Neutral Nations Conflict Blocks POW Persuasions

BENSON ANSWERS QUESTIONS—Ezra Taft Benson, Secretary of Agriculture, is shown talking to Washington reporters, after a six-and-one-half-hour conference with President Eisenhower. The secretary, currently the center of a storm of controversy, said the administration would offer some improvements in its farm program next year, but added that it won't be anything revolutionary. Disgruntled Cattlemen Meet With Secy. Benson Today

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 —UP— More than 300 unhappy cattlemen from 35 states gathered here Monday to confront Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson with a face-to-face demand for government action to halt skidding beef prices.

Benson, who feels that the government already is doing all that it properly can, agreed to meet with them at 10 a.m. cst in the Agriculture Department auditorium. He made the date with evident reluctance, after suggesting it would be better to talk privately with a few regional spokesmen.

The National Farmers Union, which sponsored the "cattlemen's caravan," also hoped for a meeting with President Eisenhower before the stockmen start for their homes Tuesday night. But officials said White House aides had held out no more hope of an appointment.

The cattlemen came in eight chartered buses, by private cars, by train and by plane from Texas, Oklahoma, Montana, Utah, North Dakota, Colorado, Florida, Minnesota, North Carolina and virtually every other state where beef cattle are raised.

The Farmers Union reported that 310 had arrived in time for the first formal meeting, a welcoming address by Union President James G. Patton. About 30 more were expected to check in before the session with Benson.

Reporters who mingled with the grave-faced ranchers at their hotel headquarters found many of them strongly in favor of government price supports on live cattle—an idea which Benson already has rejected.

President Eisenhower's agricultural advisory commission, which is helping to draft a new overall farm program, also turned thumbs down on a price support program for live cattle at a White House meeting Saturday.

The Agriculture Department now is planning to buy 750,000 head of cattle for the school lunch program and is providing emergency credit and cut-rate feed for drouth stricken farmers. It also is buying prepared beef to give indirect support to the market.

CHASED WOMAN

Lawmen In Dallas Hold New Suspect

DALLAS, Oct. 26 —UP—Sheriff Bill Decker Monday questioned a 35-year-old Negro man about Dallas' rape-murder after a 21-year-old white woman reported the man chased her three miles in her automobile.

"The man is definitely a suspect," Decker said after preliminary questioning. "Circumstances look pretty good, particularly the knives. I'm going to make a thorough investigation."

Police records show the Negro was arrested in 1944 on charges of aggravated assault alleging he pinched two women. The charges were later dismissed.

The man was captured by the woman's neighbors when he pursued her in a car to her home outside the city limits. Decker said he called City Homicide Capt. Will Fritz into the case.

Decker said a butcher knife and an "East Dallas special" with a long spring blade were found in the back seat of the Negro's automobile. A third knife with two blades sharpened to razor edge and recently ground was found in his pocket.

Fatal Stabbing Sept. 30

Mrs. H. C. Parker, 29, wife of a tuberculosis patient and mother of a five-year-old boy, was fatally stabbed in the throat after she was raped under a bridge near Love (Municipal) Field last Sept. 30.

Before she died in officers' arms at the airport terminal, she gasped: "A Negro took me under a bridge and cut me."

For weeks before her murder, Dallas women were terrorized and one was raped by a nude Negro who usually carried a knife.

The 21-year-old housewife who was chased through Dallas early Sunday was driving to her home after getting off work past midnight.

Auto Followed Her

She said she drove out South Lamar, then noticed another automobile following her car.

"I turned east onto Loop 12 en route home," she said, "and the Negro following me pulled up ahead and slammed on his brakes in an effort to stop me. I went around his car and he began to follow me again."

The woman said the other automobile tried several times along Loop 12 to stop her, and again after she turned onto Murdock Road, outside the city limits. "I drove as fast as 75 and 80 miles an hour to run away from him," she said, "but he kept right behind me all the way."

IN THEIR NEW OFFICE — Chief Warrant Officer William Leonard (left) and M-Sgt. Wesley Langham, members of Pampa's National Guard unit, are shown working in their temporary office, the office of Walter Roberts, driver license examiner, on the first floor of the Court House. Effective Friday, the move will continue till the new armory is built in Recreation Park. In the inset, at lower left, is pictured the new insignia for the 474th F. A. Battalion (Observation), recently approved. Marks on the insignia concern the outfit's participation in World War II — grapeleaf for the German Rhineland, cock stanton for the French Ardennes-Alsace and telescope for the 'observation." Commission Sends Request For Help

PANMUNJOM, Oct. 26 —UP— Indian Chairman Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya said Monday the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission is split so badly it is unable to carry out its work and there is "very small" chance explanations to balky war prisoners will be resumed.

After a two-hour meeting of the deadlocked five nation commission Thimayya said that explanations to unrepatriated prisoners to persuade them to return home is blocked because the commission cannot produce the prisoners the Communists want.

Communist political officers have asked to interview 7,800 anti-Communist North Koreans. However, the North Koreans refuse to leave their compounds, saying they prefer death to communism.

Drafting Letter

The commission Monday is drafting a letter to the Communists and the United Nations which Thimayya said will admit that the commission cannot fulfill its functions.

He said the letter will ask the U. S. and Communist military commands for help in breaking the deadlock.

"We are asking for a possible compromise plan on explanations to prisoners," he said.

Asked whether the appeal is an admission that the commission can not carry out its assignments of interviewing unrepatriated war prisoners, Thimayya answered bluntly, "yes." He said the commission cannot even agree on the wording of the appeal.

Meet for Two Hours

The commission met for two hours Monday afternoon, but delegates rejected a draft and turned it over to a subcommittee, which will meet at 10 a. m. Tuesday — 7 p. m. cst Monday. Thimayya said he hoped the commission could agree on a letter within three or four days.

Thimayya said the split in the commission between the Czechoslovaks and Poles, on the one hand, and the Indians, Swiss and Swedes on the other, was "very serious."

He said chances of carrying out the explanation program now are "dim."

The commission's letter is an admission, Thimayya said, that "we cannot go on functioning in the same way as before.

Thimayya indicated the Swiss and Swedish delegates suggested the Communists talk to more Chinese prisoners rather than the 7,800 North Koreans.

The Indian general said this violated the terms of the armistice agreement which stipulates the commission deliver prisoners of the nationality the explainers demand.

Pampan Dead In Colorado Hunt Mishap

Funeral arrangements were pending today for Curtis James Bailey, 29, of Pampa, killed in a hunting accident near Stoner, Colo.

Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home officials late this morning were awaiting word on the arrival of the body.

It was the first death of the 1953 hunting season involving a High Plains resident.

Montezuma County Sheriff A. W. Anderson reported that Bailey was shot and killed Sunday, as he was dressing an elk, by Danny Merolett, 16, of Dove Creek, Colo. The youth was reported under the care of a physician in Cortez, Colo.

Bailey, a resident of Pampa for the last two years, was shot through the back of the head while he was leaning over to clean it, Anderson continued. A full investigation was awaiting the recovery of the youth from shock, the sheriff said.

A truck driver for Pampa Warehouse and Transfer Company since April, he had worked previously for Bruce and Son Transfer and Storage since November, 1951.

Living on Ripley Street, Bailey had moved to Pampa from Mississippi. Survivors include his wife, Opal, and two small children.

Demos Eye Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 —UP— Southern Democratic senators served notice Monday that foreign aid spending will be their No. 1 economy target next year.

Eight out of 10 Dixie senators polled in a United Press survey said they will vote for sharp cuts in the mutual security program which most of them have supported in the past. The other two agreed that overseas spending must be cut if the budget is to be balanced, but said they were not sure it could be done without harming national security.

The Southerners, who form a fairly close-knit group that often wields the balance of power in the Senate, were polled as a follow-up to an interview last week with Sen. Walter F. George of Georgia, Senior Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations and Finance committees. George said he favors "drastic reduction" in both foreign aid and defense spending next year to achieve a balanced budget.

Two Burglaries Reported Here

Money, fishing equipment and golf clubs were reported missing in two burglaries in Pampa Saturday night, according to Jim Conner, chief of police.

Forty-nine one-dollar bills, which had been pasted onto the door glasses and windshield of an automobile at Noblitt-Coffey Pontiac, Inc., 122 N. Gray, were taken in one of the burglaries.

An undetermined amount of fishing equipment and golf clubs were taken from the Webb Driving Range on East Browning in the other. Both burglaries occurred sometime Saturday night, he said.

Entrance to the Noblitt-Coffey building was gained through a window on the south side of the building. A vent window in one of the front doors of the car was pried open, allowing the burglar or burglars to enter the car and take the money, which had been pasted on the inside. The money had been used for advertising purposes.

This was the second time within a week that the driving range had been burglarized. Last week, Roy Webb, owner of the range, reported a burglary there. He was out of town today and police were unable to determine just what was missing after Saturday night's burglary.

Wheat Producers Meeting Today

A meeting of the Gray County chapter of the National Wheat Producers association was scheduled to be held today at 2:30 p.m. in the District Courtroom of the County courthouse.

Chief topic to be discussed was wheat allotments, while several other problems involving wheat producers was also expected to be on the agenda.

Deadlock Looming In Peace Session

MUNSAN, Oct. 26 —UP—A Communist demand that neutral countries be admitted to the Korean political conference threatened to deadlock preliminary negotiations at the outset Monday.

United States and Communist delegates met to discuss the time and place for the political conference — the main Korean peace conference.

The Communists immediately demanded that the question of neutral representation be taken up first. It was made known that the United States will not agree. Thus, with a deadlock already threatened, the preliminary conference was adjourned until Tuesday.

The United Nations already has turned down the Red proposal for neutral participation in the main talks and U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean said after Monday's opening meeting that the Allies would maintain this position.

Dean's opening statement at the 75-minute meeting Monday proposed that the peace conference open Nov. 23 in Honolulu, San Francisco or Geneva, Switzerland.

He is authorized by the United Nations only to negotiate the time and place of the peace conference.

School Board Meet Scheduled Tonight

First October meeting of the Pampa school board is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today in the school business office in City Hall.

According to Knox Kinard, school superintendent, routine matters will fill out most of the agenda.

Slavs Won't Withdraw

BELGRADE, Oct. 26—UP—Yugoslavia refused Monday to withdraw troops and tanks from the disputed Trieste area, insisting they were there for Yugoslavia's own defense.

Marshal Tito's government rejected an Italian proposal that both sides withdraw their forces from the free territory.

The Yugoslav state secretariat of foreign affairs in a statement Sunday turned down the Italian proposal as "obvious hypocrisy" designed to mislead world opinion.

The statement, carried by the official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug, said the Italian proposal was "made with the object of creating a certain impression among the uninformed section of the world public. The military demonstrations from the Italian side began as far back as August, although Yugoslavia had not given the least cause for this, nor did she take any similar measures at that time or throughout the month of September."

"The proposal of the Italian government is further calculated to cover up the reasons which compelled the Yugoslav government in October to take precautionary measures," the statement said.

Phone 4-3366 Is For Fires Only

Please don't phone 4-3366 unless you're reporting a fire, pleads Fire Chief Ernest Winborne.

Winborne is referring to the new telephone number issued the department when dial phones went into effect midnight Saturday.

Persons wishing to call the Fire Department for any reason other than to report a fire are requested to dial 4-6441.

The chief said he has asked Southwestern Bell Telephone Company to switch alarm number to 'Operator"; but in the meantime, Phone 4-3366 is for fire alarms only."

Young Baby Sitter Sought By Police

LACROSSE, WIS., Oct. 26—UP—Police believed Monday that an attractive 15-year-old baby sitter was kidnaped from a neighbor's home and carried off in a car after a bloody struggle.

