Harry F. Powers, 'Bluebeard' Slayer, Confesses Before Death On Gallows

NOOSE EXACTS PENALTY FROM WOMAN KILLER

Confession of Slayings Obtained by Doctor Before Death

MEETS DEATH CALMLY

Accused Man Refuses To Talk as Last Minute Of Life Arrives

By L. R. LINDGREN

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 18. (AP)—Harry F. Powers, West Virginia "Bluebeard," who lured women to their death with promises of love and happiness, died on the gallows tonight, with an unconcerned smile.

The trap was sprung at 9 o'clock. Powers was pronounced dead at 9:11.

When everything was in readiness, the blue curtain was drawn, revealing Powers standing upon the scaffold.

He wore a blue striped suit, a white shirt and a white tie and there was a white handkerchief in his pocket.

He looked curiously over the throng of witnesses and newspaper men. He looked with a grimace at Sheriff W. B. Grimm and quizzically at Warden A. C. Scroggins. Meanwhile the prison chaplain began the prayer. Powers seemed to pay no heed to the clergyman.

Warden Scroggins stepped forward and asked:

"Have you anything you wish to say Harry?"

Powers replied, emphatically, "No."

DOCTOR TELLS OF POWERS' CONFESSION

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 18. (AP)—Dr. H. H. Haynes, Clarksburg, W. Va., physician, said tonight immediately after the execution of Harry F. Powers, that Powers confessed he murdered Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher and her three children of Park Ridge, Ill., and Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke of Northboro, Mass., and buried their bodies in the ditch near his "chamber of horrors" garage in Sylvan Quiet Dell.

Judge Orders Trial In Truck Law Case

AUSTIN, March 18. (UP)—District Judge W. F. Robertson today overruled a demurrer by the state and ordered a trial on April 4 of an appeal by Cathey & Carrell, Dallas truck operators, from a railroad commission ruling refusing them a permit to haul under contract for a chain grocery system.

The case is the first testing the power of the commission to refuse contract permits on the ground that such semi-private hauling will impair common carrier service.

Profit Sharing Policy Halted by Court Order

NEW YORK, March 18. (AP)—The profit sharing policy of the American Tobacco company, which in 1930 brought its president, George W. Hill, a compensation of $2,383,000, was halted at least temporarily by an injunction granted today by Federal Judge Francis C. Caffey.

The decision barred payment of the "bonuses" pending litigation "either for 1931 or for any subsequent year."

The profit sharing plan, adopted in July, 1930, brought millions of dollars into the hands of vice presidents of the company in addition to President Hill.

Rail Commission to Give Views On Wichita Gas Fight

Chairman Terrell Denies Testimony In Wichita Falls Suit

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, March 18.—Preliminary to a full discussion later when Commissioner Lon A. Smith returns to Austin of testimony in the Wichita Falls gas case, Chairman C. V. Terrell of the state railroad commission today made the following statement:

"In answer to the testimony recently carried in the Wichita Falls papers that one member of the commission had stated that 'he did not care what Wichita Falls thought about him, he had enough money to get elected without their support,' I can speak for myself only, inasmuch as all of the commissioners are not in the city today.

"I have never, at any time, at any place, or to any person, made this statement or one that by any stretch of the imagination could be construed to mean this. Wichita Falls is my neighbor. It has always been kind to me. I have always carried this county in every race that I have made, and appreciate this support and friendship.

"It is to be regretted that in the heat of conflict, men so far forget themselves that they will resort to misrepresentation and untruths to vent their spleen in order to carry their point.

"There are other inaccuracies in the evidence in this case, and a statement will be prepared later and sent to the Wichita Falls papers which will reflect clearly and truthfully the action of the commission in the Wichita Falls case."

The evidence referred to by Mr. Terrell in his statement was given by Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., in the suit of Judge Harvey Harris against the Municipal Gas company for $4.55, which the jury awarded him together with costs of trial.

While on the stand before Judge O. L. Gibbs in justice court last Tuesday morning, Mayor Nelson quoted Pat M. Neff, himself a member of the railroad commission, as making the statement cited by Mr. Terrell in his statement Friday. According to Mayor Nelson, both he and City Manager V. R. Smitham were talking with Mr. Neff in this city when the latter made the statement.

FINANCE HEADS FAIL TO AGREE

Dawes-Meyer Dispute Goes To President

WASHINGTON, March 18. (US)—A controversy between Gen. Charles G. Dawes, president, and Eugene Meyer, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation as to restrictions on loans to the railroads, brought 15 of the country's leading rail executives to the White House late today.

President Hoover, in conference with the executives and with Dawes and Meyer present most of the time, undertook to iron out the differences. The series of conferences lasted most of the day and had been discussed earlier by the president and his cabinet.

White House Statement

When adjournment was taken late in the day, a brief White House statement was the only indication of what, if anything, had been accomplished. This appeared to show the conferences will be continued. The statement follows:

"The president has had conferences with the directors of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the members of the Interstate Commerce commission and the department of commerce interested in reconstruction matters, with the executive committee of the Railway Presidents association and the chairman of the Railway Credit corporation, upon coordination of reconstruction activities. The conferences are still continuing."

From reliable authority it was learned that the existing impasse between the railroads and the finance corporation is due to the insistence of Meyer that the loans granted be used to take up existing loans in the banks, in order that the banks involved may become more liquid. General Dawes, on the other hand, is understood to take the position that the banks be asked to extend the loans that the money now advanced be used to pay dividends and finance necessary improvements.

Rail Officials Depressed

The rail officials were visibly depressed when they came to the White House and also when they

'Goat Gland' Specialist Gets Delay in Trial

DALLAS, March 18. (UP)—The fifth court of civil appeals today passed until next Friday a hearing on the state's motion to dismiss an appeal of Dr. John R. Brinkley, Kansas "goat gland" specialist, in the suit where the state medical examiners seek to revoke the doctor's license to practice in Texas.

Dr. Brinkley recently appealed a lower court ruling that the suit must be tried here rather than at Del Rio, where he resides when in Texas. District Attorney William McGraw seeks to have the appeal dropped because Dr. Brinkley assertedly failed to file appeal bond in the specified time.

Oil Field Worker Killed In Longview Accident

LONGVIEW, Texas, March 18. (UP)—The body of Clifford Gordon McCathan, 37, of Vivian, La., who died here from injuries received in the nearby oil field, was sent today to his Louisiana home for burial.

McCathan was injured Thursday morning when a separator on a lease where he was working fell on his right leg, badly mangling it. His death last night was attributed to loss of blood and shock.

Lindbergh Depending On Aid Of Confidential Agents In Search

Noted Flier Apparently Holds Little Hope of Securing Return Of Missing Infant Through Police Activity

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 18. (AP)—While state police and city detectives were wearily tracking down every vague tip that cropped up in the 17-day-old Lindbergh kidnaping case, there were indications tonight Colonel Lindbergh himself still is pinning a hope on activity of his confidential agents.

In his closely guarded home frequent conferences have been held this week between Col. Henry Breckenridge, Lindbergh's counsel and close friend; John J. Fogarty, New York detective brought into the case by Breckinridge, and Morris Rosner, undercover emissary for the famous flier.

Police Barred

The colonel himself has presided at all of them. Authorities directing the official search for the kidnapers have been barred.

Rosner has been making frequent trips to points a considerable distance from the estate, but he returns at least daily to make reports.

These facts were learned tonight as a fresh batch of clues seemed to be leading the official investigators where all others have led—into blind alleys.

After police in Pocatello, Idaho, had quoted a burglary suspect as saying he drove the kidnaping car, and after a Newark, N. J., police official had questioned the man by telephone, two Newark detectives were sent to Idaho to investigate that new lead.

But while they were on their way West, the prisoner, Ignace Blaustein, of Brooklyn, repudiated the statement and told a third version of his knowledge of the case.

While he was arrested for robbing a fraternity house he said he had not heard of the kidnaping until he reached Weber, Utah.

Pocatello police quoted him last night as saying he had driven West with two other men involved in the abduction. He was reported to have supplied an address at which the child could be located.

Many Stories

But late today, to a representative of the Pocatello Tribune, the Brooklyn man told his third story—that he first heard of the kidnaping March 2, when he was traveling by bus between Salina, Kan., and Denver, Colo.

A new theory was projected when Baltimore, Md., police said two Newark detectives had been working on a tip the kidnaped baby was in the hands of a couple who had substituted it for their own child.

They said they believed the parents' real child, resembling Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr., may have

Six Held at Amarillo on Counterfeiting Charges

AMARILLO, Texas, March 18. (AP)—Six men arrested at Borger and Pampa by a secret service agent were in the Potter county jail tonight after being arraigned in United States district court on counterfeiting charges.

LINDBERGH TO QUESTION SAILOR

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 18. (UP)—Henry (Red) Johnson, friend of Betty Gow, nursemaid of the Lindbergh baby, "is being brought to Hopewell for questioning and a check on his story," Col. Norman Schartzkopf of the New Jersey state police announced late tonight.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was understood to be wanting to talk to Johnson.

'GAMEST KID' GIVES UP LIFE

Boy Dies After 178 Days In Respirator

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 18.—With a smile so tender and sad that it brought tears to the eyes of tragedy-hardened nurses, 14-year-old Clarence Hastings, "the gamest kid in America," today sank into a deep sleep from which he did not awaken.

A victim of infantile paralysis, Clarence lay immovable for 178 days in a scientific artificial lung known as a respirator.

Keeps Smiling

And while other boys were fighting, frolicking or perhaps complaining about their school work, the youngster with the perpetual smile, his life ebbing, never once complained, never said a word about being stretched out on his back—able to look only at the ceiling.

Except for hospital attendants, Clarence died alone. His heartbroken father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hastings, of Kings

Gun Battle Staged As Prisoners Break

MEXICO CITY, March 18. (US)—Thirty long-term convicts in the Jalapa prison, Vera Cruz, today waged a desperate gun battle with prison guards, 20 of them escaping leaving three of their number dead.

Police Raids on Hitler Strongholds Continue

Jap and Chinese Armies Wait as Powers Confer

SHANGHAI, China, March 18. (AP)—The armies which fought so bitterly for control of Chapel and Woosung a few weeks ago shivered tonight in the cold of a Chinese winter while spokesmen for world powers worked on the job of negotiating a formal truce.

Some of the fighting men were luckier than the others, for three Japanese transports steamed down the Whangpoo, crowded to the rails with soldiers going back home. It was the first contingent to return in the execution of an order from Tokyo to withdraw most of the Shanghai expeditionary force. Others will go Saturday and next week.

PISTOL SHOT KILLS FORMER WEST TEXAN

Coney C. Slaughter Takes Life in San Antonio Apartment

ONCE RICH RANCHER

Victim, Former Banker, Had Suffered Financial Reverses

SAN ANTONIO, March 18. (AP)—Coney C. Slaughter, 54, formerly a wealthy ranchman of West Texas and banker of Denver, killed himself here today.

It was learned he had worried over financial reverses. A justice of the peace returned an inquest verdict of suicide.

His daughter, Mrs. Percy Carter, with her husband and three children, was preparing to leave his apartment for Austin after a visit when Slaughter stepped into the kitchen. A shot was heard, and the daughter found Slaughter lying on the floor, a wound in his head. A pistol was near his side.

Rushed to Hospital

An ambulance rushed Slaughter to a hospital, but he died two hours later without regaining consciousness.

Slaughter was living with his mother at the time of his death, having come to San Antonio from Dallas seven months ago.

Slaughter served a six-year sentence in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth for theft of almost a third of a million dollars from the Mercantile bank of Pueblo. He was cashier, and his father, the late W. B. Slaughter, was president.

The bank closed in March, 1915, and W. B. Slaughter was indicted, tried and acquitted on charges of having a part in its wrecking. For eight years C. C. Slaughter, his son, was sought throughout the country. He was arrested in 1923 in Pennsylvania, returned to Denver convicted and sentenced to prison. After two years he escaped and, after wandering through the East, began living in a tourist camp in Englewood, near Denver.

Returned to Prison

When arrested on a trivial traffic violation, Slaughter admitted his identity and was returned to Leavenworth to finish his term.

He was divorced by his first wife while he was a fugitive. In New Orleans he met and married Enola Landrey.

He was a nephew of C. C. Slaughter, millionaire cattle man and capitalist of Dallas. With his father he once owned 200,000 head of cattle in Dawson county.

Besides his mother and daughter here, he is survived by three daughters, Gladys, Golyne and Eloise Slaughter, who live in Amarillo.

Funeral services probably will be held here Sunday.

State School Officials Oppose Raising Fees

DALLAS, March 18. (AP)—Officials of state supported institutions of higher education in Texas refused here today to endorse the principle of increased fees for students at such schools.

