Gov. Allred Calls For Repeal of Race Betting Measure

Condemns Proposals To Permit Liquor Sales By The Drink And Asks For Stronger Enforcement

AUSTIN, Jan. 28 (AP)—Gov. James V. Allred today condemned proposals to permit hard liquor sales by the drink and earnestly appealed for a vote in both houses of the legislature on a bill to outlaw horse race betting.

In his second message to the lawmakers, the governor also recommended changes in the liquor law to strengthen enforcement, prohibition of dog race betting and an effective statute against bookmaking. He urged passage of a bill to abolish the department of agriculture and transfer its duties to A. & M. College.

Allred suggested that advocates of local option on the by-the-drink sales of whiskey and gin should seek to submit a constitutional amendment, not attempt to attain their end through a bill.

"Many, if not most of those who voted for prohibition repeal are opposed to the return of the open saloon in any form," he said. "I have no doubt, however, that other interests in cities, where convictions have been difficult to secure, have conceived the idea that by breaking down enforcement in the first year of experience under the present law we will become discouraged and return to the old system."

"There are many others who honestly believe sale by drink should be legalized in any community voting to authorize such sales. Regardless of our individual opinions, many doubt the authority of the legislature to make such provision under the present constitutional amendment prohibiting the 'open saloon'."

Death Asked For Russian Conspirators

Masses Clamor For Trial Of Others Suspected As Plotters

MOSCOW, Jan. 28 (AP)—Seventeen confessed plotters "must say with their heads" for attempting to overthrow the Soviet government of Joseph Stalin, Prosecutor Andrei Vishinsky demanded in court today.

The Russian attorney general, blasting verbally at the prisoners in his closing trial statement, used the language of Karl Radek, celebrated newspaper commentator and one of the prisoners, in demanding the death penalty.

Radek's article in the government newspaper Izvestia last August demanded a similar sentence for 16 other alleged Trotskyists—all of whom died before a firing squad.

Radek thought he was writing about Zinovieff and Kameneff (two of the former defendants), Vishinsky shouted. "He made a small mistake which this trial corrects. He wrote about himself."

The Russian masses clamored, meanwhile, for another trial to bring to justice others they suspect are involved in the alleged "Trotskyist" plot to overthrow the communist government.

Workers meeting throughout the nation adopted resolutions demanding formal charges against the so-called "rightist center."

They named especially such conspicuous figures in the Soviet as Nicolai Bukharin, recently removed as editor of the newspaper Pravda, and Alexis Rykoff, who was premier of the Soviet Union for six years.

Both Bukharin and Rykoff have been involved in the testimony of 17 confessed conspirators whose trial for treason, being heard today behind closed doors, is expected to end soon.

Demands that the alleged plotters be sentenced to death—a plea Prosecutor Andrei Vishinsky is expected to deliver to the justices of the military collegium of the supreme court tonight—have been adopted throughout the Soviet Union.

Many Cases Of Flu Reported

Disease Widespread, But Not Of Epidemic Proportions

DALLAS, Jan. 28 (AP)—Reports from ten cities indicated today influenza, measles and pneumonia were widespread in Texas but not of epidemic proportions.

Dr. H. E. Duncan, Dallas county health officer, reported probably the most serious situation. He called on the county medical society to aid him in treating the sick, saying numerous calls had been received which his limited staff could not answer promptly.

Dr. E. L. Jones of Longview said influenza and pneumonia were prevalent but not in alarming proportion. San Antonio reported six leading hospitals were not taking additional cases of the two diseases.

In Austin, Corsicana, Borger, Lubbock, Texarkana, Wichita Falls and Paris officers said the diseases were scarcely more widespread than normal.

Excessive rain in Texarkana brought a typhoid warning to residents of a twenty-block area. One rural school was closed in Wichita Falls because of measles.

BLUE LODGE MEETING

Regular meeting of the Blue Lodge will be held at 7:30 p. m. today in the Masonic hall. Dr. P. M. Hirstow, Stanton, district deputy, will be here for the meeting. Lodge officials are anxious to have a good attendance, they said.

Humble And Other Firms Boost Price

Average Advance Of Ten Three-Quarter Cents In Effect Today

HOUSTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—An average oil price advance of 10 3/4 cents a barrel, posted by the Humble Oil and Refining company, went into effect today.

The company, largest producing and oil purchasing company in Texas, announced an increase to $1.27 a barrel for East Texas crude, upon which other fields and grades of oil are based.

Oil men were predicting other large purchasing companies would meet the advance, which would mean about $126,000 daily, or $45,990,000 annually to Texas producers.

The hike fell 6 1/2 cents short of a 17-cent advance posted by the Continental and Barnadall companies in Oklahoma January 4. Some sources believed those companies would lower their posting to meet the Humble schedule. Dan Moran, Continental president, declined to comment, however.

To Curb Violence In Motor Dispute

Troops To Remain On Duty, Governor Says, But Cannot Guarantee Protection

DETROIT, Jan. 28 (AP)—Gov. Frank Murphy reiterated at Lansing today the state's intention to prevent bloodshed or violence in connection with General Motors strikes but told a delegation from the Flint Alliance it was impossible to guarantee all workers full protection in going to and coming from work.

S. A. Raabach of Flint, a Buick worker, headed the group which called today for a strike at the Flint plant. He said the company had been instructed to demand a "yes" or "no" answer from the executive. The Alliance was organized to express anti-strike sentiment.

The governor pointed out that since arrival of national guardsmen at Flint following riots outside a striker-held Fisher Body company plant, there had been no rioting or bloodshed in Flint.

He advised Raabach not to attempt to inflame workers on his return to Flint.

Asserting "we must exhaust every avenue of peace," the governor told the group, "there is not enough power in General Motors, the Flint Alliance or the C.I.O. (Committee for Industrial Reorganization supporting the strikes) to force me to have my position. I know of plans recently in Flint to manufacture riots to get the militia involved. I consider such plans unworthy."

Three organizers for the United Automobile Workers of America, who encountered halting anti-strike crowds in Bay City and Saginaw, were in Flint hospital recovering from injuries.

They were members of a group of five union organizers who set out from Flint yesterday to carry on membership campaign among General Motors employees in Bay City and Saginaw.

The climax of the anti-union demonstrations came when a taxi cab in which four of the organizers were returning to Flint was wrecked near Flint. Deputy Sheriff William Bloom of Genesee county, said the taxi cab was wrecked "deliberately" by another motorcar. All four men were injured but only three required hospital treatment.

Deadline On Mass Flight Poll Tax Near

Only 1,746 Receipts Issued To Date; Saturday Is Last Day

If you want to vote in at least two, and perhaps more important elections during 1937, you must pay your poll tax not later than Saturday.

Wednesday afternoon only 1,746 poll tax receipts had been issued. This compared with the all-time record for the county, established last year when 4,520 poll taxes were paid, and 4,059 in 1934, the previous record.

With 5,064 poll taxes assessed this year, members of the tax collector's staff did not anticipate payments in excess of 2,500.

In off election years such as 1937, poll tax payments in Howard county have run about 55 per cent of the total in years when democratic primaries and general elections are held.

This year voters in Big Spring will be called upon to name two members of the independent school district board of trustees and two members of the city commission. Both elections come in April.

There are possibilities that there will be other special elections during the year, perhaps involving a bond issue or the wet and dry question.

THREE COUNTIES TO BE ADDED TO THIS PENSION DISTRICT

Scurry, Mitchell and Kent counties will be added to district No. 13 by the Texas old age assistance commission effective January 31, George G. White, district supervisor was advised today.

The counties are being taken from the Abilene district which is now left with only seven counties. Homer Brelsford, Jr., special investigator of the Abilene district, will bring records of his district office here to White within the next few days. White was told. All cases in the counties will be handled out of Big Spring.

Change in the district lines increases the numbers of counties in the district headed by White to 16. Counties in the district are: Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent, Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Scurry, Andrews, Martin, Howard, Mitchell, Ector, Midland, and Glasscock.

ANNUAL MEETING OF COUNTRY CLUB SET FOR FRIDAY NIGHT

Annual meeting of the country club will be held at 7:15 p. m. Friday at the club house, officers announced today.

At the meeting officers for 1937 will be elected, the financial and other reports heard. Plans for the year also will be discussed. Members are urged to attend.

BLAST LEVEE TO PREVENT MORE FLOOD LOSS

This Associated Press aerial photograph shows pent-up flood waters as they were released when U. S. engineers dynamited the fuse plug levee of the Birds Point-New Madrid floodway, inundating a vast area of land, hoping release of the Mississippi waters would ease pressure on the Cairo levee. Many left New Madrid and surrounding territory fearing the extra pressure would break the levee there.

Flood Relief Money Comes In Steadily

Contributors Urged To Call 906 And Gifts Will Be Collected

Donations to the flood relief fund continued to be received here today by the Howard county chapter of the Red Cross at an encouraging rate, Shine Phillips, chairman, said.

He urged those who have not contributed to call telephone No. 906 and give their address and amount and that a worker would call for the money. Money may be left with Phillips at Cunningham and Phillips No. 1 store.

Coahoma Thursday contributed $35 and indicated that as much more would be raised there. No report had been received from Glasscock county.

Benefit Show

Sunday at 8 p. m. the Ritz theatre will give a benefit show for relief of flood sufferers. Entire proceeds of the show will go to the Red Cross fund. Employees are donating time and J. V. Robb, manager of the R. and R. theatres, is making no charge for theatre and film facilities. Admission will be 25 cents.

Cosden Refinery employees have contributed to the flood relief fund 100 per cent, said Phillips today. The Cosden workers also rallied to the membership campaign 100 per cent.

Sacrificial giving stood out among donations to the fund. One man who said he had no money brought a quilt his wife had made as a substitute gift. A small child toddled up with a dime, and then promised more. Another man with no money offered to split the groceries in his home. A widow, earning a meagre wage, gave one dollar and insisted she would pinch her funds for another 25 cents. A denture Maxine gave 15 cents, and many others gave unselfishly from scant funds.

PENSION PAYMENTS

AUSTIN, Jan. 28 (AP)—The old age assistance commission announced today completion of January pension payments totaling $1,382,736. Checks went to 92,126 persons. Approximately 15,000 were cut from the rolls in January and 8,000 added.

Cities Below The Crest Still Are Being Evacuated

Levee Workers Busy Along The Mississippi; Death Toll Approaches 300 And Property Loss Put At 400 Million

By The Associated Press

The flooded Ohio river, struggling like a captive serpent of fabulous strength, sought escape against weakening levees today on its cresting descent to the Mississippi.

The known dead stood at 293, the homeless passed the million mark, an additional 500,000 were endangered, and property loss was estimated at more than $400,000,000.

Along the 1,000-mile trail of desolation the slowly receding waters lapped at empty houses in empty towns.

The cost of rehabilitation, now becoming of paramount interest in Northern Ohio river valley communities where the worst apparently has passed, drew estimates running into billions. Officials said the average cost for cleaning and drying out a single flooded home was $250.

