Shrimper's Death Ruled Accidental

Judge Lawrence Miller ruled accidental drowning Monday in the death of Leroy Taylor, 51, of Aransas Pass, a crewman of the shrimp boat Anna Lynn.

Taylor's body was found by the Coast Guard after it washed ashore Sunday on Mustang Island. Taylor and Ediston Steel of Aransas Pass had been shrimping about a mile north of the Port Aransas jetties Saturday night when Taylor apparently fell into the water.

Steele told authorities he tried to throw Taylor a hand line, but was unable to save him. Steel said the hand line and a shrimp net became entangled in the boat's propeller and the vessel drifted ashore. The Coast Guard earlier had reported the boat sank.

Cage - Marshall Funeral Home of Aransas Pass was in charge of local funeral arrangements.

Describing the vandalism of the old home located across from Cove Harbor, Hunt said all windows were broken, holes had been kicked through many of the walls, the kitchen cabinet and lavatory had been torn from the walls, and a door was torn down and set afire in the fireplace.

The Navigation District election on Saturday, July 8 will be on a countywide basis.

This means that when a voter selects the three candidates he wishes to vote for, he should go ahead and vote for them and not be concerned about what precinct or precincts they live in.

It has come to the attention of the Pilot that some people erroneously thought that they could vote only for a candidate or candidates who live in the same precinct where the voter resides. This is not true.

The only regulation with respect to precincts is that a voter living in a certain precinct is to vote at a designated polling place, as follows:

Precinct 1-A, voting center in Aransas Pass.

Precinct 1, Rockport fire station.

Precinct 2, Courthouse.

Precinct 3, Fulton fire station.

Precinct 4, Lamar fire station.

Voting will be from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. All qualified voters will be permitted to vote, without any requirement that they own property. All persons over 60 may vote without having been registered.

When a voter looks at the ballot he will see the names of seven candidates for commissioner. The voter is asked to vote for three by scratching or marking out the names of the four he does not want to vote for.

The seven candidates, in the order their names are listed on the ballot as determined by a drawing, are Ted Atwood, Ted R. Little, Charles J. Schindler, Jack T. Smith, Matt Scott, Richard J. Fox and Hillis Dominguez.

Nineteen absentee votes were cast in the County Clerk's office in connection with the Navigation District election.

Board Raises Salary of Harbormaster

Harbormaster Bernie DeForest's salary has been increased from $400 to $475, and the salary of Mrs. Volney Cavitt, office manager for the Navigation District, has been raised from $250 to $275.

In commenting on DeForest's pay hike at a Navigation District board meeting Wednesday night, Commissioners Ted Little, Charles Schindler and Matt Scott explained that DeForest got the raise because he is filling two jobs, harbormaster and relief foreman.

In another action the Board said it is ready to cooperate with the Chamber of Commerce in extending Laurel Ave. east from Highway 35 to create a new access road to the beach. However, the Board said their action would have to await the presentation of plans developed by the State Highway Department.

The Commissioners also voted to provide meals for the election judges on Saturday, July 8 during the election to name three Navigation District Commissioners for two-year terms.

Near the close of the meeting Chairman Charles Schindler asked the other commissioners and Board Attorney (continued on page 8)

Editorial

"OR ELSE . . ."

Highway safety laws have, through the years, been primarily in the hands of local and state enforcement men. But this may be drawing to a close. The long arm of the federal government is reaching out. It's a wise motorist who becomes an even more careful driver today. He may avoid a clash with the federal boys.

It's hard to say the states and cities have done the best job possible of making the highway and streets safe. In many instances they have been rather lax on enforcement. It's also hard to say that all drivers want to obey the laws; they don't, or they would.

But with the federal government moving into the field of highway safety there had better be some improvements.

Some few months ago there was a warning to local governments and drivers to practice safety on the highways or else Uncle Sam would move in.

Just the other day Dr. William Haddon, Jr., of the newly formed National Safety Agency let it be known there will be federal influence on driving. Unless nine proposals, under the act, are complied with by the end of 1968 Washington will take over. These proposals range from mandatory helmets for motorcyclists to periodic eye examinations for all drivers, vehicle inspections, and compulsory checking of drivers' past records, driver training programs and so on.

Dr. Haddon said that unless states get with the program it may be "or else." Under the new act states could lose their eligibility for federal aid safety funds, and 10 per cent of federal aid highway construction funds.

