Strong quakes strike China

TOKYO (AP) — A strong new earth tremor jolted northeastern China today after the world's most powerful quake in 12 years, striking before dawn, inflicted heavy damage on the coastal metropolis of Tientsin.

Reports on casualties were sketchy. The two major quakes, registering 8.2 and 7.9 on the Richter scale, also shook the capital of Peking. The first reportedly damaged at least several large buildings there.

Former Australian Prime Minister Gough Whitlam, visiting Tientsin, said he was told after the first shock that there were "not many" deaths, the Italian news agency ANSA reported.

The Canadian ambassador to Peking, C.J. Small, told Canadian Press by telephone that the quakes were a "great tragedy" and that the Chinese people had not yet been told the full extent of the damage.

There was no immediate official word from the Chinese on casualties or damage.

The second shock was recorded at 6:50 p.m. Peking time (6:50 a.m. EDT), about 14 hours after the predawn quake.

Both were capable of massive, widespread damage. By comparison, the Feb. 4 quake that struck Guatemala, killing 23,000 persons, registered 7.5 on the Richter scale.

"It is something certainly very serious," ANSA quoted Whitlam as saying. The Australian, visiting China with his wife, said he saw buildings collapse and "fold down like accordions" in Tientsin, a city of four million people.

The Japan Broadcasting Corp. quoted the Japanese embassy in Peking as saying one Japanese employee was reported killed and six persons injured in the first quake at a Japanese manufacturing plant in Tangshan, an industrial area near Tientsin.

The Chinese did not issue any immediate official reports on casualties. ANSA quoted Chinese authorities as saying the quake struck without warning. The Chinese recently had been able to predict some earthquakes.

The Chinese foreign ministry told the Australian embassy the epicenter of the first quake was about 90 miles east-southeast of Peking and 40 miles north of Tientsin, the capital of Hopeh province.

Among the badly damaged buildings in Peking were the Hsin Hsiao Hotel, the old wing of the Peking Hotel, buildings in the embassies quarter, a wing of the railway station and a large department store in the center of the city, ANSA reported.

QUAKE AID — Peking residents gather in front of an emergency first aid station put up on Hsi Dan Street in downtown Peking Wednesday soon after a strong earthquake jolted the Chinese capital and northeastern part of the country. Heavy damage and casualties were reported.

Connally endorses President

Ford lashes back

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is aiming a two-pronged attack at Ronald Reagan's conservative Southern supporters, hoping to snare GOP delegates disenchanted with Reagan's choice of a liberal northeastern senator as a running mate.

Reagan leaders in Mississippi said Tuesday they feared the Ford strategy might succeed in their state. And Ford backers were gleefully suggesting there could be dramatic changes almost at once.

Doug Shanks, Ford's Mississippi chairman, said there have been switches from Reagan to Ford, suggesting there are enough to move the delegation behind Ford. "We picked up more people... and Wednesday there will be announcements of enough to do it," he said.

White House officials also indicated they expected an announcement today about the Mississippi delegation.

If Ford captures the state's 30 uncommitted votes, he would be within five delegates of the 1,130 he needs for the nomination at the Kansas City convention next month.

Reagan's selection of Sen. Richard Schweiker for vice president did shake a bare handful of Pennsylvania delegates — previously counted as Ford backers — into the uncommitted ranks.

But those switches were partially offset by an uncommitted South Carolina delegate coming out for Ford and one Reagan delegate from Colorado saying he is now uncommitted.

Ford now has 1,095 delegates legally bound and publicly committed to him, while Reagan has 1,024, the continuing Associated Press delegate survey shows. The remaining 141 are uncommitted.

The first thrust of Ford's counterattack was endorsement by former Texas Gov. John Connally, long a favorite of many Reagan supporters.

"I think it's quite clear between the two men that the President is unmistakably the better choice, not only for the party but for the country," Connally said.

Connally, a former Nixon administration official, was the first choice for vice president of Reagan delegates expressing an opinion, the AP delegate survey found.

Ford's second line of attack is a visit to Mississippi on Friday. Ford Press Secretary Ron Nessen said that, as far as he knew, the trip had no relation to the effect of the Schweiker decision.

The Mississippi delegation has been considered a Reagan stronghold, but the week's events may have shattered that solidarity, Reagan backers said.

As Republicans continued their battle to decide on a nominee, the Democratic ticket spent the day in briefings on economic issues.

Jimmy Carter and Sen. Walter Mondale talked in Plains, Ga., with a busload of experts about the nation's economic prospects.

Ford, appearing with Connally outside the White House, did not publicly change his stance on Connally as a possible running mate. "The future will speak for itself," Ford said. "I don't exclude any potential Republicans."

'One small scoop for mankind...'

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Viking 1 robot arm scooped up a handful of Martian soil today and placed it in a tiny biological lab to test for signs of life.

Both pictures and electrical signals from the spacecraft confirmed that the search-for-life experiment was working normally.

A photograph first showed the scoop dug into the Martian soil. But scientists had to wait two hours for the radio signal that the scoop had succeeded in placing the dirt into the biology lab where it is to be tested for signs of life.

"Tears came to my eyes," said chief scientist Gerald Sofer after hearing that the dirt was in the lab.

It will be several weeks before the experiments provide any answers about life on Mars.

The landing of Viking on Mars a week ago was a milestone in itself, but the pouring of dirt into the miniature "rooms" of Viking's laboratory has even greater import. It marks the first time science has reached into another planet's crust to look for life.

Although no movie cameras were aboard Viking to record the historic sample digging, a film of a duplicate lander at Jet Propulsion Laboratory carrying out the process showed how it is done.

The telescoping arm snakes out of a gold-painted housing on the side of Viking. The arm is a tube about an inch and a half in diameter, tipped with a sharp-edged tool for digging.

Touching the red-venetian soil, the scoop plows beneath the surface, pressing with a 30-pound force if necessary. Quickly, a cover snaps shut over the handful-sized dirt sample.

With another whirring noise, the arm retracts and swivels to position the little shovel — called the collector head — over a silvery funnel leading to the biology lab inside Viking.

A rapid shaking of the collector head sifts the dirt through small holes into the funnel. About a teaspoon full of dirt is needed for the biology experiment. A sensor inside says whether the right amount is there, and if not, the arm is ordered to dig again until sufficient dirt is obtained.

Two other experiments also need Martian dirt, and the mechanical arm repeats the digging until they, too, are satisfied. Those experiments are also located under funnels on top of the lander. One experiment uses an instrument called a gas chromatograph mass spectrometer to search the soil for organic compounds.

If these carbon-based compounds are present in the soil, it could mean that life once existed on Mars but no longer does. However, similar compounds are known to be created by nonbiological processes in some cases, which means that the experiment will require a great deal of interpretation before any conclusion about life can be made.

The other experiment is an inorganic analysis of the soil by an instrument called an X-ray fluorescence spectrometer. It can detect most of the known elements in the solar system, and should be of great help in determining what the Martian crust is made of.

Muleshoe woman gets life for kidnaping infant

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — A 30-year-old Muleshoe, Tex., woman who was convicted of kidnaping an Albuquerque infant earlier this year was sentenced to life imprisonment.

U.S. District Court Judge Howard Bratton handed down a preliminary life sentence at the conclusion of the trial, but said it could be changed after a 90-day psychiatric evaluation of the woman, Eileen Lowe.

At Monday's sentencing, however, Bratton told her he saw no cause to change the sentence.

He recommended she be imprisoned at Terminal Island, Calif.

Public defender William Deaton, who said he was surprised at the severity of the sentence, said he would file an appeal.

Mrs. Lowe left the courtroom supported by a deputy U.S. marshal and a marshal's service matron and repeating, "Dear God, dear God."

She was convicted of abducting the week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Norris from their home in January.

Pressure led to firing

Ex-Big Spring TESCO exec linked to slush fund

A former Big Spring division manager for Texas Electric Service Company, Don Womack, has been accused of using pressure he helped apply to a former employee which led to the firing in 1974 of J. T. Carter in Eastland County.

Carter said that TESCO terminated his employment as the Eastland division manager for the firm after he (Carter) refused to contribute to a political slush fund set up by company officials.

Carter has asked 17th District Court Judge Charles Murray in Fort Worth to question three TESCO officials, including president W. C. Marquardt. Judge Murray has set a hearing on the matter Aug. 5.

Womack, now a lobbyist for TESCO assigned to Washington, and Frank Sayer, head of the firm's Eastland division, may be questioned in connection with the case which would determine whether TESCO or the individuals should be sued.

DON WOMACK

TESCO attorneys have filed papers with the judge denying Carter's allegations and have countered by asking permission to question Carter.

Carter has alleged that Womack, then based in Fort Worth, called a meeting in May, 1973, of division managers and other high ranking TESCO officials wherein he outlined a plan for them to contribute two percent of their salary to a political slush fund.

The money was paid in cash to Marquardt, the suit alleges. It was also stated the company's mail system rather than the U.S. Postal Service was used to transfer the communications.

Through his attorney, H. J. Loe, Carter said that Womack told the meeting the company felt the fund was necessary to "influence politicians at different levels in the state including, in particular, members of the state legislature."

"Because he was reasonably in fear of losing his job if he refused to participate in the plan, Carter did participate, following instructions explicitly," Loe said, in the court paper.

Loe also is alleging that in January, 1974, Carter became dissatisfied and started resenting the "coercion and pressure applied," and decided that "the practice was illegal and possibly dangerous to him."

The paper said Carter ceased participating in the plan and, as a result, was dismissed by Sayer Aug. 22, 1974.

