I didn't get to see my family. All of us were taken directly to prison barracks.

The camp was Salominka, just outside Kiev. The sign over the camp entrance said "German Labor Camp," and we were ordered to speak only German. We didn't know why. The guards also spoke German. They were Russian girl paratroopers from the last war, and they carried machine pistols.

Days Were Long

Then we were put to work in the mines fourteen hours a day. The older men wasted away. When I became so ill I could not work, they sent me to the hospital. When I got well, they sent me to a new camp. There we dug a new subway on the outskirts of Kiev.

I wanted to write to my family but letters were not permitted.

We were questioned regularly, and we usually got beatings with the questioning. They told us we had to "make up for our mistakes."

Once a week we had to attend lectures. They told us in the lectures that workers in Western Europe always were beaten and forced to work against their will. They said, "While you were in the West, it was war, but now it still worse than before the war."

We knew if we stayed we would work until we were dead, so we always looked for a chance to escape. Eight of us made our plans together. On the evening of September 8, when some of us were taken to the woods to gather timber we made a break. The guards shot one and the others then surrendered—all but me. I hid under the roots of a big tree and they didn't find me.

Family Was Gone

When it was dark I went into Kiev to see my family. The apartment house where we lived was nothing but rubble. I was afraid to talk to the neighbors so I left. I don't know wheher my parents and brother are alive or not.

The next seven days and nights I walked toward the Polish border. I had nothing to eat until I got to Vinniza where a woman gave me a hundred rubles—almost as much as a worker earns in a month. I bought fried chicken which cost twenty rubles.

Three days later I got to Brest-Litovsk and during the night I swam across the Oder. I wanted to go back to the UNRRA camp but they told me in Germany they didn't have them any more. So I went out to Munich.

Our camp was different from most of the labor camps we heard about in Russia. Others are much larger. In the Ukraine they are built near work projects. There may be forty camps with two hundred thousand prisoners on one work project. These people were arrested inside the country because they were "enemies of the regime." We were just a small group of expatriates who had accepted the government's invitation to return home of our own free will.

Texas Restaurant Men Are Told That Price 'Honeymoon Is Over'

DALLAS, Nov. 4. (U.P.)—Ralph B. Smith, a Toledo, O., restaurant owner, warned 400 members of the Texas Restaurant association today that "the time has come to pinch pennies."

Smith told the Fair Park audience that "the prices of the lush war years are over."

"Now," he pointed out, "we must cut corners because we are faced with a loss of volume in trade along with higher prices."

"So, I say," he continued, "the honeymoon is over. It is time now to remember the lost coin—the penny."

The answer, Smith thought, lay in reducing costs to a minimum. And he suggested that restaurant owners could help themselves keep the margin of profit close to normal by utilizing their employes better, installing better machinery, and keeping a "closer check on margin-eating incidental expenses."

Another speaker, James C. Taylor, marketing professor at the University of Houston, agreed with Smith, but added that a top source of profits lay in better employe morale.

The three-day meeting is scheduled to end tomorrow.

Smith made his kill involuntarily while trying to fly his Corsair fighter plane out of the path of a south-bound flock of geese at 2,000 feet.

Louisiana Definitely For States' Righters

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 4 (AP)—There was no doubt left today that Louisiana had gone for the States' Rights ticket in the presidential election.

With 1,084 of the state's 1884 precincts reported, the States' Rights Democratic nominee, Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, led President Truman 129,407 votes to 86,083 on the unofficial count. Thomas Dewey, Republican, had 54,411 and Henry A. Wallace, Progressive, 2214.

The two Democrats who had Republican opposition for seats in the national Congress appeared elected.

In the race for the Senate, Russell Long, son of the late Sen. Huey P. Long, led Clem Clarke, 172,605 votes to 75,781. These totals included 974 precincts—more than half those in the state.

NO MORE PEP THAN A FENCE POST

Why are some people always tired, pale and "half-alive"—while others fairly bubble with pep and energy?

There can be lots of reasons, of course. But a pale face and a colorless, listless personality are often the result of weak faded red blood cells. If that's your trouble, you may have a Borderline Anemia—due to a ferro-nutritional deficiency of the blood. Medical studies show that up to 68% of women—many men and children—have this tiring blood condition.

Weariness and pallor have many causes—always consult your doctor regularly. But if you have this Borderline Anemia, remember: Ironized Yeast Tablets can help you reclaim your vitality and healthy good looks. They are specially formulated to help build up faded, shrunken and fagged-out blood cells. To feel better—to look better—to act alert and alive—try IRONIZED YEAST TABLETS!

REDS MAKE HITLER'S MISTAKES

Soviet Pressure On Scientists May Delay Atom Bomb Research

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Russia, in her efforts to produce an atomic bomb, is making the mistake of the Nazis in regimenting scientific thought and effort.

So declares U. S. Senator Brien McMahon (D-Connecticut) principal author of the atomic control act and former chairman of the Senate Atomic committee, in the following article written exclusively for International News Service.

Sen. McMahon tells of his conviction that because Soviet scientists are forced to kow-tow to the party line above all else, they cannot match American research and this country can preserve its present advantage while exploring all avenues toward "atomic peace.")

By BRIEN McMAHON
(Written Expressly For INS)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 — Russia seems to be making science and scientists kow-tow to the Communist party line.

In subordinating the laboratory to ideology, she may be committing the same fatal blunders which raised havoc with Nazi science and helped bring about Germany's defeat in World War II.

America's wartime atomic energy project was a classic example of our own country's greatness because it brought together innumerable men of varied religion, creed, and racial background and mobilized them in a concerted, brotherly, co-operative undertaking.

German Scientists Fled

These diverse groups made it possible for our country to achieve the miracle of the bomb, which shortened the war in the Pacific and thereby saved hundreds of thousands and perhaps millions of lives.

These diverse groups are making possible today's progress toward harnessing the atom for peaceful purposes and also are making possible the weapons development which is a temporary necessity.

Contrast this fusing of many groups into one great team with the record of our chief enemy in World War II—Nazi Germany. Because of political persecution Einstein, Haber, Schrodinger, and many others of superlative ability fled the country.

Through the loss of such men German science commenced to deteriorate rapidly from 1933 onward. The Nazi virus communicated itself to those German scientists who remained and, led by the notorious Johannes Stark, they actually attempted to discredit the theory of relativity and the wave-mechanical theory.

Arrogance Hurt Research

The remaining German scientists attempted to discredit these fundamental theories because their originators had been largely men of Jewish descent. This subordination of science to ideological dogma, this routing out of all individuals whom the Nazis considered to be racially inferior, produced its inevitable consequence.

Germany not only failed to produce an atomic bomb; she also failed to make progress along lines which might eventually have led to an atomic bomb. Even further, the arrogance induced by Nazi ideology caused German scientists to suppose that they were far ahead of others in the race for atomic power.

That is one of the grim penalties Germany paid by reason of her criminal attempt to single out one group as superior and to brand all other men as subhuman animals.

Today we find ourselves confronted by a new challenge, that of totalitarian Russia. On our ability to remain invincibly strong may hinge the issue of war or peace and, indeed, the issue of human survival or extinction.

Soviets Make Same Errors

This means that we must so gird ourselves from a military viewpoint that Russia will not dare attack the free world and will finally see the wisdom of agreeing to a just system of international control of atomic energy.

The reports trickling out of Russia show that she is falling into some of the errors that hamstrung Nazi science.

For instance, we all know about the Soviet controversy over gentics (the science of heredity) and the purging of Soviet scientists who regard heredity as a decisive factor in the make-up of human beings.

There is a recent report of official attacks on Russian geographers and their methods of procedure. It has been said—with justice I think—that Russia could never have been the first nation to manufacture an atom bomb; for it was necessary to risk the making of great mistakes in order to achieve the first atomic bomb.

Discrimination Indicated

Russian scientists would not have dared propose an atomic project for fear of making a mistake which would cost them their lives.

This is the same subordination of science to ideology which disgraced Germany.

Furthermore, it is reported that the Kremlin has discriminated against certain groups solely because of their national or racial background.

The entire populations of the Crimean republic, the Chechen republic, and the Volga-German republic—men, women and children—were ruthlessly uprooted from their homes and transferred to the Arctic regions because of alleged unreliability during the recent war.

These hints as to what is going on behind the iron curtain encourage me to believe that if we maintain the spirit of brotherly co-operation and scientific objectivity in our own atomic energy work, we can preserve our present advantage.

We can use that advantage to buy time—to buy time for exploring all avenues toward atomic peace and United Nations atomic control.

A woman in Norfolk, England, who mislaid her hat in a millinery store the other day, while trying on new hats, eventually found hers in the window, priced $7.

FLED FROM RUSSIA—Piotr Afanasniovic Pirogov, left, and Anatalya Porfirarich Barsof, two Soviet air force officers who fled by plane from Soviet Ukraine, relax at an American airbase in Vienna. The lieutenants are dressed in new American suits provided by the U. S. occupation forces who have given the pair political asylum. The Russians demanded return of the deserters and their plane—only the plane was returned. (NEA Telephoto).

Veterinaries Urge Building Up Of Livestock Herds In Nation

CHICAGO, Nov. 4. (UP)—The American Veterinary Medical Association urges that farmers feed 1948's bumper feed crops to profit-making livestock rather than "unprofitable, feed-wasting stock."

Dr. J. G. Hardenberg, association secretary, said that "even though plenty of feed is available, there is no excuse for waste.

"The best profits can be obtained only by wise culling and feeding practices and other health measures," he said. "If every farmer would devote a day to checking his herds and flocks for 'feed-wasters,' it would mean real economy and added profits during the coming winter and spring."

Americans Spending More For Beverages, Study Indicates

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4 (UP)—American people spend more for beverages than they do for dairy or bakery products, according to Benjamin Wood of the Glass Container Manufacturers Institution.

Wood said figures released by the American Meat Institute show the human system can consume no more than 56 ounces of food at any one given time. However, he claimed, "there is no clear ceiling on what we can drink."

Sales of beverages are at an all-time high and still climbing, he declared.

Grand River Dam Authority Sues Oklahoma Service Firm

VINITA, Okla., Nov. 4. (U.P.)—The Grand River dam authority today sued the Public Service Co. of Oklahoma and its agents for $6,000,000 in an action charging "unlawful and slanderous conspiracy" to block GRDA'S purchase of a war surplus steam-electric plant.

The petition filed in Craig county district court alleged the defendants have issued "slanderous, false, malicious, scandalous, and defamatory charges and remarks" that hindered negotiations for the Oklahoma ordnance works steam plant between Pryon and Choteau.

The petition alleged Purcell Smith, named as a $65,000-per-year Washington lobbyist for the National Association of Electric Companies, was used as an agent in the campaign to discredit GRDA, a public power agency.

The suit is the largest result of the Public Service Co.'s continued opposition to GRDA's acquisition for the state of a 20,000 kilowatt generating plant on a "fair value" bid of $3,500,000.

ONE OF THE BIG mistakes of life is insisting that a thing is impossible because we ourselves have not accomplished it.

WATCH CARE

MOST women who wear baguette shaped watches complain that they are almost always out of running order. As a matter of fact, the care which those little watches receive isn't always the best. If you would keep your timepiece accurate and get good results, take a tip from this article in a current magazine:

1. Don't let your watch sleep on a cold table at night because the special oil used to lubricate its parts thickens in extreme cold.

2. Wind your watch at the same time every day, otherwise the mainspring will not get a chance to relax or do its full job.

3. Have a lady's wrist watch cleaned and oiled every six months. Once a year is sufficient for a man's wrist watch.

4. Don't take the word shockproof too seriously. It does not mean that the watch can be hurled to the pavement without harmful results.

MRS. LYNDON JOHNSON

MRS. LYNDON JOHNSON, wife of the senator-elect from Texas, is a lively, friendly, bright-eyed brunette, who was Christened Lady Bird Taylor by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Taylor. She is a graduate of Marshall High school and holds the bachelor of arts and bachelor of journalism degrees from the University of Texas.

The Johnson home in Washington is five miles from the nation's capitol and is so much in the country you can hear owls hoot on summer nights and there are squirrels and rabbits in the yard.

The attic in the Johnson home is a prized feature. All during the war, and since, it has been quarters for young friends who are on short stays in Washington.

MRS. JOHNSON said last summer her "small part" in her husband's political life has given her a deep satisfaction. The "small part" consists principally of entertaining friends who visit the capitol, guiding them around town to places of interest. The job keeps Mrs. Johnson mentally alert to extraordinary housekeeping problems. She must be able to shift a menu planned for four persons to feed nine, juggling and changing the food on hand.

Daughter Lynda Bird is four and Lucy Baines is one.

Mrs. Johnson says she thinks there is no more important calling that a man can have than working for his country—provided he has a sense of dedication to his job—which she feels her husband has.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. L. Womack Nov. 23.

Today's Town Talk

Miss Billie Pearl Eubanks of Honolulu, Hawaii, left Thursday after a two weeks's visit with Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Bonds and Mary Faye, 1511 Twenty-sixth. A 1930 graduate of Tech with a B.A. degree, she was in town for homecoming activities.

For the past three years, Miss Eubanks has been teaching social studies in Honolulu and Oahu junior high schools, and previously she taught in Hollywood, Calif. The vivacious auburn haired teacher will vacation in the States until February, and later plans to go to Venesuela to teach.

Telling of her experiences in Hawaii, Miss Eubanks recalls that "possibly the most inspiring thing to American teachers on the island is the absence of racial prejudice in the public schools," where Japanese, Philippinos, Chinese, Hawaiians and Koreans sit side by side and study together.

"Money is not spared to give students the best educational advantages," she explained and added that all Hawaiian school buildings are modern and lacking in no conveniences. One important requirement is that students speak only English in classrooms and on the school grounds.

Parents of the various nationalities show a great deal of interest in the progress of their children and often visit the schools although some of them cannot speak English. Luncheons honoring parents are given in the schools on May Day, which is one of the most important festival days in Hawaii.

Most students have added an American name to their original title by the time they reach the seventh grade, and it is not surprising to see a teacher's roll-book with a collection of "Elizabeths, Ruths and Marys."

Miss Eubanks is an energetic, loquatious and always-laughing person. She has done graduate work at the University of California at Los Angeles, University of Southern California and the University of Hawaii.

Officers, committee chairmen and new members of the Lubbock Business and Professional Women's club are invited to attend an orientation tea from 3 until 5 p.m. Sunday in the home of Mrs. O. P. Harlan, 1723 Thirty-first.

All members of the club may attend the general tea hour from 4 until 5 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Worley, former Lubbock residents, who have lived in Odessa since August, are moving to El Paso where he will be connected with KELP radio station. While living in Lubbock Mr. Worley was an announcer for KFYO.

Mrs. Worley is the former Iva Lee McKay.

Mrs. P. E. Griegg and children, who have been visiting in the home of her mother, Mrs. R. A. Holland, 1311 Fourteenth, will leave today by plane for Boston, and from there they will return home to Rochester, N. H.

The guest is the former Pauline Holland.

Elton Plowman, vocalist, accompanied at the piano by his wife, presented a musical program for Altrusa club at a Thursday luncheon held at Hilton hotel.

Eighteen members and two other guests, Miss Maxine Drury and Mrs. J. P. Carney of Ouray, Colo., mother of Mrs. Teressa Gegg, attended.

Window Treatment Studied By Class

Miss Martha Graves, director of home and family life education at Texas Technological college, assisted by Miss Doris Thurmond, spoke on window treatment for the Home and Family Life Education group Thursday afternoon at the college. Thirty-eight members attended.

For the purpose of seeing correct window treatment, the group visited the Tech Home Management house and Recreation hall and the homes of Mrs. Preston Smith and Mrs. Earl Hobbs.

The class will meet again next Thursday.

Another similar class which will study clothing construction will be opened Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Hub Homes by Mrs. Carrie Lee Bishop.

SOLON TO INTRODUCE BILL

Demos Likely To Push Housing Program; Quick Okay Is Seen

By ROSE McKEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 — Sen. Ellender (D) La., announced today he will reintroduce a long-range, low-cost housing bill in the next Congress and predicted its speedy passage.

He said the bill will provide low-rent public housing for low-income families, slum clearance and farm housing.

Thus, the legislation would follow the blueprint of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill which passed the Senate last spring but was opposed by GOP House leaders and buried in a committee pigeonhole.

Quick Okay Is Seen

Ellender said that the "sweeping Democratic victory of last Tuesday reflects an urgent demand of the American people for immediate enactment of a housing law." He added:

"With the support of a Democratic President and Democratic majorities in both House and Senate, I am confident that housing will receive priority consideration in the 81st Congress and I predict that the program will finally become law before the end of the first session."

Ellender was the first senator to announce concrete plans for translating to legislation a plank of the Democratic platform which voters endorsed Tuesday.

Rep. Spence (D) Ky., who will head the House Banking committee, predicted passage of some kind of price control legislation but did not outline details.

Has Been Heated Issue

The housing bill has been a red-hot issue in the last two Congresses. Ellender joined with Sens. Wagner (D) N.Y., and Taft (R) Ohio, to fight for passage of the first comprehensive housing legislation in 1945.

Taft led the Senate fight for similar legislation in the GOP-controlled 80th Congress. The bill called for construction of a million and a half housing units a year for 10 years.

The name of the bill has been changed twice and is due to be varied again. It was first the Wagner-Ellender-Taft bill. Last spring it was the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill. Now, with the best outlook for its final passage, it will probably be known as the Ellender-Wagner-Taft measure.

Taft sailed for Europe today before Ellender's announcement, but his endorsement of the bill was taken for granted.

The legislation should have easy sailing in the House this time. Rep. Wolcott (R) Mich., its principal opponent last spring and the man who successfully fought to pigeonhole it, will have to step down as chairman of the House Banking committee.

He will be succeeded in the 81st Congress by Spence, who supports the measure. And Spence will have a Democratic majority on his committee.

The 80th Congress did pass legislation to spur private housing construction. The measure was attacked by Democrats as inadequate and Ellender dubbed it the "teenie-weenie Republican housing bill."

Ellender's new bill is expected to call for federal subsidies to states and municipalities to clear slums, and for federal aid to build low-rent public housing.

Mrs. James G. Allen's Article On Soil Blowing Is Published

Mrs. James G. Allen, assistant professor of journalism at Texas Technological college, is author of an article on "Peanuts Brought Soil Blowing," in the November Texas edition of The Progressive Farmer, published at Dallas.

In the article, Mrs. Allen told how Hockley and Terry county farmers have worked to prevent soil blowing. Six years ago, Hockley county farmers planted about 10,000 acres of peanuts. The article quoted AAA Secretary J. W. Evans in the statement that the next spring "the land took off, and we're still wondering where it went.

Emergency Fuel Commission Is Reactivated By Governor

AUSTIN, Nov. 4. (AP)— Gov. Beauford H. Jester today announced reactivation of his emergency fuel commission which functioned during the butane gas shortage period last winter.

He set a meeting here for Nov. 23 to which he invited all Texas butane producers and dealers for a survey of butane supply and demand.

Reactivation of the commission and the scheduling of the meeting are precautionary moves, the governor said.

Railroad Commissioner William J. Murray was again named chairman of the commission. Other members, all state officials, are John H. Winters, Dr. George W. Cox, and Homer Garrison Jr.

British Official Assails Danger Of Paper Shortage

BIRMINGHAM, England, Nov. 4. (AP)—Lord Iliffe, chairman of the Birmingham Post and Mail, described the newsprint shortage as "by far the greatest menace to freedom of the press" during a speech before the Birmingham and Midlands Institute.

"The freedom of the press is theoretically still inviolate. In practice it is limited in much the same way as freedom of movement is limited for a man who has sprained his ankle. The right to run, walk or jump is still manifestly his—but he can only hobble painfully on his way."

Changes Instead Of Repeal Seen As Likely For Taft-Hartley Law

By ALLAN J. FUNCH
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. — President Truman and the Democratic party face a tough fight on outright repeal of the controversial Taft-Hartley labor act.

That was the Washington concensus today even though the Democrats will have a working majority of 90 in the House and 12 in the Senate on the repeal issue.

Changes More Likely

Modification of the labor act was considered more likely than the repeal pledged by Mr. Truman and the Democratic platform.

It was believed that many labor leaders, already pressing for action, would settle for extensive modification.

Such modification most likely would deal with such Taft-Hartley provisions as bans on certain types of picketing, requirement that union officers sign non-Communist affidavits, and outlawing of the closed shop.

Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, co-arthur of the labor-management act, predicted in New York that efforts to repeal the law would fail. He said:

"I do not think Congress will repeal the Taft-Hartley act, but I do think some amendments will be made."

Could Prevent Repeal

It was recalled that the labor act was passed over President Truman's veto with a large number of Democrats voting with Republicans.

Such a coalition could easily prevent repeal of the legislation, particularly if the southern splinters of the Democratic party line-up solidly with Taft-Hartley advocates.

Such a solid block is not anticipated, but Republicans can muster 172 House votes and 42 Senate votes in their own right. Thus they would need only seven additional votes from Democratic members of the Senate, or 46 in the House to defeat repeal.

The new 81st Congress will contain 55 senators who voted for the Taft-Hartley act over the President's veto, and more than 220 House members who did likewise. One labor leader said 122 members of the 80th Congress who voted for it, will not return to the new Congress.

Best Democratic change of repeal seems to lie in making peace with splintered sections of the party.

New Capital Planned For Philippines To Replace Manila

MANILLA, Nov. 4 (AP)—A new capital of the Philippine Republic soon will rise on a 36,000-acre site adjoining war-shattered Manila on the northeast.

Recent legislation authorized the building of an entirely new capital in Quezon City, named after the late President Manuel L. Quezon, hero of the nation's long struggle for independence.

Most of the government buildings were either destroyed or badly damaged in World War II, with the result that offices of the republic are scattered over a large area of Manila in inadequate buildings.

Plans for the new capital are being made by Juan M. Arellano, Filipino architect. It is hoped that actual construction can begin on April 1, 1949.

Arellano estimated, perhaps conservatively, that the new buildings of the capital would cost $25,000,000 and that another $10,000,000 will be spent on roads, bridges and other improvements of the city. The United States Philippine War Damage Commission tentatively has allocated $12,500,000 for construction of the legislative group of buildings, of which $1,000,000 can be released at once.

The architect also estimated that it would take five years at the maximum to complete the new capital, but that it could be finished in three years if the materials could be obtained quickly. He added that materials, especially steel, are still scarce.

Arellano visualizes a "dream city" symbolic of the Filipino soul, culture, character and way of life.

"Let us depict democracy," he said, "with a Filipino swing to it."

He has conceived a city that will be "like no other city in the world today, vastly different from, say, Washington or Paris." The capital will have three main government centers—legislative, executive and judicial. Room will be left for ample expansion of each.

High Elevation

The master plan calls for a sprawling but symmetrical group of buildings facing toward Manila. They will be on an elevation of 300 feet over the nation's metropolis.

The legislative group will rise in the center, with one end occupied by the House of Representatives, the other by the Senate, and the middle by the Library of Congress.

There will be a symbolic structure with a rectangular tower which will dominate the entire site. This will be the Hall of Fame.

"No nation can last long that does not honor its heroes," Arellano said. "We venerate ours."

To the right will stand the executive group, including presidential and departmental offices. Opposite this across a great public square will be the Supreme Court.

News Of Truman's Election 'Tolled' In Moscow Press

MOSCOW, Nov. 4. (INS)—The news of President Truman's election was published on Page Four in all Moscow newspapers today. This is the page regularly devoted to foreign news.

The election story was told in a few brief items.

Injunction Hearing In Move To Halt Demo 'Purge' Nears End

FORT WORTH, Nov. 4 (AP)—A hearing in which conservative Democrats seek an injunction which would halt the party purge and nullify other actions of the state Democratic convention, neared an end today.

Lawyers began concluding arguments which will be continued tomorrow.

Gillis Johnson, principal counsel for the conservatives, contended the Tarrant, Harris and Dallas county delegations were unseated by delegates who had not even legally organized.

If that theory persists, he said, future party affairs can be conducted at meetings governed by whoever "gets there fustess with the mostest" and whoever has the "longest arms and strongest sticks."

Reemployment Provisions Of Service Act Are Explained

DALLAS, Nov. 4. (Special)—Reemployment provisions of the Selective Service act of 1948 apply to enlistees and reserve personnel as well as to persons inducted into military service, George Dunlap, regional field representative of the Bureau of Veterans' Reemployment Rights announced today.

