Mrs. Bob Clem, President, was in charge when the Roaring Springs Predicta Study Club met in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church for a Guest Day Banquet and closing meeting of the year.

Special guest for the occasion was Mrs. Jimmy Wilson of Floydada, who presented a book review, "Everything But Money" by Sam Levenson. AUSTIN, Tex.—State participation in the most far-reaching public welfare program since the advent of the social security system has been approved by the Texas Legislature.

Texas House of Representatives overwhelmingly approved enabling legislation which will assure medical care for 550,000 Texans on welfare rolls under the new Title 19 or "Medicaid" benefits.

Proposed appropriations will assure payments totaling nearly $130,000,000 for needy aged, blind, disabled and their families with dependent children.

Where Medicare applies only to the aged, this new program will bring hospital care, doctor's services and a variety of other benefits to welfare enrollees regardless of age.

Legislation is broadly drawn to make another 230,000 "medically needy" Texans eligible when sufficient state funds are appropriated.

Federal government provides approximately four dollars for every dollar put up by the states under Medicaid.

Appropriation bills by the Texas Legislature call for state spending totaling $25,700,000 on the program in 1968. This would attract about $104,000,000 in federal assistance.

Included in the new program are in-patient and out-patient hospital care. This covers diagnosis, nursing home services, laboratory and X-ray charges, physician's services, treatments and preventions. Funds also are applicable to pay the required "deductibles" of medicare.

Texas Department of Public welfare will administer the program. First payments under the act will be effective September first.

BUDGET ADVANCED—House Appropriations Committee voted out a proposed $449,300,000 general fund budget bill for 1968 in response to the call by Gov. John Connally for single-year financing.

Total of all funds is $2,300,000,000. Bill provides these general revenue allocations as compared with the present spending level:

*Judiciary, $7,100,000, now $6,200,000; up $900,000.

*Public Health, Hospitals, Special Schools, Youth Institutions, $198,200,000, now $77,600,000; up $120,600,000.

*Executive and Administrative Departments and Agencies, $78,500,000, now $33,700,000; up $44,800,000.

*Education, $250,700,000, now $179,800,000; up $70,900,000.

*Legislature, $4,700,000, now $3,900,000; up $800,000.

If adopted in its present form, this bill would leave an estimated surplus of $34,800,000 for teacher pay raises and other purposes.

AUTO RATES ALTERED—A new scale of Texas auto license plate fees is fixed in a bill passed by the House and sent to the Senate.

While the bill would lower rates for about half of the cars, it would raise them considerably on small imported vehicles. Tags would cost $12 for all autos under 3,500 pounds, $20 for those 3,500 to 4,500 pounds and $28 from 4,500 to 6,000 pounds.

A minimum fee of $5 would be charged for all motorcycles, boat trailers and other light vehicles.

SHORT SNORTS—Code of Criminal Procedure revision mainly pleasing to law enforcement officers was passed by House; Senate revision also was ready for final vote.

Senate Committee on State Departments and Institutions favorably reported the $1.25 minimum-wage bill, after the Senate earlier voted 16-14 to take the bill out of the unfavorable Labor Committee.

House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill authorizing the governor to establish and administer a statewide traffic-safety program which would bring Texas into compliance with federal safety stand-equal Electric payments every month in the future...

IF you use WTU's Equal Payment Plan for electrical operating costs. Pay no more in August than you do in May—not more in December than in September. Use WTU's budget plan for paying electric service bills. Here's how it works: WTU figures the amount of electricity your family would normally use in a year—then divides this figure by 12. You pay a budgeted even-dollar amount each month. Your service charge is reviewed monthly, and adjustment made either upward or downward if necessary to avoid any big lump payment. Like the idea? Then ask WTU for details... Reddy Kilowatt's people will be happy to plan Equal Payments for you.

Unique Rail Museum Tour Planned During Chisholm Trail Centennial

AUSTIN—Workmen in a Topeka, Kansas, railroad yard are busy these days hammering out a recreation of one of the most storied portions of the Texas heritage—a visual portrayal of the Chisholm Trail—which, during 1967 celebrates the centennial of its founding.

Plans for a mobile history of the Chisholm Trail, over which ten million cattle started their way from Texas to northern markets, have been announced by the Texas Chisholm Trail Centennial Commission, named last year by Governor John Connally with Roger Conger of Waco, chairman. In conjunction with similar commissions from Oklahoma and Kansas, the Texas commission is outfitting a museum on rails, donated and refitted by the Santa Fe Railroad.

