How's that?

Runoff

Q. What would happen if one of Saturday's runoff elections were a tie?

A. If the runoff resulted in a tie, Section 2.028 of the Texas Election Code says the candidates in question would cast lots to determine the winner, with the party chairman of the final canvass supervising, said County Clerk Margaret Ray.

Calendar

Car wash

SATURDAY

• Malone-Hogan Hospital X-ray students will have a car wash at Citizens Federal Credit Union beginning at 1 p.m. Proceeds will go to enable students to attend radiology educational meetings.

Tops on TV

Meatballs

A zany summer camp counselor leads his misfit charges into a no-holds-barred sports competition against a group from a high class camp in "Meatballs" starring Bill Murray and Chris Makepeace. The movie airs at 7:05 p.m. on Channel 11.

Outside

Rain again

A thunderstorm began in Big Spring at 11 a.m. today. The forecast called for partly cloudy skies with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms, a high near 90 and southerly winds at 10 to 20 miles per hour. Tonight and Saturday will continue partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms, a low tonight in the upper 60s and a high Saturday in the mid 90s.

Storks still in business

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. (AP)—The legend of the stork bringing babies may be old hat, but parents who hanker for the good old days can rent a bigger-than-life-size wooden stork to announce the arrival of their newborn.

"Because we have such a high birth rate here, I thought it would be a good business to start," says Peggy Byrne, the director of patient and family services at Nebraska Western General Hospital, who rents the stork out for $27.50 a day.

Cradled in the stork's beak is a baby doll that can be wrapped in blue, pink or yellow. The stork stands on a sign that announces "It's a boy," "It's a girl," or "It's twins."

Budget crunch

Sewer rates may go up

By HANK MURPHY
Staff Writer

Taxes will not be raised, but sewer rates will if the proposed budget hammered out by City Council Tuesday and Wednesday is passed this summer.

Councilmen are expected to call for a June 24 public hearing on the budget when they meet Tuesday.

Next year's proposed budget calls for a $19.20 per year jump in sewage rates to offset an increase in utility bond debt service projected to run almost $1.1 during the fiscal year. The rate hike also will balance the planned utility fund, which initially showed a small deficit.

The council also squeezed about $250,000 from the general fund, which was that much in the red before deliberations started.

The ax fell Wednesday on a patrol position at the police department, a savings of $18,000, and a $12,000-a-year maintenance job at the city cemetery.

A $15,000 personnel safety program was trimmed, and $22,000 was sliced as the council dropped 5 percent from the city's across-the-board supply spending.

State jobless rate hits all-time high

DALLAS (AP) — The number of Texans looking for jobs soared to 779,000 in May, an increase of 14 percent from the 685,000 out of work the month before and a leap of 39 percent from the same month in 1985, the U.S. Department of Labor announced today.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics in Dallas said that, at the same time, the number of people holding jobs in Texas fell slightly to 7.3 million.

Expressed as a percent of the potential workforce, the state's unemployment rate stood at an all-time high of 9.6 percent in May, compared with 8.5 percent in April and 6.9 percent in May of 1985.

The previous record for unemployment was 8.6 percent of the workforce in February 1983, said BLS regional director Bryan Richey of Dallas.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the national jobless rate for May was 7.3 percent, compared with 7.1 percent in April.

Richey said May was the fourth consecutive month that unemployment was above 8 percent in Texas. During the 1983 economic slide, the jobless rates were above 8 percent for six successive months.

"What we're seeing here is a continuation of the same widespread and rather pervasive slump in business activity — triggered by oil and gas problems," Richey said. "Obviously, there is a rippling effect. Every major industry in the state is being affected by the slump."

Four of the eight major industry divisions — mining, construction, oil manufacturing and transportation — showed negative changes, Richey said.

The other four — trade; finance/insurance/real estate; services; and government — improved modestly, he said.

"In total wage salaries, you're looking at an overall gain of 0.6 percent (from April 1985 to April 1986)," Richey said. "That's hardly anything. Nationwide, it's up 3 percent. This is clear evidence of how widespread our problem is."

Among the eight divisions, mining showed the most drastic drop at 15.6 percent, compared to a 11.8 percent increase nationally.

An improvement of 4.4 percent in Texas and 2.4 percent nationally was shown in government employment.

"Texas' economy relative to the economy as a whole is significantly weaker," Richey said. "The main reason, of course, is the problems with the oil and gas industry."

'Berky' is named managing editor

Darrell Berkheimer, a newsman with more than 20 years experience and a prize-winning editorial writer, today becomes new managing editor of the Big Spring Herald, said publisher Tom Watson.

Berkheimer succeeds John Rice, who has accepted a position on the news desk at the Houston Chronicle.

Berkheimer, 44, who prefers to be called "Berky," comes to the Herald from The Odessa American, where he was second in command of the newsroom for the past year.

During the previous 21 years, he was an editor and reporter in Pennsylvania, Georgia and Utah. He also has operated his own writing and communications consulting service.

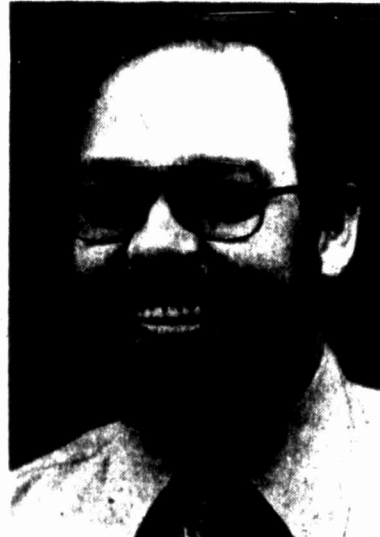

Berkheimer was a reporter, city editor and news editor at the Daily Herald in Provo, Utah, from August 1971 through April 1983. He then served as managing editor of The Daily Sun at Warner Robins, Ga., from April through October 1983.

After that, he operated his own communications business in Utah until he joined The Odessa American in June 1985.

A Pennsylvania native, Berkheimer was a communications major at Temple University before joining his hometown newspaper, The York Dispatch. He was reporter and night editor there from January 1964 through July 1971.

"I'm excited about Berky joining us at the Herald," Watson said. "In addition to his long experience, he brings a progressive and positive attitude approach to both his work and his life."

"I'm particularly impressed with the caring and sensitivity he displays in his writing. And I believe his presence here will help sharpen the skills of our staff members and emphasize service to our community," Watson said.

The "care and concern" of Berkheimer's writing was cited when he won the second of two statewide editorial writing awards in Utah.

"I can't wait to become involved here," Berkheimer said. "I'm looking forward to becoming an active and contributing member of this community."

Berkheimer is a former Toastmasters chapter president in Utah and was honored by the United Way in Provo, Utah, for his volunteer work as a publicity consultant and for serving as a loaned executive.

He was a member of the Legislative Action Committee of the Orem, Utah, Chamber of Commerce and was active in Elks Lodge committees. He also served in church leadership positions, in-

On the ballot

Commissioners, JP in runoff election

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Howard County voters will make one more trip to the polls Saturday to determine Democratic candidates for two county commissioner seats and a justice of the peace position held by the late Lewis P. Heflin.

The runoff election is required because several candidates in the May 3 primaries did not receive the majority of votes necessary to win.

Former law enforcement officials William H. (Bill) Shankles and Stanley (Bogie) Bogard are vying for Justice of Peace Precinct 1 Place 2.

Heflin was seeking a third term in the office when he unexpectedly died April 3, too late for his name to be withdrawn from the primary ballot.

He received 237 votes, or 6.86 percent of the total, in the Democratic primary, forcing the runoff between Shankles and Bogard.

Shankles received 1,519 votes, or 43.99 percent, and Bogard received 1,697 votes, or 49.99 percent.

A winner has to secure at least 50 percent of the total votes, according to the state's election code.

No Republican candidates filed for the position.

Shankle has had more than 25 years in law enforcement, more than 20 of those years in Texas.

He served as a deputy sheriff in the Howard County sheriff's department for eight years before retiring in October.

The 50-year-old former deputy has been married for 25 years and is the father of four children and seven grandchildren.

Bogard has 27 years of experience in law enforcement with the city of Big Spring, 20 of those years in a supervisory level position.

He is married and the father of one daughter.

Voters in Precinct 2 will decide on the Democratic candidate for county commissioner in the November general election. The winner will challenge Republican candidate Leo Williams.

The position is currently held by Paul Allen of Coahoma, who is seeking a third term in office. Allen is a 52-year-old farmer and rancher, who also works at Cosden.

He is being challenged by John Stanley, who served on the old city commission and also served two terms as mayor pro tem of Big Spring in the 1960s.

Stanley, 64, also operated Stanley Hardware Co. for 35 years. He is married and the father of one daughter and grandfather of three

Low turnout expected in state races

AUSTIN (AP) — Only about 10 percent of Texas voters will go to the polls Saturday to settle Democratic and Republican runoff races, state election officials say.

Secretary of State Myra McDaniel issued a forecast Thursday saying 6 percent, or 477,000 voters, will cast ballots in the Democratic runoffs, while 4 percent, or 318,000, will vote in the GOP races.

"Election records indicate that a statewide Republican runoff has not occurred in recent history," Ms. McDaniel noted.

With neither party holding a gubernatorial runoff, most other campaigns were low-profile and marked by what party officials said was voter confusion over some candidates' names.

David Davidson, a Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, said he hadn't seen his opponent, Aaron Bullock. Davidson, 47, is a non-denominational minister from Gonzales who is establishing himself as a management consultant in Austin.

Bullock, 41, is a Houston-area lawyer whose only prior political experience was as a precinct chairman.

Much of the attention since the May 3 primary focused on the Democratic runoffs for the Supreme Court.

In the Place 1 race, veteran state Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas faces San Antonio appeals court judge Shirley Butts. Incumbent Justice Robert Campbell faces 3rd Court of Appeals Judge Jim Brady for the Place 2 nomination.

The Place 3 runoff pits former state Rep. Jay Gibson of Odessa against Justice Raul Gonzalez, the first Mexican-American to serve on the Supreme Court, who hopes to become the Hispanic elected statewide.

Democratic voters will choose a nominee for Place 1 on the Court of Criminal Appeals. Den-

Lastly, a savings of $119,000 was realized by a 50 percent cutback in repayment to the city's revolving fund. The fund contains money raised by the sale of city property, which can be borrowed for special projects such as the trash bailer and the municipal annex.

Budget casualties Tuesday were two positions in the city's street crew, expected to save about $30,000; several police cars, $24,000; an $11,500 fire department vehicle; a $5,000 heating and cooling system at the 18th and Main St. fire station; and a $4,000 street sign refurbishing program.

Next year's budget also eliminates the position of administrative assistant and has funds for a part-time city attorney, rather than a full-time lawyer.

Also slashed Tuesday was the amount the city will pay for water at the West Side Day Care Center, West Side Community Center and the Potton House. A cap also was placed on spending for Potton House electricity.

Sheriff's log

Man accused of exposure

Howard County sheriff's deputies arrested Johnnie Bob Turner, 52, of Coahoma Thursday morning on a warrant charging him with indecent exposure.