To bolster his claim, Carter noted to Judge Murray that TESCO actively saw to it that he was accepted and worked with five Eastland business and civic organizations, with the company reimbursing him for membership fees.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Baseball woes

Q. Why don't we get Texas Ranger baseball games telecast on our cable like area cities?

A. A spokesman for KWAB-KMOM TV in Monahans, the Texas Ranger Network station for this market area, says that the problem is technical. In order for it to carry the game, its sister station in Lubbock, KLBK TV must carry it too, since KWAB-KMOM picks it up from KLBK. For some reason, KLBK doesn't carry many games.

The Texas Ranger Network telecasts two and sometimes three games a week when the Rangers are on road trips and stations in the San Angelo and Abilene market areas usually carry each game. However, none of these stations are carried on the local cable.

One television station in Dallas carries all the Ranger Network telecasts, and even though the local cable TV service carries four Dallas-Fort Worth stations, that station is not among them.

Calendar: Junior rodeo starts

THURSDAY

The Howard County Junior Rodeo will start at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Rodeo Bowl.

The Howard County Library will screen three free films from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday. To be shown are "Solo," depicting the beauty and excitement of mountain climbing, "Chicks and Chickens," life on a chicken farm, and "Ben and Me," the story of Ben Franklin and a mouse.

Offbeat: 26-cent celebration

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — An 85-year-old Austin woman has sent the Post Office 26 cents to get rid of a guilty conscience.

"Recently, I received two letters with canceled stamps," the unidentified woman wrote in a note to the North Austin station. "I used those stamps."

"I had always prided myself on my being honest, so I began to have a guilty conscience. Therefore, I'm sending Uncle Sam 26 cents, the price of the two stamps I used."

"Now I can celebrate the Bicentennial with a clear conscience and also as an honest Christian."

Best bet on TV: Olympics or movie

The Olympics are still on for those interested, but another good bet is an NBC News Special at 9 o'clock, "The Class of '76," an NBC news documentary comparing the graduating class of 1953 and 1976 in the same Northern California high school, showing how graduates differ in terms of their values, goals, perceptions, beliefs and behavior.

Harris block Patty's testimony

LOS ANGELES (AP) — William and Emily Harris, by resting their case without calling a witness, have blocked their former underground companion, Patricia Hearst, from testifying against them.

The move was the second major surprise of Tuesday's court session, and it means the Harris' fate will probably be placed in the hands of jurors by the end of the week.

The Harris' lawyer denied that the move was intended to block Miss Hearst's testimony, but that was its effect nevertheless.

The day's first big surprise was a prosecution announcement that Miss Hearst would turn state's evidence against her former fugitive traveling companions. She is a codefendant with them on kidnapping, robbery and assault charges, but will be tried separately.

The prosecutor said Miss Hearst, already convicted in a San Francisco bank robbery case, had offered to testify without immunity and that he planned to call her as a rebuttal witness.

But minutes after the prosecution rested, Harris rose to tell the jury, "In light of the state of the prosecution case and in light of the court's rulings, I will present no opening statement and I rest my case."

"Like Bill, I do the same," Mrs. Harris said. "I rest my case."

Frescoes found

PRAGUE (AP) — A unique group of early 14th century frescoes has been discovered in a remote central Czechoslovakian village.

The frescoes were uncovered in a 13th century church as workmen were installing electricity there. Experts describe them as "a unique medieval memorial of outstanding artistic value."

Kozhlohy, the village where the works of art were found, is so small it does not appear on most maps.

LENNON WINS FIGHT TO STAY — Former Beatle John Lennon and his wife Yoko Ono arrive at Immigration District Court in New York, Tuesday to hear that Lennon can remain in the United States after a four-year court battle. The judge awarded Lennon permanent resident status.

Levi to decide CIA penalty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi must decide whether CIA agents can escape criminal charges for opening mail simply because U.S. presidents knew about the illegal operation.

Levi is weighing the question presented in recommendations from the Justice Department's criminal division, department sources said Tuesday. Criminal division officials recommended against prosecuting CIA employees involved in the 20-year practice of opening mail from the United States to Communist countries, the sources said.

Earlier investigations disclosed that CIA agents opened and read nearly 250,000 letters flowing through postal facilities in New York City, San Francisco and elsewhere between 1953 and 1973.

Department investigators recommended against prosecution largely because of evidence that several presidents during the 20-year period knew about the operation, the sources said.

They declined to elaborate on how much each of the presidents involved may have known. The period covers the administrations of Dwight Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson and Richard M. Nixon.

"The theory is that if a president knows about certain undertakings and takes no steps to countermand them, he is impliedly authorizing them," said one official familiar with the investigation. Federal law makes it a crime to tamper with the mail.

This official said, however, that statutes and court decisions have not settled whether in some circumstances a president may be justified in authorizing otherwise illegal acts.

"What acts may a president take in defense of the national security? That's the $64 question," he remarked.

The CIA case presents another tough question on the issue of whether an agent may be prosecuted for carrying out orders from his bosses, this official said.

"In this case, you've got no president to prosecute. They're either dead or pardoned," he added, referring to President Ford's unconditional pardon of Nixon for all acts during the Nixon presidency.

Battle of rats and wits waged

DALLAS (AP) — Some city council members here have until Monday to reconsider a tenant rat and vermin control ordinance or more than 100 rats will be released in their neighborhood, says the coordinator for a Dallas tenant group.

Charlie Young has set the deadline for what he calls his "rat relocation program" to protest a section of the Urban Rehabilitation Standards Ordinance.

The section places more of the responsibility on tenants in controlling rats and vermin. Previously, owners of rental property were the only ones responsible for extermination of rats and vermin.

Young reiterated his threats after council passed an ordinance prohibiting possession or release of a live rat.

Young, who says his group represents about 2,000 low-income East Dallas residents, said Tuesday there was hope for a settlement. He made the comment after a discussion of the dispute with City Attorney Alex Bickley.

"I believe there are some people on the council that are willing to talk in good faith with us, just as there are some that aren't," Young said. "So when it comes to talking, they'd better send the ones that are willing."

The rat plan was first unveiled June 9, the date the ordinance was adopted. Nothing further was heard until Sunday, when the tenants circulated about 1,000 copies of a pamphlet setting Aug. 1 as the date the program will begin.

The anti-rat ordinance carries a $200 fine. Exemptions are provided for persons who possess rats for scientific experimentation or who keep them for pets.

Young said he could claim the pet exemption. "I've got one which lets me hold him in my hand. You'd call that a pet, wouldn't you?"

Mars is not like the Southwest

I am most impressed with the accomplishments of the Viking mission to Mars.

I delight in America's success after Russia sent four spots that only littered the landscape.

I am overwhelmed by the photographs of the surface of Mars and the many other significant discoveries.

THE ONLY thing I don't like is Mars being compared to "the Southwest." Seems like every story on the Martian terrain has made mention of its likeness to the "Southwestern" part of the U.S.

My impressions of those pictures is that Mars has a long way to go before it can evolve as nice or as beautiful as this nation's Great Southwest.

Granted, the rocks and sand may have a red tint to them, much like the red clay and dirt we often find in this part of the country.

But that's where the comparison ends. Any West Texas rancher could look at those Mars pictures and tell that you couldn't run one cow on 10,000 square miles of the planet. We can do a lot better than that here.

Just from looking at Mars, I've got a feeling that we don't even know the meaning of the word sandstorm, and our temperature manages to stay well above the 122 below range.

A person walking across the Martian soil would get lonely for a mesquite bush, or even a prickly 100-year cactus.

THE MARTIAN landscape may already be more spoiled than that of the Southwest. We know it has debris from the Russian rockets, and the American scientists have spotted things they call a "Midas Muffler rock" and another piece that looks like it came off an auto called "the

Not only that, but there were those pictures which gave what now is called the illusion of graffiti. It really looked like the letter "B" and "G" which I certainly had not expected. I had expected "Yankee Go Home."

The Viking exploration of Mars has been a spectacular achievement for the U.S., but I just couldn't let it pass without taking issue on the comparison to the "Southwest."

Those folks back East have enough wrong ideas about us anyway without letting something like that go by unchallenged.

Pell's campaign

William F. Buckley, Jr.

The contest between Senator Claiborne Pell and the muses comes now to a head, and it repays concentrated thought to what is involved. The upcoming climax is scheduled for July 29. At that point, Senator Pell will use all the traditional prerogatives of a senator, and every inchoate prerogative of a senator, to block the relevant committee from voting to schedule hearings on the re-nomination of Ronald Berman as director of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

