Saturday is the time set for the Loraine Independent School District to go to the polls again and vote on the proposition of whether or not to accept Bauman, Landers and Silver for consolidation with the Loraine district. These three districts will also vote on the question Saturday.

Although the vote was light last week the Loraine district voted unanimously for consolidation with Lone Star and North Champion. We would like to see a larger unanimous vote Saturday to welcome our friends on the south in with us also.

P. T. A. To Meet April 24 At Gym.

The regular meeting of the P. T. A. for April will be held at 7:30 p. m. at the gym April 14. Using the Opaque projector the P. T. A. bought several years ago, the visual education committee plans an evening of entertainment of fun and laughter by showing baby pictures of any and everyone who will bring them. Pictures will be returned after the show.

The newly elected officers will be installed and a social hour will follow in the Home Ec. cottage.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. Salley Fowler Moody, wife of the Rev. M. L. Moody, retired Methodist minister, died at her home in Sweetwater at 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Rev. and Mrs. Moody and family at one time lived in Loraine while Rev. Moody was pastor of the Loraine Methodist Church.

R. L. Day Buried In Louisiana Wednesday

Mrs. D. J. Fuller and son W. D. Fuller were called to the bedside of her brother, R. L. Day, at Gibson, Louisiana, last week. Mr. Day passed away Monday morning at 6 o'clock and was buried at Gibson Wednesday.

Mr. Day lived here about three years before returning to Louisiana in September.

Loraine FFA Team Go To Huntsville

Huntsville, March 21—(Spl)—More than 800 high school agriculture students are due to meet in Huntsville March 25 for the annual state invitational Future Farmers of America leadership contests.

The contests, to be held in both the chapter farmer and green hand divisions, will be sponsored by the San Houston State collegiate FFA chapter. First and second place winners of 10 area contests will compete in three events—the FFA quiz, chapter conducting, and farm skill demonstration.

Faculty and graduate students of the San Houston State agriculture department, acting as judges, will award 30 banners to the state winners. The first five schools placing in each event will be awarded the pennants. Visitors from the state vocational agriculture staff, representatives of the collegiate FFA chapter of Texas A&I college at Kingsville and State FFA President Jimmy Darling of Abilene are due to be present.

Area 2 will be represented by a team from Loraine in Farm Skill Demonstration. The team will be composed of the following boys with L. D. Crawford as sponsor: Wayne Claxton, Junior Hays and Kenneth Merket. Truman Boyd will go as an alternate for the team.

They plan to spend some time at the A. and M. College of Texas on Friday.

Mrs. J. H. Boone and daughter, Mrs. Richard Jackson of Midland, spent the week end and first of the week with relatives in Dallas.

Mrs. J. W. Overton and children of Big Spring spent Friday night and Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Rankin.

Father, Son Banquet For F. F. A. Chapter

(This story should have been run last week and we tried to get it but failed—Editor).

Highlight of this year's activities of the Loraine Chapter of Future Farmers of America was the annual Father and Son banquet which was held in the school lunch room Tuesday night March 15.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Alton Braswell of Lubbock, National Second Vice-President. Mr. Braswell was introduced by W. E. Williams, Area 2 Supervisor of Alpine. Other state officers present were Harold Dunk, State Vice President of Junction, and Bobby Watlington, Area Vice President of Colorado City.

Weldon McAdams, president of the local chapter, was master of ceremonies. Weldon McCollum gave the welcome. R. C. Noel introduced the guests and Deryl Bennett introduced great speakers. Piano music was furnished by Marie Belights and Patsy Green.

The dinner consisted of fruit cocktail, steak, gravy, chili beans, pineapple salad, potatoes, hot rolls, butter, iced tea, cake and ice cream. The U shaped table was centered by bands of national blue and corn gold running the length of the table. Alternate colors of blue and gold candles and cocktails were at each place setting. Sophomore and freshmen girls dressed in white blouses and black skirts wore aprons of blue and gold carrying out the chapter colors. All plans for the banquet centered around the chapter colors and emblems. The place cards held the picture of an owl sitting on a plow. Favors were miniature burlap bags filled with candy corn and peanuts. The programs were made in the shape and color of ears of corn and the invitations which had been sent out were miniature straw hats giving the date, place etc. of the banquet.

For wall decorations the official F. F. A. station markers were placed. Just back of the officers of the chapter. These markers were pictures of the rising sun, an ear of corn, the flag, picture of George Washington, the plow and the owl.

Mr. August Hackfeld, who had been elected honorary member of the chapter early in the school year, was presented a Future Farmers pin. L. D. Crawford, vocational teacher, presented Lone Star Farmer degrees to Weldon McAdams, Weldon McCollum, Truman Boyd and Don Mathis.

The chapter presented Mr. Crawford a hand tool belt with his name engraved, and Mrs. Crawford was presented a floor lamp in appreciation of her work and plans in putting over the banquet.

The chapter sweetheart, Lora Neil Jean, and her attendants were introduced. Attendants were Fay Narrell, Mary Rose Templeton and Jo Ann McAdams. They wore shoulder corsages of white carnations tied with blue and gold ribbons.

On a table inside the U shaped table a realistic farm scene was shown. There was a miniature farm house, barns, silo, implements, car, animals, etc., which held the interest of all present.

Others present were Bob Post, Vocational teacher of Colorado City, Hank Brown, W. H. Narrell and the F. F. A. members and their fathers.

Mr. Crawford expresses his appreciation to the ladies who prepared the food and all who helped with plans for the banquet which was made possible from profits made on the chapter's hog feeding project.

Services At Church of Christ Sunday

Minister R. Elton Holden of Fort Worth will have charge of both services, morning and evening at the Church of Christ. Everyone is invited to hear him.

Mrs. W. F. Tripp and Phil Tripp of Monahans were guests of Mrs. Frank Crowner, Miss Annie Jarratt and Mrs. Marion Mahon Sunday. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Norman of Colorado City.

Gift Shower Honors Mrs. Alfred Hackfeld

A gift party for Mrs. Alfred Hackfeld, the former Melba Hagood, was held at the home of Mr. Lee Walker Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5. Co-hostesses were Mmes. Oscar Baumann, W. H. Narrell, Ploy Peaty, Rodney Walker, Lloy Brame and Virgil Walker.

Mrs. Virgil Walker welcomed guests and introduced the honoree, her mother, Mrs. O. S. Hagood, and Mrs. August Hackfeld, the groom's mother.

Presiding in the dining room were Margie McDougald and Marie Backhaus serving lime punch and cake squares. The table was centered with the punch bowl surrounded by greenery, violets and Easter eggs. Daffodils and blooming japonica were used in vases in the party rooms. The Easter theme was used in other decorations.

Soft record music was played during the calling hours.

Mrs. Leland Light of Roscoe and Mrs. James Ince of Hermleigh presided at the bride's book. Those from out of town attending were Mmes. O. S. Hagood, Leland Light, Darwin Bollinger, D. L. Bollinger, Frank Jacobs, Val Nitzsche, E. Burns, James E. Buckner, Clyde Hagood, and Misses Margie McDougald, Marie Backhaus and Frances Jacobs of Roscoe; Mrs. Lawrence Landon of Oklahoma City; Mrs. Ray Kidd of Midland; Miss Louise Baumann of Lubbock; Mrs. Charlie Ince, Mrs. Robert Taylor, Mrs. James Ince of Hermleigh.

NORTH LORAIN H. D. CLUB

The North Loraine Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. Buck Taylor for their second meeting in March.

A winter salad demonstration was given by Mrs. Jim Johnson. Three salads were made. The one with cabbage, apple and shredded coconut with a dressing of equal parts of lemon juice, sugar and mayonnaise proved to be the favorite.