Wichita Will Lead In Trade Recovery, Martin Tells C-C

Independent Operator Has Best Chance in North Texas, Oil Leader Declares in Address; Town's Growth Rests on Sound Foundation

A firm conviction that Wichita Falls with its great natural resources in oil will be one of the first communities to return to normal business conditions as one of the richest spots in the nation was reiterated at the membership luncheon of the Junior chamber of commerce Friday by N. H. Martin, principal speaker on an "all oil" program.

Mr. Martin cited numerous concrete examples for the continuance of Wichita Falls as the local center for a wide area of oil producing territory from the standpoint of the veteran observer of the industry here.

Great Producing Area

The North Texas district has produced 10 per cent of the world's supply of oil in the past decade and it is certain that as much or more oil remains in the ground in this area as has been taken out. Wichita Falls offers an opportunity to the independent small operator that is unequaled at any other place, Mr. Martin continued.

The city is the center of a 150-mile area with good roads radiating in every direction. It offers the homemaker an ideal location with the conveniences of a city, including schools, while the shallow feature of the immediate fields of the territory offer an opportunity for financial aid to the small operator, the speaker said.

In citing the sureness of prosperity in oil, Mr. Martin said that 4 per cent more gasoline was used in domestic consumption in 1931 than in the previous year. With Wichita Falls operators as leading factors, oil men of the nation have thoroughly debunked the cry of a few months ago that surplus crude stocks would continue. Much less oil is on hand today as compared with the supply of 10 years ago, Mr. Martin added.

The independent operator is the principal factor in this area as evidenced by the fact that 75 per cent of the production has been the result of activity of independent oil men.

Plenty of Oil

If the North Texas fields were to be released from proration a new high mark of production would be possible. In 1931 the area produced

Gangster Gets Life For Houston Killing

HOUSTON, March 18. (AP)—Barney McGanegal was convicted this afternoon of the gang murder of John Cherris and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Cherris, who had a police record, was shot to death here on the night of last Aug. 30. Subsequently, his body was taken to the Brazos river near East Columbia, weighted and dumped in.

His assassination was followed, 36 hours later, by the daylight murder of C. A. "Keggy" Jones, ex-convict, and his wife, Jane Jones. The authorities considered the two murders were in reprisal for the killing of Cherris.

Jack Jones, the ace prosecution witness, testified he, his brother, Keggy Jones and McGanegal picked Cherris up in an automobile here, that McGanegal slew him and that the three then carted the body to the Brazos and tossed it in the stream.

The witness got no immunity, so far as could be learned.

Japs Consider Measure To Pay for Chinese War

TOKYO, March 18. (AP)—Parliament met today in special session to pass upon a 67,000,000-yen ($33,000,000) war chest to pay the bill for the campaigns in Shanghai and Manchuria.

This figure is slightly lower than the appropriation originally suggested but when the government encountered opposition to a plan for making the appropriation without calling parliament, it accepted a reduction and consented to submit the issue to the legislature.

Extradition of Alleged Bank Robber Ordered

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 18. (US)—Governor Rolph today ordered extradition from San Francisco of William Bridges, charged with the $1,578 robbery of the Bank of Annapolis, Mo., last July. Bridges will seek a San Francisco court writ to nullify the extradition warrant tomorrow.

Commoner

STOCKHOLM, March 18. (US)—Prince Lennart of Sweden today was stripped of his princely privileges and deprived of his distant claim to the throne because of his marriage in London last week to Karin Nissvandt, daughter of a commoner. This action was formally taken by the cabinet, which gave the prince permission to assume his family name of Bernadotte.

BRAVE ADMITS SLAYING GIRL

Co-Ed Gave Him Liquor And Kisses, He Says

GLOBE, Ariz., March 18. (UP)—A quiet-spoken, timid Indian squaw sat on a white man's witness chair today and fought to save her husband who, by his own confession, had betrayed her with a hated white girl.

Elizabeth Seymour, 19-year-old mother of two children, told the court that her husband, Golney (Mac) Seymour, was drunk before and after he was with Henrietta Schmerler, Columbia university co-ed, last July 18—the day he allegedly killed the white girl.

Wife Makes Plea

Garbed in Apache dress—homespun green frock trimmed with red, full-length hand-woven shawl and moccasions—the young squaw testified. She had none of the airs of an outraged wife.

United States Attorney John G. Gung'l tried, without much success, to shake her story. She insisted that her husband was drunk when he "married" and killed Miss Schmerler.

Following his wife to the stand, Seymour, for the first time, told his own story of what the government calls "the savage assault and murder of an innocent girl."

As Seymour told it, it sounded more like a chronicle of the puzzled

REBELS RIDE ROUGHSHOD OVER LEADERS

Big Incomes Taxed From 40 Per Cent Up; Other Rates Raised

GARNER IN WARNING

Additional Revenue Vital To Nation, Speaker Tells House

WASHINGTON, March 18. (AP)—The manufacturers sales levy perched tonight on a perilous peak in the house with its united bipartisan foes victorious in boosting rates on big incomes in the new billion dollar revenue bill.

Confidence over the outcome on the $600,000,000 sales tax item seemed diminished among its supporters. Representative Snell, the Republican leader, approached a closed conference with his party with considerable anxiety as to the 150 votes he is slated to muster for the bill. He indicated there was much doubt whether the sales tax would be accepted.

Sales Levy Threatened

Riding rough shod over the bill's advocates as its reading for amendment began, the bi-partisan sales levy enemies showed unexpected strength and forced the war time surtax rates on incomes of $100,000 and over into the bill, by a vote of 153 to 87, on an amendment by Representative Swing, Republican, California. They also increased the maximum normal income rate from 5 to 7 per cent by a vote of 121 to 81, instead of the 6 per cent as advocated by the ways and means committee, to apply on incomes of $8,000 and over.

This amendment, opening the battle, was offered by Representative La Guardia, Republican, New York, leader of the independents, and is expected to return an additional $20,000,000. The Swing amendment is estimated to produce anywhere from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 and calls for a 40 per cent levy on incomes of $100,000, graduated up to 65 per cent on those of $5,000,000 and above.

Garner Statement

In a statement, Speaker Garner emphasized the importance he attaches to the balancing of the budget.

"There comes a time in the nation's financial life when the questions of preference as to methods of raising necessary revenue becomes inconsequential and insignificant in the face of the need of actually and quickly providing the means of maintaining the government's financial integrity," he said. "It is such a situation that confronts us today, and with that situation all economic theories must yield to the necessities of the nation."

Corporate Tax Voted Down

During the day the ways and means committee voted to reverse its decision of yesterday to sponsor a four cents per pound excise tax on copper imports. Acting Chairman Crisp said the decision was reached because, in testimony at a secret session by treasury experts and others, the committee learned the proposed levy would "involve complicated tariff schedules."

He explained there was not time to work these out before the house is expected to act on the revenue bill.

Aftr voting down an amendment by Representative Harlan, Democrat, Ohio, to increase the corporate income tax from 12 to 15 per cent, the house accepted the committee's recommendation of 13 per cent, the additional 1 per cent being expected to return $21,000,000.

Exemptions Reduced

Exemptions on incomes were reduced from $1,500 to $1,000 for single men and from $3,500 to $2,500 for married men, and the taxes were increased from 1½ per cent to 2 per cent on the first $4,000 and from 3 to 4 per cent on the second $4,000 and from 5 to 7 per cent on all above.

These increases with the graduated raises of surtaxes from $10,000 to $100,000 adopted, are expected to yield $112,000,000.

The increase in surtaxes on incomes from $10,000 to $100,000 is graduated from 1 per cent to 39 per cent, or approximately double that under existing law. Under the Swing amendment incomes between $100,000 and $150,000 is 40 per cent, graduating up to 50 per cent on those between $400,000 and $500,000;

Supreme Court Suit Attacks Demo Ruling In Congress-At-Large Races

AUSTIN, March 18. (AP)—Test of the state Democratic executive committee's right to compel candidates for the three state at large seats in the national house of representatives to file for designated places on the ballots reached the supreme court today.

Mrs. Ida M. Darden of Fort Worth, one of about 30 aspirants for the places created by Texas' increased population as of the 1930 federal census, asked leave of the higher court to file a petition in mandamus in an effort to compel the committee to place her name on the ballots without reference to designated place.

Having in mind majority nominations for the three congressmen at large places the state committee recently voted to require candidates to run in three groups, to be numbered places one, two, and three. Unless a candidate should obtain a majority of the votes cast for candidates in his grouping the two receiving the highest number of votes in each designated place would enter a run-off primary.

Mrs. Darden and other candidates objected to that ruling, maintaining the committee, under the law, had no other recourse than to permit all aspirants to run in a free-for-all field, the three receiving the highest number of votes to receive the nominations.

Chauncey Olcott, Noted American Ballad Singer, Claimed By Death

MONTE CARLO, March 18. (UP)—Chauncey Olcott, noted American ballad singer, died today at his villa, Emeraude.

Olcott, who was 71, was suffering from pernicious anemia. His wife, son and daughter were at his bedside. The body will be returned to New York for burial, departing from Villa Franche March 22.

Olcott introduced the song "Mother Machree" and was celebrated as the "Irish tenor." He was born in Buffalo, N. Y., in 1860 and rose to stage prominence under tutelage of the late R. M. Hooley.

Some of the roles made famous by him were "I Love the Name of Mary," from Shameen Dhu; "A Little Bit of Heaven," from Barry of Baltymore, in which the closing phrase was; "And when they had it finished, sure they called it Ireland."

"When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," was perhaps his most famous song.

TEXANS START MONDAY ON GARNER-FOR-PRESIDENT DRIVE

M'ADOO SAYS TEXAN TO WIN

War Time Secretary Speaks At San Antonio

WASHINGTON, March 18. (US) —Texas will start a militant campaign on Monday to acquaint the country with the presidential caliber of Speaker John N. Garner.

Confronted with a growing Garner sentiment in several states, the speaker's Texas friends are determined to find some way of presenting his qualifications to the public despite his insistent refusal to become an active candidate.

Committee to Meet

Representative Sam Rayburn left tonight for San Antonio where the Garner-for-president committee will get together on Monday. Rayburn was appointed national representative of this group at an earlier meeting. Rayburn said:

"The Texas committee in all probability will put out some literature to acquaint the people of the country with Mr. Garner. We are under increasing pressure from Democrats in all parts of the country who are anxious to support the speaker for president."

Reversing the usual procedure, the fact is that the Garner boosters have had difficulty in restraining ardent Democrats from entering his name in a number of state primaries.

Strong Support

The Texas delegation will be his, of course, while a strong Garner slate has been entered in the California primaries. Strong efforts now are being made to enter him in the primaries of Nebraska and Florida.

What the speaker's friends hope to do is to find some plan of keeping alive this Garner enthusiasm and retaining his popular support.

If they had a free hand, the Texans would like to throw down the gauge of battle to other aspirants for the presidential nomination and start an active, nation-wide campaign for delegates. But the speaker has refused to consider any such plan because of his grim determination to banish politics until the house legislative slate has been wiped clean.

Prestige Increased

Actually, the Garner policy of doing the job first has increased his prestige tremendously, especially since his demand for a balanced budget opened a heavy revenue battle in the house.

The spectacle of a speaker, whose friends are booming him for the presidency, going about the unpleasant task of sponsoring a $1,000,000,000 tax bill is something new in national politics. The contrast is all the more remarkable because of the "speech-making" tours of several other prospective Democratic nominees.

Garner has proven to the country that he has courage and character, something that will stand him in good stead when the delegates at Chicago get down to the business of choosing a standard bearer.

McADOO LAUDS GARNER IN TEXAS ADDRESS

SAN ANTONIO, March 18. (UP) —William Gibbs McAdoo, wartime secretary of the treasury, reiterated his support of Speaker of the House John H. Garner for the Democratic presidential nomination here tonight, and declared he seriously doubted whether any candidate from the state of New York could be elected.

McAdoo, who came from Los Angeles by private plane to make an address tomorrow at Houston on non-political subjects, spoke here tonight to 300 members of the San Antonio Garner-for-President club. San Antonio was the starting point of the Garner boom.

McAdoo ended his speech with a scorching criticism of New York candidates whose names he did not mention. He also by innuendo intimated that Wall street would be a political barrier for any New York candidate to clear if nominated.

Attacked New Yorkers

McAdoo predicated his attack on New Yorkers by scoring those who were against Garner because he is from the South. Garner was born in a Texas log cabin.

"We heard much of intolerance in 1928," said McAdoo. "Can you imagine anything so utterly and deplorably intolerant as to be against a candidate because he is from the South?

"I believe it is time we got a man from south of the Mason and Dixon line. It's foolish to use as an argument that a candidate from New York or Ohio can carry those states for the electoral college.

"New York was carried by Grover Cleveland in his third race for president. It was carried by Woodrow Wilson in 1912 by a plurality vote only because Taft and Roosevelt split the vote.

Cited Demo Failure

"Since then it has never been carried by a Democrat.

"John W. Davis, an estimable gentleman from New York, failed to carry the state.