A mass search was expected to resume Monday for Evelyn Hartley, the daughter of a LaCrosse College professor who has been missing since Saturday night.

A detachment from the state crime laboratory was also expected to check evidence in the girl's disappearance.

The main clue in the search was a pool of blood found 10 feet from the home of Diggo Rasmussen, whose 20-month-old baby had been entrusted to Evelyn's care.

A trail of blood led from the pool to about two blocks from the Rasmussen home.

Police Chief George Long said he believed the girl was dragged into the abductor's car at that point.

Bloodhounds twice followed the bloody trail for two blocks before losing the scent Sunday. Meanwhile, all available policemen, aided by Boy Scouts and Civil Air Patrol planes, searched the city and area for Evelyn until darkness forced a halt.

Evelyn was "sitting" for the Rasmussens' 20-month-old baby when the abductor apparently crawled through a basement window and forced the high school girl to leave with him, Long said. He added there was evidence a struggle took place.

Seriously Burned

SEABROOK, Tex., 26 —UP— Frank Richard was reported near death at a Galveston hospital Saturday from burns received in a blast aboard his boat docked here. The explosion occurred as he attempted to start the engine of the boat.

Rains Turn To Floods

By UNITED PRESS

Rains that dented the drouth from the Southwest to New England threatened some areas of Oklahoma and Texas Monday with floods, and a violent storm caused damage at Houston, Tex.

A squall line moving ahead of a cold front brought more rain Sunday night and Monday to Oklahoma and Texas, where drouth has cost $650 million this year alone. It also posed a tornado threat.

The rains stopped Monday in western Oklahoma and in all but the Gulf Coast and the extreme east portion of Texas.

A tremendous wind and rainstorm ripped into Houston early Monday, toppling small buildings, smashing downtown store windows and stripping trees of their limbs.

Power Lines Ripped

Power lines were ripped throughout the city by winds measured at 80 miles an hour at the downtown weather bureau. In the first two hours of the rain, 1.16 inches fell. One roof and some Southern Pacific railroad tracks were blocked by debris from buildings.

There were no reports of injuries.

Beaver Creek, which threatened Waurika, Okla., for two days, was falling Monday, but the Red River south of town was rising. Fifty persons left their homes Saturday night when the flood waters rose and another 50 were preparing to leave Sunday night when the creek began to fall.

The rain stopped at Waurika Sunday night and authorities believed the worst was past. They doubted the Red River would cause serious floods.

Highways Closed at Wichita Falls

A violent thunderstorm and three-inch downpour of rain at Wichita Falls, Tex., temporarily closed all major highways into the city by flooding underpasses. At least two families were forced from their homes along Holliday Creek.

A washout closed part of Ohio Garden Road in Fort Worth.

The weather bureau warned of the possibility of tornadoes Sunday and Sunday night. Several residents of Pampa, Tex., reported they saw some funnels in dark clouds, but they apparently did not touch the ground.

A report of a tornado at Graham, Tex., could not be confirmed.

Houston Probing 3 Lumber Blazes

HOUSTON, Oct. 26 —UP—Fires which wrecked three different lumber yards within nine hours did perhaps $500,000 damage and sent police in search of possible firebugs Monday.

"It looks like there must be a fire bug loose," one policeman said.

The owner of one of the three lumber yards which went up in flames between noon and 9 p.m. Sunday agreed that "it looks very suspicious to me."

Sam Sorrelle said only one fluorescent light was burning and no one was working at his lumber yard when it caught fire about 8:30 p.m.

Occur on 'Off Days'

Four costly lumber yard fires at Houston since September have occurred on "off" days for firemen—the first last Labor Day and the latest three on a Sunday.

Three-alarm fires broke out at the Sam Sorrelle Lumber Co. and the Winkler Drive Lumber Co. yards almost simultaneously Sunday night. Both yards are located near the Gulf Freeway, about one mile apart.

Even as firemen fought those two blazes, the nearly ruined Burton Lumber Yard still was being soaked with water. It caught fire about noon and boiled smoke and flames 200 feet into the air. The smoke was visible for seven miles.

The block-square Burton yard is located across the street from Farrar Lumber Co., which was damaged $400,000 worth by a Labor Day fire.

Firemen Injured

Three of four firemen injured fighting the two night fires required hospital treatment. Several other firemen were treated at the scenes for minor injuries.

Fire Investigator Harry Foster said "of course there is the possibility of arson." Foster said he was doubly suspicious because all four lumber yard fires occurred on "off duty" days.

Mud School Due To End Friday

Pampa's mud school entered its second week this morning with 14 persons enrolled.

Scheduled twice daily—9 a.m. and 7 p.m.—in the Clayton Husted garage, 2701 Alcock, the school will wind up its activities Friday.

Odys Simmons, Loffland Brothers Drilling Company, is the instructor for the classes which last 2½ hours. Eight classes must be completed before a certificate is issued to the student.

The school is designed for field men in the oil industry.

2nd Soldier Is Crash Victim

FORT WORTH, Oct. 26 —UP— A Thursday night crash near Mineral Wells claimed its second victim Sunday with the death of a 45-year-old airman at Carswell Air Base hospital.

S.Sgt. Arthur Desrosier of Washington, D. C., died of injuries suffered when the car in which he was riding crashed into a bridge abutment west of Mineral Wells.

M.Sgt. John F. Matisko of Pennsylvania was killed in the crash. Both men were stationed at Wolters Air Base at Mineral Wells.

Tax Statements Produce Results

Between 1,550 and 2,225 city, county and school tax statements had been paid by late this morning.

About 1,000 of those were school tax statements, according to Roy McMillen, school business manager, who estimated the total number of statements out as "a little less than 8,000." School statements were in the mail about three days ago.

Some 500-600 county tax statements have already been paid, according to Jack Back, chief deputy county tax assessor-collector. Total output was in the neighborhood of 10,700.

City officials figured that perhaps 50-75 persons ahd been in to pay their city taxes. A total of 4,113 statements were sent out to residents.

Pampa Receives .62-Inch Rain

Sunny skies prevailed in Pampa this morning, following Sunday's downpour that brought .62 inch of rainfall.

The rain was followed by cooler weather, the season's lowest temperature — 39 degrees — being recorded during the night. The high today was 60 degrees, according to Radio Station KPDN.

The rainfall was accompanied by considerable hail in several parts of Gray County, it was reported.

Several Pampa residents reported seeing at least three funnel-shaped clouds Sunday at about 12:30 p.m. These clouds, which were high, were traveling from the west and sent many Pampans on the run seeking shelter, reports said. However, no reports of tornadoes have been received here.

Moore Tells Guill GOP Has Saved U. S. $1 Million Daily

FORT WORTH, Oct. 26 —UP— U. S. Civil Service Commissioner George M. Moore credits the Eisenhower administration with saving $1 million a day since its inception, simply by refusing to replace unneeded federal employes as they leave government employ.

The saving for a full year, Moore said in a recorded interview broadcast statewide on the Republican "Report to Texas" radio program Sunday night, will amount to $388 million.

"In my opinion," he said, "there have been more achievements in the civil service field during the first nine months of the Eisenhower administration than in any comparable period during any other administration."

Moore was interviewed by Ben H. Guill of Pampa, Tex., executive assistant to the postmaster general and former Republican congressman from the 18th Texas congressional district.

"One of the reasons President Eisenhower was elected," Moore said, was that he promised to reduce federal expenditures and balance the national budget. It's impossible to do that without some curtailing of federal payrolls."

He said the number of employes cut from the federal payroll so far represent half the goal. At least half of the reduction so far, he said, was achieved by not filling vacancies brought about by resignation or retirement.

Panhandle Dust Gives Main Trouble To Dial Telephones

Phone company officials this morning were having the same trouble with their new dial equipment that residents of the Panhandle have had for years — dirt and dust.

Dirt and dust, mainly on the coils, seemed to be about the only "bugs" in the dial equipment that was kicked into use at midnight Saturday, according to George Newberry, district manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Of course, there was the added trouble — seen beforehand — of phone-users picking up the phone and waiting for the operator to say, "Number, please." Newberry himself pulled the same trick this morning. In addition, there were all those new phone numbers to look up and try to remember.

All in all, "it's going pretty well," Newberry said of the service in general — and the lack of complaints and "bugs" in particular. "It has been much less than we expected."

Some half dozen workmen were out in the town today, running down small troubles in home and office phones, the manager continued.

Many a call was placed in the minutes directly after the cutover from manual to dial system but that slacked off during the day. Phonemen picked a Sunday for a first dial day because that is generally a "light" day, especially locally.

American POWs Promised Top Communist Positions

TOKYO, Oct. 26 —UP—American prisoners who refused repatiation were promised high positions in the Communist government of the United States after the led revolution planned for about 958, Col. Edward S. Dickenson said Monday.

The 23-year-old Virginian, who chose freedom last week after first staying behind in North Korea told a news conference he had dedicated himself to gaining revenge on the Communists by "exposing their lies to the world."

He insisted that he had never believed the Communists and had pretended to be a "revolutionary" only to get more information with which to expose their false propaganda.

"I'm sure there are people back there (in the United States) who are intelligent enough to understand why I did it," Dickenson said.

Fear of Revenge

His only fear, he said, was that Communists in the United States will try to get revenge on me through my family."

The soft spoken young soldier, who had spent most of his adult life in Red prison camps, told his strange story with sincerity. He is undergoing extensive medical examinations and interrogation here.

He predicted that with "the right kind of explanations" as many as half of the remaining 22 Americans under Indian custody in the "pro-Communist" camp would change their minds and come home.

He described Communist neglect, maltreatment and forced indoctrination of prisoners in explaining the background of his plan for revenge.

Wanted to Get Even

"I wanted to get my revenge on the Communists for what they did to my buddies," he said.

"When I got up there with the Indians I got to thinking one night that I'd been with Communists enough . . . and I had enough information for exposing their lies to the world."

He said his main objective was to disprove the Reds' claim that they tried to persuade all prisoners to accept repatriation.

"I have different reasons why I decided to stay back," Dickenson said. "I wanted to get revenge on the Communists for what they did to my biddies.

"You might ask why or how I could do it.

Will Expose Everything

"Any chance I had to get revenge, I was going to jump at it. I'm going to expose everything they said. I knew that by staying back, they would try to influence me some more. They made a lot more promises to the men who said they wanted to be revolutionary.

"They promised women, good homes, free education and good schooling," Dickenson said.

"They promised we could be political leaders.

"They were all lies and I never believed any of it," he said. "I never intended to go to China in the first place. I just wanted to stay with them and get all the information I could to use against them."

Driver Is Cited In Auto Mishap

Three cars were damaged in an accident early Sunday at the intersection of Brown and Cuyler streets, police reported today.

Two cars, one driven by Clarence F. Upton, 39, 841 Murphy, and another driven by Verna Teague, 20, 1140 S. Faulkner, had been traveling east on Brown but had stopped for a signal light at about 12:40 a.m., when a third vehicle driven by W. C. Corley, 30, 228 W. Craven, crashed into the rear of the car driven by Miss Teague. This car was thrown into the rear of the Upton car.

Damage to the Upton automobile was set at $50, while the Corley vehicle's damage was estimated at $500 and that of the Teague car at $250.

Corley was given a citation for driving without an operators' license and following too closely.

In another accident, two cars were involved. This accident occurred near W. Foster and West streets about 7 p.m. Sunday.

An automobile driven by R. B. Morrow, 46, 518 N. Wills, turned into Foster from an alley east of the intersection and was struck by a car driven by Preston D. Smith, 40, 506½ E. Foster. Morrow was cited for failure to grant the right of way.

