SNYDER TO GREET MOTORCADERS FRIDAY EVENING

Scurryly Speaking---

IF THERE'S anything more entrancing to the great American public than moving, I haven't yet discovered what it is. In Europe, folks live in the same houses and conduct their businesses in the same buildings and follow their plows over the same land century after century; in America, the family that stays in the same location for more than three or four years is considered either an outstanding success or a miserable failure.

Friday and Saturday were moving days for The Snyder News. For more than a week all future time in the office had been referred to in terms of "After we move."

The society editor made it a special mission of hers to pass in front of the prospective location at least once a day to be sure that I wasn't spoofing her about the moving proposition.

The fellow who calls himself my partner traipsed across the square every few hours to take a peek at the wonders the carpenters and the painter were bringing to pass. After each trip he would come back so renewed in spirit and understanding that he had a wisecrack for every office visitor and a smile for every wayfaring maiden.

I, of course, had the moving malady, too. Every day I would make my rounds of the square, look piteously into stores that were not planning to move and giving sympathy to their owners.

THURSDAY, as the last pages of our last paper printed in the old location were running off the press, I would pinch myself occasionally just to be certain that next day's designation as moving time was no pipe dream.

As we left the plant that Thursday evening, I closed the door with a gentle pull, deposited the key in my pocket with a sickening thud, and walked home with a feeling of elation for the great day that was coming and of sorrow for the things I was leaving behind.

Across the street and on either side were the fellows to whom I spoke as a neighbor every day and from whom I was in the habit of asking favors and drinks (soda pop).

But, hard as it was to leave those fellows, I was filled with the great American moving complex the next day. Friendships, business ties, memories—they all faded a bit when Pete Bridgeman and his crew of huskies began loading the linotype the next morning.

ONE OF the profitable features of moving is the discovery of things you never knew you had before. We found a lot of stuff behind tables and desks, in drawers and on shelves, that were about as appropriate in a printing office as umbrellas on the Sahara Desert.

I figured up what the plant would be worth if everything we uncovered over there were bought at its face value.

Adding the joys and triumphs of moving to the stuff we found over there that we had never moved, I estimate that the worth would be at least $2,000.

Add to this the privilege of having such neighbors as we found on the east side of the square, and the total amount would be at least $10,000.

The kind words we have received are worth at least $5,000, making the total $15,000. Add the privilege of hearing Clarence Wenninger's laugh—total $25,000.

On top of this $25,000 goes our equipment, our "covers-Scurry-County-every-week subscription list, and the value of our society editor to the prestige of the paper, and we conclude that we have a $50,000 newspaper.

Moving, you see, stretches my imagination a few dollars. Before I write so glowingly of moving that The News will be seeking another location before long, I'd better close down and write a few paragraphs about the All-Texas motorcade.

Water Consumption Sets New Mark Here

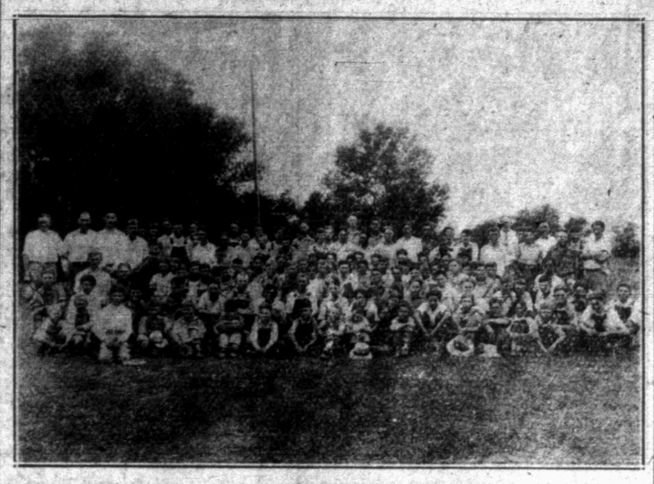

More water was used in Snyder during the month ending July 20 than during any previous month in the history of the city, according to the records of Water Superintendent Burn Baze.

Thirty million gallons is the approximate figure for the month.

Of this amount, 2,224,000 gallons were used by the Santa Fe railroad, principally for watering the hundreds of wheat laden trains that have come off the Plains area for the past month.

Extremely hot days during July have meant incessant watering of lawns and gardens, which have also used much of the city supply. The lawn and garden rate is lower than the regular rate.

Scurry County Club Boys in Camp

These 4-H club boys of Scurry County attended one of the biggest camps ever held in this section two weeks ago. Under the leadership of County Agent W. O. Logan, they held forth down at Wolf Park—more than 125 of them. Just in case you are not acquainted with the work these youngsters are doing, let's have a look at some features of the plan they follow. Three of these young men, by the way, compose a stock judging team that accompanied the county agent to A. & M. Saturday night. They are: S. D. Hays of Snyder, Martin Murphy of Dunn, and J. T. Beavers of Fluvanna.

THE 4-H CLUB BOY'S PLEDGE

I pledge: "My head to clearer thinking, my hands to greater service, my heart to truer loyalty and finer sympathy, my health to efficient living in service to my home, my community, my county and my God."

THE 4-H CLUB BOY'S MOTTO

"To make the best better."

WORK STARTS ON PRIZE LIST

All copy for the Scurry County Fair premium list is being placed in the hands of The Snyder News for printing and binding this week-end and next week. The booklet on which the list is printed will be about 60 pages in thickness and will follow the general specifications of the list.

Prizes for women's, girls' and boy club work, for individual exhibits of farm products, livestock and poultry and many others will be awarded. Secretary J. W. Scott of the Chamber of Commerce, who has charge of the booklet, states that prizes this year for the fair that is to be held September 26, 27 and 28, are more representative than ever, and he is expecting unusually large exhibits in all departments. Complete cooperation of County Agent W. O. Logan and Home Demonstration Agent Jessie Lee Davis has assisted materially in preparation of the prize lists.

Thousands of tickets to the fair will be given away by Snyder merchants with cash purchases and with money paid on accounts.

Another feature that is expected to draw hundreds of people from all parts of this country will be the giving away of a Jersey heifer each day of the fair to holders of lucky tickets who are on the ground when the drawings are made.

Council to Consider Numbering Project

Snyder's house numbering street marking plan will be the chief matter before the city council when it meets in regular monthly session Monday night, according to Mayor H. G. Towle.

A representative of the Lubbock concern which made the survey recently will be present, ready to submit specifications for street signs and house markers. Order for these items will probably be placed in a short time.

Other matters to come before the council will be of a routine nature.

Great Flood Relived On Palace's Screen

One of the most interesting scenes ever filmed is the great flood which sweeps away the Temple of Jaghut in Warner Bros.' Vitaphone talking picture, "Noah's Ark," which comes to the Palace Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, matinee and night.

Over 14,000 tons of water were used to make this scene realistic. Great tanks of concrete were erected in the hills above the studio and, at a flash from Director Curtiz, the flood gates were opened.

First the water began to trickle down, then it grew in volume, the awful power of an actual flood rain descended on the lot, and soon was sweeping across the land and carrying everything before it.

This is but one of the impressive scenes that Warner Bros. have incorporated in "Noah's Ark."

The management of the Palace Theatre extends a special invitation to their friends and patrons to attend this showing. "Noah's Ark" is said by many to be the greatest motion picture ever filmed.

LEAGUE MEET HERE SUCCESS

Clarence Walton, Snyder Epworth League President

The Sweetwater District Epworth League meet at the Snyder Methodist church the past week-end brought more than 100 young people to enjoy the program and social of the opening night of the two-day meeting.

Out-of-town delegates began to arrive about 5:30, and by the time registration closed at 8 o'clock, there was a very enthusiastic crowd of young people assembled making new friends and enjoying the association of old friends.

The song service which featured the opening of the Saturday night session was led by Rev. Sollie E. McCreless of San Antonio. Everyone sang heartily and enthusiastically. After the opening song service, Mrs. Frank L. Williams of Roscoe, the district pep leader, took charge and led the group in a 10-minute pep session. Fred Yoder of Snyder made a short address in which he gave the visiting Leaguers a most hearty welcome. The response was made by Pink Robertson, president of the Epworth League at Stanton. J. H. Agee of Abilene made the opening address, speaking on the verse of Scripture found in I Samuel 27:10, "Whither have ye made a road today?" His subject was "Roads," and he made a very interesting as well as an instructive talk.

Mrs. Agee Takes Charge

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. J. H. Agee, the conference recreation and culture leader, who

GUARDS LEAVE FOR PALACIOS

A half hundred or more members of the local National Guard company will board the eastbound Santa Fe special at 2:50 Saturday afternoon for Palacios-on-the-sea, where they will entrain for the yearly two-week Texas camp.

