Blue Law repeal awaits White's decision

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White now must decide whether to sign a bill repealing the quirky Texas Blue Law, which since 1961 has effectively banned Sunday sales of 42 items ranging from clothing to television sets.

"Bye-bye, Blue," Speaker Gib Lewis said, banging the gavel to announce Monday's non-record vote by which the House gave the last legislative OK to repeal.

House sponsor David Cain, D-Dallas, said he is confident White will sign the measure into law.

"I don't anticipate any problems at all," Cain said.

If White signs the legislation, it would take effect on Sept. 1, which coincidentally is a Sunday.

In a decade of efforts to repeal the law, this is the first time a repeal bill has reached the governor's desk.

White hasn't said whether he will sign. He did tell a recent news conference he wants to make certain any repeal bill won't require Texans to work on Sundays.

■ State spending considered. — Page 3A

Cain, one of several lawmakers who met with White to discuss the governor's reservations, said the bill includes tough guarantees against mandatory Sunday work.

"The only questions he really had about the thing at all had to do with employee protections," Cain said.

"I'm convinced that once he gets a chance to really look at the bill, he will see that we've protected employees every way that we possibly can. We've added new protections even since the day that we met (with White)," Cain said.

"I think it's awfully tough — tougher than anything I've seen in any other state," he added.

The current Blue Law is a descendant of legislation first passed by lawmakers in 1863 to guarantee that Texans would be free to worship rather than work on Sundays.

The version in effect for the past 24 years has prohibited sales of the 42 items on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays, effectively closing stores on Sundays.

Among the items specifically prohibited are wearing apparel, shoes, furniture, china, home appliances, air conditioners, cameras, electric fans, radios, televisions, washing machines, driers, hardware, jewelry, watches, clocks, luggage, musical instruments, toys, mattresses, floor coverings, lamps, draperies and lawn mowers.

Under the repeal bill, which passed the Senate on Friday, only auto dealers would still be covered by the Blue Law. Their lobbyists had asked legislators to leave them under a sales ban.

Repeal opponents had complained that repealing the Blue Law would harm traditional family values.

Status report on jail project to be presented

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Three Midland County officials and the county's jail architects will be Austin on Wednesday to give the Texas Commission on Jail Standards status reports on the jail.

The county is preparing to renovate and expand the 12-year-old jail under a $3 million bond issue which also calls for a study of Midland County needs into the 21th Century and the $500,000 expansion of Culver Youth Home, a juvenile detention center.

"We're going to tell them we're moving as fast as the governmental process will allow," said County Commissioner Durward Wright, "and they're going to say, 'Stay after it.'"

Wright said he didn't know of any "earth-shattering" news to come out of the meeting with the Jail Commission.

The Jail Commission last year had approved plans and drawings for construction of an $8.4 million jail and sheriff's complex apart from the courthouse.

The present jail is on the fifth floor of the courthouse.

County commissioners had planned to finance the proposed jail through $9.9 million in certificates of obligation, which do not require voter approval. But a citizens group, the Concerned Citizens Committee, effectively forced the issue to a vote; it was defeated in a bond election on May 11. At the same time, voters approved the $3 million bond issue.

The present jail, built as the fifth floor of the 1930-vintage courthouse, is limited to 85 inmates. However, the capacity is to be increased under the renovation plan. The nixed $8.4 million jail would have had cells for 225 inmates, could have been equipped to handle 75 more prisoners and ultimately could have been expanded to hold 600 inmates in maximum security.

"We're going down and answer any questions on where we stand right now," Wright said.

April inflation rate holds at 0.4 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first food price drop in 11 months offset a continued creep in energy costs to hold the April inflation rate to 0.4 percent, the government reported today.

Food prices, which had held flat in March, declined by 0.2 percent last month — the first drop since May, when they fell by the same percentage.

Gasoline prices, continuing to spurt upward from what analysts have characterized as unusually depressed winter levels, rose 3.1 percent on a seasonally adjusted basis that took into account traditional spring increases.

Excluding energy and food, the Consumer Price Index rose 0.3 percent last month. For the first four months of 1985, inflation at the retail level was running at an annual rate of 4.2 percent, just slightly ahead of the 4.0 percent of last year.

All in all, the Labor Department's CPI calculation for April was a reaffirmation of analysts' assessment that the 0.5 percent increase in March prices was an aberration.

Prior to the big March increase, which had been attributed almost entirely to a big jump in fuel costs, the CPI had risen 0.2 percent in January and 0.3 percent in February.

Today's report followed a Monday stock market rally in which the Dow Jones industrial average closed at a record high of 1304.88 in response to the Federal Reserve Board's move Friday to drive interest rates down by cutting the interest on loans to member banks.

Fed board members, in turn, had made clear on several recent occasions that continued signs of moderate inflation made them less fearful about spurring a lagging economy with an interest rate cut.

Bush backs East Texan's candidacy

By PEGGY ROBERSON
Washington Correspondent

MARSHALL — Vice President George Bush helped kick off Republican congressional candidate Edd Hargett's campaign here Monday before a skimpy but enthusiastic crowd.

The vice president's two-hour visit underscored the importance Republicans are attaching to the special congressional election in Texas' 1st District. They believe Hargett stands a good chance of reaching a runoff against one of four announced Democratic candidates in a free-for-all format. If no candidate receives more than 50 percent of the vote, the election will be decided in a runoff.

Gov. Mark White will set the date for the election sometime next week, after Rep. Sam Hall formally resigns his congressional seat. Hall was appointed by President Reagan to a federal district judgeship in Texas' Eastern Division.

Bush lauded the departing congressman, a popular political figure for two decades, as "a great, conservative Democrat who stood with the president time and time again."

Bush, an adopted Texan, and the state Republican Party are hoping to convert enough conservative Democrats in this historically-Democratic stronghold to elect Hargett, a former Texas A&M football star who now is an electrical engineer and farmer in Linden.

Two out of three area voters in last fall's election "voted for the Reagan-Bush team," Bush said. "There's a big difference between traditional Democrats and the liberal party leader in Washington," Bush said, noting that Hall "voted against Tip O'Neill" on budget, taxes and defense issues.

Bush's criticism of House Speaker Thomas P. (Tip)O'Neill Jr. was reminiscent of the campaigns waged by six Texas Republicans who won congressional seats last fall.

Hargett vowed to be a Republican team player if elected and to work for "a strong America."

The Hargett rally in Marshall's Civic Center attracted perhaps 300 people, but a third of that number were parochial school students and band members.

Minor enters forced resignation controversy

By FRANK TROMBLEY
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Mayor John Minor has injected himself into the controversy concerning the forced resignation of City Secretary Tena Walker, accusing Odessa City Council members of "moral and ethical bankruptcy."

Council members May 14, during regular session, met in a previously scheduled executive (closed) session to discuss acquisition of real property and personnel matters.

Minor, saying he arrived "approximately 10 minutes into this meeting," alleges in a news release the four council members present were considering "a motion to eliminate funding for the city secretary's office and transfer the function of that office to the city manager."

The mayor says he informed council members Vern Foreman, Sherman Cox, Melissa Hirsch and Nicky Sheets he "believed what they were proposing was illegal." Ms. Hirsch flatly states Minor is "lying," that he did not oppose the action.

Minor contends "a vote was forced" on the question of eliminating funding for the city secretary's office and Ms. Walker was called in and asked to resign the position she had held for 10 years.

At-large councilman Sherman Cox denied any "vote," as such was taken. He said last week that all there was was a show of hands to see if there was a consensus to support the proposed action.

At least two killed as drilling barge capsizes

MORGAN CITY, La. (AP) — A drilling barge carrying 23 people capsized in a bayou near this coastal Louisiana town, killing two crew members and leaving 10 feared trapped inside, the Coast Guard said today.

Nine people were pulled from the water shortly after the rig capsized. Two were pulled through a hole cut in the bottom of the rig by rescue workers, said Coast Guard Petty Officer Bruce Barton.

"There are divers inside the vessel looking for survivors or bodies," said Keith Simon, spokesman for the Acadian Ambulance Service. "The outlook is not very good for survivors. Two of the three decks are under water. Very little of the vessel is exposed."

Divers found one body inside the rig shortly after they began their search and another at mid-morning.

Mark Kugelberg, another Coast Guard spokesman, said the barge came to rest at a 45-degree angle, with only about half of its bottom deck above water.

The rig is a 200-foot-long, 54-foot-wide barge capable of being raised above the floor of the marsh on legs like telephone poles.

It overturned shortly before midnight in Bayou Chene, near the St. Mary-Terrebonne parish line.

Simon said first reports indicated the barge was being moved when it overturned.

The St. Mary Parish sheriff's office sent divers to the overturned barge and heard tapping noises from people inside, first reports indicated. Later, voice communication was established and divers used torches to burn through the bottom of the floating barge.

The Coast Guard in New Orleans said it sent a helicopter with more cutting equipment to the site.

Two men were rescued before dawn after crews drilled a hole in the hull to allow air into the barge.

"They are in good condition," said Simon. "They were exposed to some cold water for some time, but they appeared to be in good condition."

The rig was identified as the Tonkawa, owned by Temple Drilling Co. of Houston.

"It's one of those little marsh-type jack-up rigs built for shallow water," Barton said.

Bayou Chene is about five miles south of Amelia, the nearest dry land. It's about 10 miles from Morgan City, the closest major community in the vast marshes that merge with the Gulf of Mexico 10 miles farther south.

Coast Guard Petty Officer Keith Spangler said the skies over the scene were so thick with helicopters bearing sightseers and reporters that he had to establish a safety zone.

Shiites take one of three refugee camps under siege

Three freed Israeli prisoners reunited with their families

HATZOR AIR BASE, Israel — Three Israeli prisoners of war swapped for more than 1,100 Arab prisoners, many of them convicted terrorists, returned to joyous family reunions today. But the lopsided trade touched off violent protests.

The exchange took more than 26 hours to complete, and stretched the length of Israel and on to Switzerland. It ended at dawn when the Israeli soldiers landed at a military air field near Hatzor, 20 miles south of Tel Aviv.

"Hallelujah, Hallelujah, praise the Lord for his goodness and mercy in the redemption," an Israeli military rabbi said as the soldiers, pale and tired-looking, were swept into the arms of waiting relatives, friends and comrades. Champaigne corks popped and happy relatives sobbed. "Go slowly, go slowly, mother. Calm down," Pvt. Yossi Groff, 24, told his mother, Miriam.

Sgt. Hezi Shai, 31, said he was going home to see the daughter who was born after he was taken captive. The third soldier was Pvt. Nissim Salem, 21.

The soldiers were the last Israelis known to be in Arab hands, and the exchange was one of the final chapters of the invasion of Lebanon that began on June 6, 1982. In a matter of days, Israel is expected to pull its remaining forces from Lebanon.

But the deal set off protests by some of the 45,000 Jewish settlers on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, and prompted calls for the release of 25 people convicted or standing trial for allegedly belonging to a Jewish underground organization that attacked Palestinians.

In Hebron a dozen settlers opened fire late Monday night to break up a celebration by Palestinians.

Six-hundred five of the Arabs freed were sent back to homes in Israel or to the occupied territories. Three-hundred ninety-four were flown to Geneva, Switzerland, and 151 were sent to Syria.

Among those flown to Switzerland was Kozo Okamoto, the only survivor of a three-man Japanese terrorist squad that machine-gunned 27 people to death at Ben-Gurion — formerly called Lod Airport — in 1972. Japan's foreign minister, Shitaro Abe, said today that his country regretted Okamoto's release because it might lead to more terrorism.

The protesters were led by Rabbi Moshe Levinger, mentor of the Jews who have set up a series of tiny enclaves in the heart of Hebron, a city of 40,000 Palestinians. Levinger fired a semi-automatic rifle, shouted "clear out the Arabs," and rushed at the Palestinian crowd, but he was stopped by Israeli soldiers.

By JUAN-CARLOS GUMUCIO

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Beleaguered Palestinians fought desperately to stave off Shiite Moslem attacks on two refugee camps today, but the Shiites seized control of a third. Police said 83 people died and 392 were wounded in 40 hours of fighting.

The Shiites, seeking to prevent the PLO from returning to Beirut, advanced into the Sabra refugee camp after storming all but a handful of Palestinian strongpoints.

Fierce fighting raged in the Chatilla camp near Sabra in west Beirut, and at Bourj Barajneh near Beirut's international airport to the south. Seven successive cease-fires were shattered.

An officer of the Shiite Amal militia, standing in a bullet-scarred school near Bourj Barajneh, said: "Everybody's fighting in there. Men, women, boys, even girls are throwing hand grenades."

Amal claimed earlier it had taken all three camps, but Shiite militia leader Nabih Berri later said his militiamen controlled only Sabra.

The Palestinians claimed Amal gained control of Sabra by moving into the shantytown behind the Lebanese army's mainly Shiite 6th Brigade, which was sent in late Monday to halt the fighting.

Heavy gunfire and the explosions of rocket-propelled grenades were heard in the two camps as hundreds of Palestinians defended them against the militiamen.

The Amal officer at Bourj Barajneh said "several thousand" Palestinians were engaged in the battle.

"They're all fighting together now," he said.

Sabra and Chatilla are the camps that were assaulted by Christian militiamen in September 1982 in the wake of Israel's invasion of Lebanon to crush the Palestine Liberation Organization. Hundreds of Palestinians and Lebanese Moslems were massacred by the Christians.

A Palestinian spokesman in Bourj Barajneh, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said Amal closed down a hospital in Sabra and evacuated all the patients and staff. The hospital was set on fire in Monday's fighting.

AP Laserphoto

Shiite Moslem militiamen fire at Palestinian guerrilla postions near Sabra refugee camp in West Beirut.

Palestinian sources said many of their casualties bled to death Monday because medical teams could not reach them in the encircled camps. There was no independent confirmation.

The Palestinians also said Amal executed three young Palestinians they found hiding in Sabra today during house-to-house searches.

Palestine Liberation Organization Chairman Yasser Arafat called on Arab states for "immediate intervention to halt these barabric massacres," a PLO statement said.

It said Arafat called on the ambassadors of 11 Arab nations in Amman, Jordan, where he is visiting, and conveyed his request.

Both Sabra and Chatilla are former Arafat strongholds, and pro-Arafat posters are plastered throughout the camps.

Arafat's guerrillas were expelled from Beirut by the Israelis in 1982, but guerrilla leaders since have boasted that many have filtered back into the city.

Arafat loyalists were expelled from Syrian-controlled northern Lebanon in 1983 by Syrian-backed PLO dissidents. The current attack in Beirut, spearheaded by the Syrian-supported Amal militia, appeared to be an effort to insure that Arafat's influence does not return to Lebanon.

"We're taking heavy shelling," one Palestinian in Sabra told The Associated Press by telephone. "Many people are dying in their homes. They don't have shelters."

A man named Mohammed, who lives on the top floor of an eight-story apartment block overlooking the cement block shantytown of Sabra, said before dawn the battle "was pure technicolor — red, blue and orange flashes all night."

Fighters on both sides were reported locked in hand-to-hand combat at times and there were barrages from heavy artillery, mortars and rocket-propelled grenades around the shantytown camps. A pall of gray and black smoke shrouded the camps. Ambulances, sirens wailing, braved shellfire to rush casualties out of the battle zones. Two hospitals were hit.

Amal, the biggest Moslem militia in Lebanon, has been cracking down on Palestinian guerrillas for months.

MINOR

"We'd been looking at the City Secretary's office for quite some time," he said. "When you go down there and see people sitting around doing nothing you begin to wonder what's going on."

The reason given for seeking Ms. Walker's resignation and elimination of the City Secretary's office was to cut down on the city budget. According to Ms. Hirsch, Ms. Walker's salary was about $28,000 a year, plus about 25 per cent more for various fringe benefits. Cox said that the City Secretary's office is not the only area of city government being looked at, that all departments are being asked to cut back their budgets. Various reports indicate city department heads are being asked to pare at least 10 percent from 1985-86 budgets.

According to Ms. Hirsch, while Ms. Walker, who had worked for the City of Odessa for about 18 years, was asked to resign, she was offered early retirement, with the city giving her the remaining two years she needed to retire.

Minor, in his news release, equated the forced resignation of Ms. Walker to what he described as the dismantlement of another "very honest, efficient city department, the City Marshal's office."

In 1983, control of the City Marshal's office was transferred from control of the Municipal Court administrator, the position then held by Minor, to the police department by City Manager John Harrison and Fiscal Services Director Frank Muser. Minor subsequently filed charges of official misconduct against Harrison and Muser, swore out warrants that were issued by associate Municipal Judge Larry McMillion, had them arrested and booked on the charges. An Ector County grand jury later refused to indict Harrison and Muser.

City council members indicated their support of Harrison and Muser and fired McMillion and later Minor. Minor later filed a lawsuit against the City of Odessa, naming then-Mayor Bob Bryant and all council members. The lawsuit is still pending, with Minor seeking reinstatement to his $29,000 a year job as Municipal Court administrator and back pay to the time he was fired in September 1983.

Minor, in likening the elimination of the City Secretary's office to the transfer of the Warrant Division to police department control, said, "This council is utilizing a tactic devised when their good friend Bob Bryant was still running things from inside city hall."

Bryant took exception to Minor's comparison, saying the two situations are in no way comparable. "You can't have city employees going around and having the city manager and director of fiscal services arrested," Bryant is quoted as saying. Bryant is further quoted as describing Minor as "nuts," and expressed the belief "most people would agree" with him.

Councilman Sheets, who was not on the council when Minor was fired and is not named in the lawsuit, last week again called for the resignation of Minor, saying he doesn't believe someone in an official position can have a lawsuit filed against the city and continue to serve the best interests of the city.

Ms. Hirsch, who has been vocal in her criticism of Minor and is named in the lawsuit, says she supports Sheets' call for Minor's resignation. "I'd love it if he'd step down," she's quoted as saying.

Regarding the forced resignation of Ms. Walker, Minor, in his news release, promised the citizens of Odessa he will "do everything within my power as chief executive of the city to arrest this erosion of the checks and balances intended by the City Charter."

Describing Harrison as a "political patsy" of the council, Minor said "Tena Walker was not. Tena was a person of backbone and character — unafraid to stand against the moral and ethical bankruptcy that exists with this council and their patsies."

Ms. Walker has indicated she may attempt to file a lawsuit against the city but she has declined to specify on what grounds she might base such a suit.

JAIL

Meeting with the Jail Commission will be Commissioners Wright and Win Brown, Sheriff Gary Painter and architects Walter Pate and James Riggen.

"This isn't a social; this isn't a tea," said Brown. "They probably will want to know our time frame in getting this (renovation) done. Before we do anything, we've got to have the blessing and approval on any modification OK'd by the Jail Standards Commission. We're not trying to delay," he said.

Brown noted that the Jail Commission is to approve any modification plans, which the architects are preparing, before any bond money is spent on the jail.

"It's hard to tie those old (jail) drawings to the new ones," Brown said. "It's a lot of hard work."

Pate said his "biggest question" about the renovation is this: Is the work to be the "least amount required" to bring the jail under compliance with jail standards — "making do" until the Commissioners' Court "might in the future build a jail" — or "Do we go in and do everything that's necessary to make the jail...a workable, functional jail?"

"I don't mean totally re-doing it," Pate said, but "to make the building (the courthouse) perform a little better, particularly if the Commissioners' Court ends up taking the jail out and converting that space to something else."

The commissioners had planned to convert the courthouse jail and basement, headquarters of the sheriff's operations, to space for courtrooms and offices were the $9.9 million jail bond issue to pass.

Jail modification is to include the installation of additional cells, the building of a roof-top exercise area, the installation of remove cell unlocking mechanism, replacing and repairing plumbing, bringing fire-protection system up to standards, putting watercloset in a holding cell, upgrading artificial cell lighting, expanding the laundry room, ensuring at least 30 percent of all cells are single cells and correcting in flaws in the jail's sanitation and electrical systems.

The Midland County Jail on May 13 and 14 failed its annual inspection by Joe Slater, the Jail Commission's supervising inspector. The state agency ordered that the jail be brought up to standards.

Serving on the Jail Commission are Chairman Amber Cree of Abilene, Robert J. Uhr of New Braunfels, Dr. Hanes H. Brindley of Temple, Pat Newhouse of Honeygrove, El Paso County Judge Pat F. O'Rourke of El Paso; Ronald L. Ramey of Houston; Fred Tinsley of Dallas; Harris County Sheriff John Klevenhagen of Houston and Montgomery County Sheriff Joe Corley of Conroe.

Glen Harris, headmaster of Trinity Episcopal Day School said he released 75 first-through-fifth graders to attend the rally because of the rare opportunity for them to get a close-up look at a vice president.

The youngsters, and students from a local Catholic elementary school, were invited by the Chamber of Commerce, where Harris' wife is a staff member, he said. Harris said he is "undecided" who to support.

Marshall Mayor Lane Strahan presented Bush with akey to the city that he said was "a key to our hearts."

Hargett and his wife, Shirley, are to be at the White House Wednesday to have their pictures made with President Reagan and to attend a campaign fund raising event.

INFLATION

In a separate report today, the Commerce Department said the economy grew at a sluggish 0.7 percent annual rate in the first three months of the year. The gain, the slowest since the end of the 1981-82 recession, was attributed to aggressive foreign competition faced by American goods.

The Labor Department provided these additional details on consumer price activity for April:

—Prices for food bought in grocery stores fell 0.4 percent, the second straight decline. But restaurant meal prices gained 0.3 percent. The grocery price decline was led by a 1.6 percent drop in beef prices, which are now 3.4 percent below what they were at the end of last year.

Pork, poultry and egg prices also were down, as were prices for fresh fruits and vegetables. That leaves fruits and vegetable prices, however, still 2.8 percent above their December level, a lingering vestige of the winter freeze in Florida.

Alcoholic beverage prices were unchanged for the second straight month.

—Housing costs overall rose 0.4 percent after a 0.3 percent rise in March. Homeowners' and renters' costs were both up 0.5 percent, but maintenance and repair costs declined 0.5 percent.

—Fuel oil prices, part of the housing cost calculation, rose 3.3 percent last month after a 0.6 percent rise in March. But those costs are still lower than at the end of 1984 and are 13.3 percent below their peak of 1981.

—Overall transportation costs, which include gasoline, were up 0.8 percent in April after a 1.3 percent gain in March. Nearly all of the increase was attributed to the sharp gain in gasoline prices, which have risen 6.8 percent since February. But those costs, too, are well below their 1981 level — down 11.7 percent.

The rising fuel prices were offset by unchanged new car costs — which had risen substantially in the first three months of the year — and by a 0.3 percent decline in used car prices. Automobile financing charges fell for the fifth straight month, down 0.6 percent.

—Medical care costs rose 0.6 percent last month after a 0.8 percent increase in March. Those costs are up 5.9 percent since last April — the steepest gain for any major component of the overall index. Doctors' fees have begun creeping up lately with the expiration of a voluntary one-year freeze.

—Clothing prices held steady after increases of 0.5 percent and 0.9 percent in February and March respectively.

—Entertainment costs rose 0.3 percent.

All the changes are adjusted for normal seasonal variations.

If last month's 0.4 percent increase held steady for 12 straight months, the yearly advance would be 4.6 percent. The annual rate reported by the department is based on a more precise calculation of price activity than the figure made public in the monthly CPI report.

In all, the unadjusted Consumer Price Index stood at 320.1 in April, meaning that goods costing $10 in 1967 would have cost $32.01 last month.

A companion report, the Consumer Price Index for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers, also rose 0.4 percent last month. That index is used to figure cost-of-living increases in many wage contracts.