The Chisholm Trail exhibit car will visit as many towns as possible along the historic trail during the period from June to October. Precise schedules will be announced later, a commission spokesman in Austin announced. Between ten and fifteen stops in Texas are anticipated, including some areas that were not precisely on the trail but which fed cattle into it.

In Topeka, the 60-foot museum car is presently in the Santa Fe yards being outfitted with display cases, special lighting and sound, and being air-conditioned. Included in the blueprint for renovation is a small counter for selling Chisholm Trail souvenirs, special publications, and the like to the public.

The front part of the car will be used to tell the story each state played in the cattle drives.

The first display cases will be devoted to Texas, where the Trail began and the drives originated. The exhibits will show the different types of cattle and tell the general story of the round-ups, the cattle drovers, their horses, and the development of the highly specialized equipment used by man to drive the large herds of wild, almost unmanageable cattle up the Chisholm Trail.

The Oklahoma display cases will tell the story of the actual drives, the river crossings, and the Indian encounters.

Kansas' display cases will finish the monumental story with the railroads and the cowtowns that grew up around them, the loading of cattle for eastern markets, and the peace officers enforcing law and order among the unruly and long-seeking cowboys after the long drive.

The second half of the rail car will have three large exhibit areas. The first will depict a cowboy and his horse in full working regalia.

The third area will contain art work by Charles Russell and Frederic Remington, the artists who romanticized the west in paintings and sculpture.

Other displays on barbed wire, spurs, guns, branding irons, etc., will be included throughout the car.

The Centennial celebration commemorates the largest movement of animals by man in the history of the world—in the years 1866 through 1884 more than a half million cattle were driven each year from Texas to the loading pens in Kansas for shipment to eastern meat markets.

The Chisholm Trail was only one of several routes over which these cattle were driven. However, it was the first major trail and therefore the most celebrated. It was named for an Indian trader, Jesse Chisholm, who ran his own cattle over a portion of the route from northern Indian Territory to the Kansas rail heads.

The idea of a Chisholm Trail was conceived by a young Illinois cattle trader, Joseph G. McCoy, who was concerned over the fact that Texas had four million cattle and the North was going meat hungry because there were no rail connections to the markets. In 1867, he persuaded Texas cattlemen to trail their cattle to a small hamlet at the end of a railroad—Abilene, Kansas—and at the same time he persuaded the railroads to build cattle cars, loading pens, a cowboy's hotel, stock tanks, corrals, and all the other necessary items for a complete cattle town. He brought the two—the cattle and the buyers—together, the first trail was a huge success, and one of the epic stories in Texas and American history was begun.

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

As a continuation of the Pecan and Fruit Production meeting conducted by Hancock, the following was presented on fruit production. There are many varieties of peaches, and research at present is attempting to determine the best varieties. For this area, Dixie Red, Red Haven, Sentinel, Ranger, Red Globe, Loring, Redskin, and Jefferson are the best suited.

Obtain good nursery stock, and don't be afraid to prune at time of planting. As in the case of pecan planting, there are many items to be covered, but for those interested, guidelines are available. Pruning, fertility, insect control and management all must be done correctly if the owner is satisfied with the results. The guideline covers all of these factors, so if you are producing peaches or plant to, ask for your copy.

In closing, as in the case of pecan production, insect control should be automatic. L-248, "Texas Guide for Controlling Insects and Diseases on Fruits and Nuts" outlines this program, and I am sure most of you realize the importance of following this schedule. In most cases it is too late to do anything about the insect when the presence is noted, so if the weather is favorable, why not give the crop a chance to produce?

Are cotton farmers partly to blame for the declining demand for cotton? How many times have you tried to buy a cotton shirt or pants and wound up buying synthetic material because of the talk of a sales clerk or because the store was out of cotton at the time? Cotton is still available for dresses, shirts and pants, and now it is available in the "no-iron" finish which is good news to the housewife.

This item was stressed in the past issue of "Cotton Progress," but it is up to the individual to demand what they want. Are you willing to help yourself?

Still on the subject of cotton, I am sure all of you know the demand for longer staple cotton. This year we are trying several different strains of cotton that promise a longer staple. From tests in other areas they look good, but how will they do in Motley County?

This is the purpose of the tests, and breeders have been cooperative in supplying these strains for us to try.

