'Bear Hunting' Committee Forces Sensational Disclosures Of Stock Deals

SHORT SELLERS INCLUDE MANY OUTSIDE OF U. S.

Richard Whitney Admits German Bond Price Was Pegged

'GIANTS' ARE CALLED

Percy Rockefeller And Matthew Brush On Hand At Quiz

By EDWARD L. RODDAN

WASHINGTON, April 21. (US)—The senate banking and currency committee today ripped open the whole fabric of stock market manipulation with a series of amazing disclosures unrivaled in recent records.

With Richard Whitney, president of the New York stock exchange on the witness stand, the committee uncovered the following astounding facts:

1. Foreign traders, notably French, were among the "bear raiders who beat down the market by heavy short selling during the recent decline of security prices.

Bond Prices "Pegged"

2. A syndicate including the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., "pegged the price of German bonds on the market while this same syndicate was engaged in unloading the bonds upon the American investing public. About the time this selling was over, the pegging operation stopped.

3. These pegging orders were executed through the brokerage firm in which Whitney himself is a member and while he was president of the exchange.

4. The bonds purchased by the Morgan syndicate during a period of 18 or 20 days totaled $9,200,000 or nearly 10 per cent of the entire $98,000,000 German issues. They were pegged around 90 and are now selling at about 35.

Public Crossed

5. Senator Brookhart said this practice was "double-crossing" the public while William A. Gray, committee counsel, said it opened the door to "fraud."

6. Financial giants like Percy Rockefeller, nephew of John D. Sr., and Matthew Brush were among those present in the committee room waiting to testify under subpoena.

7. Chairman Norbeck catechized Whitney with a group of questions intended to "put him on record" and accused the witness of lacking frankness in answering questions about market manipulation.

8. The committee made public a partial list of the heavy short sellers as of April 8 which senators charged was evidently loaded down with "dummy accounts" to cover up the principal operators.

Whitney Upset

In marked contrast to Whitney's previous appearances before the committee, the senate chalked up a big victory in its battle with the "Wall street" giants.

Gray, square-jawed Philadelphia lawyer, shot searching questions which destroyed the usual complacency of the urbane Whitney.

Before he finished, Gray completely dispelled the aura of morality which the witness had draped around stock market practices and forced Whitney to concede that he does have knowledge of "pooling" operations by market speculators to force up prices.

Gray went further by showing Whitney example after example of the way in which the "rules" of the stock exchange can be violated in regard to short selling and other devices of the market players.

Figures Juggled

For good measure, the committee's attorney got the witness to admit the figures he gave the house judiciary committee on short sale covering Sept. 21 last, when England went off the gold standard, were far under the actual figures.

But whenever Gray suggested new rules to curb short-selling, Whitney always pondered with a pained look and then decided that it would force the market to close and prove "disastrous" to the country.

Notable on the list of short-sellers made public by the committee was the Travellers Bank of Paris, which was short in 17 different issues on April 8 and had sold 35,225 shares of General Motors short. An Amsterdam bank was also a heavy trader on the short side.

Watson Charges Plot

There also was R. Patenotre of Paris holding 9,000 shares short. He is said to be a member of the French chamber of deputies and accompanied Premier Laval on his visit to this country. The committee will probe this foreign selling to the bottom.

Senator Watson, Republican leader and a committee member, said later he was convinced that international bankers were trying to smash the market, hold up American business recovery, and thus compel cancellation of the European war debts.

Republican House Member Dies of Influenza Attack

WASHINGTON, April 21. (UP)—Representative Edward M. Beers, Republican of Mount Union, Pa., died in the naval hospital here today from complications resulting from an attack of influenza.

He was taken ill a month ago and suffered a relapse today that brought his death.

Keeps Dancing

Money is music to Miss Elva McGuinness, pretty dancer in a Beverly Hills cafe, shown above. Elva inherited $75,000 when her grandfather died in Ireland. She plans to put her fortune into a trust fund and keep on tap dancing in the cafe, she says.

DAWES DAMNS CREPE HANGERS

Business Is Better, Avers Blunt General

WASHINGTON, April 21. (US)—Gen. Charles G. Dawes told the house ways and means committee today business is improving, but it will suffer a killing blow if congress passes the Patman bill to issue $2,400,000,000 in fiat money to pay the soldiers' bonus.

Smoking his understung pipe, and giving vent to numerous "hells" and "damns," shaking his fists, Dawes slashed back at critics of the Reconstruction Finance corporation of which he is chairman, with the record of its operations showing widespread support to institutions in distress.

Banks Making Loans

Wall street "gamblers" and the "damn demagogues" who are spreading a lot of "half-baked stuff" among the people, came in for his cudgels. Speaking of the Reconstruction corporation, he shouted:

"We in our positions are realizing that there is a marked change in the business situation. The banks are beginning to make loans.

"Anybody who sits down there knows that things are better and we known a damn sight more about what is going on and are in a better position to get a cross-section than anybody sitting in that security peanut stand in Wall street."

Applause and Laughter

Applause and gales of laughter swept the crowded hearing room as the fiery Dawes punctuated his remarks with a bang on the table or a swear word. He said he had studied only the Patman bill.

Asked by Representative Treadway, Republican, of Massachusetts,

LOVE TRIANGLE SUGGESTED IN FLIER'S DEATH

Aviator-Journalist Found Shot on Porch Of Miami Home

TWO HELD IN CASE

Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian Aviatrix, Involved in Case

MIAMI, Fla., April 21. (UP)—A love triangle "unquestionably lies behind" the mysterious death of Haden Clarke, young Miami aviator-journalist, State's Attorney Vernon Hawthorne of Dade county told the United Press late Thursday.

Clarke was found fatally wounded at 3 a. m. on the sunporch of a bungalow he jointly occupied here with the internationally famous Australian aviatrix, Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, and her technical adviser, Capt. W. N. Lancaster of Pittsburgh.

Both Mrs. Keith-Miller and Captain Lancaster were held under technical arrest for questioning in connection with the shooting.

"We do not suspect Mrs. Keith-Miller," the state's attorney said. "We have questioned her thoroughly, and we believe she has told the full truth, as she knows it."

Notes Found

Numerous notes were found written by Clarke, allegedly substantiating the state's attorney's assertion that a triangular love affair had developed in the bungalow home, where Clarke had taken up his residence as a "ghost writer" for Mrs. Keith-Miller's forthcoming memories of notable air adventures.

"Bill, (Captain Lancaster), I can't make the grade," read one of the notes. "Tell Chubbie (Mr. Keith-Miller) of our talk. My advice is never to leave her again."

Even stronger evidence, the state's attorney said, was a letter written to the captain by Clarke and Mrs. Keith-Miller during Lancaster's recent trip north in quest of finances to meet publication cost of the Keith-Miller book.

Captain Admits Letter

"There was such a letter written," Hawthorne said, after he had been asked if Clarke had not told the captain he and Mrs. Keith-Miller contemplated marriage.

County Constable Dick Meschendorf, who made an investigation of the shooting, said he had learned that Captain Lancaster received the letter in St. Louis last Sunday and wired back he "did not want to be a dog in a manger," but requested the marriage be deferred until he could return.

Lancaster returned here by plane late Wednesday.

Wednesday night, Mrs. Keith-

In addition, a score or more of small craft, fishing boats, motor boats and skiffs, were wrecked or damaged; landing stages were torn away, and beach communities were digging themselves out from under the piled sand as the storm subsided tonight.

Airplanes Span Andes When Train Service Stops

VALPARAISO, Chile, April 21. (INS) — American Panagra airplanes today were operating in an emergency service between Argentina and Chile following the closing of the famous transandean railway.

The Chilean government ordered the planes to fill the breach in transcontinental service. The rail line was closed, directors of the mostly British owned company said, after a sharp drop in traffic attributed to the tariff war between Argentine and Chile.

Club Women Urged To Draft More Capable Men For Legislature

Serving State Is No Longer an Honor, Senator Woodruff Tells Federated Convention; 'Cotton Luncheon' Sponsored By Wichita Falls Is Feature Event Today

By MRS. L. N. CASON
Record News Society Editor

Senator Grady Woodruff, introduced by Mrs. W. C. Shultz of Decatur as the senator from Decatur, featured the public welfare program at the afternoon session of the 31st annual conference of the first district T. F. W. C., at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Thursday. Preliminary to his talk, he reviewed the events of Texas history dating from the battle of San Jacinto to the present and stated that in thinking of today's unrest and of this interesting history, he decided Thursday morning that Texas was progressing.

Referring to a letter from Mrs. Edgar Witt which Mrs. Shultz had just read, in which Mrs. Witt, state chairman of legislation, urged that clubwomen use judgment in sending representatives to the legislature, Senator Woodruff said he would like to sound the same note.

"It has ceased to be an honor," he said, "for a man to be elected to the legislature, because we have paid no attention to whom we select. It has reached the point where a man of experience, ability and patriotism if elected, feels he must apologize."

"The state of Texas is an eight billion dollar corporation," the speaker continued, "and when you elect your senators and legislators, you are electing directors in a corporation of that valuation, who administer to the affairs of this corporation."

Capable Men Needed

That many legislators are merely votes in the hands of unatriotic people was emphasized by the speaker. He stated that though he had been a member of the legislature for nine years, he had never been offered a bribe. "They go at it differently," he said, "and in nine out 10 cases, there are men in your county who have been already selected as candidates for legislature. He will go to Austin and fall in with the wishes of those who sent him there.

"You can send good men to the legislature as easily as bad ones," the speaker said. "You can send informed as easily as uninformed men." Clubwomen were urged to select men of ability, foresight and patriotism as their legislators.

Senator Woodruff stated that this winter it would become necessary to curtail expenses in a drastic manner; it will, he said, be a trying time for Texas people who wish to see progress in education and child problems. "The children of Texas should be given as good a chance as children anywhere in the world," he said, "and we must cut out many frills and furbelows. If you do not want to go back 20 years in education, give the legislators cooperation and help them get money." He

HAWAII TRIAL GRANTED DELAY

Murder Case of Americans To Resume Saturday

By DAN CAMPBELL

COURTROOM, HONOLULU, T. H., April 21. (UP)—Granted an adjournment until Saturday, the prosecution at the trial of four Americans charged with the slaying of Joe Kahahawai prepared tonight for a determined effort to tear down the insanity plea of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, who said he held the gun in the shooting.

Meanwhile, the tactics of the prosecution in producing in court an intimate questionnaire filled out by Mrs. Thalia Massie, victim of the assault which led to the death of Kahahawai, were bitterly criticised by several prominent physicians who suggested a change in territorial law to prevent recurrence of such action in the future.

Tore Up Document

Mrs. Massie tore the document to pieces at the climax of her testimony yesterday in an effort to save her mother, Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue, and two enlisted seamen, E. J. Lord and A. C. Jones, and Massie, whose conviction on a directed verdict of manslaughter probably will be asked by the prosecutor.

Prosecutor John C. Kelley successfully insisted in court today that under present territorial law he was privileged to introduce the document. Judge Charles S. Davis permitted the records be made to show that fact and then the brief session was concluded when Kelley requested and received the adjournment until Saturday.

The delay, he said, was necessary to permit two alienists who arrived from the mainland at noon to familiarize themselves with the case. The men are expected to dispute the defense contention that Lieutenant Massie was insane when he shot and killed Kahahawai.

Physicians Incensed

The other major development of the day was Kelleys' announcement that he expected to ask for a directed verdict of manslaughter against Lieutenant Massie. He said he did not know at present what he would do in the case of the other three defendants who aided Massie in abducting Kahahawai and in the attempt to dispose of his body.

The physicians who recommended a revision of territorial law met at the Queens hospital. First they lamented that Kelley had introduced such a personal document and then they decided to try to force a new statute to make such documents privileged.

It was learned that Mrs. Massie took the psycopathic test shortly before Kahahawai and the other four islanders went to trial on charges of assaulting her. She took it at the request of attorneys prosecuting the case which ended in a mistrial.

State Education Board To Consider Expense Cuts

AUSTIN, April 21. (UP)—The state board of education meeting here this afternoon decided to hold a three-day session at Dallas beginning Thursday, to consider plans for reduction of educational expense. The conference, to have opened today at Fort Worth, was postponed because of the death of State School Superintendent S. M. N. Marrs.

The Dallas meeting will be attended also by heads of the various state colleges in an effort to eliminate duplications of courses.

A report by H. F. Alves, research director in the department of education, is to be submitted. It is based on questionnaires sent to the state colleges.

LOVE LOSES FIGHT TO BAN PARTY PLEDGE

Texas Delegates Will Cast Votes for Democratic Nominees

OATH HELD VALID

Decision of Court Erects Barrier to Possible Presidential Bolt

DALLAS, April 21. (UP)—Texas will not cast its electoral vote for a Republican presidential nominee this year as it did four years ago for the second time since statehood.

A state supreme court decision today and acquiescence of bone-dry Democrats thereto, made it certain there will be no Democratic presidential bolt as in 1928.

Thomas B. Love, Dallas, former Democratic national committeeman and for years a "stormy petrel" in party affairs, lost his court fight to knock out a nominee-loyalty pledge exacted by the party's state executive committee. The pledge, a condition to participation in precinct presidential conventions, reads:

"I hereby pledge myself to support the nominees of the Democratic party for president and vice president of the United States, by voting for the Democratic electors of the state of Texas."

Pledge in Writing

The pledge must be taken in writing. Love contested it at request of the state board of the Women's Christian Temperance union, holding that the committee had no power to exact it. The supreme court decided the committee did.

"I have made the best fight I could to knock out the pledge and have lost," said Love. "I am glad I made the fight and have no regrets. I have no complaints and no criticism of any one to make."

Love did not say he would t— the pledge and enter the precinct convention but he has often asserted he is the "only adjudicated Democrat in Texas" and it was assumed, in view of this, he could do nothing else.

Mrs. Watts Surprised

Mrs. Claude de Van Watts, Austin, president of the W. C. T. U., said she will advise members to go into their conventions "with the understanding we have always held that we will go as far as our consciences will allow us to go." She said she was surprised and disappointed by the decision today and believed a former decision grants the right of conscience.

Love reiterated his belief that it is neither "safe or Democratic" to entrust the party's executive committee of 31 members with the power given by the pledge and said he could vote for no legislative candidate who does not favor passage of a law expressly forbidding the power.

Police Find Slain Man Had Numerous Lovers

NEW YORK, April 21. (UP)—Edward B. Brinker Jr., who died a violent death with his newest sweetheart Tuesday night, had loved so many women, police discovered today, their very number may shield his slayers.

The bodies of Brinker and Miss Rose Welk, a stenographer, were found in a vacant lot in Williston Park, L. I. Brinker was already dead. Miss Welk died an hour later. Her lips had been sealed with adhesive tape. Circular wounds, made with a hammer, dotted her skull.

Dallas Officials 'Told' For Lack of Texas Flag

DALLAS, April 21. (UP)—Texas patriots "bawled out" city officials and the head city hall janitor here today when the flag pole atop the hall displayed no Lone Star flag in honor of the 96th San Jacinto anniversary.

Stuart Bailey, purchasing officer, said some one tried to sell him a Texas flag at closing time yesterday but that he thought the city had one. City Manager John Edy thought so too. The building was searched but there was no Texas flag.

'PRETTY BOY' ESCAPES TRAP

Desperado Leaves Posse Holding Bag

STONEWALL, Okla., April 21. (UP)—Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, notorious killer and bank bandit, tonight appeared to have slipped from another trap.

Floyd, with his lieutenant, George Birdwell, earlier had been reported surrounded by a posse near Ada, after the pair had fled after looting the First State bank of Stonewall.

State officials rushed by airplane from Oklahoma City to the scene of the hunt, with Wiley Post, famed round-the-world flier, piloting one of the ships. Another plane came from Chickasha, carrying additional deputies and machine guns and rifles.

Even while aid was being dispatched, however, the desperadoes apparently slipped through the net thrown around them by the pursuing posse, which reported it had four times cut off their avenues of escape, but had been unable to corner them.

With the men in their car, held as a hostage, was Estil Henson, filling station operator who overtook them on his motorcycle, it was believed.