He was released on $2,000 bond.
● Scurry County sheriff's deputies arrested Mary Morales Harper, 25, of Snyder Thursday morning on a Howard County warrant charging her with issuing a bad check.

She was released on $300 bond.
● Mitchell County sheriff's deputies arrested Sam Rivera, 27, of Colorado City Thursday morning on a Howard County warrant charging him with issuing a bad check. He was released after paying fines and costs totaling $258.93.

● Police transferred Pedro R. Aguilar, 25, of 312 N.E. 10th St. to county jail Thursday afternoon after he was arrested for criminal mischief. He was released on $1,500 bond.

● Police transferred Henry

Franco, 21, of Odessa to county jail Thursday afternoon after he was arrested for Department of Public Safety traffic warrants and for resisting arrest. He was released on bonds totaling $1,600.

● Police transferred Joe Flores Sanchez, 29, of 1409½ Main St. to county jail Thursday night after he was arrested on suspicion of assaulting a police officer and committing another assault.

He was released on bonds totaling $6,000.
● Police transferred Paul Eugene Merrell, 33, of W. Highway 80 No. 25 to county jail Thursday night after he was arrested on suspicion of assault.

He was released on $1,000 bond.
● Police transferred Douglas Brent Pennington, 20, of Route 2 Box 110A to county jail early Friday morning after he was arrested for failure to maintain financial responsibility — a subsequent offense.

He was released on $500 bond.

Man arrested after assault

Kathy McDaniel of 1709 Aylford St. told police Thursday night that someone pushed her into a wall, struck her in the head and then put the gun to her head and threatened to kill her.

The assault occurred at 7:03 p.m. outside the Travel Inn, according to police reports. She suffered a minor injury to her head but refused treatment.

Police arrested Marcus A. Rice, 24, of Incline, Va., in connection with the assault and charged him with public intoxication and revocation of parole.

Police Lt. Jerry Edwards said this morning that Rice is expected to be charged later with assault. No bond was set as of this morning, he said.

● Rowsie Wiggington of 4207 W. Highway 80 told police Thursday evening that someone stole two Huffy boys bicycles from outside her residence between 6 p.m.

Wednesday and 6:15 p.m. Thursday. The bikes, one blue and one red, were valued at $79 each.

● Winston Bostic, 50, of Pink Hill, N.C., was arrested Thursday morning at 208 S. Gregg St. on suspicion of unlawfully carrying a weapon.

● Pete Aguilar, 25, of 312 N.E. 10th St. was arrested on a criminal mischief warrant Thursday morning.

● Paul Eugene Merrill, 33, of 3500 W. Highway 80 was arrested at his home Thursday night on an assault warrant.

● Douglas Pennington, 20, of Route 2 Box 110A was arrested Thursday night on suspicion of a second offense of driving without insurance.

● Abel Magana, 29, of 120 Airbase Road was arrested at 1601 Gregg St. on suspicion of aggravated assault and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Runoffs

ton lawyer Rusty Duncan faces Dallas lawyer George Martinez, who also could become the first Hispanic elected statewide.

Republicans, too, have a candidate who might claim that honor.

In the GOP runoff to challenge Democratic Attorney General Jim Mattox, San Antonio district judge Roy Barrera Jr. faces former Williamson County district attorney Ed Walsh.

Walsh, who switched from the Democratic Party to the GOP last year, has run on a strong law-and-order platform, although the attorney general deals mostly with civil cases.

Barrera, a judge since being appointed by former GOP Gov. Bill Clements in 1980, also emphasized a law-and-order theme.

In the Republican land commissioner's race, M.D. Anderson Jr., of Kemp, a dance hall operator, faces Grady T. Yarbrough, a Tyler high school teacher. Anderson's name is the same as the Houston cancer hospital, while Yarbrough's is similar to that of former U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

Name confusion also marked the Democratic runoff for Railroad Commissioner, where Sen. John Sharp of Victoria faces Dallas oil and gas consultant P.S. "Sam" Ervin.

Sharp said much of Ervin's primary vote came because of his name, which is similar to the late U.S. Sen. Sam Ervin, D-North Carolina, who chaired the televised Senate Watergate hearings.

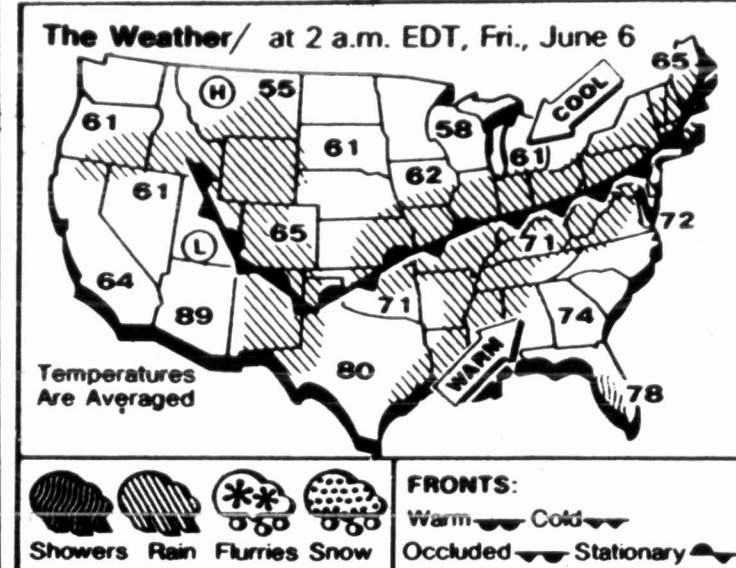

Ervin's real name was Percival Strother Ervin, and Democratic Party officials ruled that he couldn't appear on the runoff ballot under the nickname Sam Ervin.

Republicans will decide a Railroad Commissioner race, with John Thomas Henderson of Austin, a perennial candidate, running against state Rep. Milton Fox of Houston, a petroleum engineer.

A runoff also is being held in the sprawling 21st Congressional District, where two Republicans seek the nomination to the U.S. House seat being vacated by Rep. Tom Loeffler of Hunt. Loeffler gave up the seat to make his unsuccessful bid for governor.

The contest pits former San Antonio city councilman Van Archer against Lamar Smith, a San Antonio lawyer and rancher.

In the May primary, Stanley received 693 votes, or 40.27 percent. Allen received 658 votes, or 38.23 percent.

Voters in Precinct 4 will determine who will serve as that precinct's commissioner.

In the May primary, incumbent David Barr received 378 votes, or 31.58 percent. He was narrowly topped by challenger Al Valdes, who received 381 votes, or 31.83 percent.

No Republican candidates filed for the position.

Barr, 46, is seeking a third term in office and has farmed and ranched in Luther all of his life.

He has been married for 23 years and is the father of two children.

Valdes, 58, is a former Cosden employee and served on the Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees for 12 years. He is married.

Man kills self with gun outside funeral home

A 61-year-old Big Spring man shot himself to death Thursday afternoon in the parking lot of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

Justice of the Peace China Long ruled that Neal Spencer of 2316 Brent Drive died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head at approximately 3:21 p.m.

Police said this morning that people who knew Spencer said he was despondent because of financial difficulties and having no job.

Funeral services will be Saturday at 9 a.m. at Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home with Dr. Kenneth Patrick, minister at the First Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

He was born July 5, 1924, in Winters and married Geraldine

Lindsey March 7, 1951, in San Angelo. He was a member of the First Baptist Church and a veteran of the Army during World War II.

He also was a member of Staked Plains Masonic Lodge No. 596, Big Spring Chapter No. 178, R.A.M., Big Spring Council No. 117, R.S.M., member and past commander of Big Spring Commandry No. 31, K.T., Lubbock Scottish Rite and Suez Shrine Temple. He moved to the Luther community with his family when he was 2 years old.

He was a lifetime resident of Howard County and had farmed most of his life in the Luther community.

He is survived by his wife, Geraldine of Big Spring; a son, Joe "Skipper" Spencer of Garland; a daughter, Mary Lin Spencer of Austin; and two grandchildren.

Benefits running out

ODESSA — Oil workers who lost their jobs after the mid-January slump soon may lose another source of support when unemployment benefits reach the 26-week cutoff point, officials say.

Unemployment benefits have a 26-week limit. Those out of work since the slump first hit will be running out of benefits in late June or mid-July, said Ron Norris, Texas Employment Commission area manager in Odessa.

In April, the most recent month for which figures are available, 3,145 people filed new and continuing claims, but some may not have qualified, Norris said.

The number of people filing continued or beginning claims has steadily increased — from 924 in December, to 982 in January, 1,325 in February, 2,114 in March and 3,145 in April, Norris said.

Because the number of people attempting to collect jobless benefits is increasing, the number running out of benefits eventually will rise correspondingly, Norris said.

Reagan saves plan

WASHINGTON — President Reagan narrowly saved his plan to sell weapons to Saudi Arabia from a Senate defeat by dropping Stinger missiles from the package and then appealing to Congress to not embarrass him before the world.

Some senators said those two factors were the major reasons why the Senate barely failed Thursday to override Reagan's veto of a congressional resolution blocking the sale. The override vote was 66-34, one short of the two-thirds required for a successful veto override.

Pelton convicted

BALTIMORE — Ronald W. Pelton's conviction of espionage for selling the Soviets secrets about U.S. electronic eavesdropping strengthens the FBI's ability to catch and jail spies, federal prosecutors say.

Pelton, 44, convicted Thursday of four counts but acquitted of a fifth, faces a maximum three life prison terms plus 10 years when he is sentenced July 28 in U.S. District Court.

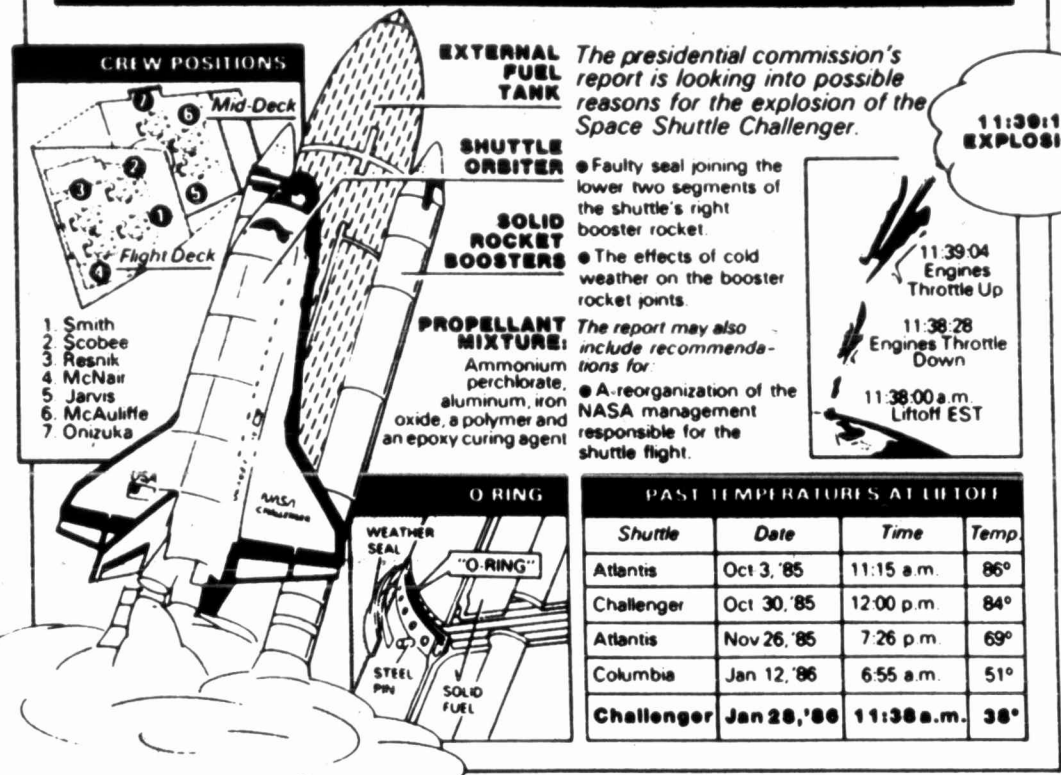

Heart search begins

LOS ANGELES — The search for a donor heart has begun for a 12-day-old infant whose unwed parents relinquished custody to his grandparents in order to reverse a hospital's refusal of a transplant, the parents' lawyer says.