Hunters Trapped On Icy Mountain

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Oct. 26 —UP— Army weasels led rescuers through snow - clogged mountain trails early Monday in an all-out push to free about 20 hunters still trapped in the Big Horn forest.

A blizzard last Wednesday marooned about 300 hunters in the northern Wyoming mountains. Rescue operations have been underway since and between 80 and 90 of the trapped sportsmen were returned to safety Sunday night.

All were reported in good condition.

Bulldozers, meanwhile, were reported opening roads late Sunday night and early Monday for 75 other hunters trapped by heavy snows in the Blue Lake region of northwest Colorado and for 15 others marooned on the Uncompahgre Plateau in southwest Colorado.

Street Paving Halted By Weekend Rainfall

The slashing rains that muddied Pampa streets will keep a dozen of those streets from being paved this week.

According to James Cowan, city director of public works, there can be no paving work done till the streets dry up.

Most of this week, he figured, will be taken up with the hauling-in of material to be used in the paving process.

The solution to muddy streets? "Oil . . . if we had had enough of it before the rains came," he said.

Churches Report Hiked Attendances

"Back To Church Month" came to a close Sunday with most churches in the city reporting increased attendance.

However, it was thought that the goal of 10,000, set by the Pampa Kiwanis club, sponsor of the special month, was not reached on the final Sunday of October, due to bad weather conditions.

Attendance figures were not available this morning, but it was estimated that approximately 8,000 Pampans were in attendance at church services, Clinton Evans, Kiwanis president, said.

He expressed the club's appreciation to all those who assisted in the campaign during the month, including the various churches, civic clubs, the Boy and Girl Scouts, radio stations and newspapers.

"We have received the wholehearted cooperation of many people and organizations in this movement and we certainly appreciate this help," Evans said. "We hope that this will stimulate church attendance here. It wasn't meant for October alone, but we want the people of Pampa to continue going to church every Sunday."

Kidnap Inquiry Reopens Today

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 26—UP—A top level police inquiry into "discrepancies" of the arrest of Greenlease kidnaper Carl Austin Hall and the whereabouts of $300,000 in ransom loot resumed Monday.

But the police board's star witness, resigned Police Lt. Louis Shoulders who broke the case, said he wouldn't tell "anybody" about information he had already withheld from his former superiors.

Shoulders, who resigned in bitterness Saturday, revealed Sunday there was a second tipster who led him to the capture of Hall in an expensive apartment last Oct. 6.

Originally it had been believed that Shoulders' only informant was taxicab driver John Hager, who piloted the dissolute Hall on a wild-spending spree before his capture.

Shoulders, a policeman for 27 years, defied the police and the FBI to get the name of the second informant from him.

"I told them I wasn't going to break the confidence of a man I had known since before I was a cop," he said. "I never will tell anybody."

Shoulders said the identity of his informer was the only information he withheld during six hours of questioning by the police board last week.

Joseph Costello, president of the Ace Taxicab Co., and a previous witness before the police board, denied he was Shoulders' second informant.

Rains Dampen Job Situation

The recent rains have caused a slump in temporary job employment but the outlook today was that the situation would be improved once the area gets dry.

According to Bill Ragsdale, head of the local Texas Employment Commission office, "there were not so many jobs processed last week as there have been in previous weeks."

Cotton-pulling in the southern part of Gray County and in Wheeler County came to a virtual halt, Ragsdale said, adding that "ordinarily" there is a general increase in employment of all kinds after such a stoppage.

On tap this morning in the T. E.C. office were some 20 jobs, including those for electric motor repairman, electric welder and stenographer.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend

I often read your column and find it very interesting and helpful.

In a recent issue there was a letter from someone who said she had orders for some novelty items that required some hand knitting and she would like to contact someone who could do the knitting at home.

I was in an automobile accident in June. I had the femur bone in my leg broken. I have been in a cast since except for two weeks that I was back in the hospital for special treatment.

Now I am in a new cast and will be for some time yet before I will be able to be out of bed at all.

I have learned to knit while lying here and have knitted several pairs of very lovely Argyles during the summer.

I would so like to earn some money to help with all of this expense as well as with my school work.

I am not quite 15 years old but I had been making a good part of my own spending money doing baby sitting evenings, week ends and holidays and I had a summer job in a dress shop when this happened. I had looked forward to making enough to see me through my first year of high school.

Now I will have to have a teacher come to my home to be able to carry on with my school work. But not being able to go out to do the work I had been doing, I will still have those hours in which I will do a lot of knitting anyhow. And I would surely appreciate being able to make a little money from my work.

Jane

Dear Jane

Your letter was one of dozens which arrived for P. H. and as it was not among the first to reach her, I imagine that she has already gotten someone to do her knitting for her.

I would like to suggest that you take orders for the Argyle socks you make so beautifully.

Figure out how much you will have to charge to make some money on knitting them. If anyone is interested in contacting you I will be happy to forward their letters. Decide whether you would like your customers to bring the yarn or whether you would like to provide it yourself.

I am sure that you will be able to keep busy with Christmas coming up. I already have one customer for you and will send her name to you in a day or two. She wants very gay Argyles in size 12 and she likes the kind made with wool and nylon thread so that they keep their shape nicely. You may as well start figuring the price so that you will have all your answers ready.

RUTH MILLET

Maybe you're bored with staying at home night after night and you've made up your mind that tonight you and your husband are going out.

Well, if you don't want opposition to the idea, don't use any of the following methods. A lot of wives use these methods and then wonder why they have such a hard time getting George to go anywhere.

Don't begin by feeling sorry for yourself. If you start out, "You know it's been ages since we've gone anywhere in the evening," then your self-pity will be showing. And your husband will be more annoyed at the self-pity than interested in taking you out.

Don't start out with an accusation: "You may like to sit at home night after night, but then you're down town all day." If you do you'll just hear how tired your husband is and how he likes a little rest at the end of a hard day.

Don't try to get him into a general discussion by some remark such as: "I've been thinking that we really ought to get out more often. We're getting into a rut, staying home all the time."

He'll want to know just what is wrong with staying at home, and before you know it, he will have convinced himself that staying home every night is the only sensible way to live.

Don't sound vaguely unhappy and dissatisfied. You will if you start talking about how much fun you used to have and how dull life has been lately. A man doesn't relish the thought of taking out an unhappy woman just to see if he can't get rid of her discontent.

If all of those are wrong approaches, then what's a right one?

Have a definite play. Offer it enthusiastically so that your attitude is simply, that there is some place you want very much to go, not just to get away from home. Don't let your husband think this is the first step in a "we-must-get-out-more-often" campaign, but there is something interesting you want to do that very evening.

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

A child's misbehavior is always a test of his parents' love.

Until we can accept the idea that the impudence, lies, tantrums and defiances our youngsters exhibit are by-products of our own fears and insecurities, we have little real hope of helping them overcome their problems.

This is a hard idea to accept because it hits us where it hurts—in our own self-satisfaction. And here's where love comes in. If we do not love, we will resist the battle for self-knowledge. The quality of our love is under test.

If the love is of good quality, it will give us the strength to welcome this idea joyfully and with increasing gratitude. Our discovery of ourselves leads to the discovery of our child.

When this idea is accepted, we find our feeling for our child flooded with a wholly new appreciation of his value to us. We are humble with thanksgiving for the relationship that has inspired us to find ourselves.

Many of us get by until our child is born. We do a fair job of work; if our marriage has not come up to our romatic expectations, it is satisfactory enough. When our baby is born, we say: "My life is set—and what's all this talk about the problems of parenthood?"

Parenthood will teach us, if we are teachable, that we are never set. If we have not learned already, it will teach us that the fear that kept us from defending a false charge made against us by a friend is the same fear that now makes us afraid to demand consideration from our child.

It will teach us that the self-doubt that kept us from asking for the raise we had earned is the same doubt that now weakens our stand on bed-time. It will teach us that the moral cowardice that let our family dictate our choice of a profession is the moral cowardice our child exploits by making embarrassing scenes in public. We will find that the job of living has just begun.

Like no other human relationship, parenthood strains the seams of our courage and character. For whether we know it or not, it has forced us into leadership — and if we love and want to lead well, we cannot evade the job of knowing why and where we are going.

Do It Yourself

One of the revealing phenomena of the times — and one whose significance the economists and social historians haven't adequately covered as yet — has been the astonishing growth of the "do-it-yourself" movement. Millions of people, male and female alike, no longer rush to the phone to call a mechanic or a craftsman when something goes wrong. They do it themselves — and their efforts run the gamut from minor repairs to the plumbing to constructing a whole house with little or no outside help.

The most obvious reason for this is economic — the cost of labor. But it isn't the only reason. The five-day week has given the bulk of people far more leisure than they used to have, and thus the opportunity to do something besides rest up on their off-time. Furthermore, once people start doing some of the things for themselves that they used to hire others to do, and learn that they can wind up with an acceptable job, they enjoy it and find an abiding satisfaction in it. They can point to the result with pride. Finally, the manufacturers of all kinds of goods, seeing this vast new market, naturally have jumped in and made do-it-yourself a great deal easier and less forbidding than it used to be. New kinds of wallpaper and paint applicators; small power tools for the home; new types of building materials — these and a thousand and one other wares for the nonprofessional repairman and builder are now universally sold. Many big-scale and small-scale advertisers stress do-it-yourself. And the publishing of books which show through relatively simple texts and diagrams how to plumb, wire, carpenter, and so on has become a substantial business.

Some time ago Harper's Magazine published an article by a man who described how, because of present day prices coupled with the need to maintain comparatively high living standards, he and his family were going broke on an income of $10,000 a year. This October issue of that magazine carries an article by Darrell Huff, entitled "We've Found a Substitute for Income," which is, in a sense, an answer to the prior one. Mr. Huff says that he keeps "a wife and four children in something like country-estate style on an income so small that the tax people can hardly afford to open my annual envelope." And he does this, he continues, in "the only way I know of to do it, with the hands. Quite simply it involves a man's doing for himself many of the things that most Americans in clean-hands jobs had come to rely upon paying others to do."

Mr. Huff goes into considerable detail both about the tangible results that can be obtained (according to him, he has acquired a home for $10,000 which would have cost $40,000 if built and financed in the normal way) and about the motives. He cites the economic one, of course, quoting a statement from Time in which a lumber dealer said, "It's a simple economic fact that a $75-a-week bookkeeper can't buy the services of a $150 carpenter." But he emphasizes the other, non-material factors, too. To quote him once more, "Taking part in so many kinds of work impresses me as a gain in itself, and I am not sorry that my children are growing up to know that a house or a chair or a sidewalk is made of something besides money and hired labor."

The do-it-yourself movement is by no means universal. The professional mechanics and artisans are keeping busy for the most part. But it has grown to an amazing extent in a very short period of time, and no end is in sight.

GOP New Dealers

Those who have watched the political flip-flops of the Republican administration in Washington, climaxed with the seating of Earl E. Warren as Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, can take little comfort in "the coming generation."

On matters of national concern, the Young Republican meeting just concluded in Monterey, Calif, might just as well have been a meeting of Young Democrats or, more accurately, Young New Dealers.

For instance, it has been a "party line" policy to oppose, either on political or moral grounds, the FEPC measures that the New Dealers have cooked up in an effort to win southern Negro votes. So what do the Young Republicans of California come up with? Approval of a resolution urging enactment of a FEPC law in California!

Going right down the line, the Young Republicans also turned thumbs down on proposals for a right-to-work initiative, on the grounds that restrictions on closed and union shops would interfere with the rights of labor unions!