Septuplets delivered; One baby dies

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — A 30-year-old woman pregnant with septuplets was delivered today of six live babies, but the seventh died, hospital officials said.

The first of the septuplets, a baby girl, was born at 8:19 a.m., said St. Joseph's Hospital spokeswoman Rosemarie Persek. Two boys and a girl were born at 8:20 a.m. and two males were born at 8:21 a.m., she said.

A girl born at 8:22 a.m. died, Ms. Persek said. It was not immediately known if the child was stillborn.

She said the conditions of the children and their weights were not known.

Dozens of doctors, nurses and therapists had mobilized for Patricia Frustaci's high-risk, multiple delivery, which was by Caesarean section.

Mrs. Frustaci, a 30-year-old Riverside high school teacher who took fertility drugs, was in her 28th week of pregnancy and listed in good condition until about noon Monday when doctors said her condition changed to fair.

Her obstetrician, Dr. Martin Feldman, decided the change signaled it was time to perform the Caesarean section.

"They (physicians) felt her condition had gone from good to fair, so now was the time," said Valerie Orleans, another hospital spokeswoman.

Mrs. Frustaci, who took the fertility drug Pergonal, entered the hospital March 25 with doctors hoping to stave off the mass birth at least until the 28th week.

The seven fetuses weighed about 1½ to 2 pounds apiece.

"We're praying and hoping they all make it," she said.

House, Senate budget writers settle higher education issues

AUSTIN (AP) — House and Senate budget writers, who think they see a compromise on the 1986-87 spending plan just around the corner, worked until the wee hours today on their toughest job — higher education appropriations.

Still ahead of the 10-member conference committee, before its self-imposed deadline tonight, are public welfare benefits, highway funds, indigent health care and state employee pay raises.

But Gov. Mark White reported Monday after a personal visit that the conferees have made "a great deal of progress."

Members of the committee named to iron out differences in Senate and House appropriation bills have been in almost continual session during their waking hours since Saturday morning.

Much of Monday was spent in recess while negotiators conferred behind closed doors with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Speaker Gib Lewis and other legislative leaders.

Finally, in a marathon session that began late at night and lasted into the morning hours, most of the higher education issues were settled.

One of the biggest money differences between the Senate and House bills was a $16.3 million Senate appropriation for the Texas Research Institute of Mental Sciences at Houston.

In a complicated compromise, the negotiators voted to accept Sen. Ray Farabee's motion to give the Mental Health and Mental Retardation Department $7.1 million over the next two years to take care of patients from phased-out TRIMS until the Houston Psychiatric Hospital opens in 1987 with a $15.4 million appropriation.

Much of the committee's time was occupied with discussion of "special items" for state colleges and universities, most of them requested in hopes of getting part of the $35 million offered by the state to promote high technology, aerospace and computer projects.

Allocations were made for two research centers to specialize in robots at the University of Texas at Arlington and Texas Tech. Programs allied with high-technology and roboties research were funded at UT-Austin and Texas A&M.

White urges speedy action on 'no pass' rule

AUSTIN (AP) — The state needs to quickly appeal a Houston judge's ruling which declared the state's "no pass, no play" athletic eligibility rule unconstitutional, Gov. Mark White says.

"It is my view that this rule ensures that the emphasis is placed upon the education of our students as a highest priority," White told Attorney General Jim Mattox in a Monday letter.

"Texas has a great interest in assuring the quality education of its students. I urge you to make every effort to obtain a speedy appellate review and resolution of this question," White added.

The no pass, no play rule — a key element of sweeping school reforms passed by the Legislature last summer — says that a student failing any course may not take part in extracurricular activities for at least six weeks.

Some coaches, parents and students have criticized the rule as being too harsh.

On Friday, state District Judge Marsha D. Anthony declared the rule unconstitutional and ordered the state not to enforce it in the Alief and Spring Branch school districts.

Her ruling was binding only upon the two districts named, but was expected to be consolidated with court action filed by students against other school districts.

White wrote Mattox, saying he understood an appeal is coming and urging speedy action.

The governor, who helped spearhead the school reform plan approved last year, repeatedly has defended the no pass, no play rule as one that is needed to keep students' attention focused on their studies.

In his letter, White said he thinks the higher court will agree.

"I believe that these priorities can and will be upheld by our appellate courts and I urge you to do all that you can to see that this question is resolved as quickly as possible so that we may continue with full implementation of our public school reforms," White wrote.

Woman who allegedly sold child won't be prosecuted

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman who allegedly sold her 2-day-old baby to two police officers for $500 will not be prosecuted because she needed the money to pay her medical bills, attorneys say.

Susie Factor, 23, was arrested March 11 after trying to sell her daughter, Tiffany, to two undercover police officers posing as a couple who wanted a child, officials said.

State District Judge Norman Lanford dismissed the case Friday against Ms. Factor, ruling she had not violated the state law against selling children.

Defense attorney Doug O'Brien said Monday that the state law includes an exception "if the money is for medical or legal fees."

Ms. Factor is divorced and receives no monetary help from the child's father, O'Brien said.

She needed to the money to pay about $1,200 in medical bills..." said John Kyles, Harris County Assistant District Attorney.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Wednesday, May 22, 1985

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Intellectual curiosity could lead you to undertake a lucrative new project. Be careful not to burn any bridges if changing jobs. Investing in travel pays off. Make any inquiries you feel necessary to protect your financial interests. A newcomer may not be everything he or she appears. Romance should be a two-way street. Hold out for the kind of consideration and generosity you show others. A young person looks to you for guidance. Set a good example. CELEBRITY BIRTHDATES: distinguished British actor Lord Olivier, actress Susan Strasberg, California Angels pitcher Tommy John, actors Michael Sarrazin and Michael Constantine, pianist Peter Nero, actors Paul Winfield and Frank Converse.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your business and personal goals come into clearer focus. Welcome an opportunity to discuss your aims with someone who is tops in your field.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Avoid making snap judgments about people and circumstances. Your sense of humor serves you well. Constructive criticism gives you a whole new perspective.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Joint investments require careful handling. Admit a mistake and you gain new respect. A faux pas could work to your advantage. Take financial advice from experts only.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Secrecy is necessary to protect your business interests. Be responsive to spur-of-the-moment offers. A new friendship could develop into a romance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A friend helps you with a secret plan to boost profits. A financial hunch is right on target. Travel proves highly rewarding. A blind date is surprisingly successful.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The emphasis now is on travel, distant affairs and signing contracts. A new business association will prove very valuable in the near future. Be open to constructive suggestions. A fresh approach brings success.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A good day to negotiate profitable agreements. Take the first step to patch up a recent misunderstanding. Something you think expensive could turn out to be a bargain. Think it over.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Take your time when making major decisions. Check someone's background and track record before signing a contract. A compromise helps you solve an unusual problem.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A letter or phone call brings good news. Negotiations go well. Be genuinely supportive of a friend's success. He or she has helped you in the past and will do so again.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A business or personal loan could help you achieve greater financial independence. Repay any debts as soon as possible. A commitment works out better than expected.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): It may be difficult to concentrate on work today. Do your best. Seek new outlets for your creativity. A new job or hobby provides a wonderful challenge.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Shoppers should examine sales merchandise very carefully. It is better to have a few good things than a lot of inferior items. A happy-go-lucky person throws you off-schedule.

Opening lead: Queen of ♡.

The quarterfinals of the 1984 World Team Olympiad, held in Seattle, provided some exciting bridge. In particular, the match between the U.S. and Austria was very close. With one board to play, Austria led by 7 International Match Points, the equivalent of a partscore swing. Could the U.S. pull it off on the last hand?

The records show that both teams reached four spades. The opening lead was the same—the queen of hearts. In both rooms the contract was made. So it looks as if the fates conspired to rob the U.S. of a chance to win by failing to provide a possible swing board. However, that was not the case.

In both rooms the teams reached four spades after a revealing auction. South's bidding showed at least ten cards in the pointed suits (spades and diamonds). After the lead of the queen of hearts, both declarers played low in dummy and, when the queen won, West continued with a heart. Declarer ruffed, crossed to dummy with a club and ran the jack of spades. When this won, the finesse was repeated and declarer claimed ten tricks.

The winning defense is for East to overtake the queen of hearts with the ace and shift to the king of diamonds and another. On the third round of the suit East can overruff dummy for down one.

Obviously, this is not an easy defense to find—this hand was played at eight tables in the quarterfinals and not one defender solved the problem. But you can construct a convincing argument in favor of this defense.

From East's point of view, even if the defenders can cash a second round of hearts it does not seem that they can take two more tricks—both the king of spades and the king of diamonds seem well placed and, if declarer is missing the king of clubs, it is finessable. Playing partner for the ace of diamonds would appear to be the only hope of setting the contract.

Cher ties for best actress at Cannes

Cher

CANNES, France (AP) — Cher won for "Mask," William Hurt won for "Kiss of the Spider Woman" and Jimmy Stewart got a prize for his life's work in movies at the 38th Cannes Film Festival.

But the Golden Palm — the festival's top award — went to Yugoslav director Emir Kusturica on Monday for "Papa is on a Business Trip."

For her role as the mother of a deformed son in the movie "Mask," Cher won the best actress award, along with Argentine Norma Aleandro, honored for her role in "The Official History."

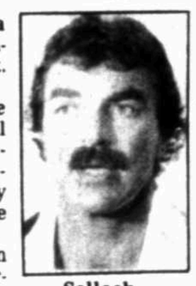

Hurt was named best actor for his role in the Brazilian film "Kiss of the Spider Woman," in which he plays an effeminate window-dresser who is arrested on a morals charge and shares a cell with a revolutionary.

"Birdy," a American film of friendship and broken dreams told through the experiences of a boy who tries to fly, won the festival's Special Grand Prize of the Jury.

Andre Techine of France won the best director prize for "Rendez-Vous."

Stewart, who celebrated his 77th birthday on Monday, won the festival's special International Trophy for his life's work.

Selleck

WASHINGTON (AP) — Linda Evans will sit this tennis tournament out — in the umpire's seat. So will Tom Selleck.

But Secretary of State George Shultz and Roscoe Tanner will bash it out against John Forsythe and Pam Shriver as President Reagan and his wife Nancy look on at a benefit at the White House tennis court on Saturday.

About 240 people have been invited to attend the tennis tournament, which seeks to raise $400,000 to help fight drug abuse through the Nancy Reagan Drug Abuse Fund, said Haida Sale, who is helping to organize the match.

"This is the first time this has been done at the White House, and I guess we're lucky that it's a cause Mrs. Reagan is so committed to," said Ms. Sale.

Eight corporations have pledged $50,000 each to fund the benefit tournament, Ms. Sale said.

NEW YORK (AP) — There was no best musical on Broadway this season, according to the New York Drama Critics' Circle. There wasn't any best foreign play either. The critics couldn't even pick best play on the first go-round, but they got a winner on the second ballot: "Ma Rainey's Black Bottom."

August Wilson, who wrote "Ma Rainey," will be honored May 28 for his drama about the effects of racism on a group of black musicians in Chicago in 1927. He took the best play prize in Monday's voting.

No play received a majority of votes during the first round of voting. Using a weighed point system in the second round, the critics gave "Ma Rainey's Black Bottom" 37 points, followed by Neil Simon's "Biloxi Blues," 29 points; "As Is," 24; "Hurlyburly," 19; "The Marriage of Bette and Boo," 9; "The Ballad of Soapy Smith," 5, and "Home Front," 3. Eighteen members of the Circle were present to vote, and two others voted in the best play category by proxy.

By a vote of 11-8, the organization decided not to give an award for best musical. By an even larger margin of 16-3, members decided not to name a best foreign play.

The Drama Critics' Circle is composed of the major drama critics on newspapers, magazines and wire services in the New York area.

WASHINGTON (AP) — French impressionist paintings chosen by the impressionists themselves — some never seen in this country before — go on show here next year to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the impresssionists' last joint exhibit in Paris.

The announcement Monday was made simultaneously on closed-circuit television in Washington and San Francisco. The show, beginning Jan. 17 in Washington, will be financed by the American Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

Mayor Dianne Feinstein of San Francisco offered to bet 12 Dungeness crabs, 12 bottles of California wine and 12 loaves of "French sourdough" bread that when the show opens in San Francisco April 19 it will draw more visitors than at the National Gallery in Washington.

"We're tired of being the little sister," she said.

J. Carter Brown, director of the National Gallery, took the bet. He offered to buy Mayor Feinstein a dinner at an expensive French restraurant in Washington if he loses.

DALY CITY, Calif. (AP) — Prescott Sullivan, who wrote about sports for San Francisco newspapers for more than half a century and provided Neil Simon with the inspiration for Oscar Madison in "The Odd Couple," died Sunday. He was 79.

Sullivan began his career as a sports writer in 1922 for the now-defunct San Francisco Bulletin. He soon moved to the San Francisco Chronicle, where he remained until 1936, when he joined the Examiner. Sullivan retired his "Low Down" column in the San Francisco Examiner in 1976 after a 54-year newspaper career.

MONROE, Mich. (AP) — Dr. Hermann Pinkus, who performed cancer research by testing skin taken from his own arm, died Monday after a long illness. He was 79.

Pinkus was a native of Germany who left for the United States before World War II and later became a long-time member of the medical faculty at Wayne State University in Detroit. He abandoned his private practice in 1951 to join the Detroit Institute of Cancer Research, where he performed experiments using skin samples taken from his own arm. He discovered that normal, multiplying skin cells are identical to cancer cells except for malignancies in the latter that continue multiplying and eventually consume normal cells. His findings were credited with advancing cancer research.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Joseph W. Bishop Jr., a Yale Law School professor who defended the Army against Sen. Joseph McCarthy' charges of communist infiltration in the 1950s, died Sunday. He was 70.

Bishop served for two years as law clerk and aide to Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson. At the Justice Department in 1950, he became special assistant to the attorney general in the Office of the Solicitor General. Bishop joined the Yale faculty in 1957 as an assistant professor and acted as general counsel for the Department of the Army in the McCarthy hearings.

'Think Midland'

This year's Celebration of the Arts, which concluded this past weekend, proved once again for any who may remain among the doubters, that Midland has more than its fair share of talented people.

The second annual event was more successful than the first and no doubt the third will be an even bigger affair. That the annual week-long celebration, topped off by the weekend festival, will become an important and major Midland event is now definite.

It is important that so many youngsters were on hand over the weekend. It is possible that for many the celebration and the exposure to art and music which they received will spark an interest that will remain with them throughout their lives.

Appreciation goes to the Midland Arts Assembly, of course, which sponsors the celebration but also to all those organizations, agencies and businesses that give it their support. Volunteers, likewise, deserve special credit for many hours in planning, preparing for and staging the activities as do all those who participated and performed.

Hopefully, the celebration, the talent displayed and the publicity generated will cause all of us to give serious thought in the future to looking first to local talent when art is needed.

From fine art to stained glass to graphics to weaving to architecture and sculpture, and all other art forms in between, talent abounds in the Tall City.

Most of us think first of local businesses and we try to support Midland and its many worthwhile activities.

We should do no less when it comes to our own artists and artisans.

More dusty years?

Fifty years ago, the Great Plains of the United States became the Dust Bowl, rendering once-fertile cropland useless and wiping out thousands of farmers. Many people alive today remember the hardships of those times and the gaunt faces of families forced to pack up their belongings and head west towards an uncertain future.

But it would be a mistake to assume that the Dust Bowl days were merely a tragic chapter in the country's distant past. Now come new warnings that the conditions that led to massive soil erosion in the 1930s are with us still — and are possibly worse. The Sierra Club reports that each year 3 billion tons of fertile topsoil blow or wash off the land, causing an estimated $2 billion in damages. Moreover, runoff from farmland, with its pesticide and fertilizer residue, is thought to be the main source of water pollution and the cause of declining fish and wildlife populations in many areas of the country.

Sierra Club leaders and their supporters in Congress argue that if the federal government does not include soil and water conservation measures in the 1985 Farm Bill, it will risk a modern Dust Bowl that will "make the 1930s disaster look like a windy picnic."

A repeat of the disaster in the Dust Bowl years is not wanted or needed by the people of this country. Soil conservation practices should be encouraged in farm bill legislation and practices which render the soil useless must be outlawed. The future depends on this result.

Another View:

Another sex study

You probably think $734,000 is a lot of money. Not to the federal government — even though it doesn't have the money and will have to borrow it.

But the U.S. Department of Justice wants to spend that much to continue a study it began 18 months ago on how children are portrayed in Playboy, Hustler and Penthouse magazines.

At a hearing the other day, two senators — Arlen Specter of Pennsylvania and Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio — called the research a waste of taxpayers' money. "Positively worthless," said Metzenbaum, a Democrat.

The 22-month study is analyzing explicit pictures and cartoons portraying children, the senators were told by Alfred S. Regnery, a Justice Department official, and Judith Reisman, the principal investigator for the research for American University.

The Justice Department's office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, headed by Regnery, is financing the research under a non-competitive award to American University. Reisman was hired by the university specifically for the project and was not previously on its staff.

Regnery called the project, which involves looking at 660 issues of the magazines, "highly worthwhile." Reisman said there was a need for research that examines "the depiction of children in sexual and non-sexual scenarios in cartoons and pictorials," broken down by "age, sex, race, religious overtones and hues."

But Metzenbaum and Specter said they still were puzzled about the purpose of the study.

Specter said he originally understood that the study would try to show the impact of portrayal of children on those who commit sex crimes against children. But Reisman said her research would only "lay the foundation" for future studies by analyzing the content.

"It doesn't seem you get much for your money if you have a content analysis and you don't see whether it causes child molestation," Specter said. "You are saying, Mr. Regnery, there has to be another study."

"Thats right," Regnery replied.

So that's where your money goes — study after study after study, fueling the fires of academe, adding to the federal deficit, and then gathering dust on somebody's shelf. Only Uncle Sam would think it profitable to spend nearly three quarters of a million dollars looking at erotic magazines.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today's Highlight in History:

On May 21, 1927, Charles Lindbergh landed his "Spirit of St. Louis" just outside Paris, completing the first solo airplane flight across the Atlantic Ocean. Lindbergh had covered a distance of more than 3,600 miles in 33½ hours.

On this date:

In 1542, Spanish explorer Hernando de Soto died while searching for gold along the Mississippi River.

In 1881, Clara Barton founded the American Red Cross.

In 1924, 14-year-old Bobby Franks was murdered by two students from the University of Chicago, Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb.

Junkets still costing taxpayers

WASHINGTON — To borrow a Washington lobbyist's apt word, members of Congress are routinely "pampered" by those whose destinies they affect.

Jack Anderson

Here are two recent examples of the toady's art — one committed by a government agency, the other planned by a business group. Both obviously hoped to win friends and influence people on Capitol Hill:

— Saratoga Soiree: On May 3, the Navy flew Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Texas, two aides and a woman Wilson described as "a girl friend" to Jacksonville, Fla. There they were joined by two friends from Texas. Then the entire party was flown to the carrier Saratoga 75 miles offshore, where they spent the night as the Navy's guests.

The overnight junket cost the Navy $4,050 for the flights between Washington and Jacksonville, calculated at $1,157 an hour. Wilson said he will reimburse the Navy $650 for his friend, a Washington lobbyist named Annelise Ilschenko.

On the day of the flight, our reporter Asghar Nowrouz tried to reach Wilson for comment, then tried again the following Tuesday. Late on Monday, according to Cmdr. Mike Cherry, Wilson called to say he would pay Ms. Ilschenko's airfare.

There was no estimate of how much it cost to shuttle the congressman's party between Jacksonville and the Saratoga in a C-21 "onboard delivery" plane, or to provide overnight accommodations for the six visitors. The Navy apparently will pick up the tab for that. The justification: Wilson was on an official "orientation" trip.

As for Ms. Ilschenko, Cherry said the Navy "was under the assumption that she was a member" of the congressman's staff. Wilson said, "I brought her along because Molly Hamilton (an aide) was by herself." The other members of the party were Jack Wheeler, another aide, and the congressman's two friends from Texas.

The Navy lavished Wilson and his party with hospitality throughout — from the pickup on Capitol Hill in a Mercury sedan for the ride to Andrews Air Force Base to the crab salad, assorted cheeses, beef sticks, white wine and soft drinks served by a crew member on the flights to Florida and back.

On board the carrier, the three unofficial guests were charged $10 apiece for dinner of seafood casserole with rice and broccoli, plus choice of eggs for breakfast the next morning.

Attempts to reach Ms. Ilschenko for comment were unsuccessful. In the presence of our reporter, Wilson called her and asked if she wanted to talk with our representative. She declined.

— Pampering and Politics: "A little pampering at Saks Fifth Avenue" is on the itinerary for political guests of the Tobacco Institute. It has offered a weekend junket to the Big Apple for staff members of congressional committees that deal with health and tax issues of concern to the cigarette industry.

The weekend will apparently be exclusive. The tobacco people have reserved just 12 seats on AMTRAK's train 288, leaving Washington at noon Friday, June 7, and 12 single rooms in the Regency Hotel at $195 a night, according to the itinerary.

After a "legislative seminar," described as a "short, informal discussion re congressional responsibilities of participants," the staffers will attend a Broadway show ("Big River") followed by a late-night dinner at 21.

The "little pampering" at Saks will come on Saturday, and on Sunday the congressional staffers will discuss legislative matters over brunch at the Tavern-on-the-Green in Central Park.

WATCH ON THE KREMLIN: Another Soviet undercover agent has defected to the United States, CIA sources tell us. He is Vladimir Ivanov, a 25-year-old KGB agent who posed as a trade official in a six-man Soviet delegation to Manila in mid-January. Young Ivanov contacted the U.S. Embassy there and was taken to a "safe house" for 48 hours of interrogation. Then he was spirited away to Munich on Lufthansa Airlines in early February.

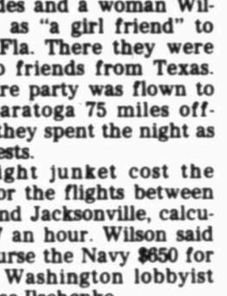

— A recent issue of Pravda, the official Soviet newspaper, gives a revealing explanation of why it is that 21 percent of a vodka factory workforce was listed as "escorts." Their job is to accompany freight carloads of vodka, and as Pravda reports disapprovingly, sometimes "an escort gets so drunk that not only the car's contents but also he himself has to be carried out." In other words, the escorts need escorts.

EVANS & NOVAK

Deficit-mania grips White House

WASHINGTON — The latest postponement of President Reagan's long-delayed tax plan, robbing his major domestic initiative of momentum, reflects why his second term is at ebb tide: Obsession over the bottom line of the federal budget has permeated the White House.

Rowland Evans

Robert Novak

Two causes are cited by senior officials for slipping the president's televised tax speech from May 20 to May 28. One is the Republican leadership request not to divert attention from the budget fight. The other is a $30 billion shortfall in estimated revenue thanks to a computer foul-up (denied at the Treasury).

Both reflect frenzy over static estimates of budget deficits. In the four months since Reagan's State of the Union message, his tone has shifted from growth to austerity. Although the delay hurts tax reform (visibly deflating the essential enthusiasm of Ways and Means Chairman Dan Rostenkowski), what it portends is more ominous.

Without seeming design, White House chief of staff Donald T. Regan has given primacy to the budget bottom line. An administration bent on Republican realignment has thus retreated to Herbert Hoover's economic policies that ushered in Democratic realignment.

Ironically, Regan's shift from Treasury to White House was originally heralded as a boon for tax reform, partly because he was counted on to promote the president's desires. But he quickly scrapped the former staff's plan to pursue tax reform on a simultaneous but separate track from the budget.