Mrs. Jack Linam presided at the business session and plans were made for attending the district Home Demonstration meeting to be held in San Angelo in April.

Mrs. Willie Taylor and Mrs. Lanthus Brame will attend the two day school of instruction on Work Simplification in Colorado City this week. This will be under the direction of an Extension Service expert and the club expects to benefit much from it.

Mrs. Bynum was welcomed as a new member. Others attending this meeting were Mmes. Alva Bennett, W. H. Long, Frank Brame, Ralph Lankford, J. E. Price, Harold Hallmark, Loyd Brame, Roy Wells, and Sharon Adams.

A dainty refreshment plate was passed.

Next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Bennett Blair.

Baptist Hour Series Begins April 3

Atlanta, March 24—Dr. J. D. Grey opens the Baptist Hour series, "Consider Jesus," Sunday April 3. He is the first man chosen to preach an entire series of thirteen weeks since the program's inauguration in 1941 according to S. F. Lowe, Director of the Radio Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention, Atlanta.

In May, Dr. Grey begins his thirteenth year as pastor of the First Baptist Church of New Orleans, La. For 13 years he has conducted "The Gospel Hour" over WSMB-TV New Orleans.

Dr. J. D. Grey and now has 3 regular services broadcast over local stations each Sunday.

A graduate of Union University and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Dr. Grey has for ten years been a member of the Home Mission Board; is now President of the Louisiana Baptist Convention; and also president of the Southwestern Association of Southwestern Seminary. He is much in demand as a revival preacher, accepting five to seven meetings each year; and in July will fill his third week's engagement at the Southwestern Training Union Assembly at Ridgecrest. In 1946 and 1947 he preached sermons at the Southern Convention.

The Baptist Hour series, with Dr. Grey as preacher, will be heard over a 70-station independent network Sunday mornings April through June at 7:30 CST.

F. F. A. Boys Wind Up Shows For Year

The Loraine Future Farmers of America wound up their show circuit at the Abilene and Odessa shows.

Five Loraine boys were represented at the Abilene show. Jr. Hays and Thomas Bob Long showed Keith Laseter's capons while Keith was in the hospital. Lowell Richardson showed the fat barrow belonging to the chapter and Melvin Baumann showed two fat barrows of his own. Kenneth Merket wound up a years hard work by showing and selling his calf. The calf sold for 32c per pound which proved profitable in money as well as experience for Kenneth. All the animals sold well after the show.

Truman Boyd went west the same week and found competition very strong at Odessa. However his calf sold for 35c per lb. and made Truman some money.

The boys have done excellent jobs of feeding and showing this year. Money is the main object the boys set their heart on when they start a project but they also learn some good lessons from the record they keep.

"For my first year I am more than pleased with the work the boys are doing. We are now in the process of finding good calves to feed for another year," said L. D. Crawford.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Taylor entertained Gaylene and a group of girls Wednesday, March 16, honoring Gaylene on her 11th birthday.

The girls accompanied Gaylene home from school and the fun began. Outdoor games were played until six o'clock when they were invited into the dining room where a birthday supper was served. The birthday cake was served with jello. As Gaylene blew out the candles the group sang the Happy Birthday song.

After supper indoor games were enjoyed until bedtime and the girls spent the night. Leaving for school next morning the girls all wished for Gaylene many more happy birthdays.

Second Graders Entertain Lions

The second grade in the Loraine Grade School, under the direction of Mrs. John Johnson and Miss Gladys Spikes entertained the Lions Club with song and rhythm numbers at the noon luncheon Tuesday.

Mr. Mullins, Scout Executive, spoke briefly in support of the Boy Scouts. Mr. Mullins had made a survey in high school and found 75 boys interested in Scouting. The Lions Club sponsors a Scout Troop but has difficulty in keeping a Scoutmaster.

COUNTY H. D. COUNCIL

The Mitchell County Home Demonstration Council met March 5 at the county court room at 2 p. m. Mrs. Loyd Brame, Council Chairman, presided over the group. Good reports were given by each of the club presidents.

Nominations were in order for the delegates election to go to T. H. D. A. convention for District 7 at San Angelo on April 7. Those elected were Mrs. J. L. Jones, from the Landers club; Mrs. Virgil Mann, Fairview; Mrs. Loyd Brame, North Loraine. Alternates were Mrs. B. B. Howell, Plainview, and Mrs. Webb Looney.

The council voted to sing Foliage the Gleam as their county song.

March 30, 1949, is the date for the 4-H girls dress review. Each club was urged to see Red Cross about the needs of Burma.

The second Saturday in April is the date for next council meeting.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Dawson Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Olen Hastings and children and Mr. and Mrs. Mildred Hastings and children of Roscoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewell Cole of Grandfalls spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Hart. Sunday guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hart of Colorado City.

Burglars Enter School Building But Leave Money Behind

Burglars broke into the school house and into the office some time Saturday night or Sunday and made away with a money box which was found Monday on the school ground near the gymnasium with no money missing so far as Supt. Parish was able to ascertain without a complete check of records.

Entrance was made by breaking a lock on the front door. A finger print expert and other officers were called to investigate but had been unable to determine who the thieves might have been.

Mr. Parish said he left the building late Saturday and the burglary was not discovered until some time Sunday afternoon when Noah Caswell, janitor, went to the building.

The school had received a new safe a few days before and the burglar knocked off the knob and one hinge but failed to get into it.

HOSTS CLUB

Mrs. S. E. Brown entertained members of the Sewing Club Wednesday afternoon.

A refreshment plate of angel hash with whipped cream, orange cake and spiced tea was served.

Those present were Mmes. T. F. Finley, Clyde Smith, J. H. Boone, J. D. McDonald, K. L. Taylor, Wade Preston, Frank Johnson, Doyle Hester and Glen Coon.

Relatives and friends from out of town here to attend the funeral of Mrs. Ulnian Parker were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hoover of Corpus Christi, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Mahoney and sons of Big Spring, Doris Mahoney of Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smalligan and Diana of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. George Wenken, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wenken and family and Mr. and Mrs. Don Wenken and family of Hermleigh, Jack Mahoney of Sweetwater, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Lester and Mrs. Steve Davis of Goldsmith, Mrs. Wald of Temple, Mrs. Evelyn Rose, Mrs. Ella Hamer of Colorado City, and Kenneth Muns of Odessa.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Red Personnel Shakeup Stirs World
As Nations Ponder Meaning of Acts;
Time Running Out on Rent Controls

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

MOLOTOV PROMOTED?

World Speculates on Premier Stalin's Plans

Out of the welter of world speculation on the significance of Russia's naming Andrei Y. Vyshinski as foreign minister—replacing Vyacheslav M. Molotov—the British appeared most confident of their interpretation. Senior British diplomats had no hesitancy in declaring that Molotov is being groomed to step into Stalin's shoes whenever the Red dictator dies or retires from the scene.

INFORMATION from London was to the effect that the opinion apparently is based on reports which British Ambassador Sir Maurice Peterson had sent from Moscow. They said Peterson warned against expecting any change in Russian foreign policy as a result of Molotov's release as foreign minister. Andrei Gromyko, the "walking man" of the United Nations setup—so called because of the many times he has walked out of U.N. sessions—became Vyshinski's assistant.

All these diplomats agreed that Stalin would remain the No. 1 man in Russia even if he should quit the post of prime minister. His supreme position, they speculated, would be safeguarded by his personal prestige and his post as Communist party secretary general and politburo member.

