Energy plan scores win

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has scored a breakthrough that has managed to get his long-stalled energy plan moving in Congress again, Vice President Walter F. Mondale said today.

Carter and congressional leaders made a series of personal appeals to House members and senators Thursday in an attempt to get a natural gas compromise out of a conference committee for final consideration by the Senate and House.

They worked against the start of a 20-day Labor Day recess which complicates potential progress on the energy package, first sent to Congress by Carter 16 months ago.

The president met late Thursday night with two House Democratic energy conferees, Charles Rangel of New York and James Corman of California, in an attempt to obtain their signatures on the compromise gas report.

Appearing on NBC's Today Show, Mondale said, "We had a breakthrough last night on the long overdue gas conference report."

The vice president predicted that the breakthrough would give momentum to the long-stalled energy program.

While Carter appeared to have obtained the necessary House and Senate signatures on the natural gas conference report, the bill must still get through the Senate where a filibuster has been threatened by liberal opponents, who say it is too costly to consumers.

To get the natural gas conference report to the Senate floor, Carter had to obtain the signatures of 13 House members and nine conferees. The last of the three Senate conferees signed on Thursday.

Ten House members were known to have signed by late Thursday, with Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Texas, counted No. 11. By Mondale's account, Carter found the final two House members late Thursday after his intensive day of lobbying.

The compromise, the product of several months of delicate negotiations, would lift price controls by 1985 with gradual increases for residential and industrial users of natural gas in the meantime.

Both chambers had approved versions of the natural gas bill and congressional conferees announced last May that they had reached agreement on a compromise.

Carter rejects weapons bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of a giant, nuclear-powered aircraft carrier are reacting angrily to President Carter's rejection of a $37 billion weapons bill, his first major veto and the strongest signal yet of a new effort to show Congress who is boss.

The bill would have authorized the Defense Department to buy all of its military hardware, including rifles, tanks, missiles, planes, and ships, in the 12 months beginning Oct. 1. It also authorized spending for research and development, and civil defense.

Carter, in a nationally televised news conference Thursday, objected only to the aircraft carrier, saying the $2 billion it would cost could be better spent for military readiness.

"This is not a question of money," Carter said. "It's a question of how that money is going to be spent."

The president vetoed the bill after the news conference. That was the first White House rejection of a major defense measure in modern U.S. history. It was Carter's fifth veto in nearly 19 months in office.

"He's busy doing in the national defense of our country," protested Rep. Charles Bennett, D-Fla., chairman of a Armed Services seapower subcommittee that had put the money for construction of the carrier in the bill over the administration's objections.

Bennett said Carter is not cutting back social service programs, and, "It looks like he thinks he can prevent a war or win a war with a wall of food stamps."

The first test of Carter's veto will be Sept. 7, when the House votes on whether to override the president. "It will be an uphill fight," Bennett said.

Feather duster 'gunman' fails to tickle Texans at hearing

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — For a while, it looked as though an angry Texas Electric Service Co. customer had come from West Texas to handle the company's rate-hike request in frontier fashion.

As the second day of the TESCO rate case wound down at the Public Utility Commission Wednesday, a citizen reported seeing someone with a gun in a nearby hallway.

Building security guards checked the hearing room and nearby offices looking for a subject. Many people left the TESCO hearing wondering what was up.

The hearing resumed Thursday morning with security guards a little embarrassed.

The "gunman" turned out to be a teenaged maintenance worker who had been holding a feather duster by the feathers. Viewing a profile of the maintenance worker down a long hallway, the citizen thought the extended handle of the duster was a gun barrel.

Construction firm owner injured when hit by sign

Jimmy Sherrod, 33, Lamesa Highway, is in stable condition in Odessa Memorial Hospital today after being hammered to the ground by a falling sign Thursday morning.

Sherrod, the owner of Sherrod Construction Company, was at the site of a job at the Westward Ho Motel, 3500 West Highway 80, at 11 a.m. Thursday.

The old sign, constructed of thin metal, was suspended from a winch truck in the process of being replaced. The sign apparently broke in half, and caught Sherrod despite the fact he started to run as it fell. The impact reportedly knocked him into a nearby shrub.

He was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital and, following a doctor's examination, he was transferred to a neurosurgeon at Odessa Memorial.

According to a nurse there, Sherrod is alert and conscious today.

City in no big rush to sign ambulance service contract

Representatives of Emergency Medical Service presented a contract proposal this morning for ambulance service to the city and Howard County.

During the hour-and-a-half meeting with officials, a tentative contract was outlined for city and county officials. The plan will be presented to the Big Spring City Council at its regular meeting, 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Present at the meeting were David Tellez, president of EMS; Wes Martin, EMS attorney; City Manager Harry Nagel; City Attorney Jim Gregg; and County Judge Bill Tune. The meeting was held in Tune's office.

According to Tellez, the city officials said they were all for the contract, but said they couldn't give a final answer without approval from the city council. The county, said Tellez, went along.

Tellez added that he and his attorney would be present at the Tuesday morning meeting.

Nagel, however, denied any such enthusiasm on the part of the city for the contract.

"It was pretty much the same offer they (EMS) made in October, calling for a subsidy of about $4,000 a month," he said. "We just wanted to see if that was their best and final offer, and we have made no commitment for or against."

Nagel said that he is in no position yet to make a recommendation to the council regarding ambulance service, and that "feelers are still out" for other area companies which might make an offer.

$165 added to Bible Fund

The Bible Fund came $165 closer to its goal with several contributions, Thursday and this morning, but is still over $2,300 away from the hoped-for $10,000.

At noon today, a total of $7,662.64 had been donated to the fund.

Two fraternal groups have a total of $50, while the Christian Women's Fellowship of the First Christian Church also came up with that amount. Individual contributors added $45 to the fund.

Checks should be made out to The Bible Fund and sent either to the coordinator of the campaign for the Howard County Ministerial Alliance, the Rev. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of the First Baptist Church; or to the Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring 79720.

Q. Why did Continental Airlines drop four of its six flights out of Midland Air Terminal? We do not need less flights since Big Spring has none and I do not care for another airlines operating there.

A. Continental still has several flights out of Midland, including three daily to Austin, some to Lubbock and some to El Paso. It now has only one daily flight to Dallas, which may be the one you are asking about CAL only flies to Dallas at 8:30 a.m. and there is no flight back until the next morning on Continental. There are nightly flights out of Dallas to Midland, including one at 4:30 p.m. and one at 7:45 p.m. on Texas International and one at 6:30 p.m. and one at 9:30 p.m. on Southwest. Their reasons for cutbacks are purely economical. Unless they average a certain percentage of passengers on the flights daily, they are soon cancelled. Apparently, some of the other customers did care for the other airlines, and either prices or their schedule and were using them instead of Continental.

Calendar: Registration

TODAY

Big Spring Independent School District registration begins for all students, new and returning to head start through grade eight at their schools of assignment, 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Texas Volleyball Officials Association hold annual meeting at Big Spring High School cafeteria. Registration is at 9 a.m.

SUNDAY

The First Moss Creek Carp Tournament will be held at Moss Creek Sunday from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Offbeat: No revolt in Westbrook

WESTBROOK — There is no dissension in Westbrook. At least not among the voting school patrons.

In a special election held to determine whether Westbrook would convert from a rural high school district to an independent school district, the vote was 59-0 with 59 persons voting.

Supt. L. M. Dawson presented the election results for canvassing at Monday's monthly meeting of the Mitchell County Commissioners.

Reason for the conversion is that according to state law, as of Jan. 1, 1979, the office of county superintendent will no longer be funded by the state. In Mitchell County, the office will be abolished.

Bookkeeping duties and tax offices will be moved to Westbrook at a building now under construction.

Westbrook had been a rural district since 1940 but the change will not change the daily operation of the schools.

In exploratory well near New Jersey

Texaco finds oil off Atlantic coast

NEW YORK (AP) — Texaco Inc. said today it had found a small amount of oil in its exploratory well in the Atlantic Ocean 100 miles off New Jersey.

The company also said it had located an additional source of natural gas in the well, which produced the the first natural gas strike off the East Coast Sunday.

The company said the oil found in the well was not of a very high quality, but a spokesman said, "It's an indication there may be something else."

"It's a bonus actually," he said. "We weren't expecting it."

The discovery was made just before midnight Thursday at a depth of 13,000 feet in the 15,000-foot deep well. The natural gas flowed at a rate of 9.4 million cubic feet per day. The earlier find is flowing at 7.5 million cubic feet per day.

Texaco said the two natural gas finds "confirm the presence of significant gas reserves at this location." But it added that further tests would have to be conducted to determine whether the area is worth putting into commercial production.

A little bit of oil surfaces in many natural gas finds, and Texaco's oil discovery may or may not be commercially significant.

Texaco officials said Monday that to justify building a production platform and pipeline to shore, the area would have to produce 200 million cubic feet of gas a day and have a reserve of at least a trillion cubic feet of gas. The U.S. uses 20 trillion cubic feet of natural gas a year.

Texaco's initial find Sunday was the first in the area. Two previous exploratory wells drilled by Shell and Continental Oil, about 25 miles west of Texaco's well, found nothing. A fourth well, drilled by Exxon closer to the Texaco project, has so far turned up nothing, and the company received permission Thursday to drill deeper.

Mobil, Gulf and Houston Oil & Mineral also have exploratory wells in the Baltimore Canyon area.

Texaco's well, located in 430 feet of water, was started April 16. The company is drilling from the "Ocean Victory," a floating rig, supported by four huge pontoons. The rig carries a crew of 65.

Texaco and five partners paid the federal government $16.83 million for the right to drill in the 5,693-acre block following an action of drilling rights in August 1976.

Texaco holds the biggest stake in the site, known as Block 598, with a 31.5 percent share. The other companies participating are Getty, Sun Oil of Delaware, Allied Chemical Corp., Transco Exploration Co. and Freeport Oil Co.

The Baltimore Canyon is among the first in a new generation of gas and oil reserves that government and petroleum industry officials hope will help alleviate the nation's reliance on foreign fuels.

The U.S. Geological Survey estimates that the Baltimore Canyon area contains 13.5 trillion cubic feet of natural gas, a fraction of 181 million cubic estimated to lie in offshoe areas surrounding the U.S. There may also be 49 billion barrels of oil in offshore locations, but experts say gas is a more likely find than oil.

Armed Croatians release hostages

CHICAGO (AP) — Two armed Croatian nationalists who threatened to blow up the West German consulate released six hostages unharmed after heeding long-distance telephone pleas from the imprisoned man they had sought to free.

Authorities credited the brother of the prisoner for the terrorists' peaceful surrender and the hostages' safe release after a 10-hour drama.

Police said Ivan Bilandzic was summoned to the scene and there spoke by telephone with his brother, Stjepan Bilandzic, 39, a Croatian national imprisoned in Cologne, West Germany.

Bilandzic is the 39-year-old founder and chief of the Croatian People's Resistance. A Cologne court ruled last week that his extradition is permissible because of evidence that he was involved in a 1976 assassination attempt on a Yugoslav diplomat, smuggling stolen weapons to Yugoslavia and other terrorist activities. His supporters say he will be killed if he is extradited.

Ivan relayed Stjepan's pleas to release the hostages and surrender peacefully.

Police also praised the work of Deputy Superintendent Victor Vrdolyak, who, speaking in Serbo-Croatian, helped persuade the gunmen to surrender.

"I told them I understood how they felt, and I could understand their feelings. ... And I told them this was not the right way to go about it," said Vrdolyak.

"All hostages are safe and unharmed," Chicago police spokesman David Mozee said Thursday shortly after 7:58 p.m. CDT.

The hostages and some family members who had rushed to the scene were whisked away by police without making any statememts.

What had appeared to be an explosive device and high explosives carried in attache cases by the gunmen proved to be harmless, police bomb squad experts said after investigation.

FBI spokesman George Mandich said the terrorists, identified as Bozo Kalava, 35, and Mile Kodzoman, 32, will be charged with violation of the federal Protection of Foreign Officials statute, which carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Soviets drop charges against two reporters

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet judge dropped the civil slander suit against two American reporters today, saying the widespread publicity given the case made the retraction their papers refused to print unnecessary.

However, Judge Lev Almazov said he would inform the Foreign Ministry that Craig R. Whitney of The New York Times and Harold D. Piper of The Baltimore Sun had not attended any of the legal proceedings and that he considered their behavior disrespectful to the court.

During earlier court sessions, a prosecutor asked that the Foreign Ministry remove the correspondents' press accreditation, in effect expelling them from the country.

Whitney and Piper were found guilty July 18 of slandering Soviet television because they reported relatives of Georgian dissident Zviad Gamsakhurdia said his videotaped confession appeared to have been fabricated.

Gamsakhurdia was brought to Moscow for the hearing and testified his confession was authentic. The judge ordered Whitney and Piper to retract their stories and pay court costs totalling $3,424.

After they and their papers refused to publish retractions, the two men were fined $73 each on Aug. 3 and were warned they faced further fines or "different measures" if their newspapers did not publish the retractions. The fines and the costs were paid, but the papers still refused to print the retractions.

Almazov said he was discontinuing the case because the plaintiff, the Soviet Committee on Radio and Television, wrote him it was no longer demanding the retraction. The letter said:

"As you are aware the case has been widely publicized by the Soviet and American press, including The New York Times and Baltimore Sun. The world public has had an opportunity to see for itself that the articles of Piper and Whitney were libelous and that Gamsakhurdia's confession was genuine and voluntary."

Piper told other Western reporters he doubted similar action would be taken against other correspondents "too often."

"If every time a correspondent writes something that the authorities do not like he is brought into court, it would end up making the Soviet Union look ridiculous," he said.

