Southerner In Cabinet Post Senate's Wish

Texans Urged Roosevelt To Give Section Agriculture Portfolio

AUSTIN (AP)—President-elect Roosevelt was urged Saturday in a resolution by Senators Woolfolk of Houston and Pollard of Tyler to consider a southerner for his cabinet as secretary of agriculture. The resolution was passed called attention to the fact that while the south exerts strong influence on agriculture no southerner has ever held that post.

Toll Of Storm Is Near 2,000

Bodies Buried At Side Of City Which Can Not Be Rebuilt

CAMARAGUEN, Cuba (AP)—Central Cuba's hurricane dead, near the 2,000 mark Saturday as authorities took hold of the problem of relief and rehabilitation of thousands of homeless and destitute people. The coast town of Santa Cruz del Sur was not figured in those plans for the tidal wave following the storm left it unfit for habitation. It may never be rebuilt on the sandy shore. The town presented a picture of utter desolation. Squalid, filthy, and straggling. Where 3,500 persons had lived there were only soldiers and sanitary workers. It became necessary to burn bodies as grave diggers were unable to bury the dead fast enough for sanitary safety.

Local Man To Read 'Ben Hur' Thursday

Rare ability of Rev. D. G. Richardson to forcefully and clearly portray the stirring scenes of the most thrilling story ever written of Jesus Christ has brought commendation from ministers and laymen alike in many communities. And a large crowd is expected to hear him Thursday evening of this week when he reads "Ben Hur" at the high school auditorium for benefit of local work of the Salvation Army.

WTCC May Get Hoover Stops In Rate Fight Enroute East

ABOARD PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL ENROUTE TO WASHINGTON—Taking time out on his return trip eastward from his Palo Alto home to inspect Hoover dam in Nevada, President Hoover moved to that project through a series of aviations.

He divided his sermon into four divisions, times of trouble, of vigilance, of reconstruction and of turning to God. Most of the sermon was taken up with times of trouble. He was a master at word pictures and the more lurid the more masterly. From the throwing of Daniel in the lions' den to the king surrounded by his concubines locked on in stark terror.

As he talked he painted at intervals another picture—equally vivid but extremely depressing—the future of the United States, a country as destined for destruction as the kingdom of which Daniel was a subject, in his belief, he said.

America, he said, was headed for a dictatorship and it was doubtful if its citizens would see even one more presidential election. A dictator would take the reins of the wealth of the country and take the people out of the long bread lines—here he stopped to offer thanks that he and his congregation lived in the country. If a man could bring back 20 cent cotton he would put it in the White House no matter what his religion was, he said.

Was it, he said, just around the corner, a war that would make the last war look like a mere skirmish. Who the participants would be, he did not mention but he hinted at Russia.

His talk involved many items of current history. America does not sympathize with Japan, he maintained, because she does not understand Japan.

There is only one way of escape from this dark picture and that is, he said, a revival.

This is the first time he has visited Big Spring in 25 years.

From Big Spring he went to Adilodge where he will speak Sunday. It will start there for the meeting of the Baptist state convention which convenes Monday.

As an advocate for the depression Mr. Norris commended that people read the 5th chapter of James 1:19 and the 21st chapter of Luke verses 24-25. His Bible is unadorned with a few annotations and a terrible translation of the world will undergo. He believes that the very intricate future Chicago will come. It is the only cheerful note in his sermon.

Local Men Present Interior Interests' Case To Officials

Representing Big Spring and surrounding territory, C. T. Watson and B. Reagan attended a conference in Lubbock Friday of West Texas interior interests opposing granting of an application by three Texas railroads petitioning for flat rates to ports on compressed and uncompressed cotton.

Meeting with representatives of West Texas towns were D. A. Bannan, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and S. J. Cole, traffic manager of the organization.

Interior companies have engaged Al Reed of Dallas as their representative in the hearing before the Texas railroad commission soon. The West Texas chamber has signified its willingness to cooperate with Reed in opposing the flat rate. However, some interior companies disagree with a compromise Reed will likely offer when the hearing comes up, but difficulties will likely be ironed out before the hearing, it has been learned.

C. I. A. Dean May Not Appear As Scheduled

After having sent a letter of acceptance saying he would address the Howard county teacher's institute here Friday, Dr. Hoff Gray, head of the education department of Texas College for Women (C. I. A.) may not appear here when the institute convenes.

Miss Eilian Humphreys, head of the C. I. A. extension department, notified Mrs. Pauline Cartrell Brigham, county superintendent, Saturday at it was her impression that the Howard county meet was to have been a district affair and under the policy of the college, she felt that it would be impracticable to send Dr. Gray here.

