Majority Whip Has Edge

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON AP—The Senate won't vote for a new majority leader until next January, but the outcome of the contest could well be decided by the end of this week.

Discussions with senators and staff aides indicate the contest is shaping up this way:

-The early frontrunner is Sen. Robert C. Byrd. D-W Va., majority whip for the past five years.

-Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., would be a strong candidate for the job, but he would have to decide to abandon any hopes for the Democratic presidential nomination. Humphrey hasn't announced his candidacy for either the presidential nomination or majority leader, but he told The Minneapolis Tribune that the Senate job "would be about as good a climax to public life as I could want."

However, Humphrey feels the same way about the presidency.

-Sen Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, is making a strong bid for the post.

-The current dark horse in the race is Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., a Southern moderate.

When Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., announced last week he would retire in January, he said he had told Byrd of his plans last September.

That gave the majority whip a big jump on his colleagues and helped make him the front-runner for the job. But several observers pointed out that, despite that edge, Byrd doesn't have the job nailed down.

The various candidates for the job immediately began seeking commitments from their colleagues for support in the Democratic caucus next January. Their hope is to secure commitments from a majority as soon as possible, and several sources predicted the contest could be settled by the end of the week.

Sources said that Humphrey was asking Democratic senators not to commit themselves until after the Democratic National Convention in July. But his suggestion wasn't gaining much support.

Humphrey has said he has no plans to enter any Democratic presidential primaries but that he would accept the nomination if the convention turned to him.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, March 8, the 68th day of 1976. There are 298 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1917, riots and a strike in St. Petersburg marked the beginning of the Russian Revolution.

On this date:

In 1765, the British House of Lords passed a Stamp Act taxing the American colonies.

In 1865, a canal was begun in the Netherlands to connect Amsterdam with the North Sea.

In 1894, New York became the first state to pass a law requiring dogs to be licensed.

In 1942, the Japanese captured Rangoon, Burma in World War II.

In 1969, the Soviet Union put its army in the Far East on alert as a warning to China after a frontier clash on the Ussuri River.

In 1970, President Makarios of Cyprus escaped an assassination attempt when terrorist snipers shot down his helicopter.

Ten years ago: Anticommunist students in Indonesia sacked the Indonesian Foriegn Ministry in Jakarta.

Five years ago: Kidnapers in Turkey released four U.S. airmen after holding them five days.

One year ago: Helicopters flying through a snowstorm began evacuating scientists and crew members from the U.S. icebreaker Glacier, trapped in 25-foot-thick ice in the Antarctic.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia adopted a resolution prohibiting the enlistment of Indians in the military service without the prior permission of both the Congress and the councils of the tribes to which the Indians belonged.

Reagan Blasts Ford To Wrap-Up Florida Campaign

MIAMI (AP) — Republican challenger Ronald Reagan, wrapping up a Florida presidential primary campaign he said is "building a real head of steam," accused President Ford today of yielding to election year pressure to perk up the economy.

The former California governor was making a four-city swing in the state before flying to Champaign, Ill., to hunt votes in that state's March 16 primary.

Reagan told a Miami news conference he does not expect to lose in Tuesday's GOP balloting, but "if it should happen, it'll be a close race and I don't think it will make any difference" in the competition for the Republican presidential nomination.

Reagan said that whatever happens in the primaries he has no intention of dropping his challenge to Ford unless and until the President has enough committed votes to win the nomination.

He said he doesn't expect that to happen before Republicans convene in Kansas City on Aug. 16. "The final fight will be waged on the convention floor," Reagan said.

On the economy, Reagan said he is not questioning the figures that show a decline in unemployment and in the rate of inflation. But he said, "They are the result of artificial stimulants to the economy."

He said that the Democratic Congress is basically to blame, but he also said that Ford is not doing enough to stop it.

Reagan once again cited the experience of the last presidential campaign when the economy improved during the political year and then soured after the voting.

"I think both in the case of President Nixon, he yielded to the pressure also, and I think President Ford has yielded to the pressure," Reagan said.

But he provided no specifics. When asked for a bill of particulars, Reagan replied:

"In most of the programs that have been adopted there has been no real effort to control inflation by curbing the size of government ..."

Reagan said the President should put himself in an adversary position and go over the head of Congress to appeal to the American people for action to control spending, cut the deficit and thus fight inflation.

Democrats Jimmy Carter, Henry M. Jackson and George C. Wallace also were at their campaign tasks today, the eve of the year's fourth presidential primary election.

Russia Ships Supplies Of Arms To Mozambique

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has shipped new supplies of weapons to Mozambique amid reports of increased guerrilla operations against neighboring white-ruled Rhodesia, U.S. intelligence sources say.

Two Soviet ships were said to have unloaded T34 and T54 tanks, truck-mounted rocket launchers and other arms at the port of Beira. Three other Soviet ships were reported en route to Mozambique.

The focus of Soviet and Cuban activity in Africa appears to be swinging toward support of Rhodesian black nationalist efforts now that Marxist forces have won in Angola.

There are conflicting reports on whether some of the 12,000 to 14,000 Cubans in Angola may already have been shifted to Mozambique to train and possibly fight alongside black Rhodesian guerrillas.

According to current estimates, there are only about 4,000 such guerrillas, and they are described as badly led and poorly organized.

Mozambique's president, Samora Machel, last week closed his country's border with Rhodesia and announced a state of war with Rhodesia. Reliable information on the strength of Mozambique's army was unavailable here, but the army was believed small.

U.S. intelligence sources said the level of guerrilla activity in Rhodesia has risen recently and that Rhodesian security forces on occasion have crossed into Mozambique in pursuit. The Rhodesian guerrillas are based in Mozambique, the sources said.

Meanwhile, the South African military command is reported to have held urgent meetings in Pretoria within the past week to review contingency plans for dealing with possible insurgent activity from Mozambique.

Analysts doubt that any major immediate effort will be mounted by black nationalist guerrillas against South Africa, which has a white population of about 4.2 million, an army of 38,000 backed by nearly 140,000 reservists and an air force of more than 100 warplanes. The South Africans also can call on a 75,000-man militia.

Rhodesia is an entirely different story. It has a white population of only about 273,000, a tiny army of 4,500 men and a territorial force of some 10,000. The Rhodesian air force numbers about 40 planes, including some light bomers, fighters and helicopters.

If Rhodesia comes under major military pressure, American specialists believe South African armed forces would help. The South Africans also are expected to help landlocked Rhodesia overcome some of the economic difficulties stemming from the closing of the Mozambique border.

Rains Like 'Liquid Gold'

AUSTIN (AP) — Widespread weekend rains were like "liquid gold" to Texas farmers and ranchers, but "we can use plenty more," state Agriculture Commissioner John White said today.

White said the "spotted moisture" in the Texas Panhandle was "too little and too late" to save most dryland wheat.

"We can figure on losses exceeding $50 million in dryland wheat because of the drought in the High Plains," White said in a statement. "What little rain they had over the weekend has done nothing to change that."

Pound Tumbles Again

LONDON (AP) — Britain's ailing pound sterling, which dropped in value to below $2 for the first time in history on Friday, tumbled again in foreign exchange dealings today but then leveled off.

The pound, once one of the world's most stable currencies, closed at $1.9815 Friday. It opened around two cents lower today and at one point dropped as low as $1.9292.

But by late morning the currency had risen somewhat and leveled off at $1.9475, still a drop of nearly 3½ cents from Friday's close.

