Progress Seen In Talks...

Britain Resumes Attacks

By The Associated Press
Britain put new pressure on Argentina with a resumption of attacks in the South Atlantic war zone, and a U.N. spokesman reported "substantial progress" in negotiations to get peace talks started.

The British said their ships and aircraft bombarded Argentine military targets around the airfield at Stanley, the Falklands capital; an Argentine helicopter was shot down, and an Argentine fishing factory ship that appeared to be spying was captured in the British blockade zone around the islands.

After four days without a military attack, ships from the British battle fleet moved close to shore to bombard the Stanley airfield area, a British correspondent reported from the task force flagship Hermes.

At the same time, Britain said its Sea Harrier jets strafed the Argentine positions from the air. British correspondents with the battle fleet reported a missile fired by a British warship shot down an Argentine helicopter engaged in "air combat" over the Stanley airfield.

Argentina reported a 50-minute British attack on Stanley and the nearby town of Darwin. The Argentine account gave no word of casualties. Britain said its jets returned safely.

It was the first fighting reported in the South Atlantic since an Argentine warplane hit the British destroyer Sheffield last Tuesday with a French-built missile, killing 20 crewmen, and a British jet was downed attacking the Stanley airfield.

The attack followed reports that the Argentines had repaired the runway at Stanley, reportedly knocked out in two previous British raids, and was airlifting supplies to the island garrison in defiance of a British blockade. But correspondents with the British fleet said Harrier jets had turned back Argentine C-130 military transports escorted by Mirage jet fighters.

The British Defense Ministry also reported that British jets attacked the 1,298-ton Argentine fishing boat Narwal 66 miles off the Falklands because it was shadowing the fleet and appeared to be "fitted out for surveillance."

A spokesman said the 25 crewmen abandoned ship and surrendered, and the ship was also taken into custody. One Argentine sailor was reported killed, one seriously injured and 12 others slightly hurt.

Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency, said the ship's crew included an Argentine naval officer, Lt. Cmdr. Gonzales Llanos. The agency's correspondent aboard the Hermes, Peter Archer, said the Narwal had been ordered out of the 200-mile "total exclusion zone" last week by a British frigate.

Argentina claimed the Narwal was sunk in the British air attack and British jets machine-gunned the ship's lifeboats, forcing the crewmen into the frigid South Atlantic.

The British said the Argentines were lying.

"The Ministry of Defense deplores these allegations which are, of course, completely without foundation," said spokesman Ian McDonald.

As the fighting resumed around the Falklands, U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar reported "progress" in his efforts to bring the two nations to the peace table. A spokesman for the secretary-general described the progress as "substantial."

"We have made progress on some points, and on others I need some more clarification," Perez de Cuellar told reporters Sunday night after his second day of separate meetings at U.N. headquarters in New York with Sir Anthony Parsons, Britain's ambassador to the United Nations, and Argentine Deputy Foreign Minister Enrique Ros. More talks were set for today.

Bids Sought On Concession Stand

County commissioners this morning voted to seek bids for construction of a concession stand at the North Park.

Bids on the project will be opened May 24.

Israel...

Cabinet Sets Special Session

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Cabinet met in special session today to plan Israel's next move after Palestinian guerrillas shelled northern Israel for the first time in 10 months in retaliation for Israeli air strikes in southern Lebanon.

Lebanese officials said at least 16 people were killed and 56 wounded in Sunday's air raids. Israel reported no losses in the guerrilla reprisal.

The tit-for-tat attacks raised fears of a deadly new round of cross-border violence between Israel and the Palestine Liberation Organization. A cease-fire last July halted a similar campaign.

Settlers in Israel's Galilee panhandle, target of the guerrilla rocket and artillery salvos, appealed to the government today to maintain calm along the border.

"We are not built to withstand a war of attrition," Avraham Broshi, head of the local settlement council, told Defense Minister Ariel Sharon, who toured the northeastern panhandle between Lebanon and Syria and in western Galilee near the Mediterranean.

"Everybody is interested in keeping the north quiet, but not at the price of agreeing to Israel's other borders being open to terrorists," Sharon was quoted by Israel Radio as saying.

Israel cannot live indefinitely "in the shadow of a threat of a war of attrition in the north," he was quoted as saying.

Begin reportedly spoke with settlement leaders by telephone and promised everything would be done to maintain the peace.

Israeli analysts, noting that the more than 150 Palestinian shells fired into northern Israel caused neither casualties nor damage, said the guerrillas apparently were not seeking a war.

Schools and shops were open in the area today after local residents spent the night in bomb shelters. Israel Television said the guerrilla shelling came from Nabatiyeh, eight miles north of the panhandle, and Rashadiyeh, on the coast.

The PLO said Israeli planes and navy craft attacked guerrilla targets along a 19-mile stretch of the Lebanese coast, including Damour, nine miles south of Beirut, and the oil-refining town of Zaharani, just south of Sidon.