"Mr. Al Smith, whom everybody said would carry the state, failed to carry it and led our party to a great defeat. In 1920 we nominated a gentleman from Ohio who could not even carry the state against Harding, of all people.

"I say that I seriously doubt that any candidate nominated from New York will be elected because there is suspicion in the minds of the public that these gentlemen's point of view might be with the financial interests that have wrecked the country.

Puts Up Garner

"I say let's nominate a man like John Garner, who can carry the country without relying on New York!"

McAdoo said California, his own state would go to the Chicago convention of the Democratic party with a delegation pledged to Garner.

He declared Garner is showing presidential fitness by keeping harmony as speaker with the "wild and wooly" majority of three.

Mayor C. M. Chamber of San Antonio introduced McAdoo. The Californian will leave tomorrow morning in his plane for Houston to address the salesmanship club at a noon meeting.

Negro Falls Nine Stories But Lives to Relate Accident

DE MOINES, Iowa, March 18. (AP)—An hour after George Hardy 24, negro, had fallen from a ninth floor window today, he sat up in a hospital bed and told nurses about the mishap.

The negro window washer suffered a broken leg, internal injuries and a cut on the lip. His safety belt broke and he dropped to the canopy eight floors below.

When police arrived he was conscious. The first question he asked them was "Will I live?"

HOUSE HIKES INCOME TAX

Rates of 40 Per Cent Up On Big Earnings

54 per cent on those between $750,000 and $1,000,000; 6 per cent on those between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, on up to 65 per cent on those more than $5,000,000.

In addition these incomes bear the normal 7 per cent maximum normal tax.

CONNALLY OFFERS BILL TO CUT SALARIES

WASHINGTON, March 18. (AP)—The smaller government salaries were included today within the scope of the drive to slice $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 from the federal budget that needs balancing.

The special house economy subcommittee was told the full saving sought could not be cut from larger salaries alone. It then considered a bill making graduated slashes of from one per cent on small incomes to 20 per cent on the larger ones.

In the senate, Connally, Democrat, Texas, offered a measure proposing a 5 to 15 per cent cut in all government pay above $2,000 a year until June 30, 1933.

"I am willing that my own salary be reduced and my bill cuts a thousand dollars annually from the salaries of members of congress and senators," Connally said.

Chairman McDuffie of the house subcommittee said its bill probably would be ready Monday. He pointed out the suggested reductions would mean only 83 cents a month less pay on a $1,000 salary. This bill also is expected to include house members and senators.

REPUBLICANS SPLIT ON SALES TAX

WASHINGTON, March 18. (AP)—The house Republicans became so widely split over the new billion dollar revenue bill tonight at a closed conference that they agreed not to attempt a vote on whether to support the manufactures sales tax.

The Republicans were urged by Representative La Guardia, New York, independent leader, to refuse to vote for the sales tax but he met opposition from Representative Snell of New York, the party leader, who said the measure was impartial and did not discriminate against any sectio nof the country or any industry.

La Guardia said he would urge the program of heavy excise taxes on various industries recommended originally by Secretary Mills as a suitable program for the sales tax.

Although La Guardia received close attention from the 200 members present, it became apparent a majority would throw their support to the sales tax unless some eventuality developed.

been taken to Europe on the Baltimore mail liner City of Baltimore, which left for Havre the day after the abduction.

Ten children were aboard the City of Baltimore when she sailed. One was approximately the age of the Lindbergh boy, 20 months.

After studying passport applications and photographs here, the detectives went on to Washington to continue their investigation.

Meanwhile, two servants who disappeared from a Franklin Park, N. J. home the day after the kidnaping were located at the residence of a prominent Bryn Mawr, Pa., family, where they had obtained positions. They came to Hopewell voluntarily for questioning.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police head, said their statements would be checked carefully "before we determine whether or not they have any connection with the case under investigation."

They gave their names as Paul and Kate Engstenberg, and denied they had ever used the name of Thornburg, by which they have been called in police reports since a search for them began.

Schwarzkopf said they had given a "reasonable cause" for leaving the employ of Mr. and Mrs. Leandro Lightfoot, who reported the couple took a mysterious 60-mile automobile ride the night of the kidnaping.

Mexican Kidnapers Kill U. S. Engineer

MEXICO CITY, March 18. (INS) —Victim of bandits who kidnaped and strangled him to death with a lariat, the body of Albert P. Ennis, mining promoter of Quincy, Ill., was found at Fortin in the state of Oaxaca today.

Ennis put up a terrific fight for life. His body was covered with bruises and the lariat was drawn tightly around his neck. It was estimated he had been dead three or four days when his body was found.

Investigation showed that Ennis was kidnaped last Friday for ransome, and taken from his business headquarters in Oaxaca to Fortin.

United States Consul General Robert Frazier assigned Vice Consul Milton J. Thompson to make a thorough investigation. Local police authorities were cooperating in an effort to identify and apprehend the murderers.

Ennis, whose widow is the former Stella Grandison of Mexico City, was a frequent visitor to Oaxaca. He was associated several years ago with Cuban sugar interests.

'Wet' Or 'Dry' Platform Is Question As Cal Suggested As GOP Keynoter

Leaders Believe Selection of Coolidge to Lead Party at Convention Would Be Political Master Stroke

By EDWARD L. RODDAN

WASHINGTON, March 18. (US)—Republican leaders were hopeful tonight that former President Calvin Coolidge will sound the "keynote" at the national convention in Chicago next June.

Although the official selection of a "keynoter" will not be settled until a meeting of the arrangements committee at Chicago on April 9, several committee members here now are casting about for a speaker capable of filling the bill.

The suggestion to choose Mr. Coolidge, if he will accept, met with tremendous enthusiasm among the members of the committee, so much so that all other names temporarily were forgotten.

Hoover to Approve

In accordance with the usual custom, President Hoover will be asked to approve the "keynoter." Although there is little doubt he would heartily approve Mr. Coolidge, The chief difficulty, as the committee members see it, is to persuade the former president.

The party leaders are convinced that selection of Mr. Coolidge would prove a political master stroke. With President Hoover's renomination assured, the Republican gathering is apt to prove a dull affair unless a few dramatic "high-spots" are provided to stir up the delegates.

The committee first considered former Vice President Dawes the ideal man for the job, but he declined it because of his work with the reconstruction finance corporation.

Coolidge Favored

While selecting a former president as "keynoter" is unusual, several outstanding Republicans believe Mr. Coolidge might be persuaded to accept on the ground of party loyalty. They entertain no doubt that a speech by Mr. Coolidge would get the Hoover re-election campaign off to a flying start.

Disturbed at the growing demand for a "liberal" prohibition plank, there was a growing sentiment in the dry wing of the party to select Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, as chairman of the resolutions committee which will fashion the party platform.

The choice of Borah would prove a political ten-strike for the drys because of his vigorous prohibition views and his ability to sway a convention gathering. His work along this line at Kansas City in 1928 was notable. Here again the real problem is to get him to accept.

Wets Active

Meanwhile, the faction seeking a "moist" plank, or at least a dry referendum plank in the Republican platform continued to hammer away.

After a visit to the White House, Ralph Williams, national committeeman from Oregon, expressed his firm conviction that Mr. Hoover would run on a "moist" platform if the convention should adopt one. Williams said:

"There is strong agitation in favor of a wet plank of some kind and I do not believe that it can be avoided as it was four years ago.

"As to whether President Hoover will run on a wet plank, in case one is adopted, I have not asked him, but I have never known any man who would not accept renomination after he had been in the White House four years.

"The Oregon delegation will be strong for Hoover. I can not say how they will feel about the dry issue, however. There is a feeling that the Republican party must adopt some kind of platform to meet the situation."

departed later. At the request of the president they said that they would have to decline to comment for publication. They let it be known, however, that in addition to their concern over securing loans they had other serious problems they had laid before the president and that he had promised to do everything possible to assist them.

It was pointed out that such relief as has been extended has been belated. It was explained that 41 railroads have asked for loans totaling $301,000,000 and that the Interstate Commerce commission has approved to date only 15 loans with a total of $54,000,000.

It was said also that the increase in rates granted by the Interstate Commerce commission had failed to produce the necessary revenue. It was estimated that the increase for the year would net $100,000,000. For January, the first month in which revenue under the new rates has been computed, the increase amounted to only $4,000,000. On this basis officials estimate that the increase for the year will be about $50,000,000. There is also a 25 per cent decline if traffic, it was stated.

Death Claims 'Gamest Kid'

Ferry, wanted to be there, but Mrs. Hastings had a new baby just a few days ago, and was so ill today that Mr. Hastings was afraid to leave her.

Anyhow, they didn't have the money for the trip, let alone funeral expenses, but a Syracuse undertaker immediately volunteered to bury Clarence without charge.

Before he was stricken, almost a half a year ago and put in the mechanical, life-giving steel jacket, Clarence was like any other kid. But the infantile paralysis twisted his body, and caused his lungs to collapse. Once in the respirator, which automatically did his breathing for him, Clarence started his game fight for life.

Operation Fails

He seemed to be getting better when an abdominal complication developed a few days ago. Then came an emergency operation, with surgeons hurriedly wielding their knives as the unconscious lad was extracted for 5 minutes at a time from the steel lung.

But the operation failed, and it wasn't long before Clarence, despite his Frank Merriwell will to win, lapsed into a feverish delirium.

Just before he died today, Clarence regained consciousness. He must have realized he was going to die, because with the same pathetic smile, the boy asked that the motors of the respirator be turned off.

Doctors knew, too, the end was near. But before they could act to fulfill the last request, "the gamest kid" spoke a faint "okay" to a sobbing nurse. And then lapsed into the final slumber from which he never awoke.

actions of a child who found himself at the last tragically possessed of the strength of a man.

The 21-year-old Apache went calmly through a naive recital of how he "married" Henrietta Schmerler because he "thought she wanted it" and killed her because he "didn't know what else to do."

His story almost paralleled his alleged confession. In part, he said:

"I visited my father that day. He told me of dance and asked me get Elizabeth. On way he met lots Indians with beer. I bought 50 cents worth beer and drank a few times. Got Elizabeth. We both had horses. Reached my father's wickiup (tee-pee). Robert Gatewood (his brother-in-law) invited me in to drink. I drank some tulapai (native corn brandy).

"I rode past white girl's house (Seymour and his interpreter have tried unsuccessfully to pronounce "Schmerler," and by mutual stipulation "the white girl" is accepted as referring to her). She stopped me and offered me a drink of water and one for J. P. (Jack Pery, his father-in-law).

"Then she spoke of the dance. Asked me if I would lend her a horse. I said I only had one. She said, 'maybe I ride behind you, eh?' I see lots your people doing it.' I said 'those people married.' She said 'that's all right.'

"Then she asked me in, and J. P. went away. She had something in a bottle. She said 'drink it.' I said 'what is it?' She said 'whisky.' I drank some. It burned by neck (Dougherty: You mean your throat? Seymour: "Yes.") She mixed some with sugar and water. It tasted good. She kissed me.'

"We started for dance on my horse. She kissed me. We stopped at Muddy Draw to walk across. She kissed me again. Then she began hitting me with her bag, teasing me. I thought she wanted to 'marry' me. So I started to. She didn't fight.

"Then I felt very bad about Elizabeth. I told her I ought not to have done this thing. I told her I was going back to Elizabeth at the dance. She got very mad. She threw a rock and hit me in the breast. She cried she was going to tell on me. Then she got a knife out of her bag and tried to cut me. I threw her down and took the knife. I hit her with a rock and cut her neck. I don't know how long we fought, I was drunk.

"Then she got up and walked few steps, then fell down. Then I felt very bad. I cried. Then I jumped on my horse and rode away."

Miss Schmerler had visited the Indian country to study Apache customs as part of her collatoral work toward a philosophy degree at Columbia university.

BIRMINGHAM, England, March 18. De Valera pledged himself to abolish the oath of allegiance and withhold the land annuities in the campaign which ended recently with his election as president of the Free State's national council.

Three-Judge Court Ends Pipe Line Case

HOUSTON, March 18. (AP)—A three-judge federal court today concluded a hearing involving an attack on the constitutionality of common purchaser provisions of the newest state pipe line act as applying to natural gas.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs and for the state were allowed 15 days in which to file supplemental briefs. A decision shortly after that time was expected.

Five companies sought injunctions against Gov. Ross S. Sterling, Atty. Gen. James V. Allred and the members of the state railroad commission to restrain enforcement of the statute insofar as it would require ratable taking of gas.

Reputed Corot Masterpiece Sold for $500

CHICAGO, Carch 18. (AP)—An art appraiser's announcement today that a landscape reputedly sold for $500 by the Chicago Art institute to the Chicago Athletic club was a genuine Corot resulted in no surprise among the curators at the institute but the statement that it was a $100,000 masterpiece did.

"In the first place," said Dr. R. B. Harshe, head of the institute, "there is no Corot landscape valued that high. Some of his figures, yes, but not his landscapes."