They then refused to endorse the proposed Bricker Amendment to the U. S. Constitution which would insure that the constitutional rights of American citizens were not going to be tossed out of the window by treaties and "deals" cooked up by the executive branch of the government. In this regard, it is well to note that the Bricker legislation is violently opposed by the United World Federalists, an organization that would do away with traditional American sovereignty and freedom in favor of some form of world government. What does that have to do with the Young Republicans? Maybe nothing — but Edgar Osgood of San Francisco, who as president of the California Young Republicans was in charge of the meeting, is a member of the World Federalist group.

It is little wonder that the administration in Washington is going right down the line for New Dealism when the "young leaders" of the Republican party in California are led by such a man and have such New Deal beliefs.

God Only Knows Ike's Farm Program

When one reads Eisenhower's speech before the Future Farmers of America at Kansas City, one cannot help but conclude that God only knows what Ike's farm program really is.

This expression came to me when a defender of collective bargaining tried to tell how wages should be paid if they are not to be paid on a competitive basis by stating that he would have a committee appointed. When he was asked what rule or principle they would use to determine what each person should receive, his answer was "God only knows."

Now, Eisenhower is establishing another commission of 18 members to help devise a program for the farmers' future — a commission with 12 active farmers as members to insure that practical men help formulate a sound national agricultural policy.

Of course, the farm program of both the Republican and Democratic parties for years has been totalitarian and collectivistic. It has been a policy of the government meddling in a free market for labor and for credit and for farm products. It has been giving subsidies for various farm products. It has been doing this by making loans to farmers at less than a prevailing rate of interest and by establishing dams to irrigate dry lands and various other forms of subsidies. Now with this government meddling it finds that we have more production of farm products than the American people can consume. This increase also was largely a result of gasoline engines taking the place of horses used for power to cultivate the land. These horses required large acreages to raise hay and grain. Now these acreages are used to produce food for human beings and feed for animals for human food.

But these natural evolutions in producing farm products would have taken place on a gradual scale and without any injustice to individuals if the government had not subsidized the farmers, and thus increased production, and had not made laws that interfere with the young men on the farms going to the city and learning trades. The government made laws that made it very difficult for employers to give young men an opportunity to learn trades. They did this by passing such laws as the Wagner Law and the Norris-LaGuardia Law, so that it made the memberships in unions grow. This ran up the costs of the farmers and threw everything out of balance. It also kept more people on the farms than were needed. As we have better equipment and a higher standard of living fewer farmers are needed.

How this committee that Eisenhower is going to name can help the farmers when we have overproduction, without taking away from them their God-given initiative or tax the consumer to make up the difference between a free market basis for farm products and a parity price, is beyond human comprehension. Either they will have to tax people to bring the prices into balance or restrict production, and that is nothing by totalitarianism and a complete repudiation of the American way of life.

Eisenhower made the statement that the youth today has a greater understanding of the factors at work than did the young people during his own youth.

No youth 40 or 50 years ago believed that the government should try to regulate farm prices; as do most of the youth today. If the voters and the youth were not confused and if they really believed in freedom and the Golden Rule, we would not have a farm problem, that Eisenhower seems to think he can work out by some miracle by appointing 18 members to a commission loaded with farmers.

Whatever Ike's commission recommends will only delay correcting our trouble and make things worse in the long run.

Yes, God only knows what this commission will recommend. Whatever it recommends will be hard on the consumers.

O'Dwyer Is One Of Best Liked Americans In Mexican Capital

By RAY TUCKER

MEXICO CITY — The Kefauver Committee's vast television audience may not believe it. But the self-exiled William O'Dwyer, former mayor of New York and Harry S. Truman's ambassador to Mexico, is still one of the most popular Americans ever to represent the United States in this key Latin-American country. Both officialdom and populace refuse to regard him as even a minor villain in New York politics or of the Senate crime investigation drama.

The late Dwight Morrow, the House of Morgan partner, who was drafted in 1926 by Coolidge to settle disputes over Mexico's confiscation of foreign-owned oil properties, tops O'Dwyer. The kindly Josephus Daniels of North Carolina is more respectfully remembered for his lovable, human qualities, and his consideration of patricians and peons alike.

STREET NAMED FOR MORROW — They have named a street after Morrow in Cuernavaca, the mountain hamlet where he bought a modest home to escape Mexico City's fierce summer heat. The guides among the Mayan ruins in Yucatan never fail to tell tourists that Morrow contributed his own money for restoration of the relics of this vanished civilization. But Morrow is best known as the father-in-law of Charles Lindbergh, whose romance with the banker's daughter began there. The good Josephus is becoming a memory.

O'Dwyer, however, is known and liked by everybody the writer questioned here and throughout the interior. Mere mention of his name brings a smile to the faces of officials, headwaiters, taxi drivers, tradesmen, the priests of Puebla and the fishermen of Vera Cruz and Acaculpo on the Gulf and Pacific Coasts, respectively.

"You Americans are unfair to O'Dwyer," said a well-informed Mexican lawyer. "We read regularly that he stays here because he doesn't dare to go home. But he was a good friend to Mexico. And you haven't sent too many friends as ambassadors to us. You and the British don't think we are important enough for that. You are making a great mistake, in view of your troubles with Russia."

REASONS FOR O'DWYER'S POPULARITY — Why is O'Dwyer so popular, despite the besmirching of his reputation by Kefauver and New York grand juries? Without presuming to give all the answers, here are a few, and American diplomats at more important foreign posts might paste them in their hats:

For one thing, O'Dwyer speaks Spanish fluently and frequently. Many Spanish-Irish adventurers with similar names — O'Farrell and O'Higgins — fought to free Mexico from Spain's rule. He persuaded his ambassadorial wife, the former Sloane Simpson, to study and try the native language, although not too successfully.

He appeared at the dedication of holy and profane places in every part of Mexico, despite the hardships of travel. He attended, on Sunday, both mass and the bull fights. He seemed to enjoy the cruel sport, although most Americans leave after the first kill, which is like walking out at the end of the second inning of a Yankee-Dodgers' clash or after the first quarter of a Notre Dame-Oklahoma game.

Mexicans do not credit ugly rumors in Washington and New York about Hizzoner. It is reported that he is "broke," which contrasts strangely with contrary insinuations around Capitol Hill and Manhattan city hall. It is said that he does not dare to return for fear of indictment. It is rumored that he is a broken, lonely, unhappy figure. He is supposed to be a man without a country. Here are a few qualifying facts:

HE LIVES IN HOTEL PENTHOUSE — O'Dwyer has a well-appointed law office in the old but established business section, two blocks from the American Embassy offices. He cannot practice law here because he is not a Mexican citizen. His principal clients are Hollywood and Mexican motion-picture interests. Without much chance of success, they are contesting the Cortines government's requirement of a 50-50 division in the exhibition of American and Mexican films.

He lives in a two-room penthouse atop the Hotel Prince, a modest hostelry in downtown Mexico City. He dines at the finest restaurants and often with a lovely local beauty. Living expenses and taxes are 50 per cent less than in the U.S. Save for rainy months, the climate is perfect.

As to his not daring to cross the border, he flies to San Francisco periodically for clinical treatment of a thyroid condition.

"If you have anything against him," observed my legal friend, "why don't you pick him up on one of these trips? If not, the appropriate judicial or political body should clear O'Dwyer's name!"

THE STORM SIGNALS ARE UP

(The Tulsa Tribune)

By Richard Lloyd Jones, Publisher

We don't seem to mind it very much, all of this talk about hydrogen bombs, and terrific new devices that if used would wipe out all life the wide world over. All the stories of cataclysmic disaster do not seem to concern our "statesmen." We all seem afflicted with the "After us, the deluge" attitude. What do we care?

What is the use of all our schooling, all our learning? Why worry about research in medical knowledge and surgery, why try to perpetuate life when we don't seem to want to live it?

We have got ourselves so tied up to and involved so deep in the United Nations we have no "statesmen" who have the courage and the intellectual heroism to extract us from it.

We are warned that we are targets for an attack from Russian air forces that will destroy our cities. Then we are hushed into slumber by the assurance that Russia has no wish for a hot war, but cunningly schemes to become the master of the world in fifteen years by the peaceful pursuits of treachery and intrigue. Some of our Senators are protectors of this intrigue.

Those who have been in and have come out of the shadow of the Kremlin report that the Communists regard us as a push-over. So far we are. They come into our country, enlist our own citizens in their propaganda crusade. We have citizens who fall in line with the cold war infamy. And they become such a political force that our politicians protect them and denounce those who reveal our betrayers.

Malden Aunt — And what brought you to town, Henry?

Henry — Oh, well, I jus' come to see the sights, and I thought that I'd call on you first.

John — I'm going to commit suicide. I've lost my job. I've lost my girl. I've even lost my dog. I have nothing more to lose.

Don — Yes: Tighten your belt, you're losing your pants.

Frightened Congress Okayed Entry Of 200,000 Refugees

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

So we are going to admit 200,000 refugees, mostly Europeans, this year, in addition to the regular, statutory influx established by the Congress of the United States after the most searching inquiry and reaffirmed over Truman's veto.

This extra bunch are coming here by the consent of a Congress frightened by a political threat of organized revenge at the polls.

President Eisenhower curled up and quit to this power which resides within the Democratic Party and its various Socialist auxiliaries. He exhorted his Republican political subordinates to grant this bonus for the sole reason that, otherwise, the Democrats and nondescript Socialists would arouse an eastern metropolitan hate against the Republicans. He may have been right in this political estimate.

The principal advocate of almost unrestricted immigration is Sen. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, a Roosevelt-New Deal Democrat of the most extreme type. The Republicans of New York City, Boston and, for that matter, most of the Eastern Seaboard are not regular Republicans at all, but heel-dragging Democrats of Socialistic bent. And this law of ours to admit more persons than our representative Congress wanted to admit is not a pro-American law at all but a law passed to propitiate voters who have relatives and friends overseas who want to come here.

I know a decorated hero who is engaged to marry but keeps postponing the wedding because he can't find an apartment in New York which is within his salary of a little less than $5,000 a year. I know a young woman who works very hard in an office and, from time to time, takes extra jobs as a waitress to maintain herself and her son, 13 years old. Her husband is out of the picture but that is her own business. She has to spend about half of her earnings for a small apartment in a suburb of New York. Most of us certainly know a number of native Americans of good character who have to put up with substandard housing and sordid or even dangerous neighborhood conditions because there are not enough dwellings to house our own people.

Robert Moses is constantly hollering for more "projects" to be built entirely or partly out of the public taxes, which imply a subsidy by the many for a few individuals who can't earn enough to pay all of their own rent. Another alternative is subsidies for the few at the expense of the many by means of tax exemptions for "projects" and even private homes. Now certainly there is no bigotry in a contention that the admission of these 200,000 over-quota refugees means that 200,000 native Americans will have to defer marriage or make do with homes inferior to their normal deserving so that immigrants will have places to live. But any candidate who asserts these facts is absolutely certain to bring down abusive and false charges on his head. And money will be hosed into his state or district from New York to lick him at the polls as in the cases of Chapman Revercomb, of West Virginia, and Pat McCarran, of Nevada.

Arthur J. Goldsmith, of the Waldorf Tower, is one of those who have been out to get McCarran, acting, however, as a front for a semi-secret roster of contributors, some of them refugees themselves, who are not content with their fair share of representation in Congress but want to swing elections their way in states of small population. This Goldsmith is an officious meddler who blows up with indignation on being asked to discuss his several political fronts, which are little more than letterheads, having "headquarters" in his apartment.

One of his contributors is one Max Ascoli, himself a refugee from the Mussolini regime in Italy. He ought to be glad to be alive and free in the United States, but that doesn't satisfy him. No, he turns out an abusive rag blasting a decent American senator for putting the interests of the United States above the interests of persons living in Europe.