The Stonewall robbery occurred about noon, the men entering the

LABOR LEADER MUST REMAIN IN SAN QUENTIN

Rolph Declares Convicted Man Deserves to Stay In Prison for Life

125-PAGE REPORT

Blast in Which 10 Persons Lost Lives Reviewed Before Ruling

CAPITOL BUILDING, SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 21. (UP)—Tom Mooney's application for a pardon was denied today by Gov. James Rolph Jr. The governor declared Mooney was justly convicted of first-degree murder for the San Francisco Preparedness day blast of 1916 that killed 10 persons.

In San Quentin prison, Mooney was peeling potatoes when Rolph ruled, as three governors had before him, that the prisoner deserved to remain incarcerated for life.

Findings of Judge Matt I. Sullivan, on which Rolph based his momentous decision, struck at only one of the three indications of innocence which have won thousands of persons to Mooney's cause. The blast was at 2:06 p. m., on July 22, 1916. At 2:04 p. m., Mooney was on top of a building a mile away, photographs showed. Sullivan found that the bomb had been "planted" at 1:30 p. m.

Mother is Audience

The findings that doomed Mooney for at least the length of Governor Rolph's term minimized the admittedly perjured testimony that played a part in the prisoner's conviction.

Mrs. Mary Mooney, 54-year-old mother of the once-fiery agitator, was in the audience. "My son is innocent," said lettering on an armband. Mrs. Mooney, tired after a nation-wide tour in behalf of her son, seemed resigned. Her countenance did not change after the decision was made.

Governor Rolph prefaced his decision by pointing out that three previous governors had refused to pardon Mooney.

125-Page Report

Judge Matt I. Sullivan, Lewis F. Byngton and Daniel J. O'Brien, all prominent Californians, helped Rolph reach a decision.

Judge Sullivan submitted a 125-page report to which Rolph subscribed.

The Sullivan report declared Mooney, Alexander Berkman and

Luncheons, Dinners and Golf Fail to Solve Disarmament

Great Galaxy of Titles Has Busy Day as Conference Begins

By WYTHE WILLIAMS
Universal Service Special Cable

GENEVA, April 21.—The greatest galaxy of imposing titles ever gathered in one European city since the signing of the Versailles peace treaty could do nothing today to advance the cause of universal disarmament.

The peaceful city on the shores of Lac Leman beheld two premiers, one secretary of state, one chancellor, a bagful of foreign ministers, ambassadors and special envoys, and also the Aga Khan, head of the Moslem world.

To all outward manifestations, the gathering which is supposed to solve disarmament and the world crisis has generally been shooting what is largely ordinary golf, attending luncheons and dinners and enjoying excursions around the lake.

Although their conversations as officially reported through respective press bureaus mostly concern the weather, Secretary of State Stimson's cold, Prime Minister MacDonald's eye ailment, his doctor's pajamas lost in the sleeper, and whether everybody was happy at Colonel Stimson's chateau party tonight, one gathers the following facts:

1. Chancellor Bruening, who had another date, does not want to speak in the disarmament debate and will not; provided Colonel Stimson and Prime Minister MacDonald refrain. Otherwise, he too will mount the rostrum.

2. Premier Andre Tardieu of France, being a practical man, feels convinced after an hour's chat with Secretary Stimson that the American position is the same as explained in the Hoover-Laval conversations six months ago, which naturally gain shifts the blame for "everything" on Britain.

While Ambassador Hugh R. Gibson was stoutly upholding before

Abductors of Lawton Woman's Adopted Child Sought Here

Wichita Falls was the center late Thursday of a widespread search for two women and a man who kidnaped the 4-year-old adopted daughter of Mrs. Nora Mattingly, 904 Euclid avenue, Lawton, Okla., at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

City and county officers here covered all roads approaching from the north shortly after a report of the kidnaping was received by telephone from Lawton. The abductors drove south from Lawton with the child, Gaynell Read, and officers were instructed to watch for a gray sedan. Officers were confident the child and abductors were in Wichita Falls.

The child was forcibly taken from her adopted mother's arms after she had fought the two women kidnapers when they entered the home. A deputy sheriff from Lawton was in Wichita Falls late Thursday aiding in the search.

The Read child had been paroled into the custody of Mrs. Mattingly several weeks ago, pending a hearing in the county court at Lawton on charges of neglect filed against the girl's foster mother.

Mrs. Mattingly was alone in her home with the child when the kidnapers struck.

Modern 'Gold Rush' on in England As Price of Bullion Takes Jump

Britishers Search Out Old Heirlooms as Precious Metal Gains 50 Per Cent in Value; Brokers Swamped

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, April 21.—A "gold rush" has been started in England as a result of the Bank of England's suspension of the gold standard. It is a rush to sell gold in any form to the bullion brokers.

The effect of the suspension of specie payment was a depreciation of paper currency which has resulted in a premium on gold. This means that the purchasing power of gold is much greater than currency equivalents. When the gold standard is being adherred to the purchasing power of gold is $20 an ounce. Now it has gone up to $30. That means that if one has the actual gold in any form he can buy $30 worth of goods. The paper currency equivalent would buy but $20 worth.

In this situation, therefore, people are bringing out old gold in any form. Old coins which have been used as pocket pieces or retained for sentimental reasons are returning to circulation but that is not all. Jewelry, old brooches, watches, rings, bracelets, necklaces, bangles, pins, ear-rings, even shirt studs and cuff links are coming onto the market with a rush.

Brokers Rushed

The bullion brokers are being rushed beyond their capacity. Bullion brokers ordinarily do a rather quiet business but this gold rush has swept over them like a wave. Their offices are, of necessity, kept open 24 hours a day to take care of the business. The most famous and oldest established bullion brokers in London are Messrs. Whistler. They have maintained the same place of business in The Strand for more than a century and in these times there is a long queue standing outside their doors waiting to deposit odds and ends of gold.

Gold sovereigns have been a traditional occasion gift in England. The sovereign is a popular 21st birthday gift. It is a popular prize for all sorts of contests. Many are spent, of course, but many have been retained as keepsakes. But with the gold premium up so high in the present situation, sentiment is being thrust aside and the coins are returning.

But the coins are of less interest than the miscellaneous collection. In a country so old and of such old wealth as England there is a vast amount of accumulated jewelry. Even the poorer families have an occasional heirloom which has been handed down for generations. These are coming to light now. People are rummaging through old boxes and trunks looking for forgotten trinkets.

Curios Appear

In such a various collection some curiosities are bound to appear. For example, one of the bullion brokers has received a sword which was presented to a British field marshal by a South African municipality at the time of the Boer war. It turns up in the gold rush because the scabbard of the sword is of solid gold. It is beautifully chased and embossed and is declared to be a work of art far above its metallic value. The London Bullion company of the Haymarket, which has purchased the sword, is not going to melt it down. It plans either to give the sword to the South African city which originally presented it to the field marshal or to the British museum. The company has, of course, paid the owner its gold value.

The name of the recipient of this sword has been withheld for obvious reasons. What story of fallen fortunes lies behind the event is not known but it is fairly certain that a child or grandchild of the old British soldier has fallen upon lean years and must sacrifice the hairloom to live. The sword is but an example of the type of gold which is coming into the hands of the bullion brokers. A great deal of tact has to be exercised by the brokers. Impoverished but very proud Britishers do not want it generally known that they must part with their family plate and jewelry, and gold work decorated with names or identifying coats of arms is secretly sold to the brokers on condition that it be immediately melted down and nothing said to any one.

A great deal of the gold comes in by registered mail. Each morning literally hundreds of packages are received and the tables of the brokers are piled high with a glittering assortment. Every item is carefully weighed on a precision scale and the gold value returned by registered mail to the sender.

Bolsters Up Credit

Quite large sums are involved in some of the transactions. For instance, one of the London bullion brokers recently received a huge wash basin and ewer both of solid gold. Actually, they were too heavy for convenient use. Their gold value was well up into the hundreds of pounds sterling. Gold ewers and basins as well as cigaret cases and rings go into the crucible and are melted down. The gold is run into standard size ingots of 150 pounds sterling value. These are the standard unit in the gold bullion trade.

Some of the bullion brokers have gone out into the rural regions. They go to remote villages and ferret out the ornamental gold of the countryside. Their cars are equipped with large signs reading "Bring Out Your Golden Sovereigns and Old Jewelry." The broker parks his car on the village green, in front of the public house or in some other likely place and brings out his scales. He does a good deal of business right there. Then he will hear the gossip of the countryside about who is likely to have gold and, if necessary, will drive to the house of some old squire and do business with him.

Loans Repaid

Not only the brokers but British bankers and statesmen have been astonished at the tremendous quantity of gold which has come to light in this manner. The effect has been strongly felt. The Bank of England has been able to repay the heavy loan negotiated with the Federal Reserve bank of New York and the prospects are excellent that England can return to the gold standard at a fairly early date.

Not only is an opportunity given hard pressed people to convert their ornamental gold into cash at a profit but such action is being propagandized as patriotic at this time. Converting the gold which has been serving no active purpose into banking gold, puts it to work supporting the entire British financial structure. The pound sterling can return to its old standard and the Bank of England can resume specie payments sooner as a result of the gold rush.

Liners are carrying more passengers from Australia than for some time.

ENGLISH DRINK LESS LIQUOR

High Taxes Blamed For Lower Consumption

LONDON, April 21. (UP)—The jolly old clubman may still take his spot of whisky and soda between meals, and the jolly old coster may drop into the public 'ouse now and again for his print of mild and bitter or 'arf a quartern o' gin, but on the whole Great Britain is becoming more temperate each year.

There was a decrease of 6¼ per cent in the national bill for drinks during 1931, as compared with 1930, a matter of 18,000,000 pounds sterling to the publicans, vintners and distillers. And the per capita expenditure was only $28.87 as compared with $31 for the previous year.

Prohibition Disfavored

One of the heaviest drinking nations of the world for many years, Britain shows no sign of favoring prohibition, but the statistics provide an indication that the nation today is more moderate. The motion picture theaters, the radio, the automobile and other modern diversions are generally credited with replacing the social life that once centered around the saloon and tavern.

About $1,297,000,000 was spent on liquors of all kinds last year in Britain. It represented a decline of two-thirds in the amount of whisky and one-third in the amount of beer that the nation was consuming in 1900.

The increasing cost of liquor has been a factor in the decline. Since Gladstone put on the first beer tax in England, the rate of taxation has gone up steadily and is now 15 times more than it was before the war. The tax on whisky is five times as great. The liquor taxes support the army and navy, pay the old-age pensions and bear all public building costs.

Makers Seek Slash

The English brewers and Scotch whisky distillers are carrying on a relentless campaign for reduction. The Scots claim that prohibitive taxes have closed almost half their distilleries in the last two years. There is enough Scotch whisky in their warehouses to last the world for 10 years, but it is selling slowly.

The United Kingdom Alliance, Britain's leading temperance organization, says the figures disprove the brewers' claim that the extra penny put on the beer tax last year is responsible for the recent decline in beer consumption, which the alliance attributed to unemployment, reduced wages and the financial situation.

Red Cross Flour Shipment Arrives in Iowa Park

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, April 21.—The first installment of Red Cross flour was received in Iowa Park this week. This allotment was 10,000 pounds and represents one-third of the total of the community quota.

The flour will be distributed through the local community chest. Welfare officials are making a thorough investigation of applications for assistance, and it has been stated that the demands are lighter than during the winter months.

Mrs. Mamie Dale, local member of the county Red Cross organization, and member of the community chest, is personally investigating applicants, and only those who are in actual need are being assisted. Mrs. Dale stated that the usual allotment is based on a family of five, but that families in this territory who have asked for assistance are larger than this number.

MOONEY MUST SERVE TERM

Labor Leader Denied Pardon By Governor Rolph

other radicals were publicly and privately opposed to the Preparedness day parade.

To terrorize San Francisco and stop the parade, the report continued, Mooney, Billings and others entered into a conspiracy to explode a shrapnel bomb. Billings carried the bomb to Stueart and Market streets, met Mooney there, and at 1:30 p. m., left hurriedly, the findings said. At 2:06 p. m., the bomb exploded, sending a shower of shrapnel into spectators and marching Spanish-American war veterans, it was charged.

Admitted Perjury

That allowance of 36 minutes between placing the bomb and the explosion offset the famous Mooney alibi—that he was a mile from the scene when the explosion occurred. The witness McDonald had testified he saw Mooney at the scene a few minutes before the blast. Years later, he declared he had never seen Mooney in his life until he appeared against him at the trial.

The strange manner in which Frank Oxman, grizzled Oregon cattleman, figured in the case was minimized in the report.

Oxman had "identified" Mooney. Later he was tried for perjury and acquitted.

He died last summer, aware for several days that his time was near. Never did he admit his "identification" was an untruth.

Refused Parole

"Oxman's testimony was not indispensable in support of the people's case," Sullivan wrote.

"If we eliminate Oxman's testimony entirely, more than sufficient evidence remains to justify Mooney's conviction."

Anna Mooney, the prisoner's sister, heard Rolph read his decision.

In a statement, she termed her brother "the victim of a class struggle."

Sullivan drew a picture of Mooney far different from the gentle old man who peels potatoes in San Quentin and asserts he would rather refuse a parole than accept one and admit a "dastardly crime."

The Mooney Sullivan described was the fiery young radical of 16 years ago who wrote describing the American flag as "a striped rag."

Flier Found Dead At Home in Miami

Miller retired about midnight. Later Lancaster and Clarke went to their beds on the sun porch, and talked for about an hour, Captain Lancaster said, of "our home troubles, and other matters."

Aroused by Shot

Finally the two men fell asleep, the captain said. Both were in a jovial and humorous mood, he insisted.

About 3 a. m., Lancaster was aroused by a pistol shot, he told Special Investigator John B. Rowland of the state's attorney's office. He shouted "what's that!" received no answer, turned on the light and found Clarke lying on the floor in a pool of blood. A pistol was under Clarke's leg, he said.

"We are positive there was a love-triangle behind this thing, but whether it was murder or suicide, we do not yet know," Hawthorne said.

Letter Is Clue

Police attach considerable significance to a letter addressed by Mrs. Keith-Miller and signed with Clarke's name in which financial aid was asked for Clarke's mother.

Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke, the dead man's mother, a teacher of journalism at the University of Miami, said that the letter was not in her son's handwriting, that she had no need of financial assistance, and that her son had no cause for suicide.

Mrs. Keith-Miller and Captain Lancaster have been associated for years. Clarke made the association a triumvirate when he began writing the airwoman's life last December.

Clarke came here from New Orleans. He was a brother of Dr. Beverly L. Clarke, research director of the New York Telephone Co., and was formerly connected with the Crowell and Century publishing companies in New York.

Iowa Park to Elect Councilman Saturday

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, April 21.—An election will be held Saturday, April 23, to select a successor for James A. Griffin, city councilman, who was elected mayor recently. The final date for filing names on the ballot closed Monday and I. W. Austin, Iowa Park druggist, was the only name filed.

The new mayor has changed the plan of meeting. He will hold bi-monthly meetings of councilmen rather than weekly, as has been the custom. The first and the third Monday nights are meeting dates.

Allendale School to Give Pie Supper Tonight

A pie supper with the regulation entertainment features of such an occasion will be held at the Allendale school house Friday night at 8 o'clock. Proceeds in the entertainment will be used in sending Miss Inez Hartsfield to Austin, May 5-7, to compete in the state declamation contest.

Miss Hartsfield placed first in the rural senior girls division in the district No. 4 meet in Wichita Falls. The public is invited to attend the party and a special invitation has been issued candidates, who will be given an opportunity to speak during the evening.

CITY HONORS SAN JACINTO

Programs Recall Victory Of General Houston

Ninety-six years after Gen. Sam Houston's embattled little force sallied forth in mid-afternoon to annihilate the proud Santa Anna's invading regiment, Wichita Falls paused Thursday to celebrate the significant victory registered at San Jacinto.

Local banks were closed; the streets were lined with the American flag which Gen. Houston fervently hoped, as he attacked the Mexicans, to see established over the Lone Star state; public schools staged short programs in celebration of the day; and programs of the Federated Women's Clubs convention now in progress here were devoted to the theme of San Jacinto and Texas' independence.

