Big Planes Already Using Wakde Strip

Yanks Running Into Stubborn Fight As They Drive On Toward Mainland Fields

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Tuesday, May 23—Troop-carrier planes began landing on the Wakde airstrip on the north coast of Dutch New Guinea 48 hours after American Sixth Army troops drove ashore on Thursday to establish an airbase 110 miles closer the Philippines from conquered Hollandia.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, announcing today that the Wakde airdrome was in operation, said that although the Yanks had little difficulty wiping out the Japanese there, they were running into stubborn opposition on the mainland nearby in their drive toward Maffin Bay and Sarmi, each of which has an airstrip.

Mortar Fire Tough

The enemy's accurately-placed mortar fire was impeding the Americans attempting to expand their Tor river bridgehead, he said, but Allied heavy artillery wheeled up behind the lines was breaking up enemy positions.

Revised American casualty figures were given as 41 killed, 135 wounded and one missing in the Wakde-Sarmi sector. This compared with 833 counted enemy dead in this area.

The Wakde airdrome is 1100 miles from Davao, principal city of the southern Philippines. The Wakde airstrip is 4,700 feet long, bedded on coral, and invasion engineers estimated it could be lengthened to about 7,000 feet, or big enough to accommodate the heaviest bombers.

Once covered with cocoanut palms and brush, Wakde and the smaller island of Insoenanani close by were cleared by the Japanese as an important staging area for aircraft, troops and supplies. An excellent small boat anchorage is nearby.

Warships Pound Area

Naval units have bombarded enemy positions at Sarmi, General MacArthur said, destroying ammunition stores there.

Allied bombers in their relentless assaults on Japanese bases to the west of the fresh New Guinea holdings bombed three airdromes at the western end of the big island and plastered Biak island in the Schouten group to the northeast with 80 tons of bombs, leaving the island blanketed with smoke.

To the east, New Britain and New Ireland were hammered anew at the cost of two planes.

Nips Are Caught Napping In 1,200 Miles Of Tokyo

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

ATTACKS by seven waves of United States carrier-based planes on Japan's Marcus island, within 1,200 miles of Tokyo, were reported by the Nippon high command yesterday. There was no confirmation from the United States Navy, possibly because the task force was observing radio silence in enemy waters.

As the Japanese freely admitted this American task force strike by 132 carrier planes Saturday and Sunday, Nippon forces in Burma were battling fiercely for their lives with Allied troops closing in on their encircled Myitkyina base.

Monsoon Hits Burma

The monsoon rains turned the Burmese battlefield into a sea of mud but the Allies, already in possession of one-third of the city were fighting street-to-street and house-to-house to deliver a final knockout blow.

The Japanese indicated they were caught napping at Marcus island as an American decoy force struck from one direction while the main attack came from another. The Japanese claimed they shot down 32 U. S. planes and said the raids resulted in only slight damage. Tokyo indicated the main task force might have moved in fairly close to the Bonin islands, Japan's main protecting wing southeast of Tokyo. The Bonins are only 600 miles from the Nippon capital.

Alerts Over Japan

Berlin quoted the Tokyo radio as saying raid alerts sounded in all of north and east Japan, indicating the heart of Nippon feared another aerial visitation.

Tokyo said American submarines, destroyers and planes rushed in to save airmen who were shot down around Marcus. The Japanese claimed a direct shell hit on one submarine "which probably was sunk."

If true, it is the third American fleet attack on Marcus.

In Burma, the Monsoon rains slowed the bloody Hyitkyina bat-

Split In Demo Ranks Widens

Separate Sessions Now Said Possible

AUSTIN, May 22. (AP)—The possibility of a Democratic split in Texas serious enough to result even in the holding of two separate conventions here appeared tonight in the wage of noisy caucuses by the opposing groups.

Delegates advocating that a Texas delegation instructed for renomination of President Roosevelt voted to authorize their floor leader, Alvin J. Wirtz, a former undersecretary of the interior, to back a motion from the floor at tomorrow's convention that the convention be held at Gregory gymnasium at the University of Texas rather than in the Senate chamber.

Breach Could Widen

The caucus went no further than that, but some leaders in both factions admitted there was the possibility that a split could ensue which could wind up with the holding of two conventions. Should that occur, apparently only the Chicago convention itself could decide on which delegation from Texas would be recognized at the national session.

At a caucus of the group advocating an uninstructed delegation to Chicago—generally regarded as the anti-fourth term faction—the possibility of two Texas sessions was brought out into the open. John Crooker, a Houston attorney and keynote speaker, said he had been informed the pro-Roosevelt delegates had agreed not to attend the session in the Senate chamber. However, the pro-Roosevelt caucus itself had not actually gone that far.

Allred Heads Group

Former Gov. James V. Allred, a long-time Roosevelt supporter, was named by the Roosevelt caucus as its candidate for temporary chairman. He accepted in a speech in which he asserted that the uninstructed faction was "scheming to cast the Texas electorial ballot against President Roosevelt, and if

Body Of Rogers Returned Home

CLAREMORE, Okla., May 22. (AP)—Nine years after his tragic death in an Alaska plane crash, the body of Will Rogers was brought home tonight and buried on a breeze-raked hillside overlooking the cattle ranges of his boyhood.

After a brief, secret ceremony, the casket transported from the Glendale, Calif., cemetery was lowered into a beautiful stone crypt on the gently sloping terrace beside the Will Rogers Memorial museum.

"He rests now amid familiar scenes," said the Rev. John R. Abernathy of Oklahoma City. "The long journey is ended. He is at home."

Shrine For Pilgrims

"This sacred spot on this sunny slope is now and will be through the unborn years a shrine to which pilgrims along the long trail will turn for inspiration and encouragement."

Return of the great humorist's body to Oklahoma, a goal toward which his friends had worked ever since his death in 1935, finally was accomplished when the casket reached Tulsa today by train from California. From there, it was brought to Claremore by road.

Accompanying the remains were Mr. and Mrs. James Rogers, his son and daughter-in-law; Ewing Halsell, Vinita cattleman and a childhood playmate of Rogers, and Lew Wentz, Ponca City oil man. Rogers' widow was unable to come because of illness.

Time of the body's arrival was kept secret at the request of family members, who wished to avoid large crowds, and late this afternoon the memorial grounds were cleared and the gates locked.

A few minutes later a hearse was driven to the back door of the memorial building on the crest of the hill and the casket, covered with a blanket of roses, was wheeled into the central foyer. Less than 100 persons were present.

While an organist played "Home on the Range," one of Rogers' favorite songs, the Rev. A. B. Hickman of Claremore opened the ceremony with a prayer. Mr. Abernathy followed with a 15-minute memorial address.

LAMESA, May 22 (Special)—Trial of W. M. Harris, about 50, Dawson county farmer charged with statutory rape of his 14-year-old daughter, is to open Tuesday morning in the 106th district court of Special Judge J. E. Garland.

Harris, father of 13 children, was named in two indictments returned in April by a 106th district grand jury—one alleging statutory rape and the other charging incest on the same child. The rape case is to be called first for hearing.

District Attorney Rollin McCord said a special venire of 75 men had been called. Proceedings are to get under way at 10 o'clock. Dawson County Attorney Karl Kayton will assist McCord.

State's attorneys would not comment on whether or not they would ask the death penalty.

McCord said Harris' wife died last January. Nine of the Harris children are at home, h stated.

The girl Harris is charged with violating is now 14, the district attorney said.

"Gallup Poll" Surveys Will Be Featured In Avalanche

LUBBOCK Morning Avalanche has been elected to membership in the American Institute of Public Opinion, thus becoming eligible to present the full reports of all surveys by the Institute, commonly known as "The Gallup Poll."

First of the Institute's releases will appear in this newspaper tomorrow.

In notifying the paper of its election to the Institute, its founder and director, famed Dr. George Gallup, said in part:

"It gives me great pleasure to welcome the Lubbock Morning Avalanche to membership in the group of more than 100 leading newspapers which support the public opinion studies of the Institute. These papers include the New York Times, the Chicago Daily News, the Detroit News, the Philadelphia Bulletin, the Cleveland Plain Dealer, the Washington Post and many others.

Poll Covers Five Countries

"Journalists know it is important to cover the news of what people think, as well as what they do. The Avalanche-Journal does an outstanding job in reporting national and world news. We believe your readers will likewise be interested in having accurate and objective reports on what people think, not only here in the United States, but also in England, Canada, Australia and Sweden, where our polls likewise function.

From reports of the Gallup Poll, the Institute's director believes readers will "acquire new faith in the soundness of the judgment of the common people."

WASHINGTON, May 22. (AP)—A crowded house schedule caused postponement today of final congressional action on the "painless" tax bill simplifying and streamlining the nation's income tax laws affecting 50,000,000 taxpayers.

Approved unanimously in the House, and by voice vote in the Senate, the legislation would relieve 30,000,000 wage and salary earners of the requirement of computing federal tax returns, and simplify procedures for the 20,000,000 others.

Nazis Throw Fading Reserves Into Line

Desperate Action Drives Vanguard Out Of Terracina

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, May 22—The Germans threw all the reserves at immediate disposal into a desperate counteroffensice against the Allied advance today and succeeded in driving the vanguard of American forces out of Terracina, coastal gateway to the Pontine plain 58 miles from Rome.

Fierce fighting raged along the entire front as the last of 17 Nazi divisions (perhaps 170,000 men) below Rome and immediately north of the Italian capital entered what may prove the climactic struggle for Italy. An Allied spokesman declared the enemy had "nothing left in reserv south of Rome."

Entered Without Battle

American patrols entered Terracina yesterday almost without a fight and it appeared the Germans were in full flight along the coastal sector, but the force of today's counterattack caused the Yanks to withdraw from the town and take up positions 2 to 3 miles to the northeast, on the road to Fondi.

Inland, however, American troops were reported continuing their advance through the mountains, while the Canadians pierced barbed wide entanglements in front of Pontecorvo, bastion of the Hitler line in the Liri valley southwest of Cassino. The poles slugged into Piedimonte, four miles west of Cassino, and were reported mopping up the town.

French troops took, lost and then recaptured Monte Leuco, on the roat to Pico, and brought Pico under heavy attack. An American assault southwest of Pico was being fiercely resisted, ront dispatches said, the Germans having thrown the crck 26th armored division into the fighting in that sector.

Forces Badly Depleted

Of the 17 Nazi divisions now committed to opposing the powerful Allied offensive and to holding the Anzio beachhead, several already have been badly depleted

Air Raids Called Deadly Invasion

CHICAGO, May 22 (AP) — The aerial pounding of Hitler-held territory constitutes an invasion "in the deadliest sense of the word," General H. H. Arnold asserted tonight.

The chief of the U. S. Army Air forces, in a speech prepared for delivery before the Economic club, stated:

"What is happening today in the skies over Europe is not, as most people believe it to be, a prelude to invasion. It is invasion—in the deadliest sense of the word. x x x Numerically, we send over the equivalent of an infantry division on our daily, routine missions now."

20,000 Planes Destroyed

Gen. Arnold reported that the German fighter airsraft industry has been at the top of the bombing list, and that more than 20,000 enemy planes had been destroyed.

"We have wrecked most of their aircraft plants," he added, "and damaged others with one thousand-ton attack after another."

He said air power had forced the Nazis to concentrate on anti-aircraft defenses at the expense of their off nsive potential, had saddled them with "a terrible load of reconstruction," had compelled them to rely on uncertain foreign sources for such important material as ball bearings, and had brought about a progessive dispersion of vital German industry.

"Air power, in brief, has forced Germany and its industry to assume a purely defensive role," he said. "We're going to keep right on bombing them. x x x We have now begun to converge on Japan, too, from all points of the compass."

Fighter Plane Output Is Cut Back By Navy

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP) — The Navy cut back its fighter planes production program today by ordering a contract with one company terminated and downward revisions in the schedules of two others, so as to save an estimated $180,000,000.

Brewster Aeronautical corporation was notified that, effective July 1, its contract for production of Corsair fighter planes at the company's Long Island City, N. Y., and Johnsville, Pa., plants would be ended. The Navy said the contract had called for production of 1,500 Corsairs and that by July 1 about half of this number would be produced.