With Company Commander John E. Sentell at the helm, the uniformed group will reach Palacios some time Sunday, and remain in camp until August 18. When O. Moore is first lieutenant and Tim Cook is "second lottie."

The commander and his helpers have been busy this week arranging details of the Saturday get-away. All the company members are planning the greatest trip in the history of the guard, from training, educational and entertainment standpoints.

McMurry President Will Preach Here

Dr. J. W. Hunt, president of McMurry College, Abilene, and former pastor of the Snyder Methodist church, will conduct the 11 o'clock morning services at the Methodist church Sunday.

Everyone is given a cordial invitation to attend. Dr. Hunt will be glad to see his old-time friends.

Just Before They Left for A. & M.

Here are all members of Scurry County girls' and women's clubs, with one exception, who made the trip to the Farmers Short Course, College Station, Saturday night. This picture was snapped by the Miles Studio a few hours before train time. The course lasts from Monday through Friday. Mrs. J. R. Truss, Fluvanna, winner in the women's butter judging contest, was not present. Miss Jessie Lee Davis, county home demonstration agent, accompanied the group to College Station.

FIRST CONCERT GIVEN BY BAND

A large crowd and big ovations greeted the Snyder Band on its first public appearance Monday evening at a sundown concert. A half dozen selections, played from the bandstand on the courthouse lawn, were well rendered in spite of the unavoidable absence of several players.

J. W. Crowley, the new director, who has been conducting bi-weekly practices for several weeks, proved to Scurry County people that the enviable reputation he achieveded as director of the Lubbock Band for five years is deserved. With a group of more than 20 players who had, in many cases, had no previous experience with instruments, he has already formed a worth-while organization.

A feature of the band is that players come from several communities surrounding Snyder as well as from the city itself. Thus it is really a Scurry County band, and farmers are especialy extended invtations to enjoy its concerts.

Mr. Crowley plans to hold monthly concerts, probably on the last Monday in each month, as well as directing at community functions.

The band appears this Friday evening as a welcome to the Dal-Paso motorcade, which will arrive here between six and seven o'clock.

Four of Mr. Crowley's former Lubbock band members were present at the Monday evening concert. Three of them Hall Hilton, U. V. Blake, and Walter Dickinson, made the trip especially to hear their former director's first Snyder concert, while Sidney Randals is visiting in the Dick Randals home.

Shull's Variety Will Move During Month

Carpenters and other workmen are at work this week repairing the old H. G. Towle stand on the west side of the square preparatory to its occupation by Clyde Shull's variety store. The entire front of the building is being remodeled, and inside fixtures necessary for an up-to-date variety store are being built.

In the meantime, Mr. Shull is conducting a removal sale at his present location, on the northeast corner of the square. He plans to install one of the most complete variety stocks in West Texas in the new location, to be occupied this month.

UNION CHURCH ENDS REVIVAL

One of the greatest revivals ever held in the Union Chapel community closed Sunday evening at the Baptist church. With Rev. William C. Ashford of Colorado doing the preaching, many souls were revived and a number were saved.

Assisting the Colorado evangelist was Rev. T. L. Nipp, pastor of the church. Putting his very life and soul into the work, the visiting preacher and his co-workers attracted large crowds to morning and evening services. The church building was overflowing at practically every service.

Song worship took up a large part of the time at all services, and this proved another source of inspiration to the large crowds.

Each evening at 7:45 vesper services were held. The men met in one group, the women in another, and the young people and the juniors in other groups.

Eighty-four persons were converted and brought into the church by letter during the meeting. Of the number that professed Christ, 44 followed Him in baptism. In all there were about 54 additions to the church.

The community voted its thanks to all who helped during the revival.

New Dining Room Opens Here Sunday

The Woodrow Hotel dining room, which once was frequent hostess to Snyder's elite, threw open her doors again Sunday and disclosed to diners that she had lost none, if any, of her original charm.

Opening of the dining room proved, too, that Mrs. Pearl Ingram, who now has charge of the hotel, cooks as good as she once did when the dining room was in her charge.

A special chicken dinner, with all the trimmings, greeted the crowd of Sunday diners.

Moffett and Noble Ready for Business

Opening of a cleaning and pressing parlor and a men's furnishings store by B. H. Moffett and Charley Noble, on the east side of the square, was made last week-end. The new business occupies the building with The Snyder News, formerly used by the C. S. Casstevens tin ship.

Mr. Noble, who has been connected with the men's furnishings department of Bryant-Link for several years, and is known throughout the county as an authority on men's wear. Mr. Moffett, who has been conducting a cleaning and pressing parlor just east of the square, is also well known in this section, and is capable of handling all kinds of cleaning and pressing with the Valetor and other equipment.

Mr. Noble has been in Dallas purchasing a supply of men's wear for late summer and fall. The cleaning and pressing department of the new store opened last week-end, and announcement concerning opening of the men's furnishings department will be made in a few days.

Miss Edith Grantham returned on Monday morning from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Howard at Chicago, Ill.

Cars! Cars! Cars! Cars!

A committee of loyal men and women has been working for several days to make Scurry County's reception of the All-Texas motorcade one of our greatest hospitality triumphs.

The most helpful assistance that the average man or woman can render is to send his or her car, whether it has one or a dozen passengers.

The committee has found a liberal response to its requests for cars to meet the tourists at east county line between six and seven o'clock this Friday evening. It remains only for the promisers to see that not a single car falls down on the job.

If, when the Dal-Paso highwayists bid adieu to their escorts at the Borden County line Saturday morning, they say to themselves, "Scurry County has given us the warmest reception we have struck all the way from Marshall, Snyder will be remembered as long as the tour is remembered; longer, perhaps, for some in that group may be looking for just such a progressive country as this in which to make their permanent home.

Have you told one of the committeemen that YOUR car will be in that welcoming group of 100 cars? When you have done that, then listen for Watt Scott's announcement of the leaving time shortly after 6 o'clock.

P. S.—Farmers and their families are extended a double invitation to personal invitation, but Snyder wants them to be there in full force.

PROGRAM FOR TOUR PLANNED

One Hundred Cars Expected to Meet Tourists at North Line of County in Evening

A hundred Scurry County cars are expected to meet the All-Texas Tour, sponsored by the Dal-Paso Caverns Highway Association, when it crosses the Fisher County line between six and seven o'clock this Friday evening. The car committee has been given hearty cooperation and every hand, and indications are that the welcoming delegation from Snyder will outstrip escorters at all other county lines along the route.

The exact time at which the local group will leave for the Fisher County line will be determined by a telegram sent from Breckenridge by Secretary William A. Wilson of the Association about noon. Announcement of the time will be made to the business houses, and individuals may call the Chamber of Commerce office.

Program From Bandstand

Snyder's entertainment of the motorcaders, who will spend the night here, will be short but appropriate.

District Judge Fritz R. Smith will deliver an address of welcome from the bandstand immediately after the tourists and their escorts reach the square. After that the Snyder Band, under direction of J. W. Crowley, will play several numbers. A program at Wolf Park, as announced last week, will be impossible owing to the revival meeting in progress there.

Saturday morning, after the travelers have been Snyder guests for a night, the escorting group will accompany them to the Borden County line.

Thousands of letters and hundreds of pages of publicity matter have advertised this tour, which will pass over Highway No. 83 in Scurry County, as probably the largest motorcade in the state this year. Three thousand letters were sent to state and other officials alone, and several prominent Texas men and women are expected to be among the group.

Secretary Wilson Leads

William A. Wilson, secretary of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce as well as of the Association, will be the guiding light along the way. He has made personal arrangements for reception of the motorcade at every town of any size along the entire route from Marshall to El Paso.

The outstanding purpose of the tour, as it was last year, is to bring Texas to the realization that the traveled route splits through the very heart of the state and offers a quicker, more economical route to Carlsbad Caverns and El Paso.

O. P. Thrane, Snyder banker, as president of the association sponsoring the tour, has been behind every move to forward the motorcade, and

GREETINGS FROM THE ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT

One of my greatest pleasures, as president of the Dal-Paso Caverns Highway Association, is the welcoming of the 1929 All-Texas motorcade. In size, in enthusiasm, in state-wide recognition the tour this year gives promise of proving the most successful undertaking of its kind ever held in Texas.

Snyder, with her Western handshake, welcomes you motorcaders in the same progressive and hospitable spirit that has prompted her to boost in every way possible for a through route from Marshall to the Caverns. May your brief stay in our city be enjoyable and profitable, and may the entire tour awaken Texas to the advantages of the Dal-Paso Caverns route, is the sincere wish of

Radio and Tire Shop Opened on Square

J. C. Dawson and Ollie Bruton this week announce the opening of the Dixie Radio & Tire Shop on the southeast corner of the square. Remodeling of the space they occupy has been completed, and they are now open for business with a full line of Majestic Radios, Federal Tires, and other supplies for the motorist and radio lover.