"There has been general selling and quite a lot of it," one dealer said. "We have had sales coming in from Europe, the Far East and the Middle East. But markets never go in the same direction forever.

"When you get the sort of disastrous fall we have seen this morning someone gets tempted to buy or buy back sterling they have sold at a higher price earlier."

But the dealer said there was little chance of the pound stabilizing again over the $2 mark, once considered an important psychological barrier.

The pound has weakened steadily against most major currencies for the past 10 months, with Britain's economic troubles blamed for the spreading lack of confidence in the currency.

One dealer said today there was no indication of significant support for the pound from the Bank of England. He said if the bank has supported the pound it has done so only in a small way.

There was speculation last week that the Bank of England was allowing the pound to drop in value, and even selling to assist the decline, in order to make Britain's exports more competitive.

But the feeling today was that the situation may have gotten out of hand and that the bank could do little now to prop up the pound even if it wanted to.

Security Is Tight

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
Associated Press Writer

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — Top executives of four American oil companies and Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Sheik Ahmed Yamani stayed secluded today at a plush, beachside resort negotiating Saudi Arabia's takeover of Aramco, the giant Arabian-American Oil Co.

As with everything else concerning the unusual meeting in this small Florida Panhandle city, the talks were shrouded in secrecy and heavy security.

Panama City Mayor M.B. Miller, for one, was miffed about the whole affair.

"It's a puzzle to me why in the United States of America people have to slip around in such a manner," said Miller. He said even police were kept in the dark when the armed, private security force descended on the city four days ago.

The tight security presumably stemmed from concern about a terrorist attack like the one in December during a meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Vienna. Scores of persons were taken hostage, including Yamani, and three persons were killed.

The U.S. State Department, which helped arrange security measures, confirmed that Yamani came here for an Aramco meeting with officials of Texaco, Mobil, Exxon and Standard Oil of California.

The Panama City meeting was a continuation of nationalization talks that began at an undertermined location on the East Coast earlier in the week, State Department officials said.

The 100 per cent acquisition of Aramco would climax a process begun in 1973 when the Saudis bought 25 per cent of the firm. It would also symbolize an historic shift in dominant power from the private, Western-owned oil giants to the third world oil producers.

Yamani has said that the takeover date will be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1976, and Aramco Board chairman Frank Jungers agreed in a recent interview that this was the date tentatively set.

Aramco produces approximately 8.5 million barrels a day, only slightly less than the production of the world's top two producing countries, the Soviet Union and the United States.

The United States gets about 600,000 barrels of oil a day from Saudi Arabia.

One Held In Burglary

One man is in custody and another man is being sought by city police following an early Sunday morning burglary at Peterson's Pharmacy. Approximately $100 worth of drugs and medical supplies were taken in the burglary.

Early Sunday morning, two police officers observed a black and white Chevrolet on Twenty-fifth Street that had loud mufflers. The two police officers attempted to stop the car. A chase ensued with speeds ranging up to 100 miles per hour.

The black and white Chevrolet was pursued and overtaken northwest of the city. One man was found in the car and another man reportedly fled on foot. Found in the car were drugs and narcotic paraphernalia.

Police have a 50-year-old man in custody in connection with the burglary and are searching for a 23-year-old man also believed to be involved in the incident.

Parma Ruling Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today declined to rule on a bid by Cleveland blacks to challenge what they say is their exclusion from the nearly all-white suburb of Parma, Ohio.

The justices let stand without comment a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati that the Cleveland residents did not have legal standing to bring their suit.

The Cleveland blacks sued to require Parma city officials to permit the construction of low-income housing. They challenged the denial of a building permit for a subsidized housing project.

They also challenged two city ordinances, approved by initiative in 1971, which limit the height of residential buildings to 35 feet and call for an automatic referendum on subsidized housing.

The circuit court dismissed their suit, citing a Supreme Court decision last year that residents of Rochester, N.Y., did not have legal standing to bring a similar suit against the suburb of Penfield.

Snyder Welcomes Light Drizzle

A heavy cloud cover yielded moisture rather sparingly in the Snyder area, as rain and snow continued over much of Northwest Texas this morning.

Snow fell over the Panhandles and part of the South Plains, while rainfall was reported in most other areas.

Snyder's official gauge had logged .31 inch from light drizzle which occurred intermittently Sunday and on through this morning. However, the U.S. Weather Service indicated that a clearing trend was expected to set in late today. Snyder temperatures were in the high thirties and low forties over the weekend.

Heavy rains were reported in Northeast Texas, with Texarkana reporting two inches and Wichita Falls 1.43.

A flash flood watch was issued for Southeast Texas. Some flooding was reported in the state's northeast corner.

During the morning hours, the South Plains community of Edmonson reported 6 inches of snow, and the big flakes were still falling.

Plainview had about 2 inches of snow and Amarillo was blanketed with an inch in one hour.

Law enforcement officers warned motorists in Northwest Texas to drive with care as streets and highways were slick and visibility reduced to less than half a mile.

The band of showers and thunderstorms embraced most of Texas with the heaviest rainfall in the eastern sections.

Tyler had .75 inches, Longview .83, Dallas .98 and Fort Worth .74.

Dallas police reported 234 traffic accidents during the night with 31 persons injured, none seriously.

Thunderstorms dumped water on the area between Victoria and Corpus Christi.

Small craft warnings went up along the upper coast because of gusty winds.

Rainfall in Northeast Texas disrupted long distance telephone service early today between Texarkana, Mount Pleasant and Dallas when a cable became waterlogged. A Southwestern Bell Co. spokesman said repair crews were attempting to restore service.

The National Weather Service predicted an end to the wet weather tonight when a frontal system begins moving to the northeast.

Advisers Claim Stock Market Is Consolidating

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — "What is the stock market telling us?" asks one broker after another, inadvertently reversing a state of affairs in which the market does nothing but what investors make it do.

"The stock market is weary," said the broker, "so investors might best be advised to stay away." No sir, that's not the situation at all. The attitude produces the effect; it is the adviser who is weary or wary, and the market which mirrors it.

Right now, the advisers are saying, the stock market is consolidating the 160 or more points the Dow Jones industrial average has added since last December, in one of the most energetic leaps in recent history.

Whatever consolidation means isn't very clear, but presumably it suggests investors now are trying to feel firm and secure at this 972.92-point level (as of the beginning of trading today).

As a result, the once explosive rally now sputters forward a few points and then falls back. A morning advance withers by midday and then resumes faintly near the close. A slight decline sets off a slight rally.

In such a situation, those who are supposed to be able to see current world history in the market's performance never are without explanations. They might not be correct, but who's to know or to care?

The current reasons for weariness or wariness include fears about the British pound sterling, concern that the Federal Reserve will impose monetary restraint, and an inability to create enthusiasm among individual investors.

It continues: The big institutions which supported the 1976 rally now are heavily invested and not in a position to lead an advance. And the economic measurements, while improving, show we have a long way to go.

But that's the bad news, and the stock market so far hasn't been receiving only bad news. Take a look at the other side of the very same reasons:

The British don't seem particularly worried about their own currency. If the Fed feels we need monetary restraint then it must feel the recovery is very strong. And small lot sales-purchase ratios suggest small investors are growing more interested.