William McMillan, attorney for the parents, known only by their first names, Deana, 17, and Jesse, 26, said custody was transferred to the baby's paternal grandparents Thursday.

No donor hearts were immediately available for the child, known as Baby Jesse, who has an underdeveloped heart, but "the word is out," McMillan said.

Shuttle Report

This graphic provides information relevant to the investigation by a presidential commission into the Jan. 28 explosion of the Challenger space shuttle. The commission is scheduled to present its report to President Reagan on Monday.

Shuttle report

National Archives to receive evidence

WASHINGTON (AP) — The thousands of pages of records produced by the Challenger investigation commission, including testimony delivered in closed-door sessions, will soon be available to the public.

All 15,000 pages of public and secret testimony, along with more than 100,000 documents, will be bestowed on the National Archives days after the commission report is released Monday, a commission staff member who asked not to be identified said Thursday.

The aide said the investigation by the 13-member commission, headed by former Secretary of State William P. Rogers, cost "in the $2 million to $4 million range, half of it for computerization."

The staff member added, "The only commission that exceeds ours in magnitude was the Warren commission." That commission, headed by the late Chief Justice Earl Warren, investigated the assassination of President Kennedy.

President Reagan will informally be given a report today for his perusal, and a formal presentation of it will be made to him Monday.

The report will be 250 pages along with four appendices, and it will be followed in a few weeks by four other volumes. They will include the transcripts of all closed sessions held by the commission.

Since the Challenger exploded, claiming the lives of its crew of seven, more than 6,000 people have taken part in the investigation of what went wrong. More than 1,500 of those work for NASA, 3,000 are contractor employees.

Reagan gave the commission 120 days to complete its job, and the time pressure, said the staff member, was the most difficult thing. He said he had only one day off since the investigation began and that was Easter Sunday.

An ill-kept secret by the commission was the fact that one member, Brig. Gen. Charles Yeager, attended only one closed session and did not contribute to writing the report. Yeager's name, however, is attached to the report.

Meanwhile, members of Congress expressed fresh determination to tighten their control over NASA — once an agency that could do little wrong in the eyes of many lawmakers.

Sen. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn., called a news conference Thursday to unveil three proposed bills that he said would "start setting things straight."

One measure would call on NASA to restore its quality assurance program to the strength it enjoyed several years ago. A second would protect the rights of "whistleblowers" at private companies who speak out against improper practices, thereby extending the rights already held by federal employees.

Party regrets boycott

MANILA, Philippines — The Communist Party's boycott of the February elections deprived rebels of a chance to lead the revolution that toppled Ferdinand E. Marcos and was a "major political blunder," according to the official party publication received today.

The Communists' official organ, Ang Bayan (The Country), said the decision was based on "an incorrect reading of the political situation."

It was the first time the Communists have indicated the boycott of the Feb. 7 election that led to Marcos' ouster and President Corazon Aquino's installation may have been ill-advised. It also appeared to confirm reports of a split in the party's leadership.

Soldiers, mobs clash

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — Soldiers fired in the air to disperse mobs that burned tires and charged passing vehicles hours after the head of the ruling military-civilian council, Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy, told Haitians that their country was close to anarchy.

A person who answered the telephone at police headquarters in Port-au-Prince early today said one person had died and seven people were injured in the Thursday confrontation, but provided no details. He declined to give his name or rank.

Radiation remains high

MOSCOW — A newspaper said today that fires caused by two months of dry weather are adding to the problems near the Ukrainian-Belorussian border area, where high radiation levels from the Chernobyl nuclear have forced the evacuation of 20,000 more people.

The youth daily Komsomolskaya Pravda identified four soldiers who had been decorated for their part in stopping a large peat fire near the village of Pogonoye, whose exact location was not specified.

It said forest fires also had burned, but gave no other details.

Snipers fray truce

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Lebanon's communications link with the world was restored today after a 39-hour outage, the longest in eight years. Snipers threatened a truce called to halt a 19-day battle between Shiite Moslem militias and Palestinian guerrillas.

The government said in a statement that lines of communication broke down after thieves stole electric cables feeding the central Post Telephones and Telecommunications station in Moslem-controlled west Beirut.

The outage lasted from 8 p.m. Wednesday until 11 a.m. Friday. It was the country's longest period without a communications network since a week-long breakdown in 1978 when the Syrian army shelled Christian east Beirut during a 100-day confrontation with President Amin Gemayel's Phalange Party militia.

We, the people of Precinct 4 ask you to RE-ELECT DAVID BARR as County Commissioner

Americans can change the FDA's performance

Paternalism, like politics, should stop at the water's edge — if not before. The Food and Drug Administration, however, dictates not only to Americans but to people around the world what medicines they may buy from American manufacturers. Now the FDA's reach may be shortened, to the benefit of both those manufacturers and foreign consumers.

Since 1938, the FDA has banned the export of any drug not approved for sale in the United States. During that period, the agency also has compiled a record of delay and heavy-handedness, depriving many sick Americans of needed medicines.

This is due to bad incentives, not bad people. The agency gets much more blame for approving a dangerous drug than for taking a long time to approve a valuable one — even though the delay may be far more destructive to life and health. So it tends to err on the side of banning too much rather than too little.

But Americans, if they are dissatisfied with the FDA's performance, have the power to change it. Foreigners don't. No matter — they still suffer from its mistakes.

If the French government thinks its citizens ought to have access to a drug that the FDA has not yet approved, and which is made only in the U.S., the French people are out of luck. They have no option but to wait the seven to 13 years typically needed for the agency to approve a new drug.

This is not a rare occurrence. A 1980 study of 14 important new drugs by the General Accounting Office found that 13 of them were certified in at least one of five foreign countries before they were approved by the FDA.

Unfortunately for the agency, American pharmaceutical companies that can find a willing market abroad aren't helpless. They can get around the ban on exports by building manufacturing plants abroad. They get their sales, and the foreign customers get their medicines. Only one catch: some other country gets the jobs and export earnings produced by the sales, at the expense of the U.S. economy.

Seeing the futility and cost of this policy, the Senate finally has voted to change it. A bill passed on May 14 grants some other nations the prerogative of judging what drugs they will buy from the U.S., free of FDA interference.

Under this proposal, drugs being studied by the FDA could be shipped to any of 15 industrial democracies, subject only to their permission. Unapproved drugs could be shipped to other nations if the Secretary of Health and Human Services concludes they have adequate protections against dangerous drugs — but only if the drug in question has been approved by one of those original 15 nations.

This is hardly a radical change. Drugs that have been formally banned by the FDA, as distinct from those the agency is still studying, would still be forbidden for export. The bill also requires the U.S. government to do more to keep other governments informed about products that are banned or strictly regulated here.

The benefits go beyond the buyer and seller. The Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee estimated the new policy would boost exports by between $217 million and $1.76 billion, besides creating from 2,500 to 40,000 jobs in this country.

Critics call the bill "immoral," because it supposedly exposes the world to an avalanche of unsafe American drugs. But those drugs must still be approved by the receiving governments, which are not necessarily less competent than our own to protect their citizens' health. Unlike the critics, who regard all new drugs as an unqualified hazard, those governments may think the medical benefits outweigh the possible risks.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, the Ohio Democrat, summed up the opposing case when he said this bill sends foreigners the message that "these drugs aren't good enough for us, but they're good enough for you." Wrong. The message is this: Our regulatory agency thinks these aren't good enough for us, but you're free to decide for yourselves.

SCARY NEWS ITEM: TRUCK DRIVERS TO BE ISSUED GUNS TO PROTECT WEAPON SHIPMENTS

Pentagon irritates Brooks like an East Texas chigger

By JACK ANDERSON and JOSEPH SPEAR
WASHINGTON — Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, the cigar-chomping World War II Marine veteran who heads the House Government Operations Committee, rarely takes no for an answer — especially when he's dealing with the brass hats at the Pentagon.

While some colleagues go for the easy headlines with horror stories of overpriced coffee pots and toilet lids — and then drop the crusade when the press loses interest — Brooks pursues the less glamorous examples of Pentagon waste. And with a unique combination of stubbornness and wry humor, he perseveres until he gets satisfaction.

Brooks explains his outrage at the Reagan administration's spending priorities in one succinct sentence: "They're wasting tax dollars while they're cutting our school lunches."

Brooks' most recent target is a little-publicized Pentagon satrapy called the Defense Security Assistance Agency. Typically, Brooks translates the highfalutin title into "the world's biggest arms dealer." It's this agency that arranges sales to foreign countries of such military hardware as Stinger missiles and automatic rifles.

In an average year, these sales total nearly $13 billion. But Brooks' committee investigators have dug into the agency's activities and concluded that hundreds of millions of dollars are thrown away each year — perhaps as much as $1.7 billion just since 1981. They shared their findings with our associate Donald Goldberg. Some examples:

- Federal law requires buyers of major weapons to pay at least a fair share of their cost. But congressional and Pentagon audits showed that the Pentagon gives the weapons away more often than not. For instance, research costs of $94 million on Harpoon, Maverick D and TOW 2 missiles were never charged to the buyers.

- In a survey of $2.4 billion in missile sales, the Pentagon's inspector general found that the arms had first been underpriced by $4.6 million — and then underbilled by an additional $10 million.

- Undercharges totaling $90.3 million for one kind of jet engine were uncovered, and of $41.3 million for another model.

- Besides sloppy bookkeeping and inadequate control mechanisms that allow careless waste, Brooks discovered that the Pentagon has frequently granted waivers on costs for selected foreign buyers. Between 1977 and 1984, more than $1.7 billion in weapons costs were deliberately waived for Egypt, South Korea and five NATO countries.

Another recent target of Brooks' bird dogs is the Pentagon's costly habit of letting defense contractors keep government equipment furnished to them for arms production. For example, a New Hampshire company was found to have more than $47 million worth of government-owned electronic gear in its warehouse, some of it having been there for 15 years. The company was charging the Pentagon storage fees — $79,000 in 1985.

"Just how much government money is wasted every year in the Defense Department's chronic mismanagement ... may never be fully known," Brooks said, explaining: "Government auditors can only review small samples of the total."