In a statement by the appraiser, Dr. Maurice Goldblatt, said the painting "Just Before the Sunrise," had hung in the museum for 37 years and was sold after the curators decided it was not genuine.

How The Federal Reserve Works

The System's Machinery

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The federal reserve system is embarking on an epochal experiment to determine whether it is possible to start currency and credit inflation and yet keep it sufficiently under control to avoid the subversive reaction which normally follows boom expansion. A measure, amending the federal reserve act, sponsored by Senator Glass in the upper body of congress and by Representative Steagall in the lower house, provides for the issuance of millions of new money in federal reserve notes and broadens the eligibility of securities which may be acquired by federal reserve banks.

It is the usual experience of bankers that inflation is apt to act like a runaway horse which, once started, becames frightened by its own clatter and gets more and more out of control. The new bank measure has been designed to set a limit on the extent of inflation at the outset. The next months should reveal whether such a managed inflation is feasible.

Civil War Measure

The federal reserve act was approved Dec. 23, 1913, for the purpose of completely remodeling the American banking and currency system and poviding an elastic monetary medium. The national bank act was a civil war measure and provided for the issuance of circulating notes secured by United States bonds. Economists believed that its weakness resided in its inelasticity. National banks could issue notes as they saw fit and retire them arbitrarily. The currency was not automatically responsive to the volume of business being done in the country at any one time. In periods of great business activity, the volume of circulating notes was too small; at other times it was so plentiful that prices rose abnormally.

Theory Explained

The basic theory of the federal reserve system is that currency shall expand and contract exactly in proportion to business demands. In general, two kinds of securities have been back of federal reserve notes. At no time is the gold cover permitted to fall below 40 per cent of the volume of notes outstanding. In addition, evidences of valuable property cover the whole issue. As a matter of practice, the volume of notes outstanding has not usually been great enough to draw the gold reserve down to the 40 per cent minimum limit. At times this gold ratio has been as high as 85 per cent. That has meant that this paper money was good as gold and, in addition, was secured by real consumable values. Only once in the history of the system has the 40 per cent minimum been touched. That was in the 1920-21 depression.

How the Machinery Works

One may best comprehend the workings of the federal reserve system's basic machinery by tracing a commercial transaction through its ramifications of production and distribution. Let us start with a shoe manufacturer in a New England mill town. He is operating with a given amount of capital which does not prove sufficient at all times to cover his needs. He has a regular pay roll cost to meet and the usual fixed charges of any manufacturing plant. He follows the hide and leather market and, thinking a given time propitious, buys several carloads of leather—sole leather, upper leather, and the various other varieties which go into the manufacture of footwear. The transaction runs into, say, $50,000.

The manufacturer does not feel that he can conveniently spare cash for this within the 30 days in which he has contracted to make payment. The leather is delivered and placed in a warehouse. He holds the warehouse receipts. He goes to his bank, a member of the federal reserve system, and explains that he desires to borrow $40,000. He is a man of sound character and good credit standing. The bank lends him the money on the security of the leather. He gives his note to which is attached, actually, the warehouse receipts covering the leather.

Bank Borrows

Meantime, a dozen, a hundred, perhaps a thousand other manufacturers nearby have found themselves in the same business position. They go through the same process, borrowing from their banks giving notes, secured by warehouse receipts, bills of lading or other tangible evidences of ownership of a commodity. It may be wool, cotton, pig iron, or a number of other wares. The bank finds that it has advanced so much money that it is not in a position to lend more, although the borrowers are deserving. So it packs up the notes of the shoe manufacturer and those of many others and takes them to the Federal Reserve bank of Boston, that being the district in which the New England town is situated. The Federal Reserve bank examines them, may possibly reject a few as not being regarded as sufficiently sound, but agrees to accept most.

Notes Issued and Retired

Going back to the single shoe manufacturer, against his note, among the others, the reserve bank hands out an equivalent value in federal reserve notes, new money which never has been in existence before, called forth now by the needs of active business. This puts the member bank in funds to make more loans. For this the reserve bank charges the member bank a rate which is uniform to all borrowers at the same time. Rates now prevailing range from 3 to 4 per cent.

Now, the shoe manufacturer, in a couple of weeks, finds he needs some of that stored leather to make up into shoes. He goes to his member bank from which he borrowed in the first place and pays off $20,000 of his $40,000 loan. The member bank goes to the Federal Reserve bank and retires an equal amount that it has borrowed. That amount of federal reserve notes automatically retires from circulation. The warehouse receipts are released, first by the reserve bank, then by the member bank, and finally returned to the shoe man who gets his leather. A few weeks later he releases the other half. The other manufacturers are going through the same process with their loans and commodities.

Notes Secured

All the time, it will be noted, that the federal reserve notes have been outstanding they have been secured by that leather, cotton, wool, iron, grain, or whatever else has been borrowed upon. In addition, each dollar has been secured by not less than 40 per cent gold reserve.

Here is a combination of gold reserve, valuable because the whole world has agreed to call it valuable, and a reserve composed of things which can be consumed and actually are of greater value to mankind. This makes the soundest currency in the world. The public, using federal reserve notes in their daily affairs, are handing back and forth convenient pieces of paper which really represent gold and in addition worth while goods. Every federal reserve note a man has in his pocket as his lien on a bale of cotton, a bag of wool, or something else valuable.

(How this ingenious system has failed to function fully in depression times because of unforeseen exigencies will be explained in the next article by Mr. Haskin).

REPORT MADE ON RADIO BILL

Proposal Would Place Ban On Air Lotteries

WASHINGTON, March 18. (AP)—A favorable report on a house approved bill prohibiting radio lotteries and regulation of the issuance of broadcasting licenses to companies in which foreign interests are represented was agreed upon today by the senate interstate commerce committee.

The committee, however, amended the measure in several vital provisions and added a section providing a graduated scale of fees for licenses, designed to raise revenue to pay for maintaining the radio commission and the inspection service of the commerce department.

The bill, sponsored by Representative Davis, Democrat, Tennessee, also excludes territorial possessions from the radio zoning regulations governing the states.

The bill originally would have prohibited the issuance of broadcasting licenses to companies in which foreign interests are represented but this section was amended to stipulate that not more than one-fifth of the directors could be aliens.

A subcommittee was appointed to rewrite the house bill's prohibitions against radio lotteries so it will conform with regulations now governing newspapers.

The senate committee also amended the bill to permit operators of stations whose licenses have been revoked to appeal to the federal district court in their vicinity instead of being required to appeal in the District of Columbia court.

Rev. Calvin Dennis of Marysville, Okla., will preach at the Sunset Baptist church Sunday morning and evening.

Rev. C. D. Droomgole of Waurika, Okla., will fill his pastoral appointment at Lake Valley Baptist church, east of Sunset, Sunday morning and evening.

The Sunset singing class will hold a song service Sunday afternoon. Visiting singers are expected to attend from Alvord, Bowie and several other places.

Sunset school is making satisfactory progress, according to a statement of a member of the school board. The present term will close in May.

Several of the Sunset school boys are practicing for participation in the track meet contests which will be held at Bowie, Saturday, March 26. They are expecting to take part in the running, jumping and several other contests.

A number of the Sunset school boys are interested in 4-H club work and have lately announced the intention of undertaking more enterprises this year than they have ever done before. They will raise hogs, poultry and a variety of agricultural products.

It now appears that a very good per cent of the fruit crop here escaped the recent freeze.

A report from the Dry Valley section, north of Sunset, states that the farmers there will cultivate a large variety of farm and garden products this year. They will grow watermelons, cantaloupes, tomatoes, potatoes and several other products for which they expect there many be a market demand, and will try to raise a sufficient amount of food products for themselves.

WALKING RECORD

The walking record for the trip from New York to San Francisco was made by Abraham L. Monteverde, of Mays Landing, N. J., in 1929. The record was 79 days, 10 hours and 10 minutes. About 3,415 miles were covered.

PHILA. LABORATORY CERTIFIES NEW SHREDDED BISCUIT

Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuits Pronounced Very Rich in Food Value

One of the reasons for the popularity of the new Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuits is the food value of this tasty ready-to-eat cereal. The improved Kellogg's biscuit is "pressure-cooked" by a special process that bakes in delicious flavor and retains all the food elements of the whole wheat. As a result, the Medical Arts Laboratory of Philadelphia, after careful analysis, now certifies every package for food value.

The new Kellogg biscuit also offers several other distinct improvements. The biscuits are a more convenient, economical size. Two just fit the cereal bowl—and you get 15 to the package instead of the usual dozen.

And every biscuit is toasted a golden, rich brown on both top and bottom—not just one side. This makes it crisper and tastier than ever before. Also, "pressure-cooking" and "double toasting" make Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuits easier to digest.

The new Kellogg's biscuit is delicious with hot or cold milk or cream; extra appetizing with the addition of fruits or honey. Local grocers are featuring this improved ready-to-eat cereal. It may be identified by the name, Kellogg's, and the familiar red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Governor Roosevelt's triumph over the Al Smith cohorts in the New Hampshire Democratic presidential primaries may or may not be highly significant as forecasting what is to happen at Chicago in June.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

It unmistakably sustains that old adage of politics, however, that organization is a far more reliable vote-getter than personal popularity.

Roosevelt had the benefit of organization. Smith forces relied upon the strong appeal their candidate's personality would make in populous centers. Organization won.

Yet Smith himself can find solace in this. Nobody else among those mentioned for the job of Democratic standard bearer this year possibly could have made as good a showing in New Hampshire against Roosevelt as did the happy warrior.

"In the Bag"

The event proves that New Hampshire has been in the Roosevelt bag all along, as the Roosevelters have said it was.

That outcome seems to justify respectful attention to other claims made by the New York governor by "Big Jim" Farley, the nearest thing yet to a Roosevelt campaign manager.

Al Smith may have been disappointed, yet he hardly could have been greatly surprised.

He is supposed to have been informed pointedly not so long ago by Robert Jackson, leader of the Roosevelt forces in New Hampshire, just what was going to happen.

Jackson became secretary of the Democratic national committee on Roosevelt's nomination. He called on Smith in New York before the former governor declared himself as available for the 1932 nomination, even though not ready to campaign for delegates.

And it was Jackson who all but captured New Hampshire for Smith in the 1928 election.

The point about the New Hampshire returns is that an overwhelmingly large proportion of the Democratic voters of the state appear to agree with the judgment of Jackson and other party keymen there that 1932 has the look of a victory year for the party and the thing to do is pick the most available man, all things considered, for the presidential nomination.

These leaders said that man was Roosevelt. The voters accepted their judgment.

That is the light in which New Hampshire's action will be assessed in other states soon to decide for themselves.

Wrench in the Works

It would seem to be a decided monkey wrench in the wheels of the much discussed but never definitely identified "Stop Roosevelt" movement.

The New Hampshire returns seemed surprising to Jouett Shouse, advocate of unpledged convention delegations.

He called a Washington press office that night to find out how things were going and was told Roosevelt was running two-to-one or more ahead of Smith.

"What?" Shouse almost shouted.

That was all the comment he had to make.

What Are We Reading?

THREE distinct aspects of life in the United States in 1931 are more or less clearly revealed in the list of books which achieved the "best-seller" list during the past month.

American book buyers are vitally concerned in national and international affairs. They are deeply engrossed in the psychoanalytical theme which for several years has predominated in new fiction. And they find the strain of modern life sufficient to drive them to diverting humor and recreation.

Among the non-fiction books which scored in February are "The Epic of America," by Adams, and Allen's "Only Yesterday," both purely interpretive histories of this country. Each seeks to tell about what happened—other historians have done that—but why it happened. There is also the "Washington Merry-Go-Round" purporting to give every reader the "key-hole" to governmental Washington. And Frank H. Simonds' discussion of future internationalism in "Can Europe Keep the Peace?" Best-selling biographies include those of Hoover and the Duke of Wellington.

Practically all of the fictional entries on the honor list are those which purpose not so much to tell a story as to lay human nature face up on the table, each psychological subdivision properly labeled and described. Evidently, readers of modern fiction are eagerly intent upon knowing why they behave as they do.

But they seek sometimes to forget national and international affairs, introspection, extroverts and introverts. Two of Culbertson's books on bridge are near the top of the list. So are Tony's "Scrap Book" and "Re You Listenin?" Also, there is enough of charm and fascination in the correspondence of Ellen Terry and Bernard Shaw to place that book on the list.

America now has time to read books, even if many Americans are unable to buy new ones. The list of pace-setters provides an interesting cross-sectional view of the public mind in 1932.

Philippine Independence

THE present congress seems to be preparing to put through some kind of bill definitely promising independence for the Filipinos and setting a more or less definite date for the change to go into effect.

This is, of course, nothing less than plain justice, since the government years ago went on record unequivocably with a pledge that the islanders would eventually get their freedom. The nation's honor will look just a little bit clearer when an independence bill is finally passed.