Whitney said it was important "that a Soviet court has failed to dictate to American newspapers what they may print in the U.S."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal says the Carter administration will consider limiting itemized income tax deductions in an effort to simplify the nation's tax system.

Such a change, if approved by Congress, could result in higher taxes for many couples and individuals who itemize deductions. It also might entice millions away from itemizing.

That is precisely what Sen. Russell B. Long, who asked Blumenthal to consider the idea, is trying to do. Massive switches away from itemizing would result in fewer taxpayer errors and less work for the Internal Revenue Service.

Blumenthal agreed Thursday to have his staff consider changes in itemized deductions as he testified for Carter's tax proposals before the Senate Finance Committee, headed by Long, a Louisiana Democrat.

Blumenthal appeared ready to compromise with the Senate on various provisions in the tax bill.

That stance contrasted sharply with the administration's position in earlier dealings with the House. After Carter's advisers appeared unwilling to compromise on key points, almost all the president's proposals were junked in the House.

Despite Blumenthal's conciliatory attitude with the Finance Committee, Carter told a news conference later in the day he will not hesitate to veto the bill if it is unacceptable to him.

Blumenthal found two major faults with the $16.3 billion bill passed by the House:

—The $10.4 billion package of individual tax cuts is tilted too much toward high-income taxpayers, he said. He asked the Senate to rewrite the bill to make it more like the president proposed last January.

—While the Carter administration is now willing to accept some reduction in the tax on capital gains, the House provisions are inequitable because they would virtually destroy the "minimum tax," Blumenthal said. That tax is aimed at ensuring that wealthy investors pay some federal tax no matter how many deductions they claim.

Carter-approved change could mean higher taxes

Police voted against

OTIS, Mass. (AP) — Already without a local police force for more than six weeks, Otis residents have voted to keep it that way or the rest of the year and depend on state police as needed.

Police Chief Wendell Ring and his five-man force were left without jobs July 1 when money ran out. At two town meetings held before the money ran out, residents refused to vote more money and reaffirmed that Wednesday night at a town meeting attended by 210 voters.

Recall margin slips

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayor Dennis J. Kucinich's slim margin of victory over a recall drive has slipped to 303 votes after the first day of a recount, an election official reported.

Virgil Brown, director of the Cuyahoga County Board of Elections, said recall forces compiled a net gain of 88 votes Thursday in a recount of the first 249 of Cleveland's 645 voting precincts. The recount is expected to be completed Saturday.

Girl dies of plague

DENVER (AP) — A preliminary diagnosis by a Colorado Springs hospital indicates a 15-year-old girl died of plague, the state Department of Health said. The state Center for Disease Control at Fort Collins is expected to report on the preliminary diagnosis early next week.

If confirmed, it would be Colorado's 10th recorded human plague case, four of them fatal. The girl became ill last Friday with fever and swollen lymph nodes. She died Tuesday.

NOW loses one round

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The National Organization for Women has lost a preliminary round in its battle with the Missouri attorney general over whether NOW's boycott of states that have not ratified the Equal Rights Amendment violates anti-trust laws.

U.S. District Judge Elmo B. Hunter threw out a NOW countersuit claiming harassment, saying it was filed too late. The state of Nevada and a Louisiana tourism group have joined Missouri in seeking $60 million in damages because of the boycott.

Petition presented to commissioners

COLORADO CITY — Moses B. Wood served as spokesman to present a 77-name petition to Mitchell County Commissioners requesting pavement on the northwest side of Lake Colorado City on a two-mile strip.

The county commissioners turned the request down, stating that they did not have the $50,000 necessary to pave the strip.

After the discussion, Wood picked up the petition and stated, "I'll notify these people before the next general election" and walked out.

In other action, the commissioners heard Don Stewart, director of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service ask the judge to send a request to the governor's office declaring Mitchell County a drought disaster area.

The judge agreed to send the request. A group of Colorado City volunteer firemen appeared to request $5,477.50 from the county to pay for supplies for the rescue truck. They passed action until the regular budget hearing.

The budget hearing date was set for 10 a.m. Aug. 25.

Bomb explodes in airplane

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A bomb went off in the toilet of a Philippine airliner at 24,000 feet today, apparently blowing the bomber out through a hole in the fuselage and wounding three other passengers, official sources reported.

The airline said the plane landed at Manila International Airport 15 minutes after the explosion.

The sources said a political motive for the bombing had been ruled out, and investigators were looking into the possibility that the bomber had been trying to destroy the plane or somebody aboard for insurance money.

Philippine Airlines said the explosion occurred in a rear lavatory 50 minutes after the BAC111 jet took off from Cebu, in the central Philippines, for Manila with 84 persons aboard.

Police beat

Jewelry, beer stolen

Thursday was a relatively quiet day for local police.

Burglars broke into the home of Victor Torres, 1203 Lamar, sometime between 8:15 p.m. Thursday and 12:30 a.m. today. They made off with a jewelry box, three rings, a gold digital watch, a revolving lamp, a .22 caliber rifle and $15 in change.

Total loss was estimated at $450.

Sneak thieves made off with two cases of beer from Sam's Package Store, 2409 Gregg, 8:15 p.m. Thursday. According to reports, two men in their 20s ordered three cases of suds from the store's drive-in window.

The owner had delivered two of the cases and had gone for the third when the men decided two were plenty and drove off. Loss was estimated at $14.80.

F. J. Thurman, 1106 W. 4th, went to sleep midnight Wednesday, and woke up at 2:30 a.m. Thursday to find that someone had lifted his black-and-white television set. The tube was valued at $160.

Three mishaps were reported Thursday.

A parked vehicle belonging to Epifonio Gonzales, Route 2, was struck by a vehicle that left the scene at 506 N.W. 4th, 10:50 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Janee D. Taylor, Wellington, and Kyle W. Choate, 2707 Crestline, collided on the 1400 block of Runnels, 1:38 p.m.

A parked van belonging to the Diaz Janitorial Service was struck by a vehicle driven by Harriet Richardson, 3236 Drexel, at 3241 Drexel, 12:45 p.m.

Wildcat scheduled in Glasscock County

A wildcat was scheduled in Glasscock County this week. Tomlinson Oil Co., Inc. of Midland will drill the No. 1 W.P. Cooper.

It is an 8,300-foot Wolfcamp wildcat 1⅜ miles northeast of the Blalock Lake (Wolfcamp) field, separated by a depleted producer in the Spraberry Trend Area and a 7,832-foot failure 18 miles northwest of Garden City.

Location is 1,980 feet from the south and west lines of 36-35-3-T&P.

The Blalock Lake field produces at 8,215 feet.

The Spraberry producer, a 4⅛ mile northeast extension. Houston Domestic Oil Co. No. 1-36 Cooper, was finaled Dec. 4, 1975 to pump 47 barrels of 40 gravity oil, plus two barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 1,602-1, through perforations at 7,608-802 feet. A re-entry operation, it originally was drilled by Callery & Hurt and Ted Weiner as the No. 1 Cooper, to 7,852 feet and abandoned Feb. 16, 1951.

It was re-entered by Pan American Petroleum Corp., deepened to 8,750-feet and abandoned in Aug. 1966 after testing the Wolfcamp through perforations at 8,235-802 feet; and Spraberry through perforations at 7,608-802 feet and 6,947-7,174 feet.

Eight junior BSSH volunteers honored

Eight members of the Junior Volunteer Program serving Big Spring State Hospital this summer were honored at a sandwich luncheon today in the Volunteer Services Office at BSSH. These eight young people, who chose to share a portion of their free time between school terms helping others, have contributed in excess of 500 hours. Their assignments have included jobs such as helping on the units taking care of patients, running errands, answering phones, assisting patients in the Fashion Shop and helping with music therapy and volunteer activities.

Parents of the volunteers were also invited to attend to see each one presented a certificate of appreciation by Jake Glickman, Acting Coordinator of Volunteer Services. This has been a productive summer for these Big Spring teenagers who proved that they really care for others. Those honored included Debbie Madewell, Wiley Madewell, James Martin, Kim Hill, Cay Luedecke, Anne Thomas, Kathy Harrell and Lisa Griffice.

"This year's program has been one of the best for the hospital and for the volunteers even though our numbers were few. We look forward to having many of these same young people back next summer and are especially pleased that some will be working right on through the school year," states Assistant Coordinator Randall H. Huey, who headed the Junior Volunteer Program this year.

Benefit dance for Lisa axed

A benefit dance for Lisa Gamboa, scheduled to get under way at 9 p.m. tonight in the Howard County Fairbarn, has been canceled.

Proceeds from a dance to be held in the near future will be used to help pay medical expenses of the 13-year-old who is combating cancer. Lisa, is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Gamboa Sr.

West Texas Press meet under way in Kerrville

KERRVILLE — The West Texas Press Association, known as the largest regional press association in the world, will hold its annual convention at the Inn of the Hills in Kerrville beginning today.

Convention president Bill Comedy, publisher of the Haskell Free Press, will preside at the sessions, which will be primarily composed of panel discussions led by association members on various facets of the newspaper business.

Convention registration started at 11 a.m. today and the opening session got under way at 2 p.m. in the Medallion Room with Kerrville Mayor Manley Cooper welcoming the group to Kerrville.

A board of directors meeting is scheduled for 4:15 p.m. in the Presidential Suite and delegates will dine at Crider's tonight.

The Saturday session begins at 8 a.m. with an awards breakfast in the Medallion Room, sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, who will present Better Newspaper Contest awards for the year.

Discussion sections are scheduled to start at 10 a.m. and end in time for lunch in the Medallion Room, at which Gov. Dolph Briscoe will be guest speaker.

A president's reception at 6 p.m. in the La Fuente Room will honor Comedy and incoming president Terry Neill of the Stanton Reporter. A barbecue and barn dance at the Tierra Linda Ranch party barn will conclude the convention Saturday night.

Judy McDaniel gains degree

DENTON — Texas Woman's University held its annual summer commencement Saturday, Aug. 12, awarding bachelor's master's and doctoral degrees to more than 500 graduates.

The list included Judy M. McDaniel, 538 Westover Road, Big Spring, who was awarded the Master of Library Science degree.

Weather

Cold front moves to Texas Panhandle

By the Associated Press

A cold front moved into the Texas Panhandle and South Plains today, dropping temperatures about 10-15 degrees.

Forecasters called for widely scattered showers and thunderstorms were expected to break out around the cold front, mainly in far western portions of the Panhandle.

Elsewhere, forecasts called for continued clear to partly cloudy skies and continued hot temperatures. Highs were to be mostly in the 90s with a few readings reaching and perhaps passing the 100-degree mark.

A deepening low pressure system located north of the Panhandle kept winds brisk over the South Plains and Permian Basin and kept temperatures quite warm statewide.

FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Clear to partly cloudy through Saturday. Widely scattered thunderstorms mainly north and southwest this afternoon and tonight and in the south portion Saturday.

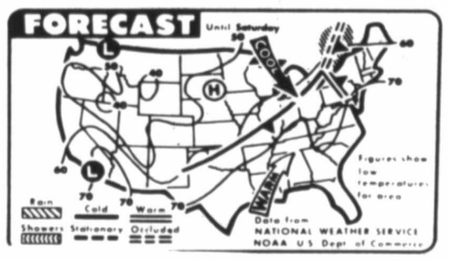

EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy with scattered showers north Sunday. Fair Monday through Tuesday. Low temperatures low to mid 60s northwest and low 70s elsewhere. High temperatures low to mid 90s.

SPEECH PATHOLOGIST KAREN BRADFORD AT REHABILITATION CENTER . . . works with patient before leaving for postgraduate studies

Speech pathologist is one of ten selected

Karen Bradford, speech pathologist at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, has been selected as one of only 10 who will enter postgraduate audiology classes at Callier Center for Communication Disorders at Dallas this fall.

A branch of the University of Texas at Dallas Medical School, the Center selects 10 individuals on the basis of undergraduate grade point average, scores on the Graduate Record Exam, and personal recommendations from professors and career-related job supervisors.

Miss Bradford, a 1974 graduate of Abilene High School and a 1978 graduate of Abilene Christian University, applied to Callier upon receiving her Bachelor of Science in speech pathology and audiology. She began work for the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center in late May. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bradford of Abilene, and her father is a professor at Abilene Christian University.

"I wanted to continue my studies, preferably in Texas, and Calliers was highly recommended, so I applied. I feel honored to have been accepted," said bradford.

"I will spend two years there working on my master's, and from there, I don't know. I would like to keep working in West Texas, but other than that, I don't know."

The young woman added that she became interested in speech pathology and audiology because of her own experiences.

"I was a tongue thruster, and spent a good deal of time in speech therapy. I was almost 18 years old and didn't know what I wanted to do until I was impressed by the speech pathologist who worked with me," she stated. "I feel I picked a good career and one that is fulfilling personally."

"I am very proud of Karen," said Dora Roberts Center director Larry Bristo. "It speaks to the quality of all of our staff which I feel are all 'top ten' caliber. I hate to lose Karen, but I am happy for her."

Bristo will be taking over Bradford's duties until the center can hire a new speech pathologist.

CHRISTIANS, BE READY
(It's Dinner Time)

16 But He said to him, "A certain man was giving a big dinner, and he invited many;

17 and at the dinner hour he sent his slave to say to those who had been invited. 'Come; for everything is ready now.'

18 "But they all alike began to make excuses. The first one said to him, 'I have bought a piece of land and I need to go out and look at it; please consider me excused.'

19 "And another one said, 'I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I am going to try them out; please consider me excused.'

20 "And another one said, 'I have married a wife, and for that reason I cannot come.'

21 "And the slave came back and reported this to his master. Then the head of the household became angry and said to his slave, 'Go out at once into the streets and lanes of the city and bring in here the poor and crippled and blind and lame.'