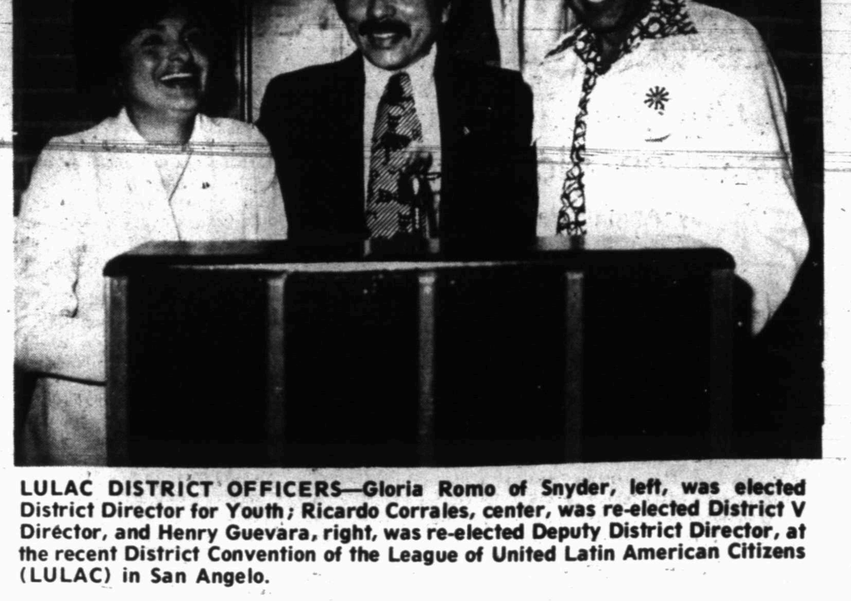

It might be true that some of the institutions now are heavily invested, but some of them — mutual and pension funds, for instance — also have an inflow of new dollars to be invested. Many of them are growing.

True, many economic measurements — unemployment, inflation and the like — remain at a disturbingly high level, but if they are pointing in the right direction doesn't that mean better times for investors?

The market today is somewhat like the political race. Everyone seems to hang on the words of the candidates, just as everyone seems to listen to the various explanations of market place behavior.

But candidates aren't what makes the country run. The people who vote do. Therefore, the successful candidate must listen to the people.

And in the stock market, you can discount a lot of the talk also. It only reacts. The investors have the money.

LULAC DISTRICT OFFICERS—Gloria Romo of Snyder, left, was elected District Director for Youth; Ricardo Corrales, center, was re-elected District V Director, and Henry Guevara, right, was re-elected Deputy District Director, at the recent District Convention of the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) in San Angelo.

Opposition Developing On 'One-Stop Centers' Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new wave of opposition to the government's plan for consolidating various local Agriculture Department offices into "one-stop centers" appears to be developing in Congress.

The USDA plan was formulated several years ago to consolidate about 7,800 field offices of several agencies, including the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS); Farmers Home Administration (FMHA); Soil Conservation Service (SCS); and the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC).

Despite grumbling from many farmbelt members of Congress and people served by the agencies, the USDA has proceeded steadily with the plan.

Rep. Alvin J. Baldus, D-Wis., last week introduced a bill that calls for a moratorium on further consolidation of offices into one-stop service centers and for a set procedure, including public hearings in individual counties affected, for implementing the plan in the future.

In a letter to Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, Baldus said farmers had not had an opportunity to comment fully on the "monumental change in the fabric of services" resulting from the consolidation plan.

"The one-stop service center program is proceeding with an alarming arrogance to move these vital services around from one county to another like chessmen — and in some cases taking them out of the picture entirely," Baldus said.

"This monumental change in the fabric of services back home is proceeding through the back door without the benefit of a clearly announced department policy or public debate," Baldus said in his letter to Butz.

Department officials disagree with Baldus that the plan had not been clearly announced, pointing to Butz's public statement on Nov. 21, 1973, which outlined the plan and its objectives. Also, they said, the consolidation plan has been aired repeatedly during congressional hearings since that time.

But Baldus contends that, despite the public announcement by Butz and the periodic debates in Congress, there have been subtle moves to implement the consolidation plan with as little local notice as possible.

Thus, he said, it is time for legislation so that the plan can be openly discussed locally by local people it affects and final decisions based on their views.

A recent report filed by USDA's assistant secretary for administration showed by July 1, 1975, some 40 one-stop centers were operational and another 538 had been designated. The plan called for about 100 centers to be operating by mid-1976 and that, by July 1, 1977, about 1,000 will be functioning.

Soviet Vegetable Production Drops

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department analyst said today that the Soviet Union's vegetable production faltered badly last year, along with grain crops, because of poor weather.

Angel O. Byrne of the department's Economic Research Service said that final figures show that 1975 Russian vegetable production totaled 23 million metric tons, down 7 per cent from 1974 and 16 per cent below the target set by planners.

Car Plows Into Teens, Killing 8

MARIA STEIN, Ohio (AP) — A car plowed into about 50 high school pupils standing at a rural intersection Sunday night after they halted their car caravan on the way to a dance. Eight of them died, and four others were injured, authorities said.

The young people, pupils at the high school in the small town of Minster, six miles from the accident scene, apparently were trying to figure out how to get to the dance, officials said.

Lt. John Schlosser, commander of the highway patrol post at nearby St. Marys, gave this account:

The teen-agers, traveling in nine cars, were standing on the roadway when a car, coming from the opposite direction, went through a stop sign, crossed the intersection, sideswiped the first of their vehicles and then ran into them.

The patrol identified the driver of the car that struck them as John Cremer, 21, of Maria Stein. Schlosser said Cremer was slightly injured, but did not require hospitalization. No charges have been filed in the accident which is still under investigation, the patrol said.

The Carousel Ballroom, where the teen-agers were headed, is about six miles west of the intersection of Fort Recovery-Minster Road and Rolfes Road where the accident occured. The intersection is a half mile off Ohio Route 716 and the highway patrol said it is unclear why the young people had stopped there.

"Right now, we understand they had stopped just to talk and see where they were going to go," Schlosser said. "That's what they said.

Six of the pupils died late Sunday and two others died today.

The dead were identified as Ken Sommers, 15, and Scott Westerheide, 15, both of whom died today; Michael R. Kemper, 17; Anthony E. Kemper, 17; Lester R. Ranly, 16; Becky Moorman, 15; Joy Brandeweide, 14, and Barbara Olding, 14.

SDEC To Meet In Houston

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Democratic Executive Committee today selected Houston as the site of the party's June 18-19 state convention.

The committee ruled out Fort Worth for that convention but tentatively designated Fort Worth for the Sept. 17-18 "governor's" convention if adequate accommodations are available.

Fort Worth had been the tentative choice for the June convention, at which the party delegation to the national convention will be organized, but it was learned that the accommodations would not be available at that time.

Delegates from Corpus Christi sought to have the September convention in their city. Committeewoman Clotilde Garcia said the party had neglected South Texas in choosing convention sites and in making its decisions.

"Remember the poor people of Laredo, Corpus Christi, Duval County, and San Diego have always managed to travel at great sacrifice to other cities," she said.

The committee overwhelmingly rejected a resolution urging the legislature to "act in the prevention of crime" by enacting bills to be recommended later by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill and House Speaker Bill Clayton.

The resoltuion was tabled on a motion of Rep. Ron Waters of Houston, who said, "As a member of the legislature I don't get too much initiative out of this resolution."

In the housekeeping business for which today's meeting was mandated by state law, the SDEC decided to meet May 6 to canvass results of the May1 Democratic primary. It also certified the official ballot for the primary.

Party Chairman Calvin Guest was designated temporary chairman of the June convention and Rep. Wilhelmina Delco of Austin was elected temporary vice chairman.

The convention will chose its own permanent officers.

