Tropical Hurricane Headed Toward Texas Coastal Area

75 MPH Winds, High Waters Expected To Strike In 20 Hours

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 22.—A tropical hurricane in the middle of the Gulf of Mexico, which has caused strong tides and forced lowland residents on the Louisiana coast to seek safety, swung westward today and picked up speed, headed for the direction of the lower Texas coast.

The weather bureau's 8:45 a. m. advisory reported that the tropical disturbance "has turned westward moving rather rapidly at 17 miles per hour a little north of west in the last six hours and was central at 6 a. m. about 325 miles south of Lake Charles, La., and about the same distance east of Brownsville, Tex.

Winds 75 MPH

In a later bulletin the bureau said a message from a ship 225 miles due south of Port Arthur, at 10 a. m., reported north-northeast winds of hurricane force (75 miles per hour or more), heavy rain and a barometer reading of 29.38.

Ships off the Louisiana coast, said the bureau, had reported gales (40 to 50 miles per hour) but winds on the coast had not yet reached that force.

The advisory, however, said precautions should be taken immediately on the Texas and Louisiana coasts against gale winds tonight and Tuesday and against rising tides becoming very high near and to the right of the storm path.

"The present movement of the center is toward the Texas coast north of Brownsville, Tex.," the bureau said.

Approximately 500,000 troops in western central Louisiana were in the area affected by the disturbance, but were believed in no danger unless the storm swings due north. Today the storm was 300 miles south of the troop concentration.

The 8:45 a. m., weather bureau advisory said:

"Advisory 8:45 a. m., C. S. T.: Northeast storm warnings ordered 8:45 a. m. C. S. T., west of Sabine to Brownsville, Texas, and continue northeast storm warnings Apalachicola, Florida to Sabine, Texas. Tropical disturbance has turned westward moving rather rapidly about 17 miles per hour a little north of west in the last 6 hours and was central at 6 a. m., C. S. T., about 325 miles south of Lake Charles, La., and about the same distance east of Brownsville attended probably by hurricane

15 Persons In State Missing; Rivers Rising

Severe Flood For Roswell Expected This Afternoon

(By The Associated Press)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 22.—Torrential rains raging over entire eastern New Mexico left at least 15 persons missing today, threatened the city of Roswell with a major flood, shattered gas lines to Albuquerque and sent walls of water roaring into Carlsbad.

A dozen persons were still missing in Carlsbad after a 22-foot wall of water came down canyons on the outskirts of the city Saturday night. Authorities expressed fear the fate of some might never be known.

Trapped By Water

At the northern end of the state, a father and his two children were missing when caught by a four-foot wall of water racing down the Vermejo river at Stag canyon above Dawson, on the Colorado line.

CAVERNS THREATENED

CARLSBAD, N. M., Sept. 22 (AP)—Rising flood waters today threatened to pour into the famous Carlsbad caverns.

The victims were Fernando Duran and his two children. Mrs. Duran, riding in a truck behind their car, reported seeing it overwhelmed by water and swept downstream. Little hope was held for safety of the occupants.

Southern Pacific trains in the Tucumcari district near the Texas Panhandle were stalled by waters which covered the tracks. By late morning, three passenger trains were reported moving again, but traffic was running behind schedule.

Bridges Are Down

All rail connections to Carlsbad were out, and two railroad bridges down.

The state highway department reported highways over the entire east side from Colorado to the southern Texas line were inundated by running water, had bridge washouts, or badly washed. The southeast, in the Carlsbad area, was hit the worst.

Three tourists were injured near Tucumcari on wet highways and were in hospitals.

In the southwest, adobe buildings on the ranch of John T. Muir of Silver City collapsed in a flash flood which sent 12 inches of water over the home ranch grounds.

Meanwhile, flood warnings were

Shelby Harper Is Plunged To Flaming Death

Officials Here To Investigate Crash Of Bomber Sunday

An accident investigating board from Goodfellow field at San Angelo arrived at Municipal airport at 10:47 o'clock this morning to investigate the crash in which Lieut. Shelby Harper of Lubbock was killed shortly after 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Harper was killed instantly when the Britain-bound Douglas twin-engined medium bomber he was piloting plunged into a grain field one-fourth mile south of Municipal airport.

Official Report Planned

On the investigating board are Major Jack Price, post operations officer, and Capt. Harry Crutcher, station engineering officer, of Goodfellow field.

Major Price said at noon the board was here "for preliminary investigations, to take charge of the wreckage of the ship and interrogate witnesses." He said a wreckage truck was en route here from San Angelo to pick up the wreckage.

He said the board would prepare an official report on the accident for the air corps. The report will be confidential and he is not authorized to reveal the board's report, he said.

Parents Witness Crash

The two officers piloted basic trainers here. They expect to return to Goodfellow field this afternoon.

Funeral services for Lieutenant Harper will be conducted at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning in the First Baptist church. Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor, will be one of the officiating ministers. Burial will be in a Lubbock cemetery, under direction of Sanders Funeral home.

More than 500 persons, including Harper's parents, Mr and Mrs. R. G. Harper of 1610 Avenue Y, were watching from the airport when the plane crashed and

Italy Makes Daring Raid On Gibraltar

"Suicide Crews" Sink Three Ships, Badly Damage Fourth; New Tension In Balkans

(By The Associated Press)

Italian "suicide crews," manning tiny secret assault boats, were reported today to have carried out a spectacular raid under the muzzles of Gibraltar's great batteries during the night, sinking three ships and badly damaging a fourth in the harbor.

Countering the Italian claim, the London admiralty reported that British submarines, attacking a Mediterranean convoy carrying Axis reinforcements to North Africa, sank two large Italian liners and damaged a third—all believed to be vessels of nearly 25,000 tons.

More Executions Reported

British RAF headquarters in Cairo reported successful RAF attacks on Axis shipping off Tripoli in which one ship blew up with such terrific force that the attacking RAF plane was destroyed.

Pacing these developments, authoritative quarters in Bern, Switzerland, said that some elements in Vichy feared all France might be occupied by German troops if shootings and sabotage persisted in the Nazi-ruled zone.

Bern also received advices from Sofia, the Bulgarian capital, that an unstated number of Communist deputies in Bulgaria's parliament had been executed. This coincided with unconfirmed reports that King Boris was en route to a con-

Burglars Strike Four Times; Loot Is Small

Four burglaries were investigated by police over the weekend.

Three juveniles had been arrested, one of them paroled temporarily to his parents, in connection with one of the break-ins, and more may be called in for questioning by John Wilson, boys club counsellor.

Losses Are Revealed

Police said the burglaries, with losses, were:

Sherrod Hardware Co. warehouse, at Ninth street and Avenue G, 22 baseball gloves, some of them valued as high as $12.50 each.

E. L. Klett residence at 2223 Broadway, $25 worth of old gold.

Bob Holmes residence at 1902 Broadway, two cartons of cigarets and a half dollar.

J. C. Reynolds residence at 1306 Avenue R, $72 in property.

Traced Through Trade

Aubrey Fawver, police identifications officer, said the Sherrod warehouse job was traced through a trade, wherein one boy, 13, bought four $12.50 gloves for 25 cents each.

"Then, the evidence looks like, he decided to go into the place and get a few gloves himself," Fawver said.

The boys held, in county jail, are 15 and 14 years old.

Entry was made through boards protecting a window, which was broken.

At the Klett residence, a locket, beads, 10 medals given for proficiency in music and a wedding band Klett had given Mrs. Klett in 1915 were included in the loss, police reports indicated.

Screens Are Cut

A screen over a window had been cut at the Holmes and at the Reynolds residences, property owners said.

Police said they would refer to the district attorney's department an alleged case of robbery. A man listed by police as Preston Chreastoph of 1300-block Tenth street said a man and a woman had ta-

Thousands Go Back To Jobs

(By The Associated Press)

Back-to-work whistles blew today for 44,000 striking employes of captive mines, and officers of most of the unions involved in a Pennsylvania anthracite strike asked their followers to return to their jobs.

The employes of captive mines—pits in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky supplying fuel for major steel companies—agreed to resume work on the basis of recommendations by the national defense mediation board. The mines have been idle a week.

The board's recommendations called for no work-stoppage for 30 days, or thereafter until either side has given three days' written notice. Meanwhile, the mediation board will attempt to settle the controversy, which arose over the demand of the United Mine Workers for a union shop contract in the captive pits.

Officers of 38 of 42 UMWA locals in district seven, where 20,000 hard coal diggers have been idle almost two weeks in protest against increased union dues and assessments, voted yesterday to return to work and submit their grievances to a commission to be named by International President John L. Lewis.

An insurgent group, however,

Freight Rate Fight Closed

(By The United Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 22.—Texas railroads today accepted the railroad commission's cancellation of intrastate freight rate differentials, ending a two-year-old fight over the extra charges, principally to West and Southwest Texas points.

Railroad Commissioners Jerry Sadler and Olin Culberson announced that representatives of the carriers accepted—without reservation—an offer which they rejected on Sept. 2. To compensate the railroads for losses under abolition of the differential, the commission promised to make certain upward revisions in the present so-called "bob-tail" freight rates.

Big Saving Forecast

Sadler estimated that the agreement would save "a million dollars a year" to West Texas and Southwest Texas shippers. Other estimates of the probable saving, based on the amount of money impounded by the railroads under court order since November, 1939, indicate that the amount will be considerably lower.

The railroad commission first ordered the intrastate differential abolished in October, 1939. In November, the carriers obtained a

Lesson On Cooking Meat Given For H-D Club

A pot roast gives more value for money involved than any other roast, Miss Clara Pratt told members of the East Side Home Demonstration club in a meeting at the home of Mrs. E. F. Lovell Friday afternoon. Less tender cuts of meat are less expensive per pound than tender cuts and if perfectly cooked give just as delicious meat as the roast. Less tender cuts must be cooked with moist heat to cook the muscles tender. Water or tomato juice will furnish moisture or a tight fitting lid will produce team to cook the meat, the women were told.

The club will meet Oct. 3 with Mrs. A. H. Gearhart.

Program On Citizenship Is Given By Union Club

A program on "What Kind of a Citizen Are You?" was presented at a recent meeting of the Union Home Demonstration club in the home of Mrs. F. H. Griffin.

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

The behavior of women toward the silk stocking shortage is fresh evidence that women don't dress to please men, but to please themselves.

It has always been conceded that the reason women, rich and poor alike, just "had to have" silk stockings was because men liked to see feminine legs in sheer silk hosiery.

But now the props have been knocked out of that old theory. When Uncle Sam said "No more silk stockings when the present supply is exhausted"—the men took the matter calmly. They even looked down their noses at the women who went around wailing, "What'll I do?"

And as for the ones who chased down to department stores to push and fight for the right to lay in a supply of the suddenly precious silk stockings—the men just snickered at them. "A bunch of scatterbrains," they said.

NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT?

If women had been interested in the masculine viewpoint on clothes, right then and there they would have stopped worrying over a future without the glamorizing effect of silk on their slender, fat or medium legs.

If the men didn't care, then what had they to worry about?

But that wasn't the way it was. The women just looked at the men as though they were impossibly stupid and said, "Naturally, you don't understand." And went right on worrying about the silk stocking situation.

So wives haven't been wrecking the family budget and shopgirls haven't been eating 15-cent lunches in order to buy silk stockings just to make themselves attractive to men.

They've worn silk stockings all these years at no matter what the sacrifice because they liked silk stockings. So we can add that bit of negative evidence to the old, old question, "Do women dress to please men?"

Murderer's Screams Stilled In Death After Seven Long Years

(By The United Press)

LINCOLN, Nebr., Sept. 22—Harold Malmberg is dead today and his screams, which for seven years had echoed nightly through the Nebraska State penitentiary cell blocks, were stilled.

He finally committed suicide to escape his conscience, laden with the memory of the night in 1934 when he shot and killed Russell Goodwin, a Genoa, Nebr., salesman who gave the 27-year-old Des Moines, Iowa, hitchhiker a ride.

Warden Neil Olson said that Malmberg, serving a life sentence, every night saw visions of Goodwin entering his cell seeking vengeance. Then he would scream that he hadn't meant to murder him, that he would do anything to atone for his crime.

Olson said that Malmberg committed suicide by drinking a poisonous film developing fluid apparently taken from the prison's photographic studio.

U. S. Air Force To Use Actual Bombs, Bullets In Exhibition

(By The Associated Press)

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 22 — Military leaders of the nation gathered at the huge Barksdale field air base near here today to witness an exhibition by bombers, pursuit planes and parachute troops.

Actual bombs and bullets were to be used on targets representing troops spread over a field approximately the size of two city blocks. One hundred obsolete 1918 tanks, five aged reconnaissance cars and regulation panel and silhouette targets were dispersed through the area to test the effectiveness of the bombs and bullets.

Heavy bombers, medium bombers, and fast pursuit ships will pour tons of explosives on the make-believe battlefield.

Robert Lovett, assistant secretary of war, heads the list of dignitaries that included: Lt. Gen. Ben Lear, Second army commander; Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger, Third army commander; Maj. Gen. Leslie J. McNair, in charge of the army's training program; Maj. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commander of the second air task force, and Col. Charles T. Phillips, commander of Barksdale field are in charge of the program.