22 "And the slave said, 'Master, what you commanded has been done, and still there is room.'

23 "And the master said to the slave, 'Go out into the highways and along the hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled.

24 'For I tell you, none of those men who were invited shall taste of my dinner.'"

FBI offers safeguards for children

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has a continuing program in Crime Resistance, offering valuable tips on how to halt or reduce the effects of outrages committed against the individual.

The program is designed to make the public aware of some of the every day pitfalls which develop in our patterns of living which make us vulnerable to the acts of the unscrupulous.

In order to alert the public to techniques useful in preventing crime, 16 Crime Resistance alerts have been prepared by the FBI.

The first such report serves to offer suggestions that would insulate children from becoming victims of criminals. They are:

The old rule about never taking candy from a stranger — is still a good rule — tell them not to take candy, a ride or even a walk with a stranger — tell them why.

Tell them never admit to being home alone — on the phone or to someone at the door.

Give the school instructions only to release your children to the people you have designated in writing — in case of emergency.

Locate and point out 'block parents' or similar homes in the neighborhood or along the route to school to your children and explain the meaning of such refuges.

Select one or two neighbors who will provide sanctuary to children should any threat or emergency arise while you are away from home. Provide that neighborhood with phone numbers where you can usually be reached. Offer to do the same with those neighbors.

Instruct children to look out for each other and to tell you when something unusual or suspicious occurs.

Report suspicious individuals or vehicles lurking in areas where children play to the police. Obtain license numbers and descriptions whenever possible.

Be prepared to assist a child who appears lost or in trouble. Do not hesitate to notify the police if you think a child needs assistance.

William H. Webster, FBI director, reminds that wanting to protect our children is part of loving them. Crime resistance, he says, is part of protecting them.

Carter's tax follies

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — President Carter's tortuous tax course has been guided by a mixture of innocence and ideology, a fact confirmed the morning of Aug. 11 when a high-ranking Treasury official told a colleague that the bill passed by the House the previous night was really not so bad.

That not-so-bad bill had been quixotically opposed by the president in another demonstration of impotence. Innocently, Mr. Carter and principal aides have consistently misjudged the tax temper of Capitol Hill. Ideologically, he has insisted on using the Internal Revenue code as a device for the redistribution of wealth.

The White House decision to fight an unwinnable battle with precious little at stake was the capstone of the Jimmy Carter tax follies. At any time up to a few weeks ago, he could have compromised to get a better bill from his standpoint than the one he unsuccessfully pursued on the House floor Aug. 10.

The resulting damage so far has been localized: further decline of presidential influence on Capitol Hill and unintended revival of the conservative coalition in the House. If Mr. Carter persists in the same course all the way to a veto, still threatened by the White House, the political consequences would be fundamental and severe.

CAUGHT IN THE middle has been Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, operating under stresses felt by few predecessors in his famous office. While he has shared the president's innocence about what can be passed in Congress, he has waged a losing battle against ideological rigidity in the White House.

Blumenthal was tardy, but well ahead of the still uncomprehending White House, in appreciating the congressional groundswell for capital gains tax relief. His recommendation that the White House come to terms with the capital gains proposal sponsored by Republican Rep. William Steiger of Wisconsin only confirmed the wrong-headed contempt of senior Carter aides that Blumenthal lacks true grit in charging the barricades.

An obvious compromise was at hand. In return for his amendment, Steiger was willing to deliver Republican support for a few Carter tax reforms which otherwise were stillborn. Blumenthal, interested in lowered capital gains rates to induce capital formation, was ready to bargain. "If Mike had been given the power to negotiate," a senior congressman told us, "we would have had a bill weeks ago." But this secretary of the treasury was denied authority to commit his administration.

The reason is the White House mindset: opposition to any tax proposal providing more relief for rich than poor. But that would be true of any conceivable incentive for capital formation. While domestic policy aide Stuart Eizenstat is widely blamed for inspiring this Catch-22, the real instigator is Jimmy Carter.

That became clear June 22 when three senior Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee — chairman Al Ullman of Oregon, Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois and Joe Waggoner of Louisiana — visited Mr. Carter at the White House. In response to their plea for compromise, the president would not budget. That was the point of no-return for Ullman to go his own way.

After Ways and Means brushed aside administration proposals and approved its own tax cut, Waggoner implored Blumenthal to accept it as the best possible bill. Even some liberal Ways and Means members secretly recommended against a floor fight. But the president insisted on more tax relief for the poor and less for the rich.

In innocence shared between the Treasury and the White House, it was thought the administration might carry its substitute Aug. 10. It never had a chance.

Unexplained itch? Suspect scabies

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My skin has been itching in the strangest way. First I will itch on the right hand, then the left. I scratch and a small pinpoint hole appears. The same on my hand and my back. Sometimes aspirin relieves the itch, and sometimes cold applications. The pinpoint holes look like bites. Could this be nerves? I've used scabies remedies and others, but nothing helps. Can you suggest something? — D.N.S.

Certainly could be scabies. It's caused by the itch mite (Sarcoptes scabei). The impregnated female tunnels into the skin and deposits her eggs. The tiny holes you see are likely these burrows. It is not surprising that your remedies haven't worked. They seldom will unless great care is taken.

You may need help in applying the lotion, and you should get a prescription for a good one from a doctor. You should not miss any vulnerable part of the body, from the neck down. Thus you may need help in applying the material.

Take a thorough tub bath before applying it. This procedure is repeated the following day. You shouldn't have more than two consecutive treatments, however. The two are sufficient. Any itching afterwards would indicate a problem other than from the mites.

Nerves play no role in the infection, but certainly can after one has it. Scratching can become so severe that the telltale mite infection appearance of the skin is obliterated by welts. Skin scrapings confirm the presence of mites.

Scabies is an all too common problem that probably accounts for a high percentage of unexplained rashes and itchings.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard of occupational diseases, like "black lung," by miners, etc. Now our doctor says my husband has "farmer's lung" from hay dust. Have you heard of this? — Mrs. P. G.

Yes, I've heard it also called "barn lung." It may result from chronic inhalation of hay dust. But all farmers do not get it. It is an allergic reaction of lung tissue to certain molds found in the hay. When inhaled, a dry cough results. Difficulty in breathing, lack of appetite and weight loss are the usual consequences. Repeated exposure may produce actual lung tissue damage.

Your husband is probably one of those especially sensitive to the molds. He may, indeed, have to avoid the environment that causes the symptoms. In severe attacks, corticosteroid drugs help lessen the inflammation.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My oldest grandson's wife is expecting her first male offspring, and he asked me if I thought this new son should be circumcised when he is about eight days old, and I told him I'd ask you. — S. L.

The timing of circumcision varies according to the desires of the family and their doctor. There is nowadays a tendency to perform circumcision less on a routine basis. It is best done within the first few weeks. Some prefer to perform it immediately after delivery. I'm curious. How has the sex been determined?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me about vagotomy and how effective it is in treating peptic ulcer? — Mrs. R. I.

This is cutting of a portion of the vagus nerve, a major nerve with many branches. It extends from the brain to serve various abdominal structures (including the stomach and duodenum). Stimulation of the stomach, to produce substances in response to smells, tastes, odors, even the sight of food, comes through this nerve. Thus, severing certain branches can reduce the stomach activity and aid in peptic ulcer healing. However, vagotomy is not a simple operation and is reserved for special cases, as an ulcer that does not respond to conservative treatment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I contracted gonorrhea in my tubes, but was treated for it. I want to know if I ever will be able to bear children. — Ms. M.

Can't answer, because it depends on whether your tubes were obstructed by adhesions or scar tissue. The state of the tubes can be ascertained, but that is an extensive procedure.

What are ulcers? How can you help yourself get rid of ulcers and stay rid of them? Read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "How to Heal Peptic Ulcers." For a copy write to him in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

First things first with fems

High on the list of tourist attractions in our nation's capital is that imposing residence at 1600 Pennsylvania, the White House.

The No. 1 favorite of the 16 million visitors who descend upon Washington each year is the capitol building.

There is much in that noble and historic structure to attract the interest and arouse the curiosity.

There's one question asked above all others of guides and officers on duty in the corriders of the great building.

According to the National Geographic Society, that question is:

"Where's the ladies room?"

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Several years ago I neglected to pay a bill of several hundred dollars. My daughter says I ought to pay it now, even though the company has long since written it off as a bad debt. What do you think? — F. L.

DEAR F. L.: I believe you have an obligation to pay the bill, despite the amount of time that has elapsed. Frankly, there is no difference between owing someone a sum of money and neglecting to pay it, and stealing. In both cases you have taken something for your own that rightfully belongs to another. I need not remind you that the Bible tells us, "Thou shalt not steal" (Exodus 20:15). The Old Testament also declared, "If a man shall steal an ox, or a sheep, and kill it, or sell it, he shall restore five oxen for an ox, and four sheep for a sheep" (Exodus 22:1). When Zacchaeus came to Christ, he promised, "If I have taken any thing from any man by false accusation, I restore him fourfold" (Luke 19:8). In all likelihood some of Zacchaeus' dishonest dealings were of many years' standing.

There is another point I would like you to think about. While I believe it is important for you to make restitution in this case (with interest), I believe you also have a deeper obligation. That is your obligation to God. Unlike the creditor, whom you can repay, you — along with all the human race — have a debt before God that you can never erase by your own efforts. God made us, and yet we have sinned against him. Have you ever thought seriously about that?

There is only one way our sin can be erased, and that is by the blood of Jesus Christ. He came into this world to die for our sins. You and I deserve to die for our sins, but Christ died in our place — all because God loves us. "The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin" (I John 1:7).

Yes, take care of the debt you owe. But I urge you also to give your life to Jesus Christ, totally and without reserve. He will erase your sin and give you the incentive to live a new life for Him.

The only thing

Around the rim

Bob Burton

Working here at the Herald has been instructive in many ways (most of them won't earn me any money), but none will remain more firmly entrenched in my mind than the Crystal Ball.

It's coming up again this year, already looming on the horizon like a huge red rubber clown's nose.

Sports editor, bon vivant, and salmagundi Danny Reagan has spent the better part of his recent sleepless nights (he is cursed with a hereditary disease which makes him nauseous at the sight of a drowse, and wretched at the sight of a slumber) setting up complicated schedules for the football picks.

AND WINNING, in the Crystal Ball, is the only thing. Last year, I only managed to avoid the bottom of the heap with ex-Herald reporter Bill Werrell's active assistance. Werrell insisted that one upset was worth a thousand correct picks. (He still finished over .500), and had such lulus as TCU over Texas and Northwestern over Michigan to his credit. This year, we have no such security blanket, unless you want to count the newcomers.

Ah, the newcomers. I would make a comment about letting girls in a man's game, but Marj Carpenter (winner three years ago) walloped me last year and would pounce on that slip like a chicken on a June bug.

At any rate, Carla Walker, Eileen McGuire, Marie Homeyer, Roxy McDaniels, and Dusty Richard have been added to the list of pickers, and we seasoned vets are wondering whether Reagan's running a football column or a girlie page.

The Crystal Ball has more ramifications to those who pick in it than simple right-or-wrong. We have to live with the results each week, and if you think bragging rights are important to SWC alums, you ought to see the dogfights that develop down here.

Throw in the natural rivalry between the Herald staff and KBST's new alternating guest pickers Winston Wrinkle, Ron Douglas Cowling, and Bob Bell, (they bought the 'CB' ad), and you can expect the sparks to fly.

BETWEEN TRYING to stay out from under the trashpile, trying to step on all the sensitive feminists toes I can, and trying to get someone to say a kind word about Beloit, (my alma mater, and no threat to the Cowboys) I figure to have a busy fall.

Last year's winner, Walt Finley, fired his staff of 15, second place winner Troy Bryant has been disqualified since, third place finisher "Photolab" Danny Valdes has lost his lucky accent, and James Werrell won't get a straight answer out of Tommy Hart for the first two months (the former neglected to pay off a recent Coke bet) so I think things are looking up for me.

Let's see now, if the Steers are undefeated through the first half of the season...

Full of clues

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Gerard Denono, a competent hand with a gun or a baseball bat, started out as a street thug. He rose rapidly in the rackets, gaining status as a hit man for the crime combine.

In keeping with his new status, he adopted the name Gerry English and adorned himself like a fashion model. He favored expensive jewelry and sharply tailored suits. He was a ruggedly handsome, mustachioed man, slender and personable, who usually had a beautiful woman on his arm.

His advancement was recorded, in part, on police blotters. He wound up at age 41 with three murder convictions. The last one should keep him in the slammer for the rest of his life.

BUT THE CANNY Denono tried to make a deal. In return for an easier life behind bars, he offered the FBI an underworld ledger. It contained a list of alleged mob transactions, including the amounts of gambling money skimmed from Las Vegas casinos, illicit corporate deals and syndicate loans. Its pages were liberally sprinkled with the names of the nation's most notorious crime chiefs.

Thie ledger certainly was a tantalizing document, if it could be autheniticated. In an earlier column, we related how we learned about the ledger and obtained 13 Xeroxed pages from it. Our associate Marc Smolonsky has spent a year investigating the ledger's contents and Denono's story.

He concluded that Denono lied about stealing the ledger from a Mafia bagman. Unperturbed, the hit man simply changed the theft from Las Vegas to New Orleans. He stole the account book, he said, from Dr. Salvatore Canale, a New Orleans physician and friend of Mafia godfather Carlos Marcello.

The FBI arranged to have Denono call Canale from prison and taped the conversation. Canale confirmed that Denono, indeed, had stolen several articles from the house. But there was no mention of a missing ledger. Through an intermediary, Canale and Marcello passed word to us that they had no knowledge of the account book.