Caroline Makes Front Page

LONDON (AP) — Caroline Kennedy was in British newspapers for the second straight day today, shown this time with her mother Jacqueline Onassis, who was reported upset over Caroline's "hectic social life."

Appeal Issued For Volunteers In 'Hike-Bike'

An urgent appeal has been issued by Glenda Treat for volunteers to help in the "Hike-Bike" for retarded citizens, which will be conducted here April 3 by the Scurry County "Teens Aid the Retarded" (TARS).

"What we need are volunteers," said Miss Treat. "The time has come when our people want to do something concrete about helping retarded citizens, and we mean to give them the opportunity to do so.

"At this time, we have 25 bikers and members of the Scurry County Sheriff's Posse working to obtain pledges for the Hike-Bike. The Snyder Jaycees and Jaycee-ettes also are participating in this project."

An estimated three per cent of the population of the United States, or more than six million children and adults, are mentally retarded, Miss Treat said. The impact of mental retardation is felt directly by some 20 million family members, with one American family in five being affected.

Anyone wishing to join the Hike-Bike is asked to call Miss Treat at 573-9798, or Robert Miller at 573-7271.

2 Mishaps, Car Burglary Are Reported

One car burglary and two minor accidents were reported over the weekend by Snyder Police.

A car burglary was reported Saturday morning at 1901 Coleman Street. George Kiker reported that someone had broken the lock on the camper on his pickup truck and had taken an assortment of tools. Value of the tools was estimated to be $150.

Two minor traffic accidents occurred Sunday evening. Involved in a Seventeenth Street and Avenue R mishap were a 1965 Chevrolet driven by Joe Bailey Norris and a 1975 Ford driven by Roger Wayne Park. Involved in an accident at the Sonic Drive-In were a 1973 Oldsmobile driven by Robert David Sims of Snyder and a 1970 Chevrolet driven by Daniel Bilano of Fluvanna.

Panel Loaded With Land Data

By The Associated Press

A U.S. Senate subcommittee has returned to Washington loaded with ammunition from both sides of the controversey surrounding the Army's desire to annex nearly 60,000 acres for an expansion of Ft. Hood in Central Texas.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex, chaired hearings Friday and Saturday in Killeen and Gatesville by the military construction subcommittee of the Armed Services Committee.

In Killeen, an estimated 650 persons from seven Central Texas cities packed the hearing room as speakers expressed their feelings that the annexation was necessary for the nation's military preparedness and the continued business growth of the communities around Ft. Hood.

The next day the subcommittee heard testimony saying the Army had contradicted itself several times in trying to justify its plans.

The Army wants the land northwest of the post, but its request for $36.5 million to buy the property was deleted last week from the military appropriations bill by a House Armed Forces subcommittee.

Col. Frederick J. Brown, a Ft. Hood brigade commander, told Tower's panel that the modern battlefield is five to six times larger than those of World War II and Korea because of range and accuracy of modern weapons.

"The battlefield on which we train must increase too or we are deceiving ourselves as to our true readiness," Colonel Brown said.

In Gatesville on Saturday, however, Coryell County landowners protested the proposed acquisition of their lands.

One witness at the Gatesville hearing, Cullen Smith, said, "It concerns me a great deal to hearing highly respected officers tell us our training is second rate, that we are unprepared and the only reason for supporting the Army's request is an old GSA (Government Services Administration) report.

A Drinking Test for Could-be Alcoholics

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: You recently printed a letter from a woman whose husband drinks enough beer to become very drunk, but who insists that as long as he drinks "only" beer, he's not an alcoholic. This is a common misconception.

I thought your readers would be interested in knowing that a "shot" of whiskey (one and a half ounces), a glass of table wine (five ounces) and a pint of beer (16 ounces) all have an equivalent amount (three-fourths of an ounce) of ethyl alcohol. The alcoholic becomes addicted to the ethyl alcohol, no matter which beverage he consumes.

Alcoholism is one of the major health problems in this country. However, it is a treatable illness that can be controlled if identified and treated.

The following quiz is distributed by the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism:

DO YOU HAVE A DRINKING PROBLEM?

1. Do you ever drink "doubles"?
2. Do you drink more now than you used to?
3. Do you sometimes gulp drinks instead of sipping them?
4. Do you think you need a drink to help you to relax? (Or to give you a lift?)
5. Do you drink when you are alone?
6. Do you sometimes forget what happened while you were drinking?
7. Do you keep a bottle hidden somewhere—at home or at work—for quick pick-me-ups?
8. Do you need a drink to have a good time?
9. Do you ever have a drink or two before going where you know drinks will be served?
10. Do you drink in the morning to relieve a hangover?

If you have four or more "yes" answers, you have a serious drinking problem.

For information and help, check your Yellow Pages under Alcoholism for the number of councils on alcoholism, the A.A., Al-Anon, and specialized treatment facilities.

HELPFUL IN HOUSTON

DEAR HELPFUL: Thanks. Your quiz is indeed helpful to those who are fond of saying, "I can take it or leave it alone," but who usually take it.

DEAR ABBY: About a month ago a friend who is a kindergarten teacher asked me if I would assist her with her class. I was glad to help her without pay.

At the end of the day, I saw that my purse was open and all the money from my wallet was gone. (It amounted to about $10.)

I told my friend about it, and she kept trying to give me $10 to make up for it, but I wouldn't accept it.

Then she mailed me a check for $10, urging me to please cash it. I really want to, but I don't feel right about it. What should I do?

ON THE FENCE

DEAR ON: Consider HER feelings and cash the check. Otherwise she will continue to feel guilty about your loss.

Vast Array Of Pantyhose Perplexing To Shoppers

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Some day someone's going to produce statistics proving that female nervous disorders and pantyhose are related.

Headaches are activated just by the bewildering variety you have to choose from. A thousand different names and styles, from 29 cents to several dollars. And they all run or snag sooner or later. Mostly sooner.

Well, just what are you getting for 39 cents, or 90 cents or $5?

"Women want longer life on the one hand and great sheerness on the other and the two are not compatible," says John Holtvedt, women's hosiery buyer for J.C. Penney whose private label pantyhose sells from 99 cents to $4.

By its very nature, the product is fragile. The sheerer it is, the more expensive because the yarns cost more. And the greater the risk of tearing.

On the other hand, support pantyhose which is the most durable because of the spandex it contains, is also the most costly because of that spandex. So you pay at both ends.

And you pay basically the same people. Pantyhose is divided between brand name—Hanes (l'eggs), Kayser-Roth (No-Nonsense), and Van Raalte, for instance—and private label or no-name pantyhose.

Brand name is nationally distributed and advertised. Private label is packaged under the particular name of a chain or department store, or sold unlabeled. It's usually less expensive and marketed more on a regional basis.

According to Sam Berry, the president of the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers, "The top 25 mills in the country make most of the pantyhose. We don't have any mills that are just private label or brand name."

Then, aren't you paying more for a brand name when you can probably get the same product for less in a chain store? Jack Ward, vice president of hosiery marketing for L'Eggs pantyhose which sells for $1.39, says, "I guess it's conceivable that a customer could get a similar produce in a chain store for 99 cents."

But most chains buy from several mills and neither the chain nor the mill will reveal who's making what for whom.

And, Ward and his confreres hasten to add, there are other considerations. Granting a certain standardization in the industry—the same equipment, the same basic material, raw nylon—it's what happens from then on that accounts for price. And in the very cheapest, coarsest pantyhose, nothing beyond quick construction happens.