One thing that irritates Brooks like an East Texas chigger is Pentagon officials' willingness to "rubber-stamp" the defense contractors' every request.

"There is no reason to subsidize defense contractors in this fashion," he said. "A 1985 Navy study of profits at 22 major contractors showed that over the last few years they have made more than twice as much profit on defense work as on their commercial endeavors."

GETTING OUT THE VOTE: In a sharp reversal of past trends, five of the biggest non-profit groups now carrying on voter-registration efforts are conservative or ultraconservative. They are the American Coalition for Traditional Values, Christian Voice, American Defense Foundation, Americans for the Responsible Government and the Liberty Federation.

A study by the Center for Responsive Politics says the five organizations "focused their registration activity on conservative church congregations, military personnel, businesspersons and others who share similar values."

Unlike women's and civil rights groups, the conservatives run their voter-registration drives with little money from public foundations, using instead contributions from their own members.

One result of the combined registration drives by state and local governments, political parties and non-profit groups was that voter turnout actually increased in 1984 (to 62.7 million) over 1980 (60.5 million) — the first increase in 28 years. That was still only 53.3 percent of those apparently eligible; but when "deadwood" (those actually dead or those who moved but were still on the rolls) was subtracted, the vast majority of eligible voters may actually have cast their ballots.

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

How to mix with new law

By SCOTT FITZGERALD

Here's a primer suggesting guidelines for you to follow regarding the new mixed drink law making it a "public" practice now rather than a "private" practice.

Last Tuesday, voters in Justice of the Peace Precinct 1 assumed a Reggie Jackson posture as they became "the straw that stirs the drink" in overruling a precinct law stating that one had to be a member of a private club to be served a mixed drink.

Jackson couldn't be reached for comment on our election outcome. I'm sure he was hammering a home run in a baseball park somewhere for the California Angels.

Nevertheless — back to the primer:

- Walk with your friends to the nearest pub for an evening of mixed drinks and leave that motor vehicle at home. You won't have far to walk regardless of where you live because everyone is going to get into the mixed drink business now that it has passed. Pubs will sprout all over even though you have to apply for a permit from the state and first year costs alone are $3,000.

- Walk on sidewalks if at all possible. It's popular in Great Britain and Ireland to belt a few down and sing your heart out while swagging down the roadway.

However — I don't think motorists on Gregg St. or FM 700 will understand the old motherland traditions.

Do not read Yankee authors like John Cheever or John Updike who write of social gatherings where "martinis" are served. Develop your own sophistication.

- Be creative about your conversation now when you gather with friends at a public place for a mixed drink.

A public figure who tops my list of conversational topics is none other than the original Mr. October — Reggie Jackson.

- Keep in mind that a mixed drink may give you a feeling of grandeur or invincibility that may be unrealistic.

Be careful after you belt a few down and think you can: beat the New York Stock Exchange, appear on more magazine covers than Joan Rivers, enjoy traveling by air carrier or even hit a home run like you know who.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, June 6, the 157th day of 1986. There are 208 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On June 6, 1944, the D-Day Invasion of Europe took place during World War II as Allied forces stormed the beaches of Normandy, France. The assault broke the Nazi stronghold on the continent and led to the eventual surrender of the Axis.

On this date:

In 1844, the Young Men's Christian Association was founded in London.

In 1918, the World War I Battle of Belleau Wood, which would result in a U.S. victory over the Germans, began in France.

In 1925, Walter Percy Chrysler founded the Chrysler Corp.

In 1933, the first drive-in movie theater opened, in Camden, N.J.

In 1934, the Securities and Exchange Commission was established.

In 1966, black activist James Meredith was shot and wounded as he walked along a Mississippi highway to encourage black voter registration.

In 1975, British voters decided in a referendum to remain in the Common Market.

Ten years ago: American-born oil billionaire J. Paul Getty died at his estate near London at age 83.

Five years ago: A 10-week strike against Eastern coal fields by members of the United Mine Workers Union ended with rank-and-file ratification of a new contract.

One year ago: Police in Embu, Brazil, exhumed a body they believed was that of Dr. Josef Mengele, the notorious "Angel of Death" of the Nazi Holocaust.

City needs to repair avenue

To the editor:
I would like to tell you a little about me before I start on what I want to write about.

I farm for over fifty years in Dawson County. I bought some lots and a house back in the early sixties and moved down here in 1974 and have bought some more lots since then.

Last week after we had gotten some rain at last, one of the city councilmen had the city crew to dig a ditch down the middle of Rancier Ave. I asked him why, he said to get rid of the water. I asked him why not open the bar ditches, he did not answer me. I own all the land on the north side of Rancier

Ave. from Second Street to Main St. and half of the block on the south side and the water did not bother me.

The City scrapped up a few loads of the dirt and hauled it off. You should see the dud hole out there on part of it. I am waiting for this Ave. to be fixed.

Grateful parent says thanks

To the editor:
The night of the BSBS prom, my son and his date, along with several other students, were at the K.C. Steakhouse during a bad storm.

The storm knocked out all electricity, which hindered the staff in cooking and serving meals.

Every employee at K.C. went out of their way to make sure all the students had something to eat, even though they lost considerable money in not being able to serve full meals.

They also made sure it was safe before letting anyone out of the building.

From this very grateful parent — I thank all of you at the K.C.

New look is improvement

To the editor:
Congratulations for the fine improvement in the daily paper, I receive each evening. Being a new resident at Canterbury Retirement Home at 1700 Lancaster I had to tell you how I admire the changes made in your publication. It takes hard work, lots of expense, and devotion to doing a special job of bringing news to your city. I spent 45 years in Psychiatric Social Work so I appreciate such efforts, and was so appreciative of what you have done so again congratulations! Also thank you!

Supporters of issue are blind

To the editor:
Greetings to all who voted for liquor by the drink. I'm sure some of you are unemployed, if liquor by the drink does for the economy what you say it will, line up, there will be more jobs than we have people to fill them. You blind folks have never seen what alcohol does to a family. May you have the privilege of enjoying a husband stopping at the bar, forgetting he has a family, thus the welfare program grows larger to support his family. Or a wife sitting all day in a bar forgetting her husband and children, thus the Rainbow Project will be overflowing. You got it; when all these things come to pass, don't complain.

Oil, auto layoffs spur jobless hike

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Layoffs in the automobile and oil industries sent civilian unemployment up 0.2 percentage points to 7.3 percent in May, with all of the increase in joblessness occurring among adult men, the government reported today.

Civilian unemployment increased by 212,000 people last month, raising the total number of jobless to 8,554,000 despite an increase of nearly 200,000 service jobs, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The May rate, adjusted for seasonal variations, was the highest since February, and followed two straight months of slight declines. Civilian employment in May totaled 109,110,000, an increase of 218,000 new jobs since April. But the labor force grew by 422,000, to 119,351,000, nearly double the number of new jobs created.

Manufacturing remained in its depression, losing another 40,000 jobs in May, raising to a total of 300,000 the number of factory jobs lost since August 1984. Fifteen thousand of those jobs disappeared last month in the automobile industry. Since early 1985, automobile and truck manufacturing employment has dropped by 50,000.

The oil and gas industry continued to be the most dramatic area of declining employment, losing another 30,000 jobs in May in addition to the 70,000 jobs lost the first three months of this year in a reflection of falling oil prices worldwide.

"Since September of 1984, that industry has lost one-quarter of its work force," BLS Commissioner Janet L. Norwood said in prepared testimony before the Joint Economic Committee of Congress.

Ms. Norwood said weakness in the oil industry also has affected other areas. "Oil field machinery manufacturing, for example, lost about a quarter of its jobs over the past year, much of that in the past few months," she said.

However, lower mortgage rates continued to spur increases in construction employment and new jobs in finance, insurance and real estate, reflecting the strong housing market.

Contractors hired 21,000 new construction workers last month, raising total employment in that industry to 4.99 million. In the past year the economy has produced more than 300,000 new construction jobs. The finance, insurance and real estate sector hired 28,000 new employees in May.

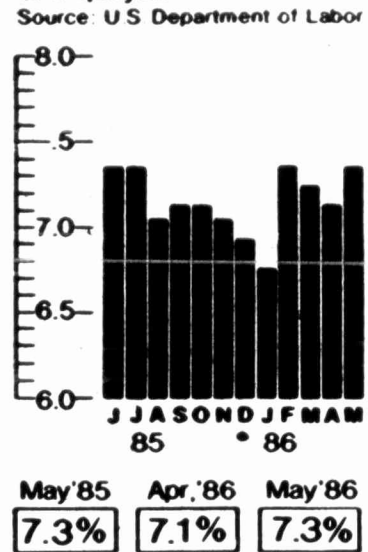

The May figures also indicated that people are eating out more, with retail trade employment rising by 45,000, much of it in restaurants and bars.

By another measure of calculation that includes the nearly 1.7 million members of the armed forces stationed in the United States, unemployment in May totaled 7.2 percent.

Among civilians, the continuing poor showing in manufacturing was reflected particularly in increased joblessness among adult men. The 6.4 percent unemployment rate for them was about the same as for adult women, Ms. Norwood said. Typically, she said, unemployment among men is usually lower than among women.

Teen-age unemployment in May was 19 percent, 0.6 percent lower than April.

Mayor proclaims Northside Center week

Mayor Cotton Mize proclaimed June 5-12 Northside Community Center week at the center's annual luncheon Thursday at the First United Methodist Church.

Mize was guest of honor at the luncheon, and Judge Milton Kirby was the master of ceremonies, said center director Marianne Brown. Food was arranged by the Fannie Hodges Circle of the church.

Thirty-five certificates of appreciation were presented to various churches, organizations, civic groups, individuals and media, Brown said.

Entertainment was provided by Darla Swindell, Wade Burroughs and the Northside Community Center children's choir.

Kirby gave a brief history of the center and its achievements, Brown said. The center began in 1983 with $27 and an abandoned building.

Auto, personal injury suits filed

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Six civil suits have been filed in the district clerk's office, five involving automobile accidents and one alleging negligence in a parking lot mishap.

• In a personal injury suit filed May 30, Kirk M. McKnight requests the court to award him an unspecified amount of damages for medical expenses incurred when he allegedly tripped over a cable and fell in a parking lot in the 2300 block of Scurry Street on Dec. 31. The Box and Furr's Inc. are named as defendants in the suit.

• Joe B. Ortega requests $4,653.36 to repair his vehicle, which was involved in a collision with Neil K. Maples of Odessa on March 13, 1985, in the Highland Shopping Center parking lot.

The petition claims Maples caused the collision by driving her vehicle in a negligent manner.

• Edward G. Ackal Sr. and his wife, Beverly Ackal of Lafayette, La., are suing for $10,000 each for "severe, disabling and permanent injuries" Beverly suffered in a November 1984 collision in the 2800 block of S. Gregg Street.

According to the petition, Ackal was a passenger in a car driven by her son, Edward G. Ackal Jr., when it was struck by a car driven by Marsha Padgett, named as defendant in the suit.

Edward G. Ackal Sr. requests damages for alleged negligence by Padgett because he is "deprived of his wife's society, consortium and of her services in the management of their domestic affairs," according to the petition.

