Hank Finds Palm Springs A Place Of Enchanting Beauty

By HENRY McLEMORE

Having been born in the scrub pine where a possum was about the prettiest animal within a full day's buggy ride, and where an educational trip was one to the red clay hills where all that could be seen was more red clay hills, even ordinary scenery has always seemed since I left my native habitat. I couldn't believe it when I saw Switzerland for the first time. I felt a cheating job was being done a lot of people. I felt the same way when I saw the part of Jasper that borders on the inland sea; the English countryside in early summer; and the Lake George region of New York State.

Last week I got sent by scenery. I went down to Palm Springs and stayed at the Thunderbird Ranch and Country Club. It wasn't the first time I had been to Palm Springs, but it was the first time I had been there since it was a tiny hamlet and had little more to offer in the way of conveniences than climate.

It's not that way any more. Palm Springs has outgrown seven pairs of pants since I was last there. It is on its way toward becoming a big place. It has already had a political squabble, which is definite proof that it has grown up.

I won't try to describe Thunderbird to you or neighboring Tamarisk. I might just as well tell you how it feels to be the Aga Khan and run horses in Ireland, call Buenos Aires for reservations, and get weighed in rubies and turquoise. In other words, it's a little beyond my style of living.

But I went there at the invitation of Johnny Dawson, the president, and a friend of an even twenty years. I could have picked up my chick for three days without killing me, or reading Mary out with a box of matches to sell on the corner, but it was nice to check out for free, and I dare even James Roosevelt, in his palmiest days, to deny that leaving without talking to the man behind the cashier's wicket is real pleasant.

He reported that to date paid up memberships now total $7,784.75 and that the balance would be raised from approximately 200 firms and individuals.

Ralph McKinney, chairman of the Sports Committee, reported that plans have virtually been completed for the Harvesters' basketball banquet, which will be held March 19, at which Burt Huffman, former Texas Tech and New Mexico University coach and now manager of the Albuquerque Chamber, will be the speaker. He also raised plans for the welcoming of the State Champion Harvesters Monday afternoon. His committee, along with the Goodwill and Reception Committee, headed by Jeff Bearden, cooperated on arrangements. The Harvesters cagers returned Monday afternoon from Austin where they captured the state championship for the second year in a row.

President Clinton Evans told the directors of the Highway committee's work during the past month. Projects getting the support of the committee include the proposed Panhandle. The decision was reached when Paul West, chairman of the Pampa-Borger Highway and State Highway 152 east of Pampa to the "Y", improvement and realignment of the Pampa-McLean Highway via Letors, and the establishment of a highway roadside park at Chicken Creek on State Highway 10 north of Pampa.

He said that the Highway Committee will meet soon with the Borger chamber committee on the Pampa-Borger highway improvement program. The Borger Chamber, he said, is cooperating with the Pampa, O of C in requesting the improvement of the road from Pampa to Borger.

NUTRIA ON PATROL: Oil gave the swamp beaver a job.

Even Beavers Strike Oil In Texas

BAYTOWN, Tex. — (NEA) — A family of nutria, close cousins of the muskrat and beaver, have joined the staff of one of the nation's largest oil refineries. Their job act like nutria.

Engineers of Humble Oil & Refining Co. recently put six of the temperamental fur bearers to work in the Baytown refinery's 12-acre reservoir. The nutria's natural taste for algae and reeds, they reasoned, could be put to work in curing a corporate headache.

Leads, weeds, and algae are deleterious to nutria, but a pain in the equipment to refiners, T. L. Satterwhite of the Baytown refinery's technical staff explained. Pumped with the water into cooling towers and other expensive equipment, they foul up the works. They even clog the intake screens designed to exclude them.

Such foul-ups produce costly shutdowns. The annual de-weeding bill for this refinery runs into millions of dollars.

Just how much the nutria will save the company on their free feed depends on several years of reservoir residence, according to Satterwhite. Their appetites for weeds and for multiplication are the major factors. Little nutria grow up into 15- to 20-pounders — with tempers to match.

Humble has posted its reservoir with signs saying, "Please Do Not

Another Roosevelt Sued For Divorce

JUARÉZ, Mex., March 9 —UP— Judge Oscar Martínez Tuesday said he probably would grant a Mexican divorce Tuesday to Mrs. Robin Edwards Roosevelt from Curtis Roosevelt, grandson of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

Whether he does or not depends on whether Roosevelt contests the suit, filed Monday in Second Civil Court, by Mrs. Roosevelt's attorney, Aurisano Gonzalez Vargas. Vargas said Tuesday he didn't expect Roosevelt to contest.

Mrs. Roosevelt came to Juárez for the suit filing. Roosevelt is most widely remembered as the "Buzie" Dali, who as a child, used to romp with his famous grandfather, the late President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, in the White House.

Vargas said he expected Roosevelt's attorney, whom he could not identify, to file a waiver to the divorce action, thus clearing the way for it to go through. Mrs. Roosevelt charged mental cruelty and incompatibility as grounds in filing suit.

Mrs. Roosevelt flew to El Paso Monday and Vargas believed she flew back to New York, which she listed in her divorce petition as her home.

Molest The Weed-Eating Swamp Beavers. It could have added that anyone coming within close molesting distance might lose a finger to the sharp nutria teeth.

The length of the cotton fiber may be from 1,000 to 3,000 times its diameter.

Editor's Refusal To Disclose News Source Backfires

EDINBURG, Tex., March 9 —UP—A Pharr, Tex., editor was ordered to appear in court Thursday to defend his refusal to disclose news sources in what attorneys describe as the first case of its kind in Texas.

Lloyd Glover, the editor, refused to disclose news sources to attorneys for Grover Brady, a former Pharr police chief who seeks $50,000 from Glover and another man in a libel suit.

The suit was filed in February, 1953, but hasn't come to trial. Glover's weekly newspaper, the Pharr Press, made numerous charges against Brady. Brady later resigned and was indicted on a charge of nepotism in hiring his nephew as a Pharr police officer.

The indictment was dismissed, however, on the ground that technically Pharr had no police department at the time Brady was accused of hiring the nephew.

Attorneys met with Glover Saturday to take a deposition. Papers filed in 92nd District Court in Edinburg indicate that Glover was questioned about news stories his newspaper carried critical to Brady.

Band Concert Here Tonight

The North Texas State College concert band will be presented at 8 p.m. today in the Pampa Junior High School auditorium under the sponsorship of the Pampa school bands.

The 87-piece band from Denton, under the direction of Maurice McAdow of the NTSC School of Music, is appearing here during their tour of Texas and Oklahoma cities.

Two faculty members from NTSC and seven student soloists are included in the band personnel for the 1954 tour. Among the student soloists is Miss June Gull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Gull, 1715 Williston. She is the piano soloist with the band. A piano major, she is a freshman student. She attended the University of Oklahoma City one semester, where she was a member of the Piano Club.

Another Pampa girl, appearing with the band, is Miss Adelaide Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Quentin Williams, 712 N. Frost, who is in the clarinet section of the band.

Last year the band toured 11 Texas cities and towns during March. In 1950, the group played at the Music Educators National conference in St. Louis before an audience of approximately 8,000. That same year, the band presented concerts in Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee, Illinois, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Missouri.

School Board Accepts Tipps' Resignation

It was probably one of the fastest Pampa school board meetings on record.

In a period of just 10 minutes, the board Monday night:

(1) approved formally the resignation of Thomas O. Tipps, head football coach for the Pampa Harvesters for the last seven years;

(2) officially ordered the election of a school board member to take the place of E. Raeburn Thompson; and

(3) okayed the multiple list textbook committee's report.

Tipps resigned his post Monday in a surprise move and left today accepted an assistant coaching spot.

School board election is slated for April 3 in the corridor of the Pampa Junior High School. Filing deadline for candidates is March 23. Thompson has taken himself out of the race and Aubrey Steele is the only aspirant who has an authority, according to A. (Lefty) Huff, authority president.

Pampa's Fred Thompson was a member of the committee appointed by Huff. Others: R. G. Sullivan, world history, geography and vocational agriculture.