As McCarran said, there is no machinery at our service which can even attempt to "screen" these extra 200,000 individuals as to their political history and exclude Communists. This consideration is aside from the problem of housing them. And a registered ex-convict who is a member of the Bugsy Siegel gang and worked for and with these filthy racketeers, goes on the air in New York to vilify McCarran as an agent of the underworld for the sole reason that Pat did his painful duty as a senator.

It is a notorious fact that any senator who accepts an assignment to do an immigration study and recommend a law is courting destruction by liars and slush-fund manipulaters if he obeys a conscientious belief that we ought to look out for our own people first. Revercomb was beaten twice in West Virginia by absolute strangers to the state who sent money in to destroy him.

Public housing in all its phases is a cancerous racket even at very best. The housing "authorities" are independent bureaucracies thriving on waste and spoils. And we are following the experiment of Karl Marx House in Vienna before the war in bowing to the proposition that it is best for our people to take so much from them that they can't afford to pay a fair rent and then use a portion of their taxes to build "projects" to house them.

ANTI-AMERICANISM!

We Americans not only accept and expect the hatred of Communists and Fascists, we are mighty proud to be the arch-enemies of those who would destroy every political, economic, and moral precept of liberty upon which we have built our American way of life.

But what shall we say of the mounting anti-Americanism in those supposedly-free and democratic nations of Western Europe, —especially in Britain? These are the nations we have been taught to believe are on "our side" in this global struggle between freedom and tyranny. These are the nations to whose defense we went in World Wars I and II, the nations we saved and liberated with our money, our munitions and the blood of our young men. Why? Because, like us, they supposedly believed in freedom and justice, and they were in grave danger of being obliterated by the military aggression of a power-mad Germany.

After the War, we gave them more billions of dollars, because they were weak and prostrate. We aided friend and foe alike in the most extravagant and self-sacrificing attempt in history to assist all these peoples back onto their feet again. Though we had no obligation to any people but our own, — we voluntarily assumed their burdens as well, and taxed ourselves into a monstrous debt — on their behalf. And when Soviet Russia's aggressive designs became too obvious to ignore, we burdened ourselves even further to provide military aid to all these peoples, that they might become able to defend themselves from any new attack.

When Russia ordered the North Koreans to invade South Korea, we again assumed the major burden of defending freedom, — this time in the name of the United Nations, paying 90 per cent of their bill in both financial cost — and blood. And now, with a precarious armistice, we are again picking up the bulk of the bill for South Korean rehabilitation.

Yet, despite all this unprecedented and voluntary sacrifice we now find ourselves not only criticized and distrusted by the very friends to whom we have given so much, — but actually maligned and reviled! Although no nation has ever been so altruistic and generous, we are called "selfish" and "materialistic". Although we poured billions into Socialist systems of which we disapprove, we are accused of "trying to impose our way of life" on everyone. Although these nations themselves have broken their solemn pledges to us, they now accuse us of "interfering with their national sovereignty" whenever we remind them. Although we pay one third of all United Nations' bills, and 90 per cent of the U.N. Korean bill, — we are still called "isolationist". When we insist upon following moral principles, and living up to United Nations' resolutions, we are called "childish", "naive", and "unrealistic", — and accused of being too 'rigid" and "harsh" toward the aggressors, and of seeking to foment a new World war.

When we are shocked and hurt by such gross ingratitude and lies, our British allies are sure to reply: "But why should you expect to be either thanked or liked? It was all in your own self-interest. Nobody ever liked or thanked us when we were running the show."

Just when, may we humbly ask, did Great Britain give away billions of pounds to other nations, either friend or foe, and ask nothing in return? Just when, in her creditor days, did she allow debtor nations to tell her how to run her affairs?

But, we are told, — Britain's pride is hurt, and we should understand and sympathize. It is not easy for a nation which has been the leader for centuries, to become a secondary nation, to be poor, to be compelled to accept aid. That is undoubtedly true, but it is no fault of ours. Greece and Rome, Egypt and Spain, all had their great days of leadership and power too, and those days came to an end for them. Did Britain shed tears of sympathy for their "hurt pride"? Did she pour out her understanding and material succor to these proud peoples whose place she took? History does not so record!

Britain, and most of Western Europe, to say nothing of many Asian nations, are demanding the ridiculous and impossible. They are demanding that America meekly pay their bills, and at the same time, let them decide our policy for us! All we have ever asked, in return for our tremendous aid, is that they support our opposition to Communist aggression and tyranny, that they strengthen themselves by mutual cooperation with each other, and that they refuse to appease and aid our common enemy. They call this "unreasonable"!

Fan Support Will Be Needed Badly At Midland Friday When PHS Meets 'Dogs

THE HARVESTERS COULD CERTAINLY use the backing of the good football fans here in Pampa this week when they journey to Midland Friday night.

Friday's game at Midland is a crucial one. The Harvesters, by winning can take the field against Odessa on Nov. 14 with only one loss. And if they succeed in defeating the Broncs, then they would be in good shape for winning the 1-4A crown.

Midland, to be sure, will be pointing for the Harvesters. It was the Harvesters who handed the best Midland team in years its first loss last season when the Bulldogs came to town boasting a five-game winning streak.

After that defeat, the Bulldogs were so demoralized that they managed only one win after that—a 22-14 win over Amarillo.

The Harvesters, who were also unbeaten when they met the Bulldogs last year, chalked up a 38-26 win.

Midland, too, is out of the championship picture in the 1-4A race and there won't be any pressure on them come Friday night.

The Harvesters, on the other hand, are the only team with an outside chance of overhauling Odessa for the title. And they must defeat the Bulldogs to retain this chance.

Now, this is where the Harvester fans come in. The more fans that follow the Harvesters to Midland, the better chances we will have of defeating Midland. You'd be surprised what a little inspiration to the players the fans can give by letting them know you are behind them.

Midland isn't just around the corner, of course, and a lot of good Harvester fans won't be able to take off from their jobs long enough to attend the Friday game. But there are a lot who can. If all you can go, will, then Pampa will be well represented in the stands at Midland Friday night.

We understand there is a special bus already being chartered by a group of girls here. It would be nice to have several busses carrying Harvester fans to Midland Friday.

Midland holds a win over San Angelo and San Angelo is the team that handed the Harvesters their only defeat this year. So, you see, Midland is going to be tough to handle.

ARE FOOTBALL RESULTS misleading at times? We'll answer that one for you. Yes, they are.

Take the Abilene-Borger, San Angelo-Pampa, and Abilene-Pampa games. The Harvesters defeated Abilene, 7-6, a team that had beaten Borger, 60-0. This would make Pampa 61 points better than Borger. But Borger tied San Angelo, the team that had beaten Pampa.

The fluke, here, of course, was San Angelo winning over the Harvesters. Actually, we believe the Bobcats are of the same caliber as Borger but they certainly didn't belong on the same field with the Harvesters.

San Angelo coach Bob Harrell reminds fans of former TCU Coach Dutch Meyer. Meyer would point for a certain game and win it. That is what Harrell did when San Angelo played the Harvesters. Meyer, while he didn't turn out very many championship teams to speak of while at TCU, was always spoiling championship drives for various teams. Meyer would nearly always set his sites on the conference favorite—and would beat them nine times out of 10.

Five Golf Lettermen Returning At H-SU

ABILENE, Tex., Oct. 24 —UP— Five lettermen will return this season to Hardin - Simmons' Border Conference golf championship team coached by E. W. Ledbetter.

They include Frank Freer, a member of the 1952-53 team who has been in armed service, and Tommy Hale, Jackie Clark, Arlyn Scott and Duane Blair.

A&M's Ellis Tops SWC In Offense

By UNITED PRESS

Durable Don Ellis, the lithe Texas Aggie quarterback, has regained the total offense leadership in the Southwest Conference to hang alongside his passing supremacy.

He penetrated Baylor's defenses for 166 yards by completing 11 out of 19 passes in a losing cause last Saturday to push him 20 yards in front of Arkansas' Lamar McHan in total yards, 683 to 665. But he's averaged only 3.8 yards per play to 4.3 for McHan and 5.6 for the third place man, Fran Davidson of Baylor, who has 508 yards.

BIG RUSH — Elroy Payne, McMurry College, Tex., fullback, got his bid in early for Little All-America honors picking up 505 yards rushing in the first four games. That put the 195-pound sophomore well ahead in the small college ground-gaining race. (NEA)

Ellis has accumulated 610 yards with his 51 completions out of 102 attempts to lead Davidson by 109 yards in passing. Davidson has hit 31 of 67 for 508 yards. McHan ranks third with 31 out of 64 for 413 yards.

McHan Also Top Rusher

Only McHan, however, rates among the top four rushers, his 252 yards being good for fourth spot behind Kosse Johnson of Rice and Baylor's fleet pair of L. G. Dupre and Allen Jones.

Johnson has powered his way 448 yards in 92 plays to 324 yards for Dupre in 68 and 307 for Jones in 59 plays. Johnson and Dupre have averaged 4.8 yards per carry. Jones 5.2 and McHan 2.8 yards.

Sammy Morrow of TCU held onto his punting leadership with a 48.4-yard average with McHan second at 40.1 yards.

Sinclair Top Pass Receiver

Benny Sinclair, who caught five of Ellis' passes for 96 yards against Baylor, took over the pass receiving lead with 14 for 218 yards. Floyd Sagely of Arkansas, last week's leader, dropped to second with 12 for 205 yards.

Charles Brewer of Texas tops the punt returners with a 14.1 yard average for eight returns, followed by Dupre with 13.5 yards for the same number of returns and McKown with 12.7 yards for 13 runbacks.

On kickoff returns, Johnson is the top man with a 28-yard average on six runbacks, followed by Ronald Clinkscale of TCU with a 22.5-yard mark on four returns and Davidson with 22.4 for five.

Baylor Tops Offensively

Ellis and Sagely each have intercepted three enemy passes, Ellis managing to return his for 86 yards to 51 for the Arkansas end.

Baylor rated tops offensively in rushing with 220.4 yards per game, in passing with 133.8 yards and total offense with 354.2 yards.

Defensively, SMU's 103.5 yards per game shaded Baylor's 103.6 against rushing, but the Mustangs had to give ground again to the Aggies on pass defense, 60.5 yards to 62.0. On total defense, SMU was stingiest, having allowed the opposition only 165.3 yards per game to 200.2 for Texas A&M and 216.6 for Rice.

You Be The Quarterback

By WARREN GAER

Head Football Coach, Drake University

Iowa has the ball on Wisconsin's five-yard line on the right hash mark (side of the field), fourth down and four. With five minutes left in the game, Wisconsin leads, 9-7.

Iowa's point-after-touchdown man has an excellent record, but he has missed all four field goal tries in five previous games. Iowa's offense has worked well all day in midfield but has been bottled up all but once in pay dirt.

As the Hawkeye quarterback, rate these plays 1, 2, 3 and 4 for this spot:

Field goal try

Trap inside strong side defensive guard

Pitch out around defensive right end

Double reverse to the strong side

ANSWER

4. Double reverse. No. Too much ball handling and delay.

3. Trap. Any delayed play is dangerous against the defenses used here.

2. Field goal try. Bad kicking angle and the kicker hasn't hit from the field. If kick is missed, it's the Badgers' ball on the 20-yard line. Wisconsin has a bad kicksituation. You may block the punt or get a good runback, and have good position for it. If it stops or make first down. You have time for another series of plays.

1. Pitch out. Has best chance to

Only Three 4-A Teams Remain Undefeated

By DICK HARDWICK

United Press Sports Writer

Texas' Class AAAA and AAA teams get down to the throat-cutting stage in district warfare this weekend with conference championships hanging on the outcome of several games.

