A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

Not suitable for salads

Cucumber boxes — filled with tons of marijuana — spilled from a truck that overturned as it exited a freeway, police in Ontario, Calif., said recently.

After the truck dumped its entire load, Ontario police found that the boxes concealed nearly 5,000 pounds of marijuana.

Police are searching for two men who fled from the truck, which was involved in a hit-and-run accident shortly before it overturned.

Watch the parking

Westchester County, N.Y., wants its law-abiding citizens to write warning notes for people who illegally park in spaces reserved for the handicapped.

As part of a campaign to keep such parking spaces available to those who need them, "ticket pads" will be distributed at supermarkets, libraries and other public places, County Executive Andrew Spano said.

Residents who see an ineligible car in a handicapped space, or see a non-disabled person misusing an eligible car, can use the pads to leave a note reminding the motorist that it's inconsiderate and illegal, Spano said.

No penalty is attached.

Car choice proves costly

A suspected bank robber whose get-away driver took off without him jumped into the next car he saw — an unmarked police car.

Eric D. Davis of Detroit jumped into the car, waved a gun and told officer Anthony Duncan and city employee Ray O'Rourke to drive, said Toledo, Ohio, police.

Duncan, who was not in uniform, and O'Rourke looked at each other, then the officer jumped into the back seat and took the gun away.

Seniors conclude 'phenomenal' year

Class President Laura Wood looks solemn ...

... Denisse López looks downright sad ...

... but Jesús Tovar looks as confident as ever as they and 97 others enter.

Salutatorian Kayla Glover and valedictorian Ricardo Aburto wait for the processional to begin. Framed between them is fellow graduate Adam Ramirez; to the right is escort Brennan Broyles.

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

"Saying this year was not phenomenal would be like calling John Wayne a wimp," commencement speaker Jim Daniel (also a Muleshoe High School teacher) said in addressing the Class of 2002 on Friday night.

He told the 100 assembled graduates to remember that "Tomorrow is the most important thing." It comes perfect, "in hopes that we learned something yesterday."

He told the students that the first time a group of them

Dads, other men read to kids

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

Muleshoe-area fathers (and grandfathers and uncles) are being encouraged to read to young children in their family during the month of June.

Fathers Reading Every Day, otherwise known as FRED, is conducted locally by the Texas Cooperative Extension — Bailey County and Muleshoe Public Library.

Packets explaining the program are available at the library.

To participate, men need to fill out a registration form, record the number of books read and the amount of time spent reading to the child during June, attend the end-of-program party with the child, and turn in the reading log and fill out an exit form.

Muleshoe's end-of-program party is scheduled for 11 a.m. June 30 at the library.

Experience has shown that children who are read to regularly tend to be superior readers and do better in school.

The library's regular summer reading program resumes this month, with activities for children ages 2 to 6 set for 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 each Saturday. Elementary-school students are invited from 1 p.m. to 1:45 p.m. Saturdays.

More information about FRED is available by calling Gail Gladden at 272-4583.

Supplement available for lambs

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

Kim Hanlin, Bailey County executive director for the Farm Service Agency, has announced that the deadline to sign up for year three of the Ewe Lamb Incentive Program is Aug. 15.

This is a four-year supplemental program to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Lamb Meat Adjustment Assistance Program.

Eligibility requires the sheepowner to certify that each ewe lamb is no older than 18 months, has not produced an offspring, and does not possess characteristics of parrot mouth, foot rot or scrapie.

Applicants may be asked to substantiate eligibility through flock records.

Legislation provides that a supplement of $18 per ewe lamb be paid to approved applicants.

More information is available by calling 272-4538.

Three Way's final class 'saves the best for last'

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

With a motto of "Save the Best for Last," members of the last graduating class of Three Way High School showed grit and aplomb in their final performance at the school.

After the invocation by Chase Cannon and welcome by Robert Rodríguez, Kara Heinrich gave the class history. Anthony Furgeson delivered the salutatory address, Jordan Gray delivered the valedictory address and Joal Armendariz led the audience in singing the school song.

"You are like a mother to us," Heinrich told Mary Furgeson in a moving tribute to their class sponsor, who also was their kindergarten teacher.

Heinrich also thanked Bob and Paula Foley, who arranged for each graduate to receive a flag that has flown over the nation's Capitol.

Furgeson thanked the school board for bringing interactive television to the school

Seniors honor young snakebite victim at commencement

An unplanned tribute was quickly staged when the graduates saw Kyle Drew at the back of the auditorium. Kyle is the Three Way fourth-grader who recently missed his class trip to San Antonio and Austin because of a rattlesnake bite.

With signals and lip-reading to Mary Furgeson, and whispers to Superintendent Thomas Alvis, the surprise was announced.

As Anthony Furgeson took the microphone,

Gray left the stage, rushed to the back and pushed Kyle's wheelchair to the front of the auditorium as the crowd applauded.

Furgeson called Kyle the "latest hero in our midst" and wished him a speedy recovery.

so the graduates were able to complete college credit in high school.

Some of the graduates will begin college with as many as 19 hours.