At the Junior college and high school assembly Thursday morning, at 9:30, musical numbers by Texas composers were presented. Mrs. Harwood Stacy of Austin played two piano compositions of her own, and Ethel Allen Nelson, local violinist, also played two of his compositions, with Mrs. Stacy accompanying. Judge John C. Kay delivered a short address on "San Jacinto." Readings and songs in other public schools were designed to fix in the minds of pupils the significance of April 21 in Texas history.

Almost 100 persons, representing numerous Texas A. & M. ex-students and their families, assembled late Thursday afternoon at the state agricultural experiment station near Iowa Park for the annual San Jacinto day picnic of the ex-students association. Golf driving and putting, and other outdoor games, comprised the afternoon program, and at 6 o'clock a barbecue supper was served. Amusements for the event were in charge of V. R. Smitham, C. B. Clement, and Wilson Reedy.

Those who attended the picnic included Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Birk, Iowa Park; Milt Howe, Seymour; G. C. McGown and Dorothy and Jane McGown; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. McDowell, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Gibbs and May Lynn and Jean Gibbs, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bridges, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Puckett and Jane and Mary Ann Puckett, P. C. Colgin, Seymour; H. L. Williams, Vernon; Roland J. Howe, W. R. Zinn, Seymour; Kelly Jennings, M. L. Malone, Bob Land; Lawrence Westbrook, Waco; M. S. Duncan, Killeen; Miss Fay Rayborn; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Coriett, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bridges, Miss Elizabeth Carter; Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Smitham and Fred Smitham; Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Clement; Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Wilhite and Billy Wilhite; Miss Florence Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Longley; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Howe, Seymour; Mrs. F. J. Richards; Miss Alva Rena Bowles, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Clement and daughter, Mary Eleanor; Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Reedy, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Isbell and son, Jack.

T. H. Clement of Wichita Falls is president of the association.

Pretty Boy Floyd Escapes Pursuit

bank, lining up the employes against the wall, and rifling the cash tills, taking about $900 in cash.

In the course of the robbery, an employ was able to sound a burglar alarm. As the bandits dashed from the bank, an armed posse confronted them.

The two men shoved Cashier Herman Gibson and Ed Sallee, his assistant, ahead of them into their car, and fled. Half a mile away, while the posse was several yards behind, Gibson and Sallee were thrown out.

Henson was one of those pursuing. On his motorcycle, he left other possemen behind and overtook the fleeing men. They stopped their car, menaced him with a machine gun, and forced him to accompany them.

When the posse lost track of the machine, it was reported Henson still was captive.

Bank employes identified the men from pictures as Floyd and Birdwell. Floyd, youthful, handsome killer, is wanted for seven murders, and more than a score of bank robberies.

to study other bills to pay the bonus, Dawes shot back.

"Oh, hell, don't ask me to do that. I'm too busy working day and night on this reconstruction job."

At one point Dawes suggested it would be well if members of congress themselves would study some of the bills they are asked to pass.

Imperils Credit, He Says

Turning to the Patman bill, he said:

"This issue of fiat money would undermine the credit of the country, invite withdrawal of foreign deposits and shake the soundness of the United States government itself.

"It would affect the operations of the Reconstruction Finance corporation as well as all business. It is an invitation to start on that primrose path Germany followed until the mark went down."

Representative Hill, Democrat of Washington, asked him to comment on the Owen and Thomas bonus bills. Dawes replied:

"I'm not going to give you a half-baked opinion on that bill, because I haven't had an opportunity to read it. That is the trouble with the country now—the half-baked opinions being handed out.

Currency Aplenty

"It is the mixing of politics into these questions that causes a lot of trouble. I prefer to talk about things I know about.

"We don't need one more dollar in money. We've got $900,000,000 more in circulation than we had in 1929. The trouble is a lack of confidence.

"I am not merely commenting on the big fellow, who has a case of the jumps every time any little thing happens. They look at the picayunish transactions on the stock exchange.

"Take a look at the operations in agriculture and the ordinary business of the country and compare them with the picayunish amount on the stock exchange.

"Yet the whole country is watching the quotations of a little group of speculators in Wall street—a peanut stand magnified way out of proportion.

"They talk as much of what they do over there as they do about all the rest of the business of the country put together."

He urged Democrats and Republicans to adjourn politics on the Reconstruction Finance corporation, describing it as "a great accomplishment."

the disarmament conference British Foreign Secretary Simon's "qualitative disarmament" proposals, directly opposing the French thesis, Premier Tardieu told Secretary Stimson the situation is hopeless unless France secures "security" first.

The secretary of state agreed that Europe must arrange her own solution for a strictly European peace without American interference, but also that America must not be used by the powers as a stumbling block.

The big pow-wows of the day ran as follows: Stimson-MacDonald-Tardieu in the morning at the secretary's manor; Lord Londonderry's luncheon in honor of Premier MacDonald; dinner at the secretary's manor for Bruening, and Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy.

BISHOP MAY BE RUBBER 'CZAR'

Veteran Executive Slated As Chief of Industry

CLEVELAND, April 21. (AP)—A quiet executive whose business is keeping busy is George T. Bishop, who may be called upon to assume one of the biggest jobs of dictatorship in modern industry.

If Bishop dons the big boots of "czar" of the gigantic rubber industry, he will find that some one has been ahead of him.

The footprints are those of Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, former prohibition enforcement administrator. Andrews was made "czar" in 1928, but his job lasted only a year.

Unlike Andrews, however, Bishop is heir to a scepter that commands respect—big blocks of stock that were gathered into the hands of Cyrus S. Eaton, two years the hope of the industry.

Once a Station Agent

Bishop, a former railroad station agent at Macedonia, Ohio, started Eaton on his career of high finance in 1907.

And when Eaton got too deep into the epic merger battle of Youngstown Sheet and Tube and last year was forced from the board of his huge investment house, Continental Shares, Bishop succeeded him. They always have been friends.

The rubber industry some years ago attained the proportions of an annual billion dollar business, but an era of price cutting, mail order house contracts, factory-owned store chains, and unprofitable bulk sales made dividends few.

Merger Once Rumored

When Eaton two years ago acquired big blocks of stock in rubber companies it was prophesied that two big rubber combines eventually would issue from the field. But Eaton had his hands full with steel at the time.

Continental Shares still is the biggest single holder of rubber company stocks.

Bishop began his financial career in the utility field when interurban railways were having a building boom.

Eaton interested him in utilities in western Canada when they met 25 years ago, and Bishop sent the young financier to look over the field. Nothing came of it, but later Bishop sent Eaton to Iowa and Nebraska to get options on light plants in small communities. Eaton organized a group of these.

Headed Power Project

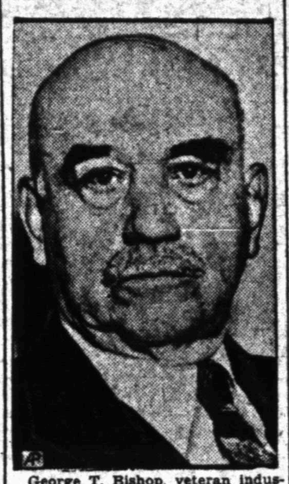

About 10 years ago Bishop took hold of the Frontier corporation, an alliance of the Duponts, Aluminum Company of America and General Electric, which proposed a vast power project on the St. Lawrence.

Bishop's hobby is his country estate at Northfield, known as "North Woods." There he has a 50-acre orchard meticulously kept, and a 19th century farmhouse of New England style.

BLACKWELL TO SPEAK

AUSTIN, April 21. (AP)—A. M. Blackwell, chief supervisor of high schools for the state department of education, left today for Houston, where he will speak tomorrow before the southeast Texas division of the Texas State Teachers association at a memorial service for S. M. N. Marrs, late state superintendent of public instruction.

Faces Big Task

George T. Bishop, veteran industrial executive, is scheduled to become "czar" of the rubber industry.

U. S. ACTS TO BIND DEBTORS

State Department Sends Contracts to Nations

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
(Copyright, 1932, by United Press)

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The state department has sent requests to all but two of the United States debtor nations, to put in strictly legal form the agreement made informally at Paris last summer to pay this country $252,000,000 postponed under the "Hoover moratorium."

These requests, made on behalf of the treasury to the embassies and legations in Washington of the various debtor countries, were accompanied by legal forms. These bind the contractors to pay the amounts due over a period of 10 years with interest at four per cent.

Assures Legality

In this way, the administration is seeking to remove all doubt that the suspended payments are in the same legal class as the rest of the debts.

The 14 European debtors to which requests to sign an agreement covering the Hoover moratorium were sent are Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Estonia, Finland, France, Great Britain, Hungary, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Rumania, Jugoslavia and Germany, who owes for the American army of occupation.

Austria and Greece were the only nations to which the requests were not sent. Both of them are parties to loan contracts with the League of Nations and other countries which makes it impossible for them to sign the agreements without consent of their creditor nations. However, the amounts which they owe are negligible. Presumably their 1931-32 debts will be regularized later in some manner.

Congress Ratified

Questioned as to why nine months had elapsed before an attempt was made to legalize the moratorium debts, officials explained that the United States did not have authority to sign the agreements until congress ratified the moratorium last December.

However, the legal payment contracts were sent out only a few days ago and some observers wondered why a request for signatures had not been made immediately after congress acted. The only explanation forthcoming was that the treasury considered the signature merely a legal matter which could be attended to at leisure.

It was recalled that when President Hoover asked congress to ratify the moratorium last fall he also suggested that the congressional debt commission be reconstructed to consider Europe's plea for reduction. The administration has waited in vain for nearly four months and congress has shown no intention to set up this commission.

Hence the question was raised as to whether the treasury might not have delayed asking for signatures in the hope that the eventual agreement might go beyond the scope of the "Hoover moratorium." Officials, however, declined to support this thesis.

Meanwhile, but little attention is being paid here to Great Britain's failure to provide for debt payments to the United States in its current budget. Officials will not be surprised if no European country budgets its debt payment until after the Lausanne conference, when the entire matter of governmental debts will be reconsidered.

VERNON JUDGE TALKS ON LAW

Government Day Observed In Appreciation Week

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, April 21.—The sacredness of law and the responsibility of the public official and the citizen in its enforcement were emphasized by District Judge W. N. Stokes in the political carnival at the municipal auditorium Wednesday evening, climaxing "Government, Public Service and Citizenship" day of "Appreciation Week."

Following Judge Stokes to the stand, State Commander Earl Earp of the American Legion detailed the service activities of the American Legion, and explained its stand on the soldier bonus and disarmament, presenting a graphic picture of the cost of unpreparedness during the world war.

300 Attend

More than 300 persons attended the program which included the introduction of public officials and candidates, ranging from candidates for congress down through the precinct offices. The carnival was one of the features of "Appreciation Week" being sponsored by the junior council. O. T. Warlick, chairman of the committee for the day, presided.

"Law is the only assurance we have of the safety of our property, ourselves and our loved ones," Judge Stokes asserted.

Binds People Together

"Every citizen of this town ought to feel insulted when he sees the law violated. The other day I saw a young man drive through a red light on the street here. He dashed on without heeding my presence because he knew I wouldn't tell on him. If you had been there he would have known the same thing about you.

"By permitting that sort of feeling to pervade our minds we are lowering our respect for all law."

The speaker pointed out that government is but the ligament that binds the people together, and that the wrong functioning of one ligament impairs the operation of the whole body.

"PERFECT" COPS

LONDON.—There are policemen in Prague who never bawl out people, but who are always extremely courteous and helpful. You're right; they're not human. They are newly invented robots placed in public places. An official stands by each of them with a list of possible queries from the public. When some one wants to know of a good restaurant, dressmaker or provision merchant, he presses a button on the machine, and a long list of the required dealers emerges.

Midwest Wheat Belt Suffering in Drouth Once More

WASHINGTON, April 21. (AP)—Only one serious drouth spot appears on the nation's agricultural map as farmers, mindful of two destructive years, plant new crops.

The mid-western winter wheat belt—America's granary—is in the grip of a persistent dry spell which has reduced the prospective supply to about 450,000,000 bushels.

The rest of the country is in pretty good shape.

Young Man Admits Shooting Grocer

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., April 21. (UP)—John Trumbell, 24, held in jail here, has confessed to city and county officers, they said today, that on the night of March 24 he shot Otto Schellenberg, grocer, during a holdup.

His alleged companion, Hayward Myers, 22, also is under arrest. The confession gives details of a series of crimes that culminated in the shooting of Schellenberg, after which Trumbell and Myers allegedly fled to Colorado Springs where they were arrested.

In the room said to have been occupied by the men was a quantity of stolen goods. Charges of murder will be filed at once against Trumbull and Myers, authorities said, and they also will face trial on burglary charges.

Two Train Bandits Face Firing Squad

MEXICO CITY, April 20. (INS)—Nineteen more of the bandits who attacked the Orizaba-Vera Cruz train last week and sacked the town of Paso del Macho, in the state of Vera Cruz, under the leadership of Juan Leyva, fell today before a firing squad at Huatusco.

All were captured after a battle between federal troops and the outlaws at Tlamatoca, grilled by authorities, they confessed they had sacked Paso del Macho.

Today's executions brought the total number of Leyva's brigands already dispatched by the government to 23, not including an additional 25 who were killed in the battles at Tlamatoca and Chichiquila.

Leyva himself and two of his followers were executed yesterday.

In a glass factory fire at Halle, Germany, 1,00,000 bottles were destroyed.

How the "ELECTRIC-EYE" gives M-J-B uniform flavor by uniform roasting!

The Photo-electric cell or "Electric-Eye" was invented to measure colors exactly. This machine is 10 times more sensitive than the human eye.

The scale on the electric-eye's dial is so sensitive it measures the color difference between 2 objects when the human eye can't tell them apart.

Each M. J. B roast is checked on the electric-eye machine against a perfect roast used as a standard of comparison.

If the scale shows a difference in color the roast is rejected.

When you drink M. J. B you know the flavor will be perfect because the roast must always be the same.

NOTE THESE 2 EXTRA PROTECTIONS!

1 "SNUGFIT LID" Exclusive with M.J.B keeps it fresh to the last grain after opening

2 "SAFETY-SEALED" The only vacuum tin that can't close unless all air is out keeps M.J.B fresher

Lost Ugly Fat

Her Husband Says She Looks Five Years Younger!

There is a certain weight at which every woman looks her loveliest—not skinny underweight nor pendulous overweight, but normal weight. We find artists, doctors, theatrical producers (and husbands!) all agreed upon this point. "My husband says I look five years younger," writes this lady of 29 who—thanks to her daily dose of Kruschen Salts—has unburdened her body of 18 pounds of ugly fat. Read her letter:

"Having heard from a friend of mine that she lost considerable weight since taking Kruschen Salts, I started taking them in July last when I weighed 177 pounds. I have lost weight steadily since then, and am now 159 pounds—my normal weight. Moreover, I feel brighter and more energetic in every way.

"I have received lots of my dressmaker my measurements which in August last were Bust 40, hips 43½, waist 32½ inches which is normal for my height, which is 5ft. 3 in. My age is 29. My husband is a very severe critic. He says I look five years younger. There is no other reason for my loss of weight except Kruschen, as I do not take any particular diet."

(Mrs.) S. R., London, England.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last four weeks costs but a trifle—take as directed every morning. When the jar is empty get on the scales and see how many pounds you have lost. Attention to diet will help—cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar.

But remember this: to take off fat harmlessly and SAFELY be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at Allison's Drug Store or any drug store in the world and if the results one bottle brings do not delight you—do not joyfully satisfy you—why money back.—Adv.

Local Artists Present Rare Fine Arts Program

In a convention session that has been noted for its eloquent advocacy of the industrial development of Texas, the Fine Arts dinner and evening that concluded the program of the first district T. F. W. C. Thursday was a beautiful expression of the arts. More than 200 guests were seated at the tables at the country club where artistic skill was shown in decorations.

Mrs. W. P. Killingsworth was chairman and was assisted by Mesdames J. T. Montgomery, T. T. T. Reese, O. T. Alles, G. L. Shapard, Frank Timberlake, C. W. Gilliland, H. T. Wood and Miss Jennie Robertson. At this dinner as well as at the program which followed at the Woman's Forum clubhouse, local talent featured all arrangements.