An effort was being made Saturday by Mrs. Brigham and local school officials to have Miss Humphreys change her decision.

Invitations were mailed to teachers and school officials in Martin, Malvern, Dawson, Mitchell, and Grandview counties, urging them to attend at the occasion, and evening session of the institute Friday. If enough accept, it was the opinion of Mrs. Brigham that Dr. Gray would be sent here.

Norris Sees Dictator For Nation Soon

Widely-Known Fundamental Leader Speaks Here Saturday

Rev. J. Frank Norris of Fort Worth one of the best known preachers in the south, and the head of a new movement in denominationalism, spent Saturday in the city and preached three times at the Fundamental Tabernacle, featured by one of his followers, the Rev. Horace Goodman.

Mr. Norris spoke extemporaneously from the book of Daniel, of which he gave a running summary through eleven chapters, drawing his comparison between those times and these.

He divided his sermon into four divisions, times of trouble, of vigilance, of reconstruction and of turning to God. Most of the sermon was taken up with times of trouble. He was a master at word pictures and the more lurid the more masterly. From the throwing of Daniel in the lions' den to the king surrounded by his concubines locked on in stark terror.

Governor To Sign Measure Immediately He Announces

AUSTIN, (AP)—Governor Sterling tonight affixed his signature to the "market demand" bill passed here today by the legislature enlarging power of the state to regulate production of oil fields. He signed the bill at 9:35 p. m. and it becomes operative immediately. The adjournment of the special session was expected at 11 p. m.

AUSTIN (AP)—The legislature Saturday passed the market demand bill enlarging powers of the state to limit production of oil fields. The bill was given two-thirds majority of affirmative votes in each house, the necessary number to put it into immediate effect when Governor Sterling affixes his signature.

The house voted 105 to 23 to accept the senate bill on the subject. The upper branch previously had approved the bill 23 to 5.

The governor, who convened the legislature ten days ago, announced he would sign the bill as soon as it reached his office.

The law would replace that passed at a special session a year ago.

Patriotic Addresses Feature Observance Of Armistice Day

Flag Pole Presented Schools; 'Make Democracy Safe For World' Pleads Blankenship In Friday's Speech

Not until Old Glory came into being did the world know an unselfish flag. Leland L. Martin, Forsan school superintendent said Friday in his presentation of a huge flag pole to the schools of Howard county.

Martin presented the lofty metal pole donated by oil field representatives through the courtesy of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars. Superintendent W. C. Blankenship accepted in behalf of the schools. Commander C. L. Bryant of the American Legion, delivered the Armistice Day address.

Because of biting cold, citizens adjourned from the high school grounds where the flag was raised from half to full mast to the Municipal Auditorium for the addresses. A parade that stretched more than four blocks long marched from downtown to high school where exercising men stood at attention facing westward honoring fallen comrades. With stentorian notes, Fred Dew bled "To the Colors" as the Legion color guard hoisted the huge 235-foot flag to full mast. School children bought the flag.

Martin's speech.

At the auditorium Rev. E. Day offered the invocation preceding the presentation address. The entire lower floor was packed. Martin hit at exploitation of China twenty-five years ago by nations of the world and recalled how John Hay, representing the United States, prevented partitioning of China. He recalled how returned more than three-fourths of $100,000, "lost" money—sent by China for damages due to the boxcar uprising. As a tribute to the "unselfishness of Old Glory" Martin told how China had sent her most deserving students to this country to study.

In 1898 the American flag was carried into the Spanish-American war for the sake of humanity, said Martin.

The speaker's sentimentality for the flag for selfish purposes. He bitterly assailed lack of respect for the national emblem and exhorted shamed men for not removing hats while the flag passed.

"May you be said to school children that only he willing to live or that flag but if necessity demands, he will willingly die for it."

Responding, Blankenship said that he considered it better for students to be educated in sacrifice to the flag by living. He denounced oppression, greed, offense as means to which the flag had sometimes been used.

Make Democracy Safe

"I think one of our chief concerns is to make democracy safe for the world, rather than the world safe for democracy." Blankenship added in commenting on present conditions. Right living on the part of the highest officials according to him, and if necessary demand, then laws, would be sufficient.

