

Sadat wants help

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—President Anwar Sadat has called on Secretary of State Cyrus Vance for more "active American participation" in the Egyptian-Israeli peace process and "strong, binding" U.S. commitments and guarantees to wrap up an agreement, the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram reported today.

Quoting Egyptian diplomatic sources, Al-Ahram said Sadat told Vance during a 90-minute Sunday meeting.

"Without active American participation, it will be difficult for Egypt and Israel to achieve agreement before Dec. 17, the date that President Jimmy Carter calls for and which Egypt reaffirms the necessity of respecting."

U.S. commitments and guarantees for wrapping up a peace accord with Israel "must be strong and binding, or peace will not be realized," Sadat reportedly continued.

The president said Egypt envisions a comprehensive, clearcut and applicable peace pact, devoid of any loopholes that could precipitate complications in the future, Al-Ahram reported.

"Negotiations (with Israel) will have to be resumed at once, with the treaty signing to take place on Mt. Sinai and with the three religions (Islam, Christianity and Judaism) and all parties to the Arab-Israeli conflict to be represented," Sadat reportedly declared. Vance arrived Sunday afternoon on a visit to Egypt and Israel to try to resolve the disagreements blocking conclusion of a peace treaty. After a meeting today with Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil and leading members of his cabinet and another session with Sadat, he was flying to Israel for the funeral of former Prime Minister Golda Meir.

He will return to Cairo after the funeral Tuesday, meet again with Egyptian officials and return to Jerusalem Wednesday to confer with Prime Minister Menachem Begin and other Israeli officials.

There was speculation that he urged Sadat to send a representative to Mrs. Meir's funeral, a move that he was reported to believe could help get Egyptian-Israeli negotiations going again and contribute to a new atmosphere of conciliation.

LBJ'S BROTHER DIES—Sam Houston Johnson, 64, only brother of former President Lyndon B. Johnson died early Monday in an Austin, Texas hospital following a long bout with cancer.

Suffered from lung cancer

Brother of LBJ dies

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—Sam Houston Johnson, the brother of the late President Lyndon B. Johnson, died today of lung cancer at Holy Cross Hospital. He was 64.

Johnson, five years younger than his brother Lyndon, had a malignant tumor removed from a lung in 1976.

He had been hospitalized here for several weeks. He lived in an apartment here.

The younger Johnson served on LBJ's congressional staff.

He had his own views of power and politics and expressed them when he had the chance.

Often, as his chauffeured limousine would ease through the gates of the LBJ White House, the president's look-alike would raise his wrists as if they were handcuffed and shout, "Back to the cell."

Sam Johnson was returning to what he referred to as "cell 326 in the White House penitentiary during the years of my brother's incumbency."

"There were a lot of people who never knew Lyndon Johnson had a brother," he once said.

Sam Houston Johnson was named for the famous Texan who led the war for independence from Mexico in 1836 and became president of the Republic of Texas, later serving as U.S. senator and governor when Texas joined the United States.

Johnson, unlike his famous namesake, stayed in the background. LBJ once described his brother privately as "the smartest politician in the family," but Sam Houston remarked: "Daddy said one politician in the family was enough."

Sam Houston joined Lyndon's congressional staff in 1937 and for 30 years served as Lyndon's "babysitter, chauffeur, political troubleshooter, administrative aide and general advisor."

"Hell, man," he told an interviewer, "for years I was recognized in Washington as general counsel for the frequently fired employees of Lyndon Johnson."

Tubb replaces Brownrigg as county trapper Jan. 1

Howard County Commissioners appointed Larry Tubb to the position of county trapper beginning Jan. 1, 1979. Tubb replaces Earl Brownrigg, who retires at the end of this year.

The commissioners also decided to be generous, giving county employees a holiday on Tuesday, Dec. 26 as well as Christmas day.

Bids were opened for building of a structure to keep county maintenance equipment at the warehouse out of the weather, but no decision was made.

Five bids were proposed, ranging from $11,527.50 to $15,000. The commissioners were still studying whether the bids met the County's specifications.

Other business to be completed this afternoon included:

—Public hearing on Revenue Sharing Funds;

—Discussion of a request from Pritchard and Abbott and the possibility of putting the oil roll on the computer;

—Request from Library to clean the carpet;

—Conference with Peggy Crittenden, District Clerk;

—Discuss typewriter desk for the County Clerk's office; and

Supreme Court takes case of 'reverse discrimination'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today agreed to decide whether employers without proof of a past history of racial bias illegally discriminate against whites when special preferences are given to minority workers.

The big legal question left unanswered by the court's famed Bakke decision last June presents itself in a trio of appeals stemming from the job discrimination lawsuit of Louisiana worker Brian F. Weber.

The Carter administration had asked the justices to send the case back to lower courts for further study.

Civil rights leaders and government officials say Weber's thus-far successful suit against his employer, Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Co., poses a major threat to government efforts to improve employment opportunities for minorities.

Lawyers for Weber, a white employee at Kaiser's Gramercy, La., plant, have called the case one of "reverse discrimination."

Lawyers for Kaiser and United Steelworkers union are asking the justices to overturn a 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling that bars Kaiser—or any employer in Louisiana, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and Texas—from voluntarily setting up "affirmative action" programs.

In the Bakke decision, a deeply divided Supreme Court ruled that a state-run medical school in California illegally discriminated against Allan Bakke, who is white, in denying him admission.

Bakke had charged that less-qualified applicants had been admitted ahead of him under the school's special program aimed at increasing its number of minority students.

But while ordering the school to admit Bakke, the justices did not destroy the affirmative action concept. They ruled that race can properly be considered as one of many factors in school admission decisions to provide for a diverse student population.

Because the decision was grounded in a federal law dealing with discrimination in education, it provided few clear signals as to the court's view of on-the-job affirmative action programs which affect millions of Americans.

A decision in Weber's case could put that crucial view in focus.

The program, approved in a labor-management agreement, accepted minority and white employees on a one-for-one basis. The policy was initiated after Kaiser expressed concern about the small percentage of its black employees holding higher paying craft jobs.

Had trainees been selected solely on a seniority basis, no blacks would have been included in the program at Gramercy.

Weber's lawsuit charged that the selection of black workers with less seniority than he enjoyed made him a victim of racial discrimination—in violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Funeral services held for victims of bus wreck

McCAULEY, Texas (AP)—The farming communities of McCauley and Sylvester put things aside to attend three more funerals today of students killed in the collision Friday of a McCauley school bus with a tractor-trailer rig 11 miles west of Roby.

One victim—17-year-old Lolita Perales—was buried Sunday. And friends and relatives were keeping vigil at hospitals in Abilene, Snyder, Rotan, Sweetwater and Lubbock for the 21 persons who were injured—seven critically—in the accident.

Among the critically injured was William Dixon of Snyder, the driver of a truck that highway patrolmen say drove through a flashing red light on Farm Road 611 and into the right side of the bus as it headed west on U.S. 180.

Hataway said Dixon apparently tried to stop for about 50 feet before the impact, which tore the bus in half and dumped it upside down, trapping students inside in subfreezing weather.

The bus was loaded with members of McCauley's high school boys' and girls' basketball teams, headed for a tournament at nearby Hermleigh.

McCauley's superintendent and principal, who coached the boys' basketball team, were the only adults on the bus and both were injured. Superintendent Edd Farmer escaped serious injury, but principal Doyle Bell was in critical condition at Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene.

Today's funerals were at 10:30 a.m. for Rita Kay Wilkerson, 14; at 2 p.m. for Bonnie Gail Pippin, 17; and at 4 p.m. for Britt Jeffrey, 15—two of them at the McCauley Baptist Church and another five miles south at the Sylvester Baptist Church.

Besides Bell and Dixon, others reported in critical condition today were Tami Jeffrey, Britt's sister; James Jeffrey and Darren Jeffrey, Britt's cousins; Kathy Wilkerson, Rita's sister; Debbie Decker.

Action /reaction: Wild life in Alaska

Q. Does Alaska really have enough wildlife to warrant preserving 100 million acres of wilderness?

A. At last count, the critters vastly outnumbered the 400,000 citizens. The state harbors 20,000 grizzlies, 250,000 caribou and 300,000 seals. More than 12 million migratory waterfowl fly there each spring.

Calendar: City dads call meeting

TODAY

Do-it-yourself Wallcovering Clinic at 7 p.m. at Sherwin-Williams, 1608 Gregg. Free to the public.

Meeting of the coaches and officials for Gra-Y basketball will be at 6:30 p.m. at the YMCA.

TUESDAY

The Big Spring City Council will hold its regular meeting, 9 a.m. in council chambers at City Hall.

All parents of children in the Title 1 program from kindergarten to eighth grade are invited to a Parent Advisory Council Meeting at 4 p.m. at the Goliad Middle School.

Tops on TV: Christmas specials

Christmas specials are coming wholesale on TV these days and nights. However, the outstanding show this evening may be "A Woman Called Moses." Cicely Tyson stars as the legendary Harriet Tubman, one of the foremost woman libbers as well as a major proponent of racial equality. Robert Hooks also stars. The two-hour show gets under way on NBC at 8 p.m.

Offbeat: Freak accident

Due to a faulty information call, Howard County Sheriff's Department deputies spent over an hour hunting a freak accident that actually occurred 12 miles east of Big Spring on IS-20.

John W. Posey was changing a rear tire on his truck around 5:30 a.m. Sunday when the tire blew out, knocking him some 10 feet away and setting the truck afire.

A caller to the Sheriff's office said the accident had occurred on US-87 north of Big Spring, and it was 6:55 a.m. before another call identified the proper location.

By the time Deputy Charles Johnson and the fire department arrived, passing trucks had already stopped and put out the minor fire with fire extinguishers. Alert Ambulance transported Posey, a truck driver who lists his home as Santa Anna, Calif., to Malone-Hogan emergency room for treatment of possible head injuries. Posey was treated and released for muscle strain.

'A lot of Texans didn't vote'

Carter outpolls Kennedy at Memphis convention

By WALT FINLEY

If Jimmy Carter and Ted Kennedy are the two main presidential choices for Texas Democrats in 1980, a lot of votes are going to "none of the above."

So said Larry Shaw, Knott farmer, as the three-day Democratic Party's mid-term convention ended Sunday in Memphis, Tenn. Was Larry jesting? He said pollsters at the convention measured Sen. Kennedy's standing among the delegates as a possible candidate to replace Carter in the White House. Shaw said CBS News disclosed an informal preference poll, taken among about half of the 1,625 delegates during the meeting, showed Carter the favorite with 38 percent to Kennedy's 34 percent.

"A lot of Texans didn't vote," Shaw revealed.

Carter survived a challenge from Democrats to his budget-cutting plans.

Following a "hot and heavy" floor fight, delegates voted 822-521 Sunday against a budget resolution insisting that Social programs get at least as much money in the next federal budget as they are receiving this year.

Then the delegates passed by voice vote a version asking that Carter provide "an adequate budget to support human needs" — leaving to him the decision on what is adequate.

It was a giant victory for the White House, but the vote may mean Carter will face more opposition than expected when he unveils his budget to Congress.

Party Chairman John White, former Texas Agriculture Commissioner, told fellow Texans he was pleased with the vote supporting budget whacking despite the 39 percent vote against.

The convention also endorsed Carter's policies for rescuing the slumping

IT'S OVER — John White, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, gestures during a press conference at the conclusion of the 1978 Democratic mid-term conference Sunday. dollar, seeking peace in the Middle East and influencing other nations to improve human rights, ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment and full voting rights for the District of Columbia. "I was told the convention cost the Democratic Party $500,000," Shaw remarked.

He was asked: "How do you rate the spectacle?" "About 30 on a cotton scale of zero to 100," Shaw replied.

Right or wrong here's more Memphis mania often called "hot shots."

Charles Stenholm and other freshmen Congressmen already have had an orientation session at the capital. They've learned the essentials — who's in charge, how to find the bathrooms and where to meet the lobbyists who want to take them to lunch.

Let's not criticize or bother farmer Stenholm for a little while. The poor guy needs help — he's had a hard time finding a home in Washington, D.C.

Republican Bill Clements

is struggling to find a way to cut taxes for everyone fairly. He hasn't quite got it yet, but may make it if the people will give him a second four-year term as governor.

Inside the hall at Oxford, Richard Nixon brings out strong feelings, pro and con. He has the smallest undecided vote ever recorded.

The best solution for the financial situation today is to stretch every dollar — and stretch it again — until it's worth at least 50 cents.

Some people would rather vote for a known crook or incompetent, rather than be plagued with uncertainty.