Fresh dangers cropped out by the dozens as the crest of the flood swung south.

At Paducah, Ky., the next point of crisis, Red Cross officials hurried to evacuate thousands of reluctant inhabitants in advance of the oncoming flood peak.

Col. C. J. Rhodes, U. S. army engineer, warned of a 61-foot crest within the next 48 hours.

8,000 Leave Cairo

Below, at Cairo, Ill., only men remained in the inland city to bolster the 40-foot wall against an expected four-foot rise in the river. Eight thousand—mostly women and children and the aged—had already fled.

At Mound City, Ill., a back levee collapsed routing 650 men, 50 women and 175 CCC boys to higher ground.

On the Mississippi river itself, now beginning to stir uneasily under the vanguard of the Ohio's flood load, the Melwood levee was threatened with collapse along its 332-mile boundary on the Arkansas side.

Hard-hit Louisville, with the highest death roll in the disaster area, had its hopes darkened again today as rain began to fall.

Work To Save Dike

In Tennessee, levee workers battled desperately to save the dike above Tiptonville.

High water that passed Cairo when army engineers dynamited the Birds Point-New Madrid "fuse plug" to relieve pressure of the beleaguered city, rose steadily in the 131,000-acre spillway basin today. Hundreds who were driven from their lowland homes huddled in concentration camps behind the basin's setback levee—and wondered if it would hold. The answer was expected tonight.

While the Ohio showed signs of loosening its grip upon a wide area between Pittsburgh and Cairo, it became apparent the full story of the havoc will not be known for days.

Louisville, once gay derby town, now desolate, buried its dead in trenches as the flood waters began to subside. The number of lives lost was a matter of conjecture. Mayor Neville Miller said there were 200 dead after the city's health officer admitted the bodies of 130 victims had been recovered.

Disease Threat

Tension eased as the river started to recede, although sickness was increasing. Electricity was shut off, water rationed and sanitation problems increased hourly.

The threat of disease lingered in Cincinnati but there was hope and good cheer as rehabilitation efforts were begun. "Water flowed into the mains from artesian wells after a famine but the supply was still short of the city's needs."

The war department was advised its forces were ready on moment's notice to evacuate by land and water residents of any areas threatened with inundation when the flood crest pours down the Mississippi next week.

Reassuring words came, however, from engineers who said the river's billion dollar dike system from Cairo to the Gulf showed no signs of weakness and hope was seen, this heart of Louisville.

Windows in homes pop up, heads bob out, both men and women. "Hey, where you bound, sailors?" People run out on their second story porches, just above the waterline.

"Got anything to eat? Any cigarettes? When are they coming for us? Hey sailors, take us along!"

But we're supply boats, on a mission for milk that thousands of babies and children need desperately in the refugee camps on the highlands back from the flood; bread for the battered, hungry grownups more are rationed to the bone.

Forecasts On Flood Level Are Brighter

Mass Evacuation Of Lowlands To Be Ordered As Last Resort

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 28 (AP)—Optimistic flood crest forecasts eased Mississippi valley tension today even while water edged higher on the levees which engineers labored to strengthen.

Meteorologist F. W. Brist expressed the belief the Mississippi will crest at Memphis at 48 feet, five feet lower than the estimate of Lieut. Col. Eugene Reynolds, district engineer.

Military authorities advanced plans for mass evacuation of the river lowlands, should such a step become necessary, and troops patrolled the East Arkansas flood zone.

"We think the probable crest stage, barring further heavy rains, will be: Memphis, 48 feet by February 5 to 7; Helena, Ark., 57.5 to 58 feet, February 7 to 9," Brist said.

To Give Warning

There is a variation of from one to two feet in the flood gauges of the weather bureau and the engineers.

The death toll from weather and floods in Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee reached 39. Upwards of 200,000 were homeless and more than 2,500,000 acres were under water.

In Washington Gen. Malin Craig termed the possibility of any widespread evacuation remote.

Army engineers along the levees will sound a warning before any removal is ordered.

Families then will be carried to safety only from localized danger spots rather than from the entire 1,000-mile stretch between Cairo and New Orleans.

General Craig's three army corps areas reported they were ready for any emergency affecting all or a

LETHAL-GAS CHAMBER SOUGHT FOR TEXAS

AUSTIN, Jan. 28 (AP)—The lethal gas chamber would be substituted for the electric chair in Texas under a bill introduced today by Reps. Arthur Holland of Belton and Cecil T. Rhodes of Hearne.

"The death penalty," the bill said, "should be inflicted in the most humane way possible, and the use of lethal gas in other states has been meeting this end."

This was the third proposal affecting the death penalty. One would abolish it and another would make it mandatory for kidnappers of children under 15 years old.

A Vast World Of Water—And People Choking With Thirst; That's The Picture Of Inundated Louisville

By EDWARD J. NEIL

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 28 (AP)—On the main street of Louisville, in the heart of the Blue Grass beautiful town, people were fishing—from second story windows for food with 20 foot poles, baskets tied to the ends of them.

It was the weirdest sight I've ever seen, this heart of Louisville under fifteen feet of water, bright sunlight streaming warmly down on a fantastic world of eddying, muddy water with houses, factories, hotels, warehouses, growing up out of this strange surface.

There were stores filled with mud and 20 feet away, people were starving. There was nothing but a vast world of water and still people were choking with thirst. You had to see it to believe it.

We started out from a pontoon platform at 18th street and Broadway in the good ship "Port Huron," a coast guard launch from the Great Lakes, towing a big life boat manned by stevedores from New York, to get a shipment of bread and milk for the hungry sufferers of flood-torn Louisville.

Windows in homes pop up, heads bob out, both men and women. "Hey, where you bound, sailors?" People run out on their second story porches, just above the waterline.

Pretty Valentine Affair Given By Dr. And Mrs. McConnell For New Church Members, Other Friends

Large Number Of Church Members, Families And Friends Call At Presbyterian Church At Informal Affair Given By Pastor

An informal entertainment that portrayed the friendliness suggested by the coming Valentine season was that given by Dr. and Mrs. D. F. McConnell of the First Presbyterian church Wednesday evening when they complimented church members, their families and friends and especially those 36 members who have joined during the 13 months pastorate of Dr. McConnell.

Approximately one hundred and fifty called during the evening and were served tea by Mrs. S. L. Baker, president of the women's auxiliary, and Mrs. Emil Fahrenkamp, whose husband is president of the men's organization.

Assisting were young women from the young people's department and included Miss Joelle Tompkins, Miss Katherine Hanson, Miss Nell Rae McCrary, Miss Inez Knauer, Miss Evelyn La Londe, Miss Sue Alice Cole, Miss Ethel Elaine Corcoran, Miss Sarah McClelland, and Mrs. Ralph La Londe. Mrs. Raymond Dunagan, Mrs. H. H. Moser and Mrs. T. S. Currie were in charge of refreshments.

The tea table was an improvised valentine, was covered in blue crepe paper with fluted edges and centered with red satin ribbon streamers at the end of which were large bows. At intervals were placed eight red tapers held in white holders, the light from which cast a soft glow over the crystal and silver appointments. Red carnations in blue vases placed about the room furthered the red, white and blue theme chosen by the hostess.

Following the serving guests were led in a informal program by their hosts and during the games it was learned that included in the

Reading And Writing

By John Selby

In producing "Bernard Shaw, Frank Harris and Oscar Wilde," Robert Harbrough Sherard has used a magnifying glass on half the literary molehills in England, and still has failed to find a mountain.

For that matter, he also has neglected to produce a book of great readability. Perhaps that is because the work is largely a product of annoyance, curiously coupled to a worthy desire that Oscar Wilde's memory be as unclouded as possible under the circumstances. It is evident that not even Mr. Sherard can paint the Wilde lily white.

The situation is approximately thus: Sherard knew Wilde and most of the figures that clustered about him. He became Wilde's biographer, and has spent much of the time since Wilde's death studying his life and career, and writing about him. He has, probably, as balanced a viewpoint on the great Wilde controversy as anybody could achieve. And when Frank Harris published through the agency of the late Otto Kahn, his "The Life and Confessions of Oscar Wilde," in war time, it annoyed Sherard almost beyond endurance.

This annoyance was generated in part by Harris' shockingly inaccurate book, and in part by the fact that Harris plagiarized Sherard, according to the latter, in many instances. Then George Bernard Shaw read the Harris book "at a sitting" (Sherard doubts this, since it runs nearly 150,000 words) and wrote a 6,000-word commendation to Harris. This infuriated Sherard, and still does.

So he has written his latest book out of his anger. He accuses Harris of deliberately concocting a pornographic book for commercial reasons, and he accuses Shaw of ignorance or worse in thus endorsing it. Wilde was not as bad as he was painted, according to Sherard, who of course makes no attempt to prove Wilde a blameless soul in private life. England's treatment of Wilde was hypocritical and stupid, Sherard says.

Harris is dead and beyond caring, but it is probable that Shaw's ears did a little burning when he read "Bernard Shaw, Frank Harris and Oscar Wilde."

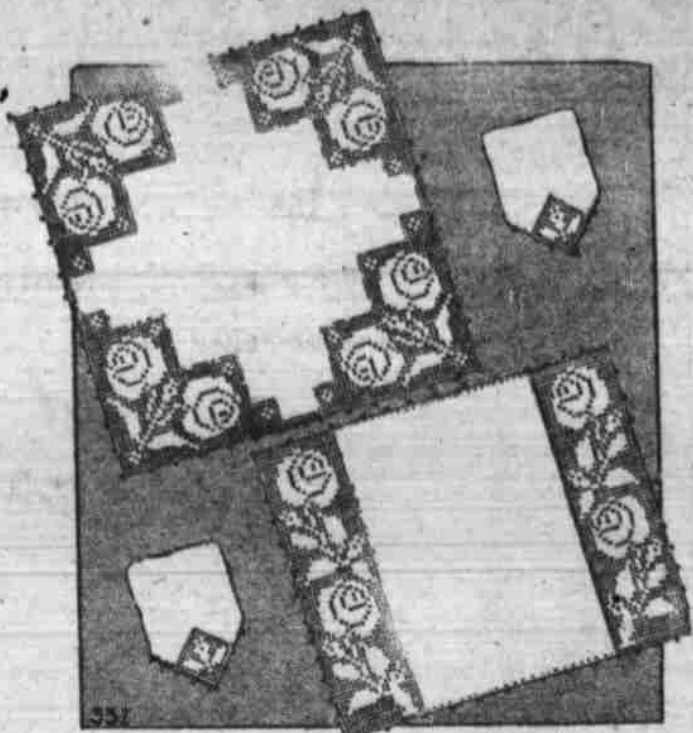

In any case the heat generated by the Wilde scandal must have been considerable, when it can inflame an author to this extent so long after the fact. Lord Alfred Douglas writes a preface for the book incidentally, which is worth reading.