Mr. Bruton is manager of the new shop. Backed by years of experience with radios and automobiles, he is ready to render radio repair service and auto tire service at all times. Both owners have for several years been operators of the Dixie Service Station, one block south of the new shop. They will continue their interests in that business.

DR. L. E. TRIGG DIES ON COAST

Funeral services for Dr. L. E. Trigg, Snyder physician who died in a Culver City, Calif., hospital Sunday, were held here Thursday afternoon from the Odom Funeral home. Interment was in the Snyder Cemetery. Rev. E. C. Lambert conducted the services.

Had Dr. Trigg lived two days longer he could have celebrated his forty-first birthday. He was born at Paibright, Texas, July 31, 1888, son of John and Elizabeth Trigg. Following graduation from the medical department of Fort Worth University in 1908 at the aeg of 21, he located at Dunn, later going to Hermleigh, then moving to Snyder in 1918, where he has enjoyed a lucrative practice.

Dr. Trigg was a Mason and prominently identified with local and state associations.

The family had intended starting home Thursday of this week, but complications in Dr. Trigg's condition made a hasty operation necessary.

Land Purchased for Lime Test in County

Opening of a cement-lime works in Scurry County will be made when tests which are now being sunk determine depth of the lime strata. The kiln will be operated by a Dallas concern. J. T. Bulmer, representing the company, has just purchased a half section of land from John Jones, near the cap rock north of Fluvanna, for location of the new industry.

It is said that the strip of land is rich in lime and useable rock.

"Garden Frocks" Which Mother Wore Are Back in Style Among the Stylish

BY HARRIET

MIDSUMMER brings back the old-time "garden frocks."

Milady doesn't really need a garden nor even garden parties to wear garden frocks. But it was the ceremonial of the quaint functions called garden parties that created the demand for these frilly, feminine, soft-looking and very cool little dresses that have been sadly missing in late years.

Now they reappear.

Recently, at the Ascot races and the garden parties at Ascot, there were more dressy little frocks than sports costumes. In fact, if women did not appear in this type of costume they felt quite out of it.

In America at beaches, country clubs, home parties and for afternoon wear when women feel like dressing up prettily, one or two frilly little dresses are indispensible.

Organdie is very good, printed chiffon is even more popular, printed taffeta, lace, georgette, batiste and handkerchief linen with organdie frills all are in use.

Waistlines are very prominent, since these are feminine costumes and the very feminine figure today acknowledges waistlines. Soft collar treatment, many full skirts, with flounces, pleats or dipping panels are quite necessary.

One very smart costume that is new and different is made of off-white taffeta with a figure of a bunch of blue and white flowers in it. It is new in several ways. There is a little bolero jacket of the taffeta with long sleeves that flare with a circular flounce for cuffs. This is posed over a sleeveless princess frock, with a pouf in the back like an old-time bustle. From under the pouf there is a flaring, floating panel below the hemline.

Lace is very good. One new pale orchid lace dress is very, very princess in cut, with flaring skirt below the tightly fitted waistline and hips.

When organdie is used, all manner of old-time trimmings are brought into play, too. Ruchings are one of the very best bets. A flesh colored organdie frock, with three tiers to its skirt that dips both on the sides and in the back, has ruchings edging its tiers, its sleeveless armholes and its modest rounded neck. Long gloves are worn with it, quite in the manner of 20 years ago. It is consoling, however, to note that quite as many short gloves are worn with sleeveless frocks as long ones.

When garden frocks are made of figured chiffon, it is very good to have the print colorful and light looking, but on a dark background. Navy blue, black, brown and even soft dark green make good backgrounds. A stunning Ascot garden party frock has huge pale green and beige flowers on a bottle green background. The squarish long scarf that looks like a shawl is bordered in plain green. A parasol of black lace is used with this frock.

For young girls these party dresses are best made of washable materials. Voiles, dotted swiss, dimities and any other old-fashioned fabric is excellent. There is a trend towards Empire line for young girls, with berthas and puff short sleeves and then longish skirts with many ruffles. And, strange as it may seem, leghorn hats are in again, as they were when mother was young. And in precisely the same manner it is "tres chic" to have a rose under the brim.

Rosser Sisters Are Presented in N. Y.

The following article appeared in "The New Yorker," concerning the programs featured at the Play House Theatre and the Craig Theatre in New York City last week.

"The Albatina Rasch ensembles were cleverly presented, breaking away from the regular routine and employed 30 girls.

"Senor Juan de Beaucaire scored another triumph in the Spanish and ballet work, presented in teams by the Martinez Twins and the Rosser Sisters.

"The color sets enchanted the skillfully arranged routines, which showed the technique, grace and artistry of the dancers."

The Rosser Sisters are none other than Misses Elaine and Marilu Rosser of Snyder, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rosser.

The young ladies left Snyder for New York on the first of April and have been studying music, dramatics and dancing this summer. Both are well-known in Snyder, Miss Elaine having taught expression classes in the Snyder schools for several years and Miss Marilu having many piano pupils in Snyder.

The Rosser Sisters will return to Snyder perhaps in September, but have not made definite plans as to what they are going to do this fall.

Wilsford Tea Room Has New Operators

Purchase of the Wilsford Tea Room by Miss Dulce Ewing Jones, formerly of Paris, was announced Thursday. The eating place will be operated at the same location, one block south of the public square, Miss Jones having already taken charge. It will be known as Dulce's Tea Room. Regular meals are served three times daily, and Miss Jones invites her friends to patronize her new enterprise.

Miss Jones resided in Snyder several years ago, and has many friends here. She was formerly editor of the Blossom Bee.

BILL HUTCHERSON WINS

Bill Hutcherson won the kodak given to the person guessing the nearest the time a clock on display in Warren Brothers drug store would stop. The clock ran 10 and one-half days, Bill missing the stopping time only 17 seconds. R. L. Gray was within a second of Bill's guess. The drug store presented the kodak Wednesday.

Miss Maggie Norred returned Friday from a vacation trip to San Antonio.

'Inside' Information

In making bloomer dresses for the children it is a good plan to make two pairs of bloomers as they are likely to wear out before the dress does.

Lyonnaise potatoes are cold boiled potatoes, diced and browned in fat with chopped onion and served with parsely sprinkled over the top. They make a tasty variation of plain fried potatoes.

When lamb or mutton fat is used in making cream gravy, both the texture and the flavor of the gravy are better if the flour used is browned lightly in the hat fat before the liquid is added.

Waxing or varnishing improves the appearance of linoleum and makes it last longer. Use wax on the inlaid kinds and varnish on the printed ones, for wax sometimes tends to soften the printed surface.

Coffee stains not more than a few hours old on washable fabrics can be removed by pouring boiling water on the stain from a height of two or three feet. Stretch the stained part of the fabric over a large bowl.

The addiion of capers, or the liquid in which they have been bottled, chopped pickle, lemon juice, tomatoes, or current jelly to lamb or mutton gravy is suggested as a change and improvement in flavor.

Rules for Resuscitation as Approved by Red Cross Printed

Detailed Explanation of Methods for Bringing Unconscious Persons to Life Given

The following rules are taken from a booklet containing methods approved by the American Red Cross, the United States Army, and many other national organizations and public utilities companies. In view of the constant summer deaths from drowning and the all-year accidnts through gas poisoning and electric shock, this set of rules is presented.

The Prone Pressure Method of Artificial Respiration

Follow these instructions even if the patient appears dead.

As soon as possible feel with your fingers in the patient's mouth and throat and remove any foreign body —tobacco, false teeth, etc. If the month is tight shut, pay no more attention to it until later. Do not stop to loosen the patient's clothing, but immediately begin actual resuscitation. Every moment of delay is serious. Proceed as follows:

(1) Lay the patient on his belly, one arm extended directly overhead, the other arm bent at elbow and with the face turned outward and resting on hand or forearm, so that the nose and mouth are free for breathing.

(2) Kneel, straddling the patient's thighs, with your knees placed at such a distance from the hip bones as will allow you to handle the body properly.

Place the palms of the hands on the small of the back with fingers resting on the ribs, the little finger just touching the lowest rib, with the thumb and fngers in a natural position, and the tips of the fingers just out of sight.

(3) With arms held straight, swing forward slowly so that the weight of your body is gradually brought to bear upon the patient. The shoulder should be directly over the heel of the hand at the end of the forward swing. Do not bend your elbows. This operation should take about two seconds.

(4) Now immediately swing backward so as to completely remove the pressure.

(5) After two seconds, swing forward again. Thus repeat deliberately 12 to 15 times a minute the double movement of compression and release, a complete respiration in four or five seconds.

(6) Continue artificial respiration without interruption until natural breathing is restored, if necessary, four hours or longer, or until a physician declares the patient is dead.