President Reagan...

Seeks To Neutralize Soviet Missile Lead

CHICAGO (AP) — President Reagan's bold and sweeping arms control proposal seeks to neutralize the Soviet Union's commanding lead in powerful land-based missiles while the two superpowers slash their arsenals of nuclear warheads by one-third.

"The monumental task of reducing and reshaping our strategic forces to enhance stability will take many years of concentrated effort," Reagan said in outlining his proposal Sunday at Eureka College, his alma mater.

"But I believe that it will be possible to reduce the risks of war by removing the instabilities that now exist and by dismantling the nuclear menace."

The U.S. goal is a treaty setting equal ceilings on U.S. and Soviet strategic nuclear forces and Reagan told the Mothers' Day commencement ceremony he hopes negotiations can begin by June.

The arms control proposal came on a day of high emotion for Reagan.

He was flooded with personal reminders of the four years he spent as a scholarship student at Eureka a half century ago during the Depression and blinked back tears when he joined the graduating class in singing the school song.

As the day drew to a close, the president declared: "I have spent the day in a warm flood of nostalgia."

Probing for a Soviet reaction, the president had told President Leonid I. Brezhnev in a letter Friday what he would say in Sunday's speech.

While there was no direct Soviet response, Defense Minister Dimitri F. Ustinov accused the United States of "openly hostile policies" in an article Sunday in Pravda, the Communist Party daily newspaper.

"The Soviet Union will not allow the existing balance of forces to be disrupted," Ustinov wrote.

Reagan was shown a news account of Ustinov's remarks after his speech and had no reaction, said Larry Speakes, the White House spokesman. Speakes said the Soviet official's article was not considered a response to Reagan's proposal.

An authoritative reply would have to come from Brezhnev directly, said U.S. officials.

Reagan's overture clearly was designed to seize the political initiative from the Soviet leader. Capitalizing on anti-nuclear sentiment, particularly in Europe, Brezhnev has advanced plans to freeze and reduce nuclear missiles. The administration has rejected them as one-sided.

Reagan's proposal, in the works for months, was based on a number of strategic judgments. First among them, said U.S. officials, is a growing lead in globe-spanning missiles and their multiple warheads.

According to U.S. and Western estimates, the Soviets have 6,120 such warheads already deployed, while the U.S. total is believed to be 2,152.

"We will negotiate seriously, in good faith and carefully consider all proposals made by the Soviet Union," Reagan said.

Housing Industry...

Congress Eyes New Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is taking up a proposal that would attempt to revive the depressed housing industry by providing $1 billion in subsidies for home mortgages.

The emergency housing bill, half of a Democratic initiative to put the unemployed back to work, is scheduled for a House vote Wednesday.

Because Republicans have been calling for similar programs to aid housing, the bill is expected to pass. However, the Reagan administration has objected to the cost, raising the possibility of a veto.

Other issues before Congress this week include ways of cutting deficits through cuts in military spending, Social Security costs and whether a freeze in nuclear weapons can be achieved.

WTC Budget Due Tentative Okay

Scurry County Junior College District trustees will consider tentative approval of a 1982-83 budget for Western Texas College and recommendations for several promotions in rank at their regular meeting this evening.

The meeting is set for 5:45 p. m. in the conference room of the WTC administration building.

A new WTC catalog for 1982-83 will be presented and several policy revisions will be up for consideration. These include changes in compensation for part-time personnel, overload pay for regular personnel, per diem pay and meals for travel, and pay scales for extension centers.

Also up for formal approval will be a new policy providing for faculty development grants. This new policy was agreed upon at the April meeting.

Routing personnel changes and opening of bids for evaporative air-conditioning for the WTC gym and for purchase of fertilizer will round out the new business agenda.

Up for discussion will be tax collections, plans for the golf and rodeo teams to participate in national competition, and repairs to the gym floor.

Monday update

To Seek State Charges

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The Democratic candidate for Bexar County district attorney, who is unopposed for the office, says he will seek state capital murder indictments against two men now charged with federal crimes in the slaying of U.S. District Judge John Wood Jr.

Sam Millsap, who has no opponent in the November general election, said he would ask Bexar County grand jurors to charge Jimmy Chagra and Charles V. Harrelson with capital murder after their federal trial.

Millsap, if elected, would not take office until January.

He formerly was head of the Committee for Justice, which offered a $100,000 reward for information leading to a conviction in the judge's assassination.

Democrats Respond

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats are responding to President Reagan's nuclear arms reduction proposals by stepping up their clamor for approval of SALT II, the treaty former President Carter finished negotiating but didn't get through the Senate.

"The only way to hold the Soviets in check while modernizing our weapons is to give formal approval, in some way, to the unratified SALT II treaty," Edmund S. Muskie said Sunday.