A writer of horror stories says Americans enjoy being scared to death. It's certainly true in Texas; isn't that why we have so many elections?

There are still a lot of sore losers on the liquor-by-the-drink question. Carrying those brown bags around has lost its sacking appeal.

Bill Clements knows how a Republican governor should treat the president. He'll give Jimmy Carter at least as much respect as Clements will be given by the Texas Legislature.

Prices still seek their own level. The reason you can't always see them today is that low layer of clouds.

Don't accept everything politicians promise. Be suspicious when they offer blood, sweat, tears and a tax cut.

Mayor declines increase

WARWICK, R.I. (AP) — Mayor Joseph Walsh, saying he would abide by President Carter's anti-inflation guidelines, has turned down more than $3,000 of a $5,000 salary increase he would have received in January.

The Democratic mayor, who earns $27,500 annually, said he would accept a raise equaling the 7 percent ceiling proposed by the president. Seven percent of $27,500 would be $1,925, which was the increase Walsh proposed at a budget hearing Saturday.

Analyst wins tournament

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A 22-year-old commodities analyst from Hollywood, Calif., has won the second annual world backgammon championship after outlasting more than 600 entrants from the 50 states and 12 foreign countries.

David Leibowitz defeated Jack Earney, 40, of San Jose, Calif., 21-15 Sunday in the final match, which lasted three hours. Besides receiving the Plimpton Cup, named for the contest's honorary chairman, George Plimpton, Leibowitz won $128,000. Earney won $51,400. The contest, which began Wednesday, was sponsored by the American Backgammon Championship Association.

Two die in explosion

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Two persons died in an explosion that shook downtown Covington and destroyed a three-story insulation firm, police said.

Authorities identified the victims as Leon "Hank" Snow, 34, former president of Seven Sons motorcycle club, and James Blanton, 39. Both lived in Covington. The Pike Street blast erupted at 1:15 a.m. Sunday, destroying two three-story buildings that housed the Queen City Insulation Co. Police declined comment on whether the blast was caused by an explosive device.

Teen boys arrested

NEW YORK (AP) — Two teen-age boys have been charged in connection with the arson murder of an 83-year-old widow who lived in a West Bronx tenement, police said.

Miguel Cruz, 18, and Oscar Arroyo, 15, were arrested Sunday after firemen discovered the blood-spattered body of Lillian Margolis when they responded to a fire in the woman's third floor apartment. Police said the woman's partially burned body was found on her bed and that she had been bludgeoned in the head by a sledge hammer that was later recovered near the apartment.

Constructing shopping center

LAMESA — After months of delays, construction of the Pioneer Square Shopping Center started here this week.

J. D. Williams, local leasing agent, said the developers were in town working on subcontracting portions of the construction.

The center is located at North 22nd Street, Woody Road and the Lubbock Highway and will feature 87,200 square feet of businesses on the west side of the area with 18,000 square feet of space for local business expansion on the north edge.

Williams said the center will feature a TG&Y, a supermarket, a drug store, a department store and a hardware store.

Howard eligible for SBA help

Congressman Omar Burleson announces that the Small Business Administration has declared Howard, Borden and Erath counties as eligible for disaster assistance because of physical damage caused by natural disaster.

The counties suffered losses from drought during the following periods: Howard County, Jan. 1, 1978 to Dec. 1, 1978; Borden County, May 1, 1978 to Sept. 1, 1978; Erath County, Jan. 1, 1978 to Sept. 11, 1978.

Loan application for physical damage may be filed until March 6, 1979 and economic injury until June 6, 1979. The SBA office is located at 720 Texas Ave. Room 422B, Lubbock, Texas.

Police beat Landlord victimized

A Lorilla Street lodger is apparently both a bad-risk renter and an ungrateful son.

His landlord, Beulah Snow, 711 Abrams, reported that he left Sunday without paying rent, and taking a coffee table, a night stand and a space heater. He also ripped the door off of the refrigerator.

Total loss was estimated at $78.

Later that same day, the renter's mother told police that he had left town with her portable radio, two social security checks totaling $208, three patchwork quilts, four pillows, seven sheets, two large blankets, two CB antennas and assorted china that she had left in the home. She estimated the loss at $378.

Wanda Hawkins, 2304 Alabama, was doubly unfortunate Saturday night. First, she tried to drive home from the Sonic Drive-in, 1200 S. Gregg, and her car wouldn't start, so she decided to leave it parked there for the night.

When she went back to pick up the car, Sunday morning, however, she found that vandals had smashed its two rear windows, broken off the outside rearview mirrors, stolen a case full of 10 eight-track tapes, and slashed a tire on the car. Cost of the damage has not been estimated.

Three tires were slashed on a 1974 Chevrolet pickup belonging to Sackie Birito, Kentwood Apartments, while it was parked outside the M&M Boogie Works, Sunday. Damage was

Fire marshal gives prevention advice

Tragic accidents and fires often accompany the holiday season, according to Jim Ryals, local fire marshal.

He reminds citizens that there are ways to cut down on fires and to have pleasant memories of the holidays.

He suggests that you purchase only Underwriters weather proof cords and lightings should be used. The UL label will indicate light strings suitable for outdoor use.

Ryals urged residents to check all lights carefully. "Make certain bulbs are not loose in their sockets. Use rubber light socket gaskets and replace if needed."

He also suggested that in the selection of a tree, whether natural or artificial, the selection is important. Artificial trees should be labeled flamed resistant. Ryals also reminds local residents not to put light strings on a metal tree, but use spot lighting.

Natural trees should be fresh, deep green, have a strong scent, have no falling needles and the trunk butt should be sticky with sap. "Keep the trunk in water and check it daily," the fire marshal added.

Ryals said, "Inspect all wiring. Watch for insulation deterioration, frayed and bare wires, lights with broken or cracked sockets or loose connections. Unsafe equipment should be discarded immediately."

Parents are reminded to keep electrical fixtures out of children's reach and never place them close to flammable material.

The homeowner is also cautioned not to overload

Overheating and fires often accompany the holiday season, according to Jim Ryals, local fire marshal.

The tree and other flammable materials should be kept at a good distance from fireplaces, radiators and other high heat sources. Also, Ryals points out, "Never block exits with the tree or other decorations."

"Disconnect all lights when working with them. Never stretch the extension cord wiring," Ryals added.

And, he concluded, "Always turn off decorative lights when leaving home or retiring. And keep a fully-charged fire extinguisher handy."

'Tis the season'

By Bill Albright
Executive Vice President,

'Tis the season to be Jolly — and it's also the season to be wary — wary of those who would take advantage of the spirit of the Holidays.

Oh yes, I know we've had warnings about shoplifters — about con artists who knock on your door with a scheme to increase our Christmas spending money, about hot check writers with phony identification papers and even those who make phone calls, promising much and delivering little or nothing.

But, do we take these warnings seriously — we'd better or we're liable to find ourselves the victims of some pretty expensive lessons. It's so easy to get in a hurry and not bother to properly check on details insuring that things are really what they appear to be. But the penalty is pretty costly and if we can follow some simple, easy rules we can generally save time and especially money.

First — be alert to the door to door salesperson — be sure you know with whom you're dealing. Our own BIG SPRING AREA merchants are the most reliable and certainly deserve our business.

If you are asked to cash checks be sure your identification procedures meet the current requirements according to law. Or you may have difficulty getting restitution in case the bank says there is no money in the account.

Another point to think about is shoplifting — first of all, we generally think of how much the store owner loses from shoplifting. But, in reality — he is forced to increase the price of goods to us in order to make up for the loss. So, the shoplifter is really ripping all of us off. Solution — you as a customer can be helpful. If you see a suspicious act by another customer, report it to the store personnel. Don't try to take any other action. Just tell a clerk or the manager as quickly and quietly as possible. There are a number of off duty law enforcement officers assisting the program again this year, so working together, we can improve the situation.

Back to the idea of patronizing our own BIG SPRING AREA merchants — we are doing ourselves a favor when we spend money at home in our local stores and shops.

And we're doing ourselves an equal disservice when we spend money out of town. So, think about that trip you may be planning and try to buy what you need right here at home — and Shop Big Spring First. And since the 25th is only a couple of weeks away — well you'd better HUSTLE! HUSTLE! HUSTLE!

Irving police have few leads

Sniper kills two

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Was the sniper who shot two persons to death with a deer rifle Saturday night in Irving acting out a TV network drama that was aired earlier in the day?

The possibility was one of the skimpy leads Irving police pursued today as they investigated the shooting deaths of a 43-year-old Arlington man and a 12-year-old Plano boy.

The victims were shot in a five-minute span in vehicles that were going west on U.S. 183 about two miles east of Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

In Saturday's showing of the television program, "CHIPS" — which stands for California Highway Patrol — a youth caused a major freeway accident by firing a pellet gun at passing motorists from an overpass.

"It could be connected or could not be. We just don't know," said Sgt. W.H. Maulden of the Irving Police Department.

Steven Thomas Gauden, 12, of Plano was shot in the head shortly before 11 p.m. Saturday as he sat in the rear seat of his family's station wagon. The Gauden family had just watched Plano's Wildcats move into Texas' Class 4A semifinals with a victory in Texas Stadium over Dallas Carter.

Raymond Douglas Andrews, 43, of Arlington was shot between the eyes as he drove his station wagon toward his home after he and his wife had attended a square dance. His wife managed to get the vehicle safely to the side of the road.

Police said the Gauden boy was struck by a shot apparently fired from the westbound freeway service road near the Esters Road exit.

Authorities theorize the sharpshooter then apparently drove to the Valley View Road overpass, where he chose Andrews as his next victim.

The unseen killer apparently left only a spent rifle cartridge behind.

Mrs. Andrews told police she saw the Gauden family waving frantically for help. As her husband slowed down, a second deadly shot rang out, killing Andrews instantly.

"It could have been anybody. He apparently just picked the people at random. As far as we know, the victims did not know each other and had no relationship," an Irving police spokesman said.

Lawyers try to complete selection of murder jury

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Lawyers went back to court today, trying to lock in the last two jurors for the capital murder case of David Grijalva of Gallup, N.M., accused of killing a Pizza Hut manager last year in Amarillo during a holdup.

Only 10 jurors have been seated since the process of picking a jury began Nov. 13. Some possible jurors grumbled last week about how tedious things were going.

District Judge Tom Cave responded with a lecture.

"I know those benches are hard out there," the judge said. "I know you'd rather be somewhere else. But we're trying a man for his life. I know that's important, and you know that's important."

Cave said he will try to make things as convenient as possible for the potential jurors, who said they were getting bored and unhappy. But he said he fully intends to see the 26-year-old defendant gets a "fair and careful trial."

Attorneys for both sides got to only three candidates by 5 p.m. Friday and excused all three.

Wednesday's session lasted from 8:30 a.m. to 11:15 p.m. as the judge sought to speed up the selection process.

NEW YORK (AP) — It was nearing the end of a pretty fair year and prospects were good for the next six months at least. So, U.S. Steel's pre-Christmas get-together with news reporters began pleasantly.

Domestic steel consumption would be about 113 million tons for the year, only 4 million tons short of the record, said David Roderick, president. Industry profits would be close to $1 billion.

While he foresaw a possible decline in demand from the automotive and appliance industries, said the head of "Big Steel," capital goods spending was expected to be strong.

But there were problems for the industry that no holiday spirit could dispel. Roderick had a message to deliver.

"Imports," he began, and as it always does at steel meetings, the word spread like smog through the holiday mood of the audience, gathered in a suite of the Rainbow Room atop the RCA Building.

Not even the prospect of a billion-dollar-plus contract to develop an iron ore facility in China could dispel the cloud. The atmosphere was now gray. In steel, "imports" is a foul word.

The steel industry, said Roderick, has taken "abuse for years." European and Japanese exporters, he said, were dumping into the U.S. market at below their production costs. It was "unfair, illegal."

It was an old refrain too, one that Washington had sought to quiet earlier this year by means of a trigger price mechanism, based on Japanese production costs, below which imports couldn't be priced.

"The trigger has not worked," said Roderick. Imports quite likely would be up for the year to about 20 million tons, compared with 19.3 million tons a year ago. The triggers, he indicated, were too low.

Critics of the domestic industry have never been scarce, and they speak almost with one voice: U.S. steelmakers are inefficient, their executives are shortsighted, their facilities are poorly managed.

Domestic steel executives reply with a disdainful snort, sometimes using language more colorful and explicit than that which is heard in any other executive suite.

In the fiscal year ended in March, he said, the six major steel producers in Japan lost $1 billion. That, he said, meant they were losing at the rate of $12 for every ton shipped to the United States.