The 500,000 maneuvering troops of the Second and Third army on maneuvers in Louisiana were enjoying a recess today. They will return to action Tuesday for a 12:01 a. m. jumpoff Wednesday morning.

Enraged Man Abducts Woman, Carrying Her, Himself And Another Victim To Deaths

(By The United Press)

FORT KNOX, Ky., Sept. 22—A mother's week-end visit to her soldier-son ended in tragedy when she was abducted by an enraged man and killed with him and another innocent victim in an automobile collision.

The victims were:

Mrs. John A. Bentz, sr., 46, Columbus, O., who was visiting her son, Private John A. Bentz, jr., a selectee at Fort Knox.

E. J. Beam, 35, who had abducted Mrs. Bentz and was driving her car.

Eugene Myers, 21, Elizabethtown, Ky., driver of the second car.

Ordie Irwin, 17, and Evelyn Lusby, 17, both of Elizabethtown, and Josephine Majara, 17, Springfield, Ky., companions of Meyers, were injured seriously and brought to the camp hospital.

State police said Beam was driving on the wrong side of the road at high speed. They believed anger over loss of his job at a Vine Grove, Ky., filling station Saturday was responsible for his reckless series of acts.

Military police at Fort Knox said Mrs. Bentz, her son and her son's wife were seated in Mrs. Bentz' car at a roadside inn near the army camp when they were approached by Beam, who allegedly was intoxicated.

Beam forced Bentz and his wife from the car at the point of a gun, authorities said, and drove away with the elder Mrs. Bentz. Bentz summoned military policemen who failed to overtake the car before the crash.

Price Peg On Copper Protested By Arizona

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 22 (U.P.)—The 12-cent price peg of domestic copper should be raised to stimulate production to meet national defense needs, it was contended today by Charles F. Willis, chairman of the Arizona mineral resources board.

Willis contended the price was pegged without consideration for cost of production, fair return on invested capital, supply or demand or any other factors usually considered in fixing prices.

He said the price should be approximately 14 cents. This would enable many border-line copper mines in Arizona to go back into production.

"Ouch" Eliminated By Dentist's Idea

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 22 (AP)—Dr. Earl A. Woods, Indianapolis dentist, came forward today with an idea he said practically had eliminated "ouch" from his patients' vocabulary.

Getting ready to drill a tooth, he gives the patient an auxiliary electric switch with which he can turn the drill off if the pain becomes too great.

"The big idea is the psychological effect," he said. "If a patient knows he can stop the drill himself at any time, his fear of it and of pain is lessened considerably."

"More Tanks!" Russia's Plea

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 22.—The German victory at Kiev was seen in British circles today as strongly underlining need for swift British and United States action to rush the greatest help to Soviet Russia in the shortest time.

Newspaper commentators declared that no help was too great for the Russians, and British tankmakers lent emphasis to that feeling by starting full force on a week during which the entire British tank output will go to Russia.

Reds Sound Plea

Some workers due for vacations decided to stay on the job.

A plea for "tanks and more tanks—and yet more tanks" was sounded last night by Ivan Maisky, Soviet ambassador to Britain.

The British mission headed by Lord Beaverbrook and the U. S. group headed by W. Averell Harriman will be at work in Moscow within a few days, informed sources said.

Lord Beaverbrook already is in the Russian capital and Harriman wound up his London conferences Saturday preparatory to going to Moscow.

Plan Said Arranged

The British cabinet was reported to have agreed to a comprehensive plan aimed at helping solve the job of supplying Russia.

Meanwhile, talk of the British opening a front in the west to draw off some of the Germans attacking the Russians in the east died away.

Chuter Ede, parliamentary undersecretary to the board of education, declared in a speech yesterday that "only when the time is ripe will Prime Minister Churchill take offensive action in the west" and added "he will not do it merely because people call for it."

Errol Flynn And Jimmy Fidler In Bloody Hollywood Cafe Brawl

He-Man Flynn Claims Fidler's Wife Stabbed Him With Fork

BY FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22.—Jimmy Fidler, the radio's expert on cinema subjects, and Errol Flynn, the hero of many a movie war, sought legal advice today to see who'd sue who for starting Hollywood's bloodiest cafe battle in years.

All the blood came from the veins of Flynn. He charged that Fidler's wife, Bobbe, stabbed him in the ear with a fork. Movie celebrities at surrounding tables in the Club Mocambo verified his story of Mrs. Fidler's use of her fork as a fencing foil.

ERROL FLYNN

JIMMY FIDLER

From Behind

"I didn't see her with any fork," Fidler insisted. "I didn't even see Flynn when he hit me. He hit me from behind. And I don't even believe there was a fork on our table. I was drinking coffee and my wife was having a creme de menthe frappe. She was drinking it through a straw. Maybe she used the straw on him."

Flynn, who claimed that a fraction of an inch more with the fork might have ruined the face that earns him $4,000 a week, retorted: "I admire Mrs. Fidler. God bless her. She had the courage to try to defend her husband. He didn't seem to want to defend himself."

Called Fidler Names

The Fidlers were sitting with Samuel Zagon, Hollywood attorney, and his wife, when Flynn and Bruce Cabot walked into the celebrity-jammed room. Flynn spied Fidler, called him names, and started to poke him.

"Geeve it to him, beeg boy," cried Lupe Velez, leaping to a table and brandishing a bottle of ketchup.

"Get me out of here," screamed Marlene Dietrich. "They'll break my ankle again."

She held up her right leg, decorated with a streamlined plaster cast as a memento of a fracture she received a month ago. Jean Gabon, the he-man of the Parisian screen, escorted her, limping, from the fracas.

Flynn Very Bloody

By now tables were overturned. Fidler's coffee was decorating his shirt front. His wife was screaming. Blood was squirting from Flynn's ear lobe and a dozen men were grappling with the fighters. The scene resembled the riot of stunt men in the night club sequence of many a Flynn movie.

The manager was about to call the cops when Phil Ohman's band struck up "The Star Spangled Banner" and all hands stood at attention, dribbling blood, sweat, and rose buds from the overturned vases of one of Hollywood's most expensive drinkeries.

The gladiators retired to pose for photographs and issue statements. Fidler said he had received two blows from Flynn, with never a chance to land one of his own because bystanders pinned back his arms. He said the fight was a continuation of a personal grudge and had nothing to do with his recent testimony before a senatorial committee investigating the movies.

Lies Are Blamed

"The lies he told the senators explain why I hit him," Flynn insisted, in recalling Fidler's testimony that he once had been offered a $2,500 bribe to give a movie a good review on the air. "He told just one lie too many. That's why I went up to him, took his chin in one hand and slapped him with the other. He wasn't worth my fist."

Fidler said he would confer today with Attorneys Zagon and Jerry Giesler concerning a possible law suit. Flynn, nursing his bandaged ear, said he feared a doc might have to sew it up. Then he, too, he said, will have a word with the lawyers.

Highway Toll Of Army Men High In Texas

AUSTIN, Sept. 22 (U.P.)—The soldier hurrying back from weekend leave is blamed for the high automobile death rate among military personnel by the Texas state police.

Speeding, drinking, fatigue and inattention were named by State Police Director Homer Garrison, jr., as the reason for the high toll. Reducing the accidents to common factors, Garrison found that the typical soldier-accident occurs this way: The soldier-driver is rushing back to camp between 11 p. m. and 2 a. m. on Sunday night after a weekend leave, driving a car in mechanically safe condition over a straight, level, dry asphalt road. Suddenly he either hits an oncoming car head-on, runs off the road and turns over, or strikes a bridge or other fixed object, killing one or more persons, perhaps injuring several.

He was not speeding, legally, but nearly always he was driving too fast for conditions. Some conditions were:

He was fatigued by lack of sleep and hard driving, so that his reflexes were slow, his alertness dimmed.

Though not necessarily drunk, he had been drinking, again with the result of slowing the reflexes and dulling his power of concentration.

Talking and laughing with his companions, his attention was diverted from the serious responsibility of driving.

WOMEN, here's 2-Way relief!

Month after month, some women go on suffering from periodic functional pain and discomfort. Then they learn the help of CARDUI!

Probably that is because CARDUI increases appetite and the flow of gastric juice; so aids digestion, and helps build up strength, energy, physical resistance for many. That's one way it may relieve periodic pain due only to functional causes.

But it may also help relieve periodic distress if you start taking it by directions three days before "your time." Remember, modern facts and 61 years of popularity invite your confidence in CARDUI. Adv.

Road Men Find Long Lost Site Of Fort

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 22 (U.P.) — Old Fort Osage where the Santa Fe Trail began its path to the west, has been found after having been "missing" for a century.

Historians knew its location outside Sibley, Mo., a few miles northeast of here, but they believed that all traces of the stockade and few buildings had disappeared shortly after its abandonment in 1836.

However, highway workmen digging in the area have happened upon what are considered certainly the stone foundations of the fort's old log buildings. The foundations were 6 feet under the cultivated sod on a hill overlooking the Missouri Valley.

The discovery came only a few months after Jackson county had appropriated $10,000 to purchase 16 acres for a Fort Osage historical park. Now the county plans reconstruction of the stockade and buildings on their exact site over the old foundations.

Fort Osage was built by Major George Sibley, sent out from Washington in 1804 after the Lewis and Clark Expedition recommended the bluff site as a far western outpost.

It was established as a trading post to win the confidence of the Osage Indians but it soon earned a much more important niche in the history of western expansion. For it was because of the protection afforded by the fort that Sen. Thomas Hart Benton succeeded in obtaining a $20,000 appropriation from Congress to build a road through from Fort Osage to Santa Fe. The "road"—a wagon-path—became the Santa Fe Trail.

Youngster Dies Of Gunshot Wounds After Nine-Year-Old Girl Orders Him From Her Home; Refusal Brings Blast From Weapon

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22 — Nine-year-old David Henry Antolini died of gunshot wounds because he wanted to look at some "funny books" which Barbara Ortega, 9, didn't want him to see.

David and four boy companions of like age called on Barbara yesterday and asked permission to look at the books they knew she had.

Threatens To Shoot

"Get out," Barbara said. "My daddy has got two guns and if you don't get out, I'll shoot."

The fourth grade schoolgirl went to a closet and returned with a double-barreled shotgun. She pointed it at David, standing nearest.

There was an explosion, the force of the blast throwing the weapon from Barbara's hands. David fell, and the other boys ran.

After a while police came to the Ortega home.

"I didn't think it was loaded," Barbara whimpered. "I just wanted to scare him."

The boy's liver, stomach and intestines were perforated in 150 places.

Some time after the shooting Barbara's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Ortega, returned from their work in a cannery at Redwood City to learn of the tragedy.

The father told Inspectors Harry Husted and Frank Ahern he had used the gun on a dove hunting trip Saturday and thought he had unloaded it.

He said he had taught his daughter not to fear firearms because any that could come within her reach would not be dangerous.

"Fightin' Laundrymen" Hang Out Wash On The Front Line During Army Maneuvers

BY RALPH MARTIN
NEA Service Staff Writer

WITH THE THIRD ARMY IN LOUISIANA, Sept. 22 — The "Fightin' Laundrymen" from Camp Lee, Va., are making military history in the big army maneuvers in the Southwest.

For the first time in army annals armed laundry units are being trained to deliver the wash under threat of shell fire, machine gun bullets and warplane strafing.

The wraps have been taken off the experiment for the first time in these unprecedentedly large war games being staged in the Texas-Louisiana-Arkansas area.

From a camouflaged position on a hidden little creek in the mid-Louisiana Kisatchie national forest, two units of mobile Company "A," 60th Quartermaster Corps Laundry, have demonstrated that they can turn out towering piles of laundry bundles, 68 minutes to the batch, thoroughly washed and completely dry. The two units alone have averaged turning out 530 bundles of laundry, 24 pieces to the bundle, in each 24-hour day. Three shifts of 17 men each operate the unit—and the work has been carried on without a hitch even under complete blackout conditions.

They Can Fight, Too

The Fightin' Laundrymen are actually a combat unit. During wartime they will occupy a position well up to the front lines. Their designated position is near the front of the rear echelon—never more than 60 miles from No Man's Land. They are armed with rifles, side arms, and, likely enough, will be given machine guns as well.

The army laundrymen have been given 13 weeks of basic military training and are familiar with the use of their weapons. They have also been trained in their specialized craft in army laundrymen's schools at Camp Lee. Most of the men have attained specialist's ratings and draw almost three times as much pay as the ordinary buck private.

Sixteen laundry units will make up each QMC laundry company, and it is expected that each such company will be able to care for the laundry of an entire division of between 15,000 to 18,000 men.

In connection with the rolling laundry units operating in Louisiana there is a sterilization unit. This unit, snickeringly called the "Delouser," is a part of the 301st Quartermaster Battalion.

"Clean-Up" Units Mobile

The laundry and sterilization unit work together. In the war games the procedure was like this:

At the end of each smashing drive, the sun-roasted, dust-caked, weary troops would give way to another attack force and they would be shunted back to the rear echelon for renovation in the delousing unit and the "button chopper" laundry.

The soldiers are given hot showers with medicated soaps. Their clothes are placed in the "roaster" of the sterilizer. There they are subjected to pressure, 250 degrees of heat, and vacuum. As many as 150 bundles an hour can be sterilized. Then they go to the laundry.

At a London auction, the silver dish in which sweetmeats were served Charles I was sold for $225 an ounce.

