CITY'S NEEDY FACE HUNGER

Chest Fund Far Short Of Amount Needed

Wichita Falls position in the eyes of Texas and its wishes as to whether it wants its good name as a city that cares for its own, will be evidenced in the next few days in its reaction to its own Community chest.

Work Opposed

This opinion was expressed Wednesday afternoon by Walter D. Cline, following a meeting of the finance board of the chest in which the givers and gifts were canvassed. The result of the meeting showed the chest to be short $17,000 of the $65,000 goal.

The possibility that needy families may go unfed, that the educational work of the Y. W. C. A. might be curtailed, that the rescue work of the Salvation Army seriously hampered or that the light of the Boy Scout organization to make better men for the future may be crippled, stared the chest executives in the face.

After considering all phases of the problem, they decided that the drive must be put over and that a terrific fight will be waged to do it.

"Every man and woman in Wichita Falls is invited to equal or better his last year's subscription to the chest at once to help put the drive over the top," Mr. Cline said. "Some have cut their subscriptions and others have as yet failed to contribute.

Final Appeal

"Those who have not done their parts should realize that they are putting an unfair burden on the other citizens who have given their money as well as their time in helping the drive along.

"The campaign headquarters in the Hamilton building is being kept open to receive subscriptions of all kinds, and we sincerely hope that Thursday will see a constant stream of people coming in with their subscriptions."

Kleinschmidt Lands At Home Of Blond Eskimos on Victoria Land

By CAPT. F. E. KLEINSCHMIDT
Special Correspondent to The Record News and Head of Expedition to Home of Santa Claus.

ESKIMO VILLAGE, PO-LA-ZE-Ruk on Victoria Land, Dec. 5. (By Wireless)—Landed here early tonight after one of the most gruelling flights of a 1,000 miles in the Arctic I ever made. So says "Red" Garland. The propeller on our wireless which furnished the necessary current, froze solid so we could not use it. I hope you have had no undue anxiety over not receiving any messages from us. Had we been forced down we would probably have never reached civilization again. The entire country over which we flew was one vast plateau or tundra covered with a heavy mantle of snow. In the short Arctic summer this is one vast swamp with innumerable nameless lakes. We might as well have flown over a frozen ocean devoid of any landmarks. We had to fly solely by compass.

The air was clear and calm as is usually the case here up North when the thermometer registers 40 degrees below zero. The exhaust of the engines which would under normal cold weather have kept our cabin warm, brought the temperature up to only 10 degrees above

Girl Accused of Assaulting Moneyed Sportsman Ill on Ship

HAVANA, Dec. 5. (AP)—Ordered to appear in court Saturday, Miss Frances Porter of Atlanta, was said by members of the crew to be under a physician's care aboard the yacht Malvern today. Conkey T. Whitehead, wealthy Atlanta sportsman, has preferred charges of assault against her. A representative of the Havana police court presented warrants aboard the yacht, which is owned by Whitehead, ordering Miss Porter to court. She is alleged to have assaulted Whitehead with a shoe.

Whitehead was made defendant more than a year ago in a divorce suit in which his wife charged that he staged drunken "orgies" in their home in Atlanta.

Miss Porter established a reputation as a dancer in Atlanta after coming there about eight years ago from North Carolina.

Dodge City, Cow Capital of Old Days, To Be Important Air-Mail Station

DODGE CITY, Kan., Dec. 5 (AP)—Dodge City, the wild and wooly cow capital of pioneer days where the southwestern cattle and buffalo trails joined at the terminus of the meandering Santa Fe railway building west along the then better known trail, has been chosen to play an important part in blazing the way for a new means of transcontinental travel.

Announcement has been made that the city will be the middle-western transfer station of the air-rail line to be established next spring by the transcontinental air transport and the Santa Fe railroad. Other transfer points will be Columbus, Ohio, and Las Vegas, N. M.

Transcontinental passengers leaving New York at night by train will transfer to plane the following morning at Columbus, fly to Dodge City, entrain for Las Vegas, and return to the air the second day for the flight to the coast.

Col. Charles A. Lindberth, in his recent flight to Mexico, picked out a virgin prairie landing field adjacent to the city, and laying between the Santa Fe railroad and the famous old trail. That, however will furnish the sole reminder to the fleeting passengers of this pioneer crucible of the west.

BILLION ASKED TO FINANCE U. S.

Postoffice and Treasury Want Most

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP)—A billion dollar appropriation bill greeted the house today in its first real business session—the treasury and postoffice departments joining together in asking congress for $1,116,675,389 to carry on their business during the next fiscal year.

The bill was reported to the house by its appropriations committee. It was the first of the nine annual supply measures to come before the short session.

The measure, carrying $23,040,000 for continuing work on 137 federal building projects heretofore initiated, and $13,500,000 for prohibition enforcement—the largest ever to be provided for this work—represented an increase of $20,345,806 over the current appropriation and a decrease of $2,737,370 from the 1930 budget estimates.

Bulk for Postoffice

The postoffice department would be given the bulk of the total, $813,215,725, an increase of $38,990,683 over current appropriations, while the treasury would get $303,459,664, a decrease of $18,744,877.

The figure for prohibition enforcement topped the previous high reached in the fiscal year 1928, when it was $13,320,405, and represented an increase of $710,860 over current funds. $777,164 of which was said to be needed to take care of salary increases under the amended classification act.

"The budget recommendation," the committee report said, "was for $13,400,000, which would have involved a reduction in the appropriation, aside from the salary increases of approximately $106,000 The committee did not concur in this suggested decrease and has restored the sum of $100.000, leaving the appropriations for 1930 to stand at the 1929 figure plus the additional amount necessary on account of the classification act."

$130,000,000 for Refunds

The bill also would provide $130,000,000 for the refunding of illegally collected taxes, $29,870,171 for the coast guard, $13,300,000 for the airplane contract mail service, and $21,415,000 for the collection of customs.

The coast guard figure represents an increase of $767,601, chiefly to complete eight new cutters and for commencing work on a ninth.

A total of $215,500 was provided for the public health service to carry on rural sanitation work in 67 counties affected by the Mississippi flood.

MUSIC AT STRAND
(By The Record News Music Critic)

If you like to hear popular music well played, go to the Strand by all means. The vitaphone orchestra underscores the action to perfection. As the vitaphone play, "Lilac Time," made the song of that name popular, "Show Girl" promises to do the same for "Buy, Buy For Baby." Outstanding bits of music are a langorous tango, a delightful cylophone solo, "Just Two," during Dixie's conversation with the steno, and last, but not least, the clever saxophone dialogues emphasizing the parental quarrels in the Dugan flat.

NEW YORK.—The thought of choosing a working man as his hold-up victim was more painful to George Satriano than his need of money. He surrendered to police after walking the streets for six hours with a pistol in his pocket.

A Drama of Love

Which should she choose?

—this lovely, laughing girl only revealed in the thrill of it! Life was one gay song, until—but you must read this tremendous love drama from real life, complete in January TRUE STORY.

GAY, lovely little coquette! . . . Singing of her playthings at love, David and K. . . . Singing her song of love, with kisses for the high notes—little dreaming that her perfect, pagan beauty could make a saint—or a murderer—of any man.

To David, loving her more than life, she was the one woman. To K she was—one woman. An alluring prize.

But David's love, steady as the sun, she found a little dull. It only cost a kiss to laugh at David.

But K.—older, more forceful, fascinating—little by little this man with his intriguing nonchalance laid the grip and thrill of passion on her heart.

And then the sudden crisis in this pent-up drama! A night she had promised to David—she gave to K! Carrying a traveling bag—David learned that. And he knew K's game, knew his favorite hang-out. A wild chase across the city—a terrible scene in a strange inn—and out of that mortal struggle between love and passion came—but we mustn't spoil this gripping story for you!

Read it all—the true story of this greatest crisis in three human lives—complete in January TRUE STORY. So true and vivid it will hold you breathless to the end, told in the words of the girl who lived through every scene of it.

Russian Cossack Chorus Acclaimed In Many Music Centers of World

That the Russian Cossack chorus which is to appear at the Woman's Forum as a general attraction, Friday, Dec. 7, in an afternoon and evening program is an organization of international reputation, is shown by the following interesting press excerpts from leading newspaper critics of Rome, Paris, Mexico City, Panama and Milan:

Rome, La Tribuna—"Wonderful performers under the direction of the artistically genial and military disciplined maestro, Socoloff won a triumphal success."

Madrid, El Imparcial—"Something new, real artistry that wanders with it's beautiful orchestral effects, with variety that is given to the Russian melodies and severe discipline of interpretation."

Libson, Primero De Janiero—"Especially interesting is the dominant technic of choral singing in the effects and in the magnificently talented compositor and regent that proves that Mr. Socoloff is a notable musician."

Paris, Comoedia—"Its moral tessiture extends more than over three octaves, going easily from contre si bemol of contre bass to re of soprano. Under the watchful, persuasive and dominant directions their chief, Mr. Sergei Socoloff the shades are full of beauty and amazing variety."

Panama—Star and Herald—"One could almost see the walls of the theater expand as a result of the thunderous approval. Never in the history of Isthumian music have we had a recital or concert comparable to that of the Russian Cossack Chrous."

Mexico City, El Universal—"We condense our impression in only round word, 'Sovereignly.' Such perfect and beautiful singing has never been heard."

Milan, Corriere Della Sera—"This chorus proved to have a unique soul. They possess every thing to express the warlike and mistic aspects."

School and College News

Extemporaneous speeches by members of the Junior college senate were heard at the weekly meeting of that organization Tuesday night at the Junior college. "Important Questions Before Congress" was discussed by Sheldon Hale. "The Effect of Coolidge's Nov. 11 Speech in Europe" was the subject of a talk by Oliver Fudge. Harry Maricle spoke on "The New Administration in Mexico," while Alexander Cameron discussed the "Analysis of Hoover's Good Will Tour of South America."

The report of the stadium committee appointed at the last session of the senate was given by Richard Long, chairman of the committee. The senate is now sponsoring a movement for the building of a Junior college stadium, with the prospective location on the west side of the building, extending from Avenue H to Aveneu J.

Detailed drawings of the structure were displayed so that the members may have an accurate conception of the type of stadium that is needed for Wichita Falls. When interviewed by members of the stadium committee, both coaches of the high school and college were very enthusiastic over the idea, according to reports made.

The stadium, as designed by D. L. Mantle, an instructor of engineering drawing in the college last year, provides for a "bowl" extending from Avenue H to Avenue J, with a quarter-mile track around the inside of the enclosure. The football field will be just inside the track, with the present tennis courts directly north of it. The estimate of the stadium drawn by Mr. Mantle for his civil engineering degree, was $50,000, but the structure that it is hoped will be built in Wichita Falls will not exceed $25,000.

An interesting event of the meeting was the adoption of titles by members of the senate organization. It was decided that hereafter each member would be addressed as "Senator Blank of Blank State." Each member chose his title and state and will be addressed as such in the future.

France will be the topic for discussion at the next meeting next Tuesday night, according to Curtis Cook, president of the organization. Mrs. Zuleika Adam, new French instructor in Junior college, will address the senate at that time on "Local and Centralized Government in France."

Report cards were distributed to students of the high school Wednesday.

CHIC CHERIE — Latest Fashions

Cherie can't find her new hat and that seems odd. Why should a burglar walk off with just one hat? Cherie's dress is of black crepe with an interesting sort of cape panel each side of the bodice in back. A drape over each hip carries out the symmetrical plan. The front of the frock is plain although the bodice is bloused.

And Dina can't find her new sports suit! The one she bought just day before yesterday . . . Dina's dress is of black velvet with a bertha capelet that is especially interesting for its little standing collar. The skirt is draped to one side and the hips are carefully swathed to permit the bodice of the frock to be bloused.

Kitty, of course! Kitty borrowed them both. The hat which has a brim of plaid velvet and a little edge of krimmer. The jacket ensemble which has a krimmer cloth coat (with a scarf) and a dress of bright red jersey. Why can't they keep the child in school where she belongs? No one believes her trunk was lost anyway.

All entries in Cherie's contest have been received—Results announced Dec. 20.

O' These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. (US)—The office boy had his head buried in a detective story. "Go next door and ask how to spell balogna," I told him.

"You spell it b-a-l-o-n-e-y," he said.

"Go find out how to spell it right," I told him.

In a moment he appeared at the door with a slip of paper and he said: "This isn't right. She spelled bah-logg-nah," and with a shrug he added: "She laughed at me when I asked her," he commented, "and then she spells it balogna. I'll go look in the dictionary."

A mother comes into the kindergarten at St. Louis and she tells the teacher: "I think my little girl ought to be psychoanalyzed. Why she comes home from school and I ask her what happened all day and she won't tell me a thing. There must be something wrong."