"Why do we (the United States) condone it?" he asked. Tolerance of the situation, he said, reflects neither "good judgment or common sense." The country loses production, jobs, taxes, he indicated.

He was asked what U.S. Steel planned to do about it. The fourth quarter, he replied, determines if the company continues to rely on triggers or instead files dumping charges against foreign goods.

The industry expects that the latter part of 1979 could present some problems, especially if the country slips into recession. Long before, however, steel is likely to act.

The country must decide, Roderick concluded, "if it is going to have a viable steel industry or become hostage to foreign sources of supplies." That was his holiday message.

To paraphrase, those imports aren't dumped by Santa Claus.

Weather

Clouds fill skies over parts of coast

Clouds filled the skies over parts of the Texas coast during the early morning hours today, but elsewhere in the state skies were clear.

Temperatures climbed a little higher than they have the past few nights, although most locations still reported readings on the cold side, many below freezing.

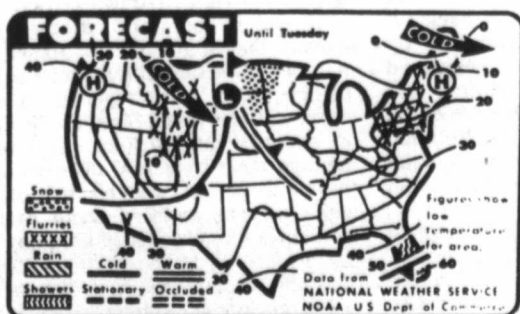

The coldest spots were in the upper Panhandle, the Wichita Falls area and west of the mountains, where readings dropped to the lower 20s and upper teens.

The forecast called for warmer temperatures today around Texas, with readings mostly in the 50s. Temperatures in the Big Bend should reach the upper 60s. Clouds along the coast today were expected to be the only blemish on a fair weather forecast for the entire state.

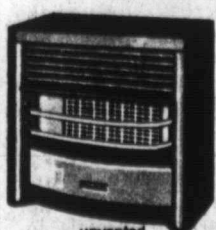

EXTENDED FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — No precipitation is forecast for Wednesday through Friday. It will be colder Wednesday and Thursday and warmer on Friday. Highs Wednesday and Thursday will be in the 40s north to the 50s south, warming into the 50s and 60s on Friday. Lows Wednesday and Thursday will be in the upper teens in the Panhandle to the 30s in the south, moderating into the 20s and 30s on Friday.
FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — Fair with a slow warming trend through Tuesday. Highs today 50s most sections to upper 60s Big Bend. Lows tonight 20s mountains and north to lower 30s south. Highs Tuesday 50s north to 70s Big Bend.

Citizens Credit Union announces Money Rate Certificates

Citizens Federal Credit Union is now offering Money Rate Certificates to credit union members at rates up to .25% above the current discount rate on Treasury Bills. These new certificates are issued three business days after auction of the T-Bills, which is usually Monday of each week.

The minimum investment amount for the new Money Rate Certificates is $10,000.00 and is negotiated for a period of exactly 26 weeks (six months). A member's shares are also protected up to $40,000.00 by the National Credit Union Administration, an agency of the federal government.

As with all investment certificates, there is a substantial penalty for early withdrawal and dividends are paid from available earnings. Dividends are also compounded on the basis of actual value.

Currently offering Money Rate Certificates at 9.47% thru Wednesday, December 13, 1978.

Government scandal ends with whisper

As predicted by a few of the hard-core newsmen, the 'Koreagate' scandal had ended in Washington with a whisper — not a roar.

The House of Representatives, composed of males and females who wear no man's collar, voted to 'reprimand' three colleagues for their roles in the South Korea influence-buying scandal, after rejecting the idea of stronger action against one, Rep. Edward Roybal (California Democrat).

By a vote of 219 to 170, the House accepted a motion to recommit a proposed censure of Roybal to the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct.

The House then voted immediately by voice to 'reprimand' Roybal instead. Earlier, the House voted to 'reprimand' Reps. Charles Wilson and John J. McFall, two Democrats from California.

WILSON HAD BEEN found guilty of making a false statement about cash he received as a 'wedding present' from South Korean businessman Tongtun Park in 1975. McFall was brought to heel for failing to report a campaign contribution of $3,000 he accepted from Park in 1974, converting it to his own use and then lying repeatedly about the transaction to investigators.

The decision to 'censure' Roybal was downgraded to a 'reprimand' when racial and ethnic politics entered the debate. It was charged that Roybal was being singled out primarily because of his Hispanic background.

THE HOUSE and its members didn't come off smelling like a rose in the Koreagate thing. Criticism was widespread about what is perceived as a cover-up of a scandal involving its members. After all, the rationale seemed to be, if an investigation like this did succeed in turning over a few rocks, who living in Congress' glass house would escape investigation?

Two black legislators leveled verbal barrages at the House for singling out only three members for discipline when it had been predicted that 115 members were involved.

Meanwhile, the list of Congressmen in trouble with the law keeps growing. Fourteen members of the lower house have been in prison, face criminal charges or have had their wrists slapped by fellow Congressmen since the start of the 95th Congress in January 1977 — a poor record.

The amazing thing is that some of those found guilty of indiscretions have been reelected by their constituency, which doesn't speak much for the electorate and its reluctance to put ethics above personal gain.

Nixon greeting

William F. Buckley, Jr.

James Fallows, who resigned as chief speechwriter for President Carter a week ago, did so with an acerbic envoi, to the effect that he didn't believe President Carter or for that matter any other president could seriously affect the course of events in Washington. He went on to make a point of particular interest to observers of presidential prose. By the time the nine different agencies or whatever went over any draft of his speeches, said Fallows, the result was all but recognizable. No doubt Mr. Fallows, who is going on to a serious writing job for the Atlantic Monthly, feared for his professional reputation.

BUT THE larger point he made — that nothing, really, changes — is reaffirmed in the day's other headline. On the left, the paper features the reception given to Nixon in Oxford. He is, of course, booted, and they threw eggs at him, and one little English gentleman leads off the questioning by asking, "Did you ever sell used cars," to which Mr. Nixon might have replied, "Did you ever win a war without U.S. help?" Well, Mrs. Nixon didn't go on a speaking tour to England expecting to be received like the queen of the May. But on the substantial points, you will never guess what he stressed. Writes the UPI: "Nixon warned that the Soviet Union is striving to win the nuclear arms race and that in fact 'we are going to lose certainty unless the trend is changed.' The Soviet Union is today substantially ahead of the United States in terms of missiles and vehicles for delivery and enormously ahead in terms of throw weight, he said."

One thinks of a press conference by Henry Ford lamenting the invention of automobiles, or Colonel Sanders deploring the slaughter of chickens. The strategic superiority of the Soviet Union is at least one part of the result of policies advanced by Richard Nixon. Concerning Watergate, his simple answer to the Oxford students was, "Many felt I didn't handle it properly. They were right. I screwed it up and I paid the price." Concerning Soviet strategic superiority, he should have answered, "A few people felt I didn't handle it properly. They were right. I screwed it up, and everyone has paid the price."

And across the page, the principal story is of President Carter vowing to kill inflation. That he should take the vow is not news. But what is singular is the formulation of his new speechwriter. By golly, it is positively Nixonian. The President said that he would rather beat inflation than do anything, "even if it costs me the presidency." Nixon used to say that sort of thing.

The rhetorical technique is identical: So idealistic am I, in pursuit of the right thing, that I am willing even to give up my throne for the cause I love. Such pronouncements tend to be at once more plausible and more dramatic when they are followed, as Edward VIII's was followed and, in a way Lyndon Johnson's, by abdication. Carter has no intention of retiring from the presidency, though his determination to hang on is slightly greater than the determination of the majority of the American people to have him hang on.

MOREOVER, IN Carter's case as in Nixon's, there is the business about responsibility. Carter's two budgets have been inflationary, he declined to veto the inflationary CETA program, he yielded under pressure to back the Humphrey-Hawkins bill — he is as convincing an agency of fiscal sobriety as Nixon proved to be of U.S. strategic superiority. And then, too, one wonders whether the right hand knows what the left is doing. Mr. Carter speaks of reducing inflation from the current level of 9.5 percent to six percent in one year.

WILSON HAD BEEN found guilty of making a false statement about cash he received as a 'wedding present' from South Korean businessman Tongtun Park in 1975. McFall was brought to heel for failing to report a campaign contribution of $3,000 he accepted from Park in 1974, converting it to his own use and then lying repeatedly about the transaction to investigators.

Don't be quick to blame little thyroid

By Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Does the thyroid have anything to do with control of body temperature? — R. S.

Thyroid has an effect on body temperature. If it is underactive, temperature is apt to be subnormal. If it is overactive there may be slight elevation in body metabolism.

L. H. asks about the thyroid as a possible connection with her various symptoms. She writes: "Dr. Ruble: I read that no moons on nails is a sign of an underactive thyroid gland. I went to a doctor and he said there was nothing to worry about. But now that I read this I am worried. What are the other signs and what is the treatment?"

Other symptoms of underactive thyroid include ease of fatigue, intolerance of cold temperature, slow pulse, and dry skin and hair. There may be a mild anemia. Mild symptoms are not usually things to be worried about and they don't always (indeed, seldom do) indicate any serious thyroid trouble. Many occur with aging and from other non-thyroid factors. To ease your mind why not have the gland checked.

If the gland is underactive, thyroid supplements would correct the condition.

Many readers automatically relate nail problems to thyroid, a rare occurrence. The causes of brittle and cracking fingernails usually have simpler backgrounds. To begin with, nails can vary normally in quality (softness or hardness) among individuals. As with hair, heredity may be involved. Splitting and peeling can result from polish and remover irritation, or from harsh detergents.

Nails consist chiefly of protein, so a lack of protein in the diet may produce unhealthy nails. Some ask about calcium supplements for unhealthy nails. I doubt it will help. So far as I know the protein supplements sold specifically for nails are no more effective than protein from any other source (food).

Rubber gloves have solved more nail problems than the products on the market intended to provide miracle cures for cracking nails.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have been taking diuretics for years and have depleted my body of potassium. I would like to know which foods are high in potassium and — while you're at it — those that are low in sodium. — Mrs. C. G.

Let's talk about this matter of sodium (salt) first. This mineral is widely distributed throughout a range of foods. When it is found in excess, it usually has come by way of the salt shaker, in cooking, or in the additives processors use to preserve foods. This leaves the salt-conscious eater two approaches — to go light on the salt shaker and to be a diligent label reader. Sodium content appears as information on more and more food packages these days. Processed meats, pickled foods, and for that matter any that requires additives such as nitrates are the ones to beware.

As to your other question. Who told you your body has been depleted of potassium? If this is guesswork, you should find out for sure. Tests will show the potassium content of your blood. In any event, foods high in potassium are chiefly fruits, especially bananas, oranges, dates and raisins. Juices, including prune juice, are rich in it. Meats, from hamburger to fowl, also are high.

Dear Dr. Ruble: You reply to Mrs. A. B. concerning gynecomastia (breast enlargement) is ridiculous. You offer no positive action or advice. You seem to say the problem will just "go away" and that there is nothing that can be done to hasten the reduction of the breast size. Shame on you for such quack advice: I suggest you read up on plastic surgery. Please make a positive response in the news media. — Mrs. A. B.

My advice to Mrs. A. B. (presumably a different "A. B." from yourself) must stand. I suggest a wait-and-see period. The lad was 13 and pubertal breast growth in males is not at all unusual, often reflecting weight gain. More often than not (much more often than not) it disappears in the post-pubertal years. While it may be a temporary source of embarrassment, it is not usually justification for surgery to reduce breast size. It is not "quack" advice, but a position en-

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have been a church member all my life, but just a few weeks ago I came to the shocking realization that I have never really been born again. How can I be reborn spiritually? — H. N.

DEAR H. N.: I'm afraid there are far too many people who are very similar to you — they have a superficial faith, but have never committed their lives to Jesus Christ and have never been born again spiritually.

The first step is to realize your true spiritual state in God's eyes. How does God see you? He sees you as a sinner, as someone who has failed to keep His will. That does not mean you have been a bad person in the eyes of others, but in God's eyes "all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23).

Then you need to know what Jesus Christ has done to provide the way to dorsed by plastic surgeons of my acquaintance.

Your thyroid plays a critical health role for you — in everything from eyesight to fertility. Dr. Ruble explains this important, and misunderstood, gland in his booklet, "Your Thyroid: How it Works For You." To get a copy, enclose 50 cents and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope to him in care of The Big Spring Herald.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Visits pick up; are we cognizant

Government figures show a big surge in travel by outsiders in the United States — seven percent during the first six months of this year, compared to the corresponding period for 1977.

