Young's successor nominated

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President Carter today nominated Donald F. McHenry to replace Andrew Young as the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

McHenry had been Young's deputy there.

His nomination, announced here while Carter is on vacation, is considered likely to help overcome the president's political problems with black leaders upset over Young's departure. McHenry, like Young, is black. The appointment is subject to Senate approval.

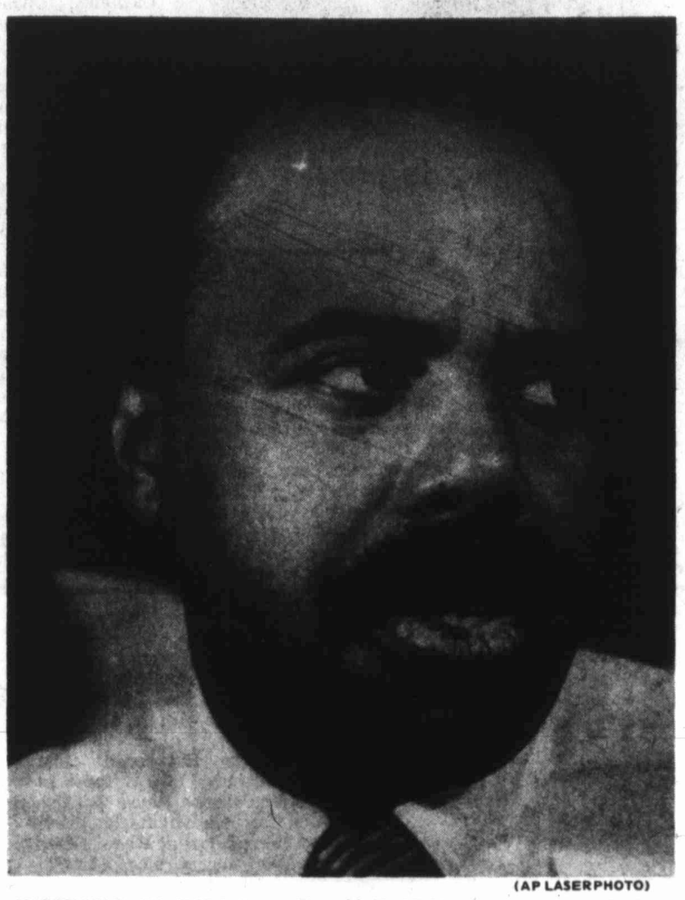

The new nominee, 42, joined the State Department in 1963.

McHenry, deputy chief of the United States' United Nations delegation, guided the airport negotiations over Soviet ballerina Ludmilla Vlasova.

Unlike the outgoing ambassador, McHenry is not identified with the civil rights movement.

Young resigned Aug. 15 amid a furor created by his meeting with a representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization. He has remained in the post until a successor could be named.

In contrast to the free-wheeling style of Young, McHenry is regarded by colleagues as a master of reticent diplomacy, always ready to deflect questions and politely decline those that he might consider sensitive.

SUCCESSOR TO YOUNG? — Donald F. McHenry, deputy chief of the United States Mission who guided the airport negotiations over Soviet ballerina Ludmilla Vlasova, has been chose to succeed U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young, The New York Times reported in its Friday editions.

Texas fishermen hostile

Vietnamese refugees may have to flee again

PALACIOS, Texas (AP) — Truyen Van Trhn stood calmly before an angry, hostile group of 125 Texas fishermen in this sleepy little fishing community Thursday night and told them what they least wanted to hear — he had just bought a fishing boat.

"I borrowed the money from my father and my brothers," the Vietnamese refugee said. "I've had it for about two weeks, but I'm not doing too well, either."

Trhn stood as the lone representative of his countrymen before a hostile, angry crowd wary and fearful of their new competitors. The refugee fishermen have become the focal point of loud protests from native fishermen who claim the foreign influx will force them out of business within five years.

Trhn sat quietly in the rear of the Palacios Recreation Hall and listened as veteran Texas shrimp and crab fishermen discussed ways to end the migration of Vietnamese fishermen to this area.

They mostly feared having their fishing grounds overpopulated and depleted by the refugees, but there were other, more bizarre worries expressed.

"They could be setting up a whole network of mines along the coast," one woman said emotionally. "I see them out there in their boats, but we don't know what they're doing."

Bo Cunningham, spokesman for a group called "PISCES," was far more concerned with too many fishing boats flooding into the area.

"We understand there will be about 600,000 Vietnamese coming into this country next year, and it seems like they are all coming to Texas," Cunningham said. "A great number of them will settle in the east, but they are a warm-climate people and when the first of winter hits, they will come to the coast.

"At the present rate of escalation, within the next five years you're going to see people who were born and raised in this industry looking for other jobs."

Another fisherman, Ed Lambright of Port O'Connor, said the refugee fishermen did not observe common courtesies normally practiced by native fishermen.

"We have what you call a gentlemen's agreement that we don't crowd each other," Lambirght said. "But the Vietnamese will pull right across our rigs, and this is the type of thing that causes bad feelings."

Lambright charged that his civil rights were being violated because Vietnamese fishermen were taking away from his income. Cunningham added, "I think every senator and representative in Washington should have to share his wages with a Vietnamese and we'll see how they like it."

At a nearby trailer park where most of the Vietnamese refugees live, Dang Lan Ba talked quietly while watching his countrymen mend their nets.

"We don't want any trouble," he said. "We just want to live here peacefully and live by the rules."

Ba said prior to leaving his native country his family received only six pounds of rice per month for each person. "To get enough to eat, we'd have to go to the black market," he said. "We didn't have any freedom there."

H.M. Forester broached a subject that had been raised by others in private. "I'd like to know how these people can come in here in five years and buy a boat when it took me all my life," he said.

"I fought in World War II and didn't even get the GI Bill."

That question was addressed earlier in the day by U.S. Rep Joe Wyatt, D-Texas. He said there has been plenty of conversation to the effect that Vietnamese are receiving subsidies or low-interest loans to buy boats.

"I could find that they are getting no preferential treatment," he said.

Tensions between local and refugee fishermen passed the boiling point early this month at nearby Seadrift. An American fisherman was shot to death, and two Vietnamese have been charged. Vietnamese boats were burned, and feelings in Seadrift continue to run high.

Cunningham warned the meeting that violence could result unless the federal government intervened.

His assessment agreed with that of a federal official, who declined to be identified.

"You're going to see a situation in Texas more volatile than Seadrift in the next 12 months," the official told The Associated Press.

Wyatt, who was invited to the meeting here but did not attend, backed up the official. "I think they should be scared," he said. "I think it's volatile."

Wyatt also said the situation would become a new political issue in his district. "My personal feeling is that we ought to accept the Vietnamese. At the same time, the Vietnamese present a unique situation. Unfortunately, they're not getting enough background in American customs and property rights."

The federal source said government programs for the Vietnamese were plentiful, but disjointed. "There's no handle, no coordination," he said.

Is Howard County disaster area?

By EILEEN McGUIRE

Has Howard County been declared a disaster area?

News wire services and radio reports say yes as does a statement issued from Congressman Charles W. Stenholm's office. The district director of the Small Business Administration, Philip O'Jibway in Lubbock, says no.

"There's a little confusion," said O'Jibway in a telephone interview Thursday afternoon.

Martin County has been declared a disaster area for food damages received July 19, according to O'Jibway. As an adjacent county to a declared disaster county, Howard County may be eligible for some specific claims of damage related to the same disaster that struck Martin County, but "Howard County has not been declared a disaster area," he said.

Individuals in Big Spring and Howard County may be eligible for low interest Small Business Administration Loans on specific damage claims as a result of the July 19 flooding that hit particularly hard on the north side of town, according to O'Jibway.

All counties adjacent to Martin County are eligible for related damages. Those counties include Howard, Glasscock, Midland, Andrews, Gaines, Dawson and Borden Counties.

O'Jibway is director of a district of 81 counties.

Two representatives from the Lubbock office, Bud Wassell and Ray Chapa, are in Stanton justifying claims. The two officials met with the public at a 7 p.m. meeting Thursday to explain the agency's low interest loan program for flood victims.

The two will man an office at the Martin County Community Center today, Tuesday and Wednesday if claims justify their need there, said O'Jibway. Any person with a specific claim from Howard County may take the claim to the representatives. Any questions about claims may also be referred to O'Jibway's office in Lubbock, area code 806, 762-7462.

According to a statement issued by Cong. Stenholm's office Thursday afternoon, the Small Business Administration Office will accept loan applications for physical damages related to the July 19 flooding until the close of business hours, Oct. 25, 1979. Applications for economic injury will be accepted until the close of business, May 26, 1980.

Some of the confusion over area disasters also exists between two separate disasters that have hit Martin County this summer.

The declaration of Martin County as a disaster area was made shortly after the county experienced extensive crop damage due to hail and high winds that struck the county Aug. 20. The declaration has nothing to do with the Aug. 20 storm, however.

Martin County was declared a disaster county in relation to the July 19 flooding, according to the Small Business Administration. Martin County has not yet been declared a disaster area in hail damages, according to the Martin County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

According to the "Stanton Reporter," Martin County suffered in excess of $4 million damages to crops from hail and high winds Aug. 20.

At least 10,000 acres reportedly received heavy damages while another 5,000 acres substained some loss from the storm. Rain, hail and high winds reportedly pulverized cotton, completely wiping out some farms while missing others in the same area.

Gusty winds were reported to have reached 90 miles per hour in north Stanton and northeast of Stanton, accounting for much of the damages. The northwest area also sustained heavy damages from the storm.

Martin County Farm Bureau Insurance Agent Bob Deavenport estimated that only about 25 percent of the farmers sutaining crop damage had crop-hail insurance.

Business and residential damages were also reported in Stanton. Damages included broken windows from the high velocity winds and large limbs torn down from trees resulting in some damages to roofs. Several travel trailers were also damaged, including one that blew over near IS 20.

There were reports that two funnels clouds were spotted over Stanton during the 5:30 p.m. storm, though the reports were not confirmed.

According to [redacted]tin County ASCS Office [redacted] substaining crop damages [redacted] eligible for some benefits and claims are being handled by that office.

According to Howard County ASCS Executive Director Tim Hall, some Howard County farmers who received crop damages from Aug. 20 storms may also be eligible for some benefits, though it has not yet been officially approved.

Hall said that damages in Howard County have been very light compared to Martin County and "only about ten producers in the county may qualify."

He estimated that 600 acres have been lost to hail and 2,000 acres partially damaged in five different locations, including Elbow, Knott, Luther, some around Ackerly and some along Snyder Highway.

"Damages have been small compared to Martin County and counties to the north," Hall said.

Last week's hail damage in the Plains area may total as high as $150 million, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown said.

The original damage estimate was $100 million.

"It was the worst hail storm ever in that part of the state," Brown said. "The hail was only marble size but there were wind gusts of 40 to 80 miles-per-hour in an area eight miles wide by 100 miles long."

Brown said a total of 228,000 acres were damaged with 79,000 acres of crops destroyed. Mostly affected were corn, cotton, soy beans, milo, sugar beets and sunflower seed.

The hardest hit counties were Cochran, Lamb, Hockley and Moore.

$750 donated by Solid Rock

The Bible Fund, which gave every indication it was dying Thursday, showed marvelous recuperative powers during the 24-hour period ending at noon today.

Thanks to a $750 donation from an organization known as the Solid Rock, the campaign kitty grew by over $1,000.

The sum now collected or pledged totals $9,893.04, which doesn't leave it too far short of its $12,000 goal.

The drive will formally end this weekend but donations can still be mailed either to Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor, Big Spring First Baptist Church; or to the Herald.

The money is used to underwrite the expenses of Bible chairs at Howard County High Schools.