The senate is soon to vote on a bill which would make the Filipinos free in from 17 to 19 years; a bill which will come up for a vote in the house would cut the time to about eight years. Offhand, it would seem that the house bill is the better. Why postpone the process so long? If we are going to give our island wards their freedom, might it not be just as well for us to do it as fast as we comfortably can?

Baseball: The Harbinger of Spring

GLANCING at the sports pages of the newspaper these days, one wonders how one would ever really become aware of the approach of spring if professional baseball should go out of existence.

There are, of course, such signs as blooming flowers, chirping robins, and so on. But there is not, anywhere, anything quite as certain and hopeful as the gathering flood of news stories from the spring training camps in the South and West.

Whether we ever see a big league game or not, we at least get the stories from the training camps; and when we see them we know that winter is about over. And the active, old-time fan, to whom autumn and winter are dull months at best—he comes out of his shell and prepares to start living again. They're playing baseball! Spring is just about here!

Friendly Germany

IT WAS interesting to read the recent cable dispatches telling of the elaborate celebration which the German government held to commemorate the bicentennial year of George Washington's birth.

The ceremonies were held in the historic reichstag under the patronage of President von Hindenburg. Chancellor Bruening delivered the chief address, the stars and stripes were abundantly displayed and a German military band played "The Star-Spangled Banner"—the first time that tune ever sounded in those halls.

This would seem to indicate that the bitterness of the world war days is about forgotten, as far as Germany and America are concerned. The traditional friendship between the two nations, tragically interrupted by the war-madness of the last Hohenzollern, has been resumed. Let us hope that it will never again be broken.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

A WHOLE TOWN CONSISTING OF THREE PEOPLE—The town of Glastenbury, about 10 miles from Bennington, Vt., is unique in that it contains only one male adult, Ira N. Mattison. The only remaining two voters are his wife and his mother. Glastenbury, which has been the home town of three generations of the Mattison family, is 171 years old and covers an area of six square miles. It is incredibly isolated, neither road map nor railroad map disclosing the slightest clue to its whereabouts. Ira N. Mattison is the selectman, town clerk, town treasurer, assessor, school committee, road commissioner, grand juror, justice of the peace, general court representative, and the unanimously elected representative of his town in the state legislature. He shares some of these offices with his wife and his mother, who thus between them hold every office in this courious township. And he can "deliver the town electorally" beyond the fondest dreams of any town dictator.

THE UNUSUAL STUNT OF THE HOMING PIGEON—The Homing Pigeon took off from Bowman field, Louisville, Ky., on Nov. 20, 1931, flew due south for half an hour, and although it did not deviate from its course, landed on the spot it took off, from in the center of the field. This unusual performance was made possible by an unusually strong wind blowing from the direction in which the plane was headed. The wind graph of the Homing Pigeon's flight shows that after ascending to an altitude of 3,700 feet, climbing 300 feet per minute with a speed of 45 miles per hour, the plane was forced back by an increasingly superior wind velocity. At an altitude of 6,000 feet the wind was blowing 75 miles per hour, forcing the plane back in a curved path to the point it started from. On the north pole, where the earth can be circumnavigated in a few minutes, no wind resistance would be needed to accomplish a similar result.

CHAPTER LV

Mrs. Corbin was busy these days planning her daughter's wedding. It was settled now that Lois and Bruce would be married in the Presbyterian church on Fulton street by the Rev. Mr. Clawson who had baptised all of the Corbin children. Lois found that she had taken on a mysterious personality since the neighborhood had learned that she was to marry Bruce Durand of the "rich Durands." People spoke to her with a reverential awe as though she were no longer a part of them.

The yellow roadster had been the subject of much discussion on Fulton street during the past winter. Mrs. Davis asserted that Bruce didn't mean any good by Lois because he kept her out sometimes until after midnight. If he was in love with her why didn't he marry her? That was Mrs. Davis' opinion. And it was generally the opinion of the entire neighborhood.

Now that Lois actually was going to do the very thing that every one thought she would not get a chance to do, they took refuge behind their closely guarded statements such as, "I always knew that Lois would get somebody nice like him," or "That fellow ought to be told what a fine girl he's getting."

"I don't suppose you'll ever know any of us again." This from Mrs. Bailey who was sitting at the kitchen table while Lois was eating her breakfast.

Lois smiled in a friendly manner. "I hope you really don't feel that way about it, Mrs. Bailey," she said. "I'll always know you. Why shouldn't I?"

Mrs. Bailey laughed. "Oh, that's the way people usually get when they marry into riches. Their head gets pretty swelled."

Lois stopped eating and looked at her.

"But I'm not marrying into riches," she said earnestly. "We're just going to have a modest little apartment down on Delaware street."

"I thought maybe you would live with his people out in their fine, big home on the north side. I've seen pictures of it in the paper."

Lois started eating again. "No," she said, "we aren't."

Things like this were disconcerting. Why must people think one were marrying money just because the man's uncle was well to do. That didn't mean anything. Bruce had said so many times.

"I haven't any money, Lois," he had told her, "except what I earn at the bank."

Lois knew that Mr. Durand undoubtedly would give them something nice in the way of a check for a wedding present, but she liked Bruce better because of his independence. She didn't want to accept any money from his uncle either, she had told him. She'd rather live on what Bruce earned. She was as proud as he was.

Mrs. Corbin was making Lois' dress. It was to be white satin, and the very best grade of satin, too. The goods had been purchased and was carefully wrapped in heavy paper and lay in the bottom drawer of the sideboard pending the cutting of the garment by Mrs. Corbin and Mrs. Marchasa, a Swiss woman who lived on the corner and who was an excellent seamstress. Mrs. Marchasa never sewed for less than eight dollars a day and her board, she told Mrs. Corbin when her aid had been solicited. But, of course, since they were neighbors and since she had known Lois ever since she was a little girl, she would help with the wedding garment for only five dollars a day.

As soon as Lois departed for the office the dishes were hurriedly cleared away and stacked in the kitchen sink. This was something that never had occurred previously in the Corbin household, but now Mrs. Corbin must have things all ready when Mrs. Marchasa came. Not a moment of that five dollars must be lost.

"I made a weddin' dress just last week for a girl up in Lake Front that was gettin' married," Mrs. Marchasa explained. Mrs. Marchasa was a wiry, little woman. One knew that she was a seamstress the minute one saw her, for her bosom was laden with pins and needles.

"She was a society girl," Mrs. Marchasa went on, "and, dear me, of all the fussin' and fixin'. I declare to goodness I like to never have got that dress draped to suit her."

Mrs. Marchasa had seated herself comfortably in the big chair and although Mrs. Corbin indicated that everything was ready by constantly pointing to the material which was laying in sleek, white folds on the library table, the seamstress showed no signs of action.

Mrs. Corbin finally had to tell her point blank that the goods was laying there ready to be cut and that she couldn't afford to pay such a high price for dressmaking unless Mrs. Marchasa got to work immediately.

Mrs. Marchasa rose from the chair reluctantly and a little irritably.

"A body has to get her breath," she said shortly. "Besides, you ain't payin' my carfare, remember that. Others have to pay my carfare. Seven cents both ways.

Mrs. Corbin sighed a little and murmured she, too, would pay it, if Mrs. Marchasa desired her to. Mrs. Marchasa vehemently refused any money for transportation, however, and set about doing her work. The pattern already had been fit on Lois and found to be perfect. Not one inch had to be cut off.

"Looks like she is just a perfect size sixteen," Mrs. Corbin remarked a little proudly.

"Lots of 'em are that way," Mrs. Marchasa answered, coldly, thereby dispelling all of Mrs. Corbin's apparent satisfaction. "I've sewed for all kinds. Slim and fat and tall and short."

Thus began a lengthy account of Mrs. Marchasa's dressmaking experience which slowed down the progress of her present work considerably. Mrs. Corbin deplored it, but there was nothing she could do concerning it. She helped as much as she could, but she was afraid of spoiling the goods in some manner. Each time her rough fingers touched the lustrous satin it caught a thread somewhere.

Mrs. Marchasa finally decided that it would be better if Mrs. Corbin did not touch the goods at all, but left everything to her.

"A person shouldn't touch goods of this kind if her hands are rough," Mrs. Marchasa explained pointedly. "I've seen a lot of dresses ruined in my day by just that thing."

Mrs. Corbin felt a tear come to her eyes as she watched Mrs. Marchasa cut through the rippling folds of the satin. It reminded her of a time when she, too, had a wedding dress of white satin. Her hands were smooth, then—smooth and white—like Lois' hands.

'Gentleman Jim' Corbett's Fight For Life May Be His Last Battle

NEW YORK, March 17. (UB)—James J. (Gentleman Jim) Corbett today was answering what many of his old friends feared was the last bell in his fight for life.

The heart which enabled Corbett to win the heavyweight championship of the world from John L. Sullivan at New Orleans on Sept. 7, 1892, was too weak today for the ring veteran to go up the stairs of his pretty English cottage in Bayside.

Still a Fighter

Specialists said they might patch up "Gentleman Jim's" heart, but then he has a thyroid gland condition. But despite the two ills, Corbett, with the same old fighting instinct, refused to surrender. He said:

"I'll be all right. I'm coming back. It is very, very slow, I know. I have to live in one room, and on one floor now, and even when I went to the doctor's in the automobile, I had to have help to get down and walk."

Dr. Robert L. Levy is Corbett's main second in his life battle.

Corbett was in Presbyterian hospital last month, following a "flu" attack. He returned to his Bayside home about two weeks ago, but then "my heart went back on me."

Friends Informed

His true condition might never have been known until too late had not his wife wrote to a few friends along Broadway, telling them of Jim's real plight and expressing a hope that they might drop around once in a while and cheer up the man who once thrilled thousands.

Today seemed to be an ill omen for Corbett. To reporters, he revealed that it was just 35 years ago, or March 17, 1897—St. Patrick's day—that he lost his heavyweight title to Bob Fitzsimmons, who sprung the solar plexus punch on Corbett at Carson City, Nev., and went on to win by a knockout over "Gentleman Jim" in the 14th round.

PARTHIAN HISTORY

Parthia became an independent kingdom under the leadership of Arsaces about 250 B. C. and despite continual Roman attacks it maintained its independence until 225 A. D., when it was conquered by the Persians.

Q.—Has China or Japan the older civilization?—E. L. P.

In modern times, however, Japan has outstripped China in many respects, Japan having adopted western standards of living to a much greater degree. It was named after James McHenry, one of Washington's secretaries during the revolution and secretary of war in 1796. Much of this is due to carelessness, but most of it must be ascribed to ignorance. There is no excuse for ignorance when a booklet such as the Handy Letter Writer is available to every one at the nominal cost and postage charge of only 10 cents.

MURRAY ASKED TO CUT WAGES

Auditor Suggests Special Legislative Session

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 18. (AP)—A special session of the legislature to reduce salaries of state officials and the number of state employes was proposed to Governor Murray today by Frank Carter, auditor.

Carter said he was willing to cut down his own salary 10 per cent if other officials would do likewise. In a letter to the governor Carter wrote "Now that the vote of the farmers of North Dakota has indicated that your presidential candidacy is not being taken seriously, even by those to whom you have made your special appeal, it strikes me the state of Oklahoma would be greatly benefited if you would devote your time to the work for which you were elected—namely, giving Oklahoma the best and most economical administration possible."

Carter and Murray have had several tilts in letters to each other recently, whereby the former charged that state government was costing Oklahoma more today than ever before. Murray declared the auditor's figures were made on the wrong basis.

Explosion of Torpedo Injures Naval Officers

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 18. (AP)—The eve of his marriage found Chief Torpedoman Floyd van Rdour, 32, of Bay City, Mich., in a critical condition today as a result of an explosion in which he and two student officers at the navy submarine base were injured.

Propelling machinery in a test torpedo exploded yesterday while the men were conducting a high speed test at the torpedo laboratory.

Holders of Mohair Discover New Market

BOSTON, March 18. (AP)—Holders of domestic mohair, endeavoring to find market outside the usual channels for the surplus that have been accumulated on the market for the last two years, have sold a substantial volume to carpet mills. The mohair that has been moved to carpet mills comprised the lower quality. Prices realized have not been reported. It is understood however that the mohair moved to carpet mills was sold on a competitive basis, with the fine wools used for carpet purposes. Quotations are unchanged on the type most attractive to the regular manufacturers of mohair products.

Common Law Marriages Invalidated in Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb., March 18. (AP)—Common law marriages were declared illegal today by the Nebraska supreme court. It reversed two previous decisions recognizing such unions and said the state legislature in 1923 amended the statutes to invalidate them. The opinion said:

"A valid marriage can be contracted in Nebraska only when the parties have previously obtained a license to marry and when the marriage has been solemnized by a person authorized by law."

More than 400 national revolutionary party candidates have filed for the 171 federal deputy posts to be decided at the primary elections April 3. The general election will be July 3.