(7) As soon as this artificial respiration has been started and while it is being continued, an assistant should loosen any tight clothing about the patient's neck, chest or waist. Keep the patient warm. Do not give any fluids whatever by the mouth until the patient is fully conscious.

(8) To avoid strain on the heart when the patient revives, he should be kept lying down and not allowed to stand or sit up. If the doctor has not arrived by the time the patient has revived, he should be given some stimulant, such as one teaspoonful of aromatic spirits of ammonia in a small glass of water, or a hot drink of coffee or tea, etc. The patient should be kept warm.

(9) Resuscitation should be carried on at the nearest possible point to where the patent receives his injuries. He should not be moved from this point until he is breathing normally of his own volition and then moved only in a lying position. Should it be necessary, due to extreme weather conditions, etc., to move the patient before he is breathing normally, resuscitation should be carried on during the time that he is being moved.

(10) A brief return of natural respiration is not a certain indication for stopping the resuscitation. Not infrequently the patient, after a temporary recovery by respiration, stops breathing again. The patient must be watched, and if natural breathing stops, artificial respiration should be resumed at once.

(11) In carrying out resuscitation it may be necessary to change the operator. This change must be made without losing the rhythm of respiration. By this procedure no confusion results at the time of change of operator and a regular rhythm is kept up.

General Points to Be Observed in All Cases Requiring Resuscitation

1. Take Care of the Patient

An unconscious person becomes cold very rapidly, and chilling means a further strain on a vitality already weakened. Experience has shown that the cold to which the victims of gassing, electric shock, or drowning are often carelessly exposed is probably the most important cause of pneumonia, and this disease is a most dangerous after-effect of all these accidents. As far as possible keep the patient covered while artificial respiration is being given. Use hot pads, hot water bottles, or bricks, but remember that an unconscious man has no way of telling you when he is being burned.

If it should be necessary to move the patient, keep him lying down and do not permit him to exert himself.

2. Medicines and Medical Help

Never give an unconscious man anything to drink. It may choke him. Medical science knows no drug which of itself will start the breathing in a patient whose breathing has ceased.

Continue artificial respiration for at least four hours in all cases. Breathing has returned after eight hours in a case of electric shock, but in such instances the patient will give some evidence of recovery which will cause continued effort on the part of his rescuers. Medical men have sometimes been mistaken in declaring patients dead, and employees of public utility companies have succeeded with resuscitation after such declarations. Therefore, the ordinary and general tests for death should not be accepted, and any doctor should make several very careful and final examinations and be sure specific evidence is present before pronouncing the patient dead.

Gas Poisoning and the Inhalation Treatment

What Carbon Monoxide Means

The reason that automobile exhaust gas, the gases from coal heating furnaces, the smoke from fire, producer gas, coke oven gas, blast furnace gas, carburetted water gas, coal gas and other manufactured gases are poisonous if actually breathed is that they all contain carbon monoxide.

When carbon monoxide is breathed it combines with the blood. The more carbon monoxide there is in the blood, the less oxygen the blood will hold.

The gas victim becomes asphyxiated just as if he were being gradually choked to death. As low as one-tenth of one per cent of carbon monoxide or even less, in the air will kill a man in time; one per cent will kill in a few minutes.

If the patient does not die in gas but is removed to fresh air, the carbon monoxide leaves the blood in a few hours. The quicker it is breathed out of the blood, the better are the chances of recovery. If the asphyxiation has not been too long or severe, and the first aid treatment has been prompt and correct, the patient will recover completely.

Protect Yourself

Do not breathe gas yourself even for a short time. If it does not overcome you, it will cut down your strength. If you have to go into gas to get a man out, remember that nobody is immune. Protect yourself.

A handkerchief tied about the nose and mouth is not a gas-mask; many have died in the belief that it is. It does not stop carbon monoxide; it simply filters off the irrtating fumes in smoke, but carbon monoxide itself does not irritate the throat and has no smell. It gives no warning. It often palalyzes the legs first, and so suddenly that the man even though conscious may fall down, and can not walk or crawl.

If you must go into gas or smoke, wear a mask and air hose, or an oxygen breathing appartus.

Get the Man Out of Gas

When a man is overcome by gas, the first thing to do is to get him into fresh air quickly. Fresh air does not mean out of doors in cold weather. Many men have walked from a warm room containing gas to collapse in the cold outside air. Take the patient to a room free from gas and comfortably warm. Be quick, but do not be unnecessarily rough. Remember you are dealing with a human being.

If the patient is not breathing or is breathing weakly, start artificial respiration at once and send for inhalation apparatus.

Electric Shock

Breaking the Contact

The victim must be freed from the contact as promptly as possible. Use a dry stick, dry rope, dry coat, or other non-conductor. Use of your own hands without protection is dangerous and may add another victim to the accident.

Action of the Electric Current

In electric shock the current may pass through the breathing center at the base of the brain and cause this center to stop sending out the nervous impulses which act upon the muscles responsible for breathing. As a consequence, breathing stops abruptly. If the shock has not been severe, after a time the breathing center recovers and resumes the vitally necessary duty of sending impulses to the muscles of breathing. In such cases the immediate use of the prone pressure method substitutes this artificial breathing for the natural respiration of the patient. As has been pointed out, the current may so paralyze the breathing center as to require eight hours for recovery, and the prone method must be used unceasingly through this entire time. If, during prolonged artificial respiration, the body can be placed on a door or other flat surface, so that the head and chest are six or eight inches lower than the feet, the flow of blood to the heart is promoted and a better chance given for recovery.

Victims of electric shock of this sort are unconscious, but in time the heart and blood circulation continue. Their treatment demands artificial respiration with the greatest possible promptness. The method for giving this and the general measures for the care of such patients have been given.

If the electric current affects the heart it produces a condition called bibrillation, in which the heart resembles a bag of quivering jelly instead of the regular pumping organ which maintains life. Under these circumstances the heart suddenly ceases to pump blood. Many cases of electric shock escape this heart effect, and even an experienced examiner requires time to assure himself it has occurred. Consequently it is the duty of those first reaching the shocked person to give artificial respiration by the prone method at once and to allow time and medical examination to determine whether the heart has stopped.

Drowning

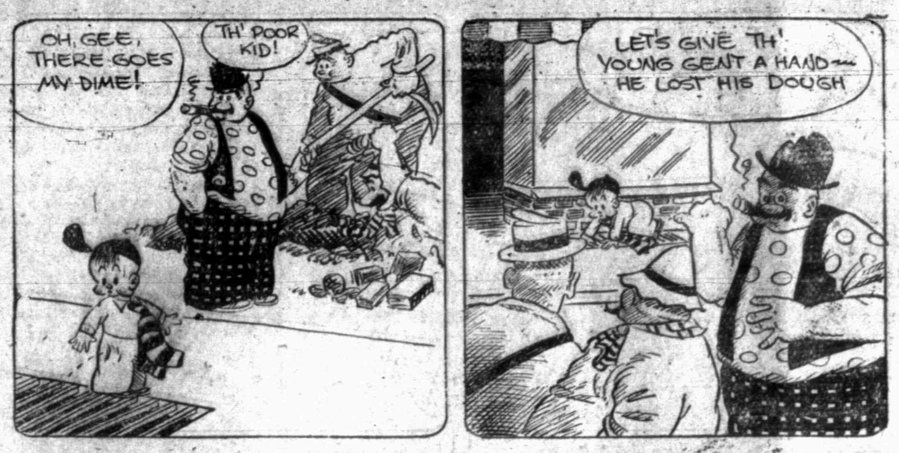

A case of drowning favorable for resuscitation is very similar to a case of electric shock. Breathing has ceased, but the heart beat and the circulation of blood continue.

Raise the patient twice, holding to the waist, as he lies face down. This will empty the water out of the windpipe and the larger tubes leading to the lungs. Spend little time upon this effort. Start artificial respiration at once. If, during artificial respiration, the body can be placed on a door or other flat surface, so that the head and chest are six eight inches lower than the feet, water will continue to drain from the air passages.

Pay particular attention to maintaining warmth. The wet body chills rapidly.

MAC MAKING IT RIGHT WITH THE BOYS By Irving

Rendered unconscious in an automobile accident, Guy Blair, above, of Beloit, Wis., was unconscious for more than 400 hours in a Beloit hospital. His skull was fractured in the accident. Only once, and then only for a brief "Good morning" to his parents, did he show signs of regaining his faculties during this period.

$30,000 Comes From Produce at Loraine

From Loraine Leader

Chickens and eggs and turkeys brought farmers in the Loraine country approximately $30,000 for the past 12 months and will go as well or better for the year to come, according to the local produce men. The Leader newsgatherer had heard Loraine and the Loraine country spoken of with respect by the Colorado business people and by informed people everywhere in this part of Texas. He therefore went forth to get the source of the prosperity that makes for this esteem.