"Even though the school is closing," Furgeson said, "it will live on in our hearts forever. There is no sadness tonight — only hope for the future."

Reminding everyone that the graduates would be taking a trip to Hawaiian Islands, Jordan Gray began his valedictory address with "Aloha ... just practicing."

He brought laughter from parents and students alike when he passed on to his classmates the advice that Gov. Rick Perry recently gave to Texas Tech graduates. The governor said his father gave him the same advice numerous times: "Go out and get a job!"

Gray thanked the community for making it worthwhile living 45 miles from anywhere.

Boys' basketball camp scheduled

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal sportswriter

Muleshoe boys' basketball coach Ralph Mason has scheduled June 10-14 camps for boys entering the third through ninth grades.

Third-, fourth-, fifth- and sixth-grade campers will meet from 1 to 4 in the afternoon in the Watson Junior High Gymnasium.

Boys going into the seventh, eighth and ninth grades will meet from 9 to noon. A $50 registration fee is due by the first day of camp.

Each camper will receive a T-shirt and the opportunity to compete for awards in contests and other areas.

Younger campers will focus on the fundamentals of passing, dribbling, shooting, rebounding, ball handling and defense.

Older campers will focus on preparation for the upcoming season. They will be introduced to practice drills for the offenses and defenses used in the Muleshoe program.

Registration forms may be obtained by calling 272-5840 (home) or 272-7308 (work), by fax at 272-7574 or by e-mailing him at rmason@muleshoeisd.net.

Forms will be accepted through the first day of camp, but early registration aids in planning and the scheduling of workers.

"You do not have to have natural talent to be a great player," Mason said.

"A player must have three things. He must be committed to put in the time necessary to develop good form, good technique and have the desire to be the best. We try to instill these in each of our campers," he said.

walked into his first class at Muleshoe, he knew they were different from students at his last school.

"The students came into the room and sat down," he said. "You could have heard the Sprint pin drop."

Salutatorian Kayla Glover said she had been told that the key to making speeches lies not in the scholarly remarks or other rehearsed aspects of the event — "it's that you share yourself with the audience."

That she did, with a heartfelt delivery that even included "I'm sorry" to those who have viewed the videotape of her recent antics under hypnosis at the senior prom.

Valedictorian Ricardo Aburto challenged his classmates not to be defeated by adversaries of their own making.

Saying they have lived "semi-isolated" lives up to now but are about to step out into the real world, he told them to realize their potential and not follow the herd, but also to call on God for help before crises strike.

Someone turns out to be very different from what you first imagined, Taurus. It's better if you keep your guard up. Don't let a wrong decision turn into a costly mistake.

- CHILI VERDE
- 8 oz. dry pinto beans (1 1/4 cups)
- 1 lb. boneless, skinless chicken breasts (2 cups cooked)
- 1 4-oz. can chopped green chilies
- 1 tsp. ground cumin
- 3/4 tsp. dried oregano leaves
- 1/8 tsp. ground cloves
- 3 cups water
- 3 chicken bouillon cubes
- 1 tsp. minced garlic (1 clove)
- 1 tsp. salt
- 2/3 cup finely chopped onion
- 1 cup grated low-fat Monterey Jack cheese
- 1 dozen flour tortillas
- 1 jar (11 1/2 oz.) salsa
- Rinse the pinto beans, soak them in cold water overnight, and drain them.

Cut the chicken into 1-inch cubes; cook in a small amount of water until no longer pink. Combine the beans, water, bouillon cubes, garlic, salt and onion in a large pot; bring to a boil. Reduce the heat and simmer until beans are soft — about an hour. Add more water if necessary. Combine the chicken and spices with beans; simmer 30 minutes more, stirring occasionally. Top chili with salsa and grated cheese (if desired); serve with warmed flour tortillas. Makes 5 servings

Link between hormones and attacks studied

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

HOUSTON — A new study at Baylor College of Medicine is investigating whether hormone replacement therapy may cause heart attack-inducing blood clots.

"Millions of women are currently taking hormone replacement therapy, and there still are good reasons to use HRT," said Dr. Paul Bray, a professor of medicine at Baylor and director of Baylor's Thrombosis Center, launched in 2000. "By combining our knowledge of genetic risk factors for heart attack and stroke and how sex hormones affect the risk for blood clotting, we hope to learn whether it is the right option for every woman."

Bray's research team is collaborating with The Methodist Hospital gynecologists Dr. Ronald Young, director of the division of gynecology at Baylor, and Dr. Lynn Hoffman who practices at Methodist, to recruit 120 postmenopausal women into the three-month study.

Blood samples of participants will be analyzed before and after women initiate the therapy, which combats the symptoms of menopause resulting from decreased estrogen production.

The therapy can be given as either estrogen alone or in combination with progesterone. Premarin, the brand name for estrogen, and Prempro, which contains estrogen plus progesterone, are commonly used forms of the therapy.

The 1998 Heart and Estrogen/Progestin Replacement Study found that women in first year of the study had 53 percent more heart attacks than study participants who were not using the therapy. The increased risk fell over the following years of the study.

