

Snow, Tornadoes, Rain Surge Over State Today

Ground White At Fluvanna

You could name your weather and find it in Texas today, as crippling snow enveloped Panhandle areas, while other sections of the state experienced rains, wild winds and even sunny skies.

Up to six inches of snow was reported in Panhandle-Plains communities before noon. At the same time a section of Southeast Texas and Louisiana went under an alert for severe thunderstorms.

The snow pierced the state as far south as Scurry County, with a brisk early-morning fall reported at Fluvanna. A few flakes fell in Snyder during a slow drizzle.

The snowfall began in Fluvanna at about 6:30 a. m. and soon covered the ground. However, the snow turned to rain later in the morning, and by 10:30 a. m. it had either washed away or melted.

The temperatures in Snyder dipped to a chilly 36 degrees, and slow rains produced 1/4 of moisture. The rainfall in Snyder started at 4:40 a. m.

Streets made slick by storm-produced rains took two lives.

The new storms and snow followed a wild night during which observers saw six tornadoes sweep across the state, causing only relatively minor financial losses.

Near Muleshoe on the South Plains of far West Texas, H. A. Weaver of the Texas Highway Department reported 50 automobiles stalled by snowdrifts of a foot or more.

The cars stalled on Highway 60 near the Tri-County cotton gin between Frons and Hereford. Department workers were sent in.

Southeast Texas went under a severe storm forecast ending at 3 p. m. after most of the Gulf of Mexico coast was under tornado warnings during the morning and the state's midsection was warned of possible tornadoes Thursday night.

The Southeast Texas alert area was from Houston east into Louisiana.

A storm, apparently the one referred to in the forecast, slammed into southwest Louisiana sending roofs flying and knocking down power lines.

Wind gusts, some more than 50 m. p. h., hit DeQuincy, Lake Charles, Welsh, Jennings, Kinderhook, Crowley and New Iberia.

The Texas storms brought high winds, heavy rains and some hail.

Mrs. L. D. Garrett of near Cleburne said her 4-inch rain gauge overflowed. Rains of more than 2 inches were frequent.

Strategic Base Cut By King Saud Action

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — By sudden decision of King Saud, the United States must give up its air base rights a year from now at strategic Dhahran Airfield on the Persian Gulf Coast of Saudi Arabia.

The State Department, disclosing the setback Thursday night, emphasized that the United States intends to continue "close and friendly cooperation" with Saudi Arabia in spite of this incident.

But officials conceded that the result of the king's decision will be to deny the U. S. government the use of air facilities which could be of great military importance in event of a major international crisis.

The field development goes back 15 years and has cost the United States many millions of dollars. But it has long been treated by both governments as a Saudi Arabian field used by the United States under terms of a formal agreement and subject to the jurisdiction of the Saudi government.

The agreement now in force is due to expire in April 1962. The United States has been notified, the State Department said, that the agreement will not be renewed. Officials said that means the rights of the U. S. government to operate from the field will end in April next year.

Dhahran has been a major base for operations of the military air transport flights through the Middle East, some of them around

Truce Puts Dublin Buses In Service

By COLIN FROST
DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — St. Patrick's Day today brought a labor truce to the streets of Dublin and legal drink to the throats of celebrating Irishmen.

For the first time since the proclamation of the Irish Republic, bars were open—legally that is—on the feast day of Ireland's patron saint.

"Drowning the Shamrock this way doesn't quite seem the same," said the man in Mooney's bar.

One of the Irishman's privileges—and favorite sport—on St. Patrick's Day was flouting the law to get a drink. He stole into the small back bar and drowned the shamrock with the extra pleasure

Missionaries Are Released; Reach Safety

By DENNIS NEEDLE
LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — Thirty missionaries held captive by Congolese soldiers at Kasongo in Kivu Province have been released and have reached safety, the U. N. command announced today.

A U. N. spokesman said the missionaries were freed on the intervention of the Kivu Minister of Justice. They made their own way to the U. N. base at Kindu and now are under the protection of U. N. Malayan soldiers, awaiting evacuation to Leopoldville.

The Malaysians had sent out patrols to rescue the mission work but they were freed before the U. N. soldiers arrived.

The United Nations announced Thursday that 23 of the missionaries were Americans but said later their nationality was not disclosed, from 100 men previously to about 200 now.

Earlier this week sources in Washington indicated the U. S. government was considering pouring more military aid into Laos. But the Kennedy administration was reported reluctant to do this for fear it would be drawn into a sustained buildup of both sides that could develop into a Korean-style situation.

But sources in Vientiane report that U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson, at his meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Siberia last week, told Khrushchev if the Soviets choose to keep the Laotian crisis alive rather than help to resolve it peacefully, the United States is ready to ship three guns to the royal government for every two the Soviets airlift to the pro-Communist rebel forces in Central Laos.

parently came in reply to the Pathet Lao offensive that began March 7. The royal troops were driven out of the vital road junction of Sala Phou Koun, 40 miles south of Luang Prabang. Sala Phou Koun was to have been the jumpoff point for a government offensive against the rebels in the Plaines Des Jarros to the east.

The Vientiane government said Thursday that its forces had checked the rebel drive and reoccupied the town of Muong Kasy, 100 miles north of Vientiane.

Former Premier Souvanna Phouma, who fled to Cambodia but who the Communists contend is still the legal head of the Laotian government, commented recently that the Soviet Union had supplied the rebels with 20 times more arms than the United States had furnished the royal government.

Republicans To Open Tower Headquarters

Republican Party leaders have announced plans to open a senate campaign headquarters here tomorrow.

The headquarters, which will be operated to boost the candidacy of John Tower, will be opened in the old Fuller Building on the square. Tower is the lone Republican in the race for the senate post vacated by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Kennedy Wins Close Victory In Fight For Jobless Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's emergency unemployment benefits bill has cleared the Senate after a narrow victory in his first showdown with Senate conservatives.