Because the elimination of Brewster production is not sufficient to meet the intended cut back in over-all production of Corsairs, the Navy also announced a scaling down in the output for Goodyear Aircraft corporation and the Chance Vought division of United Aircraft corporation.

Germans Say Great Air Battle Raging

25 Bombers Reported Downed At Outset As RAF Follows Mighty Daylight Raids

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Tuesday, May 22—DNB said a great air battle was raging over Europe early today between Allied bombers and Nazi night fighters and claimed 25 four-engine planes were shot down at the outset.

The action, indicating the RAF was keeping up a round-the-clock assault on Fortress Europe, came after a strike by perhaps 3,000 bombers and fighters by daylight yesterday at the German submarine base at Kiel, at Pas de Calais and at wide-spread targets in occupied France and Belgium.

The German broadcast, recorded by Reuters, said Nazi night fighters had shot down 25 four-engine bombers in the first 15 minutes of battle and the aerial struggle still was raging at 2:25 a. m.

Targets Not Identified

DNB did not identify specific targets, but various broadcasts said bombers were over central Germany and the Greater Berlin ar and that heavy anti-aircraft fire was heard in northwest and western Germany.

About 2,000 United States bombers and fighters made the daylight attacks upon Kiel and Pas de Calais. These followed up an RAF saturation raid Sunda, night on industrial Duisburg.

Five bombers and eight fighters failed to return from these twin daylight missions.

In all, about 3,000 sorties (single flights) were flown against Germany and occupied countries from British bases during the day and about 4,500 tons of high explosives and incendiaries were dropped.

Other squadrons swept out from Britain late in th afternoon to continue the pounding of ground defenses, engaging enemy aircraft over their own fields, and strafing locomotives, trains and railroad bridges in enemy-occupied Belgium.

Railyards Battered

More than 350 fighter planes of the Ninth Air force in a dusk mission bombed railyards at Bethune and Mezieres in France and airfields near Beaumont, Chartres and Tours, France, and other fields in Belgium.

Another Appeal Goes To Europe

Nazis Speculate On Allied Blows

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 22 — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's invasion headquarters today broadcast a second time to the waiting, listening European underground, supplying detailed instructions on how it could guide the invaders over strange and difficult terrain.

At the same time an enemy broadcast, presenting the biggest estimate the Axis has voiced on the Allies' British-based strength, declared Eisenhower had 3,500,000 troops "ready for an invasion jump" from south England. The German commentator von Olberg warned Germans to prepare for blows on the east front and in the Balkans as well as from across the channel. He speculated upon Portugal as a possible Allied landing point, and said several divisions might parachute behind the German lines extend along the continent's rim.

Need Precise Details

A spokesman for Gen. Eisenhower told the Europeans waiting for the day of liberation that the Allied forces would need precise details of roads, bridges, rivers, woods and possible landing fields.

"It is very important," he said, "that this information should be accurate and that guides should be quite certain of the way by day or night." More detailed instructions were being dropped by aircraft.

Sources with underground contacts said Field Marshal Gen. Karl Adolf Gerd von Runstedt, German commander of defenses in the west, had set up headquarters at Troyes, near Paris, while Marshal Erwin Rommel, field commander, was quartered in Holland near the Belgian frontier.

During the day thousands of passengers missed their trains at London stations when many schedules were cancelled without warning.

Copies Of Leaflets

At neutral Stockholm the Norwegian legation made public copies of leaflets the Germans have prepared to distribute among American invasion troops.

The leaflets, some of which fell into hands of Norwegian patriots, say in part: "Welcome to the continent. Hello boys. Here you are at last, old chaps. We have been waiting for you long enough. Even though you are unwanted and are altogether uninvited guests you are not unexpected. You have given us plenty of time to get ready for you rarrival."

Bell Kidnaping Trial Delayed

By R. C. HANKINS
Avalanche Staff Writer

CROSBYTON, May 22—Official action of the court in the A. J. Bell, sr., kidnap case was halted early this afternoon by a technicality in the law—unofficial action of at least one principal by a gun in the hand of a deputy sheriff.

Judge Dan Blair of 72nd district court, hearing a motion by the state that was uncontroverted by the defense, allowed the state to withdraw its announcement of readiness for trial and ask that the grand jury be recalled in an attempt to reindict Bell.

Technicality of Law

The motion was made after it was discovered that form 522 of a standard form book on which the first count of the two-count indictment had been patterned had been published before its editors could take cornizance of subsequent legislation which slightly modified one element of the legal definition of kidnaping.

The indictment had alleged the 4-year-old Crosbyton girl, the complaining witness, was "under the age of 17." A later act of the legislature provided that "if the person kidnapped be under 15, it is not necessary that there should be force in order to constitute kidnaping." There was where the technicality became operative.

Burk's Application

District Attorney Burton S. Burks, in making the state's motion, said to the court:

"The practical effect (of the motion) is to delay the hearing—nothing more."

He said that, should the court recall the grand jury, he would atte pt to get a new indictment that would remedy the variance of expression.

"There has been no jeopardy,

Transfer Of U. S. Navy One Of Many Prices For Peace

LONDON, May 22. (AP)—Transfer of the entire United States Navy and all large American merchant ships to Japan is among terms proposed by the Japanese periodical Meiho as the price for peace in the Pacific, the Berlin radio said today.

The motives of the publication in submitting the terms just now were not made known.

The terms were drawn up by what the broadcast called Japanese experts in various fields and provide that the United States be kept under strict surveillance for ten years after the war.

These are some of the other conditions, as quoted by Berlin:

"The entire naval air force to be put at the disposal of the Japanese.

"All naval air bases and air installations to be destroyed, except those needed by Japan.

"Steel and oil production to be permitted on a reduced scale only.

"All expenses of taking over American ships by Japan to be paid by the United States.

"All naval installations, naval stations, dockyards, arsenals, colleges and other centers of naval education to be destroyed.

"In the case of scuttling of a single ship, ten times its value to be paid to the Japanese government."

Some of the economic terms as drawn up by "financial expert" Yasei Nishiya:

"Private banking to be eliminated; monopolies, trusts, cartels and capitalist methods in agriculture to be liquidated.

"Stock exchange to be abrogated.

"All trade unions to be abolished."

Keynoter Taboo As Dems Move For Unity In Texas

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, May 22.—So sharply divided were Texas Democrats today on the issue of whether to send an uninstructed, or a Roosevelt-instructed delegation to Chicago that tomorrow's state convention will have no keynote speech.

The executive committee in session today voted to recommend to the delegate-naming convention that it ask former Gov. Dan Moody to be temporary chairman, but that there be no keynote speech lest such expression "further widen disunity."

Moody was reluctant to say whether he would accept, but in any case the convention itself must vote on the important temporary chairmanship. Pro-Roosevelt forces may put forward former Gov. James V. Allred.

Almost Evenly Divided

On the eve of the convention, it appeared the delegations would be nearly evenly divided on the issue of whether the Texas delegation would be instructed for Roosevelt, or whether it would go uninstructed.

The executive committee did not expect to complete until tomorrow its canvass of the returns of county conventions, but it also voted that its secretary be empowered to accept properly certified lists of delegates until an hour after the convention opens tomorrow. Thus the final lineup of delegations will not be known until a floor test is made.

Uninstructed Pleas

The executive committee leadership has urged uninstructed delegations on the grounds that it felt this would be Texas' best means of fighting for restoration of the two-thirds rule at national conventions. Chairman George A. Butler said also that such a delegation would give Texas a free hand in voting for a vice-presidential nominee "acceptable to the South and Texas."

Butler said he regretted the issue has grown to be regarded as pro or anti-Roosevelt. He recognized that this issue had become heated, and recommended the no keynote move of the committee because of this division.

The executive committee took one vote today that could have direct bearing on whether the Texas delegation will be instructed or uninstructed. It defeated overwhelmingly a proposal that the selection or delegates to the national convention, made by district caucuses, would not be subject to change.

Majority To Prevail

This means that should either pro-Roosevelt or uninstructed forces gain control of the convention, selections of delegates by the districts could be rejected at will in line with the view of whatever majority might prevail.

There was no indication of whether or not the convention would discuss the recent U. S. Supreme court decision holding the negroes could vote in Texas Democratic primaries. The executive committee today ignored the question, making no recommendation to the convention.

With Cooking Fats Point-Free, Should I Still Save Used Fats?

"YES!"

—and here's why, says War Food Administration

Lee Marshall
Director of Distribution
War Food Administration

MAKING sure there are enough fats for both your kitchen and the war production machine is one of the responsibilities of the War Food Administration.

After a year in which both cooking and industrial fats were in short supply, the outlook for food fats has improved. This is because farmers have greatly increased their production of oil crops and livestock.

But abundant supplies of industrial fats continue to be needed to meet the increased demands of war production geared for invasion—as well as for civilian requirements.

With more used fats available for industrial use, we will have to divert less of our fresh food fats to war production.

We do not want to take good food fats and use them for non-food industrial purposes if it can be avoided. The conservation of used fats by every homemaker in her own kitchen can help in this situation.

Therefore, we urge American women to save all their used cooking fats and turn them in to their butchers. These fats are vital in the making of such materials as synthetic rubber, parachutes, de-icing fluids for planes, explosives, life-saving medicines, industrial, military and civilian soaps and hundreds of other war necessities.

Increased production has helped give you point-free fats for your kitchen. By saving more used fats you help keep our food fats point-free—and our war machine rolling on to Victory.

Lee Marshall
DIRECTOR OF DISTRIBUTION
WAR FOOD ADMINISTRATION

For every pound of used fat, your butcher will give 4¢ and two red points. And remember, these points are doubly valuable now. So let's save all the used fats we possibly can—and then some more! It's a real contribution to victory that every home can make!

Mrs. Cunningham Seeks State Post

AUSTIN, May 22. (U.P.)—Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham of New Waverly was the fifth candidate to pay a filing fee for the governor's race in the state Democratic primary election.

The $100 check with a letter announcing her candidacy was received today by Democratic Executive Committee Secretary Charles E. Simons. Blanks for formal application with the required information were sent to her.

Other paid-up candidates are Gov. Coke R. Stevenson, A. M. Ferguson of Howe, W. J. Minton of Sherman and Martin Jones of Nacogdoches.

Former Committee Member

Mrs. Cunningham was active in the movement for woman suffrage in Texas, and has been connected with agricultural extension work recently. She was in charge of women's work for the Democratic national committee in 1926-27 and the first woman delegate at large from Texas.

Mrs. Cunningham, 62, said she would use the offices of the discontinued Draft-Dobie-For-Governor movement in Austin as her headquarters. An announcement from the Dobie group said they would support Mrs. Cunningham "in votes and money."

Mrs. Cunningham said her platform was for mobilization of full strength behind the war effort. She said she favored a registration system for voting instead of the poll tax. She said she was for equality in balloting, and in view of the 14th amendment "I do not see why negroes should not vote in the primaries."

Supreme Court Denies Dallas Firm Hearing

WASHINGTON, May 22. (U.P.) — The Good Luck Oil Co., Dallas filling station chain, today was denied a Supreme court hearing of an Office of Price Administration order directing the firm to suspend gasoline sales for a two-week period because of ration coupon irregularities.

Foy O. and Amos E. Wilemon, co-owners of the company, obtained an injunction in the northern district federal court of Texas discharging the suspension order. But when the case was heard by the fifth circuit court of appeals the suspension was reinstated.

The Wilemons, in asking the Supreme court review, charged that the two-week suspension was unconstitutional and would amount to a penalty of $3,000.

Congress, even under the war powers, they contended, never intended to invest administrative agencies with the power to "suspend a man's business.'

If such be the case and the regularly constituted courts are not permitted to intervene, the partners claimed, "then the business and industrial structure of the entire nation will depend upon the 'judgment' of a hearing commissioner."

Galen, the ancient Greek physician, prescribed lettuce as a remedy for sleeplessness.