Possibly it's a clever hoax, which the dapper Denono arranged for just such a continegency. But its contents, experts tell us, give accurate names and details; at least the pattern of associations appears genuine.

Our investigation of the mysterious ledger led us through a subterranean labyrinth, with labor racketeering, bigtime gambling, shady business deals and murder at every turn. One trail led to Las Vegas, a mob mecca, which lately has been swarming with investigators.

A federal grand jury is zeroing in on Anthony Spilotro, the reputed godfather of Las Vegas, and Allen Glick, a wealthy casino operator whom investigators claim is fronting for Spilotro. The federal organized crime strike force in Las Vegas recently filed a secret affidavit in court alleging the Spilotro-Glick connection.

Based on the evidence, FBI agents were granted 83 search warrants which they used in a massive raid on the holdings of the two men. The agents rummaged through homes, cars, offices and safe deposit boxes. They also searched the homes of people associated with Glick and Spilotro. Sources familiar with the investigation tell us the evidence may be used to secure indictments against Spilotro.

The Las Vegas police unexpectedly have been drawn into the affair — on the wrong end of the investigation. FBI agents discovered confidential police reports in Spilotro's home. Detective Joe Blasko, an organized crime specialst, allegedly funneled the documents to Spilotro.

Result: Blasko is now under investigation by the FBI. Agents reportedly discovered $18,000 in Blasko's safe deposit box and are checking into the possibility that it could be payoff money. This same Blasko, incidentally, was once accused of murder. He allegedly beat a cab driver to death during an arrest but was acquitted of the charge.

IN A RELATED matter, a former deputy sheriff, Gene Clark, is now under fire for accepting $75,000 in loans from Glick while the deputy was on the Las Vegas police force. Sources close to the Glick investigation told us that evidence taken from the home of Glick's secretary indicates Glick himelf repaid the first $25,000 loan. Clark used the second loan to invest in an Atlantic City casino.

Meanwhile, the Law Enforcement Intelligence Unit, a nationwide source of organized crime reports for police departments, has suspended the Las Vegas police from its membership rolls. The suspension was ordered after a complaint from the Phoenix, Ariz. police.

According to the complaint, the Phoenix cops had wiretap information that bets were being placed across the Nevada-Arizona state line. They contacted the Las Vegas police, whose help was needed to execute search warrants. The Phoenix police discovered through additional wiretaps that the gamblers learned of the search warrants in advance.

The leak, which apparently came from the Las Vegas police, caused a rift between the two departments. The suspected leaker, we have learned, is Blasko.

Footnote: We were unable to reach any of the suspects named in this column.

For abolishment of gains tax

Jarvis campaigns again

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Tax activist Howard Jarvis, fresh from the successful passage of Proposition 13 in California, has proposed the abolishment of capital gains taxes on investments as part of his new plan to slash federal taxes and spending.

Jarvis said Thursday night that over a four-year period, his five-point proposal would cut federal taxes by $50 billion and expenses by $100 billion, eliminating the national budget deficit.

"The Peoples Plan to Limit Taxes will reduce the tax burden for all taxpayers, stimulate economic growth and most importantly, it will virtually wipe out inflation," the 75-year-old Californian told a crowd of about 2,000 at a local convention center.

The tax activist said his new proposal to eliminate the capital gains tax would be seen as "a scheme to help the rich."

However, he said he was concerned about creating jobs. "The capital gains tax hampers investment and productivity and stifles the job-creating ability of our economy."

With the capital gains tax eliminated, the private economy would be stimulated to produce about three million new jobs in four years, Jarvis claimed.

The plan also proposes:

—Cutting the personal income tax by 20 percent over four years;

—Allocating 2 percent of each year's federal budget to reduce the national debt, lowering interest costs the United States pays;

—Indexing all taxes so they would not increase for anyone whose pay raise was not greater than the inflation rate; and —Placing an unspecified absolute limit on the percentage of the gross national product which can be collected in federal taxes.

The national campaign has been dubbed the American Tax Reduction Movement, and Jarvis said its strategy is simple.

"We are going to ask every Congressman and Senator and every candidate for Congress and Senate to take a position 'yes' or 'no' on the people's plan to limit taxes. If they are for the plan, we will support them. If they oppose the plan, we will work to defeat them," he said.

Police, fire unions reach tentative pact

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Police and fire union leaders said today they had accepted a tentative agreement to end a strike that has kept Memphis clamped under a curfew for a week.

The agreement, worked out with the Chamber of Commerce which has been negotiating on behalf of the city, still was subject to approval by city officials and the unions' rank-andfile.

David Baker, president of the Memphis Police Association, and Kuhron Huddleston, leader of Local 1784 of the International Association of Firefighters, said their members would vote on the proposals today.

Tommy Powell, president of the 60,000-member Memphis AFL-CIO Labor Council, and James McGehee, president of the Chamber of Commerce, had given word of the tentative pact earlier.

Terms of the contract were not immediately disclosed.

A federal mediator, Ed McMahon of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, was involved in the negotiations that had continued uninterrupted through the night.

One of the last stumbling blocks that had to be resolved apparently was the length of the contract. Mayor Wyeth Chandler said earlier the city had made three separate offers to the unions, but he said any settlement would involve a twoyear contract. Both union presidents have insisted on one-year pacts, saying they did not want to be locked into a wage package where inflation could erode their members' gains.

The non-stop meetings marked the seventh night of the police walkout. Some 1,100 patrolmen and sergeants struck the night of Aug. 10 after rejecting the city's wage package.

The firefighters joined picket lines Monday morning, resuming a strike that was interupted by a court's back-to work order July 4.

Both unions are under court orders to end the strikes, but neither order has worked. The city has asked Chancery Court to cite the unions and their leaders for contempt.

Chancellor George Lewis Jr., acting on a request Thursday by police union lawyer Russell X Thompson, delayed until today a contempt hearing for Baker and other striking officers. Chancellor Robert Hoffman is to hear the city's complaint against the firemen today.

The unions turned down the same package 11 other city unions had accepted earlier. The proposal called for wage increases of 6 percent, $30 a month and 7.5 percent between now and Oct. 1, 1978.

Chandler later modified the package to call for increases of 6.65 percent, $22.50 and 7.5 percent. Although the offer would have given union members more money immediately, the scheduling of the raises would have left them with no more pay than the original package.

National Guardsmen with automatic rifles again accompanied non-striking police officers in patrol cars cruising the streets today. Guardsmen are also on duty at fire stations.

Treanor buys new facility in Odessa

ABILENE — The number one Caterpillar Engine Dealer in the United States last year will soon have a new facility in Odessa. Treanor Equipment Company has announced the purchase of a 70,000 square foot building on an 11½ acre tract in the Odessa Industrial Park.

"Growth of the oil industry in this area and the increased demand for Caterpillar engines in a number of markets has necessitated a larger facility to meet our increased business," Tom Bowser, Vice-President in charge of parts and service and Odessa store manager for Treanor, said. Extensive modifications to the new facility, located at 2301 Production, are planned. Move-in is expected in early 1979.

The facility will have over 60,000 square feet of office space. Specially designed areas for fabrication, packaging, assembly, and rebuild are planned.

We will have one of the most modern rebuild shops in the country in our new facility," Ron Farquhar, Engine Manager, said. "We will have the capability of rebuilding 300 engines per year in a single-shift operation," Farquhar said.

Hypertension misdiagnosed

NEW YORK (AP) — Greater emphasis on early diagnosis and treatment of high blood pressure may mean that many persons — especially the elderly — are being misdiagnosed, according to Medical World News.

The magazine reports that some patients are consequently being subjected to unnecessary drug treatment.

Dr. J. David Spence, a Canadian physician, has warned that the standard arm or leg cuff measurements of blood pressure may be off by as much as 40 mm of mercury in elderly patients suffering from hardening of the arteries.

Similar errors may be recorded in younger persons with fat or large arms."

Homeland is where the heart is

Love crosses the IronCurtain

(AP WIREPHOTO)

HOMELAND IS WHERE THE HEART IS — Jan Yevtushenko, left, wife of the Soviet Union's best known living poet, and Jennifer Louis, right, wife of the Soviet correspondent of a London newspaper, are among a handful of Western born women who have crossed the Iron Curtain for love. Both are English borne. But, "One's homeland is where one's heart is," declares Mrs. Yevtushenko, who was an English publishing assistant when she married the Soviet poet five months ago.

MOSCOW (AP) — For a handful of Western-born women here, Christina Onassis' marriage to a Russian is nothing new. They, too, have crossed the Iron Curtain for love.

The journey usually meets with disapproval and shock from relatives, friends and public officials. Sometimes, the Soviet government's harassment can force even a devoted couple apart.

But the few who have succeeded at making the transition from West to East deny there are any regrets.

"One's homeland is where one's heart is," declared Jan Butler, 26, an English publishing assistant who married the Soviet Union's best-known living poet, Yevgeny Yevtushenko, five months ago.

"I knew when I married Zhenya (his nickname) that I was going to live here for the rest of my life," she told the Associated Press in her first interview since her marriage. "It was something natural. It seemed quite impossible to imagine life without him."

British-born Jennifer Louis married her Soviet husband Viktor, correspondent for the London Evening News, 18 years ago. She remembers terrible headaches and agonizing over the move to Moscow.

"It's a form of self-hypnosis," she recalled. "You just persuade yourself that what you're doing is the right thing."

She is not alone. About 30 or 40 American women who visited their embassy here last year for help and advice about marrying their Soviet boyfriends. Most were exchange students or mother's helpers under 30, fluent in Russian and fascinated by the country's culture.

But only three or four decided to live in Moscow. The vast majority used the marriages to help bring their husbands to the United States.

There is a reason. Jennifer's and Jan's lives are trouble-free partly because their husbands occupy privileged, almost unique positions in Soviet society. Yevtushenko can make tours abroad and collect royalties from works published in the West. Louis, one of the most traveled Soviet citizens, is permitted to work for a foreign organization — a rarity in a nation suspicious of all things Western.

The other side of the story is told by an American who married a more typical Soviet man. "Unless your husband happens to be a hotshot with access to hard currency," she says, "life is pretty grim. Or unless you're a Christina Onassis with a ready source of cash."

She asked not to be identified because she is awaiting an exit visa so her husband can leave Russia. Russians with foreign spouses usually get such visas with little trouble, but there have been exceptions.

And there are some who never make it to the altar.

One young American woman was engaged to a Soviet who had held an important military job in Siberia before meeting her. Two days before the scheduled wedding, she received a letter that her future husband already was married and had abandoned a family in Siberia. He denied that, but officials held up the wedding pending an investigation.

Another marriage date was set. But then, with no reason given, her visa was not renewed. She returned home and has not seen him since.

Sometimes the Soviet husband-to-be backs out because he will almost certainly lose his job if he weds a foreigner. Other men become unemployed just months after the wedding, making them liable to the severe Soviet charge of "parasitism," or living off the state.

But for Jan, Jennifer and Christina, the road is easier. This is a country where, despite official statements, wealth and fame do count.

Jan, Yevtushenko's second wife, met her 45-year-old husband two days after arriving in Moscow to be a translator with Progress Publishing Co., a Soviet firm, in 1974. In a restaurant, Yevtushenko leaned over and invited her to a poetry reading. Four years later, he divorced his Russian wife and married the English beauty.

Her life is generally quiet but busy. They live in a town. She works for Progress and does much of that work at home. She also does most of the cooking and stands in grocery lines with other housewives.

Though contact with other Westerners here is limited, Jan is first and foremost a British subject. "On no account will I ever break my roots with England," she declared. She has kept her British passport, enabling her to travel abroad with relative ease. But she misses the countryside and sounds of England — and her parents.

For Jennifer Louis, 45, a backyard English garden (complete with crocuses) evokes home. "I miss the birds in the winter, and I miss singing in the choir," she said. "But regrets? Heavens, no!"

She was 26 when she headed for Moscow to marry Louis, whom she met three years earlier in 1957 outside the Bolshoi theater. She had been in Moscow as a mother's helper to a British diplomat's family.

She was scared, but recalls, "I didn't care. I was in love."

Her mother reluctantly gave her blessing. Her father blamed the match on her university education and offered a return ticket home.

Now the couple has three sons, 10 years old to 18, and lives in a five-bedroom house near the Yevtushenkos — with servants, a swimming pool, a tennis court. Jennifer writes for a London Times educational supplement and collaborates with her husband on Moscow guidebooks.

What advice would Jennifer and Jan give Christina about making a new life in Moscow? Learn Russian, keep busy, get to know Moscow.

Said Jan: "She's got to give up making comparisons between the Soviet Union and any other Western country. It's just so culturally different. But I hope she can be happy here, happy in love."

Burglar told to go straight

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

It's guest writer time and I'd like to introduce Millie O'Saka, 16, of San Mateo, Calif. and Leonard Jackson, 17, of Klamath Falls, Ore., who will offer advice to "Fenced" of Tacoma, Wash.

Dr. Wallace: I need help and fast. Several weeks ago I was involved in a burglary. Two buddies and I broke into a house and stole a television set, some expensive silverware and a valuable coin collection.

There were several other items I wanted to take, but one of the guys said no. Yesterday, I found out why.

One of my buddies had been working for a "fence." This guy (the fence) pays him so much, but only wants certain items, and he is not allowed to steal anything else. We were given $75 to split for our effort. I've now had a change of heart.

I've been in trouble before and I don't want to get in deeper.

Don't advise me to fink on anyone or turn myself in because I won't do it. But I do want your help. — Fenced

Fenced: Don't take your share of the "split." Don't ever participate in another "housewarming," and don't hang around with these buddies again.

Do a little soul-searching on what you really want to do with your life. Teen-age mistakes are often forgiven, if the teen wakes up and finds out that life is what you make it. It's up to you!