The measure was passed 84-4 Thursday night, but Kennedy won by only a two-vote margin on earlier fight to strip a state-by-state financing provision from the bill.

This success assures enactment of a measure close to the president's wishes. Elimination of the state-by-state provision restored the bill to the form in which it passed the House.

It now goes to conference with the House over some relatively minor Senate amendments. Democratic leaders hope to get it to the White House by the middle of next week.

Voting against the bill were Sens. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., Carl T. Curtis, R-Nebr., and Francis Case, R-S.D.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg expressed gratification at the wiping out of the financing provision sponsored by Byrd.

He said the 44-2 vote to knock out this amendment cleared the way for speedy adoption of the bill, and added that his department already has done preliminary work to speed the jobless aid payments.

The benefits are to be payable two weeks after Kennedy signs the bill. They would go to perhaps as many as 3 million workers who exhaust their regular unemployment compensation rights in the two years starting July 30.

The extra payments are to run for half of the regular entitlement period in each state, up to a maximum of 13 weeks. They are estimated to total around $827 million.

They would be paid for by a special temporary four-tenths of 1 percent added to the present basic 3.1 percent levy for the regular program. This tax is paid by employers.

Under the House bill as approved by the administration, the approximately $1 billion collected from this two-year tax would be pooled to pay for the benefits in all states.

Byrd, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee handled the bill, succeeding in getting that group to amend it to substitute the funds so that each state's employers would pay for the benefits only at that state.

Say Reds Exploit Petition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators said today a nuclear test ban petition filed by Dr. Linus Pauling was exploited by Communists as part of "the Kremlin's fraudulent 'peace' offensive."

A unanimous report of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee also said "in his statements and attitudes, Dr. Pauling has displayed a consistent pro-Soviet bias." It pictured the Nobel Prize-winning chemist as associating with Communists and Communist-front organizations.

Pauling cited previous denials that he is or was ever a Communist, and said "I am not even a theoretical Marxist."

The petition calling for an immediate ban on nuclear testing was filed by Pauling with the United Nations on Jan. 15, 1958. He listed 11,021 scientists in 49 countries as signers of the petition.

When Pauling, a California Institute of Technology professor, was called before the subcommittee last year, he refused its request for the names of the persons who helped him obtain the signatures.

In a fight he carried unsuccessfully to the Supreme Court, he based his refusal on what he termed a matter of conscience, morality and justice. He accused the subcommittee of wanting the names only to hound the individuals who assisted him.

The subcommittee did not cite him for contempt, although it said in its report that his conduct toward it had been discourteous and defiant from the beginning.

In view of some criticism churned up by its inquiry, the subcommittee said it wanted to make clear it was not investigating Pauling's viewpoint on nuclear testing nor questioning any one's right of petition.

And it said it "accepts the fact that the great majority of the American scientists who signed the petition signed it in complete good faith as an expression of their personal views."

The subcommittee said, however, its inquiry showed "clear evidence that the world Communist movement applauded the petition, encouraged adherence to it, and sought to increase its circulation in the Free World, and utilized it repeatedly for propaganda purposes."

It also said "there is certainly reason for suspecting that the Communist apparatus played an important role in circulating the petition in the United States and other free countries."

Communist interest in and exploitation of Dr. Pauling's petition constituted a phase of the Kremlin's fraudulent 'peace' offensive," the subcommittee declared.

It referred to what it termed "the vague and general wording" of the petition and stressed "the omission of any reference to the need for adequate inspection."

The subcommittee said the great majority of Free World scientists who oppose continued nuclear tests "acknowledge the need for adequate inspection."

The subcommittee said Pauling had been connected with various pro-Communist or Communist-front political activities and "a significant number of persons whose affiliations with the Communist party, U.S.A., are matters of record."

"Dr. Pauling has figured as the No. 1 scientific name in virtually every major activity of the Communist peace offensive in this country," the report said.

Variety, Quick Decisions In Routine Day For President

Editor's Note: The public rarely gets a look at presidential back-stage activities. Here is such a look during a day with President Kennedy, reported by the veteran Associated Press White House correspondent, Marvin L. Arrowsmith. It's a tale of a family crisis mixed with a youngster's tears, of grappling with big decisions in government and the fascinating routine of the presidency.

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy comforted his heartbroken small daughter, had five stitches taken to close a deep cut over his left eye and dealt with an urgent national security problem.

In changing moods during more than 10 hours he was tender, solemn, smiling, all business, and wryly humorous.

He made final decisions on defense and foreign aid spending for the year starting July 1.

He charmed some Girl Scout visitors. He held a dozen or so conferences with about 30 government officials on a variety of domestic and international matters.

He went to the State Department to speak at a ceremony marking the 100th anniversary of the unification of Italy.

He was a general host to 55 members of the House Democrats and Republicans, at a coffee and cocktail reception. At this affair in the White House state dining room he wore a green carnation in his coat lapel, jumping the gun a bit on the St. Patrick's day celebrants.

Kennedy did all this and much more Thursday, his 56th day in office, between the start of business at 9:44 a.m. and 7:56 p.m. when he left his office for the White House living quarters.

And just before that part of the day was done he relaxed on a sofa at his office fireplace for a moment and remarked that it had been "one of the easier days" that most of the others had been a good deal rougher.

He noted that he had arrived at his office about an hour later than usual, and he pointed out that there had been more conventional functions than customary—the Italian function, the Girl Scouts and the reception for Congress members.

The President didn't mention it talking of a late start. He was held up until the small hours of the morning at a White House party he and Mrs. Kennedy gave for the First Lady's sister and her husband, Prince and Princess Endicott. Reports were the President did a good bit of dancing at the gay affair.

At any rate, it was 9:42 a.m. when an elevator brought Kennedy to the ground floor of the White House from the living quarters on the second. The reporter, an Associated Press photographer, Henry Burroughs, another reporter and one other cameraman were waiting at the elevator door to spend a business day with the President.