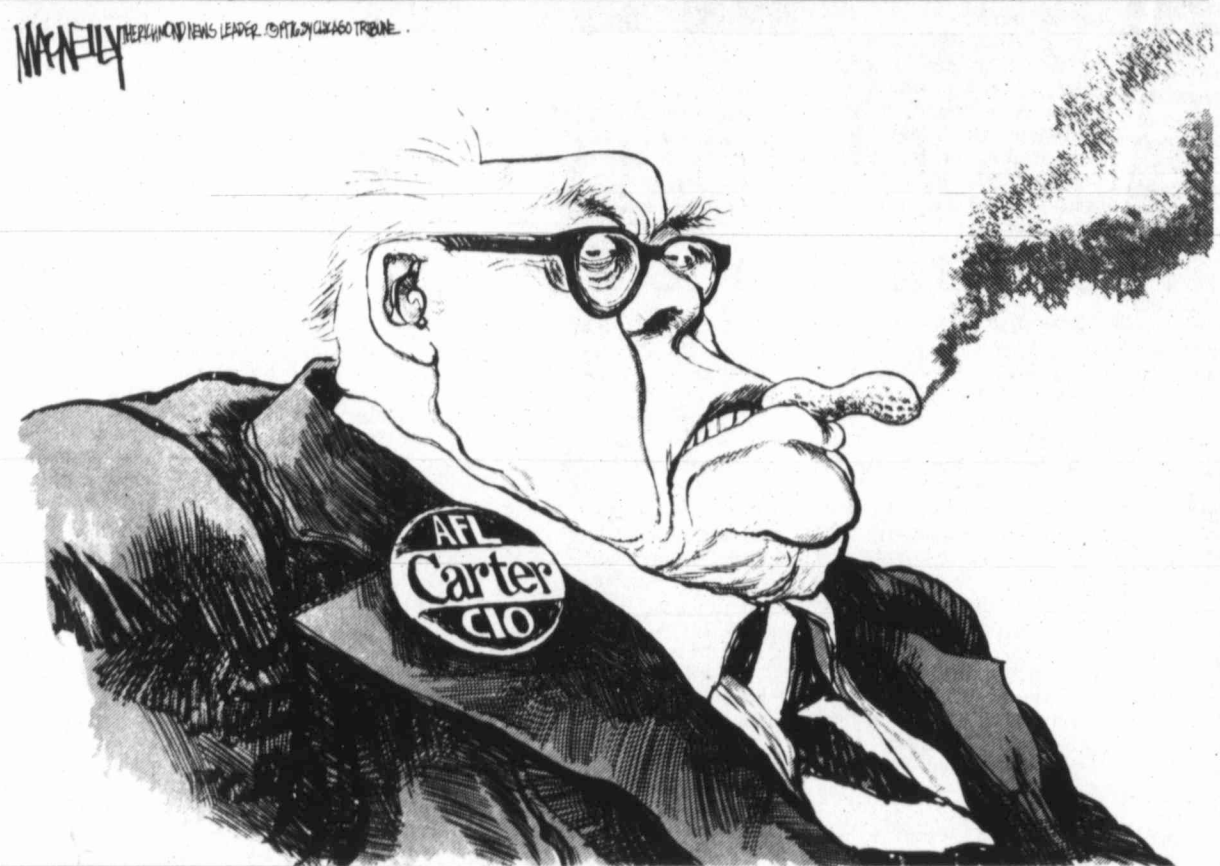

My own old-fashioned commitment to the private sector brings me to doubt the necessity of the NEH, which wasn't around to subsidize Mark Twain, the Golden Age of the Metropolitan Opera, or the proliferation of public libraries at the turn of the century. Still, if you are going to have 100-million-dollar programs to invigorate the humanities and the arts, there is one thing about which one has to be scrupulously concerned: No affirmative action for mediocrity. Paradoxically, it was Senator Pell who proposed the National Endowment programs in the first instance. It is he who is now trying to dismember the humanities program.

HOW? By suggesting that the money be disbursed, instead of by a central institute, by local arbiters elegantes. It is quite improper to suppose that Providence Rhode Island is without men and women greatly talented in their recognition of scholars and writers and artists. It is preposterous to assume that the same high standards that have governed Professor Ronald Berman would govern Senator Pell's satrap in Rhode Island.

Indeed, Senator Pell spoke excitedly (how else might one speak, and come up with a thought?) about making money available to garage mechanics to create sculpture in their off hours. I think it totally admirable that artisans should in their leisure hours write fiction, paint canvases, and fashion sculpture, or make music; and utterly unreasonable to subsidize these endeavors by federal tax money. Local tax money is itself unfruitfully disbursed for the subsidy of hobbies; the notion that federal money should go to such enterprises is a discouraging capitulation to parochial vainglory.

RONALD BERMAN is a Shakespeare scholar. He wrote perhaps the most perceptive book on the 60's. Politically he is a conservative. His fair-mindedness has however earned him the universal support of senators, scholars and poets with views sound and unsound. He has made mistakes, as anyone would spending that much money in a year. But his eclectic interests, his passion for excellence, his humane concern for both high scholarship and broadly appealing entertainment (the NEH put up the money for The Adams Chronicles) make him the ideal man to preside over a board composed of distinguished citizens. To dismember that operation by establishing 50 state cultural patronage centers is, simply, to throw away whatever merit lies in the plan in the first instance.

The Senate, whose liberal members always speak of the necessity to free themselves of the accretions of a history marked by the obstructive leverage of individual members, nevertheless is apparently undecided on whether to yield to Senator Pell. And this notwithstanding that the editor of the prestigious Journal-Bulletin of Providence, Mr. James Doyle, has written a searing indictment of the Pell Plan.

Blockage of tract is dangerous

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you explain what a "pyloric channel ulcer" is? I have had this for two years, and the pain from it makes me cry, it's so bad.

I am taking medication for it. I have heard that doctors operate on ulcers only when they bleed. Is this true? It bothers me a lot when I eat pork. I am 21 years old. — Mrs. E.D.

The pylorus is a narrow gateway between the stomach and the beginning of the small intestine. The word comes from the Greek words "pylo" (gate) and "ouros" (guard). Its function is to regulate the passage of partially-digested food at that point in the digestive tract.

The danger comes with obstruction or interference with the muscle that controls the opening and closing of the pyloric channel. A channel ulcer can accompany peptic ulcer (that which is in the stomach proper).

Conservative measures will often help the condition, and that is usually in order during early treatment. Should an obstruction occur, surgery would be necessary, because that is a serious matter. The ulcer does not have to be bleeding. Such surgery is quite successful in most cases.

The medicine you are taking (listed elsewhere in your letter) is to reduce the amount of acid in your stomach, a common cause of ulcers, either in the stomach or duodenum. Rich foods, as spices, would be more of a factor in your pain symptoms than would pork. But the general rule in an ulcer diet is to avoid anything that causes symptoms. So you'd best forego your pork.

You should report any symptoms or obstruction of this important structure. They would include vomiting of food from the previous meal and foul-smelling belches.

Your pain, which seems considerable, might indicate need for surgery.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My Pap test has gone from "Class I" to "Class II." My physician will do another smear in six months. Can the next smear go back to Class I, or will matters grow worse? Is there anything I can do? — Mrs. F. W.

The change can result from a mild infection or irritation of the cervix. "Class II" means the cells examined were not completely normal, yet showed no signs of cancer. The follow-up check is important because it will show any further change.

It can go back to Class I (normal) at the next examination. It's disconcerting, I know, but follow-ups are always prudent. Nothing further is required of you except to keep your appointment in six months.

Ford-Connally ticket?

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — When Edwin M. (Buz) Schwenk, the conservative Republican leader of New York's Suffolk County, slipped into the Oval Office July 13 with a careful 20-minute sales pitch for John B. Connally as Mr. Ford's running mate, the President's response cut to the heart of the Connally problem.

"How would they react to him in the North?" Mr. Ford asked.

SCHWENK'S REPLY: Connally was clearly the best possible vice-presidential candidate, North or South, from the standpoint of "bringing the Carter-Mondale ticket down to ground level" in a hard-hitting campaign. There was no disagreement from the President, and none from Rogers Morton, Ford campaign chairman, or Richard Cheney, White House staff chief, both of whom sat in on the Ford-Schwenk conversation.

Indeed, a consensus is developing among highly placed powers in the Republican party that Mr. Ford has now positioned Connally at or very near the top of his list of preferred running mates — if, as seems likely, he wins out over Ronald Reagan and Reagan does not want the second spot for himself.

Yet, except for an occasional maverick like Buz Schwenk, the Northeast and northern Midwest contain few visible Connally vice-presidential advocates, which was why Mr. Ford asked Schwenk his question about reaction in the North. Just five days later, for example, Market Opinion Research of Detroit (whose part-owner, Robert Teeter, is chief pollster of the President Ford Committee) showed Connally's apparent vulnerability in the President's home state of Michigan.

IN A SURVEY published by the Detroit News July 18, Market Opinion Research sampled 700 Michigan voters just before the Democratic convention and came up with these stunning findings: alone against Jimmy Carter, Mr. Ford squeaked out a close 3-point margin. With Reagan as his running mate against Jimmy Carter and an unnamed running, Ford-Reagan lost by 42 to 39 per cent (balance undecided).

But when matched with Connally against Carter-Blank, the Ford-Connally ticket lost by 44 to 34 per cent (22 per cent undecided) — powerful reinforcement for the President's concern over Connally's impact in the North.

Several compelling factors, however, are softening this impact in the White House and maintaining Connally's leverage as one of Mr.

Dr. Thosteson: welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Ford's top prospects for running mate.

In the first place, it is Vice President Nelson Rockefeller's opinion, specifically conveyed in private talks to the President, that New York state would be well beyond Mr. Ford's reach in November even if Rockefeller himself were on the ticket. What is true for New York is probably also true for most of the Northeast and northern Midwest, with the possible exception of the President's home state of Michigan.

That means the South, Southwest and West offer Mr. Ford his best and perhaps only opportunity, and it is in the South that Connally's star shines brightest. Pollster Louis Harris, for example, is finding Connally's popularity far broader and deeper in the South than any other potential Ford running mate, including Reagan.

FINALLY, THE ascendancy of Connally, despite his intimate ties to the Nixon administration, his 1973 conversion from Democrat to Republican and his 1975 acquittal of political bribery charges, rests on two pillars: Reaganite support and what one Republican strategist calls the lack of serious competition anywhere else.

White House aide William Seidman, a long-time Ford crony, has privately told friends that Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld is Mr. Ford's sentimental choice for a running mate. But Mr. Ford correctly worries that Rumsfeld might be rejected by a convention in which one-half the delegates will be Reaganites.

Other prospects seem insubstantial. Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, for example, has been privately downgraded inside the White House by Morton as a nice guy who would add nothing to the ticket. Anne Armstrong, the capable U.S. ambassador at the Court of St. James, is not taken seriously. More important, none of these would strengthen a Ford ticket in the South and Southwest as much as Connally, a fact that is moving Republicans as diverse as Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas and Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio into the Connally camp.

Accordingly, blessed by many Southerners and an occasional maverick in the North, Connally is maneuvering into the vice-presidential vacuum with the stealthy skill of a master politician for whom a political vacuum holds irresistible attraction. Despite Mr. Ford's concern about his standing in the North, and assuming Reagan's disinterest, Connally is now emerging as the frontrunner.