Any person entering upon active duty in the U. S. armed forces is entitled to all the reemployment rights provided by the act, if he is relieved from active duty not later than three years after the date of entering upon active duty, or as soon as he is able to obtain orders relieving him from active duty.

Employers or veterans seeking information regarding their respective obligations or rights under the new act should contact their local State Employment Service office.

NAM Official Says People 'Misled' By Demo Claims

FORT WORTH, Nov. 4 (AP)—Earl Bunting, managing director of the National Association of Manufacturers, said here today that "the people have been misled by campaign promises which will be difficult to keep."

The NAM was one of the most frequent targets of President Truman's election campaign. Bunting was commenting on the Democratic landslide.

He added with a smile:

"Thank God we live in a country where people can still vote for what they believe will be good for them."

The first voting machine was used in Rochester, N. Y., in 1898.

Crucial Schoolboy Tilts Slated

Sweetwater To Invade Odessa

(By The Associated Press)

Showdown battles in four districts highlight a shorter-than-usual but highly important schedule in Texas schoolboy football this week-end.

The top game will be at Odessa Friday night where the undefeated, untied Sweetwater Mustangs attempt to saddle the Odessa Broncs in a test that should determine the district 3 championship in Class AA.

Next in importance appears to be the Austin-Kerrville clash at Kerrville the same night. The district 13 title rides on the results.

Other top tilts have Alamo Heights, flushed with its victory over favored Brackenridge, meeting Thomas Jefferson in district 4 of the city conference; Amarillo tackling Borger in a struggle between teams unbeaten in conference play in district 1 Class AA and a similar game between Highland Park (Dallas) and McKinney in district 6.

Freeport and Galveston, two of three teams undefeated in conference play in district 12, get together at Freeport. The other unbeaten team, Baytown, meets oft-defeated Galena Park.

The week-end schedule:

Friday — Crozier Tech (Dallas) vs Forest (Dallas), Amon Carter-Riverside (Fort Worth) vs Paschal (Fort Worth), Sam Houston (Houston) vs San Jacinto (Houston), Harlandale (San Antonio), vs Brackenridge (San Antonio), Amarillo at Borger, Brownfield at Plainview, Electra at Childress, Graham at Quanah, Sweetwater at Odessa, San Angelo at Big Spring, Lamesa at Abilene, Ysleta at Austin (El Paso), El Paso High at Mesa, Ariz., Denison at Gainesville, Sherman at Paris, Greenville at Bonham, Sulphur Springs at Grand Prairie, Highland Park (Dallas) at McKinney, Stephenville at Mineral Wells, Henderson at Kilgore, Texarkana at Marshall, Longview at Tyler, Enis at Cleburne, Corsicana at Waxahachie, Nacogdoches at Palestine, Lufkin at Bryan, Jacksonville at Conroe, South Park (Beaumont) at Port Arthur, Beaumont at Orange, Galveston at Freeport, Texas City at Pasadena, Baytown at Galena Park, Austin at Kerrville, Texas Military Institute (San Antonio) at Laredo, Edna at Victoria, Robstown at Alice, Brownsville at Edinburg, McAllen at Kingsville, Harlingen at San Benito.

Army Turns In 7-0 Win Over Navy Squad

ANTON, Nov. 4. (Special)—The Army regained revenge tonight for an earlier licking this grid season, turning in a 7-0 victory over the Navy in a game played as a benefit for the cemetery fund under the sponsorship of the American Legion.

Horace Byerley, Army halfback, took a handoff and went 15 yards midway through the third period to score the only touchdown of the game. He also kicked the extra point. The score climaxed a drive of 80 yards down the field.

Walter Hobgood almost broke away for the Army on a 60-yard punt return, while two other Army threats, both in the first half, were stymied.

The Navy threatened only once, when an Army pass was intercepted on the Navy 30 and returned to the Army 30.

Players were all former members of Anton High school who had served in the Army or Navy during the war.

Trinity, Southwest Texas Have Best Defense Records In LSC

COMMERCE, Nov. 4. (U.P) — Trinity university and Southwest Texas boasted the best defensive records in the Lone Star Conference today, official statistics revealed.

Trinity has allowed the opposition only 850 yards in six games, or an average of 141.7 yards per game, while the Bobcats have permitted only 898 yards to be gained against them for an average of 148.3 yards per game.

LEVELLAND JUNIORS WIN

LITTLEFIELD, Nov. 4 (Special) —Levelland's powerful juniors chalked up an easy 13-0 triumph over the Littlefield juniors in a South Plains loop clash here tonight.

New Deal Lions Win By Forfeit; Seek Tilt For Today, Saturday

New Deal High school's football team won a forfeit victory over Frenship High school yesterday, when the Frenship coach called to say they would be unable to field a team. The victory virtually assured the Lions of second place in District 4-B.

But W. C. Hodges had an open date last week and would like to fill it for tomorrow night or Saturday. If there is any Class A or Class B school available for a game—and interested—they are asked to call Coach Hodges at the New Deal school.

The Lions lost to Abernathy 6-0 and to Slaton 13-0, before beating Whiteface 12-0. O'Donnell stung them 12-6 and Idalou won 7-6, but the Lions came back strong to trounce Cooper 45-7 and Ropesville 38-13.

Tahoka Defeats Seagraves, 26-6

TAHOKA, Nov. 4 (Special)—Tahoka's surprising Bulldogs won their first conference game in south half 4-A competition this season by dropping the Seagraves Eagles, 26-6, here tonight.

The Bulldogs took the lead early in the first quarter, as Quarterback Bob Boyd tossed a 20-yard touchdown pass to End Duane Carter. Carter kicked the extra piont to make the score 7-0.

On the following kickoff, Seagraves' Fullback Bill Jackson raced 75 yards up the middle of the field for the Eagles' tally. The extra point try was no good and Tahoka still held a 7-6 margin.

The Bulldogs pushed another counter across late in the initial stanza, with Halfback Jimmy Small climaxing a long drive with a three-yard smash through the line for a 13-6 halftime edge.

Tahoka clinched the victory with two six-pointers in the second half. Fullback Tommy Chandler swept left end for 13 yards and one score, then Halfback Clark Farr romped 25 yards around end for the final touchdown.

GOLF PROFESSOR DIES

ATLANTA, Nov. 4. (AP)—Stewart Maiden, the little Scot who became one of the great prosessors of golf, died today near the course where he taught Bobby Jones the game. Maiden suffered a stroke three weeks ago which left him partially paralyzed and unconscious.

In 10 post-season bowl games Alabama football teams have averaged 21.3 points per contest.

Lubbock Invades Pampa Saturday

Pampa's powerful Harvesters will attempt to continue their long grid superiority over the Lubbock Westerners when the two teams battle in an important District 1-AA tilt at 2:30 Saturday afternoon at Harvester field in Pampa.

The Harvesters, like most of the other 1-AA teams, have found the Westerners easy victims in recent years. Pampa elevens have lost only one game to the Westerners since 1943, while winning three encounters. The Harvesters upset the Westerners, 14-7, at Pampa in 1944; gained a win on penetrations in a 0-0 game here in 1945; lost a narrow decision to the Westerners at Pampa in 1946; then bounced back last year to chalk up an easy 27-0 triumph over the hapless Westerners.

Face Tough Squad

The Lubbock schoolboys will face one of the most dangerous teams in West Texas in the encounter, since the veteran Pampa squad boasts a big, rugged line and a speedy group of backs. Most of the grid coaches who have played the Harvesters this season say the Pampans have probably the strongest forward wall in this section of the state, including two or three boys who will make strong bids for all-district and all-state honors.

Pampa has lost only one game this year, a 6-0 defeat by strong Wichita Falls, while notching impressive wins over North Dallas, Ysleta, Vernon, Graham, Plainview and Brownfield. On the basis of comparative scores, the Harvesters are two touchdowns better than the Amarillo team which beat the Westerners 14-6 last week. Amarillo beat Brownfield only 21-0, but the Harvesters trampled the Cubs by a 33-0 margin.

The Pampa eleven also hold a wide edge in experience, since four of their linemen and one of their backs were regulars on their powerful 1947 team. Lubbock has only one boy who was a regular in '47—Wingback Donald Decker.

Both In Top Shape

Both teams are slated to be in near-top physical condition for the setto. Pampa will probably be without the services of regular Quarterback Lamar Lively, but Fullback Harbord Cox will be ready for action for the first time in several weeks. The Westerners have only Blocking Back Norman Bantz and Fullback Malcolm Young hampered by injuries.

Westerner Mentor Pat Pattison has announced that the squad, accompanied by the coaches and managers, will leave early Saturday morning by chartered bus from the Chapman field clubhouse. The group will arrive in Pampa about 10:30 Saturday morning, then will eat a light meal before suiting out for the game. The squad will return home Saturday night.

Experts Place Irish, Georgia Tech, SMU And California In Weekend Win Column

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 4—Taking a stab at the weekly pigskin predictions, while perched on a shelf at the National Horse Show, or horsing around with a six-weeks average that now stands at .774 on 369 correct guesses and 108 that went amiss:

Penn State vs Pennsylvania—neither team has been beaten in two years. On the theory that the hefty Quakers have done the most with the toughest opposition, one shaky vote for Pennsylvania.

Tennessee vs Georgia Tech—the fast-coming Volunteers must win this one to stay in the running for the Southeastern Conference title. But Tech can't afford a letdown now with the league title and a bowl bid in sight. Georgia Tech.

Notre Dame vs Indiana—look out for a lop-sided score here. The fighting Irish once more are counted the country's best. The secretary will cast the usual vote for Notre Dame.

Texas vs Baylor—only a miracle could lift Texas onto the Southwest Conference throne after three losses, including one to SMU. But the Longhorns won't be conceding anything to unbeaten but once-tied Baylor, which barely licked TCU and still has SMU to play. Probably close. In a comeback, Texas.

UCLA vs California—after their narrow squeak against Southern Cal, the all-victorious Golden Bears probably welcome a chance to take on UCLA, California.

Navy vs Michigan—looks like a rough afternoon for the Middies, who are accustomed to same. Michigan.

Stanford vs Army—the Indians hardly figure to win. They get to take a nice trip though. Army.

Missouri vs Oklahoma—they're knocking down the gates to get into this one, which probably will settle the Big Seven title and land the winner an important bowl bid. Missouri beat SMU, which took Texas by a bigger score than Oklahoma did. However, on a sentimental hunch, Oklahoma.

Georgia vs Florida—just a workout for the Bulldogs. Georgia.

Texas A. and M vs Southern Methodist—SMU, despite its lone loss to Missouri, is about to repeat in the Southwest Conference and is a red-hot favorite here. But so was Dewey. Southern Methodist.

Oregon vs Washington—Oregon.

Northwestern vs Wisconsin—Northwestern.

Running rapidly over the rest of the weekend's better games:

Friday night:

Georgetown over New York university, Tempe (Ariz.) State over New Mexico A and M.

Saturday:

East

Harvard over Princeton, Dartmouth over Columbia, Cornell over Colgate, Yale over Kings Point, Lafayette over Rutgers, Syracuse over Temple, Holy Cross over Duquesne, Brown over Western Reserve, Boston university over Fordham, Bucknell over Washington and Jefferson.

South

North Carolina over William and Mary, Duke over Wake Forest, Vanderbilt over Louisiana State, Mississippi State over Auburn, Kentucky over Villanova, Tulane over Virginia Military, Clemson over Furman, Alabama over Mississippi Southern, North Carolina State over Virginia, Maryland over South Carolina.

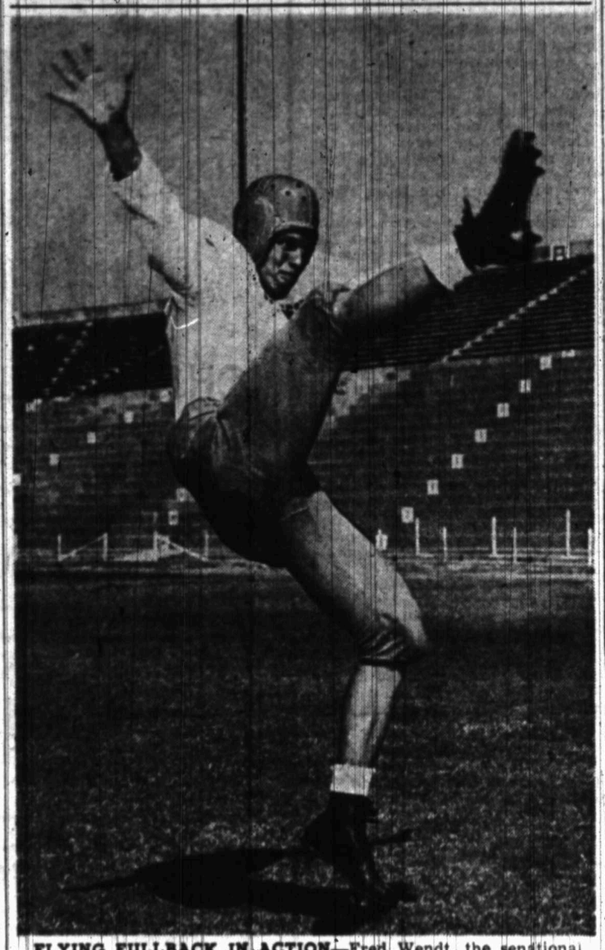

Southwest And Far West

Arkansas over Rice, Washington State over Oregon State, Idaho over Montana State, Utah over Colorado A and M, Colorado over Utah State, Detroit over Denver, Arizona over New Mexico, St. Mary's over Portland, Texas Tech over Texas Mines, Fresno State over San Diego State, Idaho State over Northern Idaho, Santa Barbara over California Aggies and, on Sunday, Nevada over Santa Clara.

FLYING FULLBACK IN ACTION—Fred Wendt, the sensational fullback of the Texas Mines eleven, is shown in a pose that is typical. His punting, almost as much as his average of 9.29 yards on each carry, is one of the big reasons the Orediggers are undefeated so far. Wendt has averaged over 40 yards on each boot, which is a good offensive weapon. The classy back will be seen Saturday in Jones Stadium, when the Mines invade Lubbock to meet Texas Tech's Red Raiders in the game that probably will decide the Border Conference race.

Guard Dan Pursel Injures Ankle

Mines Tilt Saturday Is For Border Crown

A stiff, chill breeze from the North, which fanned a penetratingly cold rain in front of it, cut practice at Texas Tech down and forced the gridders inside early.

But not quite in time to avoid Guard Dan Pursel from being injured. Pursel was running in from the practice field with the rest of the squad when, in the gathering dusk, he stepped in a hole, turning his right ankle. How badly he is hurt is not known, but it may have been severe enough to keep him out of action for a good part of Saturday's game.

If so, he will be the second played lost to the Red Raiders this week. Tackle Bobby Broyles, the 240-pounder from San Angelo, sprained his left ankle Tuesday afternoon and was carried from the field. Despite every effort to reduce the swelling, his ankle is in such bad shape that he will be unable to suit up for Saturday's game.

Spirits Are High

The Raiders, spirits high and mentally ready for what may be the most crucial game of the year in the Border Conference, went through an intensive drill yesterday. There wasn't any heavy contact work, as the shivvering players hopped around to keep warm, but there was a lot of running.

A great deal of time was spent having dummy scrimmage against the freshmen, who ran Texas Mines plays, sometimes almost too well. The varsity got plenty of chance to see how the 205-pound Oredigger line makes possible holes through which Fred Wendt and Pug Gabrel run. It was enbugh to make any observer realize that the Raiders will have a large job on their hands Saturday.

All the work wasn't on defense in the Raider camp. A large portion of the afternoon was spent polishing and repolishing offensive plays. Some of the offensive work is new and linemen and backs still were learning their assignments. Blocking, the most important phase of any offense, was given special attention with a view to the Raiders making more capital of their running backs.

The Miners will arrive in Lubbock this afternoon and will have a light workout at Tech. Yesterday's workout virtually concluded Tech preparations for the important tilt, but they will have a light session today.

Wendt Is Attraction

Naturally, the center of attraction in the Orediggar camp will be Wendt, whose magic feet have churned up Texas sod for an amazing total of 929 yards on 100 carries. And he will not be returning here as a stranger.

Thompson Tramples Plainview

O. L. Slaton Tops Seminole, 25-0

Lubbock's Carroll Thompson Cowboys scored four times in three quarters to chalk up an impressive 27-0 triumph over the scrappy Plainview juniors in a South Plains Junior High football league tilt Thursday afternoon at Chapman field.

The win was the seventh consecutive victory for the Cowboys in loop competition this season and left Lubbock's J. T. Hutchinson gridders—who tangle with the Cowboys next week—as the only barrier to the league championship.

A long pass from Quarterback Jack Weldon to End Tommy Yelvington on the Plainview 14-yard line set up the first Lubbock touchdown early in the second quarter. Weldon, Fullback Don Jones and Halfback Charles Hodges carried to the two-yard marker in three tries, then Hodges cracked over left tackle for the six points. Jones' extra point try was through the uprights and the Cowboys led, 7-0.

Drive Falters

The battling Plainview juniors were unable to launch a sustained drive, despite brilliant running by Halfback Wilbur Wilson and tricky ball-handling by Quarterback Brian Bell, and the Cowboys opened another offensive in the second stanza that carried all the way to the Plainview three. There the Plainview gridders held for downs.

A bad break in the final seconds of the first half gave the Cowboys their second touchdown. Wilson attempted to punt from deep in his own territory late in the second quarter, but the pass from center was over his head and Yelvington recovered for the Cowboys on the Plainview one-yard line. Don Jones went over for the tally and then booted the extra point.

The outmanned Plainview defense weakened in the second half, as Don Jones galloped 45 yards to pay dirt late in the third period and Jeff Jones punched across the fourth tally on a 50-yard jaunt in the final quarter to give the Cowboys their 27-0 margin.

Don Jones, Hodges and Weldon shared honors in the Cowboy secondary, but they received able support from a stout forward wall that included Don Van Meter, Yelvington and Travis Locke.

O. L. SLATON ROLLS UP 25-0 WIN OVER SEMINOLE

O. L. Slaton Junior High's speedy Redskins, paced by the hard running of Backs Johnny Tatum, Bobby Sexton and Duane Rampy, rolled to a 25-0 victory over the Seminole juniors in a South Plains Junior High grid loop tussle Thursday night at Chapman field.

The Redskins, defeated only by the loop-leading Carroll Thompson Cowboys this season, went ahead in the first quarter when Tatum climaxed a long drive with a five-yard smash through center to the double stripe. Bobby Sexton gave the O. L. Slaton crew a 12-0 halftime margin with a seven-yard scoring thrust in the second period.

Tatum Tallies

Seminole's battling gridders held the home team scoreless in the third stanza, but Tatum tallied again in the fourth period on a 10-yard plunge and Rampy added another six-pointer in the final minutes with a 20-yard jaunt around end. End Jimmy Crawford tallied on extra point on a pass play.

Guard Bob Newell, Tackle Lonnie St. Clair and Tackle Kenneth Woodward turned in outstanding performances in the Redskin forward wall.

In the first game of the night "double bill," the O. L. Slaton Warriors — seventh and eighth graders—gained a narrow 9-6 win over the Seminole junior "B" team.

Martin, Lindsey Star

Warrior Fullback Jerry Martin and Blocking Back Richard Lindsey put the O. L. Slaton eleven ahead in the second quarter, with Lindsey carrying over from the 12-yard line. Martin's extra point plunge was good.

Seminole roared back early in the third quarter, when Tony Phillips covered the Seminole kickoff in the Warrior end zone for a touchdown. The extra point try failed, however, and the Warriors held a 7-6 edge.

Levelland Beats Muleshoe, 20-0

MULESHOE, Nov. 4. (Special) —The potent Levelland Lobos continued their march toward a District 4-A (North) conference title by rolling over a stubborn Muleshoe Yellowjacket eleven tonight 20-0 before a slim Homecoming and Parent's Day crowd.

The Lobos struck for touchdowns in the first two quarters, to hold a 14-0 lead at the half and added the clincher in the fourth quarter. Two of the drives were sustained marches of over 70 yards each. Jim Couch converted the first two attempts.

During the halftime ceremonies, Joyce Blackburn, a former Levelland girl, was crowned football queen. Her escort was Fullback Bobby Goss. Both Levelland and Muleshoe bands and pep squads performed.

Fullback Lonnie Northam topped the Levelland squad, scoring once in the second quarter on a two-yard plunge to climax a 70-yard drive down the field. He went over with the final six pointer in the final stanza when he took a seven-yard pass from Don Taylor. This drive covered 51 yards.

Taylor scored the initial Levelland tally on a one-yard plunge in the opening quarter, after the Lobos had driven 75 yards on a sustained march, interspersed with two passes.

Muleshoe made only one threat when, after the first Levelland score, they took the ensuing kickoff and marched to the Levelland 25-yard marker. A fumble broke up this drive.

Miner Star To Miss Tech Game

By CHUCK WHITLOCK
Sports Editor
The El Paso Times

EL PASO, Nov. 4—Hopes of the Texas College of Mines Ore Diggers for any chance of an even break against Texas Tech when they clash with the Red Raiders of Lubbock Saturday afternoon in a Border Conference title tilt at Lubbock went glimmering Wednesday with announcement that Ray (Sugar) Evans, All-Border Conference tackle and one of the greatest linemen ever produced on the Border, would be out of action with an injured knee.

Evans pulled a ligament in his right knee on the third play of last week's 27-27 tie with Hardin-Simmons, and although he was able to finish the game—playing all 60 minutes—because he already was warmed up, the knee has given so much pain that he has missed all practice this week.

Coach Jack Curtice said Wednesday that Evans might see a little action against the Techsans, but was extremely doubtful that the big tackle would be of any value.

Aside from loss of Evans, whose value as a downfield blocker has been shown in Fred Wendt's rise as the nation's leading ground gainer from rushing, the Miners came through the Hardin-Simmons battle without serious injury. The squad suffered numerous bruises and aches, but most of them were worked out by Tuesday and Wednesday the squad had a hard drill on stopping Tech offensive formations.

No Other Changes

Aside from preparing Joe Holley, 195-pound sophomore from Odessa, Texas as replacement for the injured Evans, Curtice planned no changes in his starting lineups.

The Miners mentor has used the same eleven men to start each of the six games the Ore Diggers have played this year. Which reveals one of the major weaknesses of the Border club—lack of suitable reserves.

Aside from the first 19 men, the Miners are strictly a mediocre aggregation. Curtice normally substitutes Andy (Beaver) Everest as center on defense, putting him as line backer in place of the comparatively slow Jim Bowden at quarterback. In addition Lee Fogle enters the game frequently to replace either Joe Valencia or Ernest Keily at one of the guard spots.

Other replacements considered to rank in the top men—the Miner Iron Team—are Charles Edmondson and Jack Wilkinson at ends, and Holley and Max Norwood at tackles. Tom Steele and Fred Rosas have seen considerable action in the backfield at halfback spots.

It was this team which defeated University of Houston 34-0 in the first two and a half periods of the Miners' opening home game. In the last period and a half the Miner reserves were soundly walloped, 20-7.

It also was this lack of reserves which gave Hardin-Simmons their tie with the undefeated Miners. Curtice, wanting to win the game above all others on the Mines schedule, left his top men in the game as long as possible, and they simply wore out. In the last period, when the Cowboys punched over the tying touchdowns, the Mines definitely were hitting slower and with less steam than in the opening half.

Have Weight Advantage

Mines will boast a weight advantage in the forward wall against Tech, but it means practically nothing. Stand of the Raiders against such Southwest Conference teams as Texas A. and M., Baylor and Rice has instilled a thorough respect for the Tech forward wall in the minds of the Miners.

At the wing posts for the Ore Diggers will be Jim DeGroat, bulky, hard-charging end, and George Grounds, lanky expert on pass-interceptions. It was Grounds who produced the first interception of the year of John Ford's passing attack when he hauled down two of the Cowboy's tosses last week.

Loss of Evans will cripple the Mines' downfield blocking which has been at times this year little short of devastating. Whether Holley can take over Evans' duties will have a large bearing on the play of the forward wall, but on the right side of the line there will be Jake Rhoads, 210 pounds of Odessa, Texas, senior who has spent considerable time in the opposition backfield.

Rhoads, one of three seniors on the Mines squad, shares co-captain honors with Fred Wendt and Evans, the other seniors.

At guards will be the redoubtable Ernest Keily and Joe Valencia, at 220 pounds and 195 pounds respectively, with Fogle as a slightly speedier alternate.