Latest donations include:

Other helps for aged poor

By WILLIAM STEIF

(Fifth of 14 parts)

Social Security is not the same as welfare. Nevertheless, welfare is connected to Social Security because the incomes some people get from Social Security are too low for them to live on.

For example, many veterans get both Social Security and veterans' pensions (not compensation for service-connected disabilities).

The veteran who gets a very low Social Security check — say, the current minimum of $122 a month — is encouraged to apply for a pension that will add $173 a month to his income if he is single.

This still won't make him very comfortable. It will bring his annual income up to $3,540 a year — $1,464 from Social Security, the rest from his veterans' pension.

In addition to veterans' pensions, there are other welfare programs to help low-income Social Security recipients.

One is Supplemental Security Income, which replaced state programs for the needy aged, blind and disabled on Jan. 1, 1974.

SSI is designed to assure a minimum income for all eligible aged, blind and disabled people. It is federally financed from the treasury's general revenues and administered by the Social Security Administration. In some states, state programs supplement federal SSI.

Another welfare program is food stamps, which the Agriculture Department gives out to enable poor people to have enough to eat.

Still another is Medicaid, the state-run program that provides health care for the poor.

Some Social Security recipients, especially those with long-term illnesses, cannot afford Medicare's small monthly payments and must go to Medicaid for help. This is particularly true of those who must live in nursing homes for long periods.

All of these welfare programs are "means tested." That is, the federal or state agencies that operate them must know the applicant's income to determine his eligibility.

These programs can help that 14 percent of Social Security recipients whose incomes are below the federal poverty line. But they are quite distinct from Social Security. Although welfare is a matter of legal right, almost everyone prefers not to have to use it.

By contrast, Social Security is regarded as something that has been earned. It has no means test. Although it is weighted toward lower-income earners, it is something of which anyone can be proud to say: "I earned my retirement income."

Action/reaction: Who paid?

Q. Everybody is cutting on city expenses. Who is going to pay for the free dance and barbeque at Howard College, the taxpayer?

A. This activity is paid from the student activity fee, $10 paid by each full-time student per semester. Out of the 146 persons served, 81 hold cafeteria meal tickets and would have been provided an evening meal, anyway. For the dance, persons without Howard College Student I.D. cards were required to pay $1 admission.

Calendar: Registration ends

TODAY

Big Spring State Hospital Volunteer Service Council's rummage sale at old 7-11 Store, 11th and Settles Streets, extends through Saturday. Hours are from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Late registration ends at Howard College. Hours extend to 8:30 p.m.

A get acquainted coffee in the Wesley United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall, 12th and Owens Streets, for all women of Big Spring at 10 a.m.

Tops on TV: Read a book

Even PBS bombed out on tonight's schedule. The network's big offering for the evening is a tour of a national park in Rumania which airs at 8:30 p.m. You might want to try your luck with "Leave Yesterday Behind," starring John Ritter as polo player crippled in an accident and helped by his flame, played by Carrie Fisher. It airs at 8 o'clock on ABC. But really, why not read a book?

Inside: New laws

ONE OF THE NEWS laws passed by the Texas Legislature which went into effect Monday, may put some small businesses out of business. See page 3-A.

Cadillacs to be recalled

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. says fuel hoses on about 41,500 Cadillac Sevilles could cause fires in the engine compartment and has ordered the recall of the vehicles, all equipped with fuel injection.

Company spokeswoman Patricia Montgomery said Thursday two persons have been injured in 37 such fires GM is aware of. GM said the problem involves leaks in the fuel hoses, caused by deterioration at the connections. Owners can have new hoses and clamps installed at no charge, GM said.

GM offers rust warranty

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. has joined the list of automakers offering rust warranties.

The country's largest automaker said Thursday its 1980 model cars and trucks would carry a warranty for three years against "corrosion perforation," for unlimited mileage. Rust of exhaust system components and rust other than "corrosion perforation" is covered under the ordinary 12-month, 12,000-mile warranty.

Ford Motor Co. and American Motors Corp. offered similar warranties earlier this year. For 1980 models, AMC extended the warranty to five years.

Andrews man reports abduction, stabbing

Big Spring Detectives will investigate an abduction and stabbing of an Andrews man here, early Thursday morning.

Local investigators were alerted of the incident only after the victim had reported it to Andrews officers.

According to reports, Robert McCrary, 29, suffered a minor knife wound after two men reportedly dragged him from his room at the Big Spring Holiday Inn.

McCrary said the two forced him outside the motel and took him down the road, where they told him they wanted his wallet, money and credit cards.

He said that as they talked, one of the men pulled a knife and forced McCrary to remove his shoes. The victim reportedly kicked at the man holding the knife, striking the blade with his toe, where he received the wound.

He then escaped into some nearby bushes. He was not followed. After the abductors left, McCrary went to a local hospital where he was treated and released.

The assailants were described as being long-haired, one with shoulder-length dark hair and mustache, and the other with shoulder-length brown hair.

Three dates pegged by Lone Star Scouts

Three important dates were pegged by the Lone Star Boy Scout District committee at its meeting Thursday evening at the First Presbyterian Church.

The first is the annual Fall Roundup for Cub and Scot enlistment which has been set for the week of Oct. 1-5 with Jerry Phillips as chairman. The plan is to visit in the elementary schools with boys, then follow up within a day or two with an organizational meeting with parents for the Cubs. A meeting for boys 11 and above will be set for the evening of Oct. 2 at Goliad school.

The autumn camporeer, billed as a "skills and thrills" event, has been set for Oct. 20 at the Scout campgrounds off the Country Club road. Units may set up camp the evening of Oct. 19 if desired, but all units will be in camp the night of Oct. 20, breaking after breakfast and religious rites the next morning.

The third date is Dec. 7 for the annual district leaders recognition banquet, which this year will be a pot-luck affair by units and to be held in Garrett Hall of First Methodist with its Scout unit as official host.

Criminal activity slows down in city

Criminal activity was light in the city Thursday.

Burglars stole four sets of pipe jacks and a set of pipe stands from a welding shop belonging to Robert Davis, 1015 E. 21st, sometime Wednesday night. Loss was estimated at $425.

Vandals hit the concession stand at the American Little League Field, sometime Thursday. A screen and plate glass window were broken and three padlocks were cut at the stand. Damage was estimated at $200.

A lodger left the West Wind Motel, 2004 S. Gregg, Thursday morning without paying the bill for three nights. Loss was estimated at $44.94.

Two mishaps were reported Thursday.

A parked vehicle belonging to Aliene E. Shultz, 3718 Hatch, was struck by a vehicle that left the scene at 208 W. 18th, 3:10 p.m.

A parked vehicle belonging to Virginia Burke, Bedford, was struck by a vehicle that left the scene in the parking lot of the West Wind Motel, 11:43 a.m.

IRA guerrillas sought in bombing

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Irish security forces fanned out along the border with the Irish Republic today hunting two IRA guerrillas they believe detonated the bomb that killed Earl Mountbatten, official sources said.

They said Irish security chiefs believe four guerrillas were involved in the explosion aboard the 79-year-old soldier-statesman's fishing boat Monday, and two men already charged with murder planted the bomb and drove off, leaving it to be detonated by remote control by the other pair.

However, a government spokesman said, "The position is still very fluid. The investigation is continuing despite the charges brought yesterday."

Two alleged members of the Irish Republican Army's Provisional wing were charged Thursday with Mountbatten's murder, and a police source said at the time he believed at least six IRA men were involved.

Decrease in enrollment to force expenses cut

Members of the Big Spring school board received some good and bad news from Assistant Superintendent-Business Don Crockett at their meeting Thursday evening.

If the current trend in enrollment holds, the system must start monitoring its expenses more closely and find ways to further reduce expenses, Crockett said.

"During the first four days of school, we are down by as much as 185 students from last year," the assistant superintendent told the board, "however, we won't peak until some time in October."

How much state aid the local school will receive, of course, depends upon the total enrollment.

"I had indicated that we came within $88,000 of receipts forecast for last year," Crockett said. "We did not receive as much state funding as we had anticipated because our enrollment did not meet forecasts at budget time last year. In order words, we over-estimated the enrollment.

"Looking at the current year, the trend is for a further drop in enrollment to the extent that if that drop materializes it will affect our state revenue again.

"We were able to offset our loss in revenue by under-expanding our budget by over $200,000."

Board members modified the district's transfer policy.

Younger children beginning school will be allowed to start in the Big Spring district if older brothers or sisters are attending district schools.

School Superintendent Lynn Hise said the policy previously stated no students could transfer into the district. The modification keeps families from being split into two districts.

In other action, trustees approved the filing of the budget with the Texas Education Agency.

Quinones posts $10,000 bail

Isidro Quinones, Wyoming Hotel, was released today on $10,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin. Quinones was charged Thursday with aggravated assault against J.C. Nixon, 72, Wyoming Hotel manager.

Police reports state a man entered Nixon's room Sunday and stabbed him several times in the face and back.

Average driver in Howard County to pay $22 more for insurance

The average driver in Howard County will pay $22 more per yars for full line automobile insurance under rates approved by the State Insurance Board Thursday.

The board approved increasing rates in Howard County from $293 per year to $315 per year.

Rates for drivers in Borden, Dawson, Glasscock, Martin and Mitchell Counties increased $31 per year, from $265 to $296.

The rate is based on a 1979 median price Ford, Chevrolet or Plymouth which is not used in business. There can be no male driver under 25 years of age or female driver under 21.

The coverage is the standard $10,000-$20,000-$5,000 liability, $5,000 personal injury protection, $50 deductable comprehensive and $200 deductible collison.

White rules invalid Clements' vetoes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Attorney General Mark White today held invalid Gov. Bill Clements' vetoes of a new state welfare building, $50 million in college construction funds, improvements to the Sun Bowl in El Paso and higher parking fees for government workers.

White's opinion went to Clements, Chairman Bill Presnal of the House Appropriations Committee and Homer Foerster, executive director of the State Board of Control.

The opinion came out one day before the general appropriations act for fiscal 1980 and 1981 takes effect.

In the case of the welfare building, the Sun Bowl improvements and increased parking fees, White said Clements had vetoed riders — not items of appropriation. The Texas Supreme Court has ruled in the past that the governor's authority to veto state expenditure items does not extend to riders.

White said the governor lacked authority to veto an item authorizing expenditure of state property tax revenue dedicated to college construction, about $50 million.

The 10-cent per $100 valuation tax is imposed by the Texas Constitution and dedicated to 17 state colleges outside the Texas A&M and University of Texas systems.

"Since these funds are appropriated by the constitution, they are not subject to veto," White said.

The new building for the Texas Department of Human Resources, which Clements veto, would cost an estimated $40 million in federal funds. The structure also would house the Texas Youth Council and would be built on land already owned by the state.

No pricetag was placed on additions and other improvements to the Sun Bowl at the University of Texas at El Paso. The money would come from the Permanent University Fund, which receives the income from oil lands dedicated to UT and A&M.

The parking fee rider authorized the Board of Control to set parking fees for state employees at $6 to $16 in place of the $3 per month currently charged.

Unity: Carter's theme

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President Carter is home for a long Labor Day weekend after a 15-hour road trip that combined politics, pleas for energy conservation and a call for unity between blacks and Jews.

"I feel good, a little sleepy," the president said late Thursday after a grueling day in muggy Atlanta and rainy Tampa, Fla., where he capped his visit with a helicopter ride through streaks of lightning.

Friends and neighbors arranged a "welcome home" picnic for 500 people tonight in Carter's honor.

Unity was the theme Thursday for the president, an undeclared candidate for re-election plagued by low standings in the polls and defections within his Democratic Party to a draft-Kennedy movement.

Dressed in an academic robe, Carter invoked that theme at Emory University in Atlanta with a sober appeal to blacks and Jews to weather the storm over the resignation of United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young.

"We must not permit diversity to degenerate into division," Carter said.