Some close calls

Around the rim

Carol Hart

I'm back again. This time I was really out of the newsroom, out of town, even out of the state.

I went with my family recently on a trip we have been planning for several years. Destination: Baltimore, Maryland. But we didn't stop there. We saw everything we could squeeze into two weeks. Although I saw a lot of things through the car windows as we were hurrying on to bigger things, I can never the less say that I saw them.

WE KEPT THE family camera clicking throughout the whole trip, and brought back 52 shots of us grinning with sites of Washington D.C., Gettysburg, Pa., and the Smoky Mountains behind us. I must admit that I made my sister take about five shots of me in various poses on the steps of the Library of Congress in Washington D.C. I was trying to catch a pose that Dustin Hoffman is standing in, in a picture that is on my wall. The shot of Hoffman is a publicity picture from the movie "All the President's Men."

I wanted to see the newspaper office of the Washington Post while in D.C. We never made it to the Post, the newspaper where authors of "All the President's Men," Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward, work. I guess I figured my natural newspaper instincts would lead me right to the Post, but we never found it. I was very disappointed when we had to leave Washington D.C. that afternoon without having time to look for the Post.

When I got back to Big Spring, an unidentified source who has been there said that I had been about one street over from the Post at one point.

THERE WEREN'T many disappointments on the trip. For everything we missed (and we didn't miss much) we found something equally interesting to spend our time viewing.

We did have a couple of close calls on the 4,000 mile trip. We arrived in Baltimore during rush hour, and we weren't sure which was the best route to our relatives home. We chose the worst way, which was straight downtown. We were surrounded by millions of cars skilled in maneuvering their way home no matter what the cost to other drivers. The engine suddenly got very hot, and we were trapped in the center lane of traffic. The meter dial was lodged on the far side of the H, which stands for hot and a few other words we were muttering at other drivers. My sister kept covering her eyes when a car would come too close or a city bus would aim straight for us. We made it, though.

So now, here we are, 4,000 miles wearier and full of interesting conversation. My friends seem to be staying away from the house, though. I guess 52 pictures of the grinning Harts don't sound too appealing to them right now.

Records scandal

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — American Telephone and Telegraph, the telephone colossus, has asserted the right to snoop into the personal records of its customers.

This startling claim was made in court testimony, which has been sealed. Company executives acknowledged behind closed doors that they had confiscated the long-distance records of a former employee.

"THEY WERE our records, and I wanted to see them," testified Chester Todd, the corporate official who sent for the records. The sealed testimony made clear that AT&T felt it also had proprietary rights to anyone else's telephone records. The company treated its erstwhile employee, according to the testimony, "like just any other customer."

This would seem to fly in the face of AT&T's proclaimed regulations, which specify that private phone records can be obtained only by court subpoena. Then the customer is supposed to be notified.

What AT&T proclaims in public and what it does in secret, however, don't necessarily coincide. This is apparent from the case of James Ashley, who was fired from his job as an assistant vice president for Southwestern Bell. After his abrupt departure, his telephone calls were inspected without subpoena and without notice.

AT&T, of course, pulls the corporate strings, which operate the vast Bell system. Ashley claimed he was fired by Bell for refusing to participate in its political corruption. He swore that he had been compelled to donate $50 per month to an illegal political slush fund.

Bell executives were also required, he said to make other regular cash contributions to the slush fund. Afterward, the executives recovered the money by submitting false vouchers, he charged.

Another Bell executive, T. O. Gravitt, allegedly was driven by his conscience to kill himself over the internal corruption. He left a suicide note charging that "Watergate is a gnat compared to the Bell system." Both Ashley and Gravitt's widow are now suing Southwestern Bell.

According to the sealed testimony, three company officials admitted that they had seized Ashley's long-distance records. "All the records were sent to me," testified Todd. "I finally sent them to the legal department."

IT WAS acknowledged that Southwestern Bell's lawyers could determine from the records whom Ashley had been calling — information that could be used to fight his lawsuit. But a company official swore that Ashley's records were confiscated merely to check on his telephone charges.

Footnote: A spokesman told us that AT&T feels Ashley's telephone records belonged to the company. He denied that the records were used to investigate Ashley.

WHITE HOUSE CHAOS — White House operations have been reduced to a state of controlled chaos, according to sources on the inside. The prevailing confusion can be blamed, in part, on the frantic effort to keep Gerald Ford in the White House.

But the problem has its roots, our sources suggest, in the transition days when President Ford's team took over from the Nixon guard. Ford "overreacted" to the rigid, highly structured Nixon methods.

In contrast, Ford's approach was loose, casual, easy going. At first, the new President directed the operation himself. It was part of his learning process. But now that he has a better grasp of the job, he leaves the routine decisions to the staff while he concentrates on the larger policy problems.

THIS HAS left the staff more on its own. The result, according to one insider, is that "a lot of people have been going around in different directions." The footloose presidential aides usually wind up attending conferences. "It seems like all we do is go to meetings," complained a White House aide.

the vehicle you were in couldn't go over 30 miles per hour.

I feel the blame lies both with the ambulance service as well as the people of Big Spring.

Dear Editor:
After reading the ridiculous tongue-in-cheek article Marj Carpenter wrote about the recent Cosden fire, I am burning! I have always enjoyed her column, but I won't waste any time anymore.

In my opinion the news media should not be allowed into the emergency room of a hospital, and they definitely should not be present at a blazing inferno interviewing men fighting a fire.

I don't know where Marj was at 1 a.m., 2 a.m., 3 a.m., 4 a.m., 5 a.m., and 6 a.m., but I hope that she wasn't blocking emergency vehicle traffic as she raced back and forth between Cosden and the hospital!

Editor's note: Mrs. Carpenter worked until 3:30 a.m., the morning after the fire, then arose at 6:30 p.m., in order to pursue what we all consider one of the most important series of stories of the year in the Big Spring area. We take pride in the efforts of Mrs. Carpenter and others who covered the story for The Herald.

Air force jet sets speed, altitude marks

MARYSVILLE, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. Air Force has set two world speed records and a world altitude record for horizontal flight at about three times the speed of sound.

One of the broken records was held by a Russian plane and the two others by American planes.

The two Lockheed long-nosed SR71 strategic reconnaissance jets used in the record flights on Tuesday also set speed and altitude records for aircraft of their class — twin-jet and land-based — as they covered sparsely populated areas of four western states.

On one run, a sonic boom rattled dishes in Las Vegas, Nev.

Takeoffs and landings were at Beale Air Force Base in Northern California, but the speed and altitude measurements were made from Edwards Air Force Base in southern California.

The National Aeronautic Association verified the measurements. But the records will remain unofficial until accredited by the Paris-based Federation Aeronautique Internationale (FAI).

The first record was 2,086-miles per hour over a 1,000-kilometer or 621-mile course with several turns over California, Nevada and Arizona. The pilot was Maj. Adolphus H. (Pat) Bledsoe Jr. of Fordyce, Ark. and the copilot was Maj. John T. Fuller of Buffalo, N.Y.

The previous record was set in October 1967 by a Soviet MIG25 Foxbat at 1,853 m.p.h.

The Air Force said Mach III, or three times the speed of sound, is about 2,000 m.p.h. at altitudes over 80,000 feet. That would be 3,100 feet per second, or faster than the 3,000-foot-per-second muzzle velocity of a .30.06-caliber rifle bullet.

The second record, for a single straight-line flight over a straight course of 15 to 25 kilometers, was 2,189 m.p.h. by Capt. Eldon W. "Al" Joersz of New Salem, N.D., and Maj. George T. Morgan of Brooklyn, N.Y.

That flight produced the sonic boom in Las Vegas. The plane circled over California, Nevada, Utah and Arizona. The fixed course was directly above Edwards Air Force Base.

The previous record was set in May 1965 at 2,070 m.p.h. by a prototype sister ship of the SR71, the YF12A.

The altitude record was set at 86,000 feet by Capt. Robert C. Helt of Columbus, Ind., and Maj. Larry A. Elliott of Pittsburgh, Pa. Their craft held the altitude over Edwards Air Force Base while flying at more than 2,000 m.p.h.

An Air Force spokesman said that at such an altitude, the plane would stall if it couldn't maintain at least that speed.

The previous record was 80,257 feet, also established in May 1965 by the same YF12A.

TYPE OF PLANE THAT SET RECORDS — This is the U.S. Air Force's SR71 strategic reconnaissance jet, the type of which set two world speed records and a world altitude mark for horizontal flight at about three times the speed of sound. The two SR71 jets used in the record flights on Tuesday also set speed and altitude marks for aircraft of their class — twin-jet and land-based — as they covered sparsely populated areas of four western states.

Once fastest flier spoke at Webb

A man who had previously flown faster than any other spoke to the graduation of Webb Air Force Base Class 76-10 Tuesday night.

But although Brig. Gen. Harold E. Confer, logistics deputy chief of staff for the Air Training Command, was there in person, but his spirit was flying with U.S. Air Force pilots in the SR-71 who were at that very moment breaking the world speed record of the Russians.

Gen. Confer was interested because for ten years he was assigned to the programs dealing with the world speed mark.

On Jan. 14, 1961, Gen. Confer flew a B-58 Hustler to three new world speed records on the 1,000 kilometer closed course at Edwards Air Force Base, California.

As Gen. Confer congratulated the Webb graduates of the fourth-to-last undergraduate pilot training program (American pilots) Tuesday, he was keeping in touch with the American efforts at the world speed marks. He continues to be an advisor to the program.

Col. Harry Spannaus, wing commander at Webb, described the general as a man who had contributed to Air Force history in pushing back the frontiers of flight.

Gen. Confer said that speed was not the problem in breaking the records set on the circular flying course.