No motorist wants to have to contend with more regulations, especially federal. There may be one last resort to avoid it. Stop the tremendous death toll on the highways by driving more carefully. Even then it may be too late. The responsibility lies with every person who gets behind a steering wheel, and also with every highway enforcement officer at the local level.

EDITOR'S VIEWPOINTS

THE AMERICAN MARRIAGE MART

As it has in European countries, so it has happened in the United States. The ratio of marriageable males to marriageable females has dropped—from 104 to 94 and it will probably slip to 93 by 1970.

According to the Bureau of the Census, the current "marriage squeeze" is a result of the fact that girls born during the post-war baby boom have reached marriageable age more quickly than the boys. From now on, fewer young women can look forward to marriage, if only because young men refuse to marry until they feel they can support a family.

Teen-age marriages are on the way out, the bureau says, but marriages in the late twenties and early thirties are coming in, as they have long since done in Europe. So, though 500,000 more young women this year than last will fail to find a spouse, they can take some consolation in the fact that the number of bachelors and spinsters approaching middle age has dropped by 30 per cent.—Minneapolis Star.

UPON MY WORD

If you can tell a society by the words it coins, then we've got quite a bit these days to keep quiet about. The latest additions to our language, which turn up in a new dictionary being marketed by Random House, scarcely signal the start of a great linguistic leap forward. Some of the words and terms:

Gogo, Birche, CORE, frug, Ho Chi Mihn Trail, kooky, rat-finks, teach-in, zip code. And even that silly polysyllable foisted on us by the movie nanny Mary Poppins, supercalifragilisticexpialidocious. (The latter, says the new dictionary, is "a nonsense word used to represent the longest word in the language. Yeah, but that's not fair, at least antidisestablishmentarianism, the former champ, is a real word.)

At the risk of sounding like a rat fink, we find the cultural patterns apparent in some of our kooky new verbiage (aside from supercali . . . etc.) somewhat unsettling. And there's no comfort at all in reflecting further that these are merely the things that our actions speak louder than.—Dallas Times Herald.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

by Vern Sanford

Here are some outdoor facts of interest:

Biologists say a young cottontail rabbit has only one chance in 20 of reaching its first birthday. But there are plenty of rabbits to go around.

An elephant can submerge and tread the bottom of the river as long as it can push its trunk out of the water.

Science has discovered that honey bees look first for the color of the flower, then for the scent, before they take the nectar.

Keep your hooks sharp. Always have a small hone handy in your tackle box. Pulling lures across rocks dulls the hooks fast.

Bass fishermen would do well to take a crappie rig along . . . especially in the poorer bass fishing weather.

Gear might include small crappie jigs or a rig with a snelled crappie hook and sinker. Then you can convert to pan fishing most any time the bass quit hitting.

Night fishermen do better when they move their light out a little distance from the boat. This is done easily by using a piece of plywood fastened to an inflated inner tube. Anchor the lantern on top of the board and let it float.

Need a safe rod holder on your boat? Get a piece of plastic hose, like that used in sprinkler systems—or a piece of radiator hose—large enough to take your rod handle. Fasten it to the side of the boat and place the rod handle inside. It works fine.

Always keep your stringer tied short enough so that it won't get in the way of the prop when you start you outboard, or when trolling. Many fine strings of fish have been lost because a stringer was severed by a prop.

If your boat doesn't have loops to attach minnow buckets or fish stringers, get a few eye hooks and put them through the gunwale. Just be

CITY OF CUERO GETS $107,050 FEDERAL GRANT
 Austin — Federal matching funds totaling $107,050 have been approved for the Municipal Park in Cuero, according to Will Odom, chairman of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission.
 Under the Land and Water Fund Program, the $107,050 Federal grant will be matched by Cuero to develop the 149 acre park within the city limits. The project will include screened shelters, picnic tables, barbecue pits, golf tee shelters, boat docks, boat shelters, tennis court and bleachers, restroom facilities, roads, parking facilities and an open pavilion.
 Under the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund Program for Texas, the government money is projected 60 per cent for State projects and 40 per cent for local projects. The program is administered on the Federal level by the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, U. S. Department of the Interior. Its funds are derived from the sale of $7 Golden Eagle Passport and other outdoor recreation fees, the Federal motorboat fuels tax and proceeds from the sale of surplus real property.
 Odom, who as the State Liaison Officer for the fund is responsible for reviewing projects and proposals submitted for Federal assistance, said the original application was made by former Mayor William C. Nami and present Mayor Lester E. Frers.
 There are quite a lot of things wrong with parents today. The trouble is, most of them don't know it until their teenage sons and daughters begin pointing them out.—Frederic (Wis.) Inter-County Leader.