The last evidence that growth held primacy came in the Feb. 6 State of the Union, distressing deficit-minded Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole. Widely attributed to Don Regan, this emphasis, in fact, was a leftover from the departed staff of James A. Baker III. Not since has Dole had cause for unhappiness with the White House. Regan convinced the president to capitulate on Social Security and defense spending.

Even so, growth advocates at the White House were prepared to assume the offensive this week with the president's Monday night tax speech followed by a media blitz. Dole, not disguising his disdain for tax reform, pleaded to wait for the House budget vote. When House Minority Leader Bob Michel joined him, Regan acceded.

Simultaneously, according to White House aides, bureaucrats in the Treasury's tax policy division discovered a $30 billion blunder in their computerized estimate so that the tax reform showed a revenue loss instead of neutrality. Although Treasury officials angrily deny any mistake, those bureaucratic estimates unmistakably led to 11th-hour rewriting.

Like congressional budget forecasts, the Treasury estimates disregard dynamic economic effects. Still, the rewriting threatens the bill's populistic foundation by phasing over three years the doubling of the personal exemption. Worse yet, concern over the estimates has frozen the top individual rate at 35 percent, too high to benefit from maximum political support and economic impact.

Rep. Jack Kemp has pleaded personally with the president to lower the rate to at least 30 percent, but he seems eclipsed by Republican deficit mania. Kemp and Rep. Delbert Latta fought a lonely, fruitless fight for defense increases in the House Budget Committee. Other Republicans were satisified with zero growth, so Democrats went even deeper and reduced the budget.

The Hooverish mood in Republican cloakrooms is typified by Rep. Kenneth Kramer, 43, an avowed conservative from Colorado expected to be GOP Senate nominee there next year. Because of the deficit, he favors a defense freeze and fears tax reform might interfere with budget-cutting. He told us he even would raise taxes in return for spending cuts. As for the 1981 Reagan tax cut, he does not much credit it for the recovery and suggests that, without deeper budget cuts, it was a mistake.

That return to old-fashioned Republicanism might be expected, given White House silence. No word has been uttered there that more revenue was lost this year by the Federal Reserve Board's induced economic slowdown than budget-cutting possibly can gain. In the absence of presidential rhetoric extolling growth, the deficit "issue" has risen to the top of White House pollster Richard Wirthlin's hit parade. His data is used to reinforce the president's new emphasis and spread deficit frenzy.

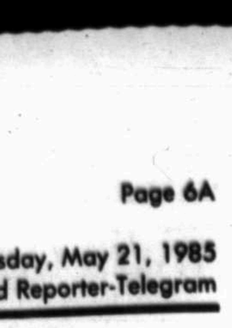

The results have been costly: breaking President Reagan's Social Security campaign pledge, abandoning serious rearmament and endangering tax reform by blunting its momentum. At this low ebb in the second term, Bob Dole is the toast of Washington, hailed as the new power on the Potomac by politicians, journalists and lobbyists who never had much use for the Reagan Revolution.

CHARLEY REESE

Exchange of ideas necessary

The issue which the intellectual continental divide in the United States is freedom. You either believe in it or you don't. If you do, then you must be willing to grant it to others and you must be willing to defend it.

Charley Reese

A university in the United States which neither values freedom nor has the courage to defend it is an abomination. People who are unable or unwilling to distinguish between political activism in the democratic tradition and political activism in the totalitarian tradition deserve contempt.

The difference is so plain that even college faculty members can understand it. The democratic activist grants to others the rights he claims for himself. The totalitarian activist denies others the rights he claims.

Disrupting a speech or driving a speaker off the campus with threats or seizing property and denying others their rightful use of it are the tactics of the Nazi, the Communist, the Klansman, and the Fascist. No cause can purify them. No citizen of a free republic can condone them or excuse them.

David Brock, in an article for "Public Policy" magazine, compiled a list of examples where totalitarian leftists were allowed to rout the right of free speech from American campuses.

Those prevented from speaking include Mrs. Jeane Kirkpatrick, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations; Eldredge Cleaver, former Black Panther who is now pro-Christian and pro-capitalism; Duane Gish, a creationist; Dr. Henry Kissinger, former secretary of state; Al Haig, former secretary of state; the late Rep. Larry McDonald, D-Ga.; Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger; former Sandinista Eden Pastora; and the Salvadoran Ambassador to the United States.

The campuses on which these abuses of human rights occurred include the University of California at Berkeley, Harvard University, American University, Georgetown University, University of Massachusetts, State University of New York at Albany, Barnard College, and Smith College.

As you can see, these are what you would describe as liberal institutions. Do they really deserve the description of liberal when leftist goons are allowed to silence distinguished Americans? Do they deserve public support when they fail to punish thugs who make a mockery of the concept of academic freedom?

In many cases these little storm troopers are egged on by totalitarian-minded faculty. Indeed, in the case of Duane Gish, he was driven off the stage by a combination of students and faculty who apparently believe that man forfeits his First Amendment rights if he dares challenge the theory of evolution.

In many nations, universities are nothing more than totalitarian cesspools the principle product of which are terrorists and revolutionaries.

Few worse things could happen to America than to allow our colleges and universities to become the private property of the political left's totalitarians.

Everything I am saying on this subject applies to any rightist or conservative who thinks one idea justifies denial of another's rights. It is not an issue of left or right — it's an issue of freedom or non-freedom.

We can do something about this. If we are alumni of an institution, we can let that institution know that we expect it to uphold strenuously the Bill of Rights and that under no circumstances will we support an administration which refuses to do this.

We can make it clear to our state officials that as taxpayers we do not intend to fund centers for the destruction of democracy wrapped in academic robes.

We can make it clear to faculty that their academic freedom is dependent on their support for the freedom of others and that we will not tolerate the preaching of SS tactics and values under the guise of political activism.

Let people argue whatever cause or ideology they wish in a democratic manner. No free citizen fears an idea. But let us draw the line at the use of force to achieve political aims and to silence or intimidate opponents.

God knows if all Americans can't agree on that we're done for.

STATE IN BRIEF

House OKs law allowing prosecution in spousal rape

AUSTIN (AP) — The House gave quick, preliminary approval Monday to a measure that would allow rape prosecution in cases where the victim is married to the attacker.

State law now says a husband cannot be prosecuted for raping his wife.

Rep. Debra Danburg, D-Houston, won 75-26 approval for the bill after offering a brief explanation. There was no debate. The measure faces another House vote before going to the Senate.

In 1983, Ms. Danburg tried to amend another bill to allow prosecution in spousal rape. It failed 70-68.

'Lucas amendment' OK'd

AUSTIN — The House gave preliminary approval Monday to the "Henry Lee Lucas amendment" aimed at making sure the state's crime victims' fund would get money from any book or movie involving a convict.

Rep. Charles Finnell, D-Holliday, won tentative voice vote approval for the measure that would require the Industrial Accident Board, which administers the victims' fund, to review book or movie contracts with convicts.

Lucas, a self-professed mass murderer, was arrested in Finnell's district in 1983. Several books are in the works concerning Lucas. Finnell called his measure the "Henry Lee Lucas amendment."

Oyster shipments stopped

BEAUMONT (AP) — A crackdown on tainted oyster shipments from Louisiana has spread to the highways of Texas, authorities said.

On Monday, trucks suspected of hauling contaminated, improperly tagged oysters were stopped and searched by authorities along Interstate 10 on the Texas-Louisiana border.

David Weatherly, of the National Marine Fisheries Service, said federal investigators began confiscating oysters following reports of illegal harvesting from a restricted area in Louisiana and illegal transport of the catch into Mississippi.

Charles Scarbrough, supervising investigator in the Food and Drug Administration's New Orleans office, said state laws require shellfish to be refrigerated within four hours of the harvesting vessel's docking. State laws also require oysters to be identified by a Department of Wildlife tag.

Ingestion of contaminated oysters can cause cholera, hepatitis, typhoid and botulism, officials said.

Ex-TI employees probed

DALLAS (AP) — Former Texas Instruments employees are under investigation in connection with the theft of more than $20 million worth of trade secrets from their former employer, it was reported today.

The Dallas Times Herald, quoting unnamed sources, said the investigation led to a 26-hour search last week at a north Dallas company, where computer programs and documents allegedly belonging to Texas Instruments were seized.

The Dallas County district attorney's office will forward information gleaned in the raid to a grand jury, which will consider criminal indictments against at least three employees alleging they stole trade secrets, the unnamed sources told the newspaper.

Sources said the investigation began after a confidential informant notified TI about a possible theft. TI officials contacted District Attorney Henry Wade, who ordered his special crime unit to investigate.

Judge: Motion filed late

HOUSTON (AP) — State District Judge I.D. McMaster says he won't rule on a defense attorney's motion for a new murder trial for David Port because the lawyer filed the request too late.

"He's out of time," McMaster said of attorney Jack Zimmermann's motion, which contends McMaster may not have been qualified as a judge to hear the March trial.

District Attorney John B. Holmes Jr. filed a lawsuit May 10 seeking McMaster's removal, alleging the judge lives in Galveston County and not in Harris County. State law requires a judge to live in his jurisdiction.

Port, 18, was convicted March 15 in the June 7, 1984, shooting death of mail carrier Debora Sue Schatz. Under state law, a request for a new trial must be filed within 30 days. But Zimmermann contends the question of McMaster's authority did not arise until the 30-day period had ended.

'Test-tube' baby born

GARLAND (AP) — The first "test-tube" baby conceived through in vitro fertilization at a Dallas-area clinic and carried to full term has been born under the glare of television camera lights and the watchful eye of his father.

Eight-pound, 5-ounce Victor Newman Barham was delivered by Caesarean section at 12:38 p.m. Monday at Memorial Hospital, fulfulling the dream of parents Ray and Darlene Barham, who had tried for nine years to have a child.

Mrs. Barham became pregnant last September after her second embryo implantation by Dr. W.F. Howard, director of North Texas' first in vitro clinic at Trinity Medical Center in Carrollton.

"He's so pretty," Mrs. Barham said. "I didn't think it would ever happen."

Plane's two tires blow out

HOUSTON (AP) — Passengers were forced to disembark a Continental Airlines DC-9 after two of the plane's tires blew out, but no one was injured, a spokesman for the carrier says.

The two left gear tires on the aircraft, which had carried 104 passengers from Corpus Christi, blew out after the plane landed on a taxiway Monday at Houston Intercontinental Airport, said Continental spokesman Mike Cinelli.

Buses took the passengers to the terminal, he said.

The runway had to be closed for about an hour while crews cleaned up pieces of tire, officials said. The plane sustained no apparent damage, Cinelli said.

Panel votes to expand state's right-to-die law

AUSTIN (AP) — A Senate committee has voted to expand Texas' right-to-die law despite one senator's objections that "you're taking God's role and putting it in the hands of people."

A 9-4 vote sent the proposal, with one committee amendment, to the full Senate.

House sponsor Bob Bush told the State Affairs Committee on Monday that "people like myself who are not afraid of death" should be allowed to let relatives or friends cut off their life-sustaining machines.

Current state law, passed in 1977, allows removal of life-support systems only if a patient has previously directed in writing that such systems not be used to prolong life.

Bush's bill, sponsored in the Senate by Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, would allow certain relatives to make the decision to cut off life-prolonging equipment. The bill also would allow a patient to make a statement about his wishes verbally rather than in writing.

Bush, D-Sherman, described an incident in which a man "died" twice but he was placed on a machine to sustain his life. Then he had a pacemaker installed, only to die a third time.

"That type of technology is frightening," Bush testified.

His bill was supported by the Texas Medical Association and Texas Hospital Association.

Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas, said the proposal could "put man in place of God, and with a snap of your fingers, all of us could be gone."

Bush responded that the bill would "allow what the patient and family thinks to be paramount."

Albert Moraczewski, a Catholic priest from Houston, said he was concerned that bill would lead to "mercy-killings."

He said the definition of terminally ill is "too fuzzy," because a terminally illness can last for years.

Joseph Boyle, a college philosophy teacher representing Life Advocates of Houston, said he agreed "with the spirit" of Bush's bill but it has been dealt with too quickly.

"It would be in the public interest to think more about this legislation," Boyle said.

He also contended that the bill "is virtually toothless if the physician doesn't want to cooperate."

Also appearing against the bill was Bill Price of the Greater Dallas Right to Life Committee, who said he had laryngitis and only registered his opposition without comments.

Thunderstorms likely through Wednesday

From Staff and Wire Reports

Possibly severe thunderstorms may rain on the Midland area through Wednesday as the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport calls for a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms tonight, some possibly severe and a low in the upper 50s. Chances of rain is decreasing Wednesday to a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms, a few possibly severe in the afternoon and a high near 80. Tonight's winds from the east at five to 15 mph will continue through Wednesday.

Monday's high of 91 was nine degrees below the record in 1939. This morning's low was five degrees above the 1967 record of 49.

STATE

At least five twisters, baseball-sized hail, flooding and furious lightning accompanied a vast line of thunderstorms that were still rumbling across East Texas this morning.

An Ennis Chevrolet dealership and about four other business were damaged when a possible tornado swept through that Ellis County city at about 2:30 this morning, county sheriff's department spokeswoman Lisa Pierce said.

"Nobody was injured, though, and the damage wasn't bad," she said. The damage was estimated at less than $100,000.

Tornado and flash flood watches were posted throughout the area for much of the early morning, and severe thunderstorms watches were still up for East and Southeast Texas through 8 a.m.

Most of the thunderstorm activity had moved into the Eastern and South Central sections of the state, including the middle coast. Elsewhere in the state, skies were mostly cloudy, except for fair skies in the far west and along parts of the lower Rio Grande Valley.

The thunderstorms were expected to abate briefly before resuming this afternoon, with the possibility of more severe weather tonight, the National Weather Service said.

Two tornado sightings were confirmed in Lamar County near Direct, but like two funnels spotted near Paris and one near Big Spring, none caused any damage or injuries, Lamar County Sheriff's Department spokesman Harry Mitchell said.

Nacogdoches authorities said a tornado was reported to have ripped the tips off several trees and downed some power lines before retreating into the sky after 6:30 a.m. without causing any injuries.

NATION

Thunderstorms rumbled across the Southwest and through the nation's midsection today after setting off lightning that killed one man and injured five others in Missouri and spawning tornadoes, hail and heavy rain.

Rebels ready to continue 'New Tradition'

Drive for district title begins anew in '85

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

Midland Lee's "New Tradition" Rebels, coming off back-to-back playoff seasons for the first time in the school's history and carrying a 25-5 record over that span, will show what they have to offer for the 1985 football season at 7:30 p.m. today in Memorial Stadium's annual Maroon-White spring scrimmage game.

Lee coach Jack Tayrien will use the same format as the Rebels have used the last three years, sending the No. 1 offense and defense against the No. 2 units.

"We'll give the White team (the No. 2 units) seven points per quarter. That means the Maroons will have to score at least five times to win. It'll be a tough chore. The number twos have won all three times under this type of format," said Tayrien.

LEE

THE SPRING game marks the end of the spring training grind at Lee, and Tayrien has been pleased overall with the progress he has seen.

"We had a pretty good spring. I know we worked awful hard and the kids had an exceptional attitude," he noted. "You always would like to be better at this time, but we got some things accomplished. We've still got a long way to go."

The Lee freshmen will stage a short controlled scrimmage at 6 p.m. then the varsity will take over. Admission for the spring game is $2 per person.

"I would like to see us do a good job defensively and eliminate the long run," said Tayrien. "Offensively, I would hope to see at least good fundamental play because that's what we've worked on most. The execution might be lacking because that's the area we've worked on the least."

TAYRIEN SAYS that Lee's success the past two years has a lot of carryover effect, "This is the fourth year we've run the same offense and the kids are familiar with the system. You don't have to start from scratch. Since we've been successful, the kids also have confidence with what we are trying to do.

"That doesn't mean that the kids can do everything we want at this point, but at least they aren't strangers to what we want."

The following is a breakdown of offensive and defensive areas, heading into tonight's Maroon-White game:

Quarterbacks: Senior Tuey Rankin played some last year and appears to be the starter. Baseball forced Rankin to miss a great deal of the spring workouts, giving Rodney Johnson a chance to show his skills. Tayrien has been pleased with progress in this area.

Running Backs: Lee entered the spring listing this area as a concern and still considers this to be an area where improvement is needed. However, Lee is not without some weapons. Halfback Rodney Sims has looked impressive as has halfbacks Kirk Thurman, Eric Lacy and Howard Sanders. Sophomores Joe Woodard, Darren Jenkins and Dennis Sterling have been given a hard look. Tommy Wood and Novert Morales head a fullback corps that includes Terry Stewart and Tony Rice. There are no returning starters.

Offensive Line: Noted as the strong point of the offense where seven returning starters can be found. Center Wade Wiesepape, guards Jake Young and Ricky Lee, tackle Mike Little, split end Dexter Traylor and tight ends Anthony Dickens and David Almand all return from starting roles from last year. They are still known as the "Piglets," but they are proven veterans despite lack of size. The newcomer expected to crack into the lineup is tackle Paul Sharrick, who has had a good spring.

Defensive Line: This is an area that will be watched closely tonight because there is not much experience to call on. The most progress has been at defensive end with Don Forsythe, Mark Breeding, Todd Sparks and Jeff McHugh. The tackle slots need more work and is raw also, but Eddie Mancha, Curtis Wiley, a transfer from Raton, N.M.; Chris Alexander and Chad Bullard, who suffered a broken ankle this spring, head the list.

Linebackers: This too was a key area of concern heading into spring drills, but a lot of progress has been made. Linebacker coach Earl Miller thinks, "We may be ahead of where we were at this point last year, but we still need a lot of improvement." Middle backer Tony Brown, who started as a down lineman last year, heads the group. Jay Roach has some experience while Rodney Roderick, Ronald Pertile and Carlos Pena have looked good.

Halos hope home stand can spark turnaround

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

The Midland Angels have a month left in which to make up 6½ games. That's the bad news. The good news is that the Haloed Ones will play 22 of their final 28 games in the Texas League first half West Division race at home, starting tonight with the Tulsa Drillers.

Midland has just finished a stretch in which they played 22 of 27 games away from home. The plan was to stay close until the Angels returned to Angel Stadium.

Midland left for the recent 10-game swing through the East only three games out. It was the final three games that foiled those best-laid-plans. Midland lost the final three games in Shreveport, the last 3-2 in 11 innings. That sent Midland back to West Texas with a 4-6 record for the trip.

Four of those losses were by one run.

MIDLAND NUDGED East Division leader 3-2 in the series at Tulsa. Clyde Reichard, 6-1, leads the Drillers pitching staff out of the bullpen. His four saves gives him the lead in TL relief point standings with 19.

Oscar Meja, .379, Willie Darkis, .309, Bob Gergen, .342, and Barry Brunenkant, .300, are the high average hitters while Darkis, four homers, and Jeff Mace, five, supply the pop. Mace had 17 rbi, according to the most recent official averages, and Darkis 14.

Midland has played the last 15 games without the services of left-handed starter Bob Kipper, sent to Midland from the parent California Angels. As a result, Manager Joe Maddon has had to press Fred Wilburn into the starting rotation, where he has turned in two creditable efforts.

Either Don Timberlake, 2-4, or Wilborn, 1-1, will start tonight's series opener with the Drillers....Just three Midland pitchers have gone the distance this year, Ken Angulo, Bryan Price and Timberlake...

There weren't too many hot bats on the road trip, but it's nothing a return to the friendly breezes of West Texas won't help cure. Before leaving, Midland had scored 44 runs in five games against San Antonio and still lost the series, 3-2.

Tonight's game is Baseball Bingo Night and Big Spring Community Night. Wednesday's game is Knothole Gang Night....

HALO HOOPS—Julian Gonzalez with four wins and two saves is the Angels top reliever with 10 points...Randy Bockus, Shreveport, and Juan Nieves, El Paso, were named co-pitchers in the TL for the week of May 6-12...Both threw nine-inning, three-hit shutouts against Beaumont...TL Player of the Week was Dave Klipstein, El Paso, who hit .440 in extended his batting streak to 15 games...Beaumont sent first baseman Jim Thomas to AAA Las Vegas and pitcher Ted Kockenmeister to Class A Reno...Tulsa leads the league in turning double plays with 40. Owners ask NBA-style salary cap

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball club owners proposed on Monday as part of their contract offer a plan to limit salaries for free agents and other players who move from one team to another.

Their chief negotiator, Lee MacPhail, described the proposal "as a means of bringing order out of financial chaos." But union chief Don Fehr said that at first glance it appeared to be "a step backward of the most enormous magnitude because it would do away with free agency in baseball as we know it."

MacPhail said the payroll plan is "patterned after the NBA's salary cap," and called it the most significant proposal made thus far in the sporadic contract talks. He said it would not affect the salaries of players already on the 40-man rosters, but would limit what teams could spend on others subsequently acquired.

It also offered to do away with the free agent re-entry draft, with which the players have grown disenchanted, and to eliminate professional players as compensation to teams which lose high-ranking free agents, a major issue in the 50-day strike in 1981.

"Our objective is by slowing that increase to allow baseball revenues to catch up with our costs and put baseball back somewhere in a break-even position where the clubs could stand financially on their own two feet," MacPhail said of the plan.

The owners, who have maintained during contract talks that the sport is having severe economic problems, last week gave the players association data which showed an aggregate loss last year of $36 million dollars, with 24 teams reporting. MacPhail said that when the two remaining clubs report the figure could go as high as $42 million.

MACPHAIL, PRESIDENT of the owners' Player Relations Committee, explained the plan by saying: "We would figure an average payroll for clubs based on 1985 player compensation. And the clubs' own payroll in relation to average payroll level would determine what they could and could not do" in regard to signing other players.

"Generally speaking, there would be no limit on what the clubs can do with their own players, regardless of where they were with respect to the average player level.