Wayne Hanson, one of the team's 60-minute men, will start at center and plays line backer on defense. A sophomore, Hanson is one of the hardest-playing, roughest men on the team, and is viewed as one of the greatest centers ever to wear a Miners uniform.

Jim Bowden, in his second year as the man-under of the Mines T formation, will start as quarterback. Bowden's deceptive ball-handling ability has improved greatly this season. What little passing attack the Miners have used has had Bowden on the tossing end.

Workout Friday Night

At one halfback spot will be Danny (Button) Fraser, diminutive, hard-working line-buster, who despite his smallness in size is a fine blocking back.

Opposite him will be Harvey (Pug) Gabrel, former Odessa High school star and All-State back who rose to his own spot of glory last week against Hardin-Simmons.

A specialist in punching opposition lines, Gabrel has averaged 7.6 yards every time he has carried the ball this season, and is the second top yardage gainer in the Conference, trailing only Fred Wendt.

LONGHORNS ARE SIX-POINT FAVORITES

SWC Grid Race May Be Cut To Two-Team Affair This Weekend

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The Southwest Conference football race may be cut to a two-team affair this week-end.

The Texas Longhorns, tottering on the brink of oblivion, will fade definitely from the scene if Baylor's Bears take them to a cleaning Saturday at Waco.

Strangely, Baylor isn't expected to do it although the Bears are the only undefeated team left in the circuit. The Longhorns, beaten by Southern Methodist in the Conference and North Carolina and Oklahoma outside it, are six-point favorites.

Methodists Favored

One more defeat will eliminate Texas from title consideration. A licking for Baylor would leave Southern Methodist the undisputed leader, provided SMU beats Texas A. and M. at Dallas Saturday. The Methodists are four-touchdown favorites to do it.

A group of 50,000 is likely for the SMU-A&M game although no one sees the Aggies holding even an outside chance. A. and M. has had a leaky pass defense all season and is short on manpower. That spells a pretty easy victory for Southern Methodist.

Two teams already eliminated from the Conference title chase will be playing at Little Rock where Arkansas and Rice clash. Arkansas is a heavy favorite to keep Rice winless.

The Baylor-Texas game should be a tight defensive affair. That the Longhorns won't be up to their standard of last week against Southern Methodist is freely predicted. In fact, Texas coaches are bound to be having trouble getting their players in the frame of mind to go after a victory.

Baylor, on the other hand, is likely to be fired up. The Bears haven't beaten Texas in quite a while and there's plenty riding on the result this time.

Texas Christian, the other Conference member, has an off week. It is the usual lull in Horned Frog football. They always take two weeks to get ready for Texas.

Penn and Penn State are meeting on the gridiron this season for the first time since 1943.

MSC May Enter Big Nine Loop

CHICAGO, Nov. 4. (INS)—A majority of Western Conference schools stand prepared to vote Conference membership to Michigan State, and thereby make the Big Nine once more the Big Ten.

The situation's only hitch is that one or more faculty representatives still opposed to Michigan State's application may successfully block the issue's coming to a vote at the regular Big Nine meetings in Chicago next month.

State Will Win Vote

If it does come to a vote—and that seems likely at this time—Michigan State will win by at least the necessary 5-to-4 majority. International News Service was told today that Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio State, Purdue and Iowa will go along with Michigan State if a vote is taken.

For some time Fritz Crisler, Michigan's athletic director, was considered a doubtful factor even though he publicly recommended Conference membership for Michigan State. It is understood now, however, that Michigan is ready to vote for State, which, incidentally, has a sizeably larger under graduate enrollment than does its more famous rival at Ann Arbor.

The Michigan State athletic plant has been improved to the point where it now surpasses those at several Big Nine schools. Charles Hanna, the president of Michigan State, has many friends at Western Conference schools and has been campaigning tirelessly in his college's behalf.

A Logical Time

The Big Nine's December meetings in Chicago, to be held from the 10th through 13th of the month, are considered the logical time for bringing the issue—now tabled from previous meetings—to a head. For one thing, the meetings will include the drawing up of Conference football schedules for 1950, '51 and '52, a situation which would enable M. S. C. to play a regular Conference card with only one football season's wait.

The drawing up of football schedules has been set for the last day of the meetings, a fact logically explained by the probability that Michigan State is headed for election to Conference membership.

It is possible further that more than the requisite five Conference schools will support M. S. C.

Six Franchise Applications Received In New Baseball Loop

LAREDO, Nov. 4 (AP)—The president of the new Class D South Texas baseball league said today that six applications for franchises are under consideration.

The league president, Bill Lacy, said the applications are from Laredo, Victoria, Corpus Christi, Brownsville, Del Rio and Kerrville.

Sports Study

By Earl Sandday

With most college teams entering the "last lap" of their 1948 grid schedules, fans are already guessing the probable lineups in the major bowl games. Of course several of the host elevens are nearly "in," but there is still plenty of doubt concerning the teams to be invited for the New Year's day carnivals. It seems certain that California will be the host team in the Rose Bowl; Southern Methodist has the inside track for the Cotton Bowl and Georgia Tech is ticketed for the Sugar Bowl. But other assignments are as uncertain as a sandlot football team.

George White, the sports editor of the Dallas News, recently pointed out that a Southern Methodist-North Carolina brawl in the Cotton Bowl would be a "natural." The Tar Heels are undefeated and untied this season, and the Methodists have lost only one 20-14 decision to strong Missouri. Both teams are ranked among the top elevens in the entire nation.

White also points out that the game would feature two of the real All-American players of the country in the Ponies' Doak Walker and North Carolina's Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice. Walker and Justice have clinched spots on all the major all-America selections, and a duel between the two backfield stars would attract nation-wide attention. On the basis of comparative scores the game would be a close, hard-fought battle. North Carolina beat Texas by four touchdowns, while S.M.U. gained a two-touchdown victory. But North Carolina had the advantage of playing on their home field and catching the unprepared Texans early in the season. The Mustangs, on the other hand, chalked up their win in Memorial stadium after the Longhorns had an opportunity to smooth out their offense.

The Rose Bowl officials really face a problem. As a result of their pact with the Western conference, the top team in the loop—Michigan—is denied the right to compete again this year against the Pacific coast representative. That leaves only a second-rate team, such as Minnesota or Northwestern, to journey to California for the classic. There is considerable support on the coast for a change in the agreement to permit Michigan to make a return visit to the Rose Bowl, but officials believe that it is too late to make any such changes this year.

The Sugar Bowl, which has to a great extent replaced the Rose Bowl as the top New Year's feature, is in a good position to steal the spotlight this year. The Sugar Bowl is almost certain to get either Georgia Tech or North Carolina, and they can offer enough cash to get a top foe for either team. Penn State may be another prospect, if the Lions can get by Penn, and even Missouri is not out of the running.

Heafner Paces Pinehurst Meet

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 4. (INS)—A native Tarheel, big Clayton Heafner of Charlotte took the lead along with Detroit's Chick Harbert today in the second round of the North and South Open Golf Championship at Pinehurst.

Heafner added a card of 34-38—72 to his neat first round 69, tieing Harbert, who turned in a 73 to go with his opening under par 68.

On the leaders' heels was Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., with a 71 to match his first round 71. Harmon, the Masters' Tournament titleholder, so far showed the greatest consistency of play.

Julius Boros of Bridgeport, Conn., was the only amateur among the first ten contenders.

Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, West Va., 70-73—143.

Julius Boros, Bridgeport, Conn., 68-75—143.

Glenn Teal, Charlotte, N. C., 68-76—144.

Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa., 75-70—145.

Jim Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., 71-74—145.

Jerry Gianferante, Long Meadows, Mass., 73-72—145.

Tony Penna, Cincinnati, Ohio, 72-73—145.

LARGE CROWD EXPECTED

ODESSA, Nov. 4 (AP)—Odessa's new Bronco stadium, which seats 17,462 spectators, is expected to overflow tomorrow night when Sweetwater and Odessa meet in a top schoolboy game. Each team is undefeated in three Conference games.

TIL Announces Playoff Schedule

(By The Associated Press)

The schedule of play-offs for schoolboy football championships was announced Thursday by the Texas Interscholastic League.

There will be three state titles determined this season — City Conference, Class AA and Class A.

Class A, because it has 32 districts, must determine its district champions by Nov. 20. Bi-district games will be played by Nov. 27, second-round games by Dec. 4, quarter-finals by Dec. 11, semi-finals by Dec. 17 and finals by Dec. 25.

The City Conference, Class AA and Class B must determine their district champions by Nov. 27 with bi-district games to be finished by Dec. 4. In Conference B, the survivors in each region will play for the regional championships not later than Dec. 11.

Because Class AA has 14 districts, there will be two byes in the bi-district round. These byes will be district 1, where Amarillo is expected to be the champion, and district 8 where Henderson or Texarkana is expected to be the standard-bearer.

Thus, in the first round districts 2 meets district 3, 4 vs 5, 6 vs 7, 9 vs 10, 11 vs 12 and 13 vs 14. In the semi-finals district 1 plays the winner of districts 2 and 3 while the winners of districts 4-5 and 6-7 get together. District 8 plays the winner of districts 9-10 and the winners of districts 11-12 and 13-14 clash.

In the City Conference, the champion of district 1 plays the champion of district 2 and 3 meets 4, while in the finals the two winners will clash.

In six-man football 24 district champions must be determined not later than Nov. 27 and bi-district games must be played by Dec. 4. This division determines bi-district championships only.

Dunbar, Abilene To Play Here Tonight

Dunbar High's powerful Panthers will tangle with the strong Abilene eleven at 8 o'clock tonight at Chapman field, officials have announced.

The Panthers have lost only one game this season, in a tilt with the highly-rated San Angelo team, and Coach Damon Hill's squad boasts some of the top backs in West Texas.

Hero's Welcome Awaits Truman

desires to retire at the close of the present administration. He and the President have a warm personal relationship.

Lovett's attitude during the hard-fought campaign caused some resentment among those in the thick of the President's battle.

Mr. Truman rejected a suggestion today that his opponents "eat crow" in public.

Capital Plans Welcome

The usually ho-hum national capital hung out the flags and hoisted the welcome banners for a new political champion.

Bands were rounded up for a gigantic parade when Mr. Truman gets in at 10 a. m. CST tomorrow. School children and the tens of thousands of government workers were told they could have time off to offer their acclaim to the man who crossed up al lthe experts and handily whipped Republican Thomas E. Dewey.

Washington was readying a tumultuous welcome, such as it gave Lindberg, Gen. Eisenhower when he returned after VE day in 1945, and the late President Roosevelt.

Senator Barkley (D-Ky), the vice - president elect, reached Washington by plane tonight from Kentucky and will join Mr. Truman at the railroad station tomorrow morning.

To Make Brief Talk

The huge ceremony will begin as soon as the "victory special" pulls into the station. Mr. Truman and his family will ride to the White House in an automobile procession, sweeping down Pennsylvania avenue.

From the entrance porch of the White House, the President will deliver a brief talk, expected to be in the "off-the-cuff" manner in which he conducted most of his fighting campaign. He will thank the people for the gala victory homecoming.

The rejection of the "eat crow" suggestion came as an aftermath of an invitation from the Washington (D.C.) Post to attend a dinner at which pollsters and bad-guessing writers would pay for their mistakes by eating crow.

President Has Fun

The President had fun talking with trainside crowds about his invitation but he said he feels his responsibilities most seriously. He may clear the atmosphere soon by making it plain he does not intend to seek the presidency again.

Congress has passed an anti-third term amendment which would not apply in Mr. Truman's case.

At St. Louis, where a crowd estimated at more than 10,000 jammed around the rear platform, the President said "I've got the biggest job in the world, and with your help it can be done."

The size of the crowd was estimated by Police Colonel Joseph Casey.

At Jefferson City, Mo., the President said his triumph was "the most wonderful thing that ever happened to any man."

Reads Telegram

But he did not appear to boast. Rather, he said:

"Now I have a terrific responsibility and you must stand behind me."

The President got a bang out of the invitation to speak at a dinner at which his campaign opponents and wrong-guessers would eat "breast of tough old crow en glace" and he would eat turkey.

He chuckled as he read the telegram to the thousands crowded around his private car at Jefferson City. But, turning solemn, he went on:

"I'll say this to you. I've been in many and many an election campaign, as you people here in Missouri know.

"After an election is over, I don't bear any malice, or feel badly towards any one. Because, the fellow who lost feels badly enough without being crowed over.

"That's what I'm going to tell them."

Laughs At Headline

The fellow who won, however, could not hide his happiness over the amazing triumph that gave him not only victory for himself but a Democratic Congress as well.

At St. Louis the President had a lot of fun holding up for the crowd an early election night edition of the Chicago Tribune with this banner line: "Dewey Defeats Truman."

"That's one for the books," he quipped.

In a serious vein he asked the St. Louis audience to "pray for the welfare of this great country."

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and Mrs. Snyder and their daughter, Drucie, got on the train at St. Louis.

A negro quartet, the "Cavaliers" was singing "Happy Days Are Here Again" as the "victory special" pulled into Jefferson City.

After he had spoken, the quartet, which campaigned for him throughout Missouri, then switched to:

"Stay on the right side, sister, stay on the right side, brother, look out for old man Dewey, he's a lot of hooey."

Interrupting this latter number, the President read the telegram from the Post.

And then, as if to wipe out the bitterness of the campaign, he gave the crowd his own forgive and forget formula for the victors.

The Post offered to arrange the dinner, inviting "newspaper editorial writers, political reporters and editors, including our own, along with pollsters, radio commentators and columnists."

The President would make the address as "dean of American election forecasters" and "the only accurate one" to "share with your colleagues the secret of your analytical success."

Previously, at Sedalia, Mo., another big crowd turned out to receive the President's "thank you" for their support.

Mrs. Truman and Margaret appeared on the platform at all stops.

He will enter the White House for the first time as Chief Executive by the vote of the people.

He first took over the helm April 12, 1945, when Franklin D. Roosevelt died suddenly at Warm Springs, Ga.

South Plains TMA Meets Here Today

Another step in presenting to Lubbock and the South Plains the complete picture of the Texas Manufacturers association and the projects that it is conducting, will be made today when members of the South Plains chapter of the association and their guests, meeting for luncheon in Hilton hotel, hear two experts discuss "employment stabilization."

Main speaker will be David M. Mofthrop, a staff member of the National Association of Manufacturers, who will discuss techniques of approach to the matter, tangible results accomplished, and benefits to be gained by a thorough exploration of the problem at the community level.

Victor F. Grima, manager of TMA's industrial relations department, will show how this problem ties into other important phases of the program.

Both men spoke Thursday in Fort Worth. They are at present touring the state, speaking on the subject of employment stabilization.

Col. W. C. Saffarans, regional manager of the West Texas region of TMA, announced Thursday that he has opened a temporary West Texas headquarters office in Hilton hotel, and that it will be maintained for the purpose of answering any questions pertaining to TMA and its program.

The luncheon today was arranged by the South Plains chapter of TMA and the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the National Association of Manufacturers. Guests are expected from Plainview, Brownfield, Littlefield, Slaton and Muleshoe.

Atomic Control Plan

Chinese resolution.

By its vote on atomic energy the assembly:

1—Approved the majority plan for atomic control as the basis for establishing effective international regulation. This is based on proposals made June 14, 1946 by Bernard M. Baruch, then the American delegate on the UN Atomic Energy commission.

2—Expressed official concern at the impasse between Russia and the West on the subject. Russia objects to the inspection provisions of the Baruch plan and has steadily attacked it.

Inspection Is Snag

3—Asked the United States, Britain, China, France, Russia and Canada to meet to find out if there is a basis for agreement and to report to the assembly not later than the next session.

4—Called upon the Atomic Energy commission to pick up its work where it left off last spring, when the commission decided it could accomplish nothing until the East-West deadlock was broken.

The western plan had been approved by a majority of the 58-nation political committee. Before that it had been vetoed in the Security Council by Russia.

Fundamentally the disagreement hinges on the question of international inspection and control of atomic energy projects. The western powers want an adequate system of that kind set up and working before the atomic bomb is banned.

Soviet Scores Baruch Plan

The Russian proposal called for a treaty banning the atomic bomb and a separate pact setting up controls. The treaties would become effective at the same time.

The vote against the Soviet proposal also was 40 to 6, with only the Soviet bloc states voting in favor.

An Indian amendment to approve the western plan "in substance" was rejected 15 to 9, with 26 nations abstaining. The West insisted on full approval. Vishinsky said the United States does not want atomic control and declared the Baruch plan is a "cunning maneuver" to wreck any control.

33 Dead In Crashes

taking off from the Lagens air base.

MacDill officials said that the plane crashed in poor weather, after dark. A slight rain was falling and the cloud ceiling was believed to have been about 1,000 feet.

Trained In Britain

The bomber was one of 29 bombers returning to MacDill field from England. Their crews had undergone a three-and-a-half month training tour in the British Isles.

The sole survivors of the crash was Staff Sgt. Henry B. Anderson of Tampa.

Of the remaining planes in the flight, half have already landed at MacDill, while the rest are due in late today and Friday.

Victims Identified

Master Sgt. Robert V. Wise, of Tampa; Staff Sgt. William D. Branch, of Tampa; Stagg Sgt. Albert Snead, of Tampa; Master Sgt. Jack Carricker, of Tampa; Tech. Sgt. William D. Stubblefield, Jr., of Tampa; First Lt. William Jacobs, of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Staff Sgt. Raymond J. Chaplain, of Tampa; First Lt. Leonard Cost, of Tampa; Master Sgt. Franklin Albright, of Tampa; Sgt. W. E. Seivey, of Tampa; Master Sgt. Francis A. Tilton, of Tampa.

First Lt. Amado Salinas, Fort Worth, Tex., 8th Air Force base, (home address not available), Staff Sgt. John Gabriszeski, of Tampa; First Lt. James W. McGuire, of Cambridge, Mass., Sgt. William T. Langley, of Tampa; First Lt. Theodore C. Kochimanis, of Palisades Park, N. J.

Texas Tech Student Has More Than His Share Of Bad Luck

One of the saddest "sob stories" heard on the campus at Texas Tech in many a month is being told by Joe France.

France started to school recently. He had a flat on the way to his 8 a.m. class; got his rear fender bent on the way to his second class at 9 o'clock; stopped to pick up his cleaning at 10 o'clock and found they had lost his best suit and two pair of pants; got out of his car at home and was bitten by his own dog.

Makes a person wonder if he wasn't one of those people who wanted Dewey for president!

New Deal Program

was a "sensational surprise" but "this is no hour for either sulking or reprisals."

But there could be trouble for the President from a congressional combination of Republicans and southern Democrats. An alliance of that kind scuttled many a White House proposal in both the Roosevelt and Truman administrations.

Hot Fights Loom

Probably it wouldn't hold together on the hot civil rights issues—those measures proposed to curb racial segregation, lynching and poll taxes. Republicans generally have been pretty much for them.

But those were the issues that brought on a southern rebellion, split the Democratic party, and swung 38 electoral votes of South Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama to States' Rights Democratic candidate J. Strom Thurmond.

A score of Dixie senators would filibuster if the civil rights program ever got to the Senate floor.

But Mr. Truman is committed by campaign promises and his party platform to a civil rights program and to economy and social measures that go even beyond the New Deal of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

He pledged price controls, housing, aid for education, help for farmers, a higher minimum wage, repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law, projects for the west, health insurance, more social security benefits.

Popular Vote Increases

In the campaign to put them across, the President will be working with a Senate that shifted from a 51 to 45 Republican edge to a 54 to 42 Democratic margin.

In the House, he was assured of a Democratic majority of nearly 100 even with five of the 435 seats still in doubt. The Democrats at that point had a net gain of 74 seats, and a total of 261 against 168 for the GOP and one for the American Labor party.

The 1949 line-up in statehouses across the land will be 29 Democratic governors, 19 Republicans. It's a 24-24 stand-off at the moment.

In his own race, Mr. Truman saw his popular vote grow early tonight to 22,642,357. Dewey had 20,786,173, Progressive candidate Henry A. Wallace 1,063,813, Thurmond 921,477. The grand total: 45,415,620.

"The electoral vote count remained unchanged at 304 from 28 states for Truman, 189 from 16 states for Dewey, 38 from 4 states for Thurmond.

That was from 92.2 per cent of the 135,864 polling places.

It was enough to put considerable steam behind the President's program for the new Congress, despite the opposition he will encounter.

Just what will be done about the high cost of living hasn't been worked out yet. Neither have specific formulas for solving other problems.

Mr. Truman doesn't have to have any of them ready until he reports to the legislators in January on the state of the nation.

Rep. Spence (D-Ky.), who will handle price and housing legislation predicted:

"An attempt will be made in some way to control prices and some constructive housing legislation will be a must on our agenda."

Spence, who will take back the chairmanship of the House Banking committee, said at Fort Thomas, Ky., that wages are regulated by collective bargaining and there is "no place for wage freezing in a Democracy."

While Mr. Truman is on the record, along with the Democratic party, for repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, the President still might ask for some sort of legislation that would enable him to deal with strikes affecting the welfare of the whole country.

Dozens of Senate and House members who voted for the Taft-Hartley act were election day casualties, although a number of those who favored it will be back.

Secretary of Labor Tobin said in Boston that he had talked with Mr. Truman by telephone and thinks he reflects the President's views in saying one of the most important recommendations to Congress in January will cover a new labor law ""fair to both workers and management."

In Washington, Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing chipped in some ideas in an interview.

The election outcome, he said, boosts prospects that Congess will do something about:

Creating a federal department of health, education and security; establishing a national health program; extending social security coverage; giving a hand to schools; establishing an independent national science research foundation; meeting the shortage of doctors, dentists, nurses and hospital facilities.

Tobin said he figures the President will keep him on as labor secretary. Elsewhere in the cabinet there may be some changes made.

Secretary of State Marshall, now 68, has wanted to retire for a long time. Secretary of Defense Forrestal may want to get out of the government, too.

Dewey Is Suggested

Rep. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me), who is going to be Maine's new senator, wired a suggestion for a new secretary of state to Mr. Truman. Her candidate: Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. She said the appointment would show the country is completely united on foreign policy and efforts to attain peace.

Dewey still has two more years as governor.

One thing sure is that he won't be the Republican presidential nominee for the third time in a row.

National Republican chairman Hugh D. Scott, jr., indicated in Philadelphia there may be a broad reshuffling in the party. He said he is considering calling a meeting of the Republican national committee after Republican leaders have had "time to catch their breath."

The election defeat that has left them gasping, Scott said, "is in no way a mortal setback" to a party still full of fight, vigor and determination.

But the party can't do much with that vigor before the 1950 congressional elections.

Large Crowd Attends Junior League Follies

A capacity crowd attended the first-night performance of the Lubbock Junior Welfare League's "Follies of 1948" at Lubbock Senior High school auditorium Thursday night, and cast their ballots as the program being a sure winner.

Mrs. John Robert Moxley was voted one of the stars of the show by the applauding audience, when she did a specialty dance, "Tip Top Tap." "F. O. B. Detroit," a skit contrasting automobile salesmen of 1938 with these of 1948, was a pleasing comedy routine.

Another comedy hit which was presented at intervals throughout the show was "So What Did He Say?" featuring Bea McClure and Mrs. David Haymes as Gladys and Irma, two gum-chewing telephone gabbers.

"Ladies From Hades," a take-off on Henry VIII and his wives, and "A Day in the Country," with Jo Simmons and Jim Carter as featured dancers, were two other favorite performances.

And especially timely at present was the comedy skit, "Women in the White House," starring Dr. James Reynolds as Madame President, Dr. David Haymes as Madame's personal secretary, G. V. Pardue, jr., as the Postmistress General, James Robertson as Madame Secretary of the Navy, and Arnold Maeker as the French ambassador.

Heavy Budget Seen

have to be postponed until Gov. Dewey could effect government economies.

A $44 billion spending budget will be $1.8 billion more than the estimated total for the fiscal year which will end next June 30. But it will be close to a minimum program considering the present commitments of the federal government at home and abroad.

The prospective spending total, which will go up to Congress in the January budget, shapes up like this:

Defense and rearmament, 13.5 billions; foreign aid, 7.5 billion; European rearmament, one billion; veterans' benefits, six billion; interest on the public debt, 5.5 billion; tax refunds, two billion; social security, two billion; other, including regular government and salaries, 6.5 billion.