Raw nylon has no inherent stretch. That must be added by twisting the nylon on a spindle and "setting" it with heat so that it acquires the tension of a rubber band. This, in turn, allows it to stretch and snap back, preventing bagging.

Some mills receive the yarn already twisted, others "texturize" it themselves. What kind of yarn is used, how carefully it's texturized and dyed, how fast the knitting machines are run, whether the garment is inspected along the way, and if any hand-sewing takes place all figure in the cost. That, plus advertising and extra touches such as ribbons added at the waist.

Leonard Meisels, director of marketing and merchandising for Van Raalte, says, "You're paying for quality control and inspection in a brand name which you don't find in a lower price garment. And you don't find proportionate sizes or the color selection in the other garment. Most of our customers," he concludes, "are looking for continuity of availability and consistency in a manufacturer's signature."

Jack Paige, vice president of marketing for Bic Pantyhose, a new, mass-market 99 per cent product, adds this. "Let's say a five-and-dime store bought a million pair of pantyhose from some manufacturer in North Carolina, packaged it under its own name and sold it for 59 cents. Six months later, they go back and get a better price from another manufacturer who uses different machines. The consumer wants what she bought before, but it isn't there now."

According to the president of Kayser-Roth, Merwin J. Joseph, "Our customer primarily want fit so we put in a separate crotch piece and a sewn-on waistband in our No-Nonsense pantyhose which sells for $1.19. These procedures cost more because without them, the garment can be knit in one process on the machine with a seam up the middle and a knit-in-waistband. But the separate crotch piece allows for less strain and less chance of tearing, and the sewn-on waistband won't roll over."

Finally, it all does come down to what you want. John Holtvedt of J.C. Penny says, "You can't compare 99 cent and $2 garments because they serve two different purposes. Just to run around in, the customer can buy the cheaper pair. But if she's going out on a heavy date, she'll want a sheerer pantyhose."

Of course, she can always wear a pantsuit and no stockings and avoid the problem all altogether.

Hormones linked to personality

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to know if a hormone imbalance can cause emotional disturbances in a woman under 30 years of age. I know this can occur during the menopause and patients are given hormone pills. If this is true, how could I go about finding out if a hormone imbalance exists. Can you tell by a pap smear? Please let me know because I believe I have a hormone imbalance.

DEAR READER — Your glands may affect your personality and your personality may affect your glands. That statement is not limited to sex hormones but they certainly are included in it.

I have seen patients with psychotic episodes associated with an overactive thyroid. At the other end of the spectrum we have a condition, called myxedema madness which refers to the personality changes or dementia that can occur in individuals with severe advanced low thyroid function.

Similarly one can see patients with psychoses which may be temporary in association with taking cortisone and other adrenal cortex hormones.

Sex hormones can affect one's behavior. Male hormone tends to make men more aggressive. Estrogen tends to increase a woman's femininity and receptiveness although this response is more noted in animals below the level of the human.

Emotional disturbances often occur at the menopause time but whether they are specifically related to a hormone imbalance or not is often open to question. There are many other factors going on at this phase of life. Such emotional disturbances are frequently not helped by the administration of female sex hormones.

The problem is complicated by the inadvisable practice of giving female hormones to women with emotional disturbances which are not really related to the menopause at all. Many menopausal symptoms overlap the kind of symptoms associated with anxiety and depression problems. The clinician must be alert to separate the two conditions and treat the one that is really giving the difficulty.

Women can have a very early premature menopause. There are cases on record younger than 30 years of age. One can tell if there is a deficiency of female hormone by special stains done on cells obtained with the Pap smear. One can get also get some idea of a hormone deficiency by testing the urine and blood.

Since you have raised this question I am sure you will not be satisfied until it is answered. The solution then is to go see your obstetrics and gynecology specialist and tell him what you really want to know. He can do or have the proper tests done. However, I think that if he tells you that your hormone balance is quite normal, the next step is to see about getting some help for what you have labeled as an emotional disturbance and that does not mean hormone therapy.

For more information about endocrines and their effect on personality at the menopause send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 5-12, Menopause. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Childhood Cancer Is Being Cured

CHICAGO (AP) — More children are being cured of cancer today as a result of better diagnosis and treatment of the disease, says a Milwaukee researcher.

Dr. Donald Pinkel, a Medical College of Wisconsin pediatrician, surveyed recent advances in childhood cancer treatment in the March 8 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

He points out that the diagnosis of cancer in children in the past was accompanied by a "fatalistic outlook."

But he also says improved diagnostic and treatment techniques "have led to increasing periods of disease-free survival and probable cure for greater proportions of children ...

"Although only 1 per cent of cancer occurs in children, the potential number of productive years of life to be saved by eliminating childhood and adolescent cancer deaths is nearly equal to that to be saved by eradicating adult cancer mortality," Pinkel said.

Oswald: "How about the play?"

Jim: "It was quite interesting. See if you can figure out how South got greedy and managed to go down at four hearts against a deuce of clubs opening?"

Oswald: "Let's see. He won the club with his queen and cashed the three top trumps. After that start he could run off dummy's clubs in order to discard his spades and make five odd. I suppose he tried for six."

Jim: "He sure did. After cashing the three top trumps, he took an immediate diamond finesse. It worked because good old East didn't take his king. Then South cashed the clubs while East chucked a spade. He ruffed a spade, led a diamond, finessed again and watched the defense take the rest of the tricks since East produced the king, pulled the last trump and led a spade."

Ask the Jacobys

A New York reader wants to know what a forcing pass is.

A typical forcing pass occurs on a sequence such as one heart-one spade-two spades-double-pass.

The two-spade call was a cue bid and when fourth hand doubled the opening bidder elected to pass to tell his partner to show something more about his hand. Lots of other passes are supposed to be forcing but take care. Some partners forget and fail to respond.

Texans Mourn The Death Of Rep. Wright Patman

By The Associated Press

Wright Patman, who spent 48 years away from Texas fighting big banks and special interests in the House of Representatives, has come home to stay.

The 82-year-old Democrat, dean of the House, died Sunday in Washington of pneumonia. His body was flown home to Texarkana for burial.

Patman was hailed by fellow Texas congressmen as "a populist" and "one of the finest Southern gentlemen who ever served in Congress."

Democratic Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth said Patman "never hesitated to take an unpopular stand if he believed it was right."

"Long before today's self-proclaimed consumer advocates were born, Patman was in Congress waging a lonely but effective fight against those who would exploit his fellow citizens of modest means."

Wright said Patman "earned himself a place forever in the hearts of plain people who believe, as he did, that you don't have to be wealthy or influential to be entitled to an even break in America."

Gov. Dolph Briscoe called Patman "a fierce advocate of the people" who "fought the special interests, denounced bigotry in any form and became the respected spokesman of workers and farmers throughout the nation."

"The last of the old-time populists, a great public servant and a good and beloved man, his passing leaves a void that will never be filled," Briscoe said.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., who served with Patman in the House in the late 1940s and early 1950s, called Patman, "an institution in Congress, serving his district, his state, and his country for more than 53 years in the tradition of the early day populists."

"Congressman Patman was a man of great vigor and integrity and he will be missed," Bentsen added.

Rep. Dale Milford of Grand Prairie, a Democrat, said Patman "will take his place as one of the great legislators in Texas along with (former U.S. House Speaker Sam) Rayburn... and will be marked as great for a different reason.

"Mr. Patman was a populist. And you know another word for populist is representative. He believed in representing the views of his people. And he did so for a record length of time in the U.S. House. He'll be missed," Milford said in a statement.