THEY CONCEDED, however, that Stalin, 69 and ailing, may wish to be free of administrative chores. Informants made it clear that Ambassador Peterson himself did not make an outright prediction that Stalin contemplates retiring from the prime minister's job. They said the sense of his reports merely led British diplomats to think that is a possibility.

The interesting thing, however, was the wild and widespread speculation set off in the world by a change of Russian personnel at high policy level. This reaction served to emphasize world jitteriness in the "cold war" with the Soviets.

RENT CONTROL:

Tik-Tok, Tik-Tok

With the continuing tie-up of business in the senate because of a filibuster on a rules procedure, congress had been racing against the clock in the matter of rent controls.

RENT CURBS were due to expire March 31. Congressmen generally were agreed that unless they were extended by that date, nothing more could be done this session to save or renew such controls.

Meanwhile, Republican sentiment in the house was that rent controls should be taken out of federal hands and turned over to the respective states. A mass meeting of GOP members of the house overwhelmingly supported the idea of ending federal rent control.

It was reported that Republicans favored only a 90-day extension of curbs and many wanted all controls to end with the fixed expiration date. They also took the position that if any controls were continued, the house first should adopt an amendment by Democratic member Paul Brown of Georgia providing that landlords, as far as practicable, should be "given a reasonable return on the fair value of their property under rent controls."

MANY CAPITOL observers expressed a conviction that the apparent trend toward relaxation of rent curbs was stemming from the effective lobbying of rental property owners and their organized groups.

But whatever was to be done to protect the public from gouging on the part of some landlords would have to be done fast. Time was swiftly running out.

MEXICO:

Oil for U. S.

Mexico had relented, the animosity of the old expropriation days was over, and American interests were to set up again in the oil business "south of the border."

Antonio Bermudez, director of Petroleos Mexicanos, announced that a drilling contract had been signed with a group of California oil men headed by Edwin W. Pauley and two American oil companies. Senior Bermudez said the U. S. group's chief job would be drilling of wells in Tabasco and Veracruz states.

Under terms of the agreement, the U. S. group will not be paid for dry wells.

The Mexican organization would set aside the proceeds of the sale of 50 per cent of the production obtained from wells drilled by the mentioned companies to pay off their expenses in drilling productive wells.

COW'S THAT, FELLOWS?

Yukon Lions Would Re-Ensiló "Grady"

The Yukon, Oklahoma Lions club was strictly on its toes—members organized a "committee to Put the Cow Back in the Silo." The cow, of course, was "Grady," who had captured national attention and country-wide press coverage when she leaped into a silo and there, resulted great puzzlement as to how she was to be freed.

Stalin's Man

This is a recent portrait of Andrei Y. Vyshinski, who has been elevated to the position of Russian foreign minister.

CHURCHMEN:

50 More Seized

More churchmen in countries behind the "iron curtain" were coming to know what it means to suffer for the Cross.

Bulgarian security police had seized approximately 50 more Protestant clergymen.

THE LATEST ROUNDUP was disclosed as 15 other Protestants were sentenced on charges ranging from treason and spying for the United States and Britain to black market money transactions. All 15 had pleaded guilty.

By now the pattern of church conflict in Soviet-dominated countries was becoming clear. The Russians would not tolerate a setup where the church might act independently of the state.

It mattered little whether the faith being prosecuted was Protestant or Catholic—the aim was the same, subjugate it and its adherents to the will of the state.

THE KREMLIN could not risk men having other gods than Stalin, could not risk continuance or spread of a thesis built upon the dignity of the individual and his oneness with his Creator.

The most terrible thing was that there was nothing anyone could do. Christian nations could not make war on the Soviets for religious persecution, however extensive such persecution might grow.

For the moment, men of good will could only pray for divine aid, hoping that retribution would finally overtake the agency which was subjecting Christian men to torture and imprisonment.

RICH MEN:

One "Fed up"

"I found something was wrong with the wealthy class and I think a whole lot of them would be better off if they had to work."

JOSEPH E. UHLEIN, 73, a senior member of one of the nation's wealthiest brewery families was fed up. Delivering himself of the above statement, he went on to say that he was resigning immediately as a director of the First Wisconsin National Bank so no one connected with the institution would be embarrassed by his actions.

Uhlein's consideration of his co-directors was understandable. For the former vice-president of the vast Schlitz brewing company was planning to devote his full time to the unionization of "white collar" workers in the United States.

"I believe five to six million can better their lot by joining white-collar unions," Uhlein declared. "I am not in it for any honor for myself, but only through a desire to help the working classes."

CONTINUING, he explained that "I have been thinking about this for about 15 years."

Joseph and his brother Erwin, now president of Schlitz, have been at odds recently over Joseph's suggestion that the brewery establish a million-dollar annual welfare fund for its employees by contributing 25 cents for each barrel of beer sold.

Rudd Weatherwax arrived at NBC the other day all white and shaking. "This other 'car' bumped my station wagon and threw Lassie off the seat into the floor," he explained. "I rushed to look at the dog, of course; didn't pay any attention to damage on the car. It's beginning to dawn on me that I told the other guy it was my fault! Lassie can easily pay the damages."

William Wyler, producer-director of Paramount's "The Heiress," watched part of World War I from his front yard as a boy; he lived in Mulhouse, France, a battle-ground. But he got into the last war, in the air force.

RILED ABOUT HARRY'S DIG AT PRESS . . .

Truman Chided for His 'Newspaper Stand'

. . . ELMER WRITES HIM AN OPEN LETTER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

LETTER FOR SPECIAL DELIVERY

Hon. Harry S. Truman,
Washington, D.C.
Dear Mr. President:

It pains me to note that you, who over the long pull have seemed to me a horse-sense fellow who knew baloney when he saw it and who didn't like it thin, thick or medium, have now taken up that old cry about the newspapers being in a deep plot against the people. Harry, you know better.

"There are no full-page ads for our side," you say in taking a dig at the press. Now that is plain nonsense. All the page ads in opposition to your policies or acts in a year, if stacked end on end, would be completely lost in the thousands of pages which the American newspapers have devoted to you in reporting your speeches and your programs. The space devoted to any one of your speeches in the papers of the country would swamp the total space consumed by all those full-page ads over a period of six months. The ads get into few papers; no paper fails to report your speeches to its fullest ability.

Few Presidents in history have had a friendlier press. The note of kindness is to be found, even in the criticisms. The newspapers go to great expense to give you every break. It is doubtful if any occupant of the White House in 25 years has been more warmly treated by the newspapers of this country from coast to coast and from border to border.

At work or at play you get a million columns of newspaper space and any honest publicity expert in your own party would admit that the advertising is mostly good and that all the dough your opponents could lay a hand on wouldn't be enough to get that much space for their views. So you must be kidding when you say, "There are no full pages for our side."

"Selfish interests are on the job year in and year out, seven days a week and 24 hours a day. They work through the editorial pages, the columnists and the commentators they control," you assert. "They twist and misrepresent the measures the people voted for."

Well, Harry, may the press of America never be as unfair to you as you are to the press when you make a crack like that. The fact twisters don't last long on any paper. No newspaper can misrepresent things long and survive.

In a democratic country where a free press has men of all parties and beliefs running newspapers, you don't expect them all to be 100 per cent for everything you propose, do you?