During the meeting Pampa Schools Superintendent Knox Kinard announced that band uniforms for the junior high school would arrive March 17, that only two band instruments were still undelivered and Cameron Marsh would take over the history-teaching duties left by Tipps.

Some 15 minutes more of the session Monday night were taken up with "hot-moments" on Pampa's second state basketball championship in a row.

Next meeting of the board is set for March 23.

Water Group Plans Study Of Estimates

A five-member committee including one Pampa man has been appointed to study estimates by 10 engineering firms on the preparation of a "feasibility report" on the proposed Canadian River dam-and-reservoir project.

That action came during a day-long session in Plainview Monday of the board of directors of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority, according to A. (Lefty) Huff, authority president.

Pampa's Fred Thompson was a member of the committee appointed by Huff. Others: R. G. Sullivan, world history, geography and vocational agriculture.

City Okays Bills, Plans

Pampa's city commission this morning paid two sets of bills, went along on three recommendations of city engineers and received a report.

A basket of monthly bills — totalling $28,454.86 and library bills totalling $240.12 were approved by the commission today. Included in the first were payments on $10,000 worth of equipment the city had set aside in its budget, had bought but had not yet paid for.

Upon the recommendation of Oscar Redd, civic leader in The Plains, the commissioners decided to wait and see if property-owners on Maple Street could get together enough money to have several blocks of Maple paved, Oklahoma and Elm will be gravelled as previously suggested by City Director of Public Works James Cowan.

A verbal okay, too, was given to City Manager Fred Brook's suggestion that the city's fire-repairing be done on a bid basis, both six months and one year basis. The city engineer recommended that the work be farmed out, Brook told the commission, and that was the decision.

Chlorination, rather than bromination, will be used in the Pampa swimming pool this summer. The commission decided on the switch this morning when Cowan explained it might cost a bit more for a chlorinator, but it would pay for itself by having a smaller operating cost. Said Brook: "the length of the life depends on the maintenance." Bromination has been used in the past.

Brook submitted to the commission an equipment request, something to be considered next week or in the future.

Pampans Assist In 4-H Program Today

County Agent Ralph Thomas, Assistant County Agent Jerry Mobley and Assistant Home Demonstration Agent Faye Burns left this morning for McLean where they were to assist 4-H Club members present a program before the McLean Lions Club today noon.

The program was to be presented in recognition of National 4-H Club week, which began last Saturday and is continuing throughout this week. Visitors were to be Nancy Tale and Jimmy Don-Balley. Color slides were to be shown.

Lefors 4-H Club members presented a similar program at a dinner meeting of the Lefors Lions club Monday night.

Other activities during the week include a program at the Pampa Rotary Club's luncheon meeting Wednesday noon in the Palm Room of the City Hall, another at the luncheon of the Pampa Lions Club Thursday noon in basement of the Gray County in McLean at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Thomas, Mobley and Miss Burns attended a district conference of county agents in Amarillo Monday, which was devoted to 4-H Club plans for the coming year. A. H. Karcher, assistant state 4-H Club leader, president at the meeting.

Kiwanis Activities Win Freedom Scroll

The "Support of Churches" activities of the Pampa Kiwanis Club in conjunction with similar work by other Kiwanis clubs throughout the nation, has been recognized by a Distinguished Service scroll and a cash award by the Freedom Foundation, according to President J. B. Maguire, Jr., of the Pampa club.

This award was won by Kiwanis International in competition with hundreds of entries to the awards juried of the Freedom Foundation of Valley Forge, Pa.

The Freedom Foundation award gives to Kiwanis the distinction of being recognized by this organization for the fourth consecutive year for its meritorious community services," Maguire said.

In announcing the award, Maguire said "the Kiwanis Club of Pampa believes that the success of the Support of Churches activities attests to a spiritual reawakening of the people of our country. Our citizens have an increasing awareness of the need for spiritual guidance in these troubled times."

Pampan Arrested On DWI Charge

For the fifth time in the past eight years, a 64-year-old Pampa man is facing a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Police arrested L. E. Casada, 504 E. Albert, about 9:15 p.m. Monday in the 203 block of W. Tynes.

Casada, police said, had previously been arrested on similar charges four times since January, 1946. Police did not know whether he would be tried in county or district court.

Heart Association Tops District Quota

The North Plains District Heart Association, which includes the Pampa area, is the first district in the state to reach its quota and the only one, so far, to go over it, according to Pampa's Dr. Malcolm Wyatt, district president.

This fact was brought out at a recent district heart association meeting in Borger, attended by representatives from Perryton, Spearman, Amarillo, Borger and Pampa. District quota is $10,000, "and it looks like we'll end up with $15,000," Dr. Wyatt explained.

Noted guest at the event was Edgar Brown, executive director of the Texas Heart Association.

Wills Point Rites Mrs. John Burrows

Funeral services for Mrs. John H. Burrows of Pampa will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday in the First Methodist Church, Wills Point, Tex. Burial will be beside Mr. Burrows who died about 20 years ago. The body was sent to Wills Point Monday evening by the Dunkel-Carmichael Funeral Home here.

Mrs. Burrows died Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. D. McWaters, 1920 N. Somerville. She had lived in Pampa about three years.

Episcopal Church To Lay Cornerstone

Pampa's St. Matthew's Episcopal Church will hold a special cornerstone-laying service at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday at the site of the new church now under construction, announced Rev. Porter Brooks, vicar.

Members of the mission committee, under the direction of Rev. Brooks, are in charge of the ceremony. The committee is composed of C. P. Buckler, Dr. Malcolm Wyatt, Dr. Frank Kelley, Joe Daniel, Harry D. McWaters, Clem Followell, Carl Johnson and David Pobst.

The new church will be a $124,000 structure of cut stone and brick of Modern Gothic architecture. Rev. Brooks advised it will seat 180 persons and will be equipped with a pipe organ.

Into the fabric of the walls will go the symbols of the faith of the Episcopal church, sealed in metal boxes. The symbols include the Cross, the Bible, a copy of the Official Book of Common Prayer, and a document describing the contributors. Rev. Brooks stated.

Architect for the new church is B. R. Cantrell, and construction is being done by the Timmons Company of Amarillo. The building is expected to be completed by June 1. The congregation began raising the money in March 1953 and were finished by August, according to Rev. Brooks.

The cornerstone ceremony is open to the public.

Celanese Profits Show Gain In '53

Celanese Corporation of America net profits in 1953 amounted to $10,652,977 after charges and taxes, equal to $1.01 a share of common stock, compared with $9,214,367, or the equivalent of 77 cents a common share, in 1952, according to the annual report of the company released today. Net sales in 1953 of $165,980,967 were below the previous year's total of $168,711,083.

Sales of the chemical division of the company in 1953 were more than 15 per cent above the preceding year, with new high records established in dollar volume and tonnage. Sales of the plastics division last year were reported as approximately 30 per cent above the previous year.

Cash Gifts Given Library

Pampa's public library has $125 in gifts for books today, following a board meeting Monday afternoon at which the donations were presented, announced Mrs. Lillian Show, librarian.

Of the total, $100 was presented to the board by Mrs. Rex Rose on behalf of the Parent Education Club, which raised the money through a benefit bridge held a few weeks ago. A second presentation of $25 by Mrs. B. E. Finley was made by Mrs. Snow, who stated that Mrs. Finley had left the money with her before leaving town.

The Parent Education Club has already selected the books it wishes to give the library, which will be placed on a special shelf with the club's nameplate in them, Mrs. Snow advised.

Kiwanis Activities Win Freedom Scroll

The "Support of Churches" activities of the Pampa Kiwanis Club in conjunction with similar work by other Kiwanis clubs throughout the nation, has been recognized by a Distinguished Service scroll and a cash award by the Freedom Foundation, according to President J. B. Maguire, Jr., of the Pampa club.

This award was won by Kiwanis International in competition with hundreds of entries to the awards juried of the Freedom Foundation of Valley Forge, Pa.

The Freedom Foundation award gives to Kiwanis the distinction of being recognized by this organization for the fourth consecutive year for its meritorious community services," Maguire said.