When the door opened, there at her father's side was his wide-eyed daughter, three-year-old Caroline, in red overalls and blue blouse. And there above the President's left eyebrow was a horizontal cut about an inch long, and a thin strip of adhesive tape in a perpendicular position. The area around the cut was noticeably swollen.

Kennedy spotted the photographers with cameras poised, chuckled "oh, no," and hustled little Caroline back into the elevator. He didn't want the youngster included in this day with the newsmen.

Caroline wasn't concerned about that, but she did have her heart set on walking to the office with daddy. When she had to forego that she burst into tears and it took daddy a moment or two to comfort and quiet her. He did it with great tenderness.

On the walk from the White House proper to the west wing office area, the reporters posed the question: How had he gotten the cut?

"I was picking up something for Caroline and I leaned over and bumped a table," the President replied with a slow smile.

Had it required stitches?

"Oh, no—no stitches," he said.

He removed the adhesive tape when he went to the State Department at mid-morning. But when he returned to his office after lunch in the living quarters, there was a larger piece of tape across the cut and Kennedy reported that a physician had taken five stitches to close the cut.

On first arrival at the office at 9:44 a.m. Kennedy greeted appointments secretary Kenneth O'Donnell briskly and had him to a meeting on foreign aid. Present were Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Undersecretary George Ball, Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, Bell and a few presidential aides. This conference lasted 22 minutes and the decision is made there, Kennedy reported later, on how much to spend on foreign aid.

While the session was in progress, Mrs. Kennedy—pert in a pastel green suit with matching hat—arrives with Caroline. They wait in Mrs. Lincoln's office and Mrs. Kennedy asks that the door to the President's office—the photographers are—be closed.

Kennedy returned presently, called "Hello, Frank" to Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. who had arrived to accompany the President to the State Department function honoring Italy.

"Let's go, Jackie," the President called to his wife in the next office.

Seventy minutes later Kennedy returned to his office. He conferred for 15 minutes with Rep. Wright, Patman, D-Texas, and Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., vice chairman of the Senate House Economic Committee.

Mundt, senior Republican member of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, called for early public hearings to explore and expose the conditions he said staff investigators have uncovered.

Chairman John J. McClellan, D-Ark., has voiced somewhat similar charges in less detail, and also has indicated there will be public hearings soon.

In Florida, Mundt said, slowdowns and wildcat strikes were used as a device to force the payment that resulted in "fantastic" wage rates as high as $1,000 a week to union craftsmen and from $600 to $800 weekly for other construction workers.

He said staff investigators found instances in California where electricians received up to $11 an hour and $700 a week, working overtime.

The evidence, he said, points to deliberate slowdowns, wildcat strikes and abuses which are flouting the nation's labor laws and threatening to slow its progress. He called this strange conduct in this country's missile race with the Soviet Union.

At 1:02 p.m. Kennedy returned to his living quarters for lunch, a rest and study of some documents—and, as it turned out, stitching of the cut above his eye.

On this walk to lunch Kennedy glanced through a memorandum from one of his aides, Channing, he reported the aide felt the new administration hasn't been putting out enough information about its activities.

The President said national security has to be taken into account more in these times than it did years ago and that it might well be a matter for concern if there were too much information now about defense matters. It wasn't clear whether the memo dealt with only the defense area of information.

Kennedy returned to his office at 3 p.m. He had changed to a blue business suit with a pin stripe.

He met for a half hour with Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. Reporters were permitted to look on from a distance in Kennedy's office for his first morning round of appointments; but they waited in O'Donnell's or Mrs. Lincoln's adjoining offices while the President conferred with other visitors.

After the session with Eastland, Kennedy went out into the rose garden and greeted two Girl Scouts and two of their adult leaders. All four came back all three moved into the Cabinet room and were joined by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and other unspecified administration officials.

It was at this meeting, which lasted almost an hour, that a "matter of urgency" in the national security field was discussed, Kennedy said at the end of the day. He did not elaborate.

At 5:40 p.m. that talk ended and the President started back to the White House proper, accompanied by Johnson and Lawrence P. O'Brien. White House aide in charge of job patronage and steering the President's legislative program through Congress.

They were bound for the state dining room and the first of Kennedy's coffee-cocktail receptions for members of Congress.

Kennedy returned to his office at 7:25 p.m., told the patiently waiting Mrs. Lincoln to go to Rusk on the phone. The President and the secretary of state talked a few minutes, then Kennedy turned to signing letters and autographing photographs of himself to meet requests.

Then he remarked he didn't particularly care for a color photograph of himself and Mrs. Kennedy he was autographing for Sen. Eastland.

The singing chore done, Kennedy relaxed on the sofa and chatted. It was then he remarked this had been one of his easier days.

Was he through for the day? He replied, there would be some homework after dinner.

What time would he get to bed? Probably, he said, by 11:15 p.m. He started out the door. The phone rang. Mrs. Lincoln answered it and called him back. He talked about a minute without any indication of the caller's identity.

Then he started to dinner again—and this time he made it.

It was 7:56 p.m. as he disappeared into the night on the short walk outdoors to his living quarters.

Revenues Of CRMWD Still Ahead Of '60

Revenues of the Colorado River Municipal Water District continue to run slightly ahead of a year ago, the February revenue report shows.

Actually the $12,000 difference understates the advantage, for the last year totals included an extra month's payment by one of the member cities. Adjust this and the district actually is running a good $40,000 ahead.

Revenues for February stood at $145,006, bringing the year's total to $322,076. For the first two months of 1960, revenues aggregated $310,079.

Member city payments for February stood at $106,041, including $70,411 from Odessa, $30,421 from Big Spring, $7,634 from Snyder and $588 from rural users. Surplus water sales amounted to $32,690, including $24,160 to SACTCO, $4,221 to Sharon Ridge, $2,044 to Lion Oil and $1,363 to Texas Gulf. The year's total was $78,199, well over $51,333 for the same time in 1960.

Recreational revenues, with about two-thirds of net from lease rentals on lots, amounted to $3,038, making the year's total $21,982.