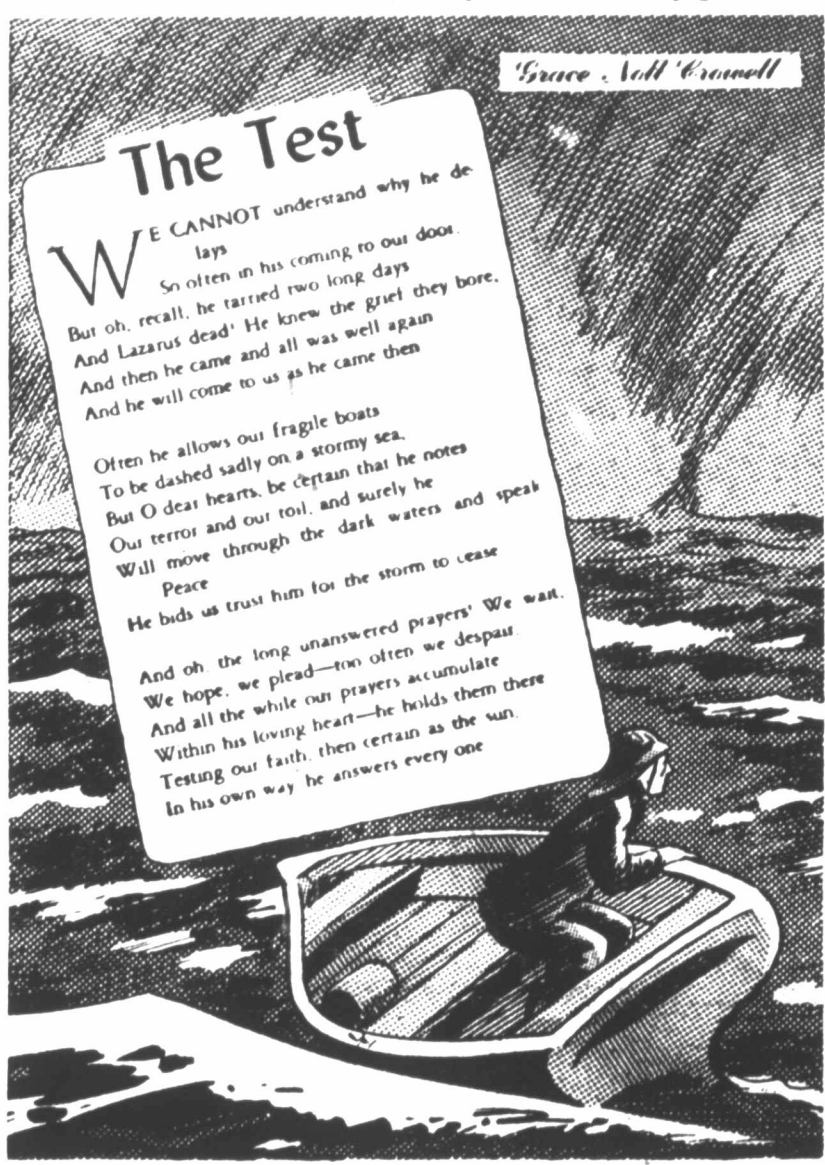

The press is one of America's great institutions, Harry. It is mighty important to the American system. It is important to the Democratic party, the Republican party and any other party. To deliberately undermine its prestige, create an atmosphere of distrust in its fairness and foster the notion that it is a tool of the privileged few is bad stuff, Mr. President. In every great crisis the press is a Number One Need. You've needed it, Harry. And you've had it as few Americans have had it "year in and year out, seven days a week and 24 hours a day." I thought you knew.

Yours in surprise
ELMER.

Cuff Stuff

Walter Donnelly, slated as the new undersecretary of state in charge of South American affairs, used to work in the circulation department of the New Haven Register back home. Video does the darndest things. As for instance Sid Caesar's use of that old Willie Howard skit on the interrupting waiter, with no credit or apology to anybody. And it was played on another program only a few weeks back. "Knock On Any Door," widely proclaimed as a study in juvenile crime and a deterrent, is just another glorification of a hoodlum, with enough murders and stickups to keep a kid absorbed for weeks . . .

The youth of any political party cannot be ignored, but the oldsters, because of greater experience, if honest, are the better guides.

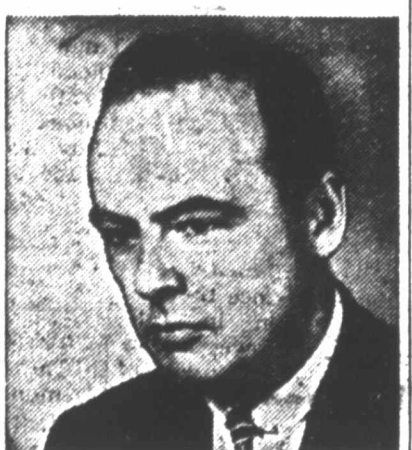

STAR DUST

Bill Quinn
Started Young

By INEZ GERHARD

BILL QUINN, radio's "Little Hermit," (ABC, Saturday evenings), made his debut in show business with Adolphe Menjou, Ruth Roland and Marion Davies, at the age of five. His mother was an extra in the early days of filmmaking, at Fort Lee, N. J., and took Bill along. A stage career followed; came the depression, and he helped his mother and brother run a stationery store, perfect preparation for the setting of his radio show. His radio experience is extensive. Says Bill, "If there is a show that originated in New York in the past 12 or 13 years that I haven't at least read a commercial on, I don't know what it is."

Jerry Hausner just returned from a three months' tour of Europe; visited almost every country on the continent. His first radio assignment when he returned—playing the part of a dog and a used-car salesman on "The Great Gildersleeve."

Rudd Weatherwax arrived at NBC the other day all white and shaking. "This other 'car' bumped my station wagon and threw Lassie off the seat into the floor," he explained. "I rushed to look at the dog, of course; didn't pay any attention to damage on the car. It's beginning to dawn on me that I told the other guy it was my fault! Lassie can easily pay the damages."

William Wyler, producer-director of Paramount's "The Heiress," watched part of World War I from his front yard as a boy; he lived in Mulhouse, France, a battle-ground. But he got into the last war, in the air force.

The FICTION Corner

HE STOOD outside his uncle's room, and as he listened for a brief moment to the labored breathing coming from within, his features became distorted by some sinister emotion. For the physical wreck within the room, his uncle stood between him and his inheritance. Only upon Jason Stoneleigh's death would he come into his estate, and only yesterday he learned from Doctor Phelps, his uncle's physician, that old Jason would perhaps live for years. It was then he had made his decision. Alex clenched his fists as he thought how simple it would be to strangle the life out of the old man—but there was an easier way which would never throw an inkling of suspicion his way. His uncle kept a loaded gun in his room, eccentric as he was, he lived in fear of his life. He kept only one servant, who would be away today, and there would be away today.

Alex smiled to himself, deeply satisfied with his plan, as he entered the room. He greeted his uncle with robust good cheer, but his uncle, a dark scowl upon his thin bony face, sat in his chair silently. There was no movement in his body.

"Aren't you feeling any better?" he asked with feigned concern, and then the eyes of the two men met, and their glances seemed to sweep aside all pretense between them.

"It's been a long wait, hasn't it, Alex," the old man said with biting contempt, "but I'm afraid it will even be longer. Doctor Phelps has been quite encouraging."

Alex edged toward the desk in which the gun would be. He opened the drawer, felt the brittle coldness of steel. He swept about to Jason Stoneleigh, and the gun was in his hand. "You miserable wretch," he slurred, "I won't have to wait a day longer."

The old man's eyes stared wide with terror. His body did not rise from his seat as though he might be frozen with fear. There was only a pitiful cry: "You'll hang for it, Alex!"

A MOMENT later, with detached calm, Alex wiped the gun clean of his own fingerprints, and then placed the weapon in the murdered man's hand. He took one last glance about the room assuring himself there was no trace of evidence. He was sleeping soundly that night, happy in the thought that in the morning he would be a wealthy man. But it was almost midnight when he was awakened by the police. He was ordered to get into his clothes at once.