C. L. Bryant offered the end of the broadest war in human history fourteen years ago.

No. 3 Edwards Well Hits Pay

Producing Formation Drilled At 2,118-26; Test Made Saturday

Encountering pay from 2,118-26 feet and drilling to 2,140 in sandy shale, Noel T. Lawson of S. M. Edwards and others No. 3 Edwards in Glasscock county, filled 1,250 feet with oil in six hours. It was tested Saturday.

The well is the fourth in the west extension to the Phillips-Coffey pool. It is an east offset to Trial Oil Co.'s No. 1 M. M. Edwards, which marked the first recent extension. 1.34 mile, and is 189 feet from the south line and 115 feet from the east line of section 16, block 33, township 2 south, T. 3 P. R. Co. survey. Trial No. 1 Edwards rated 2184 barrels daily on the pump at 2125 feet. Lower Phillips Petroleum Co. drilled in No. 1 T. W. Baker, a south offset to Trial No. 1 Edwards, for 16 1/2 barrels hourly on the pump at 2123 feet.

Noble Drilling Co.'s No. 3 Baker, south offset to Lawson No. 3 Edwards, is the next test in the area in red rock.

Shell Petroleum Co.'s No. 2 Phillips, 230 feet from the north line and 1,650 feet from the east line of section 26, block 33, township 2 south, T. 3 P. Co. survey, were announced Sunday and had drilled in mid-week to 200 feet in red rock.

Miss Shearer Leads Great Cast Of 'Smilin' Through'

Picture Opens At Ritz Today; Del Rio And McCrea In 'Bird of Paradise'; Tracy In 'Night Mayor' Thursday

Norma Shearer in "Smilin' Through," directed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer by Sidney Franklin, with a supporting cast headed by Fredric March, Leslie Howard, O. P. Heggie and Ralph Forbes, opens today at the Ritz and Ritz Theater. In its lavish production Norma Shearer for the first time in her career plays a dual role.

In this she duplicates the feat of Jane Cowl, who starred in the original New York stage production. Miss Shearer portrays both the tragic Moonyeen in the hoop-skirted "morning sequences and Kathleen Sherwin in the modern scenes around which the happier romance of the film centers.

Second Unusual Venture
It is Miss Shearer's second venture into the unusual in drama. Her previous departure was in "Strange Interlude," in which she had the singular experience of both speaking and hearing her silent thoughts expressed audibly in the speaking scene version of "Smilin' Through." Miss Shearer has an advantage which Jane Cowl was not permitted in the stage production. First as the intended bride and then as the ward of Sir John Carteret, the role which Leslie Howard plays, Miss Shearer is able to return in fantasy to the mind of her brooding lover—in which moments of reverie she appears twice in a single scene.

Thus, although the story covers a fifty-year lapse of time during which Leslie Howard grows from a young boy to a young man, the film is a continuous story.

past record of the exotic romance, that the unknown would find in the sympathetic role of Luana her first big opportunity and the beginning of a stellar career.

At the "name" actresses who first achieved renown while playing Luana will convince the doubter. Anyone who knows the difference between balcony and orchestra knows the name of Laurette Taylor. Miss Taylor was known as "a comer" when she was awarded the part in "Bird of Paradise" which Miss Del Rio now plays. When she had played the role for the New York run of the famous Richard Walton Tully's opus, she was one of America's best known actresses. Lenora Ulric had her first big chance at Luana, Calotta Monerey, now the wife of Eugene O'Neill, had the part of the native Hawaiian girl, too. So did Jessie Barriscale, noted British actress. It seemed to be a role that had a quality of endowing an actress with a tremendous appeal at the same time that it brought out her greatest histrionic ability.

The men who play in the original cast did not fare so badly, either. Lewis Stone is perhaps the best known of them today; but the name of the late Theodore Roberts, beloved screen favorite is known even to the rising generation. Guy Bates Post was another famous name in the former cast of characters of "Bird of Paradise." In the talking screen version Joel McCrea, latest of filmdom's conspicuous young heman heroes plays the coveted role of Johnny Baker, in his dramatic existence has been attended by as many "East Lynes." Ten road companies were trouping with it at one time several years ago. It ran a year in London. And yet, with its Hawaiian locale and background of native lore and rites, it is every bit as alive as when it took Gotham and the provinces for S. R. O. receipts in the heyday of the spoken drama.

Directed as the most spectacular recent production of King Vidor, "Bird of Paradise" with Dolores Del Rio and Joel McCrea comes to the Ritz Theater, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The R. F. B. Theatres' usual high type programs are on this week's schedule. Today and Monday at the Ritz Norma Shearer (shown at the top in a scene with Frederic March) stars in "Smilin' Through" with a great cast, including March, Leslie Howard and O. P. Heggie. Bottom, left, you see Dolores Del Rio and Joel McCrea in "Bird of Paradise," which will feature the Ritz bill Tuesday and Wednesday. Bottom, right, is Lilyan Tashman as she appears in "Scarlet Dawn" at the Queen today, Monday and Tuesday.