Hi, Fenced: I'm glad you decided to shape up. Go to your nearest church or place of worship and pray for forgiveness and mean it. For that little extra. I'll say a prayer for you. If you "believe," you will be forgiven. Love, Millie

Hello, Fenced: Refuse your "piece of the action." Next, stop hanging around with these guys. Get involved with teen groups and school or church and find a nice steady girl who will help you stay straight.

If you do — you'll know how to reach a "high" that is unexplainable. Peace, Leonard

State meeting attended by local Elks, Does

Big Spring Drove No. 61, Texas of the Benevolent Patriotic Order of Does, met at 8 p.m., Aug. 15, at the Elks Lodge Hall. Presiding was Shirley Bodin.

Committee reports included visits to Dora Higgins at Parkview Manor Nursing Home, Bertha Clay who is convalescing in her home, and Myrtle Smith and Merit Jordan who are shut in with summer colds.

A birthday card was sent to Cynthia Boadle and a telephone visit enjoyed with Pauline Anderson who was in Big Spring for a day on business.

An account of the Aug. 5 and 6 meeting of Elks and Does from several Texas lodges was given by Karen Mason. Those attending from the West Texas area included 12 Elks and 16 Does from Big Spring.

Ann Carson's name was called for the attendance gift.

Suggestions for a fund-raising project were accepted and will be voted on at the next meeting, Sept. 5, at 8 p.m., at the Elks Lodge Hall.

Holguins visit here

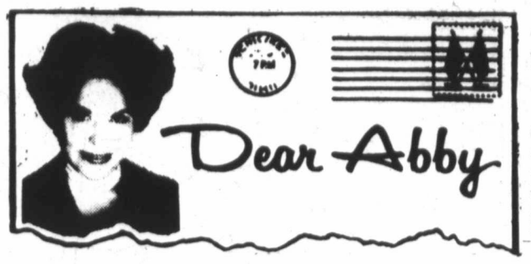

David Holguin, a former resident of Big Spring, and his wife Suzanne are currently enjoying a vacation in Big Spring with Holguin's sisters and brother. The Holguins live in Phoenix, Ariz.

They are visiting the households of Esquelia Valles, Joe Martinez, William Mendoza, Andres Gamboa and Tito Holguin.

While here, the couple will attend the wedding of Mrs. Holguin's brother in Odessa. She also celebrated her birthday.

The couple plan to return home in about another week.

Kids Run Wild When Grandma 'Sits'

DEAR ABBY: I am married with three children whose ages are 2, 4 and 6. I work because of necessity not choice.

My problem began last year when my father-in-law died. "Mom" wanted to keep busy, so she asked if she could be our daytime baby-sitter.

We thought it was a great idea to have "Grammy" looking after our children instead of some stranger. What a mistake!

We learned too late that Grammy is hypnotized by television! She turns it on the minute she walks into our house, and it stays on until I return from work. Meanwhile, the kids tear the house apart and it's apparent that they have no supervision whatsoever from Grammy. She lets them do anything they please, just so they don't bother her while she's watching television.

My husband and I would like to get someone else to look after our children, but we don't know how to break the news to Grammy. We hate to hurt her feelings. How do we do it?

NO WAY OUT

DEAR NO WAY: Be honest. Tell Grammy in a very kind and gentle way that your children need more supervision and attention than she has been giving them, so you've decided to make a change.

DEAR ABBY: This letter is addressed to my new mother-in-law:

I just want to say thanks for treating your son like a baby all his life.

I really enjoy picking up after him. You see, according to him, his mother has done it for him all his life.

I am the only one who can make the bed, because his mother always did it for him.

I have to mow the lawn, because he never had to do it at home; his father always did it.

I have to make sure I fix what he likes for dinner or he won't eat it, because when he was at home if he didn't like something, his mother would always fix him something else to eat.

Mom, maybe you thought you were being a perfect mother, but you have created a lazy son, and you certainly haven't made my marriage any easier.

Thanks for nothing.

YOUR DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

DEAR DAUGHTER-IN-LAW: Your complaints about a spoiled son may be justified, but be fair. Your mother-in-law must have done something right to have raised the man you chose to marry.

DEAR ABBY: If I hear it once more, I'll be sick! I am referring to the expression, "Have a nice day!" It has become so trite and meaningless as to be absurd. This phrase is used by every waitress, salesperson, telephone operator and cashier in San Francisco, and perhaps the whole population of the North American continent. I even heard a cop tell a drunk whom he had just arrested to "Have a nice day"—and it was midnight!

Please ask your readers to come up with something a little more original and sincere. I offer, "Take it easy" or "Be cool" or, as we used to say in West Texas, "Y'awl come back now—ya' hear?"

Have a nice day, Abby.

WALNUT CREEK, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: We have found a solution for those who wish to give parties (birthday, anniversary, housewarming, etc.) but don't want their guests to bring gifts.

With our invitations, we say, "Please bring a flower to add to our birthday (anniversary) bouquet."

There are no unwanted gifts, no thank-you notes to write, and the bouquets are always lovely. But best of all, the guests will not have to come empty-handed, which pleases them and eliminates the strain on their pocketbooks.

CHULA VISTA, CALIF.

DEAR CHULA: What a bloomin' good idea! Thanks for sharing.

Club enjoys breakfast meeting

Breakfast at the Methodist Church of Coahoma was enjoyed Aug. 5 by members of the Past Matrons Club of Coahoma Chapter No. 499. Hostesses were Mrs. O. A. Madison and Mrs. Jim Swan.

The table was laid with pale green and brown pottery, matching napkins and place favors. An arrangement of summer flowers was used as a centerpiece.

Presiding over the 12 members present was Eula Bess Westmoreland, president.

Invocation was given by Jane Headricks. She also gave a program on summer vacation.

A letter was read from the Bible Fund Chairman and a donation was given.

Mrs. Lowell Brown and Lelia Birkhead were reported ill.

The hostesses for the September meeting will be Almeda Shive and Viola Bates.

BREAKFAST CEREAL RELIGION

Ever read the side panel on a breakfast cereal carton? Usually we are told that this food provides us with a minimum daily requirement of certain vitamins and minerals. We are not experts on nutrition . . . but we do promote man's religious needs. We urge people to attend and support our churches. We believe you can't build spiritual vitality on minimal standards. Therefore, we don't guarantee that an hour in Sunday School will provide Christy with some percentage of the spiritual stamina life requires.

If you're bringing Christy to church every week, fortifying your own faith with sincere worship, and trying to cultivate Christian attitudes and a Christian atmosphere in your home—then you're fully aware that character and conviction grow from maximum standards.

Sacred Heart slates festival

The annual summer festival will be held at Sacred Heart Catholic Church at 508 N. Aylford on Saturday and Sunday.

The church will sell tamales at 11 a.m. Saturday until "we sell all of them" according to the festival director.

Mexican food will be served after 6:30 p.m. Saturday outside. There will also be barbecue, hamburgers, and hot dogs. There will be all types of games and festivities and the church will continue festivities on Sunday afternoon and evening.

Mexican food, barbecue, hamburgers and games will again be featured on Sunday evening starting at 6:30 p.m.

Gloria Bustamante will reign as queen over this year's summer festival. The public is invited to attend.

PREPARING FOOD — Mrs. Bonifacio Salazar is shown preparing food for the Sacred Heart Church annual summer festival this weekend. The church is located at 508 N. Aylford.

Conference is attended by AME Church

The Northwest Texas Annual Conference was held Aug. 7-10 at Bethel A.M.E. Church in Lubbock.

All pastors in the conference returned to their charges, with the exception of two.

The Rev. J. Woodfaulk went to Bethel in Abilene and the Rev. W. L. Brown went from Abilene to Johnson Chapel in Odessa. The Rev. W. G. Gilbert returned to Baker's Chapel in Big Spring.

Baker's Chapel of Big Spring will host the annual conference in 1979. There will be a large number of youth delegates and alternates along with adult delegates and alternates, ministers and laity attending the conference here next August.

Election of delegates and alternates to the General Conference is held each year during the annual conference. The next general conference will be in New Orleans in 1980.

Laity Retreat scheduled by Methodists Aug. 25-27

Bob Crowell, conference lay leader and Hayes Stripling, Jr., First United Methodist Church in Big Spring lay leader, announce the 32nd annual Laity Retreat to be held in Ceta Canyon Methodist Assembly Aug. 25-27.

The retreat has traditionally been a popular meeting for lay persons from the conference. The meet features good food, fellowship, stimulating recreation, inspirational singing and preaching.

Bishop Alsie Carleton will lead the Bible Study on "Christian Churchmanship" using Paul's epistles.

The preacher will be Dr. Walter L. Underwood, pastor of St. Luke's United Methodist Church in Houston. A native Tennesseean, Dr. Underwood is also the son of a minister.

Featured entertainer and singer will be Johnny Ray Watson. Standing 6 foot 8 inches, Watson is an outstanding athlete in both high school and McMurry College where he was most valuable basketball player.

He has appeared in numerous revivals including the Billy Graham Crusade in Lubbock.

Song leader for the retreat will be Bob Wert, director of Luke's UMC in Lubbock. Wert is wellknown in Big Spring.

JEAN POTTS

Potts speak at retreat on Thursday

Mrs. Jean Potts, teacher and evangelist, will be speaker at the weekly Ladies Retreat Thursday at the College Park Church of God.

The retreats are held at 10 a.m. Thursday mornings at 603 Tulane.

Mrs. Potts will speak on "Teaching the Word of Faith and Ministering in the Gifts of the Holy Spirit."

Mrs. Potts is from Oregon and has been active in teaching crusades. Special music and a nursery will be provided.

Koinonia ladies to raise funds

The Koinonia Ladies of the First Church of God, 2009 Main, are planning a fund-raising event, a rummage sale on Saturday, Aug. 26 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

They report that clothes will be in good condition and usable for back to school.

The ladies just completed their drapery project for the Fellowship Hall in the educational wing of the church.

Kristi Donaldson expressed thanks to the ladies who helped with the project.

They are also planning a Christmas Bazaar to be held in early December. The group recently purchased two new tables for the Sunday School and also materials for the classes.

Crestview Baptists show new religious film Sunday

"The Secret of Loving," a new color film, will be shown at Crestview Baptist Church on Sunday, August 20 at 6 p.m.

The film takes an opposing view to the "sex without love, marriage without commitment" which are the norms of our fragile society, church leaders point out.

In the light of current promiscuity and the frequent marriage failures that fill divorce courts, the church spokesmen say that concerned youth are asking, "Can I succeed in marriage?", "Is real love possible in a junky world?" This film is said to answer both questions with a resounding "Yes."

The movie features Josh McDowell, a brilliant college lecturer, world traveler and youth counselor. In recent years McDowell has spoken to student audiences on college campuses in more than 45 countries. Millions of students have felt the impact of his wisdom in providing answers to their personal problems.

In the movie McDowell shares in his own unique and humorous style, his opinion of the pattern and beauty which God intended for sex, love, dating and marriage." McDowell examines the pitfalls, the common misconceptions and he provides solutions.

The film is a recent release of Gospel Films, Inc. of Muskegon.

Youths choose church schools

The 1977-78 Vocational Nursing Class of Howard College is hosting an informal reception to honor Mrs. Johnnie Amos, retiring director and teaching instructor of the Howard College Vocational Nursing Department.

It will be held at 8:00 p.m. Friday in the Dora Roberts Student Union Building.

The public is invited. A special invitation is extended to former students, friends and acquaintances.

A short program by present or former students will be held with entertainment by Lydia Molina, graduate of Howard College Vocational Nursing program and former student of Mrs. Amos. Mrs. Molina is nurse to Dr. Clyde Thomas at Hall-Bennett Hospital.

The reception committee is made up of Betty Lloyd, chairman, and members Diane Pence, Diana Sheppard, Eva Bankston, Ruby Bagley, Wanda Belcher, Dean Berriball, and Marjorie Goodwin. Wanda Belcher is in charge of refreshments.

Bible School begins here at First Church of God

The First Church of God, 2009 Main, begin their Vacation Bible School Monday, Aug. 21 through Aug. 25 from 6:30-8:30 p.m.

All plans are set and teachers are prepared for the Vacation Church School just prior to school starting.

The school begins each evening with a time of worship and singing in the sanctuary, then the students divide into separate classrooms.

Classes are for children, ages two to 13, with a baby nursery also provided.

Each night, the child that brings the most visitors will be presented a silver dollar, according to directors of the school.

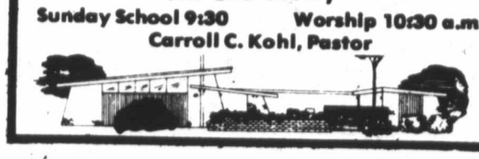

Bus transportation is available. Cliff Donaldson, associate pastor and Vacation Bible School director, will give additional information to those who call 267-1810.

Quakers sell African stock

PHILADELHIA (AP) — The American Friends Service Committee says it is selling more than 45,000 shares of stock worth $1.3 million in U.S. firms operating in South Africa because they continue to do business in a land where white supremacy in the law.

The Quaker organization took the action after conversations with 15 companies.

THINK ON THIS: The light that shines farthest shines bright nearest home.

"A Farthing's Worth"
OUR CHURCH IS NOT
The Christian Church of Big Spring is NOT made of people who think that they are better than the rest, but of people who know they ought to be better than they are and belong to the church because it is trying to help them be better.
The Christian Church of Big Spring is NOT made up of people who think they are perfect, but people who are sure they have found the perfect ideal in Jesus Christ.
The Christian Church of Big Spring is NOT made up of people who think they have never made any mistakes, but of people who have recognized their wrongdoing and that only through Christ is their forgiveness and the power to change.
The Christian Church of Big Spring is NOT made up of people trying to tell other people where they're wrong, but of beggars who have found the Bread of Life and who want to show others where to find it.
We in the Christian Church of Big Spring have found that the church does not take the joy out of life, but enables the believer to realize fully the joy of living with power and purpose and promise.