The statistics have to be gratifying to a lot of Americans, since we all materially benefit from the foreigners' contribution toward a more favorable balance of payments with the rest of the world.

The big questions are: Do we prepare enough for the influx of people? Do we really try to make the visitors feel welcome and equal?

There is no doubt but that many Americans have become acutely aware of the fact that there are other cultures around the globe than our own, but are we doing all we can to make them feel we are grateful they came?

Hog killing

Around the rim

Carla Walker

"Well, it's hogkillin' weather." All my life, I've heard that expression and always wondered what it meant. I finally found out, and in the process, found out a lot about a way of life long past.

Soon after "hard freeze," while the temperature is below freezing, families would kill hogs and cure out or can the meat for the winter. Without modern freezers, cold weather and salt or pressure canning was necessary to preserve the meat, so "hogkillin' weather" became an expression for below freezing days.

ASKING AROUND my kinfolks and friends who were "barely old enough" to remember hog killings (and a few who even admitted to be old enough to have done more hog killing than watching), I found out that there was more to it than I expected.

Everything had to be done just right, and some folks even insisted that the hog had to be killed on a day that was in line with a certain position or size of the moon.

Most importantly, however, the process had to be done right, or the meat would spoil. And, amazingly, every piece of meat was used, including some that most of us would turn up our nose at today.

When the hog was killed, it had to be "bled" to make sure the meat wouldn't discolor. The carcass was dipped in boiling water to loosen the hair so that it could be scrapped off.

The head was removed and saved to be used in soup or to make "souse" or hogshead cheese. Bertie Robinson of Garden City still makes hogshead cheese now and then, and she gave me her "recipe." After the head has been soaked overnight to get rid of the blood, it is boiled in salty water until the meat starts to fall off the bones. "I don't go by set amounts," said Mrs. Robinson, who learned to make souse from her mother, Mrs. John Robinson. "I just chop the meat and add some seasoning; different people like different things, some add sage, red and black pepper, some put onion or garlic, cornmeal and even a little bit of vinegar. I just season it to taste. Then, I put it in a mold, and we can eat it cold or reheat it."

After the hog's head is removed, the carcass is hung up, and gutted, with not even the entrails being discarded. From the guts come chitterlins, more commonly "chittlins." The intestines are cleaned, boiled in salt water, rolled in cornmeal batter and fried. Other organs are thrown into the sausage pot to be boiled, then ground, seasoned and pressure canned in jars.

Even the hooves have some salvageable meat. After boiling for a few hours, the meat would come off the hooves, and it was usually pickled.

All the fat — "leaf lard" from the intestines and fat from all over the hog's body, is thrown into the rendering pot, where it is rendered from fat to lard and "cracklins."

The lard pot was boiled and stirred all day until all the chips of fat have gone to floating down lard, and cracklins — something similar to the packaged "pork rinds" available in stores today — were left. Anyone old enough to remember a hog killing usually remembers eating the cracklins best of all.

Also from the fat came soap, and my mom managed to dig up a soap recipe somewhere (of course, we all realize she wouldn't admit — I mean couldn't possibly have been old enough to remember a hog killing.)

TO A CAN of lye add three pints of water, ½ cup borax and stir until dissolved. Then, add 10 cups of lard and stir about seven minutes before adding ½ cup ammonia. After that, the more it was stirred, the whiter the soap would be. The whole mixture was then poured into a large pan and allowed to harden.

Regular meats — ham, bacon and side cuts — were either "cured" with salt, or cured and smoked, which required hanging in a smokehouse for two to six days until a brown crust — which protected the meat from flies and insects and tasted good as well — was formed.

In curing meats, it required 14 to 16 days for bacon, and seven days per inch of thickness on other meats for the salt to penetrate to the bone.

Hog killing involved a lot of work, a full day for the killing itself, and longer to finish all the curing, canning, lard and soap making. But, it was a part of life for farm families as recently as thirty years ago, just as the policy of not wasting an ounce of useable meat was part of the way they lived.

Their frugality makes us look very wasteful today, but perhaps if we'd had to work as hard for the meat — and spend a full day outside freezing in "hogkillin' weather" and cooking over open fires so we could eat all winter, we might be a little more saving ourselves.

Formal airing

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — One of Jimmy Carter's most publicized issues has been his championing of human rights. To the intense irritation of the countries that have been the target of the president's darts, he has attacked regimes that lock up dissidents to silence their disruptive voices.

This pious attitude strikes many of our international neighbors as a breach of the old scripture against stone-throwing by people who live in glass houses. Their resentment will now receive a formal airing.

TODAY, ON THE 30th anniversary of the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights, the United States will be cited as a violator. A 900-page brief has been filed with the U.N. detailing the case histories of 50 individuals in the United States who allegedly have been imprisoned for their political beliefs.

What makes the document particularly embarrassing is that it will be filed today, not by vengeful regimes accused of repression by Carter, but by three respected organizations in this country: the Commission for Racial Justice of the United Church of Christ, the National Conference of Black Lawyers and the National Alliance Against Racism and Political Repression.

They will urge President Carter to "take a look at home" before condemning other nations for jailing political dissidents. As Charles Cobb, president of the Commission for Racial Justice, put it in a painfully odious comparison: "We're not as honest as the Russians; we incarcerate our prisoners under the guise of criminal activity."

Last summer, our outspoken U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young was severely criticized for speaking the unspeakable — admitting that there are, indeed, political prisoners in the United States. We were among the few who defended Young, citing the notorious case of Rev. Ben Chavis, one of the so-called Wilmington 10.

These were civil rights activists charged with the fire bombing of a state court largely on inflammatory and irrelevant testimony by non-witnesses and subsequently recanted testimony by one eyewitness, the Wilmington 10 were given Draconian sentences ranging from seven to 34 years.

LAST MONTH the Justice Department filed an 89-page brief asking a federal judge to overturn the convictions of the Wilmington 10. It was an unprecedented action.

The North Carolina prosecutor, Jay Stroud, offered a cynical explanation for the department's intervention. Noting that it was begun in 1976 and was pushed by the incoming Carter administration, Stroud told us: "Attorney General Griffin Bell's segregated past had just come out at the Senate confirmation hearings, and he needed some positive press on his racial views."

That comment could have been expected from Stroud, one of the new breed of prosecutors who use their office and domination of grand juries to seek out and "get" individuals and groups whose politics are regarded as dangerous, or whose convictions may further the prosecutor's political ambitions.

The first trial of the Wilmington 10 — nine black men and a white woman — ended in a mistrial because the prosecutor became ill. "What made him ill was the composition of the jury — 10 black and two whites," said Stuart House, an observer sent by Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich. The second jury was more to Stroud's liking and conducive to his good health — 10 whites and two blacks.

"Stroud deliberately inflamed an already biased jury," Irv Joiner, a member of the Commission for Racial Justice, told our reporter Vicki Warren. Joiner cited Stroud's display of oversized photographs depicting damage done by racial disorders in the same period, and his use of 37 witnesses who testified about racial incidents, without ever linking any of the defendants to the particular fire bombing of which they were accused.

The only person who could place the crime was Allen Hall, who was 18 at the time of the trial. By the time he took the witness stand, he was giving his fourth version of what he claimed to have seen.

When Hall's inconsistencies were brought out by the defense, he claimed that they had been corrected in an "amended statement" in prosecutor Stroud's possession. Though he made repeated references to this amended statement.

Hall and another damaging witness, Jerome Mitchell, subsequently recanted their testimony. Their recantation, plus the prosecutor's failure to produce the "amended statement" at the trial, formed the basis for the Justice Department's unprecedented intervention.

Under political pressure, all of the Wilmington 10 but Chavis have been freed. Last July we reported how Chavis lay in his cell for 24 hours in desperate need of medical care, and eventually suffered a ruptured appendix because prison officials insisted on driving him to a prison hospital 75 miles away instead of to a nearby medical facility.

A similar incident in South Africa, when black leader Steve Biko died in custody, brought cries of outrage from the United States.

York for a rare public reading of the U.S. Constitution. The event was a project of the William O. Douglas Inquiry, a legacy of the late Supreme Court Justice. The reading took place at New York's Broadway Theater.

Farm Iran top cash customer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report published today by the Agriculture Department says Iran is the top cash customer in the Middle East for American farmers.

The report, published by the department's Foreign Agricultural Service, avoided any reference to Iran's strikes, violence and political turmoil which have a major bearing on it continuing as a buyer of American farm products.

Traditionally, the agency's weekly publication, Foreign Agriculture, avoids such sensitive issues in articles relating to U.S. agricultural trade.

During the Vietnam war, for instance, the agency continued to report agricultural and trade developments in Southeast Asia with few references to the military situation or even that a war was going on.

The report, however, does help put into perspective the recent value of Iran in the rapidly growing Middle East market for U.S. farm products, thus implying indirectly how much could be lost if Iran is unable to recover.

Aubrey C. Robinson, who wrote the report for his agency, acknowledged that it did not include mention of Iran's civil strife or raise questions about the effects on future U.S. trade with the country.

"We can't say that," Robinson told a reporter, but added in response to questioning that the report did imply American farmers have a lot at stake in how Iran copes with its internal problems.

The report said U.S. farm exports to Iran this year are expected to total more than $500 million, up from $423 million in 1977.

The sales record is $534 million in 1974, when Iran "actually over-bought, purchasing products at rather high prices" at a time when a grain scarcity prevailed in the world, the report said.

In 1972, prior to soaring prices of oil and food commodities, and the takeoff in overseas spending by the richer Middle East countries, Iran's purchases of U.S. farm products was only $72 million.

The report was based largely on observations by Paul J. Ferree, who until recently was the U.S. agricultural attaché in Tehran, Iran's capital. Ferree currently is in a similar post in Bangkok, Thailand.

Large trade surpluses resulting from petroleum exports, rising per capita incomes and "sharp population shifts from rural to urban areas" have led to an increase in demand for consumer items, the report said.

"This is taking place during a slide backwards in Iran's quest to regain the agricultural self-sufficiency that prevailed prior to the economic boom of the early 1970s," it said.

Iran is about 75 percent self-sufficient in crop and livestock production, and the government's goal is 80 percent.

"But the trend is actually going in the opposite direction as food demand outstrips gains in agricultural productivity," the report said.

This year the United States accounted for about one-fourth of Iran's agricultural imports and is the largest outside provider of wheat, rice, feed grains, tallow, vegetable oils, protein meal and dairy cattle.

Productions of broiler chickens still rising

WASHINGTON (AP) — Production of broiler chickens, stimulated by higher prices, continues to run well ahead of a year ago and is expected to gain further in 1979.

In October, the most recent month examined, about 1.23 billion pounds (on a live-weight basis) were inspected for slaughter, up 15 percent from a year earlier, says the Agriculture Department.

For the entire year, broiler output is expected to total around 10 billion pounds of ready-to-cook chicken, a record and about 7 percent more than produced in 1977, officials say.

A new report on the poultry and egg situation issued recently said that higher prices for red meat such as beef and pork are expected to prompt more broilers next year, perhaps 8 percent to 10 percent more in the first half of 1979 against year-earlier levels.

"This rate of expansion could continue in the second half of 1979 if prospects remain favorable," the report said. "However, the expansion will slow if feed prices rise sharply or pork production increases more than expected."

Woodlands Former TCU football player returns to U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than one million acres of woodland have been improved under a government program to help pay for the projects, says the Agriculture Department.

Called the "forest incentives program," the project was started in 1974 to help farmers and other private landholders pay for planting seedlings and making other improvements.

Ray Fitzgerald, head of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said that about $32 million has been spent to help with the improvement projects.

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Kent Waldrep returned from his journey of hope to the Soviet Union the same way he left, in a wheelchair.

But the paralyzed former Texas Christian University football star said Sunday that special medical treatments at the Polonovsky Neurological Institute in Leningrad have given him renewed strength.

Waldrep started enzyme, oxygen and physical therapy treatments, unavailable in the United States, immediately after his arrival

Oct. 20. And with their physical therapy methods and a specialized walker, he was able to stand up right away.

"Standing up was a great feeling. The world looks a lot better standing up," Waldrep said.

"I'm as realistic as anybody, but my goal is to one day stand up on my own. It may be with crutches and it may not."

The 24-year-old former TCU running back was paralyzed four years ago when injured in a game against Alabama. The trip to Leningrad was a voyage of faith for the man American doctors said would spend his life in a wheelchair.

"They are just incredible men," Waldrep said of his Soviet doctors. "They have the unique capability to combine medical professionalism, compassion and a sense of honesty."