Both of these interlocking units are mobile and capable of being taken into rough country. They are geared to take care of the sanitation and cleanliness of a division between them.

Both units are powered with gasoline engines. Between the two of them they must have approximately 3,000 gallons of water a day. For this reason, it is necessary to locate them near a stream of water. Once in operation, however, this water requirement lowers because a large part of the water can be retrieved if necessary.

Mahon Back At Capital Office

(Special To The Journal)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Rep. George H. Mahon, of Colorado City, Tex., member of Congress from the 19th Texas district, today is back at his Washington desk after a three-weeks visit to his district and an inspection of army life in Louisiana.

Early last week while en route to Washington, he visited army maneuvers in Louisiana where a half million soldiers are engaged in mock warfare for the purpose of increasing the efficiency of our armed forces. Mahon reported that he saw a few of the enlisted men from the 19th Texas district.

Soldiers Are Praised

In commenting on the maneuvers, Mahon said that the West Texas boys were measuring up to their full responsibility. "It is not a pleasant task for the boys to face the severe hardships occasioned by the maneuvers," he said, "but I can testify from observation that the boys can really take it. The thing that impressed me most was the physical toughness and the high moral quality of the men. The modern youth does not lack the physical stamina and the hardihood of his predecessors.

"The soldiers are the ones, and about the only ones, who are making real sacrifices for national defense. They deserve 100 percent cooperation from labor and capital and from the people generally."

Mahon is a member of the War Department Appropriations committee, and he visited the maneuvers in company with army officials and other committee members.

Auxiliary To Coast Guard To Be Formed

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22 (U.P.) — A squadron of private yachts and motorboats will be formed into a Coast Guard auxiliary flotilla to help patrol the Delaware river area.

The boats will be chosen from a group of 50 which have been registered with the Coast Guard and whose owners are members of the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

The private vessels will release regular Coast Guard ships for other duties.

The Coast Guard Auxiliary was formed several years ago as the Coast Guard Reserve. Its members have been undergoing a course in navigation and naval maneuvers and when they are called up for active duty, will be paid at the rate corresponding to the Coast Guard rating for which they can qualify.

Germans Make Vow At Funeral To Avenge Attacks On Nazis In Paris

Terrorists To Be Punished

(By The Associated Press)

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Sept. 22 — A vow in the name of the German army delivered at the bier of a captain killed by terrorists in Paris to "employ every means that these attacks, which cause indignation in all honorable men, shall not go unpunished," was disclosed today in the Paris press.

The fact that the slain officer, a Captain Scheben, was given an official funeral yesterday at Madeleine church in the center of the occupied capital, indicated that the Germans attached considerable importance to the attack.

Shot Last Tuesday

The press account of the funeral, disclosing that the captain was shot last Tuesday, was the first disclosure that a commissioned officer had been killed in disorders about that time.

It had been known that a non-commissioned officer was fatally shot Monday night and it was previously presumed that it was for the death of the non-commissioned man that the Germans shot 12 hostages at Paris last Saturday.

The shooting of the captain was the latest in a series of attacks against occupying forces.

Envoys Represented

Otto Abetz and Fernand de Brinon, German and French envoys at Paris, respectively, and the German army command were represented at the services.

The announcement said Scheben was the victim of a "cowardly attack last Tuesday."

(Twelve hostages already have been shot for the death last Wednesday of a German non-commissioned officer attacked two days before.)

Blunt Threat Made

A blunt threat to use German guns and troops swiftly and forcefully against any organized attempt at revolution hung ominously over occupied France today.

This fatefui word came from authorized Paris sources just after Marshal Petain broadcast an appeal Sunday to Frenchmen to halt attacks on Germans to save all conquered France from Nazi reprisals.

Already 35 have died in reprisal shootings before Nazi firing squads. The Paris sources said this would "be a mere drop in the bucket" compared to what may be in store unless the outbreaks of sabotage and terrorism cease.

There still are enough German soldiers to keep the peace in occupied France, these informants said, "even if the French do not want to keep it themselves." By way of emphasis, they added that the occupation forces had not been reduced despite the demands of the Russian-German war.

In his plea Marshal Petain told his people the attacks on German army men "are criminal — they may lead to new troubles."

"They must be blamed on foreign agents," he went on, "because it is not in French tradition to attack soldiers in the dark while they are doing their duty."

Joint Commission Meeting Is Held

Joint meeting of Lubbock county and city commissions was convened at 2 o'clock this afternoon in county commission's room in the courthouse, for purpose of discussing a changed setup of City-County Welfare association.

Under the proposed plan, it had been related earlier, the state would pay all salaries of officials associated with the welfare group, the city and county furnishing three stenographers at $75 a month each and paying rent on a building that would be required.

Civil service rules would obtain as basis for selecting officials to serve in the office, it was explained.

Just before the afternoon meeting was convened, County Judge G. V. Pardue had said he expected a representation of city federated club women to appear before the commissions in regard to their proposal that a $40,000 to $60,000 library be constructed in Lubbock. A committee of women had appeared before both commissions earlier and stated their objectives.

At a morning session of the county commission routine business had been considered; reports approved and an order passed that D. W. Robertson replace Elbert Herbst, resigned, as deputy constable at a salary not to exceed $100 a month, the amount to be deductable from fees of the office. Herbst is working as a special officer at the site of the twin-engine bombing school west of Lubbock.

Negro Prisoner Is Being Brought Here

Sheriff Tom Abel announced this afternoon three state and county officials were expected to arrive this afternoon from Buckeye, Ariz., with a negro who is suspected of having figured in the murder here several weeks ago of another Lubbock negro.

One negro is in custody here and the other was arrested last week in Arizona.

Phoenix officials said Grady Harrist, deputy sheriff; Burton S. Burks, district attorney, and Norvel Redwine, criminal investigator of the state Department of Public Safety and attached to ranger headquarters, all of Lubbock, had left there with the prisoner Sunday night.

Body of a 22-year-old negro recently was found in decomposed state in tall weeds in southeast Lubbock. It was believed the body, tentatively identified, had lain there 21 days and that the murder had been for money.

Stock Market

MARKET STEADY

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP) — The stock market exhibited further shock-proof tendencies today and, in the face of deteriorating war news, most leaders managed to maintain their balance.

Dealings were sluggish from the opening on but several sizable blocks of low-priced stocks put the 5-hour turnover at around 480,000 shares.

Shares doing fairly well included U. S. Steel, General Motors, Western Union, American Telephone, Anaconda, Great Northern, International Harvester, Deere, Boeing, Lockheed, Sperry, Standard Oil (NJ), Socony Vacuum, Montgomery Ward, International Paper, N. Y. Shipbuilding, Warner Bros. and Wilson & Co.

Occasional losses were posted for United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Consolidated Edison, Public Service of N. J., Union Pacific, International Nickel, Allied Chemical, General Electric and Radio Corp.

Bonds and commodities were uneven. Cotton futures jumped nervously and in late trades were off $1.85 to $1.40 a bale. At Chicago wheat was ⅛ of a cent a bushel down to up ⅛ and corn ¼ higher to off ⅛.

Lubbock Flier Dies In Crash

burst into flames. The bomber was demolished.

The victim was 24 years old Saturday.

On Way To New York

Harper and his brother, Lieut. Bryan Harper, were flying two twin ships from the California factory to New York for transfer to the ferry command of the Royal Canadian air force. They left Long Beach late Friday night, and arrived in Lubbock about 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

Shortly after 2 o'clock, the two planes took off from the local airport, eastward bound. With Bryan leading the way and Shelby following, the two planes circled the field twice, performing a series of maneuvers. Finally Shelby went into a steep turn and failed to come out of it. The plane, evidently out of control, fell into a half-spin and dived into the ground.

Services Not Set

Some spectators said they saw a trail of smoke from one of the engines as the plane fell, indicating that a power failure might have been responsible for the crash.

Mrs. Shelby Harper, the former Brunette Beard of Lubbock, was in Long Beach, Calif., at the time.

She started to Lubbock by airplane after being notified of the crash. The plane was grounded in Albuquerque, N. M., because of bad weather, and she was to continue by train, arriving at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

On Eighth Ferry Trip

Shelby had been stationed at Will Rogers field in Oklahoma City for several months, and had been temporarily transferred to Long Beach. He was on his eighth ferry trip.

Bryan is stationed at the army air base at Savannah, Ga., and is on temporary duty as a ferry pilot.

The victim was a graduate of Lubbock High school and a former student of Texas Technological college. He had worked three years as a carrier for Avalanche-Journal publications before enlisting as a flying cadet in the army air corps in the summer of 1939. He was married immediately after receiving his commission when he graduated from Kelly field, San Antonio, in the spring of 1940.

The survivors are, other than his wife, and parents, five brothers: Carl Harper of Washington, D. C.; Lieut. Clarence Harper of Lubbock, now stationed at Barksdale field, Shreveport, La.; Lieut. Bryan Harper; A. R. Harper of 1915 Twenty-first street; and R. D. Harper of 2109 Twenty-eighth street; and two sisters: Eugenia Harper of 1610 Avenue Y and Elizabeth Harper of Iowa Park.

Equipment of the city fire department was sent to the scene immediately to extinguish the flames. Harper's body was dragged from the plane by several local pilots.

Flames from the gas tanks of the plane continued to burn for more than an hour. Bits of wreckage, scattered over a wide area, were guarded by city and state police last night, awaiting an expected investigation by army authorities.

Thousands of cars went to the scene Sunday afternoon, causing a heavy traffic jam on the Plainview highway north of town.

The officer's legs were crushed, his face was torn and other body injuries suffered in the crash. His body also was burned by the flames.

Officials from the twin engine air training base under construction west of Lubbock and city and state police guarded the wreckage pending the arrival of the investigation board.

An official requested this morning that persons wishing to see the scene of the crash not drive through the farm on which the plane fell. Crops had been damaged considerably by hundreds of automobiles, it was said.

General Improvement Noted In Area Agricultural Conditions

PIONEER TEXAN DIES — DEL RIO, Sept. 22 (AP) — Funeral services will be held Tuesday for E. Keyes Fawcett, 76, pioneer ranchman and past president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, who died yesterday after suffering three heart attacks in a week. Fawcett, born in Mississippi, settled near here in 1883 after driving a flock of sheep from Yorktown. His ranch holdings were among the largest in West Texas.

General improvement in agricultural conditions over the South Plains, with prices for farm and ranch products at the highest level since May, 1930, was noted by secretary-treasurers of 16 of the 19 national farm loan associations in this area as they met with Federal Land Bank of Houston officials this morning in Hilton hotel.

Swan Payne, Houston, area manager, presided over the session, which was to last all day, including a luncheon at noon. Others from Houston included, V. N. Johnson, assistant vice president; R. C. P'Pool, chief of area managers; Lewis Rogers, counsel for the bank and Byrd E. White, Dallas, a director of the bank.

Collections Improved

"We have but two farms in the 15 or 20 counties in this area which we have had to take over," Johnson said. "One of these is in process of being sold. Collections are improved, loan volume is increasing steadily and there is more activity in land.

"The land bank has greatly reduced its real estate inventory in the past 12 months and has made more than 40 per cent more new loans thus far in 1941 than for the same period in 1940. This gain is due largely to new buyers of land and also to refinancing under more favorable terms and interest rate."

Area secretaries attending included: J. E. Barron, Lamesa; David Bates, Hale Center; Hugh Boren, Snyder; R. O. Black, Brownfield; Sam Combs, Levelland; W. T. Dunn, Crosbyton; Thomas Fowler, Jayton; J. S. Hilliard, Littlefield; W. Howard Hoffman, Slaton; Deen Nowlin, Tahoka; M. S. Patton, Matador; James B. Reed, Spur; W. A. Richter, Abernathy; J. E. Robinson, Port; Noel Woodley, Muleshoe, and R. S. Rodgers, Lubbock.

Roswell Faces Flood Threat

issued for the Pecos river city of Roswell, menaced by a 33-foot rise in the mountain rain-fed Hondo river.

The U. S. weather bureau forecast a "severe flood" by late afternoon at Roswell, with the Hondo standing at an all-time record high only 28 miles west and the waters moving steadily down river toward the city.

Rainfall Is Heavy

Eight inches of rain were reported north of Roswell at Alamogordo dam on the Pecos, which stood at 16 feet at the junction of the Pecos and the Hondo. Alamogordo dam was also spilling 30,000 second-feet into the Pecos.

The Hondo's 33-foot stage—in a river normally only a trickle—was believed by the weather bureau to be the highest ever recorded on that Pecos tributary.

The highway to Pecos, Texas, was opened at dawn, but highways north to Roswell and Artesia and south to El Paso were not yet wholly usable.

Rainfall Over This Area Is Scattered

Rainfall gauging as much as 1.75 inch was reported here and there for the 24 hours up to 10 o'clock this morning, by dispatchers of the Santa Fe railroad.

Texline reported 1.75 inch; Bledsoe, 1.25; Lehman, Whiteface and Levelland, 1; Anton, .75; Muleshoe and Littlefield, .5; Amherst, .33; Sudan, Brownfield, Meadow and Ropesville, .25; Seagraves, .12 and Canyon, .10.

Temperatures To Drop

Forecasts called for rain today and tonight in the central and southwest portions of West Texas with showers in the Panhandle. Showers were expected to become general over the area Tuesday, temperatures to drop eight to 10 degrees.