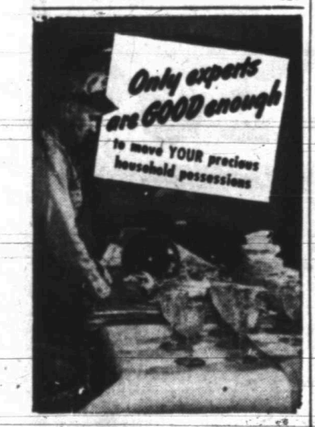

'I WAS CONSTIPATED FOR MANY YEARS!

Now I'm 'Regular' Every Morning!"

Constipated? Then here's an unsolicited letter you'll want to read: "I'd been troubled with common constipation for many years. Was taking laxatives and pills all the time, and feeling very weak and run down. 3 months ago, I began eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily. Now, I have a regular, natural movement every morning, which helps me feel my best!" Mr. Samuel D. Blank, 292 Kings Highway, Brooklyn, New York.

What is this seeming magic of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN? Scientists say it's because KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN can really "get at" a common cause of constipation — namely, lack of sufficient "cellulosic" elements in the diet. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements, which help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Doesn't work by "sweeping out." It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If you have constipation of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN or several ALL-BRAN muffins regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't find lasting relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Adv.

Pressure On Sweden Steps Up, 38 More On Blacklist

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Reinforcing the drive to have Sweden cut off ball bearing shipments to Germany, the government's blacklist committee voted today to add 38 additional Swedish firms to the list of proscribed companies alleged to assisting the German war effort.

These 38 firms, raising to 426 the total number of Swedish firms on the black list, will not be added technically until publication of the regular blacklist supplement June 2.

Normally their names would not have been announced until that date, almost two weeks away, and announcement at this time constituted an extraordinary action by the interdepartmental proclamed list committee which governs the listing of all concerns.

Leader Not On List

The name of the SKF company, Sweden's leading ball bearing manufacturer, does not appear on the list of 38 reported by the committee today and this was interpreted to mean that officials here are still optimistic regarding the outcome of negotiations with the Stockholm government, SKF and other companies directly concerned in the shipments to Germany which the United States, Britain and Russia are trying to have stopped.

Those companies which were named were not identified either as to possible American connection or according to importance or production in Sweden.

Official Explanation

The official explanation for making the list public at this time was that there was so much public interest in blacklist operations with respect to Sweden that the committee felt it should be given out immediately.

Beyond this, however, it was know that there was some apprehension here lest Swedish businessmen and officials fail to realize the seriousness with which the United States is pressing current negotiations over ballbearings and other steel items vital to Germany's war effort.

Earlier today, the State department had announced that "no firm has been or will be included in the proclaimed list merely because means of pressure may exist by reason of American connections."

Some Not Involved

It then listed 11 Swedish companies and their American affiliates which according to previously published reports had been considered for blacklisting and said emphatically that none of those firms "is at the present time under consideration for inclusion in the list."

Today's action was the second time that the act of blacklisting had entered into current negotiations with neutrals. On May 6, it was announced that 38 Irish firms had been blacklisted for their alleged assistance to the enemy.

High Court Reverses Kentucky Decision

WASHINGTON, May 22. (AP) — The Supreme court reversed 6-3 today a lower court decision that there is no federal statute covering "the reprehensible election fraud commonly known as ballot box stuffing."

The finding by the eastern Kentucky federal district court was made in dismissing ballot box stuffing charges filed against eight election officials in two precincts of Harlan county. The charges were brought after the general election of November, 1942, in which Senator Chandler (D-Ky) was re-elected.

The Supreme court's majority opinion was delivered by Justice Roberts. Justices Douglas, Black and Reed dissented.

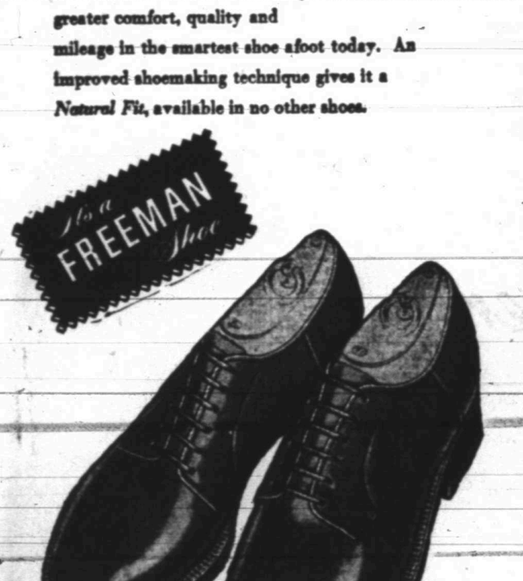

The election officials were accused of improperly voting a large number of ballots for Chandler. The district court held, however, that under the established policy of Congress, "the protection of the public from such type of election is left to state laws."

Bricker Says CIO Has Huge Slush Fund To Re-Elect FDR

HOUSTON, May 22. (AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio told Texas Republicans tonight that "We have been reliably informed that the CIO political action committee is prepared to spend $5,000,000" to re-elect President Roosevelt and "to take us down the road toward state socialism."

"Never in all history has there been such a program of spending and pressure as the one which has been planned by this organization which feeds off the laboring man and woman and seeks to dominate our government with radical and communistic schemes," the Republican presidential aspirant said in an address prepared for delivery before a pre-state convention rally.

Called Dangerous Group

Tabbing the committee "a powerful and dangerous group in this country which is far more active than the Democratic National committee in campaigning for a fourth term," Bricker said:

"It is planned by the president's high command to picture the President constantly as the commander-in-chief of a war that only his clique can win and to emphasize international problems at the expense of domestic issues, while the CIO political action committee, under cover of patriotic bally-hoo, spends millions of dollars to take us down the road toward state socialism.

One Of Saddest Aspects

"One of the saddest aspects of this plot in that many well-intentioned conscientious laborers in our great industries, are being duped and misled into a form of national socialism that will be obnoxious to them when they recognize it—which may be too late."

The committee, Bricker asserted, "does not want an unbiased governmental protection of the of the lawful exercise of the rights of labor" but wants "just one thing—the constant increase of its scope and power."

LHS Graduates

May graduates received diplomas. Presentation of diplomas was made by Chas. A. Guy, Lubbock school board member, and R. W. Matthews, superintendent, presented members of the class.

Ten members of the class are in the armed services.

Guy presented the diplomas in the absence of Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, president of the board. Speaking of Dr. Hutchinson's absence, Guy said it was only the second time in 30 years that the veteran school board member had been absent from commencement exercises. He extended congratulations on behalf of Dr. Hutchinson.

Caution On Knowledge

In a brief talk, Guy told the graduates that no matter where they went — to college, to the armed services or to jobs—"a little knowledge is a dangerous thing." He advised that they keep abreast in the fields of politics and world affairs, so that when they go to the polls, they will know how to vote in the best interests of their country.

It was announced that the graduating class had contributed $375 for the purchase of a liberty bell for the high school tower. It was also brought out that nine out of 10 of the mid-term graduates had gone into the armed services.

A short band concert was presented by the Westerners at 7:45 p. m. and at 8 o'clock the band played the processional, "Grand Triumphal March." Leading the seniors in the processional were two junior class boys, Milton Butler, president of the student council for next year, and Joe Arrington. The band played the National Anthem followed by invocation by Sam Henly.

Class Speakers

Speakers and their subjects were Ted Forsythe, president of the class and master of ceremonies, who spoke on "A Challenge to All"; Billy Masters, "Political Problems of the Post-War Era"; Jack Cooper, "Vocations in the Post-War Picture"; Irene Crim, "The Challenge of Science in Tomorrow's World"; Jackie Lewis, "Christianity in a World-Wide Reconstruction," and Mike Sellen, "Education for Peace."

Musical selections were provided by a senior chorus, girls' ensemble and a piano solo by Billy Medley. The program closed with the class singing the Westerner Song.

Flowers By Juniors

Miss Claudia Neelley's art class prepared the United States map which was 18 by 24 feet. The unusual flower arrangements and decorations were done by a junior class committee with Miss Nancy Binford as faculty sponsor.

Junior class members who were ushers were May Ona Cardwell, Olive Pearl Matthews, Bertha Nell Adair, Martha Sue Craddock, Barbara Jackson, Jo Rae Watson, Mary Jane Hinchey, Beverly Cumbie, Joan Kendrick, Ruth Cowart, Mary Evelyn Lacy, Nell Anthony and Maxine McCollum.

Kidnaping Case

inasmuch as the defendant has not pleaded to the indictment," he said.

Durwood H. Bradley, who with W. D. Wilson, his law partner, and Lloyd A. Wicks of Ralls represented Bell, said the defense would not controvert the motion.

Bradley's Contention

He said that, "in justice, however, to all concerned—the state, the court and to my client—I would like to suggest that no amount of evidence that could be presented in this case could define it as kidnaping." He indicated belief the higher courts would reverse any conviction that possibly might be found on a kidnaping charge, and said the "whole case more properly hinges on the statute of enticing . . ."

He suggested to the court that the grand jury should be so instructed when it is recalled.

The defense made a motion, when Judge Blair convened court in the early morning, to quash the second count of the indictment, alleging it charged no offense against the laws of Texas; that allegations were too vague to charge kidnaping; that it failed to allege the mode by which the alleged kidnaping was committed; that the offense attempted to be charged did not meet requirements of law requiring that it be set forth in plain, intelligible words; that it was defective in that it failed to inform the defendant of the mode, means, method and manner of the alleged charge; that it failed to inform the defendant what the state would contend, without which information the defendant had been unable to prepare his defense; and because there was no attempt to allege essential elements of false imprisonment, a necessary part to a kidnaping offense.

Defense Effort

(The defense thus sought to have the court quash a count that charged Bell merely with "unlawfully, willfully and without authority of law detaining Margaret Sue Coward on April 14 from moving from one place to another, for the purpose of concealing a minor . . . from the lawful possession of Aline Coward (the child's mother.)

(The child's father, Eugene Coward, former beauty shop operator who appeared in court wearing a Naval uniform, arrived in Crosbyton just in time for the hearing. He had been granted leave earlier to appear before the grand jury that indicted Bell.

(The first count would, if elected, have forced the state to prove Bell made an assault, was guilty of actual violence on the child with purpose of detaining her and concealing her from possession of her parent.)

Jury Ordered Selected

Judge Blair did not rule on the defense motion, but informed council to select the jury subject to his later ruling.

The morning session, which lasted until 1 o'clock in the afternoon, was devoted to examination of the jury panel. Thirty-two men had been summoned. Five of them disqualified themselves. Sides were ready to exercise their "cuts" when the state's motion was made.

Burks had pointed patiently to getting married men with children on the jury. Wicks, examining the panel for the defense, sought to disqualify prospective jurors, in event the second count of the indictment was quashed, to require the state to prove the three elements of the first count (assault, actual violence and a purpose to absent the child from her parent) beyond a reasonable doubt or vote a conviction.

Violense Narrowly Averted

Bell, 45, Stamford cotton buyer who once served six months of a federal court conviction and who has a 20-year-old blind son, had been placed under $5,000 bond binding him over to grand jury action and had posted $2,000 bond conditioning his appearance for trial after his indictment by a grand jury of which W. K. Dendy was foreman.

When he went to his car after the proceeding had been recessed, the sailor father and others advanced on him. Bell had a tire tool in his hand, and apparently was about to repair a flat tire. The sailor had his fists doubled. Deputy Sheriff Johnny Johnson of Lorenzo was confronted with an admittedly tricky moment and had to "pull my gun" to insure there was no violence.

Knots of persons gathered in several places, and officials closely watched flaring tempers, but the crowd gradually thinned, and there was no report of violence.

May Reconvene Thursday

It was indicated the grand jury might be recalled Thursday, where civil actions, including 220 tax suits to be brought by the state and county against owners of property in Crosbyton, Ralls and Lorenzo, are due for call.

The court, upon application of the defense and recommendation of prosecuting witnesses, allowed suspension of sentences to L. B. Traylor, 20, who admitted theft of a calf from the possession of George W. Smith, and Cedell C. Lyons, 43, a negro, who admitted burglarizing a pump house of John C. King. Traylor was given two years, Lyons five. Neither had been convicted of a felony prior to today.