In announcing the award, Maguire said "the Kiwanis Club of Pampa believes that the success of the Support of Churches activities attests to a spiritual reawakening of the people of our country. Our citizens have an increasing awareness of the need for spiritual guidance in these troubled times."

Pampan Arrested On DWI Charge

For the fifth time in the past eight years, a 64-year-old Pampa man is facing a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Police arrested L. E. Casada, 504 E. Albert, about 9:15 p.m. Monday in the 203 block of W. Tynes.

Casada, police said, had previously been arrested on similar charges four times since January, 1946. Police did not know whether he would be tried in county or district court.

DEAN BRYAN ROBINSON ... to speak in Pampa

College Dean To Speak At Senior Banquet

Dean Bryan Robinson of Wayland College, Plainview, will be guest speaker at the Pampa High School Senior Class Banquet at 7 p.m. Thursday in the First Baptist Church. The event is an annual affair sponsored by the church's Women's Missionary Union.

Also on the program is "The Internationals," boys' quartet from Wayland College, whose members include Bob Allford and Ken Coffee, both of Pampa.

Robinson, who joined the Wayland staff as dean of students Aug. 1, has been pastor of the First Baptist Church, Oil City, La., for the past two years. Prior to that he spent two years working toward his Ph.D. degree at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland, where he was also youth director and pastor's assistant of St. Mary's Church there.

With his younger brother, R. Jack Robinson, Dean Robinson has conducted many youth revivals and worked with youth camps and assemblies. He was in the armed forces four years, serving in the Aleutian Islands, France and Germany. He received his B. A. degree from Baylor University and his B. D. degree from Southwestern Theological Seminary, Fort Worth.

Scouts Celebrate 42nd Birthday

Two million Girl Scouts of the U. S. will be lighting birthday cakes on March 12 to celebrate their 42nd anniversary.

Carrying out their theme—"Know Your Neighbor—Know Your Nation." Scouts visit government and civic centers in their cities.

For months, the girls have been filling their "kits for Korea." During Girl Scout Week, the bags will be gathered for shipment.

Mrs. Dorsey Tubb won high Mrs. Lawrence Teague held second high, Mrs. Roy Deaton low, and Mrs. Bill Jackson won the traveling prize.

Members attending were Mrs. Lawrence Teague, Bill Jackson, Roy Deaton, Raymond Newell, Dorsey Tubb, Elton Miller, and Quentin Isaacs.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Harvard sociologist Pitirim A. Sorokin thinks there's danger of our going "sex crazy." Reminding us that we're exposed to "some kind of sexual lure every nine minutes," he suggests that these lures accounts for our exaggerated interest in sex.

It was so crazy, it won't be because the lures are so frequent, but because they are so contradictory. If the lures were always the same, they'd grow so boring that we wouldn't react to them.

It's the perpetual changing of the lures that confuses us. For as each insists on a new standard of appearance or behavior, men and women don't know any longer what to expect of themselves or each other. The changing standards keep us so anxious about our own sex appeal that we can't get sex off our minds.

The fact is, you and I are sending our children into a pretty tough sexual society. We do not define boy-girl expectations and conduct for our young people as other countries traditionally and universally define them for theirs.

The sex codes that do survive here are targets for pot-shots by critics who have neither the wisdom nor kindness to restrain their destructiveness until we either revise the old codes or make new ones.

So right now, what we offer children is the chaos of confusion and guilt the results from "every man for himself" codes.

Every day they are bombarded with some new standard of effective sex conduct. Just think of the confusion they have to sweat out without help from traditional and trusted codes.

Should Mary pet—or not? Should she listen to Mother—or Dr. Kinsey? Should she give boys movie sirens allure—or behave like Jo in "Little Women?" Should she try to "manage" boys—or tell them to manage themselves? Should she show one she likes him—or make him chase? Did he kiss her last night because he likes her—or was he just "testing" her for cheapness?

No universally accepted code provides the answer to these tormenting questions. Why wouldn't we be sex-obsessed? If each of us has to make his individual sex code, we'll have sex on our minds until we've done it.

As things are, making such a code can take a lifetime—or a psychiatrist—with everyone from parents to Dr. Kinsey and movie press agents shrieking conflicting ideas at us.

It's a human triumph that men and women dare so much as speak to one another, let alone get married, in a world like Jo in "Little Women."

RUTH MILLET

If you've ever been guilty of referring to yourself as "just a housewife," listen to what a Memphis juror recently told a woman juror who modestly described herself in those words:

Said the judge: "You said, 'Just a housewife'—as if it were an unimportant career. I don't like the term, 'just a housewife,' and I don't like attorneys or anyone to refer to housewives in that manner. Why, housewives have a big, important job. And it's a full-time job, too, because they're kept busy all the time."

We women shouldn't use that too-modest phrase—ever. Not even in our thinking.

We should say "I'm a housewife" with pride in our voices and our heads held high.

Ask any group of girls, of any age, what they want to do when they grow up. The majority will answer that they want to marry and have a family. That is the number one career for women.

Oh, the modern girl may say that she wants to work awhile before marriage or she may even say she wouldn't mind working awhile after marriage, but she will usually admit that at the end of the rainbow she sees a house, a husband, and children.

So when she finally is established in the career of her choosing why shouldn't she be proud? Why shouldn't she feel important? Why shouldn't she ever feel compelled to add "just" before the term "a housewife?"

Girl Scouts Tour, Swim In Amarillo

Pampa's Girl Scout Troop 19 went to Amarillo recently for a swim in the San Jacinto Youth Center. Girls were given tips on hair styling and grooming at San Jacinto Beauty School and also toured the airport and Herring Hotel. Sponsors were Mrs. A. and Mrs. Burl Lewter.

The troop completed plans for a slumber party at the Girl Scout House Friday evening.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend

How you ever know the answers to all the questions asked I'll never know. I find your advice is indeed sensible and helpful. That's why I am coming to you with a question.

I have a collection of 171 post cards most of them from out of this state, among them some from Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Finland. I was wondering if you might know whether there is anyone who might be interested in buying my collection? Are there people or firms who buy collections? If so who sets the price for them and how could I get such peoples' addresses?

I would appreciate your answer.

L. W. x

Dear L. W.

Just as post cards, you collection probably has no value. However it might be that some of them are old enough to be of value to collectors of stamps and envelopes.

The best way to find out would be to take a few of the oldest ones to a stamp dealer. You can find their addresses in the yellow pages of the telephone directory.

If it happened that any of the cards were sent on early plane flights they might have some value. Such stamps and covers, as they are called, have definite value as they are all catalogued.

SEX INSTRUCTION

Dear Grace Friend

Could you give me the name of some good book on sex instruction for the early teen age?

My daughter is 12 years old and I would like to instruct her intelligently on these things as well as present a healthy outline of sex life.

Mrs. R.

Dear Mrs. R.

A good book for your 12 year old would be "The Story Didn't Bring You" by Lois Pemberton. When she is a year or two older give her Duval's "The Facts of Life and Love for Teen Aged."

Champion Cherry Pie Baker

An 18 year old high school senior, Beverly Jones of Ogden, Utah, displays her prize winning pie. Beverly entered and won the 22nd Annual Cherry Pie Baking Contest held in Chicago over other champion cherry pie bakers representing every state in the Union.