Congresional tax experts now estimate government revenue for the current fiscal year at $44 billion. With spending at that level in the following year, revenue would have to be equally high to permit a balanced budget. There would be nothing left over to apply on the huge public debt.

Because of Mr. Truman's repeated emphasis on a balanced budget and debt reduction, the situation will give new impetus to his drive for enactment of a peacetime excess profits tax on corporations.

The Republican-controlled 80th Congress brushed this proposal aside. As offered in the House by Rep. Dingell (D-Mich), it would have imposed on corporations an excess profits tax of 50 per cent on all profits over a credit 40 per cent higher than that allowed in wartime.

If the President submits this proposal as part of an anti-inflationary program, as he did before, it will encounter strong opposition from both Democratic and Republican ranks in Congress. Sen. George (D-Ga), slated to be the new chairman of the finance committee is opposed to it.

Thus it might be defeated. George, the most powerful figure on tax legislation in recent congressional history, repeatedly forced rejection and revision of Roosevelt administration tax proposals.

Matches Help Tell Area Of Civic Pride

Hale Center 'Strikes' Gold In Advertising Community

HALE CENTER, Nov. 4. (Spl)—Whenever someone picks up a book of matches on the South Plains now, there's a good chance he will read about Hale Center on the cover.

It's part of an intensive civic advertising campaign instituted by progressive Hale Center businessmen, and most of them are in agreement that the campaign is already paying off in one of the biggest fall seasons on record here.

Distributed Over Area

The match books, which have been distributed by the hundreds of cartons in Lubbock and all over the South Plains area, proclaim Hale Center as the "fastest growing small town in the High Plains irrigation area." Inside the cover are figures showing that Hale center has had over 100 new homes in the past two and a half years, seven new business buildings, two new churches and more than 25 new business firms.

The match book program, civic leaders explain, is only one of a five-phase campaign supported by about 50 members of the Hale Center Merchants association.

The other phases are a newspaper and magazine publicity and advertising program; the projected erection of roadside billboards over a wide area; widespread mailing of "boxholder" copies of Hale Center's weekly newspaper, The American; and a free motion picture for Hale Center visitors on Saturday afternoons.

The movies have been attended by 600 to 900 persons since the program began, said Vic Lamb, who with Wayne Browne and F. W. "Spec Dodson" is serving as a steering committee for the campaign.

"We've had a terrific fall business this year," Lamb said, "and a good portion of it is thought to be due to the advertising campaign."

Rings Stolen

Spring relayed over the San Angelo police radio.

Police here relayed to Sheriff Leland Hart of Floyd county a message from the state highway patrol at Big Spring to effect that patrolmen were holding an 18-year-old youth in connection with recovery of five typewriters taken from the schools system in Floydada about a week ago.

The suspect was quoted as saying he bought the machines from a man in another town.

Lubbock police want to question the youth in connection with the recent hijacking of Dink's cafe here, since his general description tallies with the gunman described by several witnesses.

Police arrested a 23-year-old negro woman for Big Spring, who want to question her in connection with theft of property there.

Plainview sheriff's department reported burglary and theft there of much property, including much clothing, pearls, silverware, tires and tubes, tools, motor oil, 16 boxes of shotgun shells and 15 boxes of rifle shells, and permanent type antifreeze.

The sheriff's department had been informed Wednesday of a burglary of Fair hardware, at 806 Main, and theft of $135 in money and other properties. V. E. Skains said a tool box containing the money and a wrist watch, receipts and other papers was taken, as well as two wrist watches from the display window of the place.

Paul R. Ward of 714 Ave. M said that field glasses valued at $30 had been stolen from the glove compartment of his car.

Two auto wheels with practically new tires and a bumper jack were taken at Sudan, the sheriff's office there informed local police.

City police raided five small downtown hotels last night, arresting 14 women on charges of vagrancy by prostitution. All paid fines of $25 on pleas of guilty and were released.

Today's maximum reading was expected to be in the middle and upper 50s. No additional precipitation to amount to anything was forecast by the Weather bureau.

The cold front is not necessarily unusual for this season of the year. In fact, the past two days on the South Plains has been unusually warm. Wednesday's maximum was 79 degrees, about 11 degrees above normal. And at 9:30 a. m. Thursday morning, the temperature was 64 degrees, seven degrees higher than at the same time Wednesday.

Zone Change Denied

not degrade the neighborhood or devalue property.

Bill Anthony appeared before the commission on behalf of Buster Welch's request for reconsideration of his petition for changing lots 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, and 13, block 8, McCrummen's Second addition, from residential to business zone.

Request Is Shelved

The request, involving property on the southeast corner of Ave. Q and Twenty-first street, was temporarily shelved at the Oct. 7 meeting of the commission in order that a hearing for property owners in the affected area be given, including those of the above lots 8-13 east of Ave. Q on Twenty-first, and those of four lots of the west side of Ave. Q on Twenty-first.

Since the property owners affected had not had such a hearing, and since one owner was not ready to make certain changes which would be necessary if the zone change were made, the request again was shelved for study.

Also tabled for further consideration was a request from Sam Allred for changing the North one-half of lot 27 and all of lots 28, 29, and 30, block 31, Easley subdivision, from a "C" to a business zone. This property lies between Second and Third streets on Ave. Q and Ave. Q northeast.

Rejected was a request from E. W. Goodgion and others requesting a zone change at 2725 North Fifth to allow construction and operation of a retail grocery store. Goodgion and three other property owners appeared before the commission, two of whom were in opposition to the proposed change.

It was brought out by the commission that one lot could not be justifiably re-zoned by itself.

Petition Recognized

The commission took cognizance of a petition from approximately 16 persons living on Ave. W between Third and Fourth desiring to go on record as being opposed to any zone change which would allow a business of any kind between Third and Fourth streets from Waco Ave. to Ave. V.

W. L. Bradshaw, of the commission's platting committee, offered for the commission's approval three additions which, having undergone inspection and study of the committee, and having made necessary changes to conform to specifications, were okayed by the platting committee:

Request from Glenn Hess for approval of a plat of "East Drive addition" to Lubbock, out of the northwest corner of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter, survey 8, block B, same being Thirty-eighth and Fortieth streets at Ave. D.

Request from Arthur Holmes for approval of a revised plat of "Holmes addition," located on the north part of the southwest one-quarter of section 10, block A, Lubbock county.

Request by M. A. Sanders for approval of "Circle addition," located between Sixty-sixth and Seventy-fourth streets and East Ave. J and East Ave. N.

All the plats were approved by the commission.

A report was given by the zoning committee, composed of Homer D. Grant and J. H. Murdough, on their meeting with the Board of Adjustment as regards a proposed amendment to allow alterations, repairs, or enlargements of non-conforming structures.

Members present at the meeting were K. N. Clapp, Homer D. Grant, J. T. Krueger, J. H. Murdough, W. L. Bradshaw, and R. L. Oldham. Also present was C. J. Griggs of the city engineering department.

Dewey Urged To Slug

"Democratic candidate" or "my opponent."

The polls, as the campaign went on, convinced Dewey that his strategy was right.

But Mr. Truman kept flailing away with colorful headline phrases and fighting speeches that were drawing plenty of attention.

There were many conferences about that on the Dewey train and between trips, but the decision always was to stick pretty close to the original pattern.

Once Dewey even admonished party workers never to reply "in kind" to what he called the "vituperation and abuse" of the Democrats, "no matter what the provocation."

Almost "Let Fly"

Four days later he came as close to letting fly himself as he ever did during the campaign.

He accused the Truman administration of "mud slinging." He said it had "failed miserably" at home and abroad, was "openly smearing" at the idea of American unity, and had "scattered reckless abuse along the entire right-of-way from coast to coast."

But still his purpose was to highlight that with this: "That is the kind of campaign I refuse to wage."

Tonight, Dewey and his aides still were trying to figure out just what happened.

One idea they mulled over was that the popular vote did not reach the 50,000,000 mark which had been forecast generally. They reasoned that possibly there was so much confidence among Republican voters that many did not bother to go to the polls. Dewey himself discounted that. The Dewey people acknowledged, moreover, that usually the bigger the vote, the bigger the Democratic tally.

Rev. Joseph J. Copeland, pastor of Bolivar street Presbyterian church at Denton, delivered his fourth and final address of Texas Tech's Religious Emphasis week at the college recreation hall last night. He continued the theme of his previous addresses, "Jesus' Way, Our Way." Approximately 300 students were present at the final address.

City firemen made a run about 8:35 o'clock last night to a residence at 2106 East Ave. B in the negro residential section. Slight damage was done in the fire which apparently started from a gas stove placed too close to a wall, firemen indicated.

Charles Ray Isbell, 14-year-old blind youth, is to speak Saturday night as a part of the regular weekend program at the Congregational Methodist church at Fifth street and Ave. C, it was announced yesterday by Rev. R. H. Bollock, pastor, who extended an invitation to the public to attend. Services are held each Saturday night, Sunday morning and Sunday night, with night services starting at 7:30 o'clock, the announcement said.

Approximately 35 Lubbock American Business club members and wives attended the charter banquet of the newly-established Clovis ABC club in Clovis Thursday night. Former State Senator G. H. Nelson of Lubbock was principal speaker, and B. Watkins of Lubbock was master of ceremonies. The new Clovis club was established under sponsorship of the Lubbock organization.

Tommie Deen Martin, 13, of Ralls, who Thursday morning suffered chest injuries in Ralls when the bicycle he was riding collided with an automobile at a street intersection there, was reported by an attendant at Lubbock Memorial hospital Thursday night as in good condition. The youth was brought to the hospital here where X-rays were taken to determine the extent of his injuries.

many southern states as he did, he would have lost the election."

"The States' Rights movement surely would have deprived Mr. Truman of the presidency had not most of the southern Democrats rallied to support the party."

Surprised political observers continued to interpret the magnitude of Mr. Truman's victory in the south as unexpected. He carried all but four states, winning almost 100 electoral votes in Dixie as compared with his total of 304 handed him by the entire nation.

It was recalled that this accomplishment came in the wake of a 'unanimous southern vote against Mr. Truman's nomination at the party's national convention.

Battle In Which British Turned Back Rommel In Africa Recalled

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN
United Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 4 — The sixth anniversary of the battle of Alamein, the great British offensive which inflicted the first defeat the Germans suffered in World War II and turned the tide in the struggle for mastery of Africa has recently passed, Oct. 23 to be exact.

Rommel's Afrika Korps, specially picked and specially trained in tropical conditions, had marched a thousand miles across the desert from Tripoli, fighting, feinting, resting, marching and fighting again.

They threw the British, weakened by years of exposure to sun and sand, weakened by bad equipment and bad generalship, back to within fifty miles of the great naval port of Alexandria and the green Nile delta.

One more lunge would, the Germans calculated, bring the Afrika Korks to the Nile, another few hours they would cut the Suez Canal, in a matter of a week or two they would be across the Persian Gulf, to link up with the Japanese.

Would Stop Convoys

Then, striking west, they would drive right through from French Algeria and Morocco to the British naval bases in Freetown and Lagos and other west African ports and so terminate Allied shipping convoys proceeding from the United States to Europe with vital war material.

The twelve day battle of Alamein ended the Nazi dream and began the series of defeats which led to the complete defeat of the Axis in Africa.

Rommel had entrenched himself along a 30-mile front on the El Alamein line. This stretched from the sea towards the Quattara depression in the south. This dried-up salt lake formed a natural barrier protecting the road from Alexandria to Cairo.

Behind the line, with their backs to Alexandria, the broken British army, which had lost heavily in the retreat from Tobruk, sought feverishly to reform, knowing that Rommel was preparing to attack.

Montgomery Takes Over

Winston Churchill had decided a new commander was necessary in the Western Desert. He decided on the little-heard-of Montgomery. General Montgomery arrived in the desert, began to reorganize the army and instill fresh confidence into the demoralized forces.

Inspecting the lines towards the front, Montgomery saw men digging defenses. "What are you doing? He asked. "Building up defense lines," they answered. "You will never need them," declared Montgomery. "Get ready for victory."

This was the word he preached everywhere. His men were aghast. This was a new type of general. He talked of attack and seemed confident of success, when things seemed blackest.

Then Rommel attacked. The British leader allowed him to advance, to infiltrate among the hidden British anti-tank guns. Once the enemy were deep into the British lines, the anti-tank guns came to life. The Germans suffered tremendous tank losses, withdrew badly punished.

Rommel Off Base

Rommel had had a bad lesson. He then sought to strengthen his own defenses, realizing he had a new type of commander facing him. Also, he found he was far from his base supplies which had to come through Tobruk. And the sea route from Italy to Tobruk was under constant attack from the British air forces and naval surface and undersea craft.

As time passed, Rommel showed increasing signs of nerves. He made frequent journeys back to Rome.

When he was absent, Montgomery struck. It was the mightiest artillery barrage the western allies had used. Eight hundred guns ranged wheel to wheel dug into the desert sand blasted the enemy. It was like the artillery barrages of the first world war.

Like dragon's tongues spitting from the desert, the guns flared night and day.

The British army, comprising Scottish and English regiments, Australians, New Zealanders, Indians, South Africans, Free French and Greeks, fought under the moonlight, through blinding sand, in terrific day-time heat, for nearly twelve days, until the Axis panzers broke.

Victory

The attack, Montgomery announced on the twelfth day, had been a complete victory. The enemy had broken and were in full flight. The Italian desert army was trapped to the south; deserted by their German partners.

The Germans took to the great highway along the coast. They were attacked from the air, from land, from the sea. They struggled back towards Tripolitania. They put up a stand around the salt marshes at El Agheila, between Benghasi and Tripoli. They stood again along the Mareth Line. But they were fighting a losing battle.

The Americans and British had landed in North Africa and the fate of the Afrika Korps, wedged between the desert army and the force to their rear, was sealed.

After Mareth came the last struggle around Tunis. The Afrika Korps surrendered. Africa had been freed from the Nazis.

Damage In Hurricane Estimated At More Than $11 Millions

MIAMI, Fla., Nov 4 (INS) — Eleven and a half million dollars is the final damage estimate as a result of the hard-hitting Oct. 5 hurricane that hit southern Florida and Cuba.

The estimate was made today by the Miami weather bureau.

Damage was figured at $6,000,000 in Cuba and $5,500,000 in Florida.

Included in the damage from floods that struck as a consequence of the storm.

Eleven persons were killed in Cuba and 300 injured. Forty-two persons were hurt in Florida.

It was the second storm that struck the region within two weeks. The hurricane of Sept. 21-23 killed three persons and did 15 million dollars worth of damage in Florida alone.

Ten Of 13 Escaped Convicts Are Caught Near Prison

REIDSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 4 (INS) — Ten of 15 convicts who tunneled their way out of the "escape proof" Georgia Tattnall State prison at Reidsville were bottled up tonight in a wooded area a short distance from the prison.

Two of the fugitives were captured today. Three others were taken shortly after the mass break last night.

Warden Robert P. Balkcom said that some of the escapees had participated in mass breaks in 1943 and 1945. He said he did not think any of them were armed.

Officials had considered the the prison escape-proof until the men found the abandoned tunnel and escaped in a heavy fog.

Tech Princess For Sun Carnival To Be Named By Council

The Student Council at Texas Technological college will be faced with a difficult problem at its regular meeting Monday night when the council's members must decide who is the most winsome lass on the campus, and consequently who will represent the college as Sun Princess at the annual Sun Carnival Dec. 28 at El Paso.

In order that a girl be nominated for Sun Princess, 100 students must sign a petition asking that she be considered, and the petition be filed in the Student Council office before 5 p. m. Monday, Clint Formby, president, has announced.

Candidates for Sun Princes, as in the past, must be between the ages of 17 and 21, single, and have a "C" average.

The Sun Carnival Queen will be crowned on Dec. 28, the first day of the festivities, followed by a pageant presented before the queen and her court. All expenses, except the wardrobe, will be furnished by the Sun Carnival. The time between the crowning of the Queen and the Sun Bowl game on Jan. 1 is reputedly packed with activity, including Mexican and Indian dances, International Day, the Pageant of States, and many other things which are said to make the Sun Queen feel as if she is indeed a queen.

Most UN Delegates Amazed By HST's Upset Triumph

Strengthening Of U.S. Role In World Affairs Seen In Paris

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Nov. 4.—United Nations circles today predicted prompt strengthening of America's predominant role in world affairs as a result of President Truman's return to office.

While both the American and foreign delegations here still sought to overcome their surprise at the election news and its implications, several principal factors emerged:

There will be no waiting period before a new President takes office.

Can Expect Support

Furthermore, the President in the future can count on support from his party in both houses of Congress. The position of the American government thus is fixed firmly for at least the next two years.

The United States' bi-partisan foreign policy is being strengthened. All comment from Republican leaders as expressed or received here has emphasized the continuity of bi-partisan policies.

This was stressed in a statement from John Foster Dulles, member of the American delegation and Republican foreign affairs expert. American delegation members noted that Gov. Dewey himself also emphasized this point.

These factors are expected to result almost immediately in the production of a more self-confident American delegation.

Red Comment — "Amazing"

A one word comment by Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky — "amazing"— remained the reaction of nearly all UN leaders as the scope of Mr. Truman's victory became apparent.

The victory of avowed internationalists in Illinois and Minnesota also drew the attention of delegates sensitive to the impact of American politics in world affairs.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, a UN delegate, termed the election result a demonstration of how labor can organize to get out the vote.

French quarters, who privately rejoiced in Mr. Truman's victory, maintained scrupulous neutrality in their official comment. One spokesman said the French government knew America's foreign policy was bi-partisan and therefore was not at stake in the election.

Gives New Stature

Other French quarters said the victory gave the President a new stature in the world as one of its leading statesmen in his own right. Mr. Truman no longer is riding the late President Roosevelt's coattails, they said.

The first test of American policy after the election may come today when the Security council is scheduled to take up a proposal threatening Israel with sanctions.

Authoritative sources said the U. S. delegation has asked Washington for a final decision on the British-Chinese proposal. The American position on the resolution was reported to have been changed last week as a result of President Truman's intervention.

Arab delegates in Paris professed disinterest in the election results but the Arab office in London, long bitter toward the President, noted he "failed to carry New York state despite his sedulous canvassing of the Jewish vote."

Israel President Cables

President Chaim Weizmann of Israel cabled from Tel Aviv to Mr. Truman that he was "most happy with the result of the election."

Western Europe and Latin America generally hailed Mr. Truman's successful fight.

Moscow newspapers stressed voting irregularities reported in the American press.

During the day the UN assembly approved by a vote of 30 to 0 a Mexican proposal for cooperation among the big powers in settling world problems.

The assembly's steering committee set Dec. 8 as the target for winding up the assembly session and decided to begin night meetings of committees next week.

Old-Time Salesman Carried Hefty Pack, Pioneer Says

MONONA, Ia., Nov. 4. (U.P.)—One of Iowa's few living former pack peddlers think modern traveling salesmen live a soft life.

John Petche, 91, remembers when he covered a three-state area on foot, carrying a 250-pound pack on his back.

Petche recalls his pack as a "walking store," including everything from overalls to medicine. Of course, he says, it didn't always weigh 250 pounds. The more he sold the lighter the pack became — an inducement for high-powered salesmanship.

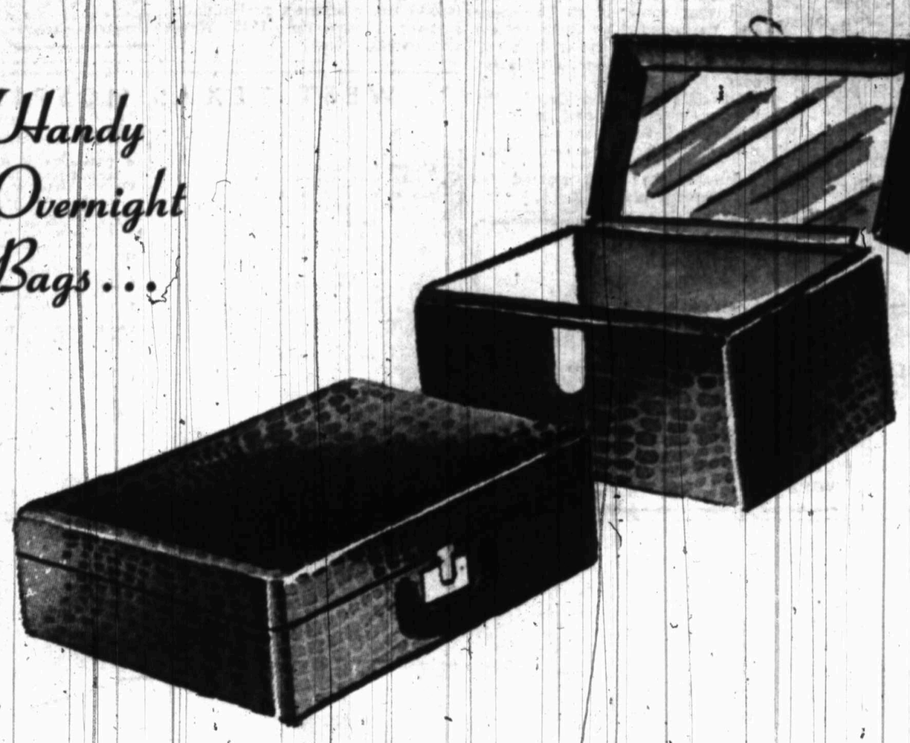

Profits from his business enabled him to buy a farm and abandon peddling.

Signs Prove Confusing To Subway Smokers In Boston

BOSTON, Nov. 4. (U.P.)—Commuters riding the MTA rapid transit trains here almost need a watch and a compass to find out whether it's O.K. to smoke.

Signs on subway trains bear the following bewildering decree:

"Smoking in this vehicle, except when permitted, is prohibited by law. No smoking except on weekdays only between 5 a.m. and 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. and 6:15 p.m. in rear car of trains going toward Forest Hills and in forward car of trains going toward Everett."

GOP FORCES STILL SEEKING ANSWER TO WHAT HAPPENED

Number Of Reasons Studied For Dewey's Defeat; Governor May Go Into Private Business In 1950

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 4. — "What happened?" was the first question asked of Tom Dewey when, having recovered from what must have been the greatest shock of his life, he came downstairs to meet the baggy-eyed press boys early Wednesday afternoon.

He could find no answer, but it would be interesting to hear from him now that he has had time to sit down and give the phenomenom — if Mr. Truman's election was a phenomenon—the scrutiny of his analytical mind.

Has Quit Good Jobs

If he hasn't come up with an answer, he'll get one in time, for time is one thing he'll have in abundance when he leaves Albany in 1950.

Dewey doubtlessly is through with active politics. He needs money. He once quit a $50,000 a year private law practice to take an $8,000 a year job under a frankly hostile Democratic D. A. His subsequent jobs in public office have not brought him a tenth of the material rewards he could find in a law office.

This is just a guess, but when he finally does sift out the reasons for his defeat, these will be among them:

1.—People don't change Presidents when times are good and there is little or no unemployment;

2.—The polls, which Mr. Truman assayed as strictly phony, viewed the situation so rosily that probably more Republicans refrained from voting than did Democrats;

Wouldn't Face Issues

3.—He erred in trying to be all things to all men, instead of spitting on his hands and saying something—as he did when he beat the runaway Harold E. Stassen in Oregon's primaries.

4.—He is cursed by a certain frigidity of personality that keeps the average soul from warming up to him;

5.—Gov. Warren's tepid campaign failed to give off an ounce of the zip and forthrightness expected of the durable Californian at the time of his nomination.

During the news conference Dewey, in pretty good spirits after a blow which, I believe, would have killed an older man, remarked that another one-half of one percent of the votes, in three or four states, would have changed the picture.

New York Vote Close

By the same token, Mr. Truman would have won Dewey's own New York state, and its 47 electoral votes, with a scant 50,000 or so more votes. Those votes were taken away from the President by Wallace. In the South, of course, the President would have won the four states Strom Thurmond captured, and their 38 electoral votes.

It was the closest presidential race since 1916 only because of Wallace and Thurmond. If those two had not formed their splinter-movements Mr. Truman would have won handily from Mr. Dewey.

One wonders how any other Republican would have done against the Democratic standard bearer who overcame such apalling odds as a split party, lack of campaign funds, widespread ridicule by the press and radio and defections from his own circle.

Stassen? Possibly. He would have picked up more votes among service men, within labor ranks and liberal circles than did Dewey. Beyond Stassen I can see no others who might have made a better showing than the New York governor. Taft, I believe, would have been badly beaten.