Only six unbeaten teams were left in the state, three in each division, as two Class AAA elevens got their licks for the first time last weekend.

Sherman was upset by McKinney 14 to 0 in district 8-AAA, and Kingsville's perfect - record was snapped by Edinburg 13-to 0 in 8-AAA. Unbeaten teams left in Class AAAA were Dallas Wilson in district four; Waco in district five and Houston Lamar in seven. However, Lamar has been tied and Waco forfeited its first game of the season to North Dallas because of an ineligible player after winning it 24 to 7.

Class AAA

In Class AAA, Kilgore, San Antonio Edison and Edinburg are fourth win in 7-AAA and Kilgore has been once tied.

Edison slapped San Antonio Burbank 26 to 0 last weekend for its fourth win in 7-AA and Kilgore beat Gladewater 47 to 19 in 4-AAA.

There Class AAAA games — in districts four, five and seven — stand above the others this weekend.

District Four

In district four, Dallas Wilson, with five straight victories, plays twice - beaten Dallas Adamson. Adamson is unbeaten in district play, getting its second win over South Oak Cliff last week 3 to 0.

Waco, probably the top team in the state, plays at Wichita Falls as the four - team district five swings into action. The Coyotes, idle last week, have a 3-2-1 won-loss-tied record. In 7-AAAA, Houston Lamar meets Houston Reagan, which won its first district game over Houston Davis 14 to 7 last week.

The top game in Class AAA finds the once - beaten Breckenridge Bucks, last year's state champions, at Big Spring. Both have 2-0 records in district 1-AAA, Irving plays at Cleburne for the eadership in 2-AAA, and McKinney plays at Gainesville in 3-AAA.

Kilgore Meets Longview

Kilgore meets Longview in 4-AAA and Corsicana plays at Palestine in an important 5-AAA contest.

Odessa, with a clear-cut lead in strong district 1-AAAA, hosts Borger Friday night and the Broncs should have little trouble winning their fourth straight district game. Odessa looks like a sure bet to succeed Lubbock as the district one champion. The Westerners, who lost to the Broncs 27-to-7 earlier this year, beat Midland 20 to 6 last Friday and play at San Angelo this week.

The schedule, by districts:

10 College 11s In First Loss

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 —UP—The list of undefeated and untied college football teams was reduced to 47 Monday as the season's biggest weekend of upsets lopped off a grand total of 10 teams.

Michigan State, which had won 28 straight games, was the chief victim, bowing to Purdue 6 to 0. Other major teams to be eliminated by losses or ties were Michigan, Miami, Ohio, and Amherst.

The honor of heading the perfect-record list goes to Peru, Neb., State which has won all of its seven games. The six-game group includes 16 teams, while 21 have won five games, eight have won four games, and one has a perfect mark after three games.

Notre Dame and Baylor top the list of large colleges still undefeated. Baylor has won five games, running up 121 points to their opponents 39. Notre Dame has four victories, 115 points against 56.

East Texas State has a 25-game winning streak, six of them this season. The Lions have scored 172 points against their opponents 79. Prairie View, Texas, also has six victories, 181 points against 40.

Southern Louisiana University has five wins, 162 points against 25, Missouri Valley has five wins, 206 points against 12, College of Emporia, Kansas, has five wins, 167 points against 42, Mississippi Southern has five wins, 155 points against 39 and Ouachita, Arkansas has four wins, 108 points against 44.

Midland Next Foe For Harvester 11

Pampa's injury riddled Harvesters began preparations today for their next encounter Friday night when they go against the Midland Bulldogs at Midland in another District 1-AAAA affair.

The game will be one of four 1-4A games this week. The others send Amarillo to Abilene, Lubbock to San Angelo and Borger to Odessa.

Odessa currently is leading the pack with a 3-0 record. The Broncs got past a big hurdle last week with a resounding 27-6 win over the Amarillo Sandies.

Last week's results virtually cut the teams still in the running for the 1-4A crown to two. The Harvesters, with a 2-1 record, is the only team apparently standing in the way of the Bronco march toward the 1-AAAA title. All other teams in the conference have been beaten twice except San Angelo but the Bobcats, who have a loss and a tie, aren't expected to win another game this season since they must face Lubbock, Odessa, Amarillo and Abilene in their remaining games.

San Angelo, however, possibly averted a tie for the cellar spot last week by battling a weak Borger team to 27-27 tie.

Pampa faces a rugged test this week in the Midland Bulldogs. The Bulldogs battled a heavily favored Lubbock team to almost a standstill last week before bowing, 20-6.

The Harvesters counted numerous injuries before and after the Abilene game last week which the Harvesters won, 7-6. Halfback John Darby was hospitalized over the weekend with a kidney injury received in the Abilene tilt.

The other halfback, Ed Dudley, although suffering from a leg injury before the Abilene game, played all of the Friday game but was slowed down considerably. His leg, however, wasn't re-injured in the Eagle contest.

Several others on the PHS squad have slight injuries but unless they become more severe in workouts this week, all will be on hand for the Midland game Friday.

Following is the District 1-AAAA scoreboard:

Tech To Face Miss. State

By UNITED PRESS

Texas Tech, riding high atop its own Border Conference, makes a big bid for national prominence this week.

The Red Raiders play dangerous Mississippi State at Jackson, Miss., in the feature game of the week as they seek their sixth victory in seven games.

The Southeastern Conference Maroons only Saturday played Alabama to a 7 to 7 tie while Tech was breezing in with a 71 to 0 rout of New Mexico A&M for the Raiders' third loop triumph.

Texas Western also will meet outside competition this week, playing host to Midwestern at El Paso in a night game Saturday.

Inside the league, Arizona and Hardin - Simmons with identical 1-0 loop records seek to improve their standings against West Texas and Tempe State, respectively. The night games will be played at Tucson and Tempe.

Last week, Texas Western upset North Texas 26 to 21 and Tempe fell 24 to 20 to Houston, Hardin-Simmons beat West Texas 26 to 14 in the other game as Arizona took the week end off.

QB Club Meets Tonight At 8

The Pampa Quarterback Club members will hear Harvester Coach Tom Tipps comment on the Abilene game tonight when the club holds its weekly meeting.

The meeting will be held at the Sam Houston auditorium at 8 o'clock.

Tipps will also show the movie of the Abilene game which was played at Harvester Stadium Friday night and won by the Pampans, 7-6

Longhorn Loop Takes In Two New Members

ODESSA, Tex., Oct. 26—UP—Longhorn League directors, who voted Sunday to expand membership from six to eight teams, indicated Monday that new franchises would go to Hobbs, N.M., and El Paso, Tex.

The Class C baseball league looked, meantime, for a new president.

Hal Sayles of Abilene, Tex., president of the West Texas-New Mexico League and one of the founders of the Longhorn League, had also served as Longhorn president since 1949.

Sayles submitted his resignation Sunday and it was accepted by directors. He said pressure of private business prevented his retaining both presidencies, but agreed to continue as Longhorn League head until Jan. 1, to give directors time to find another man for the job.

C. F. Montgomery of Carlsbad, N.M., was elected vice president of the Longhorn League.

Present members of the Longhorn League are Artesia, Carlsbad and Roswell, N.M., and Odessa, Midland and San Angelo, Tex.

May Drop Other League

El Paso sent a representative to Sunday's Longhorn League fall meeting. The Texas border city would have to obtain permission from the Arizona-Texas League to drop out of that circuit before it could accept a Longhorn League bid.

In other action at the fall meeting, the Longhorn League reduced the player limit from 16 to 15 and the veteran player limit from five to four men for the coming season. It also voted that each club hereafter must carry at least six rookies on the roster, instead of the present three.

A post-season all-star game between winners of the Longhorn and West Texas-New Mexico League, proposed by WT-NM, also was formally approved by the Longhorn loop. The all-star game will be played in July either at Roswell or Amarillo.

Amateurs Beat Pros In Texas Cup Matches

DALLAS, Oct. 26 —UP—Fourteen of Texas' top amateur golfers showed the state's pros how to play the game Sunday as they won the Texas Cup singles matches 14½ to 6½ over Dallas Country Club.

The amateurs, completely surprising their more experienced opponents, also won on Saturday's doubles play 5½ to 1½ points to make a clean sweep of the two-day event and avenge a licking the pros handed them last year.

Don January Wins Again

Don January of Dallas, who set a new course record Saturday with a brilliant 11-under-par 61, was one of eight amateurs winning his singles match. The pros, paced by Captain Byron Nelson, the gentleman - farmer from Roanoke, won four matches and two were split.

January took a 3 and 2 victory over Jack Harden of El Paso while Nelson, who led the pros in scoring Saturday, defeated Billy Maxwell of Fort Hood 5 and 4. Maxwell is a former national amateur champion from North Texas State College.

But only three other pros — Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Raymond Gafford of Dallas and Elroy Marti of Houston — were able to beat the amateurs.

Hawkins, Texas PGA champ, defeated Joe Conrad of San Antonio, the Trans - Miss and Southern Amateur titleholder, 5 and 3. Gafford beat Crooner Don Cherry, a Walker Cup player from New York and Wichita Falls, 2 and 1, and Marti bested Dick Jennings of Lubbock, one-up.

Rain Postpones Golf Tournament

The Panhandle Men's Golf Tournament, slated for the Pampa Country Club yesterday, was postponed because of rain.

The tourney has been re-scheduled for Nov. 8, Pampa club pro, Johnny Austin, has revealed.

Members of the four clubs in the Panhandle golf setup, Phillips, Borger, Ross Rogers of Amarillo and Pampa were ready to tee off yesterday when rain began falling around noon.

Undefeated Baylor Faces TCU Saturday

By ED FITE

Baylor defends its Southwest Conference supremacy against Texas Christian this week on a schedule that may well find Saturday a "day of decision" for Southern Methodist, Texas and Texas A&M.

The bruising Bruins from Waco, two steps along the road to what they hope will be Baylor's first championship in nearly three decades, will be after their third straight loop triumph and their sixth of the season without a loss.

Meanwhile, SMU will be putting its 1-0 league record on the line against a Texas team that now has its back to the wall with only an even break in two starts inside the circuit. A loss would all but kayo Texas' title hopes, while SMU's chances would be seriously dampened by a defeat.

The Texas Aggies are riding in the same boat as the Longhorns with a 1-1 loop mark and could ill afford to let Arkansas tack another blemish on that record.

Rice, the pre-season favorite that climbed back into the picture last week by kicking Texas in the final minute, strays outside the corral this week to play Kentucky.

The SMU-Texas game at Dallas and the Baylor-TCU clash at Waco will be daylight affairs, while the Aggie Arkansas get together at Little Rock and Rice - Kentucky game at Houston will be under the lights.

Baylor Seeks Title

Baylor, seeking its first title since 1924, shapes up as the best balanced club in the race at the present stage with Rice next in line unless SMU's Mustangs can prove their upset of Rice was no flash in the pan performance.

Texas A&M, picked to go nowhere in pre-season talk, may well be the second best club — on the strength of its tremendous spirit if not on personnel.

But, this week's action should settle some of the doubts. Texas offers SMU a real test and Arkansas, despite its lowly record, seems capable of troubling the Aggies or anyone else on a given afternoon.

In that same vein, TCU's passing threat that scared Michigan State and pulled it from behind twice to tie Penn State could be exceptionally bothersome to a Baylor team that is bound to be "let down" a bit on the heels of last week's thriller with the Aggies.

The Bears definitely looked stronger than the Aggies, but had all sorts of trouble ekeing out a 14-to-13 victory.

