The Morning Avalanche Menu for the Day

BREAKFAST—Baked pears, cereal, cream, baked nut balls, celery hearts, oven toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Tomatoes, stuffed with oysters, whole wheat rolls, baked apple dumplings with cream, grape juice.

DINNER—Braised veal cutlets, baked squash, steamed spinach, onion and cream cheese salad, fresh fried chicken, apple sauce, cake, milk, coffee.

The recipe for apple sauce cake is not new but it is good and so economical that it seems worth using. No eggs are required and with little-hen somewhat loathe to do her duty, eggs are quite an item if one must cook the cake.

Apple Sauce Cake. One cup sugar, 1/2 cup butter and lard mixed, 1 1/2 cups apple sauce, 2 cups raisins, 3 cups flour, 3 teaspoons soda, 1 cup chopped nut meats, 4 tablespoons shredded cellulose, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 teaspoon strong cold coffee, 1 teaspoon white sugar, 1-4 teaspoon cloves, 1-4 teaspoon allspice, 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-2 teaspoon salt.

The apple sauce is used sweetened as for the table. Cream shortening and sugar, stir in apple sauce. Stir one cup flour over one cup sifted flour. Stir into first mixture. Mix and stir salt and soda with remaining flour. Add vanilla, lemon juice and coffee and stir until perfectly smooth. Turn into an oiled and floured loaf cake pan and bake one hour in a slow oven.

This cake can be kept several weeks either in a tin box and is better the second day after baking, than when it is first fresh. (Copyright 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

MATADORS FORM DEFENSE FOR WILDCATS

BULLFIGHTERS HAVE HARD WORKOUT

Coach E. Y. Freeland of the Texas Tech Matadors spent long hours Wednesday afternoon in an effort to instill into his hopefuls the defense with which he hopes to stop the raper-line thrusts of the Wildcats of Ahlens Christian College, whom the bullfighters must hurdle Friday if they are to continue with their present high gridiron prestige.

The Matadors were put through a long and strenuous practice session in the afternoon.

Special attention was devoted by Freeland to a defense for a passing attack, which is heralded as being one of the most potent weapons in the Wildcat bag of gridiron tricks.

As the day prior to the game was approaching more and more fans were producing the $4.50 necessary to insure a seat for the Avalanche-Journal special train to Ahlens, which will convey not only the fans but the team as well. E. A. Tusha, traveling passenger agent of the Santa Fe, who is in charge of the train, was at the Tech Wednesday morning.

Special stands are planned for the game by both the boys' and girls' pep squads at the Tech.

Several hundred are expected to boost the Matadors on the trip from Lubbock. Home-coming day has been declared at A. C. C. and this will, it is pointed out by Coach Freeland, merely serve to further incite the fighting spirit of the Wildcats.

LAMESA PRIMES FOR SLATON BATTLE

(Special To The Avalanche)
SLATON, Nov. 9.—With each team determined to advance a bit nearer to Class B championship in football for district two, the Slaton and Lamesa high school teams will engage in a contest on the Slaton gridiron on Armistice Day while the biggest crowd yet assembled at a similar athletic event this season on the South Plains will look on.

Both teams are reported to be in splendid condition following the workouts given them by their coaches during the past week.

In past years, it has been a victory for Slaton each time the team met the Lamesa eleven. The Slaton Tigers and Slaton fans aver that the same outcome is in prospect for Friday, while the reports emanating from the Dawson county capital are to the effect that the Lamesa Lobos will trim the Tigers for once and for all on Armistice Day.

TIGERS OFFER TO LET YALE STAR PLAY

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 9.—In the absence of official action on Johnson's offer to allow Caldwell to play football for Yale against the Tiger Saturday at, though ineligible, indications tonight were that Princeton's suggestion would be declined with appreciation and that the ban on Caldwell would stand.

John M. Cates, director of athletics at Yale, said tonight a meeting of athletic officials would take place probably tomorrow to consider the offer. Prof. George H. Nettleton, chairman of the board of control of Yale athletics, was out of town tonight and his associates hesitated to act without him.