"What's wrong," said the modern teacher, "is that the child is bored by being asked eternally. Stop asking her and she will tell you. Her school record is excellent and she is exceedingly bright. Nothing at all the matter with her. Children resent being forced to repeat what happened all day. They are distinctly bored by it. Let them alone and if anything worth repeating happens they will tell it."

The next day the same teacher writes me, a mother came in and insisted: "My child needs psychoanalyzing. It's terrible. He runs from morning till night, he talks incessantly, he never rests. He is slowly but surely driving me crazy I am at him all the time but he won't stop and won't listen."

"And what I think," said the teacher, "is that the mothers should be psychoanalyzed. I agree with Clarence Darrow, who in his book, "Farmington," suggests that the children be taken out of schools and parents put into them."

Women these days are offering to marry men who will pay their family's debts or educate their little brothers, or give their mothers a big settlement. And then they pose as making some kind of sacrifice. It is quite evident that the men believe them, because they find plenty of takers, on all their propositions, and after the ceremony they send the man home by himself.

But there isn't one of that kind born every minute and it isn't any commentary on American men in general. There should be a primer for men who have never gone further than kindergarten in learning about money and who need the kindly guidance of some sophisticate.

Watch for the primer!

SUGAR O. K. FOR TEETH, SAYS M.D.

Any and All Food Should Be Brushed From the Teeth After Eating

Who, with any basis of fact, ever said that sugar is harmful to the teeth? An eminent British medical authority recently showed that sugar, perhaps more than any other food, tends to promote the flow of saliva in the mouth, which should be conducive to preserving the teeth in a clean state. He also pointed out that sugar promotes the flow of gastric juice and so is an aid to digestion. Rough foods and fruits are thought to be good for the teeth. How could anyone ever eat them without sugar?

The main thing is to eat a variety of healthful foods and to enjoy them. That's what the teeth are for. Medical authorities are alarmed today that so many girls and also adults are starving themselves in order to reduce weight. This passing fad, in the opinion of many doctors, has become a serious menace to health, frequently causing injuries that are permanent.

Eat enough nourishing food, and remember that sweetness is nature's perfect flavor. Nothing can take the place of sugar in making the whole meal enjoyable. Eat some citrus fruit—sweetened to taste—at least once a day. Take care of your teeth and enjoy eating. The Sugar Institute.

Dorothy Dix Articles Daily--Advice To Women

Chaperones Now As Out-Of-Date As Hoop Skirts And Croquet

Why the Chaperon Is a Useless Appendage to the Modern Girl—How Long Should an Engagement Last and How Much Money Is Needed to Marry On?

Dear Miss Dix—I am a girl in my last year at high school. My mother believes it is very necessary for me to have a personal chaperon when I attend dances of any kind, even the high school dances which are chaperoned by the teachers. She refuses to allow me to attend a party, no matter where it is, unless she goes along, which makes me feel queer and as if I were being watched and couldn't be trusted, though I would never do anything that she would disapprove of, for I'm not that sort of a girl. What do you think about the chaperon?
—ANXIOUS SEVENTEEN.

Answer: The personal chaperon in these days of emancipated youth is about as much out of fashion as hoop skirts, and any mother who insists on going everywhere with her daughter will soon find that she has eliminated daughter from all the good times of her set.

In former days a mother was supposed to keep her daughter tightly clutched by the hand until she turned her over to the watchful eye of a husband. Like Mary's little lamb, everywhere daughter went mother was sure to go. Mother accompanied the girl and her escort to the opera, to the theater. She made an undesired third when they went riding, and she even sat on the side lines and watched them while they played croquet.

Nowadays it's all a young man can afford when he buys theater tickets for two, and if he found mother with her hat on ready to go along when he went to take Arabella to the play it would be good night for Arabella from then on, so far as ever being taken out was concerned. For the rumor would spread and no youth would feel that he was called upon to spend his hard-earned coin in entertaining mother.

All of this watching of girls never amounted to a row of pins anyway, because if a girl wanted to deceive her mother she could always do it. Somewhere the spy system always breaks down. No mother is Argus-eyed, nor can she stand perpetually on guard.

Lock a girl in a room and she will climb over the transom or out of the window. Forbid her to see boys at home and she will find a way to meet them on the sly. If she's frivolous she will kiss behind mamma's back, and if she's a rotter not all the policemen in the world could keep her on the strait and narrow path. It's futile to watch a bad girl and useless to watch a good one.

The duenna is particularly ineffectual now because she can go such a little way with a girl. She cannot follow a girl to her business and stand at her elbow all day. Nor can she follow her in her sports, and so what's the good of watching her at a party for an hour or two when you leave her to take care of herself the balance of the time?

The truth is that in these times every girl has to be her own chaperon, and the time for her mother to get in her good work is before her daughter is 13 years old.

If from the time a girl baby could understand anything at all her mother has bred into her a high ideal of conduct and taught her to hold her honor above her life; if her mother has impressed it upon her, precept upon precept, that she must keep herself clean and pure and sweet; if her mother has taught her to have a horror of vulgarity in manner, and dress, and speech, then she doesn't need to be watched and she has that within herself that will keep her safe wherever she goes.

Mothers can't watch the modern girl, but she can teach her to watch her step, and that's the best chaperon of all.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—1. How long do you think a couple should be engaged before marriage?

2. Being engaged, do you think they should wait for a number of years before marrying, due to financial difficulties?

3. Should a wife work after she is married if they need the money?

4. How much money is necessary for a couple to live on economically?—S. P. C.

Answer: 1. I do not believe in long engagements. The kind of engagements that drag on for a term of years. I think in such cases that, while a couple might confess their love for each other and have an understanding, when the time came to marry if they still wanted each other they would foreclose their opinions on each other's affections.

It would be a wiser thing not to bind themselves tight and fast in an engagement, because an engaged couple have a right to segregate each other from other men and women and keep each other from forming any other ties, and this works a great injustice on the one who is jilted in case the other grows tired of the long wait and finds some one he or she prefers to the old sweetheart.

A man can marry at any age, but a woman's chances of marrying are 90 per cent better in her twenties than after she is 30; therefore, the long engagement is a particularly foolish contract for a girl to make. So, generally speaking, I should say that one or two years should be the time limit on an engagement.

2. Marriage is a business proposition just as much as it is a sentimental episode and every engaged couple should wait until they have enough money to finance it. This does not mean that riches are necessary, but there should be enough money to make a margin of safety in case of sickness or loss of position.

No matter how much a couple love each other, there can be no happiness in the home that is harassed by debt and where the wolf is always scratching at the door.

3. I think it a good thing for the wife to keep on with her job after marriage if they need the money, or if she prefers office work to housework. But I think a woman should only work outside of her home until her first baby comes. Then it takes all the time and strength she has to be a good mother.

But by a husband and wife both earning money for a few years after marriage a couple should be able to accumulate enough for the wife to devote herself to domestic duties.

4. The amount of money that is required for a couple to live on depends on where they live and what they have been accustomed to. We are the slaves of habit, and very few men and women are happy if they have to sacrifice the comforts and luxuries to which they have been used.

In the days of courtship they think they love so much that in order to be together they will be perfectly satisfied to live on bread and cheese and kisses and wear hand-me-downs. But after they are married they find out that they like filet mignon and good clothes just as much as they ever did.

Finally, beloved, don't make the mistake of thinking that two can live as cheaply as one. It takes three or four times as much. And generally it isn't two for long. It's two plus.—DOROTHY DIX.

Roads Charge Rentals Inadequately, Claim

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP)—Railroad practices in furnishing warehouse and storage accommodations to large shippers for inadequate rentals at certain south Atlantic and gulf ports were criticized today in a special report to the Interstate Commerce commission.

R. N. Tresise, commission attorney-examiner, in concluding an investigation of port charges at Atlantic and gulf ports, declared that present facilities and methods were in the main justifiable. However, at most of the south Atlantic and gulf ports he held that individual shippers and shipping companies were obtaining unfair advantage over competitors by reason of the rental terms on warehouses and other facilities owned by the railroads at ports.

OIL WITNESS' CASE SECRET

Refusal to Release Blackmer Not Yet Announced

PARIS, Dec. 5. (INS)—An erroneous report cabled to the United States that the French appeal court has transmitted to the ministry of justice its decision rejecting the American government's request for extradition of Henry M. Blackmer, was denied through International News Service this afternoon.

Ministry of justice officials said the court's decision has not yet been made known. Counsel for Blackmer claimed to have knowledge that the court has decided to refuse extradition, but admitted that the decision has not yet been officially transmitted to the ministry of justice for transmission to the foreign office.

Blackmer, who is a missing Teapot Dome oil witness, is wanted by the United States government to answer charges of perjury in connection with his income tax returns in Colorado.

The general belief, based upon the attitude of the legal and judicial authorities, is that France will ultimately refuse to surrender Blackmer.

Judge Bonfils, who presided at the Blackmer hearing, told International News Service:

"It is true we made a finding, but our decision is secret, as it is only an 'advisory opinion' upon which the government will base its final decision. Naturally I am not authorized to reveal our opinion, but I can say that we proceeded upon the principle that Blackmer gets the benefit of the March, 1927, law under which the accusation of 'false declaration' is not extraditable. I am unable to say when the government will make its final decision."

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, as they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles, or use this free coupon:

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—It has been said and never denied with much emphasis that the most photographed place in the United States is Niagara Falls. It has also been stated with like emphasis that the most photographed spot in New York City is a waterfall in Central Park. Unless you are a camera fiend you probably never have heard of this romantic spot that attracts so many thousands during the warm season. Of course the winter scenes are also taken, but the big business is in the summer.

No one will deny that Yellowstone park has had its share of photographic reproduction. Colonel Lindbergh is probably the most photographed man in the world, with Al Smith running him a close second.

The steamships from the Battery wall and the clicking cameras from the tops of the buses in the city all show the trend of the camera owner. Prospect park in Brooklyn has its famous rose gardens that picture so well. The Riverside drive outlook is good, but old Central park seems to be the lure.

The waterfall referred to is in the small stream of upper Central park. True, it is not much of a fall so far as height goes, but it is the setting for the family picture and countless numbers have been posed for with this natural background.

Who were the millionaires of New York 90 years ago? Here is the list:

John Jacob Astor, $25,000,000; William B. Astor, $5,000,000; Stephen Whitney, $5,000,000; Peter G. Stuyvesant, $4,000,000; James Lenox, $3,000,000; Peter Schermerhorn, $2,500,000; Isaac Bronson, William B. Crosby, Peter Harmony, Mrs. Jacob Lorillard, Frances Pearsall and Herman Thorn, $1,500,000; Cornelius Vanderbilt, $1,250,000; Henry Brevoort, William B. Furniss, Jonathan Hunt and Peter Lorillard Jr., $1,000,000.

In 1897 the New York Tribune listed more than 1,100 Americans who were millionaires or more. Today there are probably 5,000 in the United States, including fortunes that make John Jacob Astor's $25,000,000 look small indeed. Astor started with a dowry of $500 from his wife.

The returning traveler—from France, Germany and way points—ran down the gangplank, crushing a welcoming friend in her arms, and then said, with what seemed like a last gasp:

"Quick! Take me to the nearest coffee pottee or one-armed restaurant or whatnot—I want two, three, six cups of good old American coffee. All the way home in the ship I've been dreaming of just one thing when I get home—cups and cups of good American coffee. They don't seem to know what coffee is on the continent, and I never realized how good it was until I couldn't get it. Believe me, when I go abroad again I'm going to take my own percolator and two trunks full of coffee!"

The young lady was regaled with four cups of Java, after which she felt strong enough to ride a bus up Fifth avenue—something no returning New Yorker should neglect the first day at home.

Panhandling on the sidewalks of New York has long been one of the commoner activities of special investigators, but is not as often the sport of persons of means as you might think.

A young man who dresses precisely as he should for dining, or toning, or walking, or—on occasion—working was discussing this thing with a friend as they sauntered along West 57th street early in the evening. The impeccably dressed gentleman was of the opinion that panhandling was easy enough with the proper makeup. His friend believed it was hard work, even so, and wondered why panhandlers did not work at easier things, such as digging subways.

The well dressed man, without warning to his friend, darted away, joined the pace of a much poorly dressed man just ahead and came back with a dime. Before the friend could speak, he darted away again, was gone a bit longer this time—his second prospect was even more poorly dressed—and back with another 15 cents. He attacked a third prospect and came back empty-handed.

All he had said was that he was out of work and could the gentleman help him buy something to eat? He reported that the first two were O. K and came across without comment, but that the third man was snooty and was like the others only in that he made no comment.