Edward G. Robinson Here in 'Tiger Shark'

Matching in dramatic power, thrill and suspense any picture Howard Hawks has ever directed, "Tiger Shark," the latest directorial creation of the man who made "The Dawn Patrol," "The Crowd Roars" and "Scarface," each outstanding attraction of their respective seasons, opens Friday at the Ritz Theater, starring Edward G. Robinson, with Richard Arlen and Zita Johann featured.

"Tiger Shark" is a sensational drama of the tuna fisheries and the men who make their living in the shark-infested fishing grounds, far off the Mexican coast, in the Pacific Ocean. For the first time in the history of the screen the hazards of the tuna fisherman's life are shown, with all the wealth of authentic realism aimed possible by the modern motion picture camera.

cal crew of the First National studio lived aboard a big tuna fishing boat, hundreds of miles off the coast of western Mexico, where the most stirring scenes of this unusual drama were enacted in locations never before visited by motion picture explorers. The result is a picture that offers thrills and experiences never before recorded on a motion picture screen, besides a powerful story of love, friendship and hate among the rugged, fiery-tempered fisher-folk of the Pacific coast.

Fairbanks, Jr., Carroll and Tashman At Queen

It took a linguist to get along on Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.'s company at the Wynner Bros. Studio while he was filming the Russian revolutionary picture, "Scarlet Dawn," which comes to the Queen Theater today Monday and Tuesday.

Naturally, the principals of the cast, including Nancy Carroll and Lilyan Tashman, spoke English but Doug will speak Spanish at the drop of his hat. If he knows there is any one around who can understand him—and he had little difficulty with a number of the cultured Russians who worked with him.

Most of the bit players and extras were Russian, and between themselves and the technical director, Nicholas Kobliansky, there was a continual flow of Russian all day long.

Sequences of the picture are laid in Constantinople, and for these scenes Turkish and Arabian extras and character players were secured, thereby adding an "Asia Minor touch" to the proceeding.

To top it all, Director William Dieterle is as German as they make 'em, and when he becomes excited he lapses from his accented English into pure German.

Not to be outdone, members of the production crew who had a knowledge of Spanish made use of it in self-protection.

It was generally conceded that work on the production of "Scarlet Dawn" constituted a trip around the world and a liberal education in languages, history and anthropology, all rolled in one.

'Little Orphan Annie' Comes To Life On Screen

Millions of newspaper readers each day follow the ups, the downs, the ins and outs of the career of "Little Orphan Annie." Now Annie, with her noble dog Ragdy, and Little Mickey and all the rest of Artist Harold Gray's characters, have come to life on the talking screen. The picture will be shown Wednesday and Thursday at the Queen Theater.

"SAM BASS AND HIS GANG" By a Citizen of Denton County (Frontier Press)

This "Authentic History of Sam Bass and His Gang" is the book that J. Marvin Hunter is sending to all friends who contribute to the erection of a permanent museum at Bandera for his museum relics.

The story is a reprint of an old book printed in 1878. It was reprinted by The Frontier Times, Bandera, the original in 1926 and released for the third time this year.

Sam Bass is not as well known as the more colorful Billy the Kid but he is more akin to Texas. He longs to that list of pioneer bandits whose heads are growing more thrilling—not because of their daring so much as because they represent a fast-dying age. Banditry is always fascinating to people who do not have to endure it.

Most of Bass' operations were in northern Texas—out the big robbery that started him on his career was an express robbery in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

The book begins with his early life and tells of his confederates, the series of events, more or less well known in Denton and nearby counties of his robberies and ends with his death. It is told with no attempt to romanticize; it merely presents facts.

FRONTIER TIMES
November

We have maintained the women of the early West compose a chapter in frontier history that has never had justice done to it. Ever that reason was our glad to see the Frontier Times give its best space to the story of Mrs. Coates.

If we have any objections to Mrs. Coates, the author, it is that she makes the mistake of most amateur women writers in attempting fine writing instead of losing herself in the story. She skimmed Mrs. Coates' life. It would have been a much more interesting article if every paragraph had told how she thought and felt and what the edification of a delighted child regent while his cabinet members are planning to spirit him away and do away with the political obstacle that his tiny person constitutes.