Scattered Texas Areas Get Rain

(By The Associated Press)

Soaking rains fell over large portions of Texas yesterday (Monday), but skipped far West Texas where moisture was sorely needed.

San Angelo reported 1.39 inches precipitation there over the weekend, with up to 1.75 inches in the range country south and east of there. West of San Angelo, however, there were no rainfall reports. At Midland there were dust storms, followed by only .02 inch moisture.

High Wind Hits Dallas

Wichita Falls and Electra got a shower of about two-tenths inch.

A one-inch downpour fell in the Trinity watershed, including Fort Worth, Dallas and Corsicana. Fort Worth reported hail in some areas. Gusts of high wind accompanied the rain at Dallas, blowing a 250-pound cupola cover off the Dallas county courthouse.

Another squall hit Houston, bringing 1.24 inches of rain yesterday afternoon.

Waco also received a sudden rain of .68, flooding streets there. McClennan County Agent J. C. Patterson said farmers welcomed the moisture.

Twister Strikes Franklin

Other rain reports:

Amarillo .06; Gainesville .14; Norton and Miles 1.5; Sanatorium 1.8; Bronte, 1.10; Robert Lee, 1.07; Cristoval 1; Rowena, .85; Palestine, .30; Decatur, 1.78, and Roanoke 1.07.

Squalls came to Texas after a weekend of variety. In West Texas, hail, which accompanied a three-inch rain, wiped out crops in a four-mile strip extending eight miles northeast of Blackwell. A twister hit at Franklin, in East Texas, leaving $50,000 damages, and an electrical storm did minor damage in San Antonio. Topping off the celestial display was a bright meteor, which clashed across southwestern skies.

Raid On Marcus

tling. As the fiercest fighting of the North Burma campaign developed within the city, Chinese troops seized an important road junction to the north. This blocked Japanese railway and road communications between Myitkyina and other Nippon bases to the north and west and cut off a possible escape route. Airborne Allied troops continued to reach the all-season airstrip two miles south of the bevieged city.

Nip Attack Shattered

Other Chinese forces steamrollered five strong Japanese positions along the Mogaung valley and shattered a Nippon attack aimed to reinforce trapped troops at Warong.

Additional Chinese forces continued to pour across the Salween river in China's Yunnan province to support the recently launched offensive designed to reopen the Burma road.

The Chinese high command at Chungking announced the fall into Japanese hands of Lushih, Honan province city. It appeared the Japanese in that sector were getting ready either to strike toward China's great northwest territory or to cut off Chinese troops in the region.

One Japanese force driving westward along the Lunghai railway was reported stalled. The Chinese claimed recapture of three additional towns as they counter-attacked against the Japanese wedge along the Peiping-Hankow railway.

The Japanese were reported rushing in reinforcements far to the south, apparently to fight for control of the entire north-south railway.

Executive Committee Chairman George Butler does not know about it, he is not qualified to serve as chairman."

The executive committee in a session earlier today voted to recommend to the convention that former Gov. Dan Moody be the temporary chairman. At the same time, the committee voted to do away with a keynote speech, in view of the apparent close division in sentiment among the delegates.

"I double dog dare the uninstructed crowd to take the pledge that they will support the party nominee," Allred said. "They will not subvert the will of the Democrats of Texas. The seamroller is already rolling. Watch out for those voice votes tomorrow."

Objectives Of Others

The uninstructed delegates chose a group of floor leaders to press for the objectives which Crooker describes as:

1. Restoration of the two-thirds rule for national nominating conventions.

2. Re-assertion of the right of the party to regulate its own affairs.

3. Curb creation and extensions of "bureaus, bureaucrats, commissions and commissars.

E. B. Germany of Dallas, former state committee chairman, said "we want to go to Chicago with our hands free to trade for something that is good for us."

Injured Policeman Said Resting Well

Condition of Walter Whorton, 43, a city policeman injured in a traffic accident Sunday, was still considered serious late Monday night, a Lubbock General hospital authority said, although he was reported to be "resting as well as could be expected."

Whorton was riding a police motorcycle and going west on Broadway whe nit collided with a car being driven by J. A. Simer, 63, 110 Thirty-fourth street, which was going north on Avenue A. No one in the car was injured, said police, who investigated the accident.

The motorcycle Whorton was riding burned following the crash. He suffered head, arm and ankle injuries.

Two Other Accidents

Betty Sue Godbehere, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Godbehere, 1619 Avenue Y, suffered minor bruises, cuts and shock in an accident involving two cars at Avenue T and Eighteenth street Sunday afternoon. One car was going south on Avenue T and was driven by Winston Jerden, 19, of Morton, and the other was going west on Eighteenth street and was driven by A. L. Graham, 17, of Route 1, Lubbock.

Mighty Air Raids

to strafe when it appeared the German air force was not coming out in force to resist. The same number of Liberators returned to the attack on the Pas de Calais area for the second straight day.

Spitfire and Typhoon fighters and fighter-bombers of the British Second Tactical Air force added to the tumult with low-flying attacks on a wide variety of targets. They claimed at least six Nazi aircraft, and Spitfires over northern France shot up four locomotives.

Flames licked through the rubble of Kiel and a smoke pall hung over that vital German port on the Baltic after the Fortress task force pounded it through clouds against a flak barrage that often was intense.

Steady Hammering

For nearly an hour early tonight what sounded like strong forces of Allied planes droned over the southeast coast to bomb in the last hours of daylight and keep up the steady hammering at German defenses.

Marauders, protected by Thunderbolts and Lightenings, flew against military objectives in northern France, including an airfield at Beaumont Le Roger this afternoon and returned without encountering either fighters or flak.

The luftwaffe sent its squadrons up in force to ward off the blow at Kiel but the German radio complained their fighters had difficulty finding the American bombers in the clouds that lay along the way.

RAF heavies in their twelfth major assault of the month carried out a heavy attack last night on the great inland port and railroad center of Duisburg, and sent other formations against objectives in the shotup Hannover area and enemy airfields in Belgium.

About 750 aircraft participated in these operations and 30 failed to return—the biggest RAF loss since 49 went down in widespread attacks the night of May 3.

Expeditionary Force Joins

The Allied Expeditionary Air force joined in the day's blitz. Mitchells and Bostons escorted by Spitfires bombing the rail yards at Douai, French city 70 miles southeast of Calais, and shooting up other military objectives.

The German radio warned at 11:45 p. m. (4:45 p. m. cwt) that "enemy bomber formations are heading toward northwest and western Germany." The Paris radio was blacked out.

Later the German radio reported bomber formations were over the Hannover and Brunswisk areas and other enemy planes were over southwest Germany. The broadcast said Nazi night fighters were attacking the bombers.

News Briefs

W. H. Ford, jr., formerly associated with Lubbock tailoring firms, has accepted a position as patrolman with the Lubbock police department, it was announced Monday night by Chief of Police Don Reeder. Ford has been assigned to the night force, Reeder said. The new patrolman operated a cleaning establishment in a South Texas city prior to accepting the post, Reeder said.

Fire caused "considerable damage" Monday afternoon to a two-room negro home located at the rear of 1608 Avenue C, firemen reported.

Police are investigating a case in which a 13-year-old boy, Lonnie Burch, was found Sunday night on North Avenue H near Camp Carson, suffering from a head injury. The boy told police that he had been knocked in the head and his money had been taken from him. He was taken to West Texas hospital, but was dismissed Monday mornin.

Five inches of rain reportedly fell Sunday night southwest of Lamesa in Dawson county. Rainfall was light in the Lubbock vicinity. Precipitation measured .17 of an inch at the farm experiment station. Eastern Garza county received a two-inch rain, while a light rain fell at Post. In Lamesa the fall amounted to 1.10. Showers were reported at Brownfield, Littlefield and Crosbyton.

Italian Front

and disorganized, an Allied spokesman said. He reported that Allied losses had been "considerable" in the 11-day push, but said they were not too high for the results achieved and the extreme losses inflicted upon the Germans.

In a daring stab today, American patrols on the right flank of the beachhead near Littoria pushed five miles into the enemy's lines—toward a juncture with Yank forces in the Terracina area. The enemy's counter-blow at Terracina itself was foreshadowed by dispatches earlier in the day saying German troop movements west of the town were being concealed by a smoke screen.

Northeast of Terracina American forces continued to bore through the pass of the Aurunci mountains, last natural barrier between them and the Pontine plain. They seized three more peaks today—Monte Marino, Monte Autone and Monte Capiccio.

Main Goals Achieved

With the latest development—the enemy's desperate gamble to stem the offensive—the Allied campaign could be said already to have achieved its two main goals of engaging a big German Army on the southern front and destroying much of it. More than 6,000 Nazi prisoners had been taken and probably an equal number of the enemy killed or wounded.

(A Swiss broadcast reported Monday that Pontecorvo had fallen to the Allies, but this was not confirmed by any other source. The German high command said Allied troops had broken into Pico's defenses several times but had been thrown out by counter-attacks.)

Allied warplanes raked Nazi ground forces all along the battle front and hit bridges, guns, motor transport and gun positions. Eight enemy planes were destroyed yesterday and five Allied craft were missing. Last night Allied bombers attacked ports along the Italian west coast.

High Court Upholds Authority Of OPA

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—The Supreme court, in a sweeping affirmation of the President's power to regulate the national economy in time of war, today upheld the Office of Price administration's authority to order restrictions on operations of business which have violated rationing regulations.

The 8 to 1 decision upheld an OPA order directing L. P. Steuart & Bros., Inc., Washington fuel oil dealer, to restrict its sales and deliveries to customers who were on its books as of Oct. 21, 1942.

The Woman's Angle

DO you know why it was called the "gay nineties?"

Because the men looked gay and the women looked ninety.

PROFICIENCY

WE wonder if ay of Miss Margaret W. Weeks' graduates from Tech's division of home economics have complained to her as one Josephine Stone Breeding:

I'm through the university;
The Home Ec course I've taken!
I cook my butter beans sans butter
And dried beans sans the bacon.

I serve a pudding sans hard sauce,
Sans plums—without a blunder;
The budget works but I'm sans a job
And sans a man—I wonder!

WASTE FAT NEEDED

GOV. COKE STEVENSON has issued an appeal to Texas housewives to save more used household fats. Texas, he says, is lagging about 34 per cent in producing its quota of this vital salvage.

Almost all of out import sources of fats and oil were cut off when the Japanese occupied the Philippines and the Dutch East Indies. This stoppage presented the nation with a crucial problem in the manufacture of explosives, synthetic rubber, military medicines and countless other war-time necessities.

And the problem did not end there. Our allies also needed huge quantities of these fats and millions of pounds have been shipped to them under lend-lease. The United States not only had to become self-sustaining in a commodity which she normally imported but had to become an exporting nation. The conversion was a great one and made possible almost wholly through the efforts of the American housewife.

The governor urged every Texas housewife to save at least one tablespoon of fat a day and help bring Texas to the top of her production quota. Keep a tin can in your kitchen at all times. Pour the grease in it and when full bring it to your butcher; preferably early in the week when he has more time to weigh out the waste fat, pay you the cash and the ration points, four cents and two red points per pound.

WATCH THE WOMEN

THE distaff side may wield more political power in this year's elections than may be reckoned at this early stage. This should be the jackpot year for lady politicos.

Monday Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham who lives on a farm near New Waverly (that's in Walker county) entered the gubernatorial campaign. She may not get to first base in the race but we'd wager no one in Texas will have more excitement over it than Mrs. Cunningham.

She long has been interested in woman suffrage and this year with so many of the men off fighting the war she should get in some good licks. Her friends say Mrs. Cunningham will base her campaign on support of President Roosevelt. We found ourself wishing she would announce a platform concerned with problems in our own fair state.

We met this intelligent, pleasant-faced woman several years ago when she was with the extension service of Texas A. and M. college and have watched her career with interest. She creates quite a stir wherever she hangs her hat and coat and that' why we think her campaign will be an exciting one.