The Western Produce Company of Loraine, A. T. Broadwell, manager, referred to the fact that they had shipped last season some 1,500 turkeys from Loraine which gave the farmers about $5,000 in cash for the turkey marketing season. The Henry Foy Produce House gave about similar figures, and Mr. Foy said that not less than $10,000 was paid to farmers at Loraine last season for turkeys.

"Chickens and eggs brought them twice that sum," continued Mr. Foy. "I am quite sure that $20,000 per year to the farmers is not overstating the facts."

Therefore, chickens, turkeys and eggs accounted for $30,000 of the prosperity that is so noticeable to observers in the Loraine country.

Sweetwater to Hold Air Carnival When Airport Is Opened

Thrilling airplane races and stunts in which 100 or more planes will compete for $1,500 in prizes, are included in the program of events at the International Opening of the 260 acre Sweetwater Airport on Saturday and Sunday, August 10 and 11, and will include nationally famous civilian, U. S. army and Mexican government fliers.

Saturday's program, it was announced by General Chairman E. T. Neeast, will include the dedication exercises participated in by Mayor C. W. Bryant, Sweetwater; Palmer Leeper, president, Sweetwater Board of City Development; Erle P. Halliburton, president Southwest Air Fast Express, Inc., Tulsa; Sr. Lauro Izzaguierre, consul of Mexico; and Robert J. Smith, general traffic manager, Texas Aid Transport, Inc., of Fort Worth.

Events for that day include a dead stick landing contest for $150 in prizes; a race for planes with motors of 550 cubic inches displacement or less for $200 in prizes; a free-for-all race for all planes for $200 in prizes. Army planes will compete in the latest and fastest pursuit planes in a race for tin trophies, as well as a balloon bursting contest and bombing contest.

All the latest type passenger, commercial and pursuit planes will be on display on the ground for the two-day opening—direct from the manufacturers to Sweetwater.

The Sunday program will include two events by army planes—two seater planes in a 30 mile race and formation flying and maneuvers. This will be followed by two races for prizes totaling $200 each, one for planes powered with 550 cubicinch displacement motors and the other for the larger 550 to 800 cubic inch displacement motors. An exciting balloon bursting contest for civilians will follow with $100 in prizes. The grand finale race will be a "free-for-all" and will likely include some of the fastest planes in the country.

Already word has been received that winners of some of the transcontinental races of last year, and winners of races at the airport openings throughout Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Louisiana, Arkansas, California and other sections will offer some of the best exhibitions of skill and speed ever offered in the southwest.

Plans are being made for a record crowd to attend the opening from all parts of the country, according to Monte E. Owen, secretary of the Sweetwater Board of City Development, which organization is sponsoring the opening of this 260 acre field with its 118 by 100 foot hangar, an office building anda $20,000 restaurant and fountain—all serviced with light, water, gas, telephone and telegraph.

Men's Bible Class

First Baptist Church

Our lesson for next Sunday is a very interesting one, and is found in the second chapter of the book of Daniel. It is the interpretation of Nebuchednezzar's dream concerning the metallic image as revealed to Daniel by the God of heaven. The image was in the form of a man, great and terrible, with head of gold, shoulders and arms of silver, body of brass, legs of iron, feet and toes part of iron and part of clay. A stone cut out without hands smote the image on the feet and destroyed it, and then became a great mountain and filled all the earth. What does this all mean?

Come next Sunday and let's learn from the inspired book what it means.

Visitors invited, and will be given a hearty welcome.

C. C. Carr, Teacher of Class.

"Why did he wear a business suit when he called on you the last night?"

"He meant business."

PLANS HOP OVER PACIFIC OCEAN

When Lieutenant Harold Bromley, above, hops off from Tacoma, Wash., he will head his specially built Lockheed-Vega plane westward with Tokio, Japan, 4780 miles away, as his destination. Bromley will fly alone and hopes to make the trip in 35 hours, necessitating a speed averaging near 150 miles an hour. He is pictured here wearing a non-sinkable "kapok" flying suit.

Railroads Will Give Special Crop Rates

Special rates for the benefit of cotton farmers transporting pickers have been put into effect between all Texas points by the railroads, according to word received in Dallas Sunday.

Rates of two-thirds of the one-way fare will be in effect until August 31 for groups of 25 or more traveling on one ticket.

"How did you come to beat your wife?"

"Quite by accident. She usually beats me."

"How do you hide the letters that girl sends you so that your wife does not see them?"

"I put them in her darning basket."

$1.14 Per Day Cost of Keeping Every U. S. Car Running

An average of $293 was spent by each motorist in the United States during 1928 in the operation and maintenance of his car, according to figures compiled by the American Motorists' Association. Of this sum $101, or 34 per cent, was expended for fuel and lubricants, this being the largest item in the motorist's annual operation and maintenance bill.

The $293 figure does not take into account depreciation. The average life of a passenger automobile, according to computation of the federal government, is nearly seven years. During 1928, the average retail price of passenger cars in the united States was $875, which, based on a seven-year life expectancy, would mean an average depreciation of $125 per year.

From this figure, plus the average upkeep cost of $293, it will be seen that the general average cost of operation, plus depreciation, was $418 per year, or approximately $1.14 per day. The comparable figure for 1927, show that the average cost of operation, plus depreciation, was $365 for that year, or $1 per day.

The second largest item on the motorist's maintenance bill is for labor incident to repair work, the motorist expending in 1928 for this item an average of $82. His replacement parts cost him $55, while his average tire bill during the year was $34. An average of $21 was expended for accessories, which with the $101 spent for gasoline and oil, make up the total of $293 as the average cost of maintenance for each motor vehicle for 1928.

Comparing the cost of operation in 1928 and 1927, the association's figures show that last year the cost was 28 per cent more than during 1927, when the average operation cost was $229. Compartive figures between the two years, however, it was pointed out by J. Borton Weeks, president of the association, do not indicate that operation costs are necessarily increasing, the difference being explained primarily by the fact that with better highways available each year the average motorist uses his automobile proportionately more.

Snyder, Friday, August 2, 1929

The Weekly Dozen.

Put your shoulder to the wheel and help the band carry a tune.

One motorcade in Scurry is worth two dozen in Mitchell County.

Mosquitoes are like the first of the month; they have big bills.

August is the month of clearance sales, vacation wails, and fishermen's tales.

"He's some Byrd," said the Eskimo, as he spat tallow juice all over the fusilage.

Not a man in Scurry County should use his right to strike his wife. A left is just as good.

Do you have a little motorcade in your plan? Let's all go out this Friday evening and find a big one, then.

Eloise wants to know: Why not call it "The Weakly Twelve"? Now, Eloise, I told you not to buy those cold storage eggs.

That fellow who tried to raise a bale of cotton on every acre he owned last year is now tring to raise the mortgage on his place.

The man who has written a dozen patent medicine testimonials wants to know why Kellogg doesn't try Haliburton's Herb and Honey Healer instead of peace for the ills of the old world.

Read what an Idaho editor penned: "Ed Herndon, manager of the Lyric picture show, was severely burned last Monday when he accidentally took hold of a hot wife in the operating room. It seems that something went wrong with things in the booth and Ed tried to fix it up." Evidently, there is not an "r" in Idaho.

An authority who advocates that men wear looser clothing writes: "It may seem that a warning in behalf of comfort is like a voice in the wilderness. But you never can tell. Recall what happened to red flannels." What happened, Sir? We asked the girl friend and she said: "I never let such things get next to me. It's the little things that count."

You Can't Beat the Band.

What is the first thing that comes to the average West Texan's mind when Simmons University is mentioned?

Is it President Sandefer, with his conquering personality, his intellect, his platform eloquence?

Is it the long line of successful men and women who have passed from the school's campus?

Is it the football team, with its yearly niche of glory?

Certainly it is none of these things, outstanding as they may be.

The Simmons Cowboy Band—that has done more to put the Abilene school on the lips of West Texas and a host of people in all parts of the Union, than any or all of the other factors.

Music reaches down and catches the heartstrings of those who can not be touched by spoken or written eloquence.

Band music can reach down and catch and bind together the heartstrings of a whole community.

The Cowboy Band was once no more widely known than Snyder's newly organized band.

The Cowboys had to do a lot of things before they had a great band.

They had to obtain a great director. Snyder has already done that. J. W. Crowley is here.

They had to practice consistently, faithfully and studiously. The Snyder band members are learning to do that.

They had to be given publicity of every kind. Snyder newspapers and other agencies are awakening to the value of a band and are giving it a heartier send-off each day.

They had to be given the support of the city of Abilene and of the university they represented. That is the final analysis of the Cowboy Band's success. Snyder is going to support the band to the limit of her ability, so that everyone in Scurry County may hear inspiring music that comes as free as sunshine and rain.