Berlin's "White Lady"

THE spectral "white lady" has appeared again in the former imperial palace at Berlin, and superstitious Germans are saying that this foretells the early death of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm.

This "white lady" is the ancestral ghost of the Hohenzollerns. Ever since 1806 she has flitted into view on the eve of disaster. Her appearance, legend says, is always followed by some catastrophe—death or something else. Wilhelm, it is said, saw her a few days before the final crumbling of the German lines in 1918 compelled him to abdicate his throne and flee to Holland.

Now she is seen again. The old imperial palace is a museum, and a night watchman affirms that the spectre was seen, by him, gliding in and out of the suite formerly occupied by Wilhelm himself—which makes it obvious that whatever happens will happen to Wilhelm and not to a lesser Hohenzollern.

Wilhelm, for all we know, may be quite unworried by all of this; indeed, the man who used to be the kaiser is, in some ways, in a rather enviable position. Nothing that can happen to him—not even death—can be much of a misfortune for him. When November 11 of 1918 came and found him roosting in uneasy safety across the Dutch border, his life had really come to an end. Any subsequent event was bound to be an anti-climax.

For Wilhelm, born under an unlucky star, lived too long. In his life he came to be a symbol for an outworn system. He was the supreme figurehead and earthly representative of an archaic idea—the idea of divine kingship. That idea, along with much other rubbish accumulated by the centuries, was blown to bits by the guns on the western front. When it vanished, Wilhelm, too, vanished.

The flesh and bones of him still exist, of course. A gray-haired old man with a withered arm has continued to eat, walk and sleep at Doorn, emitting protests, complaints and explanations ever so often, but the real man—the imperial war lord who held fleets and armies in his hand—died with the field-gray soldiers in the Argonne and along the Hindenburg line. The shadow still hangs on, but its existence is important to no one—not even to Wilhelm.

It is the fate of most of us to be symbols of something outside ourselves. Our lives attain coherence and nobility only when we identify ourselves with some force or movement in which others may share. Wilhelm of Germany was supremely unlucky in that he tied himself to a thing that was doomed to die. The world advanced beyond the idea that he embodied, and he died with it.

The "white lady" of the Hohenzollerns may flit through the deserted palace at will; it no longer matters. The last of the kaisers has been dead for a decade.

Hand Shakers to Be Barred

HAND-SHAKING politicians in the teaching world are to be barred by law, if the lawmakers of the 41st legislature agree with their chief executive. Governor Moody will favor the passage of a law by the legislature providing for the appointment of county superintendents instead of the continuation of the present elective system, he declared in an address at the 50th annual convention of the Texas State Teachers association.

The purpose of such a law, the governor explained, would tend to remove this office from politics. He pointed out that practically every teacher has seen cases of "a hand-shaking man" elected to office when he was not well qualified professionally for the work. This is the viewpoint of the governor:

"Public school education would be improved by the selection of a county superintendent by the county school board rather than the office remaining an elective one. I don't know what the legislature will do about this, but that is my idea."

There are many political hand-shakers who are elected by the people to officiate as lawmakers at the coming session. There are thousands of political hand-shakers in Texas, ever seeking office.

Is the political hand-shaker to be cast adrift, thrown in the discard in the future?

Where the Bermuda Grows

"FOUR thousand acres of Bermuda onions transplanted in the Laredo district is a slight increase over last year," writes the agricultural editor of the San Antonio Express. "The onion fields are worth a visit from persons who never have seen them, not only for their own sake, but also as a picture of what the future has in store for a large section of South Texas, when irrigation resources are developed to the possibilities." Not many years ago the Bermudas were shipped from the Isle of Bermuda to the American market. Then an inventive genius who was a master of truck gardening discovered Texas to be the ideal home of the Bermuda. He experimented and his experimenting made Texas the home of the Bermuda and ruined the business of the Bermuda island growers.

DANCERS SHOULD PAY FOR "FIDDLING"

J. W. (Will) Shepherd, prominent Plano mule man and farmer, expresses the hope that Texas voters will soon devise a more equitable tax system for building and maintaining state highways than is now in operation. He likes the legislative program as recently set forth by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, to the effect that the traffic using the roads should bear the cost that now rests almost entirely on the backs of the farmers and farm lands. In other words, Mr. Shepherd says everybody should agree that "those who dance should always pay for the fiddling." —McKinney (Texas) Courier-Gazette.

HOOVER'S GREETING TO ECUADOR

There was much that was good in Herbert Hoover's speech to the people of Ecuador. It was a speech in sharp contrast to many that have been heard of recent years in congress and equally in contrast to some expressions that were heard in Mr. Hoover's behalf during the presidential campaign which resulted in his signal triumph.

The Hoover speech in Ecuador was remarkable for the fact that it emphasized the sentiment existing in the United States that the people of this republic and the people of the republics of South America are working to a common end—the welfare of their people—and that the people of the United States do not hold themselves superior to their southern neighbors. —Frederick (Okla.) The INN of the HAWK and RAVEN

by George Barr McCutcheon

During the summer, Jonifer takes Gerane and his nephew, Peter, to Edelweiss on a pleasure jaunt. They are disguised as gypsies. While there, they see Starcourt acting as the escort of the princess on her return to the palace. One look at Gerane's face, when she sees Starcourt, tells Jonifer that she loves him. Peter arrives at the same conclusion, and is none too pleased, for he secretly loves Gerane. However he knows he can never marry her, for not only was his father, Jonifer's half-brother, of illegitimate birth. But he himself was born out of wedlock. Jonifer, being the legitimate descendant of the Duke of Droon, who was made an outlaw, many, many years ago, after his attempt to seize the throne, exercises his prerogatives as head of the family in a way that the son of his deceased illegitimate half-brother often finds distasteful. Peter instantly becomes jealous of Starcourt, who, according to a spectator, is about to undertake the extermination of the bandits in the Forest of Droon and has been made a colonel, for he has voluntarily undertaken the task.

Urged on by his mother and his brothers, who hate Jonifer, Peter contemplates a revolt against his uncle's authority.

Jonifer, who, on learning that Gerane is in love with Starcourt, makes some secret plans that involve the soldier, takes a trip to Monsory. On his way home, near the Asphain border the stage-coach is held up—not by his men however. The arrival of a troop of soldiers results in the capture of the robbers. The leader serves to inform Jonifer that Starcourt, with 400 picked men, is in the Forest of Droon to run down the Davos band, no matter how long the task keeps him there. Jonifer and his companions.

John Crispo and Jonifer Davos quietly disappear that night and make their way home, realizing that the situation is too serious to permit of their running the risk of capture.

Jonifer's return puts an end, for a time, at least, to Peter's thoughts of rebellion. The chief's next move is an attempt to capture Starcourt in a surprise attack at night. He is defeated, however.

Later, coming upon Starcourt while he is swimming in a mountain pool, Jonifer captures him. The colonel's men believe him to be drowned.

Meanwhile, he is among the robbers in the valley, free to do as he pleases, but unable to escape.

Jonifer tells Gerane that he has captured Starcourt as a birthday present for her. The bandit chief takes it for granted that the soldier will fall in love with his daughter and that they will marry. He is amazed when Gerane, in a fit of rage, says she will marry Peter—anybody but the soldier.

Jonifer, acting on a suggestion of one of his lieutenants, who informs him that Gerane has killed a hawk that Starcourt had hoped to train as a carrier-bird, and thereby get into communication with the outside world, tells his daughter that he is going to have Starcourt executed.

Gerane, although she is completely fooled by Jonifer's threat, says the soldier is not to be shot—that she has decided to have him life that he may instruct her in English.

While the Granstark authorities are still making frantic efforts to recover Starcourt's body from the pool in which the soldier was supposedly drowned the minister of police, Baron Dangloss, is informed by one of his men, Peter Corpas, that the Countess Jabassy has in her possession a famous diamond that was taken from a Russian princess in the Forest of Droon by Davos' men. The detective also says that the count and countess are living on a scale that is far beyond their means and asks where the money comes from. He says that he believes the count and countess to be Davos' confederates.

Corpas, disguised as a fruit vender, stops the Countess Katrane on the street and, taking a long chance, tells her he is a messenger from Jonifer Davos and has been sent to tell her that her connection with the robber band is known to the police. Despite her desperate efforts at self-control, Corpas sees how alarmed she is and decides that his suspicions are correct.

As the result of Corpas's report, Dangloss sends officers to bring the count and countess before him. They, fearing that arrest will result in the disclosure of their relations with Jonifer, commit suicide.

Concerning the Action and Characters

Starcourt, now in love with Gerane, although he is unwilling to admit it, even to himself, asks her companion, Matilde, to tell him something of Gerane's mother. The old woman, who herself was the companion of Gerane's mother, tells him how they were captured by the bandits while passing through the Forest of Droon—how Louise, Gerane's mother, fell in love with Jonifer and married him.

INSTALLMENT XXVIII

Snow fell before the news of the death of Jonifer's sister and her husband reached the valley. Even more disturbing was the report that Baron Dangloss had found out the truth about them and had ordered their arrest, a calamity happily averted by the joint suicide, but which may not have occurred before one or the other of the couple had been forced to betray the location of and means of access to the secret valley.

Jonifer and his counselors were uneasy until it was learned later on, through the Digmans, that the Jabassys had made way with themselves without even confessing their own duplicity, much less exposing the hiding place of the robbers. From all accounts, Dangloss was as much in the dark as ever. A spy, sent down to the city some time afterwards, brought back the word that three well-known noblemen had left Edelweiss for trips abroad, and were not expected to return before the following spring. Inasmuch as the three gentlemen were along in years, scant attention was paid to their departure by the newspapers. But Jonifer and his men wondered whether Dangloss knew something that the press did not. Time alone would tell. Meanwhile, preparations for defending the gap against a possible invasion by troops were hastily perfected.

No effort was made to keep the news from Starcourt. That he was dumbfounded goes without saying. He found it hard to believe that the Jabassys were in league with the robbers. He tried to picture the astonishment that swept over all Edelweiss when it was learned that she was the sister of Jonifer the Hawk. Full sister to the infamous robber whose very name struck terrior to all Graustark, whose deeds were anathematized in her own house by every man and woman who partook of her hospitality!

But what staggered Starcourt more than anything else, was the fact that she was the aunt of Gerane—that most charming of women the aunt of Gerane! He was dazed. And, strange to say, he experienced a distinct feeling of relief—even joy—when it became known in the valley that the full truth about her had not come out in Edelweiss. Apparently, not even Baron Dangloss knew that she was Jonifer's sister.

As a direct result of the Jabassy incident Starcourt was denied the privilege of roaming the hills unattended.

"We want you where we can put our hands on you, Colonel Starcourt, in case we should have unwelcome visitors," explained Jonifer, tersely.

"They will not be unwelcome, so far as I am concerned," remarked the captive, and Jonifer swore.

Starcourt was struck not only by the chieftain's indifference to the fate of his sister, but by Gerane's unconcern. Aside from the fact that the countess' death, under the circumstances caused him considerable uneasiness, Jonifer seemed to be dismayed only by the ill luck that deprived him and his men of a reliable ally in Edelweiss.

Katrane meant nothing to Jonifer. He had no love for her nor, down in his heart, did he have the slightest respect for her. He used her to his own advantage, and she, on the other hand, used him. As for Jabassy, he was beneath contempt, so far as the Davoses were concerned. Jonifer felt a passing regret, it is true, over the collapse of certain hopes he had cherished in connection with Gerane's future. The death of the Countess Jabassy put an end to his perhaps idle dream of one day finding a place for his daughter among the elect, through the offices and chicanery of this sister of his.

"I knew your aunt very well," ventured Starcourt, a day or two after the news came through.

Gerane's lip curled a little, and into her eyes flashed the expression he had observed on more than one occasion—a dark look of hostility. They had come in a few minutes before from Julius Broadaxe's forge, where Jonifer and a number of men were gathered to discuss the catastrophe. She had refused to remain when her father roughly ordered the dragoon to "get out." Both of them had noticed the grin on Peter's face when the court order came from Jonifer and the scowl that succeeded it when she elected to depart with him. Now they were standing in front of the fireplace, drying their wet boots.

"But not quite so well as you know her now," she retorted.

"It is a great shock to me," he said. "She was one of the most popular, one of the most charming women in the city."

"And now that you know she was one of—one of us, you suddenly realize that she was not charming at all."

"I have said nothing of the kind. No matter what she has turned out to be, the fact remains that she—"

"The fact remains that she was my aunt," she interrupted, defiantly. "But I never spoke to her but once, when I was a little girl."

"I don't mind confessing that I was completely bowled over when I heard that she was Jonifer's sister and your aunt. Absolutely bowled over."