Conservative critic of textbooks wins one

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Conservative textbook critic Norma Gabler of Longview can claim at least one victory already in her annual review of proposed textbooks.

Addison-Wesley Publishing Co. has agreed to her demands for removal of an 18th Century British cartoon depicting a wounded American patriot from its eighth grade text, "An American History."

"This is disgraceful," she wrote in pre-filed testimony for the State Textbook Committee's annual hearings. "It is an enemy (at the time) caricature of our forefathers."

Addison-Wesley wrote the committee that it will remove the cartoon.

Mrs. Gabler's objections to the history book and several others fill 10½ volumes of testimony filed in advance of her appearance today at the committee.

Since 1962, she's been a regular at the annual hearings. Mrs. Gabler and her husband Mel run a consultant firm, Educational Research Analysts, and receive 20-25 calls weekly from across the nation for help in textbook reviews.

Her past protests included last year's attack on an eighth grade reader that included Jonathan Swift's satire, "A Modest Proposal."

While poking fun at theorists who proposed wild solutions to Ireland's famine and overpopulataion, Swift suggested, tongue-in-cheek, the breeding of Irish infants for food.

"Eating babies is not funny," Mrs. Gabler protested, eliciting a publisher's response that her attitude made him sick.

The committee has scheduled two, simultaneous five-day hearings this year to accommodate Mrs. Gabler and the 43 other individual and group critics. The textbook committee meets Sept. 11 to recommend selections to the State Board of Education, which will adopt texts Nov. 11 for use beginning September 1979.

Evolution stirred debate Thursday when a publisher's representative denied his company was scared by fundamentalists into omitting evolution from a junior high life science text.

Hugh Simmons of Silver Burdette Publishing Co. defended the book "Life Science" from attacks by Americans United for Separation of Church and State.

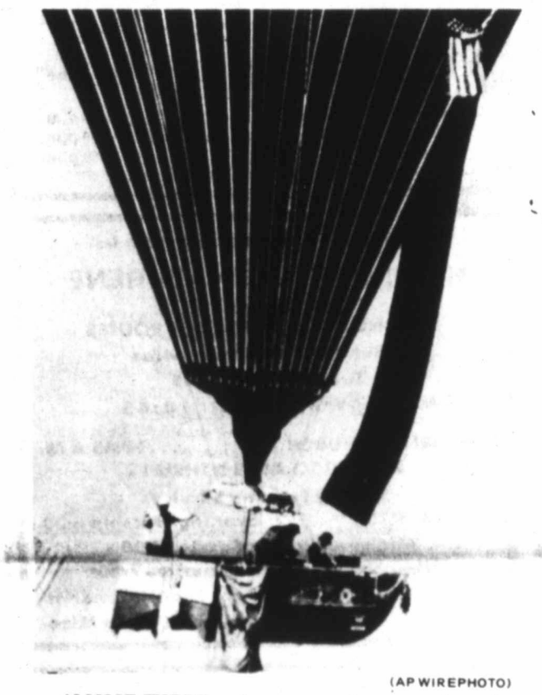

"The text was written for nationwide use," Simmons said. "There are many influences that go into development of the content of a textbook. Fear is not one of them."

The women's group of the First Unitarian Church of Houston challenged several high school art books.

"No effort to present work by women prior to 1850 has been made and no references at all have been made to women architects," Audrey Crawford said of "Art — Design, Communicating Visually" by Art Education Inc.

Another publisher accused of slighting women's contributions to the arts, Harcourt, Brace & Jovanovich Inc., responded in writing to the Unitarians' complaints.

"We cannot adjust history to reflect modern consciousness," the publisher said, "but we can help students gain an understanding of that history."

ALMOST THERE — A crew member waves from the gondola as the record-breaking Double Eagle II crosses the French coast near Le Havre Thursday to make the first successful balloon crossing of the Atlantic Ocean. The three Americans made the crossing in 137 hours and 18 minutes from Presque Isle, Maine to a field 60 miles west of Paris.

Balloonists want to try another feat

PARIS (AP) — Flushed with their conquest, the three Americans who made the first crossing of the Atlantic by balloon said today they want to balloon around the world in 30 days.

Ben Abruzzo told a news conference that a round-the-world balloon trip would be expensive, but it would be cheaper than climbing Mount Everest.

"With the right balloon, we could get to higher altitudes and go round the world in 30 days," he said.

Abruzzo, 48, Maxie Anderson, 44, and Larry Newman, 31, all of Albuquerque, N.M., dropped down to a tumultuous welcome in a wheat field 60 miles west of Paris Thursday evening, then celebrated late into the night in the French capital at a party given by Count de Saint Sauveur, secretary of the French balloon federation.

President Carter congratulated them by telegram and invited them to the White House. The French Minister of Sports awarded them gold medals. Media representatives besieged them with offers. And they drew straws for an unofficial prize, spending the night in the single bed Charles A. Lindbergh occupied at the U.S. Embassy residence after he made the first solo flight across the Atlantic 51 years ago.

Newman and his wife of five months won.

Air France offered to fly the trio home on its Concorde, and the balloonists said they already had planned to travel on the supersonic jet.

"We came the slowest way and we're going out the fastest way," said Abruzzo.

But they said they would go to London first to buy dinner for British balloonists Don Cameron and Christopher Davey, who last month failed by 103 miles to take the trans-Atlantic crown.

"We had a bet with them," said Anderson.

Only shredded remnants remained of the Americans' balloon, the 112-foot-high, silver-colored Double Eagle II. It was ripped apart by hordes of souvenir seekers in the field where it landed near the village of Miserey.

Many were motorists traveling the nearby highway who saw the gigantic balloon drifting earthward and stopped in astonishment. Others were villagers who rushed to congratulate the adventurers as they jumped from the red and yellow gondola and sprayed the crowd with champagne.

Police guards saved the metal gondola from the crowd.

Crowds also gathered outside the embassy residence in Paris to hail the conquering heros as they joined their tearful wives.

"My God, did we have a welcome," said the excited trio in unison.

Man injured when car flips

Dean Rawls, 32, 1611 Scurry, was injured when a rear tire on the car he was driving blew out, causing his car to flip twice and roll into a field just off the Gail Road.

Rawls was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital about 7 p.m. Monday, after the accident, which occurred approximately seven miles from Big Spring. He received a dislocated shoulder, cuts and bruises, but was treated and released from the emergency room.

'Don't call me coach!'

JIM BAUM (Now)

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Jim Baum is the General Manager of KBYG Radio Station in Big Spring, and is one of the local sports fanatics who goes nuts just about this same time each year.

(Baum also lists as his sports credits, previous work in this spot, a stint in the minor leagues years ago, and four kids who participate in every sport under the sun. He keeps busy.)

I really think RON LOGBACK wanted to be the Steers head football coach. I wouldn't have the job. I can hear the criticism already. "Only the guys with rich parents get to play." Or, "Any idiot would have known not to quick kick on third down." Monday morning quarterbacks! Every town has 'em. You know, football coaches are a rare breed. Some are likeable. Some aren't. I've known both types.

DON ROBBINS was the most intense coach I've ever known. All he has to do to get worked up is start talking. Don was also innovative. I think he won some games his first stint in Big Spring when he was really overmatched with personnel. Then there's HAROLD KING. He used to coach Midland High back when Midland only had one high school. Poor Harold. Midland had some of the best material ever assembled in this district. But the rich Midland kids decided when they wanted to play.

Harold once told me, "Some of these kids drive better cars to school than I'll ever own. You can't make 'em play if they don't want to." Later, when Midland Lee came into existence, the Rebels were coached by a man named JOE NEWBILL. After he stuffed a lineman into a locker following a tough loss I decided I didn't have any use for him.

SPIKE DYKES was the best coach-salesman ever to hit Big Spring. Seriously, Ol' Spike more than made up for lack of ability with salesmanship. At halftime of an Abilene game he told the Steers that a moving van at the south end of P. E. Shotwell Stadium had his furniture in it and if Big Spring didn't win, he was moving. Believe it or not, the Steers won!!

JIM BAUM
With hair, same freckles

And speaking of the late PETE SHOTWELL, he was my first high school coach. And he darned near got me killed when I was just a skinny sophomore at Abilene High. We were scrimmaging the varsity and "Coach" told me if I would bring my forearm up under a 215 pound lineman's chin, I would own him like a brother. I'd always wanted a big brother, so I tried it. Once. Big brother just about beat the heck out of me.

Another coach I remember was CLOVIS HALE. Clovis was a nice guy. I really believe everyone was glad to see him become a winner while coaching at San Angelo Lakeview. CHUCK MOSER was another winner. During his heyday at Abilene he reportedly pushed his teams to state championships because the boys believed anything coach told 'em.

But, he also had a firm side. In 1955 a 9.6 sprinter failed to return from summer vacation in time to start workouts. The boy was barred from playing football and Abilene still won the State Championship. There have been other coaches I've met.

In Big Spring we've had BOB BURRIS, HERMAN SMITH AND AL MILCH. Burris seemed to be the most relaxed coach I've been around. Herman was used by the Big Spring school board when he took a job he really didn't want, then was fired without being asked if he wanted to keep the post. And Milch. Good ol' Al. He had the misfortune of being Head Coach here when Big Spring was elevated to 4-A. And he never did win a district game.

So we come to another football season. RON LOGBACK gets his chance to convert the Steers into a winner. If he can take the attributes of his predecessors and roll 'em into a big magic football, he might win. But, if I were "COACH", I'd rather have two fast backs and four big lineman than all the attributes in the world.

Vikes-Dols tonight

By the Associated Press

Miami Dolphins Coach Don Shula says he's happy that Minnesota quarterback Fran Tarkenton has recovered from a broken leg. But he isn't too thrilled about seeing Tarkenton call the plays against his team.

The Vikings veteran will test his leg against the Dolphins in a nationally televised preseason game tonight for the first time since he broke it last November.

"I'm glad to see that he's healthy again," Shula said of Tarkenton. "Otherwise, no, I'm never happy to face Tarkenton."

The 38-year-old scrambler, entering his 17th season, will be trying to come back from the first disabling

Mann inks with WNMU

Tony Mann, senior lineman for the Steers in 1977, has signed to play football for Western New Mexico University this fall.

Mann played football for four years at Big Spring High School, lettering three of those years. He earned District 5-4A honorable mention his junior year.

Tony was also instrumental in the Steers' baseball fortunes. He also lettered three of four years at the diamond, and earned All-District honors (batting .386) as a catcher during his senior year.

During BSHS's spring sports banquet, Mann took the school's baseball award.

Tony recently returned from California where he played baseball for six weeks this summer. He completed the season with the Morgan Hill American Legion Post 444 team located near San Jose. His batting average was .466.

Mann indicated that after a very active summer, he is preparing for school and football again. Tony also expressed his appreciation to Coach Ron Logback and his staff for their assitance.

Tony is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W.A. Mann of Big Spring.

Cowboys after Guv's Cup

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP)—The Dallas Cowboys did not capture every trophy under the National Football League sun last year.

The World Champions failed miserably in an August showing against the Houston Oilers thereby losing the Governor's Cup, known to some as the Ralph Neely Memorial Trophy, 23-14 in the Astrodome.

The Oilers could claim all year they were the best team in Texas. While that claim takes a stretch of the imagination, it's no secret that Saturday's Oiler-Cowboy preseason clash in Texas Stadium ranks several notches above your ordinary run-of-the-mill exhibition.

First of all, both Coach Bum Phillips of Houston and Coach Tom Landry of Dallas are hurrying to mold their teams for the Sept. 3-4 NFL openers as the season expands to 16 league games.

Secondly, the Cowboy and Oiler front offices still remember the squabble over the now-retired offensive tackle Neely, who signed with both clubs and eventually stayed with the Cowboys. Dallas had to pay compensation to Houston which included the promise to visit the Astrodome for annual exhibitions.

The games, which Dallas leads 8-3, have always been heated. The Cowboys are 2-0 in the regular season against the Oilers.

The "Texas Professional Championship" usually draws a sellout crowd and Saturday's 8 p.m. game is no exception. The 65,000 seats were soldout earlier thisweek.

Homegrown Earl Campbell, the Texas Heisman Trophy winner, is a big draw for the Oilers while the Cowboys have two Heisman winners, quarterback Roger Staubach and halfback Tony Dorsett.

Phillips and Landry plan to play their regulars at least three quarters.

Oiler quarterback Dan Pastorini, who suffered a thigh muscle pull last week, has made a rapid recovery and will play most of the game.

Phillips said he will make a check with doctors on Saturday, adding "I'm glad Dan feels better and I'm for whatever gets him well."

The Oiler coach downplays the rivalry, saying "We don't play for Denver or for Dallas. We try to play the best we're capable of playing and let the scoreboard take care of itself."

Dallas is 2-0 in exhibition play while Houston is 0-2.

Williams named TJ head coach

By DANNY REAGAN
Sports Editor

Willie Williams, all-around athlete for the Big Spring Steers during the early 70's, recently accepted the head basketball coaching position at Thomas Jefferson High School in Port Arthur.

Williams, who was an All-American, four-sport letterman at Austin College, replaced three-year coach Chuck Meyer, who was forced to resign because of a recurring health problem. Williams had been Meyer's first assistant since graduating from Austin College in 1976.