At a town meeting on energy a few hours later in Tampa, he sounded the same theme. By facing the energy crisis together, Carter said, "We can have a better life, a happier life.... Our nation can be unified more, families can be closer."

The underlying political theme was unity too — unity behind candidate Carter.

He reached out repeatedly to shake hands at airports. In Tampa, neither the pouring rain nor the thunder and lightning could stop him.

Wearing a gray rain slicker and at one point donning a red fireman's hat to keep dry, the president continued the style he favored during his Mississippi River cruise last week and greeted crowds from one end of a restraining rope to the other. His wife, Rosalynn, did the same.

The Florida stop, particularly, was rife with political undercurrents since Democrats there plan a straw poll on presidential candidates in November.

It also holds one of the nation's first primaries and is the scene of an effort to draft Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts for the Democratic nomination.

Sen. Richard Stone, D-Fla., predicted a "three-ring circus" at the state convention in November unless Kennedy withdraws unequivocally.

In Atlanta, to an outdoor audience that included Coretta Scott King, wife of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., the president called on blacks and Jews to set aside their differences in the interest of national unity.

"Black Americans and Jewish Americans have worked side by side for generations," he said. "Both groups have suffered too much pain, too much persecution, too much bigotry to compound that suffering in any way."

Warning that other nations are in danger of being torn apart by ethnic, political and religious divisions, Carter implored: "We must seek resolution of differences, and we must stand with each other to prevent all these quarrels of the world from being imported into our own national life."

Young, who was scheduled to appear with Carter at Emory but was called back to the United Nations, resigned Aug. 15.

Tropical storm movement erratic

By the Associated Press

Tropical Storm Elena weakened slightly early today, but continued churning across the Gulf of Mexico about 150 miles southeast of Galveston.

Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center at Miami said the movement was erratic during the night, mainly because of the poorly defined center of the storm.

At 5 a.m., the center of the storm was estimated to be near latitude 27.0 north and longitude 94.0 west.

Forecasters said the storm had perhaps weakened enough to have winds below tropical storm strength of 40 mph, but said gale warnings would continue for the coast between Port O'Connor and Morgan City, Louisiana.

An Air Force plane was to investigate the storm today to determine if Elena had lost tropical storm strength winds.

Tides were running up to 2 feet above normal along the Louisiana and upper Texas coast early today.

No mention was made in the latest bulletin as to when and where the storm might reach land.

Beer distributors 'celebrate' new law

Shiner-less days may be ahead

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — It's nothing to celebrate when a law takes effect that will hurt, and possibly kill, your business.

So Monday, the day several hundred bills passed by the 1979 Legislature took effect, two young beer distributors adversely affected by one law hosted "a celebration of nothing to celebrate."

That's how bearded, 25-year-old Bob Leggett described "The Last Keg Party," a Shiner beer giveaway on the dock of the downtown Austin distributorship that he and partner Marshall McHone, also 25, operate with two employees.

At their expense, several hundred Austinites drank from kegs of Shiner beer, named for the small central Texas town where German immigrant August Spoetzl opened a brewery in 1909.

Seventy years later, Spoetzl is the last small, Texas-owned brewery. The product, a mixture of natural ingredients sans sugar, is marketed from Dallas south to Corpus Christi, and from Fredericksburg east to Beaumont.

But Leggett and McHone say Shiner-less days may be ahead because of the bill which became law Monday.

During the legislative session, that bill pitted small breweries like Spoetzl in a David-versus-Goliath battle against major beer companies. This time the little guy lost.

As a result, Shiner is "an endangered species." Or so it said on Leggett's T-shirt, beneath a political cartoon reprinted from an Austin newspaper.

The cartoon shows two bug-eyed consumers, cash in hand, buying beer from a third man — the distributor — who stands on a dock laden with kegs and cases of Shiner.

The new law forbids such direct distributor-to-consumer sales. It sets up a "three tier system" which allows consumers to buy only from retailers, retailers only from distributors and distributors only from brewers.

Leggett said about half of his keg sales and a tenth of his case sales were to consumers at the dock. He and McHone set aside 31 hours a week just for such sales.

At the dock, customers paid $23.95 for a keg of Shiner, each of which fills 180 12-ounce cups, Leggett said. Now, he estimated, customers will pay up to $4 a keg more at the retailers.'

"We've lost the personal touch that was a big part of our sales," moaned Leggett, more sober than his partner after tapping eight kegs.

"We don't have the dollars of a Budweiser or a Lone Star or a Coors. We have to rely on personal contact for our sales promotion."

On this night, after four hours of milling and swilling, many dockside partiers admittedly here ignorant about the issue they were facetiously celebrating.

"I'm just here 'cause my buddy heard from some guy, who heard on the radio, that there was free beer here," said a young man who'd obviously taken advantage of the situation.

Looking over the inebriated but well-behaved crowd, Leggett said, "A lot of those people will continue to drink Shiner but a few of them won't."

He and McHone now will have to spend more money on advertising and more time visiting retailers to push their product, Leggett said. But even stepped-up efforts to promote Shiner may be in vain due to another, more publicized aspect of the law.

During the legislative session, opponents dubbed the bill "the itty bitty beer bottle bill" because it allows 7, 8 and 16-ounce containers. Currently, only 12, 24 and 32-ounce containers are marketed.

The law's size provisions take effect January 1. "Ultimately, it will be the size provisions that will hurt Shiner," Leggett said.

More bottles, he explained, "will take up space in the grocery and convenience stores, further straining shelf space, which means something will have to go."

That something probably will be Shiner, Leggett said, because Spoetzl and its distributors do not have the financial resources of a major company for marketing additional bottle sizes.

A coalition of major brewers, their distributors and liquor manufacturers successfully lobbied for the law. It is a compromise whereby the major brewers got the multi-size packaging they sought, and distributors got protection from a national trend of take-overs by breweries.

Six SEDCO workers killed in plane crash

DALLAS (AP) — Officials of SEDCO said today six of their employees were killed with three other victims in a plane crash in a remote area of northern Canada during a crew change at an offshore drilling rig.

The crash occurred two days ago at 11 p.m. local time as a Bradley Air Charter plane was attempting to land near Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island in far northeastern Canada about 100 miles south of the Arctic Circle.

"They were all key employees," said Charles Pubaugh, vice president for operations of the Dallas-based drilling equipment company that was founded by Gov. Bill Clements.

"They had taken off from Brevoort Island on a routine crew change off a drilling rig. The rig is in Canadian waters off Baffin Island," Purbaugh said.

He said the crash occurred Wednesday night, but information coming from the crash site was sketchy.

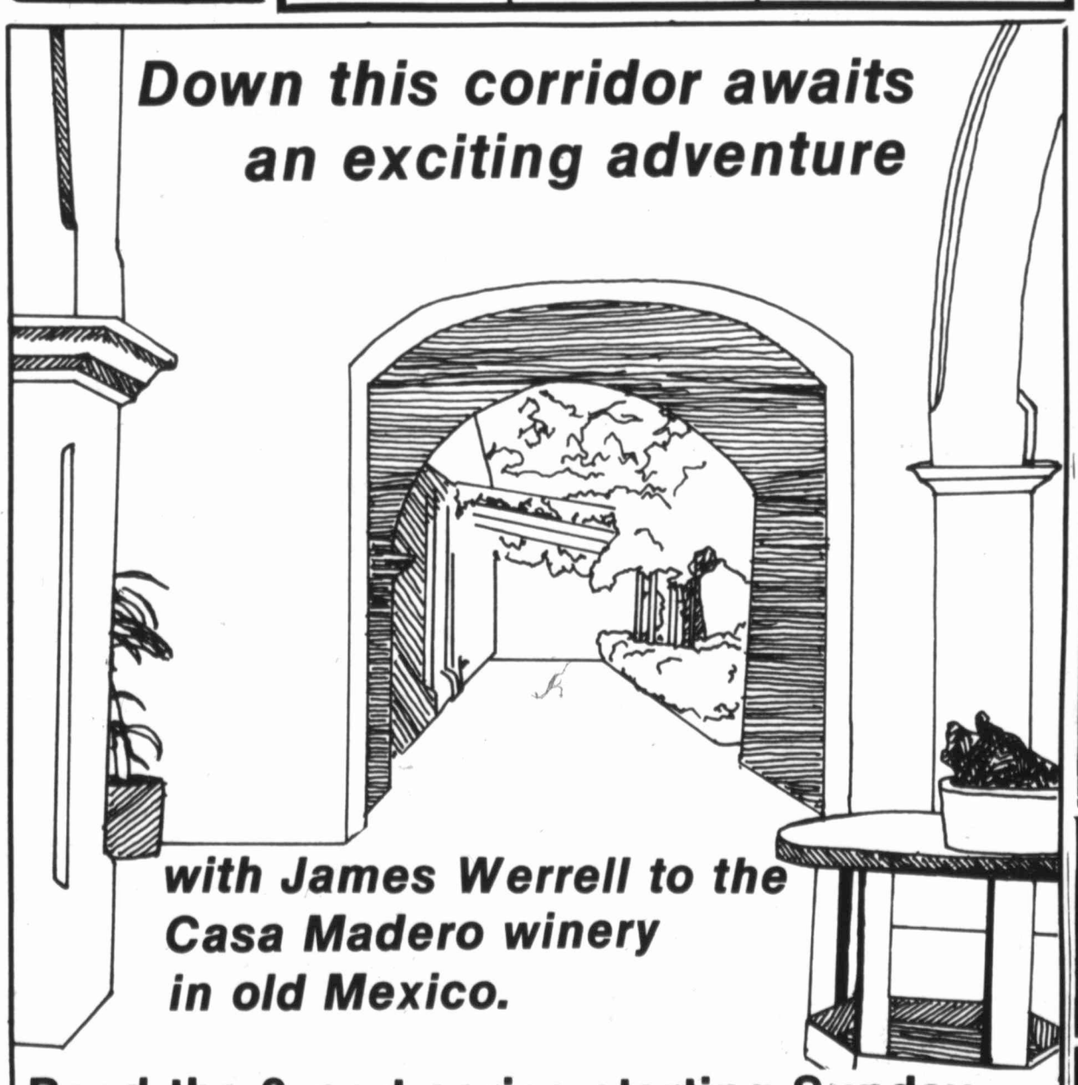

"The Mounties and the Canadian DOT (transportation department) are investigating. Information is slow coming out, but we know there were no survivors," Purbaugh said. "We have no names at this time. It may be sometime next week before we have identities."

Company officials said the victims had been on the Canadian rig for 28 days when the crash occurred.

'Living will' law simplifies matters

Changes in the Texas 'Living Will' law simplifies matters for terminally ill patients to have their own life support measures withdrawn. So says the Texas Medical Association.

The Texas Natural Death Act states that an adult can sign a document saying that a physician can halt life support measures that would only artifically prolong the moment of death.

THE STATE Legislature passed the law two years ago and amended it during the last session. Changes permit a patient to sign the document as soon as two doctors have said the patient is terminally ill. Another change keeps the document in effect until the patient cancels it.

People who champion the law say it does not legalize mercy killings. It only permits terminally ill patients to decide their own fates. Only adults can fill out the forms and for no one other than themselves.

Someone does not have to be terminally ill to fill out a directive but it only will indicate his or her wishes and will not be legally binding. The more widely known Living Will is not legally binding under any circumstances within this state.

The Living Will, which is distributed by the Concern for Dying organization in New York, says in part: "I do not fear death itself as much as the indignities of deterioration, dependence and hopeless pain. I therefore ask that medication be mercifully administered to me to alleviate suffering even though this may hasten the moment of death."

THE TEXAS Natural Death Act does not mention medication but it does say in part: "where the application of life-sustaining procedures would serve only to artifically prolong the moment of my death and where my physician determines that my death is imminent whether or not life-sustaining procedures are utilized, I direct that such procedures be withheld or withdrawn, and that I be permitted to die naturally."