CALDWELL'S JERSEY HANGS ON WALL

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 9.—Bruce Caldwell's empty blue jersey, with its embossed number, 48, hung limply on his deserted locker this afternoon as Yale's fighting men of football set to work to show the world and Princeton that there is not a one-man team.

At the end of a tough practice session in which John Garvey fit into Caldwell's left half back post, the news reached the field house of the generous action of Princeton in urging that Caldwell be used in Saturday's game.

Princeton's consideration of Princeton's offer to allow Caldwell to play despite his violation of the rule was scheduled for tomorrow, but failed to shake the general opinion that the star half back's future is on.

Howard Kriss Downs Wilce Knockers This Baby Tipped Scale At 17 Pounds

The Jack Wilce, avil chorus has temporarily at least. Ohio State's thrilling victory over Chicago has for the time restored the prestige of Coach Wilce and silenced his detractors.

The young man largely responsible for getting the Ohio State men to win once more in the good graces of certain alumni and under graduates is Howard Kriss.

Kriss, hardly rated as a regular until the Maroon game, caught a 50-yard pass from Robbie Bell that brought State's second touchdown and victory.

In the closing minutes of the game he knocked down a Chicago pass behind State's goal, that if completed would have won for Stagg's eleven.

Kriss blocks and tackles well. He also is a good punter.

Grid Star Throws Cupid For a Loss

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—When Harold D. Cochran, captain and right tackle of Lafayette college's football team, was throwing Georgetown runners here last Saturday he was not aware that at the same time he was bowling over Cupid in his tracks.

Nevertheless, today he was enroute to Easton, Pa., with a bride whom he met on Saturday, wooed on Sunday and married on Monday.

Mrs. Cochran is the former Miss Percy Tackett, 21, of Chase City, Va., and freshman at George Washington university.

Cochran said he would play two more games for Lafayette and then return to Washington to live.

Baseball Board to Meet in Dallas

DALLAS, Nov. 9.—A special meeting of the national baseball board of arbitration has been called to meet here, probably on December 5, to look into the matter of the entry of Tulsa and Oklahoma City into the Texas league.

Don Roberts, president of the league announced in a statement here tonight.

The meeting will be for the purpose of establishing a precedent in such cases, President Roberts said.

Texas league officials admitted Tulsa and Oklahoma City after an all-day session at which they were convinced that they had the legal right to enter, Roberts said. The two cities, he declared, did not withdraw from the Western league, whose protest resulted in the calling of the meeting, because they never formally entered it.

The only stipulation they made with other clubs of the league, it was explained, related to the season schedules he said.

It will be shown at the meeting of the national board, Roberts said, that the Western league has no constitution. The only one the league ever had, he added, was written by Ben Johnson and that one was taken into the American league when Johnson organized it with cities other than those then or now in the Western league.

The application of the Tulsa and Oklahoma City clubs and their admission into the Texas league has been so widely advertised and so thoroughly misunderstood that Texas league officials today welcomed the notification that the national board would meet here and settle the case, Roberts said.

Cisswell, For Whom White Sox Paid Big Sum, Under Arrest

(Special To The Avalanche)
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 9.—Chalmers Cisswell, $100,000 rookie shortstop recently purchased from the Pittsburgh club of the Pacific Coast League by the Chicago White Sox, was arrested here tonight at the request of Sheriff P. A. Findley, of Des Moines, Ia., who said he had a felony warrant for the ball player.

Cisswell said he involved a woman. Cisswell was arrested at his home here and held under $2,500 bond.

He refused to discuss the charges against him beyond the bare statement that they involved a woman.

Cisswell, who is 23 years old, played his first professional baseball with Des Moines two years ago.

He was with the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League and his play was so sensational that he was purchased by the White Sox at a price reported in excess of $100,000, including four players.

WACO HIGH GRID CAPTAIN MADE INELIGIBLE

(By Associated Press)
WACO, Tex., Nov. 9.—A question raised by Weldon Mason himself, is the reason the Waco high school football captain will never again lead the Tigers in a football game in the Texas Interscholastic league.