Kurt Neumann edited the film and Richard Schayer wrote the narrative.

KALEIDOSCOPE

November

We are quoting a poem from an Amarillo poet, H. W. Schreiber. Only a West Texan would have analyzed a woman's feeling toward these shrill high winds and we are tempted to say only a woman—but we won't. The poem is called "Intruder" and its sub-title is "A Woman Speaks." It follows:

Today the vagabonding wind Has set my tattered nerves on end; And just although to taunt me more It raps its fists against the door And batters on the windows I Pulled down when it came blustering by.

There is no patience left for me, Nor any quiet serenity. For peace has gone a windy way Like crisp leaves on an autumn day.

And now, with all my heart has I known, I can not even be alone!

Mrs. Davenport Wins Hi Prize At Catholic Party

There was a good crowd at the bridge benefit given by the members of St. Thomas Altar Society at the Settles Hotel Thursday evening. The guests played on the mezzanine floor.

Mrs. L. D. Davenport won high score for contract for the women and Father Francis for the men. Mrs. A. J. Yarell was the highest auction scorer. Miss Conroy won the entrance prize and Rose Moran the electric percolator.

Saving On Your Gas Bill
By Preventing Waste

Small leaks in house piping and appliances waste more gas than is usually realized, as a leak wastes gas every minute of the day, and a leakage of 1 cubic foot per hour means 8,760 cubic feet per year. Such leaks are also a source of danger from explosions and fires. Your gas meter has a small dial indicating cubic feet of gas per revolution of the hand, and one of the uses of this dial is to detect leakage. From time to time, consumers should shut off all appliances and note whether the hand of this dial moves during a period of two or three hours. Meters do not move unless gas is passing through them, hence if the hand continues to move it is conclusive evidence that gas is leaking somewhere on the premises. Gas leaks may be found by brushing the pipe and appliances with soapy water, as escaping gas will form bubbles. Fire should never be used in searching for leaks, as this is dangerous. Leaks may be stopped temporarily if they are covered with soap and the pipe wrapped with tape or a cloth bandage, but a pipe fitter should be called immediately to make permanent repairs.

ROOSEVELT AT FINAL MAJOR RALLY

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The Verdict

In a political overturn of such magnitude it is impossible to suppose that the result was determined by the personalities of the candidates or by mere partisan preferences. In a close contest they would count. In an electoral revolution they sink into unimportance.

On Tuesday the American people repudiated more than the Hoover Administration. They repudiated the post-war regime because it had failed to insure an orderly transition of power and order. It is clear that the depression was the immediate cause of the immense stampede of Republicans from the ranks of their party.

The first two of these principles played a mighty part in aggravating a normal business depression into a world-wide economic disaster. For the policy of isolationism condemned the world to the prolonged agony resulting from its inability either to enforce or to amend the settlement which had been dictated to the vanquished nations because of American intervention.

Mr. Hoover did not make this system of policies. He inherited it from his predecessor. It is against the consequences of those policies that the voters have made their protest.

The problem before Mr. Roosevelt is not a simple one. For though the voters are in revolt against the consequences of the post-war policies, except as to prohibition they are by no means convinced that the component elements of those policies are wrong. It can not be said, for example, that the mass of voters who elected Mr. Roosevelt see the connection between political isolation and economic nationalism on the one hand and the series and insecurity which afflict them on the other.

Mr. Roosevelt's forth with favorable omens. Luckily for him the public has not been taught to look upon him as a Superman. His abilities have, if anything, been underestimated. Luckily for him he can remind his party that they have won not on their own charms but because there was a rebellion among the Republicans.

Herald Boys Take City Flag For Juniors

Scout Troop Two Beaten 6-0 In Bitterly Fought Game Friday

Herald Carriers Friday morning took the All-City championship in their weight division by downing Scout Troop No. 2 in the fourth and hardest fought game of a series between the two teams. Score was 6-0 for the Carriers by virtue of a potent last minute drive that netted a touchdown of the game ended.

Fighting hard the Scouts held an advantage in every department of the game until the latter part of the final quarter. A charging line had put a cramp in the Herald's flanks and they drew the winning yards for repeated losses.

In the last quarter a Herald punt got by the Scout safety and was out on the 30 yard line. After picking up ten yards by the ground game the Scouts made a fatal mistake in attempting a pass. Leonard Morgan intercepted and was hit by the entire Scout team after a scant five yard return. Fred Savage leaped high to spear a pass from Smith for a 20 yard gain. Bill Savage picked up yardage enough to place the ball on the five-yard line after taking a pass from Smith. From there he plugged it over.