Russian space spy satellite destroyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mysterious disintegration of an advanced Soviet reconnaissance satellite Sunday has temporarily limited Russia's ability to spy on the United States with cameras from space, U.S. intelligence sources say.

The Russians apparently are filling the intelligence gap for the time being with photo information from the two-man Soviet Salyut satellite, which the Soviet Union claims is a scientific research space vehicle, according to U.S. experts.

The destruction of the Russian Cosmos 844 came four days after the Russians reportedly sustained their third successive failure this year in testing a system for destroying enemy satellites in space.

Officials who monitor Soviet military space activity say that Cosmos 844 broke up three days after it was sent aloft into orbit from central Russia.

Cosmos 844 is a new type of reconnaissance satellite which U.S. intelligence specialists say is designed to remain in orbit at least 20 days, nearly twice as long as older-model Soviet spy vehicles.

The specialists reached this conclusion after studying several previous flights of the new type of satellite.

On Monday, a day after Cosmos 844 disintegrated, U.S. sources say a standard Soviet photo satellite dropped out of orbit after a normal 12 days in space.

Coupled with the loss of Cosmos 844, this left Russia without a full-scale photoreconnaissance vehicle in space.

However, U.S. experts say they are convinced the Salyut space station is carrying out a military mission with its cameras. They declined to discuss how they know this.

In any event, Russia is likely to send another photoreconnaissance satellite into orbit soon to resume detailed observations of the United States and other areas of interest to the Soviet Union.

Interstate gas raises to improve supply?

HOUSTON (AP) — The tripling of wellhead prices for new natural gas will help the interstate supply situation a little bit according to Texas producers.

Dawson, Mitchell wells completed

Coquina Oil Co. of Midland No. 6-X Holton has been completed as the fifth well in the Giun, North (8,000) Field of Dawson County, four miles west of Lamesa.

On 24-hour potential test, it pumped 233 barrels of 42-gravity oil, plus 62 barrels of water, through perforations opposite the Spraberry at 2,206-18 feet. The pay had been acidized with 2,000 gallons and fractured with 30,000 gallons.

Well-site is 3,140 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of Taylor County School Land Survey 1. Hole is bottomed at 8,270 feet and 5½-inch casing is set at 8,262 feet.

The order did not affect oil gas and producers said this means 90 per cent or more of the interstate sales will continue to be sold under existing contracts with prices ranging from 20 to 52 cents per thousand cubic feet.

An Exxon spokesman said Exxon "is encouraged that the FPC is beginning to recognize that new supplies of natural gas are and will continue to be extremely costly to find and produce."

The spokesman said Exxon was disappointed "with the reintroduction of the practice of setting prices to specific dates natural gas enters the market."

"We are also disappointed at the refusal of the commission to apply the new price to renewal contracts," the Exxon spokesman said.

Tripling gas price not enough for producers

The tripling of wellhead prices for new natural gas is not enough to satisfy Texas producers, independent operators, company executives or interstate pipeline — who all plead for price deregulation.

The Federal Power Commission (FPC) opened the way Tuesday for new gas to be sold on the interstate market at $1.01 to $1.42 per thousand cubic feet. The old ceiling was 52 cents per thousand cubic feet.

Michael T. Halbouty, former president of the 15,000-member American Association of Petroleum Geologists, capsulized opinions of several persons interviewed.

Halbouty said, "The higher prices will help get some more gas into interstate lines but we still are regulated and there will never be full impetus on wildcat explorations for new reserves until we have deregulation and permit the marketplace to determine prices."

Texas Comptroller Bob Bullock, however, saw some good news in the FPC decision, at least for Texans. Bullock said Tuesday the increase in prices could add $66 million to the state surplus projected for Aug. 31, 1977, and $165 million to the state revenues in a period ending Aug. 31, 1979.

Some producers admit that the price increase will help the interstate supply situation a little, but they say 90 per cent or more of the interstate sales will continue to be sold under existing contracts with prices ranging from 20 to 52 cents per thousand cubic feet.

Jack Blanton, president of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, which represents about 90 per cent of Texas producers, said the order is a step forward but not far enough.

W. R. Grace announces sales, earnings sag

NEW YORK — W.R. Grace & Co., the international chemical concern, has announced a decline in sales and earnings for the second quarter ended June 30, 1976 against the comparable period a year earlier.

The earnings decline was largely the result of two non-operational factors — a non-recurring profit from the sale of a majority interest in a French firm which took place in May, 1975 and the effect of a new accounting procedure mandated by the Financial Accounting Standards Board in the fourth quarter of 1975 relating to the translation of foreign currencies (FAS No. 8).

Second quarter sales and operating revenues amounted to $921,397,000, a decline of less than one per cent from the $926,647,000 for the second quarter of 1975, which included $85,926,000 from units subsequently divested. Net income was $44,360,000, compared with the restated $82,931,000 for the second quarter last year, which was an all-time record quarter.

However, after eliminating the $35,632,000 gain from the sale of a majority interest in the Paris-based Jacques Borel International and the effects of FAS No. 8, net income for the 1976 quarter increased by $3.7 million, or 8.4 per cent, to $47.7 million, from $44.0 million a year ago. Earnings per common and common equivalent share were $1.22 versus $2.57. Adjusting for the non-operational factors, earnings per share were $1.31 against $1.36, a decrease of 3.7 per cent.

For the first six months of the year, sales and operating revenues amounted to $1,716,393,000, a decrease of $68,995,000, or 3.9 per cent from the 1975 half year figure of $1,785,388,000, which included $182,092,000 in sales from businesses subsequently divested.

Grace's net income for the period was $72,988,000, or $2.01 per share, against the 1975 six month figure of $117,504,000, or $3.66 per share. Grace's 1976 first half earnings, after eliminating the distortion from FAS No. 8 and the effect of the non-recurring profit in 1975 were $75.4 million, or $2.08 per share, for the first half of 1976, versus $75.1 million, for $2.34 per share, earned in the comparable period last year.

Scotts demonstrate art, craft techniques

The July meeting of the Big Spring Art Association was at Kentwood Center with Mary Holloway (Signor) and Gerri Harry serving as hostesses. Activities discussed included the July 4th Bicentennial show at Comanche Park and the teas given to honor Mary Raley and Myrtle Lee. It was announced that the association now has 63 active members including about 20 new additions in the past two months.

Al Scott demonstrated to the group how to make paint brush carriers from bamboo place mats and how to make an outdoor easel and paint box from a folding lawn chair. Arlys Scott showed ideas for finishing and painting inexpensive picture frames to give them a custom-made look to better enhance small paintings.

Future association program plans include painting demonstrations by Vickie Clark of Seagraves on Sept. 21 and by Martha (Dalmar) Conway on Oct. 19. Hostesses for the August 17th meeting at Kentwood Center will be Joyce Sanford and Linda Ray.

Art events coming up in Big Spring are as follows:

J. D. Keel workshop, July 26-30 at the Cotton Patch; Dian Fleming art classes start Sept. 14th at Hobby Center; Warren Culler Workshop, Set. 17, 18, 19 at the Hobby Center; workshops with David Slade and Robert Gartland are also being considered for the fall.

The Big Spring Art Association will meet next August 17th. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Les Girls to invest in more XEROX stock

Fifteen members of the Les Girls Investment Club met in the VA Conference Room Monday evening, to review the Club's portfolio and consider analyses of growth companies presented by the Stock Study Committee, headed by Mary Joy Cowper.

Stock Selection Guides containing visual analysis of sales and earnings per share for a five-year period for Augat Inc., Great Lakes Chemical, El Paso Company, and GATX were reviewed by the members. While all of these stocks appear to be good investments, a decision was made to add to the Club's present holdings of XEROX shares while the stock is within the buy range, and Tommie Bryans, Treasurer-Agent, was instructed to buy 12 additional shares of stock in this company. President Edna Ames urged the members to watch the progress of the four companies discussed at the meeting during the coming month and keep them in mind for consideration at the next meeting.

Ruth Bennett gave a brief report on the expected growth of Tracor Inc. of Austin and suggested that the club study this stock. Also, interest was expressed in Microfilm Data Systems, an over-the-counter stock, and Pennsylvania Engineering, on the American Stock Exchange; and Standard & Poor's reports on these three companies will be requested from the stock broker.

The next meeting of the Club will be on Monday, August 16, at 8:00 p.m. in the VA Conference Room.

The best treatment is a new boarder

DEAR ABBY: Can you help me? I have a problem with my thoughts. Because we needed the income, my wife and I rented our spare room to a young woman. I never would have done it had I known how it would affect me.

This young lady has her own friends and regards me as an "old codger," but I must confess that I have been having some very impure and indecent thoughts about her.

Isn't there some medicine I can take to clear away unwanted thoughts? How about the tiny electric shocks they give rapists? (Like from two penlight batteries?) I hope you won't think I am an evil-minded old man. There must be other men past 75 with my problem. I might add, my wife cannot respond to me.

DEEP DOWN

DEAR DEEP: I admire your honesty and integrity. I consulted a psychiatrist about your problem, and he said that under similar circumstances, he might be proud and pleased to have such healthy masculine feelings at your age—which is nothing to be ashamed of.

But since this young woman's presence makes you feel guilty and ashamed, why not rent the room to another "old codger"?

The psychiatrist recommends that you forget about electric shock and says there is no medicine that will abolish sexual fantasies—short of a general anesthetic.

DEAR ABBY: What do you give a man who has everything?

I.M. SERIOUS

DEAR SERIOUS: If I were with the Internal Revenue Department, I'd give him an audit!

DEAR ABBY: I plan to be married soon. We both have grown children by previous marriages.

I have some property, savings, etc., that I want my children to have, and I do not wish any of it shared with the children of my spouse-to-be.

Assuming that I die first, how can this be accomplished and still allow my spouse the use of my assets during her lifetime?