The entire Panhandle had minimums in the low 60's this morning. Low reading in Lubbock was 62 degrees, one degree above that of Sunday morning.

Crops need warm weather but it was explained that lower temperatures might "slow up incubation of cotton leafworms," which have created considerable damage to the section. Many fields have solid acres almost denuded of leaves.

Predictions for further showers and lowering temperatures indicate to observers another storm, stirred by cool air from the Rockies, is brewing in North Texas.

DAKAR REINFORCED

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Sept. 22 (AP) — Pierre Boisson, French governor of Dakar, told the press today that the West African naval base had been reinforced for "the big role" France's colonies may be summoned to play in the near future.

and Howells.

She and Toomey were divorced when she insisted on a career as a Broadway chorus girl. She married Teal and he died before his alienation of affections suit, involving his wife and the head waiter of an exclusive New York hotel, could be tried.

Paddleford divorced her after introducing her to European society and straightening out bad check difficulties for her in Vienna, Lucerne and Italy. Howells died a year after their marriage and she said he left her his fortune.

After Howells' death she spent two terms in California prisons for fraud and passing bad checks. After the second such term she went to Havana where she married Fawcett. He secured an annulment in 1931 when he learned of his wife's prison record.

She was sent to prison for the last time in 1936, sentenced to 15 years for defrauding a clothing shop of $200 worth of garments. The judge recalled her record, including the passing of two bad checks to pay a 35,000 franc bar bill in France.

She died scorned by her fellow prisoners because she told authorities of a murder confession made to her in 1938 by a fellow-convict.

Assessments Given On Guilty Pleas

County court officials said two persons had pleaded guilty of charges this morning and that assessments had been given.

Bert Smith, 39, pleaded guilty of drunk driving and was fined $50 and costs and his drivers license suspended six months. Jessie Brown, 38, pleaded guilty of liquor law violation and was sent to jail for 90 days, said the county attorney's department.

Bail of $500 was posted by Ted Sawyer, 29, charged Sunday with drunk driving, the sheriff's department said.

Pauline Cooper, 28, a negro, was in jail on a liquor violation charge, but had not been arraigned early this afternoon.

A man who had not been reported arrested was sought on a warrant charging violation of the state check law, growing out of a $10 check presented to R. E. Knott, complaining witness.

Hugh Garcia, 35, listed on jail records as a negro, was surrendered by his bail bond surety and was held in connection with a liquor charge, the sheriff's department said.

Italians Make Daring Raid

ference with Adolf Hitler which might enter Bulgaria into the war.

Crews' Fate Not Reported

The Fascist raid on Gibraltar, Britain's great Mediterranean fortress, was announced in a brief communique by Premier Mussolini's high command.

Authoritative quarters in Rome said the raiding craft, each described as little more than a human projectile, were operated by men who knew there would be slight chance of returning.

The fate of the crews was not disclosed.

The mosquito-like craft, carrying a single torpedo, were pictured as having such quiet propulsion they could slip into harbors before being detected and such shallow draft they could cross over submerged barriers.

Carried Near Scene

A Fascist spokesman said mas-boats, speed craft with the smallest classification in the Italian navy, carried the mystery boats to within a few miles of their targets, then set them loose to strike.

In a similar raid into Malta's harbor last July 26, the crews never came back.

Aside from an Italian torpedo attack on Gibraltar shipping last year, it was the first naval assault since French and Spanish ships unsuccessfully shelled the British garrison there in the winter of 1782-83.

Bold Raid Described

The type of warships engaged in the current raid was not disclosed.

In describing the bold raid, the Italian high command identified the attackers merely as "assault units" which "entered the bay and inner port" of Gibraltar to sink three ships outright and damage a fourth so seriously it was assumed lost.

Authoritative London quarters met the Italian claim with "absolutely no comment."

The attack apparently took the British by complete surprise, since Gibraltar harbor, protected by moles, nets, minefields and great guns high on the rock, had long been considered secure against close-in assault.

Turkey Facing Crisis

Meanwhile, war-like preparations in Bulgaria, ostensibly aimed at Turkey or Russia, were emphasized by unconfirmed reports that King Boris III of Bulgaria was en route to a meeting with Adolf Hitler.

Berlin authorities declared the report was "out of the question."

Well-informed sources in Ankara predicted that Turkey, guardian of the strategic Dardanelles, gateway between the Mediterranean and the Black sea, faced an imminent showdown.

In Berlin, the Wilhelmstrasse reported that Bulgaria had been "brought into a state of higher watchfulness," which, it was said, was not surprising in view of the reported landing of Russian parachutists on Bulgarian soil.

Bulgaria May Enter Fight'

King Boris' reported visit to Hitler aroused speculation that Bulgaria, now almost completely mobilized, might be preparing to enter the field as an active ally of Germany.

The London radio, quoting unconfirmed Turkish advices, said Field Marshal Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch, commander in chief of the German army; Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, German naval chief, and Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop would attend the meeting.

King Boris' departure to confer with the fuehrer followed his inspection of Bulgarian troop maneuvers by the biggest army called to the colors in the nation's history.

Pressure On Turks

Neutral observers interpreted Bulgaria's military preparations as part of a German plan to high-pressure Turkey, Britain's non-belligerent ally, into making concessions which would aid the Nazi cause in the Middle East and Russia.

On the Russian-German war front, the Red army tersely acknowledged the fall of Kiev, Ukraine capital and Russia's third greatest city, but declared that a Soviet counter-offensive on the central (Moscow) front had recaptured 32 villages and driven the Germans from a strongly fortified line.

Leningrad's position apparently was growing more critical by the hour. Soviet dispatches admitted that Nazi dive-bombers were smashing at the old czarist capital and its 3,200,000 populace with "such ferocity it seems the earth itself will split."

Attempt To Flee Blocked

Moreover, the Germans reported that Nazi shore batteries had frustrated an attempt by Russian warships to flee the silenced Kronstadt island naval base, 20 miles east of Leningrad.

Stuka dive-bombers were credited by the German command with scoring direct bomb hits on the 23,016-ton Soviet battleship October Revolution, the 8,800-ton cruiser Kirov, another cruiser, three destroyers and a gunboat in the waters off Kronstadt.

German warplanes were reported to have silenced Kronstadt's guns last Friday.

Hitler's high command asserted that German troops were tightening the trap on four Soviet armies east of Kiev, inflicting "heavy and bloody casualties" on Red forces desperately attempting to break out of the Nazi ring.

At sea, a special communique from the fuehrer's headquarters declared, German U-boats sank 13 heavily-laden ships totalling 82,500 tons and damaged another in an attack on two convoys and separate ships in the Atlantic.

"Three escorting vessels evaded the attack, leaving the convoy to its fate," the German high command asserted.

temporary injunction to prevent enforcement of the commission's order. Since that court action, the railroads have impounded more than $600,000 collected as differentials.

To Dismiss Litigation

Sadler said that the railroad commission is recommending to Atty. Gen. Gerald C. Mann that pending litigation—on the application for a permanent injunction—be dismissed. When the railroads' suit is dismissed, he said, the railroad commission will issue its new compromise order.

Disposition of the impounded freight differential collection is for the courts to decide, Sadler said. He pointed out that most of the payments were in small amounts, which will be released either to the railroads or returned to the shippers.

The disputed rates applied to more than 50 commodities, shipped to or from West and Southwest Texas. They include grain products, building materials, blackstrap molasses, sulphur, iron and steel articles and paper.

Negotiations covering a revision of class rates, subject of another controversy, is being handled separately by the commission.

ignored their plea and scheduled a march into adjoining district nine in an effort to spread the walkout. The insurgents, meeting at Freeland, Pa., announced they would return to work only if union dues were limited to $14 a year and if the National Labor Relations board would supervise an election of new district seven officers.

The strike started Sept. 10 in protest over an increase in monthly dues to $1.50 from the former $1, a boost applicable only to district seven and designed to air financially distressed areas. The international assessment also was increased from $2 to $6 annually. Both dues and assessments are deducted from miners' pay by the company, under a UMWA contract.

A man given a suspended sentence a few days ago in 99th district court on a burglary conviction was named by Edith Doyle of 1411 Avenue F in connection with theft of her purse and $6.60 it contained, police said. No formal charge had been filed this morning. Miss Boyle told officials the man and a companion took the money from the purse, which was tossed away.

No one was injured in five wrecks and property damage was slight. The mishaps were reported at 700-block Main street, Thirtieth street and College avenue, 1400-block Main street, Fourteenth street and College avenue and Thirteenth street and Avenue N.

Fire Department Is Kept Busy In City

Firemen of Central fire station answered three alarms Sunday and one this morning.

Firemen in the station's drill tower saw an army bomber crash near Municipal airport and were on their way with chemicals and fire hose before an alarm came in from the field. That was at 2:25 o'clock Sunday afternoon, records showed.

An automobile fire was extinguished at 7:33 o'clock Sunday night, in 1700-block Tenth street.

The motor of an air-conditioner at Palace theater, at 1020 Main street, burned out at 9:55 o'clock Sunday night. There was no explanation to show cause.

At 9:45 o'clock this morning a floor furnace electrical connection "shorted out" and caused little more damage than smoke, at the 2302 Twenty-ninth street residence of J. L. Adams.

"Dem Bums" Still Lead By One Game But This Final Week Crammed With "Ifs"

Football Season Gets In Full Swing This Week

"V" FOR VICTORY ON THE GRIDIRON—Stanford has its famed "T" formation, but Coach Homer Norton, known for his trick assortment of football formations, has come up with the Texas Aggie "V" plus the three dots and a dash (backfield). Here is his starting team for 1941 in the novel lineup. But it appears that Coach Norton will need more than a fancy formation to duplicate last season's great Aggie triumphs.

Rebels Lose Opening Contest, 6 To 1

Nashville Nine Takes Lead In Dixie Series

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Sept. 22 — Nashville's Vols will shoot another former big leaguer at the Dallas Rebels tonight as the Southern association champions go after their second straight victory in the Dixie series.

Vito Tamulis, who came down from Brooklyn in the last month of the campaign to bolster the Volunteer staff, will square off against Otho Nitcholas, the prematurely-gray veteran whose work was sensational in the Texas league Shaughnessy play-off.

Vols Win Opener

Nashville clubbed Dallas 6-1 in the opening game last night behind the steady pitching of Roxie Lawson, formerly of the Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Browns.

A big first inning when the Vols exploded for three hits and four runs put the game on ice. The Rebels pecked away but either Lawson set them down in the clinches or a dazzling double-play combination of Dick Culler and Jim Shilling around second base cut short impending rallies.

A crowd of 8,773, with several thousand on the outside of the park looking from a levee or from perches on the fence, turned out for the opening game and another sell-out crowd was anticipated by the club owners tonight.

Nashville Hits 'Em

Dallas sent little Sal Gliatto, 23-game winner over the regular season and in the Shaughnessy play-off, against the slugging Vols but he was ineffective, giving up thirteen hits and walking three.

In the series, which will go seven games if that many are needed to decide the championship, the clubs will receive 40 per cent and the players 60 per cent of the gate receipts for the first four tilts, with each league getting ten per cent. After that each league receives ten per cent and the players the remainder, with nothing going to the clubs.

Cards Haven't Given Up--Yet

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 — Monday matinee: Just when you begin to think the Cards might as well cancel that order to print World series tickets, there they come again . . . It's a cinch now that, no matter who wins, the National league champs won't get to catch a deep breath before the World series . . . When Johnny Mize was hurt it looked bad for St. Loo, but it looked bad for Mize when Johnny Hopp stole home yesterday, and it must be a swell feeling for any manager to have kids like Stan Musial waiting for a chance to show what they can do when the going gets tough . . . One look at that 35,909 mob that pursued the Dodgers yesterday and Gerry Nugent decided there might be better things to do with the Phillies than sell 'em . . . After riding Whirlaway Saturday, Jockey Alf Robertson remarked: "Whirlaway wanted to run and the others either couldn't or wouldn't. I wished that War Relic were in that race." . . . Whatever became of those guys who were touting Furman to upset Tennessee? . . . It would have taken a real hurricane and not a purple one from South Carolina to stop Johnny Butler . . . Alred (Yockem) Edwards, the groom who looks after Alsab, thinks the Chicago colt is the best of a lot of good ones he's handled, but racing folks hereabouts say he'll change his mind after that match race with Requested tomorrow.

SATURDAY'S CHILD

All Brooklyn is laffing
About young Paul Schaffing.

Private Chuck McCarthy, former Bristol, Conn., press sports editor, announces he'll holler louder than that guy at Camp Wheeler about how good "them bums" are if it will get him a free trip to the World series . . . Some of the guys maneuvering with Chuck and the 43rd (New England) division in Louisiana are Jack Gallivan, former Fordham footballer, and technical Sergeant Wardy Gentino, who used to play for Penn . . . They're too busy to be thinking about football yet . . . Add the U. of Georgia to the colleges who agree that four bits is enough to charge a doughboy to see a football game . . . Camp Upton and Fort Niagara will start their "army World series" for the second corps area baseball championship next Saturday. The Narragansett Bay team, first corps area champion, already has challenged the winner . . . Dick Hudson, the big pitcher who won the title for Narragansett, used to belong to the Cardinals . . . Both of Auburn's 1940 grid captains, Dick McGowen and Ernest Mills, are in training at Fort Sill, Okla., along with a dozen other Auburn athletes of recent vintage.