Rep. Jim Collins of Dallas, a Republican, said he "never agreed with Patman on many votes. We usually saw things differently. But I'll tell you one thing about him. He was one of the finest Southern gentlemen who ever served in Congress."

Collins said Patman "was a man who had warmth about him, an inner warmth. And he was sincere in what he believed. I don't think anyone could have ever beaten Wright Patman."

One of Patman's longtime Democratic opponents, attorney Sam B. Hall Jr. of Marshall, called for a temporary moratorium in campaigning for his seat.

Hall, one of 12 persons who filed for the seat after Patman announced in January he would not run again, said Patman's career was "long" and "distinguished."

He said, "It was marked by his continuing fight for what he believed was best for all the people, not only those of the first congressional district but throughout the country."

Briscoe is expected to meet today in Austin with Secretary of State Mark White to discuss a special election to fill the first district seat.

The press release announcing Patman's retirement had noted 1976 would be the first year "since 1920 that the name of Wright Patman has not appeared on the ballot in the state of Texas."

Patman also said on that occasion, "I am very proud of what we have been able to accomplish in the first district of Texas—often over great odds. Overall, I am convinced that we have built a solid base for the future in this entire area."

"But I am proudest of the opportunities I have had to help individuals and families on all kinds of problems through the years. This is the thing that has given me deep satisfaction and really made my service worthwhile."

Patman took credit for nearly $100 million in public projects in Northeast Texas, including huge Lake Wright Patman near Texarkana. He was instrumental in bringing the state's only steel mill, Lone Star Steel, to Daingerfield in the 1940s, and in the locating of the Red River Army Depot near Texarkana.

He sent a folksy weekly newsletter to every constituent, and his office handed out home gardening phamphlets on request.

The money he earned each year from speeches he spent on thousands of copies of Dale Carnagie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People," which he mailed to every high school and college graduate in his district.

At the time of his last bid for re-election in 1974, Patman's foes were saying he was too old to run again. He countered, "A man can be senile at 40. Age is something for the people to pass judgment on."

He added, "I'd rather die than retire and do nothing. I want to go back to finish some projects..."

'Wishbook' Used As Textbook

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — That time-honored "wishbook," the Sears, Roebuck mail-order catalog, has replaced McGuffy's Reader at Tacoma Community College for the teaching of basic English.

The Sears catalog has been elevated to the status of textbook in the school's "survival English" course for Vietnamese refugees and other newcomers to the United States.

Karen Bollard's 5½-month course is one of 90 federally funded adult English classes in the state. It is limited to adult heads of households who are looking for jobs. The language barrier has prevented many refugees from finding work, Mrs. Bollard says.

The Sears catalog is required reading for the 23 adults in her two-month-old class. She says it is the most convenient way she has of teaching an expanded vocabulary of basic terms.

By turning to one section of the catalog — for instance, "living room furniture" — she can teach an entire range of everyday words like "couch," "chair" and "lamp." And the new words are easier to learn when there is visual identification — catalog illustrations.

Mrs. Bollard says her goal is to teach the refugees to "respond correctly more often than incorrectly" in the English language. "But inevitably I'm giving them a certain amount of cultural indoctrination, too."

Among other aspects of the class are field trips to the grocery store, where students have to locate items on a shopping list and learn to "unit price" — figure out which loaf of bread is the best buy. They also go to the hardware store to learn the difference between light bulbs and fluorescent tubes and how to find electrical fuses. Another 60 adults have already signed up for the next class and are on a waiting list. Mrs. Bollard says she looks forward to a high dropout rate because that would reflect the success of the course.

"So far, only two people have terminated," she says. "They found jobs."

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Deceptive trade practices in the fields of art and antiques? Yes, indeed, say lawyers in our Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division. And recently, we've obtained court orders prohibiting misrepresentation, false advertising, and other violations of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act in several cases involving art and antiques.

Generally, the cases our attorneys have worked on have not been the traditional "art forgery" or "fake antique" cases in which an individual has carefully crafted an item to make it appear to be an original by a known master painter or artisan.

Instead, they usually follow this pattern: an advertisement will appear in the local newspaper for a limited-time special sale (usually a one-day or one-weekend only sale) to be held at a local motel or hotel.

In one case, the advertisers claimed to be liquidating the contents of several out-of-state antique shops, plus antiques from the collection of an out-of-state couple. Although the advertisement implied that the "special auction" was unique, our attorneys discovered that the seller had been traveling from city to city in Texas holding the same "auction."

Contrary to the ad, the merchandise to be auctioned was not all antiques, but included antique reproductions and new merchandise. In addition, our attorneys alleged, and the court agreed, that many of the "bids" at the event were "fake sales" bid at the highest price by employees of the seller in order to mislead persons attending into thinking the auction was valid.

The seller was not certified to do business in Texas, and the employees who were serving as "auctioneers" were not licensed, as required by a new State law. We were able to obtain restitution for some consumers, plus civil penalties for the State, in addition to requiring the defendants to issue retractions of any advertising placed in newspapers across the State.

Several art fraud cases follow the same general pattern. In one, a seller represented that paintings were "registered" by an international art registry, and that their "appraised value" had been determined by experts. Neither claim was true.

In another case currently in the courts, our lawyers have alleged that persons conducting a "special warehouse clearance art sale" did not have on hand the large number of low-priced art and related items advertised.

The "limited time" sale from motel or hotel rooms is a method frequently used by persons selling Oriental rugs, Indian jewelry, and other jewelry and gems. The average consumer may not be able to judge the quality of such items, and may learn only later when an expert appraises them that they were greatly overpriced. By then, it's usually too late to trace the seller, who has since moved on to another city or state.

If you're not knowledgeable in such fields, you should trade with a reputable, established merchant who won't leave town after a sale. Such persons may offer authentication of major art or antique purchases, may allow a "trial period" of the goods, or may even offer a money-back guarantee if an independent appraiser evaluates an item at lesser cost.

Complaints about deceptive trade practices involving art or antiques should be directed to our Consumer Protection Division, or your county or district attorney.

New Mexico was organized as a territory Sept. 9, 1850, and became the 47th state Jan. 6, 1912.

Mutiny Erupts In Lebanon

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A new military mutiny broke out in southern Lebanon Monday as Premier Rashid Karami met with his cabinet in an emergency session to try to avoid disintegration of the nation's 18,000-man army.

A senior officer said two Moslem lieutenants with an undisclosed number of soldiers rebelled and sought to capture an army garrison in the town of Arnoun, 40 miles south of Beirut.

"Loyalist troops prevented the rebels from taking over the garrison and both sides are now facing each other with hands on the triggers," the officer said.

He added the rebels announced they were joining the so-called Arab Army organized by deserting officers shortly before the Syrian-sponsored cease-fire was declared Jan. 22 ending 10 months of civil war between Moslem and Christian militiamen.

Karami met with his ex-man cabinet and President Suleiman Franjieh, a Christian, in a crucial effort to end the army dissension. A government spokesman said that Karami, a Moslem, ordered the meeting after a two-hour conference with the high command of the army, which has a predominantly Christian officer corps.

Leftists and Moslem leaders have been pressing for an unconditional amnesty for more than 1,000 army deserters.

Most prominent among the rebels are Lt. Ahmed Khatib and Maj. Ahmed Maameiry,, both Moslems who formed the mutinous Arab Army. Their forces have been roaming unimpeded through Lebanon's northern and eastern zones since the cease-fire.