"But you knew that she was the great-granddaughter of the Duke of Droon, didn't you?" she demanded.

"Yes, I heard—"

"And you have known for weeks that I am his great-great-granddaughter, haven't you? It is a far cry, however, from the house in Prince Rudovic street to this little cottage in the hills, Colonel Starcourt. Oh, I will admit that she was a grand and noble lady, and that sometimes I wished I could be like her, but let me tell you what I really thought of her—what the daughter of the greatest robber in the land thought of your charming countess. I thought she was ten thousand times worse than my father or any other man in the valley. We do not pretend to be anything but thieves, Colonel Starcourt, while she—well, you know what she pretended to be. I despised her."

"I wish you wouldn't keep on saying 'we' whenever you mention—" he began, but she interrupted him with a laugh.

"But you always say 'we' when you speak of honest people, don't you?" she cried.

"Certainly I do. And I include you when I use the pronoun in that connection."

"Pooh!" she cried, scornfully. Then, in her halting English, she said to him: "Pardon me—I must—remain to my room—"

"Retire," he corrected.

"Retire to my room"—she frowned uncertainly—"for the change (oh, la, la!) my dress to—the change." Then anxiously in her own language: "How was that? Perfect—no? Yes?"

"You could not be more perfect," said he gallantly.

"I am so pleased to be perfect in English," said she, with her rare, dazzling smile. She was near her door when he called out, detaining her.

"See here," he said, seriously, as he came to her side, "suppose the troops succeed in breaking into this valley, is there a way for me to get you safely out of here? I mean so that you wouldn't fall into their hands."

She stared, scarcely crediting her ears. "You mean you would help me to escape, if there was a way out?"

"That is precisely what I mean. I don't want you to be captured and dragged off to the Tower."

"But—but you have told me that you longed to put me in the Tower yourself."

"Well, I've changed by mind," said he, crisply. "Now, is there another exit that we can take, if necessary? Just say yes or no, please. I am not asking you to tell me now where it is. But is there a way?"

"You—you would save me? You would assist me to escape?" she persisted, wonderingly.

"Certainly. Didn't you save me from the firing squad?"

"Oh, yes, but I saved you because I wanted to make a—a vassal of you."

"Slave would be a better word," said he, his hand on his heart.

"And would you save me because you want to make a slave of me?"

He saw her eyes narrow for an instant, as with pain, and then widen dangerously.

"Heaven forbid!"

"And why, pray, should you think that I would flee and leave my father here to face the soldier, Colonel Starcourt?"

He hesitated a moment. "I know you would never desert your father while he lived, Gerane," he said gently. "I only want to know if there is a way for you, in case he—well, you know what I mean without my saying it."

She lowered her head. He could see her lip quiver. For a few moments she was silent, striving for control of her voice.

"Thank you, Colonel Starcourt," she said at last, lifting her eyes. "There are but two ways out of this valley. One of them you know. The other is over the tops of the mountains, and only the eagle, the hawk and the vulture can cross them. If the soldiers should come—and they will, if my aunt or her husband betrayed us—the mouth of the gap down yonder will be piled deep with dead men and they will be wearing the uniform you love. This place is impregnable."

"I know nothing about the length of the gap nor where it leads. Your father takes jolly good care that I never get within a quarter of a mile of it. But I know something about the soldiers of Graustark. If they fail the first time, they will come again, 20,000 strong, if needs be, and they will climb over the piles of dead men in uniform, too—well, never mind. I want to get you safely out of this trap, Gerane, if there is any way in the world to do it."

"There is no way out for me," said she, and disappeared through the curtains of the door.

MORAN AND MACK

Moran—Say, Big Boy, what did you invest my five dollars in?

Mack—Julius, you is now half-owner of a fox farm. In one year you is goin' to be so rich, it will hurt you to breathe.

Moran—What do you feed them foxes on?

Mack—We feeds 'em cats.

Moran—What do you feed them cats?

Mack—We feeds 'em mice.

Moran—What do you feed them mice?

Mack—We feeds 'em insects.

Moran—Well, what's them insects goin' to live on?

Mack—They's goin' to live on th' foxes, th' foxes live on th' cats, th' cats live on th' mice and vice versa.

Moran—Did I start all that with five dollars?

Mack—Yes sir, Archibald, everything lives on something else and vice versa.

Moran—I think you is livin' on me but I'm afraid it ain't vice versa.

Mack—Now, Egbert, I'm th' brains of this concern and you is th' man-power. Keep cool, don't jump you wave-length and you will soon have so much money it will keep you broke paying th' income tax.

Slur to Gov. Long by Shreveport C. C. Causes Executive Threats

SHREVEPORT, La., Dec. 5. (UP)—Unless the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce apologizes for the alleged slur in not inviting him to a banquet given war department officials here recently and caused withdrawal of certain suits attacking the validity of the free textbook act fostered by him, Gov. Huey P. Long will seek to prevent a special session of the legislature from correcting clerical errors in a recent constitutional amendment giving Shreveport the right to issue bonds to acquire a 20,000-acre site for the third attack group of the U. S. army air wing awarded Shreveport Tuesday, it was reported here today.

The error which was clerical says Shreveport may float bonds for the project "within the corporate limits" of the city when it should have read within or without the corporate limits of the city."

Just what effect if any this will have on getting the air wing is not known.

PAUL GIVEN SENTENCE

Father of Slain Man Found Guilty by Jury

PAULS VALLEY, Okla., Dec. 5. (UP)—A district court jury today found W. H. Paul, grandson of the founder of Pauls Valley, guilty of manslaughter. He was sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary. The sentence probably will be appealed.

Paul was charged with the slaying of his son, W. G. Paul.

W. G. Paul was shot by his father, according to testimony, on the front porch of the younger man's home when trouble regarding the shooting of a dog arose between them.

The dog had been causing trouble in the neighborhood, the testimony showed, and W. H. Paul, a policeman, went to the house to shoot the dog. The son objected and during a scuffle with his father was killed.

W. H. Paul claimed the killing was an accident.

Air Lines Serve 65,000,000 Persons

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP)—The network of airmail lines in the United States has been extended until the postal service fliers traverse 25,365 miles daily over routes which touch 65 million persons.

W. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general, testifying before the house postoffice appropriations sub-committee, explained also that a number of additional lines were being contemplated, with the probability that service would be started on them before the beginning of the next fiscal year.

Contracts already have been awarded, Glover added, to provide service daily between Key West and the Canal Zone, and three times a week between Key West and San Juan, and Miami and Nassau.

Delayed Death Message Brings Suit for $2,900

Claiming that she failed to reach her father's bedside before his death because of the alleged negligence of the company, Mrs. Leiron Roberts Wednesday morning filed suit against the Western Union Telegraph company for $2,900 damages.

The petition filed Wednesday asserts that on Dec. 7, 1927, a telegram announcing her father's serious illness was sent from Marmaduke, Ark., to the plaintiff, then Leiron Ramey, in care of general delivery here. Mrs. Roberts alleges that the message was not received until it came to her through the mail on Dec. 18, nine days after the death of her father in Marmaduke.

Gambling Den Broken Up in Seminole, Okla.

MAUD, Okla., Dec. 5. (UP)—Three operatives of the state bureau of investigation and a Seminole county officer today were credited with breaking up a large gambling resort here last night.

The officers, J. M. Baker, Jim Brown, Clint Myers and Lee Pollock, raided a gambling hall, allegedly operated by J. M. Long, seized nearly $800 in cash from the house cashier, confiscated a truck load of gambling equipment, and arrested Long and three habitues of the place.

Sixty-two patrons of the den, said to be oil field workers, were released after Long was arrested.

Penalties for Power Propoganidists Urged

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (UP)—A law proposing a $1,000 fine and six months imprisonment against individuals and corporations seeking to influence school teachers or authors of school text books was proposed in the senate today by Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, as a result of evidence adduced by the federal trade commission that public utilities corporations had exerted such influence in the schools.

ESKIMOS SEE SANTA PLANES

North Pole Expedition Nears Goal

zero. It would have necessitated a brick wall or heavy log cabin to keep the intense cold out instead of our canvas sides, under an icy blast of 100 miles an hour.

Our electrically heated flying suits donned over our Eskimo reindeer suits were the only things which kept our limbs limber enough to use the controls. Even so it was impossible to sit for any length of time immovable at the control! Mrs. Kleinschmidt relieved me every half hour for ten or fifteen minutes which is the main reason why we succeeded and are now here. She says, and we all agree with her, that dog teams or reindeer will look mighty good to her from now on.

Well, I wish the editor and the children could have been here to see our landing at this Eskimo village. Imagine you had never seen or even heard of an airplane, dirigible or balloon or even of an automobile or railroad train, nothing but a team of horses to travel with. Then you hear a rumbling sound that increases to a great roar, next two monster birds appear circling over your village. Lower and lower they come roaring with deafening noise. Nothing that man has ever seen can be compared with these great birds; therefore they must be from another world, or are dragons, bad spirits come to devour them. The Eskimos scurried like rats into their underground igloos.

We struck Victoria land, West of Dease Strait and followed the high bluffs to the west. The Eskimos at this time of the year do not live in snow houses but in underground igloos, the roofs of which are almost level with the ground. In the center of the roof is a window made of seal gut. The light shining through these windows was what betrayed their village to us in the air, otherwise there were only a few dogs and several caches for meat which we would scarcely have noticed.

It was an even, perfectly smooth landing place and our ski-pontoons slid over the smooth surface until they came to a stop without a jar, about a quarter of a mile from the village.

I knew it would have been dangerous to enter the village or igloos clad as we were in our flying suits with helmet and goggles. So I undressed and putting on my reindeer artega or parka, fur trousers and muckluks transformed myself into an Eskimo. If an Eskimo suddenly comes into a strange village without having first been seen, or if you, as a stranger, are camped among them and he wants to visit you he approaches the house with a loud chant, then stands outside and makes known to you that he is peaceful, has no weapons and waits until he is asked to enter.

You can imagine I stood a long time outside chanting, but nobody asked me to enter. Then Mrs. Kleinschmidt, impatient at the delay, joined me and added her pleading feminine voice, interspersed with a few Eskimo words. Still no one answered and we had to risk the invasion of the igloo. You will perhaps imagine we simply opened the door and entered the house. Not so in an Eskimo winter igloo. You see before you flat on the ground, a square frame, you lift it up and look down into a hole, you then descend the steps of a rough ladder and find yourself standing in an oval room, ten or more feet underground, the floor is littered with pots, meat, weapons, snow shoes and what not. The flaslight reveals in one end a three-foot square opening closed with a piece of hide. You lift this curtain and crawl on your hands and knees through a narrow tunnel for about 15 feet. At the end of this tunnel is another flap, and upon lifting this flap you crawl into the igloo or the living room of an Eskimo.

You can readily see what an excellent opportunity for a frightened Eskimo to club you on the head or thrust a spear or knife into you.

I knew the inhabitants were keen ly on the alert and before I attempted to lift the last curtain I again began my chant and gave my Eskimo name "Ka-ta-chil-la," but a dead silence was the answer. Then I lifted the curtain and stuck my head in. To the right and left burned a seal oil lamp and on either side stood a man with a poised spear. Providence was again with me. One of the men was Amicktuk-lik (Humpback Salmon). He gave one shout "Ka-ta-chil-la" and pulled me up. From then on everything was simple. First the pow-wow, explanations, then the rush out doors to arouse the village. The walk out to the monster birds, then the feast and the first warm meal of seal meat. Even "Red," Holly Berry and Sparks thought it didn't taste so bad, and now we are going to spread our sleeping bags and turn in for a good night's rest while Sparks will be sputtering this message over the frozen air to where the presses will soon be grinding out the story for the kiddies in The Record News.

Death Threatens Del Rio Romance

virtual seclusion at her home, waiting for a message from Berlin that may bring the glad tidings of Jaime Del Rio's victory in his fight against death.

The youthful Mexican author and playwright, who was for seven years the husband of the noted cinema actress, is critically ill in the German capital.

Divorced from him last April, Miss Del Rio nevertheless expressed her deep solicitude for her former husband's welfare. It was Hollywood and the silversheet that parted the young couple after seven years of married life. It was illness that re-united them, not in marital bonds, but in the ties of friendship.

They Parted Friends

"We are still friends," said the dark-eyed actress today. "Only last week I had a long letter from him. In it he told me of the wonderful play about Hollywood that he was writing."

Borrow clothed Miss Del Rio's words as she continued:

"It is awful to think of him dying. He was so happy, so full of dreams."

From his sick bed, the young Mexican writer continually calls for his former wife, according to cable dispatches reaching Miss Del Rio. The cabled messages come from Doctor Van Lunt, Del Rio's physician.