Rice had to call upon a last-minute pass to salvage an 18 to 13 game from Texas despite rolling up a big statistical edge over the improving Longhorns.

McHan Shackled

SMU, caught in the middle between its big upset of Rice and next Saturday's all - important game with Texas, played just well enough to beat Kansas 14 to 6.

Arkansas' great Lamar McHan was shackled by a tough Mississippi defense and the Porkers failed to score for the first time this year as the Rebels won 28 to 0.

TCU's defenses leaked sadly as Penn State piled up better than 400 yards in gaining a 27 to 21 verdict.

18,000 Soldiers To Assist In Running Pan-Am Road Race

JUAREZ, Mexico, Oct. 26—UP—The wreck-littered route of the 1,634-mile Pan-American Road Race will have 18,000 soldiers chasing slowpoke donkeys and cows out of the way of the 100-mile-per-hour-plus speed demons next month.

But what the soldiers can do about buzzards, a great hazard in the 1952 run for the money, wasn't known. The big birds crashed into the windshields of racing cars so frequently last year that several drivers had to put heavy bars across the glass.

Five drivers have been killed in the three previous Pan-American races, run over the highway from Tuxtla Gutierrez, near the Guatemalan border, to Juarez, across the Rio Grande from El Paso, Tex.

This year's race begins Nov. 19 and ends five days later.

Road Full of Loops

The road, in some places, is so full of snake loops and hairpin turns that a second's hestitation by a driver will put his car out of the race. The turns are so frequent that practice runs over the course do the drivers little good.

The 18,000 Mexican soldiers will help to clear the highway of cars, donkeys, sheep, and overenthusiastic racing fans. They will also be available to render first aid when necessary.

The 170 drivers who entered this year's race will compete for more than $101,271.68 in prizes.

In addition, winners usually get several thousand dollars extra from various companies for endorsement of their products.

Karl Kling of Germany, who set a new record of 102.6 miles per hour in the 1952 Pan-American, despite a collision with a buzzard which forced him to drive for a time with a smashed windshield, has entered the 1953 race. He set the record in a Mercedes-Benz.

Other ace drivers will include Bill Vukovich, winner of the Indianapolis 500; John Fitch, another American driver; Alberto Ascari and Pierro Taruffi of Italy.

For the 1953 race, the Mexican National Automobile Association has made several changes in the rules. There are four classes instead of two, the definition of stock cars has been liberalized, the number of drivers in each classification has been limited, and there will be no day of rest during the race.

The new rest rule also requires that the racing cars be impounded three hours after the driver crosses the finish line at the end of each day, thus preventing maintenance crews from working on the car all night long.

This year, there will be two standard and two sports car classes. Unlimited alterations will be allowed in the international sports class, but other classes will be allowed only minor modifications for safety purposes.

Only 100 cars will be permitted in the international (open) stock car class, and 50 in each of the other classes—international sports cars, special stock cars (standard models of smaller cars from 1950 to 1953 models) and special sports cars.

Browns Blank Giants, 7-0

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 —UP—Coach Paul Brown said Monday that his Cleveland Browns, the National Football League's only perfect-record team, have the "potential" of his unbeaten 1948 team "but we are going to get beat good before this season is over."

The Browns, always as alert as a bomb defusing squad, took advantage of a New York offside Sunday to stretch their victory streak to five and their Eastern Conference lead to two games with a 7 to 0 victory over the Giants in ankle-deep mud at the Polo Grounds.

While Cleveland swept toward a record eighth straight division title, the Detroit Lions and Los Angeles Rams remained tied for the Western Conference lead with 4-1 records. The Lions, defending league champions, wiped out a 10-point deficit to defeat the San Francisco Forty-Niners 14 to 10 and the Rams outscored the Chicago Bears 38 to 24.

The Baltimore Colts defeated the Washington Redskins 27 to 17 and the Philadelphia Eagles handed the Chicago Cardinals the worst defeat in their history, 56 to 17, in other Sunday games.

Three Of Five Top College 11s Beaten

By JOHN GRIFFIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 —UP—Emerging from the wildest weekend of the season which brought crushing defeat to three of the nation's top five teams and many other surprises, college football headed Monday into a week that promised to be just as explosive.

There's no rest in sight—not even for mighty Notre Dame, which cemented its position as the nation's top team with a brilliant victory over Georgia Tech while so many of its challengers were being beaten.

The flaming fighting Irish must come right back this Saturday to meet powerful Navy, likely to be inspired to new heights to "atone" for its surprise 9 to 6 loss to Pennsylvania. And the Irish may have to get ready for this one without Head Coach Frank Leahy.

The Irish headman collapsed with an intestinal disorder at half-time in Saturday's 27 to 14 conquest of Tech. But Irish officials say they expect Leahy will be able at least to "assist" in coaching the team on Saturday.

Field Goal Won Game

Navy was handed its first defeat when Ed Gramigna of Penn booted his first field goal with 36 seconds to play. A warning to the Irish—after Navy was held to a tie earlier this year by William and Mary, it rebounded to score three lopsided victories.

The defeat of fourth-ranked Georgia Tech was predicted, ending Tech's string of 31 unbeaten games. But real "stunners" were Purdue's 6 to 0 triumph over second-ranked Michigan State, the Spartans' winning streak of 28 games ending, and Minnesota's 22 to 0 victory over fifth-ranked Michigan as All-America candidate Paul Giel ran wild with two touchdowns running and another passing, 281 yards gained, and a new Big Ten record of handling the ball on 83 of 83 plays.

The defeats dropped Michigan State to second place and Michigan to third in the Big Ten race. Illinois, victor in an outside game against Syracuse, stayed on top and this week collides with Purdue in that league's top game.

Mighty Big Seven Game

There's a mighty big game coming up in the Big Seven where the league's two unbeaten (in league play) teams, Kansas State and Oklahoma, collide.

First place in almost every other major conference will be at stake in other top games. In the Pacific Coast Conference, Stanford (4-0-0) clashes with Washington State while Southern California (3-0-1) meets Oregon; if both lose, UCLA (3-1-0) can tie for first by beating California. Ivy League leader Yale (2-0-1) faces Dartmouth, while Cornell (1-0-1) meets dangerous Columbia.

Georgia Tech (2-0-1) returns to the Southeastern Conference to protect its league lead in a game with Vanderbilt, while second-place Mississippi (3-1-0) plays LSU. In the Atlantic Coast, Maryland (2-0-0) can tie first-place Duke (3-0-0) by beating South Carolina. Southern Methodist (1-0-0) will take over in the Southwest Conference if Baylor (2-0-0) loses to Texas Christian. Missouri Valley leader Oklahoma A&M (2-1-0) needs a win over Tulsa to stay on top.

There's a big schedule of intersectional games, too, including the nationally-televised game between Minnesota and Pitt. Others in this group include Michigan State-Oregon State, Michigan-Penn, Rice-Kentucky, Indiana-Missouri, and Tulane-Army.

Other Games

Leading games this week include:

Intersectional — Boston U.-Marquette (Fri.), Boston College-Richmond, Fordham-Miami, Indiana-Missouri, Michigan St.-Oregon St., Michigan - Penn, Minnesota-Pitt, North Carolina-Tennessee, Notre Dame-Navy, Rice-Kentucky, Tulane-Army, Villanova-Xavier, Ohio Washington-Utah.

Conferences:

Big Ten — Illinois-Purdue, Ohio St.-Northwestern, Wisconsin - Iowa. Big Seven—Colorado-Iowa St., Kansas St.-Oklahoma, Nebraska-Kansas; PCC—Oregon-Southern California, Stanford - Washington St., UCLA-California. Ivy—Cornell-Columbia, Princeton - Brown, Yale-Dartmouth. Atlantic Coast—Clemson-Wake Forest, Maryland-South Carolina. Southeastern — Auburn-Florida, Georgia-Alabama, LSU-Mississippi, Vanderbilt - Georgia Tech. Southwest—Arkansas - Texas A&M, Baylor-TCU, SMU - Texas. Southern—Virginia Tech - Citadel (Fri.). Skyline—New Mexico-Denver, Utah St.-Montana, Wyoming Brigham Young, Missouri Valley—Oklahoma A&M-Tulsa.

Others—Harvard - Dartmouth, Holy Cross-Syracuse, North Carolina St.-William & Mary, Penn St.-West Virginia, Virginia-Duke.

Sizzling Wayne Divorce Suit Repeats Hollywood's History

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26—UP—The sizzling John Wayne alimony-divorce trial repeated Hollywood history. The headlines blaze when a movie-town wife puts the bite on the family checkbook.

In most divorces of celluloid city couples, the wife quietly testifies her ungrateful spouse didn't like her cooking. But down the years the scandals of filmville have included bitter divorce wrangles when money reared its hot head.

Clark Gable, a he-man profile like Wayne, hollered when Lady Ashley presented her alimony bill in 1951. He claimed she spent more than he earned during their marriage and she was a millionaire from past husbands, anyway. Gable even moved to Nevada so his property couldn't be attached.

After suits and counter-suits, her $1,000,000 demand was whittled to $160,000 at her 1952 divorce trial.

Errol Flynn still tries to get the courts to pare the $23,000 a year alimony he started forking out 10 years ago to Lili Damita. Flynn has added two wives since, but his alimony battles with Lili play a long-running engagement.

Mrs. Brian Donlevy gave readers a keyhole peek into movietown boudoirs when she fought for higher alimony in 1947.

She charged the actor tricked her into bed with another man so he could charge her with adultery. She also said he was too tired to be a proper husband. Her alimony was upped from $75,000 to $125,000.

Rita Hayworth and Aly Khan have been tiffing for three years over their divorce settlement.

Child custody sparked the most notorious divorce battles of the cinema community. In 1936 Mary Astor's famed Purple Diary was read in court when Dr. Franklyn Thorpe tried to prevent her from getting custody of their daughter, Marilyn.

This flaming tome, a sort of "bedroom baedeker" of show business, related the romantic prowess of six famous men. Many a Hollywoodite sighed in relief when the impounded book finally was burned by court custodians a year ago.

Another famed divorce trial of early Hollywood involved Duncan Renaldo, a silent screen hero now enjoying a second game as television's Cisco Kid.

Mrs. Suzette Renaldo, in a child custody and $50,000 damage suit, charged Renaldo and Edwina Booth, his co-star of Trader Horn, staged real love scenes under the African moon.

He, in turn, charged her with insanity.

Testimony at the lurid trial led to his 1931 arrest on charges of entering the country illegally. He was sent to a federal prison for two years.

Bandleader Larraine Cugat's three-year divorce fight made headlines when she claimed she found him in a Chicago hotel room with Singer Abbe Lane, his present spouse. Another drawn-out unshedding suit was Bette Davis. Husband No. 3, William Grant Sherry, balked temporarily on grounds he still loved her.

The first Hollywood divorce of note was when Francis X. Bushman, the greatest matinee idol of them all, dropped his wife to marry his leading lady, Beverly Bayne. His fans had thought he was single. They dropped him cold when they read he not only had a wife at home, but five little Bushmans, too.

Silent Movie Man Dies

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26 —UP— Funeral services for Robert G. Vignola, 71-year-old director of silent motion pictures who died Sunday, will be held in Albany, N.Y., it was disclosed by his family Monday.

'Little Godfreys' Keeping Silent On Controversy

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—UP—The "Little Godfreys" were dodging reporters Saturday and keeping mum about their "family" affairs.

They had "no comment" about behind-the-scenes stories that leaked out when singer Julius La Rosa lost his job. To millions of TV and radio fans, it's still Arthur Godfrey and his big happy family of "kids."