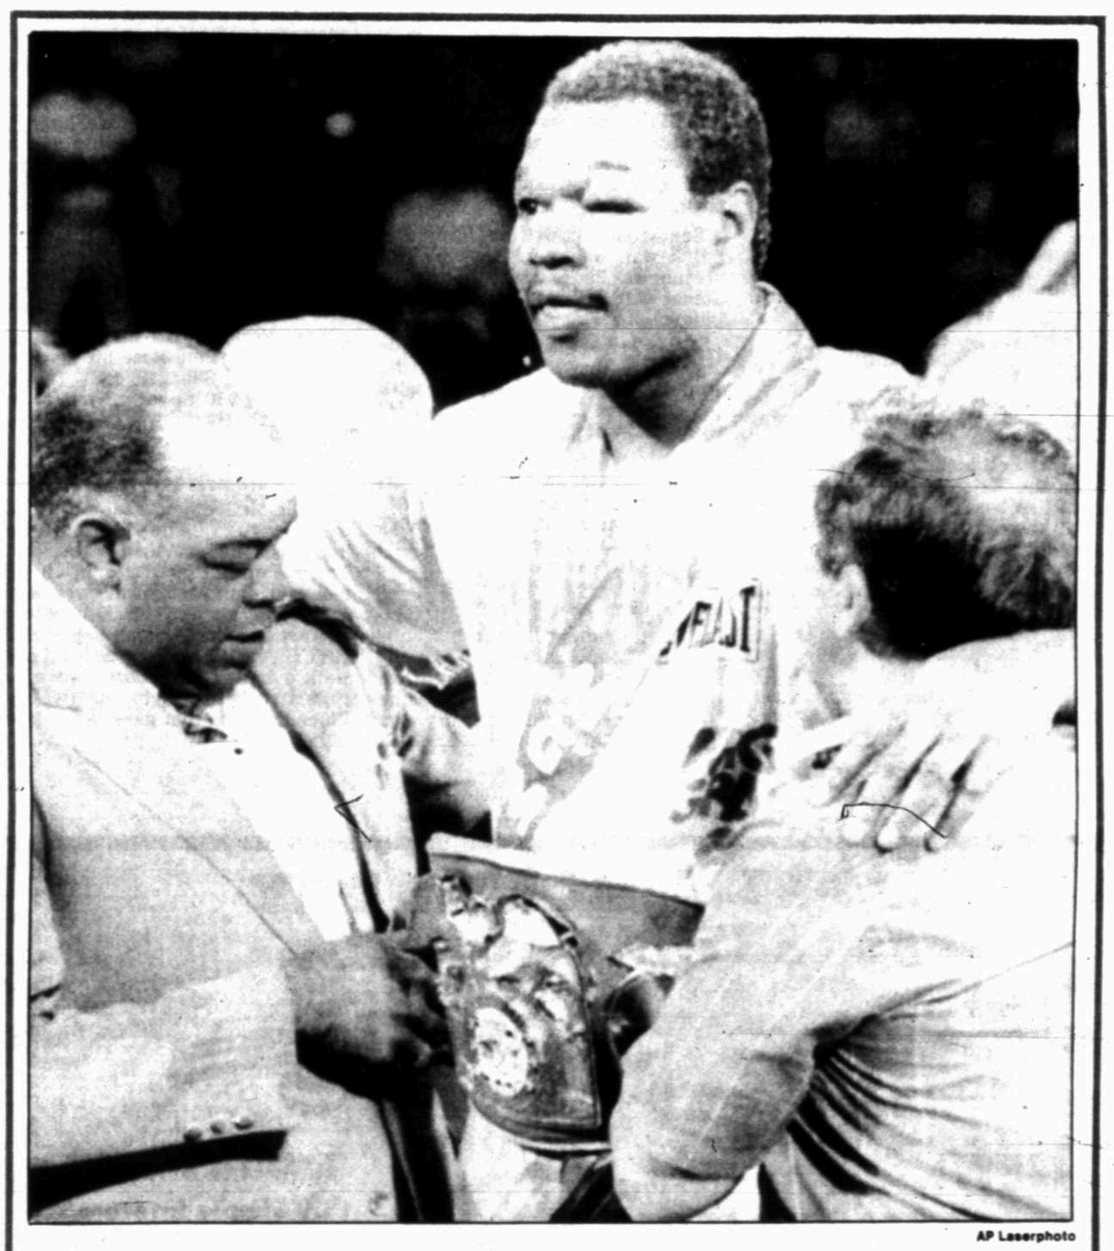

"As far as players not on the 40-man roster, they (the clubs) would be able to go up only to the limit of the level," MacPhail said.

MacPhail said when the plan went into effect, "clubs well above the level would be given a grace period — some time to get down — or they could stay where they are. There is no prohibition to remain above the average payroll level but there would be restrictions on what they could do about acquiring players not on their 40-man payroll."

Fehr said the owners' proposals did not contain "enough specifics to really come to grips with. But, for the first time, they've at least said something in bargaining. The problem is what they've said."

He said his first impression was that,"it would functionally do away with the right of a baseball player to seek a market value level for his services."

FEHR SAID Monday's proposals would be presented to the union's executive committee at a meeting in Chicago Thursday where player representatives are expected to vote to request strike authorization from the players.

Battered, but not beaten, heavyweight Larry Holmes wears the championship belt of the International Boxing Federation after decisioning Carl "The Truth" Williams Monday night.

Holmes hears 'The Truth,' but is anybody listening?

Copley News Service

RENO, Nev. — Larry Holmes got a double dose of "The Truth" Monday night and discovered it hurts.

Holmes took a beating both physically and mentally while scoring a 15-round unanimous decision over little-known and lightly-regarded Carl "The Truth" Williams at the Lawlor Sports Center.

Afterwards, Holmes ducked the the post-fight press conference for the seclusion of his hotel room, possibly to ponder the loser's synopsis of the stunning events.

"I was out-jabbing Larry, beating him at his own game," said Williams. "I think Larry won the fight, but I think it was close...too close for Larry.

"I think it is time for Holmes to pack it in."

Holmes' trainer Eddie Futch said the champion was advised by doctors to pass on the post-fight new conference.

"Larry has contusions around his eyes," said Futch. "He has never been hit as many times in a fight as he was tonight."

WILLIAMS' LEFT jab — quicker on this occasion than Holmes' famed jab — closed Holmes' left eye by the fight's end and had split Holmes lower lip. That was more physical damage than Holmes had ever suffered in one match.

Mentally, the scar might be deeper.

In the ring immediately after the fight, Holmes said he would return home to Easton, Pa., to contemplate his attack on Rocky Marciano's record of being the only heavyweight champion to retire undefeated.

Marciano was 49-0. Holmes is now 48-0. But time is against the 35-year-old champ. And the success of Williams raises anew the questions about Holmes' slipping ability after strong showings in his two most recent fights — knockouts over James "Bonecrusher" Smith and David Bey.

Holmes dismissed his showing to "taking this fight on only three weeks notice."

"No more crash programs," he said. "I am going to have to think about how I'm going to do this.

"Williams was really game. He had great heart. He was a very strong young man."

STRONG AND quick. And disappointed at the one-sidedness of the decision.

Judges Paul Gibbs of Seattle and Al Rothenberg of Virginia Beach, Va., saw the fight the same, scoring it 146-139 for Holmes. Both gave Williams the second, sixth, 10th and 11th rounds.

Judge Jerry Roth of Las Vegas scored it 143-142 for Holmes. In addition to agreeing with the other two judges on the four rounds, Roth gave the challenger the third, fourth and fifth rounds.

"I think he won the fight," Williams said again. "Holmes is a great champion. But I don't think he did enough to get a unanimous decision. I think I could have had a draw."

All three judges gave Holmes the last four rounds — rounds that could have given Williams the International Boxing Federation title had he carried them.

Going into those four rounds, many observers felt Williams had enough to pull it off.

"The Larry Holmes that defeated Ken Norton for the title seven years ago was not the same man in the ring tonight," said referee Mills Lane, who was working his sixth Holmes fight.

Perhaps Holmes biggest miscalculation was fighting Williams at all.

AFTER KNOCKING out Bey in the 10th last March 15, Holmes vowed he would never again fight "a big heavyweight." His idea of an opponent was world light heavyweight champ Michael Spinks.

But when a proposed Spinks-Holmes bout fell through, Holmes accepted $2.3 million from NBC to fight the 6-foot-4, 215-pound Williams, who had a 16-0 record.

As soon as the opening round, Holmes could see he was in for a test. Williams routinely got his left jab over the champ's defense and onto Holmes' left eye.

Holmes, meantime, had problems getting his right over Williams' jab while the challenger was beating him to the punch.

Holmes did draw first blood in the third, cutting the corner above Williams' left eye with a jab.

"He showed me how much he knows right there," said Williams. "He actually jabbed past my head and cut my eye with his laces."

Several times during the fight Lane warned both fighters about using open gloves, both times looking more towards Holmes, who has a reputation among opponents for thumbing. Williams said he was thumbed twice, "unintentionally."

Valentine homecoming a hit, 8-7

Associated Press

ARLINGTON — The Bobby Valentine-led Texas Rangers opened at home to rave reviews as they gave their new manager a win that matched their best comeback ever.

The beleaguered Rangers had to overcome a 7-0 deficit before their stunning 8-7 victory over the Kansas City Royals Monday night in American League baseball action.

"That's great," Valentine said of matching the come-back record the Rangers set April 10, 1983, when they rallied from 7-0 to beat Boston 9-7. "Maybe we'll break it before the year's over."

The Rangers capped the comeback when Curtis Wilkerson scored the winning run with one out in the ninth on a wild pitch by Kansas City reliever Joe Beckwith, 1-2.

"There probably couldn't have been a more exciting way to win," Valentine said. "I can think of some better ways, but we'll take it."

Wilkerson led off the ninth with a single and advanced to second on catcher Jim Sundberg's passed ball. Rookie centerfielder Oddibe McDowell sacrificed him to third, and the Royals intentionally walked Toby Harrah and Buddy Bell to get to a slumping Larry Parrish.

Beckwith's first pitch sailed over Parrish's head to the screen, allowing Wilkerson to score the winning run and making a winner of Dave Schmidt, 2-2, the third Ranger pitcher.

Trailing 7-0, the Rangers got on the board in the bottom of the fifth on Gary Ward's solo homer to center, his third of the year.

Texas tied the game with a six-run sixth. McDowell popped up but wound up on second when Concepcion misplayed the ball. Harrah singled him to third and he scored on Bell's single to center.

After Parrish fouled out to third, Ward doubled, scoring Harrah. Cliff Johnson followed with a single to score Harrah and Ward, and Pete O'Brien hit his fourth homer of the year, a line drive over the right field fence, to tie the game.

AL Roundup

Twins 5, Red Sox 2

Clint Wardle notched his first major-league save by stopping a bases-loaded, no-out ninth inning Boston rally as Minnesota beat the Red Sox.

The rookie reliever was summoned after the Red Sox loaded the bases with none out in the ninth inning against Ron Davis.

Wardle retired pinch-hitter Reid Nichols on a short fly ball, and then struck out Wade Boggs and Dwight Evans to end the game in Minnesota.

The Twins scored in the third inning on a double by Greg Gagne and a single by Mickey Hatcher before knocking out Al Nipper, 1-3, with four runs in the sixth.

Blue Jays 6, White Sox 1

Jimmy Key pitched a four-hitter in his first complete game in the major leagues to please a Victoria Day holiday crowd of 44,715 in Toronto. It was the second-largest crowd in the Blue Jays' nine-year history.

Key, 3-2, held Chicago to Greg Walker's sixth home run of the season, a two-out shot in the sixth.

Jesse Barfield drove in three runs, two with a home run in the second. The homer came soon after Tom Seaver, 4-2, made an error on what should have been the third out of the inning.

Seaver dropped Walker's toss at first on a grounder by Len Matuszek, and Ernie Whitt followed with an RBI double. That set up Barfield's homer.

Angels 7, Tigers 2

Bobby Grich and Bob Boone drove in two runs apiece with two singles to help California break out of its recent hitting slump.

The Angels, batting just .217 in their previous 15 games, rapped out 10 hits against Detroit starter Walt Terrell, 4-1, and reliever Juan Berenguer.

Ron Romanick, 5-1, gave up seven hits for the victory. He allowed only one runner past first base until Mike Laga hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning.

The only bad news for the host Angels came when Reggie Jackson suffered a strained left hamstring while running out a single in the second inning. Jackson's availability will be on a day-to-day basis, the team said.

Hoyt unhooked, blanks Mets 2-0

Associated Press

The New York Mets got a refresher course on the well-known dangers of letting a pitcher off the hook, courtesy of LaMarr Hoyt.

Three batters into the bottom of the first inning Monday, the Mets had a double, a single, a stolen base, and a walk off Hoyt. They had the bases loaded and nobody out, they had Gary Carter up with a 3-0 count, and they had Greg Booker warming up in the Padres bullpen.

A couple of hours later, LaMarr Hoyt was retiring the Mets in the ninth, wrapping up a four-hit shutout that beat New York 2-0.

What happened?

After falling behind 3-0, Hoyt got Carter to swing at ball four — "a cut fastball low," said Hoyt — and ground a comebacker that Hoyt turned into a 1-2-3 double play. George Foster then flied out to left. And the Mets had only one runner past first base after that.

"I knew that once the burden of that inning had been lifted, I'd be all right," said Hoyt. "But I'll tell you one thing, I was on pins and needles until it was over."

Hoyt, 3-4, retired 15 of the last 16 batters he faced and gave up only two walks.

Gooden, with nine strikeouts, took the major-league lead with 66 and gave up nine hits.

NL Roundup

Expos 9, Dodgers 1

Dan Schatzeder had a two-run homer to go with his seven-hitter and Hubie Brooks hit a three-run double. Schatzeder hit his third career homer and his first since 1979. Brooks' hit capped a four-run fifth.

Schatzeder struck out four and didn't walk a batter. The only run off him was Pedro Guerrero's fourth homer with two away in the fourth inning.

After the game, the Expos announced that Steve Rogers, who won 158 games in 12 seasons with the club, was placed on waivers for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release.

Montreal General Manager Murray Cook said Rogers, a five-time All-Star, no longer fits into the team's pitching plans. Rogers was 2-4 with a 5.68 ERA this year.

Pirates 3, Astros 1

Rick Rhoden scattered four hits over six innings and delivered a key single in a two-run Pittsburgh fifth inning. Rhoden, 3-4, left the game with tightness in his pitching arm and Al Holland finished up with three scoreless innings to record his third save. Holland has allowed only one run in 21 innings since being traded by Philadelphia to the Pirates last month.

Cubs 6, Reds 1

Davey Lopes and Steve Lake, a couple of reserves making starts each drove in two runs, snapping Cincinnati's five-game winning streak. Lopes had a sacrifice fly and two singles while Lake singled in two runs in a three-run sixth. Scott Sanderson, 3-1, allowed five hits in his first complete game of the season.

Sanderson lost his shutout in the fourth when Pete Rose hit his first homer since Sept. 18, 1982. It was also Rose's 2,107th run scored, tying him with Hank Aaron for the National League record.

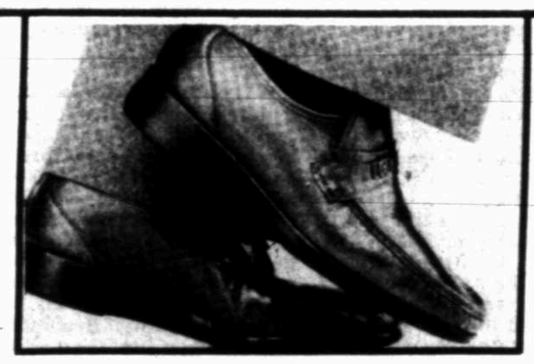

Cardinals 14, Braves 0

Willie McGee homered and drove in five runs, Andy Van Slyke homered and drove in three, and Terry Pendleton drove in three more. Joaquin Andujar allowed only six singles, pitching his 17th career shutout and third complete game of 1985. He struck out four and did not walk a batter. The Cardinals also stole five bases, including two by Vince Coleman that gave the rookie 28 in 27 games.

Phillies 2, Giants 1

Steve Carlton scattered five hits over seven innings for his first victory of the season. Carlton, 1-3, who is in second place on baseball's all-time strikeout list, struck out four and walked one. He now has 3897 career strikeouts, trailing Nolan Ryan, who has 3929.

Steve Jeltz's single broke a seventh-inning tie, scoring Glenn Wilson, who had doubled. Kent Tekulve pitched the final two innings to gain his first save.

KEEPING AMERICA ON THE GROW

Eddie Albert: Actor, Conservationist
America is number one in agriculture because of a simple idea.
In the past, we invested in our young people. Today, they lead the world in agriculture.
Programs teaching production, horticulture, processing, sales and service, natural resources, forestry and agri-mechanics are essential.
Through such educational programs, young people learn to use the modern technology of agriculture to feed our nation and the world.
We have to keep America on the grow. We have to invest in the people and technology that ensures our world leadership in agriculture.
That's why your support of vocational and technical education in agriculture, and the Future Farmers of America in your community, is so important.
Future Farmers of America
Together, we're Keeping America on the Grow.

REBELS

Secondary: This could be the strength of the defense because of the experience factor. Cornerback Kevin Witt and halfback Terry Young were starters last year. Cornerback Tracy Mayfield and halfbacks Steve Rowland and Chris Kenney all saw action last year. Kenney is injured and not expected to play tonight.

Tayrien said that 97 juniors and seniors participated in spring drills and 62 freshmen for a total of 159, up from the 148 of last year.

TREASURY BILLS

Yields fall

Yields on short-term Treasury securities fell dramatically in Monday's auctions, hitting their lowest levels in almost five years.

The Treasury Department sold $7 billion in three-month bills at an average discount rate of 7.28 percent while another $7 billion was sold in six-month bills at an average rate of 7.43 percent.

The rates were the lowest since June 23, 1980, when three-month bills sold for 7.08 percent and six-month bills averaged 7.11 percent.

MONEY

Dollar up

LONDON (AP) — The dollar rebounded on foreign exchange markets early today in lackluster trading. Gold prices fell.

The dollar opened higher against all major currencies, recouping some of the ground lost in Monday's steep decline in Europe. Demand for dollars had picked up in New York late Monday despite a fall in U.S. interest rates.

European dealers said today's trading was dominated by investment position adjustments prior to the scheduled release later in the day of revised U.S. first-quarter gross national product figures.

Midmorning dollar rates compared with levels in Europe late Monday included:

—3.0490 West German marks, up from 3.0310.

—2.5695 Swiss francs, up from 2.5495.

—9.3050 French francs, up from 9.2400.

—3.44675 Dutch guilders, up from 3.4205.

—1,956.50 Italian lire, up from 1,940.50.

—1.3685 Canadian dollars, up from 1.3675.

The value of the British pound fell to $1.2795 from $1.2863.

The dollar closed at 250.15 yen in Tokyo, up from 249.45 yen. Later in London, the dollar was quoted at 249.975 yen.

Gold bullion prices fell in response to the dollar's opening strength.

London's five biggest bullion houses fixed a midmorning gold price of $316.50 an ounce, down from $321 late Monday.

In Zurich, gold was bid at $315.80, down from $322.25.

Earlier in Hong Kong, the metal lost $7.31 to close at a bid of $317.45.

Gold was quoted at $313 dollars in New York late Monday.

Silver was bid at $6.22 an ounce in London early today, down from $6.51.

Cost of living down in April

By SUSAN LINDSAY
Business-Oil Writer

Midland's cost of living declined by 0.5 percent during April, after showing an increase for the two previous months, while Odessa's cost of living in Odessa rose for the third consecutive month with an increase of 0.5 percent, according to figures released by ClayDesta National Bank today.

"Increases measured for utilities, housing and food, both away from and at home, were offset by decreases for transportation, clothing and medical costs in Midland," said David Jones, president and chief executive officer at the bank.

This is the third month the bank has prepared its Midland/Odessa Cost-of-Living Index. The annualized rate of growth, based on information obtained from the index, shows that Midland has grown 1.4 percent during that time period, Jones said. Odessa has grown 8.65 percent.

"It will be September or October before we have enough information to have meaningful conclusions. But, I think we'll see Midland settling in at a higher growth and Odessa stabilizing to a lower rate."

During the month of April, Midland's transportation costs showed a dramatic decline when it dropped 6.5 percent after a two month upward trend. "Although gas prices increased by 2.3 percent, auto maintenance costs fell by 9.9 percent," said Jones. Transportation also showed an increase of 0.8 percent in Odessa for April.

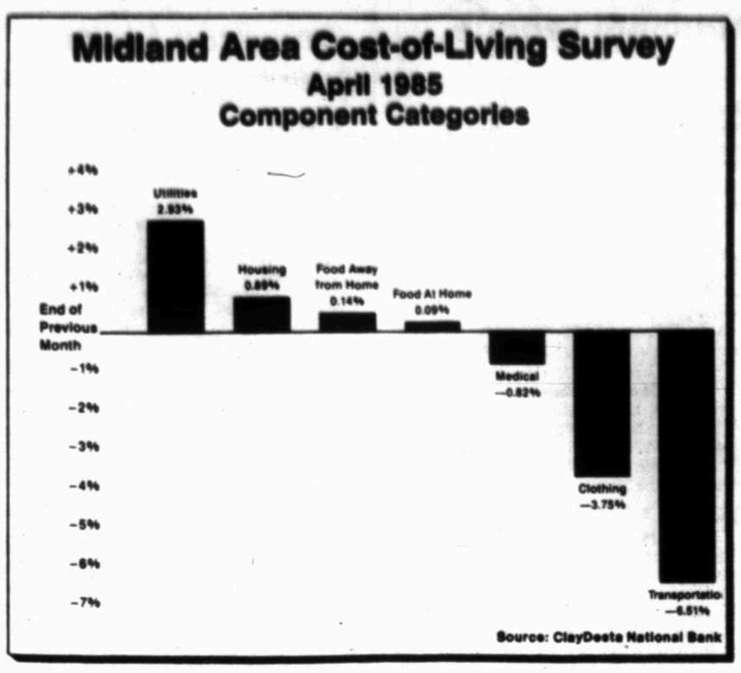

Clothing prices also fell in Midland by 3.8 percent during April. Lower prices for women's and men's apparel were offset by higher upkeep costs. In Odessa, clothing prices decreased by 2.1 percent in April.

Medical expenses were down 0.8 percent in Midland this month. Dental and medical care were down, however, the price of over-the-counter drugs increased from the previous month. In Odessa, medical costs rose 0.4 percent during April. This is much lower than last month's 4.8 percent increase, said Jones.

Utility costs rose 2.9 percent in April because of the 9 percent increase in the cost of gas adjustment. Water and electric rates remianed stable for the third month in a row. However, the utility costs in Odessa dropped 1.6 percent, the city's third consecutive month for the costs to drop. The decrease was due to a 4.5 percent decline in the gas rate.

Housing expenses also rose 0.9 percent in April for Midland after two months of decreases in this area. "Higher rents in the Midland area were offset slightly by lower maintenance costs for home owners," said Jones. Slightly higher rents in the Odessa were responsible for a 1.3 percent increase in Odessa for April.

Food away from home and food at home both increased by 0.1 percent during April for Midland. Alcohol and shelf items were down during the month but produce and meat prices went up. In Odessa, food away from home rose 2.4 percent and food at home rose 0.7 percent. Produce, alcohol and meat all increased in the city.

Union Texas adds forty employees

By JOHN PAUL PITTS
Business-Oil Editor

Following a major restructuring of the firm, Union Texas Petroleum, will designate its Midland office as a regional production and exploration office and will increase its Midland staff from 110 to 150.

"Even though 14 were laid off in Midland, it will be a very positive move overall for Midland," said Carol Cox, a spokesman for Union Texas Petroleum. Midland will now assume production functions once administrated by offices in Denver and Oklahoma City, and will assume exploration duties once handled by Oklahoma City. District exploration offices will be maintained in Midland and Denver.

"Basically what we are doing," said John Freeman, who becomes new Regional Production Manager, "is consolidate six divisions into two regions. Midland will be the Western Region and Houston will be the Southern Region.

Freeman said he was happy the restructuring turned out to be positive for Midland and happy that he would remain in Midland. "We looked at many options," he said.

Union Texas in Midland will decrease its exploration staff, but will increase its production staff, utilizing transferred employees from Layfayette, Houston and Oklahoma City. Overall about 10 percent of the employees of the largest independent oil company were laid off.

In restructuring the firm most of the layoffs were encountered in exploration and support staff in Houston, Layfayette, Louisiana; Oklahoma City; Farmington, N.M. and Denver.

"The restructuring has nothing to do with the recent sale of 50 percent of Union Texas Petroleum to KKR," said Cox. "Restructuring to make the firm more effecient were well underway, before the sale was announced."

Earlier this year Allied Co., parent company to Union Texas Petroleum, announced the sale of 50 percent of the Union Texas in a leveraged buyout to a group of investors consisting of Union Texas management and Kohlber, Karvis & Roberts, a firm specializing in leveraged buyouts.

Pickens loses in Unocal takeover bid

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In his first defeat in three years of assaults on big oil firms, Texas oilman T. Boone Pickens Jr. has agreed to sell his Unocal Corp. holdings back to the company at a slight loss.

It was the first such setback suffered by Pickens, chairman of Mesa Petroleum Co. of Amarillo, Texas, and head of the Mesa Partners II investor group.

In previous forays against five other oil companies, the Pickens group earned $697 million plus $35 million in expenses by selling back those companies' stock at a premium price.