"There may be some changes that could be made to improve its chances of ratification," said the former secretary of state and senator from Maine.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said, "The president ought to seriously consider taking SALT II and then proposing any amendments he thinks necessary."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Energy James B. Edwards is planning to leave his job at the end of next month, according to a published report.

Edwards has told White House officials he will resign from the Cabinet to accept the presidency of the Medical University of South Carolina, the Washington Post reported in today's editions.

If he does resign, he will become the first Cabinet member to leave the Reagan administration. The newspaper cited no source for its information.

The university's board of trustees voted unanimously April 2 to offer the former South Carolina governor the post. Edwards was quoted shortly thereafter as saying he would "probably end up taking the job," but that he had made no definite decision.

Fraud Trial Starts

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Ranchers say newly released documents will prove that the government used fraudulent information about its nuclear tests in 1953 to deny them compensation for the deaths of 4,390 sheep.

In a trial starting today, the ranchers are seeking to reopen a 26-year-old suit alleging that fallout from two above-ground nuclear tests at the Nevada Test Site in 1953 killed the sheep, which were at pasture downwind.

"The issue is whether there was fraud on the court," said Dan Bushnell, the attorney for the southern Utah ranchers. "That is preliminary to reopening the case."

U.S. District Judge A. Sherman Christensen, who has scheduled four days for the trial, ruled in 1956 that the ranchers failed to prove radiation caused or contributed to the deaths.

WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy west of the mountains, scattered thunderstorms east of the mountains through Tuesday. No important temperature changes. Highs mostly 80s except upper 90s Big Bend. Lows 50s north and mountains to 60s south.

WHAT IS IT?—Herman and Kathryn kins of 304 34th St. were puzzled by a mysterious object they found Friday morning on their ranch about 25 miles W of Snyder. The found object turned out to be a National Weather Service diosonde used for gathering data on the upper atmosphere. The small transmitters are attached to helium fill-balloons which carry them to altitudes up to 17 miles before they break and blow the radios to return to earth. During their flight, the tiny weather stations relay information on temperature, barometric pressure, wind velocity, wind direction and humidity to NWS ground stations. In West Texas, the weather service launches hundreds of these instruments during the spring thunder storm season. The NWS asks that the found instruments be returned in their enclosed, postage free, mailing bags since they are quite expensive and can be used again. (SDN Staff Photo)

Analyzing alcohol content

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently I witnessed a machine used as a breath analyzer for the first time. It measured the amount of alcohol in a person's system. I don't know the technical name for it. How does it work? How long is alcohol retained in terms of hours, days, before all traces disappear? Can this machine be used to detect other substances?

DEAR READER — Volatile substances, such as alcohol, that are in the blood escape from the blood as it circulates through the lungs, along with carbon dioxide. Specially designed instruments are available for breath analysis. Some are for carbon dioxide and oxygen. The one you saw is for alcohol.

The more alcohol there is in the blood the more alcohol will be exhaled through the lungs. Scales have been developed to estimate accurately the blood's content of the gas from the amount of gas in the exhaled air.

The blood level is the important factor in determining how a person responds to alcohol, excluding the high level of tolerance that some chronic drinkers achieve. That is why the level is used to define whether a driver is drunk or not. When the blood level reaches 0.10 percent a person is considered legally drunk in most states.

Alcohol is broken down in the liver using liver enzymes. Under normal conditions it will break down 10 mg. about one-third of an ounce of alcohol, an hour. You cannot speed up the action of the liver. That is why exercise doesn't sober a drunk.

Exercising your skeletal muscles won't do a thing to speed up the enzyme action in the liver. If you absorb a half ounce of alcohol, which is about the amount in an ounce of whiskey, it will take an hour-and-a-half to metabolize it. That is why it is important to not drink more than one ounce of liquor an hour and wait an hour after your last drink before driving.

There are other factors that also affect the blood level of alcohol. These and the effects on your ability to function, your brain response, are discussed in The Health Letter number 14-6, Alcohol Can Be Dangerous to Your Health, which I am sending you. Anyone who drinks at all should understand these basic facts about alcohol. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 14-year-old girl and am 5 feet 1 inch tall and weigh 90 pounds. I feel that is a perfect weight for me as I am small-boned. I have not dieted and have always been thin. I would like to know how many calories I can eat without gaining or losing weight. I am moderately active and take an hour of jazz class every week. I exercise 30 minutes a day the rest of the week. I have a long school day so I usually have a large breakfast early in the morning.

I'm pretty sure I have stopped growing because I have had my period for more than a year. So how many calories do you suggest?

DEAR READER — There is no magic figure. The level of activity varies so much from one individual to another that the number that makes one person fat will not be enough for another person. For a girl your age, height and weight the National Academy of Sciences' recommendation is 2,200 calories a day with a variation between 1,500 and 3,000 calories.