There was a prophetic touch to the bulletin board of Republican headquarters in Washington on the morning of election day. For weeks before that day, a sign had proclaimed the number of days left before the election of the GOP standard-bearer. On Monday, therefore, the sign read, "One more day until election." But on election day itself some wag made it read, "1460 more days until election."

One of the Hollywood hammos who plugged for Dewey called up Dewey headquarters when the Truman landslide began and said, peevishly, "If Dewey loses I'll have to make pictures in Canada!" Imagine.

Also at Dewey headquarters, a new record for looking to the silver lining was established by one of his workers. When it was all over, except for the removal of the debris, he said:

"Well, we really scared the pants off those Democrats this time!"

Kaleel E. Egnain, 64, a salesman died at noon Thursday in Lubbock Memorial hospital, where he had been admitted about 10 days before with a heart ailment.

Reports Of Liquor Election In Hockley County False

LEVELLAND, Nov. 4. (Special) —No liquor election has been held in Hockley and none is contemplated, despite widespread rumors to the contrary over the South Plains, County Judge Z. O. Lincoln told The Morning Avalanche Thursday.

Numerous calls requesting information on the outcome of such an election have been received by newsmen, but Judge Lincoln said that so far as he knows, no petitions have been circulated and certainly none has been presented to county authorities.

Cartoon Creator Of 'Henry' Claimed At Wisconsin Home

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 4 (INS)— The creator of "Henry", the silent egg-bald youngster of the comic strips, died today in Madison at the age of 83.

Carl Thomas Anderson had almost given up the idea of earning a living by cartooning when he suddenly created the long-necked Henry.

The feature soon was taken up by the Saturday evening Post and three years later it was syndicated by King Features.

Anderson, a native of Madison, attended school in Janesville and first used his pen dollar-wise as a fashion artist for a Philadelphia newspaper.

Clothes From U. S. Rekindle Romance For British Couple

HOBART, Okla., Nov. 4. (U.P.)— American Bundles for Britain not only helped sustain Britishers during the war. They also helped rekindle at least one romance, a British visitor here said.

Mrs. E. W. Stacey tells of a woman who lived down the street from her in London during the war. The woman's husband had left her and then an air raid destroyed her home and possessions.

When the husband heard about the raid, he returned, took one look at his wife—newly outfitted in American clothing—and decided to stay.

MAN WINS OFFICE

MANTON, Mich., Nov. 4. (U.P.) —Mantoan voters decided a woman's place was in the home, reelected Leon Wilson treasurer with 336 votes, and gave his wife who was running against him for the office, 49 votes.

REPUBLICANS WIN IN 13 STATES

Democratic Forces Take Over Governorships In 29 States

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. (AP)—Democrats will have the governorships of 29 states next year as a result of election victories that strengthened their control of the nation's grass-roots political machinery.

The Republicans went into the election Tuesday holding half the 48 governorships, but the Democrats captured 20 of the 33 state contests.

Demos Lose In Two

The Democrats made a net gain of six governorships — winning eight from the Republicans and losing in two states, Utah and Washington.

That would make the new line-up 30 Democrats and 18 Republicans except for one election oddity.

Democratic Gov. Lester C. Hunt of Wyoming was elected to the Senate. When he leaves office, he will be succeeded by A. G. Crane, Republican secretary of state in Wyoming.

So the line-up then will be 29 Democratic governors and 19 Republican.

One Democrat who failed to win re-election was President Truman's good friend Mon C. Wallgren of Washington. Former Governor Arthur B. Langlie, Republican, ousted Wallgren in a close race.

Democrats were elected in Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Montana, North Carolina, Ohio, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas, West Virginia, Michigan, Massachusetts and New Mexico (20).

In 10 states—including Wyoming—with Democratic governors there was no election this year.

Republicans won elections in Iowa, Kansas, Maine, New Hampshire, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Wisconsin, North Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Washington (13). The Republicans had five carry-overs in office.

Democrats routed Republicans from office in Ohio, Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Montana, Michigan, Illinois and Massachusetts.

Trials Of Two Men Accused Of Selling Horse Meat Pesponed

HOUSTON, Nov. 4. (U.P.)—County court trials of two Houston men charged with selling horse meat have been postponed until January at the request of District Attorney A. C. Winborn.

Winborn said today the trials of brothers Sol and Irving Taub, named in four separate indictments, had been delayed "because the horse meat situation still is under investigation." They will be tried Jan. 4.

Two Arrested In Oklahoma Killing

FORT WORTH, Nov. 4. (AP)—A parking lot attendant's discovery of dried blood on an automobile today led to the arrest of two Lansing, Mich., men who confessed to slaying the car's owner near Arcadia, Okla., Tuesday night.

In a statement to District Attorney Al Clyde one of the men, Max Eugene Klettke, 23, admitted shooting the man, and with a companion, Harry Eugene Raskin, 18, throwing the dying man's blanket-wrapped body into a ditch. Raskin confirmed Klettke's story.

The slain man was tentatively identified as Carl Beach, about 48, retired New York Central railroad employe of Corfu, New York.

Victim's Body Found

Arrest of Klettke and Raskin here ended a six-state manhunt which started yesterday with discovery of the bullet-riddled body in a dry ravine about 25 miles northeast of Oklahoma City.

The body was found by Robert Traylor, negro school bus driver, about 7 a.m. yesterday.

Arrest of the two here came after Herman Edgar, parking lot attendant, discovered blood on the running board of a 1938 Buick sedan.

Edgar summoned help from Traffic Patrolmen Truman White and W. G. "Guy" Turner, who arrested the two when they returned from a clothes-buying errand.

To Be Returned

Both waived extradition proceedings, and were to be returned to Oklahoma City in custody of W. N. Mounger, assistant Oklahoma county attorney and T. M. Field, chief criminal deputy sheriff.

Klettke confirmed in a written statement that he emptied an old-style breakdown .38-caliber revolver into Beach's head from the right seat of the sedan.

He said he and Raskin had planned to rob the slightly-crippled New York man and take his car with them to Galveston, where they hoped to find jobs on fishing boats. Both denied they intended to kill him during the robbery, however.

The victim was identified by a small address book found in his shirt pocket and by a garage ticket, dated Tuesday, from a Joplin, Mo., service station.

Klettke said he and Raskin had left Lansing Sunday night in a rented car. The car ran low on gas and they abandoned it to hitchhike into Indianapolis, Ind.

They were picked up by Beach about 3 p.m., Monday outside of Indianapolis and were told they could ride as far as Amarillo with him. When the New Yorker stopped for repairs in Joplin, the hitchhikers hit on the plan to rob Beach.

After the killing they drove into Oklahoma City and spent Tuesday night in a downtown hotel. The bloodspattered car was checked into the Fort Worth parking lot about 12:30 a.m. today.

New Hard-Hitting Tank Named In Honor Of Gen. Patton Perfected

By GEORGE MOISE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—A new hard-hitting M-46 medium tank named in honor of the late Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., a leading apostle of armor in World War II, will be unveiled in Detroit on Armistice Day, Nov. 11.

The M-46 is an improved model of the M-26 which appeared in the late stages of the war and proved to be a formidable match for the German "Tiger," one of the world's finest tanks up to that time.

Tests conducted by the Army's ordnance department tank engineers show that the M-46 has greater speed, increased reliability and more maneuverability than the M-26.

Powered by a continental motors' "all purpose" air-cooled 12-cylinder engine, the M-46 will have 62 per cent more power and its speed will be increased from 20 to 30 miles per hour. The M-46 will have 810 horsepower compared with 500 in the M-26.

A single "wobble-stick" control which combines gear-shifting and steering has been substituted for relatively complicated controls in older-type tanks. Moving the stick forward, or backward or to the side, determines the direction of movement.

Older tanks, except the light M-5S and M-24S which had hydromatic transmissions, had rather conventional transmissions which forced drivers to become expert gear shifters to keep their tanks operating at top engine power.

Can Operate In Cold

The M-46's chief offensive armament is a 90-MM, high velocity gun which was used on the M-26 and some of the General Sherman" M-4s.

It also has redesigned tank treads and a water-proofed electrical system which permanently shields all circuits.

With special intake and exhaust stacks added, it is capable of fording streams so deep that the entire engine is submerged. A winterized hull permits it to operate at temperatures as low as 65 degrees below zero.

Mrs. Patton will christen the tank at the Detroit arsenal on Nov. 11 which marks the day of the General's birth and the date in 1942 when he accepted the Armistice offer of the French forces in North Africa.

First Aid Course To Be Taught In City

A standard first aid course will be taught at Red Cross headquarters at 1513 Ave. K Saturday and Sunday and will be open to leaders of Scouts and other young people's groups, bus drivers, employes in industries and others interested, the Red Cross announced Thursday.

The course will be given at request of the safety supervisor of the Santa Fe at Clovis, N.M., and the Santa Fe will be represented in the class.

The course will be taught by James Winn, a guard at the regional Veterans administration building, who is a qualified Red Cross first aid instructor.

The course may be taken as preparation for an instructor's course to be taught here by a representative from the Red Cross area office at St. Louis, beginning Nov. 29. Anyone interested in training in first aid or in going further to become an instructor may attend the course, which will be free, it was announced.

Training will open at 8 a.m. each day. The full 16-hour course will be offered in the two days. Those planning to attend were asked to go to the Red Cross headquarters and get their first aid textbooks.

Relaxing Is Somewhat Easier With Latest Fishing Pole

GARY, Ind., Nov. 4. (U.P.)—To make things even easier, a fishing rod that rings a bell when the fish bite has been patented by an eastern inventor. Equipped with a gaff-hook at its tip to simplify landing large fish, the rod has a wood handle and metal shaft.

The angler has no need to hold the rod after casting, according to the inventor. When the fish strikes, a spring releases a liberal length of line for a sporting run.

New Women Solons Are Elected For Democrats And Republicans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. (AP)—Two new faces, one a Democrat and the other a Republican, will feature the increased feminine representation in the 81st Congress.

Judge Reva Beck Bosone, the first woman police judge in Salt Lake City, won on the Democratic ticket in Utah, and Mrs. Cecil M. Harden of Covington, Republican national committeewoman, was elected in Indiana.

The "feminine bloc" in Congress was one place where the Republicans did not lose their numerical lead. They will have five party members to four for the Democrats in the coming session. In the last Congress there were seven women—four Republican and three Democrats.

Of the nine women lawmakers, one will be in the Senate and eight in the House.

Will Rogers Praised As New Commemorative Stamp Issued

CLAREMORE, Okla., Nov. 4. (AP)—Dedicating the new Will Rogers stamp, fourth assistant Postmaster General Walter Myers said today the late Oklahoma cowboy-humorist had created his own memorial in the hearts of his fellow-Americans.

"We cannot dedicate memorials to a soul that keeps on living when the flesh is dust," Myers said in an address prepared for ceremonies marking the first-day sale of the commemorative issue in Rogers' homelown.

"With a rope, a horse and a wad of chewing gum, with a wisecrack and a quip, he conquered a world and its people begged to be his willing slaves," Myers said.

LEMON COCONUT CAKE

Snowdrift's new "quick-mixing" way to get a lighter, richer, moister cake!

Sift together in a large bowl:
2¼ cups sifted cake flour
2½ teaspoons double-action baking powder (3¼ teaspoons single-action)
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups sugar

Add: ½ cup Snowdrift (quick-blending!)
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind

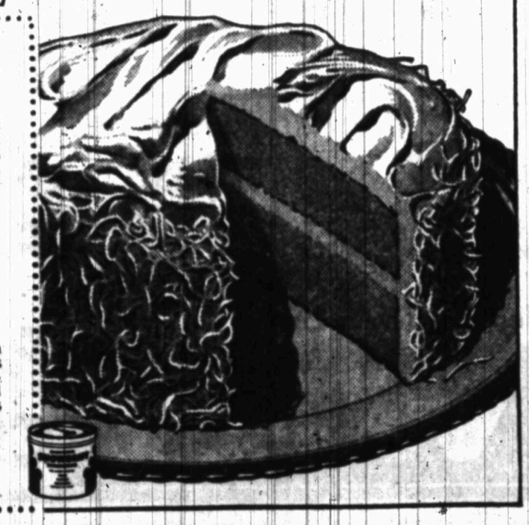

Mix until flour is dampened. Beat 2 minutes. If you beat by hand and take "rests," count beating time only. (If you use electric mixer, set at "low speed"; scrape bowl and beaters frequently.)

Add: 2 eggs
¼ cup lemon juice

Beat 1 minute. Turn into 2 greased 8- or 9-inch layer pans, with bottoms lined with thin plain paper. Bake in moderate oven (375°) about 25 minutes. Cool on cake racks 5 minutes; turn out of pans, invert and cool. Put layers together with—

COCONUT FROSTING
2 egg whites
1½ cups sugar
⅓ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
⅓ cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup shredded coconut

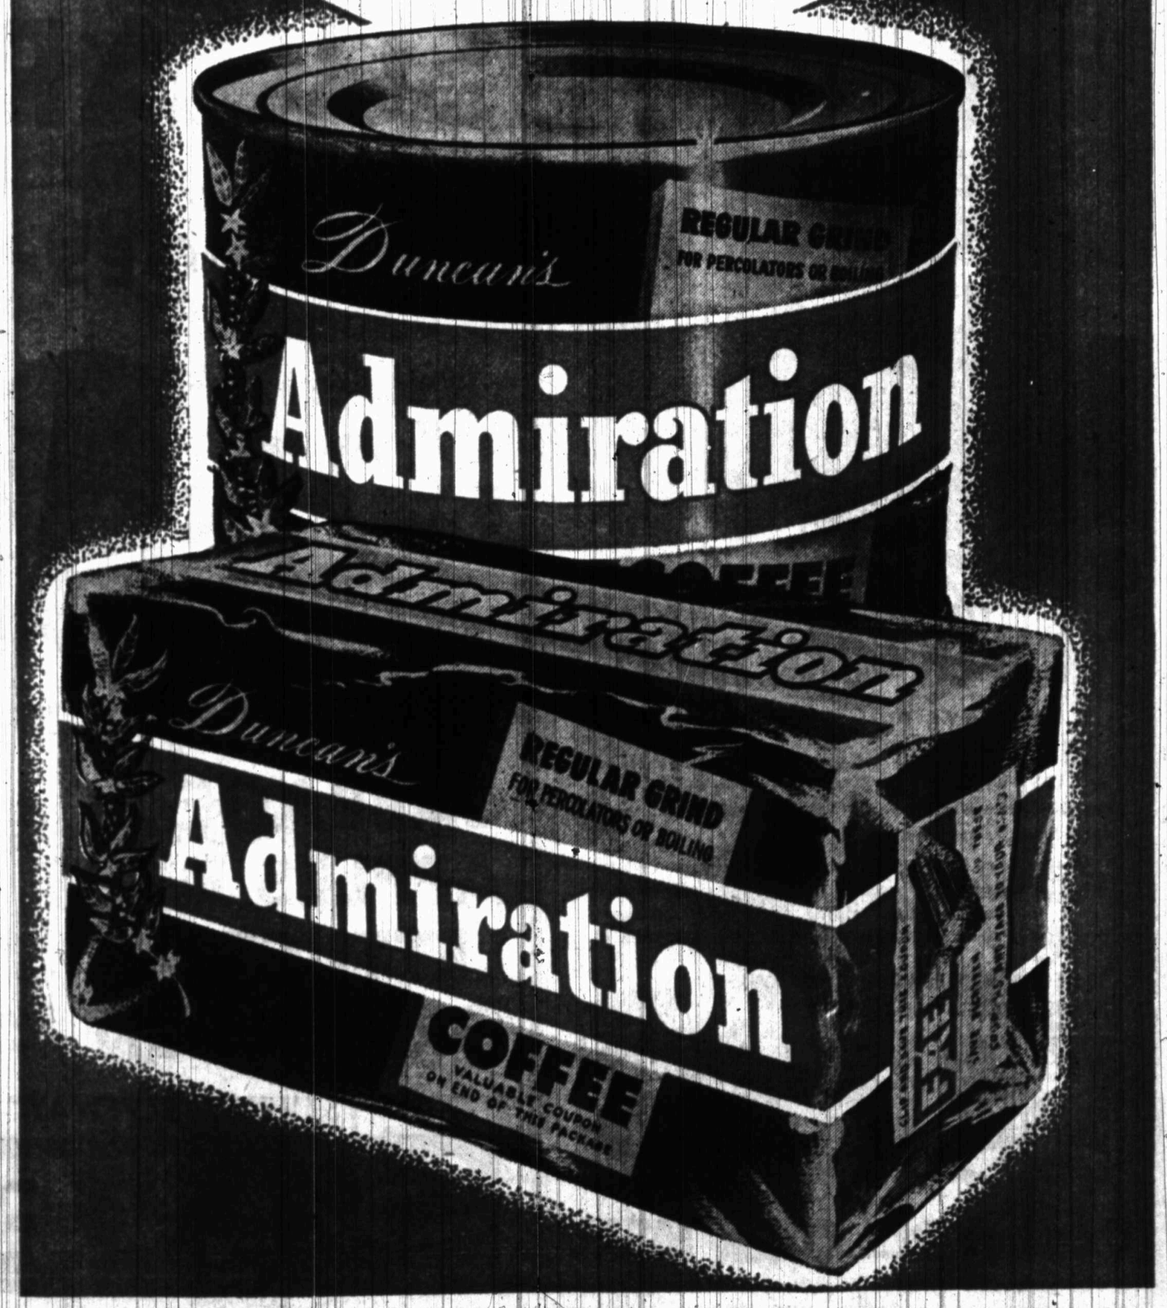

Put all ingredients except vanilla in double boiler, over boiling water. Beat constantly with rotary beater 7 minutes, or until icing "peaks." Cool. Add vanilla. Ice cake; press coconut against sides of cake.

Army Engineers Okay Plans For Six More Dams On Brazos River

DALLAS, Nov. 4. (AP)—Approval of the recommendation that six additional dams be constructed in the Brazos river project was announced here today by Col. Henry Hutchings, jr., of the U. S. Army district corps of engineers.

The dams, if approved by Congress, would make a total of eight for the Brazos watershed. The Whitney dam near Whitney, Texas, on the Brazos already is under construction. Work on the Belton reservoir on the Leon river north of Belton will start Dec. 9, 1948, Colonel Hutchings said.

Colonel Hutchings said the total cost of the additional dams was estimated at $92,000,000.

Colonel Hutchings said he had issued his "notice of favorable action" on the Army engineers recommendations that the six new projects be constructed and was making the announcement at this time in reply to press queries.

Sites Are Listed

The six dams and reservoirs would be for flood control and other purposes, Hutchings said. He listed them as:

1. Waco reservoir on the Bosque river at the northwest edge of the Waco city limits. The reservoir would inundate present Lake Waco, he said, and necessary arrangements will be made to care for that.
2. Proctor reservoir in Comanche county on the Leon river, immediately upstream from the town of Proctor.
3. Lampasas reservoir on the Lampasas river five miles southwest of Belton.
4. Laneport reservoir on the San Gabriel river near Granger.
5. Somerville reservoir on Yegua creek at the edge of Somerville in Burleson county.
6. Ferguson reservoir on the Navasota river ten miles due east of Bryan.

Other Proposals Made

Hutchings said that in addition to these, the recommendations would include a revision of the Belton reservoir plans to include installation of hydroelectric power facilities at an estimated cost of $5,000,000 increase over the present cost.

Recommendation also has been made for channel improvement at Lampasas on the Lampasas river at an estimated cost of $865,000. A levee improvement project in Burleson county improvement district No. 1 on the Brazos river from Bryan 40 miles downstream at an estimated cost of $2,725,000 also was recommended.

These recommendations, including the six additional dams, would bring the total to $100,890,000.

Colonel Hutchings said that he had sent his approval of the recommendations to the Army chief of engineers. The board of engineers of rivers and harbors must study the proposals first. If they approve the recommendations, they then would be submitted to Congress.

Small Portable Radio Suggests Many Uses

NEW YORK, Nov. 4. (U.P.)—A powerful little radio no larger than a king-size package of cigarettes has been developed, primarily for the hard of hearing. It's hooked on the side of a conventional hearing aid and the whole thing slips into a coat pocket. The user puts the plug into his ear and can tune in on his favorite radio program.

The manufacturer reports that he is receiving orders from pesons with nomal hearing. Sports fans want the sets to wear at football games, so they can get the expert's opinions as they watch the plays. A housewife explained her order by saying that her favorite soap opera went on the air just when she had to escort her son to school.

Rep. Knutson Ousted After 32 Years Of Service In Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Rep. Harold Knutson of Minnesota—the tax-cut man who has been in Congress 32 years—topped the long list of GOP congressmen and senators defeated in the Democratic election sweep.

The voters chose instead a string of New Dealers and political newcomers who promised to carry out many of the things that President Truman asked for—but didn't get—from the Republican-controlled 80th Congress.

Sen. Ball Also Ousted

Knutson, as chairman of the House Ways and Means committee, was author of the $5,000,000,000 income tax reduction bill passed by Congress last year over President Truman's veto. He was the oldest Republican in the House in length of service. He lost his place to Fred Marshall, 42-year-old farmer, Democrat and political newcomer.

Minnesota voters also turned out GOP Sen. Joseph H. Ball. They chose instead Hubert H. Humphrey, jr., a Democrat. Humphrey, now mayor of Minneopolis, is a former professor of political science and radio commentator. Best known for his successful effort to get a strong Civil Rights platform written into the Democratic platform, Humphrey also is a warm friend of labor and favors development of big public power projects along the lines of TVA.

Brooks Defeated

Illinois voters likewise chose an ex-college professor to represent them in the Senate — Paul H. Douglas, former Marine and professor of economics at the University of Chicago. Douglas will replace Republican Sen. C. Wayland Brooks.

Other Senators-elect who bear the New Deal stamp are Matthew M. Neely of West Virginia, Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, Lester C. Hunt of Wyoming and Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. The first three replace Republican Sens. Chapman Revercomb, E. H. Moore, and Edward V. Robertson. Kefauver replaces Sen. Tom Stewart, Democrat.

Kerr, millionaire oilman and former Oklahoma governor, is opposed to the Taft-Hartley law but is cool toward the Civil Rights program.

Two Democratic senators-elect whose sympathy for the New Deal isn't so pronounced are Guy M. Gillette of Iowa and Virgil Chapman of Kentucky. Gillette, victor over Republican Sen. George A. Wilson, was on President Roosevelt's purge list while a member of the Senate in the 30's.

Chapman voted for the Taft-Hartley bill but has promised to support any "necessary" amendments. Another senator elect who supported the Taft-Hartley law and is opposed to the Civil Rights program is Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

In the House, prominent names other than Knutson's will be missing when the 81st Congress Among them is Rep. Walter C. Ploeser, (R-Mo.)

British Poet Is Nobel Winner

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 4 (INS) — T. S. Eliot, American-born British poet and author, was awarded the 1948 Nobel prize in literature today. The award is valued at about $44,000.

The Nobel prize in physics went to another Briton, physicist Patrick M. S. Blackett, for his work in nuclear physics and cosmic rays. It was the ninth time the physics prize has gone to a Briton.

The chemistry award went to Prof. Arno Tiselius of Sweden's Uppsala university. He has won distinction for discovering an unknown albumen (protein) substance in the blood of humans and for announcing the separation of the polio virus in pure form.

Has Been Paid Tribute

Eliot, a native of St. Louis, Mo., became a British subject in 1927.

The 60-year-old poet is regarded as one of his adopted country's most distinguished literary figures.

On his birthday last September, Britain and the rest of the world paid him tribute in printed and spoken praises that rarely has been accorded a living writer.

The Manchester Guardian, influential British newspaper, wrote at the time that Eliot had "revitalized our whole conception of poetry."

The recognized founder of the new school of "unromantic verse" was awarded the order of merit by Britain last December.

The award, made in New York's honors list, carries no title as do some of the other awards. But it considered as perhaps the greatest honor granted by King George VI personally and is limited to 24 living persons.

Eliot is perhaps best known for his poetical play "Murder In the Cathedral," which deals with the death of Thomas Becket.

NAMED TO BOARD

AUSTIN, Nov. 4. (AP) — Gov. Beauford H. Jester today announced reappointment of H. A. Freeman of Wichita Falls and appointment of Leon O. Lewis of San Antonio to the State Board of Public accountancy. Both terms will expire Sept. 4, 1950.

'Furore' Over Stunt At Texas University Continues To Rage.