The directive must be signed by the patient and by two witnesses who are not related to the patient and who will not benefit from any inheritance.

One can obtain free copies of the Texas Natural Death Act directive by writing Texas Medical Association, Communications Department, 1801 North Lamar Blvd., Austin, Texas 78701.

Empty war chest

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Fund-raising for Jimmy Carter's reelection has gone bone dry the last two months, an experience unprecedented in the modern presidency that could rule out an effective 1980 Carter campaign.

President Carter's money appeals are rejected by sources on which he had depended: the Jewish community, elements of the oil industry, businessmen particularly dependent on government decision. Washington lobbyists have stopped tapping clients' bank accounts. Selling tickets to Carter fund-raisers is hard labor.

This reflects not only the president's deteriorating political condition but practical campaign problems. His present cash-on-hand is reported at $947,350, but the easy money has been raised. Nobody can imagine how to raise the additional $4 million that ought to be there by January for Carter to collect enough federal matching funds to run the kind of pre-convention campaign he needs.

HEAVY EARLY FUNDING is necessary because of the prospect Carter will lose early primaries, whether or not Sen. Edward M. Kennedy opposes him. That means Carter's only chance will be slogging it out in every primary, which indeed is his plan. For that reason, knowledgable supporters and even some administration officials privately talk about the possibility of his empty war chest forcing him out of the race.

None of this seemed imminent as summer began with $1.5 million raised for Carter. The first chill came when ticket sellers encountered massive sales resistance for Carter's $1,000-a-plate kick-off dinner at the Washington Hilton Hotel June 25. Although the $174,214.45 net profit was close to the original target, it was reached only after prodigious effort.

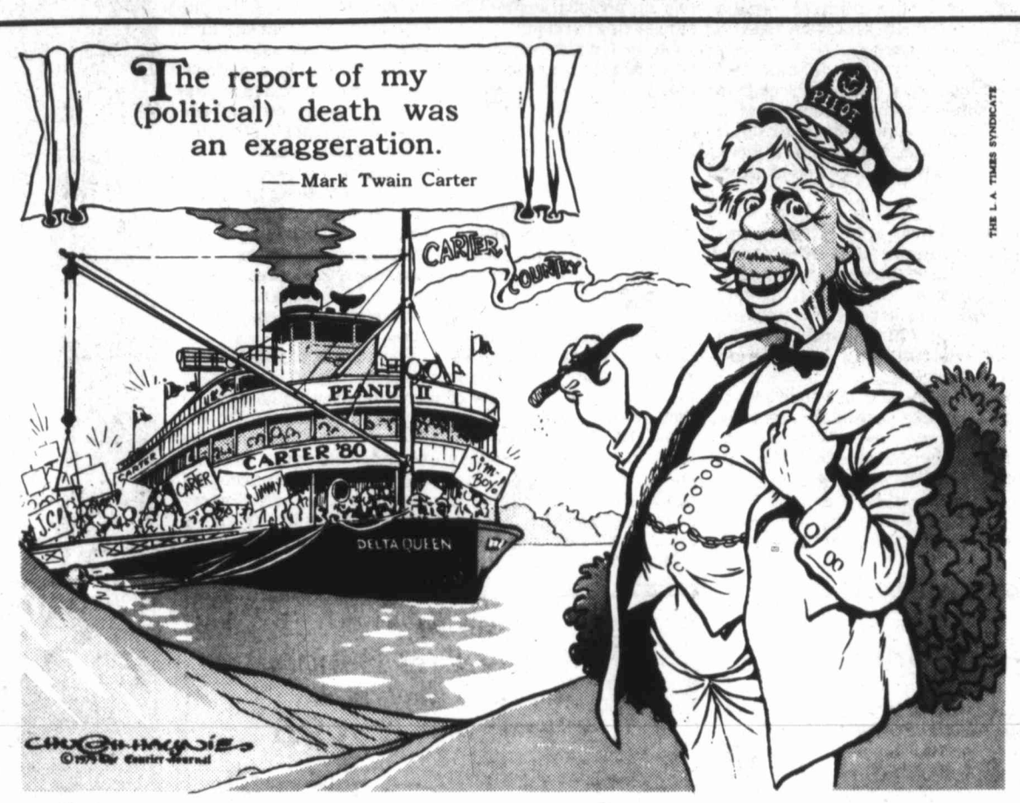

The chill became a freeze in July. Much of the Jewish community (often estimated at 70 percent of Democratic presidential fund-raising) was alienated by Carter's Mideast policy. More generally, clients began telling their lobbyists that they simply did not care to help Carter, whatever effect that might have on closing Washington's doors to them.

The temperature went frigid with Carter's ill-conceived Cabinet shakeup. Apart from generally numbing his support, it had one unintended result: shutting off substantial commitments from the oil industry. Dr. James Schlesinger had grown steadily more popular within the industry, particularly among larger independent producers. When Schlesinger fell as secretary of energy, the president lost that oil money.

By mid-July, even the fund-raisers were bailing out. It was no accident when one lobbyist, a veteran of Democratic wars who had been plucking his clients for Carter, missed an August meeting of the president's business supporters. He had decided he could no longer press his clients to a lost cause. If he tries to extract money in the future, it will be for Kennedy.

Few other businessmen or lobbyists are switching to Kennedy. Even so, Teddy Kennedy does not arouse the pervasive fear of Robert F. Kennedy that helped keep money pouring into President Lyndon B. Johnson's war chest until the moment of his withdrawl.

ONE REASON IS that conservative Democratic businessmen who showered money on LBJ in 1968 — and presumably would prefer Carter over Kennedy this time — are intent on securing the Republican nomination for ex-Democrat John B. Connally. Like many of their Republican brethren, they consider Connally certain to be the next president (when, in fact, he remains a longshot).

Diet can help blood fat problem

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My 18-year-old college student son complained about being tired. He was examined by our doctor, who took a blood sample. Everything seemed fine except he found hyperlipidemia. I'm not sure of the spelling. He said it was "type IV." He gave my son a lipid-lowering diet. I am wondering how serious this is. Eating at his school cafeteria might be a problem for him. As I look over the diet the only thing that will be difficult for him is no hamburger and no potatoes. Could hamburger be eaten if it is lean and broiled? — Mrs. J.C.

We could get into a head-spinning discussion of blood fats and the meaning of various blood tests over this one. So let's keep it simple. There are five distinct lipid (fat) problems. Your son's (type IV) is one of the most common ones. Those with type IV should also be checked for diabetes, gout and for blood vessel problems.

In one so young, a family tendency toward high blood fats is usually found. There is an increased risk of blood vessel and heart problems, so careful control is essential early and throughout life. Diet alone can bring a significant lowering of the blood fats. Sugar is restricted and fats should be of the unsaturated kind (the kind that comes from non-animal sources). In some cases fat-lowering medicine helps control the condition. Weight control is essential.

Most doctors agree that a program of special diet, medicine (when needed), and weight control pays rich dividends in the form of lowered vascular problems later in life. Most large school cafeterias arrange special menus for students who need one form of diet control or another. Have him inquire about this. The lean, broiled hamburger is permitted but it should be well done and drained.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I read once that when a pregnant woman has an orgasm the oxygen supply to the baby is cut off. Is this true? This may seem like a ridiculous question, but I can't tell you how upset it has made me since I read this. I feel I must find the truth. — Mrs. K.G.

Your question is no more ridiculous than the statement you read. The oxygen supply to the baby is not affected by oragsm. (See item below).

Dear Dr. Donohue: I hope you can set me straight on this question. I heard from a friend that intercourse during the first three months of pregnancy can damage the baby. I always thought there was no way it could hurt the baby at any state. Please separate fact from fiction for me. I am in the first three months. — Mrs. P.S.

A frequently asked question. In general, intercourse is safe throughout pregnancy in normal situations. The exceptions are easily determined by the obstetrician. In some cases, the cervix (the lower section of the uterus) may be incompetent — that is easily dilated too early in pregnancy. This usually occurs in the second or third trimesters (last six months). In such cases the doctor may reinforce the cervix with a special tape to prevent problems. Obviously, intercourse is forbidden in such cases. It's these types of problems to which I refer. Otherwise intercourse does not damage the fetus.

CONFIDENTIAL TO L.P. — The usual reasons for advising against aspirin is a stomach problem that might be aggravated or a bleeding problem that can be made worse by aspirin, or, sometimes an allergy. Your emphysema itself is not a reason to avoid aspirin. In any event, there are adequate substitutes for aspirin that would not cause problems.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Do companies that can and package foods use iodized or non-iodized salt? — Mrs. R.J.

Non-iodized is used. If a product contains iodized salt it must say so on the label.

Although cholesterol has been implicated in heart attacks and other circulatory troubles, it is at the same time vital to human life. For a copy of his booklet, "Control Your Cholesterol Sensibly," write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My daughter, age two, was tested by an opthalmologist and we were told she has Duane syndrome. It was confirmed at a major clinic. Her left eye doesn't seem to want to turn to the left. Could you please tell me something about this? She also rolls her eyes to the top of her head, especially when she is tired. — Mrs. B.A.

Duane syndrome is a birth defect in the muscle that controls the eye movement. The cause is faulty development of the nerve supply to the muscle. The eye is otherwise normal so far as vision is concerned. Special testing will tell if any surgical correction is possible.

Tell us something we don't know

Judging from a poll taken recently by the Ladies Home Journal, parents are a worthless lot.

The publication recently polled a cross section of high school juniors and seniors concerning how they felt about their parents. Three-fourths of the kids expressed dissatisfaction with their mothers and-or fathers. Most of those would swap them in a minute for movie or TV stars.

That doesn't come under the heading of startling news. On the contrary, if the poll had found that parents were really neat as far as their children are concerned, that would have made quite a story.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: We have looked forward to the birth of our child so much, and now we find our newborn has some serious physical deformities. I just don't know whether I can stand this. How can God help me? — N.J.

DEAR N.J.: I am sure many parents who have had a child with birth defects can identify with your feelings, because every parent wants a healthy child. But I also know that many, many of these parents would tell you that God has been with them in the midst of their problem, and they have discovered that God has blessed them in many unexpected ways.

There is a wonderful story in the Old Testament about a grandson of King Saul, named Mephibosheth. He had been injured as a boy, and apparently was completely crippled the rest of his life. After the death of his grandfather and father, King David took him into his household and gave him a place of honor. We read that he "ate at David's table like one of the king's sons" (2 Samuel 9:11, New International Version). David had no legal obligation to do this; he could easily have let Mephibosheth become a beggar. But David showed love to him and did what he could to make his life easier, although he could do nothing to repay David.

God has given you this child to love. When you love someone, you want to do what is best for him or her. I urge you to commit this whole situation to God, and ask Him to give you the wisdom and strength you will need. Ask Him to make you faithful to this responsibility. Ask Him to help you raise this child in a home in which Christ is placed at the center of everything, so this child will grow up knowing the love of Christ.

Many parents have discovered that a child such as yours often is extremely responsive to love. Love this child for Christ's sake, and you will find God will continually help you as you turn to Him. Remember — God loves us, although we are spiritually impereect, and He calls us to be His children by faith in Christ. May God bless you in this responsibility.

Pigeons to pies

Around the rim

James Werrell

A little barbaric? Maybe. A whole lot of fun? Definitely!

It wasn't too difficult for me to cast aside my guilt feelings for honing in on live birds at a pigeon shoot I participated in on a recent trip to Mexico. Whenever a twinge of conscience bubbled to the surface, all I had to do was think of all the pigeons that had used me for target practice in various cities.

Besides, I felt sure that the birds' chances of survival were enormous with me pulling the trigger.

THIS PARTICULAR shoot took place in a grove of pecan trees just outside the town of Parras, Mexico, and about 800 pigeons had been collected for the occasion. Even with 20 of us shooting, the event lasted all day.