Memphis Man Feels Better After Debt Paid To Red Cross

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, March 18.—The age-old "let your conscience be your guide is certainly worth while, if you ask J. Claude Wells, county Red Cross chairman.

Last week a man came to Mr. Wells and handed him a $10 bill, saying his conscience had bothered him to the extent that he had to pay the money back to get relief.

It developed that the man had come to Mr. Wells last spring when the Red Cross was buying food for the needy and had obtained an order for $10 worth of groceries. He stated that all of his friends had obtained food, and that he did not need it but had tried it "just to see if I could."

The man told Mr. Wells that ever since his conscience "had been whispering to me that I had to pay the money back."

After returning the money, the man declared: "Now I feel better in every way than I have in over a year."

BLAST KILLS WORKER

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 18. (UP)—One employe was injured today when the Sterling refinery, at the edge of the City oil field, was damaged by a mysterious blast. R. H. Henderson was the only employe in the building, officials said, when the explosion occurred.

"B.C." Relieves Periodical Pains In Three Minutes

It is so unnecessary to suffer month after month from inorganic pains, because "B. C." will bring soothing relief in three minutes. "B. C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle from most relief-giving agencies in that it contains several ingredients, used by many physicians, so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time. "B. C." should also be used for the relief of common colds, headaches and neuralgia, muscular aches and pains, reducing fever and for quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit forming drugs. Get "B. C." in 10c and 25c packages, wherever drugs are sold.—Adv.

Wry-Neck or Torticollis

While our necks are not as freely movable as those of birds, we, nevertheless, use our necks quite a bit for turning our heads during ordinary action, as any person who wakes up in the morning with a stiff neck can testify. A stiff neck is quite an uncomfortable experience while it lasts. Fortunately in most instances the stiffness leaves after a few hours, but in some cases it may persist for several days. One does not notice how much one moves the neck until such a stiffness occurs; then every movement of the body seems to affect the neck, causing discomfort.

Usually with any form of stiff neck or wry neck only one side is affected, the muscles being stiff and contracted most frequently on the right side. Babies are sometimes born with this trouble, although it may not be noticed until the child is several years of age because at first the neck is comparatively short. Adults may sometimes develop wry neck or torticollis in a very chronic form so that, instead of disappearing within a few hours or days, the trouble persists over a period of months or years. It may also appear in an intermittent form, occurring at fairly regular intervals.

The muscle most often affected is the sterno-mastoid, so-called because the lower end of it is attached to the upper part of the sternum or breast bone and the upper end is attached to the prominent lump on the skull just behind the ear. You can feel this muscle at the side of your neck when you turn your head to the opposite side. It is so strong that, when it becomes violently contracted, as in torticollis, it pulls the ear towards the shoulder of the affected side. Undoubtedly in most cases this contraction is caused by rheumatic toxins settling in the muscle due to exposure to a cold draft. When one wakes up in the morning with a stiff neck, the usual cause is a strained position during sleep which may have caused a pressure either upon the muscle or the nerves supplying it. These forms are readily benefited through the application of heat to relax the muscles and the use of chiropractic or osteopathic manipulations to relieve any nerve pressure and increase the circulation of blood through the contracted muscle. Sometimes only one chiropractic or osteopathic manipulation will completely relieve the stiff neck, but, if the trouble continues for several days, it may become chronically irritated so that the results are slower and several treatments may be required. In other forms of torticollis, where the nerve supply of the neck muscles is affected, no such speedy results may be expected. The irritation may be either upon the spinal accessory nerve or in the part of the brain from which this nerve originates.

Those who are very nervous or suffer from hysteria may develop torticollis without any apparent affection of the nerves or muscles. In these cases the trouble with the neck usually appears following exposure to cold or a blow. One should begin treatment for torticollis at its first appearance regardless of the cause, because the longer the trouble exists, the greater is the tendency for the muscle to become more rigid and even atrophied. Where the trouble has continued for any length of time, I always advise an acid fruit fast in order to assist in the absorption of any toxins which may have settled in the affected region. The best home treatment is the application of heat and gentle massage of the contracted muscles. If these heat treatments are not sufficient, one should always consult a doctor who is familiar with manipulative methods and other physio-therapy treatments.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Dreaming

Question—Mrs. DeV. writes: "I would like to know the causes for dreaming at night and what to do to stop it. I dream every night and all night, and in the morning I feel as though I haven't had any rest. I don't eat before going to bed, and I don't have anything on my mind, as some have said are the causes of it."

Answer—Dreaming is usually caused by indigestion, or by not obtaining enough exercise during the day.

Mustard Greens

Question — Mrs. Ida May T. writes: "Tell me if it is safe to pick wild greens in the country and of the dietetic value of wild greens, especially wild mustard. Also, can you tell me why the wild mustard has such a strong taste even when very young and tender?"

Answer—There are many wild greens that are safe to use if you have a knowledge of botany and understand how to pick out these greens. Wild mustard always tastes stronger than the cultivated variety. The food value of mustard greens is similar to spinach.

Pimples on Tongue

Question—Mr. M. Robert S. asks: "Could you please tell me why I get pimples on my tongue after eating walnuts?"

Answer—There is an acid contained in the skin of the walnut which proves irritating to some people. This may be why you notice pimples on the tongue after eating them. You should either blanch the walnuts or substitute blanched almonds or pecans.

Rail Laying to Start On Denver Northern

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, March 18.—The laying of steel on the Denver Northern railway will be started next week after a delay of a month or more. There has been some very heavy work on the grading, which has delayed the steel gang. With the beginning of laying steel next week there will be no interruption until Shamrock is reached, as grading is practically completed to that place.

Ballasting of the track is kept up with the steel gang. From this city to Red river gravel was used for this work but north of Red river a material secured in New Mexico is used and will be put on the entire line to Pampa.

HANK'S HURLERS NEARLY READY TO START 'BEARING DOWN'

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

Full House

The unusual number of rookies in camp this year threatens to work a hardship on the Spudders in that camp games, so necessary to spring conditioning, are being delayed. With such a large number of players on hand, it is impossible to stage intra-squad games and expect those men not participating to get in a good workout daily. There would not be room enough for them on the sidelines. Even if there were, their style would be cramped and they could not show up to advantage.

Sevcreid has released close to a score of youngsters, but the camp remains crowded. The Spudder skipper continues to give a great deal of attention to the younger fellows, and his patience in examining the rookies is delaying the annual crop of camp games. Yet his patience may be fully rewarded eventually. He may be pouring words of advice into the ears of a future Sisler, Cobb, Peckinpaugh or Lavey!

Second Thought

After a little deliberation, you'd better omit Levey's name in the last sentence. At least until Manager Killefer completes his weird experiment of trying to make Jim into a left-handed hitter. The consensus seems to be that if the Browns' skipper keeps it up, he'll either make Levey into a world's wonder, or completely ruin him.

Certain it is that if Levey can adjust his eyes and his wallops on the ball from the wrong side of the plate, he'll be one of the fastest base runners ever to perform in the majors. He's far ahead of the ordinary run at present, swinging from the right side.

Good Start

But getting back to the subject of camp games, every team in the league is ahead of the Spudders in this respect. The Buffs are the furthest advanced. They have played a number of games with Rochester and Columbus, both Cardinal American association farm clubs and doubtless the practice absorbed in tilts with these double A clubs will show plenty results. The Buffs already look stronger than any other team in the circuit on paper, at least to this observer; and their early season start against real good opposition will put them further ahead.

The balmy climate down at Galveston has allowed the Bucs to get in three or four camp games. Dallas played its second Thursday, while the Cats, Sports, and Indians played their first. The Exporters, also in the balmy belt, have played several games.

Have a Heart

At the present writing (4 p. m. Friday, Elluva watch time) it appears that Ole Rubber Arm Payne and Michael Cvengros, who in better days performed with a better ball club, to-wit, the Spudders, and who are now forced to associate with a gang of Buffs down at Houston—but wait, I've got to stop and straighten out this sentence.

At the present writing, I repeat, (see above time), it appears that Jawge and Mike will land on the Spudder all-time, all-star team.

Now don't get excited because this isn't official at all. The Rambler has nothing to do with that contest, but in pawing over the returns the other day I couldn't help but notice the enormous number of votes these two veterans polled. It looks like they have two of the pitching berths completely sewed up.

When the official all-star team is announced, Payne and Cvengros, if named thereon as we predict, should be quite thankful to the fans of this section who thus showered them with honors. Would it be asking too much if the fans demanded in return that George and Mike be a little easy on our Spudders this year?

MOUND STAFF IN FINE SHAPE

Spudders May Play Frogs Here Next Saturday

The pitchers are in splendid condition, and within the next three or four days will be given orders to "bear down"; Badgro, Euller, Scharein, Pressnell and the other regulars who reported the first of this week or the latter part of last week are well on the road to the pink of condition but are not being rushed; each of the youngsters fighting for some sort of job has been thoroughly eyed by the boss, and a report on who will and who will not stick around any longer will be issued probably early next week.

Such is Skipper Hank Severeid's summary of the accomplishments of the Spudder crew during the past week, when for the first time since camp opened March 1 ideal baseball weather permitted strenuous training.

Frogs Here Saturday

A game with the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs of Fort Worth probably will climax activities next week, Severeid announced. The Spudders have accepted an offer of the college team to journey to Wichita Falls next Saturday. The acceptance has yet to be confirmed by college officials, but it was regarded as certain the Frogs will be on hand here next Saturday, Manager Severeid stated by that time he expected to have a corps of pitchers in good condition.

There also is a possibility intra-squad games will be started at the Spudder camp within the next few days, Severeid said.

Saints May Play Here

Negotiations for a series of two practice games with the St. Paul Saints here are at present under way, according to Severeid, and should the Saints find it feasible they will come here probably next week.

The squad today will close the first week of intensive drill with the same menu handed down by Severeid yesterday and for that matter, all this week—a lengthy batting practice, topped off with an infield drill and fungo hitting to outfielders and others conditioning in the pastures.

The drill yesterday attracted quite a number of railbirds. Gerald Levey, brother of Jim, took a turn at third base, Scharein gave a few exhibitions of his powerful whip in a brief stay at shortstop, Euller, though sore and stiff, got in a good workout in the infield. Harry Green also is having his aches these days. The Pacific coast first baseman was forced out of the game last June by a hand injury while with Hollywood. He had not played since, and his efforts at Spudder park have resulted in the usual number of sore muscles. Roy Sabine, young prospect who will contest Green's right to play first, is far ahead of the coast veteran.

Infielders Take Shifts

Severeid worked the infield in two shifts, the first made up of Euller at third, Garbark at short, Bejma at second, and Sabine at first; and the second consisting of Green and Morgan alternating at first, Stotts at second, Clift and Scharein at short and Lucas at third.

Al Bejma's snappy work around second base, and his hitting attracted a great deal of attention among the lookers-on.

Only two players have met with incapacitating ailments so far in camp. Floyd Isekite, promising southpaw hurler, laid off Thursday with an aching arm and showed but little improvement Friday. Jim Powell, catcher, sustained an injured thumb several days ago. Though back on the job, the wound still is a handicap.

Take It Easy, Boys

Severeid is urging the rookies on, but the regulars are taking matters at their ease. The Spudder skipper, through all his years the professional game, has concluded that over-work at the start handicaps a team.

"I would rather have my men rounding into condition a week or so after the regular season opens than have them worked down at the start," he said. "It's a long pull down through July and August, and it has been my experience that the team over-trained at the start wilts when it hits the long stretch."

Unknown Gelding Wins Steeplechase

LIVERPOOL, England, March 18. (AP)—Forbra, a long legged, brown, 7-year-old gelding unknown to racing fame, today won the 93rd running of the grand national, the moral of which is that nobody can buy a ready-made winner for the world's greatest steeplechase classic.

Owned by William Parsonage, a Shropshire farmer and on occasions a bookmaker, and ridden by John Hamey of the north country, Forbra took the 8,000 sterling purse (about $32,000) by three lengths from Mrs. Ireland's Egermont, another rank outsider. W. H. Midwood's Shaun Goilin, winner two years ago but a 40 to 1 chance today, was third, far back.

So little considered in the prerace betting that he was not mentioned in the official callover, Forbra paid 50 to 1 from the bookmakers and almost 100 to 1 in the pari-mutuel machines.

For 13 American owners, who invested sizable fortunes buying their grand national jumpers, there was nothing but disappointment. Only Mrs. C. S. Bird Jr.'s Heartbreak Hill, Sea Soldier, the Americanbred son of Man O' War and Jesse Metcalf's Theras, finished the course. Heartbreak Hill was sixth, Sea Soldier eighth and Theras, ninth and last.

C. R. Taylor's Grakle, winner last year and co-favorite at 8 to 1 with Heartbreak Hill, and Mrs. M. A. Gemmell's Gregalachi, 1929 victor, failed to complete the course.

Childress Girls Lose In Quater-Finals

CELESTE, Texas, March 18. (AP)—Howard, Bailey, Dimmitt and Celeste tonight advanced to the semi-finals of the Texas A. A. U. girls' high school basket ball tournament.