• Allen C. James, guardian of plaintiff ward Garrett Dean Burgess, requests the court to award an undetermined amount of money from defendant Jerry Roger Arrick as a result of a Jan. 15 automobile accident on Callahan Road.

Arrick is accused of being negligent in operating his automobile before the head-on collision, according to the suit.

Because of the collision, the "plaintiff suffered severe, disabling and permanent injuries," the suit contends.

• John Roger Truscott III requests the court to award him an undetermined amount of damages for injuries from defendant June Weinacht Jobe for a Feb. 19 collision occurring in Howard County.

Academia

• Lee Elise Wheat, daughter of Walter and Frances Wheat of 901 Mountain Park Drive, graduated May 16 from Angelo State University.

She graduated magna cum laude with a bachelor of science in physical education. She was a member of Alpha Chi, the honor fraternity; a starter on the basketball team; and in Who's Who at Angelo State and among American college and university students.

• Tim H. Freeze and Patricia Anne Jones of Big Spring have been named to the honor roll for the spring 1986 semester at the University of Oklahoma, Norman campus. To be named to the honor roll, a student must have at least a 3.0 grade point average.

• Abram Garcia, son of Rusty and Esther Garcia and senior at Loraine High School, has been named U.S. National Award winner in business education by the U.S. Achievement Academy. He was nominated for the award by business teacher Donna Mize, and his name will appear in the U.S. Achievement Academy official yearbook. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Eusebio Garcia of Colorado City.

Off-beat techniques help release stress

By HARPER'S BAZAAR
A Hearst Magazine
Relaxation is a must in today's high stress world, and there are some new techniques to allow emotional cool-down when the pressure builds up.
From exotic ways to take advantage of the sea to new variations on the ancient art of shiatsu, the May issue of Harper's Bazaar runs down some off-beat ways to release stress.

— Tranquility rooms. Flotation tanks have been around for a long time, but the Tranquility Center in New York offers the world's first Open Room Flotation Environment, the evolutionary result of the sensory-deprivation tank developed by Dr. John C. Lilly in 1954.

Instead of lying in a box, you recline in a sunken pool in a soundproof, lightproof room, buoyant in a 10- to 12-inch deep mineral bath of Epsom salts at 94 degrees Fahrenheit, the same temperature as the skin's surface.

Research reveals floating increases the secretion of endorphins, the body's natural opiates, and reduces the level of such stress-related chemicals as adrenaline, ACTH and cortisol.

Tranquility tanks reportedly are useful in weight loss and in breaking habits and addictions, such as drinking. Learning ability also is affected. According to a study at Texas A & M, people who absorb information in a float tank learn significantly more on every level than nonfloaters. As the material becomes more complex, the gap between the two groups widens dramatically.

— Thalassotherapy. At the nation's top thalassotherapeutic spa, Gurney's Inn at Montauk, N.Y., they use several seawater relaxations, as well as a variety of marine treatments. Spa director Baroness von Mengerson has devised "hydro-relaxation," a passive tension-and-stress reliever.

For this you recline in a hydromassage tank filled with heated seawater. Tiny air bubbles rise from the bottom, creating an air lather and acting as a cushion for the body. Japanese flute music plays in the background as a therapist helps you relax through guided visual imagery.

In another technique, hydrotherapy feedback, you float in the hydromassage tub while a biofeedback therapist-monitors helps you achieve greater awareness and control of tension.

— Chiropractor pulse-point. Using the tenets of applied kinesiology, polarity and other chiropractic practices, Lisa Pete and Catherine Sweet of New York have developed this technique.

Kinesiology holds that every organ is related to certain muscles, and in the pulse-point method the therapist lightly touches one hand to the painful area and the other to the corresponding body point.

The therapist applies gentle pressure as the pulses from the two areas join in the same rhythm, then subside — a matter of five to 20 minutes. The complete session lasts 30 to 45 minutes.

— Ohashiatsu. Wataru Ohashi originated this combination of shiatsu massage and Eastern psychology and meditation.

Daughters expect more from live-in Mom

DEAR ABBY: When Dad died 20 years ago, he left Mom some money and a pension. She moved in with me and has divided her time between my family and my sister's family ever since.

We have cleaned for her, cooked for her, washed for her and chauffeured her everywhere she wanted to go.

Mom has never bought a bar of soap, a sack of groceries or a tank of gas. We've taken her on vacation with us and paid her way. Consequently she has saved her pension and Social Security, and now has over $300,000 in savings.

Last week she told us that she recently made a will, and is leaving her money divided equally among her eight children!

The other six have not spent a dime on her. They each have sent her a plant or flowers once a year on Mother's Day.

My sister and I opened our homes to her, sacrificing a certain amount of privacy, but we never complained. We are hurt and disappointed and are ready to kick her out on her ear and let her try to make her home with one of her other children for free. What would you do?

UNAPPRECIATED IN OHIO
DEAR UNAPPRECIATED: For openers, I wouldn't kick my mother out on her ear — or any other part of her anatomy. I would keep my mouth shut and continue to provide her with a home with no thought of what's in it for me, which is the reason I would have taken her in, in the first place.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: We have only one child. Our newly made friends have several, but please don't print the number as we do not want to identify them. Well, last Christmas they sent our child an expensive (by our standards) Christmas present. Last week, they sent our child another expensive present for his birthday.

Now, how do we handle gift-giving for Christmas and birthdays for all of their children? We cannot afford to give each one the kind of gifts they have given ours twice a year.

Is there a tactful way to tell them not to send our child any more gifts because we can't reciprocate?

A DILEMMA
DEAR DILEMMA: Honesty is the best policy. Tell them you would feel more comfortable if they would limit their gifts to your child to an inexpensive "token" because that is all you can afford to send their children. And what's wrong with sending cards?

DEAR ABBY: I'm nearly 15 and my boyfriend is 16. I've been going out with him for over a year and he asked me to go to bed with him. My mother knows about my relationship with him, but I'm afraid to tell her about this because I don't know what her reaction will be. I told him I wasn't sure if I was ready yet. He told me that he won't rush me into anything I don't want to do. How do I know when I'm ready? I hope you print this because I think you will be helping other girls with the same problem.

AFRAID OF LOVE
DEAR AFRAID: It is not "love" you fear — it's sex, which is not surprising, since we fear the unknown. How will you know you are ready? When you are so sure, you will not have to ask anyone. But one thing is certain: A girl of your age is definitely not ready.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young woman completely bald due to alopecia, so I wear a wig. I have adjusted to this condition fairly well, but I need a clever remark to say when I remove my wig for the first time in the presence of a man.

P. IN COLUMBUS, OHIO
DEAR P.: Don't surprise him. Tell him that you are wearing a wig and why.

If you feel you need a "clever" remark while removing your wig, you could say, "Look, I've flipped my wig over you!"

DEAR ABBY: You tell old people it's all right for them to touch, hug and kiss, but what about getting between the sheets for a little sex once in a while? We are both 85 years old and in good health, and we are very good friends.

Is this an unpardonable sin? Please answer in the newspaper — maybe someone else would like to know.

H.B. IN ILLINOIS
DEAR H.B.: I am not authorized to pardon sins, but if I were, I would worry less about what two old lovers did between the sheets and more about man's inhumanity to man.

Researcher says first and only children are smarter

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — First-born and only children enjoy an intellectual advantage over younger siblings because they are exposed to more adult-level thought and speech, according to a University of Michigan researcher.

A family's intellectual atmosphere tends to decline as the family expands, and newer members are especially short-changed, psychologist Robert B. Zajonc said.

Zajonc said his theory is supported by Scholastic Aptitude Test scores, which began rebounding when the baby boom of 1945-1962 ended and family size began declining.

Parents provide the primary intellectual influence during a first-born or only child's formative years, but that influence becomes diluted by younger children, said Zajonc, director of the Research Center for Group Dynamics at the university's Institute for Social Research.

"As families get larger, children's intellectual development suffers, and the effect is accentuated by birth order," Zajonc said. "The more older siblings a person has, the lower his or her intellectual level, because of the overall decline of the family's intellectual environment."

First-borns and only children absorb knowledge and experience from their parents, Zajonc suggested. But those children often inherit that role when younger brothers and sisters arrive and are ill-suited to it, he said.

"Having a marvelous teacher or reading a fascinating book might increase (any) child's interest in intellectual matters and spur intellectual growth," he said.

Prolactin's role in men is still uncertain

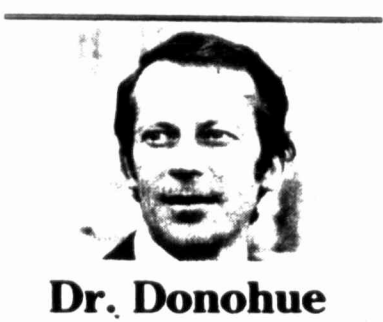

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 60-year-old male. I have a tumor of the pituitary gland. One of my tests has shown a very high count of prolactin. I know it produces milk in women, but would like to know what a male uses it for. It doesn't bother me in any way, but I am taking Parlodel to bring the high count down and hopefully reduce the size of the tumor. What is your opinion of this procedure? — C.M.

Most of what we know about prolactin has to do with its role in the female body. It does cause milk production in women, and in large amounts it interferes with menstrual cycles and causes decreased fertility.

In males, it may have to do with production of testosterone, the male hormone. Since prolactin is made in the pituitary gland, a tumor there can cause too much of it to be made. Infertility and impotence may result. Rarer still, it may cause male breast enlargement and milk production.

The medicine you are taking is the same used for women who encounter the same problem of overproduction. Parlodel (bromocriptine mesylate) inhibits prolactin production.

Treatment depends on the size of the gland tumor and how much prolactin it is making. Usually the tumor is a small one. For some, medical treatment suffices. For others, surgery using microscopic techniques is the answer. Your problem is not an altogether rare one. It is most common in women. I am sure that your doctors will be following your progress with the medicine carefully to determine whether you are a candidate for surgery.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I've got this beef. I don't know why such a brilliant doctor would tolerate and condone artificial birth control like tying up tubes, sterilization, the works. Not to get you on a guilt trip, but it is against the dictates of a correct conscience and mind. I don't care whether or not you like this or not or if I incur your wrath. — M.I.B.

Many people are offended by medical subjects that have normal, ethical, or social implications. It's not my role to condemn practices and beliefs. I should only comment on their medical consequences, if any. I hope you understand the vast and diverse backgrounds of people writing to me and that you respect their opinions and their right to have honest answers to honest questions, no matter what the subject.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My physician has put me on Danocrine to get my endometriosis under control so that I can become pregnant.

What is this drug? What does it do? Is it possibly related to the rash I have developed? — Mrs. K.F.

Danocrine is a brand of danazol, a male hormone medicine. It suppresses hormones that encourage the endometriosis (the implanting of uterus tissue in the pelvic area). In some women it may cause an acne-like reaction or a rash. I have seen reports that when a rash occurs it sometimes is due not to the drug itself but to the dye material in the capsule. That may happen in up to 8 percent of women taking it.

If that is the case, you can ask your doctor to have the drug taken out of the capsule for you. Or your doctor may decide to put you on another drug. But you should report the reaction in any event.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please explain in your column exactly what this is — squamous cell carcinoma. — Mrs. M.B.