Beverly, who is an accomplished cook, used the following recipe in her outstanding cherry pie:

- Filling For Two Pies
- 1 1/2 cup sugar
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 4 tablespoons butter
 - 1 cup cherry juice
 - 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
 - 1/2 cup cornstarch
 - 4 cups red sour cherries
 - 1/2 cup cherry juice
 - Red coloring if needed
- Heat in a saucepan the sugar, salt, and one cup juice. Mix together cornstarch and remaining juice and stir into the first mixture. Cook 5 minutes. Remove from heat and add lemon juice, butter, nutmeg and coloring, if needed. Carefully mix in the well-drained cherries. Pour into two pastry-line pie pans (recipe below). Moisten the pastry around the edge with water before placing the top pastry on pie. Trim off any surplus pastry and crimp. Bake at 425° F for 30 minutes.
- Crust For Two Pies
- 3 cups sifted flour
 - 1 1/2 cup Swift's Silverleaf Lard
 - 1 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 egg
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 1/2 teaspoon soda
 - 4 tablespoons water (about)
- Sift into mixing bowl, flour, salt, sugar, and soda. Add lard and cut with a pastry blender until the mixture is in even bits no larger than peas. Beat together in a bowl, egg, lemon juice, and water and add a small amount at a time, to the flour mixture. Toss lightly with a fork after each addition of liquid. Continue the procedure until the pastry mixture is moist enough to form a ball when patted together. Divide the dough into 4 parts. Roll each part on a floured canvas to 1/8 inch thickness. Line two pie pans with two of the circles. Cut remaining circles in 1/2" strips for lattice-top.

Moscow Maps New Rampage After Dismal Berlin Showing

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
PARIS — (NEA) — Watch Europe's Reds going on yet another "revolutionary" rampage. Judged by Moscow's Pravda and the Paris Humanite, the Cominform's chief mouthpiece in the West, the Kremlin rulers were clearly disturbed by Vyacheslav Molotov's failure to split the Western Powers at the Berlin Four Power conference.

They will now seek to retrieve lost ground through "intensified revolutionary action." This means renewed agitation for "popular fronts and a new wave of strikes and violence."

Orders to this effect were issued by the Cominform to the Red parties of France and Italy immediately following the Berlin talks, French Communist sources report. The new instructions obviously are designed to soften up the NATO powers for the conference on Korea and Indo-China that will meet in Geneva, Switzerland, on April 26.

They call for:
1. Immediate formation of united fronts, drawing in the middle classes and anti-Communist Socialists.
2. New demands for higher wages supported by agitation and strikes.
3. Undermining of national and colonial governments in North Africa, the Middle East and Asia by new acts of provocation.
Since the end of the Berlin meeting the French Reds have appealed twice to the Socialists to form a "united front" against "American imperialism." They were rebuffed each time.
Communists carrying out Moscow's orders are not easily discouraged, of course. Humanite continues to scream editorially: "Time is short. The united front of the working class must grow and develop in order to prevent the formation of the European Army."
However, this time Humanite's shrill noises seem to fall on deaf ears.
Even Europe's neutralists—who are still conducting a heated post-mortem on the Berlin talks — are beginning to see the impossibility of a compromise between the free world and communism. They are awakening to the grim fact that Molotov's imperiously cynical "security" proposals would merely give Europe the security of the antelope in the stomach of the lion.

In this respect the Berlin talks were not completely fruitless. The Western powers, to be sure, were not always competent or well-advised in their negotiations with the Russians. But Molotov was his own worst enemy.
The Russians gambled at Berlin and lost. They scored minor propaganda victories. They sneaked Red China through the back door into Geneva conference. But they failed in their main tasks:
1. Prevent the formation of the European Defense Community with the participation of West Germany.
2. Split the NATO powers.
3. Isolate the United States.
The proceedings at Berlin have actually improved the prospects of France ratifying the European Army treaty. They have also clearly demonstrated Russia's aggressive designs in the West.

Civil Service Investigation Agency Takes Load Off FBI

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Unnoticed and almost unknown, the U. S. Civil Service Commission in the last two years has built up another big government investigative agency. While the job of this CSC Investigation Division is not in the crime-busting or gun-shoe field, it ranks right up there with the Secret Service, Post Office Inspectors, Border Patrol and Treasury T-Men in narcotics, Internal Revenue, Coast Guard and customs services.
Head of the CSC-ID is Kimbell Johnson, an Alabamian, who has been in Civil Service investigative work for some 15 years. He now has under him 800 "ID" men located all over the country. While this isn't large compared to the 6000 agents in the FBI, it is about the size of the 800 agents in Secret Service or the 1200 in postal inspection work.
The job of CSC-ID is confined exclusively to the relatively new but increasingly important field of security investigations — formerly known as loyalty investigations — of government employees.
The fact that there is a CSC Investigation Division is apparently just beginning to register in Home town, U. S. A. An investigator will appear, show his credentials, and start asking questions about Local Boy or Local Girl, who now has a job with government or has applied for one.
Makes Good Or Else
Police records will be checked, as will bankers, preachers, bosses, teachers, neighbors and old school mates. What do they know about Local Boy? Anything against him, or his family or in-laws? Where did he work before? Why did he quit to seek a job with the government? The worst of these investigations gets around in local communities and gossip sometimes gives them the most possible interpretation. "Did you hear that there was a G-man in town investigating Local Boy? Wonder what's wrong with him? Maybe he's gone Communist."
That is the impression which Civil Service investigators, the FBI and all other government personnel services are trying to correct. The fact that there is no stigma attached to a government security investigation has to be registered. The idea that such a checkup is merely a guarantee that the U. S. government is trying to get the best people available for its employees has to be put over. That it is an honor to be investigated and cleared for government employment under existing orders still hasn't been completely sold. Civil Service Commission makes

Segregation Ban Worrying South Whites

By PETER S. WILLET
ATLANTA, March 8 — The spectre worrying southern leaders now — and they are in outspoken agreement that it must not happen — is that a Supreme Court ruling against segregated education would mean schools where Negroes outnumber whites.
A United Press survey shows that in nearly every major city in the United States outside of the South there are schools where Negroes outnumber white students.
Southern leaders have vowed that this must never happen in their states.
"Regardless of what the Supreme Court may rule," Georgia Gov. Herman Talmadge said, "There will be no mixing of the races in Georgia schools as long as I am governor."
Leaders in other southern states have made similar, if not as strong, statements.
In contrast to the rest of the nation, most major southern cities would be little affected by a decision outlawing school segregation. Education officials say residential zoning restrictions would maintain segregation in most of the larger cities.
But southerners point to rural areas as potential trouble spots. Education officials estimate that Negro students would outnumber whites in many rural areas in South Carolina, South Georgia, the Cotton Belt along both sides of the Mississippi River, and in at least two Florida counties.
In some Mississippi counties, Negroes outnumber whites by as much as eight to one, and in 1952 there were 249,811 Negro students compared with 244,905 white students in Mississippi.

The Manion Case

A split is developing in the Republican Party. Many Republicans feel that while they would vote for Ike in preference to a New Deal Democrat such as Stevenson, that actually Ike represents only a small change.

That Ike still lends his ear more often to his New Deal advisors than to the libertarian wing of the Republican Party is shown by his attempt to block Sen. McCarthy at every turn.

Ike's speech on "book burning," his recent attempt to curb Republican attacks on Democratic leadership, his strong opposition to the will of the people on the issue of the Bricker Amendment, all these and many other actions have combined to make Republicans ask themselves:

"Is this what we voted for, when we voted for a change?"

The crowning blow was Ike's firing of Dean Clarence Manion. According to Manion's own testimony he was fired because of his outspoken support of the Bricker Amendment.

The leftists have been sniping at Manion for some time. The Denver Compost gave one of its reasons for hating Facts Forum the fact that Facts Forum has been circulating a book by Dean Manion which exposes errors by New Dealers to socialize America.

Recently the Denver Compost attacked Manion for his belief that the TVA should be sold to private investors, a belief which Charles E. Wilson and many others have held for a long time.

When Manion was appointed to his job of studying the various governmental departments we were afraid it was too good to last. When Manion was fired, Ike showed how he stands on true Republican liberalism. Manion was fired because he was true to the Bricker Amendment.

Perhaps the funniest excuse was offered by Colorado's Governor Dan Thornton.

Thornton said: "Manion was too busy going around the country making speeches instead of doing his job."

This is funny because if this were any basis for firing government officials, Thornton himself would have been fired long ago together with a host of others, not to mention Nixon — or Ike, who came back from one vacation to go hunting, and came back from his hunting trip in order to go to Palm Springs, taking time out in the meanwhile to make statements against the Bricker Amendment.

Here are some of Dean Manion's beliefs which he expressed, and for which, according to his testimony, he was fired.