Eleven varieties will be planted by 24 different farmers in an effort to determine the growth habits of these varieties locally. As soon as these are planted, and if they survive, I will provide a list of the varieties and those who have planted them for the cotton farmers to observe during the growing season. These will be harvested separately to obtain yield, grade staple and other data necessary to determine if they have a place in Motley County.

NEW SERVICE OFFERED—Pecan leaves can now be analyzed for zinc. The report of each leaf sample analyzed will indicate whether or not the level of zinc is adequate and will give suggestions on zinc applications.

Collect samples in June, collecting fully mature leaflets from new growth, collecting from 12 to 16 leaflets per tree. Avoid gathering leaves that show insect or disease damage, and place in an air-tight plastic bag to keep the leaves fresh.

The cost is $2.00 per sample, and I have information sheets that should accompany the sample. We know that soils with a high pH restrict the amount of zinc that the trees can obtain from the soil, so if you are not satisfied with the production of your trees, this might be the help you are looking for.

Revealing Survey

Millions Supplementing Medicare

Eight million people aged 65 and older have private health and accident insurance to supplement Medicare benefits. Men in the over-65 age group show more interest than women in purchasing insurance plans designed to supplement Medicare.

Almost half of all older people are insured by private health insurance. The survey indicates that people like the idea of supplementing Medicare, with its average of 15 per cent of total medical expenses, with private insurance to cover the remainder of their medical needs. The survey also indicates that people like the idea of supplementing Medicare, with its average of 15 per cent of total medical expenses, with private insurance to cover the remainder of their medical needs.

These are some of the findings of a national survey conducted recently by one of the country's leading insurers of over-65 people, Continental Casualty Co.

Projected on a national scale, the survey indicates that as many as eight million older Americans carry some form of private health and accident insurance to supplement Medicare.

This is a drop of about 19 per cent from the pre-Medicare level, according to Henry A. Jones, Director of Retirement Planning for Continental Casualty.

Of those surveyed who did not have private coverage, but who expressed interest in purchasing a private plan, 8 per cent more men indicated interest than women. Of everyone indicating an interest in purchasing supplementary health insurance, 70 are more interested in purchasing private insurance than in supplementing Medicare.

Almost one-third of the 65 group surveyed who are interested in purchasing private insurance indicate that they would like to see the remainder of their medical needs covered by private insurance.

There were indications that many people recognized the benefits, does not cover the cost of the medical expenses incurred. (The Social Security Administration estimates that Medicare covers about half the average older person's medical expenses.)

As more people become aware of the limitations of Medicare, he said, "they will seek a supplementary plan to pick up where Medicare leaves off and to fill in the gaps of coverage."

He cited the variety of plans available from companies who have signed up over-65 fields, including Continental. The company, which now offers three such supplementary plans, will introduce new ones this year.

Here's why MALATHION LV CONCENTRATE is the No.1 ultra low volume boll weevil insecticide!

- PROVEN EFFECTIVENESS. Used on millions of treatment acres of cotton over the last 3 years, Malathion has given better than 95% weevil control at the U.S.D.A. registered rates of 8 to 16 ounces per acre.
- LOW HAZARD. Malathion has the lowest oral and dermal toxicity of any cotton insecticide. (Clinical Handbook of Economic Poisons U.S. Public Health Service).
- BROAD REGISTRATION. In addition to the U.S.D.A. registration for control of thrips and boll weevil on cotton, Malathion is the only ultra low volume insecticide registered for use on 20 food and forage crops and beef cattle at 2 to 16 ounces per acre. (U.S.D.A. registered number 241-110)
- FREEDOM FROM DRIFT RESIDUE WORRY. Drift residues to adjacent food or forage crops or cattle present no problem at recommended rates.
- ALL-SEASON USAGE. Malathion has given outstanding control of boll weevil on cotton when used early for over-wintering weevil, later in the season for subsequent broods and up until killing frost in diapause control.
- ECONOMICAL. Cost of material alone does not establish true economy. To the cost of material per acre must be added... proven effectiveness in 3 years of commercial use... low hazard to the applicator and all target areas... broad registration, permitting application even on beef cattle... freedom from drift residue worry... and all-season usage on cotton from emergence to frost. These advantages PLUS low per acre cost makes Malathion LV Concentrate the No. 1 economical, ultra low volume insecticide for boll weevil control.