Expenses aggregated $39,749 for February, making $99,853 for the two months as compared with $93,912 expenses during the first two months of 1960. Disbursements included $270 for supervision, $375 for operating labor, $62 for repairs, $438 for maintenance labor, $535 for general maintenance, $34 for well field power, $2,414 for water purchases, $591 for automotive expense, $27,001 for pumping expense, $6,430 administrative and general expense.

An interesting sidelight of the report was in production totals. Of the 1,132,951,000 gallons accounted for, all but 3,944,000 came from Lake J. B. Thomas.

Mundt Asks Hearings On Slowdowns

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kay E. Mundt, R-S.D., charged today that workers at Cape Canaveral and other missile bases have been gouging the government to the tune of millions of dollars with wildcat strikes, slowdowns and $1,000 a week wages.

Mundt, senior Republican member of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, called for early public hearings to explore and expose the conditions he said staff investigators have uncovered.

Chairman John J. McClellan, D-Ark., has voiced somewhat similar charges in less detail, and also has indicated there will be public hearings soon.

In Florida, Mundt said, slowdowns and wildcat strikes were used as a device to force the payment that resulted in "fantastic" wage rates as high as $1,000 a week to union craftsmen and from $600 to $800 weekly for other construction workers.

Proposed Bill May Cost More, Provide Less, Judge Reports

WICHITA FALLS — Proposed state legislation may cost the taxpayers of Scurry County more money but result in less effective supervision of young parolees, according to Judge Graham B. Purcell Jr. of Wichita Falls.

The measure in question is House Bill 51 which would create a state juvenile parole department to supervise youngsters after their release from the state training schools.

The state is now charged with this duty, but the Texas Youth Council has no personnel for carrying out the responsibility. At the present time, 47 of the 48 counties with probation departments provide this service at local expense. House Bill 51 provides for employment of a director, 5 supervisors, 5 stenographers, and 45 parole officers at an annual cost of $423,800.

The Juvenile Board of Wichita County had made a study which shows a large majority of children committed to state training schools are from the 48 counties in the state that have local probation programs. In fact, 84.5 per cent of the children committed to training schools during 1959-1960 were from the 48 counties which have 70 per cent of the 1,263,682 Texas children of juvenile court age.

Judge Purcell, chairman of the Juvenile Board in Wichita County, said, "Figures supplied by Howard Large, our probation officer, indicate the proportionate cost of the suggested program would be about $375,866.00 for the 48 counties with existing facilities if 84.5 per cent of the state funds were allotted these counties for state parole services."

"We suggest the state provide these 48 counties with $0.25 for each local child of juvenile court age and allow the funds to be used to expand and improve the service of the local officers in accordance with Youth Council standards."

"Under the revised proposal, the cost would total only $221,691.75 for those 48 counties, resulting in an annual savings of $136,174.00 of state tax money, yet giving these counties more funds to improve the juvenile parole services which they now render."

"The proposed House Bill 51," the judge continued, "would cost the state almost $100.00 per year per child supervised, based on last year's comparison. Wichita County, in contrast, spent only $38.00 per child yet has a re-peater rate of less than 15 per cent."

"However, the service rendered by the state-wide group would not be as complete as those in a local level," the judge said.

"Under the state parole program, it is unlikely girls would receive any supervision as employment of juvenile parole officers would be impractical for handling those widely scattered cases which amounted to only 19 per cent of the commitments last year."

"Also, under the proposed House Bill, it would require two officers - one state and one local - to work with a family in which one child was on parole from a state training school and in which one other child was on probation."

"Another advantage of the revised proposal would be to offer both probation and parole services to the 206 counties now having neither of those services."

Judge Purcell pointed out that probation officers who have worked with children before their commitment are familiar with the offenders' backgrounds and problems.

"Compiling background information and records on parolees in itself would be an expensive undertaking and one that would duplicate existing data in the local probation offices," concluded Judge Purcell.

ANACONDA, Mont. (AP)—A searcher's chance remark about old refrigerators saved the life of a 4-year-old Anaconda boy Thursday night.

Curtis Kroll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kroll, survived two hours in zero cold of a chest-type deep freezer. Clad in a red parka jacket, the boy was cuffed inside the half-filled freezer, and still conscious.

The boy was visiting at the Alexander Miller home in suburban Opportunity. Curtis disappeared on 50 volunteers began a search that ended shortly after a deputy probation officer, Dan Gaskes, asked Mrs. Miller if there were any old refrigerators on the property.

There wasn't, but it brought to Mrs. Miller's mind the freezer on the porch of her home.

Curtis said he lifted the lid of the freezer, lost his balance and tumbled inside. The freezer was shut tight by its self-latching lid.

MARTHA TREDWAY
From Baby Pants To Politics

She Campaigns To Free Texas Women

DENISON, Tex. (AP)—An indignant Georgia peach transplant to Texas soil hopes her platform of equal rights for women will win her a seat in the U. S. Senate.

Mrs. Martha Tredway is among the more than a score of candidates running in Texas' special election April 4 to select a successor to Lyndon B. Johnson, who resigned to become vice president.

"Maybe we can show the men that women still are to be reckoned with," says Mrs. Tredway, tossing her platinum blonde hair. She will campaign largely for the women's vote.

"I don't care whether I win or not. But I'd like the result to be a mandate for the legislature to call a constitutional amendment election and free the women of this state," she says.

She Clashes Discrimination
Mrs. Tredway claims 44 Texas laws discriminate against women in business.

It is not a local issue, explains the 40-year-old candidate with a peaches-and-cream complexion.

"Look at this," she says, brandishing a letter a woman forwarded her to illustrate discrimination. The letter was from a St. Louis firm checking on the credit of a new dress shop operated by a woman. It showed that the husband was required to put up collateral, and credit was established in the husband's name—not the wife's. Yet the husband was in another business.

Mrs. Tredway's enthusiasm for women's rights is only one outlet for her energy. She's also a Cub Scout den mother and active in the Baptist church, the Texas Manufacturing Association and women's clubs. Every year she travels to markets from coast to coast.