Scion of an aristocratic Mexican landowning family, Jaime Del Rio had gone to Europe to visit his mother in Spain and to continue his writing career in Paris and other continental centers. His departure for Europe took place shortly after his actress-wife had obtained a divorce in Nogales, Sonora, Mexico.

He Flees Hollywood

Sensitive to certain aspects of life in the motion picture capital, he fled Hollywood, expressing a profound dislike for the ways of the film colony.

"I am tired of being called 'Mr. Dolores Del Rio'," he said at the time.

ALL HOPE LOST FOR DEL RIO

BERLIN, Dec. 5. (UE)—Jaime Del Rio, husband of Dolores Del Rio, whose physicians have announced that he cannot possibly survive the results of an infection which set in following an operation for a boil, grew slightly worse tonight. At the sanatorium where the dying young Mexican aristocrat is constantly calling for "Dolores," it was stated tonight that his pulse has risen to 130.

"Not even a miracle can save him," his doctors said.

BACK TO FARMS

ROME, Dec. 5. (UP)—Premier Mussolini's plan for preventing Italians from deserting farm lands for the cities was furthered today by presentation of a bill to the chamber giving prefects the power forcibly to impede immigration of peasants to cities. It implies that penalties for disobedience of the "back to the farm" campaign will amount to three months imprisonment or a maximum fine of 2,000 lira.

Wants to Shake Hands With the Man Who Made Orgatone

Before Taking It Wichita Falls Farmer Was Losing Weight — Now Well and Happy

"I would just like to shake hands with the man that makes Orgatone," said C. H. Perry, a well known farmer who lives on rural route 1, Wichita Falls, Texas, the other day.

"My stomach went back on me several years ago," continued Mr. Perry, "and ever since that time I have been gradually going down hill. Just before I began taking Orgatone I was so weak and run down that it was hard for me to get about to do my work without stopping to rest, and what little I forced myself to eat would always sour on my stomach, and I would always be miserable for hours on account of the gas that formed from this undigested food. Very often the gas would press up against my heart and make it palpitate so bad that I was actually afraid that I might have heart trouble. I was badly constipated all the time, and occasionally suffered from bad headaches.

"I had been keeping up with the public statements of Orgatone and decided it was doing others so much good that I would give it a trial, and I am certainly glad that I finally decided to do so. Well, Sir, I am actually surprised at the results I got from Orgatone. In just a little while my appetite came back, and the more Orgatone I took the more I wanted to eat, and the best part of it is, I can eat anything I want and never suffer from it afterwards. It has put my stomach in such fine condition that I can eat meats, vegetables, pastries and in fact anything that anybody else can and it all agrees with me perfectly. I am feeling so well and strong that I can get out and go through my day's work and never stop once to rest. My nerves seem to be in normal condition and I am free from constipation and never have those awful headaches any more. I am gaining in weight and feel full of strength and energy and am more than glad to recommend Orgatone to others."

Genuine Orgatone is not a secalled patent or secret remedy, but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by Allison's Drug Store, 716 Indiana Ave., under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative who is meeting the public daily. Out-of-town customers are being supplied promptly by mail upon receipt of price, one bottle $1.25 or six bottles for $6.25.—Adv.

STUDENT DEATH STIRS SCHOOL

Liquor Probe Pushed At Virginia U.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Dec. 5. (INS)—Investigation of bootlegging activities at the University of Virginia was spurred to renewed activity today by the fatal shooting of James K. Simmers, a freshman, of Milton Point, Rye, N. Y.

Simmers was shot as he sat at a lunch counter in the "Kitch-Inn," a popular student sandwich place near the campus. Henry H. Chewning, a local automobile salesman, was held in $10,000 bail today, charged with the shooting.

According to witnesses, Chewning had been drinking heavily.

The tragedy came at a time when the whole state is becoming aroused over the charges of widespread drinking among Virginia students. There was no indication, however, that Simmers had been drinking.

The Rev. David Hepburn, head of the Anti-Saloon league of Virginia, has addressed an open letter to Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the university, through Gov. Harry F. Byrd, asking that "deplorable drinking conditions," be investigated. Governor Byrd forwarded the letter to Doctor Alderman, suggesting that the investigation be made.

BORDER INSPECTORS IN BOOZE TRUST

DETROIT, Dec. 5. (AP)—Three more customs border patrol inspectors were arrested today in connection with the investigation into an alleged liquor smuggling "graft trust" in the customs service.

Seventeen men, 16 inspectors and one former inspector, now are under arrest on charges of conspiracy to accept bribes for permitting the smuggling of liquor into the Detroit area from Canada.

$4,000,000 PAY-OFF IS INVESTIGATED

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 5. (INS)—The Los Angeles Herald says indictments naming nearly a dozen Los Angeles police officers were under consideration by the county grand jury today as the result of an alleged $4,000,000 annual "pay-off" for the protection of a bootlegging ring.

The appearance before the grand jury of two federal prohibition agents gave rise to reports at the hall of justice that sensational indictments were impending.

The admission that "certain members of the police department" were involved in the present investigation was made by District Attorney Buron Fitts.

PERSONAL PADLOCKS ARE ABANDONED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (UP)—"Personal padlocks"—believed to be the most drastic liquor enforcement plan ever attempted—have been abandoned by the government, Attorney General Sargent announced today.

The "personal padlock" consists of a federal court injunction directed against a person, forbidding him under penalty of contempt of court, from selling or possessing liquor in violation of the Volstead act anywhere in the federal judicial district.

Mercury Climbs Out of Depths

While the weather man was predicting a cloudy sky and possible rains for Thursday, the thermometer rose to above freezing where it stood early Wednesday.

At 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the mercury had risen from the early morning low of 27 degrees to 44 degrees. The mercury dropped slowly from 5 o'clock in the afternoon to 38 degrees above at 9 o'clock. At 10 o'clock it had risen to 39 again, but almost immediately it settled back to 38 and by 12:30 o'clock Thursday morning it read 36 degrees.

Famous Recipe For Stopping a Severe Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, soothes away the inflammation, and loosens the persistent phlegm. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the germ-laden tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising speed.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

HOUSE VOTES NAVAL FUNDS

Quick Action on Big Appropriation Is Upset

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (UP)—The big work of this congress was expected to be the ratification of the Kellogg anti-war treaty but the first legislation which passed the house at this session was a total of nearly $34,000,000 for the navy.

Furthermore, while the house was thus looking to the strength of the navy, opposition to the anti-war treaty developed in the senate foreign relations committee, causing a postponement of action.

Congress is developing a strong disposition to rebuild the navy while at the same time scrutinizing with extreme caution international agreements which might in any way restrict this nation's freedom of action.

Passage Unopposed

The house, without a record vote and with scarcely a voice in the negative, authorized $34,800,000 today to strengthen the battleships Pennsylvania and Arizona by remodeling, and equipping them with all modern machinery including airplane landing facilities, elevation of gun turrets and five-inch anti-aircraft batteries. The house also voted $9,000,000 for naval housing at various navy bases, flying stations and foreign stations.

The modernization bill, bearing the name of Rep. Britten was recommended by the naval committee as being entirely within the Washington limitation treaty.

Laguardia's Jibe

"The secretary of state has just returned from signing an anti-war treaty yet the very first bill we pass is to strengthen two battleships," Laguardia said. "I hope the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Britten) and Prime Minister Baldwin can get together so we can save this money."

Meanwhile friends of a strong navy in congress have not responded enthusiastically to the suggestion of President Coolidge in his message to strike out the limit intended to speed up the construction of 15 cruisers and one airplane carrier provided for in the naval cruiser bill which passed the house last spring and now is next in line on the senate calendar.

King George's Fever Rises

Crisis in Disease, However, Is Believed Passed

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE
Record News Special Cable

LONDON, Dec. 5. (UE)—The issues between life and death still sway in the balance at Buckingham palace. This morning's bulletin hoped that the "recrudescence of infection which caused the last rise in temperature is being moderated." Tonight's bulletin shows that hope was in vain and the king's temperature is standing at 101.2.

The bulletin timed 8:30 tonight says: "The king has had a quiet day. His temperature has risen to a point higher than at the same hour last night, showing that the recrudescence of infection is still active. His strength is maintained." The bulletin this evening was signed by Sir Stanley Hewett, Lord Dawson of Penn, E. Farquhar Buzzard and Sir Humphrey Rolleston.

Universal Service learns that the doctors consider that a rise in the patient's temperature was the inevitable result of yesterday's excitement when the sick king had to listen to a lengthy order in council creating a special council of state.

Authoritative quarters say that the crisis in the king's disease passed Sunday, and that now, if only his weakened heart will continue to function, a long, slow convalescence may be expected.

While the king's frail body still valiantly holds to the delicate thread of life, the heir to the throne is making all possible speed toward London. The cruiser Enterprise, speed boat of the British navy, reached Aden today, and entered the Red Sea headed for Suez. The Prince of Wales did not transfer to another cruiser and will not do so at Suez, nor will he take a train at Suez for Alexandria as originally planned, but will continue aboard the navy's greyhound to Brindisi, Italy.

Guard Detachment Aids in Capture Of Escaped Convict

PHILADELPHIA, Miss., Dec. 5 (AP)—The mysterious departure of a detachment of national guardsmen who left Jackson early today was cleared up a few hours later by their capture of Virgil Dunn, who had been standing off the sheriff's forces in Neshoba county. Dunn, an escaped convict, was shot three times and was said to be seriously wounded.

The Mississippi guardsmen had departed from Jackson under sealed orders in comman of Adj. Gen. J. M. Hairston and Governor Bilbo had declined to say where he had ordered them. An automobile loaded with newspapermen went on their trail. Dunn, who had been hiding, escaped to a nearby woods when the soldiers arrived but was followed up and take after a fight.

KGKO SECURES WIDE RANGE

Contest Answers Come From Canada

Radio listeners in London, Ont., and in several New York towns were leading the field Wednesday in the long distance reception contest instituted by station KGKO at 12:01 a. m. Sunday, in which a $10 gold piece was offered to the winner.

As a means of testing the effective broadcasting range of the local station, with 500 watt power being used, the program was arranged and announced at midnight Saturday with the offer of a cash prize to the most distant auditor reporting. Since Monday letters and telegrams have been pouring in from the North and East, many of them mentioning specifically the cash prize which had been mentioned in the announcements. Among the points farthest from Wichita Falls from which messages have been received proving reception of this station's program were Winona, Minn.; Calvin, N. D.; just 10 miles from the Canadian border; Kenmore, N. Y.; Washington, Pa.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Rochester, N. Y.; Williamsville, N. Y.; Syracuse, N. Y.; Buffalo, N. Y.; and London, Ont., in Canada. The Calvin, N. D. listener reported clear reception of Thompson's Hawaiian entertainers.

Selection of the winner will be announced within a few days.

Optimist Party To Draw Good Crowd

One of the largest club parties ever held in the city was promised by continued heavy ticket sales Wednesday for the annual banquet and frolic of the Optimist club which is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock Thursday night, according to the statement of Solon Featherston, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

One of the chief attractions on the program planned for Thursday night is a speech by Edwin Dabney of Oklahoma City, attorney general of Oklahoma. Mr. Dabney is a member of the Oklahoma City Optimist club, and will be accompanied here by that club's secretary, A. V. Stevenson, and C. Ed Hall, past president of Optimist International.

The program includes vocal numbers by Miss Edith Crownover, Vernon, Mrs. J. Will Gray, and Dr. O. T. Kimbrough of this city. Miss Crownover will be accompanied by Miss Johnnie Mallow, pianist for the Vernon Optimists, who also will give piano solos. Joel MacGregor will lead a singsong, and J. W. Pyland is furnishing a vaudeville number.

J. V. Allred, president, will be toastmaster at the banquet. Joe Bailey has charge of the sale of tickets.

New Hair Mode Seen in New York

The most beautiful girls in New York are doing their hair the new way. It's so lovely, but so simple. That's why it appeals to popular girls, who need to save time wherever they can. One of the busiest of them is attractive Mary Chandler, for three seasons a member of "George White's Scandals" and now appearing in "Artists and Models." She says: "I am so busy, I don't know how I'd take care of my hair, if I hadn't learned the new way so many of my girl friends are doing theirs.

"All I do now is put a few dashes of Danderine on my brush each time I use it. This wonderful preparation keeps my hair looking so lovely that many friends want to touch it. I set my waves with Danderine, too, and it holds them ever so much longer. All dandruff disappeared with a few applications, and my scalp always feels fine. I shampoo just once a month now. Danderine keeps my hair so clean."

Danderine removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It makes hair easy to dress and holds it in place. It isn't oily and doesn't show. It gives tone and vigor to the scalp. All drug stores have the 35c bottles. A delicately fragranced necessity for the well-groomed girl.—Adv.