WHO IS SHE?

WHERE does Kathleen Norris (of Lubbock and not the novelist) make her home?

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. White of 1922 Ninth street have been receiving her letters in the mail box lately and a telegram came to her about a week ago. The letters are airmail and from a soldier over seas.

One afternoon the Whites drove for two hours trying to trace clues as to Miss Norris' whereabouts. They returned the letters to the post office and now are at a dead end. If you ARE Miss Norris or know where she makes her home, will you please telephone Mrs. White?

WAC To Have Off-Duty Summer Dress

A new "leisure uniform" of sand beige, a soft shirtmaker one piece style dress in rayon shantung will be worn by members of the Women's Army corps this summer. The style was selected after it was revealed that while the women wanted a becoming dress for off-duty hours, they wanted to look military and not resemble civilians in their uniforms.

With the new off-duty dress as well as with the new tropical worsted uniforms to be worn on duty, WACs will wear a new overseas cap in matching rayon shantung. With the dress they will also wear civilian type shoes of brown leather and carry a plain brown leather handbag of their own selection.

Buttons on the new dresses are the gold colored, pierced eagle type hitherto worn only by Army officers. Rank insignia will be worn on shoulder tabs and on the cap for commissioned officers. Stripes in matching beige will be embroidered on both sleeves to identify rank of non-commissioned officers.

School Board Here To Fight Sect In Flag Salute Case

In a special meeting held Monday morning in the business office of the Lubbock Independent School district at 1007 Texas avenue, members of the board of trustees of the district voted to fight court efforts to overthrow their policy of requiring public school students to pledge allegiance to the flag and government of the United States.

Members of the board, and all teachers and employes of the system, have been named in a suit, filed in federal court by representatives of a religious sect known as "Jehovah's Witnesses" and seeking to force acceptance of students who decline to take the patriotic pledge. Cited to appear in court before Judge T. Whit Davidson here on June 5 are Board President J. L. Hutchinson, Secretary R. F. Bayless, and Superintendent R. W. Matthews.

Plaintiffs Are Listed

A San Antonio attorney, T. S. Williams, is representing the plaintiffs, who reside here. The citation lists as plaintiffs:

M. R. Free, Myrtle Free, Darlene Free, Doyle Free, George Dodge, Linnie Dodge, Ora Dell Dodge, Lillie Worthington and L. G. Worthington.

Six members of the seven-man board of trustees were present this morning, Chairman Hutchinson being out of the city. All six voted to use all legal means at their command to oppose efforts on the part of sect members to over-ride their policy.

Walter G. Alderson, vice-chairman, appointed a three-man committee to discuss with Owen W. McWhorter, school district attorney, plans for defense and all other matters connected with the suit. Members of that committee are H. L. Allen, chairman; Ellsworth J. Parsons and Chas. A. Guy.

Board Makes Statement

In a statement approved by the board, Alderson said:

"All of us feel that the great majority of taxpayers and patrons of Lubbock Independent School district approve our policy; that nearly every patron opposes placing his child in an atmosphere of unpatriotism. It is the opinion of all the trustees, individually and collectively, that an example of the few 'Witness' children, whose parents refuse to permit them to pledge allegiance to the flag and the government of the United States, will cause to arise in the thoughts of normal youngsters some question of the desirability of taking the pledge. This situation we intend to avoid with all legal means at our command."

Unanimously, the board takes the position that its policy will be upheld until such time as the courts force its abandonment. "We do not believe in permitting a small group to dictate to the overwhelming majority," the vice-chairman said, "nor do we intend to place before the majority of school children what we consider an example harmful to them. Our policy will be maintained as long as it may be legally maintained and if pledge-dodgers are permitted to attend school it will be upon the authority of the courts and not upon the authority of the board."

Routine Business Transacted

The board also transacted routine business brought before it by Superintendent Matthews. Resignations of four teachers were accepted. They include:

Miss Julia Lair and Mrs. Analara Power, both of Junior High; Mmes. Ardath Smith and Edwin Reid, of Bean school.

Elected as teachers on the regular basis were Mrs. Oscar Killian and Miss Bess Lewis, Central ward; Mrs. Sadie Hazelwood, K. Carter; George Philbrick, Senior High, and Miss Mary Appling, Bean. Elected on a temporary terminable basis were Mrs. Eula Embray Pierce, Junior High, and Mrs. B. M. Hays, Guadalupe.

At recommendation of Matthews, the board appointed Mrs. Reuby Rhodes to be principal of the new ward school to be constructed in the northwest part of the city, and voted to send Mrs. Thelma Wilson to University of Texas this summer for a four weeks course on health. Mrs. Wilson's expenses will be paid jointly by the W. K. Kellogg foundation and the school system. Upon her return to duty next fall, she will pass on to all women physical education teachers the information she receives from the special course.

Sgt. Perry Corley Prisoner Of Nazis

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Corley, pioneer residents of Shallowater, received official word Monday morning that their son, T/Sgt. Perry L. Corley, 24, is now a prisoner of war in Germany.

About two weeks ago, the parents were notified that their son, a radio-gunner in the Army Air Forces, had been missing since the plane to which he was assigned had been shot down over Austria. A few days later, they received a letter from one of Sgt. Corley's friends which related that, when members of the crew of the plane shot down were last observed, their parachutes were burning.

The father related that they gave up hope that their son may have survived, in spite of the report that some of the crewmen reached the ground safely. They have no information as to how he was saved.

Sgt. Corley was reared in Shallowater, graduated from high school there and attended Texas Technological college a year before his enlistment about four years ago.

Onions Reported Plentiful Here

Plenty of onions for all purposes and for all who want them is welcome news to Lubbock county meal planners who have been unable to buy them lately.

With local shortages broken by an ever-increasing volume of this year's crop moving from farm to market, folks who like the additional flavor of onion no longer have to do without or limit the quantity they buy, according to Peter F. Murray, area marketing supervisor for the War Food administration.

Scarce Until Recently

Until a few weeks ago the situation was different with scarcely enough onions available to bring tears to the average eye. There nearly always is a shortage period, however, between the time a seasonal crop is harvested and a new crop is ready for market; and to onion eaters, this year has been no exception.

Last year's crop was lighter than normal and heavy military demands for dehydrated onions plus additional quantities needed for army camps didn't leave very large amounts for civilians.

Supplies now coming to market from Texas, Louisiana, California and Georgia indicate an increase of nearly 50 per cent over the 1943 crop and everyone on the home front is being asked to buy and eat more onions.

Sun Time To Be Used In Child Labor Law

AUSTIN, May 22 (U.P.)—State Labor Commissioner John B. Reed today sent each member of the Texas legislature a copy of the court ruling that sun time governs in the law prohibiting employment of children between 10 p. m. and 5 a. m.

The department had been using central war time in enforcement of the law and in view of the court ruling Reed suggested to the legislators that an amendment to the law is needed.

"I am sure you can see the confusion that will exist," Reed wrote. "Deputies doing this work would almost have to be qualified astronomers."

How to keep Your Eyes Cool this Spring and Summer

Wear Calobar Sun Glasses

Calobar lenses are soothing to Spring and Summer-hot eyes. They are an effective guard against the headaches and tired eyes brought on by hot Suns.

And here's the reason. Calobar is a genuine absorptive lens that actually filters out the infra-red (heat) rays as well as useless ultra-violet rays. So highly does the U. S. Government think of Calobar, that U. S. specification for the lenses used by Army flyers in their goggles, reads "Calobar or its equivalent."

You can get Calobar ground and polished lenses in your choice of a wide variety of attractive ZYL and metal frames. If you need glasses at all times, your eye physician (Oculist) can arrange to have Calobar lenses ground to your prescription.

Consult your oculist (eye physician) for the examination of your eyes. His medical knowledge and skill in refraction assures you of the best that science can offer.

WLB Chief Defends U.S. Seizure Of Ward's Plant

WASHINGTON, May 22. (AP)—WLB Chairman William H. Davis today told a House committee that the government's dramatic seizure of the Montgomery Ward Chicago plant was legal, and asserted that his agency had to act to avert a possible strike "epidemic."

As Davis testified, the Hummer Manufacturing company at Springfield, Ill., second Montgomery Ward concern to be seized by the Army within a month, resumed production with the government in charge. President Roosevelt ordered this strike-bound company, maker of war materials, to be taken over yesterday after the War Labor board informed him it had rejected a WLB directive to sign a union contract embodying maintenance of union membership.

Position Explained

Appearing today before a committee headed by Rep. Ramspeck (D-Ga), Davis took this position:

1—The Ward mail order house sells much equipment to farmers for production of badly needed food. This, in his opinion, makes the company definitely a cog in the war efort.

2—Allow a strike to continue in such a plant, and 15,500,000 employes in distribution, retail sales, transportation and service trades, would "feel free to strike."

"It was the unanimous opinion of the labor, industry and public members that this company is engaged in activities directly related to the successful prosecution of the war," Davis said.

"And make no mistake about it, the industry members of this board are no gentle lambs; they're tough and they know what they're doing."

Within Authority

"We always will actin within the authority granted us by Congress," Davis continued.

The labor problem can be solved if we have the consistent support of Congress. There is no possibility of encroachment on our civil liberties. The only possibility of that would be if the provisions of Congress are inadequate."

He suggested that the hub of the Ward case centers in the language of the Smith-Connally war labor disputes law. That act, he declared, says the WLB is to step into a labor situation which threatens to "interfere with the successful prosecution of the war" or "may lead" to such an interference.

Records Show Home Brew Coming Back

If the records of the district office of the Liquor Control board here are to be taken as a criteria, the good old days, or whatever you might choose to call them, are coming back, what with the acute shortage and high price of liquor, and with beer offered for sale nowhere within 100 miles of Lubbock.

Over in the control board offices in the southwest corner of the courthouse today are six and one-half gallons of "the clearest white corn whisky you ever saw," and hardly a day passes that a batch of home brew isn't seized by board officers.

The corn whisky was confiscated in a raid on a farmhouse 15 miles southwest of Tahoka Saturday afternoon and as a result Bill Ellis paid a fine of $500 and costs in a Tahok court several hours later. The whisky was the second batch of corn seized by the board in the past week.

Liquor violations seem to center on Lubbock county for this district, according to a report for fines collected in April. Of the $4,946.25 in fines paid in for violations, a total of $3,006.80 was paid in Lubbock county.

Time Extended For Employment Reports

M. W. Waldron, employment service manager here, announced Monday the time for reporting employment needs so that they may be included in the May report of the U. S. Employment service office has been extended two or three days longer.

Normally, he explained, the report for each month is closed on the 20th. He added that, on the basis of the May requests already received, the report, if closed now, would show about an equal balance between the jobs and labor available in Lubbock. He said, however, that any substantial increase in the number of requests for labor within the next two or three days probably would mean a report indicating a labor shortage in Lubbock.

Most of the recent monthly reports, it was added, have indicated surplus of labor here — this being attributed to the failure of many employers to report their employment needs to the service.

Delegation Off For State Demo Session

Lubbock county's delegation to the Texas State Democratic convention left Monday afternoon for Austin. One group left Sunday.

With the county delegation instructed for Roosevelt "to the last hope of nomination" as a result of action in the county convention last Tuesday week, it is likely that the group will be involved in a lively fight in the convention, Homer L. Pharr, chairman of the Lubbock delegation said.

According to reports from over the state, anti-New Deal party members plan to storm the convention and send an uninstructed delegation to the national convention in Chicago in June.

Lubbock will be represented at Austin by approximately 12 delegates, Pharr said.

Junior Softball Schedules School For Players June 7

Junior softball will follow in the steps of junior baseball in Lubbock, and a baseball school for the junior softball players will be opened June 7 at the basin at 22nd and Ave. W, Curtis "Stumpy" Hamilton announced Monday.

The softball school will run for four days, starting each day at 4 o'clock and running until 7 o'clock, and all boys 15 years of age or younger who are on a team, or want to get on a team, are urged to be present at the school.

Boys are urged to register with the Recreation Department so they will be permitted to play in the junior softball league under paid instructors during the summer.