Pretty Luncheon Set

By RUTH ORR

Pattern No. 331

There's something about human nature that makes us spend our summers thinking of winter sports, and our winters in wishing for harbingers of spring. So, we've decided to try to do something about it, and the result is, you can now bring lovely roses right into your dining room, on this charming luncheon set. The instructions include directions for making corners for a table center, bands for the place mats, and corners for the napkins. When finished, the center measures about 18 inches square, the place mats 12 by 18 inches.

The pattern envelope contains complete, easy-to-understand illustrated directions, with block and space diagrams to aid you; also what crochets and what materials and how much you will need.

To obtain this pattern, send for No. 331 and enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to cover service and postage. Address Big Spring, Texas, Herald, Needle Dept., P. O. Box 200, Stanton, D. New York, N. Y.

Works Of Schubert, Mendelssohn Heard At Music Club Meet

"Songs and Song Writers" was the topic for discussion at the Wednesday meeting of the Music Study club in the Settles hotel when Mrs. Roy Carter presided in the absence of Mrs. G. C. Schurman, club president.

Mrs. J. H. Kirkpatrick was program leader and read short histories of the lives of Schubert and Mendelssohn, first the song writers. Mrs. Raymond Winn gave an interesting paper on the development of the art song after which Mrs. L. S. McDowell sang "Ave Marie," a Schubert composition. Miss Roberta Gay played Mendelssohn's "Consolation," and Mrs. Charles Houser played "Trauerlied" as a violin solo with accompaniment by Mrs. Anne Gibson Houser.

Mrs. Orval Shore of Sweetwater, guest of Mrs. Walter Broughton, attended the meeting as a visitor. Mrs. Anne Gibson Houser announced the scheduled appearance of Percy Grainger, popular pianist of the modern school, at Hardin-Simmons university in Abilene on February 12. Members of the club were urged to make reservations for this noteworthy musical performance.

Church Members Have Entertainments At Stanton During Week

STANTON, Jan. 28 (Sp.)—Two social meetings opened the week for members of the Methodist church here. The missionary society entertained with a luncheon at the church recently, at which the conference minutes were studied and new officers discussed their duties.

About 20 women were present. Officers of the society, who recently assumed their duties, include president, Mrs. Mary Hall, vice-president, Mrs. Rute Davy, (also chairman of the spiritual life group); secretary, Mrs. O. B. Bryan; treasurer, Mrs. Cawthorne; assistant treasurer, Mrs. W. H. Falkerson; superintendent of publicity, Mrs. Claude Houston; superintendent of Christian social relations, Mrs. James Jones; chairman of local work, Mrs. Ray Simpson; study leader, Mrs. Phil Berry.

Second event was a chili supper given by the Friendship Class of young married people at the church. Hilarious contests and an auction sale, with Rev. Raymond Van Zant as auctioneer, began for money, and oddities of wearing apparel for the purchases, furnished amusement for the evening.

Demonstration Agent Repeats Canning Show

R-Bar Club Sees Fruit Cake Processed; Two Give Talks

Benefiting those who were unable to attend the fruit cake canning demonstration recently given at the home of Mrs. R. E. Martin, Miss Lora Farnsworth repeated the demonstration at the home of Mrs. H. W. Wise when the R-Bar Home Demonstration Club met there Tuesday. The members also heard talks from the bedroom and wardrobe demonstrators.

During the fruit cake show, Miss Farnsworth gave the procedure followed in mixing the cake and filling the cans until the process period had ended. Mrs. Martin, club chairman, also gave the recipe that is used for the cake.

In a talk on "Things to do to Make a Better Bed," Mrs. W. C. Rogers, bedroom demonstrator, urged that all members strive to reach their co-operator's goal in bedroom improvement. Listed as betterments were, a slat for each row of coils in the springs and also by securing covers for springs, mattress and pillows that not only add to the warmth of the bed but also to its cleanliness as all covers are removable.

Mrs. G. W. Davis, wardrobe demonstrator, asked members for cooperation and to work toward the object of their accomplishments that includes making a dress and slip, or a child's dress and provide adequate space in closets for the family's clothes.

Under the direction of the program committee, the monthly programs in the year book were filled in.

The hostess served refreshments to Mrs. W. L. Eggleston, Mrs. W. T. Heckler, Mrs. H. W. Musgrove, Mrs. H. W. Robinson, Mrs. R. E. Martin, Mrs. A. D. Martin, Mrs. H. C. Reid, Mrs. G. W. Davis, Mrs. Elmo Birkhead, Miss Lovelle Farrar, Miss Mattie Franklin, an associate member, and Mrs. Albert Edens, a visitor from the Center Point club. The meeting on February 9 will be held at the home of Mrs. H. W. Musgrove.

Center Point 4-H Girl Plans Model Closet As Demonstration Project

One phase of demonstration in clothing work which Miss Norma Lee Blow, 4-H girl of Center Point club, is planning to accomplish in the near future is to provide adequate clothing storage.

Norma Lee is now sharing the family closet that measures nine feet wide, 25 inches in depth and 10 feet high.

With the aid of her parents she is going to make two closets and improve one for her own use. She plans to construct shelves, hat racks, a shoe rack, rod and hangers and a door. Completion for the model closet will be reached by painting and papering.

Varnish And Wax Adds To Life Of Linoleum Rugs

Subject Of "Honourable Estate" Is Close To The Heart Of Its Author, V. Brittain

Vera Brittain's latest novel "Honourable Estate" to be reviewed by Miss Evelyn Oppenheimer at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Settles Hotel under the auspices of the 1936 Hyperion Club, presents in fictional form the same protest against social injustice and futile war that marked with bitter realism the stark beauty of her "Testament of Youth."

In her new book the author is concerned with the occasional inhumanity of man to woman that refers back to the other book in which her voice was raised in protest against man's inhumanity to man, a cry that has not been drowned by literary success.

In her lengthy narrative of England that covers a space of time from 1880 to the present, Miss Brittain considers three marriages, four of an informal relationship unblemished by clergy is added to the list. She depicts the life of an intelligent, serious minded woman whose life is ruthlessly smashed by the narrow, fanatical views of her vicar husband. Her marital tragedies are many fold and attempts at friendship and confidence with a literary woman are frustrated by lack of understanding.

Rural and industrial England live in her book and "Honourable Estate" has interest that obscures minor faults. It is a passionate preaching for equal rights and social justice.

Miss Oppenheimer is widely known for her lectures and book reviews and Big Spring book lovers are looking forward to the date when she will review this interesting as well as educational book that gives a clear insight into relationships of men and women and the problems that arise from misunderstanding.

Four Are Guests Of Mrs. R. B. Bliss At Ely See Club Party

Four were guests of Mrs. R. B. Bliss Wednesday afternoon when she was hostess to the Ely See Bridge club at her home.

They were Mrs. George Crothwaite, Mrs. P. H. Liberty, Mrs. M. S. Goldman and Mrs. Noel Lawson, Mrs. Goldman scoring highest for this group. Mrs. Elmo Wason and Mrs. J. B. Young scored high and second high respectively.

SORORITY TO MEET

Miss Roberta Gay will be hostess to the members of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, 8 o'clock Friday evening at her home, 600 East 15th street. The program is to be in charge of Miss Edith Hatchett.

Norma Lee is now sharing the family closet that measures nine feet wide, 25 inches in depth and 10 feet high.

With the aid of her parents she is going to make two closets and improve one for her own use. She plans to construct shelves, hat racks, a shoe rack, rod and hangers and a door. Completion for the model closet will be reached by painting and papering.

H. G. Lees, Miss Greene Are Married

Announcement Is Made By Couple Whose Marriage Took Place Tuesday

Announcement of the marriage of Herbert G. "Herb" Lees to Miss Eunice Greene was made today by the couple who were wed at the home of Dr. D. F. McConnell, Presbyterian minister, on Tuesday evening with a ring ceremony.

Both are well known in business and professional circles here. Mrs. Lees being employed with the Eberly Funeral Home and Mr. Lees with the Couden Refinery.

For her wedding ensemble the bride chose a blue, ankle length dress with gray sequined trim and gray accessories. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Greene of Sweetwater and is a graduate of Baylor-Belton College in Belton.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Alice Lees of Dallas and is well known here having made his home in this city for a number of years.

Mrs. Dehlinger won the bingo prize.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Crothwaite, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Landers, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Atherton, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Allen and the host couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Landers will entertain next.

MERRILLS RETURN

Mrs. E. D. Merrill and daughter, Miss Evelyn Merrill, returned Wednesday evening from a five weeks' visit in Los Angeles, Calif., and points in Arizona and New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Moore have returned to their home in Clyde after spending a week here visiting their daughter, Miss Mary Ann Moore.

C. J. Staples of the Safeway Store was on the sick list today, and was confined to his home at 304 East Sixth street.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

A cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. You can relieve them now with Croomulion, an emulsion of Crocodine that is pleasant to take. Croomulion is a medical discovery that aids nature to soothe and heal the infected membranes and to relieve the irritation and inflammation as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.

Medical authorities have for many years recognized the wonderful effects of Beechwood Crocodine for treating coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations. A chemist worked out a special process of blending Crocodine with other ingredients so that now in Croomulion you get a real dose of Beechwood Crocodine which is palatable and can even be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children. Thousands of doctors now use Croomulion in their own families and practice, and druggists rank Croomulion top because in this genuine, original product you can get a real dose of Crocodine so emulsified that it goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm.

Croomulion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles, especially those that start with a common cold and hang on and on. Get a bottle of Croomulion right now from your druggist. Use it all up as directed and if you fail to get satisfactory relief, he is authorized to refund every cent of your money. Get Croomulion right now. (Adv.)

WATERS STILL HOLD SECRET OF NUMBER OF PRISON DEATHS

Convicts, After Riot While Flood Swept In, Moved To Concentration Camp

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 28 (AP)—Dirty, debris-choked flood water in two cell blocks held today the grim secret of the number of madmen who died during the riotous three days and three nights of frenzied rioting in the decrepit 135-year-old state prison here.

"This place was a horror hole even under normal conditions," said Gov. A. B. Chandler after a tour of inspection. "How terrible it was during those three nights will never be known."

Without heat or water, a thousand convicts fought and screamed in blocks A and B. Heavy steel doors were torn from their concrete moorings. Barred windows were battered out of shape.

Then, they were evacuated three days ago along with 1,500 other prisoners. Age lined even the grim-faced youthful convicts when they were removed from the now permanently abandoned prison.

Prison officials, national guard officers and newspapermen fished yesterday in the forbidding water and debris of battered cots, ripped pillows and smashed pans—seeking the bodies of a dozen or more missing.

"These cells are the meanest and most horrible sight I have ever laid eyes on," declared Governor Chandler as the officials gave up their search, waiting for waters to recede in the frowning blocks which held English prisoners during the War of 1812.

"How we got this place evacuated without wholesale fatalities is a miracle. If I hadn't seen this place I would have laughed at anyone who said such a sight existed anywhere at any time," Chandler declared.