Tables were decorated in pots of orchid and gold holding masses of tiny golden marquerites and orchid iris. Miniature pots in pastal shades, holding blooming old fashioned pinks, were place favors.

Mrs. W. W. Silk gave the beautiful invocation preceding the three-course dinner.

Fine Arts Program

At the Forum clubhouse, where Mesdames Walter Campbell and C. E. McCutchen had made the stage a scene of stately beauty, local artists featured the program. Ferns lined the footlights and tall green vases at each end of the stage completed a setting unusual in arrangement.

Mrs. Ola G. Hamlin presided and as state chairman of fine arts, stressed the work of the first district in trying to accomplish in music writing and drama. Preceding the program, she gave a resume of the numbers.

The novelty act, "Springtime," which was repeated from the annual mother-daughter luncheon of the junior forum, was a beautiful scene in which sweet voices, dainty girls and a beautiful dancer entertained. Mrs. Darrold Kahn was director and Mrs. Lucile Brooks Huff accompanist.

R. E. Shepherd, introduced as the past "singing mayor" of the city and Ruth Ferguson, in the graceful dance, "The Dying Swan," delighted the audience. Mrs. Shepherd accompanied Mr. Shepherd and Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., played the beautiful background for the dance.

Mrs. E. L. Fulton, introduced her cutting from Browning's "Pippa Passes," as a tribute to the theme of the first district, "Service," quoting "All Service Ranks the Same With God." Mrs. Fulton gave an exquisite interpretation to the gayety, the crime, the passion and the dramatic values in the cutting, holding her audience spellbound.

Nelson Charms Audience

Ethel Allen Nelson, the violinist of the evening, gave as his first number, his own composition, "The Gypsy," holding the rapt attention of the crowded house with the wistfulness, the ecstasy and the gayety of the number. The serenade "Espagnole," (Chaminade-Kreisler) was given as only a master artist could interpret it. Mrs. Huff was a perfect accompanist.

Another local work was demonstrated in the one act play "The Worm," by Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, which won the 1931 prize in the writers department of the forum and which was presented by the forum drama department. Mrs. J. T. Harrell, as "Old Becky," an inmate of the penitentiary, was the star, playing a magnificent part. Mrs. Ann Barker and W. D. Bent were splendid in their parts of an attendant and the warden.

A packed house greeted the fine arts evening. It was announced at the close that Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, past president of the state federation and internationally known clubwoman and lecturer, would speak at 11 o'clock Friday morning.

MRS. ONEAL SPEAKS TODAY AT WALTON MEET

Mrs. Ben G. Oneal will speak in Chicago Friday at the national convention of the Izaak Walton league on "Conservation of Youth." Her speech will be nationally broadcast in the NBC farm and home hour.

Senator and Mrs. Oneal are spending 10 days in Chicago during this convention. Senator Oneal is a national director and Mrs. Oneal is one of the few women chosen in the United States for a place on the program.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We read the other day that thousands of English working girls have put their savings into "old maid" insurance. They have invested in policies that will pay a small income in old age, because they've given up hope of marriage.

Which reminds us of a maiden aunt who stated emphatically, that no one was so happy as an old maid once she had given up hope of marriage. Which may be true. She is at least free from the anxieties that often beset the mother of a family. It is not only men who give hostages to fortune.

Man is supposed to make the living; to be tied down by his responsibilities; to lose, with marriage, that joy of being "foot loose and fancy free." But what, we would ask, about women?

They have to cope with missing buttons and pockets that will wear, or else! And there is a lot of "else," to stand. Then when babies outgrow infancy, responsibility never ceases. Mothers never finish trying to instill in their children's minds the proper ideals to form character.

Even when they are grown, mothers bear the burden of the way they turn out. If a son or a daughter fails to come up to expectations, pater familias has a habit of saying, "You are ruining your daughter by allowing, etc." or "why don't you talk to your son? If you'd be firm with him, he would not do thus and so." It has been that way since Eve ate the apple and had to divide with Adam. The eternal male lays the blame.

If a woman is not born with a yearning for home and husband and domesticity in her heart, then, as an old maid, she may be the happiest of persons. Robert Louis Stevenson said "Marriage is terrifying, but so is a cold and forlorn old age."

If marriage, though, always followed cool judgment and was not swayed in its decision by pure emotion, it would be, we believe, always a far happier state than man or woman living alone. The "romance" of the latter part of the 19th century, when it was considered indelicate to look ahead in marriage, has probably caused more divorce than any other factor of that date. Happiness is an achievement which demands more tolerance and faith and forbearance than pure romance counted on.

We believe that in this postwar age, bootleg liquor is the great factor for suffering and married unhappiness. Any strong drink is a liar; the unknown strong drink that men and women imbibe, has unsettled more minds, broken more hearts, crushed more ideals of youth than anything of which we know.

Yes, happiness is a thing to be achieved. It does not fall "like the gentle dew from heaven." As in the recipe for jugged hare, the first direction is "first catch your hare," in matrimony, the first direction is "first catch your mate." Only when men and women are akin physically, intellectually, morally and spiritually, is true happiness possible, in marriage.

Mrs. J. L. Elkin, who attended the annual flower fiesta in San Antonio, joined a party of friends and her sister afterward in a trip to Laredo, and Corpus Christi. Mrs. G. P. Maricle, who left with Mrs. Elkin on the trip, is visiting her son in Austin and Mrs. Elkin will join her there to return to Wichita Falls next Tuesday.

Public Welfare Made Theme Of Clubs' Program

emphasized the fact that Texans cannot make Texas what the state should be until they make it an industrial state. Closing his speech, Senator Woodruff urged the clubwomen to come to Austin with their problems. Highly paid lobbyists are there for big business, he said, and women should work there for what they wish accomplished. "One of the most constructive things I can urge," he concluded, "is to choose the type of man whom you should send."

Dean of Tarleton Speaker

Mrs. J. Thomas Davis, chairman of the department of education in the district, introduced her husband, Dean J. Thomas Davis of John Tarleton college to speak on "Special Training in Rural Education for Country Teachers," as that subject had been one on which resolutions were passed at the last district convention.

Dean Thomas said that rural school work is gauged largely by the legislature as that body makes classifications for 28 regular and several special certificates for teaching. "Not a single type," he said, "governs the rural school." He stated humorously but earnestly that it seemed the prevalent idea that any one can teach in a rural school. According to the law, they do not have to have a state certificate.

He urged specific and special training for rural teachers, saying that rural pupils have a knowledge of many things unknown to those in a city. "Their teachers should have a broad and liberal education," Dean Davis said. "They should have training in some of the arts, and rural principals and supervisors should have specific training. People seem inclined to think," he concluded, "that agriculture is a simple thing, but it seems to me that it requires more ingenuity today to aperate an agricultural business than any other." His last plea was for coordinated knowledge for rural teachers.

San Jacinto Lunch

A patriotic theme marked the "San Jacinto" luncheon for delegates and visitors at the country club at 12:30 Thursday. Mrs. Newton Maer was general chairman; Mrs. Claude Woods presided, and the Unity club assisted in decorations. Wood block prints of the Alamo, made by high school art classes were favors and the Texas theme was stressed in the bluebonnets and mesquite, the portraits of famous Texans and the distinctly Texan menu.

Mrs. Woods presented Mrs. H. C. Young in a charming manner, stating that the Unity club has the distinction of having as active member a woman who would be 89 years old next month and was still as active and valuable in her club work as any other; the invocation was given by Mrs. Young.

Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, who arrived Tuesday morning, was presented and other honor guests introduced were Mrs. Henry Trigg of Dallas, president of the State Garden clubs; Mrs. Alvin Owsley of Dallas and Mrs. W. S. Ikard of Henrietta, who was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Marvin Smith.

Mrs. Smith called attention to a number of interesting antiques which she had gathered for the occasion and invited guests to inspect them after the luncheon. Mrs. Woods, who presented Mrs. Smith, gave greetings from the club and in a brief history of the Unity club, stressed that organization's years work.

Covers were laid for 268 guests.

Morning Session

Announcement of winners in the "Citizenship Essay Contest," conducted by the department chairman, Mrs. J. L. Young of Mineral Wells, in which senior classes in high schools of the 21 counties comprising the first district, featured the Thursday morning session of the convention at the Forum clubhouse.

In keeping with this theme, Col. Alvin Owsley, presented by Mrs. W. R. Potter of Bowie, chairman of the department of international relations, as a citizen of Dallas and of the world, gave a forceful address on "Americanism Versus Communism." Colonel Owsley gave facts about Russia and America and quoted statistics showing the advance of Communism in America. He closed his address with a plea for America as a Christian nation.

Mrs. J. W. Fincher of Houston, president Texas Federation of Women's clubs, was the second speaker of the morning, and gave an interesting address on "Texas Federation and the State Headquarters."

Mrs. Young introduced the six winners on the district essay contest in which more than 2,000 enrolled and after four eliminations, was Louis Simpson of Jacksboro first among the boys, and Jimmie Ella Nix of Stephenville, first among the girls. Martin Ramming of Wichita Falls was second among the boys, and Ellen Ramey of Breckenridge, second among the girls; Harold White of Mineral Wells, third among the boys, and Elizabeth Cooper, third among the girls.

The winners marched in carrying Texas flags, and the senior class of the local high school was present and stood in honor of the winners. Wichita county was announced as the only one in the district as having both a boy and girl winner in the contest, and Louis Simpson, winner of the first prize, read his essay entitled "My Obligation as a Citizen."

Gov. and Mrs. Ross Sterling, C. M. Cureton, judge of the supreme court, the chamber of commerce, and the Stephen F. Austin hotel all had a part in the essay contest which Mrs. Bob Barker, president of the first district, announced was an answer to a question Governor Sterling asked her about what the Texas Federation of Women's clubs does. Mrs. Barker replied, it helps to make citizens. The winners will be entertained at the governor's mansion and will be housed at the hotel, according to the announcement.

Miss Margaret Bone of Wichita Falls sang a solo, "Have You Ever Seen Texas in the Spring," after which Mrs. Lee Morris of Chico, vice president of the first district, introduced the new clubs. Mrs. J. L. Walker of Fort Worth gave the survey of clubhouses in the first district announcing her slogan "A club house or community club room in every town." New clubhouses were reported in Goree and Jacksboro and plans being perfected for houses in Nocona, Bridgeport, Megargel and Arlington. Mrs. J. L. Young reported on the department of American citizenship. Mrs. Harry Mason of Vernon reported on the division of law observance, and the assembly sang, "Texas, Our Texas."

A discussion of club reports was led by Mrs. P. P. Langford of Wichita Falls.

The session adjourned after which a San Jacinto luncheon was served at the Country club with Mrs. W. N. Maer chairman of arrangements, and Mrs. Claude Woods, presiding.

Mr. Woodman Presides

Mrs. C. W. Woodman, Fort Worth, chairman of public welfare, presided and presented Mrs. G. D. Anderson of Wichita Falls, state chairman of the department. Mrs. Anderson made an earnest talk stressing the objectives of the department. She said that there are 3,000 delinquents in Texas today and out of every five, only one can receive aid.

She urged that women spend their money at home and so give help and employment to their own girls and boys. She also emphasized the importance of home demonstration work and encouraged the institution of cooperative markets.

Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, past national president of federated clubs was escorted to the stage at the request of Mrs. Barker, where she was seated as an honor guest.

Reports were made as follows: Department of public welfare, Mrs. C. W. Woodman, Fort Worth; division of community service, Mrs. Lee Walker, Weatherford; committee on recreation and right use of leisure, Mrs. Earl Hall, Henrietta; division of child welfare, Mrs. E. L. Thomas Davis, Stephenville; division of public instruction, Mrs. Lindsey Hawkins, Breckenridge; division of adult education, Mrs. John Barbour, Iowa Park; division of conservation of natural resources, Mrs. E. H. Trigg, Archer City.

When Mrs. Edwin Phillips of Fort Worth was presented for her report, Mrs. Barker introduced her as assistant manager and active head of home industries in Fort Worth. Mrs. Phillips urged the clubs to study the conditions of industry and stated that the club women of Fort Worth had issued 30,000 directories in Fort Worth, stressing the home products and helping local conditions.

Mrs. Julian Oppenheimer of Fort Worth, national magazine chairman, urged that all club women read of national work.

Three Burglaries Net Thieves $50 in Loot

Burglars struck three times in Wichita Falls Wednesday night with losses totaling approximately $50, according to reports of victims to police on Thursday.

The principal loss was reported by P. A. Bullay, 1000 Burnett, and included nine dozen razor blade sharpeners, valued at $40. The loot was taken from a car parked in a garage at the rear of the residence.

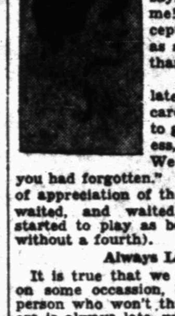

The A. & P. store, Ninth and Van Buren, told officers at 7:30 a. m. that the store was entered through the skylight and a small quantity of groceries taken.

Mrs. Pearl Goldstucker, 1314 Kemp, reported her residence rifled by a prowler who entered by removing a window screen. The thief secured a purse and $3.

Thoughtless Persons Given Lecture By Emily Post

By EMILY POST

We all know people who are good looking, amusing, attractive as they can be! And yet when we think of asking them to our houses—we hesitate. Simply because we know that half an hour after every one else has arrived for dinner the careless one will blandly appear at the half-finished meal, saying, "Oh, am I late? So glad you didn't wait for me!" There is nothing for the polite hostess to say except, "No, I thought you wouldn't want us to!"—much as she may long to tell her frankly, "We waited more than half an hour!"

Or for a bridge game, this same person will arrive late as usual, and greet three people sitting at the card table with, "Three-handed bridge? Do you want to go on with it? Or would you like me to play?" Hostess, with patience: "Of course we want you to play! We started a three-handed game because we thought you had forgotten." "Oh, no! I hadn't forgotten!" (But not a glimmer of appreciation of the annoyance to the three players who waited, and waited, and waited, and finally started to play as best they could without a fourth).

Always Late

It is true that we all have been, on some occassion, late. But the person who won't think about others is always late, with the sort of lateness that one sometimes suspects of being deliberate and callous. It is all very well for the hostess not to wait dinner beyond the 15 minutes allotted by etiquette, but even so, there is an empty place at table—two empty places if the late one be married—there is disturbance when they arrive and a halt in the service of dinner while dishes are served over again.

But the uncaring guests I really have in mind are those whose selfishness belongs to the "didn't mean to" variety.

I doubt if there lives the hostess who has not suffered at their hands! Haven't we all had our table and mantle edges burned with cigarets or marred with rings made by wet glasses. Even though we supply trays or disks for every table in hot weather, they will stand a tumbler on the wood directly next to a glass holder! The ruined surface of a valued piece of furniture makes not the least impression upon the property-destroying vandal who "didn't mean to!"

Perhaps they have never been taught that wet tumblers leave indelible rings on the surface of wood. And that a cigaret hole or burned table edge cannot be repaired. That dog-eared books are forever defaced. That a tennis racket left in the rain is not merely wet, but ruined. Or that many kinds of waterproof, rolled into a bundle when wet and then put on a hot part of the floor of a car, glues together and that it will tear into patches when one tried to pull it apart.

The careless guest is usually a borrower. He seldom remembers to bring more than half the things he needs. So he borrows a bathing suit and forgets to bring it back. He left it drying in the sand! He didn't mean to get grease down the side of the polo coat he borrowed; he didn't mean to keep the car all day, he didn't know it had to be used by the whole family! And he never thought it was bad for a fine face towel to be used as a shoe rag!

Lack of Tact

Almost every hostess can give her own personal list of damages wrought by perfectly well-intentioned men and women as well as younger boys and girls, who didn't mean to spill ink on the bed quilt or carpet; who didn't mean to burn cigaret holes in the sheets; who didn't mean to leave the battery turned on in the car or the radio. Then we all know the borrower who is not a returner of books. He would be horrified if it were suggested that he would deliberately take what doesn't belong to him!