James Johnson, Herald tackle, received a broken arm in the game and Bill Savage and Woodrow Cameron sustained painful bruises or sprains. Fred Savage was out on the feet temporarily.

Lineups for the teams follow: Herald—Ends, Charles Tompkins and Crockett Petty; tackles, Tullman Crane and James Johnson; guards, Ed Savage and Jim Brigham; center, Leonard Morgan; quarterback, Fred Savage; halfbacks, O. Trasher and James Smith; fullback, F. Savage.

Scouts—Ends, Anderson and Harvey Hooser; tackles, H. Hooser and R. Anderson; guards, Rupert Oiler and Jack Wilson; center, Carl Schultz; quarter, Fitzgerald; halfbacks, Gibson and Phillips; fullback, J. C. Eady.

When the Big Spring Steers arrived they were very, very good. When they were bad, well, they're not so good. Just not so good.

Agenda week eleven the Bulldogs display formations that make the aerial game look very very simple. The ball is handled once or twice in the backfield by a player named Morgan, who is by no means a star, but by the time he gets up with an eagle, he is right on the same eagle.

The Steers, however, do not carry the buckskins against the straggle eleven. San Angelo diagnosed very elaborate formation that the Steers attempted except two. One was a complicated lateral affair that saw every man in the backfield either receiving the ball or

ROOSEVELT READING TELEGRAMS

In this Associated Press telephoto President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt (center) is shown reading a telegram from one of the ends over the line of scrimmage.

The first official all star team of the year has been compiled. The Herald Carriers, city champions in the junior class, land six positions and the Scouts five. The roster: Thornton Hart and Tullman Crane (Carriers); ends, Howard Burleson (Carriers) and Harvey Hooser (Scouts); tackles, Woodrow Cameron and Richard Gibson (Carriers); guards, James Smith (Carriers); center, Bill Savage (Carriers); quarterback, Fred Savage (Carriers) and Fitzgerald (Scouts); halfbacks, and Eady (Scouts), fullback.

Henry Richburg, Steer captain, threatened to do so and Schwanzbach finally taking a pass from one of the ends over the line of scrimmage.

staged a notable gain in the District scoring parade as the result of three touchdowns against the Bulldogs. Bud Hall, Colorado speedster, was checked entirely by the Sweetwater Mustangs, which wasn't particularly surprising news, and George Deiker made only one of his club's touchdowns against the Mustangs.

Sweetwater's 41 to 0 victory over Colorado came as a complete surprise. The Wolves, considerably the lighter, were not expected to pull the unbeaten record of the Mustangs, but such a one-sided victory has never before been staged.

South, day in and day out, has been the most valuable guard of the local roster. Martin, his running mate, is more spectacular but is also more erratic. The quiet, emotionless "Kitten," as he is nicknamed by the members of the

He has a very excellent chance to land a berth on the all-district team. Robert of Sweetwater, Calaway of San Angelo, and Collins of Midland are perhaps his most outstanding rivals, and at least two of them can be eliminated because of indifferent games.

Mexico Believed Flow Of Bogus Money Stopped

MEXICO CITY (UP)—Federal officials said they believed the counterfeiting plant which has been flooding northern Mexico with spurious $10 United States bank notes is located in Torreon.

Three men were arrested and a quantity of counterfeit notes seized in Juarez yesterday by officers seeking the plant. Meantime police in the capital seized two men and a plant manufacturing a hundred spurious silver pesos daily for national distribution.

In view of the counterfeiting disclosures, the ministry of finance has circulated all chambers of commerce, especially those of the border, warning against the ten dollar bogus notes.

MOTHERS SEE GAME
A special section was reserved at the football game Friday for the mothers and realties of the boys who were playing in the team.

Frida's contest emphasized the value of two Steer regulars who have received little or no praise during the year. Clifton Smith, guard, and Morgan, back, very seldom approach the sensational, and then only in a department of the game that is rarely played during the season. Smith charges out of the line on the wide, sweeping end runs that have made Richbourg one of the best ground gainers in the district, and with Morgan heads the interference. It was the combination of the two that carried at least two touchdowns Armistice Day.

South, day in and day out, has been the most valuable guard of the local roster. Martin, his running mate, is more spectacular but is also more erratic. The quiet, emotionless "Kitten," as he is nicknamed by the members of the

ONE HEARTENING campaign pronouncement from the big business is that posted in the bulletin boards of Thomas A. Edison Industries, Inc. by order that corporation's president, Charles Edison, declaring that the firm, as a firm "has no political faith," the statement says that all employees owe it to themselves and to their country to vote in the coming election, but that they are to vote independently and according to their own conviction.