Snyder owes it to the farmers in her trade territory to give them such entertainment as only a first-rate band can furnish. She owes it to herself to reach down and pull up her own community heartstrings with music, the universal language.

The title of this editorial is "You Can't Beat the Band."

We Don't Need It.

We notice that a new law has been passed in Texas providing for at least one-half hour each week being devoted to the teaching of the United States and the Texas constitutions in the public schools. One of he prevailing opinions is that it is a good law f the teachng is carried on in the manner provided by the code of ethics of the National Educational Association. This provides that the pupil shall be taught "how" but not "what" to think.

The exact wording of the code is: "The school room is not the proper theatre for religious, political or personal propaganda. The teacher should not permit his educational work to be used for partisan politics, personal gain or selfish propaganda of any kind."

Such a law and such an attitude we consider just about right. But it happened to bring to mind the fact that Coleman schools will not be particularly effected by this law because they have always done so much more than the law requires. It has been the policy and ambition of the superintendent here to give the school children citizenship training in both high and grammar school.

The training for citizenship which children in Coleman have received for many years has been the practical side in addition to the study of the constitutions. As an example of things taught, this writer always has conscentious scruples about throwing papers of any size in a public place. We were taught in Coleman high school that people who carelessly littered up the streets or another person's preperty with papers or peelings was a "social criminal." And there are hundreds of others who will testify to the same social conscience developed in this school system here.

That's why we say we don't need such a law here ;we have had a custom better than this law for many years. But we are glad that it has been passed and it is possible that it will be a seed from which fuller citizenship training will grow in other public schools.

Washington Letter

By Helm News Service, Inc.

The actors did not propose to let the hot weather cheat sweltering Washingtonians out of their regular seventh day sensation last week, so they staged a couple of them—or, possibly it might be said, a two-act thriller with such absorbing climaxes that a number of interact features, which ordinarily would have inspired serious attention, were completely overshadowed.

Within the week the accredited representatives of 40 nations assembled in the east room of the White Hou to proclaim the renunciation of war, while 22 other countries were represented in spirit if not in the flesh. Even without an inspiring background such an assemblage would have been of immeasurable human interest. In the circumstances, the motive back of the conclave made of it an occurrence of unparalleled dramatic import. Of course, not even the most visionary advocate of universal peace has attempter to delude himself with the idea that the pact will absolutely preclude war for all time. Concerted effort to prevent forever physical encounters between pugnacious individuals would be little less of a dream. But we now have a league of good will among the nations, united to make resort to arms far less probable than before.

At the head of the momentous gathering stood President Hoover. At one side of Mr. Hoover stood expresident Coolidge, who had perceived the feasibility, the magnificent purport and the ultimate success of Premier Briand's historic plea, and at the other side Frank B. Kellogg, whose name the treaty will bear for all time. To fortunate onlookers, it was a scene never to be forgotten; to all it marked an epoch in human progress.

The spirit of the Kellogg peace pact found even anticipatory response in moves by two outstanding powers, Great Britain and the United States, toward reduction of naval armament.

Before the representatives of the many governments had arrived at th White House, word came that Premier MacDonald had announced a reduction in this year's British naval program. Immediately after the formal ceremonies of the peace pact conclave President Hoover retired to his executive offices for deliberation on this significant news. As a result he met the MacDonald gesture with the announcement that work on the three cruisers authorized in this year's program would be held up. They are three of the five cruisers for which Congress appropriated at the last regular session. Navy yards were to do the work. The blue prints already are in the course of preparation and as the president said in his announcement, "the actual keels would be laid some time this fall."

It is undoubtedly probable that Mr Hoover already had in mind the holding up of the work on his three cruisers as a gracious move when the proper time came, but there has been no intimation that it was to come coincidentally with the signing of the treaty. An answer or comment on the British premier's announcement had been expected, but the nature of it came generally as a surprise.

Did ever tree bear fruit more expeditiously?

As was intimated in this column last week, hopes for early reduction of federal taxes are waning. Figures made available by the treasury last week show that expenses of every department of the government, except the White House, increased for the fiscal year ended June 30. President Hoover has now found that the government faces increased expenditures amounting to approximately $300,000,000 in the next four years. The cost of government continues to rise in spite of every effort to hold the budget to a minimum of actual requirements.

In this connection President Hoover declared that something would be done about this country's spending more for military activities than any other nation on earth. Another commission is to be set up, this one composed of army general staff officers, to survey and revamp the entire army program with a view to eliminating obsolete outlays, to rearranging development projects, and in general to effect all economies possible without danger to adequate preparedness. The more toward material reductions in the naval branch of the military upkeep is already under way, and tax reduction doubtless depends upon the success of these two efforts.

About the only item of decreasing expense is interest on the public debt. Economy has been a foremost policy of the last two administrations, yet the tendency is toward higher higher expenses. Nothing else could be expected in a country developing as rapidly as is the United States. If tax reduction is possible within the next few years, it will be only because the prosperty of the people is growing faster than the expenses of government.

Declaring that "the corridors of the capitol are swarming with tariff lobbyists and that hundreds of other representatives of various groups are "grafting upon their supporters" and "selling senators behind their backs," Senator Caraway of Arkansas recently announced that he will demand a general investigation of lobbying in Washington as soon as the Senate convenes on August 19.

The investigation he proposes is one which, if made, will involve an inquiry into such organizations as the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, the Anti-Saloon League, the American Federation of Labor, the National Association of Manufacturers and a score of others, although, Senator Caraway said, his proposal is not aimed primarily at such groups.

Mr. Coolidge concerns himself with this uncommonly timely topic in his latest magazine contribution to the sum of his country's knowledge. It goes without saying that the former president and Senator Caraway did not put their heads together for a joint attack on lobbies and lobbyists at Washington; for the Vermonter and the Arkansan are not accustomed to walk side by side. But it is a striking coincidence that at the very moment Mr. Coolidge vigorously rops "fanatical minorities" and their "intimidaton of Congress" Mr. Caraway should be instigating long-delayed congressonal action against lobbyism on capitol hill.

Mr. Coolidge seemed glad to be back in Washington again. He was calm and collected, as usual, but he appeared more ready with his laugh than when he parted with the responsibilities of administration. Furthermore, he seemed more inclined to indulge in story telling than to discuss national and world problems.

It was interesting to note during Mr. Coolidge's stay that it was difficult to get away with the old order of things. For instance, those who had been closely associated with him while he was in office could not avoid addressing him as "Mr. President." Mr. Coolidge smiled several times at being called "president," but made no attempt at correction.

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee is said to be worn out and on the verge of a nervous breakdown over the tariff rates. The Utah senator has an old guard high protectionist "complex," and the sliding sugar scale is giving him nightmares. It would be all right with Smoot if the sugar rate were limited to upward sliding.

For Senator Smoot, lowering a tariff rate is mortal sin. So he is racking his "single-track" high tariff mind for a way to get the sugar rate so high it can afford to take a slide. But it's pretty tough on the fellow who has to tote all the tariff sleds up the hill for the others to slide down.

Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee have gone into secret session to write the new tariff bill. The Democrats, however, are not wasting time while they are "laid off," but are cramming in full swing for the tariff battle when the Senate convenes August 19.

Washington society women are playing the stock market and bridge games are becoming decidedly "passe." Bishop Cannon started something with his "bucket shop" operations. Perhaps he is to be congratulated for halting the card playing craze of the past few years.

Mrs. Gann quietly announced she declined to partake of any of the "wet" viands at Sir Esme Howard's dinner. As long as her rival, Alice Longworth, has ruled Washington society, the latter has never made any such "dry" pronouncement. And now that "Dolly" Gann has socially boarded the water wagon Mrs. Longworth probably never will.

Former President Coolidge stayed at the Williard Hotel when he came to Washington to witness the proclamation of the Kellogg Peace Pact. It had been reported he would stay at the White House. Even if the Willard is only Washington's third best, was it not questionable Coolidge economy when he might have been Mr. Hoover's guest?

The Japanese beetle traps on capitol hill and the White House grounds are still devoid of prey. There is a funnel-shaped apparatus at the top, and below that is a glass bottle containing geranium scent to lure the beetles in. Clever things they are—but evidently so are the beetles.

Few farm tariffs are very high, but there is a 108 per-cent duty on goats. It is such isolated and unimportant items in the farm tariffs that propagandists use to make farm duties appear unduly high. And who wants to protect a goat anyway?

President Hoover's Federal Farm Board is still studying the law to find out what they can and are to do. Seated around a long polished table in the Hotel Mayflower, it takes up the farm law section by section. "Farmer owned and farmer controlled" co-operatives is a phrase of the law often quoted by members of the board as they work away in their shirt sleeves.

Bishop Cannon's blast at the Wickersham letter was rather belated. Senator Caraway, dry Democrat and supporter of Al Smith, beat him to it. Within 48 hours Caraway demanded Wickersham's resignation.