"But I don't understand," he protested, his face white and drawn. Then he succeeded in controlling

THE LAST CRY
By NORMAN FREILICH

Panic gripped him, and his eyes turned desperately to Doctor Phelps. "Surely, Doctor Phelps, you can tell them how absurd it is to think otherwise. You can tell them of my uncle's brooding over his ill-health."

The doctor stepped toward Alex, his face stern, almost menacing. "I can only tell them the truth, Alex."

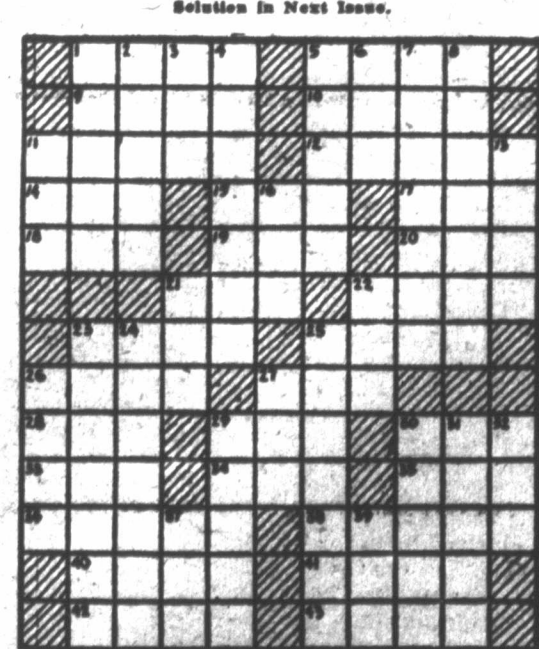

"Yes, the truth," Alex pleaded. "Your uncle suffered a stroke a week ago—and the gun which killed Jason Stoneleigh was found in his right hand"—the doctor paused—"and that hand and the whole arm were paralyzed."

Economic Future

YOUR Home Town Reporter has been attending some of the important committee hearings before the joint economic committee and insofar as we can judge, nobody of all the important business, labor, farm and economic experts knows just what is going to happen to the economic picture of our country in the foreseeable future.

Some of the experts see continued prosperity and inflation ahead, others a leveling off and continued good business, others declare we are hell-bent for a depression and, consequently, this latter group is for the most part made up of Republicans.

In the midst of these hearings in a stuffy, dark-wood paneled committee room, Congressman Brent Spence of Kentucky, chairman of the house banking and currency committee, introduced the President's anti-inflation bill, or rather the administration economic stabilization act. And what struck this reporter as particularly alarming was the feeling—if not expressed, then implied—that as long as we are not sure just what is going to happen, let's do nothing about it.

Some economists say we are in the midst of "disinflation," a new word; others charge present lay-offs of men in some sectors is a studied effort on the part of "big business" to "frighten" the country into a depression or at least to prevent enactment of the President's far-reaching bill, which would give him stand-by power to do just about everything he could during wartime to control the economy of the country if he deemed it necessary, and to stall further wage hikes. The President's bill (HR 2756) was presented on the assumption that "booms and busts" or the cycles of business depressions are man-made, not beyond our control, and that if government has the power when the time comes to apply the brakes or press the accelerator, these booms and busts can be avoided. Seems reasonable.

Tydings "Fused"

Sen. Millard Tydings is a tall, lean, white-thatched Marylander, polished and suave and with a biting, ironic tongue. But the ready and alert Tydings was fused considerably during an exchange in hearings before the joint atomic energy commission about who would control the big atomic energy laboratory at Los Alamos—Uncle Sam or local authorities.

"Could the sheriff arrest a man if he had committed a crime, shot another person, on Los Alamos?" Senator Tydings asked.

The attorney for the commission replied: "That would depend on where he shot him."

"I mean," snapped Senator Tydings, "if he shot him in a highly restricted area."

Bored reporters, doodling on their note paper laughed at the exchange and Senator Tydings blushed at the snickers and guffaws of laughter.

There were more telephones on America's farms in 1920 than there are today. Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama told a house agricultural sub-committee that fact in testifying for his bill to provide telephones for rural areas in much the same fashion as REA works for electricity. Farmers want the bill. Telephone companies, little and big ones, are opposed.

We have gone a long way from the isolationism of the 1920s and while Washington's farewell address which contained the familiar admonition against entangling foreign alliances was being read on Washington's birthday, the senate was considering the north Atlantic pact which ties us up irrevocably with the freedom loving countries of western Europe, within the provisions of the United Nations. And 59 senators were polled as declaring they would vote to declare war if our western Europe allies were attacked. Fact is, the pact as now written does not directly commit us to war but merely implies it. It says attack on one nation is an attack on all and all others agree to "take action forthwith." What that action is, is not spelled out.

Labor at Odds

Now that two of the large farm organizations have done all they could to sabotage the administration's new labor bill and retain the Taft-Hartley Act, it would seem appropriate that at least two of the large labor organizations should testify and use their influence to defeat the farm proposals for a long-range agricultural act. Why can't these two largest segments of the nation's economy whose interests are the same get together?

WOMAN'S WORLD

Home Sewing Demands Attention to Details

By Ertia Haley

"I can cut, baste and fit my clothes," says an amateur seamstress, "but something's wrong with the fit of my sleeves and waist. How can I remedy these things?"

Details of completing a garment frequently offer a problem to those who have just begun to sew. Frequently, too, we find that even those who have made garments for some time are still at a loss as to how some basic construction problems are solved.

One of the main difficulties comes in fitting sleeves. This is easy to understand because there are three places for most sleeves to fit: at the shoulder where the sleeve joins the garment, at the elbow because of the movement of the arm, and, finally, at the wrist or cuff, if you are working on the long sleeve.

If you are using a pattern, you may be certain that the sleeve will fit at the armhole, as this has been pre-tested. However, use a great deal of caution in cutting with the pattern. If the sleeve pattern moves even slightly on the material during the cutting, it will twist during the wearing.

Note, too, the mark for straight of the goods in placing the pattern on the fabric. Lay the fold of the

Be Smart!

Those wonderfully soft pastel wools that are top favorites for resort wear now, have brought about an accompanying hat fashion: the matching felt, swathed in net or mulline, and the lacy turban of net or froth-iest lace-wool crochets. In the soft pinks, blues, pistachio greens and other pastel colors of sheer wool, the effect is a new and entrancing "confection" of a hat. The swathed turbans give a wonderful background for the jeweled touch of scatter pins or a single large pin.

Some of the puffed sleeves will also look peculiar because of their fullness. However, when properly gathered, they are designed to fit. Sleeves should not be fitted high on the shoulder to eliminate the soft fold of the waist at the front and back. The sleeve will tear out.

If you have a model, this helps in fitting sleeves. It cannot do the job completely, though. You'll have to try on the garment and move your shoulders and arms about while you check the fit.

Have your shoulder pads ready to insert when you fit the sleeve. These should be inserted before the fitting. You should not do the final stitching before trying on sleeves with shoulder pads.

Pads Vary with Fabric Which Is Used

Little padding is used currently on sleeves because the soft rounded, natural shoulder line is being hailed. However, most shoulder lines are improved if a slight padding is inserted to improve shoulder irregularities.

The shape of the pad varies with the material used in sewing the garment.

The large triangles are used for woollens and some of the stiff, heavy silk and rayon materials. Small, long or round-shaped pads are considered best for the sheer fabrics, including the sheer woollens which are now so favored. For washable fabrics, you'll find that gathered taffeta serves quite well.