Another form of carelessness is that of tactless speech. Never for a minute meaning to hurt any one's feelings, the thoughtless one says to a man recently engaged, "Well, I'm sure her people are glad to have her married." One, who does not mean to hurt Mary's feelings, will walk up to Susie and Mary standing side by side and say, "Oh, Susie, will you come to a party I'm giving next Tuesday?" No invitation to Mary.

There are certain tactless people who literally spread unhappiness wherever they go. Were some one to say to these kill-joys, "You spoiled the party," "You hurt his pride" or "You caused her great distress," they'd answer in innocent surprise, "Oh, but I didn't mean to!"

RAILROAD MAY DRILL WELLS

I. & G. N. Claim Upheld By Supreme Court

AUSTIN, April 21. (AP)—The International Great Northern railway may drill on its right of way in Rusk county, the supreme court held today in an opinion deciding against W. J. Brightwell and others who had sought to prevent oil development on the right of way.

The supreme court held that a deed conveying the property in question to the railway was a deed in fee simple and not an easement for right of way purposes and that the railroad had the same right to prospect for oil and gas as an individual under the same character of deed.

Brightwell had contended the clause in the deed, "and granted herein as right of way," evidenced the intent to convey an easement and not fee title. The court disagreed with this view and held it was a general warranty deed that conveyed an absolute fee to the 200-foot strip of land.

The deed was executed by J. M. Thompson.

SUFFERED FOR FORTY YEARS

Then One Lucky Day She Used Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Here is great news for sufferers from constipation. Read Mrs. Kendig's voluntary letter:

"For about forty years I had been praying for a lasting remedy for constipation and its attending evils. To make it short, I ate nothing but ALL-BRAN and a little broth. Since that time (about ten years ago) I have not taken any medicine. Have been well and entirely free from constipation." — Mrs. I. H. Kendig, R. F. D. No. 2, Lancaster, Penna.

Constipation is caused by lack of two things in the diet: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN furnishes both. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears out the wastes.

Isn't it much pleasanter to enjoy ALL-BRAN than to risk taking pills and drugs—so often harmful?

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. If you have intestinal trouble not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve as a cereal, or use in cooking. It is not habit-forming. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Assuming that Friend Al Smith was talking about Friend Frank Roosevelt when he declared war on "any candidate who persists in demagogic appeal," there must be something more than Roosevelt's celebrated radio address behind Smith's attitude.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

Roosevelt's most picturesque phrase in that speech was the bit about "the forgotten man at the bottom of the economic pyramid."

Yet in accepting the Democratic nomination in 1928 Smith said something about a Republican party "benevolent oligarchy" that made the concern of government "not people, but material things."

Smith pledged himself to strive for a "national well-being resting upon the prosperity of the individual men and women who constitute the nation."

Parallel

There does not seem much difference in this instance between Roosevelt in 1932 and Smith in 1928.

So it is reasonable to suppose that if Friend Al was in fact bombarding Friend Frank for demagoguery, he perhaps had more compelling reasons for it than the Roosevelt radio broadcast.

There is still much mystery about this Al and Frank business. Nobody can deny that they seem to have severed diplomatic relations completely. Smith's speech sounded like the beginning of hostilities.

Did Governor Roosevelt, after accepting his bid to the Jefferson day dinner, have advance information that Smith was going gunning for him and stay away to avoid the embarrassment that might result?

Roosevelt for Harmony

The immediate reaction of his supporters to the Smith outburst was an effort to hush replies in Roosevelt's behalf. The Roosevelters are for party harmony.

Yet Governor Roosevelt took exception to the insistence of Jouett Shouse for a convention of unpledged delegations. He accepted that as aimed exclusively at the Roosevelt boom.

Roosevelt's radio speech was delivered after his decision not to attend the Washington pow-wow. He could not have known, therefore, that Smith intended to attack that speech. What did he know or suspect?

In any event, the latest news from the Al-and-Frank front will add zest to the Pennsylvania and Massachusetts primaries April 26 when they clash over delegates.

The Heroes of the Titanic

HUMAN beings seem unable to let anniversaries go uncelebrated. So, the other day, brief ceremonies were held on both sides of the Atlantic, and short articles were printed in the newspapers, commemorating the fact that 20 years ago the liner Titanic foundered in mid-ocean, carrying some 1,500 people to the bottom.

It is odd, the way time can dull the edges of a tragedy. Of that disaster there is left, today, none of the grief, none of the horror; only a bright realization of the depths of heroism that are to be found in the average human heart.

For that is the chief thing one thinks of, in rereading the accounts of the Titanic's sinking. The people who awoke out of peaceful sleep to learn that they must die in the darkness of the empty Atlantic went to their doom, almost without exception, with gallantry and quiet fortitude.

And that, after all, is the great test—unexpectedness, suddenness. An unforeseen crisis brings out, unfailingly, what is in a man. He has no time to get himself ready, no time to throttle fear and lock it safely in a dungeon. Like Conrad's Lord Jim, if he has cowardice in his heart it will come out, in spite of anything he can do.

Heroes are not made in a twinkling. They develop through the long years when no heroism is needed; they develop, indeed, without themselves knowing it. Day by day, night by night, the things they are, the things they say and think and dream build up a reservoir of bravery which can be drawn upon when an emergency comes.

So it was with the men who sank with the Titanic. From the bunks in the steerage and the crew's quarters, from the luxurious stateroom of the first-class group, they came on deck to discover that a highly unpleasant death was half an hour away. And there was no panic. Women and children were helped into the few lifeboats, and those who were to die waved cheerful goodbyes. The cross-section of humanity represented on the Titanic testified magnificently to the bravery of the the race.

Peace and War

TUCKED away in an obscure position, a brief cable dispatch the other day told how a Japanese troop train was wrecked near Harbin, Manchuria, and added that Japanese officers on the spot believed the wreck had been caused by Russian partisans.

Apparently this news item has drifted on down the stream of time and will be heard from no more; but some day a seemingly unimportant little story like that may land on the front page in black-faced type, to acquaint us with the fact that Japan and Russia are to go to war.

For that is the kind of situation that now exists in the far east; tense, strained, capable of bursting into flame at any moment from the smallest spark. This business of the wrecked troop train might have done it. If the world has bad luck, some incident of no more intrinsic importance will.

Wars have a way of beginning over minor jars of that kind. It may seem absurd to think of Russia and Japan flying at one another because a railway train went into a ditch; but all the great nations of the earth went into a death grapple in 1914 because a half-baked student killed an Austrian prince, and the American civil war got under way because the federal government tried to send supplies to a fort on the South Carolina coast.

The point to all of this is that wars never come suddenly. Through many years they build themselves up. Their causes are piled up like some tremendously powerful but relatively inert explosive, which can be set off by the concussion of a tiny fulminate of mercury detonator. A pistol shot or a train wreck can be that detonator.

Work for peace, then, if it is to do any good, must begin long before the crucial moment of accident arrives. It must begin when there seems to be no danger of war. If—to be plain about it—a terrible war in the orient is to be averted, the great powers must at once work for peace a lot harder than they have yet shown any signs of doing.

An Amazing Record

REPORTS filed with the Interstate Commerce commission recently show that American railroads made a truly amazing safety record in the transportation of passengers during 1931.

In the entire year, only four passengers were killed and 493 were injured.

Considering the number of people carried on American trains annually, this represents a safety record of surprising excellence. One wreck can easily destroy a dozen lives and injure a score of people. The 1931 performance is easily the best American railroads have ever made.

Public Opinion

Nothing, some one once remarked, travels faster than a rumor, unless it is a sour notice . . . William Anthony McGuire believes that there is a playlet in the episode of William Blake, who might have lived happily with Mrs. Blake if he did not leap to conclusions.

The Blakes belonged to a smarter set of a midwestern city. They had been married for five years when they parted, over a meaningless quarrel. Mrs. Blake's pride, she said, got the best of her, and any way, people were saying things. There would be no divorce. She simply couldn't live with him any longer. "Some day," she told Blake, "I may return to you. Let us be friends, at any rate." Then they split.

Blake was devoted to her. He had merely flirted with a lass, who had come to town with a show that week. He couldn't explain his straying. "It isn't that I love you less, honey," he told his wife. "I love you more than you know. Please forgive me and forget the incident."

Mrs. Blake couldn't see it that way, at all. "My pride," she sighed. And then she left him and dwelled in the town's ace hotel.

The months passed slowly for Blake, whose activities seemed so much tedium to him. His cronies bored him, too. The shows that came to town couldn't divert him. They merely served to remind him that one of them cost him his wife and his happiness. He was miserable.

After a series of letters begging for an audience, Mrs. Blake agreed. They dined in the fashionable hotel where she was soloing it. But the delicacies seemed tasteless to Mr. Blake . . . "Would she understand?" . . . "Would she eventually return?" . . . "Why won't she?"

"But you don't look bad, at all, William," she said, "your cheeks are rudier than ever. You merely think you need me."

"I can't stand it, dear. Please forgive me, please?"

"I have forgiven you, William. But it is difficult to forget so easily and so quickly. It's only been six months."

"Six months—almost six years!" Blake grumbled.

"Well," she replied, "be patient. I want to be sure this time, my dear. It is just as horrible for me, you know."

"If you cared as much as I do you couldn't possibly go on like this. If there is some one else, please tell me. That would be easier, I think. But going on this way, never being certain of your coming back to me is maddening. Please tell me now, dear."

Mrs. Blake pondered. Perhaps she was carrying it all too far. Of course there was no one else!

"Tell you what," she said. "I'll give you a definite answer some time next week. You must give me more time to think it over, my dear. I simply cannot make up my own mind, now. And it makes me quite unhappy to see you this way. Come, be a good boy, forget it until next week."

He crushed her hand as she reached for the tray to crush her cigaret. "You must tell me tonight, now! I cannot leave you without knowing. Why are you doing this to me?" . . . The captain approached the table and filled their empty water tumblers.

"Demi-tasse for two?" he queried . . . "Yes, for two!" Mr. Blake instructed and motions him away irritably.

"I saw you one evening last week," she cooed, with hopes of switching the glum subject. "You were leaving your bank—and I was passing in the car and you were walking at a gay clip."

"You're merciless," he said, as he looked away.

Later they adjourned to the foyer of the hotel and lounged in the heavily-cushioned divans . . . He toyed with her fingers—so that those who passed and knew them might think they had reconciled.

"You must tell me tonight," he persisted. "Tonight or never! If you decide not to return to me, then I promise to leave and never ask you, again. I'll go away some place, please, please?"

Mrs. Blake was certain now. He needed her—and she couldn't go on—away from him much longer, either. She was on the verge of agreeing with him—when he interrupted her.

"Tell you what," she comforted. "Let me go to my room and think it over. Give me an hour . . . I promise I'll decide in that time. It is 8 o'clock, now. I'll be back here at 9 . . . If I do not return by 9—then you'll know it can never be. At 9, then."

"At 9?" he almost wept. "All right, dear—at 9. I'll wait right here, but if you decide earlier, don't wait till 9."

Mrs. Blake hastened to her room.

He sank into the soft pillows and waited . . . "One hour," he mused, "one long, long hour" . . . He got up and went over to the cigar counter . . . The lass peddling tobaccos was busy. But the lads ahead of him weren't making any purchases . . . They were gossiping. About him . . . and his wife!

"I tell you," one of the fellows was saying, "I saw them with my own eyes sitting in the restaurant for two hours, and later I heard him in the lobby begging her to come back to him . . . Take it from me, she's fed up with him. If she weren't—then why didn't she make up with him long ago? . . . They'll never get together, again. It's over with and done. And if they did reconcile—then what? . . . It's never the same, you know."

Blake shuddered and returned to the divan . . . The moments dragged . . . The three-quarter hour had been clocked.

"If she were coming back," he thought, "she wouldn't have taken this long to think about it" . . . The next time he looked at the clock on the wall before him, the hour had passed!

He waited another five minutes—and then, convinced that she wasn't returning, he hastened into one of the elevators—got off at the top floor—raced to the roof's edge and leaped!

The clock in the foyer was fast . . . The one on Mrs. Blake's bureau registered 8:55 . . . She picked up the phone and instructed the operator: "Please, please! Hurry, hurry. Page Mr. Blake, Mr. Blake!"

The bell-boy made the rounds of the lobby . . . "Paging Mr. Blake!" he monotoned, "paging Mr. Blake . . . Mr. Blake . . . "

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

AN INDESTRUCTIBLE LOSS-PROOF WATCH—In 1930 Wallace William, of Charlotte, N. C., riding in an open cockpit plane over the city, accidentally dropped his wrist watch at an altitude of about 2,000 feet. Upon the completion of the ride the passenger went home to explain his negligence and the loss of his watch to friend wife. But as he entered the front yard of his home, he behid his watch, strap and all, lying intact under a tree. The crystal was unbroken and what is even more remarkable, the timepiece was still running. This unbelievable occurrence has come to me well authenticated and supported by proof.

A 1¼-MILE RACE WITH A BROKEN LEG—After Earl Labertew ran 1¼ miles with a broken leg in a 2-mile race at Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 21, 1930, the broken leg was x-rayed and a clean fracture of the large bone was ascertained. Fortunately, the ends of the bone did not separate, or the damage might have proved irreparable. Labertew became aware of an excruciating pain at the half-mile mark without realizing what had happened. He finished tenth in the race and gave a demonstration of Spartan grit and determination.

Wanted—Love! The Story of an Unemployed Girl

By Ethelda Bedford, Author of "Broadway Bride"

CHAPTER XXXII

"Isn't there something, some way for a jobless girl to get along, in a big city like this?" Lillian asked, matured in her tone.

Hers was the question in the minds of thousands of other job seekers. Laura and Eve had tried to believe, determined to hope there was a helping hand. They had look and walked and asked. Daily they had gone out searching and returned late—but without answer to the question.

As the three girls sat in their room—there was a small cot in it now for Lillian—little did they realize that plights such as theirs were becoming known as "the public calamity."

Eve was sifting the last of the coffee into the small percolator which sat on the electric grill. Both Lillian and Laura looked as Eve's fingers tapped the bottom of the pasteboard carton. Neither commented, but Eve said: "And that's that!"

"Crackers for all, butter for one, jelly for two," said Eve, arranging a plate of crackers, knives, butter and a bit of jelly on the small table.

"I never would have believed 10 dollars would stretch so far," said Lillian, pulling up chairs. "It's been over a week since we get together like this and—"

"You'll never know what a blessing you were, Lillian—that night you came in here and said you had 10 dollars. Laura and I had exactly five between us, counting postage stamps and pennies."

Lillian dared not ask how much there was among them, now.

The scarcity of money was something they thought about almost constantly, but which they all tried not to talk about.

It seemed that the whole cycle of unemployment resolved into the tragedy of each girl. That each girl was a sober, gaunt figure against the heedless, impersonal background of the thundering city . . . with the vivid drama in tangible form about her thin shoulders.

To Lillian the pleading of jobless people at the employment agencies was heart-breaking. She tried not to listen when stooped, gray-haired women asked tearfully for work, "any kind of work."

But at night, when she came back to the room with Laura and Eve the thing she fought all day was even more realistic . . . In the small, poorly lighted room . . . Laura, more steely-eyed and nervous every day . . . Eve, making haggard comments, meant to be diverting, amusing, but which fooled none of them. There was a tortured, dramatic vitality about the life in the shabby room.

All of them felt it. Each fought against it in her own way. Tried to seem nonchalant, optimistic, or, at least, unaware.

"We'll divide everything three ways," said Lillian, when the coffee came to a boil.

"You can have my butter, then," said Eve to Lillian, "and you, my part of the jelly," bedding to Laura. "I have to watch my figure, you know."

Eve watch her figure. Eve, who had to use safety pins to hold her skirts up and who could almost slip her belts over her hips. Her comment was too tragic for a laugh.

"May we offer you a meal with us?"

"Oh, Eve—" escaped Laura, with far more sympathy in her face than she wanted to show. She hung her head with a swift movement.

They couldn't afford to sympathize with each other. Sympathy did strange, painful things to them. They staved off anything like pity.

"All I want is a spot of coffee," said Lillian, and succeeded in sounding a little gay.

But Laura took a hand and divided everything evenly.

And when they got up to put on their hats and coats to begin another day of searching for employment there was barely a crumb left on their plates.