The Recreation Department has been having a nice response to letters sent out last week for the organization of an adult mens league. There are a number of teams coming into the league from the local Army posts, and two teams from the post office.

Officials announced they were going to accept 16 teams for the league, and the first 16 teams to enter will make up the league.

Efforts are being made to line up a girls softball league in the city, but to date the interest among the girls has been slack, but a league will be formed if enough girls can be found to form a league.

TWIN HIT—Frances Verban, twin sister of Emil Verban, St. Louis Cardinals second baseman, bashes out a hit at the Girls Softball League spring training camp at Peru, Ill.

Big Leagues Start On Second Million

NEW YORK, May 22. (AP)—Big league baseball is heading today toward its second million in paid attendance with the first fifth of the season showing an approximate turnstile count of 1,660,544 admissions.

With both major leagues enjoying another two-day travel interlude that will be broken only by a night game in Brooklyn Tuesday, a survey of early season figures showed the over-all average attendance per game hovered just above the 8,000 mark. Last year's average was approximately 6,250. And the entire season figure aggregated 7,714,636.

Sixty per cent of the customers pushed through the gates on the five Sundays and 20 night games. The after-dark totals, consisting largely of Washington returns where 10 have been played, approximates 277,226, or 13,861 per game.

Although poor weather plagued the first two weekends of the campaign and prevented Brooklyn from playing a single Sabbath home date, the Sunday total is 715,632 of which the American league has drawn 397,744.

Henry Armstrong Is Winner Over Perry

WASHINGTON, May 22. (AP) — Hammerin' Henry Armstrong, one of the greatest little fighting men in ring history, proved himself the master of an up-and-coming youngster by stopping Aaron Perry, Washington welterweight hopeful, in the sixth round of a scheduled 10 frame bout tonight, to win a technical knockout.

About 16,000 customers turned out for the bout.

Armstrong, the Los Angeles dynamo who once held three world titles at the same time, slammed Perry to the floor five times. Perry got up off the canvas on three occasions in the fifth to continue the fight. In the sixth, Perry, weakened by Armstrong's relentless body attack, went down for a nine count in the opening minute. Dazed, he struggled to his feet and started throwing wild lefts and rights in the general direction of the dancing Armstrong. Then he collided with a stiff right to the jaw and dropped again.

Perry tried to get up but Referee Charlie Reynolds felt he had taken enough punishment and was unable to continue. The time was 2:56 of the sixth.

Grid Coaches To Hold Two Meets

NEW YORK, May 22. (AP)—College football's verbal tug-of-war over its playing code gets down to cases this week with the Big Ten mentors meeting in Chicago Thursday and the Football Coaches Association holding its first war-time session in New York Sunday and Monday.

The latter confab was called today by Lt. Comdr. Matty Bell of the Navy, president of the association and peace-time grid coach at Southern Methodist university.

Want Rule Change

There has been considerable agitation in the East and Midwest for code changes, especially the rules affecting the kickoff, passing behind the line of scrimmage and those laws pertaining to fumbles.

Lt. Col. William Bingham, Harvard's director of athletics and new chairman of the NCAA football rules committee, has held the changes are not needed nor universally desired.

Technically, the coaches' actions will have no effect on the rules. Reports from Chicago, however, are that the Big Ten mentors likely will amend the code by gentlemen's agreements among themselves until such time as "the NCAA catches up with the times," one authoritative source said.

East May Act

Similar reports have been heard recently in New York and Philadelphia concerning Eastern colleges.

Lou Little, Columbia coach and chairman of the coaches' rules committee which is not to be confused with the NCAA rules group, has been the most ardent champion of the suggestions to penalize teams for out-of-bounds kickoffs and to make passing permissable anywhere behind the line of scrimmage.

Both rules are part of the National Football League rule book.

Speakers at the coaches' meeting here include Carl Snavely of Cornell, Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin, Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian, Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech, Jim Phelan of St. Mary's and Henry Frnka of Tulsa.

Tom Hafey To Report To Browns Wednesday

ST. LOUIS, May 22. (AP) — The St. Louis Browns announced today that Tom Hafey, formerly with San Antonio of the Texas League, has signed a contract with the Brownies. He will report Wednesday in St. Louis.

A nephew of the St. Louis Cardinals' famous Chick Hafey, the rookie retired from baseball last year to work in a California shipyard. He was placed on the Browns' Toledo farm club reserve list when the Texas League suspended play for the duration.

AAU Track Meet At Dallas Draws Cream Of Southwest

DALLAS, May 22 (AP)—Most of the Southwest Conference and Texas High school track and field champions had filed entries today for the Southwestern AAU meet to be held Friday night at Dal-Hi field, Director P. C. Cobb announced.

The only schoolboy titlist who won't be here is George Kadera of John Reagan (Houston), shot putter. Entries coming in today included Dickie Brooks of Lytle, mile champion. Other schoolboy winners to appear here are Charles Parker, Jefferson (San Antonio), sprints; August Erfurth, Brackenridge (San Antonio) and Tom Watt, Jefferson (San Antonio) high and low hurdles; Burl Gene Moore, Lubbock, 440-yard dash; Rhea Nichols, Adamson (Dallas), half-mile; James Southworth, Brackenridge (San Antonio), high jump and pole vault; Guy Worrell, Jefferson (San Antonio), broad jump; Alan Sparkman, Jefferson (San Antonio), discus throw.

From the Southwest Conference will come Bob Umstattd, Texas, mile and half-mile; Coy Porter, Texas, broad jump; Homer Smith, Texas, discus throw; Guy Groves, Rice, 440-yard dash; Roland Nielson, Texas, pole vault, and prospects were good that Ralph Ellsworth, Texas sprint champion, would enter.

A total entry of 40 had come in today including Pete Watkins of Fort Sam Houston, National AAU high jump champion; Ted Haese, all-around star from Fort Sam Houston, Andy Cary of Southwestern, star 440 and 880-yard runner, and J. B. Outlaw, North Texas State mile runner.

BIG LEAGUERS WIN

BAINBRIDGE, Md., May 22. (AP) —Big Mike Naymick hit and pitched the Cleveland Indians of the American league to a 3-1 victory over the Bainbridge Naval Training center nine in an exhibition game today before 8,000 sailors and officers.

CALLED FOR PHYSICAL

PHILADELPHIA, May 22. (AP) —Outfielder Ron Northey and rookie southpaw pitcher Ken Raffensberger have been ordered to report for pre-induction physical examinations here on Friday morning, Phillies General Manager Herb Pennock said today.

New Pro Grid Loop Plans Meet Sunday

PITTSBURGH, May 22. (AP) — Permanent organization of a new, transcontinental, post-war professional football league, temporarily organized last April 3, is expected to be completed at a meeting here Sunday.

Roland D. Payne of Pittsburgh, temporary chairman of the proposed league said permanent officers will be elected, franchises issued and a constitution ratified on Sunday.

Eight teams were issued "certificates of participation" at the April meeting. These are expected to be exchanged for franchises Sunday, Payne said.

Cities represented by temporary certificates are New York, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Seattle, Wash.

Payne said operation of the league probably will not begin until after the war.

Durocher Ready For Shake Up Of Dodgers

NEW YORK, May 22. (AP)—Lippy Leo Durocher gave out with a blast at his Brooklyn Dodgers today and intimated he might play shortstop again if things don't change in a hurry.

Returning home after a poor western trip on which the Brooks won only four of 14 games, Durocher insisted shortstop Bill Hart would be benched in Tuesday's night game with New York and predicted other changes in an effort to get his club playing "on your toes" ball.

Max Lanier Started Out A Right Hander

ST. LOUIS, May 22. (AP) — A natural right-hander from the hills of North Carolina has become the National league's leading pitcher—as a left-hander.

Hubert Max Lanier of Denton, N. C., currently topping senior circuit twirlers with six victories and no defeats (officially, at least), signed a St. Louis Cardinal contract in 1933 after a successful high school record.

The Cards wanted Max to work up gradually, but he didn't like minor league salaries and refused to report for four years.

Finally, Branch Rickey sent his brother Frank to talk to Lanier, and Max agreed to play for the Cardinal system, providing he could get to the majors in two years.

Lanier came up to the big time in 1938. After only fair success, he found his stride last season to mark up the best left-handed record in the league — 15 victories, seven defeats.

But Max started out life as a righthander and did everything right handed until he was 8 years old. Then he suffered a broken right arm. With the arm in a sling he tried out his left arm. Two more breaks in the right one, and Max was definitely committed to the southpaw way of life.

Parker Does 9.6 To Cop Army Meet Race

SAN ANTONIO, May 22. (AP)— Although floating the last 20 yards, Charley Parker, Jefferson High school's state spring champion, ran a 9.6 second hundred yard dash in a feature of last night's Army track meet here.

Perry Samuels, also of Jefferson, and Ted Haese of Brooke General hospital, former Southwest Texas State Teachers college star, finished second and third, respectively, in the three-man exhibition race. Ralph Ellsworth and Leo Culbertson of the University of Texas withdrew from the event.

San Antonio Aviation Cadet center scored 36½ points to win the enlisted men's team championship, beating Hondo Navigation school by one point.

Tom Crane, formerly of Springfield college, Massachusetts, won the four-mile marathon in 22:45.

Schoolboy Baseball Tourney Postponed

DALLAS, May 22. (AP)—Elimination in a state high school baseball tournament, scheduled this afternoon, was called off by P. C. Cobb, athletic director for Dallas High schools, following heavy rain today.

The tournament will get under way Wednesday, Cobb said, with 12 or more entries.

Mighty Important Job These Days

The Telephone Lineman
...maintains the network of telephone wires and cables that links the nation together.
Day after day, in storm and fire and flood, up in the air and underground, he's on the job—knowing that every circuit is needed for war.
These days it is important for everyone to make the best use of telephone equipment.
You can help by not talking over 5 minutes when Long Distance circuits are busy with war.

OUR PLEDGE

WE pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands: One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

The Spectre Has Vanished

DESPITE sound warnings from many sources, it seems neither wishful nor premature to recognize that the United States now virtually is sure of victory in the war's great Battle of Food.

This, if true, would not mean that serious dangers, inconveniences and problems attending food are over. W-ste or departure from cautious practices still might endanger everything that has been gained.

But, if the food position now is favorable, it should be recognized. True, chances can't be taken that supplies might fall short of war needs. But not to be ignored is the danger of post-war surpluses so huge that production might be paralyzed while accumulations are being consumed. It is common sense to try to recognize facts, even when they are favorable.

The food facts are incredibly favorable when compared with the prospects two years ago. Then it seemed impossible that Americans could reach victory without a considerable tightening of belts. Many observers feared that a period of widespread hunger lay ahead.

But food production has far surpassed all real expectations of possibility. It has been abundant for needs of the Armed Forces, the home front, for Lend-Lease and to build stockpiles so huge that economists frankly are worried. They are gravely concerned over what such surpluses might do to the post-war economy—the farmer and rancher, the processor, the retailer and, most of all, to employment.

So, if victory is at hand in the Battle of Food, it is worse than ridiculous to refuse to recognize it. It is dangerous.

Naturally, no one can be justified in imagining that the situation is so favorable that there can be a nearly return to pre-war parctices. It probably will be a long time before everyone can have everything he wants when we wants it. It is entirely logical that rationing regulations which have been relaxed recently may be tightened again. Scarcities of many kinds are not merely probable. They are virtually certain.

But even with this, the facts still support the statement that, in its basic essential of enough for everyone, the food problem has been licked. The spectre of hunger no longer stalks the land.

A "Crackdown" On "Buzzing"

VARIOUS of the American military forces doubtless have many things in common. One is the effective method of dealing with offenders in uniform. When any of the services undertakes to discourage violations of its regulations, it really discourages them—and no foolin.'

Illustrative was the case the other day of an Air Forces officer-student tried by court martial in California for having "buzzed" a small town in a plane. The verdict levied a fine of $2,000, to be deducted from the young man's pay at the rate of $100 per month.