In an article urging everyone to vote for the Bricker Amendment, he tells of a client of his who made his will and was happy because he had made provision for his children's financial security.

Manion told him: "John, tear up the trust agreement. Tear up the will. Throw away the life insurance policies. Forget the bank account. Forget everything, because unless you leave your children liberty, you leave them nothing at all."

"Ask the ghosts of ten million Kulkas murdered by Joe Stalin. Ask those ghosts: 'So fellows, you had lots of property. What good did it do you when you were forced up against the concentrated unlimited power called communism?'"

"Whenever you ask the question and of whom ever you ask it, the answer comes back, always the same, in time of unlimited, concentrated government, your property is going to buy your children just one thing — a ticket to the concentration camp — a one way ticket to the point of no return."

"So will you please think about that the next time you stash away a few dollars for the new grandchild? Gather them around you and take a look at them, as I have looked at mine. Then ask yourself one question: 'How much power, how much unlimited, concentrated power is my government going to have when these youngsters are as old as I am?'"

"Ask yourself that question, my friends. That will do it."

"Then and there you'll make a resolution that your legacy, not of property but of liberty, to these, your children, is going to compare favorably to the big fortune of freedom that the founding fathers left to you."

The man who wrote these words is the kind of man Ike doesn't want in his government.

"Nothing can be more important to us than the reelection of a Republican House and Senate this fall," Speaker Joe Martin told a luncheon meeting of the GOP National Finance Committee.

Taking him at his word, the committee promptly voted a war chest of $3,800,000 to underwrite 1954 campaigning. This is exactly twice the amount spent in 1950 and sets a new record for congressional electioneering. The high cost of radio and television are given as part of the reason for the big price tag.

And we will suggest once more that the most effective use of these new facilities might be to appear FROM WASHINGTON telling the constituents why the vital business of REPRESENTATIVE government must go on — election or no election.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Public Housing

I want to continue to quote from Dr. Paul L. Polrot's article on "Public Housing" on the question of shortages. This is what he has to say about measuring the shortage:

Government Interference

"Sometimes the government — federal, state, or local — interferes with the price signals in the housing market. Not the private builder, but the government, steps in and says that rents shall not exceed $10 a month, or whatever other figure they deem to be fair. The consequence of such indirect housing subsidy, of course, is that those tenants who are most fortunate will expand into living quarters more spacious than they would consider necessary at the competitive market price. Most tenants can find two rooms for the price of one will occupy the two rooms instead of one."

"The tendency of rent control to aggravate the housing shortage seems to have been recognized even by the government. With one hand, the government holds the price of housing below its competitive level; with another hand, it forces the diversion of productive efforts from other uses into home construction. For instance, the government offers mortgage money at the lower than the market rate of interest, thus applying a little pressure on lenders to the advantage of borrowers. The government also offers mortgage insurance or guarantees the payment of mortgages which otherwise would be too shaky to seem attractive to private investors. As a final resort, the government may offer the mortgage in the form of tax-privileged or even tax-exempt government bonds to attract investors toward the 'opportunity.' So the government has a variety of ways of applying its powers of taxation so as to interfere with the housing market. By emphasizing rent control, it is possible to create as serious a housing shortage as anyone could desire."

"Of course, the government doesn't deliberately set out to create a housing shortage when it indulges in rent control and various easy home-purchase subsidies. The object is to help the needy, the returning veterans, the families of defense workers, the underpaid public servants, all those who are thought to be worthy and deserving. And it is not a popular thing to question such humanitarian motives. However, it is necessary to raise a couple of questions because the means employed are defeating the objective. The housing shortage persists because of what is being done by the government in its effort to correct it. And the victims who suffer most are the very ones who were supposed to be the beneficiaries of this intervention — the persons who were presumed to be unable to meet their own needs for housing. Even an artificially created shortage hits first and hardest against those least able to afford the scarce item."

"The government is trying to prohibit competitive bargaining as the determinant of the price for housing. In other words, the government has been trying to force people to do what they would not do voluntarily. In one sense, it may be said that the housing shortage is merely a measure of popular resistance to the idea of substituting the force of government for the voluntary market method of bringing supply and demand toward a balance. Shortages and surpluses do not develop or, at least, do not continue for long when prices are free to fluctuate according to the choices of buyers and sellers."

Measuring The Shortage
The current housing shortage is not a thing that can be measured merely by comparing the number of families or the number of people with the number of dwellings or the number of rooms. The 1950 census reports an average of 3.5 persons per occupied dwelling unit in the United States, compared with 3.7 persons at the end of World War II, 3.8 persons in 1940, and 4.3 persons in 1930. The total number of dwelling units in 1950 was 23 percent greater than in 1940, whereas the same period saw a population increase of less than 15 percent. These figures certainly indicate that most of the so-called housing shortage stems from disruption of the market mechanism rather than from a decline in dwelling facilities.

"Such a comparison of persons per dwelling, of course, tells nothing specific about the condition of the dwellings or the happiness or health of the residents. It has been charged that some Americans are now forced to live in slums and sub-standard dwellings. And it undoubtedly is true that some Americans are living in homes which other Americans would classify as uninhabitable."

"But it is equally true that some Americans eat and drink food and beverages which other Americans consider unfit for human consumption. Some farm operators till soil so unproductive that other farm operators would classify it as unfit for farming. Some persons dress in a manner seen by others to be inadequate or positively indecent. Even in a manner in which some Americans worship God is frowned upon by others. Who is to determine which ones of us are living in substandard fashion? And then what?"

Solons Disapprove Suggested Changes In Inquiry Methods

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Congressional disapproval over proposed changes in Capitol Hill's historic housekeeping methods has a more serious meaning than it appears at first glance.

It is the fact that the House of Representatives has passed a resolution which would strip the House of its power to investigate the executive branch, and maintain its authority and dignity. Without the checks it can exercise through committees, Congress would become only an appendage of the executive branch. It is through these small but important committees that Congress imposes financial and statutory restraints upon the sprawling, shapeless and sometimes secretive federal establishment.

Congressional committees are the eyes, the ears and the brains of Congress. With extremely few exceptions, their recommendations are generally accepted by both chambers. To weaken the committee system or procedure is to weaken the Congress.

SENIORITY VS. ELECTION — It is against this background that the Adams-Knowland reforms must be considered. In a retaliatory spirit toward Senator Langer, Knowland wants committee chairmen to be chosen by election instead of by seniority. He could not corral 10 votes in the Senate or 50 votes in the House for that proposition. Every member hopes to become a chairman some day — through seniority.

Adams advocates stringent rules to govern investigating committees' behavior, an obvious thrust at McCarthy. The White House proposals would transform congressional hearings into restricted and legalistic affairs, a move which Capitol Hill had always opposed. Even those who disagree with McCarthy insist on greater latitude and freedom in the Adams program would permit.

Had it not been for the broad scope enjoyed by congressional investigations, the corruption, the official chicanery and Communist infiltration at Washington — the mink coats and the pumpkin papers — would not have been exposed. And, ironically, it was these revelations which contributed to the election of Eisenhower and Adams' emergence from comparative obscurity.

Fair Enough... Ike, Stevens Will Learn Army Also is Infected With Casuistry

By WESTBROOK FEGLER
(Copyright, 1954, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)
NEW YORK — On the topic of Senator McCarthy's row with the Army administration, Secretary of State Acheson, Secretary of Defense Stevens, I Irving, who not only wears the medals but also seems to like the job. Many Americans, including generals and admirals, would flatly refuse to obey such an order even from Ike himself. Gen. "Nuts" McLaughlin, of Bastogne, did last winter when he was ordered up to Boston to make a speech in honor of Drew Pearson. He wouldn't and didn't and they had to get another officer with less sensitive scruples.

What are they up to in this Army, anyway? After these weeks and three pastering inquiries I finally got a telegram from the Department of the Army trying to justify the invitation to Telford Taylor on grounds of his "known war record." I have phoned Taylor's office repeatedly asking what his "war record" was. He doesn't answer.

Surely, the academy should have been in the hands of a general. But General "war record" of "General" Telford Taylor is unknown there. Do you really want to know what he did as a "brigadier general?"