Raglan sleeves usually take a pie-shaped pad, with the broad edge wide enough to extend across the shoulder line. Join one point to the shoulder or top of the sleeve while the other points are placed where yoke and sleeve meet.

If you have one shoulder higher than the other, make a heavier and larger pad for the lower shoulder to even the shoulder line.

Cut the whole pattern, but particularly the sleeves, when you are at leisure and at ease. You can't hope to correct cutting faults in the fitting.

On long sleeves, either the three-quarter or full length, you will note that there are darts at the elbow which permit activity. Be certain you include the material for these in cutting no matter how strange the sleeve pattern looks.

THE GARDEN SPOT
New Vegetables Add Variety

By Eldred E. Green

GROW YOUR OWN FOOD. During the war home food growing was necessary to add food to the nation's resources. Now home food growing is desirable to keep down high prices and to allow quantities of food to be shipped to ruined countries. And home grown food is fresh. Picked just when ready and used, immediately, it has flavor that cannot be found in store-handled kinds.

Since the war, the seed industry has been able to put out some new varieties of vegetables that will help the home garden. One of the new items is a dwarf sweet corn. Just imagine a full grown corn plant as high as your knee! And two to three ears on it! Moreover, the ears are ready in two months after planting. While the plant is small, they are about four inches long and have eight rows of medium size kernels. Plants take no more room than turnips, and any size garden can have this fine corn. This year it is in many seed catalogs under the name Golden Midget.

Another plant for the home garden is the tomato Beauty. This was developed in North Dakota especially for early maturity and colder climates. The plants are stocky, with several stems that do not need staking or a lot of room. Plants can be set as close as two feet apart. The fruits are dark red, round and similar to Marglobe or Rutgers. Plants produce fruit in about eight weeks after being set out. The fruits are excellent for eating or canning. From Minnesota comes a dwarf cucumber. The vine is short and forms medium size fruits. About seven weeks are needed for the crop to start. The fruit is excellent for salads or for pickling. Plants take little room and bear heavily. Look for Mincus in the catalogs.

There are many less spectacular new vegetables as well. A white round early radish is one. Not quite as sharp as the red ones. If you like melons and have room there are early strains of muskmelons and watermelons. The midget muskmelon needs about 60 days of warm weather and forms quantities of melons about the size of a large ball. Has fine taste and color. Another is the ice box watermelon. Fruits are six inches across, thin skinned, and fine flavored. Needs about nine weeks of hot weather.

Study your seed catalogs for new items in lettuce, hybrid corn for large gardens, beans and many other vegetables. Variety adds spice to the table.

Stitch Side Seams Before Joining Waistline

To have the waistline fit properly, it's necessary to prefit the garment and to prepare the bodice properly before joining the bodice with the lower half of the garment.

Amateurs frequently feel it is easier to sew the waistline and then follow this by joining the side seams. Well, it certainly is easier to sew this way, but the waistline will rarely fit properly. It is either too high or too low!

On some dresses which require a stiff waist, you may insert an inner belt to keep the waistline firm. Among the new sheer dresses now appearing, an elasticized waist is sometimes used so the dress gathers softly and evenly.

With an inner belt, join the seam first, then insert the belt, basting it to the seam.

Let these Tips Guide When Making Pockets

Pockets are not hard to make, and they frequently add value as well as decoration to the garment.

Patch pockets, which are frequently used on house dresses and aprons, children's clothing, and the like, are easiest to make. They must be absolutely true and even. A cardboard pattern is best to use for cutting evenly. Baste before stitching.

Top edges of pockets are finished first. In lightweight fabrics, this edge is hemmed. In heavier fabrics, cover the raw edge with seam binding after turning the edge, then hem and pin pocket on the garment. Check your accuracy in placing it before stitching.

Unwanted Child Lives in Agony

Bell Syndicate-WNU Features

DESPITE THE FACT that David and I are deeply in love with each other," writes Janet Harrison from Toledo. "ours is a disturbed and unhappy home, and I am writing to ask your help in solving what has become a real problem."

"Two years ago, at 26, I married my office boss. I had been divorced, and have one child, Ann, who is 5. David also secured a divorce and also has a daughter, Pamela, who is 8. Pamela's mother has already married again and gone away, not even sending the child a card at Christmas.

"My first husband and his people are devoted to Ann, who goes to them for a week end twice a month, returning loaded with presents and stories of good times. Under the circumstances I can hardly ask them to include Pamela in these affairs, and as David often takes me on short business trips, we leave his daughter with my old Mammy here at home. But this is hard on Mammy, who has family and church interests of her own.

Sensitive Little Thing

"Naturally, David loves his own child deeply, and so do I. But she is a shy, sensitive little thing, and has made only one friend, a crippled boy of 10 in the adjoining apartment, whose parents are about to move back to their Philadelphia home.

"This is the problem. They adore Pamela, and she is quite as devoted to them. Bob, the son, never will walk and they tell me he has never found so congenial a companion as Pam. They want to adopt her. On investigation I have learned that they are fine people, have a big house, a boat, and so on. "They don't want half measures. It must be full adoption or nothing. Pamela's mother, to whom I wrote, agrees to the plan and David is influenced by the fact that with the atmosphere here so much eased I would be glad to have another child or two, a responsibility I am certainly not willing to face as things are now.

"Knowing that you advise many other younger couples as to marital problems, we come to you with the confidence that whatever you say will be actuated by a desire to do the best for all parties. And that is all David and I want."

Give Up Pamela

Since you ask me, Janet, my advice would be to surrender Pamela completely to the care of this family that has apparently discovered the real child under the confusion and dismay that must so often have flooded her little heart. Betrayed by her mother, predated into a

The Spring and Summer FASHION contains 54 pages of smart new styles, easy to make frocks; special features—free pattern printed inside the book, 25 cents.

Pattern No. 1750 is for sizes 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. Size 3, 1 1/4 yards of 39-inch; 1/4 yard contrast; panties, 1/4 yard.

Household Hints

Artificial pussywills made from brown crepe paper and gray chenille can be made to look like the real thing.

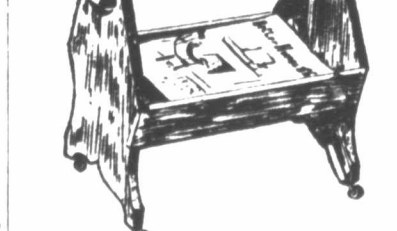

Almonds that have been blanched, cut in thin strips and toasted are an excellent topping for any creamed dish.

Cheese balls are a festive addition to a fruit or vegetable salad. Mash soft cheese, moisten with a little salad dressing if desired and shape into balls—balls may be rolled in finely chopped nuts, celery, green pepper or parsley.

For everyday dusting, use an old shaving brush on your pleated lampshades: the bristles are long enough to remove dust easily from the folds—and soft enough not to injure the fabric.

Linoleum remnants can be made into formal place mats by cementing them to plywood and painting the edges a bright color; such mats are heat resistant and easy to keep clean.

ORDER OF ELECTION

Be it ordered by the Board of Trustees of the Lorraine Independent School District that an election be held at the Lions Club in the town of Lorraine in said Lorraine Independent School District on the 2nd day of April, 1949, for the purpose of electing two school trustees for said Lorraine Independent School District.

Said election shall be held in the manner prescribed by law for holding all elections.

The returns of said election shall be made to the Board of Trustees of said Lorraine Independent School District in accordance with the law.

J. M. Bruce has been selected as judge for the election.

A copy of this order signed by the President and attested by the Secretary of said Lorraine Independent School District and the seal thereof hereunto affixed shall serve as proper notice of said election and the President shall cause notice of said election to be given in accordance with law.