Pickens' surrender Monday was a major victory for Fred L. Hartley, Unocal's feisty 68-year-old chairman, who had vowed not to give in to Pickens' threats, as other oil barons have. Hartley has spent 46 years with Unocal, the parent of Union Oil Co. of California, and he played a major role in building it into the nation's 13th largest oil concern.

The defeat of Pickens could be a turning point in corporations' efforts to ward off unwanted suitors, especially professional raiders.

Unocal's stock didn't trade Monday at the request of the company. It ended last week at $46 a share. Mesa stock fell 25 cents to close at $16.37½ a share.

Pickens' fate appeared sealed by the loss of two crucial battles last week.

—Pickens has all but conceded losing a proxy fight May 13 at Unocal's annual meeting, although the actual tally has been postponed until May 29. He had been seeking to delay the annual meeting and board election for two months to give more time for his takeover efforts.

—Last Friday, the Delaware Supreme Court upheld the legality of Unocal's effort to exclude the Pickens group from cashing in on the company's offer to repurchase 29 percent of its stock for the premium price of $72 per share. Unocal's stock now is trading for $46 per share.

Unocal was offering to repurchase 50 million of its 173.9 million shares by issuing $3.6 billion in debt securities. The new debt would make the company less attractive to unwanted suitors.

The Pickens group now owns 23.7 million, or 13.6 percent, of Unocal's stock.

But the group's $54-per-share offer to increase that stake to 50.1 percent was derailed by Unocal's more lucrative bid, which effectively lured away shareholders. Unocal said that as of midnight Friday, 153.7 million shares had been tendered under the company's offer, including those controlled by Pickens.

Early Monday, Unocal ended the uncertainty that had clouded its stock-repurchase offer, saying it would proceed regardless of the outcome of the renewed talks with Pickens.

Final agreement between Unocal and Pickens was announced late Monday afternoon.

Under the complex agreement, Pickens apparently will net slightly less than $1.1 billion — the amount paid by Mesa Partners for Unocal stock. What Pickens will lose is the estimated $80 million to $100 million he paid in finance and legal fees and other expenses.

Pickens spoke Monday to an investors' group in Scottsdale, Ariz., Monday, and was asked afterward if he expected to lose money in the settlement. "We very well could," he replied.

The agreement calls for Unocal to expand its stock-buyback offer to 59.1 million shares to permit the Pickens group to participate on a pro-rata basis without diminishing the value received by other shareholders.

Wall Street Boom

The floor of the New York Stock Exchange is filled moments after closing at a record high Monday, breaking 1,300. The Dow Jones leaped 19.54 points to finish the day at 1,304.88. The previous record closing high was 1,299.36. Analysts attribute lower interest rates to the record day.

GNP growth sluggish

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economy, battered by foreign competition, grew at a sluggish 0.7 percent annual rate during the first three months of the year, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said the gross national product, the broadest measure of the country's economic health, has not expanded at such a low rate since the end of the 1981-82 recession.

The department's latest growth figure for the January-March quarter represented a sharp revision from two earlier estimates of first quarter performance and was far below the projections being made by economists before the year began.

In March, before the quarter had ended, the department estimated growth at 2.1 percent. Last month, that figure was revised downward to 1.3 percent as more evidence mounted of the battering the U.S. industrial sector was taking from foreign competitors.

The latest evidence of how far the economy has fallen from the 6.8 percent growth turned in during 1984 comes at a time when financial markets are beginning to rally on hopes that better days are ahead.

The stock market staged a broad-based rally Monday with the Dow Jones industrial average soaring to a record high, closing above 1,300 for the first time.

The investor euphoria was fueled by action by the Federal Reserve Board to cut its discount rate, the rate it charges on bank loans, to 7.5 percent, signaling the central bank's intention to push interest rates lower in an effort to spur the flagging economy.

Many analysts believe that move, coupled with congressional progress in cutting soaring budget deficits, will work to revive the economy. Some are predicting growth in the current April-June quarter will rebound, perhaps to a 4 percent rate.

But more pessimistic forecasters contend that the declines in interest rates and federal budget cuts are coming too late to keep the U.S. economy out of a recession. The National Association of Business Economists, in its latest survey, is predicting a mild recession next year.

The Commerce Department report showed not only sluggish growth during the first quarter of the year, but a spurt in inflation.

A GNP price index which measures not only changes in prices but changes in the composition of goods being purchased rose at an annual rate of 5.6 percent in the first three months of the year. This was the fastest rate since the second quarter of 1982 and compared to a 2.8 percent rate in the final four months of 1984.

*Current and compound yields are based upon an annualization of the dividends paid by the Fund during the period April 1, 1985 through April 30, 1985. The compound yield assumes that all such dividends paid by the Fund are reinvested when paid. An investor's principal in the Fund and the Fund's yield are not guaranteed and will fluctuate according to market conditions, and an investor's shares when redeemed may be worth more or less than their original cost.

INVESTOR'S GUIDE

Moving an IRA may cause penalty

Q. I have two individual retirement accounts at a bank. These IRAs pay 7.75 percent interest and will not mature until December, 1987. I would like to roll these over to IRAs at a different bank paying higher interest.

From different sources, I am told I can do that before the IRAs mature, without a tax penalty, because I am 63. But my bank claims that cannot be done and, if I move the IRAs, I will have to pay a penalty. Can the bank do that?

A. The bank can't levy a tax penalty, but it can lay on an early withdrawal penalty. The mailbag shows there's much confusion about these two very different penalties. Let's take them one at a time.

Doyle

If you make a withdrawal from an IRA or a Keogh plan before reaching age 59 1/2 or becoming permanently disabled, you pay regular income tax, plus a 10 percent penalty tax on the money withdrawn. After age 59 1/2, there's no penalty tax.

You can transfer an IRA or Keogh plan from one place to another, at any age, without penalty tax. The move from, say, a bank to another bank or to a mutual fund, brokerage firm or insurance company is a "trustee-to-trustee" transfer. No tax is due.

But, and this is a very large BUT, when you have an IRA or Keogh plan in bank or savings and loan association certificates of deposit — as you clearly do — you can be hit with an early withdrawal penalty if you take money out or transfer your retirement nest egg to a different institution.

Banks and S&Ls are not required to slap that penalty on people 59 1/2 or older. But they have the option of doing so. Some do; some don't. Your bank does. Unfortunately, you're stuck.

Some banks and S&Ls give IRA and Keogh plan participants age 59 1/2 or older the opportunity to cancel existing CDs, without penalty, and move the money into higher-interest-paying CDs when rates go up. After the CDs in your IRA mature, shop around for that kind of truly "friendly banker."

Q. I have some money in a 30-month bank deposit paying 11.8 percent interest. This will come up for renewal soon and I am considering putting the money in a certificate of deposit. What is a certificate of deposit?

A. OK, back to basics. It's what you have now.

A certificate of deposit is an interest-paying deposit you agree to leave with a depository institution for a period of time. You promised to keep the money at your bank for 30 months. The bank agreed to pay you 11.8 percent annual interest.

Certificates of deposit, popularly known as "CDs," also are called "term" or "time" deposits or accounts and "savings certificates."

Q. The plant at which I worked shut down, leaving me unemployed, 60 and single. I sold my home for $50,000. Would it be wise to put that money in certificates of deposit, a bank money market deposit account or a mutual fund?

A. You're in a financial position where you should avoid even the remote possibility of risk. Except for money market mutual funds, all other mutual funds carry with them some risk. You could keep cash you might need in a hurry in a money market mutual fund, where it will earn a slightly higher yield than you can get on money market deposit accounts at most banks.

However, CDs have higher yields than money market mutual funds and are the sensible place for most of your cash. The longer a CD's maturity, the higher interest it pays.

You shouldn't put the bulk of your money into long-term CDs. If you have to cash a CD before maturity, the early withdrawal penalty can be severe.

My suggestion is to put about $10,000 into either a money market mutual fund or a money market deposit account. Divide the rest into four parts. Put $10,000 into each of four CDs, maturing in one, two, three and four years. Get CDs from which you can withdraw the interest.

If you're not pressed for cash as each CD matures, put that $10,000 into a four-year CD. Assuming you can keep doing that, you'll have a four-year CD coming due every year.

STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE

HOW TO USE STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE

1. Call the StockQuote Hotline number listed below. A computer voice will answer and ask you for the Account Code.
2. Enter the Account Code, then depress the star key (*) on your telephone. The computer will then ask you to enter your Stock Code.
3. Enter the Stock Code for the stock you wish quoted, the computer will quote the Ticker Symbol, Current Price and Net Change from the previous day's close.
4. After the stock is quoted, the computer will ask you to enter another Stock Code. You have two options:

A. You may request the quote for another stock simply by repeating Step 3, or...

B. You may request additional information on the stock just quoted by once more depressing the star key (*), in which case the computer will respond with the Price, Net Change, Volume, High and Low. The computer will then ask you to enter another Stock Code (repeat Step 3).

You may enter up to 10 requests per call.

STOCK CODES

All Stock Codes are based on industry standard Ticker Symbols provided by your broker or available from any Standard & Poor's Stock Ticker Guide. Codes are made up of a series of two-digit numbers, each representing one of the letters in the Ticker Symbol.

To determine the two-digit code for any letter of a Ticker Symbol, remember: The first key to be depressed is always the one on which the letter appears. The second key is always a "1," "2" or "3" indicating that letter's position on its own key (first, second or third position). EXAMPLE: "IBM" = "43 22 61"; "BX" = "22 92." Remember to depress the star key (*) after entering each code.

ADDITIONAL ASSISTANCE

Call the StockQuote customer service number (915) 682-5311 (Monday thru Friday 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.) for additional information or to report any problem with the service.

$6 million in student aid given to Central America

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Agency for International Development and an Arkansas businessman are offering $6.6 million to Central American students to finance their U.S. college educations.

The program was announced Monday by AID, which said the money would be used for a four-year college education for 1,000 needy students from any Central American nation except Nicaragua.

AID said it had set aside $3 million in funds for what it called a "scholarship diplomacy" program. Sam Walton of Walton Enterprises in Bentonville, Ark., founder of the Wal-Mart Discount Stores chain, contributed an additional $3.6 million.

The program comes at a time when the Reagan administration is seeking cuts in government aid to U.S. college students. At the same time, however, federal agencies say they must increase the number of scholarships for Latin American and Caribbean students to offset the educational recruiting blitz in the area by the Soviet Union and its allies.

Hundreds protest Duarte

NEW YORK (AP) — Salvadoran President Jose Napoleon Duarte accepted an award from Notre Dame alumni here Monday as 500 demonstrators rallied outside to denounce his government's policies against rebels. Forty were arrested.

Those arrested were charged with disorderly conduct, police spokesman Tony Vallelong said.

Duarte responded to the demonstration by saying he believes his war-torn country is now free of "death-squad goons."

The Salvadoran leader was given the Notre Dame Club of New York's Man of the Year award. On Sunday, he was in South Bend, Ind., to received an honorary degree from Notre Dame, his alma mater.

Husband to decide fate

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — A man whose wife is brain-damaged and unconscious has been granted a June 24 court hearing on his request to be named her conservator, which would give him authority to end her feeding so she would starve to death.

The attending doctor has refused Harold Pritchard's requests to stop tube-feeding his wife, Elaine, 43, who suffered permanent brain damage in a traffic accident three years ago, according to documents in San Mateo County Probate Court.

Pritchard, 46, says his wife once told him she would not wish to be kept alive if permanently unconscious.

Famine relief goal hit

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Most American Red Cross chapters met or exceeded their goals in a drive for famine relief in Africa, and the year-long effort raised $20.7 million, the organization's chairman says.

George F. Moody, speaking Monday at the opening session of the group's three-day 60th annual convention, noted that the drive began with a goal of $5 million.

The money raised, he said, "is today saving lives, helping people of all ages and rebuilding shattered spirits."

No damages for drunk

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Volunteer firemen deserve thanks and respect, but shouldn't fight fires while they're intoxicated, Gov. Terry Branstad said as he vetoed a bill to pay damages to volunteers injured fighting fires while drunk.

"It is threatening to the public, to other firefighters and to a volunteer's family and friends," Branstad said in rejecting the measure Monday.

Officials of towns with volunteer fire departments said the measure was the only way to assure that smaller communities could have fire protection, because volunteers never know when they'll be called.

Outbreak hurts hotel

DETROIT (AP) — A hotel suspected of being the source of 30 cases of Legionnaires' disease reported a drop of business after the outbreak, despite health officials' assurances that further illness was unlikely.

Blood test results were due later this week for 29 people who fell ill after a church banquet April 27 at the Airport Hilton Inn in suburban Romulus, said Keith Tait, a Wayne County health official. One person confirmed as having contracted the disease has died.

The hotel reported more than 150 room cancellations last week, but a secretary who declined to be identified on Monday quoted general manager Steve Chojnacki as saying business was "back to normal."

Kremlin rejects visas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kremlin has rejected visas for an American linguist and a leading expert on Soviet crime problems, prompting U.S. cancellation of planned visits to Moscow by two delegations involving a total of 16 scholars.

Officials of a government-funded private organization that administers East-West scholarly exchanges said Monday that Soviet authorities gave no reason for the denials.

The foundation, a cement slab at left, is all that remains of an illegal fireworks plant that exploded Monday, killing nine.

Fireworks explosion kills 9 at illegal site

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Only two craters and the foundations of a farm shed remained today at the site of an explosion that killed nine people at what police say was an illegal fireworks operation.

The blast Monday scattered body parts, corrugated metal and pink tufts of insulation over hundreds of yards. Power lines were downed and windows shattered as far as a mile away.

Angelo Kissos, chief investigator for the Mahoning County coroner's office, said the remains of one body were found 471 feet from the point of the explosion.

Officials did not immediately identify the victims, but one of the dead was identified by his family as Edward J. Malysa, 23, of Youngstown.

"I saw dead killed in the war, but it's tough seeing your own flesh and blood here," said his father, David. "It was not easy, but I had to be sure it was him, and it was."

"We tried to talk Edward out of working there — that it was dangerous and might be illegal," said the dead man's brother, Steve Malysa. "But he said they worked safely and that he thought they were making legal fireworks. He had been down about being out of work. He was eager to get a job, and the pay was good."

Where the shed had stood, only a foundation and two craters remained, with scattered debris strewn about it. A nearby barn was heavily damaged.

"It looked like there might have been two separate explosions, but so close together it sounded like one," Assistant Beaver Township Fire Chief John Schmidt said.

County Prosecutor Gary Van Brocklin said authorities were unaware of permits being issued for any kind of fireworks operations.

Township Police Chief Joseph Rinko said illegal fireworks were stored and probably manufactured in what had been a rented farm outbuilding. He said authorities were trying to trace the ownership of the business, which had been set up in the past two weeks.

Debris from the blast included casings for M-80s and other bootleg firecrackers, said Sheriff Edward Nemeth.

An M-80 has five grains of gunpowder and is 100 times stronger than the most powerful firecracker allowed by the federal government, said Bruce Zoldan, a Youngstown fireworks maker. He said M-80s have been banned in the United States since 1966.

Wayne M. Lovan Jr., supervisor of the Youngstown office of the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, said his office would have no comment until later today.

The Rev. Stanley Webster, pastor of the nearby Paradise Evangelical Lutheran Church, said he talked to relatives of the victims, who told him that the work was a way to make ends meet.

"They had families to support, little children," he said, adding that one worker was expecting to be a father in July.

Some state officials indicated that a moratorium on new licenses for fireworks operations that has been in effect since April 1984, combined with relatively minor penalties, may have spurred the growth of small fireworks factories. Only 19 manufacturers and 40 wholesalers are licensed in Ohio.

The fine for operating a fireworks plant without a license is $25 to $500, with a $50 to $10,000 fine for failure to comply the first time.

Children learn OK, not OK touches

Cody Bell/Reporter-Telegram

Nan Gordan, director of the Midland Rape Crisis Center, informs third grade students at Bowie Elementary School of how to tell "an okay touch from a not-okay touch," as she presents a program on preventing sexual abuse of children. Ms. Gordan uses filmstrips and discussion periods to teach the children the "three rules" — say no, get away and tell someone.

Films help teach about abuse

Teaching the difference between an "OK" touch and a "not OK" touch is a full time job for Nan Gordan.

Ms. Gordan, the director of the Midland Rape Crisis Center, spends much of her time talking to area school children about the dangers of sexual abuse and how to prevent being abused.

Using a series of filmstrips entitled "For Pete's Sake, Tell!" starring Penelope Peabody, a mouse who is sexually abused by a relative, Ms. Gordan talks to the children after the film and teaches them the "three rules" — Say no, get away from the person and tell someone.

Ms. Gordan explains the difference between an OK touch and a not OK touch, by asking the children about private things.

"Can you name something private?," she asks.

A purse, wallet and a piggy bank are three items that she uses to show how some things are private.

"And there is another thing," she adds. "Another thing that is private that we don't share with anyone is the private parts of our bodies — where our swim suits cover in the summer."

She explains that good touches are hugs, a pat on the head or back, holding hands with a friend or family member or being taken care of by a doctor or nurse.

"A no-good touch is when a grown-up person tries to touch private parts of your body," she says.

Although she visits classes from kindergarten to sixth grade in area elementary schools, Ms. Gordan also visits students in the junior high and high schools.

"Obviously Penelope Peabody doesn't work with them," she said. "The majority of sexual abuse victims are age 17 to 18," she said. "We discuss dating and possible situations."

The chances for a girl being abused are higher, she stated.

"One in seven boys will be abused and one in four girls will be abused," she said. "And it's usually from someone they know."

Response from both children and parents has been good, according to Larry Wilkinson, principal of Bowie Elementary School.

"Last year, we had four or five students talk to people after the presentation," he said. "This program has been very good about making children aware of sexual abuse. It makes them feel more comfortable about talking to someone."

While Wilkinson stated that 90 percent of the parents support the program, "the other 10 percent" won't allow their children to view the filmstrips.

"About one or two kids from every classroom are not allowed to participate," he said.

The films are shown late in the school year because of the summer vacation, said Wilkinson.

"During the summer months, a lot of kids are alone or unsupervised many times, like when they are outside playing and this is when many children may encounter a sexual abuse situation," he said.

Of two children that reported sexual abuse last year, one involved a family member and the other involved an ex-convict who worked as a volunteer for a local organization. "If we can just get one kid to talk, then it's worth it," said Wilkinson.

Residents opposed to dump sites, survey indicates

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A report released Monday by the Texas Department of Agriculture shows strong opposition to the location of a high-level nuclear waste repository in the Texas Panhandle by residents of the area.

"The message from our surveys is as clear as the good water from the Ogallala Aquifier through which the U.S. Department of Energy wants to punch holes to dump their hot wastes," Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said. "Four out of five residents of the site counties said they would not allow construction of a nuclear waste repository in their area, if it were up to them."

The DOE is considering sites in Deaf Smith and Swisher counties in the Panhandle for the location of the proposed repository. Other top sites being considered by the DOE are in Nevada and Washington.

The federally funded survey involved telephone interviews with 605 residents of Deaf Smith and Oldham counties and with 236 residents of Crosby and Moore counties in the surrounding area, according to the TDA. Written questionnaires were also received from 564 Deaf Smith and Swisher county farmers.

Hightower said the Panhandle residents "are asking serious questions about who is going to buy food raised next to a nuclear dump," adding "they want to know what 70,000 metric tons of radioactive wastes will do to their land and water, and to their own health."

About 60 percent of those surveyed think it's "very likely" that waste from the repository would escape into the water, Hightower said and another 20 percent think such an event is "somewhat likely."

Eighteen percent of the farmers surveyed said they would move from the area if their county is chosen for the repository and 44 percent said they've already thought about moving," Hightower said.

"DOE had better go back and plug the holes in their own impact assessments before they haul in the drills to sink their 20-foot test shafts through our Ogallala and Santa Rosa aquifiers," Hightower said. "We're going to fight this dump with lawsuits, with our veto, with whatever it takes."

"The message from our surveys is as clear as the good water from the Ogallala Aquifier through which the U.S. Department of Energy wants to punch holes to dump their hot wastes."

Community gambling hurricanes won't hit this year

CRYSTAL BEACH (AP) — Gambling isn't legal in Texas, but thousands of Southeast Texans are wagering a hurricane will stay away from their doors.

In fact, they are so confident that they are rebuilding the Bolivar Peninsula into a beachside community far exceeding the one ravaged by Hurricane Carla in 1961.

Things are moving quickly. Homes in the $100,000 to $200,000 range are sprouting, some almost on the water's edge. Gulf Shores bank will open this summer. Two years ago the peninsula got cable television. A doctor has set up a clinic and lives there. A 70-room luxury motel, started a year ago and bogged down by financial troubles last summer, is now set to move toward completion.

The city's budget last year came to $759,000. In 1971, when the city was incorporated, the budget was only $23,000. The city then had two employees, now it has 28.

Alicia, the hurricane that hit two years ago and did considerable damage, hardly kept a builder's hammer from swinging. Ann Willis, who is tax assessor-collector, court clerk and city secretary, counted 826 building permits during the past 10 years. That comes to about 82 beach homes a year and almost seven a month.

A 12-person police department, led by Police Chief Alan Sheffield, patrols the city's 78 miles of streets and has a busy time of it on weekends when the beach swarms with people. "A vehicle can hardly move on the beach," Sheffield said.

The Department now uses horses loaned to them by a riding academy for patrolling. "When you are up on a horse, you can't see the beach for the people and the cars," he said.

Crystal Beach is one of a number of communities on the peninsula. It is the only one that is incorporated.

Property valuation on the peninsula and High Island has risen from $10,282,733 before Carla, to $249,873,620, reflecting the growth in building, plus inflated costs of construction.

Owners of homes on the peninsula are able to get flood insurance on their houses as a result of the National Flood Insurane Act of 1968, but they can only get up to $185,000 on a single-family house and $50,000 on its contents. Fire, hail and sandstorm policies are carried separately. The owner of a commercial building may can up to $250,000 coverage on a building and $200,000 on its contents.

The federal government backs the flood policies and is the ultimate payer of claims, says Barry Kunz of the T.E. Moor Insurance Agency in Beaumont. The hurricane season starts in June. Last year went by without any threat of a hurricane in the Gulf of Mexico.

Dr. John Blum came from Houston to set up a clinic in the rear of the Crystal Beach volunteer fire department building last July. The city of Crystal Beach is furnishing the space and utilities in order to have a doctor in the community of about 1,000 permanent residents.

Madeline and Lonnie Walker of Beaumont own a cabin on Crenshaw Beach about seven miles from the ferry landing. The cabin survived Carla and Alicia.

"We love it down there," she said. "We love to crab and fish and watch the grandchildren playing on the beach."

Man reports theft of items worth $1,245

From Staff Reports

A Midland man reported the loss of a $495 television and other items worth a total of $1,245 from his home in a burglary which occurred sometime between 8 p.m. Sunday and 7:40 a.m. Monday, according to police reports.

Entry at the Frank Hawk residence, Route 5, Box 974, apparently was gained through the north side kitchen window, reports said.

Martha Munoz, 2200 S. Lamesa, reported a burglary which occurred sometime between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. Friday. A $250 television and an $115 cassette deck were taken by a burglar who entered through a locked westside doorway, reports said.

A $900 car-stereo system was taken from a 1981 Camaro belonging to Joe R. Brooks, 116 S. Eisenhower. Brooks told police he parked the car in his driveway about 8 p.m. Friday and returned to it at 8 a.m. Monday to find the stereo missing, according to reports.

A $600 lawnmower was stolen from the west lawn of an apartment complex at 2600 N. Loop 250, DMC Management Co. employees told police. The employees saw an unidentified person put the lawnmower in his back seat and drive off with it about 1:45 p.m. Monday, reports said.