How can you tell if you are eating too many calories? You will develop too much fat under the skin. If you are not getting enough calories your energy level is likely to decrease causing fatigue and weakness.

Replacement Cows Brought To Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii's largest dairy had to stop selling milk when its cows ate pineapple leaves covered with ant poison, so to recoup its losses the dairy is flying in some mainland experts — a herd of black-and-white Holsteins. The 86 cows, weighing about 95,000 pounds altogether, arrived in Honolulu this weekend and were greeted with fanfare by a herd of reporters, photographers and company officials.

ASPCA Offers Helpful Tips On Pet Traveling

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer

Woof! Don't forget the family pets when you're making plans for a vacation.

The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals says that thousands of people take their pets with them when they travel around the United States and overseas, but a trip with an animal can present special problems.

The ASPCA has several suggestions to make things easier. It also has a 60-page booklet, with information on animal regulations in each of the 50 states and more than 100 foreign countries. The booklet, "Traveling with Your Pet," is available, at no charge, from the ASPCA Education Department, 441 E. 92nd St., New York, N.Y., 10028.

Before you start your trip, have your pet examined by a veterinarian. Be sure you have health and rabies vaccination certificates available for inspection. Many states now require vaccinations against parvovirus as part of the standard health certification process for dogs. The disease — which can be fatal — is particularly prevalent during the summer and in warmer climates; if you plan a summer trip and have not had your pet vaccinated against parvo, see your vet immediately.

If your pet is not used to traveling by car, take some short test drives before vacation time. Tranquilizers and sedatives are available for animals that suffer from severe motion sickness, but do not give your pet any medicine without the approval of your vet.

Never leave your pet alone in a parked car. The heat in a closed auto can reach more than 120 degrees in a matter of minutes.

Make sure your pet wears a comfortable collar with license tag and complete identification — including both your name and the animal's and your address and telephone number.

Rail, bus and airline companies have varying policies on animals traveling with their owners. The ASPCA says that Amtrak has a strict "no-pet" rule; long-distance bus lines generally limit animals to specially trained guide dogs accompanying blind or deaf passengers.

Travel kennels come in several sizes and it is important to get one that is large enough. Make sure your pet can stand, turn around and lie down. Allow the animal to get accustomed to the container before the departure date; use the container as a bed or a feeding place for a few days so it is familiar.

The ASPCA runs an animal shelter at New York's Kennedy Airport that can be used as a temporary resting place for pets in transit or as a boarding kennel for animals whose owners cannot take them along.

Lake Mishap Claims Man

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A 33-year-old man who tried to repair his motorboat during a fishing trip on Lake Worth fell into the water and drowned while his 12-year-old son watched helplessly, fire department officials said.

Another passenger in the boat, who jumped into the lake in an attempt to save the man, was rescued by two Lake Worth residents who heard her cries, said fire Lt. Les Burks.

Broadcaster Fights To Keep Spot

GLOUCESTER, Mass. (AP) — The one-room basement apartment that Simon Geller calls home contains a rumpled bed, a sink, a hotplate, two oak desks and a radio station. The station is WVCA-FM, and from midmorning to midnight seven days a week, the 62-year-old Geller broadcasts virtually commercial-free classical music to a loyal band of listeners who live as far away as Boston, 30 miles to the southwest.

Geller doesn't exactly operate by the book, and he is on the verge of losing the license he has held for 15 years. The apparent successor is a corporation headed by Josiah Spaulding of Manchester, a prominent figure in Republican politics in Massachusetts.

But Geller is fighting back, aided by scores of listeners who say his unconventional approach to broadcasting is an oasis in an "era of soul-destroying sameness" on the airwaves.

The supporters are raising money for a court fight and writing letters of protest to the Federal Communications Commission and President Reagan.

The FCC voted March 4 not to renew Geller's license to operate the one-man station. According to FCC spokesman William Silva, the commission said Geller did not meet federal requirements to present news and public service programming.

Geller says the FCC likely will issue its formal ruling around June 1. He hopes to raise enough money to finance a federal court appeal in Washington.

"I don't think programming is the reason they want to force me out," says Geller, whose dusty and paper-strewn living quarters contrast sharply with the sophisticated electronic equipment he operates.

"The fact that the people who want my license have so much money is what's hurting me," he contends. "They (the FCC) want concentration of radio under a few big owners. They don't want competition any more."

Silva said the issue is Geller's refusal to provide programming to serve the diverse needs of the Gloucester area, "especially news."

He said the FCC announced its intention to award Geller's license to Grandbanke Corp., whose officers include Spaulding.

Spaulding says there's another side to what he calls "this David and Goliath story."

He contends Gloucester and other towns on Cape Ann sorely need a radio station to meet the diverse information needs of the community.