Details of this particular case were not reported. Perhaps it was more aggravated than similar incidents that many communities—including Lubbock—have experienced upon occasion. Possibly the court which levied the heavy fine was unusually tough. Perhaps there were special reasons for the severe penalty in the particular case. Perhaps the fine may be reduced later.

But there also is the possibility that those in authority in the Army Air Forces are serving notice, through this case, that they have had their fill of the prankish, and extremely dangerous, practice of "buzzing" towns.

Doubtless it is true that the ration of men in uniform who would indulge in "buzzing" is extremely small. Nor could there be any suspicion that the few who might be inclined to such indulgences are motivated by maliciousness, or the desire to do harm to anyone. Probably, when such a thing happens, it strictly is a prank committed by someone so confident in himself and his aircraft that he would sincerely ridicule the suggestion that anyone might be endangered by his actions.

However, such practices are extremely dangerous. The tragedy that might result if a "buzzing" plane should get out of control for a split second is terrifying to think about.

Fortunately, there never has been enough of the practice of "buzzing," so far as the Armed Forces are concerned, to represent a real problem. There has been even less of it recently than during earlier months of the war. It is safe to predict, in view of that $2,000 fine in California, that any lingering tendencies of this kind which may have remained now are gone with the dodo.

One Minute Sermon

He that smiteth a man, so that he die, shall surely put to death.

And if a man lie not in wait, but God deliver him into his hand; then I will appoint thee a place whither he shall flee.

But if a man come presumptuously upon his neighbor, to slay him with guile; thou shalt take him from mine altar, that he may die.—Exodus 21:12 through 14.

SURROUNDED

XXI

NORMA was standing in the roofed gateway to the inn. She waved. "Want to look at the inn now?"

"With you in a minute," Link called back. "I've got some news for you."

Norma did not look worried. Link admired her self-control. He knew she must be worried.

He was faced with the grim job of telling her about Kip. First, though, he would talk to Courtright. He wanted to know what she had meant by asking him to keep the information to himself.

As a whole, Link was mostly angry. His rage grew until it was a thing that pulled at his muscles. But the wrath gave him nothing but the satisfaction of being angry. Knocking Japs around with his fists was not likely to explain the mystery.

He wondered about a cut-and-run-for-it solution of the problem. A kid's hope, he decided. He thought he would look into it, though.

He made a circle of the inn grounds after leaving Azaraski, partly to calm down. But also he wanted to learn how well the inn was guarded by Japanese soldiers.

He could see only the four soldiers and the non-com, the guards who had come with them.

Link stood behind a bush. He remembered a story told him by a Marine who had been in the Guadalcanal thing. A trick. They'd located a few Japs with it, the Marine said, before the little tea-colored men got wise.

"Goran nasai!" Link bellowed suddenly, trying to sound like Azaraski. "Ko-geki itase!"

The woods must be full of soldiers! Link saw at least three jump out of their hiding places in alarm. By shouting the Japanese words to look, and the army command to charge, doubtless he'd fooled but a few of them.

UNPLEASANTLY convinced they were guarded by a good part of the army, Link went back to the inn.

Azaraski grinned at him ruefully, said, "You are so playful, Link."

"The Imperial army holding maneuvers around here?" asked Link.

"That's right," Azaraski said. "Maneuvers."

Norma must have been watching around the edege of one of the outside screens, the screens covered with ornamented white paper, which served the inn as windows. She masked her fear only fairly well, and said, "That was you who shouted, wasn't it?"

"I was in fine voice, wasn't I?" Link asked.

"Why did you?"

"I wondered if there were more soldiers around."

"Are there?"

"I'll say."

"Link," she said, "this is very serious, isn't it?"

He wished he could deceive her, make her think all was well. But he had too much respect for her good sense to try. He compromised on an evasive answer.

"Azaraski doesn't want us to get away," he said. "He has more soldiers around than he let on. Well, we hadn't figured we could escape. So why should we worry?"

"When you shouted, I was watching Azaraski," Norma said. "He was very disturbed."

Link would bet he had been. "Like anybody, he hates to have his little deceits found out, probably."

NORMA shook her head and said, "Please be careful. Be careful, not to push him into a spot where he can no longer pretend. The Japanese are strange about that, Link. They are—" For a moment, she groped for a way to describe it. "Their deceit," she finished, "is like the lid on a boiling kettle. Take it off, and you have a mess."

"Like the radiator cap on my car when it overheats. I get it."

She gave him a smile. "Link, don't let me spoil your outing. I'm sorry. I'll stop."

They walked into the inn. The place was cool and quiet inside. Tilda Courtright was nowhere in sight.

"Norma, you want to hear the surprise?" Link asked.

"Oh, I forgot. Of course."

"We're going to stay here two or three days. Azaraski just told me. Good, eh?"

Norma seized his arm. "Oh that is nice," she said. "Isn't it?"

Link looked down at the intoxicating honey of her hair. She was close enough that he was aware of her in every nerve.

Damn the Japs! They had to be around at a time like this.

"Tell you what," he said. "Now we'll have plenty of time to look at the blasted inn. Let's postpone it. Let's have some of that sake, that hot rice wine. Then we will all take a nap."

Norma had been in prison since Dec. 7, which was many months ago. So he knew she would not have much strength. She would need a short rest. Truthfully, Link could use a rest himself.

"Wine makes me sleepy, too," she said, pleased by the idea. "How do you know that?"

"Wine is an anaesthetic by nature," Link explained with an erudite air.

"That's the first time you've sounded like a doctor, Link. And I think it's a fine idea. Come on."

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

ONE OF my readers has written me a very irate letter. He likes me when I talk about my wife or my dog or my secretary, he says, but he wants me to keep away from religion.

"You have no right to talk about religion," he writes, "any more than you have a right to discuss medicine or law.

"We have experts to explain the Bible and religion to us, just as we have experts to prescribe medicine or to try our cases in court."

The particular cause of his anger was a paragraph I wrote that all churches were good and all faiths have their merit.

That, he insists is not so, his own particular church is the best!

And so, there you have the reason why there is so much bigotry, so much intolerance, so much hatred in this world.

In the first place, my friend is all wrong when he says that you or I or anyone else has no right to discuss religion but that, like medicine or law, we must leave it to experts.

Religion, in my conception, is something you feel and live. If it becomes a matter of expert discussion and theoretical explanation, then it completely fails its purpose.

The minister should point out, emphasize and interpret the beauties of the Bible and of religion. But unless he makes you feel that your religion is a vital part of you, then he has not helped you in the least.

There is religion all around us. There is the mystery of spring, of the flowers, the birds, of all the things that grow and blossom and live, the things that no one has yet been able to explain but that you feel and watch in reverance and awe.

And how can anyone say that one faith is not as good as any other? Do roses bloom redder for Catholics than for Protestants? Is the song of the birds sweeter to the Jew than to the Buddhist?

THE BASIS of all religion is goodness and nobility of soul. Each different faith is but a different road to the same destination.

There are beautiful scenes along each road; there is peace and happiness and contentment in each faith.

Whoever belittles your own particular religion, whoever considers his own church better than his neighbor's, has no religion at all.

It doesn't matter to what building you go for your Sunday worship or what ritual you use.

The greatest edifice built for prayer may just be an empty shell and the humblest hut a glorious cathedral.

Because the only church that matters is in your heart!

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

PRESIDENT Roosevelt has embarked on another magnificent experiment which has caught the interest and imagination of old-timers in Washington, especially members of the dwindling diplomatic colony.

He hopes to conclude the war successfully and to solve all postwar problems by the exercise of his conceded charm on such rival figures as Winston Churchill, Josef Stalin and Chiang Kai-shek. The 1944 version of the "indispensable man" theory will be based on this belief in his invincibility.

FDR has frequently told friends that he has no faith in formal international conferences of the powers. His prejudice against such meetings derives from Woodrow Wilson's failure at Versailles, and his study of the results of world parleys in the Harding, Coolidge and Hoover years.

Mr. Roosevelt—perhaps rightly—thinks that when great nations submit prepared and definite programs on a lighted world stage, and they are rejected or modified as was the League of Nations, the ensuing bitterness breeds discord rather than understanding. Ruffled feelings and national jealousies close the door to possible compromise.

DIPLOMACY: This conviction explains why FDR has made a crony and house guest of Prime Minister Churchill. It accounts for his insistence on face-to-face chats with Chiang Kai-shek in Cairo and with the Russian dictator at Teheran.

The President admitted that he preferred private and personal arrangements to treaties and agreements which, with the exception of any pact negotiated by Stalin, would have to be ratified by parliamentary bodies in Britain and the United States. He figured that the Big Four could establish such close contacts that no future disagreements could destroy the solidarity of the United Nations.

Since his return from these tete-a-tetes, he has regaled White House dinner parties with tales of how he conquered Stalin, another believer in personalized government and diplomacy, and how he staved off a serious clash between the Soviet ruler and British bosses.

Some of the stories may not improve Anglo-Russian relates, especially as the identity of their author is known, but they may enhance Mr. Roosevelt's political prestige at home.

Now, with the blessing and cooperation of the White House publicity staff, FDR's theory of individualized diplomacy has been embalmed in an article in a national weekly. It will be used by the Democrats in the fall campaign as the No. 1 argument for the President's re-election.

IDEALIST: A wise old member of the cabinet might warn FDR against putting too much faith in these backstage negotiations and the use of personal diplomacy. The tutor would be Secretary of War Henry Stimson, who tried the same method with European bigwigs when he was Herbert Hoover's secretary of State.

In 1931, Stimson visited almost every continental capital in an effort to prevent an economic collapse, the rise of dictators and an inevitable war. He used the same technique now in vogue in Washington.

He hobnobbed with Pierre Laval in Paris, and found him to be a fascinating gentleman. He dined with Hindenburg in Berlin, gave a present to the grandson of Foreign Minister Curtius and discovered that he and Chancellor Bruening had taken pot shots at each other across "no man's land" during the last conflict.

He went motorboating with Mussolini, and won the Italian dictator by asking him to step on the gas. In short, the staid and kindly American Secretary of State backslapped and palsy-walsied his way through foreign offices which, only a few years later, leaped at one another's throats in the world's bloodiest struggle.

But the well-meaning, sentimental Stimson returned to Washington with his head and heart in the clouds. Holding a special press conference, he proclaimed the opening of a new era of personal diplomacy in which all misunderstanding would vanish because the rulers of nations had become friends rather than rivals. When reminded only a few days ago of his high hopes, his reply was a wry twisted smile.

Despite his age and disillusionment, Stimson is still an idealist. So he hopes that FDR will have better luck than he and Mr. Hoover did.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

ALTHOUGH the Allies have hacked their way through many of the barricades in Italy and are ahead of schedule in positions captured, the lack of great territorial gains in the initial phase of the assault has raised doubts in the mind of the layman regarding the invasion through the western walls.

Military authorities caution that it is wrong to use the depth of ground seized as the yardstick of success.

The destruction of the Wehrmacht, not the conquest of land, is the main objective. In the final days of 1918, the fathers of the American, French and British soldiers now fighting around Cassino advanced less than 100 miles. Yet they forced Hindenburg to surrender on the battlefield.

CRACKED: Our staff has no illusions about Italy. "The fighting,' warned General Alexander at the zero hour, "will be hard, bitter and perhaps long."

Mountains extend along 90 per cent of the Nazi front. Four defensive systems beyond the Gustav Line must be battered down; they are known as the Hitler, the Seyss-Inquart, the Goebbels and the Leni Riefenstahl.

The Germans were heavily fortified in the Donets basin, protecting the second largest steel and coal center on the Continent, but they cracked there and at Stalingrad, Alamein, Sevastapol and Tunisia.

Our generals are confident that, whenever we are fully prepared and ready to pay the price, we can smash through any obstruction, even the iron and cement that girdle the shores.

IGNORANT: It is sobering to think of possible invasion casualties. First World War statistics are often cited as a gauge of speculation.

In the opening shock—between August 21 and September 12, the date of the Marne victory—the French alone were drained of more than 600,000 men in killed, wounded, missing and prisoners. Three-quarters of this terrific loss occurred in less than eight days.