"All the Little Godfreys" really aren't such kids. The oldest is 50 and was a famous performer when red-haired, wisecracking Arthur Godfrey was still trying to get an audience. Some of the Godfrey performers have been working for him as long as seven years.

Frank Parker Is Oldest

The oldest, Frank Parker, was a popular tenor when Godfrey was a little-known disc jockey. Godfrey recalls Parker did him some favors which he since has been able to return.

"Frank can stay as long as he wants," Godfrey has said. Parker jointed the group three years ago.

Janette Davis, a member of Godfrey's cast for seven years, has been singing professionally since she was 14.

McGuires Really Sisters

The McGuire sisters, who really are sisters, were hired by Godfrey less than a year ago after they won his Talent Scouts program. The Miamisburg, Ohio, trip replaced the Chordettes, a girls quartet.

Dorothy's name was linked romantically with La Rosa's after the firing, though the rumor their dates had something to do with the baritone's departure have been flatly denied.

Lu Ann Simms, 21, was selling records in a Rochester, N. Y., department store when she won Godfrey's Talent Scouts show and got a regular job with him in the spring of 1952. "Oh, the trouble I had with Lu Ann," Godfrey recalled at the same time he was describing his problems with La Rosa.

Took Godfrey's Advice

Her salary jumped from $33 a week selling records to close to $500 singing for Godfrey. Movie talent scouts got interested. But she took Godfrey's advice to stick with until she had more training.

The Four Mariners, are ex-Coast Guardsmen who started singing together when in service. Godfrey once described the four — Thomas Lockard, James Lewis, Martin Karl and Nathaniel Dickerson, all in their early 30's—as "the only male quartet in the United States that's working regularly."

Marian Marlowe, a pretty brunette of 23, was singing in a Miami Beach hotel when Godfrey hired her three years ago.

Tony Marvin, Godfrey's announcer and another seven - year member of the Godfrey group has been an announcer for CBS since 1939.

Equip Your Car With B. F. Goodrich Tires And Stop Dangerous Skidding

Whether you live in town or in a rural area, B. F. Goodrich has the tire to pull you through ice, snow, mud or slush this winter. And you can get these tires on an economical budget plan that will suit you financially. There is no need of getting stuck this winter when you have the opportunity of owning one of these fine traction twins to suit your area needs. The B. F. Goodrich Co. now has on market two traction twins, as they call them, that are suited for either city streets or rural roads.

For "city" streets, slippery ice, rain, packed snow, get the B. F. Goodrich "Life - Saver" tubeless tires. You can see these tires at the local Goodrich store, 108 S. Cuyler.

If you live where deep snow and mud are not serious problems, the B. F. Goodrich Life-Saver is for you. It gives you a revolutionary new approach to the skid problem; 10,000 flexible "gripblocks" grip like a caterpillar tread. Hit the brakes and you STOP! Give it the gas, and you GO! An all-year tire that gives you better protection on roads made slippery by rain, ice and packed snow than any other tire. These tires are also available in white or black sidewalls. The Life-Saver tubeless tires protect against all three tire hazards: punctures, blowouts, and skids.

For rural roads, heavy snow, deep mud and ruts, get the famous B. F. Goodrich Mud-Snow tires. If you have ever done, and are still doing, much driving in deep snow, on steep snowy hills or on muddy rural roads, the Goodrich Mud-Snow tire is for you. Husky tread with deep flexible cleats bites deep into mud or snow. Tests supervised by Pittsburgh testing laboratory show that in deep snow it gives up to 24 per cent more pulling power than regular tires. Stops 20 per cent faster. In mud you get 25 per cent more traction.

Mud-Snow tires outpull and outstop regular tires in deep snow and mud, but they also present you another fine feature. As you probably know from past experience, the old type mud and snow tires used to, and still do, make a lot of noise while driving on a smooth road. A lot of times, you've probably noticed a roar while driving down a semi-dry road and even now, B. F. Goodrich offers you a new feature along this line. The new Goodrich Snow-Mud tire runs surprisingly quiet because of the two center riding bars that are located down the middle of the tire. This eliminates any road noise that usually occurs in this type of tire.

Another fine feature about the B. F. Goodrich Snow-Mud is the open center tread for fast efficient cleaning. Usually, mud and snow tires collect large amounts of mud in the treads because of the large treading of the tire. But the B. F. Goodrich tire has an open center down the middle that eliminates the collection of mud in large quantities.

Dummy Reversal Is Effective Play

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The "dummy reversal" is usually shown as a very fancy play in which declarer drew all sorts of tricky ruffing in his own hand, winding up in dummy to draw the last trump with some very unlikely looking trump. But the dummy reversal doesn't have to be quite so flashy; it can be a very simple, mousy-looking creature.

Take today's hand for example. South wins the opening lead in dummy with the ace of hearts, counting one trump loser and three possible club losers. What can he do to reduce the loss?

If South tries to ruff his fourth club in dummy, East will overruff. If South tries to draw two rounds of trumps first, West will draw the third trump and then cash the fourth round of clubs safely.

If South tries to set up his own hand, therefore, he will have to lose a trump and three clubs against alert defense.

There's a different story to tell if South tries to set up dummy instead of his own hand. The effort to set up dummy is the essential part of the play known as the dummy reversal.

If you're going to set up the dummy, you naturally plan to ruff out dummy's losing hearts. And if you do that, you just can't lose the hand.

You take the first trick with the ace of hearts, ruff a heart, cash the top trumps, and enter dummy twice with high diamonds to ruff out dummy's remaining hearts. Then you lead a third diamond towards the dummy.

It doesn't matter when West decides to ruff. Dummy will lose exactly one trump and two clubs—nothing else.

Not a fancy play, to be sure, but very, very effective.

Auto Researchers Laughing At Idea Of A-Powered Autos

By PAUL E. SVOBODA

DETROIT, Oct. 26 —UP—Atom-powered cars aren't even a dream in the inventor's eye yet but within a dozen years or so you may find a gas turbine engine under the hood.

Automative researchers now just laugh about the possibility of splitting atoms to visit Aunt Rose in Peoria. It just isn't in the cards, they say, until some lighter method of shielding against radiation is devised.

"Sure, we probably could build an atom car," one top engineer at Ford said. "Of course, it would be mostly lead and weigh tons and tons. Who wants that and who could afford it?"

Gas Turbine Possible

In the realm of reality is the gas turbine engine similar to that which now powers many airplanes. The problems of converting the principle successfully to auto use are mountainous, but it can and may well be done.

The "educated guesses," and that's all they can be at this time, are that gas turbine power is at least a dozen years away.

The problems to be solved before this basic change occurs are not only technical but also economic. And it may well be the engineers will be sitting on the sidelines waiting for the business managers to come up with the money for production.

Need New Materials

One of the basic technical problems to be solved are new and stronger materials to withstand for indefinite periods the tremendous heat and speeds generated by a gas turbine. No one wants a car on which you have to change engines almost with the oil.

Once the materials are found two other problems must be solved—slow acceleration and comparative inefficiency at low speeds, according to Andrew A. Kucher, director of the engineering staff scientific laboratory at Ford.

These drawbacks stem from a turbine's inherent characteristics. It "breathes" tremendous quanities of air. To get the air it must suck it in much like a window fan. Only a window fan has an outside source of power (electricity). A turbine must generate its own power. So at low speeds it doesn't get enough air to be efficient, and because it is inefficient the power build-up is slow.

Cost Extremely High

Those are the technical problems. The economics of the shift to turbines also are imposing because an entirely new model of vehicular transportation will come into being.

The current investment in dies, buildings, etc. to build your present car engine runs into billions. Then add the cost of new dies and other machinery to build turbine engines.

That isn't all. The whole concept as it is known today of transferring the power from the engine to the wheels will have to be changed because turbine engines for cars probably will turn at greater than 30,000 revolutions per minute compared to about 4,000 of internal combustion units.

Korea Vet Home-Buyers Are Finding Shortage Of Money

By NEIL MACNEIL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 —UP— Veterans of the Korean war, 5.5 million strong, face grim prospects if they plan to buy homes of their own.

But they are not as badly off as were the veterans returning from World War II.

That's the unanimous opinion of the nation's home builders, mortgage lenders and the Veterans Administration.

Money Is Short Now

A VA spokesman put it this way: "In 1946 there was plenty of money but not enough houses. Today there are plenty of houses but not enough money."

The builders blame the mortgage lenders for not making money available for the government insured 4-1-2 per cent home loans. They charge the lenders are using "horse and buggy" financing methods.

But the lenders retort the fault is the builders who have priced their houses too high for returning servicemen.

Advantages to Buying Now

Today's returning veteran has several advantages over the World War II serviceman who wanted to buy a house.

Today, the GI has a much better selection of houses and he can easily rent an apartment while he looks for a home. Real estate dealers are more than anxious to show him their wares.

The Korean war veteran also does not run into the restrictive "no children" clauses that plagued many young couples seven years ago.

Interest Rate Up

The VA also covers $7,500 of his mortgage instead of the 1946 maximum of $4,000.

But he has to pay 4 1-2 per cent on his VA-insured mortgage, instead of four per cent. He no longer can claim the so-called "gratuity" payment worth up to $160 the World War II veteran received.

Also he has little chance of making much profit on the house he buys. Many World War II veterans have had their houses double in value since they bought them.

Builders Offer More

With the housing maket tightening, builders have been forced by competition to offer more—and today's veteran is being offered a larger and better equipped house than the serviceman in 1946.

"Fly-by-night" builders who bilked veterans after World War II have been driven out of the market and no longer threaten the inexperienced buyer. Building supplies are plentiful and builders no longer have to skimp as they did during the post-World War II shortages.

The VA also has tightened up its own restrictions and now requires builders to offer a house of better minimum standards to qualify for the government mortgage guarantee.

Today's veteran, however, can find no lender who will let him move into a house without a down payment. In 1946, 100 per cent mortgage coverage was not unusual.

Complete Stock Of Fine Seatcovers At Hall & Pinson's

Seat covers are bought to enhance the beauty of your car. And the interior will be beautifully decorated if you have seat covers that are made of quality materials and are installed correctly. You are assured of this when you buy your seat covers from Leymond Hall at Hall & Pinsons, 700 W. Foster.

If your seat covers are not installed properly, the covers wrinkle, wear unevenly and give out long before they give the service to which the owner is entitled.

Every seat cover installed has to fit perfectly, before it leaves our establishment, Hall declared.

One of the fine features of Hall & Pinson's is the great stock of seat covers it carries. The stock is one of the largest in the State of Texas.

Reason: to give motorists a complete selection of various types of seat covers and a wide range in price, to select from. Also, color and design are kept in mind too.

In seat covers a large stock is essential if you are going to offer a good selection, Hall said. Different sizes are required for each automobile on the market, and for each model of the automobile. A few standard sizes of tires are needed to fit all cars. But that is not true in the case of seat covers. A special size fits each individual model of each car.

Other lines Hall & Pinson carries is a stock of Mercury outboard motors for boats, the Criss-Craft boat kit, the Bowman boats, marine paint, evaporative air coolers. And last but not least, sales and service and Kelly Springfield automobile tires.

Be sure and stop in at Hall & Pinson's if you are in the market for seat covers. They have the most complete line for you to select from that could possibly be had. See them today.

Girl Escapes Ether Blast

GALVESTON, Oct. 26—UP—An 18-year-old student at Clinical Pathological Laboratory in downtown Galveston escaped with only minor singes Saturday when ether she was handling exploded.

The student, June Kuykendall, said there was a gas burner a few feet from where she was pouring the ether, but otherwise could give no reason for the explosion of the highly-inflammable liquid.

Dr. William Marr, one of the owners of the laboratory, said the explosion caused several hundred dollars in damage.