The rules of the shoot were simple, but explicit. No one wanted to see anything larger than a pigeon shot that day.

The action takes place in a roped-off, rectangular area, about 15-feet by 40-feet. A chalk line runs lengthwise through the rectangle.

Standing in the forward area is a man called the columpari. He is responsible for throwing the pigeon into the air.

The shooter enters the chalked-off rectangle behind the calumpari armed with an unloaded .410 shotgun.

Once inside the roped area, the shooter may load his gun with two rounds. When the shooter has loaded up, the calumpari will turn to him and whisper, "Listo?" ("Ready?").

When ready, the shooter will reply, "Pajaro!" ("Bird!").

Then it all breaks loose.

The columpari has pulled several strategic tail feathers from the bird to give it an erratic flight pattern. This gives the pigeon an advantage (unneeded when I was shooting).

Once released, the bird explodes into the air, and the shooter has only seconds to fire his two rounds before the bird flies out of range to lead a long and happy life.

Although the bird probably has its doubts, the columpari is its best friend during the shoot. He does his best to confound the shooter, twirling in circles and flinging the bird at the least expected moment.

DESPITE THE trickery, some of the deadeyes in our group dropped the bird within a split second of its release. The bird would rise at a seemingly impossible angle, and then plummet to the earth like a stone as two shots rang out in quick succession.

And the ones making these shots were the kids. Their fathers and uncles were even better.

Not so, yours truly. I might as well have been trying to knock down the birds with a tennis racquet.

Our scores, to my embarrassment, were displayed for all the world to see on a large chalkboard. After 10 straight zeroes next to my name, a compassionate fellow shooter (a Texan) did a little artwork, and changed a couple of my zeroes into a pair of bifocals.

"There, maybe that'll help," he laughed.

I was bound and determined to hit my next bird. I stepped to the line, shouldered my gun, and calmly uttered the magic word, "Pajaro."

The bird rose before me and the loud report of my shotgun echoed across the pecan grove.

"Zero," I heard the judge shout.

It was not until about five shots later that I brought down my first bird, after which I quickly squandered $10 betting on my own marksmanship.

The sun was hovering just above the horizon when the final bird fell. The scores were tallied, the winner received a small cask of brandy, and the shooters headed back to the hacienda.

Those gnashing their teeth about the birds should know that none went to waste. All were distributed to local families where they became tasty pigeon pies.

The day's activities left me with two distinct emotions. One: pigeon shooting is extremely exhilarating. Two: I'm glad I don't have to hunt in order to eat.

Young's successor

William F. Buckley, Jr.

A great deal has been written during the interval (one week) between these dispatches on the theme the popularity of Andrew Young in the United States. If it were merely the intention of these observers to remark on the affability of Mr. Young, what they say would be of little importance. But, as we can readily see, they are attempting to make a larger point. That point is that the United States has never been held in higher esteem with the black republics in the world, thanks to Andrew Young. I think that is true. But it is as interesting as saying that no American ambassador would be more popular with the Communist states in the United Nations than, say, Jane Fonda.

IF OUR REPRESENTATIVE in the United Nations declares that America is a racist country, that the United States has as many political prisoners as any other country in the world, that the execution of a murderer in Florida is the equivalent of the ayatollah's executions — that representative will be instantly popular with any country that has political prisoners (which is to say every country in Africa, including South Africa); with every Communist satellite country into which Gulag stretches; and, in general, with any country that finds the United States especially overbearing to the extent that we manage, however precariously, to combine affluence, freedom, and due process. It will sound simple, but let me attempt it: The more anti-American the American ambassador, the more popular he will be.

Now this is a lesson that stretches beyond the approaching end of Mr. Young's term as ambassador. Because although he has been fired, his firing was not a repudiation of his style of doing business. He was fired because he lied to his own government, and although it is as hard to find a rule in the civil service that will get you fired as it is to find an excommunicable offense in the Catholic church, that is one of them. Particularly so if the putative victim is the beleaguered Israel, whose supporters in the United States have never practiced the art of understating their complaints.

It is significant that Mr. Young's departure is accompanied by a kind of reaffirmation of the virtues he embodied: that frankness of his, the candor, that capacity to penetrate bureaucratic inhibition. What it added up to was his capacity to make out the worst case for the United States and, indirectly, for the strategic interests of the United States. We are being told, in effect, that it is vulgar to proclaim America's virtues, and in the few days before Mr. Carter replaces Mr. Young, we should consider the contrast in style of Mr. Young's most conspicuous predecessor, Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

HIS UNDERSTANDING of Israel flowed from two tributaries. The first and most obvious was that the United States' representative in the United Nations has an obligation to explain to the world as persuasively as possible America's international policies.

The second is that the United Nations' charter is about two things primarily. The first is to bring peace to the world, the second to increase human freedom.

Now it is unbecoming to go about proclaiming one's virtues, and the New Testament is death in respect to the sin of pride. But it is simply not possible to proclaim on the one hand the desirability of freedom of speech without remarking that it survives in this country but did not survive in certain other countries. To do this is "undiplomatic." The successes of Andy Young in Africa were precisely attributable to his steadfast refusal to criticize any African regime. Why? Because they are run by blacks. And, simultaneously, he was accusing almost everyone else (Americans, the British, the Russians, the Swedes) of racism. Rodomontade is ugly stuff, and Moynihan was sometimes guilty of it (as when he sarcastically suggested that Idi Amin was the logical head of the Organization of African States): but a lack of pride of achievement goes beyond humility to undermine the structure of ethical distinctions.

Mailbag

Dear Editor:

This is a letter to thank Mickie Dickson for the wonderful article on our Radiology Department that appeared in the Sunday edition of The Herald, August 19.

We have heard many fine comments in regard to the article. The introduction derived from her discussions with Mrs. Brewster was most interesting and unique to say the least. I was especially pleased with the content of her article as it was inclusive on the one hand and accurate on the other.

Since the article was published, we have received many phone calls inquiring about our school especially from teenagers who are beginning to think about their future. This is tremendously beneficial to them as we are able to recommend courses that would be advantageous to a career such as ours while they still have time in high school to obtain the correct background. Although your article is primarily geared for public information, it has already had a profound positive effect on our recruiting effort to procure strong qualified applicants in the future.

Make plans to move out

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I have a family problem and don't know where to turn. The problem is my parents don't trust me and I have done nothing to warrant this lack of trust. I'm not allowed to attend any parties or spend the night at my girlfriend's house.

My stepfather and mother get into terrible fights over me. I'm 18 and graduated with a "B" average.

If I try to do anything or go anywhere, they say they will throw me out of the house. They also said they would not see a family counselor. Please help me. — Dee, Columbus, Ohio

Dee: Take a summer evening college class, find an afternoon job, volunteer for some worthy cause — do something to get out of the house in the evenings for a period of time.

Just in case your parents follow through with their threat, be making plans to move out. Relatives and friends should give you shelter until you get your life together.

You parents are doing you more harm than good!

Dr. Wallace: The girl I got into a fist fight with got a black eye and I got a bloody nose.

Now she is telling everyone that she won the fight. I think I won. Who do you think won? — Amy, Pueblo, Colo.

Amy: You both were losers.

Dr. Wallace: My problem is that I think I'm becoming stuck-up. Lately I portray an "I'm too good for you" attitude.

I don't really brag, but I speak up when I'm able to do something well.

Please help! I really don't know how to stop this trend — Tracy, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Tracy: Use the words, thank you, I'm sorry, excuse me, I beg your pardon, may I help you, and please — and mean them.

SEEK SUPPORT FOR KENNEDY WRITE-IN — Joanne Symons, left, and Dudley Dudley, the two women running the New Hampshire write-in effort to elect Senator Edward Kennedy president in 1980, chat during a fund-raiser for a group supporting the SALT treaties in Hyannis, Massachusetts Sunday evening. Senator Kennedy was the featured speaker at the event. The two women came to Hyannis looking for a sign of support for thier effort, and although they and Senator Kennedy skillfully avoided one-another all evening, the women left satisfied with the results of their efforts.

Miss Chrane feted at bridal showers

Cindy Dian Chrane, bride-elect of Randy Phillips, was the honoree of several pre-nuptial parties given recently.

Miss Chrane was feted at the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room where she received a white and blue corsage as well as a set of cookware.

The bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Bill Chrane and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Raymond Phillips, also received corsages.

The bride's chosen colors of blue and yellow were carried throughout the motif.

Hostesses were Angela Dykes, Debbie Cockrell, Mrs. Becky Brewer, Linda Bledsoe and Mrs. Jana Carter.

Another shower was given in the home of Mrs. Dean Forrest. The bride-elect, her mother and the prospective bridegroom's mother were presented silk corsages of yellow carnations.

Hostesses, in addition to Mrs. Forrest, included Mrs. Ellis Britton, Mrs. Carlton Clark, Mrs. Ben Boadle, Mrs. Don Crockett, Mrs. Dub Bryant, Mrs. Elsie Hamby, Mrs. W.D. Lovelace, Mrs. Lorayne Macklin, Mrs. Margee Wright, Mrs. Ray Anderson and Mrs. Cecil Stephens.

They gave the honoree an electric mixer.

Miss Chrane was also feted at a lingerie shower given by Mrs. Louis Stallings and Mrs. John Fort Jr. The honoree received the centerpiece of blue silk flowers and a blue carnation corsage.

Miss Chrane and Phillips will be married Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Wesley United Methodist Church. The Rev. W.O. Rucker, pastor, will officiate.

Dear Abby

Live-In 'Bride' Is Gift-Miffed

DEAR ABBY: How about equal time to respond to that narrow-minded prude in Alaska who wrote, "Couples who have been living together neither need nor deserve wedding gifts"? She further stated that the purpose of wedding gifts is to set the couple up in housekeeping, and couples who are already keeping house already have a toaster, dishes, pots and pans, etc.

Well, I have been living with my boyfriend for two years, and we still have no definite plans to marry.

One day, if I marry, I would like to have all new appliances, a complete set of nice dishes, matched silverware and glasses, etc. In the meantime, we're using my mother's old pots and pans, secondhand dishes, and whatever else we could scrape together. We did not go out and buy new things to set ourselves up in housekeeping.

And as for not "deserving" wedding gifts because we've been living together, that's a laugh. If relatives and friends gave wedding gifts only to bona fide virgins, the jewelry and housewares merchants would starve to death during the month of June!

MAD IN MANHATTAN

DEAR MAD: Other live-ins wrote to protest the cold letter from Alaska. But a reader in Shaker Heights took me to task for my lukewarm reply.
Read on:

DEAR ABBY: So you think the parents of the kids who live together are so "thrilled" when the live-in lovers finally "make it legal," that they gladly kick in with the wedding gifts.

No way, Abigail! When our daughter, who is living on a very generous trust fund from her grandparents, finally married her freeloading, live-in lover, all we gave them was our best wishes.

Had she married a more decent man, we would have gladly given her a beautiful gift.

In mills and factories across the country, they never stop working. By night as well as by day, the wheels of commerce grind out the goods we need as a nation.

It's a twenty-four hour job, this business of production, and it's a vital job — to you, your family, your town, our whole country. Like most vital jobs, it can't be stopped.

Faith is a vital job, too. It isn't simply something that God gives you, free of charge, on Christmas and at Easter. You have to work for real faith. You have to earn it. You have to keep at it.

Fortunately, to help you gain and sustain this vital faith, you have the Church to guide you. Start attending every Sunday and there absorb the wonders of God's teachings.

Hurricane David destroys 17 lives

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Hurricane David headed for the Dominican Republic today after killing at least 16 people on the devastated little island of Dominica and one man as it skirted Puerto Rico.

Meanwhile, the season's third hurricane was building up in the Atlantic, midway between the northwest coast of Africa and the Windward Islands that David lashed two days ago.