According to reports, Jefferson head football coach and athletic director Ronnie Thompson didn't hestitate in naming Williams as a replacement: "Chuck and I talked about this possibility in June, and I was 95 percent sure I'd go with Willie at that time. I know he's young, but I don't have any reservations whatsoever. The 95 percent has changed to 100 percent in the last two months."

Williams, who led the AC Kangaroos in interceptions, stolen bases and basketball scoring his senior year, was brought to Port Arthur by former Yellow Jacket head coach Bob Burris. Burris came to Big Spring the winter of Williams' senior year and helped him get a scholarship at Austin College.

"The way I see it, Willie's got two important factors working in his favor," said Thompson. "First, he can physically show kids how to do something. They look up to him because they know what kind of player he was and still is. Second, he has an excellent ability to communicate. The kids all love him because they've seen that he's fair."

WILLIE WILLIAMS
Head Coach Now

Williams, who many thought had a good shot at playing either professional football or baseball and who tried out for the Rangers, is enthusiastic about getting a 4A head coaching job (Jefferson is in District 22-AAAA): "I know how much Chuck loved coaching, so I can't be happy about the circumstances, but I knew this was a possibility and I kind of expected it after Chuck had to go to the hospital.

"Still, I wasn't totally ready. I guess I've just been in the right place at the right time. I never dreamed my first job would be in a 4A school, and I certainly never thought I'd get the chance to be a head coach so soon," Williams said.

Willie inherits only one returning starter and three other lettermen from a team that was 12-17 last year.

Williams, who was once ranked fifth in the nation in punt returns, was named to the NAIA Division II All-American second team his junior year, and the first team his senior year. His sterling defensive efforts also procurred him a spot on the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association's first team All-Conference squad.

Jaeckel leads Westchester

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Jim Albus, a long-shot club pro only one stroke out of the top spot in the $300,000 Westchester Golf Classic, looked toward the weekend and decided his chances were, "realistically, not good."

Barry Jaeckel, the improving youngster who held the first-round lead Thursday, looked at some of those chasing his six-under-par 65 and observed: "As far as I'm concerned, there's 149 Jack Nicklauses' back there.

"But, if it got down to the last nine holes or so and Jack Nicklaus was stalking me — or anybody else for that matter — we'd get a little nervous."

And Jack Nicklaus was in position.

The game's greatest player, winner of the British Open and three American titles this year, was only two shots back at 67.

That was four-under-par on the tight, hilly, weather-damaged 6,603-yard Westchester Country Club course. And it could have been better.

Nicklaus was five under par for the first 10 holes, then slipped a bit. He had to one-putt the 11th and 12th holes to save par and bogeyed the 13th, taking three from the rough just over the green.

"I played well, hit the ball well," Nicklaus said. "I just didn't get the ball close enough to the hole on the back nine to shoot a number."

He shared third place with Don January, Rex Caldwell, Ed Sabo, Alan Pate and Jay Haas, the winner of the San Diego Open earlier this season. All were at 67 on the short course that often produces some of the lowest scores on the PGA Tour.

John Mahaffey, winner in his last two starts, birdied the last two holes for a 68 that put him in challenging position for a rare third consecutive title.

"My concentration wasn't too good early in the round," Mahaffey said, "but over the last few holes I felt I got it back to where I had it the last couple of weeks."

Tom Watson and Hubert Green had 70s. U.S. Open champion and defending Westchester titleholder Andy North shot a 72. Leading money-winner Andy Bean was at 71.

Coaching era has passed

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

There was something a little sad yet starkly prophetic in the release of George "Go Go" Allen as coach of the Los Angeles Rams almost before he had put all those football "x's" and "o's" on the blackboard.

It marks the beginning of the end of the imperial pro football coach and major league baseball manager.

These are different times. There appears no place in the now highly commercialized and coldly businesslike world of big time sports either for the "Rah-Rah-Die for Dear Old Moneybags" syndrome, represented by the intent, thumb-licking Allen or the whip-cracking martinet, glorified by the late Vince Lombardi.

Today's successful taskmaster must walk a hazardous tightrope. He must be realistic, laconic and always have his suitcases packed. He must accept the fact that the modern professional athlete is not a schoolboy to be aroused by pep meetings and inspirational gimmickry nor marched to a fixed beat like a Marine Corps rookie.

Today's sports figure makes more money than his bank president. He comes to work in a striped, vested suit, carrying a brief case and often accompanied by a lawyer or agent. He changes clothes quietly, does his job, dresses and goes his way.

He needs no artificial stimulant. He is motivated by personal pride. If you throw all these individual ingredients together and don't stir too vigorously, maybe you can survive as a field general.

But there must be added insurance: don't try to upstare the boss.

There is some similarity in the cases of the Rams' George Allen and the New York Yankees' Billy Martin, although the two men are quite different in substance and style.

Allen, like Martin, had little regard for the high chain of command — in his first stint with the Rams in the mid-1960s, later with the Washington Redskins and again back this year with the Rams. He had to do it his way, in utter contempt of whose toes he happened to tread on — whether they belong to Edward Bennett Williams, Don Klosterman or Carroll Rosenbloom.

It's hard to excuse Rosenbloom. He knew the nature of the man when he hired him. George left a swath a mile wide with his arbitrary buying, trading and maneuvering of talent, first bankrupting the Redskins' draft pool for the sake of immediacy and threatening to do the same at Los Angeles.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, AUG. 19, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a day when you would be wise to look upon the bright side of things, even though some event my make you feel you would like things to be otherwise. Be more cheerful.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't neglect to handle those annoying little duties that must be done before going ahead with more important matters.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't expect any help from friends today, since they are busy with own affairs. Keep busy at bettering your position in life.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't jeopardize your security or your good name by some erroneous thinking or acting. Show more friendship for others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) There's a new interest that appeals to you, but don't act on it yet, since changes right now would be bad for you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A good day to handle chores. Try not to criticize your mate or you could get into a serious quarrel. Make the evening a happy one.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Think things over before you make any changes where associates are concerned, or you could make the wrong move. Be wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You may think there is no end to your work, but this is because you are not being properly enthused about it. Relax at home tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make sure you don't spend too much for recreational activities you engage in. Express happiness with loved one.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try to be more understanding of the behavior of family members. Put off making a decision on an important matter.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Using particular care in motions today could save you much trouble and money. Careless talk would be unwise at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study what your true financial position is and make plans to improve it. Maintain a cheerful manner when dealing with others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) It's important you get together with those who are cheerful and can lift your spirits and put more happiness in your life.

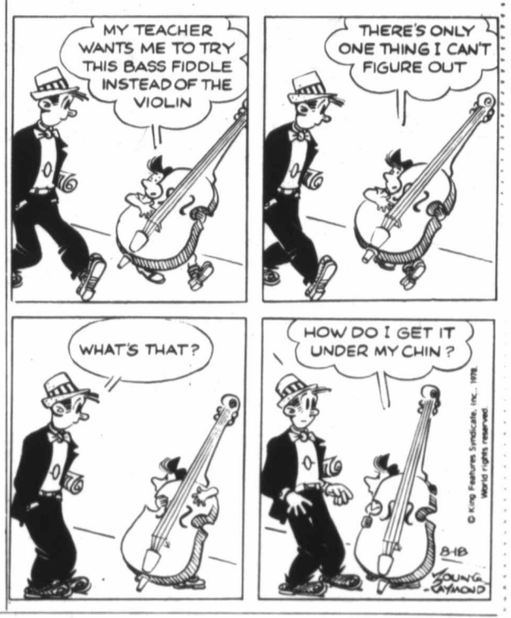

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one who can bring order out of chaos and will not be deterred by poor surroundings, but will make the most of them, and help others to do the same. There is much marital happiness in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Cowboy offense needs boost for Oiler tiff

COWBOYS FACT SHEET

THIS WEEK — The Dallas Cowboys (2-0 in pre-season play) host the Houston Oilers (0-2) on Saturday night at Texas Stadium. The World Champion Cowboys defeated the Denver Broncos in a rematch of Super Bowl XII last Saturday at Denver, 21-14, while the Oilers lost at home on Monday night to the Philadelphia Eagles, 28-10.

KICKOFF — 8 p.m. CDT at Texas Stadium. Crowd: A sellout, capacity 65,101.

TELEVISION — A video taped replay of the game will be seen on Sunday at 4:30 p.m. on KXAS-TV, Channel 5 in Dallas, with Frank Glieber and John Gross.

RADIO — KRLD (1080 in Dallas) and the 14-state Mutual Dallas Cowboys Network with Verne Lundquist and Brad Sham. Also KESS-FM (90.5 in Dallas) and the five-state, plus Puerto Rico, Mutual Cowboys Spanish Network with Bill Aguilar and Mario Montez.

SERIES STANDING — The Cowboys own an 8-3 edge in the pre-season series that dates back to 1967, but the Oilers posted a convincing 23-14 victory in the Astrodome last summer. The teams have met twice in regular season games, Dallas winning both, in 1970 and 1974.

THE COACHES — Tom Landry of Dallas owns a 149-95-6 career record to rank sixth on the list of all-time winningest NFL coaches. Over the past 12 seasons, the Landry-Dallas record is 124-42-2, including 11 playoff appearances, four Super Bowls and two World Championships., Landry is the only head coach the Cowboys have had.

O. A. "Bum" Phillips is in his fourth year at Houston and has compiled a 23-19 record.

DALLAS COWBOYS

HOW IT SHAPES UP — While Coach Tom Landry had praise for several of his offensive players during his weekly press conference, he indicated the offense — particularly the running game — was not progressing as he had hoped following two pre-season games.

"Usually after two pre-season games we're not moving the ball too well on the ground, but it's a shorter pre-season this year. Our offense is a coordinated unit and it's not th fault of one guy, but of the whole unit that we're not running better at this time.

"Our passing game has enabled us to win those two games. But there's room for improvement there too. We need to hit the third down plays with more consistency, do a better job in short yardage situations, and jell as a unit.

"Tony Dorsett (17 yards in eight carries vs. Denver) has been working well in practice, but he didn't play well at all Saturday. Neither did (Robert) Newhouse (13 yards in six carries). But I haven't lost confidence."

Landry added that another frustration on attack against the Broncos was the club's inability to get into field goal range: "We're very disappointed that (Jay) Sherrill didn't get a chance to try some field goals. We need to see what he can do in game situations." Sherrill is a rookie free agent placekicker from North Carolina State.

On Monday, the Cowboys traded holdout kicker Efren Herrera to Seattle for an undisclosed draft choice, and announced plans to sign former Oilers kicker Skip Butler.

NEXT WEEK — The Cowboys host the Pittsburgh Steelers on Saturday night, Aug. 26, to end the pre-season. Regular season play opens for Dallas on Monday night, Sept. 4, when the Baltimore Colts visit Texas Stadium in a nationally televised Labor Day matchup.

Miami's defensive tackle Bob Baumhower will also see action for the first time since a knee injury in a Dolphins' training session in May forced him to undergo surgery.

"It seems to be holding up real well," Shula said of Baumhower's knee. "We'll give him some time. Then a little more the following week, which should get him ready for the opening of the season."

In the only other National Football League preseason game tonight, the Baltimore Colts will entertain the Washington Redskins.

In a Thursday night game, the Los Angeles Rams, under new head Coach Ray Malavasi, won their first preseason contest with a 26-7 triumph over the Seattle Seahawks.

Lawrence McCutcheon scored on a 4-yard run and rookie Frank Corral booted three field goals as the Rams handed Seattle its first preseason defeat. Rod Perry intercepted a Jim Zorn pass and scampered 22 yards for Los Angeles' other touchdwon.

Seattle, which hadn't allowed a touchdown in two previous victories, got its only score on Sherman Smith's 13-yard run late in the first half.

Efren to be traded again?

SEATTLE (AP) — The agent for Efren Herrera has suggested that the Seattle Seahawks trade the placekicker after negotiations for a new contract broke down.

"It's evident we're not going to get together," said agent Bucky Woy of Dallas. "In the best interests of the Seahawks and Herrera, they ought to be talking about a trade."

John Thompson, Seahawks general manager, said "it's not our intention to trade him." Herrera was acquired in a Monday swap with the Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed draft choice.

Herrera, 26, is entering his fourth National Football League season. He failed to reach agreement with the Cowboys on a new contract and is now in his option year. He was asking $80,000 from the Cowboys, double his 1977 salary.

Caster Oiler signed

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers have acquired veteran wide receiver Rich Caster from the New York Jets for undisclosed future draft choices.

The Thursday acquisition returned the Houston roster to 60 players, the current preseason limit.

In nine seasons with the Jets, Caster, from Jackson State, caught 245 passes for 4,434 yards and 36 touchdowns, ranking sixth among New York's all-time leading scorers with 36 touchdowns.

Caster broke a hand in preseason last year and had a season record for 10 games of 10 receptions for 205 yards and one touchdown.

Peacock tears ligaments

SEATTLE (AP) — Fullback Elvis Peacock, Los Angeles' No. 1 draft pick from Oklahoma, will be sidelined six to eight weeks with torn knee ligaments suffered in the Rams' 26-7 National Football League victory over the Seattle Seahawks, a team spokesman said Thursday night.

The 6-foot-1, 220-pound Peacock had carried the ball three times for 7 yards before the injury midway through the fourth period.

Who'll get Coliseum?

Minnesota Vikings President Max Winter says he has been approached by officials from the Los Angeles Coliseum about the possibility of moving the Vikings there when the Rams leave for Anaheim in 1980.

But Winter said Thursday he does not wish to move and that the chances are slim unless the Twin Cities area does not come up with a "suitable stadium."

Winter was angered when one member of the stadium commission charged with selecting the type and site of a new facility for the area said he favored a no-frills, "New England-type stadium."