When they reached Sixth avenue Laura stopped at the elevated stairs.

"Look," she said to Lillian and Eve, "let's all take it alone today. We might have better luck."

Lillian, while going about with the two girls, had given little thought to directions. The idea of batting about by herself, trying to locate addresses frightened her. Still, she knew being with the two girls all the time was depressing to all of them. They had no new interests. At night, in their little room, they had nothing new to tell. Each knew just what the other had gone up against that day in the agencies . . . each tried to forget how the other had pled to be given a chance to earn something . . . how tears came in her eyes when the same answer was given, "Nothing today. Perhaps tomorrow. I'm sorry."

"All right," said Lillian, "but let's all meet at 7 in the room."

"Yes," said Eve, "let's be certain to do that."

Laura turned to go up the elevated stairs. Eve crossed the street. Lillian walked to the news stand and bought a paper.

As she turned from the stand she saw Laura's tall, straight figure walking hurriedly up the street. She had only pretended she would ride the elevated, then.

With a pang, Lillian realized Laura no doubt didn't have a nickle fare! But she had been too proud to tell the other girls.

Terror seized Lillian as she walked along Sixth avenue, and her heart seemed to beat louder than it ever had in her life, so loud it drowned out the thundering sound of the elevated speeding along the tracks over her head.

It was like a nightmare. This terrible wanting to do something to earn money, but not being able to do anything.

Lillian noticed groups of girls turning into a building on East Ninsteenth street. She followed. And as she had surmised, there was a free employment agency, maintained by the Girls Welfare league.

The crowds of girls there were not waiting listlessly as she had seen them in many other agencies. While they all evidently were out of work none of them were idle.

In the clubroom Lillian found there were classes in sewing. A dressmaker was directing in ways of making tailored garments and bright spring flannels.

"Would you like to join?" a pleasant voiced young woman asked Lillian as she stepped in the doorway.

"I can't sew," Lillian said.

"If you care to try just bring your material here and we'll instruct you."

"I'm looking for a job," Lillian told her.

"Yes," she said. "I understand. We try to find jobs for the unemployed. But, there are an average of 150 girls calling here every day and—there aren't jobs to go around."

"I see," said Lillian, starting to move away.

"You could brush up on your typewriting here in our vestibule school until you got a job," she was told.

Lillian shook her head. She did not want to repeat again that she was untrained for office work. At some agencies that had been received with a laugh, a hopeless sort of laugh.

"We want to help you," the pleasant voice said, interpreting the helplessness Lillian felt.

"It's not help I need—but a job!" Lillian said.

Here was the plea of a job and a chance at independence made over and over again in social agencies seeking to ease the plight of the young girl out of work.

The woman's hand patted Lillian's arm, understandingly.

"My dear young lady, don't be too proud to accept help when and where you can get it. We try to do all we can to save girls from being victims of their own foolish pride."

Lillian was caught by the meaning light in the woman's eyes. Her hand was still on Lillian's arm.

Lillian felt weak from the long, cold blocks she had walked that morning. And the pungent aroma of food coming from somewhere in the building made a gnawing in her stomach.

"May we offer you a meal with us? We serve numbers of girls free lunches here every day?" Lillian was glad the woman lowered her voice when she asked her. Lillian's pride dared. She didn't want any of those girls trekking past to think she needed a meal.

Q.—Does the constitution of the United States give citizens the right to vote?—K. T.

A.—It does not. This right is reserved to the states. The federal constitution says that, in granting such right, the states shall not discriminate on account of race, religion, or sex. This safeguard was inserted in the constitution because, in the colonies, local governments forbade Jews, Catholics, Quakers and Baptists the franchise.

Q.—How far do salmon travel?—B.S.

A.—A red salmon marked by the U. S. bureau of fisheries in Alaskan waters in May and caught 44 days later in a Siberian stream was found to have traveled 1,300 miles in that time.

Q.—To what extent are American farms mortgaged?—H. V.

A.—The bureau of agricultural economics reports that farm mortgages in the United States amount to $9,360,000,000. The value of farm land is estimated at $34,000,000,000, so, on an average, less than one-third of the equity in farms is mortgaged. This varies widely but only 12 per cent of all farm mortgages are for more than 75 per cent of the value.

Q.—What is meant by the letters after the players names in batting records.—C. T.

A.—The symbols used in scoring are: TB, total bases; SH, sacrifice hits; OR, opponents runs; LB, left on bases; TP, triple plays; PB, passed balls; HB, hit batter, and WP, wild pitches.

Q.—Does United States citizenship automatically confer the right of suffrage?—R. J.

A.—It does not. States grant the right to vote.

Q.—To what period or event in Washington's life do the different portraits on the new issues of postage stamps refer?—M. J. B.

A.—They do not refer to specific events. They are copies of the most famous portraits for which Washington sat during his lifetime.

Q.—Where can I get a new airway map?—F. W.

A.—The aeronautics branch of the department of commerce gets one out every six months. The new one is dated March 1, 1932.

Q.—How much gold money must the government coin?—L. T. A.

A.—It must coin all gold brought to it without charge for the service. This is what is meant by the free and unlimited coinage of gold.

Q.—Is it true that Henry Clay was not the author of the Missouri compromise?—G. H. U.

A.—It is quite true that Henry Clay was not the author of a first Missouri compromise passed in 1820, although he is given credit for a suggestion which was utilized by the senate in a bill to admit Maine as a free state and Missouri as a slave state. As the result of this controversy a joint committee was appointed which agreed to admit Maine and Missouri separately, leaving the Thomas amendment to the Missouri bill which prohibited slavery in all the remainder of the Louisiana territory north of 36 degrees and 30 minutes north latitude (the southern boundary of Missouri).

BAYLOR CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Dr. C. D. Standley Elected President of Exes

A review of recent progress of Baylor university at Waco was presented before a group of former students at the annual Baylor club meeting Thursday evening at the Wichita club with Dr. T. D. Brooks, head of the education department, as the principal speaker.

Dr. C. R. Standley was elected president of the club to succeed Bryan W. Lovelace. J. C. Mathis was named first vice president, Mamie Rayborn, second vice president; Mrs. E. S. Carter, secretary-treasurer; and Jane McCulloch, reporter.

Dr. Brooks offered the group intimate glimpses of well-known faculty members in his address. Plans for further progress of the school under the administration of Pat M. Neff as president were voiced by the speaker in discussing advances in educational lines. A distinct need for students with a greater attainment of scholarship was expressed.

George Belew, president of the Baylor "B" association of former athletes, reviewed plans of the group and presented a preview of the 1932 football season.

The entertainment was opened with an invocation by Rev. Miles B. Hays. Jack McWilliams of Burkburnett directed the exes in singing "Our Baylor" with Mrs. F. R. Collard at the piano. 'I am so happy my skin is now clear'

"It was all simple too . . . after I had the good sense to reason it out—now I am overjoyed because I not only have a clear skin, but my system is strengthened . . . and I again mingle with my friends and associates with confidence."

Medical authorities say that skin conditions commonly manifest themselves when the system is in a weakened and "run-down" condition . . . that the skin must have a ratio of body balance . . . must have resistance from within.

If you are troubled with pimples, boils or a similar skin disorder or require a tonic you should by all means try S.S.S.—besides its general tonic properties, it regenerates hemoglobin and restores red-cells in the blood.

S.S.S. helpfulness is illustrated by this fact—our records show that nearly one-half of those who have taken it, for the first time, do so upon the recommendation of some friend who has been benefited. Can there be any stronger recommendation for its merit and usefulness than this?

Try it yourself. Get S.S.S. from any drug store. In two sizes: regular and double—the latter is more economical and is sufficient for a two weeks' treatment. S.S.S. may be the means of bringing better health and happiness to you.

CONLAN PITCHES FIVE-HIT GAME TO DEFEAT STEERS, 6 TO 1

WIN BREAKS LOSING STREAK

Loepp's Homer Gives Dallas It's Only Run

Special to The Record News.

DALLAS, April 21.—Behind the brilliant pitching of Tom Conlan, giant rookie right-hander, who let the Dallas Steers down with five hits the Wichita Falls Spudders broke their losing streak here Thursday afternoon with a 6 to 1 victory. The only tally garnered by Dallas off Conlan was a home run by George Loepp leading off the fifth inning. It was his second in two days.

The Spudders pecked George Murray, veteran right-handed ace of the Steers for 11 bingles in the eight frames he worked and were never in danger. After Loepp's homer had matched a run the Severeid clan had pushed across on two hits in the fourth, the Spudders came right back to bunch three bingles for two more tallies in the sixth and took adavntage of a pair of Herd errors for three unearned markers in the seventh.

One of the features of the game was the brilliant fielding for Dallas of Louie Bower, shortstop, who robbed the visitors of several hits.

The rubber game of the series Friday probably will find Fred Vincent on the mound against Jimmy Minogue, young southpaw.

Clift Stops Rally

Fuss was safe on Browers wide throw after two out in the Spudder first but died stealing. With one away, Brower doubled to left center and advanced to third on a bad throw by Conlan trying to pick him off but he failed to score.

Green's double to right center in the second came after Badgro whiffed and he was stranded there. Only three Steers faced Conlan who retired the side by curving three in a row over on Holman after a 3-0 count. Murray caused the only delay in the whole third when he lined a single to center but a chance for a Dallas rally exploded when Clift flagged a scorching line off Brower's stick.

Art Scharein opened the fourth with a close decision on a drag hit down the first base line and scored the first run of the game when Fuss clouted a long double to deep left-center. After Badgro fanned for the second time and Green walked, Styles' peg to Holman nipped Fuss stealing and Brower made a beautiful play to his left to throw Severeid out, retiring the side. Langford started the home half by beating out an infield hit but Scharein, Clift and Green knocked off a fast double play on Bonura's grass-clipper and Radcliff hoisted to Fuss.

Steers Tie Score

Brower turned in another remarkable fielding play for Dallas on Conlan's ground smash to deep short to turn the Spudders back in order in the fifth and George Loepp tied the score when he led off the home half with a line drive into the left field bleachers for a home run. Conlan mowed down the next three.

Garms started a two-run rally for the Spudders in the sixth when he singled to right and scored on Scharein's double past third. Fuss sacrificed and Badgro came through with a clean hit to right to score Scharein. Langford got another infield hit for Dallas after two were out and moved to second on a wild pitch but was stranded.

Two Dallas errors enabled the Spudders to push across three more tallies in the seventh and established a lead of 6 to 1. Euller singled over short and went all the way to third on Murray's bad throw to pick him off after Clift flied to Langford. Conlan singled to center, scoring Euller, and went all the way to third while Garms was getting two bases on a bad toss by James. Scharein skied but Fuss beat out a roller toward third, scoring Conlan and Badgro's hit to right counted Garms. Green walked and was forced by Severeid who was responsible for the last Spudder out in two successive innings. Conlan disposed of the Steers as they stepped to the plate.

Euller Singles

Euller singled to right opening the Spudder eighth but was out stretching it. Clift and Conlan were easy outs. Manager Morse of the Steers rushed in pinch hitters in a futile attempt to turn the tide. Jones, batting for Styles, walked, but Nash, hitting for Murray, popped to Clift and Garms took charge of James and Brower.

Whitehead and Powers was the new Dallas battery in the ninth. One Spudder, Fuss, reached base on a walk. Conlan finished by knocking Langford, Bonura and Radcliff off in order.

A's 8, YANKS 6

NEW YORK, April 21. (AP)—Just when the Yanks were beginning to wonder what manner of inertia had crept into their ancient foes, the Athletics rose wrathfully today, Mickey Cochrane whaled out a home run with the bases full in the ninth inning, and the A's grabbed a ball game, 8 to 6, that seemed lost forever.

Steaming steadily along, nursing a 6 to 2 lead while a crowd of 26,000 cheered him on, big Rufus Ruffing was mowed down in the same sort of a storm that engulfed the Cardinals in one of the memorable last ditch rallies of the A's in the 1930 world series. But this time the A's needed only two hits to score five runs.

Ruffing went into the ninth leading, 6 to 2. But wildness that affected him all day took a hold after Lynn Lary messed up the grounder Ed Coleman, pinch hitter batting for Mahaffey, for a two-base error.

Big Fergus walked Jimmy Dykes and Mule Haas the eighth and ninth passes he issued, to fill the bases and Mickey Cochrane promptly hit a fast ball so far over Babe Ruth's head into the right field bleachers that the bam merely sat down and picked a sprig of grass to chew. George Pipgras finished and allowed another score as Jimmy Foxx hit his second triple, counting on Bing Miller's long fly. Score:

San Antonio Hurler Allows Only Three Hits

GALVESTON, April 21. (AP)—Cy Smith limited the Galveston Buccaneers to three singles and shut them out, 4 to 0, here today to give the San Antonio Indians the fourth straight game of the five-game series. Allday singled after that, but the rally was stopped when Cox flew out.

Art Seydler pitched for the Bucs and gave up eight hits, three of them came with two errors in the eighth and accounted for three of the four runs. Score:

DRIVE AGAINST CARP PLANNED

First Onslaught Billed For Saturday Morning

The campaign to destroy carp that are killing game fish in Lake Kemp will get under way Saturday morning, weather permitting, E. V. Lesley and Dr. O. T. Kimbrough of the chamber of commerce sports and recreation committee, announced Thursday.

Sportsmen have volunteered to carry on the work and if those who have promised to be on hand show up, enough manpower will be on hand to start the campaign right, leaders said.

Volunteers are requested to meet at the Flippin creek entrance to Lake Kemp Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. Seining and clubbing of the carp will first be attempted in Flippen creek, it was said. Seines and boats will be furnished by interested sportsmen.

The carp catch, it is planned, will be given to the Salvation army for distribution among the poor.

If the first drive against carp is successful, others will be staged in other spots at Lake Kemp, and at Diversion lake and Lake Wichita.

The Gamest Fish

Now that the baseball season has had its official opening, local sportsmen are preparing for another season with the rod and reel, some, no doubt, with the hope it will be a more productive one than last year's.

Fishing gossip already is heard everywhere, and not the least mentioned subject is, "What is the gamest fish?"

Donald Stillman, writing in his "Rod and Gun" column in the New York Herald-Tribune, stops the wrangling by asserting it all depends on the kind of tackle used. Here are his remarks on the subject:

"The small-mouth black bass has been immortalized as "the gamest fish that swims." Some enthusiasts swear by the brook trout, while the Long Island angler may claim that a five-pound bluefish could pull ten pounds of bass and trout 'all over the lake.'

"As a matter of fact most game fish, regardless of size, are fighters when taken on tackle consistent with the weight of the quarry. A three-pound bass can be hand-lined out of the water in about 10 seconds, but the same fish would carry on an active and aggressive fight for 20 minutes or more against a three-ounce rod and light leader.

"The real sport of angling begins when tackle sufficiently light to give the fish the upper hand is used. Under such conditions, many varieties, from the lowly flounder or sunfish up, will give a good account of themselves."

Enemies of Fish

The Oklahoma state game and fish department this year is urging every angler to include in his kit a small caliber rifle—so he can take a pop at snakes and turtles, natural enemies of fish, which are reported to be all too numerous along Oklahoma streams and around its lakes. Gid Graham, chairman of the commission, was quoted as saying "Every turtle and every snake killed means the saving of scores of fish."

Aside from this twofold menace, Oklahoma streams and lakes are in perfect condition for the angler. A bulletin from the department reads as follows:

"So far there have been no spring deluges to muddy the banks or swell the streams and as a result, clear, normal brooks invite Oklahoma's anglers.

"Excellent catches of smallmouth as well as largemouth bass have been reported by those who already have tried out the streams in eastern Oklahoma while the lake fishermen have been bringing in sizable strings of crappie, bluegills, channel cats and bass.

"Records at the department show that more than 4,000,000 game fish, mostly large mouth black bass, have been poured into Oklahoma waters by the state's five large fish-eries during the last three years.

"In addition, municipal hatcheries, including the mammoth project operated by the city of Tulsa for the replenishment of the waters of Spavinaw and Mohawk park, have contributed approximately 1,-000,000 more during the same period."