Are prenuptial agreements legally binding? Or should another written document be prepared and notarized? Could my wishes as stated in a properly executed will be ignored? Sign me...

"IN LOVE AND IN DOUBT"

DEAR IN: Unless you want to add "IN TROUBLE" to your signature, I urge you to have all of your questions answered by your lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having a difference of opinion and need you to settle it.

If you sent out R.S.V.P. invitations for a party and several people did not respond one way or the other, would you assume they were coming—or were NOT coming?

SPLIT OPINIONS

DEAR SPLIT: I wouldn't prepare to entertain those who didn't respond. And the only assumption I would make is that they have very poor manners. (P.S. Some invitations request "regrets only," which seems to simplify matters.)

Stimulants given to over-active children facilitate learning

Improvement in visual perception, eye-hand coordination and in achievement have been reported in hyperactive children with minimal brain dysfunction (MBD) who are receiving central nervous system stimulants under careful supervision. The medication dosage is carefully controlled with intermittent testing of the child neurologically and psychologically. J. Gordon Millichap, MD, a Chicago pediatric neurologist reported at a recent medical symposium.

The physician said that he prescribes the medication

Summer fruit

Bartlett pears are the long-necked beauties whose smooth texture and sweet juiciness make them a summer favorite. They're at their peak of perfection for taste and flavor and good out-of-hand eating in August and September.

USDA's Crop Reporting Service forecasts a California Bartlett pear crop of 345,000 tons. Washington and Oregon crops, coming to harvest in mid-August, are anticipated to reach a total of 196,000 tons. The total for the three Pacific Coast states is expected to be 7 per cent higher than the utilized production of 1975 and 9 per cent above 1974.

With conservative contracting by canners, bountiful supplies of fresh Bartlett pears will be on the fresh fruit market throughout the summer and early fall.

only if the child has a learning problem associated with MBD. It may be withdrawn on weekends and on vacations in order to determine the need for continuing it. No evidences of drug addiction have been observed.

Dr. Millichap, who is Professor, Neurology and Pediatrics, Northwestern University, Medical School, Chicago, further advised that "no medication be given unless the child is also receiving remedial education, and the parents are being counselled as to the nature of the problem and how it should be dealt with at home and at school."

The symposium was sponsored by the Departments of Pediatrics, The University of Nebraska College of Medicine and Creighton University School of Medicine in Omaha; Boys Town Institute for Communication Disorders in Children; and CIBA Pharmaceutical Company, as part of its Postgraduate Education Series for physicians.

Race for national flower

Congress will make final decision

There are more candidates for the national flower than there are for President of the United States in an election under way.

There are 28 aspirants, with the marigold and the rose among leading contenders. The decision will be made by Congress.

Ballot boxes are in all 14,000 Florists' Transworld Delivery member shops. The results will be presented to Congress, just as FTD did after its first election in 1959, when no decision resulted.

Sens. Henry Jackson and Warren Magnuson, Democrats of Washington where the state flower is the rhododendron, favor the apple blossom for the national flower. That's the official bloom of Republican President Ford's home state of Michigan. Also backing the apple blossom is Rep. Mike McCormack, another Democrat from Washington.

The marigold has support in the House from Rep. Floyd Fithian, Republican of Indiana, where the peony is the state flower. Perhaps the strongest champion of the marigold is an Indiana woman, Charlotte Bass, who, at her own expense, has labored for years to focus public backing for the marigold. The State Legislatures of Indiana, Georgia and Illinois have endorsed the marigold and similar resolutions are before lawmakers of several other states.

Noting the competition from the rose, Mrs. Bass asks: "Is this age-old symbol of royalty a fitting emblem for the freedom-loving people of this democracy?"

She also reminds us that the marigold is native to the American continent and to nowhere else in the world. And she contends it is the friendship flower, symbolic of the desire of the United States for peace and friendship with all peoples of the world.

In the U.S. Senate the marigold is sponsored by Republican Howard Baker of Tennessee state flower iris, and Mike Mansfield, Democrat of Montana bitterroot. Baker explains his abandonment of the iris by saying his late father-in-law, Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, long favored the marigold.

Ridin' fence

Played the devil?

with Marj Carpenter

Mrs. Edwin (Alta) Bailey, who is approaching her 85th birthday, has spent more than a half century in Big Spring. And she lived in the house that later became the Fairview Grocery Store, featured last week in this column. In fact, one of her daughters was born in that house. It was on the land which belongs to Pauline Hamlin, and Mrs. Hamlin will be a topic of Ridin' Fence later in the summer.

Mrs. Bailey's husband, Ed, came to West Texas in the early 1900s and operated a freight line between San Angelo and Gomez, a small community on the New Mexico border.

He helped take a large number of families into far West Texas and Eastern New Mexico to homestead out there in the sandhills and prairie. This was one of the last areas homesteaded in America.

The Baileys met at an old time church meeting in East Texas and were married in 1916. Due to health reasons, they were advised by the doctor to go west. The Baileys and a man named John Smith and his family chartered a railroad train for their household goods and livestock and headed west.

Mrs. Bailey recalled to her children recently, "We pulled into Big Spring late one afternoon. Big Spring had three saloons, a mercantile store, a doctor's office, a bank, and a blacksmith shop. There were dirt streets and one of the good old West Texas sandstorms was blowing. I turned to Ed and said, 'It looks like we played the devil coming to West Texas.' Next day, it was so clear that I could see the whole world. Having come out of the Piney Woods in East Texas, it was quite an experience seeing the open plains for the first time."

The Baileys settled on a ranch north of town. They settled on the Dave Smith ranch where Ed and John Smith helped Dave run the ranch. Later Ed started farming for himself and raising horses. Many of his fine horses were sold to the Calvary for army horses.

The Baileys raised five children during the depression and dust bowl days. They remember hanging wet sheets over the doors and windows to keep the dust out in the sand-blowing years.

They also recall that they were happy years and that Mrs. Bailey dished out many a bowl of homemade ice cream to her own children, the children of the Alvie Chapmans' Fryars', Smiths' and Hildrids', who lived north of Big Spring.

Mrs. Bailey recently lost her oldest son and her husband has been dead 12 years. She is still a very active person and during the past two years has made nine crocheted bed spreads.

She can still read without her glasses and can still put up a pretty good argument. She is interested in politics and is definitely planning to vote in the Presidential election.

Mrs. Bailey firmly believes that Big Spring has the nicest people in the world and that it has a good future.

Two bodies discovered

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The identities of two badly decomposed bodies found in Newton County may be available early this week, state police say.

Three bodies were found July 20 in two caves along the Buffalo River and one was identified July 23 as that of Carolyn W. Malousek, 25, of Texarkana, Tex. Her dentist made positive identification, officers said. The bodies were found after authorities said they received a tip from an out-of-state informant.

State police said the case is considered a triple murder.

MONTREAL (AP) — It was no contest. If it had been a fight, they'd have stopped it.

Perhaps the most eagerly-awaited sports event in the past four years was a rout, a one-sided run-away, an anticlimax.

In fact, the United States' emotional, 95-74 basketball victory over Yugoslavia for the Olympic gold medal was assured so quickly, so easily, the television cameras beaming coverage to the United States cut away on a more or less regular basis to focus on men's platform diving and boxing quarter-finals.

But it was the big one, the event the United States wanted to win in these XXI Olympic Games. The youngest team the United States has ever fielded wiped out the memory of Munich and the only Olympic game it had ever lost. It was an inspired performance that restored the team to amateur supremacy in the game the Americans invented.

Adrian Dantley of Notre Dame scored eight of his game-high 30 points in the first six minutes. The United States built a 20-8 lead in that time and from then on it was not a matter of "who" but "by how much."

Some of the edge may have been taken off the triumph because it came against Yugoslavia, not Russia, the team that scored that controversial decision over the United States four years ago.

The Russians didn't make it to the final. Instead, they had to settle for a 100-72 victory over Canada last night and the bronze.

But the absence of the Russians didn't bother Coach Dean Smith or his players at all.

"I guess a lot of people are disappointed we didn't play the Russians," said guard Quinn Buckner of Indiana. "I didn't care who we had to beat. I just wanted that big piece of gold."

"I was so happy at the presentation ceremony, there were tears in my eyes," said Smith.

"I thought we deserved that ovation we receive," said Scott May, Indiana's All American. "A lot of people didn't think we could do it. I think the American people should be grateful for the job we've done."

And it was a job that needed doing. It was the only gold medal the Americans have acquired in the past two days.

With the United States picking up only eight medals in the last two days, they now are far behind Russia. The Russians have a 29-29-22 count in gold, silver and bronze, 80 over-all. East Germany is 28-18-16, for 62 total. The United States is 22-25-18, 65 total.

Some gains were made, however. Four American boxers advanced to the semifinals, where they're assured of at least a bronze. Four other fighters are in action tonight and all have a good chance of reaching the semis. The United States won only two boxing medals in 1972.

Light welterweight Sugar Ray Leonard, Palmer Park, Md.; light-weight Howard Davis, Glen Cove, N.Y.; bantamweight Charles Mooney, an Army sergeant stationed at Fort Bragg, N.C., and flyweight Leo Randolph, Tacoma, Wash., all advanced to the semifinals.

Fighting in the quarter-finals tonight are Clint Jackson, Nashville, Tenn., at 147 pounds; Mike Spinks, St. Louis, at 165; his brother Leon Spinks, a marine stationed at Camp Lejeune, N.C., at 178, and heavyweight J. JOHN Tate of Knoxville, Tenn.

Two of the four American medals picked up Tuesday came in yachting.

Elks win pair

Cluck hurls no-hitter

By FRED BREWER
COLORADO CITY — Big Spring's Ricky Cluck hurled a no-hitter and struck out 19 batters Tuesday night to lead the Knights past the Clyde Bisons 7-1 clinching a spot for the Knights in the finals of the Teenage Junior League District Tournament.