Dodgers Divide Two With Phils

Cardinals Measure Cubs In Twin Bill

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

This is "if" week in baseball.

The little word looms larger and larger as the big leagues start the final week of their season and the Brooklyn Dodgers still lead the St. Louis Cardinals by the skinny edge of one game in this nerve-wrecking National league pennant chase.

The Dodgers have only five games left to play after their unexpected split with the Phillies in yesterday's twin bill, and the Cards still have six to go after knocking off the Cubs twice. The "if" is riding on every pitch now.

Here Are The "Ifs"

And, reading from left to right, here is how the little "if" gets bigger and bigger the rest of the way home:

If the Dodgers win only one of their five games, the Cards have to break at least even in their six to grab the flag.

If Brooklyn takes two, the Cards must click in four out of six.

If dem bums win three, the Cards have to take five.

If the gallants of the Gowanus grab four and lose only one, the Gas Housers need to sweep six.

Naturally, if Brooklyn goes through without a loss — well, that's all, brother.

Phils Take Nightcap

After Saturday's proceedings, in which Brooklyn downed the Phillies twice and the Cubs clouted the Cards once, to leave St. Louis two games out, it looked like the honeymoon was over for the westerners.

But yesterday the Phils refused to give up in the nightcap. The Dodgers took the opener, 8-3, behind the five-hit elbowing of Johnny Allen. In the second game, however, Luke Hamlin brought his boom-boom ball along and served it up to Danny Litwhiler right in the first inning with the bases loaded. The last seen of the apple, it was riding in among the paying customers — and Phillies were scampering around the bases like the horses on a merry-go-round. From there, the Phils coasted home, 6-3.

Pollet Wins Another

Meanwhile, the Cards won their opener the hard way, 6-5. The surprise-package rookie, Stan Musial, turned in a snappy baserunning job in the ninth to score the game-wrecker by coming home from third when Cub Catcher Clyde McCullough left home plate unprotected to make a play at first. Young Howie Pollet took complete charge of the nightcap by tossing an eight-hitter and fanning seven for a 7-0 St. Louis win.

On the rest of the National league Sunday card, the Cincinnati Reds and the Giants did the winning. Elmer the Great Riddle chalked up his No. 18 for the season with a six-hit 2-0 whitewash job against the Pirates.

The Giants jolted the Boston (not-so) Braves, 4-0 and 15-4.

Mickey Harris' six-hit hurling and a set of three homers gave the Boston Red Sox a 4-1 win over the Yankees.

The Washington Senators took a sole lease on the dizzy heights of sixth place by flailing the Philadelphia Athletics twice — 6-5 with a two-run rally in the ninth and 6-2 behind Earl Wynn's eight-hit fast-balling in the second game.

St. Louis and the Indians traded shutouts, Cleveland grabbing the opener 14-0, as Lefty Al Smith served a five-hitter, and the Brownies clicking in the second act, 3-0.

Tommy Bridges led the Detroit Tigers to a 6-3 win over the Chicago White Sox in their first game, but the second ended in a 14-inning 1-all deadlock.

BOOM IN U. S. TRAVEL

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A domestic travel boom in the first half of 1941 that exceeds any in America's history is reported by the California State Automobile association on the basis of widespread surveys.

The increase is attributed to the step-up in industry and employment caused by the defense program. Checks at Canadian and Mexican borders showed the neighboring countries shared largely in the travel increase.

Snead Takes $7,500 Hurst Invitation--

Slammin' Sammy In Groove Again With Tournament Win

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22—If Ben Hogan looked over his shoulder today he might see the spectre of a tall, dark man from the mountains who threatens to pry loose his grip on the Vardon cup — symbol of supremacy in professional golf.

The mountain shooter is Samuel Jackson Snead, the hillbilly now of Hot Springs, Va., who romped off with the $7,500 Hurst invitation tournament yesterday.

P. G. A. Tournament Director Fred Corcoran watched Slammin' Sammy win the 72-hole Hurst with 272 — eight under par and nine strokes ahead of his nearest foe — and declared "this looks like it might be Sam's year again."

"Snead has a fine chance of catching Hogan," said Corcoran. "There are six more tournaments this year and the way Sam looked today, he's going to be hard to stop."

Snead's victory boosted his Vardon point total to 404 against 494 for Hogan, who won the cup last year. Hogan took 291 which broke his streak of finishing in the money in 56 consecutive tournaments. But he is still leading the year's money winners with $15,983 against Snead's second place $11,498.

Flatbush Fanatic Dreams Of Series--

Fan "Sees" Daffiness Boys Win World Series In Seven Games From Mighty Yankee Bombers

BY HARRY FERGUSON
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—A doctor friend of ours who is an ardent follower of the Brooklyn Dodgers came over to the house yesterday, settled himself comfortably into a chair and said he had seen the World series and the beloved bums had beaten the Yankees.

"How many games did it go?" we asked politely.

"Seven," he said. "Higbe started the last game with only two days' rest and Johnny Allen relieved him in the sixth with two on base and none out. Struck out three men in a row."

It's All Plain

"Would you like an aspirin or a drink of water or something?" we inquired, looking at him anxiously.

"Oh, no, I feel fine," he said. "This was a dream I had last night and I thought maybe you might be able to predict something right for a change if I told you about it."

"Proceed," we said.

"Things started out very bad. I had to buy a ticket from a speculator to get into the first game at Yankee stadium. Cost me $15 for a $5.50 grandstand seat and I was behind a pillar. Ruffing beat the Dodgers, 5 to 0, and Higbe got knocked out of the box. I'd almost decided not to go to the second game when a patient called up and said he had to leave town and would sell me his ticket. So I went and Gomez pitched a three-hitter against Wyatt. The score was 4 to 1. Camilli got a homer, but the rest of the bums were bums.

Bums Come Back

"I had seats for the three games in Ebbets field, so I had to go to them, but I was about ready to give up on the bums. It was Chandler against Fitzsimmons and they went into the ninth nothing to nothing. In the first half of the ninth Peewee Reese juggled a double-play ball and the Yankees won, 1 to 0.

"Durocher went to short in the fourth game. McCarthy gambled on Bonham and he just didn't have his stuff. Higbe came back for the bums and pitched a pretty fair game although he wasn't pressed much. The bums were really slugging the ball and they won, 9 to 2. Who do you think pitched the fifth game?"

"Wyatt," we suggested.

Davis Gets Call

"Nope. Old Curt Davis. Shut 'em out with five hits, too, although Ruffing didn't pitch bad ball. Medwick tripled in the sixth with the bases loaded and the score was 3 to 0.

"I paid a spec $20 for a seat to the sixth game in the stadium, but it was worth it. It was Wyatt and Gomez and the Yankees got two in the first before Wyatt could get warmed up. The Dodgers got one in the fourth and three in the seventh. Dickey threw a ball clear over Rizzuto's head trying to catch Reiser stealing second. It ended up 4 to 2, and then I had to figure some way of seeing the seventh game. Even the specs didn't have any tickets.

"I went up to the stadium about an hour before game time, figuring I might be able to buy a ticket outside the park. I was standing around and was about ready to give up hope when a man with bushy eyebrows and another fellow walked up to me. 'My name is Ed Barrow, doctor,' the man with the eyebrows said. 'I'm general manager of the Yankees. This gentleman is Mr. Larry MacPhail.'

"'Want to see the game, doctor?' MacPhail asked politely. I was speechless. Then Barrow says, 'call up all your friends, doctor, and invite them and if you've got any kids be sure to have them get in a cab and hurry right up.' I made three or four 'phone calls and pretty soon I had 30 people around me including my wife and the kid, Eddie. Barrow and MacPhail took us into the stadium and put us in boxes. Right away Camilli ran up and gave Eddie a ball autographed by all the bums. Then Medwick comes over and insists on giving the kid his favorite bat. But here was the funny thing—the stadium didn't look the same. The seats were made out of solid gold. The fences were alabaster and the advertisements on them were worked out in emeralds and rubies. Home plate was a big pearl."

"Sounds like heaven," we suggested.

"It was," he said, "particularly in the fifth inning when eight of the bums hit homers in a row. The final score was 23 to 0."

He got up to leave, but we halted him to inquire: "Did you get any details on how the Dodgers beat the Cardinals out of the pennant?"

"Oh, that's old stuff," he said scornfully. "I dreamed that last spring."

Southwest Off To Fast Start

(By The United Press)

DALLAS, Sept. 22.—The thin, distant call of the gridiron takes on a dominant note this week end.

Texas' biggest loop, the Southwest conference, kicks off Saturday. And all but one of the six games scheduled could be classified as "breathers." The exception will be Texas Chistian's get-together at Fort Worth with the tough Tulsa university eleven.

Baylor Meets H-SU

Baylor meets Hardin-Simmons at Waco, Southern Methodist takes on North Texas Teachers at Denton, Texas visits Colorado at Boulder, Texas A. and M. clashes with Sam Houston Teachers at College Station, and Arkansas engages Edmond, Okla., State Teachers at Fayetteville.

Some of the smaller college combines, notably the Border conference, already have seen action.

The Border boys, bivouaced in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, have a perfect record to date. At six points they met non-conference opponents last week end, and six times emerged victorious.

Of the most general interest, perhaps, was Texas Tech's foray at Lubbock against Abilene Christian. Playing for the first time under the tutelage of "new deal" Coaches Dell Morgan and Berl Huffman, the Red Raiders pushed an offensive that held the Christians scoreless. The final count: Tech 34, Abilene 0.

Most Victories Top Heavy

Hardin-Simmons prepared for its forthcoming clash with Baylor by shellacking Texas Wesleyan at Fort Worth, 31 to 7. Other games involving Border teams ended as follows: Flagstaff, Ariz., Lumberjacks 32, Eastern New Mexico college 0; Arizona State of Tempe 6, Gonzaga 0; New Mexico Aggies 52, Highlands university of Las Vegas 0; West Texas State Teachers 34, Oklahoma City University 0.

Two members of the Lone Star conference were active last week end. Sam Houston college rang up a convincing 51 to 6 victory over Lamar Junior college. East Texas State Teachers aired a highly-touted backfield in pummeling Austin college, 30 to 0.

Sam Houston and North Texas State Teachers are expected to be in the final heat for the Lone star championship.

Push-Overs Not On Program For Week

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The football season already has started as fast as a fighter trying for a one-round knockout, but the action scheduled for next week end will make this look like the beginning of a snail race.

Last Friday and Saturday saw a dozen or so major teams, mostly in the south, playing season openers. This week only a few die-hard conservatives, such as the Big Three and a few of the western conference teams, will remain out of competition. And the schedule for many early starters demands their best efforts.

Standouts On Program

With such games as Minnesota-Washington, Stanford-Oregon, Navy-William and Mary, Louisiana State-Holy Cross, Tulane-Boston college and Purdue-Vanderbilt (to name just a few) on the slate, there's no talking about September push-overs.

So far, the only upset has been Saturday's scoreless tie between Davidson, one of the lesser members of the southern conference, and Rollins. Tennessee, threatened in advance with trouble from a strong Furman team, calmed the Purple Hurricane to a zephyr by winning its 33rd consecutive regular-season victory, 32 to 6. Louisiana State tuned up for its meeting with Holy Cross by whipping Louisiana Tech, 25-0, and Boston College had a workout under game conditions before starting south, swamping St. Anselm, 78-0.

Big Games Scheduled

In the few games of importance in other sectors Duquesne, which has lost only once in two seasons, was held to a 14-2 score by little Waynesburg. Texas Tech outscored Abilene Christian, 34-0 and Hardin Simmons downed Texas Wesleyan, 31-7.

This week's major action starts Friday with Georgetown-Mississippi, Temple-Kansas, Denver-Iowa State, U. C. L. A.-Washington State and Brigham Young-Montana as some of the headliners. On Saturday, reading from south to west, the bigger games include Florida-Mississippi State, Georgia-Mercer, Kentucky-Virginia Tech, V. M. I.-Clemson, Davidson-North Carolina State, Duke-Wake Forest, North Carolina-South Carolina, Notre Dame-Arizona, Michigan-Michigan State, Iowa-Drake, Indiana-Detroit, Ohio State-Missouri, Oklahoma-Oklahoma Aggies, Texas Christian-Tulsa, Baylor-Hardin Simmons, Colorado-Texas, California-St. Mary's and Southern California-Oregon State.

Well, He Almost Wrote It

By Collier Parris

MONDAY QUARTERBACKING: "Big Robbie" Robertson ought to be writing this column today; he rolled in from Dallas Friday night a little too late to see the Westerners, his favorite high school team, but stayed over to see the Red Raiders, "business," of course, bringing him home at this particular date. He wasn't available when column-writing time came, but he came around after Saturday night's game and he had a heap to say about the Red Raiders.

If there's ever a "Football Fanatic" club organized, Big Robbie will be the president and general supervisor. He seldom lays a wager on a team, and when he does it's for a coke or a two-dollar bill, but his hobby is studying football and football teams, and if you're ever in doubt, Robbie will put you right. He hasn't been around Lubbock much in the last two or three years, but he keeps in close touch, and he finds it convenient to make a business trip this way on occasions of important Lubbock High and Texas Tech games.