DEAR VOTERS
 Due to my work at this time of year it has been impossible for me to see each of you personally. It is my sincere hope that you will return me to this office, Saturday, July 8.
 During the time I have been a member of the Navigation Board the District has done all that is possible to promote Rockport and Aransas County. The attractive beach, swimming pool and other facilities are enjoyed by many. The Navigation Board also had a large part in determining the boundary line suit settlement with Nueces County.
 I have tried to represent each of you to the best of my ability and visualize the future needs of this community. If re-elected I will continue to serve in this manner.
 Your vote and support will be appreciated.
 Sincerely,
Charles J. Schindler

Shoes Are Important In Shaping Children's Feet

College Station—Whether or not a child's feet are normal when he reaches adulthood is largely the responsibility of his parents.

Though most babies are born with normal feet, the underdeveloped feet structures are easily malformed by pressure from ill-fitting shoes, according to clothing and textile specialists.

Baby's first walking shoes should have soft leather uppers and full toe space. Soles should be flexible, firm, unpolished, and broad enough to form a substantial base for each foot. Very soft or very stiff soles should be avoided.

When buying shoes for baby determine proper fit by pressing the toe of the shoe with the width of the thumb. There should be that much space between the end of the toes and the end of the shoes.

Baby's shoes should have soft, high uppers to give the ankle support, but should never be tightly laced because circulation for foot development may be impaired.

From two to five years of age, boys' and girls' feet are about the same in contour and development. The preschooler's shoes should be more substantial than baby's but never stiff.

After age five or six, a girl's foot usually lengthens and a boy's foot widens and lengthens. Parents should watch for signs of outgrown shoes on their children and replace them immediately.

The teenager's foot isn't completely developed nor are the bones fully hardened. Wearing high heels too early and too often can permanently harm a girl's feet by throwing the weight of her body onto her toes.

Beneficiaries Sought For $150,000 Estate

Is your name Goldsmith, Goldschmidt or Goldschmedt? If it is and you are a direct descendant of Robert Goldsmith, who was born in Germany in 1835, you may be beneficiary of an estate valued at $150,000.

Probate genealogist Gordon L. Cox, 302 W. Elm Street, Tucson, Arizona, is conducting a widespread search for descendants of Robert and his wife, Mary Rowne, a native of Ireland.

The family is believed to have come to the United States before 1860. Some members of the family are believed to have settled in Central and Southeast Texas.

Others are believed to have settled in the area around Mobile, Ala., and some members probably served with Alabama units during the War Between the States.

Cox, whose business it is to find missing heirs of known estates, is searching for any clue which might lead to the beneficiary of this estate. Anyone having any information regarding this family can reach Cox at the Tucson address.

PREPARING FOR A DIP in the deep is the two-man Deep Ocean Work Boat being lowered over a pressure hull at Santa Barbara, Calif. The craft is designed to study ocean depths at 6,500 feet.

With 49 players competing, a team shooting 11 under par won first place in the Scotch foursome tournament at Live Oak Country Club last Sunday.

Members of the winning team were Dave Segler, Dale Hagy, Sal Hahn and Jean Tuer.

Finishing second with nine under par were Bill Dahlman, Tom Andrews, B. L. Corgey and Norma Hagy.

In third place at eight under par were Clarence Garrett, Bob Sterns, Garvin Mitchell and Lou McCleese.

Scotch foursome results of the 4th of July were as follows: 29 players competed and two teams tied for first at 11 under par, with a one-hole playoff to determine the winner.

Members of the winning team were Jim Dupnik, Julio La Guarta, Wilson Wehring and Lou McCleese.

On the second place team were J. T. Stellman, Sr., Ted Greenfield, Harry Bauknight, Zee La Guarta and Tom Griffith.

since the fall season of 1966. Blue crab landings amounted to about 200,000 pounds in May 1967. This was far below the 365,000 pounds landed in May 1966.

Formal "ground breaking" ceremonies were conducted at Port Isabel for the new Ioran station being constructed in that port city. This station, along with the Galveston and southwest Louisiana units will be a great asset to the commercial fisheries of the northern Gulf when the units become operational.