Big Spring's Elks remained in contention for the other spot in the double-elimination tournament by whipping Colorado City 14-3 Tuesday afternoon and the Ranger Hawks 6-3 last night. The Elks must beat Clyde this afternoon (4:30) to meet the Knights (only undefeated team) in the championship game tonight (7:30). If the Knights lose tonight's battle they would play again Thursday night (7:30) in the final contest.

Clyde broke on top first last night scoring an unearned run in the second inning. But the Knights came right back with three runs in the bottom of the second to take the lead for good.

A trio of Clyde hurlers could not daunt the Knights' 10-hit onslaught. Starter Larry Young took the loss. Nine batters cracked the hit column for the victors.

Daivid Manley and Carlos Mata had a single and double and Larry Smith rapped out two singles. Freddy Martinez smacked a triple and Mark Harris drilled a double. Mark Poss, Tony Paradez and Cluck each registered singles.

Score by innings:
Bisons 010 000 0-1 0 1
Knights 030 013 x-10 1

Elks manager John Workman said his team looked like a different ball club yesterday. "Monday night we got 22 runners to first and only scored five runs," he said, "but last night we were getting hits with men on."

"We also looked a lot smoother in the field. And our pitching was terrific — Billy Ray Johnson hurled a one-hitter against Colorado City. If they can keep playing like this we can go all the way. But... you never know."

While Johnson was holding C. City to one hit and three runs his teammates were bombing the losing hurlers for nine hits and 14 runs.

Ken Coffee belted his second homer of the tourney in the fourth inning for one of his two hits. David Montanez drilled a single and triple and Kevin Hattenbach added a double. Ernie Saiz and Mike Workman each had two singles.

Coffee brought last night's 6-3 victory over the Ranger Hawks to a stunning conclusion. Ranger reached winning hurler Jimmy Marquez for two infield hits to lead off the top of the seventh.

Marquez struck out the next batter and then Coffee went into his act. The next batter lined a grounder down the third base-line heading for left field. Third-sacker Coffee pounced on the ball, after it hit the bag, touched third and threw to first for a double-play.

Montanez supplied the big hit — clearing the bases in the sixth with a triple. His hit put the Elks ahead for the first time in the game. The Hawks had taken an early three run lead with two in the first and one in the fourth.

The Elks battled back with two in the fifth and four in the sixth to keep them in contention.

Lupe Ontiveros had a double for the winners and Veal had two hits for the losers. Speegle was charged with the defeat.

First game score by innings:
Elks 022 203 5-14 9 0
C. City 030 000 0-3 1 2
Second game score by innings:

Former rivals combine in roundball classic

HOUSTON (AP) — Former opponents will join forces tonight when the favored gunners from the North battle the taller South in the 32nd Texas High School Coaches Association All-Star basketball game.

Jim Bowden of Class 4A state champion El Paso Eastwood and John Tyler's Dennis Gordon, fought each other in the state championship game, but they'll be using their outside shooting skills to try to extend the North's series winning streak to three.

Lanky Thad Sanders of Port Arthur Lincoln and Clear Lake's Steve Sylestine were regional playoff opponents last season but they're glad to be on the South squad together.

"I think it's going to be their outside ability against our inside size," said South Coach Ray Landers of Deer Park. "But we're running a three-guard offense and we could be pleasantly surprised with it."

The North also would have had the inside advantage if 6-foot-11 Alton Lister of Dallas Woodrow Wilson, had played in the game. Lister, however, played in another all-star tournament and was declared ineligible for the coaches game.

Landers now has the height advantage with Ronnie Procter of Freer and Jeff Kelly of Houston Waldrip, both at 6-7 and San Antonio Jefferson's Micah Owens and Gonzales' Randy Walton, both at 6-6.

North Coach Paul Stueckler of Midland Lee said both sides would use a man-to-man defense and press but their offenses would be different.

"But we're both going to be pressing so you might not see too much set offense anyway," Sueckler said.

Run and shoot may be the nature of all-star games, Landers said.

"You see few set offenses in all-star games," Landers said. "They (players) have to learn our offense quickly but in the heat of the game they're going to revert to what they've been taught for four years."

Sylestine, headed for Texas A&M, and Sanders a future Texas Tech Red Raider, will be competitors again after tonight's game.

"He can play some basketball," Sanders said of Sylestine. "He's a good jumper, he changes up real well and he can really go to the boards."

Track and Field finals tops Olympic TV card

MONTREAL (AP) — Track and field competition resumes today in 15 events, five of them finals, as ABC-TV's coverage of the Summer Olympics continues.

After taking Tuesday off, the track and field competitors will bid for gold medals in the men's 100-meter high hurdles, hammer throw, and 3,000-meter steeplechase and the women's high jump and 200-meter dash.

America's best chance for a medal in Wednesday's finals is Charles Foster in the high hurdles.

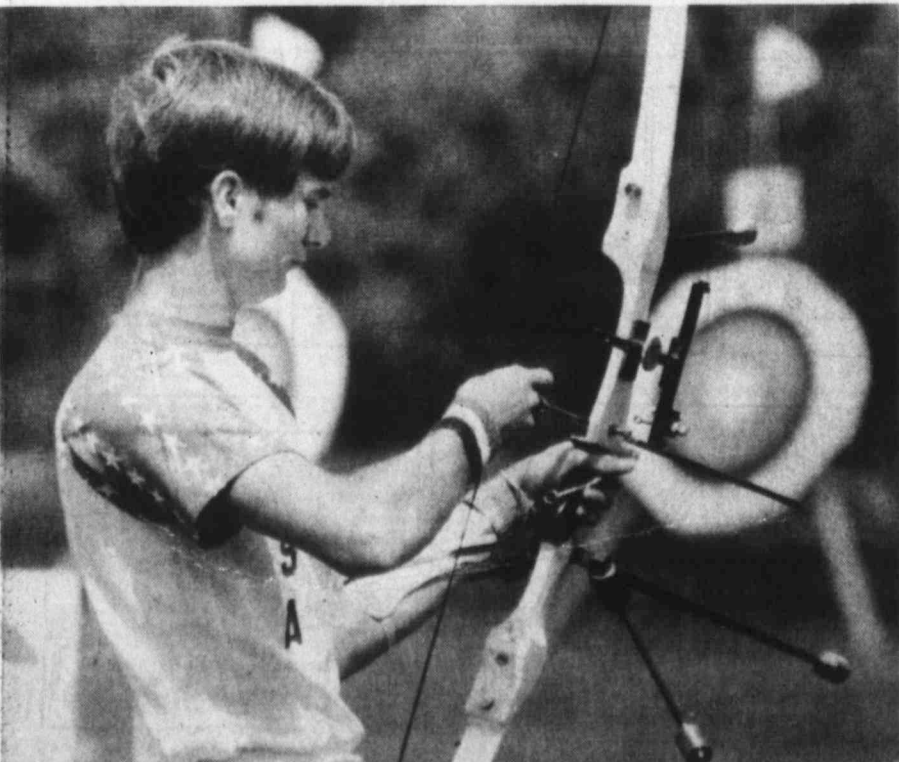

ABC will televise 3 1/2 hours from Montreal, from 7:30 p.m. to 11 p.m., EDT. There will be a 15-minute wrapup at 11:30 p.m.

Exact events to be televised won't be known until shortly before air time because much of the programming is live.

The women's 200 meters will feature a rematch between Renate Stecher of East Germany and Annegret Richter of West Germany. The East German won the gold in this event in 1972 but lost to the West German earlier this week in the 100 meters.

The strong U.S. boxers continue to move toward the final round. Also scheduled are archery, canoeing, equestrian dressage, fencing, field hockey, handball, judo and freestyle wrestling.

It's official, Patillo not coming to BSHS

Dick Patillo, who had been hired to be the new baseball coach at Big Spring High School, returned the contract unsigned this week, according to Dr. Emmett McKenzie, superintendent.

Patillo, whose home is in Pecos, chose to remain with the Pecos system where he is head basketball coach. This left the Big Spring schools in the position of trying to find a baseball coach late in the summer season.

Coach Don Robbins is attending coaching school in Houston this week and may contact a possible new baseball coach while at that meeting.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JULY 29, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when you are likely to feel tied down to conditions you would like to have changed. The best course of action is to do the work that has to be done and postpone making any changes.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Schedule your time and efforts intelligently and carry through with those policy decisions reached earlier in the day.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan recreations with family early so there is more harmony at home. Don't permit troublemakers to make things difficult for you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get the machinery working that will make your home more comfortable. Stay within your budget. Use extreme care in motion.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take time to gain the aid of associates for those financial affairs you are working on. Don't neglect important communications.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Ask an expert for advice about something you have planned to do. Don't jump into it blindly. Make important monetary decisions tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Keep that promise you have made to associates and get the right results with it. Don't fail to handle regular routines.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Come to a real understanding with a friend if you want to have a worthwhile relationship. Handle arrangements for a social event of importance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Some obligation of a business nature can be solved nicely with the aid of a good friend. Being more cheerful can help you in your career.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A new idea you have should be discussed with a higher-up for approval before you try to put it in operation.