Maameiry led a five-day attack on the Christian town of Kobayyat in northernmost Lebanon that posed a serious threat to the current standdown and slowed efforts to form a national union government.

A joint force of Lebanese troops and Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Army units have stopped the Kobayyat fighting and set up buffer zones between Moslem tribal attackers and Christian defenders.

The Kobayyat outbreak touched off a one-day mutiny by Christian officers Friday in a garrison town 10 miles north of Beirut. Mutineers demanded helicopters to fly them to Kobayyat, their home town 80 miles north of the capital, to defend their families.

Traffic Tops Violence Toll

By The Associated Press

Traffic fatalities far outnumbered other deaths by violence in Texas last weekend, including five persons killed in multi-car smashups.

The Associated Press counted at least 13 violent deaths between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday, including 11 in traffic. One person was fatally shot and another died in a fire.

These were among the victims:

Larry Travis, 27, was shot to death in an apparent gas station robbery at Adrian in the western Panhandle. Police said his body was found Sunday night with a bullet wound in the head. The station's cash register had been emptied.

A Raymondville man, Adolfo Garcia, 25, died Sunday night of injuries suffered when he was hit by a car on Farm Road 2812 near Monte Alto in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Authorities said Garcia was attempting to direct traffic around his stalled grain harvester when a car skidded into him.

William A. Moore, 79, of Atoka, Okla., a pedestrian, was killed when struck by a car as he tried to cross a Dallas expressway.

A two-car collision north of Baytown early Sunday left two Houston women dead. They were identified as Jenry Lee Avery, 22, and Gloria J. Kennedy.

State troopers said Larry Gutierrez, 20, of Rosenberg was killed early Sunday when his car went out of control on U.S. 90A in Fort Bend County and overturned after hitting a bridge guard rail.

Lori Lehr, 18, of Longview and Joseph M. Rodden, 26, of Houston were killed in a two-car, head-on collision Saturday night just outside Longview. Officers said Miss Lehr was one of three young women in one car who had just taken part in an opera at Kilgore College. The other two young women suffered injuries.

A three-car crash near Texas City killed two Houston residents. The dead were identified as Charles W. Russell, 43, and Toby O'Daniel, 13.

Harold Sack, 74, of Lincoln, Neb., was killed Saturday in a two-car crash near Mission in far South Texas. Four other people were injured.

Roy Lee Langdon, 71, of Garland was killed as he waited to have his dump truck loaded at a sandpit southeast of Dallas. Police said another truck backed over Langdon.

A 2-month-old Dallas girl, Lekthia Derrick, died early Saturday when fire swept her family's apartment. Authorities said the baby died from carbon monoxide inhalation in an upstairs bedroom.

Man Is Rescued On Skycraper

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A 22-year-old man was yanked to safety by rescuers Sunday afternoon after threatening for half an hour to jump from the 17th floor of an Oklahoma City skyscraper.

"It was like he didn't want to do it, but felt he had to," said police officer Ed Moore.

Police and fire rescuers at the 32-story City National Bank building cajoled, persuaded and finally snatched the man from a ledge.

He was identified as Earl Wayne Goodman, 22, of Oklahoma City. He was taken to jail and booked on a complaint of attempted suicide.

Police said the man entered the building through a door left open on Sundays for janitorial workers. He climbed out an 18th-floor window and dropped to a ledge on the 17th floor.

Moore's rescue attempt did not begin well.

"When I opened the window the suction blew a styrofoam coffee cup off a desk and right past Earl. 'Whoah' he said and leaned over that railing."

Fireman Winston Neal and C.O. Moore kept edging closer, then Neal grabbed an arm and Moore grabbed the man's jacket.

"He kept saying, 'It's nice to have somebody that cares about you," recalled Ed Moore.

Four Arrested In Drug Probe

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A 10-week marijuana and cocaine investigation ended with arrests of the health food concessionaire for International Spas here and in El Paso, Tex., and three other El Paso men, a federal drug agent says.

Two-hundred pounds of marijuana allegedly was seized from the suspects' camper truck Sunday in a north Phoenix restaurant parking lot. The suspects failed to deliver a promised kilo (2.2 pounds) of cocaine, said Phil Jordan, special agent in charge of the Phoenix office of the Drug Enforcement Administration.

The four were booked into jail for investigation of possessing marijuana and cocaine for sale, Jordan said.

Jordan said one of the men identified himself as a health-food salesman, another said he is a self-employed carpenter and the third said he is a student at the University of Texas at El Paso.

There was no indication that illegal drugs had been pushed through the health spas, Jordan said.

The four had been under investigation about 2½ months by El Paso and Phoenix authorities and allegedly had produced samples of cocaine to back an offer to sell more than two pounds of the drug, Jordan said, adding, "Cocaine conspiracy charges are pending."

Arraignment of the four was scheduled today before a U.S. magistrate.

Jacksonville, Ore., was founded in 1851 as the result of a gold rush.

TAGGED OUT—Snyder High School's Tony Lewis, first sacker for the Tiger varsity baseball team, tags out an Odessa Ector runner during the thrilling baseball doubleheader in Moffett Field here Saturday. The visitors took the first game, 7-5, but Snyder rallied for a 2-0 triumph in the second tilt. Catcher Tracy Witherspoon appears in the background.

Tigers 4th At Andrews

ANDREWS—The Snyder High School track team, comprised mostly of sophomores and juniors, tallied 68 points to capture fourth place at the Mustang Relays in Andrews last weekend.

Coach Don Witherspoon took 16 lads with him to Andrews, and he said he appreciated their effort. Kermit won the meet with 119 points, Lamesa was runnerup with 113, and Ft. Stockton was third with about 70 points.

The Tigers won three blue ribbons. Mike Freeman placed first in the shot with a heave of 49-9¼. Clay Peterson was first in the century with a 10.3 clocking. Steve Fisher won the mile run with a time of 4:52.7.

Steve Green was runnerup in the high hurdles with a 14.5 effort. Doyle Browning was third in the broad jump with a 19-1¾, and Tim Falls placed fourth in the high hurdles with a 15.7.

The sprint relay team comprised of Browning, Brent Terry, Peterson and Green turned in a 45.3 clocking, good enough for fourth place.

The mile relay unit comprised of Johnny Velasquez, Falls, Terry and Peterson took fifth with a time of 3:45.

The Tigers will be at the West Texas Relays in Odessa Friday and Saturday.

Western Golfers Place 5th At Border Olympics

Texas University won the Twenty-fifth Annual Border Olympics Golf Tournament, held at Laredo's Casa Blanca Golf Course last Thursday through Saturday, and the Western Texas College Westerners finished fifth with a 3-round total of 916. The Longhorns shot a total of 874.

Scores of other teams: St. Thomas U, 292-599–904; North Texas State 292-596-908; Oral Roberts 294-600--908; Pan American 300-604–911; Houston Baptist 298-607--916; Mary Hardin Baylor 307-618--931; Lamar University 299-605–932; Eastern New Mexico 302-612–936; Howard College 310-626–945; Hardin Simmons U. 315-635--955; McMurry 304-635--961; West Texas State 318-641–969; Midwestern 319-654–983; and, Laredo 319-699–1,068.

Texas fired an opening round 284 and had a 577 total after the second round. The Westerners shot a 300 in the opening round and posted a 604 total on the second day.

Each college played six players, and the 54-hole total score for the low four players counted toward the team score. Windy gusting to 30 miles per hour from the southeast marred opening round play Thursday. Friday, wind at 25 miles per hour came from the northeast. Saturday, it was cold and there was a strong wind from the northeast. The course was wet from rain, and there was a slight intermittent drizzle during the final round.