"You turn on WBZ in Boston and you can find out if your child's school is closed. You can listen to the news. We don't have that service on Cape Ann," he says. "All we have is a radio station broadcasting classical music."

Spaulding says the FCC gave Geller seven years to comply with regulations that a station serve the diverse needs of the area in which it broadcasts.

"Mr. Geller thumbed his nose at the FCC," says Spaulding. "He did this to himself."

Spaulding also argues that Geller's station reaches about 400,000 people in the Cape Ann area, a minority of whom prefer only classical music. "We have put together a super program" that will include talk shows, classical music, news and public service programs, he said.

Geller says he supports his $12,000-a-year operation largely through donations from listeners. He says he doesn't like the way potential advertisers do business and no longer seeks ads to help make ends meet.

Geller admits his station broadcasts classical music to the almost total exclusion of public service programming.

The station features a

Saturday morning program in which a Social Security official in the Salem office answers questions sent in by elderly listeners.

And that's enough, Geller insists. He believes that a significant number of people want a station that broadcasts classical music almost exclusively.

He searched a cluttered desk and came up with a fistful of letters from listeners to prove his point. Copies of the letters had been sent to the FCC or to Reagan asking them to intervene on Geller's behalf.

Thomas T. Howard, chairman of the English Department at Gordon College in Wenham, wrote it would be "a very great pity indeed" if Geller's station were silenced.

Howard enclosed a $25 check for Geller's legal defense fund, which Geller estimates contains $4,000.

The FCC ruling represents a "classic case of big money doing in the little guy," wrote the Rev. James C. O'Brien of Boston.

Geller says his station will continue to broadcast while he mounts a court fight. "And that could take a couple of years," he says.

"I'm not enjoying this fight," complains Geller, who says he works alone, seven days a week, taking a day off only once every six weeks or so to see a movie in Boston.

"It's either do this or starve."

Dear Abby

Man's Good Health A Matter of Record

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: After reading about the man who bragged about his physiological attributes at the age of 77, I have decided to list my own attributes, which far outshine his.
For instance, I am still a vigorous and athletically inclined individual at the age of 96!

Furthermore, I have not been sick in the last 50 years, not even with a headache or backache. Furthermore, I still engage in daily calisthenics, exercising every muscle and organ in my body. Furthermore, I am still mentally vigorous. (I write occasional newspaper and magazine articles.)

I still have an excellent appetite for good, wholesome food, and equally, if not more important, I am still sexually potent.

If any man or woman can duplicate my record, I would be glad to hear from them.

WILLIAM McHENRY, WORCESTER, MASS.

DEAR WILLIAM: I'll bet you will hear from a good number of readers. But if you're challenged by a woman demanding proof of all your claims — you're on your own.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday my 18-year-old daughter told me that a boy had made a derogatory remark about her at school in the presence of several of her friends. She refused to repeat the remark but said she was very upset because she had always considered him to be a nice person and a good friend. He had been to our home many times and I also thought he was nice.

I decided to phone the boy and talk to him about it. His mother answered the phone and said he wasn't there. Abby, I have always appreciated being informed when my children have done something wrong, so I took a chance and assumed that this boy's mother felt the same. She did, so I told her what my daughter had told me. She was very nice, thanked me for telling her and said she would speak to her son about it. Did I do wrong? If my daughter finds out I called and reacts badly, how can I make amends?

GOOD INTENTIONS

DEAR GOOD: The scenario will probably go like this: Boy's mother tells son that girl's mother phoned to report that he had bad-mouthed daughter. Son either denies or confirms the charges, after which he will be angry at your daughter for getting him into trouble at home. Your daughter in turn will be angry with you for getting into the act. You should not have made that call. And you can make amends by apologizing and promising not to do it again.

DEAR ABBY: I really enjoy your column. I cut out some of the articles I think are especially good and display them on my refrigerator. One letter stayed there for a year.

I am enclosing one I would like to see as a rerun on Mother's Day.

"Woman was created from the rib of man.
"She was not made from his head to top him,
"Nor out of his feet to be trampled upon.
"But out of his side to be equal to him,
"Under his arm to be protected,
"And near his heart to be loved."

Oswald: "Back in 1955 Victor Mollo and Nico Gardener wrote a book called 'Card Play Technique.' Recently published in paperback it is fairly elementary, but very good bridge and pleasant reading."

Alan: "Here is a play they call the 'suicide ruff.'"

Oswald: "Usually it pays to ruff in dummy when you have most of the trumps. The exception is when you can use dummy's trumps to establish a long suit."

Alan: "South won the spade lead and started out properly by leading his seven of clubs to dummy's 10 and East's queen. The defense took one spade and shifted to the king of diamonds."