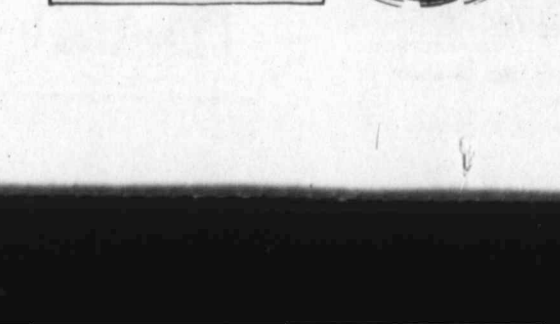

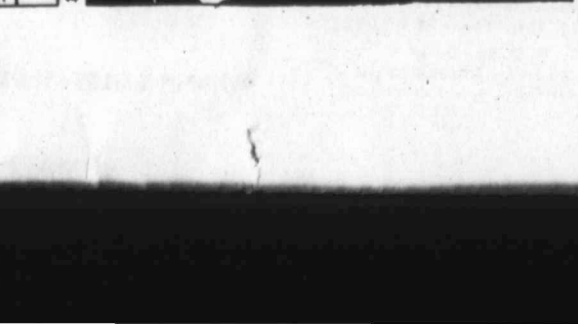

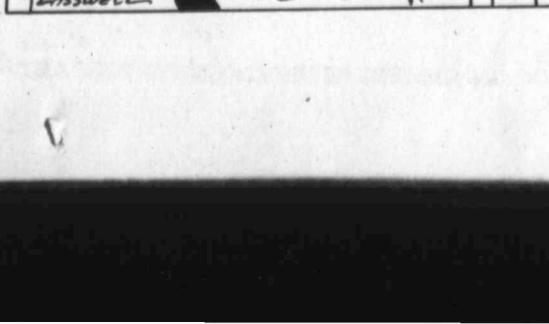

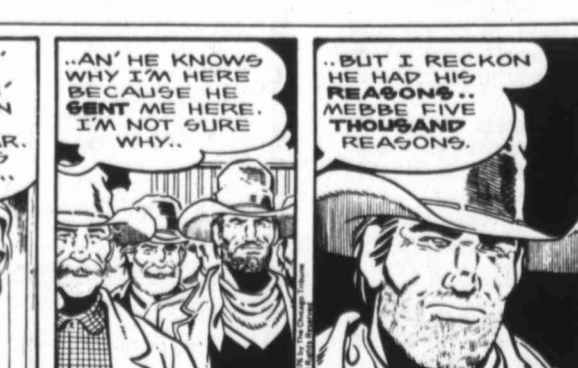

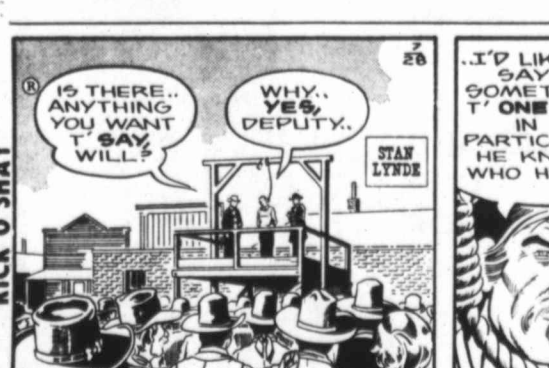

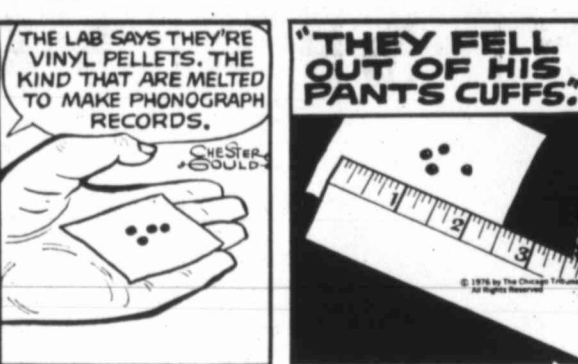

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make certain your credit standing is in order so that you are more respected by others. Show increased devotion to mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make sure you keep promises made to associates. A civic matter crops up that needs quick action, so be sure to give it.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If properly attuned astrologically, you should be concerned with improving your environment. Take better care of your health.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be capable of handling almost any task but will need encouragement since the habit of procrastination is strong in this chart. The ability to solve difficult problems is excellent here. Give ethical training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

FISTICUFFS — Houston Astro Bob Watson (left) lands a punch to the jaw of San Diego Padre shortstop Enzo Hernandez in the seventh inning of the game in Houston Tuesday night. In the lower photo Padres Rich Folkers (26) and Doug Rader (12) move in as Tito Fuentes holds Watson and Umpire Andy Olson tries to separate the two players. Astro Jose Cruz grounded to second to initiate the play and when Watson tried to break up the play he was hit in the face by Hernandez' throw to first. Neither player was ejected and the Astros took the game 4-1.

Watson prime motivator

Ignites bats and brawl

HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Watson promised earlier in the week to fill the role of prime motivator in the Houston Astros' possible climb to second place in the National League West.

He took a big step in living up to his word Tuesday night by driving in all of Houston's runs as the Astros dumped the San Diego Padres 4-1.

Watson also was a key figure in a seventh inning bench-emptying brawl.

J.R. Richard, 11-11, tossed a four-hitter and walked only one as the Astros racked up 16th victory in their last 23 outings.

Houston opened the scoring in the first inning against San Diego loser Jerry Johnson, 0-1, on a walk, a one-out single by Cesar Cedeno and Watson's RBI single.

Two more Astros runs came home in the second on a pair of walks, a single by Greg Gross and Watson's two-base hit off Johnson.

Watson capped Houston's scoring in the fifth with his 12th homer of the season, a solo blast off Padres reliever Rich Folkers. It was Watson's sixth hit in his last six times at bat.

"I'm going to put it all on my shoulder," said Watson. "If I get hot, we can make a run for second place."

With one out in the seventh, Watson reached base when he was hit by a pitch thrown by Folkers. Jose Cruz followed with a grounder which San Diego second baseman Tito Fuentes fielded and threw to second to start a potential double play. The throw to first base by shortstop Enzo Hernandez hit Watson in the head, setting off a bench-clearing melee.

"I was just trying to break up a double play," Watson said. "I just didn't had to do and tonight it was protecting myself."

Watson's performance was a key factor in the Astros' victory.

Amarillo rips Cubs in slugfest 14-10

By The Associated Press

Home run hitters had a busy night in the Texas League.

Lafayette beat San Antonio 5-2, Amarillo measured Jackson 4-2, Arkansas outslug Midland 14-10 and Shreveport defeated El Paso 5-3.

Rick Sanderson's inside-the-park homer with two on base in the fifth Tuesday night put Lafayette ahead to stay, overcoming a 1-0 San Antonio lead. Solo home runs by Dan Duran accounted for both of the losers' tallies.

Pitcher Ron Hodges, 1-0, was the winner and Jeff Byrd, 5-8, the loser.

Amarillo scored three times in the third inning and never trailed. A two-run homer by Luis Rosada in the seventh was all the offense Jackson could muster. Vic Bernal recorded his 14th save in relief of Amarillo starter Bob Owchinko, 3-1, the mound victor. The loser was Mike Bruhart, 1-6.

John Young belted his seventh home run for Arkansas and teammate Jim Riggelman went three-for-three and batted in three runs for the Little Rock club.

Shreveport's Mike Bruhart, 1-6, was the loser.

Top Coahoma rider Major League standings in Red River Sunday

COAHOMA — Ernie Kerr, ranked first in the 0-85 cc class for districts 19-20-21 in the American Moto-Cross Association, will compete in the Red River Moto-Cross races Sunday, August 1.

Kerr has already clinched a spot as one of the 36 entries in the AMA Mini National finals to be held in San Antonio August 28-29-30. To qualify for this race a rider has to rank in the top six for his district. There are six districts.

To gain his current top ranking Kerr finished fourth in Plano and third in San Antonio (in a district race). Each rider earns a certain number of points for each event and overall he has the most points after the first two races.

Kerr said much of his success is due to the help he's received from Barney Hise of S&H Yamaha.

Olympic gold ends ordeal for coach

MONTREAL (AP) — The long ordeal is ended for Dean Smith, the little Kansas-born court tactician who turned a mountain of headaches into a cascade of gold medals for the American basketball team.

"Now, after six months, maybe I can get in a round of golf," the University of North Carolina coach said after directing the U.S. fuzzi kids to the Olympic championship with a 95-74 victory over Yugoslavia.

Smith, pale and showing signs of strain from 16-hour days, carping criticism and the responsibility of having to restore America's basketball prestige, heaved a big sigh of relief.

"No, I don't think I would want this job again," he acknowledged. "I think the Olympic basketball coach, like the members of the team, should be changed every four years."

It's been a tormenting grind, but it ended at the foot of a rainbow.

Pokes work on problems

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys worked on solving a problem during training camp workouts Tuesday, and the quarterbacks were glad.

Emphasis was on passer protection. Cowboy signal callers were sacked 39 times last season. Today, players began spending their mornings in group meetings rather than on the practice field as the team prepares for its exhibition opener against Oakland at the Raiders' home field Saturday night.

Three locals qualify for state golf tourney

Three local junior golfers qualified for the Texas State Junior Tournament by finishing in the top nine last weekend in a junior tourney held at Hogan Park Golf Course in Midland.

Chris Howell, Kyle

Rowland and Richard Anthony, of Big Spring, all tied with others for the last three spots and they beat out the others on the first extra hole. Anthony fired a birdie and Howell and Rowland made pars.

Lamesa schedules physicals Aug. 5-12

LAMESA — Physical examinations for all Lamesa athletics (both boys and girls) have been scheduled August 5-12, according to athletic director O.W. Pollis.

Lamesa High School football players go through physicals beginning at 5:30 p.m. August 5th at the LHS fieldhouse.

Freshmen football players and participants in all other sports, including basketball, baseball, track, golf and tennis will have their physicals at the Lamesa High School gym at 5:30 p.m. Aug. 6.

Physicals for high school girls who are participating in any sport including volleyball, track, tennis and golf are scheduled at the LHS girls gym at 5:30 p.m. August 12.

The schedule for Lamesa Middle School physical examinations will be announced at a later date. Any athlete who does not take the physical examination at the scheduled time will be responsible for obtaining one at his own expense. Those taken as scheduled will be at the expense of the athletic department, explained Pollis.