Batty

Brian Bell, Apes scribe, got some first hand dope on night baseball and wrote it up as follows:

Bill Brennan, veteran Southern association umpire, was chatting the other night, appropriately enough, on the subject of night baseball. The crowds at the night games differ widely from those at daylight contests, he says.

"At night," says Big Bill, "there can be two on and two out with a run needed to tie the score without any great excitement. Under the same conditions in the afternoon, everybody in the park will be yelling for a base hit.

"The reason is that many of the night crowds are vaudeville rather than baseball fans.

"Strange things happen in night games. One night in Little Rock I saw a liner hit toward the outfield. My eye was on the ball one second and the next I couldn't see it at all. The outfielder started for the ball, hesitated and then stumbled back to make the catch. He asked me if I noticed anything the matter with the ball and I told him I had lost it momentarily.

"The answer was on the field. The ball had struck a flying bat, killed it and then reappeared to rest finally in the outfielder's hands.

Izaak Walton League Chapter Formed At Quanah; Oneal Addresses Members

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, April 21.—A chapter of the Izaak Walton league has been organized in Quanah with 15 charter members and as many more promising to join.

Senator Ben G. Oneal of Wichita Falls addressed the newly formed organization, and explained the workings and purpose of such a chapter in the national organization.

The slogan of the league is "A Better America for Americans and Better Americans for America," their main interest lying in the conservation of wood and water and the preservation of wild life.

Describes Loss of Game

Senator Oneal gave facts and figures in his talk which were startling regarding the loss of wild game and fowls. These statements showed that buffalo and carrier pigeons have disappeared from the Middle West, and from practically the entire United States within the past half century.

In Jackson Hole, a plateau in the mountains of Wyoming, in one winter over 20,000 elks perished because the pasture they had subsisted on had been stripped by haymakers. The Izaak Walton league raised $40,000 to feed the remaining animals, and saw to their future protection.

In Canada alone over 57 per cent of the wild fowl has been slaughtered for the market, and the United States has been compelled to shorten the hunting season to give the birds a chance to live and multiply.

"If our sons are to enjoy hunting ducks, more protection and a stricter observance of the game laws will be necessary. Resting and breeding places for the wild fowl must be provided now that many swamps have been drained and others made unsuitable for nesting purposes," he said.

Organization Necessary

In Utah the tributaries of Baer river have been made dry by irrigation, and the water of the marshes became so salty that over 14,000,000 ducks died there in one year.

In Kansas the Cheyenne bottoms given away to settlers will be brought back by the government for the purpose of giving the birds a resting place.

An organization of sportsmen has become necessary to bring proper influence to bear upon congress, and to secure fish and birds for stocking purposes. Politicians will pay some attention to an organization, where a private individual would be ignored, according to Senator Oneal.

The following officers were elected to act temporarily: Eugene B. Smith, president; J. A. Koch, vice president; Spencer Marrow, secretary-treasurer.

Applications for membership were made by the following: L. A. Goble, Eugene B. Smith, Spencer Marrow, Dr. W. E. Thurman, Geo. A. Sager, H. B. Warde, B. M. Curtis, J. A. Koch, Harry Koch, Homer Parker, E. W. Newton, W. C. Howard, Ben O. Bottoms, S. J. Matthew, R. E. Gilliland, E. B. Caskey, W. C. Wallace and C. L. Boynton.

MOHAMMEDAN WEDS DIVORCEE

Groom's Son Disrupts Quiet Wedding in Bombay

BOMBAY, April 21. (AP)—Shaukart Ali, 60, one of the most important Mohammedan leaders in India, married a young attractive Englishwoman, in the presence of an armed guard, today after the Moslem's son had stopped one ceremony by threatening to cut off a priest's beard.

Shaukart Ali presuaded a Mohammedan priest to perform his marriage to Mrs. Elizabeth Ryan, 25-year-old divorced wife of an Irish army officer. The ceremony was carried out in the strictest secrecy, only the closest friends being present.

The armed guard was present because it was feared some Moslems, particularly the Shaukart's son, might try to harm or kidnap the bride.

The huge Moslem, who weighs 300 pounds, handed his English bride, who accepted the Mohammedan faith, a dowry of $1,225 and she immediately went into purdah (seclusion).

Earlier in the day the marriage had been stopped at the last minute under dramatic circumstances when the son, Zahid Ahmed, threatened the marriage priest.

Abandonment of Texas Rail Line Authorized

WASHINGTON, April 21. (AP)—The Interstate Commerce commission authorized the Sugar Land Railway company today to abandon approximately 22 miles of its line from House Junction to Anchor, Texas.

The application was unopposed. The road is controlled by the New Orleans, Texas and Mexico Railway company. The portion to be abandoned parallels the line of the International-Great Northern from Hawdon to Anchor.

The application said there was no actual or prospective development of any kind the territory and that any business offered could be handled conveniently by the International-Great Northern Railroad company.

Sanity Trial Ordered For Accused Slayer

TEXARKANA, Texas, April 21. (INS)—Judge J. R. Williams, district judge at Boston, Texas, today ordered a sanity hearing tomorrow for John Harris, accused of the murder of Ed Royal of California who, the state alleges, had given Harris a ride on the highway.

Royal was beaten to death with a tire pump near Bassett, and a week later Harris was arrested at his home near Bono, Ark., and taken to Boston.

Harris admitted killing Royal, according to officers, but declared he acted in self-defense.

Harris has been under observation at a hospital here for several days.

Cherokee Indian Held In Counterfeiting Case

WICHITA, Kan., April 21. (UP)—George Rivers, 43, Cherokee Indian from Oklahoma, was held here today after his arrest with a portable counterfeiting apparatus and 209 counterfeit half dollars. Molds, a small melting pot, a quantity of metal were in his auto when deputy sheriffs searched his car.

He fought the deputies, E. Motley and Jack Wilson, saying he preferred "death to going back to the pen." Investigation by department of justice agents showed he had served time from Oklahoma for counterfeiting.

Texan Found Guilty On Ohio Fraud Charge

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 21. (AP)—Ed H. Price, Corpus Christi, Texas, was found guilty today in common pleas court of giving a bad check with intent to defraud.

Sentence was deferred pending a motion for a new trial. Price was released under $2,500 bond.

Court Rules Against Widow Cisar In Tax Payment Case

Decision Helps To Alleviate Chicago's Bankrupt Condition

CHICAGO, April 21. (UP)—The widow Cisar's misfortune was Chicago's gain today in a state supreme court decision which went far to alleviate the city's multi-million dollar bankruptcy.

The court reversed a ruling which had been in favor of Mrs. Lillian Cisar, who thought that her taxes were too high. The decision was expected to end a general "tax payers' strike," to restore the city's credit and to insure regular salaries again for thousands of municipal employes. Their pay days for months have been mirages.

Mrs. Cisar appealed to County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. She said she didn't think she should have to pay 1928 and 1929 tax bills on her home in suburban Oak Park, so long as tax collectors made no effort to levy on $16,000,000,000 worth of personal property in Cook county.

On last Dec. 31, Judge Parecki upheld her contention, thus declaring illegal property tax bills amounting to $480,344,000 for the two years. The tax strike began immediately. Three hundred thousand citizens filed as many law suits, protesting their payments. The strike leaders spoke over the radio, advertised in the newspapers and hired halls for speeches—stressing the theme that any one who paid property taxes in Chicago was silly.

Hundreds of thousands more joined the strike by simply ignoring their bills. The already depleted treasury was turned inside out in a vain effort to find funds. Banks refused to buy more tax warrants because they already held nearly $300,000,000 worth. Certain county bond issues began to default. There was no market for new bonds. Public work stopped. City workers went payless. One school teacher committed suicide. Others reported themselves in dire distress. Mayor Anton J. Cermak threw up his hands.

About $500,000,000 in taxes are outstanding. In remanding the case of Mrs. Cisar, Chief Justice Clyde E. Stone announced in Springfield that a written opinion would be filed. Attorneys for Mrs. Cisar said they probably would appeal to the United States supreme court despite the pronouncement of County Attorney H. N. Bell who said the Illinois court's decision settled Chicago's troubles "beyond cavil."

Educators of Major U. S. Colleges Report Higher Academic Standards

Average Standing of Student Today Higher Than 10 Years Ago, Is Opinion; Morals Show Improvement

(Copyright, 1932, by United Press)

NEW YORK, April 21.—There has been no breakdown in the moral or academic standards of American universities and colleges according to the deans and presidents of leading institutions questioned today by the United Press in a nation-wide survey.

While various factors, the economic situation, readjustment after the world war, changing social life, and prohibition, have left their impress upon college life as upon the entire country, the average standing of the student today is, if anything, higher than it was 10 years ago, a majority of educators agreed.

In 20 out of 25 universities, the authorities found an improvement in all standards. In the other five, the average standing was said to be "about as usual."

Views Given

The most striking expressions from the various officials questioned were these:

Dean George W. Stephens, Washington university, scholastic standing is slightly above the average. Drinking and morals show steady improvement in recent years.

Dean Knapp, St. Louis university: Scholastic standing, according to present data, above previous years.

Dean George A. Works, University of Chicago: Present senior class more mature intellectually, partly explained by greater selectivity of admission.

Dr. F. H. Turner, acting dean of men, University of Illinois: Less drinking now than 10 years ago. Moral standards as good as their parents.

Less Expulsions

President W. B. Bizell, Oklahoma university: Seniors more sober minded, because many are making tremendous sacrifices to stay in college. Morals on much higher plane. One-third fewer expelled for failures.

Dean Colby D. Hall, Texas Christian university: Scholastic standards decidedly higher because of increase in requirements. Seniors rate comparatively high on morals and drinking. "So little drinking here is hard to make a comparison."

Dr. T. J. Thompson, dean of students, University of Nebraska: Phi Beta Kappa maximum grade, 98.45, one of highest in history, indicating superiority of graduating class.

V. I. Moore, dean of men, University of Texas: Improvement today in matter of straightforward honesty. Morals certainly no worse in this generation than they would have been in past if they had possessed advantages or disadvantages of automobiles. Increased knowledge of six affairs.

Less Drinking

A. C. Seumbren-Nen, dean of men, Southern Methodist university: Senior class has very high standards of morals and in regarding to drinking little changed in past years.

Miss Ruby Terrill, dean of women, University of Texas: Little drinking among seniors. Girls who indulge in such things drop out before their last year.

Dean of men James W. Armstrong, Northwestern: Students are quick to experiment in fads, ideas, religion and morals, but quick to find a sane balance.

Dean Albert K. Heckel, Missouri: No way of making a comparison.

Dean C. R. Melcher, University of Kentucky: General morale higher because of less drinking; seniors have higher scholastic standing than any class in past five years.

BLAST WRECKS QUANAH STORE

Explosion and Fire Does $26,000 Damage

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, April 21.—An explosion and ensuing fire here late last night destroyed the building and stock of the Reed, Reed & Forrest Automobile Accessory company and slightly injured Jim Reed, one of the proprietors. Damage to the stock was estimated at $20,000. The building was valued at $6,000.

Gas, which had accumulated at the ceiling of the building in some unknown manner, was given as the reason for the blast.

Reed came to his place of business late Wednesday night to see about a number of batteries which were being charged. Turning on an electric motor, he was knocked to the floor as the blast blew away the top of the building. He was unhurt except for slight burns about the face. A sheet of flame spread across the ceiling.

Firemen Handicapped

The slightness of Reed's injuries was attributed to the fact that the gas accumulation was high above his head and that the greater force of the blast was upward.

Quickly gaining his feet, Reed rushed across the alley, where the fire department was located. Although preventing the spread of the blaze to adjoining buildings, firemen were handicapped in the fighting of the flames. A huge stock of automobile tires of the concern, which catered to wholesale trade, created a fire of such intense heat, accompanied by billows of black smoke, that firemen were prevented from saving the building.

E. B. Caskey, owner of the structure, announced that he will rebuild.

The body of a horse has 91 bones and that of a dog 255. The body a bird has 161 bones.

The Nero Deep, near the Island of Guam, is about six miles deep.

Where's That Dutch Bob?

Married life seems to have made Colleen Moore's famous Dutch bob curl up at the edges. Or maybe hubby didn't like the straight-line effect. Here's the latest picture of the former movie star who has just become the bride of Albert P. Scott, New York broker, at Fort Pierce, Fla. It shows Colleen with her new hair cut.

SCIENTISTS TO HUNT FOSSILS

Expedition to Search Pits Near Frederick

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., April 21.—A group of about 160 scientists, students and others will spend Saturday exploring the Holloman sand pits, north of Frederick, in search of fossils and prehistoric animals, according to Prof. A. O. Weese of the state university at Norman. This will be the largest number ever to have visited the sand pits at one time.

Three days will be spent by the geologists, botanists and others in southwest Oklahoma. The first meeting will be held at Craterville park Friday noon. Four short scientific expeditions will be made from there in the afternoon. That night talks will be given by Dr. Paul B. Sears and Dr. Forrest Clements, the latter associate professor of anthropology of Oklahoma state university.

Early Saturday morning birds will be studied.

Prof. C. J. Bollinger will give an address Saturday on climatic conditions of Oklahoma now and one million years ago.

Dr. W. N. Stovall and Dr. Oren F. Evans, geologists, will be in the party.

Some Frederick citizens plan on going to Craterville Friday to join the party.

Desert 'Critters' Have Merry Time On 'Dry' Evidence

LOS ANGELES, April 21.—Out in the Mojave desert tonight, the coyotes and snakes and rabbits are wondering what makes their heads feel so funny.

They had royal hangovers, this afternoon, but they had had a grand time.

It seems that Walter L. Peters, deputy prohibition administrator and his men discovered a huge still, sixteen 5,000-gallon vats and 60,000 gallons of mash in a lonely spot.

They put a few sticks of dynamite where they would do the most good, and the result was a pile of wreckage, surrounded by a miniature lake of alcohol.

An hour later, Peters and his men came back to see how things were getting on. And, believe it or not, there were coyotes, rabbits and snakes carousing around, lapping up the lake and free-lunching on the mash. They were the drunkest lot of rabbits and coyotes that Peters ever saw.

No arrests were made.

THREE DEAD IN TRAIN WRECK

Engine Crew and Hobo Are Killed

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio, April 21. (INS)—An engineer, a fireman and an unidentified hobo were killed early today when a fast mail and passenger train of the Norfolk and Western railroad was derailed at Haverhill, 20 miles east of here.

The victims were Engineer I. H. Myers and Fireman John I. Kemp, both of Portsmouth, and the tramp, who had been riding the "blinds."

Leaving the rails, the locomotive turned over two express cars. Passengers in four sleepers on the train, however, were not even awakened.

A tampered switch caused the derailment, it was said.

Veterans' Bureau Counsel Accused of Incompetence

WASHINGTON, April 21. (INS)—William Wolff Smith, general counsel for the veterans bureau, was charged with "incompetence and inexperience" today by Representative McSwain, Democrat, of South Carolina, during an examination of the bureau head, Maj. Gen. Frank T. Hines, on ways and means of reducing expenditures.

McSwain included J. O'Connor Roberts, solicitor of the veterans' administration, in his charge and criticized the government for maintaining "inexperienced lawyers who must defend the government against possible suits aggregating $300,000,000 in war risk insurance."

Hines agreed with McSwain that Smith had given "no evidence of exceptional competency" in his position and admitted his bureau could obtain better trial lawyers at this time. Hines did not include Roberts in admitting to the competence question regarding Smith.

Dinner—Boiled lamb chops, baked eggplant, beets, vegetable salad of celery, raw cabbage and minced olives molded in gelatin, apple whip.

*Chilled Avocado Cream—Select a medium sized avocado (alligator pear)—one that feels soft when pressed with the fingertips, but does not feel mushy. Peel it by stripping the skin off in small pieces which leaves more of the green part. Mince the avocado fine and put on ice until you have whipped (not too stiff) a half pint of cream which may be sweetened slightly with about two tablespoonfuls of maple syrup. Fold in the minced avocado, and about one-third of a cupful of chonped toasted almonds. Pack the bowl in ice and salt for about an hour before serving in sherbet cups. Sufficient for six or eight persons, according to size of avocado.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Parrot Fever

Question—Mrs. Cathryn I. writes: "I have heard that there are several cases of parrot disease around here. What is the best way to prevent the disease from spreading?"