Just Joking.

Caddie: "Ad your clubs shined up, 'avn't yer?"

She: "No one understands mee."

Magistrate: "The best thing you can do is to go home and make up with your wife."

Husband: "And what's the second best thing?"

Pauline: "Don't you love an evening like this?"

Paul: "You bet, but I generally wait until we get a little farther out in the country."

Freddie, aged five, in sweetshop: "How many of those sweets do I get for a penny, please?"

Assistant, casually: "Oh, six or seven."

"I'll have seven, please."

Help Snyder Win!

It is not the editorial policy of this newspaper to attempt to right all of the world's wrongs or even all of those which might be attributed to this community. In picking up a number of the current magazines, we find that hundreds of articles are being published which could well have been relegated to the scrap heap. In one magazine it is prohibition which threatens to destroy our country. In another it is whiskey; still another believes that the alarming increase of crime will lead to a reign of terror. Too great an inclination toward business and not enough attention to the spiritual side of life, says another, will eventually ruin us. The lack of a liberal policy party, improper control of automobile traffic, too great a standardization of American cities—all of these things and many others are pointed out by the calamity howlers to be the lecherous vipers which eat at the vitals of American success as a great nation.

Within our limitations, this newspaper has stood for the upbuilding and the betterment of the community. Today, we want to reiterate that pledge, and to fling forth the challenge to all who may read this comment that we forget any animosities which we may have had toward our neighbors and get together in earnest and continued effort to make Snyder and Scurry County the cleanest and most enterprising in the entire state.

Time sweeps by us in a rushing stream. There is no better time to start than the present. Throughout the country there are hundreds of big industries looking for locations. Many of them seek sites away from the big cities which need not be the source of their raw material. The idea that a million dolllar factory might be established in Snyder is by no means a chimera. There will be a better market for the products of the farmers, a job for the worthy ones who need employment, more business for our merchants, and in a nutshell, a big payroll.

This newspaper is willing and anxious to co-operate. Like the ancient adage of the father who had his seven son break the seven sticks separately, we are apt to fail unless they we all work together, but just as the sons could not break the sticks when they were all tied together, nothing can break out spirit if we all put our shoulders to the wheel of progress and push.

Birth Registration in Texas Being Urged

Texas is one of three states that is not included in the birth and death registration area, a communication from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to Secretary J. W. Scott of the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce reveals. Joseph F. Leopold of Dallas, manager of the southwestern division of the national organization, makes an appeal for Snyder to do her part in registering every birth and death, thus saving the state from bad advertising and evasion of the law.

September 1 is probably the last date on which Texas will be given an opportunity to raise her prestige in ths matter. Ninety per cent registration is necessary before an area can be accredited by the Bureau o Census.

Laxness on the part of doctors and midwives in reporting the birth of children is given as the primary reason for Texas' black eye. Undertakers and casket dealers show cooperation in registering deaths in almost every section of the state.

There were approximately 2,100 death of infants in Texas during 1928 where the death certificate was filed, but no birth certificate had ever been placed on record. Of 66,000 names on the scholastic records, about one-third were not registered.

Letters are going out to parents of children whose births were not registered, with a request that they fill out the birth certificate and return it to the Bureau of Census at once. Parents are urged to heed these requests, as they will mean much toward giving Texas a new prestige in birth registration. Filing of a birth certificate is required by law, and parents are also urged to requre doctors to perform this service.

"As you can readily see," the bureau points out, "the result of obtaining practically all of the deaths and only two-thirds of the births would be an infant mortality rate all out of proportion to real conditions and can not help but react unfavorably against the business of the state.

"I am sure you realize the importance of this work as well as the value to veterans of the World War, their widows and orphans, who are depending on these certificates for proof of their claims for compensation. Many very pathetic cases are noted daily when requests are made to this office for a certified copy of the certificate, parents fully believing that the certificate had been filed by the doctor in attendance."

"What a sad-looking store."

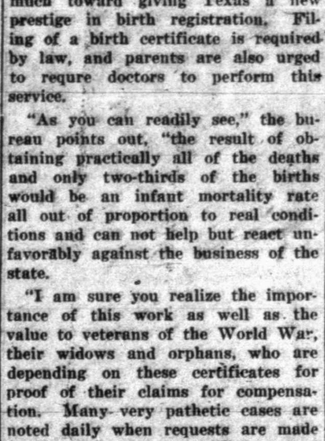

"Why, because it has panes in the windows?"

"No, the books are in tiers."

Sweet Thing: "I didn't accept Jack the first time he proposed."

"No, dear; you weren't there."

Tax on Gas Must Be Paid, Regardless Use

The new four-cent tax on gasoline must be paid even though the uses the fuel will be put to is exempted from the levy, State Comptroller S. R. Terrell declares. The tax paid on exempted gasoline will be refunded by state warrant, he says.

"There has been some misunderstanding as to the operation of the new law," he says. "Gasoline for use on roads, streets and highways of Texas is subject to the tax, that used in other ways being exempt. However, the tax must be paid on all gasoline used. Users entitled to exemptions will have the amount refunded to them by state warrant."

Farmer at Loraine Has New Maize Plan

From Loraine Leader

S. M. Hallmark made a discovery by acident many years ago of how to raise milo maize. His planter was out of condition and failed to plant every third row—an(d he let it go that way. When the crop grew toward maturity he discovered that the maize crop with each row unplanted was the best he had—and he then went to work systematically to plant only each third row. He never planted any more maize any other way when he had thoroughly tried out the method. His sons also adopted the system and found it best. At this time the county agent has some 25 farmers in Mitchell County experimenting with maize by leaving what would be the third row unplanted.

Accurate measurements will be taken to determine the exact value of the method. The Hallmarks sometime vary the idea by planting cow peas in the third row, with good results.

Hermleigh School Is Given Another Unit

From Hermleigh Herald

Superintendent Kerr of the high school here was notified this week by the state department that his school had been accredited with one additional unit, bringing the total credits of affiliation up to 15 and one-half. The home economics department is due the credit for this year's work.

Superintendent Kerr and other members of the faculty are feeling good over this advancement, this unit being the only unit applied for this year.

According to the standard of 10 credits, we lack only one-half credit of full affiliation. This is a matter of deep concern to all the patrons of the school, especially those who have students to graduate within the next two years. The school is the one thing of general interest to all the people.

He, hopefully: "I've never seen such dreamy eyes before."

She, fed up: "Maybe it's because you've never stayed so late before."

Minister: "Let me hear how far you can count."

Willie: "One, two, three, four, five, s(ix, seven, eight, nine, ten, Jack, Queen, King."

Much-Bruised Boxer: "Oh, let's sit this one out."

MANY ATTEND REVIVAL HERE

Paul Campbell, singer-artist-speaker, and Rev. Thomas M. Broadfoot, pastor of the Snyder First Christian church, bring the two-week revival at the tabernacle to a close Sunday night. Featured by Mr. Campbell's chalk drawings, with which he gave a lecture on each occasion, the meeting has been attended by large crowds from Snyder and other parts of the county. Several conversions and church additions have been announced by Rev. Broadfoot.

The revivalist's sermons have been, as he stated they would be at the beginning, based solely on the Bible, and he has preached messages without "frills and foibles." Mr. Campbell's song services have also been an inspiration in the meeting.

Miss Blanche Mitchell returned Wednesday from Lubbock, where she underwent an appendicitis operation several weeks ago at the Lubbock Sanitarium.

They Say--

L. M. FAMBRO wonders why his daughter can remain so enthused over her county club work, when so much work and study are required. The young lady was one of the 10 club girls who won trips to the A. & M. Short Course, in session this week at College Station. "She works at her sewing, record keeping and outside projects as if her life depended upon it. She was one of the proudest girls you ever saw when she was ready to leave this afternon for College Station." Mr. Fambro hails from the Lloyd Mountain community. He was a welcome guest in the News office Saturday.

J. H. HENLEY, who lives in the Pleasant Hill community, seven miles east of town, believes his section of the county is the best yet. "You can travel from one end of the county to the other and you won't find a better strip of land than that around Ira, around by Dunn, and back into my community. I've been living there for several years, and I know that a fellow has one of the finest bunch of neighbors out there that may be found." Mr. Henley was kind enough to drop by Saturday to see how The Snyder News bunch were liking their new location. He found, of course, that we were glad to get up town, and that we had just about recovered from the misery of moving. Mr. Henley, by the way, was a correspondent for The News before he moved three miles from the school house and church, which are the center of activities for the lively community.