A total of 19 teams competed in the tourney–13 universities, two colleges and four junior colleges.

WTC's score of 300 on the first day placed the Westerners in a tie for sixth place. WTC shot the second best score on the second day with 295 to move from sixth place to second place going into the final round. Texas University led the second round with 293, two shots better than the Westerners. North Texas State University and Pan American tied for third on the second day with 304. WTC's final score was high on the final round and dropped the team from second place to fifth place with a total of 916.

WTC's fifth place was the best finish in the four years of competition in the Border Olympics Tournament. The Westerners placed seventh last year.

Freshman Donnie Loerwald led WTC in the tourney with rounds of 73-72-81 for a total of 226, tied for ninth place out of 114 golfers competing. Sophomore Jeff Richardson placed 13th out of 1,114 with scores of 76-75-76 for a total of 227.

Coach Bob O'Day stated that he was disappointed that WTC did not finish second in the tourney.

"We played well the first round, outstanding the second round, and very poorly the third round," he said. "We had too many rounds in the 80's on the final day. However, we did beat seven universities, two colleges and three junior colleges."

Next action for the Westerners will be the Galveston Intercollegiate Tournament March 23 through March 26.

Tigers Split Two With O. Ector

The Snyder High School Tigers split a doubleheader with the Odessa Ector Eagles, 5-7 and 2-0, here Saturday to boost their season record to 2-1.

The Tigers potentially have one of the best teams in this part of West Texas.

Coach Speedy Moffett, veteran Tiger mentor, said he was pleased with the overall performance of the team here Saturday. A long home run over the right field fence in the first game by freshman Mitch Mackey was especially pleasing to Coach Moffett.

The first game was close all the way. Ector tallied first in the first inning when David Valles drew a walk and scored on two successive wild pitches.

The visitors boosted the count to 2-0 in the 2nd when James Thurman reached first safely after the catcher dropped a third strike. Thurman advanced on a wild pitch and scored on an error.

Snyder cut the margin to 2-1 in the 3rd when Kenny Crow beat out an infield single. He scored on a double by Kyle Sikes. Tigers tied it up in the 4th. With two away, Alvin Ollison, running for John Hopkins, who had doubled, scored on an error by the catcher.

Snyder went ahead 4-2 in the 5th. With one away, Kyle Sikes walked, stole second, and scored on Mackey's towering home run over the right field fence.

Ector tied it up in the 6th on a double by Ralph Franko and James Thurman and a single by Raul Larez combined with a wild pitch.

The Eagles took a commanding 7-4 lead in the top of the 8th on singles by Danny Pineda and Raul Larez combined with a walk, an error and a wild pitch. Only four of the Odessa runs were batted in.

Snyder narrowed the gap with a single run in the bottom of the 8th but the deficit was just too much to overcome. Mackey drew a walk and scored on a double by Kelly Ragland.

Manuel Rodriguez and Lupe Subia combined forces on the mound for Ector in the first game while Ricky Beard, who went the distance for Snyder, was charged with the loss. Beard got off to a slow start, walking the leadoff man in each of the first three innings.

The second game was a tight pitcher's duel between Gary Greenlee of Snyder and Victor Barrientes of Ector. Greenlee, pitching superb ball, shut out the Eagles on a 4-hitter while his teammates helped him with nine safeties of Barrientes.

Snyder got its first run in the initial frame on successive singles by Randy Gressett, Mitch Mackey and Kelly Ragland. The second run came in the sixth inning. With two away, Tracey Witherspoon singled, stole second, and scored on a double by Dray Sikes, who also had two singles to go with his double.

Gressett and Ragland each also had singles to go with their earlier hits.

The Tigers meet Big Spring there at 4 o'clock this afternoon, then return to Moffett Field for a 4 p.m. encounter with Midland High Tuesday. Thursday through Saturday, they will be at the Monahans Invitational Tournament.

Coach Moffett listed probable starters for today's game at Big Spring, according to batting order, as follows: Randy Gressett cf, Dray Sikes 2b, Mitch Mackey p, Kelly Ragland ss, Tracy Witherspoon c, Kyle Sikes rf, John Hopkins 3b, Kenny Crow lf, and Tony Lewis lb.

Four of the Tigers are batting at a .400 clip or better. They include Ragland (.500), Crow (.500), Mackey (.429), and Dray Sikes (.400).

Hale Irwin Wins Golf Playoff

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Hale Irwin scored a routine par on the fourth extra hole Monday-the sixth hole of the delayed, controversial, two-day sudden death playoff-and defeated bitterly-disappointed Kermit Zarley for the title and the $40,000 first prize in the Citrus Open Golf Tournament.

A groan of dismay went up from the small gallery that had gathered under threatening skies and Zarley's shoulders slumped when his two-foot, par-saving putt missed the cup on the par three 16th hole at the Rio Pinar Country Club course.

Irwin, rapidly moving up in the ranks of the game's great players, and Zarley had finished the regulation 72 holes tied for the top at 270—18 under par—and matched pars on two playoff holes before darkness halted the proceedings Sunday.

"We should have finished," the irate Irwin said at the time. "We should make decisions out here on the tour, not in a network office in New York."

They returned Monday morning and matched strokes over three more playoff holes before Zarley's bogey on the fourth playoff hole of the day and the sixth of the tournament.

The bogey provided a decidedly disappointing anti-climax to the long playoff.

They started Monday's play on the 17th hole and both birdied, Irwin rolling in a testing four-footer after Zarley had holed a 6-8 foot putt.

Both parred the 18th routinely and they went to the 15th, the first television hole.

Russell's Late Jump Shot Wins For Tech

DALLAS (AP) — Talk about your unlikely heroes. Enter Mike Russell.

It's not that the 6-foot-7½ 19-year-old sophomore from Buffalo, N.Y. hasn't displayed considerable promise for Texas Tech in a 24-5 season for the Red Raiders.

He averaged 10 points and six rebounds per game this year. But Russell has been so inconsistent this season that he isn't exactly the guy you call on in a pressure-cooker situation.

In fact, Tech Coach Gerald Myers didn't cal on Russell Saturday as the Red Raiders set up a play designed to go to pur shooting Grant Dukes or high-scoring Rick Bullock.

However, Russell ended up with the ball and two seconds on the clock and calmly swished a 17-foot jump shot for a 74-72 victory over the Texas Aggies to clinch the first Southwest Conference postseason basketball tournament.

The victory placed Tech in the first round NCAA playoffs at Denton against Syracuse next Saturday night. Tech and the Orangemen, winners of the Eastern College Athletic Conference Upstate New York Tournament, collide at 7:05 o'clock. The Big Ten runnerup and the Missouri Valley Conference champion meet in the nightcap.

Russell said of his winning basket: "I didn't know for sure that it was going in when I shot. It looked like it had a chance. I just started jumping up and down and hollering. I had that shot five times during the game and that was the first one I made."

Texas A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf said "That's the longest shot Russell ever made in his life. But he played better than I've ever seen him."

Myers said "I had been getting on Mike because he wasn't going to the boards. But he played defense well. Russell was really our secondary option when we setup the play with 12 seconds to play. We were fortunate."

Tech, now 24-5 for the season, faces something of a sitgma going into the joust with Syracuse (20-8). The SWC has never won an NCAA tournament and has something of a dark ages reputation in basketball.

LET'S JUST PRAISE THE LORD.

Several of the regulars will be involved in other activities and will be missed but that's the name of the game.