The fleet back remembered playing five minutes in a practice game of basketball between Waco high school and Rosebud in 1925. He asked the Waco authorities if the game amounted to anything.

Coach Paul Tyson began an investigation several months ago. No one remembered Mason playing. His name was not in the lineup but there was an account of the game in both Waco papers. The result is that after Waco authorities pressed the league for a definite answer on the subject Mason was ruled ineligible.

In 1923 Mason, just a kid, did not take part in basketball, football, or baseball. One afternoon he was standing on the side lines in civilian clothes watching a game between Waco high and Rosebud. It was a practice game and the coaches were off on the court, instructing the men. As the Tigers began to send in substitutes galore, many of whom were not on the team; Mason, at the invitation of Coach Lynton Higgins, shed his shirt and played the last five minutes of the game. He never thought that those few minutes would cheat him out of his best year in high school football.

T. A. Gullett, chairman of district eight of the Interscholastic League, flatly denied reports that protests have been filed against Waco by other league teams. The question was raised by Coach Paul Tyson and Principal E. T. Gensheimer of Waco high school, outsiders knowing nothing whatever of the case.

Mason has not played in a league game this year.

CLOSE FIGHT IS PROSPECT FOR BEARS-SMU

DALLAS, Nov. 9.—A furious war, between the Baptists and the Methodists, will be staged in Owa, by Stadium Saturday when the Baylor Bears battle the S. M. U. Mustangs.

The two denominational schools have been bitter enemies for the past ten years and are eager to resume the battle. The two teams appear more evenly matched since Baylor's near win over Texas and the Aggies' unexpected win over S. M. U.

In the past ten years S. M. U. has won four encounters. Baylor two, while four of the games have been ties, giving S. M. U. a percentage of 40 and Baylor 40. In the ten games S. M. U. has scored 82 points and Baylor 75. Both teams have been shut out four times.

The scores for the ten years are as follows:

Year	S. M. U.	Baylor
1919	7	7
1920	0	0
1921	0	28

Simmons Plans For Turkey Day

(Special To The Avalanche)
ATLANTA, Nov. 9.—Plans for an elaborate program to be staged at Simmons university, this city, on November 24, Thanksgiving Day are being worked out by the officials of the university assisted by representatives of the student body and the ex-students association.

The annual home-coming for former students of the institution is billed for that day and over 3000 of the one-time collegians are expected to come for the occasion.

The program will be doubly interesting due to the fact that the Simmons Cowboys, last year champion football team of the Texas conference will on that day meet the redoubtable Yellow Jackets from Howard Payne college at Brownwood in the last regular game of this season's football calendar.

Although both schools are operated and controlled by the Baptist church, there is no love shown when their respective gridironers take the field for the annual clash.

This closing battle for the Cow-boys team will bring in hundreds of the "old grads," Gilbert B. Shandor, manager of the Simmons athletic organization thinks and he is planning to make the day a memorable one for them as well as for the present attendants at the university.

It is probable that the attendance at the Thanksgiving game will be the largest ever present at a football game in West Texas, Shandor says. "We are preparing for a crowd of 15,000 people."

STILLING CITY — 97.—While the greater part of Texas is waging war on rain, athletes in this section are fighting the snakes. The ranges have more snakes this year than ever before in history.

George Sisler On Trade Block, Said

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—It would occasion no great surprise in major league circles, if before many weeks have passed, three star first base-men of the American league were to figure in trade.

George Sisler, a few years back considered the greatest guardian of the initial sack in the history of the game, has probably played in a St. Louis Browns' uniform for the last time.

Owner Phil Ball has said he thinks it best that Sisler go, and that settles it.

It is a well known fact that Manager George Moriarty of the Tigers is far from satisfied with the showing of Lou Blue during the past season. Expected to star for Moriarty, Blue was displaced a goodly part of the season by his substitute, Johnny Neun.