BANDITS SWOOP DOWN ON CITY

Two Arkansas Banks Robbed; Only $300 Taken

ELDORADO, Ark., Dec. 5 (UP)—Armed with shotguns and acetylene torches, five bank bandits rioted through the town of Junction City, 20 miles south of here on the Louisiana-Arkansas state line, early today, assaulted a night watchman, entered two banks and a drug store and escaped with less than $300 loot.

The Merchants and Farmers bank was the center of the robbers' activities. Here they spent more than two hours trying to open the bank safe with acetylene and oxygen torches, threatened to kill Jim Richardson, night watchman whom they had beaten, blindfolded and securely bound before entering the bank, and finally left with less than $300 in small coins. The efforts to burn through the steel safety vaults failing.

After leaving this bank, the desperadoes robbed the McDonald & Co. drug store of jewelry, flashlights and approximately $100 in cash. The door to the First National bank was opened but nothing was taken.

Officers believe the bandits headed toward Shreveport, La. Tourists have reported passing a speeding touring car full of men at Homer, La., on the Shreveport-Eldorado highway.

GIRLS! YOU CAN START THIS VERY DAY TO CLEAR UP UGLY "BROKEN OUT" SKIN

Girls! This is especially addressed to you because in this day and age when almost everyone has a clear, beautiful complexion, any girl whose skin is all broken out with ugly pimples, eczema, etc., is under a terrible handicap.

It's a shame your skin is like that—but don't be discouraged and don't fret—while most things you've tried have most likely failed, here's something that will start right away to help you heal your skin swiftly.

It's called Heiskell's Ointment and for years it has been helping thousands of other girls, and men, too, many of them far worse off than you, to completely get rid of all disfiguring skin eruptions.

Any druggist can supply you with Heiskell's Ointment but, girls!—when you ask for the Ointment, get a cake of Heiskell's Medicated Soap, too. Ordinary soaps only too often contain something that irritates the skin and keep it inflamed and so retard results you get from the Ointment. If you use Heiskell's Soap, though, especially medicated to prepare the skin for the Ointment, you'll speed up results wonderfully and that's what you want. This combination treatment of Heiskell's Ointment and Heiskell's Soap will certainly amaze you at the quick results it gives and what a glorious feeling it will be to look in the mirror and see a skin such as you have always longed for—delicate, smooth, flawless—really yours! Don't forget—get both the Ointment and the Soap and for less than a dollar you get a new complexion that can't be priced in terms of money.—Advt.

SPUDDERS SELL KIEFER TO ATLANTA AND SMITH TO TULSA

'RED' BENNETT IS PURCHASED

Gardner Buys Hard-Hitting Outfielder From Brews

By A. L. PARKER
Staff Correspondent

TORONTO, Dec. 5.—Line drive base hits into the outfield and sharp breaking curve balls that never fail to fool the hitter, that's what the baseball magnates have been throwing all over the lobbies and corridors of the King Edward hotel here today. But somehow or another the hits and the curve balls are taking none too well, especially among the Texas league delegtaion, here in full force. The Texas league moguls have been doing their share of the dickering, but little of consequence has happened to any club other than the Spudders.

Prexy J. Alvin Gardner and Skipper Jim Galloway have been the busiest men at the annual meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues. If results count the Spudders have more business than any other club, and the latter are doing a good job of keeping secrets.

The Spudder powers stepped into the market, bought an outfielder, who they say, is going to fill the shoes of Tom Jenkins and sold a perfectly good battery.

Battery Is Sold

Pitcher Joe Kiefer, one of the big guns of the ground staff for better than two seasons, was sold outright to the Atlanta club of the Southern association. Catcher Doc Smith goes to the Tulsa team of the Western league on the same sort of proposition—sold outright.

The newcomer is Fred "Red" Bennett, bought outright from the Milwaukee team of the American association. Bennett hit .371 for Tulsa of the Western league last season and was sold at the end of the campaign to the Double A club. He hit 35 home runs and is a right handed swinger. Gardner and Galloway declare he is the man who will fill Jenkins' place and will give the Spudders a right handed cleanup hitter worthy of the name, something the Wichita Falls club has wanted and failed to have for the last several years.

Sales and purchase prices were not disclosed in any of the deals.

The Spudder bosses have other things in mind and before the close of another day of high powered lobbying, other deals are sure to be consummated. For one thing an alliance of some sort seems to have been formed with Frank Kitchens, the old Spudder catcher, who is to manage the Tampa club of the Southeastern this year. It is expected that ol' Pop will get several ball players from the Spudders before the meeting is over.

Alvin Has Busy Day

Gardner spent a busy day today pow wowing with baseball men from all sections and all classes of leagues. He has been closeted at different times with John McGraw, Connie Mack, Bill Veeck, and Bill Frichl, and others among the big boys of the business. However, that doesn't mean that he has something "in the air" with all these men. More than likely he simply has been buzzing baseball with them and probably has little, if anything, left to transact with the big league boys.

All the Texas league clubs are represented here tonight, T. S. Hickman, business manager of the Shreveport club; Rube Stuart, president and Claude Robertson, manager, Beaumont; Milton Stock, Dallas pilot, Tom Conner business manager and Homer Hammond, secretary, San Antonio and Del Pratt, Waco manager, rolled in today to give the Texas league 100 per cent representation.

Other Texas league men here, besides the Wichita Falls delegation which also includes William E. Huff, vice president, are Jack Zeiler, Bob Stow and Jake Atz of Fort Worth; Fred McJunkin and Bob Tarleton of Dallas; Fred Ankenman, Houston prexy; and of course, League President J. Doak Roberts.

Most of these men had deals brewing all day and expected to wind them up tomorrow or the next day, the final days of the meeting.

CHATTANOOGA BIDS FOR 1929 SESSION

TORONTO, Dec. 5. (AP)—The National Association of Professional Baseball leagues went into action today but only for a few minutes. The 28th annual convention was opened and two sessions announced for tomorrow when baseball oratory was expected to hold sway on the subject of the draft.

Most delegates failed to reach the convention hall for the opening, remaining in the hotel lobby to talk baseball, past and future.

Wants "Quiet" Meeting

The place for the next convention came before the first session when President M. H. Sexton in his annual report, deplored the fact that some of the smaller leagues could not afford to send representatives to the conventions. He thought also that baseball would be better served by reducing the travel to attend to a minimum by the selection of a centrally located place. He suggested that it should be a "quiet" spot so that the attention of the delegates would not be distracted from the business in hand. The president put forward West Baden, Ind., as such a place.

The constitution provides that the convention must be held in a city represented by a minor club, but this, he said, could be temporarily set aside. Chattanooga, Tenn., Southern association, will bid for the 1929 convention and others may join the quest.

New League Planned

Harry Williams of Los Angeles, president of the Pacific Coast league, told today of a tentative survey of territory for a proposed Western International league. Such a circuit would include Tacoma, Spokane and Bellingham in the state of Washington while the Canadian cities would be selected from among Vancouver, Victoria, Calgary and Moose Jaw.

A transfer of a major league player to a minor club today sent Johnny Butler, former Brooklyn and Chicago infielder, to Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast league.

Another former major leaguer officially became a manager today when Jack Bentley, ex-Giant southpaw and later with Newark, was named to pilot the York team of the New York-Pennsylvania league.

The American association, at its final meeting of the convention, decided to open and close a week later in the 1929 season than was the case in 1928. The season will open April 16 and close Sept. 29.

TIGERS BUY TWO TORONTO PLAYERS

TORONTO, Dec. 5. (AP)—Dale Alexander, outstanding batter of the International League, and Johnny Prudhomme, young pitcher, were sold to the Detroit Americans by Toronto today for $100,000 and three players.

Sweeney, a first baseman with the Tigers last year, will be sent to Toronto along with two other players not named.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

WICHITA FALLS fandom is going to like Fred "Red" Bennett, the outfielder purchased yesterday by J. Alvin Gardner from the Milwaukee club of the American association. At least, it is announced that Bennett is bought by the Spudders, though the presumption is that he comes here in the deals that sent several Wichita Falls athletes to the St. Louis Browns. Milwaukee and the Browns have a close working agreement, if indeed Phil Ball does not have a deal of capital invested in the Brewers. Anyhow, regardless of how he was acquired, the important thing is that Bennett is now a Spudder.

Bennett will fill the vacancy created by the sale of Tom Jenkins to the Browns. Now there's an assignment to intimidate the most hardy soul. Jenkins was one of the most popular players who ever pastimed in Spudder regalia. His big black bat, so potent in breaking up games and his sensational fielding, with the nonchalant manner in which he played baseball, made ol' Dynamite a great favorite here. Bennett won't make the followers of the Spudders forget Jenkins. I'm too loyal to old friends and of course know Jenkins' worth too much to say that. But I do say that this boy Bennett will satisfactorily play left field.

BENNETT IS A BIG fellow. He is near six feet tall and weighs around 180 pounds. He is a youngster, and with the exception of the last two seasons spent at Tulsa in the Western league, his experience was confined to the bushes. He is a modest boy, a fine, likable chap, who will be of great popularity among his teammates and the fans here.

THERE IS A VAST difference in the playing styles of Jenkins and Bennett. There is little to choose in their hitting. Tom will hit more home runs than Bennett in any league. But Bennett is a more dependable hitter than Jenkins. At least, so it seemed in a comparison's of Bennett's play two seasons ago, when I walk with him all season while holding the post as sports editor of a Tulsa newspaper, and Jenkins' work this last campaign, I mean. I believe Bennett will hit more often in the pinches than Jenkins. Tom is a better fielder than Bennett. He is faster than the ponderous Fred. But Bennett is a very good fielder.

When the 1927 season opened, Bennett was so awkward a fielder that he had difficulty in escaping being hit by fly balls and it was quite an event when he managed to catch one. His improvement was remarkable and at the close of the season he was an excellent outfielder. They tell me now that he has developed into a finished gardener. He would, because he is the sort of fellow who loves to play baseball; who practices to perfect himself in the game.

THE NAMING of an all-star major league club by baseball writers of American and National league cities, is a contradiction to the eight scribes of the senior loop who named Jim Bottomley of the St. Louis Cardinals as the "most valuable" in that circuit. Bottomley is not included in the all-star team, his position of first base going to Lou Gehrig. Of course, Gehrig is in the American league and has nothing to do with Bottomley's selection in the National.

But other National league players whom many critics consider were of greater value than Bottomley, who slumped in hitting in the last two months of the championship campaign and was a terrible flop in the world series, were named on the all-star club. They included Hornsby, Paul Waner, Lindstrom and Jackson, and there's a lot of argument in their favor as being more valuable in the 1928 season than was Bottomley.

HORNSBY LED the National league in hitting and Cuyler and Lindstrom were close to Rogers, all three batting 40 points higher than Sunny Jim of the Cards. Jackson also hit well in addition to playing a scientillating game at shortstop, and there is no argument but that shortstop is a far more difficult post than first base.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—With the football season now over, America resumes its spot in peace and progress

The students are taking their fractured skulls back into the classrooms.

The thought behind our collegiate game is that anything you do to a sophomore's head is bound to be an improvement.

The idea of the game is to reduce an eleven to three or four.

The boys slugged each other all over the lot on the theory that a touchdown is the shortest distance between two eyes.

In the big co-ed colleges all the girls are training to be nurses and all the boys are studying to be patients.

But the real crash arrived when the West slipped East.

New York hadn't seen real, manly football until the Oregon Aggies plastered New York university.

They don't give out varsity letters in the West.

They give out lumps.

After seeing the Oregon Aggies batter the New Yorkers to a white blister we realized that the Covered Wagon was an ambulance.

Then along comes Stanford to shake the crumbs out of the Army tablecloth.

The Notre Dame team ran through the Southern California adding machine and the total was a yard of zeroes.

There is some excuse for Notre Dame.

That college hasn't been any good since Lon Chaney graduated.

We thought Army would do fairly well with Stanford.

The Army is the backbone of the nation.

But the Stanford team consists of eleven chiropractics.

It slapped the Army all over the terrace, threw forward passes around like pills in a free clinic and made Cagle look as silly as a chef trying to bake a cake of ice.

The Army team committed a blunder by not going into a permanent huddle.

Every time a Stanford man tackled his opponent, an Army player was gathered to his feathers.

At a meeting of the eastern rules committee yesterday, the West was awarded the championship up until 1967.

Rice Seeks Place In Football Sun

Alumni Want Change or Abandonment of Game

HOUSTON, Texas, Dec. 5 (AP)—J. T. McCant, bursar and member of the faculty committee on athletics of Rice institute, told alumni at the homecoming gathering here recently that definite steps to place Rice football on a par with that of other members of the Southwest conference would be taken by the faculty at an early date.