JIMMY SMITH, generalissimo of the Scurry County Times-Signal editorial pen, turned a trick on the program arrangers at the recent Sweetwater press association. He was scheduled to speak briefly on "How to Freeze Out Competition," but instead he arose and said, simply, "De don't want to freeze it out—we welcome it." It's funny how so many folks on the outside think a newspaper editor is a selfish sort of cuss, when he is usualy as big minded as the town in which he lives. Verily, the day of cat-and-dog competition in the newspaper game has faded with the same kind of competition in most other businesses. Jimmy, by the by, plans a little vacation before many days have passed. All this humble typewriter caresser hopes is that Jimmy will catch more fish than mosquito bites, and that he will be back pitching for Snyder, as usual, when his play days are over.

E. L. BANGS was in town Monday to see Willie. Mr. Bangs lives in Fannin County, near Bonham, and Willie—well, Willie is none other than Will (Bill) Clark, groceryman. "I used to call him Willie," the East Texan advised, "when I knew him 29 years ago." Mr. Bangs has been on a roundabout trip into North Central, North and West Texas, seeing country that he had never seen before. "It was a great trip," he says. "We struck lots of good farm land, and saw some mighty pretty crops, although it was dry in spots." Incidentally, he likes Snyder, as well as Willie, and hopes that this will not be his last trip to these parts.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Preuitt and little daughter, Virginia, left Friday for a vacation trip to San Francisco, Cal., and Seattle, Wash.

WHERE CLOUDS OF WAR HOVER IN RUSSIAN-CHINESE CRISIS

This map shows the route of the Russian Eastern Railway, whose seizure by Chinese nationalists started the present Russian-Chinese controversy which may culminate in war. Russian troops are mobilizing near Manchuli, at Blagoveschensk, near Linkiang, at the junction of the Amur and Sungari Rivers, and at Suifeng, a border town. The seized railway connects the Russian frontier with Vladivostok and passes through Chinese territory.

MOTORCADERS—

will be among the outstanding Snyderites to welcome the trippers.

The reception committee, responsible for securing the cars and arranging the program for the evening, is composed of Mrs. E. J. Anderson, Mrs. Fitz R. Smith, Mrs. R. S. Snow, Horace Leath, Warren Dodson, and J. W. Scott.

Starts From Marshall

The tour started at Marshall on Thursday of this week and will end at El Paso Monday night, August 5, when the Chamber of Commerce of that city will entertain the tourists. The chief point of interest along the route will be the Carlsbad Caverns, 30 miles from Carlsbad, N. M., through which the entire delegation will be guided.

Several Scurry County people are expected to join the motorcade as it leaves Snyder Saturday morning.

All the committeemen urge the importance of those who have promised cars and those whom it has been impossible to see, to be ready to go to the Fisher County line when the signal is given late Friday afternoon. Farmers, especially, who can not be easily notified, are urged to enter their cars in the welcoming group.

"She seemed like a good sensible girl."

"Yeh, she wouldn't pay any attention to me either."

ROTATION FOR CROPS PUSHED

Crop rotation is becoming of increasing importance on many Texas farms, not only because of its value in producing larger yields but for various other practical reasons also, E. A. Miller, agronomist of the extension service, A. & M. College of Texas, pointed out in addressing the farm crops division of the farmers short course at College Station Monday.

Advantages of a good rotation or cropping system, in addition to increasing yields to the acre were cited by Mr. Miller as follows: Aid in the control of insect pests and plant diseases, help in keeping down weeds, use of a legume or soil building crop such as cowpeas, soy beans, sweet clover and the like; and better distribution of labor on the farm.

Experiments by the Texas agricultural experiment station at the Blackland substation near Temple showed big increase in acre yield and the largest net profits in the rotation of cotton, corn and oats, Mr. Miller said. "In this rotation," he added, "the average yields to the acre over a period of 10 years were 276 pounds of lint cotton, 34.3 bushels of corn and 32 bushels of oats as contrasted with 142 pounds of oats line cotton, 19.3 bushels of oats with continuous cropping. Every acre in the rotation made an average profit of $15.96 whereas continuous cotton made only $7.33 profit an acre.

A four year rotation of cotton, cowpeas, corn and oats at the main station at College Station, produced an average annual yield over a period of 13 years of 223 pounds of lint cotton, while cotton planted on the same land year after year made only 182 pounds to the acre, the speaker said. The results of these and other experiments cited prove conclusively that a farmer can well afford to establish a good cropping system, he added in conclusion.

"Noah's Ark" Full Of Giganic Scenes

"Noah's Ark," the romance of today and the far yesterdays which is to be presented at the Palace Theatre Wednesday and Thursday of next next week, has been built on a stupendous scale. Beginning at the opening of the World War, the din and destruction of battle makes itself felt by the audience. Then, after a most impressive scene, all the characters are spirited back 5,000 years to the time of Noah and the building of the Ark.

This Warner Bros.' Vitaphone talking picture is first, and above all, vital, and delightful entertainment. It is not a war picture—not a Biblical story—except in the sense that it does, as nearly as possible, follow the costumes and the customs of those widely separated periods.

It is a story of erring humanity, which is the same yesterday, today and forever.

The cast is impressive. Dolores Costello is starred with George O'Brien, and they are supported by Noah Berry, Louise Fazenda, Guinn Williams, Paul McAllister, Nigel de Brulier, Anders Randolf, and more than 10,000 people.

Mrs. Frank Mitchell died at the family home in Grand Prairie Sunday, July 14. Mrs. Mitchell was the mother of Miss Clara Mitchell, who taught in the Snyder high school for two years.

The Willing Workers Epworth League of Scurry County will m[illegible] at Union Chapel Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

E. C. Lambert and family, and F. W. Wolcott and family visited the Carlsbad Caverns Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Dick Chambers Gets Bad Fingers in Spill

Two ripped fingers were the only serious results of Dick Chambers' failure to keep his car right side up on the Clear Fork bridge last Friday morning. With his 12-year-old daughter, Beverly, Mr. Chambers was returning from an over-night trip to Rule. While crossing the Clear Fork bridge in Fisher County, about 37 miles from Snyder, his front wheels zigzagged so freely on the toe boards that by the time he had reached the opposite side of the span the car was ready to recline.

Road hands helped the two victims to right their car, after it was discovered that the girl was practically uninjured and that Mr. Chambers suffered only from his fingers. The Snyder man then drove to Roby, where his fingers were dressed, and continued his homeward trip. Amputation of two joints on the fingers was thought possible at first, but almost complete recovery is now thought probable.

LEAGUE MEET—

conducted the entertainment during the social. The social was featured by many lively games, the most interesting being a game of human croquet. After the games, the Snyder Leaguers [illegible] delicious refreshments of [illegible] punch and muffins. The visitors were entertained in the homes of the Snyder Leaguers Saturday night and Sunday until Sunday school time.

D. P. Yoder taught a special class of all Leaguers and young people, which was assembled in the center tier of pews in the church. This tier was roped off in gold and white crepe paper, gold and white being the Epworth League colors.

At 10:40 a short and very interesting program was given by the visiting young people. Those who took part on the program were: W. T. Roberts of Big Spring, Miss Mattie Dorn of Colorado, and J. H. Agee of Abilene.

The church hour was in charge of the Leaguers and Rev. Sollie E. McCreless preached the sermon and conducted a consecration service at close. This service was unusually inspirational and very good.

Lunch in Church Basement

Lunch was served in the basement of the church at noon. After lunch a picture of the group was made in front of the church.

Sweetwater led the devotional at 2:30. The subject was "Stewardship." Those taking part were: Miss Mabel McGlothling of Sweetwater, Warren Dodson of Snyder, Leo Kiker of Union Chapel, and Lexter Alston of Sweetwater, Herman McGlothling and Miss Ruby Pollard of Sweetwater sang a duet, "Whispering Hope," was splendid singing.

The next district meeting will be held at Roscoe on October 26-27. Of course Snyder will be there with a big delegation.

Eiland, and Misses Polly Harpole, Lila Mae Williamson, Mary Bob Huckabee, Mable Isaacs, Johnny Lee Shaw and Violet Bradbury were Sunday visitors.

Lawrence, Lubbock associational missionary, is chairman, and Rev. M. C. Bishop and Dr. W. R. White.

Accident Results in Amputation of Foot

O. P. Trueblood, bricklayer on the Farmers Exchange addition, fell from scafolding on the building Friday morning about 11 o'clock, receiving severe injuries that later resulted in amputation of his left foot.

When a nail in a board he was raising caught in his pocket, Mr. Trueblood lost his balance and fell 13 feet. He was carried to the emergency hospital at once, where the badly crushed foot was severed.

Tuesday reports are that he is resting well in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harvey Shuler, where he was taken Sunday.

Mr. Trueblood is a pioneer brick mason of this county, having built a number of the finest homes here. He has recently been working in Dallas.

J. L. Waskom and daughter, Larry Beth, returned Tuesday afternoon from a summer vacation trip to the city of Shreveport, La.