Waldrep, the third American treated by the Russians, said the therapy offers a new promise to countless other spinal cord injury victims.

"I wish it was available to everyone in a wheelchair," said Waldrep. "It should be."

The native of nearby Grand Prairie, Texas, said the Soviet approach to physical therapy is to get a patient on his feet to strengthen muscles.

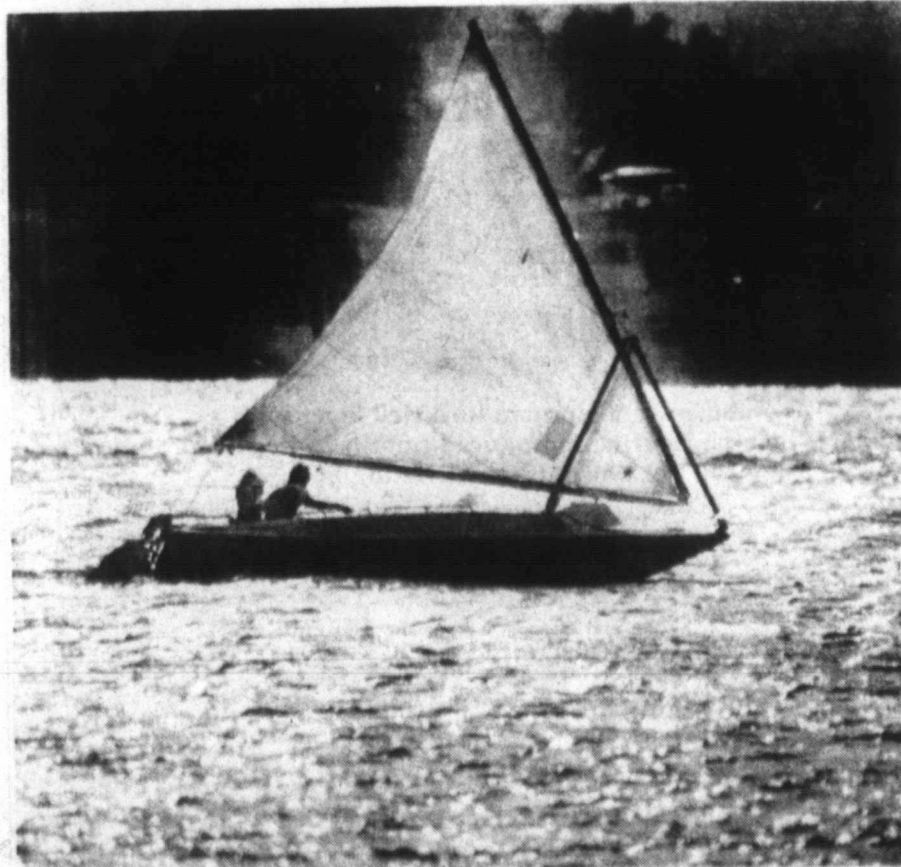

Waldrep plans to return to Leningrad in a year or two. But he said for now he'll use a supply of enzymes brought back from Russia and continue the Soviet physical therapy methods.

He expects to be able to move more in the next two to three years.

Waldrep is an outspoken critic of American doctors. "The attitude they've shown toward someone trying to improve his situation that is not his choice in the first place is hard to imagine."

Waldrep plans to work with other paralyzed patients to pressure the American medical community into adopting some Soviet techniques, particularly their physical therapy methods.

"I don't want to fight with neurosurgeons and doctors in the United States, but they have criticized me an awful lot. I believe their attitudes must be changed," Waldrep said.

From disco to black lace

Fashion world adopts many moods

By EILEEN MCGUIRE

Family News Editor

Bulky is out and body wrapping and draping is in. That's the word on fashions for 1979 from Swartz.

Mike Deardorff, host for the Saturday night styles presentation of the Ladies Golf Association at the Big Spring Country Club, emphasized soft and feminine for the new year's look.

The show, featuring the latest in ladies apparel from Swartz, is an annual fund-raising event for LGA. The Saturday showing, which drew a large crowd of fashion-conscious women and men, will help finance improvements for the country club.

Choreographed by Sherry Faulkner Talent World, the fashions were presented by LGA members to the background rhythms of "Saturday Night Fever."

Disco was the theme not only in music, but in fashions, entertainment and special effects. Highlighting the evening was a display of dance routines from Elroy Green and Debra Wood, two local disco notables whose coordinated moves won them a trip to Acapulco last summer as winners of Bogart's Dance Contest.

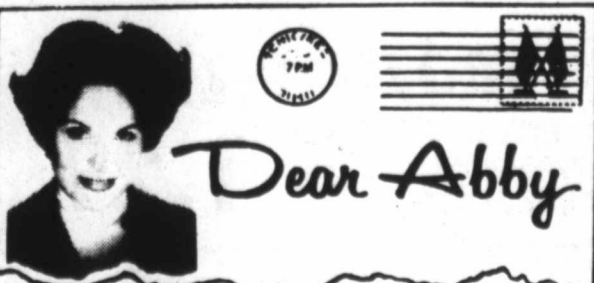

Out of what Deardorff describes as "the crazy, mixed-up world of fashion," emerges a combination of old and new for 1979. Black, which never really went away, is back in full swing, in the form of enticing black lace dresses or slinky black leather pant suits. Also back are furs.

Fairly new on the scene is a leaner than ever look in

Photos by

DISCO DANCERS Elroy Green and Debra Wood entertained the audience of the Saturday night country club event with two dance numbers, including one designed by them especially for the show. Because disco has had such an extensive effect on the fashion world, it was used as the theme for the Ladies Golf Association's annual fund-raising event.

Dear Abby

Boy's Mother Is Diaper-Rash

DEAR ABBY: I don't go along with your advice to quietly wash the sheets and say nothing to a 7-year-old child who continues to wet the bed when doctors can find nothing wrong.

I cured my 8-year-old son of constant bed-wetting by making him sleep in a diaper every night. If the diaper was wet, I hung it out on the line where all his friends could see it. That cured him fast!

MISSOURI MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I object to your type of "cure." Humiliating a child creates resentment which can be far more damaging to the parent-child relationship than bed-wetting.

P.S. Another writer wrote that she "cured" her daughter of bed-wetting by forcing her to sleep on the bare bed springs! I think such "cures" for bed-wetting are clearly child abuse.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FURS ARE BACK and they're going to be bigger than ever in 1979, according to Swartz. Modeling three different versions of the new looks in furs at the Saturday night Swartz, LGA styles presentation are, from left, Ann Turner, Cheryl Lane and Sherry Sparks. Ann is wearing a three-quarter length Canadian mink, one of the most popular looks in long-haired furs, while Cheryl keeps warm in a classic black floor-length mink. Another popular long-haired fur, red fox, is sported by Sherry. Other looks previewed Saturday evening at the country club included a light mink, called "Natural Show Mis", and an elegant full-length muskrat.

both skirts and pants. Expect to see lots of body-countouring narrow skirts featuring slits. Pants are appropriate for day wear or evening and range from lean and silky in appearance to ankle-tight jeans and courderoys.

The evening scene in the coming year will be set aglow with lots of rhinestone and sequin glitter, says Andy Swartz.

For the lady who wants "more than a touch of class," comfortable and colorful ultra-suede is in—in one-piece dresses or in tailored skirt and pant suits.

Popular colors for the newest in ultra-suede fashions are peach and rust.

TWEEN 12 and 20

Your time will come

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I have a nice girlfriend who has lots of nice boyfriends who are two years older than she is. I am 12 and don't have any boyfriends. I like boys but they don't seem interested in me. I don't know how to meet them.

My mother won't let me go to exciting places to meet boys. Even if she would she wouldn't let me go with them. What should I do about all this? — Michelle, Worland, Wyo.

Michelle: Most 12-year-old boys have not yet discovered 12-year-old girls. That is the reason your girlfriend sees boys two years older than she.

Michelle, your time will come to meet boys and to enjoy their company. Believe me when I say that it doesn't take "exciting" places to meet boys. The excitement is in meeting the boy. Don't rush it.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 14-year-old girl who has a big problem. About a year ago I came from the East to live with my dad and stepmother. My stepmother makes me clean the whole house by myself, which isn't fair.

This makes me nervous and I have to have a few beers. Sometimes I get drunk. Please stick this in the paper because there are probably more kids like me. — Donna, Livermore, Calif.

Donna: Fourteen-year-old girls should not have to clean the whole house by themselves and also, 14-year-old girls should not be having a few beers and getting drunk.

Have a talk with dad and tell him you expect to do your share in keeping the house clean but that the cleaning of the entire house is too much.

Then — lay off the beer. Drinking has never solved one small problem but has led to a multitude of major ones.

Dear Dr. Wallace: In one of your recent columns a letter was printed from Lenny of San Mateo, Calif., who had a problem "sharing" the bathroom with his sister.

Several years ago we had the same problem, one bathroom for a family of four, with a boy and girl getting ready for school at the same time.

We solved the problem by purchasing a full-length mirror and placing it on the inside of the closet door in our daughter's bedroom. After finishing in the bathroom with the necessities, she could apply makeup, comb her hair, primp, etc., in front of her mirror and the bathroom was free for her brother.

A full-length mirror allows a girl to get an overall picture of her appearance and will keep her busy and out of the way for hours! They are not too expensive and usually come with the hardware and instructions needed for installing. The mirror could be a wonderful Christmas or birthday gift for Lenny's sister. Perhaps he could even enlist the help of his parents in purchasing and/or installing one. They are probably suffering with this bathroom problem, too, and would welcome a solution. — Helen Bonomi, Seattle, Wash.

Helen: Thanks for the useful tip. It's going to make a lot of teens and their parents happy.

Citizens 'turning' into hustlers'

Swedes plan more taxes

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The Swedish welfare state costs its citizens more than half of their earnings in taxes and is planning new levies within the year to come — including some on hobbies.

The Swedes, not known as revolutionaries, are not expected to take to arms over the new taxes — though they did kill a king some 200 years ago for about the same reason.

But Gunnar Myrdal, a renowned economist, said in a recent broadcast against fellow socialists that the Swedish tax system, constructed by the Social Democrats, "was turning Swedes into a gang of hustlers."

Myrdal, winner of the Nobel Prize in economics in 1975, wants the government to abolish the present income tax and replace it with a progressive expenditure tax in order to minimize injustices.

"The present tax system with deductions is making nine out of ten Swedes criminals," he said, referring to those who cheat on taxes.

Milton Friedman, a leading American economist, also noted in a recent TV interview that high taxes were to blame for tax cheating. "I am quite sure the Swedes are no less ingenious than other people to get around the tax laws," the 1976 Nobel laureate said.

The tax burden, which exceeds 50 percent in the latest survey made by the Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development. That survey put Sweden on top, almost 6 percent above Norway, in the percentage of the gross national product that citizens pay in taxes.

At the latest OECD ranking in 1977, which is not yet complete, Sweden stood at 53.3 percent, followed by Norway at 47.4, the Netherlands at 46.7 and Denmark at 45.0. The United States is far down at the ranking at 30.4 percent, but still pays nearly 10 percent more than the Japanese at 20.5.

In Sweden, taxes account for at least 90 percent of government income. The government claims an estimated $22.8 billion annually in taxes from the roughly eight million Swedes and returns an estimated $8 billion in social security benefits.

The Swedes, who unlike some taxpayers in other parts of the world, have pretty much accepted their fate since their last outburst 200 years ago when they murdered King Gustav III who tried to squeeze their last cents for his wars.

But a growing number of people in the higher income brackets have fled the country for "tax paradises" such as Switzerland and Liechtenstein, and books advising how to reduce or avoid income tax through legal loopholes are bestsellers.

It is mainly the progressive tax scale — and the high rates — which discourage many Swedes.

Assassination investigations

Director has new plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director William Webster has a new contingency plan for investigating any future assassination of a president or other elected U.S. official, FBI sources say.

The FBI director was called before the House Assassinations Committee today to spell out details of the plan developed to avoid deficiencies such as those in the investigation of the late President John F. Kennedy's murder.

The House committee disclosed at public hearings in October that Kennedy's autopsy put one of the bullet wounds four inches too low, an error that supported speculation of a second assassin.

Chief Counsel G. Robert Blakey also said at the public hearings that the Kennedy family apparently destroyed evidence — the late president's brain — for fear it might be exploited.

Blakey and several committee members suggested that such autopsies should be conducted by the best experts available and that no family should be able to destroy evidence.