The west side of the Trinity River above Greater Galveston Bay has been selected as the site for construction of the largest refinery of its type in the United States. The plant complex will occupy some 36 acres and the multi-million dollar unit will undoubtedly attract both residential and industrial interests that will eliminate yet another part of our rapidly declining estuarine area.

The problem of reclaiming estuarine areas has long existed. However, some two years ago Mr. Mock of the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries Biological Laboratory, Galveston, has made some revolutionary gains in reconstituting nursery by sodding native submergible vegetation.

This new concept of habitat restoration will play a major role in maintaining stocks of fish and shellfish for both commercial and private uses in areas where extensive dredging has been done.

Construction of new shrimp trawl vessels is still evident in all major yards along the coast although a slowing down trend was notable in April and early May.

Monte Rouquette won first place in the men's tie-down roping. His time was 25.0. Monte Rouquette, Jr. won second place, time 39.0. Bill Parr was in third place, time 40.9.

Mike Rouquette won the pig in the greased pig scramble for the children and David Dupnik caught the pig in the adult pig scramble. Contestants are allowed to keep the pig if they can catch it.

Monte Rouquette, Jr. won first place in the men's breakaway roping. His time was 7.5 seconds. Dr. Dimoline of Aransas Pass was second with a time of 8.8 seconds. Monte Rouquette was in third place with a time of 9.9 seconds.

Ellis Clark if any of them had seen a copy of the audit of Navigation District accounting records which was made recently by a firm of certified public accountants at the request of Emory M. Spencer.

The commissioners and Clark said they had not seen a copy. Schindler asked Clark to "try to get a copy for our examination." Schindler added the Navigation District records are always available for inspection by the public.

NO RESPECT for signs, moan Central Park officials. Maybe, but either this New York bird couldn't read or he knew the warning was for people, not pigeons.

Miss Vermillion, James T. Moon Exchange Vows

Miss Vickie Ann Vermillion of Fulton became the bride of James Thomas Moon of Luling on Friday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Cecil H. Lang, Jr., officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vermillion, Fulton, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Moon of Luling.

Mrs. J. Allen Frye played the traditional wedding music and Dennis Elliot sang the "Lord's Prayer."

The altar setting was formed with standing baskets of white gladioli, white stock with leather leaf.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown designed of Saki. The empire bodice was outlined in Guipure lace, with a sabrina neckline. Over this she wore a matching monk's coat with lantern sleeves trimmed with swiss lace. Three flat bows highlighted the back.

Her veil of English silk illusion fell from a forward crown of peau de soie petals. The bride carried a heirloom handkerchief belonging to the groom's great-great grandmother. She carried a crescent bouquet of graduated white gladioli centered with a large white gladiolus with accents of pink tulle.

Maid of honor Miss Margaret Hardy wore a floor length gown of pink Saki of empire design. She carried a shaded pink gladiolus.

William H. May, Luling, was best man. Ushers were Richard Carter and Jon Wallace, Luling.

The bride is a graduate of Aransas County High School and attended SWTSC, San Marcos and was a member of Alpha Xi Delta. The groom also attended SWTSC.

After the wedding a reception was held in the assembly room of the church. The table was laid with a white net cloth over white satin made by the bride's mother. A mirror surrounded with lace and accents of leather leaf held the bride's bouquet which formed the centerpiece.

The couple will make their home in Rockport.

WATER DEATHS CONTINUE UPWARD TREND

Austin — Drownings have soared upward at an unprecedented rate during the past three weeks with 38 deaths recorded from that cause during the period, according to Robert G. Mauermann, deputy director, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Unofficial records kept by the Department show 63 drowning deaths occurred during the past six weeks while 69 persons drowned previously in 1967.

The total now stands at 132 drownings so far in 1967. The total for all of 1966, as registered by the Department was 236.

Records indicate that drownings are more numerous during the peak outdoor recreation period from Memorial to Labor Day.

The Department cites carelessness and exceeding one's limitations in swimming as being the greatest causes of drownings. As an example, a small fishing boat with four persons aboard swamped due to heavy waves and wind. Three held on until rescuers arrived and one drowned. None wore life preservers.

Another man was sleeping on the deck of a large boat. He rolled over, accidentally fell into the water and never surfaced.