Physicians blamed the three days and nights of terror as flood waters slowly rose in the ancient prison for sudden insanity which seized one of the evacuated convicts. Howling and screaming, he was led away to an asylum.

One evacuated prisoner told how he and a group of companions had threatened to kill another group that planned to set fire to the blocks in the hope of forcing a quick evacuation and making escape probable.

"We swung bars over their heads and told them we would kill them dead," he said. Burned mattresses indicated several attempts had been made to start a general conflagration.

The prisoners lived today in a temporary concentration camp near this state capital's city limits—a virtual paradise by comparison.

ALBUQUERQUE, Jan. 28 (AP)—A strong wool market for "many months," stimulated by war threats, was foreseen here today by C. J. Fawcett, general manager of the National Wool Marketing corporation.

Addressing the final day's session of the National Wool Growers' convention, Fawcett said that heavy demand in 1935 and 1936 consumed the domestic surplus, while foreign markets were strengthened by the need of wool for military uniforms.

"It is estimated 20 pounds of clean wool are required to outfit a soldier for a year of fighting in the front lines, and there are little or no recoverable products from this class of material," he said.

"Judging from the manner in which every European nation is arming itself, much wool probably will be required for some years to come for this purpose."

The strong demand, coupled with a somewhat less than normal supply, he said, "has set the stage for many months for a substantial rise in wool values."

Neutral Blockade Of Spanish Coast Committee's Plan

By the Associated Press International negotiators, spurred by Italo-German promises to cooperate, rushed plans today to isolate war-infected Spain.

A neutral blockade of Spanish coasts, to halt spread of the war fever to the rest of Europe, was planned by the London non-intervention committee, using fleets of four great powers concentrated in the Mediterranean.

Details of the plan, considered while the Madrid government forces were reporting new strategic victories, still were indefinite.

To bolster the coastal blockade of foreign arms and men, the non-intervention subcommittee hoped posting of neutral observers on the Hispano-Portuguese border would be permitted, but Portugal expressed uncompromising opposition.

Warships of the four great powers were in readiness to patrol Spanish ports, the German and Italian probably guarding socialist coastal property, the French vessels to be stationed in fascist waters. Britain's sea-dogs would assume the role of umpire. Soviet Russian ships were expected to join the international patrol later.

Government General Jose Miaja, assuming the Madrid offensive, saw his men sweep to a dawn victory, winning West Park hill dominating the shell-torn University City sector of Madrid's northwestern outskirts.

Civil War Crisis In China Settled

NANKING, Jan. 28 (AP)—Military headquarters of the central government announced today the peaceful settlement of China's prolonged civil war crisis.

The rebellion of the northwest communist armies and Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's Manchurian forces, which started last Dec. 12 with the kidnapping of Premier Chiang Kai-Shek at the Shensi provincial capital of Sianfu was reported completely liquidated.

Military authorities were confident the agreement with representatives of Gen. Yang Hu-Chen, commander of the mutinous forces since Marshal Chang gave himself up, would be carried out without difficulty.

Yang and the other rebellious chieftains, who were reported to have demanded war on Japan as the price of their surrender, would withdraw their forces from southern Shensi.

They will take up outposts in the communist influenced territories of Eastern Kansu, Ninghsia, and Northwest Shensi provinces permitting reestablishment of the central government's authority at Sianfu.

Around And About The Sports Circuit

By Tom Benesty

JOE LUNK of Moore, now enrolled in E. S. high school, is expected to make a fine athlete, and judging from this note sent in by our Moore correspondent, he must be a fine all-around fellow: "Joe has shown good sportsmanship in all school activities. His many friends here are loathe to give him up, but wish him much success in Big Spring high school." Miss Arach Phillips, Moore coach, hated to see Joe go. He was a star basketball player, and has a nice collection of green and gold sweaters.

VEDNON L. JARD, Kerrville high school football coach, visited in Big Spring today. Hilliard was on his way to Plainview. Asked if he was considering making a change, Hilliard stated he was, but was not sure why he should be worried about his Kerrville job. The Antlers gave the Amarillo Bandits a tough battle the past season in the state championship game.

Commenting on the move that placed Stephenville in District 3, Hilliard said it wouldn't be more than a year or two before the Stephenville fans would be ready to go back to Class B.

AGGIES GAIN 2ND PLACE IN CAGE RACE

NOSE OUT BAYLOR 21 TO 19

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Texas Aggies held undisputed possession of second place in the Southwest conference basketball race today as a result of a 21 to 19 victory over the Baylor Bears last night.

With the count knotted at 19-all in the last 40 seconds of play, Capt. Ed Lee fired a one-handed field goal to give the Aggies their winning margin.

The Aggies, trailing 6 to 7 at the half, but up a 14 to 10 advantage in the first eight minutes of the second period but the see-saw battle saw the Bruins take a 16 to 15 lead a few minutes later. After Lee and Virgil Harris found the basket to put the Aggies ahead again, Ken Clark tossed a field goal and Sorrell made a charity shot for Baylor to tie the score.

Lee won individual honors with 10 points.

Tight defensive playing and wild shooting kept the score low. Wilson White and Hub Kirkpatrick, Baylor scoring aces, were held in check by the Aggie defense.

Dukes Tackle ACC Wildcats

By HANK HART

Tackling the improved Abilene Christian College Wildcats in Abilene will be the Big Spring Dukes' job tonight in an affair that threatens to put an end to a great record.

Through Wednesday night, when "Milkway" Baker's company of educated courtmen counted nearly 100 points against a Bi-County loop opponent, the locals ran their victory streak to seven straight games in which they have scored 50 or more points.

But tonight they're going to meet their toughest competition since they battled and lost to Texas Tech's Matadors early in the season. True, they outscored the Wildcats, 46-31, in their first meeting of the year, but Tommy Hutto happened to be "hot" that night in scoring nearly half the Dukes' points. The Coachman will probably have two men camping on his trail throughout the game.

The locals will go against a pair of offensive threats in Lewis Parker, ACC all-conference man, and Willis Hudson, a high scoring spark plug of the team.

Robert Stone and Chick Owens, forwards, and Kendall Jones, guard, complete the Christian lineup.

The Bakermans set up a new record in swamping the M-W Westlanders, 57-21, in scoring their seventh straight league victory, the Dukes tallied 11 more points than they counted against the Ward five several weeks ago.

Tommy Hutto, with 25 points, and Jack Smith, trailing Hutto by a free throw, led the Duke brigade in their assault on the backboard.

Tommy's 12 field goals and one basket loss "upped" his total for the season to 259 points.

Howard Lynch Lou Gehrig Gets Down To Deep Study

Seven Years An Assistant, Lynch Takes Over Post Vacated By Cherry

(Punch-Hitting for Eddie Briets)

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Educational note: Lou Gehrig is studying Freud. No American leaguer, Freud in the gent who blazes everything on sex. Lou's just on the introduction now, but by spring training, he should be talking about "repressions," "inhibitions," and "complexes." Philosophical note: Lou Gehrig (yeah, the same guy) has also been reading George Santayana. Lou was a nice guy.

Too... Man overboard!... And as Pegler says, "throw him an anchor, men." They're going to need that point on the Cincinnati outfield this summer. You can row a boat over the centerfield fence out there now. Add inevitable publicity notes: "Bob Pastor has bet $1,000 to $7,000 he'll beat Joe Louis Friday night." Babe Ruth says Joe DiMaggio has a weakness at the plate. So does Joe Louis, but it's another plate. Among the great Italians in the sports world is this boy Hank Luisetti of Stanford's basketball team. Out on the coast they call him Mr. Stanford. How good is he? Well, Stanford beat U.C.L.A. 63-40 one night and 69-36 another, and Hank scored 31 points in one and 21 in the other.

The trout officer says he's gonna chase Bob Feller if he doesn't finish his high school education. The kid should be easy to find. Casey Stengel, ex-Dodger manager, has turned down four minor league jobs because any job he takes under $15,000 will not him exactly nothing. The Dodgers have to pay him that much under terms of a contract which still has a year to go.

The ball players are still investing their money in Randy Moore's oil land in Texas. The Dodgers' outfielder has sold stock in the company to Al Lopez, Johnny Cooney and the great Stengel.

Buffaloes Win Lamesa Tussle

LAMESA, Jan. 28 (Sp.)—In a 24-24 tie at the end of the regular playing period, the Foran high school Buffaloes rallied in the closing minutes of the extra period to beat out the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes, 28 to 26.

MORE LAUGHS IN BASKETBALL AS PLAYED IN '92

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Basketball as played in 1892, the year of its conception at Springfield college, has at least one thing on basketball today—it produces more laughs.

Using the 13 original rules posted on a bulletin board at Springfield college in 1892 by the game's founder, Dr. James Naismith, the first game was reproduced at Madison Square Garden last night. Ten minutes of play with two nine men teams produced only one goal—a long shot that settled into the peach basket and refused to bounce out. The referee used a ladder to retrieve it.

Eighteen men started the scramble for the ball, tossed into the center of the floor by George Bernier. Two men were banished for personal fouls during the game.

The players dove into the crowd for possession of the ball whenever it went out of bounds, for the rules gave it to the player touching it first. Fortunately nobody was injured in the game, which proved to be a mixture of rugby, hockey, soccer and basketball as it is known today. The players wore shin and knee guards beneath their long trousers.

LEFT-HANDED TEAM! NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Brooklyn is sure of leading the National league in one thing in '37—namely, south-paw outfielders.

Five of Rubeen Grimes' flycatchers flung from the port side: Johnny Cooney, Heinie Munish, Eddie Morgan, Nick Treanor, and Wildcat Wilson. Eight of the nine Dodger outfielders are left-handed hitters.

On the Brown varsity basketball squad are Paul Clements, base ball captain-elect; Walter W. Burbank, who led the undefeated soccer team of last fall; and Leonard M. Campbell, last year's freshman one leader.

Legal Stymie Blocks Ousted PGA Manager

Outside Activity Cause Of Dismissal, President Jacobus States

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Bob Harlow's battle for an opportunity to speak out in the meeting on his dismissal from the post of tournament bureau manager for the Professional Golfers' association was blocked today by a legal stymie.

Harlow, ousted Dec. 13 because, according to George Jacobus, president of the P. G. A., outside activity kept him from giving full time attention to the job, says he was dismissed without being given an opportunity to present his side of the case.

Monday, he sent photostatic copies of regulations from five sectional officers, the number required by the by-laws, requesting a special meeting of the executive committee, to Tom Walsh, P. G. A. secretary. Yesterday, Walsh was advised by an attorney that the original regulations were required. Walsh immediately returned the copies to Harlow along with the legal information.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics will "string along" with the baseball chain farm system because Connie Mack, veteran pilot, sees no other way of competing with teams like the Yankees and Cardinals.

"The day is not far off when every one of the 16 major league clubs will be supplied with farms ranging from Class AA leagues down to D," Mack said last night in announcing his decision to establish chain farms.