Oswald: "South was in with ace and promptly started his career of suicide by ruffing. He ruffed a diamond with dummy's 10 of trumps. Then he cashed the ace of trumps, ruffed a club with the eight of hearts and ruffed his last diamond. Dummy was down to clubs and he had to lead one and ruff. West was now able to overruff and score the setting trick with his trump jack."

Alan: "South had started on clubs. He should have kept on as follows. After taking the ace of diamonds, then a trump to dummy's queen. Ruff a club with the king of trumps, a trump to dummy's ace, ruff out the ace of clubs, enter dummy with the 10 of trumps and discard any losing diamonds on good clubs."

Officers Installed At DKG Brunch

The Zeta Lambda Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma met for brunch May 1 in the home of Carol Miller. Serving as hostesses with Mrs. Miller were El Wanda Nall, Johnnie Harber, Empress Terrell, Emily Kincaid, Jean Sealy, Helen Mock, and Durelle Gorman.

Vestal Manor led the meditation preceding the tribute to founders. Betty Richardson assisted by Carol Miller gave an oral tribute to the seven founders of Delta Kappa Gamma as seven white candles were lighted in memory of each deceased founder.

Each outgoing officer installed her successor in the following order:

El Wanda Nall installed Johnnie Harber as president, Johnnie Harber installed Carolyn Hanby as first vice president, Phil Kelley installed Mary Blackmon as second vice president, Empress Terrell installed Patsy Williams as recording secretary, Emily Kincaid installed Margaret Presswood as corresponding secretary, and Helen Mock installed Durelle Gorman as parliamentarian. Carol Miller, in the absence of Jean Sealy, installed Monette O'Day as treasurer.

As outgoing president El Wanda Nall presented a brass tray to Johnnie Harber who accepted the gift on behalf of the Zeta Lambda Chapter.

Following a brief business session conducted by El Wanda Nall, the meeting adjourned until September.

At Annual Breakfast...

20th Century Club Installs Officers

The annual May breakfast for the Twentieth Century Club was held in the home of Mrs. Guy Stoker as it has been for many years. Gayleen Harrison and Majorie Tyer were co-hostesses.

Officers for the club years 1982-84 were installed by Gayleen Harrison. They are Mary Faver, president; Mary Ann Key, first vice president; Margie Key, second vice president; Elizabeth Beard; corresponding secretary; Martha Moore, recording secretary; and Henrietta Dupree, treasurer.

Mrs. Dupree reviewed the captivating book by Runa Erwin Ware, "All Those in Favor Say Something." Lois Bartels gave a brief account of the club's day at the Buffalo Gap Art Festival and Marjorie Tyer called attention to the projects as listed in the yearbook and found that all had been generously supported through the year.

These were Scurry County Museum, Scurry

County Retarded Citizens, West Texas Rehabilitation Center, Girl's Town, M. D. Anderson Hospital, MAWC Christmas Bazaar, Historic Scurry County, and American Field Service.

Mrs. Tyer told members that the National Federation president urges more volunteerism, especially among young women, in order to fill community needs left vacant by some necessary reduction in federal and state agencies. Eleven members and two guests, June McGlaun and Martha Huddleston, were present.

Ector Strong At Region; Injury Ends SHS Bid

ODESSA -- A pulled muscle ended Glenn Parham's bid at the Region I, Class 4A Track and Field Meet here Saturday, preventing the Snyder competitor to vie for state honors.

Parham, Snyder's only entry in the meet, pulled a muscle in the 110 high hurdles, which forced him from finishing the race and caused his withdrawal in the 300 intermediates. He had placed fourth in the long jump earlier in the day.

"Glenn came out of the blocks real well and looked real good over the first two hurdles," said track coach Robert Crawford. "But he pulled a muscle and that was it. He couldn't finish the 110's and he wasn't able to run the intermediates."

Parham was one of the top contenders in the intermediates going into the meet.

"The (Odessa College) trainer said the pulled muscle was probably due to the heat. He said the heat was bothering a lot of the kids," added Crawford, who pointed out that it had been cool and rainy for almost two weeks before the regional meet.

"We're proud of the job Glenn did this year. Next year we hope to have him and four or five others here as well," said Crawford.

District 2-AAAA was well represented at the meet - and will be at the Boy's State Track Meet in Austin.

Sneed Wins Houston Open

HOUSTON (AP) - Ed Sneed, haunted the past three years by the memory of blowing a final-round lead in the 1979 Masters, saw history repeat itself in the $350,000 Houston Open golf tournament - but this time Bob Shearer played the lead role.

Sneed, who started Sunday's final round five strokes behind Shearer, fired a 1-under par 70 to tie Shearer at the end of regulation play and then won his first tournament in five years with a birdie on the first playoff hole.

Meanwhile, Sneed watched Shearer self-destruct with a 3-over par 75 to fall into a tie with Sneed with a 275 total and lose the tournament when he parred the first playoff hole.