Two fishermen, seining on Texas coast were caught by undertow. One's body was recovered the following day, the other's five days later. Neither wore life saving devices.

Another two fishermen rented a boat in a large Texas lake. The motor conked out midway across the lake. One jumped overboard to check the prop and meanwhile choppy water and wind moved the boat. The swimmer couldn't make it back to the boat even though his companion threw a life preserver.

Young children on family outings make up a high percentage of the drowning death list. In most cases, a youngster ventures too far from shallow water, steps into a deep hole or off an underwater ledge and drowns.

Mauermann classed drowning deaths "a useless waste of human life and resources compounded by the fact that most could have been prevented with a small amount of precaution."

He also urged all persons who plan to use our waters for outdoor recreation and pleasure to be extremely cautious, abide by the rules of water safety and take no unnecessary chances.

Happiness is getting up in the morning and finding that somebody mixed the frozen orange juice the night before. —Charlotte Observer.

JOHN KINSEY

Two Catamaran sailboats are for sale in the Yacht Basin, docked only a few feet apart, and there's an interesting story behind each—how it got here, who owns it, etc.

Let's start with the one owned by a handsome young couple from Milwaukee, Wis. These folks are Max (32) and Karen (28) Winkler. He is a mechanical engineer and his cute wife is a registered nurse.

In September 1966 he was doing research and testing for an outboard motor manufacturer, and Mrs. Winkler with a bachelor of science degree in nursing was engaged in child psychiatry nursing.

They owned a fine Catamaran sailboat which Winkler and some friends had built over a period of a year and a half. The couple also had a strong desire for a long, adventurous vacation. So they quit their jobs.

The boat, built in Oshkosh, Wis., was trailered across the state to Lacrosse where it was launched in the Mississippi River. On Oct. 21, 1966 the Winklers headed down the Mississippi and they've been on the go ever since.

On the way down they stopped at St. Louis, Memphis, Vivicksburg, Natchez and New Orleans. From New Orleans they took the Harvey Canal to the Intracoastal Canal.

Heading north, they stopped at Galveston to replenish their cash. Winkler got a job as an engineer for a shipyard and his wife landed a position as a head nurse at John Sealy Hospital.

With money in their pockets, they decided to resume their trip. One of the first things they did was to try to get in and out of the Gulf of Mexico, which 90 per cent of the time was rougher than they liked in a 26-foot boat.

They stopped at Corpus Christi, Port Mansfield (where they had motor trouble) and Port Isabel. "We were sort of looking for a nice place to stop and stay a while," Winkler recalled. "We had not stopped at Rockport on the way down so we returned to Rockport in June and we're still here because we like it."

They are offering their boat for sale for $3,900. After they sell it they plan to locate "somewhere on the west coast" with Winkler returning to mechanical engineering and his wife to nursing.

Regarding their boat, its hull is of fiber glass covered plywood and was formerly a racing hull. The boat is 26-feet long and has a 10½ foot beam. There is an aluminum bonnet on the bow and the boat is equipped with a 50 horsepower outboard motor.

The weight is estimated at three tons and the minimum draft is 14 inches and the maximum sailing draft is 3 feet 4 inches. The sail area is 319 square feet of Dacron. The boat is made of fiber glass covered plywood with white oak stringers. The spars are made from a special spruce and are wrapped with fiber glass.

Cabin appointments include a coal burning stove with oven, water heating tank, full size double sink, 1½ cubic foot refrigerator and a marine head.

Boat performance: Under sail can sustain an average of six knots for 100 miles, with unlimited range; with power, can average 11 miles per hour. Cruising range is 170 miles.

Now about the second catamaran for sale in the Yacht Basin.

It's owned by two students from Eastern New Mexico University at Portales, N.M. They are Bill Sheffield, 24, who graduated last June, and Charles Neely, 24, a senior.

They had hoped to sail all the way to South America and move up the Amazon River on a one-year zoological expedition, collecting rare mammals and reptiles. But they found that their boat, weighted down with much equipment (traps, chemicals, etc.) was too small for the trip.

It took them four months to build their 20 by 10 foot catamaran in Brownsville. They left Port Isabel May 23, got out in the Gulf and scampered back in a hurry.

The said it cost them $1,200 in materials alone to build the boat, and they're asking $700 for it. It is powered by a 7½ horsepower outboard motor.

If they sell the boat, they plan to go ahead with their trip by some other means.