So far his only working agreement is with Williamsport of the New York-Pennsylvania league, and he said it would take "one year, two or maybe more" to put his new plan into operation.

"You can see why I've got to fall in line," said the veteran manager whose Athletics finished in last place in the American league last season. "The Cincinnati Reds, after finishing in last and seven place for years, went into the minor league farm system. Last year they finished at the top of the second division and made a net profit of $105,000."

Chain Farm System Suits Connie Mack

All Major League Clubs Must Be Supplied With 'Farms,' Veteran Says

CHICAGO CUBS ADD NEW UNIT

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Chicago's Cubs yesterday added a fourth unit, Moline, Ill., of the revised Three Eye League, to their "farm" system.

The day is not far off when every one of the 16 major league clubs will be supplied with farms ranging from Class AA leagues down to D," Mack said last night in announcing his decision to establish chain farms.

Bob Likes Speed And Plenty Of It

VAN METER, In. Jan. 28 (AP)—Speed—that's what Bob Feller likes.

Cleveland's young pitching sensation has plenty of speed to put the hop on his fast ball, and this winter he is getting his supreme thrill by sending his new automobile roaring over the highways.

Seventy or eighty miles an hour. It doesn't matter to the Iowa farm youth who became the American League strikeout record-holder at 17 as long as there is smooth sailing ahead.

Bob bought his car shortly after the close of the major league baseball season. He uses it principally to dash back and forth between his home and the Van Meter high school.

But the young fellow who struck out 17 Philadelphia batters to tie the major league strikeout mark for a single game asserts he doesn't take any chances.

Farm work in keeping the prize rookie of 1936 in condition. Before and after school he helps his father with the chores on their 260 acre farm. The Fellers feed 60 cattle and have two dozen hogs.

LEARN TO RELAX TO BE A GOOD CAGE PLAYER

DENVER, Jan. 28 (AP)—To be a good basketball player, you must learn to relax.

The big difference between a star cage performer and a good football player is the difference between looseness and tenseness says Clyde W. Hubbard, who coaches both sports.

He is the head basketball coach and assistant football coach at Denver university.

"A player must be tense for football," Hubbard said today, "but for basketball he must relax. There's all the difference in the world between the two games. As a general thing, a football star does not make a good basketball player. It takes him too long to relax and get loose. Down there under the basket, where there is a lot of contact, he is inclined to tighten up and soon finds right out of the ball game."

When the St. Joseph's college cagers broke a 28-28 tie with Mississippi State in the last four minutes of play they shot the final score to 37-28.

Sanford Has Big Plans For Cotton Bowl

Will Stage Big Money Golf Tourney Just To Get Fans Sport Minded

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT

DALLAS, Jan. 28 (AP)—Eighty thousand fans for his Cotton Bowl football game. That's the dream of J. Curtis Sanford, president, general manager and board of directors of the Cotton Bowl association. He has consulted engineers regarding enlargement of the 46,000 capacity Cotton Bowl and expects to go ahead with plans after the 1938 New Year's day classic. Already he is dicker-ing with one of football's greatest attractions for the second annual game. "Cotton Bowl minded" fans will see a money open golf tourney at Dallas in early fall, Sanford said.

Matty Bell will listen to the University of Iowa athletic officials in a week-end conference and then decide to stay hatched at Southern Methodist, agents report. Southern Methodist has been kind to Bell.

Golfers Guild, Mordecai will be playing in the Houston country club invitation tourney starting Feb. 21 on honeymoon time. He is to be married at Chicago Feb. 19.

David (Spec) Goldman, the 1934 national amateur finalist, is a puppy. It's a boy. W. W. (Bill) Rushman, Dallas high school coach, hit a nice blow for football mentors. He was removed from his coaching position, made principal. Doug (Curly) Fessenden, formerly a San Antonio and Brownsville high school and junior college coach now guiding University of Montana gliders, may make two Texas appearances in the fall. His eleven is definitely booked against Texas Tech at Lubbock Oct. 2 and the work is out he may hop over to Abilene the following week-end for a Hardin-Simmons game. Fessenden's team is a member of the Pacific Coast conference.

Texas Aggies are worrying for fear the University of Texas might decide to bring back Line Coach Bill James. Reports say there's a leaning in that direction. James was an important factor in the Aggie success of '36.

Ray Hamilton, Arkansas athlete, succeeded the great H. L. (Ike) Poole at two positions—end on the gridiron and center on the cage squad. He was his understudy two years at both posts.

Billy Dewell, giant Dodge City, Kan., sophomore enroller at Southern Methodist, is expected to be the first soph three-letter man in years. Brilliant football end, spark of the S. M. U. cage team at center, the six foot, five inch star is expected to be Coach Russell Higginbotham's No. 1 horseshoe twirler in the spring.

SPARRING MATE PUTS LOUIS DOWN

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—The training camp knockdown of Joe Louis echoed round the fistic world today—and the loudest echo came from the camp of Bob Pastor, who tangles with the Brown Bomber in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Without referring to the story that Louis dropped to the canvas after sparring mate Eddie Macleola threw a right hand punch at him in yesterday's training session, the bull-necked ex-collegian issued a statement declaring:

1. That Louis "couldn't dent a pound of butter" if he didn't have extra bandages on his hands.
2. That Louis "would not even be a preliminary fighter if he was boxing in the bare knuckle days," and
3. That the state athletic commission should "compel Louis to live up to rules and regulations relative to bandages."

The Louis training camp episode was regarded variously as "one of those things" and as a legitimate knockdown. The eyebrow raisers pointed out it Joe kissed by canvas from a punch "it would have the same lure for the fight faithful as a spilled bottle of honey on a drove of flies. Louis, himself, insisted he slipped and that the punch on his head had nothing to do with his going down.

SAN FRANCISCO $5,000 OPEN ATTRACTS PROS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Golf's touring professionals lay down opening bombardments today in the first round of 36-hole qualifying tests for the $5,000 San Francisco 27-hole match play open.

The second round of qualifying will take place tomorrow with the low 16 engaging in match play elimination, two rounds on Saturday and two on Sunday.

The winner will draw down $1,000 and runner-up $500.

Fractious round indicated par was in for a beating, however, with the 64 turned in by Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., as the low mark—seven under par.

Snead, winner of the recent Oakland open, teed off as one of the favorites along with such veterans as Harry Cooper, Ralph Guldahl, Horton Smith, Ed Dudley, John Ro-volta, and Henry Picard.

Middleweight Ranks Are Hardest To Figure

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Fight by fight, it seems harder to figure out the middleweights than any other division in fistic circles.

In recent months, Harry Balsano, Solly Krueger and others have come near the top, only to be upset and shoved out of the running. A few weeks ago, Fred Apostoli came east from his San Francisco home, with a great record behind him.

Ken Overlin of Norfolk, Va., upset the bucks last night by punching out a ten-round decision.

A lot of the customers and ring-side fight experts didn't agree with the decision.

Despite the setback, Apostoli was signed to meet Krueger, the Brooklyn belter, in a ten-rounder at the Hippodrome Feb. 17.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 million tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep your body healthy. Most people don't realize that a single day's work of these filters is equal to about a pound of waste.

Repeated or empty passage wastes time and energy. There may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acid or poison in your blood then due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatism, uric, headache, leg pain, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Get your kidneys back to normal. Fill, and successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 5 million of kidney troubles, out poisonous acids from your blood. Get Doan's pills.

UPHOLDS VALIDITY OF SECURITY ACT

BOSTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Federal Judge George E. Sweeney today upheld the constitutionality of the provisions of the social security act which provide a tax for assistance for the aged. Judge Sweeney denied an injunction to prevent the payment of the tax by the Edison Electric Illuminating company of Boston.

The case was the first test of the old age provision of the act in this district.

The jurist said it was a valid exercise of the taxing power of congress.

It requires a temperature of 5, 50 degrees centigrade to cause tungsten to boil.

Trying To Cure A Cold? Don't 'Keep Going,' The Best Remedy Seems To Be Rest And Warmth—In Your Bed

RIFLE TEAM GOES EAST
VAN NUYS, Calif., Jan. 28 (AP)—Major Claudius M. Easley, one of the American army's best rifle and pistol shots, is packing up to go east tomorrow.

He is going to see what he can do about having an infantry team with the national matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, this year.

The major gives up his command of the Los Angeles district, Civilian Conservation Corps to Major Louis J. Thompson, and is bound for Fort Benning Ga., to take charge of the fortunes and destinies of the infantry rifle and pistol teams.

Rated as distinguished rifleman and distinguished pistol shot, the major has a whole chestful of medals.

STAR BUT NOT STARTER

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Jan. 28 (AP)—Paul (Slim) Estes, "Bama" sophomore in the recent Tide-Tennessee cage game to lead the scorers.

He's third in scoring on the team with 30 points. He has an unusual knack of handling the ball and holding onto it. Yet—he's not a starter.

Snorth Sneed, senior center, starts with Estes substituted early in each contest.

STANFORD STYMIED

BERKELEY, Cal., Jan. 28 (AP)—The Stanford-California cage series has been all-California. For 15 straight years, Bruin cage teams have won or tied the annual schedule of games, winning 40 to 8 games for Stanford. The Indians last won a series from the the Bears in 1921, in 1921, but didn't stop California that year from winning the conference title. That's why Stanford is gunning especially for California.

COACH 'NO SABLE'

PITTSBURGH, Kas., Jan. 28—Auggie Garcia, coach of the barnstorming University of Mexico basketball team, yet he had to learn to speak Spanish when he took over his coaching duties. He's a native Kansan. Several years ago he was a star forward on teams of the Pittsburgh Teachers.

SPECTATORS' NIGHTMARE

STOCKTON, Kas., Jan. 28 (AP)—Spectators at Stockton high school basketball games get headaches trying to keep track of Lyle and Lynn Litton, forwards. Scorekeepers get the jitters. Lyle and Lynn are identical twins. It's a family trait—his father is one of a pair of identical twins.

NOT SO SINGULAR

BUENOS AIRES, SENORS—A letter from a contributor who confessed he had taken purges for everything "but frackles" with only personal distress as the results.

INFLUENZA HERE

Local physicians are agreed that there is a wave of influenza (and the term is used advisedly) rampant here and elsewhere, this year, more virulent than the epidemic forms of the last few years, but not so potent as that of 1918-19.

Influenza is the term applied to any of several ailments characterized by congestion, aches, beefy reddening of the throat, chest and head pains and general weakened condition. Most cases referred to as "flu" are severe cases of grippe, and again the term is indefinite.

The word influenza is medieval in origin, coming from the spread of the infection by the crusades. It was thought to be cosmic or celestial "influence." Hence, English-speaking peoples call it the influenza—the French grippe.

Contrary to popular misconceptions, the cause of influenza is not known. Therefore, there is no "specific" for the infection.

So until the cause is proven, the best treatment is rest—rest in bed.

Texas Rallies To Relief Of Flood Victims

Money, Clothing, Boats, Even Man-Power Made Available

DALLAS, Jan. 28 (AP)—Texas rallied today to the relief of the flooded Mississippi and Ohio basins with money, clothing, boats and offers of man-power if further evacuation becomes necessary.