The Road to Texas
She became a Texan by a roundabout method. Born Martha Carey in Madison, Ga., where her father was a civil engineer and surveyor, she attended Piedmont College in Demorest, Ga. 2 1/2 years.

But 11 years ago she was living in Reno, Nev., where she and her husband owned a motel, when something happened to change their "nice, slow, easy life," as she describes it.

It was time for the annual Reno rodeo, and the rodeo boosters asked residents to "do something different."

"I can't tell you today what anyone else did," she relates. "But I can assure you that what I did was different."

Into Diaper Business
Her son, Randy, was 10 months old, so she fashioned him a pair of diapers from heavy blue denim cloth of the West—and strapped a tiny six-gun on him.

"It was a show stopper," says the winsome blonde. "Photographers shot the rodeo and they shot Randy, but Randy got the spreads. The Tredways almost instantly were buried by letters.

Everybody wanted a pair of blue jean diapers," recalls her husband. "So finally we decided the best thing to do was to start making them."

They sold their motel and returned to Texas—Tredway's home state—to go into business together. They named their firm "Diaper Jeans Inc.," and soon branched out into a complete line of children clothing and leather shoes.

Response to Candidacy
She cuts the material and fashions the clothing. Then an artist draws the design—reversing the usual procedure.

"Ever since Diaper Jeans, Inc. was born, we've been badgered by the laws involving married women in business in not only Texas

ABWA Tea Set For Sunday Here

The fact that some 3000 women all over Texas are having forty-three tea parties on the same day is no coincidence. It is part of a carefully planned program titled "Hand of Friendship Day" in Texas. Officially designated by Texas Governor Price Daniel, the day will be Sunday, March 19.

The Snyder Chapter of ABWA is joining in this observance with a tea to be held Sunday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock in the home of Mrs. R. H. Odum, 1912 Twenty-ninth Street.

On that day, business women throughout Texas will gather under the auspices of the American Business Women's Association. This organization, non-union, non-political and non-sectarian, aims at elevating the business standards of women. It offers, within its membership, training for women which is designed to benefit both the individual and business in general.

The teas are a friendship activity aimed at enrolling a minimum of five hundred additional members into ABWA in Texas, and will be coordinated with the efforts of the organization on the part of Texas business women to direct attention to the benefits of higher standards and the training which will improve individuals and businesses.

The honoree's chosen colors of blue and white were carried out in the hall decor. The refreshment table laid with a white lace cloth over blue was centered with an arrangement of blue morning glories and white carnations, flanked on either side by blue tapers in crystal holders. Appointments were in silver and crystal.

Texas Program Given At Woman's Culture Club Meet

The regular meeting of the Woman's Culture Club was held Tuesday afternoon at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. In the absence of the president, Mrs. A. C. Martin, the first vice president, Mrs. J. E. Shipp presided.

Following the business session, Mrs. Jodie Byrum led the program on "Texas," giving a sketch of its history. She said in part: "The first Europeans to explore Texas were Spaniards, who sailed along the coast of the Rio Grande in 1519. Coronado crossed the northern part of the region during 1541. Within the next 140 years, other Spanish gold hunters and explorers passed through Texas, but it was not until 1822 that the still existing village of Ysleta was founded near the site of El Paso.

"In 1685 La Salle, a Frenchman, driven west by a storm while searching for the mouth of the Mississippi river, built a fort near the Matagorda Bay.

"In 1690 Spaniards from Mexico, led by Alonso de Leon, established a mission near Nacogdoches, a dozen other scattered missions and forts were established, but by 1800 those that had been established at Nacogdoches remained the chief results of more than 200 years of Spanish colonization.

"In 1820 Moses Austin received permission from the Mexican government to locate 300 American families in Texas. His son, Stephen Austin, established the first permanent Anglo-American settlement at San Felipe de Austin on the lower Brazos river.

"It was in 1824 that Texas became a federal Mexican Republic. The annexation of Texas brought on the war between the U. S. and Mexico.

Mrs. E. J. Richardson Sr. spoke on "Historical Cities of Texas." She said: "For a century and a half the history of Texas was largely the history of San Antonio.

As the chief city when Texas was part of Spanish America, when it was a Mexican Republic, when it was a member of the Confederacy and when it became a state of the American Union. In San Antonio stands the Alamo, the shrine of Texas Centralism. Alamo was the scene of the greatest drama of heroism in the annals of history. Many beautiful missions were built along the river in this city, the most beautiful being the San Jose, called the 'Queen of Missions'."

"Another historical city of note in Texas is Jacksboro. The Jack County Historical Society is made up of Jacksboro patriots who have banded together to preserve and exploit the historic military outpost there as a tourist attraction.

"This fort was established in 1876 by the U. S. Army to check the activity of the Indians who murdered and harassed the pioneers who settled west Texas immediately after the civil war. The construction of the Fort Richardson converted this primitive outpost of Jacksboro into a boom town. The Historical Society is striving to preserve all the good in the historic heritage, while leaving the seamy side of the fort to live up the pages of history."

Mrs. S. A. Tibbels, substituting for Mrs. R. H. Murry, gave an account of "Rare Book Collections of Texas." A portion of her review was: "There are 267 public libraries in Texas listed with the state library at Austin. The largest of these is the Marabeu B. Lamar Library of the University of Texas. The Rare Book Collection there consists of approximately 35,000 volumes composed of the Wren collection, the Aiken collection, and the Storck collection. These rare books are rated first in the United States among state owned institutions and third among colleges, being surpassed only by Harvard and Yale.

"In Baylor University Library is the history collection consisting of books, bulletins, pictures, maps and other valuables of historical interest in Texas and Southwest.

"In the Aldridge Book Store in Dallas, among his rare books, is one copy of the three known copies of Henry Brown's 'Two Years in Mexico,' which sold for $1,250.00. Another rare book in his collection is Father Hidalgo's personal prayer book, which sold for $4,500.00."