AUSTIN, Nov. 4. (AP)—The executive committee of a local women's Christian Temperance union today deplored the visit of University of Texas President T. S. Painter and dean of women Dorothy Gebauer to a nightclub—even though their appearance was a stunt in behalf of charity.

Later, however, a group of university students reported that Mrs. Claude Devan Watts, state WCTU president, had said she was "willing to forgive and forget'."

Mrs. Watts could not be contacted for confirmation of this statement. The students, headed by Perry Johnson of Groom and Oree Weller of Corpus Christi, said Mrs. Watts and the executive committee refused to retract their criticism of Dr. Painter and Dean Gebauer.

The furore arose after a campus auction was held to support a drive for charity funds to go in the campus chest. Two students bid $10 each for Dr. Painter to chauffeur a student couple to a downtown cafe and bar and for Dean Gebauer to accompany Dr. Painter.

"Deplorable," said Mrs. Watts when she read of the incident. She announced a protest meeting would be held by the Frances Willard WCTU chapter here.

Six students chipped in $5 each for the campus chest if Mrs. Watts would go to the night spot for 30 minutes tomorrow night. They offered to escort her and said she would be "perfectly free to express any opinion she wants to." Other students added donations and the total rose to $361.52.

"Ridiculous," said Mrs. Watts. She refused to make the trip.

Johnson, leader of the movement to secure a retraction of Mrs. Watts' criticism of the university officials, and five companions sought an audience before the executive committee.

"I don't think they have anything to say to me. I don't have anything to say to them. I just feel sorry for them," Mrs. Watts told reporters.

California GOPs Change Their Celebration Theme In Hurry

PASADENA, Cal., Nov. 4. (INS) —Before the election the Republicans issued invitations to a "Victory Ball" to be held at the Elks club on Nov. 13.

Today they changed it to a "hard times ball." Those who plan to attend were instructed to wear blue jeans and gingham instead of formal attire.

Settlement Of West Coast's Waterfront Strike Indicated

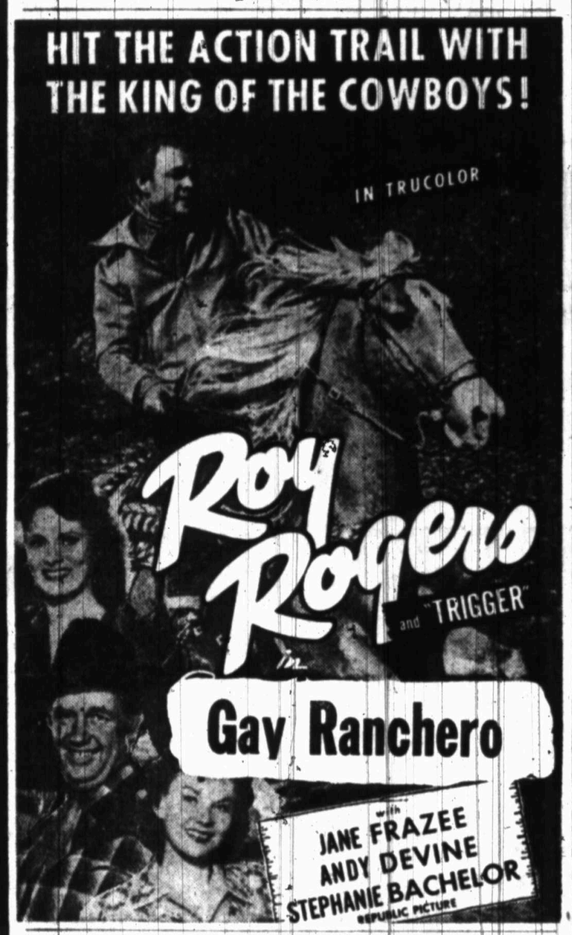

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4. (AP) —The San Francisco employers' council has suggested a formula for possible settlement of the west's 64-day-old waterfront strike, its President Almon E. Roth said tonight.

A union spokesman had said earlier that "this thing looks like it is going to be settled soon," but employer representatives had commented only that "the door is still open."

Both said the council's formula "for early resumption of negotiations" is in the hands of employers, local unions and national CIO officers, but "I cannot reveal details until the membership and officers of the employers and unions have had time to act upon it or offer suggestions for modifications." One union will meet Saturday.

Both waterfront employers and union sources had conceded earlier today that "something is stirring."

Dry Forces, Like Republicans Take Stinging Defeat At Polls

(By The Associated Press)

The election was almost as disastrous for the nation's drys as it was for the Republicans.

The returns showed today that the wets won in five of six states where proposals concerning drink were submitted to the voters.

Proposals for bonuses for World War II veterans got a mixed reception. Five states endorsed them, two voted "no." In three other states where returns are incomplete, bonus proposals were winning in two and losing in one.

Kansas Drops Law

In Kansas, the voters repealed a 68-year old prohibition amendment and gave the legislature authority to set up a state-controlled liquor sale system.

Other wets vs. dry results:

Washington — Incomplete returns showed approval of licensed sale of drinks in hotels and restaurants, and defeat for a proposal to abolish wine and beer taverns.

Colorado — A proposal to extend local option to all political subdivisions of the state was defeated.

South Dakota — A proposal to ban sale of liquor in food stores was defeated by 13,500 votes.

California — Twin proposals to give local authorities control of liquor sales and the right to bar minors and unaccompanied women from bars went down by a two-to-one margin.

Oregon Drys Win

Oregon — Dry forces once more defeated proposed licensing of the sale of drinks in hotels, restaurants and clubs.

In Indiana, South Dakota, Iowa, Washington and Louisiana, voters approved schemes for veterans bonuses ranging in state totals from $30,000,000 to $142,000,000.

Incomplete returns showed similar proposals winning in Minnesota and Oregon. But in Missouri, bonus supporters were taking a licking at the half-way mark.

Nebraska and Wisconsin voted "no" on state bonuses.

Massachussetts and New Mexico voters defeated proposals to outlaw the closed and union shop, but in Arizona, a similar proposition got a three-to-one approval.

Altogether, voters in more than half the states cast ballots on nearly 200 special issues, mostly proposed state constitutional amendments.

Workers Needed For Jobs At Air Force At Keesler Field

Instructors for airplane and engine mechanics, and Air Force base supply procedure are needed by the air force at Keesler Air Force base, Keesler Field, Miss., according to announcement by Louis P. Boudreaux, executive secretary of the Keesler Field civil service board.

Airplane and engine mechanics pay $2,974 and $3,727 a year, and supply procedure instructors draw $3,727 a year. Teaching experience at high school or college level in engineering, physics, general science, industrial arts, aircraft mechanics and vocational training, is among requirements.

Age limits of 18 to 35 in one bracket, and 18 to 62 in the other, are waived for veterans preference. Information and blanks are available at most first-and second-class postoffices in southern and southwestern states, or from regional civil service offices.

White Collar Girls Wear Less And Less Clothes To Office

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (U.P.)—White collar workers are wearing fewer clothes "almost to the extreme of shocking exposure," a fashion survey shows.

Working girls simply "underdress," the American Women's Institute reports.

"They wear off-shoulder blouses, deep-cut necklines, skirts with long splits, and transparent blouses and thin sweaters." The group found girls from small cities under-dress even more than their big city sisters, the report added.

The faults of men's wear were not overlooked. "The chief fault with men," the organization said, "is that they clutter every pocket with miscellaneous objects from paper notes to screwdrivers."

Boston Is Tops

It rated Boston's office workers the best dressed in the nation, followed by those in Washington, Kansas City, Detroit and Atlanta.

Rated lowest in the survey was Chicago, where the women wear "too many sweaters, too few hats and many go without handbags."

New York, Los Angeles, Miami and Philadelphia rated barely above Chicago in the survey.

In the nation as a whole, the survey revealed that less than five per cent of the men wear garters and only three per cent wear gloves with an overcoat. The investigators apparently were relieved to discover, however, that 95 per cent of the men report for work wearing ties.

It said 79 per cent of the women wear hats to the office while only 63 per cent of the men protect their hair. Sixty-one per cent of the women were found to report for work in the summer without stockings.

"In some cities," the report said, "gas attendants, waitresses, and other service employees rated better dressed than office employees."

Senator Taft Sees Labor Law Changes

NEW YORK, Nov. 4. (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), interviewed as he boarded a ship for Europe, predicted today President Truman would not repeal the Taft-Hartley act.

"I do think that some amendments will be made," he added.

Taft sailed with his wife on the liner Vulcania. He said he was making the trip to rest and "to get a little better background of European conditions." He explained it was his first visit to Europe in 10 years.

Combination Chicken Crows And Lays Eggs In Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 4. (U.P.)—Mrs. F. A. Gilliam has a versatile chick she says crows every other day.

"It," she said, began its productive life complete with cock's comb and egg-laying ability.

The eight-month-old fowl is a mixture of Rhode Island Red and Buff, Orphington, she said. It is one of a dozen birds the Gilliams own.

Its status is unusual but not unheard of, according to Prof. Frank E. Mussehl, professor of poultry husbandry at the state agriculture college. He said the chicken's condition indicates an endocrine gland disturbance.

TEXAS PRISONS

We Must Do The Job

MOST TEXANS are in apparent agreement that consideration of remodeling and modernizing the State prison system should be given high priority when the Legislature meets in January. The indications are that most legislators concur in this view.

The law-makers will have the advantage, as they start their studies of recommendations of prison board members and officials who should be, and doubtless are, thoroughly conversant with the needs of the system. These recommendations probably will not be followed in detail. But the assumption must be that the proposals are basically sound and would provide a solid foundation upon which to work.

The modernization is sure to cost a good deal—recommendations of the prison board plan to ask $4,196,000 to get their program into operation. Whether these estimates can be trimmed substantially without serious impairment of the program remains to be seen. The probabilities seem against it. But the expense, although relatively heavy, is not one which Texas properly cannot postpone beyond the next legislative session.

An Implication?

IT IS ENTIRELY conjectural as to what political effect, if any, was sought in the Interstate Commerce commission's election day rejection of an immediate 8 per cent increase in railroad freight rates.

The commission inevitably has absorbed a New Dealish complexion during 16 years of New Deal rule, so the suspicion is justified that some might have cherished the hope that the decision might swing a few votes. Some popular resentment unquestionably has resulted from the promptness with which the ICC usually has approved applications for rail freight rate boosts during recent years.

But of much greater importance in its implications will be the action taken on requests for a permanent 13 per cent increase, upon which hearings are to begin November 30. The railroads are much more interested in obtaining this boost than the 8 per cent emergency hike which was denied. ICC precedent of recent years forecasts an approval of the application.

However, the rejection of the emergency increase which would have added just that much to the cost of living, offered some grounds for encouragement. It inspired the hope that one governmental agency has awakened to the realization that a halt must be called somewhere, if the rising living cost spiral is to be checked.

It held the possibility of becoming an example which, if followed in many fields, would provide worthwhile price relief. And most Americans remain to be convinced that the railroads would suffer seriously if they are made to realize that their rates have hit a ceiling, and that any future revisions will be downward rather than upward.

There is no place like home. It's the place where a man can stretch and yawn and not have to make apologies.

Solomon was certainly a wise man. He had a thousand wives and never paid a single cent in alimony.

HE bent over her with mingled thankfulness and anxiety, and her troubled face relaxed. She stirred a little, and settled more comfortably into the pillow. Very cautiously he straightened the covers and drew them over her. Then he retreated to a rather uncomfortable-looking chair by the window, rested his crossed feet on the bureau, and took up his vigil.

He had found her, and she was safe, but what came next? An alarming sense of his own helplessness was growing on him tonight. Whatever happened, he could only stand by and watch. But from now on, he dared not let her out of his sight. Suppose he lost her. It came as rather a shock to him that he had not, apparently, developed any sort of second sight which would guide him to her again, across the world. If once he lost touch with her, or at least with the family, it might be years before he saw her again . . . centuries. . . .

But she needed him. He was so sure of that. She belonged to him. It was his job to look after her. But how?

Someone was ringing the night bell, and banging on the street door. There was a stir downstairs. Sabrina slept through it, smiling.

Arrival of distraught family, thought Hilary. Let her have her sleep out, why can't you? Go to bed and shut up till morning.

There was a tapping on Sabrina's door, and she sat up, startled.

"It's all right," he said gently.

"Who's there?" called Sabrina, tremulously.

"It's me, dear—Aunt Effie. Open the door."

"You might as well let her get it over," Hilary advised, preparing to surrender his chair.

Sabrina got out of bed and snapped on the light and unlocked the door.

"YOU naughty girl, how could you worry us so? We had to ring up the police station at Wells!" Aunt Effie came in and shut the door behind her.

"I'm sorry." Sabrina returned to the bed and sat up in the middle of it with the covers pulled round her, looking very small and forlorn.

"Somebody saw you getting on the bus for Glastonbury, or I really don't know what we should have done, we might have worried all night long—"

"I'm sorry, Auntie. I meant to post you a letter in the morning to say I was all right."

"But what were you going to do, dear, out in the world all alone?"

"I don't know—I thought of trying to get a job—"

"A job!" cried Aunt Effie, as though she had said a rattlesnake.

"Well, I only had two pounds seven, and so—"

"But surely you meant to come back home tomorrow!"

"No."

"But why? Your father thinks it's all because you didn't want to go to a school, but surely—"

"I didn't want to leave Nuns Farthing."

"But you did leave it, when you came here!" Aunt Effie pointed out triumphantly.

"I know. I was wrong."

"Well, I'm glad you see that now, at least. Sabrina, darling, promise me you'll never run away again!" But Sabrina was silent, her arms locked round her bent knees, staring at the foot of the bed. "And I'll make you a promise too," Aunt Effie hurried on persuasively. "I'll promise not to say anything more about Switzerland, unless you decide you really want to go. Is that a bargain?"

Sabrina turned a faintly hopeful face towards her aunt.

"Do you mean that, Auntie?"

"OF course I do! If I'd any idea you felt as strongly as all this about not going—well, we just won't say anything more about it, shall we! No more school—no more running away!"

"That's not good enough, Sabrina," Hilary warned her. "Make her promise you won't have to leave Nuns Farthing."

But Sabrina, heavy with exhaustion, and being naturally a trustful soul, saw only that her lifelong dread of school could be forever dispelled.

"I promise," she said.

"And I promise!" said Aunt Effie brightly. "Now, your father and I have taken rooms here for the rest of the night and we'll all drive home together in the morning. There are two lovely beds in my room, Sabrina, wouldn't you like to come in there and be cozy?"

"No, thank you, Aunt Effie. I've unpacked here."

"Well, remember, now, you've promised."

"Yes, Auntie. Good night."

"Good night, dear. Shall I put out the light?"

"Yes, please."

Aunt Effie kissed her affectionately, and snapped out the light, and went away. Sabrina got up to lock the door behind her, and crawled back into bed and pulled the covers well up over her head.

Hilary restored his feet to the bureau and settled back to think. He knew as well as anything that Aunt Effie's crafty bargain still left the way open for her to take Sabrina away from Nuns Farthing as soon as she chose, and he was sure that she would lose no time about it now, unless—

He contemplated the only answer in the world. If Aunt Effie could somehow be convinced that he was no longer in the house—. But merely for him to keep still and not upset Bella was not enough. If he could somehow exorcise himself publicly from Nuns Farthing, Sabrina might be allowed to stay on there in peace.

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

YOU probably all remember the late Will Rogers' slogan, "All I know is what I see in the papers."

I was thinking of that this morning when I got through with my paper, and I was marvelling once again how much about life one can learn from his daily newspaper if one will just do a little thinking after reading.

BRANDEIS

I have been a newspaperman for the best part of my life. After these many years my respect for our newspapers is increasing with every day, and I wish that I could make you folks look at your local newspaper with the same admiration that I have for them.

For instance, take a few items in today's paper.

Similar, if not the same items, appeared in yours.

Here is a review of Representative Sol Bloom's new autobiography.

Take just one paragraph out of it and you have the very heart of America:

"Some people have portraits of all their ancestors hanging in their houses. My only ancestors of which I know very much are my mother and my father."

Compare that with all those snobs you know who have nothing to their credit but a long line of ancestors about whom they brag and boast to the boredom of everyone who is willing to listen to them.

I don't go in for book reviews very much. But I am going right out this afternoon and buy a copy of that book.

I want to read some more about that fellow whose folks emigrated from Iowa to California, because it cost only $6 a person in 1875 to go from Burlington to San Francisco by train.

I want to read some more about that fellow whose formal education consisted of one day in school and who started his business career at seven at a salary of $1.25 for a seventy-two-hour week.

TAKE another item in today's paper.

The whole town of Inwood, Long Island, turned out to celebrate the 74th wedding anniversary of Samuel Doughty Abrams and his wife, the former Eleanor Craft, whom he met almost three-quarters of a century ago when she was a bookkeeper and he a clerk in a local grocery store.

What a refreshing story in these days of three and four and five marriages and discards.

What a typically American story after reading about the mother who is suing her daughter for non-support?

Those two Abramses don't know why everybody made such

Major Task Faced

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The Administration which assumes control of the government on January 20, 1949, will start under a serious handicap, paradoxically enough, because of the high-level economic conditions which have prevailed for the last three years, and which will probably continue at least through 1950.

Its most important task will be to insure that there be no let-down in production, employment, wages, income and no adverse change in the precarious balance between take-home pay and prices that exists today.

It must defy the boom-and-bust-cycle theory, even though the federal government can apply only limited and feeble controls to a domestic economy now so involved and intertwined with uncertain and dangerous foreign crises and developments.

TUCKER

It must, however, maintain the present so-called "prosperity" through four or eight years, or be tossed aside. For, although a President or Congress, or a combination thereof, has a comparatively small influence economic forces or currents surging around the White House, the people expect them to be a miracle worker.

If they fail to perform, the voters throw them out.

PROBLEMS: The post-election interim at Washington coincides with a fierce argument between two schools of economic thought. There is the College of Bust and the University of Boom. Each presents cogent arguments in support of their conflicting theories that the President should be pitied or envied.

The pessimists have it that advance warnings of a depression have already begun to darken the horizon. In their opinion, the wartime and postwar boom, which was based on crisis expansion of industry, business and income in the form of profits and wages, has begun to level off.

Like a snowball, they insist, such a process will gather force slowly but surely until it drags us down to a 1929-1937 level, when millions walked the streets until the bugles of Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito tooted them back to the factories for the manufacture of war weapons.

This group argues that the basic problems of the American economic system have not been met or solved, only hidden by the enforced expenditure of more than $400,000,000,000 to win the war. They insist that the President must meet them, and they doubt if he can do it in view of domestic and world pressures.

DOOM: The prophets of doom marshal strong and ancient evidence. They point out that industry and business are spending less money than they did in 1947 for expansion and inventories.

Consumer demand has dropped. Workers' pay has become more stabilized, though still at an all-time peak. Farm prices and, therefore, farm income have declined, and they point out that this has always been a classical warning of a classical tumble for the nation-at-large.

A curtailment of large-scale expenditures by industry, they continue, will produce a spiral of unemployment, less purchasing power and further industrial slowdowns and shutdowns.

The pessimists think that the United States, if it has not entered that boom-and-bust cycle now will walk into it blindly and ignorantly within a year or two at the most. It has always been so, they say, and they see no reason why the economic pattern should differ from that of 1873, 1893, 1913, 1921, 1929 and, despite New Deal recovery panaceas, 1937.

In other words, they expect a crack-up of great severity to break on the next President's time, especially if he serves for eight years. President Truman and Henry A. Wallace, albeit perhaps for campaign reasons, uttered such forecasts, especially if they were not elected to run the government.

LAG: But there are dissenters, both economic and political from these Cassandras and Calamity Janes.

In their view, industry has cut down expenditures for expansion and inventories not because of fear of the future, but because they cannot obtain steel, lumber, aluminum and machinery. Key factories, they insist, have not yet expanded enough to supply the demand for cars, homes, refrigerators, modern kitchen appliances and even household furnishings.

It will take two or three years, according to this analysis, to make up for the construction lag that began in the early thirties and continued during the war save for plants engaged in production of war weapons and supplies.

Industry's curtailment is due not so much to such intangible factors as it is to fear of a lack of steel, brick, timber, transportation, modern machinery and other materials.

EMPLOYMENT: The drop in consumers' purchases is tied up with the manufacturers' inability to produce sufficient new postwar goods. The customers are waiting for advertised but still unobtainable products. Or they are holding off in the hope that prices for the things they need will fall.

Meanwhile, employment is at an all-time high, between sixty-one and sixty-two million. It could drop from three to five million without having any disastrous economic effect, according to government officials in this field.

At least that many, they point out, are engaged in industry who could make a living in other fields. Many housewives who do not need employment are staying on as a result of their wartime experience. It is still difficult to get a maid, a laundress or an outside handyman, despite the increased money which such once humble positions command.

The persistent, post war shortage of school teachers, clerical and domestic help and jacks-of-all trades is attributed to the fact that they have remained in their well-paid factory jobs. It is believed that they could be absorbed easily in service, trade, domestic and professional lines if there should be a drop in industrial demand for them.

SAVING: Another hopeful factor is that people are spending less recklessly than they did during wartime or during previous periods of so-called prosperity. They have been burned so many times that they are not throwing away their dollars. It is significant that attendance at pro football games, night clubs and other luxury spots shows a terrific falling-off. The consumers' hoard still represents a sizable backlog.

Even if the Marshall Plan, rearmament and military lend-lease to foreign nations create shortages and higher prices, it may have a constructive effect. Folks may be forced to practice economy, to defer purchase of semi-luxury stuff and thus lay by a store of fresh and untapped purchasing power for three or four years hence. Paying debts and saving money are the surest bulwarks against a collective or personal depression.

PRESIDENT'S HANDS NOT TIED

HST Victory Tribute To People

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Harry S. Truman knows the folks who vote.

He demonstrated very satisfactorily, as far as this reporter is concerned, that he knows more about the psychology of the people of his country than the paid-by-the-hour psychologists, the "experts" who were so very sure he couldn't possibly win, including this blushing exhibit, and the professional pollsters who think they can chart what people think.

STOKES

And, with his perception of human nature, he did the trick all by himself, with no outside help.

He alone, apparently, had the magnificent obsession that he could win.

People Made Up Minds

His victory was not only a tribute to his own sound sense and a sure political intuition, his courage, his faith in himself and in the people, his dogged persistence in a gruelling campaign, but it was also a tribute to the sound sense of the American people.

They demonstrated again that, given the chance, they are nearly always able to distinguish for themselves between the real and the artificial, the honest and the phoney, with that rare discernment that has made our Democracy the living, vital thing that it still remains in a world of confusion and considerable sham.

The party had little money. In many states the organization was weak and handicapped by dissension. Many candidates on the Democratic ticket would not even mention his name for fear it would endanger their hold on their own jobs. And one of the most interesting things about the election, and somewhat ironical also, was that he brought in many of these "summer-time Democrats" to Congress on his coattails. That little joke he must indeed enjoy, along with his joke on the "experts."

It was a modern Pied Piper performance. The President set out over the country piping his story. Nobody seemed to pay too much attention. Then, come election day, somehow or other they got in line, a great multitude of them, and walked in and voted for him.

His election is regarded as virtually a miracle. This all-wise town is filled with little groups here and there asking, "what happened?" It is a miracle, in a way, and yet when you follow the trail back carefully the simple plan evolves, and you wonder why nobody saw it. There are enough plain people in all walks of life in this country to elect a President, and this embraces two groups highly organized, industrial workers and farmers.

To arouse people politically an issue is necessary. The Republican party, when it captured control of Congress in 1946, handed one to him on a silver platter, as the astute now realizes too late. Big interests caught the people napping after the ordeal of war and were able, by well-financed propaganda, to elect a Congress that immediately proceeded to do its bidding. They were too greedy.

President Truman went out and told the folks about it in plain language they could understand. And what they did to Congress is now a matter of history, and what they did for him for telling them is, too. He leaned heavily on the first rule of effective propaganda which is to tell the story over and over. He was not a whit disturbed when sophisticates in the East called him crude and uncouth. He knew what he was doing and what effect it would have—much better than Dr. Gallup.

Dewey Strategy Failed

In contrast with his earnestness and his plain talk was the slick, clever, smug, extremely efficient campaign mapped out for the young man from Manhattan which was based on the strategy of the best minds to say nothing prettily and coast in to victory. It was the Park Avenue artificiality that arouses suspicion in people beyond the Hudson. And the eloquent young man seemingly did not wear too well.