Contributions poured in to the Red Cross while other agencies arranged to provide every possible aid.

National guardsmen, highway patrolmen and rangers were ready for duty in Arkansas if needed. The adjutant general's department reported 80 per cent of the Texas national guard's 8,617 officers and men could be mobilized within six hours.

All available coast guard power boats and 40 coast guardsmen were en route to the flood district by train. Army reserve officers were asked to report to local headquarters in case they were needed.

Two hundred 20-gallon boilers were sent to Columbus, O., from the Eighth Corps area general depot at Fort Benning to be used for boiling drinking water.

Eights Corps area officers were ready for active relief duty in the lower Mississippi valley it called. Col. H. W. Fleet, commander of the ninth infantry, left for a reconnaissance trip in the Arkansas flood zone.

Red Cross quotas were oversubscribed at many points. Theaters and various organizations arranged benefit performances to swell the fund. Dallas had raised $13,000, Bexar county $7,600, Galveston $3,447, Wichita $3,738, Taylor $1,278, Beaumont $4,386, Austin $2,400, Corsicana more than $1,000, Shelby county $652 and Bell county $294.

Grocery county subscribed more than $3,000 and Longview merchants donated enough clothing for 1,000 persons. The American Legion placed tubs on streets to receive donations. A group of legionnaires planned to distribute clothing and cash in eastern Arkansas Sunday.

Shipments Of L'stock Gain

Forwardings From Texas During December Over Previous Year

AUSTIN, Jan. 28—Shipments of livestock from Texas to the Port Worth stockyards and interstate points during December increased, moderately in comparison with the corresponding month a year ago.

The University of Texas bureau of business research has announced. Forwardings for the month totaled 5,450 cars, an increase of 13 per cent over the 4,834 cars shipped during December, 1935. Aggregate shipments for the year were 60,931 cars, against 60,028 cars the year before.

Cattle shipments, 3,601 cars, increased 11 per cent; hog shipments, 772 cars, gained 107 per cent. On the other hand, shipments of calves, 962 cars, declined about one per cent, and sheep, 115 cars, dropped 56 per cent.

"Features of December forwardings were the large shipments of cattle and hogs to Los Angeles and other California points," the bureau's report said. "Almost eight times as many hogs and more than seven times as many cattle were shipped to Los Angeles as were shipped to that market in December, 1935. Points in California other than Los Angeles received an equally large increase in the number of Texas cattle in comparison with the preceding December, and in addition a large increase in the number of calves."

POSTAL RECEIPTS UP

AUSTIN, Jan. 28—Postal receipts in Texas during December rose sharply over those of the preceding month and substantially over those of December, 1935, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Reports to the bureau from 35 representative Texas cities show total receipts for the month of $1,640,555, an increase of 42 per cent over November and 12.7 per cent over December, 1935.

INFLUENZA HERE

Local physicians are agreed that there is a wave of influenza (and the term is used advisedly) rampant here and elsewhere, this year, more virulent than the epidemic forms of the last few years, but not so potent as that of 1918-19.

Influenza is the term applied to any of several ailments characterized by congestion, aches, beefy reddening of the throat, chest and head pains and general weakened condition. Most cases referred to as "flu" are severe cases of grippe, and again the term is indefinite.

The word influenza is medieval in origin, coming from the spread of the infection by the crusades. It was thought to be cosmic or celestial "influence." Hence, English-speaking peoples call it the influenza—the French grippe.

Contrary to popular misconceptions, the cause of influenza is not known. Therefore, there is no "specific" for the infection.

So until the cause is proven, the best treatment is rest—rest in bed.

Impudence In Kitchen Makes Sauce-y Dish

Leftovers Take New Hold On The Appetites In Creamy Disguises

The saucy, sweet maid, and let who will be clever! Whether you're a housewife who has just learned to boil water or an "old hand" who has mastered French souffles, you'll soon see the professional title of "chef" if you're saucy (spelled sauce-y)!

As some old trencherman said: "The wise woman will have many lights to her composition; and the kitchen her sauces will have many shadings." If you care to follow advice, you'll find no better guide to guide you. Sauce makes hundreds of bites and lures of leftovers. It may be a cream sauce for the vegetable or fish dish, it may be a savory sauce for meat, a sweet sauce for dessert—in any case the sauce is the thing!

What's Your Problem?

If your refrigerator shelves hold a wealth of fish, a little meat, or too many hard-boiled eggs; if you're worried about the crusts left over from sandwich making, and your stomach is tired of bread pudding, here's the chef's secret—sauce!

Do your left-overs lack savor? Does your pudding lack style? Does your main course need a topping? Here's the answer!

Let your manner be impudent if you will; but insist that your meals be saucy!

Butterscotch Sauce

(Glossifies the Pudding)

1 cup dark karo.
1/2 cup sugar.
1/2 cup cream or evaporated milk.
1/2 cup butter.
2-2 teaspoon vanilla.
2 cups boiling water.

Boil together sugar, karo and cream until a little syrup forms a soft ball in cold water, or 250 degrees F. Remove from fire; add butter, salt and flavoring. Blend and add boiling water.

Almond-Mushroom Gravy

(New Sauce for Boiled Rice)

2 cups boiled rice.
2 cups. maczoia.
1/2 slice onion.
1 cup meat stock.
1/4 lb. mushrooms.
1/4 cup almonds, toasted.
4 cups. flour.
1-2 teaspoon salt.

Cook onion in maczoia until brown; remove onion, add flour and meat stock and cook until brown. Then add meat stock and boil two minutes. Add the mushroom caps which have been peeled, sliced and sauted in maczoia about five minutes. Mix with the toasted almonds and serve over the hot boiled rice.

Tanana Horseradish Dressing

1-2 ripe banana.
1-3 cup heavy cream.
1-3 cup mayonnaise.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish.

Peel banana, slice into bowl and beat until smooth and creamy. Add cream and continue beating until mixture is stiff. Fold in mayonnaise, salt and horseradish. Makes about one cup eight servings. This dressing keeps well in a cool place for about 24 hours.

Chocolate Mint Sauce

(Serve on Ice Cream)

2 squares chocolate.
1 cup cold water.
1-2 cups sugar.
1-2 cup light karo.
Salt.
2 tbsps. butter.
1 teasp. mint essence.

Cut chocolate into five or six pieces (or use cocoa) and stir over direct heat with water until smooth and thick. Add sugar, karo and salt, and stir until dissolved. Boil three minutes, 222 degrees F. Add butter and vanilla. Serve at once.

Date Sterling Sauce

("Fruity"—and Good)

1 tbsps. minced preserved ginger.
1-4 cup butter.
3-4 cup light brown sugar.
1-4 cup pasteurized dates, finely chopped.
1-2 teasp. vanilla.
3 tbsps. cream.

Rub the butter with the back of a spoon until very creamy; stir in the sugar very gradually; add cream. Fold in dates and ginger and pile lightly in a serving dish; chill thoroughly.

Spanish Sauce

(A Foreign Flavor)

1 tbsps. onion, chopped.
1-4 cup green pepper.
2 cups tomatoes.
1 teasp. salt.
1 tbsps. masala.
Paprika.
2 tbsps. mushrooms.

Cook chopped onions and chopped green peppers in maczoia until light brown. Add tomatoes and mushrooms (sliced), salt and paprika. Cook for 15 minutes and serve around omelet or on hot boiled rice for main luncheon dish.

Mock Hollandaise Sauce

(It's No "Mockery"!)

1 tbsps. cornstarch.
2 cups. maczoia.
1-2 cup milk.
2 egg yolks.
1 teasp. salt.
Pepper.
Paprika.

Cook onion in maczoia until brown; remove onion, add flour and meat stock and cook until brown. Then add meat stock and boil two minutes. Add the mushroom caps which have been peeled, sliced and sauted in maczoia about five minutes. Mix with the toasted almonds and serve over the hot boiled rice.

Steaks are at their best when they are equally broiled on both sides. Twenty minutes will suffice to brown well a medium-thick steak. Ten to 14 minutes will be enough if the steak is to be rare.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE

Proof of the steak is in the broiling.

A perfectly good steak may be ruined with too many or too slow grillings.

For when it is broiled too quickly the steak will burn around the edges—if not elsewhere. And when it is cooked too slowly all the juices will be withdrawn—leaving the leathery remnant familiar to many a disappointed cook.

Because our family likes broiled and grilled foods I was careful, in selecting our stove, to buy one with a broiler that is high enough to be very accessible and is also easily cleaned. (Most stoves have broilers, either connected with the oven or in a separate compartment. But if the broiler is used a great deal it is important to have it in a convenient spot as is possible.)

Broiled or grilled foods should be placed about five inches below the heat, depending somewhat, of course, on what is to be prepared.

Coordinate Your Cooking

I find that a broiling period of between 15 and 25 minutes is correct for most dishes. With a little experimenting, and tabulating, I have learned to judge how to coordinate the cooking of various meats and vegetables which I plan to serve. (It's a good idea to make yourself a chart.)

Steaks and chops may be placed on a heat-resisting tray or plank

2 tbsps. butter.
1 tbsps. lemon juice.
Heat maczoia and add cornstarch and stir until well blended; cook 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Add the milk, salt, pepper and paprika, stir until sauce is smooth and thick. Boil three minutes and then add a little of the hot sauce to beaten egg yolks, and stir this mixture into the sauce. Add the butter, bit by bit, and then lemon juice. Beat well and serve at once.

CARRYING THE TAX LOAD

If you are a taxpayer—

You are paying more taxes today than necessary because the man next door is not paying his. In 1936 you paid approximately 13 1-2 per cent more than would have been needed to have paid had everyone paid his taxes. This year the percentage may not be so high, but you will be carrying his load along with yours—unless he is compelled by some force to pay his just contribution to governmental administration.

On the combined 1935 roll (including county, state, common school, independent school, and city taxes) of $303,800.71, a total of $41,255.35 went unpaid at the end of the tax paying season. This meant that the taxpayers, in addition to bearing their pro rata share of the governmental needs were paying an extra 13 1-2 per cent in this county to make up for the deficiency of others.

On your county and state taxes you were penalized by non-payers to the extent of eight per cent. This was because only $14,356 of a combined roll (of state, county and common school district) of $194,684.32 went delinquent.

Your Big Spring school taxes came 17 per cent higher because you had to contribute your share of the $11,131.19 delinquent taxes on the $73,713.38 roll.

These figures are not intangible percentages arrived at by complicated mathematics. They are real—just as real as if you were one of five persons who had agreed to contribute your equal share to the filling of a five gallon punch bowl, and one contractor failed in his duty. You would have to give an extra quart to care for his deficiency. So it is with your taxes.

Certainly there are many who are financially unable to pay their taxes. There are many who would pay their taxes if they could. But there are many more who are able by making a special effort, to meet their current tax obligations not later than Jan. 31.