Willma Rodgers, 3907 Avondale, reported $300 damage to the tires of her Lincoln Continental. Ms. Rodgers told police she'd had a fight with a person about 1 a.m. Monday, and afterwards this person slashed two of her tires and poured sugar in her gas tank, according to reports.

The Johnson Tire Center, 2210 W. Front, reported $2,500 in damage to some steel doors and a window after a break-in sometime over the weekend.

The store was conducting an inventory to determine what may have been stolen in the burglary, which occurred sometime between 5:30 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Monday, reports said.

Mark Edens, 1011 W. Storey, reported the burglary of $300 in cash from the glove compartment of his 1984 Nissan pickup sometime between 7 p.m. Sunday and 10 a.m. Monday. Also taken were three cassette tapes worth $21, and there was $100 damage to the windshield during the break-in, reports said.

A $170 rifle, a $140 shotgun and a wallet with $30 in cash were taken from a 1978 Ford pickup belonging to Sean Woodard, 1209 W. Kansas, reports said. The Midland High School student had left his pickup parked in the 400 block of North A St. Monday while attending classes, and the burglary occurred sometime between 8 a.m. and 11 a.m., according to reports.

R.O. Samuels, Route 9, Box 9756, told sheriff's deputies a $275 rifle was taken from the bedroom closet of his home on County Road 1216. There were several rifles in the closet, but only one was stolen, reports said.

Jess Laubinger, Route 9, Box 9679, reported the theft of $800 in cash from a filing cabinet in his home on County Road 113, reports said. He left the money in the cabinet Thursday, discovered it missing Saturday, and reported the loss Monday.

Jim G. Adkins, County Road 1255 South, reported the burglary of $2,460 worth of stereo equipment and tools from his mobile home. The burglary occurred sometime between 9 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday, and entry was apparently gained by prying open the living-room window, according to reports.

Ector officials interview candidates for new job

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — Ector County Commissioners were meeting in closed session today for the purpose of interviewing candidates for the position of fiscal services director.

A field of 18 applicants for the newly created position has been narrowed to two by County Auditor Dan Ramirez and Personnel Director Delma Abalos. The two candidates to be interviewed by Commissioners Court members reportedly are 42-year-old Bill H. Pendergrass, a vice president for finances for T-Bar-S Inc., an El Paso boot manufacturer, and Ray T. Pace, vice president of a Virginia general construction firm.

The position was created earlier this year by commissioners so one person would be responsible for overseeing and coordinating county fiscal affairs, tasks now handled by the auditor, treasurer and tax assessor-collector. The fiscal services director will also serve as a consultant to Commissioners Court and be a liason between the court, other county offices and the public, according to County Judge Jan Fisher.

The $30,000 a year position will be funded from federal revenue sharing funds totalling $50,000. The remainder of the funds will be used for office operations.

A decision on which of the two final applicants will fill the position was expected to be made this afternoon.

Being 'country' is more a frame of mind

You know, there are an awful lot of words that don't really mean what they say.

Take the word, "country," for example.

Now, I know country means country when you're talking about our nation, or being out in the woods.

But what does it mean, when someone was born in a city, grew up in a city, still lives in a city and probably always will live in a city...and they call themselves "country"?

I don't know.

Does it mean that they are "woodsy?" Or are they just referring to the nation in which they live?

You can ask about anyone around this part of Texas, who regularly tunes into country-western radio stations, does the cotton-eyed joe and loses their fair share of lovers and they will tell you in their saddest drawl, that they are "country".

It's a new one for us Yankees.

I was born in a city, grew up in a city, am currently living in a city and more than likely, I'll not be hiking off into the mountains any time soon. Can I call myself "country?"

I don't feel right doing it, but everyone else seems to be doing it.

Something tells me that "country" isn't limited to those folks who grew up chasing chickens. It's more a frame of mind.

Kind of like rich people who never quite accept that they can run off to Mallorca whenever they feel like it. Although their banker loves them, they still don't "feel" rich.

Well maybe city-dwellers who call themselves "country" are similar. Their rural roots are still flowing through their veins. They don't feel like city-dwellers. But there they are, driving each day in rush-hour traffic and eating at Burger King.

You can easily spot a city "country" person on site.

They are wearing cowboy boots, not because it's fashionable, but because, well, because they're supposed to.

Goodness knows, the most dangerous thing they might step on in their fenced-in backyard is a croquet wick. But still, they need those boots.

Of course, no one will ever know the reason for wearing a belt buckle the size of Rhode Island. But it's "country".

Another mystery is the need to chew tobacco.

I guess it takes them back to ancestoral days when having a mouth full of dirt was just the way it was. Curious.

The pickup truck, remains, however, the mark of a "country" person.

There are reasons for this.

They come in handy when moving washers and dryers from apartment to trailer to apartment. And they hold a lot of kids ("country" people need big families).

But mainly, they are tough and are the next best thing to a horse for galloping across the streets of Midland.

Still, "country" is more than dress, habit and transportation.

It's attitude.

To be "country", you have to have gone through a lot of pain.

Any "country" girl worth her grits, was married young to a husband who gave her Junior before running off.

After that, it's all downhill for the lass, who finds herself in one bad relationship after another, all the time, realizing that it's just a part of "being country".

How else could she really relate to those heart-breaking melodies, churned out by other "country girls" living in Hollywood and New York?

And the "country" men, although surrounded by a host of bars offering liquors and appertifs from around the world, choose good ole beer — cheap beer.

Don't get me wrong — country isn't bad.

It's a binding tie. A group of people of the land, who no longer have land. A disposed king does not become a peasant. And the newly-rich do not acquire taste. They remain what they are, regardless of their surroundings.

Main St., Suite 150 or by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Centennial Citizen, P.O. Box 1985, Midland, Tx., 79702. Please include a list of the nominee's contributions to Midland.

Auto mechanic sentenced for way he did business

ABILENE (AP) — When Wesley R. Beard wanted to drum up business for his auto repair shop, he'd litter Interstate 20 with old car parts and wait till a passing motorist came along to "break down."

The 45-year-old mechanic admitted in court Monday that he'd then show up with a timely offer of wrecker service or repairs to help out the unsuspecting driver.

That self-styled brand of advertising netted Beard a one-year prison term Monday and an order from state District Judge Billy John Edwards to pay $2,314 to his unwitting customers.

Beard's guilty plea came in a plea bargain that saw one felony criminal mischief charge reduced to a misdemeanor and the other three dismissed for restitution.

Edwards gave Beard a 180-day jail term and placed him on probation for a year, during which time Beard said he can make the restitution to former customers of his Beard's Auto Truck Repairs in Trent.

Beard admitted dumping a motor head, gears and other jagged pieces of metal onto the eastbound lane of I-20 on July 28, 1983.

At least six cars and trucks were disabled that night, and an investigation found several others had been damaged at the same location in recent weeks, Department of Public Safety investigators said.

Motorists whose vehicles were not disabled immediately found that at the next exit, the only business they could see open was Beard's repair shop.

Motorists disabled at the scene could expect, within minutes, an offer of assistance from a roving Beard wrecker, whose driver said he "just happened" to be in the area, the investigators said.

Senate passes Sims' unemployment benefits bill

AUSTIN — A bill sponsored by Sen. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, relating to a disqualification for benefits under the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act for certain employees who have two periods of employment with the same employer has passed the Texas Senate without objection.

SB 729, which now goes to the Texas House for consideration, applies to employees who have had more than one period of employment with the same employer during the base period, and the final separation from the employer qualifies the employee to collect unemployment benefits.

If an earlier separation from the employer had been of a disqualifying nature, then that employer's chargebacks will not include benefit payments which are based on wage credits of that employee during that earlier period of employment, under the bill.

Some employers feel it is unfair to have their "experience rating" affected by chargebacks on an employee who qualifies for benefits, but who had left an earlier job with the same employer for disqualifying reasons during the same base period.

Panel may be created to monitor site selection

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Senate has adopted a concurrent resolution establishing an interim study committee on high-level nuclear waste which would monitor U.S. Department of Energy activities on a full-time basis during the final site selection phase.

SCR 76, introduced by Sen. Bill Sarpalius, D-Canyon, was passed quickly by the Senate without discussion.

The DOE last December ranked a site in Deaf Smith County in the Texas Panhandle along with two other sites in Washington and Nevada, among the top three locations being considered for a proposed high-level nuclear waste repository.

Another site in Swisher County in the Panhandle is also being considered by the DOE for the repository.

The state has filed a lawsuit against the DOE in the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans for the ranking of the Texas sites, alleging procedural irregularities in the selection process.

SCR 76 creates a nine-member committee to monitor the progress of litigation against the DOE, as well as to keep up with the DOE's exploratory activities should one of the Texas sites be chosen for characterization studies.

The committee will be composed of six legislators and three public members, to be chosen by Gov. Mark White, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis. A report will be presented by the committee to the 1987 Legislature.

The committee will be funded with money provided by the federal government to potential host-site states for study of the selection process, Sarpalius said.

BEACH

"We survived Carla so that gave us hope. We had very little damage from Alicia. Maybe the third time will be the charm — or the catastrophe." But she laughs about the gamble.

The optimism of the beach house owners is further evident in remarks by Jimmy LeBlanc, a chemical engineer who lives in Beaumont. He built a good-sized beach home in three months in 1977.

LeBlanc said he doesn't worry about hurricanes and believes the benefits greatly offset the risk. Hurricane Alicia left its calling card at his beach home, but the damage wasn't great.

"We had a ceiling fan come in through the front window, out of somebody else's house," LeBlanc said.

Girl treated for chemical burns

From Staff Reports

A 14-year-old Midland girl faced possible vision damage after liquid cleanser or a similar substance was thrown in her face Saturday, according to police reports.

The girl was treated at Midland Memorial Hospital for chemical burns to her face, eyes, breasts, abdomen and left thigh Saturday night after an unidentified woman came to her trailer house at about 11:15 p.m. When the girl's mother opened the door, the unidentifed assailant threw the liquid, hitting the girl, reports said.

A 5-year-old Midland girl was treated Sunday at Midland Memorial Hospital for injuries caused by an adult, according to reports. The girl and her mother were interviewed by police at the hospital about 11 p.m., when it was learned the incident had occurred in the 300 block of East New Jersey Avenue. The investigation is continuing.

Crime Stoppers seeks robbery information

Crime Stoppers this week is seeking information on an aggravated robbery in Odessa May 1.

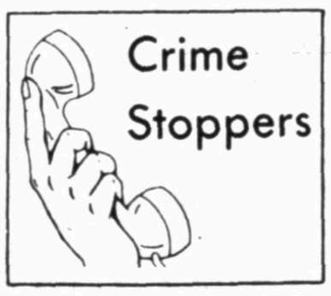

According to reports, T.D. Atkinson was opening Comet Cleaners, 2613 N. Grandview, at 7 a.m. when two young white males entered the store and robbed him at gunpoint, taking about $700 in cash.

One male was described as being 6 feet 2 inches tall, slim and wearing dark pants and a black T-shirt with horizontal stripes. The other male was described as 6 feet tall with blond, kinky hair and wearing dark clothes.

Both were carrying guns and tied Atkinson up after robbing him, reports said.

A $1,000 cash reward will be paid this week to anyone with information that leads to the felony arrest and indictment of those responsible. Crime Stoppers pays cash rewards for other felony crimes and callers do not have to reveal their identity.

To contact Crime Stoppers in Midland, call 694-TIPS; in Odessa, call 333-TIPS.

Start of triathlan to be at UTPB

From Staff Reports

Due to a delay in construction, the Tall City Triathlon, originally scheduled to be held at the City of Midland's Douglas Russell Pool, has been rescheduled to be held at University of Texas of the Permian Basin on June 1. The events are scheduled to begin at UTPB with the swimming, then participants will bike on Highway 191 to the Intersection of FM 1788, then return to Mission Country Club to do the running portion of the race.

Currently, there are over 50 individuals and 30 teams registered. The majority of registered participants are from out of town, including Dallas, Fort Worth, Plano, Amarillo, Abilene, San Angelo, Austin and Houston.

According to Debbie Mayes, events registrar, based on past experience the majority of local participants will register just prior to Wednesday's deadline. At least 250 participants are expected.

For registration forms and information contact the Midland YMCA or the Midland Chapter of March of Dimes, the event's sponsors.

Bill's aim restricting special plates

AUSTIN — The Texas Senate has passed a bill aimed at restricting the number of special license plates issued which exempt the payment of state fees and taxes on the vehicles.

HB 1953, sponsored in the Senate by Sen. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, now goes to the governor's office for consideration. The measure previously was passed in the Texas House where it was sponsored by Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring.

Under current law, a dealer of motor vehicles may apply for a "general distinguishing number and master dealer's license plate," and owners of such plates can operate vehicles without the necessity of titling and registration.

As a result, all state fees and taxes on these vehicles are lost if the person is not actually a dealer who will sell the vehicle and title it in the name of the purchaser.

HB 1953 amends the law to separate the "general distinguishing number" and the "dealer plate." The general distinguishing number will be required of any person who is a dealer as defined by the law, but the securing of a dealer plate will be optional, and available only to dealers holding a general distinguishing number.

The bill passed quickly in the Senate without debate.

Senate OKs restitution program bill

AUSTIN — A bill modifying eligibility requirements for participation in a restitution program — as an alternative to imprisonment — has passed the Texas Senate without objection.

HB 826, sponsored by Rep. Tom Craddick, R-Midland, now goes to the governor's office for consideration. The bill previously passed the Texas House in April.

The legislation would amend current law by striking provisions that in order to be eligible for the program, a participant must not have been sentenced under the controlled substances act, and "does not have an extensive history of drug or alcohol abuse."

Customers praise high quality work of Lewellen Construction

For years Lewellen Construction, a locally owned company, has provided Midlanders with quality siding, windows and patio covers. Lewellen's has consistently offered top notch products with service to match. That's why their customers aren't hesitant to talk about Lewellen Construction and Home Improvement Center.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Huffman recently called on Bill Lewellen to make the exterior of their home maintenance free. Mrs. Huffman said, "We couldn't find time to paint. Now, we won't have to paint any more."

> He'll (Bill Lewellen) do just what he says he'll do.
>
> -Roy Huffman

The Huffmans talked to several contractors and compared quality and price before selecting Lewellen Construction. "What I like about Mr. Lewellen is he's not a high pressure salesman," said Mrs. Huffman.

The Huffmans had originally been contacted by one of those high pressure salemen and had been persuaded to sign a contract before they were really certain about what they wanted. They decided to cancel the order (this is allowed within a certain number of days) and do a little more research.

The Huffmans talked to friends who were exceptionally pleased with the work of Lewellen Construction and Home Improvement Center. The decision was made to have Lewellen's do the work.

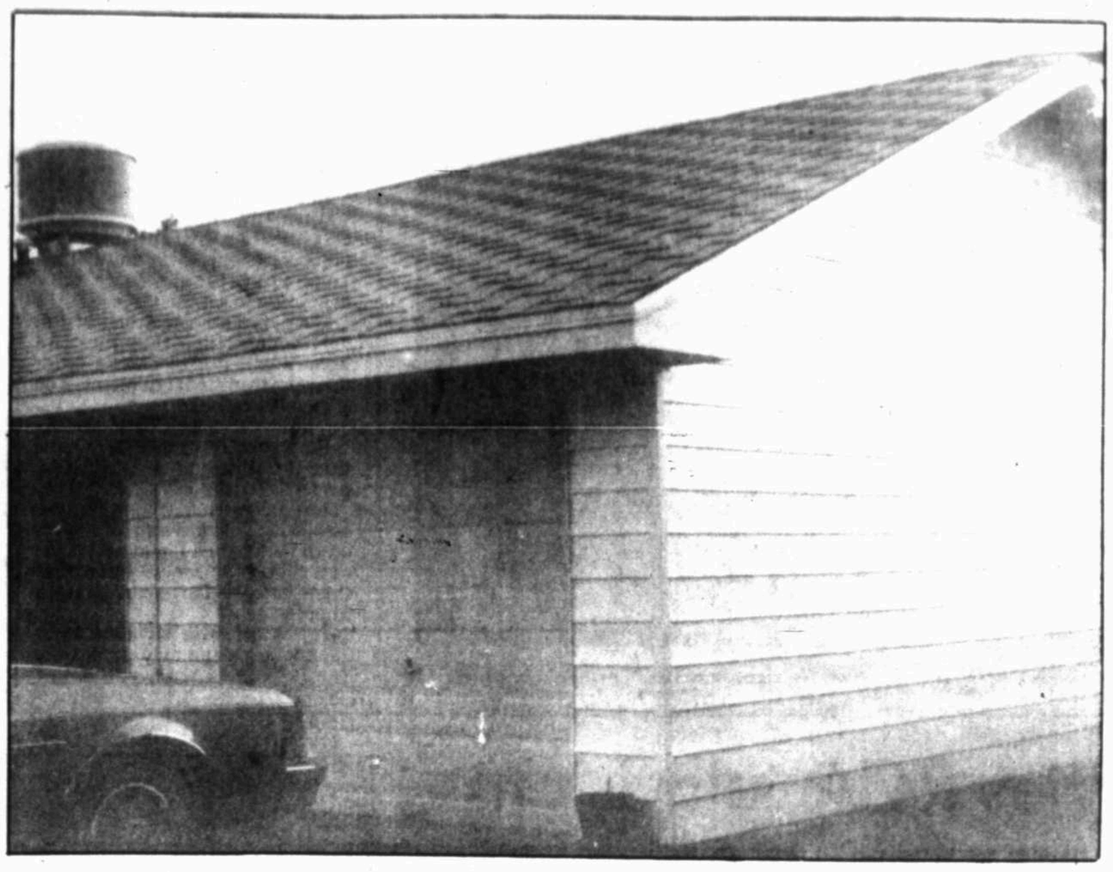

Once Bill's crew went to work on the Huffmans home, it only took two weeks to complete the job. Mrs. Huffman particularly appreciated the fact that Bill got a big crew on the job and finished it quickly. She explained that a contractor took all last summer to remodel her kitchen. With Bill on this job, all the materials and workmen were out of the way in just two weeks.

She also said, "They did nice things, like they were right in the middle of the job before the weekend. They cleaned up all their stuff and put all the scaffolding in the back yard."

Mr. Huffman said, "He'll (Bill) do just what he says he'll do. That's something now days."

Best of all the Huffmans said, "It looks real good."

Lewellen Construction and Home Improvement Center is commited to pleasing all of their customers. Whether your need is for siding, soffit and fascia, patio covers, storm windows, or complete remodeling call Bill or Joan Lewellen at 686-8007 or go by 1811 W. Industrial. It's just tough to beat the service and workmanship of this local, bonded and insured contractor.

Lewellen Construction and Home Improvement Center can make the exterior of just about any home maintenance free. Call 686-8007 to find out how to avoid having to ever re-paint your home, including soffit and fascia.

Carmen's Imports is Midland's Mexican marketplace

Carmen and Roy Hearon are owners of Midland's own Mexican market, Carmen's Imports.

School is nearly out and summer is at hand - it's time for una fiesta grande! Carmen's Mexican Imports is just the place to start.

Step into this wonderful Mexican market at 410 N. Terrell. You'll walk among decorative statues and find ceramic squirrels, zebras, kittens, poodles, indians, clowns, owls, and horses. Take your pick, you're only beginning to set the stage.

Move on and select one of the velvet paintings that line the wall. You'll get to choose from the very traditional to pictures of Michael Jackson.

Hanging flowers which have tiny flashing lights will also be perfect decorations.

You'll want a wrought iron bird cage. Perhaps a small one or, on the other hand, maybe a large one. Suit your fancy, you'll find them both at Carmen's Mexican Imports.

Top it off with an eight light chandelier, regularly $159, now only $59. It is true, you won't believe the bargains at this Mexican market.

Even the tiny tikes will enjoy decorating at Carmen's. They'll pick a little chair or rocker of red, blue, or yellow just right for their corner. The little ladies will want one of the beautiful, musical dolls to keep them company.

Of course, they'll also need one of the animal banks so they can save for the day when they will be purchasing a television, stereo, washer, sewing machine, or refrigerator from Carmen's. They'll be amazed at the brand new Cenntennial treddle sewing machines which sell for $299.

When it's time to dress for that big celebration, the whole family will need outfits from Carmen's. The ladies, both young and old, will want to carefully select a beautiful Mexican dress. They're not only pretty, but cool for the hot summer. Turquise jewelry and a leather purse will be the perfect accent pieces.

Men grab your straw hat and new shirt from Carmen's, but don't forget a leather belt and wallet. If you're planning ahead for next winter, you'll want to purchase a coat while prices are reduced.

When it's time for the good food cooked in Mexican spices from Carmen's, you'll need tortilla press and bags, table clothes, a bean pot, serving bowls in graduated sizes, a wrought iron bakers shelf, pitchers with matching mugs, and water jugs. You'll discover it all at Midland's Mexican market.

No fiesta is complete without music, so don't forget a tamborine and guitar. Or, how about a brand new stereo?

To make the evening a big success, select a pinata. Everyone will love it and Carmen's even has the candy to fill it.

Go by Carmen's today at 410 N. Terrell. You will feel like you've stepped into a Mexican market place. With over 4,000 items from Mexico in stock, they can help you plan the biggest party for graduation or any occassion!

Matlock carries RCA televisions

Just in time for Father's Day, Ann Matlock Hopkins, vice president of Matlock Furniture, announces that they now carry RCA televisions. For over 40 years this family business has been known for offering Midlanders quality furniture at a more than fair price. Now, they are teaming up with RCA to offer Midland even more fine products.

Conveniently located at 805 S. Big Spring, Matlock Furniture is just the place to select that perfect Father's Day present. Ann has a number of suggestions.

All of Matlock's Lane recliners are marked at sale prices, and it's hard to believe how many colors there are available. Blue, green, rust, gray, rose, earth tones are just a few of the choices now in stock.

Perhaps, Dad would like a recliner which is built into a beautiful sectional that the whole family can enjoy. Matlock's has that, too.

In fact, Matlock's is stocked up on all kinds of living room upholstery. The showroom is packed with beautiful sofas, loveseats, sleepers, sectionals, and recliners of many styles. You will notice that they have sofas in just about all of the new designer colors, including clay, rose, burgundy, and gray. There are florals, plaids, stripes, and solids. Whether you like the country look, traditional design, furniture with a contemporary flair, or something with an early American styling, Matlock Furniture has it. To top it all off, Ann points out that a number of groups are priced at close out prices.

So go in and browse through the upholstery from fine manufacturers like Alan White, Riverside, Benchcraft, Smith, Wilco, and Style Line at this home owned and operated store. The wide sleeper selection is made by Benchcraft, Economy, and Smith.

To complete your living area Matlock has just received a shipment of prints which work beautifully with the popular decorator colors. Sized just right to hang over a sofa, this art will be enjoyed for years to come.

Sales manager Donny Rains says Matlock can also take care of all of your dining room needs. You can select from Universal, Broyhill, and Stoneville dining room furniture. Whether you want a casual group or a formal suite with a china cabinet you'll find it at this store. There are at least 20 china cabinets on display and lots of casual sets. Make your selection from groups of brass and glass, oak and glass, or chrome.

For the bedroom, Matlock always has a wide selection of Sealy bedding and Broyhill bedroom suites in stock, including traditional suites, contemporary groupings, and juvenille suites like the ever-popular sturdy oak bunk beds.

With over 40 years of experience to back them up, the Matlock team just can't be beat when you're looking for someone to help you select furniture that Dad will love and you will be proud to have in your home.