He never got his clothes mussed up, nor the nice part of his hair. Harry Truman is a neatly dressed fellow, but with that extreme neatness a bit on the flashy side, familiar on so many Main streets. But his spirit was constantly mussed up with his earnest and determined fight. The American people love a scrapper.

He emerges as a kind of Andrew Jackson character, a plain man of the people against those who would exploit them.

And he owes nobody anything, not the big interests which spent so much money and planned so carefully to get him out of the way; not the Southern Demos who were left out in the cold with their prejudices by his victory; not a lot of "summer-time Democrats" who refused to lift a hand for him; not the labor leaders who a few months ago were trying to dump him but rallied about him for self-preservation.

GOP LEADERS' OVERCONFIDENCE AIDED TRUMAN

Papers Over Nation Which Opposed President Say Vote Was Major Surprise And Personal Triumph

(By The Associated Press)

American newspapers, a majority of which had opposed President Truman in his battle to remain in the White House, generally viewed his election both as a surprise and a major personal victory.

Sample post-election comment:

The New York Times— "His victory is a personal triumph, accomplished in the face of apparently heavy odds and despite the fact that both the left wing and the right wing of his own party deserted him. . . While we favored a change of administrations . . . We have found ourselves in agreement with Mr. Truman in the past on important domestic issues."

Overconfidence Is Blamed

Denver Post: "The amazing comeback of President Truman may finally be traced to the overconfident campaign waged by Dewey and the Republicans. This goes, in part, to a basic human factor—people just don't like boastful complacence of the sort the Republican candidate exhibited throughout his campaign."

Kansas City Star: "The political upset . . . was the most amazing in a generation. . . The President has received this vote of confidence at a time when he faces problems of greatest difficulty at home and abroad. The situation is up to him in the fullest degree because both Houses of Congress will be with him."

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: "It will be a long time, we venture, before another candidate for President makes the mistake of running on the assumption that he is already elected. This election clearly is a victory for the progressive principles and policies of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Biggest Upset Of Generation

Baltimore Evening Sun: "The biggest political upset of this generation. . . His congressional support may prove more nominal than real. Many congressmen are hostile to Mr. Truman, but he will be in a better position to deal with them than in the past."

New Orleans Times-Picayune: "Many observers of the campaign scene criticized the Truman style of battle as unbecoming and unworthy. Evidently, however, it got results and his jubilant followers probably consider that 'the end justifies the means'."

San Francisco Chronicle: "The almost-half of the voters who opposed him will join with the half who elected him in accepting the verdict as the equivalent of unanimous . . . The rest of the world probably shares our astonishment at this colossal political upset which confounded all the 'experts.' But we hope the rest of the world will also recognize, and accurately analyze those other aspects of the election that Americans take for granted."

Chicago Tribune: "For the third time, a Republican convention fell under vicious influences and nominated a 'me-too' candidate who conducted a 'me-too' campaign. For the third time, the strategy failed. . . After this experience, we may hope, the Republicans have learned their lesson. If the same forces control the next Republican convention, the party is finished and the millions of patriotic men and women who have looked to it for leadership will have to look elsewhere. . . Mr. Truman is entitled to congratulations for having made a valient fight against what were thought to be overwhelming odds. May his administration justify the confidence that the people have expressed in him."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Public interest, now that the election is over, will be much less in why Truman won, and Dewey lost, and much more in the measures and policies that will be adopted by the Truman government next year. . . It is fair to assume that he will recommend repeal of the Taft-Hartley act, and in the interest of lower living costs, will recommend the reimposition of a variety of controls — price ceilings and probably rationing."

Atlanta Constitution: "The explanation of the Truman victory . . . is the same which won for Roosevelt, the coalition of farmers and labor."

Wall Street Journal: "During Mr. Truman's regime the country has been prosperous and particularly the rank and file of the people have been prosperous. Under those circumstances the administration in power always has an advantage.

" . . . President Truman made the kind of a campaign to which the American voters are accustomed. He slugged at his opponent. He told what he intended to do and he identified the interests and emotions of the voters with his program. Gov. Dewey did none of those things and it is apparent that the independent vote and probably some usually Republican votes were alienated."

1948 Cotton Crop Is Far Over Last Year

AUSTIN, Nov. 4. (AP)—The national cotton crop is approximately 3,250,000 bales more than last year's, Dr. A. B. Cox, cotton marketing authority at the University of Texas, reported today.

He said the unusually large crop is primarily the result of increased yield per acre, with expanded acreage accounting for only about 10 per cent of the gain.

He predicted that exports of American cotton with the help of the Economic Cooperation administration will exceed four million bales. Domestic consumption is expected to exceed nine million bales, and there will be an estimated carryover of about five million bales next August, Dr. Cox said.

$150,000 FIRE DAMAGE

HOUSTON, Nov. 4. (U.P.)—An early morning fire today destroyed a supermarket, inflicting damage estimated at $150,000. The blaze was discovered at 3 a. m. by Detective W. F. McCurry, who saw the flames as he passed in his car. The entire building was ablaze when 17 fire trucks converged on the scene. Two families living in apartments above the store escaped after McCurry awakened them.

Petitions Circulated For School Bond Issue Here

Election Would Be Held Dec. 4 In $1,250,000 Program In City

Petitions were being circulated Thursday calling for a school bond election, seeking issuance of $1,250,000 in bonds to ease crowded conditions in the Lubbock Independent School district.

Plans call for voting to be held on Saturday, Dec. 4.

Between 30 and 40 men and women, including business, professional, civic, and study club leaders, met at Hilton hotel Thursday morning to discuss the bond issue and its needs. Members of the group were unanimously in support of it.

The meeting, called by President Clyde G. Tatum, of the school board, heard School Supt. R. W. Matthews, Tatum and Trustee William H. Evans in explanations of new building needs and of the school board's plans to attempt to keep the schools in step with the growth of the city and environs.

Three Buildings Needed "Now"

Evans, Matthews and Tatum, who presided over the informal gathering in the hotel's Chimayo Room, traced the growth of the school system in recent years and told their listeners that "the schools need three new ward buildings this very day, and only through passage of a bond issue can they be gotten by the opening of the Fall term in 1950."

The three ward schools most desperately needed at the moment, they agreed, should be located on East Broadway, where a temporary building already is over-run; somewhere in the western sector of the north environs of Lubbock; and in Carver Heights, the negro section.

The school board disclosed plans to add to present temporary facilities to take care of the student load of the 1949-50 school term, but warned that "we haven't even been able to get temporary facilities as yet." Such temporary structures, however, can be "almost kept on wheels" to be set up where needed as permanent structures are built, Evans and Matthews pointed out.

Bankers Approve Bonds

Walter S. Posey and C. E. Maedgen, sr., bank presidents and former school board members, told the group that "if the people are informed, they will vote for the bonds, because the people of this community are for the schools and the school children." Both bankers said "we should be happy we are living in a community which is growing so fast that school expansions are continually required."

Mrs. T. F. Wiesen, president of the federation of Parent-Teacher associations here, said her organization already is on record as approving the bond issue. She said P-TA-ers have petitions and are circulating them. Other petitions are in circulation downtown and will be placed before all civic clubs next week.

Mrs. Allie M. Dyer said business and professional women of Lubbock are "100 per cent for the schools," and would push the bond issue and George P. Kuykendall said "just let the people know the needs and there will be no question of their voting the bonds."

That the school system is growing more rapidly now than ever before was brought out by Superintendent Matthews. "While the average growth of the school population was about 300 per year for the eight years preceding 1947, last year and this year showed an increase of two and three times that many."

He said there are 900 more children enrolled in school today than there were a year ago.

LUBBOCK MORNING AVALANCHE

Lubbock, Texas, Friday, November 5, 1948

CHANGES URGED

Minnesota GOPs Stunned By Vote

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 4 (INS) — Minnesota Republicans were starting to recover today from the stunning shock of Tuesday's Democratic victory, and their attitude was, "I told you so."

These Republicans are convinced that if former Minnesota governor Harold E. Stassen had been Republican presidential nominee, the party would have swept the entire ticket.

A high ranking party official, who asked that his name be withheld, said "the election proves what Harold Stassen has been saying for the past 10 years." In explanation he added:

"Republican policies must be liberalized if the party is to regain its strength."

"The people of the United States recognize Stassen as a liberal. They were afraid that Dewey would be taking orders from the old-time ultra-conservatives."

Health Program Discussed Here

A long range public health program for Lubbock (city and county), which was described as "a problem possibly greater" than that of public school housing, was outlined briefly by Dr. R. C. Douglas, Lubbock physician and president of the Lubbock-Crosby County Medical Society, at the luncheon of the Kiwanis club Thursday at Hotel Lubbock.

The doctor's reference to the school problem followed remarks by Geo. P. Kuykendall concerning petitions for a school bond election to provide more school housing.

Health Council Favored

Dr. Douglas said the medical profession favors a city-county health council that would be representative of various civic organizations and service clubs, and under the program he would segregate welfare and care of indigent people from the general public health program. The two, he said, represent two separate fields of effort.

The program would have "a first class man of stature" to direct the public health program through an adequate staff containing at least three nurses. And in the organization also would be one person responsible for the care of indigents.

Another step would be revision of health laws in the city and county, to meet changing needs, and a public health center that would invite cooperation, and correlate efforts of various agencies.

Public Has Problem

He said the medical profession will carry its part of such a program, but that "the problem is not one for the medical profession, but for John Q. Citizen."

A brief program was given by a group of Girl Scout Brownies under direction of Mrs. Robert L. Stewart, as a part of international friendship week.

Those attending the luncheon were given opportunity to sign a petition for $1,250,000 school bond election, following explanation of the school housing problem by Kuykendall.

Club President L. E. Davis announced that next week's meeting, on Armistice day, will be held at the O. L. Slaton Junior High school at Thirty-second and Ave. Q, when the school's choral club will render a program following lunch in the cafeteria there.

Dr. Allen T. Stewart was program chairman. Invocation was by Dr. Joseph J. Copeland, Denton Presbyterian minister, who is speaking here this week as part of religious emphasis week at Texas Tech college.

Only Two Boxes Not Tabulated In County

Counting Of Lubbock Vote Nearing End

Complete tabulation of voting in Lubbock county will probably be available sometime today, since only two large boxes, at Junior High school and K. Carter school, were unaccounted for last night.

Precinct No. 5-A at Roscoe Wilson turned in its results complete at 6 p. m. Thursday, with a total vote of 2,168.

Other Reports Made

Two other large boxes had reported earlier yesterday. No. 1, in the southwest corner of the courthouse, broke down its 1,060 votes at midmorning. No. 6-A, Senior High school, turned in results of its 787 votes early yesterday afternoon.

With 24 precincts complete out of 26 at 6 p. m. last night, the following results for president and for U. S. Senator show the trend:

For president: Truman (D) 9,746; Dewey (R) 2,434; Thurmond (SR) 1,060; Watson (Proh) 17; Wallace (Prog) 30; Thomas (S) 3.

For U. S. Senate: Johnson (D) 9,468; Porter (R) 2,883; Morris (Proh) 83.

For homestead exemption 8,723; against 1,424.

For salary compensation 8,306; against 1,851.

For judges' pensions 4,481; against 5,155.

Rep. Martin Says Election Result Sensational Surprise

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Mass., Nov. 4. (AP)—Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr., (R-Mass) today called the election results a "sensational surprise" and promised co-operation with President.

Martin said he "had observed no signs of the coming storm."

"I was anxious for the election of Governor Dewey," he added, "because I believed he could best unite the country and stabilize the world."

Railroad Engineer Hasn't Changed His Opinion Of Dewey

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 4. (INS)—The railroad engineer who was called a "lunatic" by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today had a few remarks to make about Tuesday's election results.

The engineer, Lee Tindle, of Evansville, Ind., said drily that the New York governor now "feels worse than I do."

Tindle said he was "well satisfied" with the election. He said he thought Dewey's "unnecessary remark" probably had a lot to do with the railroad vote.

He said:

"A lot of people thought a man that easily irritated might not do right as president."

Tindle blushingly denied suggestions carried in some letters he received after the incident. Some of his correspondents had suggested Tindale might make a better president than Dewey.

Dewey was quoted as saying:

"That's the first lunatic I've ever had for an engineer. He probably should be shot at sunrise, but we'll let him off this time since nobody was hurt."

Tindle replied tartly through newsmen:

"I think as much of Dewey as I did before, and that's not very much."

Tindle said today he still stands by that statement.

Two men who fell from a train in Norway finished the trip by taxi.

Tech Beauties To Be Named

Selection of eight of the most beautiful girls at Texas Technological college is underway on the campus, and petitions nominating favorites have been circulated from the Student Council office certifying 106 girls as candidates for La Ventana beauties.

Those wishing to nominate a girl for the contest this year were asked to secure a petition with 50 student names and file same with the Student Council office. After eliminations have taken place, the eight girls chosen as top beauties will be honored with a full page picture in the 1948-49 La Ventana, the college annual.

To Name Group Sunday

First eliminations will be done by a group of men students representing all classes and men's organizations on the campus at 2 p. m. Sunday in the Press building. This group will narrow the number of candidates down to 16, from which group some well known celebrity, to be chosen by Bob Williams, La Ventana editor, will choose the eight who will appear in the annual.

In previous years, nominations were made by merely dropping a slip of paper, with the name of the person to be nominated, into one of several boxes placed around the campus. Under this system, the number of candidates often exceeded 200, many of whom were comparatively unknown at the college.

Those girls for whom petitions were filed and who will take part in the contest are:

POSEY OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY

Pioneer Lubbock Banker Sees Continued Growth For Plains

By BILL HAMS
Avalanche Staff Writer

Two significant events in Walter S. Posey's opinion gave impetus to the amazing growth of Lubbock and the South Plains since the turn of the century.

They are, according to the president of the First National bank here, the arrival of the first railroad, the Santa Fe branch line from Plainview, in 1909, and the founding of Texas Technological college here in 1925.

Posey, who Thursday started his 45th year of service with the First National bank, advancing from cashier to president of the organization in that time, has full faith that this area has only begun to reach its true place in agriculture and in the oil business. His faith in the future of the South Plains to have him launch a counterattack of optimism.

The bank official is no Johnny-come-lately to the Plains area. In 1891 he came with his father, mother, brother and sister from Cross Plains, Callahan county, to Floyd county by covered wagon.

Was Long Trip

The trip which ended at Floydada in the first week of January, 1891 seemed to take months, Posey recalled.

"For days we could see the dim blue rim of the caprock before we finally began the ascent near the Old Docktum store which was near the present site of Spur.

"When we reached the top of the caprock my father halted the wagons and we pitched camp near a lake. My mother didn't think much of the campsite for there was no wood, but my father and I soon accumulated fuel in tow sacks and she came down from the wagon and prepared supper."

Posey's father, a native Texan, a graduate of Southwestern university of Georgetown and a former trail driver, bought a "bonus out" at Floydada and went into

Sharp Contrasts Mark Life In Greece As Nation Fights Back

By EDGAR CLARK
United Press Staff Writer

ATHENS, Nov. 4.—Greece today is a country of sharp, bitter and often cruel contrasts.

Abject poverty and fabulous wealth, breath-taking beauty and sordid ugliness live side by side in Athens.

From a distance, a visitor sees the classic glory of the Acropolis, the heaven-reaching fingers of Lykavettos, the enfolding arms of the mountains of the honeybee, and Parnos.

In Athens itself, he finds luxurious apartment buildings, expensive American and other foreign automobiles, swank night clubs, men and women dressed in the height of fashion and even children clothed in silk.

But he also sees acres of barren, filthy empty lots, hundreds of dirty, unpaved streets, tumbledown apartments, ragged children and adults with festering sores, ancient rickety cars and wagons, and the stench of uncollected garbage.

Athens Indifferent

Outside Athens, he finds little but poverty. But Athenians shut their eyes to it all. Most know less, and want to know less than the most casual foreigners about the rest of Greece.

The Greeks themselves are a mixture of bravery and cowardice, of integrity and dishonesty, of love and cruelty, of industriousness and laziness.

The true Greek fighter regularly carries out exploits that would win him the Congressional Medal in the United States or a Victoria Medal in Britain. But his brother may have avoided military service by a financial contribution to the government.

Common thievery is little known in Greece. But black marketing is carried out on a grand scale, and usury and fraud are commonplace. The more honest and less nimble Greeks tend to admire the experts in these latter fields.

Family life is more closely knit probably than in any other country. Greek parents cannot do too much for their children. Second cousins are just as close to a Greek as his brothers, sisters and parents. And harmony reigns within the clan.

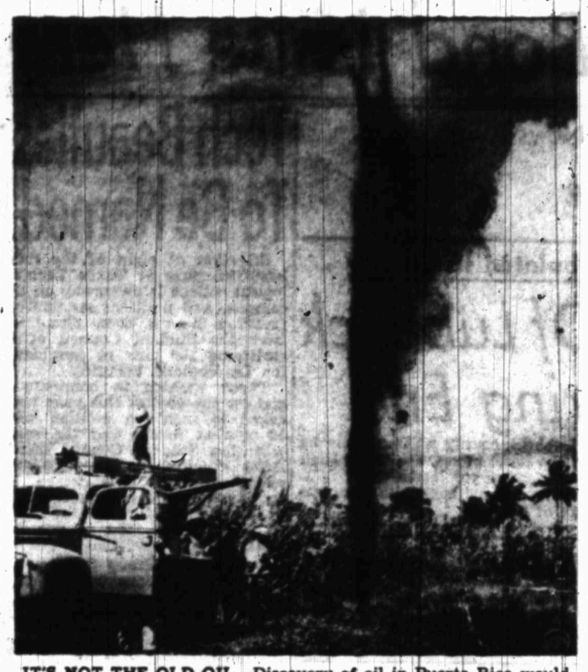

Cruelty Comes Easy

But the Greek gives way easily to cold-blooded political murders, fiendish torture of his enemies, killing prisoners without trial and wholesale executions. He beats his dog.

The Greek peasant works so hard as to be a slave to his land and his flocks. So do his wife and children. But in the villages and the cities, masses of able-bodied men sit in cafes gossiping or fingering beads to pass away the time. Many just doze.

There is a definite caste system between the rulers and the ruled. But there is also a popular democracy which allows the hairdresser to address her wealthy customer by her first name and the corner policeman the authority to delay the king's car in a traffic jam.

And even the individual Greek presents a literal picture of contrasts. You sometimes see a man in complete western dress, including a monocle, spats, hat and cane. But he has no necktie.

IT'S NOT THE OLD OIL—Discovery of oil in Puerto Rico would really be a boon to the economically hard-pressed U. S. territory. The Industrial Development company is hopeful. Housing Situation Is Still Serious At Illinois School

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., (UP) — The peak load of veteran students has passed at the University of Illinois, but the housing shortages caused by the influx of veteran students hasn't eased off.

The housing situation is still as tight as it was last fall when a peak total of 11,500 veterans enrolled at the university.

With only 46 vacancies in the university housing area for married students, there were 499 applicants waiting for space.

All available space for single men and women students was filled before the school year started. Some of the women, who don't have to work, have taken "room and board" jobs merely to get a place to live.

Foundation For Research On Jungle Drugs Is Discussed

AUSTIN, Nov. 4. (AP)—Dr. Wilburn H. Ferguson of Quito, Ecuador, conferred with state officials and University of Texas authorities here today in an effort to set up a foundation for research on little-known crude drugs from South American jungles.

Ferguson said he is hopeful of encouraging establishment of such a foundation to carry on research into medical features of the drugs on a long-term basis.

University President T. S. Painter said the university is interested in the project with the idea of establishing a strong research program in pharmacy.

Ferguson said plans have been worked out for him to make an initial shipment of 2b drugs to the university that research might get underway.

Woman Decides Four Divorces From Same Man Is Enough

CHICAGO, Nov. 4. (INS)—Mrs. Ruth I. Slifer, 33, of Chicago, a mother of two who has been divorced from her husband three times, today received her fourth decree from the same man.

And she firmly told Superior Judge Joseph Sabath:

Mrs. Slifer first married Clyde, a 33-year-old machinist, on April 4, 1934, at Marshalltown, Ia.

They were divorced June 10, 1934. They remarried June 20, 1936. They were divorced May 8, 1937. They were remarried Aug. 2, 1937. They were divorced Jan. 21, 1941. They were remarried Nov. 6, 1945.

All the divorces were obtained on ground of cruelty.

Judge Sabath suggested that they try to be reconciled.

Mrs. Slifer replied:

"He has an ungovernable temper. When I let him have his own way, he is all right. When I cross him, he is cruel."

Slifer did not contest the divorce. Mrs. Slifer was given custody of the children and $25 a week support for them.

Connally Expects No Return Of Wartime Price Controls

BROWNSVILLE, Nov. 4. (AP)—Senator Tom Connally said today that he does not expect reinstatement of wartime price ceilings as a result of the return of Democrats to power in Congress.

Although forecasting sweeping changes in national legislation after President Truman's victory in the election Tuesday, Connally said price control action probably would be confined to revival of curbs "on some particular lines of industry."

In an interview, he predicted a Democratic effort to replace the "watered down" housing measure with a new housing law.

He expressed the view that the "more extreme phases" of the Taft-Hartley labor act will be modified.

Connally, who is slated to resume chairmanship of the Senate Foreign Affairs committee, chafed "political dopesters and splinter party deserters" in commenting on the election results. He is visiting here.

DRY FORCES BADLY BEATEN

Kansas Wets Face Battle To Get Final Action On Repealer

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 4. (AP)—Kansas advocates of legal highballs and high octane beer scored a thumping general election triumph, but they still may face a bitter fight and many months of delay before they can legally sip the nectars of their victory.

Unofficial returns from last Tuesday's voting show the state's 68-year-old prohibition amendment repealed 396,246 to 337,892 a margin of 58,354, with returns from all but 72 of the 2,772 precincts.

But the way to a legal drink still is barred by Kansas' statutory bone dry law. This law remains in effect until the legislature, which meets in January, acts to control liquor.

Laws Must Be Changed

Attorney General Edward F. Arn said in an opinion that the repeal amendment "is not self executing."

"Its adoption," Arn said, "merely authorizes the legislature to change existing laws if the legislature desires to do so.

"The present laws prohibiting the manufacture, sale, transportation and possession of intoxicating beverages will remain as they are now until such time as these existing laws are changed by the legislature."

While wet forces scored a victory at the polls, a triumph in the legislature may not be so easy.

Only 41 of the state's 105 counties voted for repeal of the amendment and 63 votes would be required to get a bone dry law repealer through the House of Representatives.

Some observers say, however, that representatives from dry counties may be less sensitive to protests from their constituents than if repeal had carried by a slimmer vote total and in fewer counties.

KANSAS TO HAVE NO ENFORCEMENT HOLIDAY

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 4. (U.P.)—There will be no "holiday" in the enforcement of Kansas' still-in-effect laws against liquor.

This was made plain today by the state's governor and attorney general.

They called on local law enforcement officials to continue their duties in respect to Kansas' 'bone dry law."

Kansas went wet in Tuesday's election, amending its constitution after 68 years to toss out prohibition. But still in force are anti-liquor laws enacted more than three decades ago which make illegal the transportation or possession of whisky—even the tiniest amount.

Governor States Stand

Actually, the only place a Kansan can own whisky legally is inside him—and too great a quantity there makes him liable to a drunkenness charge.

The 1949 legislature, convening next January, is expected to repeal the bone dry law without delay, writing a liquor control statute.

Said Gov. Frank Carlson today: "There will be strict enforcement of the liquor law, no change whatsoever until the law is changed."

Said Atty. Gen. Edward F. Arn: "There'll be no enforcement holiday. We are still obligated by our oath of office to continue this effort until the law itself is changed. The policy of any law enforcement officer must be to continue the enforcement of this law to the best of his ability."

Forty Years Absence Makes Change In Woman's Brother

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 4. (U.P.)—Mrs. Margaret McMaster was telephoning when the stranger rang the doorbell.

"Hello, Mag," he said. "Remember me?"

Mrs. McMaster says her eyes are pretty good despite her 78 years, and she needs glasses only when she reads or sews. But she didn't recognize the man.

"It's Jim," he said, "your brother." The reunion ended a 40-year separation. She thought he was dead.

James Stewart left his Lincoln home to work at Omaha and Denver as a government meat inspector. Years passed with no letters from him, and finally came word he had died.

Stewart said he is operating an electrical business at Los Angeles. He discovered he lives only a few miles from a nephew on the west coast.

"He certainly changed a lot," Mrs. McMaster said. "He's 67 now—he wears glasses and his hair is getting very thin."