Mrs. Floyd Smith spoke on "Camp Meetings of Texas." In substance she said: "In 1837 Protestant missionaries from the United States came into Texas. The Methodist and the Presbyterians were the first to arrive. It was the custom for the visiting minister to stop at some settlers home. If he found the inhabitants in sympathy with his plan, services would be held and all in the surrounding area notified. The slaves attended the meetings along with their masters.

"The camp meeting became the most famous of these assemblies. Here a group of ministers would gather and alternately preach. Crowds came, some on foot, on horse-back or in wagons, prepared to remain for several days at a time. The place selected for these meetings were usually a shaded area near a watering place.

"As a general rule, these meetings were un denominational. Many attended who would not attend other religious services. Besides the spiritual uplift, it was an outing for many.

"Often people came from 80 miles away, in spite of the difficulties of travel. The ministers expected little pay and often received none for their services. Perhaps the most famous of these camp meeting grounds was Cedar Creek in Washington county, south of Brenham."

Hostess for the meeting was Mrs. Neva Greenfield who served refreshments to 15 members.

Road To Nazareth Not Made With New Tailfins In Mind

BY INEZ ROBB

NAZARETH, Israel — Like an eagle's cliff, Nazareth is perched in the heart and at the height of the mountains of Galilee.

The fast ribbon of modern concrete ends as the car turns to make the sharp climb into Nazareth, 1,250 feet above sea level. Granted that it is not great height, still it is a road to be approached with respect, for it is narrow, steep and formed of hairpin turns one after the other. It was not designed with tailfins in mind.

Halfway up any pilgrim will begin to wonder seriously if the present road does not, in fact, follow the ancient path carved out of the mountainside 2,000 and more years ago by human feet and that patient Biblical beast of burden, the donkey.

Modern Nazareth is a series of off-white homes of one-story, and at most two-story, street buildings clinging to the precipitous mountain. In the time of Jesus it was a village of 500 souls, mostly shepherds, farmers and small artisans such as Joseph the carpenter. Today it is a lively town of 24,000 souls, including 14,000 Catholic Arabs and approximately 5,000 Jews and 5,000 Muslims. It houses the largest minority settlement in Israel.

Conversion has not notably changed Arab characteristics. It is probably only poetic justice that they profit from the steady and sizable year-round throng of Christians who come here to the only other locale that rivals Jerusalem as a Christian shrine.

They—the Arab Christians—stand outside all Christian shrines and descend in flocks on the tourists to sell a variety of souvenirs from Arab headresses to dolls to rosaries. But even the street merchants could not detract from the deep joys and the surprise we experienced when the driver stopped the car just short of the top of the mountain and, pointing, said, "That is Mary's Well."

From there on, almost everything about Nazareth was a surprise to me. I was not quite prepared to let the water from Mary's Well run through my fingers and feel its coolness in my face. This is the well, legend says, to which the Lord's mother came daily to fill her earthen jars for the age-old household tasks of cooking, washing, drinking and scrubbing.

Perhaps, as a cynic in the crowd said, it is not the real well. But it is an ancient well in the heart of Nazareth, and I am willing to believe.

Expectant Mother's Sentence Suspended

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Mary Louise Johnson, expecting another child, received a five-year suspended sentence Thursday for slaying an 8-month-old daughter.

The mother, 23, had been charged with murder with malice in the Dec. 13 death of her daughter, Jane. But a jury found her guilty of murder without malice. Mrs. Johnson did not testify, but an assistant district attorney read a statement which police said she signed. It quoted her as saying she threw the infant on the floor twice because the child's crying made her nervous.

The woman also has another daughter, Beverly Ann, 20 months.

Tom Smith Stadium, in General Eisenhower Park at Abilene, Kan., was named for an early frontier marshal of the town.

Cowpoke In City Writes Homefolks

By FRANCIS STILLEY
NEW YORK (AP)—Dear homefolks:

This town sure beats all. Guess I am just too much of an old country cowpoke to take it all in in one day. Maybe two. You never saw the likes. Well I just got here. The train was nice and all that but, doggone it, my eyes near popped out.

Thought I had seen everything there was and then I found out I had not even got out of the Grand Central Station yet. Ha ha. A good joke on me, eh? Well you tell my old pardner, agent Skinner, back there at Hoeckle Corners he ought to have a depot like this one. Right in there they sell everything you can think of.

Now I want to start in to tell you what else there is around here.

They've got lots of chuck wagons but by gosh they make you pay to get your grub in them. And these here saloons, Shucks, a cowboy could blow his whole month's pay on one night's supply of rekeye. What's more hardly nobody stands up at the bar to drink. They nearly all sit down.

My goodness gracious but this place is full of horsies carriages. They are a-going in all directions all at the same time. A fellow can get run over just about any old time.

One thing you can say. The lady folks here have lots of nice stores to go shopping into. But still somehow I get the notion maybe that the ladies back home are better off with just the Emporium. They keep going around from store to store so much they can't make up their minds.

I kind of think maybe it is the dogs that get along the best in this place, in some ways. I wish some of the old pot hounds I know could see this. Barber shops for dogs. Honest to gosh, I'm not kidding. Special people to take them walking. They sleep in beds. They actually have clothes and shoes to wear when they go out of doors.

They have a kind of a game they play here a lot I judge, but I don't know as I get the hang of it exactly. It is called playing the stock market.

Best I can tell this is not a stock market with stock like we have back there at Hoeckle except they do talk about bulls and bears. I can understand how they might sell bulls but why would any one man want to buy bears? If I could learn I will write you about this.

Now I have got to go find out where the post office is. Goodbye for now. Your friend Luke.

P.S. Could you kindly send me $19? Things cost a lot here.

Sees Rockets On Moon In 15 Years

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Space scientist Wright W. Langham said Thursday that "huge rocket ships will be landing on the moon" within 15 years.