Just what is to be the nature of these steps was not revealed. Rice football has been going from bad to worse, the season just ended having seen the Owls fail to win a conference game and lose contests with two teams of supposedly inferior conference, one of them by a topheavy margin.

Few alumni and followers have placed the blame for the disastrous showing on the coaches, all of whom are products of Robert Zuppke, whose success at the University of Illinois is well known.

Instead most of them have attributed it to lack of material brought about by an unusually high scholastic standard at the institute with no priveleges being granted gridders and by the purported fact that no effort is being made to get high school graduates of proven football ability to enroll in the Houston institution.

Many have gone so far as to say that the Owls of the near future should be made worthy contenders for the conference crown or should step out of the southwest loop and become a member of a group where football is not so fast. Some have suggested the abandonment of intercollegiate football.

The loss was estimated at $82,800.

SANDIES' STAR HELD ELIGIBLE

Walker Cleared of Charges At Quanah Meeting

Bob Walker, a halfback for the Amarillo high school football team, was held eligible for prep football competition this year at a meeting yesterday of the District Interscholastic League committee, at Quanah.

It was decided, by a vote of 4 to 2, that Walker had not played on a Sherman team in 1924, as charged by Lubbock high school. Texas prep athletes are permitted to play only four years in any sport.

J. R. Moody, a member of the Sherman faculty and coach of the Sherman 1924 team, told the board that Walker had not participated in games that season that would disqualify him for competition this year.

Prof. C. E. Davis, superintendent of Quanah schools was chairman of the committee. Other members attending the session were Coach A. Y. McCallum of Wichita Falls, Superintendent W. A. McIntosh of Amarillo, Superintendent M. H. Duncan of Lubbock, Superintendent W. T. Lofland of Vernon, Superintendent B. M. Dinsmore of Electra and Principal Iaas of Plainview.

Amarillo and Abilene play Saturday in the latter city for the state bi-district championship.

Carlin Is Victor Over Ted Waters

Ketonen Back and Grapples Here Next Week

Johnny Carlin demonstrated conclusive and swift superiority over Teddy Waters last night in the main event of Alex Ross' athletic show at 821 Indiana avenue. Carlin pinned Waters in two straight falls, the first in 15 minutes with an arm-keylock and the second in five minutes with a Japanese flying headlock. They weighed under 150 pounds.

Joe Turner, 165 pounds, and Jack Skeen, 170, grappled 30 minutes without a fall. Turner had slightly the better of the milling.

Both matches were under New York commission rules and were fast and interesting.

Clarence Strudivant outpointed Curly Robertson in a fast four-round boxing bout.

Waino Ketonen, a foremost contender for the world middleweight title, who wrestled here last winter, was introduced. He received a great ovation and the announcement that he will meet a formidable opponent here next week also was greeted with great satisfaction by the customers.

A near-capacity crowd saw the card.

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 5 (UP)—Ernest E. Bearg, head coach of the University of Nebraska football team for four years, resigned today.

Ruth Leads Balloting in Naming Of All-Star Major League Team

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 5—The Sporting News, national baseball weekly, today announced the annual all-star major league team selected by members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. This year's team was chosen from the vote of 233 members of the writers' craft, the largest number that has ever participated in the balloting.

Six of the players chosen come from the ranks of the American league and five from the National. Three pitchers were voted on, with the specification that one of those chosen be a left-hander. These places went to Hoyt of the Yankees, Benton of the Giants and Bob Grove of the Athletics. They were outstanding choices, although Vance and Grimes both polled heavily.

Gehrig of the Yankees, Cochrane of the Athletics, Hornsby, Lindstrom and Jackson were other big favorites in winning places on the team. Here is the lineup:

Manush, Browns, center field.
P. Waner, Pirates, right field.
Gehrig, Yankees, first base.
Hornsby, Braves (now with Cubs) second base.
Lindstrom, Giants, third base.
Jackson, Giants, shortstop.
Cochrane, Athletics, catcher.
Grove, Athletics; Hoyt, Yankees, and Benton, Giants, pitchers.

OLNEY, Texas, Dec. 5—The Olney Cubs will enter the bi-district championship game with Mineral Wells this week end severely handicapped on account of injuries.

MALONEY WILL MEET SHARKEY

Heavyweight Fight Planned For Boston in January

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. (UP)—A fourth meeting between Boston's two heavyweights, Jack Sharkey and Jim Maloney, is planned by Matchmaker Tom McArdle for Madison Square garden in January.

Maloney's recent victory over Johnny Risko has elevated him again to a high position among the heavyweights. Risko eliminated Sharkey in the last heavyweight elimination tournament held by Tex Rickard to determine Gene Tunney's opponent last summer.

The match, planned for Jan. 18, between Tuffey Griffiths and Leo Lomski, Aberdeen (Wash.) Assassin, has been called off because of Griffiths' knockout at the hands of James J. Braddock, young Jersey City light-heavyweight.

Griffiths will be given another chance in New York against Mando Tassi, recently knocked out by Jack Delaney, probably in December. Braddock probably will replace Griffiths against Lomski.

ALTUS CAGERS PLAY FRIDAY

Boys and Girls Teams to Meet Ozark Valley

Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., Dec. 5—Boys' and girls' basketball teams of Altus High school will play the Ozark Valley teams at Ozark Valley Friday night.

This is the first game of the season for the local basketeers, while the Ozark Valleyites have already played three or four games.

A double header game with Olustee is scheduled for the local court Saturday night.

Olustee has practically the same lineup as played last season for the boys, and has lost only two members from the girls' team.

When Altus and Olustee played during the 1928 season, each team won a boys' and girls' game, although the Altus boys defeated Olustee in the Jackson county tournament.

The game will be played in the Altus High school gymnasium and since the practically entire Altus lineup will be green material, a hard fought game is expected.

Lloyd Chambers is coaching both boys and girls for Altus, with the assistance of C. E. Fleming with the boys.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

HOW TO SOLVE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

Every number in the form represents the beginning of a word, reading either horizontally or vertically. If there is a black square to the left of the number the word is horizontal; if above it, the word is vertical. The same number may of course begin both a horizontal and a vertical. The definitions for the correct words to fill the form are found below, with numbers corresponding to those on the form. Run through the definitions till you find one that you recognize, and put it in its proper place on the form, one letter for each white square. This will furnish several cross-clues to the words linking with it at right angles. Continue in this manner till the form is completely filled. If you have solved the puzzle correctly it should read both horizontally and vertically with words corresponding to the definitions.

A Strong Footing

Foot trouble often drains the system of nervous energy and in this way assists in causing more serious disorders. One suffering from flat feet may not feel any local discomfort and yet wrong positions of the bones of the foot may throw the entire skeleton out of balance. Many cases of sciatica and pains in the lower back and legs can be traced to some condition of the feet.

It is essential to health and vitality to have strong feet and legs. One cannot possess endurance without taking a sufficient amount of exercise by walking each day. Athletes, regardless of their special branch of sports, realize that "road-work" is vitally important to their success and they walk or run many miles daily.

Not only is a person with weak feet apt to be deficient in endurance, but the repeated jars of walking, not being properly absorbed by the limbs, are conveyed to the spinal column and produce a distinct jolting of the nervous system. The most effective means of increasing the tone and strength of the feet is through the use of special exercises to develop the foot and calf muscles and to increase the circulation of blood through them. A very good exercise can be taken while walking and consists in simply turning the toes inward, pigeon toed, as did the Indians. In this way, and wearing low heels, the toes are used to grip the ground and the foot is arched naturally.

Another good exercise to accomplish the same purpose is to stand barefoot on the edge of a thick book and attempt to grasp the edge with the toes.

Obesity is a frequent cause of flat feet because of the great strain on the bones and ligaments of the feet by carrying the excessive weight and one can not expect to correct flat feet until the weight has been reduced to normal. An average foot is equal to its task, but there is a limit to its endurance. Until the normal weight has been reached it may be necessary to use arch supports to assist in relieving the burden, but these are only crutches and do not strengthen the feet.

An excellent exercise can be taken when standing with the feet crossed: Pass the right foot over in front of the left until the heel of the right foot touches the outside of the left heel. Point the toes so the feet are at right angles, then, placing the hands on the hips, sway slightly to one side and then to the other, catching your weight on the big toe of each foot as you throw your weight first to one side and then the other.

These exercises, if persisted in, will gradually bring back the muscular power in the necessary muscles, and your arches will soon return to their normal strength. You can then discard the arch supports, and your feet will be strong enough to wear shoes with lower heels. At least wear those low-heeled shoes when walking, and continue to take the "pigeon-toe" exercise, and you will keep your feet as strong as nature intended them to be.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Ruptured Duodenal Ulcer

Question—Reader writes: "My husband was operated on one year ago for ruptured duodenal ulcer. Now, with a careful diet he has had acid coming into the throat as before, also has phlebitis in his left leg. Can we remedy these conditions?"

Answer: I do not know what you mean by "a careful diet," but apparently your husband's diet is incorrect or he would not have a return of the hypochondria. I have special articles on both this subject and phlebitis and will be glad to send them to you if you will write again, giving me your full name and address on a large stamped envelope.

Bananas—Melba Toast

Question—Mrs. O. G. asks: "What about bananas? I have never seen them mentioned in your column. And Melba toast—can it be eaten with meat or eggs as a good combination?"

Answer: Bananas are a starchy food and should be used as such. From a health standpoint, they are best baked. Melba toast combines well with any other kind of food but because of its liquid absorbing properties must be considered slightly constipating.

Reducing Hips and Thighs

Question—V. S. L. asks: "Would a massage machine reduce me? Or would you suggest one of those bicycle machines? I want to buy one or the other. Which do you think is best for reducing the hips and thighs?"

Answer: The vibrating machines with the belt attachment are excellent to assist in reducing and this is likewise true of the bicycle apparatus, but you should also take plenty of long walks each day to assist in hardening your muscles.

Muscular Jerking and Twitching

Question—Mrs. R. asks: "Can you tell me what causes jerking of my flesh all over my body? Worse at times than others, twitching as many as four or five places at the same time."

Answer: Your trouble is caused by some nervous disorder and you should surely have a diagnosis made so that the cause may be ascertained.

FRANK E. NICHOLSON

By HARRY RICHMAN

The eyes, nose and mouth depicted below are the property of that well-known matinee idol who makes the ladies' hearts do contortions, Harry Richman. This season he's one of the principal correspondents in a George White scandal.

HARRY RICHMAN

"I like the nifty," he told me, "about a pair of desert-driven Arabs who were naturally suspicious of each other. The beautiful girls in their respective harems were said to cause this lack of trust.

"Each Arab expected any day to learn that his adversary had crashed the harem gate and won his women. Putting it frankly, neither of the brown-skinned gents was the sort of knight one could leave in the same neighborhood with one's wife.

"Events conspired which demanded that the two of them take a journey to a nearby city. Outwardly amiable, they started off. All progressed happily until one Arab clapped his hands to his head and shouted:

"'O, Merciful Allah, I forgot to lock the doors to my harem!'

"'Well, why get excited?' soothed the other, 'we're both here, aren't we?'"

WHALEY WELL TO TEST SAND

Wildcat Near Gainesville Has Oil Show

GAINESVILLE, Texas, Dec. 5.—Drillers are reaming the E. C. Haynes No. 1 well on the Whaley ranch, one-half mile southwest of the city limits of Gainesville, and will be ready within two or three days to test the sand topped at 1803 feet. The log of the well has checked with the best producers in the Bulcher field, northwest of the city.

Walter Griffee, driller of the discovery well on the Wheelock farm, six miles southeast, is building a derrick on the Mack Dove farm, for another test. A well drilled on the Dove farm several years ago made a showing of both oil and gas.

Derrick and drilling machinery are being placed on the J. L. Shotwell farm, one-half mile northeast of the Griffee No. 1 Wheelock, for the sinking of a test. Derrick has been completed on the Mrs. Rad Ware farm, two miles north of the Griffee producer and machinery is now being rigged up. Spudding in by the last of the week is planned by Staniforth and associates of Wichita Falls, who are doing the drilling.

Drillers have quit work on the Bailey Inglish well, 16 miles west of Gainesville, until after the Christmas holidays.

'BOSSY' VICTOR

Bad Boy Mayor's Aides Win Victory In Election

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Dec. 5. (UP)—Voters of Newburyport have placed an unequivocal stamp of approval on the extraordinary administration of Mayor "Bossy" Gillis.

The red head who was released from Salem jail early last Saturday, scored a great personal triumph in yesterday's municipal election, when his entire slate of councilmen won.