Big Robbie was high in his praise of the Texas Tech performance Saturday night. "Oh, they had their rough edges, they looked pitiful in some cases, raggedas-thedevil in others. But, boy, you've got a team, and a couple of fine coaches out there."

ROBERTSON

We were about to say the same thing in this column, but since he said it, there's no use repeating it. He went on to say: "I don't know who's going to beat Tech this year. I've studied 'em all, and the Red Raiders ought to take 'em. They'll take their toughest games, and if they're beat or tied at all, it'll be by some team they least expect. It could happen against Oklahoma A. and M., or Loyola. Or even Miami, Creighton or St. Louis university. They'll kick the pants off New Mexico, Centenary and Wake Forest."

Okay, Robbie. Looks like you've got the right dope. How about some personalities?

"Well, that big Charlie Dvoracek didn't shine so hot Saturday night, but he's All-American. Give him the ball, I say, and he'll carry it along with him. He's as good as John Kimbrough, maybe better, if he can pass like you say. Don Austin is one of the best running backs in the country. He can start fast, stop fast, wiggle and wriggle. Red Amonett is the same. Roger Smith will be a great passer when he gets over his nervousness. That Willie Allbright will pave the way for a lot of touchdowns with his blocking. So will Ty Bain. Bob Phillips is a comer, and so is Muley Bates, although he had his troubles. Maxey McKnight and Glenn Lowe could do with any Southwest conference team, and so could Tom Douglass. Didn't get to see enough of Jumbo Webster, but when he's ready and willing, he'll be plenty, plenty hard to stop."

We checked these items off against the "books," and Robbie had 'em about right. He was a little disappointed in some of the line play, criticized the blocking, but was certain that "it'll take a magician to pick out the best seven linemen. Jimmy Driggers, he said, would make a helluva end, as will Harold Crossen. They're sophomores. The job is in good hands for the moment with Duncan, Bingham and Tillery. Shanks and Sewalt at tackles looked good, along with Warden Cudd. Doyle Caraway and Pat Farris at guards looked good to him, with Irons and Pipes at center. "But look out for that Garland Head and Buck Ewen. They'll be throwing rocks at each other for the center position before they're out of school."

THE TECH GAME went along according to plan, explains Coach Dell Morgan. He had explained the "plan" before the game, which was to use as many of his players as possible. He did not have the team "fired up" for the game. He admitted they looked ragged in spots, but he didn't have to admit that the Techs could have run up a larger score had they been so inclined. Morgan was neither disappointed nor enthusiastic over the game and its result; admitted that the team needed a lot of "smoothing up," but didn't appear very much worried over the future, if you get what he means—and we think you do.

NOTES AND QUOTES: Baylor's Bears, en route to Denver, will spend the day of October 2 in Amarillo . . . Baylor exes of the community will honor the team and Coach Frank Kimbrough with a dinner at 6 o'clock that evening . . . LaVern Roach, plucky flyweight Golden Gloves champion of this district, from Plainview, has been going great guns in New Mexico AAU tournament at Albuquerque, along with Welterweight Jack Gauch, of Littlefield . . . Roach, a big favorite in the State Golden Gloves finals at Fort Worth last winter, now campaigns as a bantam . . .

If you plan to see the traditional Texas Aggie-Texas U. game at College Station Nov. 27, you better be writing a man about a ticket . . . A near-sellout already is assured . . . E. W. Hooker, the Aggie ticket manager, will accept applications for tickets until they're all gone, but he warns they won't last long . . .

If, in the course of your dove, quail and duck hunting, you should happen to bring down a bird with a band on its leg, don't throw either the bird or the band away . . . The Texas Game commission points out that it is not illegal to shoot banded birds; it asks merely that you remove the band and send it to the commission's offices at Austin . . .

Publicity releases from a well known fishing tackle manufacturing concern include a couple of "write your congressman" suggestions . . . Under terms of a bill now pending, all artificial baits and metal tackle would be taxed so high as to make the purchase almost prohibitive . . . Under another bill, the "confiscation" of privately owned shootin' irons would be made "legal," for the sake of defense, probably to be melted up and moulded into army rifles . . . Yeah, but how about "home defense?" . . . There's nothing quite as "defensive" as a good shootin' iron standing in the corner or hanging on the homerack . . . Maybe you'd better write your congressman, at that . . .

Insurance For Gridders Set

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Sept. 22—Five thousand schoolboy football players will be protected under a plan formed here by the Texas High School Coaches association.

The group's directors in a meeting here yesterday, decided to put aside $2,000 a year for the care of permanently disabled gridders.

A maximum of $100 per month will be paid for 10 months a year for medical treatment of the disabled boy whose coach is a member of the association, under the plan.

The fund will be cumulative, and any money carried over will be added to the next year's $2,000. A special meeting would be held if money should be needed.

Recommendations to the board for this aid will be made by a committee composed of P. E. Shotwell of Longview, Harold Dement of Galena Park and Brooks Conover of Orange.

The association, which gets its funds through membership fees and proceeds from the annual coaching school and All-Star football game, voted to buy $3,000 worth of defense bonds.

Neutral Eire Teeming With Suspicion As Spy Capital Of Europe

U-Boats Land Nazi Agents

(EDITOR'S NOTE — From neutral Dublin, capital of free Eire, and from Belfast, belligerent capital of British North Ireland, NEA staff writer Paul Manning has sent three dispatches revealing how the Irish are living only slightly removed from the European war. The first of these keenly observant articles appears below).

BY PAUL MANNING
NEA Service Staff Writer

DUBLIN, Sept. 22—This city is today the spy center of Europe. Germans watch Irish, English watch Germans and Irish watch both.

Such close surveillance by the Irish of German-British activities is irritating to both belligerents.

No member of England's United Kingdom office or the German legation can lift a telephone without the conversation being carefully recorded. Even an innocent fresh-air walk never goes unnoticed.

And today, in the file of that Irish government official whose business it is to know such things, there rests the history and day-by-day activities of every known German and Englishman who has ever visited Ireland since the turbulent Black and Tan days.

Neutrals, too, do not escape. Thirty minutes after arriving in this beautiful Irish city of no blackout and abundant butter, an official in Government House whom I called upon said, by way of a conversation opener, "You're staying at the Shelbourne hotel, I understand."

For the duration of my stay at that hotel my luggage was periodically searched and my visitors all duly noted.

But it's a different type of spying than the kind you find in Lisbon, for instance. It's clean. When a hotel porter checks the movements you make, you know he's doing it for Ireland and not for the few dollars a foreign power might pay for that information.

Jealous Of Neutrality

The people of South Ireland are keenly jealous of their neutrality and are determined that nothing shall escape them that would in any way jeopardize that neutrality.

It becomes laughable at times, however—this spy business. One member of the United Kingdom office who was telephoning a friend during the few moments I was in his office suddenly stopped in the midst of that conversation and said as an aside to the Irishman who he knew was listening in on his telephone:

"Michael, are you getting all this down correctly?"

"Almost, sir," a voice promptly replied, "but I'd appreciate it if you talked a little slower."

Nazis Don't Like Idea

The English, like members of the American legation, have rationalized the whole business and know that it is virtually impossible to try to keep secrets from a people who have such a heritage of knowing the other man's business.

So they seldom attempt subterfuge because, as American Minister Gray says, "The Irish have lived underground for so long that, with their experience of the Black and Tan days, they can outsmart anyone that tries to get cute with them. That's why I play everything above board and that's why they trust me."

The Germans, however, find it hard to rationalize this Irish spy setup.

Germans Protest

Through the tradition established by Hollywood motion pictures and American fiction writers they, the Germans are the spy masters of this modern Europe. Yet they get away with nothing and so constantly complain to President Eamon DeValera about the "unsympathetic non-cooperation" of the present Irish government. De Valera, of course, always blandly apologizes and promises greater cooperation but still the spying goes on.

Every movement they make is being recorded. Movements, for example, as when Nazi fifth columnist and Nazi spies pass "secret" messages to the German agent who runs a barber shop in central Dublin, a transcript of which always, somehow, reaches official Irish eyes.

Even De Valera Spied On

But in fairness to the Wilhelmstrasse, it should be admitted that those Germans who are listed as official members of the German legation in Dublin are not too bright. That's why Germany tried to get diplomatic immunity from England after the outbreak of war—so they could bring them all back to Berlin and send, in their place, very bright Nazis who would make real trouble for the British.

Whitehall officials, naturally, would not agree to the immunity, and ever since Germany has been stuck with its pre-war crop of legation officials in Dublin, who have a penchant for doing the wrong thing at the wrong time.

The German press attache, for example, instead of creating the good feeling he is supposed to, causes nothing but bad feeling for the Nazi cause in Ireland because he insists on appearing in public with another man's wife—crime number one in an Ireland that is deeply religious and practices the commandment that "thou shall not covet another man's wife."

President Eamon De Valera could do nothing to stop it. Espionage, minding your neighbor's business, is too much a part of Ireland and today, even the president of Eire is not above observation.

Estate Is Guarded

To the IRA extremists De Valera must be watched, always, so even his movements are recorded in their organization's books. So flagrant has this watching of De Valera become that the president of Ireland has bodyguards and every foot of his estate just outside Dublin is patrolled by guards.

Transmission of daily messages in code by radio, of course, is the stuff of spies and that is what occurs in the hollow of one ring of low hills on the outskirts of Dublin.

From Ireland to Berlin these messages go but they are sent not by members of the German legation but by Nazi sympathizers and special agents who work apart from the legation. The special agents are set ashore at night by submarines at various points along the south Ireland coast and when daylight comes they are quietly billeted with Irish who think as they do.

The English know this, the Irish are aware of it and probably the Germans of the Nazi legation realize the transmission-to-Berlin setup which exists. But only occasionally, when a member of Parliament inadvertently says, as did one recently, that "secret Nazi transmitters in the hills of Ireland must be stopped," does it all come into the open.

TUESDAY: An apprehensive Eire faces another WIR winter.

The daily movement of the tides is lengthening by a thousandth part of a second every century, scientists say.

Vigilant though neutral Eire is, keeping a sharp lookout, as above, against spies or invaders, it is an open secret that Nazi agents operate a radio station to Berlin from the mountains outside Dublin, as sketched in inset, at top. These agents are brought to Eire by submarine, where they are met and hidden by Irishmen friendly to their cause.

SEES SURPRISES—W. H. Harrison, above, OPM's director of defense building projects, predicts production figures for October will surprise all and stop gossip that plane-tank-ship-bullet building has lagged seriously.

Experiment To Give Youths No-Liquor Night Club Fizzles

CHICAGO, Sept. 22 (U.P.) — An experiment in providing youth with a no-liquor night club on the site of the huge "Theater-Cafe" once operated by Michael Todd apparently had fizzled today because of the club's failure to obtain a license.

Standing near the "milk bar" and "coke-tail" lounge of his $10,000 venture, Promoter Billy Stearn moaned last night as police turned away several hundred youthful patrons arriving for opening night festivities which were to feature torch singer Dinah Shore and Charlie Spivak's band.

Stearn said he had been assured a license for the "Palladium" and termed the reason for his failure to obtain one a "mystery." The district police headquarters said the license was withheld because the building had been condemned.

The Palladium, which Stearn called "the answer to a parent's prayer," planned to sell hamburgers, soft drinks and malted milks to 'teen-aged youths too young for night clubs.

St. Augustine Records Casting Some Doubt On Virginia Dare's Niche In Early History

(By The United Press)

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Sept. 22 The oldest American city has produced records designed to show that Virginia Dare, of the famous Lost Colony of Roanoke, was not the first white child born in America.

Mrs. Katherine Lawson, historian for the St. Augustine Historical society and Institute of Science, says that her research proved that a Spaniard by the name of Martin de Arguelles was born in St. Augustine more than 20 years before the Dare child was born in 1587. Authority for the claims was derived primarily from the Woodbury Lowery collection of Florida manuscripts in the Library of Congress.

Explanation Made

The first appearance of the record upon which the claims are based occurs under a 1598 date when Arguelles attempted to collect salary due him for service in the Spanish army.

Mrs. Lawson said that the birth and life of Arguelles was not discovered sooner because the legal material concerning his career in the Spanish army carried no Florida or "San Agustin" identification.

When Virginia Dare was born in Roanoke, according to Mrs. Lawson, Arguelles was serving in the Armada in search of Sir Francis Drake.

Paper Is Quoted

The St. Augustine historian says: "In addition to copies of Arguelles' appointment to be sergeant major and orders of the viceroy and king concerning the matter, the Spanish manuscript contains Arguelles' own declaration and testimony of a number of responsible witnesses, all apparently trustworthy."

Conforming to legal formalities of this day, Arguelles made a statement of his ancestry, then presented a resume of his father's and his own services, saying that he was the legitimate son of Martin de Arguelles and of Leonor de Morale, his wife, and that he was the "first Spaniard born in San Agustin."

Following this Arguelles asserted that his parents were of the first settlers in Florida, and that his father, because of his noble blood, was appointed Alcalde Ordinario and was the first to "raise the wand of justice for the king in the Province of Florida."

Rationing Of Autos In Future Forecast

DENVER, Sept. 22. (AP) — Take god care of your automobile—the time may not be far off when they will be rationed to buyers who need them most.