Dr. Langham is director of the Atomic Energy Commission's laboratory at Los Alamos, N.M. He spoke before a civic club here while en route to Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Langham already has a million times more nuclear power than would be needed for a round-trip moon voyage, he said. "But control of that power has not been achieved."

Bengal Tracksters Off To Odessa

Coach Dutch Stehley, along with 17 of his Snyder Tiger track and field competitors and a manager, departed this morning for Odessa and the two-day talent-laden West Texas Relays.

Due to the multitude of relays being run—a whopping total of four in all—Snyder isn't rated among the "top three" of Abilene, Andrews and Albuquerque, all of which are "loaded" with top-flight relayers. The Tigers are only mediocre strong in that area of endeavor, with the 440 being their plum.

An expected strong showing by Snyder in the dashes, hurdles and field events should place them among the "top five" in the field, however, with Midland being the other hardy contender. Over 40 schools will take part in the mammoth meet, the preliminaries of which were to have gotten underway at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Coach Stehley has indicated that he will place the following Tigers in the events listed:

100-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Jim Taylor.
100-YARD DASH—Jesse Crawford, Mike Morris.
SPRINT MEDLEY RELAY—John Mitchell, Bill Weaver, Tim

Hardin, Carl Bailey.
300-YARD LOW HURDLES—Crawford and either Taylor or Bobby Brown.

West Texas Relays Set To Blast Off

ODESSA (AP)—The West Texas Relays, with Baylor favored to win the featured university class and McMurry picked in the college division, opened today.

The Baylor, victors in the Border Olympics last week, show so much strength in the field events they are expected to beat out relay-tough Abilene Christian. There are twice as many points for the relays as individual events, but Baylor has more manpower.

Texas, Houston, Southern Methodist, Texas Christian and Texas Tech also are entered in the university division where a half-dozen records are expected. Among them are the 440-yard and mile relays, where Abilene Christian is supreme.

The high schools, 41 strong and with more than 400 competitors, open the big track and field carnival this afternoon with a long list of preliminaries. The colleges and universities see first action Saturday morning.

Texas and Houston are due to fight it out for third place in the university division.

McMurry is defending champion in the college class where East Texas State, Arlington State, Howard Payne, Texas Western and Sul Ross are the other entries. The Indians appear likely to win by a long margin.

Andrews and Abilene are due to duel for the high school title. They are good in the relays and they have some top individuals, notably Ted Nelson, Ted Andrews quarter-miler.

Tigerettes On Road Tonight

Snyder's Tigerettes will be seeking their second district volleyball triumph in as many outings tonight when they travel to Sweetwater for a 7:30 battle.

Over the season the local six is 8-1, with one of their wins being a 3-3A encounter against Colorado City which was capped to the tune of 20-1.

The Tigerette "B" team will initiate the action of the evening when they go after their fifth victory in six outings in a 6:30 tilt against the Sweetwater "B" outfit.

Following Tuesday tussles at Lamesa, the Snyder girls will return home a week from tonight, with Lamesa furnishing the opposition at that time, also.

BIG BAT—Spencer Dyer is currently leading the Snyder Tiger baseballers in hitting with a lustrous .448 average. The 7 runs he tallied by the speedy junior third socker also represent a current team high. Early in the season he batted in the leadoff spot, but since has been shuffled to number three in the order. (Photo by Jackson)

It will be Tiger righthander Charlie Gladson dueling with southpaw Dave Dorris of the San Angelo Bobcats this afternoon—weather permitting—on the San Angelo Stadium Field beginning at 4 o'clock.

Gladson, a big veteran chunker, is the team's strikeout artist, having whiffed an average of over one per inning during the time he's been on the hill. He is 1-3 for the season, having felled Odessa Periman in the season opener, 3-2, while being charged with the losses in 2-3 and 1-4 defeats at the hands of Lubbock Monterey and a 4-9 thumping by Abilene. In addition, Gladson leads his team in runs batted in, with six in an early 17-16 win over Big Spring paving the way.

As a team, Snyder is 3-4, sporting victories over Big Spring and Plainview and a loss to Tom S. Lubbock in addition to the decisions in which Gladson has figured.

The Bobcats are all even at 3-3 for the campaign, with their most recent conquest being a 16-1 drubbing of Abilene Cooper.

Coach Speedy Moffett of the Tigers has indicated that they will start the following nine against the Angletons—Mike Moffett, catcher; Steve Free, shortstop; Spencer Dyer, third base; Weidon Ware, left field; Bennie Greenfield, first base; Bubba Fleming, catcher; Gladson, pitcher; and Jerry Franks, right field.

Following today's game the Tigers will return home tomorrow for a twin bill against Big Spring beginning at 1 p. m. on the Towle Park diamond. Tentative starters for those games will be Freddy Miller and Dalton Walton.

Hermleigh, Ira In Early Tourney Wins

FLUVANNA—First firing in the District Junior High Volleyball Tournament was accomplished here last night, as both boys and girls teams saw action.

Hermleigh's girls downed Westbrook, as Robinson served for 13 points to show the way, while Langford also was credited with a like number in the losing effort.

Hobbs' girls clipped Ira, as Alamanza tallied 13 of the winning points, with Bishop pacing the Ira attack with 9.

Today's action in girls play will see Hermleigh tangling with Fluvanna at 4 p. m. and Hobbs taking on Loraine at 6. The finals matching the winners in those two bouts will begin at 8 o'clock.

In boys competition, Hermleigh bested Westbrook in a first rounder behind Smith and his 13 points. Bell marked up a total of 5 for the losers.

Ira's boys ousted Fluvanna in the other boys game as Koenig scored 16 for Ira and Contreras 8 for the losing six.

Action of today will have Hermleigh engaging Loraine at 5 p. m., with the winner playing Ira in the 7 o'clock final. Ira advanced into the finals due to Hobbs' forfeiting. There is no consolation bracket in the tournament, with viewing being for only championship and runner-up spots.

Is Unbeaten Ohio State Unbeatable?