Steers Use Many Reserves In 51-0 Win Over Midland High

Visitors' Subs Put Up Game Fight; Richbourg And Schwarzenbach Run, Morgan Passes; Big Spring Line Works Well

The Big Spring Steers, who have been trampled and beaten on alternate weekends throughout the season, rose to the top of the second division in District 3 percentage standings, and stole a leaf from the history of the 1931 "point-per-minute" team in a 51 to 0 victory over the Midland Hi Bulldogs here at Armistice Day.

A crowd estimated at little more than 1,000 people huddled against each other for protection against the wintry blasts, regarded the slaughter of the Bulldogs for the fourth consecutive time in District 3 play with little or no enthusiasm, only when long gains were made via the aerial route by the locals, who scored four touchdowns as the direct result of passes out of baffling formations.

Held to a 7 to 0 advantage at the end of the first quarter the Bovines scored three times in the second period, and added two in the third. The final stanza to account for their biggest score of the year, Henry Richbourg and Howard Schwarzenbach led the touchdown parade with three each, while Morgan and Cordell each crossed the goal line during the day. Every member of the Steer benefited had his chance at converting extra points, but Morgan's pair of drop-kicks and Richbourg's plunge alone were successful.

A crapping band of Midland substitutes, sent into the game in the third quarter after the Bulldog varsity had wilted before the locals' tricky attack, flashed the only offensive threat of the day for the visitors, with Minkoff and Stanley, third-string backs, once advancing to the Bovine 10 yard line on running plays. The former fumbled in the shadow of the Big Spring goal posts to end the drive.

The entire Big Spring eleven stood out in the one-sided melee. Henry Richbourg, fullback, accounted for several long gains to share Ball-carrying honors with Schwarzenbach. Morgan's passing was better than at any time this year and accounted directly for four of the markers. In the line Elmer Dyer, Woodrow Armstrong, Jack Dean, Carl Coffel, Clifton Smith, Fred Martin, Cecil Reid, Good Graves and a handful of other Big Spring linemen held the visitors to two first downs. Smith provided Camcy 31 to 0 in the other contest.

The Wolves, unbeaten in three conference starts and unbeaten until throughout the year, were untroubled to put up a good scrap against the marauding Mustangs, but trailed 20 to 0 at the end of the first quarter and never threatened throughout the game. Sam Baugh led the Pony forces in their Armistice Day jamboree, while Burris and Stagner stood out for Colorado. Bud Hall, Colorado speedster, was held thoroughly in check by the District 3 champions.

San Angelo, evidently gaining power with each game, smashed out a 31 to 3 decision over the McCamey Badgers, who battled them to a 7 to 6 decision several weeks ago. McGlothing, Reid, Deiker, and Hayes scored four times, with Reid and Greig accounting for the fifth touchdown. Barnard and Smalley stood out for the Badgers. Obie Bristow's Big Springs brigade had little difficulty shoving back the Midland Bulldogs. Richbourg and Schwarzenbach split scoring laurels with three touchdowns each, while the entire Bovine line backed good against the weak District club in the district.

District standing:
Wolves 4 0 148 0 1,000
San Angelo 3 0 125 12 1,000
Colorado 2 1 47 46 667
Big Springs 2 1 71 25 2
McCamey 1 0 12 11 66
Midland 0 4 24 192 107

downs after Nobles and Stanley had failed to gain, and Minkoff picked up but a yard in two tries. Townsend's fumble gave the Midland substitutes immediate possession of the ball on the Steer 20 yard line. Etanley and Minkoff made it first down on the Steer 10 yard strip, but Fletcher covered Minkoff's fumble on the next play. Swatzy and Townsend made a first down and Sanders and Graves dropped Stanley on the Midland 36 yard line after Morgan's punt. A pass thrown by Stanley was completed for 6 yards, but Graves covered Nobles' fumble on the Bulldog 43 yard line. Townsend made 3 yards and then Richbourg broke into the clear on a double lateral and raced 40 yards for a touchdown. Swatzy failed to drop-kick goal.