The U.S. National Weather Service in its 3 a.m. advisory said David's center was about 110 miles southwest of the southwest tip of Puerto Rico and 120 miles southeast of Santo Domingo, the Dominican capital, at 17.1 degrees north latitude and 68.6 degrees west longitude.

It was still moving west-northwest with maximum sustained winds of 150 mph, but the speed of its advance had dropped slightly from 15 to 13 mph. Hurricane-force winds of 74 mph and more extended for 50 miles out from the center.

Police in the southern coastal city of Santo Domingo, capital of the Dominican Republic, evacuated residents from lowlying areas.

The advisory said David should maintain its course and speed through Friday, which would take it on toward Cuba. There was no prediction what it might do after that.

The hurricane's center stayed more than 80 miles south of Puerto Rico as it passed Thursday, and the U.S. commonwealth island experienced only a tropical storm. But heavy rains were pelting Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, and heavy seas were flooding parts of the southeast coast of Puerto Rico, the Weather Service said.

Police said one man was killed on the south coast by a tree limb torn loose by the storm. The national power company said 200,000 homes in 19 cities and towns were blacked out.

But David devastated the little island of Dominica, in the Windward chain, as it entered the Caribbean Wednesday. The Caribbean News Service reported 16 bodies had been recovered and said it was feared more were buried in the debris.

An Associated Press photographer who flew over the island Thursday afternoon said the capital, Roseau, a town of 18,000, was virtually flattened. The roof of the Princess Margaret Hospital was ripped off. The biggest Roman Catholic church, in which many people had taken refuge, and the central warehouse for the banana crop were wrecked.

Prime Minister Oliver Seraphin said it was "the worst disaster we have had in living memory."

The British navy rushed the frigate Fife to the island to help with relief work, and a navy supply ship was due today.

A helicopter from the Fife took the prime minister for a survey of parts of the 290-square-mile island. He reported 90 to 95 percent of the buildings were destroyed in the fishing villages along the southern coast. Electricity, running water and communications were knocked out across the island.

McCrory's testimony sparks futile motion for mistrial in Davis case

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Star prosecution witness David McCrory's testimony that millionaire Cullen Davis admitted to committing murder and bragged that he had "gotten away with it once," sparked a hurried and futile motion for a mistrial in the continuing Davis drama.

McCrory revealed the alleged admission during his first day on the stand Thursday, causing a flurry at both defense and prosecution tables.

State District Judge Gordon Gray denied the motion for mistrial, and did not instruct jurors to disregard McCrory's statement.

Prosecutor Jack Strickland was questioning McCrory about a series of meetings with Davis when McCrory volunteer the startling information.

"Was the killing or the possible killings of any other persons discussed, mentioned alluded to by Cullen Davis or yourself at this meeting?" Strickland asked.

"When he told me that I knew that he was serious, he said "I've gotten away with it once ... " McCrory said before he was interrupted by defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes' request to approach the bench.

Davis was acquitted in the murder of his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn, by an Amarillo jury. But murder and assault charges growing out of a midnight shooting spree at Davis' $6 million mansion are still pending against the wealthy industrialist.

One other person died in the Aug. 3, 1976, slayings, and two others, Davis' ex-wife, Priscilla, and mansion visitor Gus "Bubba" Gavrel Jr., were wounded.

Davis is standing trial here on charges he solicited the murder of State District Judge Joe Eidson and others on an alleged "hit" list. McCrory claims Davis ordered him to negotiate the hits — but the 41-year-old witness went to the FBI instead.

During the motion for mistrial, Haynes said McCrory had never made such a statement in previous testimony and "that the remark of Mr. McCrory in the presence of the jury ... to the effect that the defendant confessed to the felony offense of murder and that he had before gotten away with it ... is so prejudicial and inflammatory in view of the tremendous publicity that has attended the trial of Cullen Davis in Amarillo."

McCrory earlier had told jurors that in a series of meetings beginning in January of 1978, Davis said he wanted someone to kill Beverly Bass, Gavrel's girlfriend and the lone, unwounded survivor of the August, 1976, shooting spree.

"He said he wanted Beverly Bass killed. He said she was the only one who the jury believed ... he said he couldn't afford to let Beverly Bass get on the stand against him again."

"He (Davis) told me he had decided on a plan or a couple of plans which he thought would work in the killing of Beverly Bass," McCrory said. He said the plans included planting heroin near the body to make police think "it was a dope-related killing" or hacking Ms. Bass' body into pieces and hiding them.

Ms. Bass, 21, testified in Amarillo she saw Davis gun down her boyfriend, Gavrel, as they drove up to the showplace home for a visit. She said the gunman then chased her as she fled the mansion grounds screaming for help.

McCrory said Davis told him he was willing to pay between $25,000 and $30,000 to see Ms. Bass dead.

McCrory said at a meeting in late June of 1978, Cullen added other names, including his stepdaughter, Dee Davis, to the "enemies list."

" Davis was telling me he thought since Beverly and Bubba (Gavrel) were together so much, it would be a good idea to get Beverly, Bubba, Bubba's father and possibly Dee Davis all at one time and just kill them all at once."

Outside the presence of the jury, McCrory said Davis told him he wanted Gavrel, paralyzed by the shooting, dead because jurors would be sympathetic to him. Gavrel, 24, has a $13 million dollar damage suit pending against Davis as a result of the shootings.

"He (Davis) said that he wanted that little (expletive) killed because he had a big, fat lawsuit against him and it was going to be just one hell of a hassle..." McCrory said.

Rights and duties of landlords, tenants spelled out in new law

(Special To The Herald)

A new law spelling out the rights and duties of landlords and tenants will go into effect Sept. 1.

Previously the Texas Supreme Court ruled that tenants have an implied warranty of habitability in property they rent. However, the court's standard of habitability was vague and confusing, and did not address certainissues of the landlord-tenant relationship such as damage and repairs to the rental property. Also, the court indicated that habitability could be waived in the lease, but failed to put any limitations on when habitability could be waived or partially waived by agreement. The new law answers many questions about the rights and duties of apartment owners and residents.

The bill was the result of several months of discussion among groups representing both landlords and tenants. The groups that were involved and concurred in support of the passage of the warranty of habitability statute included the Texas Tenant Rights Association, the Texas Association of Realtors, the Texas Home Builders Association and the Texas Apartment Association.

Major provisions of the bill are:

—Landlords must act with diligence to repair conditions affecting the physical health or safety of a tenant unless the tenant, his family or guests cause the condition.

—If a landlord does not repair the rental property, the tenant has legal remedies providing he is not delinquent on rental payments, gives the landlord written notice of the condition and gives him a reasonable time to make repairs.

—Tenants have the right to terminate the lease without going to court and receive a partial refund of rent, or to obtain a court order requiring the landlord to make repairs and-or give some financial compensation.

—Retaliation by the landlord, such as raising the rent or evicting the tenant, is prohibited. However, justifiable rent increases are allowed.

—Landlords may terminate rental agreements by giving tenants written notice and agreeing to demolish the property or to close the rental unit.

Larry Niemann, an attorney for the Texas Apartment Association, said the measure is aimed primarily at slumlords, but protects any fair-minded landlord who rents an apartment or home. "In the middle-income context," he said, "the renter would be protected from unreasonable delays in the repair of leaky roofs, broken door locks, busted windows or insect invasions."

But, he noted, "The main impact will be on low-income people," where the landlord violations have more serious health and safety implications. "It's where you see the light through the ceiling," said Niemann, "and it's not just getting rid of roaches. It's when you have roaches, rats and scorpions; it's no insulation or tar paper exteriors, dangerous electrical or gas connections, stopped-up sewers, no running water, no screens or missing windowpanes, rotten boards and stairs falling down."

Estimated tax pay due Sept. 18

The third installment of estimated federal tax payments on 1979 income is due Sept. 18, the Internal Revenue Service said.

This installment should be paid using declaration-voucher number 3 found in the Form 1040-ES package.

Taxpayers whose anticipated income changed during 1979 may have to file an amended declaration. Space is provided in the estimated tax package to compute an amended estimate, the IRS said.

For more detailed information, IRS Publication 505, "Tax Withholding and Declaration of Estimated Tax," is available free from local IRS offices. Supplies of the Form 1040-ES package also can be obtained at these locations.

Garrard faces rape charge

Dannie Lee Garrard, Dallas, is wanted in Howard County for probation violation. He has been charged with the aggravated rape of a nine-year-old girl, June 20.

Garrard began his probation May 21, 1976 when he entered a guilty plea to forgery by passing in 118th District Court. He received a ten-year probated sentence.

He was charged in Taylor County with the rape but investigators later believed that the rape occurred in Jones County. Charges had been filed in both counties because prosecutors were not sure of the location of the offense.

Garrard had eluded authorities for two months. He remained in Jones County Jail Wednesday in lieu of $50,000 bond. He was arrested Sunday in Dallas.

He is charged with raping an Abilene child who later underwent surgery at Hendrick Medical Center as a result of the assault, police said.

Abilene police said the girl knew the suspect and had gone with him to Hendrick on the night of the assault to take a woman friend in for emergency treatment.

While the woman was in the emergency room, the child disappeared with the man for two hours. The woman reported the assault after the child was returned to her.

Garrard is also wanted in Amarillo on a theft charge.

Miller to head HC Rodeo Club

The Howard College Rodeo Club held its organizational meeting Wednesday night and elected officers for the year, Brad Mosher, faculty sponsor, said.

More than 30 members, including some of the top hands in the southwestern region of the country, attended the initial meeting of the 1979-80 school year.

"I really don't think we're going to be beat. Between here and the national college finals in Lake Charles, La., I don't think anyone can beat us," Mosher said following the meeting.

The following officers were elected: Guy Miller, president; Wes Smith, vice president; Pam Mitchell, secretary; and Sherry Altizer, club treasurer. Skipper Driver is the rodeo coach.

The next meeting of the HC Rodeo Club is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. Sept. 12.

HC cheerleaders attend NCAA clinic, win ribbons

The Howard College cheerleaders recently returned from the NCAA Cheerleading Clinic where they won three superior ribbons, and an excellent ribbon, according to Becky Smiley, art instructor.

The clinic was held on the campus of Southern Methodist University in Dallas. The squad earned their ribbons in competition against over 900 other participants at the camp.

Girls attending were Mariella Wise, sophomore; Cindy Russell, sophomore; Diana Dominguez, freshman; Deborah Bowen, freshman; Vickie Jones, freshman; Renee Kelley, freshman and Susan Parsons, alternate.

In U.S. Open play

Despite Nasty's chaotic antics, McEnroe takes wild win

NEW YORK (AP) — It was chaos on center court, bizarre midnight madness more befitting an international soccer match than a tennis tournament.

The players, John McEnroe and Ilie Nastase, were standing at opposite ends of the court, hands on hips. Umpire Frank Hammond had just penalized Nastase a game for delaying play, but the boisterous crowd of 10,549 that came to the U.S. Open Thursday night refused to accept that decision.

They booed. They whistled. They clapped. They stomped their feet.

"It may not have been the wildest thing I've ever seen, but it sure was in the top ten," said McEnroe.

Finally, in an effort to get play resumed, tournament referee Mike Blanchard instructed Nastase to serve. At that point McEnroe led 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 3-1, but not according to the crowd.

They roared "2-1, 2-1, 2-1," demanding that the penalty assessed against Nastase be reversed.

"I thought if play could resume, the crowd would quiet down," said Blanchard, explaining why he ordered Nastase to serve despite the roar of the crowd.

Nastase refused.

"He (Hammond) kept telling me, 'Play with the noise, play with the noise,'" Nastase said. "I said, 'I won't play with that noise. Take the point, take the game, take the match.'"

And that's what Hammond did.

"Game, set and match Mr. McEnroe," he bellowed into the microphone.