Bailey had the easiest sledding in the quarterfinal round, beating Childress 41-22. Howard trounced Elkhart 34-22.

In the other quarterfinal tilts, Celeste beat Newsome 28-19 and Dimmitt drubbed Dublin 31-27.

FORT WORTH CATS

FORT WORTH, March 18. (AP)—Stepping into one of Pat Moulton's high curves, Parker Perry drove the ball over the left field fence with Eddie Moore on the sacks to send the regulars off to a four-run rally in the first inning and a 5-2 victory over the yannigans this afternoon at La Grave field. It was the second straight victory in as many games for the regulars, who'll be after their third triumph tomorrow.

Where they faced a pair of veterans in Moulton and Dick McCabe today, the regulars will see just what a few of the youngsters have to offer tomorrow. Skipper McCabe has announced that he'll use Sherman Jones, Lefty Ward, Clarence Collier and Roy Mints.

BEAUMONT EXPORTERS

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 18. (AP)—Brilliant pitching by Parham, half brother to Dizzy Dean, and by Glen Gabler, formerly of the Coast league, enabled the Easterlings to blank the Greens 4-0 today in a six inning game which concluded a long Exporter training session.

Parham, whose actions in the box are quite similar to his illustrious relative, worked three heats and allowed only one hit. Gabler worked the next three and allowed only one hit himself, striking out the side in the fifth.

The Exporters play the Kansas City Blues here Saturday and Sunday.

SAN ANTONIO INDIANS

SAN ANTONIO, March 18. (AP)—With four workouts and a scrub game under their belts the San Antonio Indians will line up for their first exhibition game tomorrow afternoon when they meet the Chicago White Sox on the league park diamond.

Manager Claude Robertson will start Faolan Kowalik of Falls City on the hill against the Sox with George Mueider of Seguin as his second choice and Walter Newman for the windup, each to pitch three innings.

DALLAS STEERS

DALLAS, March 18. (AP)—The Dallas Steers eased up on their spring training in a double workout here today. Manager Morse told his players to take it easy in order to be ready for the St. Paul series here tomorrow and Sunday.

Batting and fielding practice featured today's workout. The ax fell when Morse released Tyler, a rookie infielder.

GALVESTON BUCS

GALVESTON, March 18. (AP)—Triples by Russell Keith, catcher, and Jake Wilson, third baseman in the ninth inning enabled the Ryes to overcome a three-run lead and beat the Pratts in the fourth game of the Galveston Buccaneer intra-camp series here today, 7-6.

Wade Wilson, rookie centerfielder and Buck Fausett, rookie shortstop continued their hitting streaks by collecting a triple and double respectively off the delivery of Cromer.

The Buccaneers play Houston here Sunday.

BUFFS WIN ANOTHER

HOUSTON, March 18. (AP)—Scoring five times in the sixth inning and adding two more in the seventh the Houston Buffs here today defeated Columbus of the American association, 7-5. It was the fourth straight win for the Texas leaguers against AA class teams. Houston, Rochester and Columbus are teams taking part in the round robin series.

Sheriff Blake, former Cub and Philly pitcher, opened for Columbus and held Houston in check for the four frames he worked. Klinger, who followed, permitted the seven runs.

SHREVEPORT SPORTS

SHREVEPORT, La., March 18. (AP)—The Sports went back to their regular program today after a six-inning intra-club tilt yesterday.

There were no new arrivals but Walter Morris, business manager, said that Eggert, third baseman from Dallas; Cox, outfielder from Galveston, and Governor, outfielder from Beaumont, probably would be here tomorrow. They may get into action Sunday against the Louisiana Oilers.

YANKS LOSE

SARASOTA, Fla., March 18. (AP)—The New York Yankees found the Indianapolis team of the American association much tougher opponents than the Boston Braves and lost their exhibition game in the ninth inning today, 6-5. It was their first defeat this spring.

CINCINNATI REDS

TAMPA, Fla., March 18. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds were put through a stiff three-hour practice session today by Manager Dan Howley, who put special stress on batting drill. Si Johnson and Owen Carroll, expected to be two mainstays of the Cincinnati pitching staff, are slated to oppose the Yankees tomorrow.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 18. (AP)—Walter Stewart, the Browns' star pitcher, arrived in the training camp this afternoon from his home in Crossville, Tenn., and signed his contract.

Rick Ferrell is expected here tomorrow but no word has been heard of the other holdout, Ralph Kress.

INDIANS 5, FELS 3

NEW ORLEANS, March 18. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians scored four runs in the first inning here today on the New Orleans Pelicans to win an exhibition game, 5-3.

CARDS 4, PHILS 3

BRADENTON, Fla., March 18. (AP)—Pepper Martin looked like the "wild horse of the Osage" from last year's world series again today. His base running in the ninth inning of an exhibition game today enabled the world champions to whip the Phillies 4-3 after trailing by three runs early in the game.

Pepper opened the inning with a walk and took second on Mancuso's sacrifice. He was nearly caught off second and reached third on McCurdy's wild heave. He beat Hurst's throw home for the deciding run.

STARS 6, GIANTS 1

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 18. (AP)—The Hollywood Stars of the Pacific Coast league made it two straight over the New York Giants by winning an exhibition game 6 to 1 here today. The Stars won 2 to 1 last night.

CHICAGO WHITE SOX

SAN ANTONIO, March 18. (AP)—With exhibition games against the San Antonio Indians scheduled for tomorrow and Sunday, the Chicago White Sox worked on routine affairs today.

Manager Lew Fonseca drilled the squad on batting, seeking to develop some kind of punch before the northward journey starts next week.

HIGAMI WINS OVER KLINGMAN

Jap Takes Two Falls With Button Holds

Tistu Higami, the Jap mat performer, brought into full play his assortment of ju-jitsu buttons to win the main event of Whitey Grovo's wrestling show last night, taking the second and third falls from Otis Klingman, the Amarillo cyclone. The card presented one of the fastest and best shows of the year and was attended by a good-turn-out of fans.

After Klingman had bounced the Jap around the ring, the Amarillo flash won the first fall in 14 minutes and 48 seconds with a rocking chair split. For the second fall, the Jap used a combination of muscles in Klingman's knee to win while Klingman had him on the mat with a painful body scissors.

The last fall was a slam bang affair with Klingman opening the attack with a series of goat holds which he later changed to flying mares. Then they carried the battle into the ringside section before the Jap was able to apply the sleep hold to win in 10 minutes and 15 seconds. Twice Klingman kicked him loose with well aimed boots to the jaw, and even after the fall was awarded on what looked more like a body pin than a sleep hold, Klingman came up fighting.

Sailor Moran, the Chicago terror, won the one and only fall on the 45-minute time limit match from Kid Murdock of Dallas in 29 minutes and 50 seconds with a head scissors. They wrestled the rest of the 15 minutes and 10 seconds alloted to them without fall.

The match was fast and furious all the way with Murdock protesting loud and long to what he termed unfair tactics. While Moran jumped the referee time after time, Murdock carried the battle twice into the ringside section to the delight of the fans.

Red Riggles, the local flash, kept his record in Wichita Falls intact, and threw Tommy Walton, another local boy, in 11 minutes and 55 seconds with a mat nelson and double leg pin. This match was one of the fastest and best ever carded for the preliminaries and the two boys battled on almost even terms. The hold used by Riggles was a new one in Wichita Falls.

The cost of living in Germany at the close of 1931 was relatively higher than in any other European country.

PITCHING 'IFS' WORRY YANKS

Otherwise Team Feels Equal To Athletics

By ALAN GOULD

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18. (AP)—From Mulberry Bend to the Bronx, let the clarion call be sounded: "The Yanks are coming, bigger, better and stronger."

Babe Ruth is back on the job as well as on the dotted line, and is beginning to ram base hits through the infield with his shorter swing from a less exaggerated stance at the plate. Big Ben Chapman is making two bases on infield outs and otherwise sounding the alarm again for American league catchers.

New Infield Snappy

The new keystone combination of Frank Crosetti and Otto (Jack) Saltzgaver within the past week has come along like a house afire. Manager Joe McCarthy seems to have corralled another speedy young outfielder in George Selkirk, Rochester lad, who played with Jersey City last season and may contest center field with the veteran Kentuckian, Earle Combs.

Now, if only one of the three best pitching prospects makes good and Henry Johnson recovers rapidly from the removal of his appendix, the Yankees will consider themselves on at least an even footing with the champion Philadelphia Athletics.

Depends on Pitching

The success of the New York club's attempt this year to oust the three-time American league pennant holders depends on those pitching "ifs." The best trio that McCarthy can muster on the mound, namely, Lefty Gomez, Red Ruffing and George Pipgras, does not class with Connie Mack's great triumvirate of Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg.

The Yankee strategists believe their greater speed and punch will offset the apparent margin of difference.

Lyn Lary, after giving way to Crosetti at short, has taken to third like a duck to water. Lou Gehrig, the iron man on first, who passed his 1,000th consecutive game last season, thinks the second thousand will be the easiest. Joe Sewell and Eddie Farrell, as well as Tony Lazzeri, are destined for utility jobs, although Tony will be traded any time the Yanks can get a reliable pitcher for him.

Recruit Hurlers

Of the hurling recruits, John Allen, and 220-pound Walter Brown from Jersey City, and Johnny Murphy from St. Paul, look the best. Gordon Rhodes has a chance to come through. Herb Pennock and Ed Wells will use their southpaw wiles in opportune spots. Johnson may pitch by May, earlier than at first expected.

Behind the plate big Bill Dickey will do at least 90 per cent of the work, with Arndt Jorgens and Tom Padden in reserve.

Mangin And Shields In Tennis Finals

NEW YORK, March 18. (AP)—Francis X. Shields, Davis cup star of New York, and Gregory S. Mangin, Newark, who couldn't even crash the select "first ten" last year, are the strangely assorted pair who battled their way today into the finals of the national indoor tennis tournament.

Shields, the country's third ranking player, employed his blinding service and steady baseline game, to dispose of Berkeley Bell, the tumbling ex-Texan, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4. Bell couldn't break the tall New Yorker's delivery.

Mangin, the 22-year-old graduate of Georgetown university, who was ranked No. 11, last season and never has won a national title, triumphed over the veteran, George Lott Jr., Chicago, ranked No. 2, 6-1, 6-7, 6-0, in the other semifinal.

Bell, who supplied the tournament's previous high light by blasting out Jean Borotra, France's defending champion, didn't play the same game against Shields today. Either by design or necessity, he changed from a hard driving game to a soft, placement style, and Shields thrived on it. The long-legged New Yorker swarmed all over the court and shot Bell's best ones right back until Berkeley either netted or drove out of bounds.

Lott and his Davis cup partner, Johnny Van Ryn, Philadelphia, reached the finals in doubles by defeating Shields and Eugene McAuliff, New York, 6-1, 12-10, 3-6, 9-7. They will face Bell and Mangin over the five-set route for the championship.

NORMAN, Okla., March 18. (AP)—Adrian Lindsey, for the last five years head football coach at the University of Oklahoma, announced his resignation today after almost two years of alumni unrest in which his scalp had been demanded repeatedly. The resignation takes effect at the close of the present school year.

The retiring coach said he had no plans for next year except that he expects to continue coaching.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, March 18. (AP)—Cotton was lower today under liquidation and scattered selling attributed to the weakness in the grain and stock markets and press reports from Washington concerning projects for financing export sales of surplus supplies which appeared to cause some uncertainty.

The decline carried prices into new low ground for the movement with May contracts selling off to 6.74 or 19 points net lower and 45 points below the recent high level. Closing quotations were the lowest of the day on most positions with the market easy at net declines of 16 to 20 points. Buyers appeared to be discouraged by the action of the grain and stock markets, while brokers with both western and Wall street connections were among the sellers, and some stop orders were uncovered on the decline.

A little more trade demand was in evidence on scale down orders in the late trading but the break extended to 6.91 for July and 7.14 for October compared with 7.35 and 7.55 the high prices reached on the advance earlier in the month.

Liverpool cables reported covering and continental buying supplied by realizing and some selling on the easier ruling of Alexandria, but said there was an improved demand for cotton cloths from Egypt and the Near East. The market for Egyptian futures in Alexandria was 7 to 28 points lower. Exports today 88,465 making 6,561,806 so far this season. Port receipts 25,490. U. S. port stocks 4,479,295.

Futures closed easy, 16@20c lower. Spot quiet; middling 6.85.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 18. (AP)—The cotton market was far from active today and prices developed a more pronounced downward slant. Owing to poor cables the opening was 1 to 2 points down and prices continued to sell off after the start owing to weakness in stocks and lack of buying orders. While prices were a shade steadier around noon they weakened again in the afternoon owing to stop orders being reached and although stocks were some steadier prices dropped to new lows for the day near the end and closed at the bottom, steady, the general market showing net losses for the day of 18 to 19 points.