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Ohio State's mighty Buckeyes, aiming to become the first collegiate basketball team to go through an entire season unbeaten since North Carolina in 1957, open defense of their national title in the NCAA tourney tonight.

"This is like the start of a new season," said Coach Fred Taylor as his top-ranked Buckeyes sought their 26th straight victory against Louisville in a Mid-East regional game at Louisville, Ky. The Bucks' streak includes 24 straight this season plus a carryover of five from a year ago.

The game is one of eight second round games nationally that will be played at Louisville, Charlotte, Lawrence, Kan. and Portland, Ore.

Sharing the limelight with Ohio State is second-ranked Cincinnati and fourth-ranked Kansas State. Cincinnati meets Texas Tech and K-State takes on Houston. Both games are at Lawrence.

Third-ranked St. Bonaventure battles Wake Forest at Charlotte and Southern California, seventh-ranked in the final Associated Baylor blasted Rice 9-3 Thursday to get the Southwest Conference baseball race off and running. It was the Golden Bears' fifth straight victory against no defeats for the season.

Texas, which also has a five-game winning streak, opens the race against Texas A&M at Austin Friday.

Those will be the only conference games for the week.

Baylor clubbed five runs across in the seventh to break open what had been a tight game. The Bears were leading 4-3 but they had to come from behind a two-run Rice second inning.

Lefty Jack Ward relieved Bobby Barnett with the bases loaded and nobody out and pitched Baylor out of its predicament in the second. He went on to hurl steady ball for the five middle innings.

Texas Christian took a 10-6 licking from Sul Ross in a practice game. The Christians have won only one in eight starts.

Oldest pitcher on the Detroit Tigers is Don Mossi. He turned 31 last January 11th.

New Translations Hailed As Significant Accomplishment

By JULES LOH
NEW YORK (AP)—The reason he decided to write a gospel, St. Luke explained in his prologue, was to give the world an accurate and understandable account of the life and message of Jesus.

Thus the task facing translators over the centuries has been to keep the words of Luke and the other Bible authors as understandable and as accurate as they were to those who first read them in the ancient languages in which they were written.

Two groups of scholars, one Roman Catholic and the other Protestant, have published new translations which critics say accomplish the twofold-end better than any previous efforts.

Both works have scholarship as their hallmark and both are written in contemporary English style which gives a freshness to the familiar Bible stories.

Each of the new works has copious footnotes for the benefit of the scholarly, but for the average layman their distinguishing characteristic is the modern phraseology.

Here is a typical example of how the New English Bible puts into everyday English the language of the King James Version:

King James Version—Then answered Peter and said unto him, declare unto us this parable. And Jesus said, are ye also yet without understanding? (Matt 15:15-16)

New English Bible—Then Peter said, "Tell us what the parable means." Jesus answered, "Are you still as dull as the rest?"

By the same token, the modern idiom of the Confraternity into this typical selection from the version gives a new smoothness and familiarity to the fiery furnace (Daniel 3:19):

Confraternity Version—Then was Nabuchodonosor filled with fury; and the countenance of his face was changed against Sidrach, Misach and Abednego.

Confraternity Version—Nabuchodonosor's face became livid with utter rage against Sidrach, Misach and Abednego.

Both new works are fresh translations, not revisions of previous translations.

The confraternity translation, published Feb. 15, was the third section of an over-all translation which is being produced piecemeal. The two earlier sections, published in 1952 and 1953, also were Old Testament portions. The New Testament and final volume of the Old Testament are expected to be finished in a few years.

There will be a special program at Northside Baptist Church at 6:30 p. m. Sunday, "A Surprise Wedding" will be presented by the primary department of the Sunday School.

All of the preparation for a real wedding is being taken care of by Mr. and Mrs. Don Snider, Jimmy Billingsley and Wayne Glasscock, Snider is superintendent of the primary department, while Billingsley and Glasscock are the Baptist Training Course directors.

Churchmen have found that many persons feel words like thou and whither and believeth are proper for the Bible, and that modern expression somehow dishonors "the word of God."

But both groups of translators gave particular attention to beauty of expression as well as accuracy.

Only time will tell whether either new work will have the profound effect on churchmen as their venerable predecessors. But at least they are as accurate as modern scholarship will allow, and understandable to the people for whom they were written.

That, according to St. Luke, is all that is asked of them.

Rev. Hamblin On Morning Devotions

The Rev. David Hamblin, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, will be the speaker on the "Daily Devotions" radio program next week.

The program is presented over KSNV and is scheduled by the Snyder Ministerial Alliance.

JFK Salutes Girl Scouts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy Thursday helped celebrate the 40th anniversary of the Girl Scouts and said he looked forward to the day when his daughter, Caroline, now 3, would become a Scout.

Two teen-agers from suburban Maryland presented Kennedy a bouquet of yellow roses for Mrs. Kennedy and a Brownie doll for Caroline at a ceremony in the White House rose garden just outside the President's office.

The gifts were delivered by Sonia Algren, 17, of Silver Spring and Ellen Hootan, 15, of Chevy Chase. They are senior Scouts in the national capital Girl Scout council.

Kennedy thanked the uniformed girls and Mrs. Malcolm S. Edgar of Summit, N.J., first vice president of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. who accompanied them.

Scouting has "helped make responsible citizens" of millions of young girls, Kennedy said. Accepting the doll in the brown uniform of a beginner Scout, the President said he would "give my daughter the present and look forward to the day that she becomes a Scout."

HAVE
GOD

The Bible says for us not to neglect church attendance, Heb. 10:25. Here we find a family on the way up the steps to an hour of worship. The church is the strongest dyke against corruption and the evil forces that destroy human life. The church is the foe of the penitentiary. Jesus said, "I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it," Matt. 16:18.

The church is not perfect... nothing human ever is. Even the Apostles chosen by Jesus had a Judas, but see the success He made of the other eleven. Christ loved the church enough to die for it and that makes it mighty important. Whether people worship in a tent, tabernacle or cathedral, they mean to be on God's side. Church-going people are people of Faith. Do you go to church?