The crowd continued to roar. The players stood and stared in disbelief.

"It was obvious the match wasn't going to be over," said McEnroe. "They would have lynched him (Hammond)."

Instead, they replaced him. Billy Talbert, the tournament director, instructed Hammond to leave the chair. The stocky umpire clambered down and was replaced by Blanchard.

Somewhere in the confusion, Hammond's announcement that the match was over was reversed. Play eventually resumed, after a delay of some 15 minutes, and the third-seeded McEnroe soon wrapped up a 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2 victory.

In today's featured action, defending champion Jimmy Connors, the No.2 seed, plays Vijay Amritraj of India in an afternoon match while No.5 Roscoe Tanner takes on Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia. In another night match, 16-year-old Tracy Austin, the No.3 women's seed, meets 14-year-old Andrea Jaeger.

The highlight of Thursday's afternoon program came when 14-year-old Kathy Horvath became the youngest player ever to compete in the main draw of the Open.

None of the top players encoutered any difficulty in their matches Thursday.

TENNIS ANYONE? — John McEnroe, left, sits it out. Ilie Nastase refused to play. The uproar began on the center court at the U.S. Open Tennis championships in New York Thursday night after the referee penalized Nastase one game for delaying play. When the uproar began in the crowd Nastase refused to play. But the game continued after the referee was overruled in giving the match to McEnroe by default but when play resumed McEnroe won 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Royals take lead in AL West

By The Associated Press

Kansas City's George Brett knows when he sees something good — like himself and the rest of the front-running Royals.

"If I was a betting man, I'd put my money on myself," Brett said Thursday night after the Royals overtook the fading California Angels in the American League West, grabbing a one-half game lead, the first time they've been in first place since June 28.

"They've blown a 10½-game lead," Brett said. "I think they've been looking over their shoulder."

While the Angels were losing 7-1 in Cleveland, the Royals were rolling to an 8-3 victory over the comeback club of a year ago, the New York Yankees.

"I think there were doubts in our minds, but we weren't going to throw in the towel," Brett said. "The Yankees did it last year. We can do it, too."

Indians rip Angels, Ryan

Nolan Ryan, ripped for five runs in five innings, said: "Our pitching has to quit getting us into a hole early in the game. It makes it tough on our hitters to have to try to keep coming back."

Len Barker pitched a six-hitter and Ron Hassey drove in three runs with a bases-loaded double in the first inning to lead the Indians to their eighth victory in the last eight games.

Brewers dump White Sox

Sixto Lezcano, who homered in the second inning, drew a bases-loaded walk from Guy Hoffman in the 12th for Milwaukee's winning run.

Paul Molitor led off with a single and two outs later Gorman Thomas was given an intentional walk. But Ben Oglivie and Lezcano also walked to give the Brewers their 15th victory in the last 19 games.

Tigers outscore A's

Jerry Morales hit two home runs, driving in three runs, to pace Detroit past the A's. He had a two-run shot in the fifth and put the Tigers ahead to stay with his 13th homer in the eighth.

Flanagan wins 19th

Baltimore's Mike Flanagan, an unhappy 19-game winner a year ago, chalked up No.19 earlier this year, compliments of two-run singles by Rich Dauer and Ken Singleton in the seventh inning.

Dauer's hit off the Twins' Jerry Koosman came after Lee May's walk and Gary Roenicke's ground-rule double. Singleton's two-out hit came off reliever Mike Marshall, making his 78th appearance of the season. Don Stanhouse picked up his 16th save for the Orioles.

Tidrow, Sutter provide relief in Cubs win

Larry Biittner tripled in two first-inning runs and three Cubs pitchers combined on a six-hitter. Dennis Lamp, who got his 10th victory in 17 decisions, Dick Tidrow and Bruce Sutter, who picked up his 35th save, did the hurling.

McCovey's single leads Giants past Cardinals

The San Francisco Giants held a pre-game meeting and it certainly didn't hurt.

"Maybe we're back on the right track. We've got to start playing baseball and stop worrying about other things," said Manager Joe Altobelli.

That was the theme of the meeting held Thursday before the Giants went out and played the game well, beating the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2. In the only other National League contest, the Cubs topped the Dodgers 4-1.

Willie McCovey's tie-breaking pinch-hit single in the seventh inning and Ed Whitson's four-hit pitching, along with a big break which gave them their first two runs, helped the Giants forget — at least temporarily — some recent troubles.

In pre-season scrimmage

Steers host Lamesa tonight

Big Spring Coach Ron Logback and his staff are hoping to have some answers to a few question marks after tonight's scrimmage against the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes of Class AAA.

The Steers currently have a three-way battle at the all important quarterback position between seniors Jimmy Marquez and Ben Watson, and junior David Coffey. All have shown the ability to operate the veer option, an attack that the Steers will run most of the time this year. But none of the trio has operated the attack against outside competition, so tonight's scrimmage should help provide Logback with some answers as to who can perform under pressure.

The Steers began working out on Monday, August 20, in shorts, before putting on the pads last Friday. Since AAA schools have no spring training, Lamesa has been practicing since August 13. For this reason, the Tors could be a little sharper for tonight's affair.

Tonight's action will begin at 7:00, and will probably last until the coaches of both teams decide that each player has seen enough action to be evaluated. There will be no junior varsity scrimmage, as Lamesa has indicated that they do not have enough players to field another team.

Big Spring is also short on numbers this year, but those that reported have shown great enthusiasm and desire to overcome the sagging fortunes of recent years and gain respect around District 5-AAAA.

Another question area, but apparently a pleasant one, is the Steer running back situation. Four players, seniors Mike Terry and Terry Conway, junior Greg Jones, and sophomore Richard Evans, are in heated competition for the two spots in the explosive veer attack. Evans Terry, and Conway are small but quick runners, while the 220-pound Jones is more of a power runner.

Logback has expressed pleasure with the offensive and defensive linemen that should start, but will be looking at the performance of the reserves in tonight's scrimmage. The line depth appears to be a major problem area thus far in camp.

Big Spring opens the regular season next week when they play host to Andrews, while Lamesa will open with the Pecos Eagles.

Trevino takes early lead

In Canadian PGA

WOODBRIDGE, Ont. (AP) — Lee Trevino says there isn't an easy hole at the National Golf Club.

"You can't relax at any time," said Trevino, who registered birdies on the last four holes for a four-under-par 67 Thursday and the first-round lead in the $.,0nadian PGA Championship.

More than 140 competitors started the 72-hole tournament in sunny weather but only five broke par on the 6,975-yard course, politely called tough and long by a number of the players but tagged as evil by some members of the private club.

Entering today's second round, with $20,000 as the prize for the winner, Trevino took a two-stroke lead over Jim Nelford and Bob Rose of Canada and Peter Townsend of England.

Alone at 70, three strokes off the pace, was Tony Jacklin of England, followed by another Canadian, Paul Kennedy.

Tom Watson, leading money winner on the Professional Golfers' Association tour, Dave Barr of Canada and Francisco Cerda of Chile had 72s. Among those at 2-over-par 73 were defending champion Lanny Wadkins and Bob Charles of New Zealand.

Cooper bombs Snyder

SNYDER — Abilene Cooper, pre-season favorite in District 5-AAAA, dominated Snyder in a football scrimmage, outscoring the Tigers, 5-0.

Much of the play took place in rain.

Both Cooper quarterbacks, Lanny Dycus and John Slaughter, led the Cougars on scoring drives. A Cooper standout was Terry Orr.

Both Snyder quarterbacks went to the sidelines with injuries.

Holtz feels Hogs underrated

Arkansas to field young but talented team in 79

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz said Thursday that he feels in some instances the 1979 Razorbacks "are being underrated."

He said that when forecasters look at his young team they "are not aware of the potential we might have."

Although he feels his Razorbacks can spring some ambushes, Holtz said he is troubled because "we are not making the progress I think we should . . . We have a young team and winning doesn't seem to be the most important things on our mind...Right now we are unsettled."

The third-year Arkansas coach added quickly "I do not look upon this as a rebuilding year. I was given the advice once never to prepare a team for a new coach. We do have talent."

Although Arkansas lost 12 starters, seven of them on defense, Holtz said Arkansas could be a good team if the defense comes through.

"If we're not good on defense, we don't have a chance," Holtz said. "We've been flying around the ball and making tackles. We're tackling better than any team I've had at Arkansas."

He told touring Southwest Conference writers "offensively, we are going to get better and better. We are going to have games in which we will be excellent, but I don't have any idea what will happen from one play to the next."

"We would like to throw the ball more," Holtz said. "We would like to throw it 25 to 30 times a game, but I still believe you win with the run."

Holtz said that quarterback Kevin Scanlon was improving with his passing although not on the level of graduated Ron Calcagni.

"We seem to have trouble recruiting quarterbacks who can throw the ball," Holtz said. "But we've been averaging 30 points a game so we seem to be doing okay in the scoring department."

Arkansas plans to work some from the I formation although Holtz prepares the Veer.

"It's hard to throw away an old boomerang," he said.

Holtz was basically noncommital on the SWC race although he did say, "There are going to be a lot of strong teams."

Streakin Six heads field in All-American Futurity

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (AP) — Rainbow Futurity winner Streakin Six tops a class field of 10 speedsters that will be chasing a whopping first prize of $437,500 in Labor Day's All-American Futurity—final jewel in quarter horse racing's triple crown.

Streakin Six's victory in the Rainbow, the second leg in the triple crown, puts the swift colt on the spot as the one to beat in the 21st running of the All-American.

He is expected to go off as the betting favorite in the 440-yard scramble for 2-year-olds at Ruidoso Downs that carries a gross purse of $1.28 million. But he is far from being a sure bet as this year's field has as much, if not more, balance than any in the race's history.

Top qualifier Pie In The Sky and Sages Belle Star, the No. 2 qualifier and a close second to Streakin Six in the Rainbow, are the top challengers.

But other hopefuls like Pa Pa Wheelie, Denim N Diamonds, Easy Azuree and Thats Raney can't be counted out.

Only Ask The Boss, Afternoon Surprise and Manifestoh appear to have little, if any, chance of getting to the wire first in the nationally televised sprint.

While Streakin Six's Rainbow triumph is the high point of his young career, it is not his only success. The colt has won four times and finished second in six starts to earn $182,551 for the Tom L. Burnett Cattle Co. of Fort Worth, Texas.

Streakin Six's qualifying time of 22.05 seconds ranks as only the fourth best in the field. But, because of the huge number of trial entries, more than 300 head, heats had to be held on two days. The horses with the five best times each day earned berths in the All-American.

Among the second-day qualifiers, who battled a stiff headwind, Streakin Six posted the best time.

Questions plentiful as NFL season begins

By The Associated Press

They finished last season with identical 9-7 records, a slim one game behind the American Conference champion Denver Broncos. Now the Seattle Seahawks and San Diego Chargers have playoff ambitions of their own and they'll test them out on each other Sunday as the National Football League's 60th season gets underway.

Actually, the earliest-ever NFL season starts Saturday night when the Detroit Lions visit the Tampa Bay Bucs.

In Sunday's other games, Atlanta visits New Orleans, Dallas is at St. Louis, Green Bay plays at Chicago, the New York Giants are at Philadelphia, San Francisco travels to Minnesota, Houston plays at Washington, Los Angeles hosts Oakland, Baltimore plays at Kansas City, Cincinnati visits Denver, Cleveland goes against the Jets in New York and Buffalo hosts Miami.

The opening weekend concludes Monday night with Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh playing at New England.

Four coaches will be making their debuts, with Tom Flores at Oakland, Ray Perkins with the Giants, Bill Walsh in San Francisco and Ron Erhardt in New England. Two others, Homer Rice with Cincinnati and Don Coryell at San Diego, will be starting their first full years on the job.