Request to Go On Ballot

A request to have ones name placed on the official ballot of said election as a candidate for the office of Trustee of said school District shall be filed in writing to the Secretary of the Lorraine Independent School District not later than the 24th day of March, or a petition signed by at least five (5) qualified resident voters be submitted to the Secretary of said Board of Trustees before this time. (Art. 2746 a Texas Public School Laws.)

In testimony whereof witness the signature of the President and Secretary of said Lorraine Independent School District and the seal thereof hereunto affixed this 7th day of March, 1949.

W. H. Narrell, President
Board of Trustees Lorraine Independent School District
Attest: Woodrow Pratt, Secretary Board of Trustees Lorraine Independent School District.

NOTICE OF ELECTION OF CITY OFFICERS FOR THE CITY OF LORRAINE

To the qualified voters of the City of Lorraine:

Take notice that an election will be held on the first Tuesday in April, 1949, the same being the 5th day of April, at the City Hall in the City of Lorraine, Texas, for the following purpose and no other:

Election of 3 aldermen and a mayor for the City of Lorraine. Every person who has attained the age of 21 years, and who has resided in corporation limits of said City for six months next preceding the date of said election, and is a qualified voter under the laws of the State of Texas, shall be entitled to a vote in said election.

No person shall be eligible to any of the offices unless he or she possesses the requisites provided for voters at such election.

J. C. Hall has been appointed to serve as presiding judge for said election, and he shall select one judge and one clerk to assist in holding same. Said election shall be held in the manner

It happens at midnight...

It's new... it's modern... it's exclusive... it's the new Norge Self-D-Froster—the refrigerator that DEFROSTS ITSELF! Just think of it... no more fuss and muss of manual defrosting... no button or dial controls. No melting of ice cubes... no exposure of food to outside air. Norge... and only Norge... eliminates these worries. Every night at midnight, while you sleep, the Self-D-Froster takes over.

Here's how the Self-D-Froster works!

This handsome electric clock, mounted on the refrigerator door, turns the mechanism off at midnight, switches it on after the cooling of foot has melted.

Defrost water is carried away into the non-spill Handdefroster container, conveniently located and easily removable for emptying at your convenience.

Defrost water never collects in the Cold-pack... so there's no need to remove your meats. Sealed Giant Side Freezer keeps ice cubes frozen.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

QUESTION: Could you tell me how to mend a marble table top which is broken straight across. Of course, I'd want it to show as little as possible, but at the same time, be strong.

ANSWER: Marble in thin slabs, as table tops, when broken, can be permanently mended only when supported by a reinforcement. Plasterboard can be used for this, or a strip of board. The reinforcement is cut to fit within the frame. The marble is turned upside down, the edges of the break are cemented and pressed together, a thin mixture of plaster of Paris is spread on the back of the marble, and the reinforcement placed in position. After a number of hours for hardening, the marble is returned to place.

CHANGE of LIFE?
Are you going through the functional "middle age" period peculiar to women (35 to 50 yrs.)? Does this make you suffer from hot flashes, restlessness, nervousness, tiredness, loss of energy, etc.? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieves such symptoms. Pinkham's Compound also has what doctors call a "stimulating" effect!

Delicious Cookies

MOUTH WATERING while they bake, mouth-melting when you taste them, that's the way we like our cookies! Remember, too, you should always have them on hand if you want to keep the family happy or for on-the-spot entertaining.

With youngsters raiding the cookie jar, it's sometimes hard to keep it filled, so bake in large quantity. If you reserve cookies for entertaining, make two or three of your best varieties and pack them in those attractive tins, between layers of waxed paper, and serve right from the tin. They'll be pretty enough.

Walnut Dreams
(Makes about 36 squares)

First Layer:
1/2 cup butter or shortening
1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
1/2 cup sifted cake flour

Cream butter until fluffy; add sugar and flour and mix until thoroughly blended. Pat mixture into a baking pan, about 12"x8"x1". Bake in a moderate (375°) oven until golden brown. While still warm, top with the following:

Second Layer:
2 eggs, well beaten
1 1/2 cups brown sugar
1 cup moist shredded coconut
1 cup chopped black walnuts
2 tablespoons pineapple marmalade
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix these ingredients in order given. Top first layer and bake in a moderate (375°) oven until golden brown, 20-25 minutes. Remove from oven, let cool slightly, then frost with:

Third Layer:
1 cup confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon butter
1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
1/2 cup finely chopped black walnuts

Orange Juice
Blend together sugar, butter, orange rind and enough juice to spread easily. Cover layer two, then sprinkle with walnuts. Press walnuts into icing lightly. Cut into squares.

(Makes 5 dozen)

1/2 cup shortening
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup brown sugar
2 cups peanut butter
2 eggs, well beaten
2 teaspoons soda in 1/4 cup boiling water
3 1/2 cups sifted flour

Cream shortening; add the sugars. Add peanut butter and blend well. Add eggs, then flour alternately with water. Form into balls and Flatten on an ungreased cookie sheet with the tines of a fork, making a cross design. Bake in a moderate (375°) oven for 10-12 minutes. If desired, these may also be shaped with a cookie press.

Butterscotch Brownies
(Makes 16)

1/2 cup butter or shortening
1/2 cup dark corn syrup
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup chopped pecans or walnuts

Cream together butter and sugar; add corn syrup, well-beaten egg. Fold in flour and nuts. Pour into a square pan and bake in a moderate (350°) oven for 20-25 minutes. Cut in squares. Dust with confectioners' sugar if desired.

These icebox cookies are good with a glass of milk or a dish of ice cream and simply wonderful for parties or desserts.

Butterscotch Icebox Cookies
(Makes 5-6 dozen)

1 cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 1/2 cups flour

1 cup chopped nutmeats
Cream the butter and sugar. Add soda to eggs; mix with butter and sugar. Add salt, flour and nutmeats. Work into a roll. Wrap in waxed paper and let stand in refrigerator overnight or until needed. Slice thin. Bake in a moderately hot (400°) oven for 10-12 minutes or until golden brown.

Tutti-Frutti Cookies
(Makes 5 dozen)

1/2 cup chopped maraschino cherries
1/2 cup chopped candied pineapple
2 tablespoons chopped candied orange peel

1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 cup butter or shortening
1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
2 eggs, unbeaten
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1/2 cup milk

Combine cherries, pineapple and orange peel. Let stand in a tightly covered jar for 24 hours. Sift flour, add baking powder, salt and spices. Sift together three times. Cream butter, add sugar and cream until light. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add fruit and mix. Fold in flour alternately with milk. Mix thoroughly. Drop from a teaspoon on a lightly greased baking sheet and bake in a hot (400°) oven for 10 minutes.

Dry the leaves from your stalks of celery, store in a glass jar, then use to flavor soups, stews and stuffings for meat and fish.

Salmon, tuna, lobster, crabmeat, and shrimp need only some chopped celery and mayonnaise for a delightful salad. You can round out the salad plate with sliced tomatoes, black olives, potato chips, sliced hard-cooked eggs or deviled eggs.

Ground cardamom seed gives yeast rolls and sweet breads a delicious, unusual flavor.

SCRIPTURE: Mark 7:24-37 Luke 7:11-16
DEVOTIONAL READING: Acts 10:34-44

The Race Question

Lesson for March 27, 1949.

JESUS DID NOT know there was a race question. That is to say, there was no question for him, though he well knew that his neighbors found the race problem a hot one. All the germs of any race problem, even of race riots, were there in Palestine as in all of our world today.

First there was the feeling of racial superiority. Few, if any, peoples think of themselves as an inferior race. Nobody would mind being kicked around if he thought he deserved nothing better. The Jews, to which race Jesus belonged, were no exception to the rule. They felt themselves the superior of any race on earth.