Squamous cells are those that line structures. Skin cells are squamous cells. Squamous cell carcinoma is a form of skin cancer and, I might add, a very curable kind. Squamous cell cancers of other organs are not as easily treated. You'll have to tell me just where this squamous cell cancer is before I can give you more details.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: When did they first start testing donor blood for AIDS virus exposure in the U.S.? — N.N.

The test became available in early 1985.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "You Can Control Angina." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and $1.25.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Local three-year-old wins Miss Cinderella Tot title

Three-year-old queen, Ami Lynn Williams was crowned Miss Cinderella Tot Saturday night at the Howard College Auditorium.

Ami Lynn is the daughter of Robert and Teresa Williams, of Gail Route. She was the overall Miss Cinderella Tot winner for ages three to six in the district 12 pageant.

The competition featured off-stage and on-stage interviews, modeling of sportswear and a party dress.

During the interview, Ami Lynn introduced herself and candidly discussed her favorites in life: pizza, the color red and her favorite singer George Strait. Her ambition is to "be a farmer," she said.

Ami Lynn is now eligible for the state competition to be held June 19 in Denton.

Rockets K-O Celtics, 111-96

HOUSTON (AP) — Ralph Sampson landed the punch but the Houston Rockets scored the knockout Thursday night, sending the NBA Championship Series back to Boston for a sixth game after posting a 111-96 victory over the Celtics.

With 9:35 left in the second period, Sampson and Boston center Bill Walton jostled under the Rockets basket and Sampson started swinging at Jerry Sichting, who is 15 inches shorter than the 7-foot-4 Sampson.

Both benches emptied with Sampson struggling on the floor with several Celtics after being tackled by Walton.

After several minutes, referees, coaches and security personnel were able to separate the players and restore order.

Sampson, half of the Rockets' Twins Towers, said that earlier in the game he tried to set a pick on Sichting but was held by Sichting. Then in a battle for position under the Boston basket, Sampson suddenly started swinging. He said Sichting hit him.

Dennis Johnson of the Celtics came over to help and wound up with an injury alongside his left eye that needed treatment and he returned to the game with tape on his face.

Houston guard Mitchell Wiggins also had blood on his uniform.

Sampson, who averaged 17 points in the first four games of the series, was the only player ejected. He had 12 points and left with Houston leading 34-33.

"I was trying to hold someone back," Sichting said, who described the punch from Sampson as "a little tap around the temple."

"I had no idea. I barely turned around."

Asked if he started it, Sichting replied: "I'm not that stupid, you know. He's got a long reach."

"We jostled a little before the foul. I think I said something about the elbow. There was a lot of yelling out there. Everybody was pushing and tugging."

Walton also was involved in the fighting.

"I'd rather not comment on it," Walton said. "We just didn't do anything well tonight."

Houston Coach Bill Fitch said referee Jack Madden told him he had no choice but to eject Sampson.

"Before the fight started he said that in his mind, Ralph was already gone," Fitch said referring to a halftime conversation with the official.

"The incident on the court was unfortunate," Sampson said in a statement after the game. "I'm sorry it happened. I was very emotional during the game and I will continue to be emotional the rest of the series, but there won't be any more fights. I thought that a foul should have been called. I had to protect myself."

After the fight, the Rockets went on a 20-8 run that gave them a 58-47 halftime lead and Boston never got closer.

"It may have ignited them but they were leading at that point and we weren't playing too bad," Johnson said.

"I don't know what happened. I saw Jerry try to back out. Then I saw a punch get thrown."

A few minutes later, Jim Petersen of the Rockets and Johnson had to be separated. No blows were struck but Johnson was charged with a technical foul for throwing the ball at Petersen.

When the half ended, referees Madden and Hugh Evans were escorted off the court by about a dozen policeman as the capacity crowd of more than 16,000 booed.

The ejection was the second time this season Sampson had been kicked out for fighting, Houston spokesman Jim Foley said. He was ejected in a regular-season game in Denver on March 6 for punching Bill Hanzlik of the Nuggets.

Akeem Olajuwon, 7-0, the other half of the Rockets' Twin Towers, was ejected twice in the playoffs, and Houston went on to win both games. The first time came against Denver in the fourth quarter of the sixth game of the conference semifinals when Olajuwon grabbed Madden. Houston went on to win the game in double overtime to clinch the series.

Olajuwon was also ejected in the fourth quarter of Game 5 of the Western Conference finals against Los Angeles and Houston went on to win that game, clinching the series to advance to the series with the Celtics.

OSU drops Loyola

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Gordie Dillard's strong relief pitching Thursday and a four-run outburst in the fourth inning gave Oklahoma State an 11-5 victory that eliminated Loyola Marymount from the College World Series.

The game had been suspended in the fourth inning Wednesday because of rain.

Dillard, 5-4, who entered the contest in the second inning when the Cowboys trailed 3-0, allowed only one unearned run in 5 1/3 innings. Marv Rockman, Mike Gardella and Steve Leinhard pitched the final two innings.

Freshman Robin Ventura had four hits and drove in three runs to pace Oklahoma State's 14-hit attack.

The victory advances No. 4 Oklahoma State, 56-14, to within three victories of the NCAA championship. The Cowboys are 2-1 in the double-elimination College World Series.

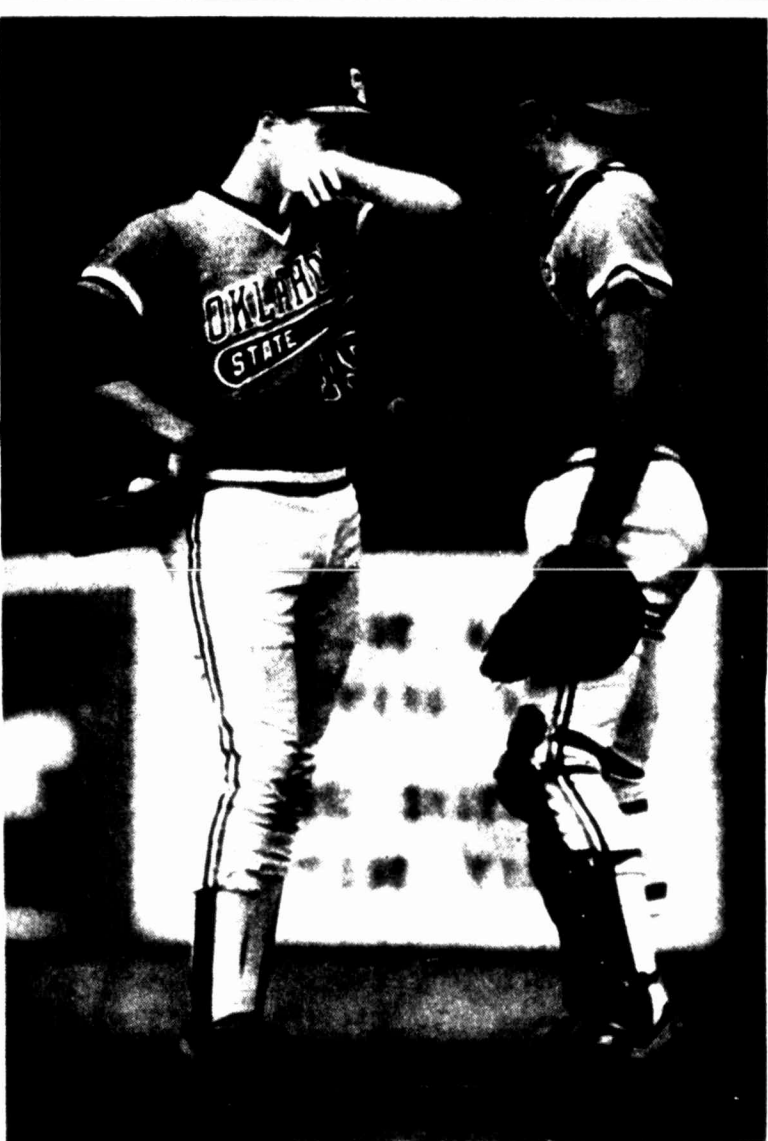

Sixth-ranked Loyola Marymount bows out with a 50-15 record.

Miami 4, LSU 3

Chris Magno hit a two-run homer and second baseman Jose Trujillo had a hand in four double plays Thursday as Miami defeated Louisiana State 4-3 in the College World Series.

The Hurricanes overcame three solo home runs by LSU, including two by Joey Belle.

The decision eliminated the second-ranked Tigers, 55-14, from the tournament. Defending champion Miami, 49-16 and 2-1 in the double-elimination Series, will play Arizona

Oklahoma State University pitcher Gordie Dillard wipes sweat from his face as catcher Adam Smith looks on during the Cowboys 11-5 win over Loyola Marymount in the College World Series.

Saturday.

Magno's first-inning homer followed Mike Fiore's RBI single and gave the Hurricanes a 3-0 lead. Fiore drove in Miami's other run with a sacrifice fly in the fifth.

Miami reliever Bob O'Brien, who pitched 4 2/3 innings of one-hit relief, earned the victory to improve his record to 5-2. O'Brien and starting pitcher

Chris Lee were each helped by two double plays.

Rick Raether pitched the ninth inning and earned his 16th save despite giving up Belle's second home run of the game and 18th of the season. Belle also homered in the first inning.

O'Brien had retired 10 straight batters when he gave up a home run to Jack Voight in the eighth.

Navratilova, Evert-Lloyd set for another showdown

PARIS (AP) — Two weeks of unpredictability are about to be capped by the most predictable event in tennis.

Martina Navratilova and Chris Evert-Lloyd are meeting for another championship.

This time, it's the French Open, and Saturday's meeting will be their fourth final on the red clay of Roland Garros, the 14th time they have played each other for a Grand Slam championship and the 69th head-to-head meeting of their careers.

It still means something special to the participants.

"If I was playing anyone else, I would probably go in with a lot more confidence," Lloyd, the defending champion and a six-time winner in Paris, said. "But if I would win a Grand Slam title, it would mean the most to me to beat Martina in the final. She's No. 1."

Navratilova lost to Lloyd in last year's final.

"It's not water under the dam, because I will always remember that match," Navratilova said of their classic meeting in 1985.

"When you lose a title you want to win it even more the next time."

This time, their meeting will be the climax of a tournament that has seen a 14-year-old beat a No. 4 seed; a Swede who won collegiate titles in Georgia outlast the defending champion from his homeland; and weather that usually spans three seasons come and go in the space of two hours.

Navratilova, who has won the French Open twice, and Lloyd, the second seed, had vastly different matches in Thursday's semifinals.

Helena Sukova, the No. 6 seed from Czechoslovakia, had Navratilova on the ropes, winning the first set and leading the second set tiebreaker 4-3 but Navratilova rebounded to win 6-4, 7-6, 6-2.

For Lloyd, the semifinals were simple. She blasted another Czechoslovak seed, No. 5 Hana Mandlikova, 6-1, 6-1.

The field for Sunday's men's championship was to be filled today from a rather unusual cast.

Top-seeded Ivan Lendl was to face No. 13 Johan Kriek, the only American among the men's seeds, and Henri Leconte, seeded eighth but a surprise as the lone surviving Frenchman in the tournament, was to meet Mikael Pernfors, a two-time NCAA champion at the University of Georgia and the only Swedish player left in an event won last year by countryman Mats Wilander.