It should be recalled that in those days even professional soldiers were ignorant of the effects of modern fire power, barbed wire and entrenchments. Poilus wore red thousers in green fields, the contrasting colors making them perfect targets. Unsound tactics and strategy resulted in the survival of only two or three regimental officers in many battalions.

From General Marshall down to corporals our commanders have learned to avoid useless slaughter and to wield both offensive and defensive armor.

SACRIFICED: Even though our men are supplied with adequate weapons and wise leaders, as realists we must not ignore the handicap of unfavorable weather. Memories of earlier campaigns in Tunisia and Italy emphasize that point.

The critical moment in an amphibious attack comes when the expedition is still partially seaborne and before its commissariat is fully established ashore. Then atmospheric disturbances can ruin the cleverest plans.

The Spanish Armada was destroyed by hurricane and tides as much as by Drake's daring seamen.

In the Channel zone high winds tail off in March. Hail squalls that often leave the waters calm continue through early May. Mariners say that from March on the fickle weather improves twice as much in each succeeding month.

In the period before ports are organized, when our landing craft must still serve as bases for outfits operating inland, a storm would be a misfortune. In design the seaworthiness of these vessels is sacrificed to carrying capacity and shallowness of draught. The boats become almost unmanageable in heavy waves and wind.

Here And There In Texas

Anything Can Happen When Texas Democrats Gather!

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Correspondent

AUSTIN, May 22.—Bitterness between fourth-term Roosevelt supporters and Texans who want to send an uninstructed delegation to the National Democratic convention raises the possibility that the state Democratic convention here Tuesday may be as stormy as the 1940 convention at Waco, when Vice-President John Nance Garner was made the state's first-ballot choice.

The Waco convention was held in "Waco Hall" at Baylor university. It was preceded by a fist fight outside the convention hall with Mayor Tom Miller of Austin and Mayor Maury Maverick of San Antonio as principlas, and Floyd McGowan of San Antonio, the bystander, who received the principal lick.

Inside the hall there were several fights and banners were torn as delegates rioted. A gate-crasher without a ticket was ejected. Police were called. They stopped pop being brought into the hall. They feared the bottles would prove too handly as weapons.

Order Finally Restored

Unable to obtan order with the assistance of Elliott Roosevelt, the President's son who was a delegate, convention officers called upon Pat M. Neff, former Governor of Texas and president of Baylor university.

The shouting continued. The organist played "The Eyes of Texas," still pandemonium reigned. Finally, Neff obtained enough order to be heard. He announced the leaders of the rival factions had agreed to let a roll call decide. When the roll call was taken the Garner and harmony supporters had won.

The big fight at the convention was occasioned by the unwillingness of many Roosevelt supporters to accept a compromise by which Garner was to get Texas initial vote and the delegates then vote for Roosevelt.

Who authorized the agreement was announced at the Travis county convention this year. Miller said it was the President.

PRESIDING chairmen of Democratic conventions in a number of counties this year were called upon to decide questions on voice vote of the delegates. In Travis county, the decision of the chairman on whether there were more ayes or noes was questioned. On appeal, also settled by voice vote, the chairman was sustained.

In this case the chair had the advantage of hearing both sides of the question give a "no" vote. A substitute was declared voted down; then the original motion was declared carried.

Presiding officers generally say that a "no" vote has more sound volume than an "aye" vote, and experienced chairmen allow for that. If it is too close to decide they usually call for a standing vote.

Votes in the state Democratic convention, May 23, will be by roll call of counties. Each county is assigned a voting strength based on its vote for governor in 1942, regardless of the number of delegates in attendance. The chairman of the county delegation announces the vote of the county and the numbr of votes it has. Unless questioned, the secretary checks with a prepared list of the counties and their convention voting strength.

Figures Do Lie!

The Texas Bar Journal carries an account of how a resourceful El Paso attorney—the late John Bowie Howard—defended a client charged with embezzlement.

Principal state witness was an auditor, who presented figures to the jury. "I made the figures myself, and I know thev are right," the witness insited.

Howard asked the witness: "Will you agree that figures can lie, if I prove to you two and two are not four?"

The witness nodded assent.

Howard then told him of a man and woman, each of whom had been married and had a son. The spouse of each died. They married and had a son.

"The man had two sons of his own; the wife had two sons of her own, two and two may be four, but there were but three children," Howard related.

Howards client was acquitted.

PRESIDING Judge Frank Hawkins "kidded" Judge Charles Kreuger of the Court of Criminal Appeals when a negro was indicted for burglary of the Kreuger residence.

"I see I will have to assign all the burglary appeals to some other member of the court," said Judge Hawkins.

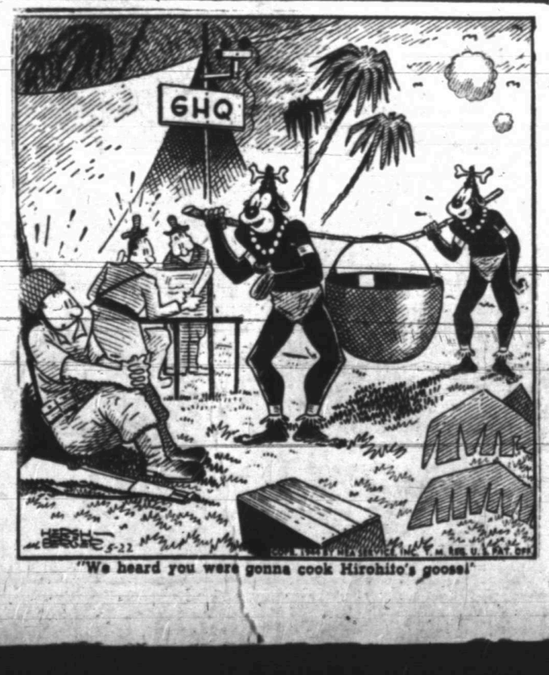

"I notice you were pretty strict in automobile theft cases," replied Judge Krueger, who is somewhat of a joker himself. The point was that someone had stolen Judge Hawkins' automobile while it was parked at the state capitol.

Judge Hawkins' residence was entered by a burglar several years ago while the family was away. The culprit, who took the sterling silver wedding gifts of the Judge and Mrs. Hawkins, was not apprehended.

STANDARD FACTS

SEA POWER...
Unites the United Nations, makes them strong

Look at your world map. Without the power to move freely over the face of the seas, what could the United Nations accomplish? They would be isolated—and destroyed one by one—because they could not help one another.

SEA POWER
STRENGTHENS FEEDS, TOO!

Consider feeds for poultry and livestock. Grains alone, without the helpful quality PROTEINS, vitamins and mineral elements are not "strong," meaning simply that rations of grain alone will not produce the maximum amounts of meat, milk and eggs per pound of feed. You waste time and money when you feed "weak" feeds. The sea is our richest potential source of the very proteins, vitamins and food minerals needed to balance up the grain and mill feeds produced on land, to help them give best feeding results.

STANTON'S FEEDS CONTAIN MANAMAR

The ManAmar contained in Stanton's Feeds is produced by Philip R. Park, Inc., San Pedro, Calif. This research organization specializes in "sea farming" . . . gathering, concentrating and blending always-healthy ocean fish (and their by-products) and "Sea Alfalfa" or Kelp. The fish are rich in proteins and also in health- and growth-promoting vitamins. Kelp supplies food minerals which may be lacking in land feeds.

Try Stanton's feeds, enriched with ManAmar, and increase your production schedule and profit. Get all the facts, today.

SPECIALTIES RULE TRADING
NEW YORK, May 22 (AP)—Specialties continued to rule the recovery sector of today's stock market, along with scattered motors, gold mines, rubbers and utilities, but many leaders emulated their indifferent performance of the past week.

Moderate amounts of investment funds came out for favorites, with dividend and earnings prospects providing the principal inspiration. As in recent sessions, invasion liquidation had virtually ceased although numerous customers still maintained a wait-and-see attitude.

Trends turned a bit uneven after a steady start and, while low-priced movers appeared in large blocks, activity elsewhere tapered. New highs for the year were plentiful, with gains running to a point or more. Losses, however, were well distributed.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .1 of a point at 82.2, its first slight recession since May 12. Transfers totalled 700,000 shares compared with 789,300 in the preceding 5-hour stretch.

Motors and accessories were buoyed by talk of some plants being permitted to switch soon to civilian production. Building material stocks were aided by the post-war outlook for heavy-home construction.

At peaks for 1944 were Mack Truck, Fruehauf Trailer, Firestone Tire and Public Service of N. J.

Corrier bonds were selectively improved.

Curb advancers included Lackawanna (NJ), Cities Service, American Gas and Cuban Atlantic Sugar.

Broadened Nazi Front Now Is Believed Near Collapse

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

French and American prongs of the Fifth Army are stabbing at key points on the right flank of the German defense line below Rome, lending support to apparent expectations at Allied headquarters in Italy that the Nazi southern front—which has now broadened to about 30 miles, soon will collapse.

SIMPSON

This widening of the front has forced into the fray all Nazi reserves below Rome. Allied observation shows 17 Nazi divisions deployed in the south or posted about the Anzio beachhead. They have a more difficult terrain to defend with every step backward.

That means heavier troop concentrations along the whole southern front. Re-inforcements for any critical point where an Allied break-through is threatened can be obtained only by weakening some other nearby section of the defense line. That apparently is what happened when an American patrol entered Terracina on the coast only to withdraw when a German armored unit was rushed to that sector from the north.

Risk Entrapment

It appears obvious that, lacking immediately available reserves, the Nazis must fall back without delay on the coast flank or risk entrapment. American troops on the slopes of the Ausoni hills north of the town are in a position to cut off not only the Terracina garrison, but enemy troops holding the coastal hump beyond it at the south end of the Pontine marshes.

The Germans flooded the marshes weeks ago in expectation of Allied attacks to effect a junction with the Anzio beachhead. The Rome-Naples railroad which parallels the road ashore runs above the flood line but passes through several tunnels under spurs of the Ausoni and Lepini hills which have been or could be blocked against an Allied advance.

State Guard Holds Maneuvers Here

Completing successful spring maneuvers the past week-end at the Panhandle-South Plains Fair grounds was the seven companies of the 38th Battalion of the Texas State Guard, according to Maj. B. C. McCasland, commanding officer.

Highlighting the maneuvers was the awarding of four pennants for proficiency to four units of the battalion. Headquarters company of Lubbock won the pennant for the bivouac area; Company E, Plainview, in precision drill; Company D, Levelland, riot control and Company G, Floydada, interior guard duty.

Three hundred officers and men participated in the maneuvers here Saturday which began with a bivouac Saturday night. Companies taking part besides those mentioned above were: Company A, Lubbock; Company B, Crosbyton; Company C, Slaton; and Company F, Tahoka.

Sunday morning, Chaplain Howard A. Long of South Plains Army Air field, was in charge of religious services.

The maneuvers featured instructions and clinics. The past week-end, a simulated train wreck was staged in the city limits of Lubbock and guardsmen took part in control of traffic, decontamination of gases and first aid work. Lectures on gases and incendiaries also were given during Sunday.

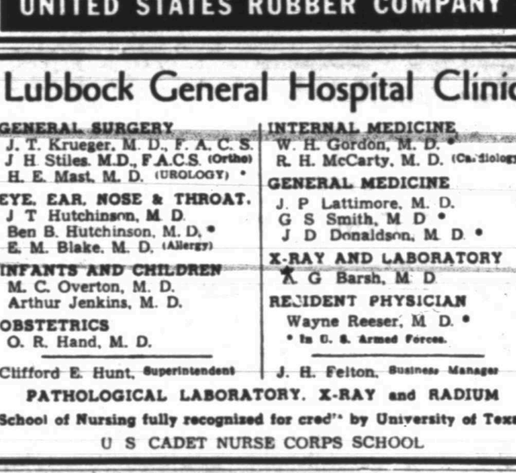

Saturday night, a retreat was staged with Major McCasland reviewing the troops.

A good relieving treatment for sunburn, mosquito bites or poison ivy is to take a tepid bath in which cornstarch has been sprinkled and dissolved, and let water dry on skin to leave a thin film of soothing starch.