Kennedy's autopsy was conducted at Bethesda Naval Hospital because he had been in the Navy. A committee official said at a press briefing weeks ago that under procedures in force until only recently, if President Carter had been assassinated, his autopsy also would have been performed at Bethesda because he too was a former Navy man.

"Whatever pathologist was on duty, perhaps a 29-year-old lieutenant, would be performing the autopsy, with every likelihood it would be subject to all kinds of questions, just like the one performed on President Kennedy," said the official, under ground rules that he not be named.

A law enacted in response to Kennedy's assassination makes such murders a federal crime and makes the FBI responsible for the entire investigation of them.

The four-inch autopsy error clouded the Warren Commission's conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald fired both shots that hit Kennedy in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

The autopsy mistakenly put the second bullet entry wound low on the back of Kennedy's head, which would indicate the bullet was fired by a second gunman from a point lower than Oswald's sixth-floor window.

The Warren Commission tried to explain the discrepancy by suggesting Kennedy's head was bent far forward when the bullet hit but movies clearly show it was not.

Committee experts said X-rays show the bullet actually hit higher — and that tracing the bullet path out of the correct wound location shows it was fired from the sixth floor window.

Cash-flow chart inflation fighter

You may not be able to stop prices from rising, but you can manage your finances to minimize the pain of inflation. All it takes is a cash-flow chart to help you estimate future income and spending.

Businesses routinely use cash-flow forecasting to plan their operations. Now, economists at Citibank, the nation's second-largest commercial bank, have adapted the concept for family finances.

There are five basic steps involved in drawing up a cash flow chart. You'll need to prepare five worksheets — one for each step.

Start by getting out your most recent records for one year — pay statements, bankbooks, receipts, copies of income tax returns and anything else that indicates how you spend money.

List income on the first worksheet. Include: salary, after taxes and other payroll deductions, interest from savings, gifts, dividends or other return from investments, bonuses and profit-sharing money and miscellaneous. Work from your most recent paycheck stubs.

"In today's economy, it's better not to list overtime or bonuses or profit sharing unless you have an agreement that makes you absolutely sure of them," advise the experts at Citibank. "You can always add them to savings if they do come in. In cash-flow forecasting, you build a financial plan based as much as possible on certainty."

Enter the information in two columns, annual and monthly, then add to get total take-home income. The second worksheet is designed for fixed expenses — things you are absolutely committed to. Among the categories would be taxes not accounted for by payroll deductions, rent or mortgage payments, food costs at home and in restaurants, utility and household maintenance bills, medical expenses not covered by insurance, debt repayment — including interest, transportation, savings and insurance. Again, enter items on both a monthly and annual basis.

On worksheet No. 3, put down your total monthly and annual take-home income and subtract expenses. That's what you have left for variable expenses — the ones where you have the most flexibility.

These expenses should be listed on worksheet No. 4. Include things like clothing, entertainment, home furnishings, vacations, charitable contributions and gifts. Base your entries on past purchases, but adjust amounts upward by 8 or 9 percent to account for inflation.

Now you're ready for the final worksheet — the one that will tell you whether you have to cut back. Enter — from worksheet No. 4 — the annual total of variable expenses. Then put down — from worksheet No. 3 — the amount you will actually have to spend. If what you will have is larger than what you will need, you're in good shape. If it looks like spending will outgrow income, you'll have to make some changes.

Go back to the two worksheets where you listed your expenses. Variable expenses offer the greatest potential for savings, but you may want to combine cut-backs in essentials and non-essentials.

AFTER RECEIVING PEACE PRIZE — Prime Minister of Israel Menachem Begin, left, shakes hands with Dwyer Ahmed Marei, personal aide and representative to Egypt's president Anwar Sadat, Sunday after both received the 1978 Nobel Peace Prize in Oslo, Norway. Marei accepted the award for President Sadat who was in Egypt attending the deal on Mideast peace negotiations.

Peace Prize presentations

Sadat, Begin praise Carter

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Menachem Begin and Anwar Sadat renewed their commitments to seek an Arab-Israeli peace and praised President Carter's help at a gala Nobel Peace Prize presentation as 5,000 Norwegians protested the award to them.

The Israeli prime minister and the Egyptian president shared the peace prize and its $165,000 stipend, but only Begin was present at Sunday's ceremony behind the thick stone walls of Oslo's Akershus Castle. The heavily-guarded 14th-century fortress was used for the first time because of security concerns.

Sadat, pleading the pressure of diplomatic efforts to revive the stalled peace negotiations, sent an emissary, Sayed Ahmed Marei, to read his message and receive his prize.

Nine other winners of Nobel prizes for the sciences and literature, including six Americans, received their gold medals and checks from Sweden's King Carl Gustaf at a ceremony in Stockholm.

Begin, renewing the pledge he made when Sadat visited Jerusalem in November 1977 to sow the seeds of peace, promised, "No more wars, no more bloodshed. We shall negotiate and reach agreement."

Sadat's message referred to the current deadlock and said: "We will spare no effort, we will not tire or despair, we will not lose faith, and we are confident that in the end our aim will be achieved."

Both men praised President Carter, who met with them at Camp David.

last September to draft agreements laying the groundwork for peace.

Sadat said Carter's "single efforts to overcome obstacles in the way to peace deserves our keenest appreciation." Begin said the U.S. president at the Camp David summit "unforgettably invested unsparring effort, untiring energy and great devotion in the peacemaking process."

While the prize was being awarded in Oslo, Sadat was meeting in Cairo with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, who was sent to the Middle East by Carter to try to break the Israeli-Egyptian deadlock. Egyptian officials said Sadat did not go to Oslo because he blames the deadlock on Israeli "stubbornness."

Egypt is demanding a timetable for Palestinian self-rule on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip, while the Israelis fear if they accept a timetable and it is not met, Egypt might abrogate the entire treaty.

The Egyptians also object to a proposed treaty provision barring their participation in any future wars between Israel and other Arab states.

The crowd of demonstrators was made up mainly of supporters of the Palestine Liberation Organization. They marched through downtown Oslo in near-zero temperatures chanting anti-Begin slogans and calling for support for the PLO.

"We are against the award to Begin because he is a terrorist," said one protester, "and also against Sadat, but not so much."

Tyler police chief shot to death in home

TYLER, Texas (AP) — The wife of Tyler's police chief is free on bond today, after she was accused of shooting her husband to death Sunday evening.

Ronnie S. Malloch, 41, was pronounced dead at Medical Center Hospital in Tyler of multiple gunshot wounds.

Carolyn Malloch was released after he father posted $5,000 bond shortly before midnight. Justice of the Peace H.M. Shelton said she was charged with murder.

Four shots from a .38-caliber revolver were fired in a living room-kitchen area of the couple's south Tyler residence, Shelton said. Malloch was hit at least three times in the chest, back and groin, according to Shelton, who ordered an autopsy.

Neighbors on either side of the Malloch residence said they were unaware of the disturbance until ambulances pulled up to the Malloch home.

The Mallochs had two daughters, ages eight and five.

Malloch, 41, was an 18-year veteran of the Tyler Police Department. He was appointed chief of police in January 1976.

Ohio, Pennsylvania hit too

Snow storm buries New York

By The Associated Press
A storm buried parts of upstate New York beneath more than 4 feet of snow after lashing northeastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. At least two persons died in weather-related traffic accidents.

To the south, in central and eastern Kentucky, the swollen Kentucky River began to recede today after three days of driving rain, but more than 1,000 people evacuated in Frankfort — where some streets were under 15 feet of water — learned they would have to wait at least until Tuesday before returning home.

A 22-year-old Bowling Green woman and her 5-year-old son died Friday night when their car was swept away by high water on a rural road.

National Guardsmen evacuated an undetermined number of persons living in three southern Ohio counties along the Ohio River and authorities planned today to evacuate some 2,600 residents of New Richmond, Ohio, about 25 miles upstream from Cincinnati.

In southeastern Missouri's Bootheel section, about 5,000 people remained without electricity Sunday as utility crews worked round-the-clock to repair damage left by an ice storm Friday.

But the weather improved in Southern California, where unusually cold temperatures late last week threatened substantial damage to the state's citrus and avocado crops.

Temperatures reached the 60s in Southern California. In Los Angeles, where it was 30 degrees Friday, it hit a high of 74 Sunday.

Three feet of snow had fallen by early today just north of Syracuse Airport, while 4 to 8 inches fell on southern parts of upstate New York, a notorious snowbelt.

The snow continued to fall early today over New York, and the National Weather Service predicted snow showers for other parts of the Great Lakes region.

"It's not too bad here in Oswego," Oswego County, N.Y., Sheriff's Deputy James Ferazzoli said Sunday night. "But north of here in Fulton we hear that they have 4½ feet of snow. We have asked that there be no unnecessary travel in parts of the county tonight."

The storm dropped up to 13 inches of snow Saturday and early Sunday in western Pennsylvania and in a narrow belt in Ohio, extending from near Lake Erie east of Cleveland to the Pennsylvania border.

State police at Pulaski, N.Y., reported one snow-related highway fatality near Mexico. Also killed was a Cleveland woman involved in a two-car crash early Sunday in Meadville, Pa.

"We had slick and treacherous roadways everywhere across western Pennsylvania," a weather bureau meteorologist said Sunday.

Authorities in Ohio said the snow fell in such a narrow belt, only a few miles wide, that it caused no serious problems.

Hundreds of houses were damaged in Kentucky, particularly in Frankfort. Gov. Julian Carroll declared a state of emergency for flood-stricken parts of the state, while a 5 p.m.-to-dawn curfew remained in effect today in Frankfort.

Flooding was reported Sunday along the riverfront areas in Lawrence, Meigs and Gallia counties in Ohio, and some flooding is expected in Cincinnati. The Ohio River is expected to crest noon Tuesday in Cincinnati at 58 feet — 6.5 feet above flood stage.

Friday's ice storm in Missouri originally left 15,000 people without electricity because of ice-coated power lines and snapped utility poles. The Arkansas-Missouri Power Co., which was trying to repair the damage, estimated that it might take two to three more days to restore full service.

About 200 families in southeastern New Hampshire endured biting cold without electricity after as much as 7 inches of heavy, wet snow downed power lines Saturday night. Temperatures Sunday night fell below 10 degrees.

A spokesman for the New Hampshire Electric Cooperative said he hoped power could be restored today to the affected customers, many of whom live in isolated areas.

Elsewhere around the nation, partly to mostly cloudy conditions prevailed today. Temperatures were generally warmer than Saturday night with below zero readings confined mainly to the Colorado Rockies, northern Minnesota and Upper Michigan.

Temperatures ranged from -17 at Alamosa, Colo., to 73 at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Here are some early morning temperatures from around the United States:

Eastern U.S. — Atlanta 27 clear, Boston 21 clear, Cincinnati 21 cloudy, Cleveland 15 cloudy, Detroit 10 partly cloudy, Indianapolis 25 partly cloudy, Louisville 27 partly cloudy, Miami 64 foggy.

EAGLE IN TROUBLE — More than a third of the Dallas Cowboys team hangs onto Eagles Mike Hogan cutting any gain short Sunday during football action at Philadelphia. Eagles were held to 139 yards rushing as they lost, 31-13. Identified Dallas players are Larry Cole (63), Bob Breunig (53), Cliff Harris (43) and Ed Jones, on knees.

Five teams vying for playoff spots

By the Associated Press

With one week remaining in the National Football League season, five teams still are in contention for three playoff berths...but the New England Patriots, Denver Broncos, Miami Dolphins and Houston Oilers are not among them.

The Patriots won the American Football Conference East championship — their first divisional title since 1963 — edging the Buffalo Bills 26-24 Sunday on David Posey's 21-yard field goal with eight seconds remaining.

The Broncos captured the AFC West crown for the second year in a row, trouncing the Kansas City Chiefs 24-3 behind the brilliant passing of oft-maligned quarterback Craig Morton, who completed 19 of 22 aerials, including 16 in a row, for 283 yards and three touchdowns.

The Dolphins assured themselves of an AFC wild card berth — their first playoff spot in four years — with a 23-6 victory over Oakland, eliminating the Raiders from playoff contention for the first time in six years.

And the Oilers claimed the other AFC wild card spot, holding off the New Orleans Saints 17-12 on a heads-up play by rookie sensation Earl Campbell.

But, for the Green Bay Packers, Minnesota Vikings, Atlanta Falcons, Washington Redskins and Philadelphia Eagles, things are not that simple.

Cowboys hogtie Eagles, 31-13

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys huffed and puffed their way to a third straight National Football League East title, and they showed a second wind Sunday that should make playoff opponents worry about being blown away.

"We've played extremely well in the last five games," said Dallas coach Tom Landry, who had been concerned that his defending Super Bowl champions might have lost their desire after they clinched the title last week.