In passing, however, wouldn't you agree that Ike is taking more time than a reasonable amount of time off to play golf and relax? Wouldn't you criticize him for lending the prestige of the office which really is our own national treasure, not his personal property, to political pressure groups more often identified with the New Deal than with the Republican Party? And for otherwise losing on a job that calls for long hours and hard work as Harry Truman's belly-aching about his terrible ordeal? I don't want a President to kill himself, but I notice that Truman, after all his personal suffering, has said that he had never taken a sleeping pill or missed a wink in many years. At the age of 70, he can lead a straggle pack of younger men from the New York papers a mile up Park and down Lexington, so the job didn't take too much out of him. Anyway, you don't live forever and Ike asked for this job knowing that it was supposed to be a temporary assignment. Long hours and concentration; incidentally, it never did follow that the rigors of the job killed Roosevelt. The same thing happens every day to people who are just going along with it.

This President of ours, being an old Army man, is supposed to know more about the Army as an institution than most of us. But he doesn't and he is going to wake up and find that the Army has been infected all the way up to West Point, with the same doubts and queasy casuistry that rotted out the integrity of State, Agriculture, Justice and the Treasury.

If Truman and Henry Morgenthau couldn't spot Harry Dexter White or couldn't believe the truth when told to them, how much better equipped is Ike when the Army? Has Stevens any qualifications to judge such things? They had two major-generals in the war who have been seriously impugned in congressional hearings since 1945, so well pleased Soviet Russia and the Communists in this country that to this day the Red papers mention him only in affectionate praise.

The other was tacitly accused of causing or concealing the truth about the disappearance of the report on the Katyn Massacre in which almost 20,000 Polish officers and men of the Polish Army were destroyed by the Russians. There is not enough evidence to justify accusations of "Communism" against him. But the record in such cases is that the Department of the Army certainly ought to do some detective work and cooperate with Congress instead of rearing back with snorts about the abuse of a brigadier.

The so-called Cadet Forum of the Military Academy ran an interesting show the night before the corps entrained for the Army-Navy game. They had Telford Taylor up to make a talk about congressional inquiries which wound up in the conventional blast of the New York Times, the Herald Tribune, the Roosevelt club and, of course, all Reds and fellow-travelers, against McCarthy. Taylor spoke especially on the Fort Monmouth situation. There was serious guilt all Monmouth but the Times, a Roosevelt, New Deal propaganda sheet from way back in '35, did a whitewash, more for the purpose, it seemed to me, of discrediting McCarthy than of getting at the guilt.

I have already sketched Taylor's career and revealed his association in the law business. One partner is Randolph Paul, who was the chief law officer of the Treasury when Harry Dexter White was at the height of his power. Another partner is Robert F. Wagner, the "author" of the original Labor Relations Act, and later a federal judge. As such, Rifkin led a man walk out of court, absently free after he had pleaded guilty of sending American surplus fighting planes to Soviet Czechoslovakia. Another partner, until he died, was Louis Weiss, the brother of the Communist mouthpiece Carol Weiss King and himself the mouthpiece for Marshall Field. Weiss put in the fix at the White House for Mark Gwyn of the Amerasia group, who was then on the editorial staff of Field's paper.

Nice punch, and yet the Military Academy invites Telford Taylor to talk to the cadets and the command ducks responsibility by explaining that the cadets who compromise

A young man who scattered words the way threshers scatter wheat died not too long ago and there was a great outcry all down the line that a poet of historic proportion had come to an untimely end. The news of his death struck me as unfortunate but not necessarily comic and, at gatherings of people who read, I was looked upon as something of a damp cave because I was unable to claim a body blow to culture in the passing of Dylan Thomas.

It is, therefore, with a good heart that I welcome that keen old wit and excellent poet, Lord Dunsany, to New York. The Irish word-painter came into Manhattan on the Queen Mary the other day, his moustache bristling and his comments sharp. He met the ship news reporters full on and didn't wince when they began throwing questions at him like gravel. He simply beamed, issued a few tart remarks and went off about his business, which is the main in writing prose, poetry and plays. And exceedingly well.

One young man with a pad and pencil suggested that Lord Dunsany might wish to comment on modern poetry. He did. He said it was murky and incomprehensible. Why, then, he was asked, do people claim to read it and like it? "Frightened," he said bluntly. "Frightened of being pushed out of cocktail parties."

Did he mean that poets take up these modern poets and assume a superior air over others who frankly didn't know what such poetry was trying to say? Yes, that's exactly what he meant. The poets were so icy and expert they frightened others into object acceptance of the stuff.

There must have been one such subject fellow among the reporters, for he piped up: "You class the great Dylan Thomas in this category?" Lord Dunsany pierced the cad with an intellectual glance, looked off into waterfront space and quoted from Thomas, thus: "This is the way the world ends, not with a bang but with a whimper."

The country handed grave boxes into love. Rise before dark." Sweeping the group with a cool glaze he barked: "Understand that!"

"They agreed that they didn't." "None of it." "No, they didn't." "You are honest men," he said, smiling. "I don't understand it, either."

The quotation from the works of the late and revered Thomas is not used here to cast aspersions on to point out that poetry in the English language has come, as Lord Dunsany charged, to a lyric, inexplicable and silly pass. The people who claim that such poetry is virtually Heaven and the greatest putting together of words in the history of our noble language find, they say, meanings and colors and vibrations in all this, matters denied us less sensitive folk. Could be. But, like the Irish champ who just came ashore, I like to know what I'm reading. If I want music I'll go ask someone to blow a horn or I'll spin a record. For me there is no music in such poetry. Only dissonance, disturbance and dithering.

A psychiatrist once let me look at poetry written by patients in his care. Lord Dunsany would like to see it. I think it would prove to him that his opinion of such word-spinning is well founded. He seems convinced that those who write it are either mad or counterfeited. Maybe both. I'd say both.

Nooncaster Logical Choice To Fill Head Coaching Vacancy At Pampa High School

DURING THE MIDDLE OF Pampa sports fans celebrating the second consecutive state basketball title the Hustlin' Harvesters achieved, a shocking bit of news intervened with the resignation of Tom Tipps as the head Harvester football coach.

Tipps' resignation came as a complete surprise to all Pampa fans. It was believed that after Tipps refused to consider the Fort Arthur coaching job that he would continue his position at Pampa High School.

Texas A&M, however, lured Tipps away from Pampa and we realize that the Aggies are on an up-ebb and we can't think of a better fellow than the Aggie could have picked to aid in their upward goal.

Tipps has established a fine record here at Pampa as everyone so well knows. His five straight wins over Amarillo alone was something that no other coach in schoolboy history has been able to do against the Bandits.

Like Supt. Knox Kinard told the school board last night, it speaks well for Pampa that Texas A&M looked toward Pampa to get a coach to help them on their football building program.

And we can't blame Tipps for taking a job that means a better future for him in the coaching field.

So, it's good luck to Tipps as he ventures into the college grid ranks.

THE QUESTION NOW IS, of course, who will succeed Tipps? There will probably be a lot of speculation by scribes and fans around the state on Tipps' successor.

Our guess is Aubra Nooncaster. If "Noon" wants the job, then the Pampa school board is certainly not going to pick him as the new head coach.

Nooncaster has been here seven years—coming here the same year Tipps took over—and has been given a lot of credit for the many fine teams Pampa has been turning out in recent years.

Just how long it will be until a new coach will be hired is unknown at present. Supt. Kinard said the school board isn't ready to make any announcement at this time.

THAT WAS A ROUSING RECEPTION the Pampa fans gave the state champion Harvesters yesterday afternoon upon their return to the city. Believe it was a bigger turnout than last year's celebration.

If you didn't get to attend the game yesterday, then you still will have a chance to honor the Harvesters at the annual basketball banquet.

The banquet will be held March 19 in the high school cafeteria. It will be held on the site of the Chamber of Commerce office. Each ticket is going at $2. There will be only 325 available to the general public so you better hurry down to the CC office and get your ticket.