Answer—Any person purchasing a bird of the parrot family should put the bird in immediate isolation for a period of 30 days. If the bird develops sickness within this period, it should either be destroyed or continued in isolation for an additional period of 30 days. Those who attend sick birds should not work among healthy birds. The cages used for sick birds should be of the kind which will allow the entire cage to be dipped in boiling water or disinfecting solution.

Strong Feet

Question—T. F. writes: "Some time about a year ago I remember seeing in your column a remedy for offensive smelling feet. Will you kindly reprint it?"

Answer—Wash the feet with soap and water twice daily. Sprinkle boric acid powder on the feet after each washing. Provide yourself with several pairs of shoes, wearing a different pair each day. Shoes can be kept odorless by being filled at night with some kind of grain, such as corn, which has been warmed in the oven so that it is thoroughly dry.

Growth on Gum

Question—Mr. Carlyle S. writes: "Have a growth on my lower gum since last August about the size of a bean. Doesn't seem to get bigger and doesn't hurt. Tried lots of things but nothing helped. I am afraid it might turn into cancer."

Answer—Lumps on the lips or gums should always be examined by a reliable diagnostician at their first appearance. You should have an immediate diagnosis made to find out the nature of the lump.

Fear Of Gangland Ends Court Plea

LOS ANGELES, April 21. (AP)—Fear of gangland vengeance has prompted District Attorney Buron Fitts to abandon a plea for removal of three felons to state prisons because of an alleged plot to free them from the county jail.

Fitts was unsuccessful in obtaining a court order to vacate an order granting the three prisoners—Ralph Sheldon and Louis Frank, kidnapers, and Nick Radovich, bank robber—a stay of execution pending appeal. Superior Judge Charles Burnell ruled the alleged jail delivery plot was based "only on rumor."

Fitts said he would not divulge the names of his informants since it would expose them "to almost certain death." He said the plot included plans to kidnap Sheriff William I. Traeger, Under Sheriff Eugene I. Biscailuz and County Jailer Clem Peoples.

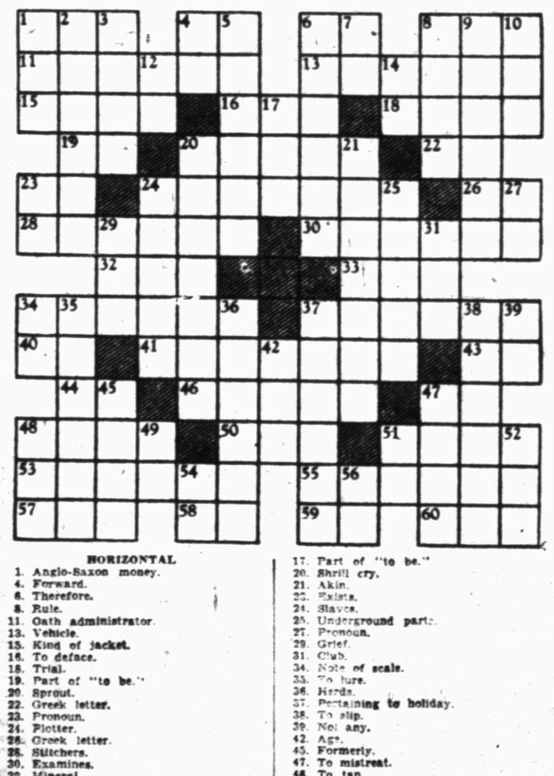

Alvord Sends Stars To Two State Meets

Special to The Record News.

ALVORD, Texas, April 21.—The Alvord High school track team will be represented in two state meets this year on the same day. Henry Morgan, crack distance star, will enter the state meet for class A schools in Austin while the remainder of the team will journey to Denton for the class B meet. Henry Morgan's team in the district 10 meet in Denton last week of 4 minutes 32 seconds in the mile set a new district record and was one full second below the present state record for that event.

Ten men are eligible for the class B meet including Frank Morgan, half-miler who was clocked in the county meet at 2:6.5 in the event. This is the school's last year of competition as a class B school since the number enrolled this year makes it eligible as a class A school. This being true, a determined effort will be made to capture the class B crown.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 21. (AP)—Early irregularity was followed by rallies on a spurt of covering in cotton today, but the market weakened in the late trading under renewed liquidation.

May sold off to 6.08 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of two to four points. There was a spurt of covering as prices worked up from 6.28 to 6.36 for July and from 6.52 for October, making net advances of 5 to 7 points on active months. However, gains were lost in the late trading with prices closing at the lowest levels of the day.

Liverpool cables reported covering and Japanese buying in that market, encouraged by the reduction in the Bank of England discount rate, but this showing was probably offset by pessimistic reports from Manchester.

Reiterated reports of a very firm spot situation in the south seemed to have little effect on the early market, but may have contributed to the afternoon bulge which followed the development of a better tone in the stock market. Exports today 8,031 making 7,320,945 so far this season.

Futures closed barely steady, 2-4 lower. Spot steady; middling 6.20.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 21. (AP)—Cotton opened lower showing 1 point decline, rallied 7@10 points during the afternoon but the close was steady, prices being net unchanged to 1 point down for the day.

During early afternoon the market recovered all previous loss, duplicating early highs owing to firmer stocks and the reporting to the house of representatives of a measure to restore commodity prices.

About the middle of the afternoon it made new highs at 6.17 for May, 6.37 for July and 6.59 for Oct., up 7@10 points from the early lows.

Liverpool is due tomorrow on New Orleans about unchanged.

Port receipts 6,343, for week 66,037, for season 9,355,758, last season 8,656,219. Exports 5,031, for week 91,170, for season 7,185,137, last year 5,763,062. Port stock 4,200,245, last year 3,619,690. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 106,963, last year 48,460. Spot sales at southern markets 3,768, last year 3,412.

Futures closed steady net unchanged to one point down:

Stocks and Bonds Close Higher As More Cheerful Tone Is Noted

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, April 21. (US)—A more cheerful tone prevailed in the markets today. Stocks and bonds closed higher, grains were improved and, strange in these days, none of the principal markets established new low levels.

In stocks, however, many prominent issues had descended below their previous bottom quotations before a rally set in.

Bonds continued to perform encouragingly, though the market is quite wary of any forecasting.

Throughout the day there were whispered rumors of unexpectedly good news brewing at Washington. Recent relative firmness in railroad issues, it was claimed, reflected this expectation. Rail shares frequently have provided the cue to the entire market, especially for rallies.

Washington "disclosures" on short-selling had little influence on quotations, it being recognized that major short positions have long since been covered. Those "big bears" still short of the market have positions greatly reduced from their "peak" operations.

There are a good many well-intentioned people who welcome full publicity of all kinds now with respect to the markets, business, banking. The theory is held that only with a complete admission of all facts surrounding the market, as well as individual situations and stocks, can speculative and investment confidence be restored. Too many corporations have been concealing their true position in ambiguous income items and balance sheet figures. In many instances, current prices of securities are so low as virtually to assure no unfavorable repercussions if these ambiguous figures were clearly defined. While the uncertainty as to their contents exist, however, the market naturally registers nervousness.

For example, some corporations have been in the habit of reporting such items as cash and governments bonds in the same group with other investments. What are these other investments? Some corporations made a practice of reporting security-holdings at cost. The proper method would be to reveal also their present market value.

Names of short-sellers now are being revealed. The stock exchange has been revealing monthly short positions. Why not daily figures?

Quarterly income statements are being issued for the first time by many corporations.

Speculating quarters were inclined to attribute the rally in various stocks to short-covering, but there was evident also a slight expansion in speculative buying.

Among the most active issues, only Standard of New Jersey and Royal Dutch were not lower on the day. Many stories have been circulating about Royal Dutch of late, and its chief executive has finally answered them by charging "bear rumors spread by the bolshevists."

American Telephone rallied almost three points net as feeling temporarily improved. Dupont, which had slumped to a new low during the early weakness, closed almost a point net up.

All of the stocks in which large short accounts have been revealed were higher. Steel closed up a point, American Can two, Central 1¼, Consolidated Gas 1⅝, Case ⅜, Allied Chemical 1⅜ and North American 1½.

Railroad security strength was credited to expectations of a "more liberal attitude" by the Interstate Commerce commission toward railway loan applications before the reconstruction finance corporation. The I. C. C. thus far has been insisting upon cooperation in these advances by all interested parties. The feeling is now that political pressure has been brought to bear whereby the commission may be induced to do everything possible to prevent railway receivership before election.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 21. (AP)—Reports that $100,000,000 of finance reconstruction funds would be diverted to facilitate wheat and cotton exports had a bullish effect on grain prices today.

Another strengthening influence was an unofficial estimate that Kansas, Nebraska, Texas, Oklahoma and Colorado would produce only 189,000,000 bushels of wheat this season as against 444,000,000 in 1931 and 273,000,000 in a five-year average, 1924 to 1928. Talk prevailed also that liquidating sales of May holdings of grain were about over, and that the wheat market would respond more readily to crop damage news in the future.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅛@⅜c higher than yesterday's finish, corn ¼c off to ⅛@⅜c up, oats at ⅛@⅜c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7 cents.

Contributing to a firm undertone in the wheat market was a summary by a leading Chicago expert just back from a long tour. He said that from northern sections of the Texas Panhandle northward into Nebraska he found 75 to 100 per cent drouth damage to almost 4,000,000 acres. Then eastward, frost injury ranged from 10 to 20 per cent in many fields to a total loss in others, complicated by crusted top soil. He said, however, rains had checked deterioration for the time being, and that other effects of moisture could not be determined until along in May.

Closing indemnities—Wheat—May 56⅝c, 58⅝@58⅝c; July 59⅜@59⅝c, 61⅛@61⅝c; Sept. 61⅜@62c, 63⅝c. Corn—May 32¼@32½c, 32⅜@32⅝c; July 35⅝c, 37⅜@37⅝c; Sept. 38⅝c, offers.

COURT UPHOLDS $3,500 VERDICT

City of Iowa Park Loses Damage Case

The supreme court of Texas has overruled a motion for rehearing in the case of the city of Iowa Park against Mrs. I. D. Cameron, based upon alleged property damage, according to dispatches received Thursday from Austin.

The suit originally was tried before Judge A. D. Montgomery in the 30th district court here. The plaintiff, Mrs. Cameron, alleged that an overflow of sewage had materially damaged land owned by her just outside the city of Iowa Park. She obtained a judgment for $3,500. The case was affirmed by the appellate court at Fort Worth, and then was carried to the supreme court, which denied a writ of error. The motion for rehearing then filed by the city of Iowa Park was overruled, as reported Thursday.

The court also overruled a motion for rehearing in the case of Frank B. Blair, et al., against J. D. Carney, et al., from Wichita county.

Wounded Mexican Charged With Burglary

Two complaints charging burglary of private residences at night were filed Thursday morning before Judge O. L. Gibbs in justice court against Luis Nogales, Mexican.

The defendant was wounded by J. P. Morrison Jr., on the night of April 12 after his alleged entrance to the Morrison home on Lakewood drive. He is still in the hospital, it was said. Nogales also was charged with burglarizing the home of Herman Wilkins on North Beverly drive. The complaints were taken by District Attorney Sam B. Spence, and were signed by City Detective E. M. Dowdy.

Thieves Take Car In Block of Police Station

Boldness of automobile theft operators in Wichita Falls was believed to have reached a new peak on Thursday when the second model T Ford taken in two days was driven from 910 Ohio, a half block from the police station. The loss was reported by T. M. Underwood, city mail carrier No. 5, who parked his coupe near the postoffice at 7 a. m. The car was missing at 4:30 p. m.

A model T Ford touring car was stolen from Eleventh and Scott Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Lucia Powell, librarian, is secretary of the small libraries section of the convention. Miss Powell and Miss Avalon Rines, children's department head of the library here, plan to leave Saturday or Sunday for New Orleans to attend the convention.

PINCH HITTING

Health Inspector Arrests Drunken Driver After Long Chase

The duties of City Health Inspector C. R. Mann do not call for criminal law enforcement but in the absence of police at the Memorial auditorium Wednesday afternoon he gave chase to a reckless driver. Mr. Mann's attention was called when the driver hit three cars near the auditorium.

The chase was continued several blocks to Van Buren street, when Mr. Mann stopped the driver, who was charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated. The charge was filed before Judge O. L. Gibbs in justice court.

Report Shows 100 Per Cent Increase in Members

Activities of the Wichita Falls Boys club as reported by Dr. O. T. Kimbrough featured a series of annual committee reports given before members of the Rotary club in its weekly meeting Thursday noon at the Kemp hotel.

An increase of more than 100 per cent in membership over the preceding year was shown by Dr. Kimbrough's report on the boys' club. Members numbered 328 during the first three months of 1932, compared with a total of 160 in the same part of 1931. The report also showed that clubrooms have had an average daily attendance of 54 during the year. Instruction in manual training, electricity, English, mechanics, and other subjects given by the club also was discussed.

Other reports were given by the following chairmen: R. E. Shepherd, program; Ed Crump, classification; Jim Biggs, business methods; Claude Whitley, boys work; J. H. Allison, education; A. E. Kelly, fellowship; John Kilgore, community service; H. A. Gray Jr., auditing and budget; and Fred Couper, student loan.

Paul Putty, Harry Olsen, Julian Montgomery, Ed Crump, John Coffey, and James Biggs were elected directors for the ensuing year.

Next Thursday night will be the annual meeting for Rotariannes, President Linton H. Estes announced. The affair will be held at the Wichita club at 7:30 p. m. The new president will be announced at that time. John Thomas and John Coffey were named as a ladies' gifts committee.

Plans for the structure are now being drawn, Mr. Thomas said, and the assembly of building materials is to begin this week. The new bath house will be of about the same size as that which burned down last fall, but will be of different design, it was said. Jail Sentence for Theft Fails to Reform Negress

One negro woman who was released from the city jail Thursday morning after serving a short sentence on a charge of theft in connection with shoplifting at the J. C. Penney company store, was re-arrested within two hours of her release and charges of theft filed in county court in connection with shoplifting at the J. G. McCrory company. She was fined $25 and costs when she pleaded guilty, Police Chief Dick Morris said. The woman is one of four sisters who recently arrived in the city and two of the remaining women were already in the county jail on similar charges, police said.

Gas Company Wins Verdict in Damage Suit

After several hours of deliberation, a jury before Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court at law Thursday afternoon returned a verdict for the defense in the suit of Gene Liepold against the Lone Star Gas company for personal and property damage to the amount of $875.

While various issues in the case were answered in favor of the plaintiff, according to Judge Vogel, the finding that the plaintiff had been guilty of contributory negligence resolved the verdict into a decision for the defendant.

The suit was based upon injuries and property damage said to have been sustained by the plaintiff on the night of Dec. 12, 1931, when a traffic accident occurred in front of the Hamilton building.

TEST FLOWS TO HURT OFFSETS

Col. Davidson Cites Case Of Constantin Offsets

KILGORE, Texas, April 21. (AP)—An adverse effect on offset wells was predicted today by Col. L. S. Davidson, commander of the East Texas oil field military area, when questioned regarding test flows of eight wells as authorized by Federal Judge Randolph Bryant. Six East Texas operating companies own the wells. Tests at the wells authorize flows up to 5,000 barrels daily.

"I need only point out the effect when Eugene Constantin opened his well on the Brett lease in the south end field a few weeks ago on a test flow of only 1,504 barrels daily," Colonel Davidson said. "The Roeser & Pendleton No. 4, the nearest offset, lost all its gas pressure. It was necessary for operators to swab the well in again. Since the Constantin well has been shut in the Roeser & Pendleton well has been regaining its lost gas pressure.

"Aside from the adverse effect on offset wells, I think an adverse effect will occur on the oil market if the eight wells are allowed to make such tests."

The test order issued by Judge Bryant allowed for test flows for six hours at each well at rates of 75, 250, 500, 750, 900 and 1,250 barrels hourly, then a test for four hours at a rate of 1,500, 2,000 and 2,500 barrels hourly, then a test of one hour at 3,750 and 5,000 barrels hourly.