"It troubles you when a member of the stadium commission announces that he will vote only for a certain type stadium," said Winter. "The people who are expected to be the primary tenants for a new stadium — the Minnesota Twins, the Minnesota Kicks, the University of Minnesota and the Vikings — have never been consulted as to their preferences."

LPGA lead knotted

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Ten years ago, a 19-year-old Canadian burst upon the women's golf scene in grand style, capturing the Ladies Professional Golfers' Association championship.

Sandra Post beat veteran Kathy Whitworth in an 18-hole playoff to win that title in 1968, proving she should be reckoned with on the tour.

But she didn't win again for 10 years, finally capturing the Dinah Shore-Winners' Circle tourney last April.

Rangers stopped by Whisox again

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Steve Comer has won a spot in the pitching rotation of the Texas Rangers because of his relief work in the final game of the home stand with the Chicago White Sox.

He allowed four hits, struck out five and walked one in the 5 2-3 innings he worked Thursday night. Unfortunately for Texas, he was four runs behind when he started, and the White Sox held on for a 4-2 victory.

"Comer looked super, he certainly did," Texas Manager Billy Hunter said after the loss. He said Comer will start Tuesday night in Toronto against the Blue Jays. Paul Mirabella, a rookie who was stunned for four runs and six hits by Chicago and left in the fourth inning, will go into the bullpen.

Ralph Garr led the 10-hit Chicago attack, picking up two doubles and a single and figuring in on two of the White Sox runs.

The victory went to Ken Kravec, 9-11, who allowed the Rangers only three hits before giving way to Lerrin Lagrow with one out in the eighth. But Kravec walked eight, which allowed the Rangers some scoring opportunities.

Richie Zisk got one of Kravec's walks in the sixth, and Toby Harrah followed with a towering home run to left field, his fifth round tripper of the season, to account for the two Texas runs.

Harrah's blast was one of only four hits the Rangers got. Several other hard shots — two by Al Oliver and one by Zisk — were made into outs by outstanding White Sox fielding plays.

The loss was Texas' 11th in its 15 games with Chicago this season and split the current four-game series. Wins in the first two games Monday and Tuesday had extended a Ranger streak to six in a row and back within striking distance of division leader Kansas City, which led Texas by 10 games the first of the month.

Chicago jumped on Mirabella for a double, two singles and a sacrifice fly in the third inning for a 3-0 lead, and tacked on another run in the fourth on a single and a double.

ARM TROUBLE — Nancy Lopez, 21, of Roswell, N.M., the rookie sensation in the Ladies Professional Golfers Association is shown in her hotel room explaining her sore arm, which forced her to withdraw from the tour Thursday. Lopez, has won eight tournaments this year and said "it'll take me a week to get better, I'll have to go to the doctor every day."

Pirates sweep Astros

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The doubleheader brought opposite results for Don Robinson and Mark Lemongello, young pitchers who share a passion for finishing what they start.

"I want to stay out there nine innings," the 21-year-old Robinson said after he did just that in pitching and batting the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 5-1 win over the Houston Astros in the opener Thursday night.

Lemongello had the same aim in the second game. But he was visibly mad when he was yanked in the fourth inning after allowing two unearned runs that gave Pittsburgh a 3-2 triumph and a sweep of the doubleheader.

And the 23-year-old righthander was apparently so upset that he opted for a marathon cleansing after the game.

"He's in the shower, and he says he's got nothing to say," was the message relayed from Lemongello to the press by Houston traveling secretary Carlos Alfonso.

Robinson, a Pirate rookie who made the club as a spring training surprise, was far more agreeable after the opener.

"My goal is to be the National League rookie pitcher of the year," said the West Virginia native, who rapped a pair of run-scoring singles, pitched a four-hitter, retired the last 15 Astros in a row, and raised his record to 9-5 with his fourth straight triumph.

In that first game, Omar Moreno tripled in the first inning and scored on Dave Parker's groundout to give Pittsburgh a 1-0 lead off losing pitcher J.R. Richard, 12-11.

Robinson had a run-scoring single in the second inning and another in Pittsburgh's two-run fourth after an RBI-triple by Phil Garner.

Top coaches ranked

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Penn State's Joe Paterno has the best record among the nation's major college football coaches, while Alabama's Bear Bryant, who tops the victory list with 273, ranks only third in winning percentage.

The figures were released today by Elmore Hudgins, public relations director of the Southeastern Conference, who originated the "Top Twenty Coaches" list in 1958.

In 12 seasons at Penn State, Paterno has a record of 112-24-1 for a winning percentage of .821. He is followed by Michigan's Bo Schembechler (126-30-6, .796) and Bryant (273-76-16, .770).

The list is based on the following formula: The records of the NCAA Division I-A head coaches are researched for the 20 who have won the most games at four-year colleges, with at least five years on the major-college level.

The coaches then are listed in order of winning percentage, with ties counting as a halfgame won and a halfgame lost. To qualify for the 1978 list a coach must have 68 or more victories for his career.

Rounding out the top 10 behind Paterno, Schembechler and Bryant are Frank Kush of Arizona State, 164-49-1, .769; Woody Hayes of Ohio State, 231-68-9, .765; Dan Devine of Notre Dame, 147-48-8, .744; Carmen Cozza of Yale, 84-32-1, .722; Bill Mallory of Colorado, 68-28-1, .706; Charlie McClendon of Louisiana State, 120-52-7, .690, and Bobby Bowden of Florida State, 88-40-0, .688.

Bombers in state tourney

The Big Spring Bombers, the city's fast-pitch softball champs, will be involved in the State Fast-Pitch Softball Tournament this weekend.

Sponsor-Manager Cotton Mize indicated that his club will play the Pala Alta Bucks Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in Killeen.

Pitchers for the locals include Mize, Bobby Norwood and Jim Allen. Top hitters are Roger Battle and Roy New. Coach is Bill Battle.

The Bombers won the state title in 1970.

Volleyball refs meet Saturday

The Texas Volleyball Officials Association will hold its annual meeting in Big Spring Saturday at the local high school cafeteria.

Registration is slated for 9 a.m., and all persons interested in officiating volleyball games this season should attend.

IT'S YEAR-END CLEARANCE TIME AT

BOB BROCK FORD

ALL NEW 1978 MODELS MUST BE SOLD TO MAKE ROOM FOR THE 1979's ARRIVING THIS MONTH

Lincoln Versailles. A notable engineering achievement.

Lincoln Versailles. For 1978, an American luxury car designed for the discriminating driver who will settle for nothing less than an unmistakable blend of elegance, comfort, and engineering distinction.

The Lincoln Versailles is a notable engineering achievement. And this year, Versailles engineering is even more impressive with a new computer-operated Electronic Engine Control system and Variable Venturi carburetor.

The Lincoln Versailles is also engineered to deliver a luxury car ride. A special team of engineers devoted their full attention to the vehicle and engine systems which contribute to riding smoothness, interior quietness, and efficient performance. The excellence of Versailles' engineered ride is unmistakable evidence of their success.

The Lincoln Versailles. Unmistakably Lincoln. And for 1978, an unmistakable blend of elegance, comfort, and engineering distinction.

"You have to DRIVE to APPRECIATE this CAR."

Ridin' fence

They call it Fort Davis

with Marj Carpenter

One of the most colorful towns in West Texas, as far as old Texas history goes, is out at Fort Davis in the heart of the Davis Mountains.

Since a lot of Big Springers just went through Fort Davis to go to the annual Boys Camp Meeting out toward Marfa, I thought it was a good time to talk about it in my Friday "The call it" column.

There is a fort out there which was carefully restored and officially dedicated by Lady Bird Johnson in 1966. But it has been there since it was built by Jefferson Davis in 1854 when he was Secretary of War for the United States, seven years before he became the first and only president of the Confederate States of America.

It was for this reason that the fort was named Fort Davis. It is one of the most complete forts left in the west and includes the parade grounds, and many of the officer's homes, stables and other buildings.

If you use your imagination a little bit, you can almost see the Indians coming up over the Davis mountains behind the fort. Their romantic stories include the tale of Indian Emily who fell in love with one of the officers and gave her life trying to warn them of an Indian attack.

The last known Indian attack occurred there around 1880 when the late Mrs. Steve Ward, who died in her 90s in Pecos, was around 12 years old.

Her father and some of the other ranchers in the Fort Davis area had gone off in pursuit of Indians who they believed were rustling their cattle.

The Indians surrounded the ranch home and Viola Ward's mother was shooting at them with an old muzzle loader. Julia was loading the second gun in between shots and her brother, who was ten, slipped out the back and ran for help.

He returned with the cattlemen and they pursued the Indians firing at them. It was the last known raid.

Cass Country, with Linden as the county seat, was named for President Jeff Davis in 1861 but in 1871, the name was changed back to Cass Country since the South had lost the war.

In 1887, Jeff Davis County was formed out of Presidio County and a supporter said, "Thank God, we at last have a county named in honor of the president of the Confederacy."

Fort Davis, the little settlement that had formed near the fort, was earlier county seat of Presidio County. When the two counties were divided, Jeff Davis County kept the courthouse that had been built for $2400 in 1880. That county seat became known as the bat cave and a new rock courthouse was built in 1910 for $47,000.

But Marfa, the new county seat, took — according to the old minutes at the courthouse — "all records, books and furniture except five iron cages and a scaffold at the jail."

These were too difficult to move in 1887. The scaffold was used up until 1900. And even after that, Fort Davis became notorious as a land of violent law.

A deputy sheriff was sent to the penitentiary in the early 1960s for handcuffing a prisoner to a fence post and trying to eject a confession from him with an electric cattle prod. That was a "No No."

Things around Fort Davis worth mentioning include the Fort Davis drugstore that's supposed to serve one of the best fountain Cokes around (although I'd stack Stanton Drug against them).

(Photo by Marj Carpenter)

AT DEDICATION — Stuart Udall, then Secretary of Agriculture and Lady Bird Johnson, then First Lady, were both present the day Fort Davis was officially dedicated in 1966, over 100 years after it was built.

There's also Indian Lodge and off in one direction is the Prude Ranch and the McDonald Observatory.

Then there's the rock pile — a beautiful picnic spot.

Going off in the other direction, toward Alpine you come to the location of what is going to be the new Southwestern Desert Complex and go a little further and you come to Mitre Peak.

It's beautiful country and Fort Davis, a slow little community that doesn't hurry much, is right in the middle of it. My good friend Jerry Cook, who coached basketball in Pecos, Artesia and El Paso has settled down to be school superintendent there.

Then my late good friend Barry Scobee, who wrote lots of stories about Fort Davis, is still remembered because the big mountain looming over the town is called Scobee Mountain.

A lovely town to visit, although not too fast paced to live in if you like activity — but very historic and full of artists and poets — up in the Davis Mountains — where I love to ride fence.

Cowboy Cathey ranks eighth in bullriding

DENVER, Colo. — Charlie Lowry, a timed event sensation out of Summerville, Ga., rolled into Sikeston, Mo., with $120 worth of entry fees this weekend, and left toting the all-around saddle. The slender brunette wrapped up his second of two calves in 9.1 seconds to take top cash in the go-round. His sum of 21.2 seconds was better than anyone else's, and he nabbed the average payoff for an $826 payday.

Then came steer wrestling. The Georgian toppled his first draw in 4.5 seconds, good for runner-up money. He beat his own time by two-tenths of a second in the next round, good for second again. With 8.8 seconds on a pair, Lowry split the average win with Tim Best for a grand total of $1,111. Best, of Polk City, Fla., collected $877.

Highlight of the bull riding at Sikeston was an 82-point effort by Randy Magers. The Comanche, Tex., cowboy topped Steiner's bull "Bar 11," the first time a rider had made it to the 8-second whistle aboard him. Magers, who has been to the National Finals eight times in the event, pocketed $892.

Rick Carpenter of Jasper, Ala., racked up 208 points to snare the saddle bronc average. The rides, including a first in the opening go-round, gave him $582. J. C. Jones collected a 140-point total to take first place and $601 in bareback riding. Jones hails from Odessa, Tex.

Paul Tierney of Rapid City, S.D., wrapped up all-around honors at his hometown contest which ended Sunday. A first-place split in calf roping, coupled with a fourth in steer wrestling, handed him a $1,433 check.

Larry Cohorn of Las Cruces, N.M., tied with Tierney for the fastest time on a calf at Rapid City, 9.7 seconds. His clocking handed the all-around cowboy $927.

John McBeth of Burden, Kan., raked out 79 points on "Bartender" to take first place and $1,032 in saddle bronc riding. Bull riding was taken with 82 points and paid $1,410. Luke Lucas of Brinson, Ga., was the cowboy who came out on top.

Wacey Cathey, Big Spring, ranks eighth among all bull riders with winnings totaling $12,380.

Litton ... the leader in microwaves

LITTON is changing the way America cooks and LITTON has changed the way microwaves are built, with many new innovations.

IF YOU HAVE A QUESTION ON MICROWAVES ... LITTON HAS THE ANSWER!

Can you cook a complete meal in a microwave? With the LITTON exclusive Meal-In-One, you can cook one, two, three foods ... even a complete meal ALL AT ONE TIME.

Is it possible to use metal in a microwave? LITTON even uses a metal shelf in the Meal-In-One microwave.

Does a microwave brown meat? Most meats begin browning in 8 to 10 minutes of microwave cooking. For quick searing and grilling of steaks use the LITTON Micro-Browner.

Can I set the time and temperature on a microwave as I do on a conventional range? YES. All you need to do is adjust the Vari-Cook or the Vari-Temp and you cook by time and temperature as you always have, and at any speed.

Is continuous rotation of food necessary while cooking? No, LITTON's unique stirrer system eliminates this need.

Do LITTON microwaves cost more? LITTON, the most advanced in microwaves, costs no more than an ordinary microwave.