Coryell has Charger followers excited. The club won seven of its last eight games last season after he took over in the fifth week. Now with newcomers like running back Mike Thomas and All-Pro cornerback Willie Buchanon added to the cast along with tight end Kellen Winslow, a No.1 draft choice, the club seems improved.

Seattle has a high-powered offense, too, with quarterback Jim Zorn directing an attack that generated 55 points in the final preseason game against San Francisco. Wide receiver Steve Largent led the American Conference with 71 catches last season. Veteran Carl Eller, obtained from Minnesota, adds experience to the defensive line.

The Selmon brothers, Lee Roy up front and Dewey at linebacker, are key men in the Tampa Bay defense that was fourth best in the NFL last year.

Doug Williams is back at quarterback for the Bucs with Rickey Bell and Johnny Davis the starting running backs.

PITCHES TWO-HITTER — Texas Ranger pitcher Doc Medich receives congratulations from teammate Pat Putnam after Medich pitched a two-hit shutout against the Boston Red Sox Thursday night at Fenway Park in Boston. Texas blanked the Sox 6-0.

Medich tames Bosox on two-hitter

BOSTON (AP) — Time is running out on the slump-ridden, injury-riddled Boston Red Sox in the American League East race.

Even a return from a dismal 2-6 road trip to Fenway Park failed to halt the skidding Red Sox, who fell 9½ games behind the first place Baltimore Orioles in the division.

The Texas Rangers, whose hopes in the AL West have faded since the All-Star break, shelled Boston ace Dennis Eckersley and breezed to a 6-0 victory Thursday night behind the two-hit pitching of veteran righthander Doc Medich.

Medich allowed only singles by Tom Poquette in the fourth and Bob Watson in the eighth. He was helped by three double plays which resulted in Boston leaving only one runner on base.

With a 2-8 record in the last 10 outings, Baltimore's magic number for eliminating Boston is down to 23. Any combination of 23 Baltimore victories and Boston defeats and it's wait 'til next year for the Red Sox.

The Rangers, 1-6 coming here and 11-31 since the All-Star break, jumped on Eckersley, 16-8, for 10 hits, including Al Oliver's 12th homer. Reliever Bill Campbell allowed only one hit, a run-scoring double by Richie Zisk in the ninth, in three innings.

While Eckersley lost his third straight, Medich continued his mastery of the Red Sox. Winless in five previous starts, Medich evened his record 6-6 in easy fashion, boosting his record against Boston to 7-0 since his last defeat by the Red Sox. That was more than five years ago, on Aug. 4, 1974.

"He pitched a darn good game and give him credit, but we're hurting," Boston Manager Don Zimmer said after missing four injured regulars from his starting lineup. "We're trying, but it's awfully tough. Changes? What else do I have. I'm just trying to put nine healthy guys out there."

Zimmer admitted that "we've got to cut a couple of games off their lead" before the Red Sox face the high-flying Orioles in seven games in September.

The Boston manager, who has been in baseball for 30 years, realizes it's a tough task ahead, but refuses to give up.

A few subscribers think it's all right to ask the carrier to "come back again to collect." After all, the carrier's just a young kid...he or she won't mind. Not so! Just because carriers sometimes don't "speak up" when asked to "come back later" to collect, doesn't mean it's all right to ask them to do so.

We don't run your carrier's business, your carrier does. Therefore it's up to your carrier to make sure all collections are complete each month. Your carrier is charged for the papers in advance so he ends up paying for your month of papers by the 10th of the month. Part of the money you pay your carrier is used to pay for these papers and the remaining money is profit.

Those subscribers who fail to pay on time, shouldn't blame their carrier for stopping their delivery. They can't expect a carrier to pay for their paper. Carriers are businessmen and women and they have their own bills to pay.

'Military budgets are a scandal'

Religious leaders condemn arms race

Leaders of the world's various religions want an impassioned crusade, like those that abolished slavery or ended the Vietnam War, to rise up in tidal force against the nuclear arms race.

They see such a movement as imperative to save civilized life and build global human brotherhood.

"We are at a turning point in history," says Roman Catholic Archbishop Angelo Fernandes of New Delhi, India, president of the World Conference on Religion and Peace.

"The signs of the headlong race towards destruction and death are there for all to see. There is urgent need to act... The challenge of our time is for the unification of mankind."

Such rallying calls for combined religious effort marked the opening this week of the conference's 10-day assembly at Princeton Theological Seminary in New Jersey, bringing together 350 leaders of 10 major world religions.

It's the first time that the 10-year-old conference has met in the United States, following prior assemblies in 1970 in Japan and 1974 in Belgium.

Also for the first time, religious leaders from communist China — nine Christians, Buddhists and Moslems — are participating, along with those from 45 other countries and all continents.

The Rev. Dana McLean Greeley of Boston, a Unitarian-Universalist leader and conference cochairman, urged a massive religious groundswell, greater than the U.S. movement in the 1960's against the Vietnam War, to stop the arms buildup.

Declared Archbishop Fernandes: "The military budgets of the two super powers are a scandal and those of even developing countries a shame...

"Alongside the fabulous sums wasted on destructive purposes, the sum total of economic coooperation for humanitarian goals appears a mere flea-bite, a piece of sham, a brazen mockery of the poor of the world... The total picture is shocking."

Christian enrichment course set

The Rev. Carroll C. Kohl, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church, will begin another class of instruction on the Christian Faith, 7:30 p.m., Sept. 13.

The 16-week study course is based on the Scripture. A regular meeting time and day for the course will be decided at the intitial meeting Sept. 13.

To date, 61 Lutherans and non-Lutherans have completed the study course and received certificates. Some have completed the course twice.

The course has been highly praised by those completing it, who have said that the teachings have opened up the Christian faith for them. As a result of the teachings, they claim to be better informed of the Christian faith and have become more concerned and productive Christians.

Some of the subjects to be discussed during the course include: "Source of Our Knowledge of God", "Bible Versions", "Why Churches Contradict Each Other", "The Source and Meaning of Suffering" and "Why Do We Believe that Jesus is Both God and Man".

No obligations are placed on anyone and everyone is welcome to attend at no charge to the individual.

More information can be obtained by calling St. Paul Lutheran Church in the mornings, 267-7163, or the Rev. Kohl's residence, 263-2764.

Ad riles Catholic League

MILWAUKEE (AP) — An ad appearing in newspapers in 30 cities seeking to get Roman Catholics to work for change in their church's position against contraception has drawn a protest from the Catholic League for Religious and Civil Rights.

Michael Schwartz, executive director of the league, told the Providence, R. I., diocesan newspaper, the Providence Visitor, that the ad seeks to "divide the Catholic community and interfere with an internal affair."

Werner Fornos, director of the Washington-based Population Action Council which placed the ad, maintains it seeks only to bring the issue into wider discussion since many Catholics "obviously disagree" with the birth control ban.

The ad invites Catholics to join in working for change in the church teaching, as was recommended by a majority of a special commission set up on the subject by the late Pope Paul VI, who rejected its advise and reaffirmed the ban in 1968.

Hillcrest plans special Laymen's Day services

Hillcrest Baptist Church will observe Layman's Day in both morning and evening worship services Sunday.

Men of the church will lead in worship, provide special music and share their testimonies.

Dennis Palmer, Earl Dean, "Mac" McCarty, Logan Peterson, Gary Phillips, David Roberts, Doyle Smith, Tim Drinkard, James Henderson and Johnnie Sevey will give testimony of God's working in their lives, with the first five men speaking at the 11 a.m. service and the last five at the 7 p.m. service.

Greg Tello will play the piano and Art Sinclair will serve as music director for the day.

All of the men involved are active laymen at Hillcrest Baptist, 2000 West FM 700. Everyone is invited to worship on this special Sunday.

A Farthing's Worth
HAVE YOU EVER READ IN THE BIBLE...
...about the three wise men?
...about Jesus being born in a manger?
...the statement, "As the twig is bent, so grows the tree"?
...that bread is the staff of life?
...that man shall earn his living by the sweat of his brow?
...that cleanliness is next to godliness?
...that money is the root of all evil?
...that the forbidden fruit was an apple?
...that Calvary was a mountain?
...about "Lent"?
...that angels have wings?
...the statement, "As the twig is bent, so growssss )6 trc"?
...anything about "Gabriel's horn"?
...the statement, "God helps those who help themselves"?
...that Sunday is the Sabbath Day?
None of the above are actually in the Bible, believe it or not. Visit us, and we'll share with you some things that are.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Start the new month right by thinking out advanced ways by which you can have more security in the future. You can now engineer conditions to your benefit. Be more optimistic.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You may find it difficult to get going early in the day but all will be fine as the day progresses. Show others you have wisdom.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are now able to get ahead via new channels, so don't waste valuable time. Spending more time at home today is wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can now come to a far better understanding with both debtors and creditors so that you can breathe easier. Use tact.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Fine day for gaining more cooperation with neighbors and making real progress. Think along logical and practical lines.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Find a better method for advancing in your line of endeavor. Be sure to control your temper at all times today.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can derive much enjoyment from today's recreations. Rendering a particular favor to the one you love leads to happiness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have to give more thought and time to home affairs if everything is to work out smoothly there. Be careful of outsiders.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Maneuver conditions around you so that they are more to your liking. Try to please your close friends and relatives.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are able to handle monetary matters well now and build up your assets. Family members need more attention.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are able to gain personal aims with relative ease now. Joining congenials in favorite hobby is fine later in the day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take time today to concentrate on making your future brighter. State your true aims to mate and come to a better understanding.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Do whatever will give you more rapport with good friends and get right results. Strive for increased happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will do very well in matters of finance, business and property, so be sure to give good training in ethics, good manners and religion to balance the materialism in this chart. Teach to use diplomacy in dealing with others.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

EXCELLENT FINANCING AVAILABLE!
- VA LOAN — NO DOWN PAYMENT
- FHA LOAN — LOW DOWN PAYMENT
- 10% DOWN — CONVENTIONAL LOAN

WHY RENT? Your monthly rent provides no equity growth, no tax deductions and no opportunity for appreciation. Whereas, owning your own home allows you to build an equity in your home with each monthly payment. You can deduct interest and taxes from your annual income and, nationwide, housing investments have appreciated (grown in value) faster than almost any other investment. So, why waste your rent money? Put it to work for you in YOUR OWN HOME!

Soviet troops in Cuba a fact

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — U.S. intelligence sources have confirmed the existence in Cuba of Soviet combat troops — possibly some 2,300 to 3,000 men, says Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Sen. Frank Church.

Church Thursday called on President Carter to insist on immediate withdrawal of the brigade of ground-combat troops.

"The United States cannot permit the island to become a Russian military base, 90 miles from our shores, nor can we allow Cuba to be used as a springboard for Russian military intervention in the Western hemisphere," Church said.

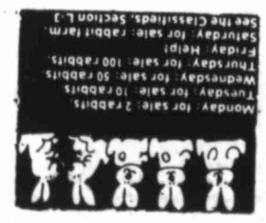

Church, an Idaho Democrat, said he and other members of the committee heard reports several weeks ago of a Soviet troop buildup in Cuba. He said members of the committee agreed to say nothing until the reports were confirmed.

Church said Secretary of State Cyrus Vance called him Thursday to confirm the buildup. He said "American intelligence units" confirmed existence of the Soviets, but he said he could not disclose the type of operation involved.

Church said he was advised by Vance that the Soviet Embassy in Washington has been asked for a full explanation. Asked why the Russians were placing troops in Cuba, Church said: "That's one of the questions we have asked the Soviet Embassy."

Russia has had military advisers in Cuba under agreements reached shortly after the Cuban missile crisis of 1962. But Church said they are there for training and communications.

This is the first time Russia has placed combat-type troops in Cuba, he said, adding, "...our concern for deployment of Russian combat troops in this hemisphere should be apparent.