OUR CONGRATULATIONS TO the three Harvesters making the all-state team, Jimmy Bond, E. Jay McIlvain and Gary Griffin. It's the second such honor for Bond. He lacked only one vote being unanimous last year but he went better than that this year by being named on the first team by all 35 sports scribes taking part in the poll.

Of the six boys we mentioned yesterday as possibly making the all-state five, four were named. In addition to the three Harvesters, A. C. Black of Crozier was our other pick.

Bond, Griffin, McIlvain On All-State Five

AUSTIN, March 9 —UP—Champion Pampa and runner-up Crozier Tech of Dallas swept all five spots on the Class AAAA all-state tournament basketball team announced Monday.

Twenty-five sportswriters balloted on the Class AAAA all-state team and picked two players from runner-up Galena Park and one from champion Alamo Heights, Sherman, and Plainview.

For the Class AAAA top five, the sportswriters made two unanimous choices — Jimmy Bond of Pampa and A. C. Black of Crozier Tech. Pampa edged Crozier Tech 47 to 44 Saturday night for the title in overtime.

Other on the Class AAAA squad included Mike Vasquez of Crozier Tech and E. Jay McIlvain and Gary Griffin of Pampa.

Unanimous choices on the AAA squad were Billy Eldridge of Alamo Heights and Ervel Eiswick of Galena Park. The AAA five included also Jackie Pierce, Sherman, Rex Jordan, Plainview, and Tinker Wilson, of Galena Park.

Alamo Heights repeated as AAA champions by beating Galena Park 67-60 in the finals Saturday night. George (Doc) Jones of Milby Houston and Bethel Eldredge of Crozier missed AAAA berths by only a few votes. Sam Bean of Alamo Heights barely missed making the AAAA team.

A Good Start The Longhorns started out like they would win the game without extending themselves by jumping ahead in the first quarter, leading by five points at halftime, and piling up an 11 point lead at one point in the second half.

Rice Gains NCAA Spot Owls Win Series With 72-71 Win

AUSTIN, March 9 —UP—A never die basketball squad from Rice Institute fought from behind to win a 72 to 71 victory on a tip-in from Forward Gib Ford's fielder with 10 seconds remaining put Texas back into the lead 71 to 70.

Beavers came up with the ball with time running out and scored the winning basket.

Beavers scored seven points altogether, but five of them came in the last few minutes.

Every Texas regular but Ford fouled out in the last quarter, and Schwinger, who scored 18 points, also went out on fouls in the last period.

Powell and Rice guard Bobby Brashear shared high point honors with 20 each.

The Owls will meet Oklahoma A&M at Stillwater, Okla., Friday night with the winner going to the NCAA playoffs.

Williams Undergoes Operation Today BOSTON, March 9 —UP—Alternately jovial and gloomy, Ted Williams underwent surgery on his broken collarbone Tuesday in an effort to get the husky slugger back into a Red Sox uniform by May 1st.

Tipps Leaves Harvesters To Join Texas Ag Staff

Pampa High School was looking for a new football coach today following a surprise resignation of head coach Tom Tipps yesterday afternoon.

Tipps submitted his resignation in order to accept a position on the Texas A&M staff. Tipps left by train last night for College Station where he will join the Aggie forces today.

The Aggies, under a new head coach, Paul (Bear) Bryant, former Kentucky mentor, began spring drills yesterday. Tipps' quick departure last night following his resignation yesterday afternoon was due to get him in on the Aggie spring drills.

Tipps and all the coaches of the Pampa school system got together for a farewell dinner last night.

There was no announcement made by Supt. of Schools Knox Kinard as to who might succeed Tipps. Kinard said there had been no applications made and that the school board was going to give careful study as to Tipps' successor.

In a school board meeting last night, Kinard said he hated to see Tipps go but wished him success in his new venture.

"It speaks well for Pampa that Texas A&M came to Pampa to get a new assistant coach," Kinard said.

"We accept his resignation with reluctance."

Tipps had two more years to go on a 3-year contract at $7,500 a year.

Bevo 'Held' To 28 Points In NIAA Tilt

KANSAS CITY, March 9 —UP—More than 10,000 fans turned out to see the fabulous Bevo Francis in action in the opening round of the National Athletic Intercollegiate Association basketball championships Monday night and watched while a comparative unknown from Arkansas stole Bevo's thunder.

Eight first round NIAA games were played Monday in Municipal Auditorium, eight more first round games are scheduled for Tuesday, and eight will be played Wednesday to set up the quarter final games for Thursday. The semifinals will be Friday and the finals on Saturday.

Francis scored 28 points to lead Rio Grande, Ohio, to a 90 to 74 victory over Arizona State of Flagstaff. It probably wasn't his fault he didn't score more, for he played under wraps part of the game, and left it four minutes before the end on fouls.

O'Neal Shines It was guard E. O'Neal, playing pivoting offense for Arkansas Tech, of Russellville, who turned in the performance that Bevo was expected to. O'Neal scored 38 points and did a dazzling job of ball handling as Tech routed Mercer University of Macon, Ga., 100 to 72.

Arkansas Tech was the first team to score 100 points in this year's championships, but eight times previously this season they have equalled or bettered that total. O'Neal netted the final basket as the gun sounded ending the game to add more dash to an already top performance.

Defending champion Southwest Missouri State started its quest for a third straight NIAA championship with a 77 to 72 triumph over East Tennessee of Johnson City. The Bears had to stifle a fourth period rally by East Tennessee to win.

Pre-Season Victor East Texas State of Commerce, Tex. winner of NIAA preseason tournament, moved into the second round with a 72 to 59 triumph over Portland in the first game of the opening round. The Texans were paced by Sheby Melcait with 23 points.

Tribe Showing Lots Of Power In Early Tilts

The Cleveland Indians, causing the greatest terror in the state of Arizona since the days of the Apaches, are acclimating all pitchers alive with an average of 17 hits and 15 runs per ball game.

In three exhibition games so far, two against the Giants and one against the Cubs, Cleveland has scored a total of 47 runs and 51 hits.

"The boys are sure wearing those pitchers out," said Manager Al Lopez, smilingly, Tuesday, "and I hope they can keep it up."

Rookie Rudy Regalado played the key role in the Cubs' 18 to 9 triumph over the Cubs at Tucson, Ariz., Monday. Subbing for regular second baseman Bobby Avila, Regalado blasted a pair of home runs and two singles to help Cleveland to its first exhibition victory over the Cubs since 1950.

Not a Regular Regalado, who isn't even on the regular Cleveland roster, now has nine hits in 14 times at bat, including three homers.

Ralph Kiner and Hal Jeffcoat each homered for the Cubs.

The Baltimore Orioles also went on a hitting spree as they rapped four Giant pitchers for 18 safeties in gaining a 13 to 8 decision. Don Larsen started for the Orioles and aided his own cause by driving in four runs with a homer and a single. Teammate Don Lenhardt also homered for the Orioles while Willie Mays, Foster Cassaman and Harvey Gentry hit home runs for the Giants.

George Kell's two-run triple in the third inning produced the runs that gave the Red Sox a 2 to 1 triumph over the Yankees at St. Petersburg, Fla. The Boston victory was marred somewhat, however, when outfielder Jim Piersall suffered a pulled back muscle while sliding back to second base in the third inning. Piersall is expected to be sidelined for several days.

The White Sox registered their second straight victory at Orlando, Fla., when rookie Bill Wilson's ninth inning single drove in the winning run in a 3 to 2 decision over Washington. There were 18 walks in the ball game with the White Sox collecting 10.

Hoosiers Are Top 1954 College Five

NEW YORK, March 9 —UP—Indiana, which parlayed speed, stamina and sharpshooters to the Big Ten title, and thus qualified to defend its NCAA championship, Tuesday was chosen college basketball's top team for the second straight year by the United Press board of coaches.

Coches Branch McCracken's Hoosiers, who raced through one of the nation's toughest schedules with a 19-3 record, edged undefeated Kentucky for the honor by a margin of 210 points to 209 in the final 1953-54 rankings of the 35 leading coaches who make up the United Press board.