Donny Rains points out one very important Matlock tradition. "We try to carry in stock something for the mobile home dweller, the apartment dweller, and the big home dweller."

Now is the time to shop for Dad. You can put that special purchase on lay-away if you would like. Don't forget Matlock now carries RCA in addition to all their fine furniture lines. Make your selection today at the huge showroom of Matlock's Furniture, located at 805 S. Big Spring.

Matlock Furniture, located at 805 S. Big Spring, now carries RCA televisions. Shop now for Father's Day. You'll enjoy the selection of living room upholstery, dining room groups, and bedroom suites.

Max Hutchins, who has offered Midlanders outstanding portraits for ten years, is now opening a second studio in Big Spring, Texas. The new hours for the Midland studio will be Tuesday through Friday, 9:00 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday by appointment.

After 10 years in Midland Max opens 2nd studio in Big Spring

After ten years of successful business in Midland, Max Hutchins, owner of Max's Studios, is proud to announce that he is opening a second studio in Big Spring. The new studio will be located at 3rd and Johnson Street in Big Spring and will be opening about June 4.

Max will continue offering the same fine photography services in Midland for which he has become well known. The Midland Studio will be open Tuesday thru Friday 9:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. and on Saturday by appointment only, since Max is photographing weddings nearly every Saturday.

The new Big Spring studio will be open Tuesday thru Friday from noon to 6:00 p.m.

Now the people of Big Spring, as well as Midlanders, can enjoy the fine photography of Max's Studio. Max offers children's and senior's "Personality Portraits," ladies portraits with a glamour-fashion flair, men's executive portraits, pets, groups, parties, weddings, reunions, commercial/industrial, and copy and restoration work, as well as black and white publicity photos and color slide work.

Max specializes in portraiture and his ability to capture feeling in his portraits is evidenced by the many awards which he has won. Max's peers have given his work the Honor of Exhibition fourteen times at the Southwest Professional Photographers Convention. Twice he has been honored by exhibition at their national convention and one time he was the recipient of Honorable Mention on an international level. In 1982 Max also received the coveted Loan Collection Merit Award which was earned by less than 5% of the nation's photographers during that year.

This conscientious photographer is happy to be able to report that he has done over 750 weddings without one failure. "Knock on wood," Max says. Now, Max's Studio has two highly qualified photographers to serve you, so go ahead and call about that summer wedding. Chances are they still have your date available.

As always Max offers four different qualities of portraits at a price to fit any budget or any taste, from economy to elegance.

For photography that keeps sweet memories fresh, call 683-2143.

Saved By The Bell effectively processes insurance claims

Saved By The Bell, a company geared primarily for processing insurance claims, is the brainchild of former Blue Cross Claims Supervisor Linda Bell.

Ms. Bell points out that many doctors, chiropractors, dentists and patients don't get all that they should from an insurance claim simply because the claim is not properly processed.

Often a clerk is expected to be able to process insurance claims. Though the clerk may be conscientious, Ms. Bell suggests that proper and optimum processing requires more skill, experience, and knowledge than many clerks possess.

Saved By The Bell is the answer to this dilemna. As a microbiologist and former claims processor supervisor, this expert has an excellent understanding of the Current Physicians Terminology handbook which governs the coding and processing of insurance claims. She also has the equipment that is required to insure an efficient job - the IBM Doctor's office computer. That means expected turn around on submitted claims is five to ten days.

One of the nicest things about Saved By The Bell is that it allows medical professionals to enjoy the services of a professional without having to pay a salary and benefits for that individual. Ms. Bell works on a contract basis.

Saved By The Bell can also handle medical reports for workmen's compensation, accounts receivable for small businesses, personal injury reports, and word processing.

Saved By The Bell can mean a real reduction in write-offs for medical professionals and great savings for individuals. Call 694-4092 to set an appointment and find out more about this innovative company.

Linda Bell, owner of Saved By The Bell, utilizes her knowledge as a former Blue Cross claims supervisor and an IBM computer to effectively process insurance claims for medical doctors, dentists, chiropractors and individuals. Call 694-4092 to find out how to cut back on unnecessary write offs.

Screening makes the difference at Alliance Personnel Inc.

Probably every company's most valuable asset is its staff. That is why it is so important to have the right professionals in the proper positions. Alliance Personnel Incorporated, which is licensed and bonded, is dedicated to filling positions with the right professional.

Sandy Hanson C.P.C., and Connie Day, the placement professionals at Alliance Personnel, have combined experience of more than twelve years.

Sandy explains that placing professionals involves much more than just running an ad in the paper, collecting applications and "guessing" where an applicant might fit well. She says, "We're not just a paper house."

Sandy and Connie give each of their clients special attention. They take note of the skills required by the position to be filled, along with the atmosphere of the office. Once these placement professionals know just what a client needs the proper applicant can be placed.

To insure that the right candidate is matched with the appropriate position, Sandy and Connie invest much time in quality interviews. With years of experience these professionals know what questions to ask.

Many of the professionals placed by Alliance Personnel come through reliable personal referrals. Regardless of how Sandy and Connie come in contact with a new applicant, they want to become familiar with the applicant's personality, as well that individual's credentials and experience. Moreover, these placement professionals take the time to check all the candidate's references.

Sandy and Connie don't send an applicant to a client's office, until they are certain that the individual is capable of handling the task and compatible with the client's office atmosphere. That is why Alliance Personnel is confident enough to give a 45 day guarantee on the professionals they place. Should employment terminate within 45 days, Alliance Personnel will refund the fee provided they are allowed to replace the candidate.

Careful screening is a priority at Alliance Personnel Inc., 110 W. Louisiana, Suite 120. Whether your company needs an engineer, executive secretary, data processor, geologist, clerk, or any office support personnel call 687-1061.

Copy Craft adds new line, continues high quality service

Ken Craft named 1984 Nashua Dealer of the Year

At Copy Craft, Midland's source for quality diskettes, copy paper, printer ribbon, toner, developer and other supplies, service is more than a word- it's a policy.

This type of attitude is why Ken Craft, president of the company, was recently honored as "Dealer of the Year" for 1984 by Nashua Office Products Division. The award is given in recognition of outstanding performance in marketing Nashua Products, one of the fine lines which Copy Craft carries.

Ken and Letty Craft, Chuck Sonnenberg, Gene Rogers, Karen Neatherlin, Pam Mercer of Copy Craft understand that you don't have time to stop what you're doing to put up new supplies. That's why Copy Craft, a division of Ken Craft, Inc., is a FULL SERVICE company which offers a wide selection at discount prices.

Leaving things at the front door just isn't their style. In fact, Ken Craft explains that they will even be glad to keep an inventory list of your supplies. Depending on your needs, Copy Craft can set up weekly, biweekly, or monthly inventory service. So, whether you need diskettes, copy paper, printer ribbons, toner and developer, computer stock forms and labels, or custom forms, this company is ready to serve you in Midland and Odessa. All it takes is a phone call!

Located on Highway 80, Copy Craft is equipped with a 7500 square foot warehouse. This enables them to offer the widest selection in the Permian Basin at discount prices. Some of the most popular brands which Copy Craft keeps in stock are Nashua Corporation products, Avery, Ko-rec-type, Star forms, Stenocraft products, and 3M products. Ken is proud to announce that they have recently added Wilson- Jones products to their complete line.

Here's a check list of just a few of the things you can get with Copy Craft's outstanding service:

Nashua Corporation products:
Xerographic copy paper
diskettes 5¼" and 8" (with 5 year guarantee) toners/developers for Xerox, IBM,Royal, Savin, Minolta, and Mita copiers

Avery Labels

Wilson-Jones Products
complete line of computer nylon post binders, data cabinets, shredders, and data caddies

Now that's selection and it's only the beginning. Because the selection is so wide, Copy Craft can boast of customers such as accounting firms, banks, schools, and large industrial firms. Their customers have discovered the benefits of working with a local firm. For instance, on the occasion when a customer gets a defective diskette, Copy Craft's customer doesn't face shipping charges and a long delay in getting a replacement. All it takes is a quick call to Copy Craft at 561-9118 and a replacement will be delivered.

One of the most incredible things about Copy Craft is their discount pricing. In most businesses you have to make a choice between service and discount prices. At Copy Craft SERVICE AND DISCOUNT PRICES go hand in hand. Copy Craft says "no" to freight charges, "no" to the quota game and "yes" to customer needs.

You deserve the COMPLETE SERVICE, WIDE SELECTION, and DISCOUNT PRICES of Copy Craft. So call 561-9118 for computer, copier, and typewriter supplies, they'll come to you!

Gene Rogers (left to right), Ken Craft, and Chuck Sonnenberg are proud to be able to offer the kind of service that made Copy Craft the Nashua Dealer of the year for 1984. Nashua is one of the fine lines which Copy Craft offers with full service and discount prices. To find out more call 561-9118.

Petite women largely ignored by designers

Copley News Service

Petite women admit they often get special treatment from men that their taller sisters don't. But when it comes to fashion, they feel as if they've gotten the short end of the stick.

Take panty hose ... please. Consider hemlines, shoulder pads, underwear, designer clothes and slinky evening gowns.

All these are a problem for petites, who said in a discussion that finding clothes is the No. 1 problem for the smaller woman.

"We never wait for sales," said Diane Hauser, 33, who is 5 feet tall and manages a forklift rental office. "If we find something that fits, we buy it; otherwise, it's gone."

While in the last few years, shops catering to the petite have opened and department stores have started stocking small sizes in special petite departments, many petite women report all their problems haven't been solved.

WHICH BRINGS us back to panty hose — the bane of the diminutive adult. It's a product you can't find in the children's department, yet manufacturers don't make them small enough for the woman who stands about 5 feet tall or less and tips the scales at less than 90 pounds.

"We usually have to roll them at the waist to take up the length," said Karen Rockwell, who is 4 feet 11 inches and weighs 87 pounds. Her waist is 20 inches. Rockwell is a real estate broker.

"Or tuck the extra length under at the toe," interjected Caroline Chinn, 34, who is 4 feet 11 inches and weighs 88 pounds.

The women are members of a year-old club that was established as a fashion network and emotional support group for the special needs of the petite woman.

The club for petites (they would rather not be called short) is called 5's The Limit, referring to 5 feet tall. However, some of the members are as tall as 5 feet 2 inches. Depending on to whom you talk, fashion merchandisers consider a woman 5 feet 3 inches or 5 feet 4 inches and shorter to be a petite. Statistics show 50 percent of American women are 5-foot-4 and under.

THE CLUB WAS Rockwell's idea, spawned by meeting another petite woman with whom she could identify.

"It was so nice to be able to look someone in the eye. I wanted to have more friends my height," Rockwell said.

When it comes to social situations, the petite women report they are happy, but in business or work situations, they have a hard time establishing credibility.

"After clothing, credibility is the No. 2 problem of petites," added Rockwell.

Chinn, a dietitian, said when she was a college instructor, on the first day students asked, "Where's the teacher?"

"I was there, standing behind the podium — and they couldn't see me," said Chinn.

She solved the problem by not using the podium. Now in another post, she never meets patients across a big desk that would dwarf her. Instead, she got rid of the desk in her office and sits across from the client so she can establish eye contact.

"At first, you're not taken seriously," said Dena Lahners, 23, who is 5 feet tall. "But your work speaks for itself."

Lahners said being petite can be an advantage.

"You can date shorter men," said Lahners, who is now married to a man who is 6 feet tall.

AND, YES, MEN do often treat petites differently.

They tend to open doors more, and heaven forbid that a petite should try to pick up a package.

"Men rush up and say, 'Let me help you,'" said Chinn.

"They tend to be more protective," said Rockwell.

"I've always loved being petite," said Jerri Skjegstad, 54, who is pampered by her husband and four sons.

Fashions designed for petites range in size from zero to 14, with many of the under-5-footers in the vicinity of size 2.

"That's about the same as a child's size 12," said Rockwell, who knows from experience what it's like to shop in the girls' department.

The current trend of girls dressing like women instead of like little girls is a boon to the petite woman.

Lingerie, except for bras, usually is bought in the kids' department.

"I bought a pair of St. Germain jeans in girls' size 12, and they look just like adults,'" said Rockwell.

Chinn said she bought a girls' size 12 trench coat fashioned just like an adult's.

WHILE EXPENSIVE designer fashions can be found for children as small as toddlers, most designers have ignored the petite market, said Rockwell.

"I would love to be able to walk in and buy high fashion," she said.

The women said petites always must plan ahead because they can never count on walking into a store and finding what they want. And if they do get an unexpected invitation and want something new, they can plan on hemming the outfit with cellophane tape until they can have it permanently hemmed.

"Evening wear in our size is generally out of the question," said Rockwell, who added she usually wears a dressy sweater and long knit skirt to the many formal functions she must attend.

"We can't wear hats, either, because they're always too big," added Rockwell.

"My husband had a fur coat custom-made for me as a surprise," said Rockwell. "He took one of my jackets to a petite shop and had them duplicate it in mink."

Chinn had a mink coat custom-made for her in Hong Kong.

THE WOMEN SAID petites try to elongate their appearance by dressing in one color, never wearing horizontal stripes and using accessories that give the illusion of height, such as a long, thin tie.

The women said petites must be especially conscious of their weight because an extra two pounds can make the difference between fitting and not fitting into a pair of slacks.

"One Mrs. Field's cookie and you've blown it," Rockwell said, laughing.

Fashion modeling not always glamorous life

Associated Press

There is a dark side to the glittering life of the fashion model — a combination of pressures that can lead to tragedy.

Models lead lives that include long, tedious hours in the studio, aggressive men, constant dieting and beauty regimens, according to an article in the May issue of Harper's Bazaar, and they worry their careers could end abruptly with the first wrinkle.

"This is an exciting business," said Frances Rothchild, vice president of the Wilhelmina Agency. "The girls do make a great deal of money. So they are probably subjected to drugs and fast living more than the average person.

"Tragedies do happen. There have been models molested, who died of overdoses, who really ruined their careers because of alcoholism. But of the thousands of girls who've passed through my doors in 18 years, I would venture to say the number of such cases can be counted on the fingers of my hands."

Most models admit there is drug abuse in the industry — but they also say that drugs and modeling don't mix.

Covergirl Carol Alt has never used cocaine, the drug of choice, but she described models who do use it:

"Their skin tone changes, makeup sticks to their faces and the light goes out of their eyes. Really good models always have a sparkle — almost an innocence — in their eyes. We just call it a light. A top echelon model cannot do drugs."

Another problem involves nutrition. Andrea Hadge, a former model turned New York psychotherapist with many model patients, said most models become compulsive about diet and exercise.

"The somatic disorders frequently include anorexia and bulimia — these are the most dramatic, and they require medical intervention," she said. "In addition, models are prone to gastrointestinal disorders — colitis, ulcers."

Fall '85 collections of Ernst Straus, such as the designs shown in the above photos, and Escada will be featured in trunk shows at Julian Gold, 4610 N. Garfield. Staus will be featured Wednesday and Thursday and Escada will be presented June 12 and 13.

Make one-color fashion statement

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're not sure about clothes and it's time to refurbish your wardrobe, try this trick from fashion designer Gabriele Knecht: build your wardrobe around one basic color.

"Using one color makes a stronger, more coherent statement," says Ms. Knecht, whose own collection in white won her the 1984 More Fashion Awards. "One of the best single-statement colors you can use is ivory or off-white. There is nothing more stunning than an entire outfit in ivory."

Earrings easily lost when traveling

Tiny earrings for pierced ears are easily lost when you're travelling and living out of a suitcase. To save yourself from aggravation, here's a tip from Family Circle magazine: Poke your earrings through the lining pocket inside the lid of your travel bag or case. Not only will they stay put, they will be easy to spot when it's necessary to make a quick change.

DEAR ABBY

Obscure condolences create added burden

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We recently suffered the loss of a teen-aged son — a dearly loved, popular boy. His entire school went into mourning, and numerous floral arrangements from his friends were sent. Many were from people known to us, but some were not.

This outpouring of love and affection did, however, present a minor problem. We had (and are still having) a difficult time trying to thank the proper people. (We don't know who "Joannie and Sue" are. And "Jimmy and Ray" are mysteries, as are "The Three Musketeers.")

Abby, please ask your readers to include their full names and addresses with their loving messages when they send flowers. It would make it so much easier for us to thank them.

There are so many details that must be attended to at a time like this, it would help so much. Thank you, Abby. — HIS GRIEVING PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Your letter will get top billing in this column.

Readers, please sign your cards with your first and last names, and include your addresses.

And florists, if the senders don't include this information, please suggest it when flowers are ordered. What a help it would be to the bereaved families who want to express their gratitude promptly.

DEAR ABBY: Our neighbors are lovely people, but we work all day, and are the youngest people in our area. This time of year we have a lot of things to do outside, but every evening someone drops by to visit. That means we have to stop what we're doing and spend anywhere from half an hour to two hours with the chatty neighbors. The only way to get away is to make some excuse to go back in the house — then we get nothing done.

I get the pickling stories, and my husband gets to hear about somebody's carburetor. Every time we show ourselves outside, we get company.

Please advise us. We don't want to make any enemies — just distant friends. — READY TO SCREAM IN IOWA

DEAR READY: People who write with this kind of problem usually do so because they're too timid to do what they know they have to do in order to keep others from imposing on them.

Be assertive! When friendly neighbors wander over to visit while you're working, at the risk of appearing inhospitable, do not give them the big hello. Instead, keep right on working, and without looking up, say, "I wish I had time to visit, but I'm determined to finish this. Let's make it another time, OK?" And keep working.

P.S. You probably won't follow this advice — but you asked.

DEAR ABBY: With all of the advertising and promotions leading up to National Secretary's Day, one would have to be deaf, dumb and blind not to know about this occasion of recognition.

I work for a woman executive who was so insensitive that she called me and wished me a "Happy Secretary's Day" over the telephone! No flowers, no lunch, no nothing! She might as well have slapped me in the face! I have put up with rude, insensitive and bitchy behavior from this woman, and this is the recognition I get.

Happy Secretary's Day to you, too, Boss! I'm looking for a better place to work. — FRUSTRATED IN PHOENIX

Shaving is ancient ritual

BOSTON (AP) — Shaving, one of the most enduring male rituals, dates back thousands of years and even Shakespeare emphasized the desirability of shaving in many of his plays, according to research by a manufacturer of shaving products.

For example, in "Much Ado About Nothing," published in 1600: "I could not endure a husband with a beard on his face." And, from the same play: "Indeed, he looks younger than he did, by the loss of a beard."

But evidence of shaving goes much farther back in history than Shakespeare and his Globe Theater, says Derek W.F. Coward, vice president of marketing for the Gillette Safety Razor Division, with headquarters in Boston. In fact, archaeologists have traced shaving to as early as 4000 to 5000 B.C., he says.

Some 6,000 years ago, the ancient Egyptians first came to use shaving as a defense, he notes. A common way to slay an enemy was to first grasp him by the hair. In order to make oneself less vulnerable to attack, many men shaved their heads.

"Ancient shaving instruments were very primitive," says Coward. "The first shaving instruments are believed to have been made of flint, like other tools of that date."

Clam shells and sharpened animal teeth were also thought to have been used. The first real breakthrough in shaving instruments came around 3000 to 4000 B.C., when copper appeared. Later, around 2400 to 2100 B.C., the invention of bronze led to stronger and sharper shaving tools.

The introduction of iron and steel in knife-like instruments, between 1500 to 500 B.C., provided a far better shave, Coward explains.

"Although shaving was practiced, it wasn't until around 300 B.C., the time of Alexander the Great, that it became customary for men to shave their faces," Coward says. "Once shaving became common, it remained so for eight centuries. Almost the only men who didn't shave were philosophers, because beards made them seem older and wiser."

A clean-shaven face was also a sign of wealth, and the unshaven face soon became the mark of the lower classes or slaves, he points out. A festival was frequently held to celebrate the first time that a young Roman noble shaved.

Men's fashions should be selected to suit individual

Copley News Service

There are few men who look equally as good in every garment they wear, but the average man can make himself look better by following a few simple rules when buying a wardrobe, according to a clothing expert.

The first thing anyone buying a new item of clothing should do is determine what looks best on him, said Marvin A. Blumenfeld, president of April-Marcus Inc., a merchandising consulting firm that represents more than 200 men's stores. "Too many men are influenced by ads that show what celebrities are wearing," he said.

"Even Paul Newman, Burt Reynolds or Robert Redford has certain syles that are more flattering than others," Blumenfeld said.

The best way to determine what will look best is to assess your height, weight and coloring. Once you're aware of your body type, clothes selection will be easier.

"For instance, stripes make a person look thinner and checks make him look heavier. Dark colors also tend to make a person look thinner while lighter ones emphasize stout areas.

"If you're narrow-shouldered, a padded look might give you the appearance of looking broader, while a natural-looking shoulder probably is a better bet for a man with broad shoulders."

Blumenfeld also advised heftier men to avoid the tapered European look in favor of more conservative American styles. "You'll look great in a tapered suit if you're tall and thin, but avoid them if you're short and heavy," he said.

If you're blond and fair-skinned, then shades of brown might be very flattering while certain shades of blue and navy may make you look pale," said Blumenfeld. Men with darker hair and skin, however, might look washed out in certain shades of brown or beige and look far better in darker blues and grays.

Fit is obviously one of the most important considerations when you're buying a garment. If you fall in love with an item of clothing but it requries extensive tailoring, chances are you should leave it and find something that fits better and requires less work. Even the best tailors often have trouble reshaping an ill-fitting garment, he said.

Another way that a person can determine how he looks in an outfit is by the comments he receives from others. "If any particular item you wear always seems to inspire such compliments as 'You look good today,' or 'That's a nice outfit you're wearing,' then you know what you're wearing is special," said Blumenfeld.

Cordova, Reagan discuss Contras

WASHINGTON (AP) — Honduran President Roberto Suazo Cordova, meeting today with President Reagan, is expressing increasing concern about his country's role as a staging ground for U.S.-backed rebels trying to topple the government of neighboring Nicaragua.

At a late-morning meeting, Reagan and Suazo were to discuss a recent Honduran crackdown on the anti-communist Contras operating out of Nicaragua. The two presidents also planned to have lunch at the White House.

In a bid to curb recent cross-border attacks by Nicaraguan forces against rebel units, the Honduran Army has taken over a key Contra headquarters just north of the Nicaraguan-Honduran border, forcing many insurgents to seek refuge at points farther inside Honduras.

For the past several years, the Reagan administration has been attempting to forge close political and military ties with Honduras, telling Honduran authorities privately this is their best defense against what officials here believe is Nicaragua's expansionist policies.

In return for large-scale U.S. economic and military assistance, totaling almost $600 million since 1983, Honduras has been asked not to interfere with the movements of the estimated 15,000 rebels operating in southern Honduras.

Honduras, for the most part, has kept its side of the bargain, offering clandestine assistance to the rebels.

But the congressional vote four weeks ago denying new aid to the Contras left Honduras in a vulnerable position and aggravated Honduras' doubts about the propriety of its role as the principal staging area for the rebel forces. This is believed to have contributed to Honduras' decision to crack down on the Nicaraguan insurgents.

Some Honduran officials see the close ties with the United States and continued acquiescence to the presence of the Contras as a provocation to Nicaragua, which has a far larger and more powerful army.

Still, Suazo values his relationship with Washington and is expected to sign a joint declaration with Reagan that reaffirms the U.S. defense commitment to Honduras, according to American officials.

Shortly after arriving here Monday for his two-day visit, Suazo met with Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

The United States is equally concerned about maintaining friendship with Honduras, mindful of that country's strategic location. The relationship has been disturbed in recent weeks, U.S. officials said, by Honduran attempts to extract more assistance from Washington than the circumstances warrant.