Two tied in Westchester

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Jay Haas and Tom Sieckmann both ended their first round of the $600,000 Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic with birdies and as co-leaders.

Both players shot 6-under-par 65s Thursday and finished their rounds with birdies on the par-5 18th hole.

"It's nice to get off to a good start, but you sure don't expect to shoot 65," Sieckmann, who spent several seasons on the Asian tour before gaining his American playing rights in 1984, said.

Haas wasn't expecting a low score Thursday with the way he was hitting the ball.

"I got away with one today," said Haas, who had nine birdies, three bogeys and just six pars in his erratic effort over the hilly Westchester Country Club course in suburban New York.

"I've hit the ball a lot better and come up with a score of 70 or 72," Haas, a 10-year tour veteran who scored the last of his five victories almost four years ago, said.

"I hadn't played particularly well recently, and I didn't go out with high hopes," Haas, the first man to tee off Thursday, said.

But a 60-foot chip that found the cup — "I turned a 5 into a 3," he said — and some deadly putting enabled him to birdie half the holes he played in salvaging a share of the lead.

It also raised hopes that his long non-winning streak may be nearing an end.

"In my heart, I feel I'm definitely ready to win again. I've had some chances recently, but for one reason or another I didn't do it," Haas, who finished seventh or better in four consecutive tournaments earlier this season, said.

Bill Israelson, who used only 23 putts in a scrambling round of 67, was two strokes behind the co-leaders.

Veteran Ray Floyd, who lost this tournament in a playoff last year, led a group at 68, three under par in the chase for the $108,000 first prize.

He was tied with George Archer, Mike Reid, Mark Wiebe, Ed Fiori and Brett Upper.

Andy North, a former Westchester winner who will defend his U.S. Open title next week, was in a group at 69.

Sieckmann, who birdied three of the par-3 holes, got up and down from a greenside bunker for birdie-4, and Haas flipped a wedge shot to within five feet and made the putt for what may have been a personal best.

"I don't think I've ever made nine birdies in a round before," Haas said.

Bad race prompts 50-foot suicide leap

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — North Carolina State distance runner Kathy Ormsby, who set the collegiate record in the women's 10,000 meters this year, was hospitalized Thursday with a serious spinal injury after jumping off a bridge, police said.

The incident occurred Wednesday night after she dropped out of the 10,000 final during the NCAA Outdoor Track and Field Championships at the Indiana University Track Stadium.

"What we know is she dropped out of the race at the 6,500-meter point," said Lt. Doug Cox of the Indianapolis Division of the Indiana University Police Department.

"Apparently, she left the track stadium and people believed she had just continued to jog after dropping out," Cox said. "She jog-ed toward the New York street bridge (about two blocks away) and then did jump off the (50-foot) bridge."

"She was discovered by her coach, Rollie Geiger, and she did say to him at that time that she did jump off the bridge."

Asked about a possible motive, Cox said, "The speculation is that she is a perfectionist and she didn't think she had done very well. She felt despondent because of the way she was running."

Cox said, "There is no physical evidence to indicate that anything else happened."

Ormsby is a pre-med major and a member of the Dean's list at North Carolina State.

Ormsby was listed in serious condition in the surgery intensive care unit at Wishard Memorial Hospital, according to hospital spokeswoman Karen Wilczewski.

In the competition on Thursday, Esmeralda Garcia of Florida State set a world best in the women's triple jump and Jolanda Jones of Houston won the women's heptathlon.

Garcia, a senior from Belo Horizonte, Brazil, leaped 44 feet, 10 1/4 inches, during qualifying for Saturday's final, surpassing the previous best of 44-6 1/4, set by Wendy Brown of the University of Southern California in this meet last year.

Garcia was surprised by her performance.

Terri Turner of Texas also exceeded the previous best in the triple jump, soaring 44-9 1/4 in the qualifying.

Jones, a sophomore, amassed a personal best of 5,826 points in winning the two-day heptathlon.

She finished first in three of the seven events, including the high jump and 200-meter dash Wednesday and the final 800-meter race Thursday.

Conny Eckl of Washington State was second with 5,718 points, also a personal best, and Eva Karlblom of Brigham Young finished third with 5,621.

Earlier, Oregon's Ken Flax broke the meet record in the hammer throw three times and virtually equalled the collegiate record.

Flax's best throw of 255 feet, 1 inch, came on the last of his three attempts and matched the collegiate record set this year by Washington State's Tore Gustafsson of Sweden.

Washington State's Gabriel

Tiaoh of the Ivory Coast, the Olympic silver medalist, and Arkansas' Roddie Haley, the defending champion, advanced to Saturday's final in the men's 400-meter dash with impressive heat victories.

Tiaoh, owner of the fastest time in the world this year at 44.32 seconds, won a tough heat in 44.74, a stadium record. Haley, in an easier heat, cruised to victory in 45.51.

Saturday's meeting will be the third between the two long sprinters, with Haley having won the first two encounters.

Southern California's Wendy Brown failed in her bid to become the first athlete in the 65-year history of the NCAA meet to score in all three jumping events, when she was unable to clear 5-10 in the high jump qualifying.

Brown, a sophomore, had qualified for the final in the long jump Wednesday and advanced to the triple jump final Thursday.

UCLA sophomore Gail Devers ran a sizzling 13.08 in winning her heat in the women's 100-meter hurdles. Among those joining her in the final were Tennessee's LaVonna Martin, Auburn's Rosalind Council and Louisiana State's Schowonda Williams.

Sanskis Daniels of Texas-Arlington led the qualifiers into Saturday's final of the men's 110-meter high hurdles, clocking 13.54. NCAA indoor high hurdles champion Thomas Wilcher of Michigan also was a heat winner, in 13.64.

Expos lose to red hot Phillies

By The Associated Press
The Philadelphia Phillies, who have been lagging behind in the National League East this season, are starting to hit their stride, says catcher Darren Daulton.

Daulton hit a three-run homer, capping a five-run first inning Thursday night that led the Phillies over the Montreal Expos, 7-3.

The Phillies won for the ninth time in their last 10 games and sent Montreal to its fifth straight loss.

"We've had a tendency lately to score a lot of runs and get them quickly," Daulton said. "When you get into that kind of pattern, you start feeling you can do it every night."

Glenn Wilson added a two-run homer to Philadelphia's 10-hit attack. The victory improved the Phillies' record to 24-25, still 10 1/2 games behind first-place New York.

Hudson, 4-3, gave up six hits in six innings.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Cardinals 4, Cubs 3
Andy Van Slyke hit a two-run triple and Ozzie Smith hit a two-run double, leading Bob Forsch and St. Louis past Chicago.

Forsch, 5-3, tied Hall of Famer Dizzy Dean for fifth place on St. Louis' all-time victory list with his 134th victory. Forsch raised his career record against Chicago to 18-8.

Forsch took a five-hit shutout and 4-0 lead into the eighth before the Cubs broke their scoreless streak at 22 2-3 innings with three runs. Todd Worrell pitched the final 1 1-3 innings for his ninth save.

Mets 7, Pirates 0
Bob Ojeda pitched a five-hitter and George Foster continued his hot hitting with a two-run homer as New York beat Pittsburgh.

Ojeda, 7-2, struck out three and walked three in pitching his first NL shutout. It was Ojeda's second complete game of the season.

Foster's second-inning homer was his 10th of the season and sixth in his last 10 games.

The Mets, winning for the ninth time in their last 12 games, scored five times in the fourth with the help of right fielder Mike Brown's two-run error.

Braves 4, Padres 2
Zane Smith started Atlanta's first triple play in eight years and pitched the Braves over San Diego.

The triple play came in the third inning and ended in a contested call at home plate. The play ignited a series of San Diego arguments and resulted in Steve Garvey's first ejection from a game in his 16-year major-league career.

With Leon Roberts on third and Tony Gwynn on first, Kevin McReynolds hit a grounder back to Smith, who threw to second baseman Glenn Hubbard for a forceout. Hubbard relayed back to first baseman Bob Horner to retire McReynolds while Roberts broke for the plate.

Horner threw to catcher Ozzie Virgil, and Roberts slid under the tag but missed home plate and was tagged out. Garvey, the on-deck batter, was ejected during an ensuing argument.

Smith, 5-5, gave up six hits, including Carmelo Martinez's homer leading off the ninth. The home run was the first allowed by Smith in 98 2-3 innings this year and brought on reliever Gene Garber, who got the final three outs for his fourth save.

Dodgers 1, Astros 0

Rick Honeycutt pitched two-hit ball for eight innings and Ken Landreaux hit a sixth-inning sacrifice fly as Los Angeles blanked Houston.

Honeycutt, 3-3, teamed on a two-hitter with Ken Howell, who got his third save.

Landreaux hit his sacrifice fly after a triple by Steve Sax. The Dodgers managed only three hits, all of them off Manny Hernandez, who pitched 5 2-3 innings in his major-league debut.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Brewers 7, Red Sox 5

Rookie Dale Sveum hit a three-run double during a four-run third inning, extending his hitting streak to 14 games, and rookie Bill Wegman scattered six hits over 7 1-3 innings as Milwaukee stopped Boston's five-game winning streak.

After Boston had pulled within 5-3, Rob Deer of the Brewers hit a two-run homer, his 10th, in the eighth.

Wegman, 1-5, got his first 1986 victory in his 12th start. Clear got his fourth save.

Royals 8, Twins 2
Rookie Scott Bankhead pitched 5 1-3 innings of scoreless relief and George Brett homered and drove in four runs, pacing Kansas City over Milwaukee.

With their sixth victory in seven games, the Royals moved to 27-25, two games over .500, for the first time since April 20.

Bankhead, called up from Class AAA Omaha two weeks ago, raised his record to 2-0. He gave up five hits and struck out four, entering the game in the second inning after starter Mark Gubicza threw 13 straight balls and walked in two runs.

Brett had an RBI single, a two-run home run and a run-scoring grounder.

Orioles 7, Mariners 1

Lee Lacy drove in two runs, including an RBI single during a five-run fifth inning that led Baltimore over Seattle.

Storm Davis, tagged with three losses in the Orioles' current 18-6 surge, allowed one run on seven hits over eight innings.

White Sox 9, A's 5

Harold Baines drove in four runs and Greg Walker hit a home run to lead Neil Allen and Chicago over Oakland.

The victory was only the second in the last 12 games for the White Sox and snapped a three-game losing streak.

Ferdinand the favorite for Saturday's Belmont

NEW YORK (AP) — Ferdinand, the winner of the Kentucky Derby, was entered today for the Belmont Stakes along with nine other 3-year-olds.

The post-position order for the $350,000-added race over 1 1/2 miles at Belmont Park is Fobby Forbes, Bordeaux Bob, Parade Marshal, Mogambo, Personal Flag, Johns Treasure, Ferdinand, Danzig Connection, Imperious Spirit and Rampage.

Ferdinand was made the early 5-5 favorite, with Mogambo next at #1.

Among those missing from the 118th Belmont, which was to be televised live by ABC at about 5:40 p.m. EDT, was Snow Chief, who finished 11th as the favorite in the Kentucky Derby. He rebounded with a fourth-length win over Ferdinand in the Preakness, then won the Jersey Derby.