The market opened easier with indifferent cables. Liverpool cabe in 1 to 2 penny points worse than due and private cables stated that there had been covering and continental buying offset by realizing on lower prices at Alexandria. Weekly statistics were regarded as favorable particularly mill takings which were large, totaling 422,000 bales. Exports for the week were also large totaling 288,000 bales.

The market weakened during the afternoon owing to the uncovering of considerable stop loss orders although the stock market was rather steadier. May closed at 6.76, July 6.93 and October 7.12.

Port receipts 37,761, for week 143,500; for season 8,867,763; last season 8,379,487. Exports 88,880; for week 288,082; for season 6,441,046; last season 5,258,457. Unloading Of Public Utility Shares Drives Stock And Bond Prices Down

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, March 18. (US)—A wave of selling in the public utility section of the stock market today forced the entire list to lower levels, from which only moderate recoveries were scored as the pressure lessened toward the afternoon. The bond market likewise reflected renewed liquidation with prices slipping rather easily.

There were reports that bears, encouraged by the further delay in the Washington quiz into speculative operations, had re-entered the market on a larger scale. But the persistency of offerings in the utility department argued against purely speculative pressure. The offerings had all the earmarks of genuine liquidation, which centered in the Electric Bond & Share securities.

Electric Bond & Share's once-dominant prestige marketwise has proven insufficient to stem the tide of selling in all of its widespread utility interests. This great enterprise, which once could boast of market valuations rolling into billions, has suffered violent depreciation, and of late the market has feared additional complications.

Whatever the situation within Bond and Share and its affiliated companies, the market was prone to stress their securities' weakness and the entire market suffered in consequence.

The revised Glass banking reform bill lacked a good deal of the dynamite which had frightened the banking community when the original bill was proposed. The only other disclosed development at Washington had to do with the administration's plans to dispose of American grain and cotton surplus abroad, but despite this the wheat market sold off sharply. Wheat has lost in a week as much as it gained in months.

The reconstruction finance corporation-bankers' controversy did not exert as much influence as previously, it being quite evident that a definite decision must of necessity be rendered shortly, in view of the Missouri Pacific's April 1 maturities.

Defeat of the proposed copper tariff had little effect on security prices.

The most pleasing news was the additional evidence that railroad earnings in February reflected the economies in operating costs by reason of the wage reduction. The New York Central reported an increase in earnings over January returns, and the Illinois Central showed a sharp gain in its income.

Railroad stocks as a group, however, continued weak.

Second-grade rail bonds also were in supply, presumably awaiting definition of the reconstruction finance corporation policy with respect to nearby maturities among railroad issues.

Under prevailing circumstances, the technical position of the market shifts rapidly and today, various speculative groups were taking on moderate "long" lines in anticipation of another rally. These purchases were purely short-term and speculative, merely in attempt to catch the turns. The bull pools, however, were still depressed.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 18. (AP)—Swept downward in a flood of selling, wheat today suffered a fall of more than 2 cents a bushel and corn more than a cent. The flurry plunged the wheat market to the lowest level reached since the middle of January and to within 8 cents of the season's lowest figures.

Tumbling of values followed announcement by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde that an intensive sales campaign abroad was contemplated to dispose of some of this country's huge surplus stock of wheat. Fears were expressed in the wheat pit that this would result in semi-demoralization of the world's wheat markets.

Additional impetus to selling was given by a bearish construction placed on word that President Hoover was seeking further financial assistance for the farm board so that it could make sales of wheat abroad on credit.

Wheat closed nervous at the day's bottom level, 1⅞@2⅛c under yesterday's finish, corn ¾@1¼c down, oats ⅝@⅞c off, and provisions showing 2 cents to 22 cents decline.

Corn and oats dropped with wheat, and corn reached the lowest since Oct. 6, when that cereal established its bottom record this season. Eastern demand for corn was nil.

Provisions gave way with cereals, despite upturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, May 54⅝@¼c, 56⅛@⅛c; July 56⅝@⅛c, 58⅝@⅛c; Sept. 58⅝@⅛c, 60⅝c. Corn, May 36⅞, 37⅛@38c; July 39⅝c, 40⅝c; Sept. 41c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, March 18. (US)—Action of the wheat market tomorrow is expected to hinge entirely upon the effect farm board plans have on the Liverpool market.

Broomhall said: "In reply to a cable asking what effect it would have on the international market if the United States became an anxious seller instead of an indifferent seller as in the past, Liverpool replies it would be likely to break prices badly. If only individual traders continued offering wheat normally, then Europe might easily take fair quantities of hard winter wheat during the next three months without any severe break. Any subsequent purchases will depend upon European harvest prospects and weather conditions."

European countries are now reporting damage to crops from frosts and there was some rather bullish domestic crop news from the Southwest, but this news attracted no attention after political affairs dominated the wheat market.

Uhlmann Grain company says: "We remember last year at this time the government decided to sell 35,000,000 bushels of wheat holdings abroad. What was the result? They never succeeded, and sold so little they finally made a trade with a syndicate of grain merchants to dispose of about 13,000,000 bushels. We believe this year will be a repetition. We do not think the farm board will be able to dispose of large quantities of wheat unless it would be sacrificed at the most ridiculous prices."

Garner's Teacher Will Support Him Even Though Wet

JACKSONVILLE, Texas, March 18. (UP)—Speaker John N. Garner had qualities as a school boy nearly 50 years ago, one of his former schoolmasters believes, that make him the man to elect president of the United States this year.

"John was a boy with the right ideas and principles, even in those days," said F. E. Butler, of Jacksonville, retired teacher and Methodist minister, who had the speaker in classes at Blossom, Red River county, from 1885 to 1887.

"John was not what you would call a brilliant student but he was a good student. He was thorough and what is more he was easy to get along with. John could be counted on to do the right, fair thing. He never gave me any trouble."

Rev. Butler has not seen Garner since the school days, but he has two highly prized letters from him. One, written several years ago, assures the elderly teacher that "no man is more responsible for what I have accomplished than you."

So sure is the old schoolmaster that Garner should be elected that he intends to leave the Democratic party if a wet candidate is chosen.

"I'd vote for Garner, though," said Rev. Butler, "even though he may be opposed to the 18th amendment. I believe he can be counted on to do the right thing, no matter what his personal views about prohibition. I'm willing to trust him."

NEW YORK, March 18. (US)—Pola Negri, Polish film actress, today collapsed in her suite here at the Ambassador hotel, and was ordered to bed for a week by Dr. Jerome Wagner, her personal physician.

C-C DISCUSSES OIL INDUSTRY

Wichita Best Field for Independents

22 million barrels of oil under full proration schedules while the previous high mark was 35 million in 1920. Proration and lack of new wells under proration conditions cut production 10 million barrels from 1930 to 1931.

Refineries of Wichita Falls offer the largest pay roll in the city with an aggregate expense of $24,000 monthly for pay rolls at present, Mr. Martin declared.

Wichita Falls is one year ahead of other Texas cities in returning to bedrock valuations of real estate which were far too high in boom periods. The aim of the junior chamber to secure 200 new independent oil men in Wichita Falls in the year is a logical move, it was said. As pointed out by Chairman Charles B. King of the oil committee, Wichita Falls offers the operator everything a member of the fraternity could desire in cooperation and nearness to his work, the speaker said.

In pointing out the return of Wichita Falls to normal conditions Mr. Martin cited figures of the local family relief group which spent more than $9,000 in January and February of 1931 as compared with less than half that amount or $3,735 in the same period this year.

Roy Jones, pioneer refinery operator here, was introduced as the first speaker by Chairman King and emphasized the logical selection of Wichita Falls as a permanent home by oil operators. District Supervisor Jack Elliott of the railroad commission pledged his support to the junior group in a short talk.

Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls emphasized an optimistic outlook for the oil industry and declared that if the world depended on East Texas fields alone for its supply, the field would be exhausted in little more than a year's time.

A score of visiting oil men of the city were introduced to the membership at the opening of the luncheon.

City Official Found Guilty of Vice Charges

DETROIT, March 18. (UP)—Mayor Rudolph T. Tenerowicz of Hamtramck, his chief of police, Harry Wurmuskurken, a police captain and Jacob Kaplan, alleged head of a vice syndicate, were found guilty today by a jury of conspiring to permit operation of disorderly houses.

William Cohen, Hamtramck city attorney, who was tried without a jury, electing to let the judge rule in his case, was acquitted. Judge Homer Ferguson said he would pass sentence next week.

Man May Die After Gun Duel With Okla. Officers

DURANT, Okla., March 18. (UP)—An unidentified man probably was fatally wounded and a deputy sheriff suffered a flesh wound when officers sought to question a motorist near here this afternoon.

Deputy Corn Colbert and two other Bryan county officers searching for a suspect in a local crime, accosted a motorist. Instead of obeying the order to get out of the car, the man opened fire. Colbert was shot through the arm while he and his companions opened fire on the unknown assailant.

Murray Makes Last Plea to Kansas Voters

SALINA, Kan., March 18. (UP)—Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma ended his campaign for Kansas' support in his race for the Democratic presidential nomination here tonight with an impassioned plea that "a statesmanship government be placed in Washington."

"Statesmanship is one thing and business mechanics and engineering are another," he declared. "We need more statesmanship government in Washington and less engineering."

'Preaching Athlete From Oregon' Heads Allied Campaigners Drive

Daniel A. Poling, Booked for Speeches Here, Tells How His Son Started Him on Second Drive for Prohibition

A preaching athlete from Oregon who became a world leader of young people—such is Daniel A. Poling, who will speak here during the meetings to be conducted by the Allied Campaigners, March 23 and 24.

Big and fast, Poling made his mark in various branches of athletics. He was a great basket ball and track star. He played or trained hard all week and on Sunday he preached in a little nearby town. Sometimes his eyes were black, and there were other bruises and scars from football or his other contests, but he preached. Once he entered the pulpit with a badly swollen knee and found to his dismay that it wouldn't bend when it came time to kneel.

Leader of Christian Endeavor

Today as president of the World's Christian Endeavor union, Poling is the leader of an army of 4,000,000 youths, scattered all over the world and, as the hard-hitting chairman of the Allied Forces for Prohibition, is leading in the campaign which this organization is conducting throughout the country in support of the 18th amendment.

"I woke up one day when my son came home and said 'Dad, I am against prohibition,'" Poling relates. "That started me to thinking. Then I realized that he had grown up since prohibition became a fact and had no way of appreciating what conditions were under the old saloon system.

"I took him down through the Bowery in New York and other places like that and showed him all the spots where saloons had been located and let him talk to men who knew the old days. He came back convinced that prohibition is better than the old license system."

Now Poling is traveling over the country trying to show young people as well as their parents that the 18th amendment must be preserved. He believes that the great majority of the people are in favor of prohibition, but that the cause of prohibition is in danger unless sentiment for the amendment is organized.

Poling talks from two to three times a day and, along with other speakers who are making the tour, will have visited 587 cities and towns when the trip is completed. Meanwhile, he finds time to carry on his work as editor of Christian Herald, rushes back to New York each week-end as a rule for a Sunday afternoon broadcast and performs numerous other duties.

Candidate for Governor

Poling has had an unusual career. He had hardly completed his schooling when he ran for governor of Ohio on the prohibition ticket. For 59 consecutive days, he made seven speeches a day. He was only 27 and couldn't have taken the office if he had been elected, but that didn't deter him. Moreover 48,000 people voted for him, or 46,000 more than the prohibition party polled in the previous election.

Once he was incapacitated in an automobile accident. He occupied the time by writing a successful novel and has followed this with several others.

Poling accepted a pastoral charge in 1919 in the fashionable Marble Collegiate church on Fifth avenue, New York, but gave this up in 1929 so he could give all his time to young people. ANARCHIST TO SPEAK HERE

Marcus Graham to Present Case of Mooney

Marcus Graham, anarchist, will present the case of Tom Mooney as a part of a nation-wide drive before a Wichita Falls audience Sunday night at 8 o'clock at the Labor temple. The address is under the auspices of the Tom Mooney Molders Defense committee.

Mooney, an imprisoned labor leader of California, is alleged by his friends to be held falsely. Mr. Graham, who also is a publisher of revolutionary poetry, has been deported from the United States but has won the right to return to this country.

Mr. Graham's subject will be "Those Responsible for the Imprisonment of Tom Mooney" and the speaker lays the blame to the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. "All people are anarchists and desire to live as a law unto themselves," Graham declares. The true anrachist rebels against a government that smothers every ideal of man, Graham explains.

The appearance Mr. Graham for an address at the labor temple Sunday night is not sponsored by the labor temple association or labor unions of Wichita Falls, L. B. Wilson, president of the board of trustees of the labor temple association, announced Friday. Labor officials said that they wished this point made clear, although they and the organizations they represent are adhering to an impartial stand in connection with the anarchist's speaking engagement.