5,000 Welcome State Champs Back

Some 5,000 fans turned out yesterday to welcome home the 2-time state champion basketballers — the Hustlin' Harvesters.

The Harvesters, arrived home at around 3 p.m. yesterday from Austin where they nailed down their second straight title on Saturday night. The Green and Golders defeated favored Crozier Tech of Dallas in the finals, 47-44, which gave the Harvesters their second straight unbeaten season.

The Harvesters were met by a group of fans at the city limits and were brought into town on convertibles for a parade and pep rally in downtown Pampa.

At the pep rally, the entire squad and coaches assembled on a platform in front of LaNora theatre where all were introduced.

Two Series Sweeps In City Bowling

Noblitt - Coffey Pontiac and Friendly Men's Crew chalked up clean series sweeps in the City Bowling League last night at Pampa Bowl.

The Pontiac team won over Duval-Carmichael while Friendly Men's downed Your Laundry and Dry Cleaners. Other results saw Brown and Hinkle down Berger-Lanes, 3-1; and Celanese won over the Cabot Office, 3-1.

Noblitt Coffey had the high team game with 908 and tied with Brown and Hinkle for high team series with 2,566.

Carl Carlton and Buck Donnell tied for individual high game with 231. Spec Goldsmith of Berger-Lanes had the high individual series, 583.

Indestructible Deer Is Symbol Of Town

By JO HY-SMITH

WHITE DEER — (Special) — Cities have their skyscrapers; oceans have their waters; forests have their trees and animals. Speaking of animals, White Deer has its deer; in fact, it has two plaster productions which are replicas of the white deer that once roamed the breaks north of town, to which the original town traces its name.

White Deer residents think much about the deer. However, to tourists, the scene of the deer standing in the middle of the street — as inconspicuous as the proverbial "sore thumb" is quite the thing. Sightseers often grab a camera to take pictures of their families at this most unusual exhibit. There are pictures of the deer scattered far and wide, and people will long remember where those pictures were taken.

In addition to the novelty of the monument, the deer has quite a history behind its being and remaining noteworthy. Built in 1916 by an itinerant cement artist named Phillips, the deer was of white plaster from the tip of the pointed horns to the base of the three-foot-square stand. Dick Hughes, of Pampa, was secretary-treasurer of Chamber of Commerce in White Deer about that time. Townspeople and members of the C of C took a hankering for a structure that would become an original landmark. Through various means, merchants managed to raise some $400 to be used for this purpose.

During White Deer's Chamber of Commerce years, Wichita Falls was designated to be meeting place of a convention in 1925 during which the different towns would bring a float to enter into a competitive contest. Old timers will remember White Deer entered a low-swinging cart bearing a real deer, which had been powdered to perfection in order to stand by an attractive "white deer," captioned "Our White Deer." Riding the float with the animal was Edith Simmons Horn, a member of one of White Deer's first families, who is still resident here. The float, being very attractive, carried back first prize to White Deer.

Sentiment for the deer runs high for there are very few people who have ever lived here who do not have vivid memories of occurrences based around it. W. J. Bill Stubblefield, who owned and operated a dry goods and hardware store for a number of years, states that if he answered "why the deer?" once, he answered it a hundred times during his years in business. This is true among salesmen making the White Deer run for first time, tourists, and people who have seen the deer while passing through town on block-away Highway 40.

Branching out from the white deer, one can see another deer on the side of the Farmers National Bank Building, which was erected by Phillips at the same time. In years between 1916 and now, the town has had Bucks Cafe, Bucks Hotel, and more recently in White Deer High School, the active White Deer Bucks, the Doe Club, the W Club, the publication, the Bucks Tale, and the yearbook, the Antler.

Closely speaking the Venado Blanco (White Deer) Study Club has been the recipient of many years, and Venado Park has held numerous parties and get-togethers.

Quoting a local citizen, "The deer has been the topic of many things, both profane and sacred. Young Mr. and Mrs. of yesterday will remember that immediately after their marriage, they were wheeled to each side of the deer. From which place they were to sell their wares roll by roll until their supply ran out. The antlers were broken off a number of years ago by vandals. Replacing the plastered horns were antlers from a real deer that were donated by a local citizen who received them from a hunter.

when the deer has worn clothing, these being "milady's unmentionables." Paint has played a very important part in the deer's life also. At one time, the deer was painted aluminum, but when the objections arose over the silver, white deer, the paint gave way to be white again. Back in boom days, when gasoline tanks were being constructed at Kingsmill, workers did overtime by painting the deer—striped like the zebra. This design has been seen a number of times.

The deer could only talk, what in the mind of ideas, of activities, and recollections one could hear. No act of nature, however, has been the cause of disturbing the worn pedestal on which deer rests. When the 1951 tornado struck the town of White Deer, no harm came to the deer, although he stood not more than three blocks from the worst part of the storm. He certainly must lead a charmed life.

Surviving winds, dirt storm, transfiguring snow storms, and vandalism, the deer is still the attraction of White Deer. Long live white deer.

Air Force Investigates Plane Crash

EL PASO, March 9 —UP—The Air Force conducted an investigation Tuesday to learn why a C-47, twin-engine passenger plane lost a propeller, forcing three men being parachuted over mountainous Texas-New Mexico border country. The plane was on an administrative flight late Monday from Briggs Air Force Base, El Paso, to Davis-Montgomery AFB, Tucson, Ariz. It lost the propeller from the left engine and the pilot, Maj. Paul R. Miller, of Fayetteville, N.C., circled on one engine for seven minutes looking for a suitable place to bail out.

He finally ordered his two passengers—Capt. Milton Stahner, of Bellevue, Neb., and Sgt. Ernesto Ferro, Plattsmouth, Neb.—to parachute from an altitude of only 1,000 feet. He was the last to leave the plane.

All three landed safely, but Miller hit the ground minutes before the plane crashed, exploded and burned 25 feet to his left. He said a sand dune was all that saved his life.

Air Force officers who went to the crash scene confirmed Miller's story that a sand dune about as tall as a one-story house probably saved him. Miller landed on one side and the plane crashed and exploded on the other, spraying the area with debris.

"Another 25 feet to the left and the plane would have crashed right on top of him," said Maj. Robert P. Nelson, public information officer at Briggs. He called Miller's escape "miraculous." He said the imprint of Miller's body was still visible where the pilot hit ground.

The plane and its three crew members were stationed at Offutt Air Force Base, Omaha, Neb.

Alarms Weren't Subtle Old-Timers, Too, Were Sack Hounds

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON, March 9—UP—In these modern times, the sleepy head gets himself gently shaken out of the sack with an invention that turns on the radio, starts the coffee pot working and does about everything else but bring in the paper and let out the dog.

These sorts of things are common to us moderns, but inventors in the old days had other ways of worrying a man out of the sack. George Degnan, a patent lawyer in these parts, has a fascinating collection of old-time inventions.

One of these wake-up deals was invented by Adolph J. Nordmann, of San Francisco, in 1885. "This gimmick didn't shake a sleeper out—it literally ejected him."

A Sneeze Lift
There was no ringing of bells or anything like that. The "alarm" merely cut loose a "trip," which gave the bed a sharp jar and the sound sleeper found himself with the back of his night-shirt on the floor.

When I was a kid I had a bad habit of waking up swinging. My kid sister, Audley, generally was sent up to my room—after mom's third call to get me out of the feathers. She learned a lesson one morning after I had had a bad night at the roller rink. I swung and scored a direct hit. I was sorry, but Audley landed in a heap. She learned a lesson and right there decided to be an inventor. After that she would wake me with the butt end of a broom. I would swing at the stick, wake up and go about the teeth-washing. While I was up, Audley would make the bed.

Degnan's collection of old patents, all of them in the files of the Patent Office here, are fascinating. There is one (Pat. No. 438,379) which was issued to Otto Levinger of New York in the long ago. It might have revolutionized soup eating. Otto's gadget was a soup spoon with a handle that listed sharply to starboard. It was designed for one to slip the hot stuff from the tip of the spoon. This one was supposed to be a "no spill" spoon, and in a day when slurping from the bowl was not uncommon!