The Cowboys, however, made it five straight and clinched the home field advantage in the playoffs by wiping out the upstart, but tough Philadelphia Eagles, 31-13, to boost their record to 11-4 with one game left.

"Our season really turned around after the loss (six games ago) to the Miami Dolphins," Landry said. "We were on kind of a level plain. We were not very inspired and weren't making any turnovers... But we're working harder and making things happen."

That's exactly what the Cowboys did to the Eagles. The game was only six minutes old and Dallas led 14-0, because the Cowboys made things happen. First they recovered a fumble, and three plays later, Scott Laidlaw shot one yard for the first touchdown.

Dallas kicked off, and on the second play, Benny Barnes intercepted a Philadelphia pass and ran to the Eagles' 16. Then quarterback Roger Staubach and Tony Dorsett teamed on a 16-yard screen pass for another score.

"The worst thing I feared," said Eagles Coach Dick Vermeil, "was getting behind against a team like Dallas. We hoped they'd turn the ball over. They didn't. Instead they created the turnovers."

In all, Dallas recovered three fumbles, intercepted two passes and harrassed Eagles' quarterback Ron Jaworski with seven sacks for 54 yards in losses. The Eagles managed just 224 total yards.

Philadelphia still has a slim chance of gaining a wild card spot in the playoffs. But they have to beat the New York Giants Sunday — while either Green Bay or Minnesota loses.

Green Bay plays Los Angeles in California, while Minnesota is at Oakland. There is one wild card spot open in the NFL's National Conference East, since Atlanta wrapped up one by beating Washington.

Landry didn't relax until early in the third quarter, when Staubach, who completed 13 of 19 for 190 yards, teamed with wide receiver Tony Hill for 54 yards to the Eagles' 23. Dorsett then went the rest of the way for a touchdown and a 21-7 lead.

"I was really concerned at the half because the Eagles were outthrusting us in the second quarter," Landry said. "But the big play to Hill seemed to take the steam out of them."

Across the field, Vermeil was thinking the same way.

"I still thought we had a chance until that 54-yard bomb to Hill that set up Dorsett's 23-yard run for a touchdown," Vermeil said. His team's record dropped to 8-7.

The Eagles stayed in the game in the first quarter, driving 73 yards on seven plays to move within 14-7. The key was a 42-yard pass play on which wide receiver Harold Carmichael ran 30 to the Dallas five before being dragged down from behind. Mike Hogan scored from the one.

In the second half, however, Staubach, Hill and Dorsett teamed to make it 21-7, then Rafael Septien booted an 18-yard field goal, and Laidlaw turned a screen pass from Staubach into a 44-yard touchdown.

The Packers and Vikings both lost over the weekend — Green Bay dropping a 14-0 decision to the Chicago Bears and Minnesota getting blitzed by the Detroit Lions 45-14. They remained tied for the National Football Conference Central Division lead with 8-6-1 records.

Atlanta, 9-6, improved its chance for an NFC wild card berth and hurt Washington's, shading the Redskins 20-17 on Tim Mazzetti's 32-yard "second chance" field goal on the final play of the game, while Philadelphia was battered 31-13 by the Dallas Cowboys. The Redskins and Eagles have 8-7 records.

On the final weekend, the schedule for the five contending teams is Minnesota at Oakland, Green Bay at Los Angeles, Atlanta at St. Louis, Chicago at Washington, and the New York Giants at Philadelphia.

If Minnesota beats Oakland, it qualifies for the playoffs as the NFC Central champion by virtue of a better head-to-head record against Green Bay (1-0) vs. 0-1-1. The possibilities for the two wild berths are numerous.

The other three division champions were decided a week ago — the Pittsburgh Steelers in the AFC Central, Dallas in the NFC East and the Los Angeles Rams in the NFC West. The playoffs begin Dec. 24, with the wild card teams in each conference facing each other in the first playoff step toward Super Bowl XIII.

Other weekend results included: Pittsburgh 35, Baltimore Colts 13; Cleveland Browns 37, New York Jets 34 in overtime; New York Giants 17, St. Louis Cardinals 0; San Diego Chargers 37, Seattle Seahawks 10, and San Francisco 49ers 6, Tampa Bay Buccaneers 3.

Tonight, the Los Angeles Rams entertain the Cincinnati Bengals.

Broncos 24, Chiefs 3

Riley Odums caught seven of Morton's passes for 165 yards and two TDs, covering 23 and 29 yards, as Denver won its division title.

Sky's limit for baseball players

By the Associated Press

Pete Rose's dramatic $3.2 million free agency odyssey will open the door to the $1 million-a-year ball player, but don't expect that gaudy price tag to become the norm for baseball supermen, argues one of the country's leading talent marketers.

"The economics of the game will not support such an elitist figure," added Tom Reich of Pittsburgh, attorney and legal advisor for the Pirates' big Dave Parker and Cincinnati's Joe Morgan and George Foster, among others.

"But, from the baseball standpoint, the event was the equivalent of breaking the four-minute barrier in the mile. The visible impact was stupendous. It is bound to shake the industry. It will break new ground in the already intense realm of salary negotiations."

"Every man in baseball will look at what Rose did, re-examine his own skills and measure them by what is viewed as the new market value."

As legal representative of some of the game's premier performers, Reich, who pronounces his name as "Rich," was disinclined to compare any of his own clients with the scrappy, 37-year-old Cincinnati third baseman who signed a four-year contract with the Philadelphia Phillies at $800,000 a year, making him the highest paid man in the game.

"Most players have no right to compare themselves with Pete Rose," the Pittsburgh attorney said. "Pete has turned out to be one of the baseball legends of the times, a man whose field achievements are spoken of in the same breath with Ty Cobb."

"But he had a lot more going for him than statistics. He is a great competitor. He has built up tremendous charisma. As Al Rosen of the Yankees said, 'Rose puts people in the ball park.'"

Reich said Rose's value was demonstrated in the national attention given to his official announcement last week at the annual baseball meetings in Orlando, Fla., home of Disney World.

SWC has 25-20 edge

By the Associated Press

The Southwest Conference has a five game lead over nonconference opposition with a heavy slate of basketball action on tap this week, including three tournaments.

The SWC is 25-20 and there are four games tonight with still unbeaten Arkansas hosting Southeast Missouri, Doane College at Rice, Vanderbilt at Southern Methodist and Northeast Louisiana at Texas Tech.

Arkansas is 2-0 although the Razorbacks have lost two exhibition games—to the Russian national team and 75-68 Saturday night to Athletes In Action despite Sidney Moncrief's 38 points.

Texas A&M, with victories last week over Oral Roberts and Sam Houston, is 5-1 followed by Texas Tech 4-1 and Texas 4-2.

Texas Tech tumbled from the unbeaten ranks Saturday night with a 68-65 home loss to Wyoming.

Texas rode Tyrone Branan's 28 points to an 85-70 victory over Oklahoma State of the Big Eight.

The tournament fare this weekend included Houston and Rice in the Bluebonnet Classic at Houston, Texas A&M at the San Francisco Tournery and Texas Tech in the Birmingham Classic.

In other games Saturday night, Rice pounded Wayland Baptist 99-67, Colorado nipped Southern Methodist 72-70, and North Texas outlasted Texas Christian 83-79.

Texas earned its 20th victory without a loss in the second year of the 16,000 seat Super Drum in Austin.

SMU almost pulled off a big upset by defeating Colorado in its home gymnasium. The Mustangs have one of the toughest intersectional schedules in the league and must travel to Kansas this coming Saturday night after the joust with Vanderbilt.

Coach Sonny Allen defends SMU's rugged outside schedule, saying "I can't believe anybody learns anything just playing dogs. Sure, we play a tough schedule but we are improving rapidly because of it."

Campbell saves the oilers

Cool head is helpful

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Houston running back Earl Campbell has gained more yards in forward gear than anyone else in the National Football League this season, but it was a five-yard sprint in reverse that showed his poise in the Oilers' 17-12 victory over New Orleans Sunday.

Campbell scooped up a fumble and deliberately ran it out of the end zone for a safety, depriving New Orleans of an almost certain touchdown that — as it turned out — would have sent the game into overtime.

The victory clinched an AFC wild card playoff berth for the Oilers.

With Houston backed up on its own 21-yard line and holding a 17-7 lead in the fourth quarter Sunday, Oiler quarterback Dan Pastorini fumbled the snap from center backward.

New Orleans defensive end Don Reese tried to pick up the ball at the 4, but he merely batted it into the end zone. Before New Orleans defenders could catch up with the ball, Campbell scooped it up and ran out of the back of the end zone.

Campbell, a rookie who has gained 1,369 yards rushing this season, said he instantly made up his mind about what to do.

"You know what I was thinking about when I was looking at the ball roll around back there? I was thinking about Oakland when they batted the ball in for a touchdown," he said.

"That's the first thing that entered my mind. It was probably one of the quickest decisions I ever made. I just knew the ball wasn't supposed to go the other way."

Campbell, playing with broken ribs, scored Houston's first touchdown of the game on a 2-yard run in the first quarter, and Toni Fritsch booted a 22-yard field goal in the second quarter.

Then, after the Saints had narrowed the gap to 10-7 on a six-yard pass from Archie Manning to Tinker Owens, the smallest player on the field made the biggest play of the day.

Wide receiver Robert

Woods, 5-foot-7 and 170 pounds, hooked up with Pastorini on an 80-yard scoring play. Pastorini's pass accounted for eight yards, and Woods got the rest by slipping by Saints cornerback Maurice Spencer and then outrunning safeties Ray Brown and Tom Myers.

"I knew I had to get the touchdown," Woods said after the game. "The desire was so great, I knew nobody would catch me."

The Saints got a 21-yard field goal with two minutes left in the game, but it was too little too late for them.

The Oilers haven't been in post-season play since the 1967 season, when Oakland whipped Houston 40-7 for the American Football League championship.

Houston and Miami both go into the final week of the regular season with 10-5 records and guaranteed playoff berths. Should they end the season tied, Houston gets the home field advantage by virtue of a 35-30 victory over Miami three weeks ago.

Should Houston lose to San Diego Sunday and Miami beat New England Monday night, the playoff game would be held in Miami.

Forsan boys defeated in Greenwood finals

GREENWOOD — Five seconds made the difference for Forsan cagers at the Greenwood Basketball Tournament Friday.

Forsan had gone head-to-head with arch-nemesis Greenwood for the entire game in the finals' matchup. Then in the last five seconds, Joe Mobley hit for Greenwood, putting his team on top 41-40, which was the final score.

This gives Forsan a 6-3 record for the season. Greenwood, 12-0, is responsible for two of the three Forsan losses.

The girls, after losing an almost identical, 39-38, came back to take the consolation trophy at the tourney. Valerie Stevens was the high scorer in that game with 12 points.

Julie Poyner was top scorer in Forsan's defeat of O'Donnell, 48-42. She hit for 14 points.

The girls clinched the consolation by smothering Sundown, 43-35. Monica Dyess hit for 12 points.

The boys began the tourney, Thursday, by embarrassing Rankin, 69-32, Randy Cregar and Don all-star girls' volleyball team chosen by coaches at the conclusion of the season.

Underwood were top basketmakers with 16 points apiece.

They also sailed past Borden County, 72-54, with Cregar again taking 22. He was closely followed by Dayton Robertson, who was responsible for 18 points.

Both Cregar and Robertson were named to the all-Tournament Team.

Forsan will have a chance to get revenge, beginning 5 p.m. Tuesday, when Greenwood comes to town. The girls B-Team will start things off, followed by the girls varsity at 6:30 p.m., and the boys varsity at 8 p.m.

Charity shots kayo Rattlers

Gary Hopkins learned how to accept charity Friday in the foul-plagued Howard Payne-St. Mary's University game in Brownwood.

In fact, he was so appreciative of the charity that the 6-foot guard hit on 23 of 26 free throws and added five field goals for a game high 33 points in Howard Payne's 65-62 overtime victory over the Rattlers.

Big Spring girls honored were Sherry Byrd, junior set-spiker; Kathy Birdwell, senior spiker; and Brenda Beil, senior set.

Other players chosen included: Julie Ochner, Midland Lee; Sharon Baze, San Angelo; Carolyn Melson, Odessa High; Becky Kent, San Angelo; Ruthie McDivitt, San Angelo; Renee Posey, San Angelo; Julie Minton, Midland High; Carol Teague, Midland High; and Paula Balanciers, Abilene.

Lee's Ochner was named the Most Valuable Player in the district while San Angelo's McDivitt was selected as the Sophomore of the year was Nita Vannoy of San Angelo.