"Bossy" himself was not a candiate, his term having another year to run. But his political fate was at stake because of the necessity for him to control the city council in order to put through all his drastic measures. Six councilmen were elected and every one is a Gillis man.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. (AP)—An opening advance in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables was followed by rather irregular fluctuations in the cotton market here today January eased off from 20.36 to 20.23 under some southern selling and further liquidation, but the general market closed steady at net advances of 3 to 8 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 5 to 10 points with the active months selling about 7 to 12 points higher, during the first few minutes on trade buying and a little local or commission house buying which seemed to be promoted by continued favorable reports from the cotton goods trade and relatively steady Liverpool cables. The demand was soon supplied by southern selling and liquidation, however, and the market eased off during the middle of the day. December sold down from 20.43 to 20.28 and May from 20.32 to 20.20, or about 3 to 5 points net lower, but offerings tapered off at the lower prices and there were rallies later on renewed covering. Closing prices were within 4 or 5 points of the best figures touched on the opening advance.

Business was quiet during the greater part of the day and the trading was attributed largely to further evening up of accounts in preparation for the government's crop ginning figures which are scheduled for publication on Saturday. Another private report was issued today, estimating the crop at 13,967,000 bales and ginnings up to Dec. 1 at 12,300,000 bales. These figures were within the range of reports previously published and appeared to be without effect on the market. Up to the close of business seven of these private reports had been issued pointing to a crop on the average of 14,029,000 bales, the minimum estimate being 13,800,000 and the maximum 14,388,000.

Private figures on ginnings to Dec. 1 have ranged from 12,300,000 up to 12,550,000 bales and averaged 12,398,000. Private cables attributed the steadiness of Liverpool to trade calling with local, London and continental buying, and said that sentiment in Manchester was optimistic with more cotton looms and spindles running there than for a considerable time. Exports today, 54,065, making 3,878,950 so far this season. Port receipts, 55,919. U. S. port stock, 2,300,328.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 5. (AP)—The cotton market was comparatively quiet today with trading made up mostly of covering and liquidation in an effort to even commitments in advance of the government's crop report due Saturday. Following an early decline the market eased off steadily until in final trading there was a renewal of covering and January contracts which had eased off from 19.74 to 19.62 rallied and closed at 19.70, or 5 points up from the day. The general market closed steady at net advances of 1 to 5 points.

The market opened steady in response to higher Liverpool cables and first trades showed gains of 5 to 6 points. Prices continued to advance after the start under a moderate demand made up mostly of prebureau covering by shorts and some buying on the promise of severe cold weather in the belt. January advanced to 19.74, March 19.86 and May 19.79, or 8 to 10 points net up.

When the demand was supplied longs started in liquidating and although trading was moderate prices were on the downgrade for practically the whole morning session. Near noon January sold at 19.62, March 19.72 and May 19.66, or 12 to 14 points under the top. Lack of sustaining support which was attributed to the reluctance of traders to enter upon new commitments in advance of the official estimate added to the weakness.

In the afternoon, however, there was a renewal of covering by shorts and prices recovered 6 to 8 points of the loss, March closing at 19.78 and May 19.72, or 1 to 2 points net up.

One private estimate was issued during the day making the indicated yield 13,987,000, and ginnings to Dec. 1, 12,300,000 bales and although somewhat smaller than previous opinions had no effect on prices.

Money Worries Keep Speculators Nervous, Causing Trading Slump

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. (US)—Stocks rallied toward the close of a quieter market today, to finish slightly higher on the average. A call money rate of nine per cent throughout kept the speculative community in a highly nervous mood that tended to reduce trading and with the exception of a few specialties, price fluctuations were of little importance.

The Durant interests were credited with responsibility for most of the fireworks as they effected a gain of 11½ points in Nickel and of more than eight points more in Packard. As both are technically cornered there was no fundamental significance to their performance.

Associated Dry Goods gained six points and Chrysler climbed three more coincident with favorable reports concerning the respective companies. Steel shares failed to benefit from another favorable Iron age review while the Rails continued to drop under steady profit taking.

Coppers and Oils turned rather dull with the former showing continued absence of the aggressive support that characterized the group a fortnight ago. Volume dropped near the 4,000,000 share level.

Rally in Afternoon

The afternoon rally came coincident with the report that the Reserve statement tomorrow afternoon would show reduction in loans for the week. Inquiry of a half dozen of the larger brogerage firms did not indicate such a statement, but rather pointed to another increase of about $25,000,000.

The heavier short selling of the last few days had tended to strengthen the technical position somewhat and this helped the recovery, while further stimulus was given by the belief that money rates would ease for the next week. Tomorrow or Friday, the treasury is expected to announce the terms of the offering of new securities to be dated Nov. 15. A more favorable money market is desired while the banks are taking subscriptions for the issue. Thereafter, however, will be experienced the income tax payments and preparations for year end disbursements and a period of several weeks of high money rates are in prospect.

Chrysler Causes Rumors

Chrysler's further runup was accompanied by revival of all the old reports concerning plans to take in other companies and that former General Motors' interests would go on the board.

Those familiar with Chrysler affairs scoff at most of these rumors. They declare it will take months to sound out the expanded organization resulting from the Dodge acquisition and that there is no indication of any change in the directorate.

Chrysler now is finishing its record year and its officials believe that 1929 results will surpass the earnings of this 12 months. General Motors rally was largely the result of covering of professionals. The Durant group continued to try for a following in Hudson.

Radio Advances

Radio's further advance resulted from expectation that the long awaited recapitalization would be decided upon at a directors' meeting Friday. The meeting had been expected with indication that postponed. A split up of the shares on a five for one basis is generally expected with indicationo that earnings are running at a rate to warrant some payment on the new stock before long.

Chicago Pneumatic Tool continued to be quietly absorbed by interests who expect special development of benefit to stockholders in the near future. Stromburg Carburetor increased its dividend as forecast here some time ago.

There was quiet absorption of Missouri Pacific by those who believe it is out of line with other railroad shares.

High Renewal Rate

The renewal rate of nine per cent was the highest in more than eight years. Together with the further tightening of time money, it caused greater fear that there would be an advance in the rediscount rate here before long.

Bankers did not think such actioion was likely for the next fortnight, but would express no opinion beyond that time. They admit that new high levels for call rates are seriously threatened for late this month. In fact there are whispers of certain banking interests having held conferences to decide on ways for combatting the influence of such dearer money.

All manner of explanations are made, but the one big answer to the question of how to return money to "normalacy" is to reduce part of the credit tied up in stock speculation.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 5. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Curtailed receipts of cattle around the 11-market circuit resulted in a moderately active trade on killing classes at prices unevenly steady to 25c higher; packers were bearish towards any material advance on beef steers and yearlings and at Chicago closing values were slightly lower than early; stocker and feeder classes were on a steady basis with the supply light at most all markets; strictly choice 1,330 pound steers in Chicago scored $17.50 while choice yearlings realized $17. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 36,900 as compared with 30,905 last Wednesday which preceeded a holiday and 50,515 the same day a year ago.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Dec. 5. (AP)—Led by corn, all grain underwent material down turns in price today. Prospects of a bigger movement of corn to market, together with persistent reports that Europeans are cancelling purchases of nearby deliveries of corn, had a good deal to do with augmenting pressure to sell on the part of holders throughout the entire list of cereals.

Closing quotations on corn were weak, 1⅝c@2⅛c net lower. Wheat finished ⅝@1⅛c off oats ⅝c@⅝c down and provisions unchanged to a decline of 17c.

Today's receipts of corn in Chicago, 393 cars, were mainly applied on existing contracts, but it was shown that arrivals of corn so far this week at all primary centers have been in excess both of the corresponding time last week and a year ago.

There was also talk that barley prices are now well below the corn basis abroad, whereas a short time ago barley was at a premium of 10c a bushel. Another bearish factor was news that December corn prices this week in Buenos Aires show a decline of 4¼c a bushel. Wheat encountered much selling from the Northwest, especially in the last hour. Reports continued today that Argentine wheat is being offered to Europe at cheaper prices, and there was word also that Australian wheat yields are above expectations. World stocks of wheat showed a decrease of 2,189,000 bushels for the week, but still total 388,524,000 against 286,922,000 bushels a year ago. Relative firmness of the oats market was ascribed to active shipping call and to scantiness of receipts.

Hoover Proposes Conference on Airways

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 5. (US)—There was a real good will reunion between Peru and the United States today as President Leguia of the busy little South American republic acclaimed the Monroe doctrine as the guarantee of peace and progress for South America and President-elect Hoover of the United States offered a comprehensive program to link North and South America by aviation lines—a program close to his heart, he said.

In his address at the presidential palace Mr. Hoover revealed himself anew as a friend of aviation and unfolded a comprehensive program for linking his own country and the nations of Latin-America in an aviation system which would bring them closer together.

Mr. Hoover proposed a conference of Latin-American nations with the United States to draft an international agreement governing air lines. He expressed the hope that such a system of connecting lines could be established within the next year. His proposed agreement would involve mutual concessions by which the airplanes of the various nations could fly over the other countries, with the United States possibly granting limited privileges to fly over the Panama Canal.

Mr. Hoover noted that it now takes 12 days to make the trip from the United States to Lima, while the trip by air could be made in two days.

Replying to the speech of Mr. Hoover, President Leguia, who is often referred to as the "Mussolini of Peru," extended the nation's hearty welcome to the American visitors, acclaimed Mr. Hoover as an "ambassador of peace," and gave warm praise to the Monroe doctrine as the greatest "guarantee of peace and progress for South America."

BILL SLICES BUILDING FUND

Wichita Federal Project Not Affected, Is Belief

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP)—A lump sum appropriation of $23,040,000 for work on public buildings, scarcely more than half of the amount made available for the same purpose in 1929, was carried in the treasury and postoffice appropriation bill which came to the house today from its appropriations committee.

This amount, which would be appropriated as a lump sum for use in carrying forward the construction of any of the 137 projects upon which cost estimates already have been fixed, was tentatively allocated for the continuation of work upon 87 structures and the commencement of work upon one other.

The bill cut the budget recommendation for an increase in the cost at Lubbock, Texas, to $335,000 placing the figure instead at $220,000, providing that the building should be constructed in such a manner that facilities for the federal courts might be added later.

Tentative allocation of the lump sum estimate included: Dallas, Texas, $620,000; Lubbock, Texas, $5,000.

Wichita Falls leaders in the movement to secure a new federal building for this city said Wednesday that they did not think the reduction of lump sum appropriations for public buildings reported from Washington would have any effect on the progress of this city's application. They expressed the belief that the postoffice department's knowledge of the local needs, and the power of the appropriations committee, would assure favorable action at the earliest time possible, considering necessary government routine.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. (AP)—President W. B. Raskob Issues Call For Demo Meeting To Frame Battle Charts For 1932

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. (INS)—Reorganization of the Democratic party with a view of capturing the presidency in 1932 is the purpose of a conference of party leaders to be called by John J. Raskob, national chairman, shortly after the Christmas holidays.

Liquidation of the $1,500,000 debt incurred in the attempt to elect Gov. Alfred E. Smith during the recent campaign and the question of whether Raskob should remain as the titular head of the party will also come up for discussion at the forthcoming conference. Prominent Democrats from all over the country, including Gov. Smith, are expected to attend.

Still Hopeful

"I can see no reason why, with proper organization work, undertaken without unnecessary delay, we should not in the next four years build up an aggressive party organization that can make itself felt in the 1932 presidential election," said Mr. Raskob.

Raskob believes the Republican victory in November was due to the fact that the Democrats did not get going early enough. He said he had not personally examined the figures but that he has been informed that a change of not more than 5 per cent "would have given our national candidates this year a majority of the popular vote." He sees no danger of the Democratic party sinking into oblivion.

Indications are that no insurmountable difficulties will be met in the business of liquidating the Democratic debt. More men of means showed an interest, financially and otherwise, in the 1928 campaign of the Democrats than in previous campaigns. Since election day contributions have been pouring in from individuals all over the country. In all 32,307 individual contributions aggregating $495,000, have been received since Nov. 6.

Organization Planned

Mr. Raskob is determined to submit to Gov. Smith, United States senators, representatives and prominent Democrats from all parts of the country who will assemble at the conference the question raised, particularly in the south, of whether or not he is to continue as national chairman. If he remains as chairman, he will demand support of a plan to immediately start building up the party through an effective organization and a campaign of education of voters that he believes will put the party in much better fighting shape than it was for 1928 election.

The offices of the Democratic nationalcom mittee in the General Motors building will be closed next Saturday. Thereafter, James W. Gerard, director of finance of the Democratic national committee, will transact business from his own office at East Williams street. On Friday Raskob will go to Minnesota with a party of friends that will keep him away until Dec. 18.