Honduras had sought a separate security treaty with the United States but the administration has said that a simple reaffirmation of existing security ties adequately protects Honduran interests.

This commitment is spelled out in a Western Hemisphere defense pact, known informally as the Rio Treaty. Under that pact, an attack on any of the more than 20 signatories is considered an attack on all.

The Reagan administration has contended in its discussions with Honduras that it did not want to diminish its obligations to other Latin American countries by signing a separate treaty with Honduras.

Eruption expected at Mount St. Helens

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — A possibly explosive eruption at Mount St. Helens could take place within the next two weeks and perhaps within the next few days, a spokesman for the U.S. Geological Survey said.

Steve Brantley of the USGS said in a volcano advisory issued late Monday that "small- to moderate-size explosions" could occur in the eruption, possibly similar in size to the explosion that occurred at the southwest Washington mountain March 19, 1982.

In that eruption, an ash column rose more than 36,000 feet above the volcanco's 8,364-foot-high rim, and a mudflow was produced that sent water, mud and debris roaring down the Toutle River.

Brantley said seismicity had increased slowly at the volcano over the past week and more rapidly on Monday. Rates of ground deformation also have increased, and on Friday, the first vigorous gas emissions occurred since the last eruption Sept. 10, 1984.

That eruption added a new lava flow to the top of the lava dome growing in the volcano's crater. The dome is now about 800 feet high and about 2,700 feet in diameter.

Last weekend was the fifth anniversary of the massive May 18, 1980, eruption that blew the top 1,300 feet off the mountain, devastated a 150-square-mile area and left 57 people dead or missing. Ash fell over much of the Northwest, and a giant ash cloud circled the globe.

Because of the eight-month quiet period since the September eruption, "we're less certain now than during the previous dome-building eruption as to the precise day or couple of days during which an eruption will occur."

Since Friday, scientists have been unable to work in the crater to measure the lava dome or determine its rate of swelling. "If the weather allows us, we anticipate working in crater the next few days," Brantley said. "That information will be very important."

Ex-Navy officer arrested in spy case

BALTIMORE (AP) — A former communications expert accused of passing secrets to the Soviet Union may have spied for much of his 20-year Navy career and probably got some classified information from the aircraft carrier where his son is stationed, the FBI said.

John Anthony Walker Jr., 47, was arrested Monday and accused of dropping about 120 secret or confidential Navy documents in the rural Maryland countryside outside Washington. Authorities said he flashed a gun when agents approached, but dropped it and surrendered.

Some of the documents appear to have come from the USS Nimitz, a nuclear carrier where his son is stationed, a court affidavit said.

Walker, who now works as a private detective in Norfolk, Va., retired in 1976 as a chief warrant officer after 20 years in the Navy. His son was identified as Michael Lance Walker, a yeoman third class.

U.S. Magistrate Daniel Klein Jr. ordered Walker held without bond after being told the former communications specialist may have been supplying the Soviet Union with information for 15 to 18 years, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael Schatzow.

Among subjects covered in the documents seized by the FBI in a wooded area of Montgomery County were deployment of Soviet navy vessels in the Mediterranean and movements of Soviet merchant marine ships, a court affidavit said.

Schatzow said the allegations of long-term spying were based on statements from two confidential informants who took lie detector tests.

"We had to rush this because of what we saw happening at the drop site," said Bill Baker, an FBI spokesman in Washington. "Of course, we will turn close scrutiny now on all of Walker's relatives and contacts."

The Navy would not comment on a CBS News report that young Walker was being questioned by Navy investigators aboard the Nimitz, which was in Haifa, Israel, on Monday.

According to the FBI, a letter among the confiscated documents said, "This delivery consists of material from 'S' and is similar to the previously supplied material. The quantity is limited, unfortunately, due to his operating schedule and the increased security prior to deployment. His ship departed in early March and they operated extensively just prior to deployment."

The letter also solicited advice on ways to improve the photographing of documents.

In a federal complaint filed in Baltimore, Walker was charged with espionage. If convicted, he could face life in prison. A preliminary hearing was set for May 29.

During his 20 years with the Navy, Walker, who retired in 1976, had security clearance and access to classified information on the encryption of naval communications.

The Vietnam veteran was a communications specialist on aircraft carriers and nuclear missile submarines, taught radio procedures at a Navy school, and served on the staff of several major Navy commands, said Lt. Stephen Petropaoli, a Navy spokesman.

Walker apparently relied on the so-called "dead drop," a common spy technique where information is left in a secluded spot, the FBI said.

The FBI said its agents followed Walker Sunday night to an intersection near Poolesville, where he stopped, then drove away.

At the area where the car had stopped, FBI agents recovered a large brown bag, partly filled with trash concealing a package wrapped in plastic containing the classified documents, the FBI said.

The FBI said a Soviet national assigned to the Soviet embassy in Washington was seen in the same area.

Copyright ruling aids officials-turned-authors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rejecting arguments that copyright law must yield to news reporting, the Supreme Court has made it easier for public officials to profit from publishing their memoirs.

By a 6-3 vote Monday, the nation's highest court said a magazine illegally published excerpts from former President Gerald R. Ford's memoirs before his 1979 book was released.

The decision reinstated a $12,500 copyright infringement award against The Nation, which must pay Harper & Row and The Reader's Digest Association, owners of the book's publication rights.

Victor Navasky, the magazine's editor, called the ruling "one from which the publishing industry will not soon recover."

"To permit public officials to withhold public information for private profit undermines the public's right to know and dangerously commercializes the political process," Navasky said.

But Brooks Thomas, president of Harper & Row, called the decision "a significant victory for scholars and authors everywhere."

"It proves, once and for all, that you cannot appropriate another person's expression merely by calling it news," Thomas said. "Far from being a defeat for the First Amendment, it is a victory for free expression and for the right of authors to benefit from the first publication of their own work."

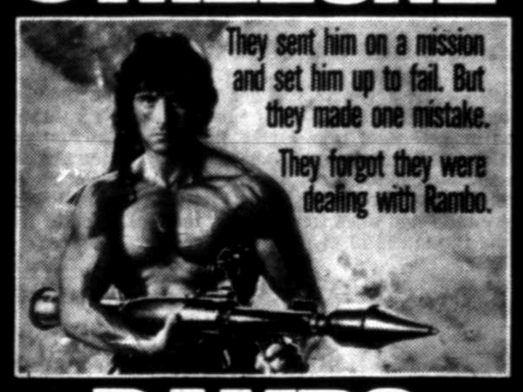

Kenneth O. Gilmore, editor-in-chief of Reader's Digest, agreed, saying, "We are delighted by a decision that re-affirms the right of former government officials to engage in both original journalism and retrospective insight. This decision should benefit writers, publishers and, in the long run, readers."

The Nation, a weekly magazine of political commentary, used some 300 words directly from Ford's manuscript. The book publishers said nearly 2,000 words in the article were either copied from the manuscript or closely paraphrased Ford's writing.

The magazine ran its April 3, 1979, article on the Ford book, "A Time to Heal," just two weeks before the memoirs were to be published.

Pope to visit school, shrine as tour closes

By PHILIPPE NEURAY

LOUVAIN-LA-NEUVE, Belgium (AP) — Pope John Paul II today visits a bastion of liberation theology, the philosophy of social activism that has been criticized by the Vatican, and a shrine where a girl claimed to have seen the Virgin Mary.

On the final day of his 11-day tour of the Netherlands, Luxembourg and Belgium, John Paul's schedule includes a two-hour stop at Louvain-la-Neuve, the French-speaking branch of a university at which several proponents of liberation theology studied.

The Vatican frequently has criticized what it sees as Marxist elements of liberation theology, a movement that began in Latin America in the 1960s that seeks to justifies social action by clergy on behalf of the poor and oppressed.

On Monday, John Paul called at Leuven, the university's Flemish branch, and urged students to protect the faith.

"Theology is dedicated to the safeguarding of faith," he told the students. "It is both an honour and duty for theologians to contribute to this doctrinal strengthening within and for the Church."

The late Colombian guerilla-priest Camillo Torres studied there and Gustavo Guttierez of Peru and Joseph Comblin of Belgium — two noted supporters of liberation theology — graduated from Leuven.

In Louvain-la-Neuve, 15 miles southeast of Brussels, the pontiff will be addressed by the dean and a 22-year-old Polish-born student, Veronique Oruba.

John Paul also planned to visit Banneux, where a 12-year-old girl is said to have seen the Virgin Mary appear in 1933. The place has become a popular pilgrimage site, visited by about 600,000 people a year.

He will meet there with gypsies, German-speaking Belgians and thousands of sick people.

The pontiff's schedule calls for him to leave for Rome this evening.

His six-day visit to Belgium was the most successful part of his tour, which began in the Netherlands on May 11. John Paul met strong opposition from liberals in the Dutch Roman Catholic church on issues such as celibacy for priests, the church's ban on artificial birth control, and its refusal to allow women priests.

However, Cardinal Godfried Danneels, head of the Belgian Roman Catholic church said on the eve of the pontiff's arrival that: "We have the same questions, but we are less radical and we have time."

The pope went from one warm, cheerful Belgian crowd to another and received ovations everywhere he went from young and old, students and workers, nuns, priests and lay workers.

Almost 1 million Belgians cheered the pontiff at his 18 public appearances. Most newspapers gave the first visit to Belgium by a pope heavy coverage, and state television gave assigned 750 people to cover John Paul's trip and provided 40 hours of live programming.

Soviets to supply most of oil, Ortega says

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The Soviet Union has promised to supply leftist Nicaragua with 80 percent to 90 percent of its oil needs this year, President Daniel Ortega announced on his return from a 14-nation tour.

Ortega came home Monday with expressions of support from virtually every country he visited in an attempt to get economic aid to offset the effects of U.S. trade sanctions.

But while many nations said they would not join the embargo, there were few specific public pledges of aid. Ortega declined to disclose how much economic help he was given, but said the trip was worthwhile for the Soviet promise alone.

"This is not the right time to inform about the total amount," he said.

"We know that the results were positive in the political and the economic (areas), but we also know that our economic problems can't be resolved in the short-term with the tour I carried out, since what we are experiencing in Nicaragua is an economy of survival," Ortega said.

Government sources who spoke on condition of anonymity had said Ortega went to Moscow in hopes of getting $200 million in economic aid. Nicaragua needs 15,000 barrels of oil each day, and the amount promised by the Soviet Union would be close to the $200 million figure in value.

Ortega started his trip April 26, days before President Reagan announced a U.S. trade embargo against Nicaragua, but the ruling Sandinista Front leader said from the outset that he was seeking economic aid because the United States was planning "new, aggressive economic actions against Nicaragua."

Ortega had planned to visit only the Soviet Union and Eastern European nations, but extended his itinerary to Western Europe to counteract reaction that the trip showed a further alignment of Nicaragua with the Soviet bloc.

He visited the Soviet Union, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Romania, Spain, France, Italy, Finland, Sweden and Cuba.

The U.S. Congress responded angrily to the trip to the Soviet Union, and it is thought to have increased Reagan's chances to push through aid he is seeking for the Contra rebels fighting against the Sandinista government. Reagan has been repeatedly rebuffed in attempts to restore covert military aid to the Contras.

A Western diplomat said the trip produced little economic benefit for the hard-pressed Nicaraguan government in the form of cash.

"Socialist countries are little inclined to provide economic aid in cash. So far, we don't know if they have signed any new cooperation agreements, but it is almost certain that if one is signed, it will be for technical aid and equipment," the diplomat said, speaking on condition of anonymity for protocol reasons.

Communist leaders in the Soviet Union and its Eastern European allies condemned the U.S. trade embargo, announced May 1.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Gandhi travels to Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi of India arrived in Moscow today for a six-day visit which he said he hoped would lead to a "much deeper understanding" between two nations that already are close.

Soviet Premier Nikolai Tikonov and Andrei A. Gromyko, the foreign minister and first deputy premier, led the delegation of Soviet officials welcoming Gandhi at the airport.

Gandhi's formal talks with Soviet Communist Party leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev are scheduled for Wednesday morning. Indian officials said the talks would be private, with only interpreters present.

Wednesday afternoon, agreements are to be signed providing for Soviet assistance on a range of economic projects, including development of oil, coal and power generation and machine-building.

The Soviets also supply the majority of India's weaponry.

Hong Kong pact date nears

PEKING (AP) — The agreement under which the British colony of Hong Kong will be handed back to China in 1997 is to take effect May 27 when ratification documents are exchanged in Peking, China announced today.

On the same day, a Sino-British Joint Liaison Group will be established to supervise the transition period, the foreign ministry announcement said.

A similar announcement was released by the British Embassy in Peking.

China discovers school scam

PEKING (AP) — Government investigators have closed a phony correspondence school run by unemployed workers and retirees who duped 8,000 people in a scam that began three years ago, the Communist Youth League newspaper said today.

The China Youth News said officials were busy sorting out the affairs of the "Changsha Teach-Yourself College," headquartered in a three-room shack in the Hunan provincial capital since 1982.

The paper said the school fraudulently obtained an official seal and collected about $70,000 in tuition fees by advertising in Hunan, Guangxi, Guizhou and Hubei provinces.

127 to be tried for soccer riot

PEKING (AP) — Newspapers said today that officials planned public trials for some of the 127 people arrested after a ramapage over China's loss to Hong Kong in a soccer game. Thirty policemen were beat up, and a bottle narrowly missed hitting a vice mayor.

Accounts in the state-run media called the Sunday night rampage the worst sports violence in Peking since the Communist Party took power in 1949.

"The riotous act smeared the image of Peking as well as our country. Those who took part in the riot must be severely punished," Vice Mayor Zhang Baifa was quoted as telling an emergency meeting of city officials.

Weinberger seeks apology

BERLIN (AP) — Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger arrived in West Berlin today to re-emphasize demands for compensation and a Soviet apology for the March shooting of an American officer in East Germany.

The trip, details of which have been kept quiet, will provide what aides describe as an opportunity for Weinberger "to pay his respects" to Maj. Arthur D. Nicholson Jr.'s widow and colleagues at the headquarters of the U.S. Military Liaison Mission.

Weinberger also intends to reiterate his outrage over what he has called "a cold-blooded murder" and make it clear to the Soviets that the United States has not forgotten the matter.

Inmates conduct death lottery

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Police say inmates in a jail in east-central Brazil are holding a death lottery, choosing prisoners to execute as a protest against overcrowding and bad living conditions.

Last week, a prisoner in the city jail of Belo Horizonte, the country's third-largest city 290 miles north of Rio, was kicked and beaten to death by inmates after his name was chosen in a lottery by his cellmates, Police Chief Tantonio Alves said in a telephone interview.

Another prisoner was chosen by consensus and also killed, he said Monday.

He said the prisoners have vowed to continue the killings as a protest against poor conditions.

Soviets sign new Pepsi deal

MOSCOW (AP) — Pepsico Inc. and the Soviet government today signed a new trade agreement expected to double production and sales of Pepsi-Cola in the Soviet Union over the next five years.

The agreement runs through 1990 and expands on a previous arrangement for exchange marketing of Pepsi-Cola in the Soviet Union and Stolichnaya vodka in the United States.

Current retail sales of Pepsi-Cola in the Soviet Union are about $200 million annually, and U.S. sales of Stolichnaya vodka are about $100 million each year, said Pepsico's chief executive officer, Donald M. Kendall, in a prepared statement.

Woman's shooting probed

CANCUN, Mexico (AP) — Police said Monday they were conducting a thorough investigation of the shooting death of an American woman but no arrests had yet been made.

In Mexico City, officials of the U.S. Embassy said two American men were questioned by local police in connection with the death of Julie Brahm, 23, of Milwaukee. But they said the men had not been detained and no charges were filed against them.

Agent Beatriz Hernandez of the Judicial Police in Cancun said, "The case is being investigated in depth...with all its details."

She said no arrests had been made, but all aspects of Miss Brahm's stay in Cancun were being examined. "So far it is under investigation," she said. "This takes time."

Annual 'day of hate' held

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The Cambodian news agency SPK said a crowd of 4,000 gathered in the capital to observe the annual "day of hate" against the ousted Khmer Rouge government, which killed millions of Cambodians.

The agency said President Heng Samrin attended the ceremony Monday at the Tuol Sleng Museum of Genocide, a former prison at which thousands of people were executed while the Khmer Rouge was in power from 1975-79.

Vietnamese troops invaded Cambodia in December 1978 and installed the Heng Samrin government the following month. The Khmer Rouge is one of three guerrilla groups now fighting the Phnom Penh government.

A radio station belonging to anti-government forces reminded Cambodians that some of the current leaders, including Heng Samrin, are former Khmer Rouge officials who defected to the Vietnamese.

Swedish workers end strike

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Government employees accepted a 2 percent wage increase and ended an 18-day strike that had paralyzed air traffic, curtailed foreign trade and prompted the prime minister to intervene.

The 265,000-member civil servants union accepted an offer Monday after around-the-clock negotiations with the government and mediators.

A breakthrough was reported Sunday after Olof Palme, the Social Democratic prime minister, said he secretly intervened in the deadlocked negotiations last Wednesday.

Japan to issue warrant for man freed by Israel

TOKYO (AP) — Authorities will issue a warrant for the arrest of Kozo Okamoto, a terrorist involved in the 1972 massacre at Tel Aviv's Lod airport who was released by Israel in a prisoner exchange, police said Tuesday.

National Police Agency officials said they will seek the help of the International Criminal Police Organization in returning the 37-year-old Okamoto.

They said the warrant, to be issued by the Tokyo District Prosecutor's Office, will charge Okamoto with murder for his part in the airport killings.

On May 30, 1972, Okamoto and two other members of the Japanese Red Army group arrived at the Lod airport on a French jetliner and fired automatic weapons and threw hand grenades at the crowd in the luggage collection area, killing 26 people and injuring 78. Sixteen of the victims were Puerto Rican pilgrims.

One of the terrorists then killed himself with a grenade and another was shot by Israeli security agents who captured Okamoto. Okamoto was sentenced to life in prison.

Okamoto was flown from Israel to Geneva on Monday as part of a prisoner exchange in which Israel set free 1,100 pro-Palestinian prisoners to obtain the release of three Israeli soldiers.

Okamoto left with a group of Palestinians Tuesday on a plane bound for Libya, and government officials in Tokyo speculated he will rejoin other members of the Japanese Red Army.

The group emerged during widespread campus unrest in the 1960s, and authorities have said they believe it never had more than 30-40 hardcore adherents.

Japanese police mounted intense operations against the gang and by 1972 it was operating mainly outside Japan, aligned with the Palestinian guerrilla group Popular Revolutionary Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

The Japanese Red Army's first major terrorist act was the hijacking of a Japan Air Lines Boeing 747 to Pyongyang, North Korea, in March 1970. Among the nine hijackers, who still live in North Korea, was Okamoto's older brother Takeshi.

The next year, a Red Army member and four Palestinians hijacked another Japan Air Lines jumbo jet over Amsterdam and later blew up the plane in Libya.

In January 1974, Red Army and Palestinian guerrillas teamed up to attack an oil refinery and hijack a ferry boat in Singapore. That September, three Red Army members occupied the French Embassy in the Hague, Netherlands, and flew to Damascus, Syria, after one of their comrades was freed from a French jail.

Five Red Army members took over the U.S. and Swedish embassies in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, in August 1975 and after winning the release of five terrorists from Japanese prisons fled to Libya.

The Red Army's most recent major act came in September 1977, when several members hijacked a Japan Air Lines plane over India, flew to Bangladesh, and then escaped to Algeria after obtaining the release of six more companions from Japanese jails and $6 million in ransom.

It is believed that the Red Army members operating with radical Palestinians in Lebanon are led by Fusako Shigenobu, a 39-year-old college dropout who once worked as a Tokyo bar hostess to raise funds for the Red Army.

Japan's National Police Agency, in its 1984 annual report, said she had written to leftist journals in Japan saying "we are all back in the front line of the Bekaa Valley" in eastern Lebanon and the Red Army had not abandoned violence as a means of "fighting imperialism."

Chief Cabinet Minister Takao Fujinami said Tuesday, before the police announcement, that the government was considering whether to seek custody of Okamoto from the country where he takes refuge.

It is unlikely Libya or other hardline Arab countries would send him back.

"It is possible that the return of Okamoto, a major objective of Shigenobu, will provide a fresh stimulus" for the Red Army, the Kyodo News Service said.

But Japanese journalists who have visited Okamoto in the Israeli prison where he spent 13 years said he appeared unresponsive.

The daily Asahi Shimbun said in his present mental condition it is doubtful he would rejoin the gang.

Gorbachev seeks more trade

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist Party chief Mikhail S. Gorbachev held his first round of talks with a member of President Reagan's Cabinet and said that increased trade could help restore trust between the superpowers.

"It is high time to defrost the potential of Soviet-American cooperation, and to freeze — or to be more precise, to stop — the arms race and the escalation of hostility," the Soviet news agency Tass quoted Gorbachev as saying Monday.

"In this respect, business ties between both countries can play their role," he was quoted as saying in a 2¼-hour meeting with U.S. Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige.

The Soviet leader, who has coupled calls for a return to detente with blunt criticism of U.S. policy, was quoted as saying "efficient and mutually advantageous cooperation" could develop in several fields.

Both Gorbachev and Baldrige stressed at their Kremlin meeting that increased trade depends on restoring what Gorbachev called the climate of mututal trust, according to accounts of the talks.

Baldrige presented Gorbachev with a letter from President Reagan. Tass said the letter expressed "in general terms the wish for expanding trade between the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R."

The commerce secretary's visit marks the first top-level superpower trade meeting since 1978.

Baldrige told Gorbachev "there probably can be no fundamental change in the trade relationship without parallel improvements in other aspects of the relationship," U.S. Embassy spokesman Jaroslav Verner said.

Verner described the talks as "businesslike, frank and useful." He said Baldrige told Gorbachev the United States had different views and suggested "practical steps" Moscow might take to improve conditions for trade.

Verner would not say whether the suggestions included references to increased emigration from the Soviet Union, an issue that has clouded bilateral trade since the Senate adopted the Jackson-Vannik amendment in 1974.

The amendment, which followed a campaign for freer Jewish emigration by the late Sen. Henry Jackson, revoked the most-favored-nation trading status accorded the Soviet Union in a 1972 trade agreement.

U.S. officials have said it is unlikely to be rescinded unless the Soviet Union eases restrictions on exit permits. Just over 1,000 Jews left the country last year, compared with around 20,000 in 1974.

Before meeting with Gorbachev, Baldrige headed the U.S. delegation at a session of the American-Soviet Joint Commerce Commission, its first in seven years.

Nikolai A. Patolichev, the Soviet foreign trade minister, asked for a renewal of most-favored-nation status in a meeting prior to Baldrige's meeting with Gorbachev.

Besides making credits available to American firms to facilitate trade with the Soviet Union, the status would provide lower tariffs for Soviet goods sold to the United States.

Trade between the two countries in 1984 was worth more than $3.7 billion, with Soviet purchases accounting for 90 percent of it, according to figures from both governments. Most of those imports were grain and other agricultural products.

The trade talks run through today and are expected to focus on broader trade of manufactured items.

Baldrige told reporters earlier that the U.S.-Soviet agreement to resume sessions of the joint commission was part of Reagan's effort to improve relations. He said the talks would concentrate on expanding "non-strategic, peaceful trade."

NOVENA TO St. Jude-Oh Holy ST Jude, apostle and martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage. In recourse from the depth of my heart, I humbly beg to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition. In return I promise to make your name known and cause you to be involved. St. Jude pray for us all who invoke your aid. Amen. Say 3 Our Father's, 3 Hail Mary's and 3 Gloria's.