Big Spring finished with an 11-3 won-lost record while Big Spring's Junior Varsity was 12-2, good enough to tie for first place with San Angelo.

On the year, the Steers were a robust 25-9.

San Angelo had a district record of 13-1. Other teams and their records included Lee, 9-5; Odessa Permian, 8-6; Midland High, 8-6; Odessa High, 4-10; Abilene Cooper, 2-12; and Abilene High, 1-13.

Junior Varsity records: Big Spring, 12-2; Midland High, 10-4; Odessa Permian, 8-6; Abilene Cooper, 6-8; Odessa High, 4-10; Midland Lee, 4-10; Abilene High, 1-13.

UCLA is trounced by Irish

By The Associated Press

Whenever Notre Dame's basketball players see Pauley Pavilion, they seem to get their Irish up.

The UCLA Bruins are usually odds-on favorites in their intimidating arena in Los Angeles, but when Notre Dame comes to town, you can throw out all the odds.

The Fighting Irish continued to ignore UCLA's homecourt advantage Saturday night when they beat the second-ranked Bruins 81-78 for the third straight year at the last five and the fifth time in the last six meetings between these college basketball super-powers.

"This is the mecca, this is Yankee Stadium," said a jubilant Digger Phelps, coach of the third-ranked Irish. "Nobody's ever won three games here."

In another game involving Top Ten teams, No. 10 Kentucky edged No. 5 Kansas 67-66 in an overtime thriller.

Elsewhere, No. 4 Michigan State edged Cal State-Fullerton 92-89; No. 6 Michigan tripped Dayton 66-61; No. 7 Louisville routed Idaho 101-54; No. 8 North Carolina State beat Campbell College 108-83 and No. 9 Syracuse nipped Rhode Island 70-68.

Also, 12th-ranked No. 13 Texas walloped Oklahoma State 85-70; No. 14 North Carolina posted an 85-56 victory over Jacksonville; No. 16 Marquette beat Missouri 74-57; No. 17 San Francisco hammered Sacramento State 78-59; Villanova shocked No. 18 Rutgers 86-67; No. 19 Maryland smashed Georgetown 86-60 and No. 20 Georgetown took a 77-71 decision over St. John's.

In tournament play, Brigham Young won the Cougar Classic with a 76-64 victory over Purdue; North Carolina-Charlotte took the First Union Invitational with a 66-61 decision over George Washington University and Indiana State beat Cleveland State 102-71 in the Final of the Hatter Classic.

The state high school football picture is starting to take shape, and the form it is taking is amazingly similar to last season's.

Defending state schoolboy football champions are doing just that. And after three weeks of playoffs, three current title holders are still in the hunt for yet another crown.

Class 4A champion Plano blasted Dallas Carter 30-0 Saturday night and will meet Odessa Permian Saturday afternoon in a rematch of one of last year's semifinal games.

Wylie kept its hopes alive for another class 2A crown with a 28-0 shelling of Pittsburgh Friday, while class B kingpin Wheeler stretched its winning streak to 31 games in a bruising 17-0 victory over Italy.

Brownwood was beaten by Dickinson in last year's 3A finals. But it slipped past Bay City 33-28 in a wild semifinal game Saturday to earn another chance at winning the big one.

Brownwood's Glen Coles crashed over from the two with just 26 seconds left to cap a dramatic 16-point fourth quarter rally to overtake Bay City in a game where the lead seesawed five times.

Plano quarterback Steve Pardo lofted one touchdown pass and dived for another as the Wildcats exploded for 25 points in the final quarter to smother Dallas Carter.

Quarterback Vic Vines passed for three touchdowns Saturday as Odessa Permian clobbered Plainview, which was in the playoffs for the first time in its history, 28-0. San Antonio Churchill's used a stingy defense and opportunistic offense to thrash Lamar Consolidated 23-7 in the other class 4A quarterfinal contest Saturday.

Churchill capitalized on a fumble recovery and an interception to take an early lead, while its defense held Lamar to a measly 7 yards total offense.

The win propels Churchill into the semifinals against Houston Stratford, that whipped LaPorte 35-14 Friday.

Gary Marshall rambled for 196 yards and one touchdown while teammate Charles Jackson stepped out for 122 yards and two touchdowns as Gainesville crushed Lubbock Estacado 27-0.

In the other playoff game played Saturday, Union Hill held off a fourth quarter rally by Thrall to win 12-7 and earn the chance to play Wheeler for the class B championship.

Childress topped Kermit 9-2 in a class 2A quarterfinal game Friday; Sealy drubbed West 32-7 in another 2A tilt; and San Antonio Randolph edged Kennedy, 22-14.

In class A playoff games Friday, China Springs nudged Celina, 7-0; Haskell pasted Stratford, 34-8; Franklin pummeled Hawkins, 20-6; and Lexington slipped past Falls City, 6-5.

Class 4A Semifinals: Odessa Permian vs. Plano, Saturday, 2 p.m., Texas Stadium, Irving.

Houston Stratford vs. San Antonio Churchill, Saturday, 7:30 p.m., Astrodome, Houston.

Class 3A Championship: Brownwood vs. Gainesville, Saturday, 7:30 p.m., Texas Stadium, Irving.

Class 2A Semifinals: Childress vs. Haskell, Friday, 8 p.m., at Vernon; Sealy vs. San Antonio Randolph, Friday, 8 p.m., Memorial Stadium, Austin.

Class A Semifinals: China Springs vs. Haskell, Friday, 7:30 a.m. at Brownwood; Lexington vs. Franklin, Friday, 8 p.m., at Bryan.

Class B Championship: Wheeler vs. Union Hill, Saturday, 7 p.m., at Abilene.

'Sucker jab' stops Barro

DETROIT (AP) —

Welterweight Thomas Hearn of Detroit says it was "a sucker jab."

Rudi Rader of Stockton, Calif., probably thought it was a sucker jab when he was hit in the face in the fourth round of his fight with Detroit's Coco Arena Saturday night.

January had started the day with a three-stroke lead over the 32-year-old Australian. But Graham started his final round with two birdies and then shot into the lead on the seventh hole after he birdied and January bogied.

January's bogey on the 18th hole after hitting into a sandtrap ended the neck-and-neck battle he had waged with Graham. The score was tied seven times before January faltered on the final green, missing a 5-foot putt to save par after a brilliant shot out of the trap.

STERLING CITY — Sands won both the boys' and girls' championships in the annual Sterling City Basketball Tournament here Saturday night.

The boys thrashed Sterling City, 53-37, in the title game after the girls had turned back Water Valley, 58-19.

David Long led the boys' surge with 16 points while Jill Floyd paced the girls with 17.

Jill Floyd and Leslie Guitler of Sands were named to the girls' all-tournament squad. Sands boys chosen were David Mosley and David Long.

The Sands teams return to play Tuesday night at home against Westbrook. The first game gets underway at 6:30 p.m.

Girls' championship: SANDS (58) — Jill Floyd 17; Jana Long 6; Penny Grantham 6; Elva Arismendi 6; Carla Parker 5; Tammie Nichols 4; Leslie Guitler 4.

Boys' championship: SANDS (53) — David Long 16; David Mosley 13; David Hall 8; Van Gaskins 8; Larry Feaster 4; Danny Pugh 2; Nathan Zant 2.

STERLING CITY (37) — Fred Thompson 14; Roger Medina 7; Allen Phillips 6; Boots Demere 4; Shawn Covert 1; Dusty Demere 1; Lonnie Greenfield 1. Halftime score — Sands 17, Sterling City 22.

D. Graham is winner

MEXICO CITY (AP) — "The 10th hole may have been turning point," Australia's David Graham said after winning the $210,000 Mexico Cup golf tournament. "I made an excellent save at 10 with a chip shot within four feet, and the I went on to birdie 11."

Graham carded a blistering 5-under-par 67 Sunday for a 72-hole score of 273 and a one-stroke victory over 49-year-old veteran Don January. Graham picked up $40,000 for his first victory since the 1977 Australian Open, and January received $20,000.

January had started the day with a three-stroke lead over the 32-year-old Australian. But Graham started his final round with two birdies and then shot into the lead on the seventh hole after he birdied and January bogied.

January's bogey on the 18th hole after hitting into a sandtrap ended the neck-and-neck battle he had waged with Graham. The score was tied seven times before January faltered on the final green, missing a 5-foot putt to save par after a brilliant shot out of the trap.

Thousands mass for religious processions

More demonstrations expected

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Thousands massed in the center of Tehran today for religious processions that were expected to turn into more demonstrations of opposition to Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Opposition leaders were jubilant over a peaceful protest march by hundreds of thousands in Tehran Sunday. They called it a "referendum in the streets," and one of them, Karim Sanjaby, said the turnout demonstrated that the people want "to put an end to the dictatorial, authoritarian and corrupt regime."

As they did Sunday, police and troops stayed away from the swelling crowd but waited on the alert inside streets.

Peaceful anti-shah marches were reported Sunday in other cities throughout the country, but in Hamadan, 250 miles southwest of Tehran, the city's civilian governor was wounded seriously and his bodyguard killed by a gunman outside the governor's house.

Today is Ashura, the climax of Moharram, a holy month of mourning for the martyred founder of Iran's dominant Shiite Moslem sect. After morning prayers in the mosques, Ashura marchers usually flagellate themselves, and the military government at first banned the processions. But the ban was lifted after religious leaders reportedly assured the government the processions would be peaceful.

Estimates of the turnout Sunday ranged from the government's estimate of 400,000 to 2 million claimed by organizers of the march. They paraded for 5½ miles through the city, marching for six hours with banners and placards attacking the shah.

"No blood was spilled," an official of Sanjaby's National Front said. "The message we sent to the palace today cannot be ignored. He has to listen or risk a bloodbath."

An estimated 1,000-2,000 Iranians have died this year in anti-shah protests, including about 60 demonstrators this month.

The march Sunday was led by the chief Shiite religious leader in Tehran, 70-year-old Ayatollah Telegahni, and Sanjaby, 71.

Moslem priests called mullahs led chanting with bullhorns, and women sprinkled Sanjaby with perfume as a sign of respect.

University students told American reporters: "Tell Jimmy Carter we want democracy and not a royal tyrant."

Religious and political leaders have united in calling for the resignation of the shah.

Fears of violence during Moharram have accelerated the departure of foreign women and children from the country.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, DEC. 12, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Look into whatever your basic interests are and see how you can get them in proper order for putting them into effect during the next good day. Your mind is logically suited to making decisions you can carry through with later.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get whatever information you need for a project you have in mind before putting it into operation. Contact friends for whom you have had little time lately.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Do whatever will help you to make your money go farther. Set up a better budget for the future that you can really follow.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Improve your health and appearance where necessary. Don't neglect pressing business matters. Enjoy company of good friends.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take care of pesky chores you have been putting aside and have more order about you. Confer with an expert in a matter that is important to your welfare.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Concentrate on what you can do for good friends and vice versa today. You can gain a personal aim if you apply yourself more seriously.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have to study more if you are to gain a fine goal you have in mind. Tackle your position over with one who is influential can be most helpful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Try a new tack where a project you are working on has you stymied. Go after the data you need. Make right contacts and get good results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Think about, any agreements you have made and carry through with them without delay. Do little favors for loved ones and have more harmony.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be more willing to do those small favors for associates that will please them and improve the relationship. Do whatever will give you added prestige in the community.

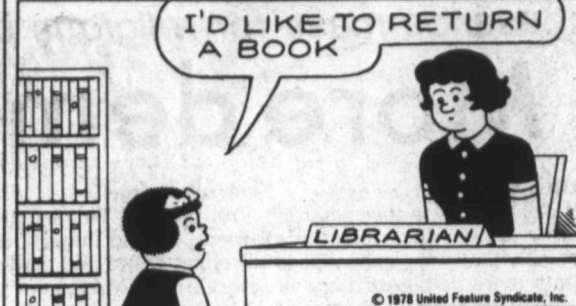

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get your work done even though there may be some delay, but take them in your stride. Listening to what co-workers have to say is wise. Adopt a more cooperative spirit.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You want to go out socially but have to plan for such early for best results. Be thoughtful of loved ones and gain favors. Avoid one who likes to put you in a bad light with others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take care you do not annoy those at home. Improve home surroundings where you can. Not a good day for entertaining.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will do everything in an original fashion, so be sure to teach orthodox methods early. Teach early to complete whatever is started, but to forget that which is absolutely impractical.

Ridin' fence Back to West Texas

with Marj Carpenter

Folks do come back. There's something about this place that brings them. It's an elusive quality, but I think it