Bill Shoemaker, Ferdinand's rider, will be seeking a sixth Belmont victory, while the colt's 73-year-old trainer, Charlie Whittingham, will be seeking his first with only his second starter. He finished ninth with Porterhouse in 1954.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 7, 1986

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's new moon can bring some abrupt and progressive changes that at first glance may seem to be adverse in their nature and design, but soon open a new opportunity.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) During the daytime, you have secret anxieties that could keep you from handling your work well. Resist dwelling on them.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A friend and a new contact might not be agreeable and spoil plans you had made, but stall for time until the evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try not to get into any altercation between a partner and a bigwig. Go quietly about your business and accomplish much.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) A co-worker could quarrel with one you do not know, but don't take any sides. Romance is favored this evening.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You want to have a good time, but just recalled a promise you made. Fulfill that first and then have fun tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Do not argue with anyone at home or in the business world. The evening brings fine accord with an associate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Forget that impulse to do something radical in the outside world that could affect your regular activities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Making any changes where your present activities are concerned will not ensure to your benefit now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) It is best to wait until the evening for amusement, since the day is best spent perfecting your talents.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Important you keep poised and smile more at home so that you do not invite trouble there. Avoid arguments.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Not a good day for travel, so get busy at reports and statements that are important to handle.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Business and finances take up a good part of your time today, but tonight you get a feeling of satisfaction.

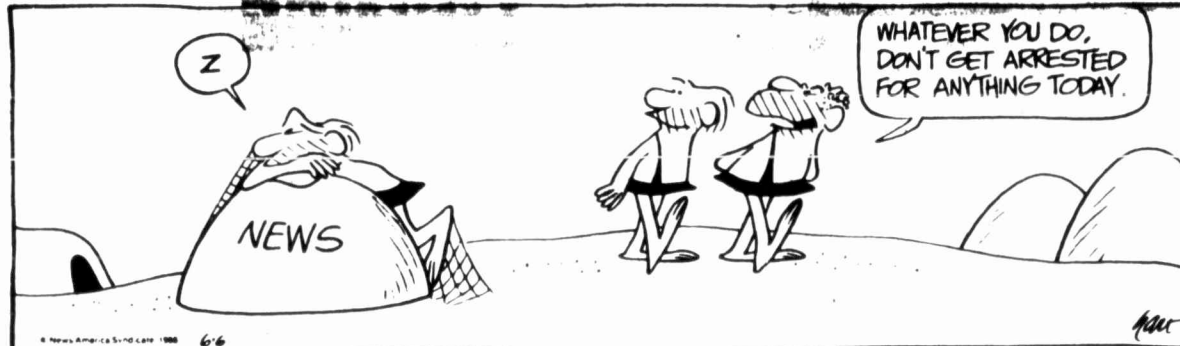

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she can be able to dig up the right answer to any practical problem, so be sure to slant the education along such lines as big business, investigative professions and the like and much success is possible during the lifetime.

Preacher's rules by the Book

By CARLEEN EVERETT
Lifestyle Editor

When one thinks of a minister or a priest, the vision of a man dressed in a suit and tie or a robe usually crosses the mind. But, Doyle Rice, pastor of Jesus Is Lord Ministries, appears to be just an average guy who dresses in blue jeans and tennis shoes.

"Our church is very casual. Some days I might come to church with a suit and tie, but if I feel like wearing blue jeans I will."

The composition of the congregation is different than that of many churches. It's a denominational-free church and prides itself as being a church without rituals and man-made rule, Rice says.

Rice likes to refer to the church as being denominational free, as opposed to being non-denominational. "Even non-denominational is a denomination," he said.

"Our standard is the word of God and we continue to come to the word. If the doctrine is against the word, we go to the word," he says.

"We let the word interpret the word. We know the Lord is leading us, showing us more light and will show us the truth."

Rice has been the pastor of Jesus Is Lord Ministries, formerly known as Oak Tree Restoration Church, since July 1985. "I had come back to Big Spring in June and five weeks later I was asked, by the congregation, to become the pastor."

The name change came after Rice gave a sermon titled "Jesus Christ must be the Lord of your life."

"We just renamed it according to what we were preaching," he added.

Rice wasn't always a religious man.

"I rebelled against the church for 18 years." Shortly after graduating from Big Spring High School, he was saved and born again, he said.

Then the Lord called him to preach, he said. His calling was very vivid. "It was almost an audible voice," Rice says.

He began to preach at East 4th Street Baptist Church when the pastor at that time asked him to go on staff, he said.

Rice, unlike the majority of preachers today, began his call to preaching without going to seminary. "I never had the time or the desire to go to seminary."

In 1982, he left Big Spring and pastored at Fort Hancock Baptist Church and at the only Baptist Church in Carlsbad. He has also preached in Canada, Korea and has done prison ministry, he said.

To Rice, a church isn't just a building structure. "It's a living organism that the life of God flows through. The organism is holy and sanctified by the word of God," Rice says.

Rice's congregation consists of about 30-40 people, he says. "I'm not in it for the numbers. My main emphasis is teaching bible studies and reaching out,"

Doyle Rice, pastor of Jesus Is Lord Ministries, believes that the only way to live is by the book. "Our standard is the word of God and we continue to come to the word. If the doctrine is against the word, we go to the word," he says.

he says. He has begun bible studies in Coahoma, Pecos, Levelland and San Angelo.

Rice's wife, Peggy, is active in the congregation and teaches Sunday Bible school classes.

"We believe in teaching and then doing it," he says. "We concentrate on evangelism, casting out demons and healing the sick."

"Healing is the result of the word of God. Man doesn't have the power to heal. We just walk in faith and we're seeing the result of the word of God. It's phenomenal," he says.

Rice's congregation is working on a book that will be called The Heart of Church. The book will discuss, in depth, the Book of Revelations, chapters 17 and 18, Rice says. "We intend to have it out in a few months, free to the public."

A seminar, led by Milton Green, is in the planning stages and is scheduled for October.

"We've gone through growing pains and now we're a solid body. The Lord has helped us," he said.

Religion club fights for right to meet

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — For the last month, students seeking prayer and religious reflection have gathered in the high school cafeteria with hardly any notice from outsiders.

The five-year legal fight over whether the Christian Petros Club should be allowed to meet at school always seemed more of an issue in the community than in the school, said Wayne Newton, principal of the Williamsport Area Senior High School.

A bigger controversy among students was whether they could wear shorts to school.

So it's not surprising that, aside from news coverage of the club's first meeting, on May 8, and a full-page advertisement in the local newspaper last week by community supporters of the group, things have been going along without controversy, Newton said.

Attorneys on both sides thought Petros — Greek for rock — would be the test case for the constitutionality of the 1984 Equal Access Act.

But the U.S. Supreme Court in March refused to answer the question of whether public schools may allow students to meet during the day for prayer and religious worship, citing a procedural flaw in the case. The decision let stand a lower court ruling that allowed them to meet because of freedom of speech.

The Equal Access Act makes it illegal for schools to deny public money to deny access to a student group based on what it proposes to discuss if the school allows other non-curricular clubs to meet on campus. The Petros Club meets during the school's morning activity period Tuesday and Thursday, when other clubs meet.

Attendance for Petros has been averaging about 40 students since the school board allowed the students to meet.

So far, the transition from legal briefs, petitions and court orders to religious sing-alongs has been quiet.

"A lot of the students don't really care if we have it. Mostly the teachers do," said Shelley Whitnack, a junior.

Petros members say they meet for support and fellowship.

"It helps me throughout the day to know people are praying for me if I have a test," Miss Whitnack said. "It's fulfilling to know you have friends who are also Christian and that are there for you."

Those who have been with the battle their entire high school career, such as Michael Bender, whose sister, Lisa, was the original plaintiff in the case, say it was worth the fight. In addition to a high school education, the Petros students have become well-versed in constitutional law, media coverage and perseverance.

"Our country was founded on the right of freedom of religion and freedom of speech," Bender said. "Our nation was founded 'under God.' And I think if that wasn't meant to be it wouldn't have been stated in the first place."

Bender said he saw no conflict of church and state — the issue that has the club's opponents most upset. Students are free to attend the meeting, which is between homeroom and first period, and the school's only connection, other than providing a place, is having a monitor take roll, he said.

Despite allowing the students to meet, the school board has not dropped the issue.

Worried about being forced to admit groups under Equal Access that it would normally turn down, the board has called for a study this summer of the possibility of eliminating all extracurricular clubs, said School Board President Richard Eberhart.

"I don't like the group that's there," Eberhart said, referring to Petros. But eliminating the so-called open forum created by even one non-curriculum group "may be more than we want to go for."

Even if the board were to cut out all extracurricular clubs, Petros would still meet, said Kim Colby, an attorney with the Christian Legal Society, which handled Petros' appeals.

"We have a court order that Petros meet. I don't think it matters what the school board does," she said.

Women ready for convention

Members of the Women of the Church of God will attend the International Church of God Convention in Anderson, Indiana June 16-22 and the Texas Camp Meeting in Eastland July 14-20.

"The Burden of Knowing" was presented by Nelda Reagan to the women at a recent meeting. The program focused on the definition of burden; the responsibility to do what is right and what God wants us to do.

Ranae Loy presented the worship service using scripture and prayer. Next meeting will be July 7 in the church sanctuary.

Home boy to lead seminars

Evangelists Tommy D. and Jo Ann Williams, will present a three-night seminar June 8-10 at Christ Fellowship Church, 11th Place and FM 700. Seminars will be held Sunday at 6 p.m. and Monday and Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Williams, now of Fort Worth, was born and raised in Big Spring and founded the Christ Fellowship Church here. He is the son of J.T. and Julia Williams, 710 Nolan.

Mrs. Williams is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Harrison, 1308 Ridge Road.

Carman concert is Saturday

Carman, a Christian music artist, will perform at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

He will feature songs from his albums that are now in the top 30 of the Christian contemporary charts.

The concert is open to the public. Admission is free, but donations will be accepted.

Salem Baptist holds classes

Salem Baptist Church will hold their Bible school classes during the week of June 9-13. Classes are open to children ages 3 thru 7th grade.

Public Notice
CITY OF COAHOMA TEXAS COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM
 The City of Coahoma is planning to file an application with the Texas Department of Community Affairs (TDCA) for Texas Community Development Program (TCDP) grant. The City's application will be submitted to TDCA on or before June 16, 1986.
 A public hearing will be held at 7:00 o'clock P.M. on June 16, 1986 at Coahoma Community Center, to discuss the details of the application which the City is planning to submit to TDCA. All citizens are encouraged to attend this public hearing and learn about the activities which the City will include in its TCDP proposal.
 The basic intent of the TCDP program is to eliminate slums, blighted housing and deteriorated neighborhoods by providing improved streets; parks and community centers; improved utility systems; better drainage; and other public facilities. TCDP funds may also be used to support economic development activities. For further information on the TCDP program, contact Eleanor Garrett or Karen Bell at 264-4807. Handicapped individuals who might have trouble in attending this public hearing should contact the City Hall to arrange for special assistance. Any other individuals who would have trouble in getting to the site of this public hearing should contact City Hall to arrange for special assistance.