Stewart said he would be a better correspondent from now on.

DENVER, Nov. 4. (INS)—A heart ailment today claimed the life of Thomas H. Walker, 60, former financial editor of The Denver Post. Walker had been director of public relations for the oil industry information committee of the Rocky Mountain region since early in 1947. He entered St. Joseph's hospital in Denver a week ago.

Gov. Dewey Proves In Defeat He Holds Gift Of Leadership

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK—Post-election notes:

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey probably stirred the emotions of his followers more deeply in defeat than he ever had in victory.

He took one of the most crushing upsets in American political history with real sportsmanship.

In his post-election press conference—a 13-minute farewell to his national political aspirations—he gave no excuses for his defeat. And he indulged in no self-pity.

Didn't Blame Anyone

He wore the air of a champion who had given the best of what he had to give—and he didn't blame anybody.

There were a number of red-eyed members of his staff at the conference, and Dewey, a man who rarely demonstrates personal emotion, brought tears to their eyes as he thanked the efforts made in his behalf.

He showed that he does have in some measure a gift of leadership that some observers have doubted—the ability to inspire affection as well as loyalty. Many will long remember what he said of his wife, who remained by his side all night as for a second time in four years his dream of being president ebbed.

"She has been through this before," he said. "We have won and lost at various times—and all in good fun."

May Not Quit Office

Many staunch friends of Dewey find it hard to believe he will carry out the desire he expressed privately on several occasions during the campaign—never to run for public office again if he were defeated.

He is only 46 and few men his age have ever had such meteoric political careers. His present term as governor lasts through 1950.

Alhough he is the only unsuccessful candidate ever renominated by the Republican party, there is plenty of precedent if he should change his mind and toss his hat in the ring a third time.

Norman Thomas has tried six times for the Socialists. Henry Clay was a presidential aspirant in almost every campaign between 1824 and 1848 and died unreconciled to failure at 76. William Jennings Bryan was the Democratic standard bearer three times—and was willing to take the draft again any time.

Perhaps it was their example that led Dewey to conclude two strikes were enough.

Court Halts Daily Whistle After New Yorker Complains

BUFFALO, N.Y., Nov. 4. (U.P.)—George R. Reiller, 42, a painter employed at Buffalo State Hospital, will think twice before he gives forth with a wolf whistle again. The last one landed him in City Court for breach-of-the-peace.

Attractive 20-year-old Elma Kittinger, a New York Telephone Company employe, said she encountered Reiller, a stranger, almost daily at her bus stop.

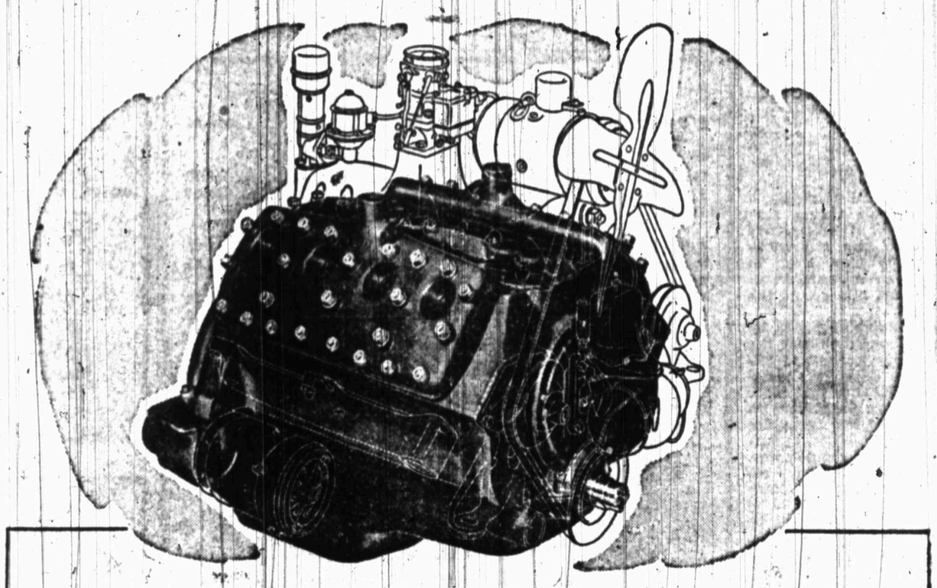

After a long, low whistle, Miss Kittinger said, Reiller would give her "an up and down look" accompanied by the observation "I like that."

Reiller was placed on probation. He explained, "After all, I'm not so old, and I hope I never get so old that I don't turn when I see a nice looking girl."

COST OF PROGRAM ENORMOUS

North Atlantic Pact Is Seen As Move To Help U.S. Defense Plan

By KINGSBURY SMITH
European General Manager INS

PARIS, Nov. 4.—A high ranking American official expressed the opinion this week that the sooner Western Europe is rearmed, the sooner it will be possible for the United States to start disarming again.

There are growing indications in American official circles in Paris that this will be one of the main arguments used to win the support of American public opinion for a vast military aid program to the Western European union.

That congressional approval for such a program, as well as direct American participation in a North Atlantic security pact, will be sought is now being taken for granted by leading western statesmen.

To Cost Heavily

What worries some of the top level U. S. officials in Paris is how to persuade the American people as well as Congress to support the financing of a two or three billion dollar military aid program on top of the Marshall Plan.

Some of these officials think the best way to "sell" the American public and congress on the military aid program is to try to convince them that it will in the long run cost Uncle Sam less than if the United States does not help re-arm Western Europe.

The basis of this theory is that as long as the Western European nations remain virtually defenseless against the danger of a Soviet military invasion, the longer the United States will have to maintain large armed forces, especially a big army.

Cheaper To Aid Europe

Advocates of this theory further contend that it will prove much cheaper to arm a Frenchman or an Englishman than to train and arm an American soldier and transport him across the ocean.

Another argument advanced by this school of thought is that the United States has a right to expect the Western Europeans to defend themselves, and the more there are who have the tools with which to do so, the less casualties American forces are likely to suffer in Europe if war should come.

Once Western Europe is rearmed and the balance of military power in the west is restored, it is believed, rightly or wrongly, by these American officials that the danger of war with Russia will be lessened.

This belief is based on the conviction of these officials, some of whom have had close contact with the Soviet government, that the Kremlin will not risk war against a strongly armed Western Europe linked to America through a North Atlantic regional security pact.

These officials reason that a militarily strong Western Europe would enable the United States to reduce its own re-armament program, at least in respect to the maintenance of a large army.

Until Western Europe is capable of defending itself to the extent at any rate of preventing a Russian walk-over at any time the Kremlin decided to risk war, as would be the case today, the American officials foresee little hope of reducing American armaments or achieving either economic or political stability in countries like France.

Soviets Plan Boomerang

It is now privately acknowledged by leading American diplomatic representatives in Paris that the Soviets, through the instrumept of the subservient Communist parties, have succeeded in slowing up the European recovery program.

This is particularly so in France, where the Marshall Plan schedule for the first year has been knocked completely off balance by the Communist-encouraged strikes which already have caused a loss of more than three million tons in coal production.

The Soviet campaign to block European economic recovery under the Marshall Plan is threatening, however, to prove a boomerang against what is believed to be the major objective of the Kremlin's foreign policy—the expansion of Communism throughout the world.

By hampering the economic recovery of Western Europe through Communist obstructionism and war scares, the Soviets have caused the western powers to turn their attention to rearmament.

Restoration of the military power of the United States and Western Europe will, the American officials believe, prove an even greater determent to Soviet expansionism than the West's economic recovery.

Banker Who Wanted To Bet On Truman Found No Takers

SHAWNEE, Okla., Nov. 4 (U.P.)—The man who wanted to bet $20,000 on President Truman's victory at 15-to-1 odds and couldn't find any takers said today he was happy about the election even if he didn't win any money.

Elmer Harber, Democratic national committeeman and Shawnee bank president, said today he never did find any takers for his $20,000 offer.

He started looking for them after hearing stories about odds like that in St. Louis and New York.

Asked if he'd bet any other money on the outcome of the election, Harber said, "You know I didn't. Betting's against the law."

He said he was sorry the 15-to-1 odd stories were "fiction," but Truman's was "a grand victory anyway." Even if it didn't make him $300,000 richer.

Pioneer Lubbock Banker Relates Steady Progress Of South Plains, Recalls Early Days In Section

the sheep and cattle business. In 1895 he sold his ranch and went into the merchandising and banking business.

Helped With Books

"The store was called James B. Posey General Merchandise Store and it had a bank in the rear. I began then to help my father with the books and in 1900 when he opened a private bank at Locknev I was given the job of running it," Posey said, "the Floydada bank eventually became the First National bank."

In 1904 Posey's father and a Canyon City cowman, Lewis T. Lester, joined in a partnership and purchased the First National Bank of Lubbock from Geo. C. Wolffarth, R. M. Clayton, I. L. Hunt and others. The elder Posey sold all his interests at Locknew and Floydada to enter the banking business here, Posey said.

Posey became the cashier of the one window establishment.

"The bank was a one-story frame structure," Posey recalled, "with the vault built on the back. The vault was built into caliche rocks. It looked very sturdy and imposing but I believe that a man with a crowbar could have smashed into it in 30 minutes. But it served its purpose very well.

Had Good Business

"The town had a population of 350 or 400. There were some large homes here and there, but mostly the populatio nwas scattered over a pretty wide area. Our bank had a capital of $40,000 and deposits totaled $63,000.

"We handled most of the banking business then for the entire South Plains. It was mostly ranch business of course, and when we could not handle their needs for an over large loan we worked through Fort Worth interests that financed ranches in this area," the bank president pointed out.

"This was frontier country then," Posey said, "and a dollar went a long way. A man could borrow $200 and buy more land than $20,000 will buy today, and he could borrow $150 and purchase a nice herd of cattle to put on it. There was nothing but ranches west of Lubbock and little else to the south and east."

Co-Operation Was Key

The banker recalled that only two men were farming when he first came to Lubbock. They were W. P. Florence of Slide and S. S. Rush of Acuff who had discovered that cotton would thrive in the Plains soil.

"In 1905 a number of us pooled our money and set up the first gin here. That probably is the first major example of how the citizens of Lubbock have co-operated to make this a thriving city. Such co-operation has been the usual thing here rather than the unusual," Posey declared.

"It was shortly before we set up the gin that I saw my first automobile," Posey reminesced. "I decided I had to have one. That first car was driven by Phelps White, manager of the LFD outfit, and it was a nifty chain drive Buick with a two cylinder motor. In 1907 or 1908 I got my first car. It was a Model T Ford with brass or copper radiator and carbide lights. I have been buying cars ever since."

The bank officer believes that the automobile came as a boon to the Southwest. "It helped us conquer the vast distances that had handicapped us on every hand. It brought our neighbors close to us. It gave us more mutual interests and acquainted us with each others' problems. Without the automobile to defeat the distance handicap this area would have progressed much more slowly," he said.

Railroad Aided Area

The coming of the railroad in 1908 sent the South Plains into its first growing spurt, the banker believes. The rail line that tied in the open country from Plainview to Sweetwater made it possible for people to see the vast richness of the area and to realize that here was opportunity.

"Those who traveled the Texas and Pacific railroad between Sweetwater and El Paso saw semi-desert country. Those who traveled the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad from Fort Worth to Amarillo saw only rough country until they topped the Caprock. They never saw the best agriculture land of all that lay between the two rail lines. The coming of the Santa Fe to Lubbock brought us out of hiding and put us under the eyes of people who were seeking to build new homes," Posey said.

Posey believes Lubbock and the Plains area would have grown steadily on agriculture but the coming of Texas Tech in 1925 gave the city and the area an added push that has made one of the major business and agriculture sections of the nation.

"The rail line and the college each were secured because the people of the area co-operated and worked for what they needed and for what they wanted. I feel that most of our advancement can be credited to this spirit of mutual help," Posey emphasized.

The banker pointed out that as the area and the city grew so did his banking business. "Today we have a capital and surplus of $1,000,000, and our deposits are approximately $27,000,000. Compare that with the $40,000 capital and $63,000 deposits, including county and school funds of 44 years ago," the bank president said.

The future of the South Plains? Posey believes it is yet unlimited. At least he sees no limit.

"There is a great deal of land yet to be cultivated. There are many opportunities to do more with the agriculture we have, and I believe this is the greatest potential oil producing area in the country," Posey declared. "I think we have only begun to realize what opportunities and what a future lies before us."

Posey, who became president of the bank in 1943, lives at 2302 Seventeenth.

SIGN OF WINTER

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., (AP)—The first hint of fall sent 70-year-old Henry Lynman back to jail for six months. For several years he has managed a six-month sentence for vagrancy from Judge William Conway when the weather starts to get nippy. Lynman explains that a "man needs a warm bunk — even if it's in jail" during the winter.

Cougar's Cage No Place For College Kids

Sam Houston Students Wind Up In Cage As Raid Fails

HOUSTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—A cougers cage, said five students from Sam Houston State Teachers college today, is no place for college kids.

They made their statement from behind the bars of same, anxious to trade places with the usual occupant, which had been removed to quieter and less crowded quarters.

The humility of the Huntsville students, not shared by four carloads who managed to escape, had its start early today in what was intended as a "reprisal" attack.

Sought to Start Bonfire

At 3 a.m., five carloads of SHTC students wheeled up to the University of Houston campus. With home-made gasoline bombs they hoped to prematurely set off a conglomeration of boxes and crates assembled by U of H students for a homecoming bonfire Friday night.

Nervous, the throwers missed the pile of debris, and campus guards—members of the student body—raced over the terrace, attracted by the light.

Early today the five hostages had their heads shaved, and then were ushered into the "reception room" for Sam Houston visitors—the red and white cage which usually houses Shasta, the university's couger mascot.

The captors, after the head-shaving ceremony, mingled with the captives, not sure who was friend and who was foe. Among the cougar campus guards were the 19 U. of H. students who received the same treatment in Huntsville last week when they were trapped by Sam Houston students.

In a single year, more than 100 billion container units of all kinds are made in the United States for packing goods sold at retail.

Texas Jaycee Group To Talk State Prison Setup At Meet

ABILENE, Nov. 4. (AP)—The Texas prison system will be the main topic of discussion at the annual fall state board meeting of the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce here Nov. 6 and 7.

O. B. Ellis, general manager of the Texas prison system, will speak. Movies made of a tour of the prison system by the executive board of the chamber in September will be shown.

The Texas group has endorsed for its number one project of the year full support of the Ellis plan to reform the prison system.

The Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce also has announced appointment of Jim Brown, former president of the Amarillo Junior chamber, as new executive vice president of the statewide group.

Do You Really Want to Take Off That Ugly Fat?

Recently there has been a number of new reducing preparations on the market, some of them based on the diet and vitamin "plan." It is obvious that vitamins will not reduce the body weight, so one must depend on diet to reduce. But it is also obvious that one cannot go on a strenuous diet over a protracted period, and any weight lost will be restored if the former eating habits are gone back to.

So what to do? Well, here is a tip to you "overweight gals" who want to fight "the Battle of the Bulges" in a different way. Ask any well stocked Texas druggist for four ounces of Barcentrate. Mix with 12 ounces of grapefruit juice and take two tablespoonsful twice a day.

This preparation contains nothing harmful and the makers agree to refund your money on the very first bottle if it does not show you the way to lose ugly fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves.

Barcentrate is low in cost and is not based on the diet and vitamin "plan." You need never know a hungry moment while reducing with Barcentrate.

Navy To Find Old And Powerful Friends In Key Posts Again

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—The Navy, which has watched the swift ascendency of the Air Force during the last year, seems likely to have old and powerful friends back in key spots of the next, Democratic Congress.

In line for chairmanships of the Senate and House Armed Services committees are former ranking members of the naval committees which existed—along with separate military (Army) committees—prior to the 1947 Unification act.

Fights For Navy

Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga) for years before, during and since the war sponsored and fought for big-navy legislation in the House. The Navy looks upon him as a modern-day patron saint.

The existing program to convert warships into modern, atom-age craft and to build new models as patterns for future fleets reflects Vinson's thinking.

On the Senate side, Senator Millard Tydings (D-Md), who headed the former naval committee in that branch, probably will become chairman of the armed services group. What the Navy owed Vinson in the House, it also owed Tydings in the Senate.

So now the Air Force's opposition to several navy ideas—including that approved last session of building a 65,000-ton supercarrier capable of handling big bombardment planes—will be considered by committees led by staunch navy friends.

Attitude Impartial

The fact that the supercarrier plan went through shows the retiring Republican chairman—Rep. Walter G. Andrews (NY) and Senator Chan Gurney (SD)—adopted an impartial attitude.

However, both were generally regarded in military circles as primarily army and air force proponents; a factor that did not make the admirals any too happy.

The 65,000-ton carrier project was opposed bitterly by the Air Force on the grounds the Navy was invading the field of strategic bombing, to which the Air Force lays top claim. But Secretary of Defense James Forrestal, the former navy secretary, lent his support before both the budget bureau and Congress. Congress approved funds to start construction of the $127,000,000 carrier.

Forrestal May Leave

Curiously, while the Navy may see old friends returned to power on Capital Hill it also may see the departure of Forrestal.

Even before the election there was wide speculation that Forrestal wanted to get out of government service. Now there are reports that he plans to resign soon.

As for the other top civilian members of the national military establishment—Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington, Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan and Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall—it remains to be seen whether there will be new faces among them.

Political custom calls for cabinet members (and sub-cabinet members) to place their resignations on the President's desk at the start of a new term.

A Quart of Medicine For One Dollar

Mertox goes to work quickly to overcome the torturing pains of rheumatism. It tones the bowels into a more rhythmic action. Expels waste matter that may have been in your system over a long period of time, causing many days, weeks and months of misery.

Gas and bloat, indigestion, sour stomach are quickly relieved.

Kidney and bladder troubles are helped so that the annoying broken rest from having to get up frequently at night is lessened.

Dizziness and run-down feeling is overcome quickly so that you feel, look and act like a different person. Mertox helps to build rich, red blood—creates a better appetite, so that you have a real zest for food.

Mertox may be taken by every member of the family. It contains no narcotics, opiates or calomel and will not make you sick, gripe, or nauseate you in the slightest degree.

Ask any druggist in Texas for a package of the new Mertox. Add to a quart of water and you have an excellent tonic medicine which will save you approximately $4.00.

Ban On Comic Books Spreads As Cities Set Up New Bans

CHICAGO, Nov. 4. (U.P.)— The American Municipal Association reports that nearly 50 cities have banned the sale of certain comic books.

The books were declared objectionable by various civic groups.

Los Angeles and Terre Haute, Ind., are the first localities to pass ordinances placing the bans in effect. In Los Angeles County, the ordinance prohibits the sale of comic books dealing with murder, burglary, kidnapping, arson or assault with deadly weapons.

County Supervisor Leonard J. Roach of Los Angeles seeks to have the ban adopted by the California Legislature to cover the entire state.

Terre Haute's ordinance bans the sale, display, printing and distribution of undesirable comic books. A 10-member civic board will decide which are undesirable.

Dealers Co-operate

Many other cities are setting up censorship committees. Among the most recent to do so are Oneida City, N. Y., and East Hartford, Conn. In both cities dealers promised co-operation.

Indianapolis has removed 52 "objectionable" comic books from the market through co-operation with distributors.

In Racine, Wis., comic book dealers are doing their own censoring, in co-operation with city officials and civic groups.

Twenty states have laws forbidding the sale of obscene, indecent, harmful or immoral literature. These statutes could be applied to comic books. In Detroit, the county prosecuter held that certain comics violated Michigan statutes, and Detroit distributors banned the books from circulation.

However, the validity of such state laws is being questioned. A recent decision by the U. S. Supreme Court held a New York law unconstitutional. The law prohibited distribution of magazines composed principally of crime news or stories of bloodshed and lust.

In Illinois, lower courts have a case pending in which the city of Chicago has been challenged for interfering with distributors of comic books under a state law.

GRAPES—Lorraine Richardson holds basket of grapes she helped pick during wine week celebration in California.

PEACEMAKER

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (U.P.)—Milton Brown, 38, was driving his automobile down the street when he saw a man and a woman fighting on the sidewalk. Brown attempted to intervene. He told police later that the woman slapped him in the face and the man jumped on him and tore his shirt off.

Baruch Gratified By Results Of Election

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (INS) — Bernard M. Baruch said tonight he is "gratified" by the results of the national election in which Harry S. Truman was assured a four-year term in his own right as President.

The noted financier and "elder statesman" reiterated what he said in 1944: "That, with intelligence, this country can enter an adventure in prosperity in which the whole world can share."

Baruch said that as a life-long Democrat and believer in the two-party system, he naturally is gratified by the results of the election, "particularly since the President and both branches of Congress are of the same party."

"Even more gratifying," Baruch continued, "is the demonstration to the world of the American ability to hold free, Democratic elections without suspending any of our constitutional methods—even as we did during the war—and have the results promptly and generously accepted by all.

"Let us all unite behind America in her work for world peace. There should be no political divisions when we reach the edge of the oceans.

"In this country intelligent opposition and criticism will prove, as always, helpful. When action is finally determined upon, let it be united."

Chicago Divorce Rate Higher Than Reno, Church Group Says

CHICAGO, Nov. 4. (UP)—Chicago has a bigger divorce rate than Reno, according to the Catholic arch-diocese.

An official statement by the archdiocese was read in 450 churches at the direction of Samuel Cardinal Stritch. It said in part:

"Our own fair city—Chicago—possesses a record worse than that of Reno, supposed to be the divorce center of the world.

"Informed sociologists tell us that, if the present trend continues, we will have within 20 years a divorce rate of one divorce for every two marriages."

Grain

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (AP)—Advances in wheat ran up to around 4 cents at times today as post-estimated sentiment expanded. The big gains were scored in July and September contracts and much of the buying came from individuals who had been short in these deliveries.

The short-covering movement in deferred wheat contracts got underway yesterday, following the election upset. It was based on the belief the government price support level for 1949 wheat will be higher than present futures prices.

All other grains, as well as soybeans and lard, followed wheat higher.

Wheat closed ⅝-3 ⅝ higher, December $2.29 ⅝-½, corn was ⅞-1 ⅝ higher, December $1.39 ½-⅝, oats were unchanged to ⅞ higher, December 79 ⅛, rye was 1 ¾ to 2 cents higher, December $1.82, soybeans were 2 ¾ to 5 cents higher, November $2.53-2.55 ½, and lard was 15 to 45 cents a hundred pounds higher, November $19.00.

In making a meringue for a pudding or pie two tablespoons of sugar per egg white is, in general, the best amount to use. Too little sugar gives a meringue lacking in flavor and one that is not as fluffy or as tender as it should be.

Shows To Tour Vet Hospitals

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (U.P.) — Veterans Hospital Camp Shows has started production on its fall and winter series of offerings for 100,000 men in 109 Army, Navy and Veterans Administration hospitals from Maine to California.

There will be 10 shows which will be "just what the doctor ordered."

Louis Simon, VHCS general manager, said that since USO Camp Shows first started entertaining hospitalized veterans in March, 1944, medical chiefs and special services officers "have studied these productions intently to determine what elements were therapeutically helpful to men in their care."

"They tell us that they can make the best use of shows featuring music, visual appeals and 'the familiar'," Simon said. "Our new productions are being put together to provide an abundance of just those essentials."

Vaudeville Featured

Four shows will be streamlined variety revues, made up chiefly of vaudeville acts—jugglers, magicians, dancers, acrobats and similar artists, supported by musicians. Two will feature music. One will offer a program of popular numbers, and semi-classical music by Victor Herbert and Sigmund Romberg. The last will represent a program of folk songs, music and dancing.

Simon said that the medical view is that any music is good so long as it pleases the patients, VHCS is recognizing patient approval of hillbilly acts by presenting "Broadway Hillbillies." At the same time VHCS also is exploring the possibilities of putting a ballet group on the road for the first time.

Sept. 20. Roseburg, Ore.; Hot Springs, Ark.; St. Albans, N. Y.

Sept. 27. Denver, Colo.; Columbia, S. C.

Oct. 11, Fort Dix, N. J.

Each unit, traveling for 30 weeks, covers a circuit 28,000 miles long. Making on the average of five play dates a week, it presents approximately 20 auditorium shows and 50 ward shows a month. An average of 332 men see each performance. The schedule is set up to provide each hospital fresh entertainment every three weeks.

RELIEF AT LAST For Your COUGH

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)