Shearer started the final day at 13-under par and the heavy favorite with a string of 13 sub-par rounds in 14 starts.

But he bogeyed No. 7 and made the turn with only a three-shot lead while Sneed was running in birdies on the second and fifth holes.

Shearer continued his downfall on the backside with back-to-back bogeys on 11 and 12, and fell into a tie on the 16th hole with the second of two straight birdies by Sneed.

Both golfers then bogeyed No. 17 and parred 18 to force the playoff, beginning on No. 15.

Danny Edwards, who started the final round eight shots behind the leaders at 5-under par.

White Sox 5, Braves 3

Bert Otto combined pitching duties with that of top batsmen as he aided the White Sox to a seven-inning victory over the Braves. Otto, who picked up with win with three innings on the mound, rapped a double and a triple to ignite the Sox. Walt Floyd and Shane McCarter hit a single apiece for the winners.

Mike Wenken, Braves' pitcher, clouted a home run to help his squad. Kevin Dollins added two singles.

Both teams are now 1-1. No other games were reported.

Odessa Ector qualified two individuals in two events each and two others in one event apiece. Tony Gamble won both the 800 and 1600 meters and Charles Ricks took blue ribbons in the 100 and 200 dashes. Dennis Alexander of Ector won the 400 meters and Greg Lyons placed second in the 800 meters.

Andrews qualified five individuals. Leo Ruiz took the Mustangs' only first-

Leonard Awaits Surgery Results

BALTIMORE (AP) - Sugar Ray Leonard's boxing career will be in doubt for several weeks following eye surgery, although doctors think the world welterweight champion could resume fighting before the end of the year.

Although optimistic about a full recovery, Dr. Ronald G. Michels said it's too early to tell whether Sunday's operation will successfully repair the detached retina in Leonard's left eye. However, he added retinal surgery was successful 90 percent of the time.

"The tissue has to seal down in the proper locations, we have to wait for the healing response," Michels said after the two-hour operation at Johns Hopkins Hospital. "It's much too early to tell, but he should be fully recovered in four to six months."

The operation forced the postponement of Leonard's title bout against Roger Stafford scheduled for Friday in Buffalo, N.Y.

Michels, the ophthalmologist who successfully performed retinal surgery on boxer Earnie Shavers, said it will be several weeks before doctors can predict a full recovery.

Handlers for the 25-year-old boxer, meanwhile, said the champion was more concerned about a full recovery than his career.

"That's probably the last thing on Ray's mind, whether he's going to punch somebody again," Leonard's agent and attorney Mike Trainer said.

Lakers Hold Off Spurs; Making Up For Lost Time

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The National Basketball Association playoffs are giving the Los Angeles Lakers an opportunity to erase some bitter memories. So far, they are perfect, but the misery of a year ago is still remembered.

The Lakers won the NBA championship following the 1979-80 season, but last spring was a different matter as they were eliminated by the Houston Rockets in a first-round mini-series.

"We're playing well as a team because we can remember the disappointment from last season," said Kareem Abdul-Jabbar after the Lakers whipped the San Antonio Spurs 128-117 Sunday in the opener of the Western Conference championship series. "This year, the team is ready. We want to win."

Abdul-Jabbar, a six-time NBA most valuable player who turned 35 last month, led the way with 32 points, 10 rebounds, six assists and five blocked shots as the Lakers held off the gritty Spurs.

The second game in the best-of-seven Lakers-Spurs set will be played here Tuesday night before the teams travel to San Antonio for games next Friday and Saturday.

"We definitely have our work cut out for us," said Abdul-Jabbar. "San Antonio is a very physical team and can score whenever they like."

The Spurs can play better, as evidenced by their place by winning the pole vault. Placing second were Keith Brooks in the high jump, Henry Farris in the 3200 meters, Archie Williams in the 200 meters and Kirk Peary in the 1600 meters.

Monahans qualified its 1600 meter relay team in second place and got two others in the state meet. Randy Roark won the shot put and Danny Tarrango took second in the intermediate hurdles.

The nationally televised bout in Buffalo would have been Leonard's second fight this year. In his last fight, on Feb. 15, in Reno, Nev., Leonard knocked out Bruce Finch.

Leonard became the undisputed world welterweight champion last September when he stopped Thomas Hearns in the 14th round in Las Vegas. During that fight, Leonard suffered injury to his left eye. Michels said it was impossible to determine whether that injury caused the detached retina. But the doctor said "the changes in the eye were due to his professional activity."

game.

"The only reason I do that is the bullpen I have," Houk said after relievers Bob Stanley, 3-1, and Mark Clear preserved Boston's narrow 1-0 Sunday win. "If I didn't have a good bullpen I would never do it."

Stanley relieved Tudor with two out in the fifth and the bases loaded, and got Ranger Lamar Johnson on a ground out to end the threat. Clear earned his fifth save of the year, and second in two days, by striking out the final two batters.