The tip came today from L. Clare Cargile, president of the National Automobile Dealers association, who said in an interview that this country's automobile production has been curtailed 50 per cent and "will be far more drastic as time goes on."

Cargile also said this may result in a jump in driving hazards because with new car output cut, fewer old cars will be junked. "Then the percentage of unsafe jaloppies on the highways will go up," he asserted.

Cargile believes some sort of rationing system may be made effective next spring when "the problem will be to see to it that the fellow who needs a car the most gets first chance at one."

"Don't take what I say as an urge to buy new cars now," said Cargile, a dealer at Texarkana, Ark. "Maybe you don't need a new car. If you don't, leave it for the man who does or will shortly."

Scotland has a "more tanks" drive.

That Girl on Broadway says automobile lights—not drivers—should be lit after dark.

AFFABLE Louie Moore, Ed Allen's chief cook and bottle washer over at the county clerk's office, has a brother, named Orville, who now is in the service of his Uncle Sam.

Orville didn't know it, but in a recent letter to big Brother Louie, he passed out some information—straight from the feedbox—that should come in handy here at Lubbock in a very few months.

Young Moore is now soldiering at Denver and remarked that last Sunday some of the Denver people took some of the soldiers on an automobile trip into the mountains. Telling of his delight in the trip, and of the courtesy and the kindness of the Denver people, young Moore, a private, added another story which might be called "A Tale of Two Cities."

Soldiering with him there in Denver are numbers of Northern boys who put in their first service in the Old South.

On being transferred to Denver for advanced service, these boys had two layovers—one in an unnamed Southern city of large size; the other in Dallas.

During their layover in the unnamed city, no one paid any attention to them. There was no reception. Not even any kind words. In fact, when some of the soldiers sought to enter a restaurant in that unnamed city, they were denied admission because they were soldiers!

That "burned them up," as it will "burn up" anybody with any sense of decency.

But when the boys got to Dallas for their layover, it was another story.

Dallas greeted them with open arms; showed them plenty of good, decent hospitality; sent them away happy.

Today, reports Private Orville Moore to Brother Louie, the boys hiss mention of the unnamed city, but always put in a loud boost for Dallas.

PRETTY soon, we're going to have a lot of soldiers here at the air base, just 10 miles west of town.

We can make, forever and a day, a great bunch of Lubbock boosters who will sing this city's praises wherever they go. Or, we can grow knockers by the hundreds and the thousands. It all depends on us citizens.

The Plainsman isn't afraid that any responsible person in Lubbock will be either mean, or discourteous, or both, to the soldiers who will be our western neighbors. He knows Lubbock people too well to fear that any soldier in full possession of his faculties will be refused admission to any business house in our town.

But we have to—or, at least, should—go much further than that. We should put ourselves out to make these boys as happy as we can, and to make them know that Lubbock is for them.

We must go out of our way to be helpful, to be kind, to be hospitable at all time.

After all—and forgetting any good we may get out of such courtesy—aren't they preparing to fight for us, as well as for themselves, their loved ones and their home towns?

By gosh, we owe it to them!

Be yourself. You'll be found out sooner or later, anyway!

That Man on Avenue O says the only trouble with second thought is, it always comes too late to be of any value.

THERE'S something more than mere mechanics to running a big airline passenger plane from one point to another, judging from the recent experience of Capt. Paul Carpenter, of American Airlines, as he roared toward El Paso on the tenth anniversary of his taking over that run.

On board Capt. Carpenter's ship, in addition to the usual load of passengers, crew, mail, etc., were a hive of bees and a lion cub—the latter the property of a Hollywood movie actress. As the plane was negotiating the trans-Pecos country, a gosh-awful racket was heard in the express and baggage compartment. It was the lion cub and he was howling like a lonesome panther.

The stewardess and the co-pilot investigated, discovered that what they feared was true. The bees had gotten out of their hive and were happily feeding on the anatomy of the lion.

The pilot and crew held a hurried conversation; decided the only thing to do was to get rid of the bees. Airline captains have the right to toss anything overboard they think it necessary to get rid of.

But by the time the decision was made, the lion had ceased its squalling and as the big ship soared along at an altitude of more than 10,000 feet to cross the mountains, another check was made of the baggage compartment. The bees were lying about everywhere, unconscious—out like Lottie's eye.

They had been rendered unconscious from anoxemia—lack of oxygen supply at the high altitude.

The stewardess—(those girls can do anything)—gathered up the unconscious bees and put them in a box where they couldn't get out after lower altitudes, and accompanying increase of oxygen, made them active again.

As far as we know, the rest of the flight was without incident.

Before we get away from aviation and Capt. Carpenter, we think you might be interested in knowing that the pilot, who has more than 2,000 hours of passenger plane operation without an accident, considers burning oil and gas flares in the vicinity of Midland, Odessa and Wink the most spectacular things he has ever seen from the air and he never gets tired of looking at them as he flies along.

Two flares near Odessa, he reports, are particularly bright.

They're so bright that Capt. Carpenter frequently reads a newspaper by their light while the co-pilot and the "robot pilot" take the plane along 10,000 feet above the flares.

IT'S a far cry from the peaceful stretches of the South Plains to the eerie heights of the Bavarian Alps, but Sunday afternoon the long relentless arm of Adolf Hitler reached from Berchtesgaden to Lubbock to snuff out the life of one of our own fine boys — Shelby Harper, a soldier in the service of his country.

And the tragic mishap at Municipal airport proved all over again that the best laid plans of mice and men often go awry, for the plane which killed Lieutenant Harper was not built as an instrument of death and destruction for American boys. Instead, it was built to serve as a weapon against the minions of mad dictators who today seek to enslave the world to further their lust and greed for power.

It is, of course, poor solace in this hour of their heartbreak. But it should be chronicled here for future contemplation that the sympathy of all Lubbock today goes out to Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Harper, 1610 Avenue Y, parents of "The Three Flying Harpers" of which there now remain but two. Thousands of their fellow citizens — strangers to them — join with personal friends in rueing the whims of fate which brought about the sad accident.

But although their grief will be poignant for moons to come, the Harpers will not permit their spirits to be broken.

The Plainsman does not know the parents; he knows the "Two Flying Harpers" who are left only in the most casual way.

But a family which generously has provided three boys for the Army's flying service and has given one forever is made of sterner stuff.

To Lieutenants Bryan and Clarence Harper, who still proudly wear their country's wings, we say:

Each of you now has half as much again to do — but you can do it. Carry on!

Chapter 32
Who?

"It was that party this afternoon," Jeff went on, "God! If only I'd been awake. It's so simple. She stood in the window, Haila, she stood there for ten minutes. And then, after she moved away . . . after she moved away, the shot came through. She draped herself in the window, a perfect target for the Esquador Hotel, and nothing happened. But after she moved away . . . not till then, was the shot fired. Don't you see what it means, Haila? That bullet wasn't meant to kill Carol!"

"Wasn't meant to . . ."

"That shot was fired through the window to keep us thinking that Carol was the intended victim."

"But if it wasn't Carol, then who was the murderer trying to kill?"

"Eve. Eve North was the victim all along. And the murderer made his mistake the first night, not the second. His mistake was when he poisoned Carol, not when he stabbed Eve."

"Eve North." I shook my head. It was too much for me.

"It was Eve who was supposed to have been killed. And she was! Carol's safe. And you're safe, so go to bed. I'll call you in the morning."

He left me in the doorway and I could hear him taking the steps three at a time. I glanced at the closed bedroom door and then at my watch. It was twenty minutes to three.

I got sheets and blankets out of the hall closet, stuffed one of the big sofa pillows into a case and made up my bed on the studio couch.

I didn't think I would disturb Carol.

Theater At Three

The monotonous drumming of rain at the window awakened me and I sat up wondering why I felt glum and sour and hangoverish. Then I remembered. Carol was in my room and she and I had a few things to straighten out and there was no use putting it off longer. I went quietly to the bedroom and opened the door.

The room was empty and the bed had either been made or not slept in at all. There was a little gap between my row of dresses in the closet where Carol's clothes had hung and a vacant space on the shelf where I had stuck her suitcase. A sprinkling of powder and a few blond hairpins wedged into the cracks of the dresser drawer were all that remained of Carol's belongings.

I breathed a sigh of relief and experienced my first kindly feelings toward her since Jeff had exploded his bombshell the night before. I was sincerely grateful for her quiet exodus, for I had dreaded the chat that was scheduled more than I cared to admit.

Well, that was that. And the next time I befriended a gal she would be a Golden Eagle Scout or a certified Sunday school teacher.

I bathed and dressed and with a cup of strong black coffee at my elbow and the long neglected Though Heavens Fall on my lap, I calmly settled myself to wait for Jeff's call.

On page four I gave up. Every character was saying: "Carol was never meant to be killed . . . Nobody tried to kill Carol . . . It was Eve all along, Eve who was the victim . . . She sat in the window ten minutes . . . a perfect target . . . and then she moved away . . . Carol's safe . . . a dipsomaniac . . . a thief . . . she blackmails people . . . but no one tried to kill her. . . ."

I shut Though Heavens Fall in disgust and flung it at the telephone. Twelve-thirty and Jeff hadn't called. Keep me informed, would he? Call me in the morning, keep in constant touch with me, was that what he had said? I dialed his number and there was no answer. I called it every five minutes until one o'clock and then I decided to do some sleuthing on my own.

I called Steve Brown's hotel and the desk clerk said there was no answer. Tommy Neilson wasn't in his room. Philip Ashley told me in brief, unpleasant terms that he didn't give a damn about Mr. Jeff Troy's whereabouts. I dialed the Rehearsal Club number and succeeded in getting Alice McDonald away from an important script.

"This is Haila," I said. "Alice, have you seen anything of Jeff?"

"I've been locked up in my room all morning with an important script that . . ."

"I know. Thanks. I thought maybe Jeff had called you. So long."

"Haila! Wait a second!"

"Yes?"

"Why would Jeff call me?"

"No special reason, I just thought maybe he had."

"Haila, I saw Carol Blanton walking down Fifty-third Street alone this morning. Isn't that . . . dangerous?"

"No, it's all right. I mean . . . maybe you were mistaken, Alice. Good-by."

I hung up and for ten minutes paced the floor. I was wondering if I should call Greeley Morris and what would happen if I did when the phone shrilled in my ear. I jumped a mile before I picked it up.

"Hello, you big bum!"

"This is Alice. Jeff just called me, Haila. But he was in a hurry, I didn't have a chance to tell him about you."

"Where was he?"

"I don't know where he called from. But he's going to be at the theater at three. He asked me to get hold of Phoebe Thompson and Ashley and tell them to be there, too. I don't know what's happening, do you? He was very mysterious."

"Well, you know more than I do."

"Will you be there?"

"I haven't been invited."

"Don't be silly! Jeff seemed in a terrible rush. You're in this as much as anybody."

I replaced the phone and leaned back. Alice, Phoebe, Ashley and Jeff! Well, either Jeff was going to have the girls teach him and Steve to dance or something was going to happen. And he was going to let it happen without me. That's what he thought.

I changed into some old clothes, put on my plaid trench coat and started out. It was still raining in a steady downpour, but it wasn't a cold rain and it felt clean and soft on my face. I splashed over to Broadway. Before I got there the rain had turned to snow and the pavements were mush covered. The day darkened and the lights shone mistily through skyscraper office windows.

Through the great oval glass of a restaurant I thought I could smell the fragrance of the steaming coffee that was being served inside. At once I was hungry and cold and I stopped uncertainly to peer at my watch. Not quite two-thirty. There was plenty of time for a sandwich and a cup of coffee. Then, with a nice display of will power, I turned my head and went on. It would be better to arrive at the theater a little early than a little late. I wanted to see Jeff's flush of pleased surprise when he got there and spied me.

On Stage Again

Alice McDonald was standing at the entrance of the Colony stage alley. With her mannish black rubber slicker, an old felt hat pulled down over her eye and overshoes on low-heeled brogans, she looked ready for a hurricane.

"Nice day, Alice, for you know what."

"I love it, the wind and the rain."

"Anyone here yet?"

"No, nobody. Let's go in."

"You bet."

"Oh, Nick's here. Asleep in his chair at the door as usual. We'll be careful not to waken the poor old man."

Together we sloshed down the alley, almost dark now, and through the stage door. Nick was at the low table just inside, his pipe in his mouth and his head bent over a sheaf of papers. He was sound asleep. There wasn't a movement from him as we slipped by and went out onto the stage.

Nothing had been changed since that tragic night when I had opened the door on stage right and found Eve North's dead body huddled behind it. Even the small hand props scattered about the room were as we had left them,

A GOOD JOB OF MANAGING

One official board that has been doing its job in a big way is the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster commission.

Illustrative is the recent report that approximately 12,000,000 fingerlings are to be placed in fishings grounds of Texas this year.

The number of fingerlings is most impressive. But far more impressive than numbers is the information that it has cost only a half cent apiece to raise them to fingerling size. Only a few years ago, according to the report, the cost was 47 cents per fingerling. The report emphasizes that, with existing facilities, the limit has just about been reached in production and production costs.

The value of the health-giving fun and pleasure that the quest of these fish will provide many, many thousands of Texans is something that is impossible to estimate. As food, they will have a definite value to many people. As a potential source of food in a world which cannot ignore the possibility of famine, they are an added safeguard of value impossible to compute now.