Two Sides of the Question

IN JESUS' time the Jew of Palestine was in the middle. The Romans, having conquered the land, were top-dog in Palestine. With the Romans, the Jews saw the under-side of the race question. But there were other races, much less pure than the Jews, races called "Canaanite" for want of a better name. These people were kicked around by the Jews, just as the Jews in turn were kicked around by the Romans. Looking at the Canaanites, the Jews saw the race question from the top side.

In Palestine the wounds of race quarrels were made worse by the vinegar of religious differences. In those days it was taken for granted: Different race, different religion.

Jesus' neighbors and relatives in Nazareth, like most Jews, supposed that God would favor only the "chosen" people, namely themselves. So the Jew's resentment toward the Romans above him and his contempt of the Canaanites beneath him were made more bitter by his conviction that they would all end in hell except his own race.

What Jesus Did About It

THE TWO STORIES in our lesson (see the Scripture references) show the astonishingly simple way in which Jesus walked straight through those walls "as if they did not exist. He passed no resolutions, denounced nobody; he simply treated all races alike. He helped the Roman army officer and the Canaanite woman precisely as if they had been Jews. (By the way, his remarks to that woman should not be misunderstood as rude. She did not take them that way. He spoke to her, we may well believe, with a smile, and she took him with equal good humor.) Jesus appreciated faith wherever he found it.

He was the last person to fancy that all human beings are alike. But he was the first to give all an equal chance. He took people as human beings, not as "Romans" or "Canaanites."

He neither cringed to the Romans nor bullied the Canaanites. He looked at all men and women with level eyes, seeing not their skins nor their clothes, but their hearts.

What We Can Do

OUR NORTH AMERICA is also criss-crossed by walls of prejudice—racial, political and religious. In Canada (for example) there is the friction between Canadians of French and those of English or Scotch descent; in the United States (not by any means confined to the South) between Negroes and white people; or between the "old stock" and recent immigrants; and so on. These walls look pretty solid; but a Christian will find that if he follows Jesus' example he can walk right through them. Last winter a national interdenominational organization challenged its 28 million members and through them the Christian world, with one of the most sweeping declarations of human rights ever drafted by an American church body.

Hitting at every type of discrimination—racial, political, social, economic, religious—the group has challenged the Church to work for the creation of a non-segregated society "as proof of their sincerity."

Yet the real breakdown of human prejudices, hatreds and contempt, with the injustices growing out of these, does not come at one stroke by resolutions. It comes only by degrees, as Christ-inspired individuals make their own bright doorways.

Questions and Answers

Q. As the widow of a World War 1 veteran, I desire to file my application for a widow's pension. Must I file it in the city where my late husband died?

A. No. The application may be filed at your nearest regional office of Veterans Administration, or may be mailed to the Dependents Claims Service in VA's Central Office in Washington.

Q. I am a World War 1 veteran and was married in 1947. Will my wife be entitled to a pension at my death?

A. No. The law provides that the widow of a World War 1 veteran may be paid a pension only if married to the veteran before December 15, 1944.

Q. I hope to take on the job training under the GI Bill and would like to know the amount of subsistence paid by VA and the maximum amount I will be permitted to earn in order to get full subsistence.

A. If you are single with no dependents, you will receive a subsistence of $65 a month, or $90 a month if you have one or more dependents, provided your income from productive labor is not over $145 a month if you have no dependents; $180 a month if you have one dependent; or $200 a month if you have more than one dependent.

Q. I am attending school under the GI Bill. Am I entitled to unemployment allowance during summer vacation?

A. In order to qualify for readjustment allowance during your summer vacation, you must notify VA that you want your subsistence allowance discontinued, and register with a public employment office to show that you are actively seeking work.

Marketing Administration reports.

Sorghums lost 8 cents a hundred pounds for the week and yellow corn gained 1 1/2 cents a bushel. Changes on other grains were confined to a cent or less.

Poultry sold firm to stronger in the southwest, while eggs held about steady. Fryers ranged from 30 to 33 cents a pound in Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas. Heavy hens sold from 32 to 35 cents in North Texas. Eggs brought mainly 35 to 40 cents a dozen.

Sheep advanced 50 cents to $2 at the different markets. Fort Worth received choice spring lambs at $26.50.

Wool trading held to an extremely narrow range last week.

Monday's hog prices showed little change from a week earlier. Good and choice medium weight butchers sold mostly at $20.50 to $20.75 at Fort Worth. Sows moved generally from $16 to $17.50.

Most southwest cattle sold unchanged to 50 cents higher for the week, though calves at Fort Worth and stocker calves at Denver lost up to $1. Medium and good stocker calves went out at $22 to $26.50 at Fort Worth.

Receipts of cattle, calves, hogs and sheep last week each fell slightly below the week before but greatly exceeded the same week last year at the 12 leading markets.

Cotton closed 25 to 50 cents higher with Dallas and Houston at 32.40 cents a pound.

Charge It Please Is Heard More Now

Austin, Texas, March 21—"Charge it, please", is being repeated more often in Texas stores today than at any time since the war, a University of Texas retail credit specialist says.

Sterling S. Speake, Industrial and Business Training Bureau specialist, travels throughout the state conducting a 10 hour course in retail credit procedures for local merchants and managers.

He says interest in the course has increased because mounting requests for charge accounts. Sixty-four per cent of all 1948 Texas retail sales were on credit, as compared with 40 per cent in 1945, Speake says, and another rise is indicated in 1949.

Texas Retail Sales Show Some Decline

Austin, Texas, March 21—Texas retail sales of durable goods stores recovered from the usual post-Christmas slump in February 1949 to climb 10 per cent above January, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported.

Automotive stores, with a 17 per cent gain, showed the widest increase over January 1949 among durable goods stores in Texas, motor vehicle dealers handling 20 per cent more business in this category. Jewelry sales rose 16 per cent above the January level, while the building material, lumber, and hardware line advanced three per cent, with such components as lumber and material dealers up three per cent, and farm implements a fraction of 1 per cent. Hardware stores slipped less than half of one per cent in February from January.

Furniture and household sales lagged six percent in February with furniture stores down nine per cent from the previous month.

Although February retail sales of both durable and nondurable goods fell a fractional one per cent, total nondurable goods stores dropped six per cent from January, the only increases being recorded in shoe stores, up five per cent, and women's specialty shops, up eight per cent.

Country general stores, with less than a one-half per cent drop presented the smallest decrease among Texas' nondurable goods sales from January to February. Other slight changes below the January level were eating and drinking places and restaurants and drug stores down one per cent; and department stores, off two per cent. The heaviest slump appeared in apparel lines, men's and boys' clothing stores 34 per cent below January, and family clothing stores, 26 per cent.

Durable goods stores sales, up seven per cent, accounted for February 1949 retail sales bettering February 1948 by one per cent. A 24 per cent gain over last February placed automotive sales out in front among durable goods items, which in the other main lines provided declines of 11 per cent in building material, lumber, and hardware, seven per cent in furniture and household and 10 per cent for jewelry.

Nondurable goods stores over the February to February period dipped one per cent, though eating and drinking places and restaurants moved upward three per cent, combination stores (groceries and meat), two per cent; country general stores, two per cent; and both department and drug stores, one per cent.

Apparel store sales of nondurables recorded the greatest losses, though no item slid 10 per cent below February 1948, men's and boys' stores, down eight per cent; family clothing stores, five per cent; and shoe stores, five per cent. Filling stations dipped five per cent in February from a year earlier, and general and merchandise and grocery stores without meat, both down three per cent.