R. Jones returned the next kick-off to his own 33 yard line, but Midland lost possession of the ball as McClesky and Morgan covered Stanley's fumble. Graves ran Stanley out of bounds after two running plays had each the Bovine 14 yards and Morgan had kicked. Swatzy returned Sherrod's punt to the Midland 29 yard line. Richbourg made 5 yards, Bunker was thrown for a yard loss, and on the next play Morgan passed to Swatzy for a touchdown. Walter Bunker, the Steer's halfback-comedian was probably responsible for the touchdown—law blocking off a Midland tackler that would have thrown Morgan for loss of several yards. Swatzy tumbled Sherrod's punt after three running plays had pored only two yards but Dyer scooped the ball and returned to his own 25 yard line. Koberg's punt took to the Midland 15 yard line, where Cordell downed Jones. Swatzy returned Sherrod's punt to the visitors' 30 yard stripe. Morgan made 15 yards around left end, Koberg passed to Cordell for 7 yards, and the Steers made a first down in spite of a 15 yard penalty when Richbourg made 17 yards to the Bulldog 2 yard line on two running plays. Morgan plunged over for the touchdown. Koberg missed goal.

The last Big Spring touchdown came when Morgan passed to Richbourg for 10 yards and the Steer captain raced 12 more for a touchdown. Morgan's kick was low.

Walker Goes Back To Paris

Tammany Hall 'Through' With Ex-Mayor Says New York Report

ABOARD S. S. CONTE GRANDE
Tammany J. Walker, New York's once spectacular mayor, his political career definitely ended, is en route abroad for an indefinite stay.

Also aboard was Miss Betty Compton, the actress, who has admitted being the mysterious "Madame X" of the Seabury hearings when Walker was on trial on charges of official misconduct. She had been brought out that she received $7,500 from one of the "maverick" accounts. She later explained it was for "a bet".

The former mayor went into hiding even before the ship sailed yesterday. Not a sight of him could be had by reporters who besieged his suite. After sailing, the United Press sent a note to the suite and it was returned with the note, "I am not the man you want."

Several cabs were reserved in Walker's name. Miss Compton was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Florence Compton, a friend, Mrs. Alice Leary and M. Modesto Gernegan.

Walker, with his valet, boarded the Conte Grande at 11 a. m. in New York, and hurried into his suite on deck. He was not seen again.

Business behind the lines. The advance was scheduled to start at dawn but the men were thinking of rest, of sleep, or home on a quiet street, or peace. Then through the thin mists of the morning came a whistling, shrieking blast of the barrage. Weary bodies pulled themselves forward or crumpled to the ground. That attack was advancing in its objective.

And then the news, the glorious news, that 11 o'clock would see the end of "La guerre est finie." The report traveled on feet wings to every sector, billet and base. The war was over—the victory won.

November 11 this year brings us to the fourteen anniversary of that great day. Eggs are waving, men are again marching, officers are speaking and wreaths are being placed. The spirits of the men who die to make this peace possible are living again. In hearts of millions of American citizens their spirit is rekindled and America is moving forward toward its maximum objectives.

Reading from the regular Legion Armistice Day ceremony book, Bryant gave virtues coming out of war as self contempt, no learning to laugh in the face of hardship, obedience, and self-sacrifice. These virtues, however, could be taught more easily obtained through peaceful methods without sparing the method of nations, he said.

Martial courage, read Bryant should and would be converted into civil courage. "We must honor the courage of every day, the valor of clean, uncompromising loyalty lived in common honor and devotion. Adversity need not drive near with war. They are always quick to challenge. The new romance will be turning the stumps of the world into a paradise," he read.

Concluding he quoted these lines: "Do you think they loved to kill. Loved war, those dear dead youths? Call back their spirits in some still. Dawn calls them for the truth. Now there is war and war, I waver all would say, I weeped for peace."

Week Of Prayer Observed By First Methodist W.M.S.

The First Methodist W. M. S. observed the Week of Prayer at an all day meeting Thursday at the church. Mrs. Fox Stripling was the devotional leader for the first hour, and gave a devotional from Matthew on "Prayer Retreat."

Mrs. Flewelen told of the life of Miss Esther Cases, secretary of all foreign mission work.

Mrs. J. B. Pickle was leader for the second hour and her devotional was the 119th Psalm, "Creative Missions." Mrs. Faucett sang a solo and Mrs. Pickle talked on "Prayer." The members adjourned for lunch.

For the afternoon session Mrs. C. E. Thorns led the meeting and gave devotional from the 91st Psalm. Mrs. V. H. Flewelen sang a solo and Mrs. Thomas talked on the McDonald school at Homer, La., supported by the Methodist. Mrs. Miller talked on Ehaw College in Korea, China, supported by the denomination. There were special prayers for both schools.

Several offerings were taken during the day for both these schools. $142.50 was contributed.