"What was surprising about the HERS study was that women taking HRT were at greater risk of heart attacks, even though HRT lowered their cholesterol," Bray said. "When we learned that the women taking HRT also had an increased risk of developing blood clots in their veins, we wondered if the missing link might be thrombosis," Bray said.

Like high cholesterol, thrombosis, the medical term for blood clotting, plays a central role in developing heart attacks and strokes.

A heart attack occurs when a clot forms where cholesterol plaque breaks away from the wall of an artery in the heart. The clot and plaque block the artery and prevent blood flow to the heart, which can cause death or, if the patient survives, scarring and weakening of the heart muscle.

While at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in Baltimore, Bray discovered the first inherited defect in blood platelets that causes thrombosis and is a risk factor for heart attacks and stroke.

His group had shown that platelets from women are "stickier" than platelets from men, suggesting that sex hormones might play a role in those clots that cause heart attacks and strokes.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE LAST OF THE JUDGES OF ISRAEL!

SAMUEL WAS THE LAST OF THE PROPHETS TO JUDGE ISRAEL. HE WAS ALSO THE EARLIEST OF THE GREAT HEBREW PROPHETS AFTER MOSES. HIS FATHER, ELKANAH, WAS A LEVITE, FAMILY OF KOHATH, WHO DWELLED IN THE HILL COUNTRY OF EPHRAIM BECAUSE THE FAMILY OF KOHATH HAD BEEN ASSIGNED RESIDENCE IN THAT TRIBE BY JOSHUA (JOSH. 21:5). ELKANAH LIVED IN RAMAH AND HAD TWO WIVES, BUT THE WIFE THAT HE LOVED, HANNAH, HAD NO SON AND SO SHE PRAYED EARNESTLY TO GOD THAT SHE MIGHT BEAR A SON, VOWING THAT IF THIS SHOULD HAPPEN, THE INFANT'S LIFE WOULD BE DEDICATED TO THE SERVICE OF GOD! TRUE TO HER VOW, WHEN THE INFANT SAMUEL WAS WEANED, HANNAH BROUGHT HIM TO THE TABERNACLE AT SHILO AND LEFT HIM IN THE CHARGE OF THE HIGH PRIEST ELI, THAT HE MIGHT BE TRAINED FOR HIS SACRED DUTIES. FROM THAT TIME ON, SAMUEL LIVED AT THE TABERNACLE, ASSISTING THE HIGH PRIEST IN HIS DUTIES -- BY THE TIME SAMUEL WAS TWELVE, HE WAS ACCOMPLISHED IN ALL HIS DUTIES AND IT WAS AT ABOUT THAT AGE HE BEGAN HEARING THE VOICE OF GOD AT NIGHT SO THAT HE COULD TELL ALL THINGS TO ELI THAT GOD SPOKE UNTO SAMUEL (1 SAM. 1-3).

So Tonight, Son, You Walk Across the Stage . . .

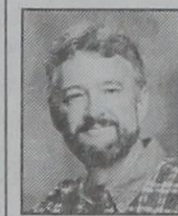

So, son, tonight you'll be walking across the stage and I'll be the board member—and most of all, the proud dad—handing to you a high school diploma. It's yours! You earned it. No surprise there. You've been blessed with the ability to do and be anything in the world you want to do and be. I just can't believe that it's already time for you to be a high school graduate. But it is, and at this moment you're practicing graduation with your

I might say that from the moment you were born, I have never seen a child, more full of life. From the blond wavy hair of your head all the way down to your toes, life simply oozes out of your pores! You never seem to stop or slow down or wear out, you're so busy just living life. And you're one of the very finest blessings of mine.

I might say that I have rarely ever seen a child, especially one who laughs so much and so easily, so serious about doing a task just right. For most of your life you've averaged at least a question a minute to parents and coaches and teachers, sometimes almost overwhelming them because you're so eager to do the job right. I'm very proud of all you've done in school. You've sung and medaled in State Solo contests, you've won the right to play football with your brother and your team in Texas Stadium. You know I would be button-busting proud of you in whatever areas you might excel, but this year on and off the field I watched you step up to become just the kind of leader who along with others also deeply committed provided just what was needed. No pain of injury was worse to you than the pain during a game or two when you were sidelined. But even then I proudly watched you lead.

You'll always have my love, Stephan. No matter what. But you've also earned my deep respect. Yes, I love you. You're easy to love. But have I also told you how much I like you? I love to talk to you, sing with you, and just be with you. I can't imagine a dad more blessed. You're a wonderful gift from the best Father of all.

class, and I'm sitting here trying to think what to write.

I've been putting this off, you see. I knew I wanted to write something for you, and I've been thinking about it for weeks, so yesterday, in full procrastination mode, I sat down to write . . . No, I didn't.

Instead, I got the lawn ready for your graduation. Your mom's pretty sure that your diploma will be confiscated if the house and yard aren't as nearly perfect as they can get before you walk the stage. I knew I needed to sit down and write this yesterday, but I spent a full day mowing and mulching and watering and weeding, putting this off. Not an hour passed, and not many steps behind the mower, that I wasn't thinking about what I might say to you right here, right now. I'm not sure about the house and the yard, but I am sure that I want this to be right. So what should I write?