Perhaps one way to secure the oft prayed-for tax reduction, is to join in a righteous demand for equitable contribution to government as well as equal rights under the government.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—Swell reading is that one-acter in the current issue of Stage, which is offered as a tenth playlet to go with Noel Coward's "Triple Trifery," these cycles of three which are known as "Tonight at 8:30."

It is supposed to be a scene between the author and Gertrude Lawrence in the actress' dressing room, and Noel suggests they honor their dear public with another curtain call "Dear public, my eye!" snorts Gertrude.

To which Mr. Coward replies: "Any public that pays eight-eighths of two tickets is inexpressibly dear to me. The dearer, the tickets, the dearer the public."

All of this they do with a spotlight playing on them, because, as the author points out, "it is that kind of dressing room."

Finally, railing against the doubled-chinned dowagers who imagine themselves to be the star, Miss Lawrence yells: "They come to the theater and applaud in the wrong places."

Noel (stiffly): "There are no wrong moments in my plays."

Incidentally, what has them on edge is that they are scheduled to attend another party, and they have been feted so much in recent weeks that Miss Lawrence fears they will get champagne poisoning.

They solve their problem finally by ditching the party in favor of a Greek hamburger joint. It is only when Coward comes through with this suggestion that Gertrude breaks down and admits he is a genius.

Someday someone will compile a history of embarrassing moments in the theater, and when they do they should reserve plenty of space for Lynn Fontanne.

As everybody knows, this actress is one of the world's best dressed women, and so it seems ironic that both of her contemps should have been brought about by clothes.

The most hilarious of these took place in the Blackstone theater in Chicago. During the second act of "Caprice" the audience was suddenly and pleasantly startled to see a filmy lace underthing fluttering to the floor. It seems a strap had snapped, but Miss Fontanne, never at a loss, stepped carefully out of it and kicked it under a divan.

Her second experience occurred in Moscow, where she and Alfred Lunt tarried on a world tour several seasons ago. Attending the opera, Miss Fontanne wore only a chic tailored suit, as the Russians don't go in for formal wear much.

Came the first act curtain and when Miss Fontanne arose, she found herself clutching wildly (and just in time) at her dress, which was of the wind-around-you variety and held by a single catch.

More embarrassing than this was a recent experience that came to Dolores Del Rio. While making a picture, she got up to dance and her skirt fell off. After she retrieved it, the flustering cameraman had to shoot the scene over again. They say Miss Del Rio, as a result of this, decided to go on a diet to gain weight. Her hips were too slim.

BEHIND THE NEWS

Lewis call for president's aid to go unanswered.
Legality of sit-down strike held questionable.
Senator Minton joins presidential issue circle.
Split among liberals seen in TVA row.

Advice

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—Noises emanating from the White House chimney sound as if President Roosevelt did not say all that was on his mind in response to the cry for help from John L. Lewis.

The president merely invited his obstreperous labor friend to get out of the headlines. There are excellent reasons for believing he would have liked to add a word of advice along a very sound line, somewhat like this:

The auto management may not be paying the highest wage in the world, but it has been smart enough to stay on the side of the law. Labor has not been as smart in adopting the sit-down method of striking, which is a seizure of property, possibly contrary to law and somewhat communistic in theory.

Bump

This interpretation of "White House viewpoint" is wholly unofficial, of course, but you will nevertheless see the strike situation turn officially upon this axis.

The weight of the government cannot be thrown behind the best cause in the world if it occupies apparently doubtful legal and popular ground.

The Lewis help call might have received a different response if only the issue of hours and wages were involved.

That is why most of Mr. Roosevelt's intimates now are saying, "Mr. Lewis bumped his nose," and "The president will not be drawn into any blunder."

Note: The only blunder made by the management was Mr. Sloan's refusal to confer with Labor Secretary Perkins, but this was more social than legal. It offered an opportunity to Mr. Roosevelt to even things up before taking hold.

Air Birds

Some Washington developments are becoming unfathomable as a Chinese kidnapping or a Moscow propaganda trial. For instance, the White House threw down Senator Minton very hard when the senator emerged from the presidential office one day and announced the president would call a wage-hour conference soon. The president was supposed to be very angry about Minton's erroneous announcement and was going to call him on the carpet.

Minton has been called in frequently since then, but not on the carpet. In fact, he has been a frequent night visitor to the executive mansion. Also, these visits have not been officially recorded.

The general senatorial cloakroom impression seems to be that Mr. Minton has become a presidential trial balloon. He appears to have joined the secret circle of lighter-change air-planes in congress who are co-conspirators of the president and drop in after hours, unobserved, for the really heavy work of governmental confabing.

Isis

The terms "liberal" and "conservative" seem to have become so mixed up that no one here can tell who's who.

TVA Chairman Morgan, the Norris appointee, is being roundly denounced as a conservative for opposing a power program which was considered extremely radical more than a year or two ago. The denunciation comes from his former liberal friends, Senators Norris and La Follette, who have been convinced by TVA Commissioner Latta that what their former liberal friend is now reacting to.

Note: If the La Follette have any 1936 presidential ambitions, they chose the right ally in Latta. The latter has been very busy in the south politically.

Purpose

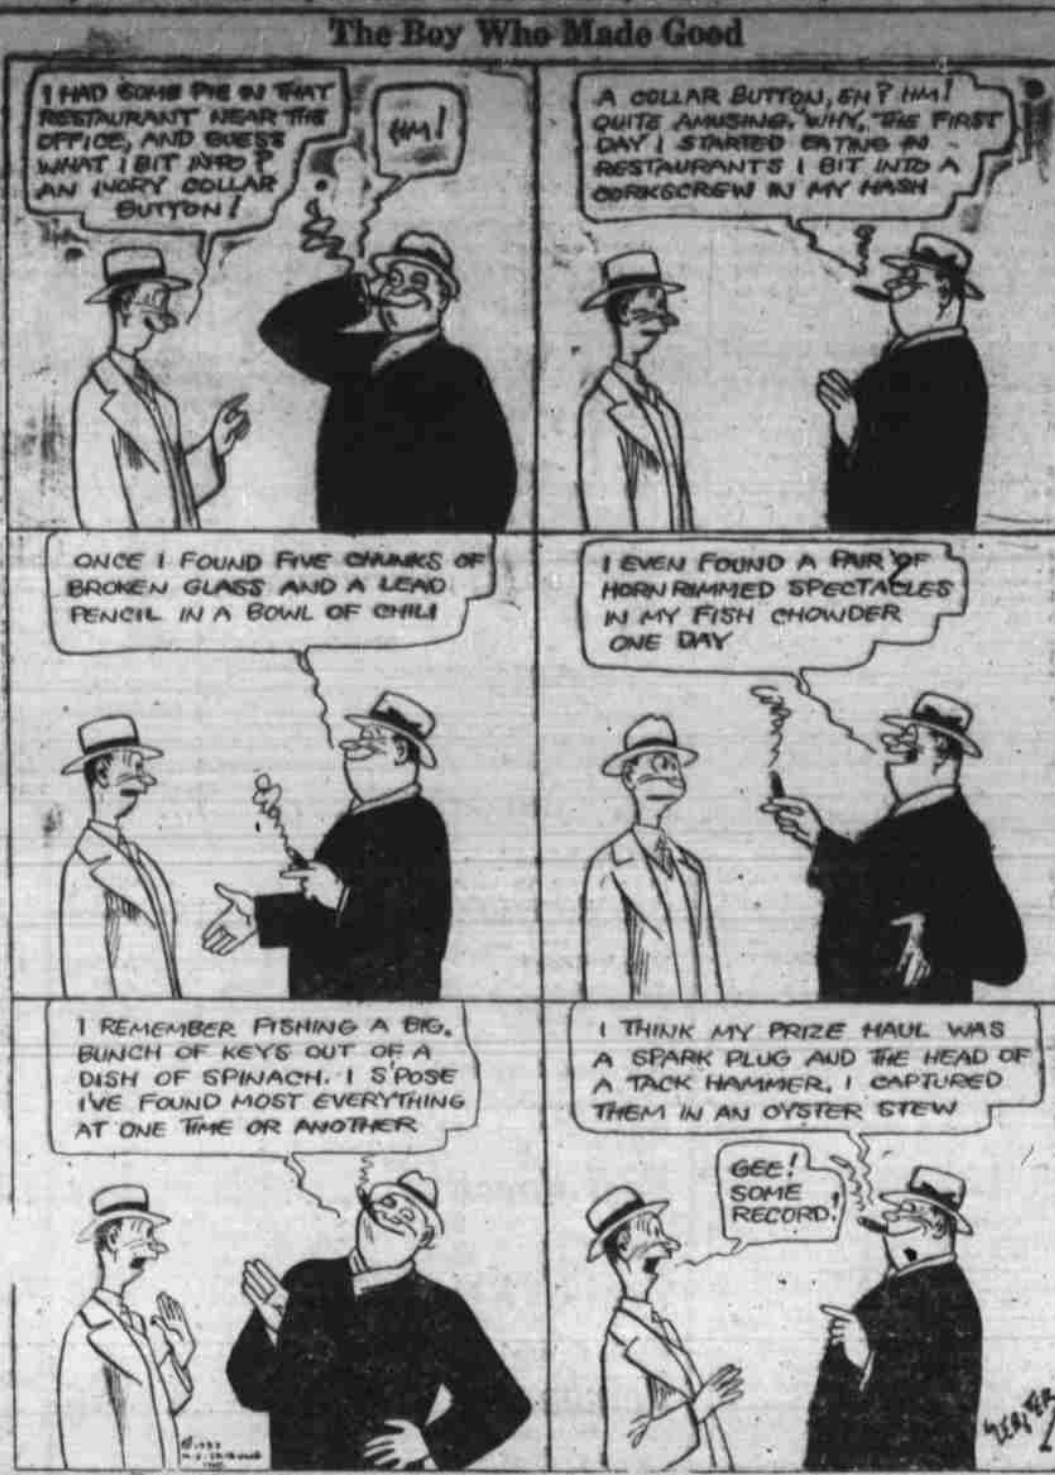

What will come out of the current whether railroad investigation first in a proposal to fund an railroad holding company. Legislation will be offered by Senator Wheeler before the end of the present session of congress. He expects it to be passed, but it probably will go over until next year.

Notes

The only one sure appointment as one of Mr. Roosevelt's six question anonymous (if congress let him have the six more requested assistants) is Tom Corcoran of RFC. Corcoran is to be legal assistant.

New deal publicists Charles M. Johnson returned from a Florida tour and informed the president that there ought to be a law against returning from vacations. Incidentally, he favors sit-down vacations, but not necessarily in Michigan.

Chief problem in asset government is where they will be sold to government organizations. Cook's Rural Electrification will probably go to the agriculture

Wings For Sally

by BAILEY WOLFE

Chapter 43
THE BUTLER GIVES A CLUE
Philip left Mr. Warren at home, and went to the office. Sally had not been there since lunch, the rest of the office force assured him. The telephone rang and Philip answered it himself. It was Mrs. Warren, saying that Sally was not at her aunt's house in the city.