But it can be asserted with complete assurance that the least value this particular investment can have will be many times the cost.

Uncle Sam Learns To Play The "I Spy" Game

BY PETER EDSON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—This is the $611,500 international spy and diamond smuggling story of a certain rich man — you'd know just how rich if it were permitted to mention his name, which can't be done just now because to do so would end his usefulness to his Uncle Samuel.

Anyhow, early in the defense effort this man volunteered his services to his country as an agent in one of the intelligence units. He had all the qualifications necessary, speaking several languages, knowing his way around, having good contacts and all that, so he was assigned to checking up on German operations in South America.

PETER EDSON

One of the facts of life this counter-espionage agent had observed in New York was that Nazi agents, when closing a deal, always produced a roll of bills of fantastic denominations like $500, or $1,000 or even $10,000. Bills in those sizes are rather rare, as you may have noticed, and because of that they can easily be traced, merely by noting their serial numbers every time they are banked. Knowing this, the rich-man-counter-espionage agent started to trail the movements of some of these big bills.

GETS COMPLICATED

FIRST off, he found that along in March, 1940, a roll of these ox-chokers had been used to open an account in New York by a couple of gentlemen who a short time previously had entered the United States as refugees, kicked out of Germany by Hitler persecution. Little by little, it was found that this account, adding up to $611,500, was being transferred by cable to the Bank of Panama, credited to the account of a man who lived in Rio de Janeiro.

Then a bank in Rio began to draw on the Panama account, and to transfer the funds in U. S. dollars to a bank in Johannesburg, South Africa. The purpose of all this international banking was apparently an effort to hide the trail. U. S. big bills were used wherever possible because they are sound currency the world over, and the jugglers tried to make the exchange look like normal business transactions.

As the money finally got to South Africa, however, it was traced and found to be used for the purchase of industrial diamonds in the illegitimate diamond trade. Diamond production is of course closely controlled by the British in South Africa, but a certain amount of bootlegging in the lower grade industrial diamonds is carried on. The fact that the Nazis were forced to go through all this international undercover stuff shows how desperately the German industrial machine needed these diamonds for their precision cutting and machine tooling.

Once the diamonds were bought, the problem was to get them back to Germany, and here is where the really fascinating game of intrigue began.

From South Africa the diamonds were smuggled back to Rio. Now Rio itself is quite a diamond market, center for the Brazilian fields which supply a part of U. S. industry's low grade diamond demand, but not enough to meet the world demand for the better quality stones. So the Germans, still trying to cover up their trail from South Africa via New York and Panama, took their smuggled diamonds right back into the diamonds fields of Brazil and there went through a fake "discovery" and mining operation, to make it appear their supplies were obtained on the open market.

AND SO TO BERLIN

OSTENSIBLY legitimate diamonds, the German supply was now taken in the open back to Rio, and here it was legitimate freight which could be taken as legally declared cargo back to Europe. That was easy. Just last month, the diamonds were put on board the plane of an Italian airline running from Brazil to Italy and off they went.

Discovery of all this tangled web was unfortunately not made in time to prevent the shipments covered by this particular $611,500, but from here on this daisy chain is broken. Freezing the bank accounts of Germans prevents transfer of funds outside the United States. Blacklisting of firms acting as German agents has blocked their further commercial activities. And the British are a lot wiser than they were before this began, so a closer check is being kept on the outlaw diamond trade.

All this intrigue has two rather amazing morals. First, no matter how mistreated or persecuted refugees may have been while back in Germany, some of them still aren't above doing business with Hitler, if they can make a profit at it. And second, those diamonds could never have been flown from Brazil to Italy if U. S. oil companies operating in South America would just stop selling 100-octane aviation gas to Italian airlines.

ADD BLACKLIST

TWO or three American citizens have been caught in the list of certain blocked nationals, otherwise known as the blacklist, recently proclaimed by the United States in co-operation with the Latin American republics. Their names are public property, but no official publicity is to be given these cases, first because they are so few in number, and second because in every instance the Americans were innocent victims of circumstances and they have now taken steps to sever their connections with the firms which have been designated as having Nazi or Fascist sympathies.

A typical case would be that of an American citizen, native-born or naturalized, who had been act-the scarlet-tipped stubs of cigarettes that I had smoked still in the ash trays. Half hidden by the blotter on the desk was the note that I had written while old Ben Kerry and I had played that last scene.

Except for a single shadeless rehearsal lamp that stood ludicrously in the center of that lovely set and filled it with a bleak white glare, it was all the same. It seemed strange to me, for no reason at all, that so much could have happened to all of us who played there while it remained serenely unchanged.

Alice's hand tightened on my arm and we walked over to the light. 'Haila," she said softly, "has Jeff found out anything? Does he know . . . . "

"I haven't seen him since last night." I pulled my arm away from her. I didn't care for Alice when she got intense.

"He knows who the murderer is, doesn't he?"

"Jeff doesn't confide in me, the big goop."

"He knows; that's why he's having everyone meet here. He's told you who it is, hasn't he?"

"I said that . . . "

"I know. You won't tell me. It's because you don't like me, Haila. You've never liked me; you're jealous of me—because I come from a family of great actors, because of my heritage!"

I turned my back on her and started for the door. I wasn't going to listen to a performance by a frustrated actress. I had taken three steps when she clutched my arm and swung me around.

Then suddenly, the light wavered, as if it had been a candle, and went out.

One case which caused most trouble was that of a U. S. citizen who was one of the biggest suppliers of newsprint and printing papers to the German propaganda machine in South America. This Gringo made all his transactions in the name of recognized South American publications, but a check up showed that the paper was being bootlegged to the Nazi propagandists.

Hitler Driving For Caucasus Oil Supply

Russia's Need Is Equipment

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Journal War Analyst

The Russian position is increasingly grave, but not one to cause the Muscovites to despair.

So long as morale — not only military but civilian — holds good and loyal, the Bolshevists ought to be able with the aid of the winter weather to establish theinselves ultimately on a line of defense which they can maintain. This would mean a continuation next spring of the war which Hitler is straining every nerve to liquidate now.

But further heavy withdrawals of Red troops must be expected. This is especially true in the crucial battle of the Ukraine, where the Nazis continue to batter their way forward.

Caucasus Oil Is Goal

The outcome of this bloody engagement will influence the whole course of the war. Hitler's objective is the Caucasus: storehouse of the oil which he needs — gateway to the Middle East — and Russia's lifeline to the Persian gulf and supplies from the outside world, including America.

The Nazi chief is sacrificing lives and materials on a colossal scale in his effort to reach this goal. If he can make the grade, he will be in a much better position to carry on a long war. If he fails, he will face a critical situation in the spring.

The Bolshevists under Marshal Budyenny, the old Cossack cavalry man, have been defending this territory inch by inch. The fighting is terrific and in many instances has reverted to hand-to-hand conflict with bayonets, such as reported from Odessa.

Reds' Need Equipment

If all that was necessary to halt this rush was courage and willingness to die, it would have been stopped, but the indications are that the Reds are suffering from a great shortage of supplies and equipment. In particular do they need tanks and warplanes, without which they cannot stand up against the Nazi avalanche.

The Nazis claim to have reached the sea of Azov and cut the Crimea off entirely from the mainland. This peninsula, on which lies the naval base of Sevastopol, is the main seat of Russian naval power in the Black sea. Were it incapacitated it would be a grave threat to Soviet control of this vital inland water.

Plan Other Major Moves

I have indicated previously the German strategy in this drive, but it is worth emphasizing in view of its great importance. If you will look at your maps you will see that Hitler is trying to move his armies eastward through the sector north of the sea of Azov, so that he can turn southward into the Caucasus.

Meanwhile, the Nazis have collected naval vessels in Bulgarian ports with the idea of driving across the Black sea and making a landing in the Caucasus so as to cooperate with the German forces of the north. At the same time it is said that Berlin is putting heavy pressure on Turkey to grant the Axis passage of Italian warships and supply vessels through the Dardanelles to participate in this great operation.

Japan Brands Foreigner A Spy Until He Is Proved Otherwise

BY MAX HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, Sept. 22—The foreigner, a bit uncertain as to which way he should go because the only signs were in Japanese, went down the stairs into the Ginza station of the subway, there to be engulfed by the mass of Japanese pushing their way into the cars.

He bowed politely to the man in the next seat and asked whether the train were bound for Shibuya, and how many stations away it was.

He was the only foreigner in the car. Around him on all sides were cold glances of suspicion. Why was he there?

The Japanese, unable to cast aside the traditional courtesy of his race, responded that yes, this was the train for Shibuya. Then he hurriedly got up and moved to another part of the car. There are many Japanese these troubled days who report fellow citizens who talk with foreigners.

Many Germans Evident

Japan today is decidedly spy conscious. Strangely enough this development coincides with the arrival of hundreds of Germans, some of whom have definite official places in the business of censorship and allied matters.

Another foreigner, this time a newspaperman, invited a Japanese friend to have lunch with him, and the next day stern police were on hand to warn the Japanese against such associations. They wanted to know in detail what the two had talked about.

The vernacular and even the government have two favorite terms for the present situation. It is either "delicate" or it is "tense." Four years of depressing warfare in China have driven the Japanese to suspicions which are alien to their nature. They would like to be a friendly, pleasure-enjoying empire, but they can't. Forces out of control drive them on.

Telephone Restrictions

Latest manifestation of the suspicion attached to foreigners came with the new telephone and telegraph regulations. Inside Japan, except within the limits of the city in which you are talking, all telephone conversation must be in Japanese.

This rather effectively keeps newspaper correspondents in Tokyo, for few if any know Japanese well enough to dictate a story in that language. The moment a word is spoken in another language the circuit is broken.

Let a group of foreigners—Germans and Italians included—gather in the lobby of the once swank Imperial hotel, and almost immediately an unobtrusive Japanese will be seated nearby, studying the ceiling.

Spearhead of the anti-spy campaign, which was marked by a week of special lectures, pictures and posters, is the severe National Defense Security Law, which includes the death penalty for some violations of its provisions. It applies to Japanese and foreigners alike.

The poster says: "Wait a minute! Spy has eyes and ears."

"See no military secret"
"Hear no alarming rumors"
"Speak no secret"

LEITCHFIELD, Ky. (AP) — Coy Nevitt, nominated for state representative, is seriously considering riding to Frankfort, the capitol, on his 30-year-old mule.

Nevitt, who has no opposition in the November election, did his stumping aboard the aged animal during a torrid campaign in which he defeated a veteran of four legislative sessions.

A PAIR A DAY

COTTONWOOD, Idaho (AP) — Mrs. N. E. Rooke learned to knit when she was six so she might do her bit in the Civil war. Today, she claims something of a record in having knitted for refugees and soldiers of every war since that first one in her life. At 91, she is turning out a pair of socks a day for the Red Cross and aiming at her record of the last World war when she produced 100 pairs.

Bomb Service Crews In Army Praised For Dangerous Work

(By The Associated Press)

LAKE CHARLES, La., Sept. 22—The men who convert harmless looking objects into deadly cargoes of aerial bombs take their work seriously—even in rehearsal.

They are members of a bomb service crew being trained at the air base here during the Louisiana army maneuvers to rush bombs from hidden dumps, fin and fuse them and lace them to planes.

Other Crews Training

Similar crews are training at other bases.

"I would rather handle bombs any day," one officer said, "than try to cross through traffic on Fifth avenue in New York. Reasonable care is all that's needed."

The men are rehearsing their jobs daily with "reasonable care" even though their practice bombs are only shells loaded with sand instead of TNT. The weights, however, are equivalent.

Bomb dumps are favorite targets of enemy aviation and must be concealed some distance from an air base. As an added precaution against attack from the sky, the service crew has camouflaged its dump in a nest of oak trees one mile from the Lake Charles air base.

None Over 2,000 Pounds

The crew is training with shells ranging in weight from 100 to 1,000 pounds. The army uses no bombs over 2,000 pounds. When ordered the crew must deliver a specified number of bombs to the airbase by a certain time. They carry their load in trucks which must not travel faster than 10 miles an hour. They clock themselves on the time it takes to deliver their load.

At the flying field, the crew puts metal fins on the bombs to stabilize them in their downward flight and then places fuses in the tail and nose. The fuses are used to set off the bombs.

Army Bagpipe Band Being Organized

FORT DIX, N. J., Sept. 22 (U.P.) — If odd sounds, resembling the fury of the winds, are heard coming from the 44th division parade grounds, don't be alarmed. It's just the new army band.

Col. Lansing McVickar, commanding officer of the 156th field artillery, has ordered the organization of a bagpipe band.

Pvt. Theodore Safford, trombonist and bagpipe enthusiast, was directed to round up enough pipers to complete the organization. He is the son of Prof. Thomas Safford, director emeritus of music at Williams college.

A Laxative Leader has to be Good!

The hardest test of any product is the use-test. It is especially true of a laxative, which is used under all kinds of conditions.

Yet one herbal laxative has been tested in use by four generations, and proved so good that today it's one of the leaders all over the Southwest — BLACK-DRAUGHT.

This spicy compound of vegetable ingredients has proved itself. The basic herb is an "intestinal tonic-laxative" which helps tone lazy intestinal muscles. Other herbs in the blend make BLACK-DRAUGHT easy-to-take and gentle in action.

When you need a laxative, give BLACK-DRAUGHT the use-test. Adv.