Neither relief pitcher criticized Houk for pulling the starters.

"He's not afraid to make a decision. That's what he gets paid for," said Clear. "And we're 20-9 (best record in the American League). That speaks for itself."

Tony Perez produced Boston's only run with a sixth inning double that scored Dwight Evans, who had walked.

Texas loaded the bases in the first and fifth innings, put a runner on third in the sixth and a runner on second in the ninth, but could not deliver a run-scoring hit.

That shortcoming is beginning to put pressure on the Rangers, according to Texas catcher Jim Sundberg, hitting .358.

"I even feel it," he said. "There's an air of 'I gotta get a hit,' but it's just not happening."

Boston took three of the four games with Texas by scores of 5-2, 1-0 and 1-0. Texas won the Friday game, 2-1.

"What we need is a laugh," said Ranger rookie Bobby Johnson.

Veteran Texas outfielder Billy Sample countered by saying, "We need a big inning - like one run."

Chicago Sweeps Astros; Wins Sunday By 6-3

CHICAGO (AP) - Manager Lee Elia gradually is solving the problems of his Chicago Cubs and things are beginning to fall into place.

Elia has found a spot for Keith Moreland's hot bat - right field, instead of behind the plate where Jody Davis is now operating.

Davis is a far better catcher defensively, but he also provided the fireworks on offense Sunday with a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth to give the Cubs a 6-3 victory and a sweep of a three-game series with the Houston Astros.

Davis also singled home the second run in an interesting fourth inning to tie the game. That's the way it stood until he hammered his first homer of the season off loser Randy Moffitt, 1-2, to make a winner of reliever Willie Hernandez, 1-2.

Starting pitchers Fergie Jenkins of the Cubs and Bob Knepper of the Astros were involved in a bean-ball incident in the fourth inning.

Jenkins hit Craig Reynolds with a pitch in the top of the fourth after the Astros had taken a 3-1 lead on a single by Ray Knight, a double by Jose Cruz and a two-run single by Alan Ashby.

Knepper's first pitch in the bottom of the fourth plunked Bill Buckner, who started out for the mound as both benches emptied.

Hitting Buckner proved costly to Knepper. He walked the next two batters and the Cubs tied the score with two runs in the inning on an infield force and the single by Davis.

It stood until the ninth when Leon Durham doubled with one out and went to third on an infield out.

Pecos' Eagles go for a shot at the District 2-AAAA baseball title here Tuesday as they take on highly-touted Snyder at 7:30 p.m.

Cooper Team Claims Title

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Defending champion Kay Title of Irving McArthur won the Class 5A girls' singles tennis title Saturday, defeating Laurie Lapp of Fort Worth Arlington Heights 6-0, 6-4.

Abilene Cooper's doubles team of LeAnne Hill and Stephanie Burnham also won in 5A, beating Emily Schute and Jennifer McGee of Houston Memorial 7-5, 2-6, 6-3.

Defending champion Lisa Brollier of Austin Westlake captured the 4A singles title, defeating Kim Crawford of Corpus Christi Flour Bluff 7-6, 6-3.

Taylor won doubles in 4A, defeating Andrews 6-0, 6-1.

The only other defending champions from last year to repeat were Julie Stice and Kathy Schriver of Marble Falls in 3A doubles. They beat Melissa Guevera and Carolyn Ransom of La Feria, 7-6, 6-0.

Here are the other girls' tennis results:

Class A
Singles - Andrea Pierce, Port Aransas, defeated Shanna Mora, Port Aransas, 4-6, 6-3, 6-0.
Doubles - Narzareth defeated Thrall 6-0, 6-0.

Class 2A

Pecos comes into the game with a 2-0 record, which includes a six-inning, 11-1 rout of Monahans last Friday. Snyder, which has won 13 straight games, defeated Andrews 9-0 its last time out. Also undefeated in round two play is Fort Stockton, which eased past Lamesa 1-0 last Friday.

Swartz Resigns As UTEP AD

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - The president of the University of Texas at El Paso says an interim replacement will be named early this week for Ed Swartz, who resigned as athletic director this weekend.

Swartz headed the financially troubled athletic department for 13 months before Saturday's announcement he would step down, effective immediately.

His announcement was in a joint statement with UTEP president Haskell Monroe. The search for a permanent athletic director will begin immediately, said Monroe.

"Around Jan. 18, that's when we started learning just how serious the athletic budget problem was," Swartz said.

Swartz said he made the decision to step down nearly four months ago.

"I hope the next athletic director will be selected as quickly as possible," Monroe said, "perhaps within a few weeks."

Swartz was named athletic director last year four months after the previous one, Jim Bowden was reassigned. Swartz signed a five-year contract with the school at $48,000 a year.