"Darling, Philip," cried Mary, "come and sit beside me."

gled to be calm.
"I'll drop by and talk to the chief," said Philip. "Then I'm going out to look for Sally myself. Don't worry—I'll find her."

Mary Morris had begged him to come back and stay with her, and although a visit to the Morris house was distasteful to Philip, because Mr. Morris had ordered him from the place in anger, Philip felt bound to see Mary before he went away for an indefinite length of time.

Mary, in a clinging negligee, was lying on the chaise longue in her own room. Dennison had brought Philip word at the door that Mary wanted him to come straight up. Now he hesitated on the threshold of her room, but she held out her hand to him.

"Darling Philip!" she cried. "Come and sit beside me. My head aches so and my heart's beating like a trip-hammer. I was so frightened when I came home and found the doctor standing over father, and father looking so strange. If you hadn't come over when I called, I'd have died of fright and hysterics and he had been looking for Sally because Mary wanted her. Now Mary had forgotten Sally. She seemed uninterested in Sally's disappearance. Philip excused Mary on the score of her father's illness.

Philip heads for Hillcrest. He found Dennison in the hall downstairs.

"Are you sure Miss Warren didn't go out with Mr. Benton tonight?" Philip asked sharply.

"No, sir. She left. I'd say half an hour before Mr. Benton and the lady, sir."

"One more thing, Dennison," Philip lowered his voice. "Was Mr. Benton angry when he left here?"

Dennison's face changed color. "I—I don't know, sir. I didn't show him out. He left—I heard the car start as I was on my way up the back stairs."

"Did anyone notify Mr. Benton that Mr. Morris was ill?"

"No, sir," Dennison looked away from Philip's steady gaze.

"Why not?" Dennison was silent.

Philip went on impatiently. "There's something you're hiding. You must tell me everything that happened here tonight."

"Miss Warren has disappeared and she was just seen here."

A look of genuine anxiety spread over Dennison's face.

"I don't know, I'm very sorry, sir. I can't tell you how sorry. Miss Warren has been so kind—"

"What was it you kept back a while ago?" insisted Philip.

"Mr. Gilles Benton was not called and told of Mr. Morris' illness because shortly after Mr. Benton left, Mr. Morris called me and told me never to let that fellow, he called him, set foot on the place again."

When Philip left the Morris home, he headed his car directly for Hillcrest, where he knew Gilles Benton had been staying for two days. He did not know what he hoped to find certainly, he had little hope of finding Sally there. But he was sure that if he could find Gilles, he could also find Sally.

Four miles from Hillcrest, Philip passed a wide side road which, if he had followed it, would have led him directly to the lodge where Sally was imprisoned. But Philip did not even see the road. His eyes were on the Hillcrest highway, his thoughts wrestling with the problem of why Sally had been spirited away.

Sardines and Cheese
As Sally waited in the hot little bedroom of the hunting lodge for Sam to fetch her something to eat, she turned over in her mind schemes for getting tangible evidence against those who had imprisoned her. She was not concerned for herself. She did not believe they would dare to harm her in any way. They simply meant to get the blackmail money from Mr. Morris and escape, leaving her to get back to her friends as best she could.

Outside the window Sam hailed her.

"Hello, you up there?"

"Here!" called Sally. She peered out at the moonlit stretch of grass between the lodge and the woods. Sam was standing there with a small basket and a piece of cord in his hand.

"I've tied a rock to this end of the cord," he called up to her. "I'll throw it up to you. The basket's on the other end and you can pull it up. Look out for the rock."

He threw the stone with an expert hand. Sally drew back and it landed on the floor beside her.

"I've got it," she called. She began to pull the cord and finally drew the basket up to the window sill. She took it over to the light.

There were two cans of sardines, a box of crackers, two apples and a bottle of warm ginger ale. A can opener had been thoughtfully included. Sally was much too healthy and hungry to spurn the fare provided.

While she ate, washing down the food with the warm ginger ale, Sally planned what she should do next. The food had served to restore her confidence and reassure as to Sam's good nature.

If she could only get Sam to talk to her, she might persuade him that it was to his best interests to come back to town with her and testify against his accomplices. She could promise to help him get out of his part in the crime against McDonald. But she couldn't talk to Sam from the second story window, shouting every word she had to say.

Missing Boy Is Found Dead

Part Of Remains Uncovered; Two Listed For Questioning

BOSTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—A police squad dug today through a dump not far from Harvard stadium, searching for missing bones of five-year-old Chester Harris of Cambridge, found dead in the tragic conclusion of a 10-weeks search.

Other police went to East Cambridge jail to question a 27-year-old laborer held for an alleged attack on a young boy close to the Harris child's home. Another man who told police several weeks ago the boy's body would be found in a factory near the dump, also was listed for questioning.

Discovery of the lad's skull, ribs, pelvis bone and the bone of the upper right arm ended a hunt that began last October 21, when the blond youngster ran off to play.

Edward McNamara, 33, of Cambridge, found Chester's skull while playing in a billboard-enclosed lot.

Below the confluence of the two mighty rivers 20,000 refugees were sheltered in southeastern Missouri emergency camps. Many of them watched the rising waters spread over their farmland in a vast spillway flooded by government engineers to relieve the pressure at Cairo.

On Levee Collapses

"It appears likely that flood waters will pass down the valley without causing inundation," was the message Maj. Gen. E. M. Markham, chief of U. S. engineers, issued through Lieut. Col. Eugene Reynolds, district chief at Memphis.

The immediate battleground in the struggle to control the rain-swollen torrent in its surge to the Gulf of Mexico centered around Cairo, nestling on a point at the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

During the night, Mound City, Ill., surrendered to the flood waters as a back levee collapsed and put 875 to flight.

Engineers said this was the only unfavorable development in the last 24 hours, and divided their efforts between directing completion of the second line of defense on the Birds Point-New Madrid floodway and saving Tiptonville from a new threat.

The 1,300 residents of Tiptonville disregarded a warning to flee as the Mississippi threatened to inundate the Tennessee city.

Safe so far from being engulfed, Cairo, bulwarked behind a 50-foot seawall, expressed confidence it would win its battle.

No Estimate Of Death Toll In Louisville

City Cheered, However, As Water Level Finally Starts Downward

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 28 (AP)—The greatest flood in the history of the Ohio valley turned its force today toward the mighty Mississippi, leaving here a record of 67.1 feet, over two hundred known dead, and thousands gravely ill of diseases attributable to the raging waters.

There was a possibility it will be weeks before the full death toll is known, if it is to be known.

Property damage in all probability will amount to $100,000,000. How great the loss of life could be was indicated last night in a resume of the situation given the nation by Mayor Neville Miller over a radio network. He said there were 200 dead, after Chief Health Officer Dr. Hugh R. Leavelle admitted that 30 dead had been taken from homes along the fringe of the west end section, from homes that were not submerged entirely.

Four Are Killed In Crossing Crash

LOCKNEY, Jan. 28 (AP)—The crash of an automobile into a motionless Fort Worth & Denver City freight train in west Lockney killed four persons and injured a fifth critically last night.

Dead were A. J. Weatherly, 60; his son, Garland Weatherly, 31; Betty, 7-year-old daughter of Garland Weatherly, and J. N. Parsons, about 50, a school teacher. All lived at Farnell, Hall county.

Mrs. Garland Weatherly, about 20, suffered internal injuries and fractures of both legs. Physicians gave her little chance of recovery.

The Weatherlys, Hall county pioneers, and Parsons were returning home from Arizona.

Trainmen had halted the train to open a gate leading to a Santa Fe crossing when the crash occurred.

Help Pours In

These, he said, were victims of heart failure, pneumonia and exposure, sufferers who died just out of reach of the waters, but beyond the helping hands of a tremendous relief drive in which all parts of the nation joined hands with funds and supplies. Cities from as far south as Phoenix, Ariz., and as far east as Boston, Mass., have provided by air hundreds of police officers to join the 600 federal troops aiding local authorities.

Today, as the flood waters subsided and, despite predictions of light rain, promised to keep going down at the rate of a foot or so a day for the next week, every power at the city's command was thrown into the fight to prevent more suffering.

Tension Eased

Once the river started going down last night, after rising to a point over eleven feet higher than the previous flood top reported in 1884, tension eased all through the city. This despite the fact that dread of new deaths hung over all, sickness, water and sanitation problems were increasing by the hour.

When news sped over the city last night—"she's going down! She's going down!"—driven faces relaxed, everyone asked for a moment, talked excitedly, and men who had not slept for days went home to shave and to bed, if they still possessed a bed above water. You could see the relief everywhere, Louisville knew the worst at last, and terrible though it was, it was better than uncertainty.

MOONEY CONVICTED FAIRLY, IS RULING

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28 (AP)—A. E. Shaw, special referee of California's supreme court, held today that Thomas J. Mooney was fairly convicted of the 1916 Preparedness Day bombing here.

In his special findings of fact filed with the supreme court today, Shaw ruled with the attorney general's office that Mooney was not entitled to release on habeas corpus from prison. Mooney has served 20 years of a life term for the bombing, in which 10 persons were killed and 50 injured.

Shaw found "it is established by the preponderance of evidence that petitioner was not a victim of a frameup nor was he convicted as the result of any improper act of any kind."

Appellate Justice Speaks Before Club

A brief review of judicial advancement and of the system in Texas was given before the Kiwanis club at its weekly luncheon session Thursday by a West Texas jurist.

The speaker was Judge Clyde Grissom, associate justice of the 11th court of civil appeals, Eastland, the tribunal that serves this territory. Grissom was a visitor here for the day.

The judge told of the judicial set-up in Texas, explaining procedure in the courts from the justice court to the supreme tribunal and the court of criminal appeals. He also reviewed some of the developments in judicial reform during Texas 100 years as a state, citing the change in types of law.

Tom Coffey was chairman of the day's program.

The bureau issued livestock warnings for the Panhandle and

FAVOR EXTENSION ON TIME OF TRADE PACT NEGOTIATIONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The house ways and means committee approved today a bill to extend for three years the president's authority to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements.

Members said their vote was split along party lines.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said he would attempt to obtain prompt passage of the measure under a rule permitting 30 hours of general debate.

President Roosevelt and administration officials have endorsed the extension as a means of stimulating permanent economy recovery and laying firm foundation for world peace.

OFFICER WOUNDED DURING GUN FIGHT

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Motorcycle Officer Eddie Brendler of Alamo heights was in a local hospital this morning suffering from a bullet wound in his right leg, received in a gun battle with two bandits in Alamo heights at midnight.

Brendler was the second motorcycle officer to be shot by bandits here in two weeks. A. A. Edwards, city policeman, was shot to death on January 16.

The Alamo heights officer said he arrested two men in an automobile after he received a description of a stolen automobile that had figured in a San Antonio holdup.

The driver sped away as one of the robbers fired on the officer.