While Joe Judge had a good year for Washington last season and is still a great player, the impression prevails that he would like a change of scenery and that he would probably go better elsewhere.

Percy "Handsome Ransom" Walker, flash of the Matador backfield, who was not in the game last week, will not appear in uniform for the Wildcat skirmish either. Walker's dishes off tackle and around end will be greatly missed, however, Higginbotham has been charging Brothers in fast at his vacancy.

Fifteen Men Form Aggie Cage Squad

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)
COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 9.—Fifteen men, four of whom were lettermen on the varsity quiet last year while the others are freshmen numeral men give Coach Charles F. Bassett an unusual array of material from which to select the Texas Aggie basketball squad this year.

The four lettermen back this year are: J. V. Sikes, Leonard, captain and guard, who is playing his third year with the varsity; R. J. Pett, Decatur, forward; W. E. Davis, Stephenville, forward; N. A. Webster, Texarkana, center and forward.

The freshman candidates are: R. J. Mount, Galveston, center and guard; H. Broiles, Fort Worth, two, while four of the games have been ties, giving S. M. U. a percentage of 40 and Baylor 40. In the ten games S. M. U. has scored 82 points and Baylor 75. Both teams have been shut out four times.

Whirlwinds Play Post Team Friday

FLOYDADA, Nov. 9.—A special train will carry Post football fans to Floydada Friday for the game between the Floydada Whirlwinds and the team of Post. The winner of the game will be one of the entrants for the semi-finals in the Class B Panhandle conference then now being four teams in the running.

GEORGE SISLER

There are two in the reckoning, play Friday.

The Matadors, too, will likely offer the Wildcats a varied attack when the occasion arrives for the third game of the Tech history with the Morrismen. Yesterday afternoon Freeland chased his lads through the Wildcat plays as was seen by the Matador handlers in the game in which the Kittens were defeated by the West Texas Buffaloes.

Strolling Down Sports Lane WITH JAMES R. DOW

The Wildcats of the Ahlens Christian College are going to be primed and cocked for their annual Armistice affair with the Matadors and daily reports comes from the Wildcat outfit that they are ready and anxious for Ewing Y. Freeland's husky Pleadors Freddy Anderson of the News has this to say of the game Friday.

"The Wildcats will unleash everything in the trail for victory, and varied plays from numerous formations in their practice show that they have plenty of football if their strength backs it up, and there has been no weakening in the current campaign until the unexpected loss to Canyon.

"Triumph over the Matadors, the Christians hold practically the equivalent of a conference championship. With their hopes of the latter, hanging by a thread, they will choose the Tech alternative first, and later try for the title against Daniel Baker if there is a mathematical chance left at that time."

Plainview Bulldogs, a strong rival of the Westerners, will be here for a hard tussle with the local high school. It is a conference game and will have much effect on the standing of the Westerners in the loop rating.

Henry Friska and Del Morgan are working hard with the locals in preparation for the brisky fracas here Friday afternoon on the Matador field.

The record of football games played between the Westerners and Bulldogs since 1919, shows that out of 19 games played between the two teams the Westerners have won 12 and the Bulldogs 6, with one tie game.

Years back, in 1910 to be exact John Jarrot, local realtor, was a charging fullback, and the club which was the first in the high school, was handled by J. E. Vickers, local attorney. David Boyd was the first captain of the Lubbock high school football club.

There is no question as to the strongest team ever produced in the high school, the 1917 club, that went through the season undefeated. This team was coached by "Shorty" Galbraith, who later took the Vernon Lions far into state running for several years.

The 1917 team consisted of such players as: Ross McWhorter, fullback; Howard Wheelock, quarterback; Ike Sanders and John Salke, halves; Pinky Lowery, Red Graves, Bill Honey, Kenneth Kim-

The new stands will seat 4,500 spectators.

INTERESTED IN THIS SECTION OF THE COUNTRY

Greater interest is being shown in this country this year than possibly at any other time in the history of the South Plains. The country has shown a greater development along more different lines than ever before and for that reason more people, of different interests are coming here to find out more about what it is all about anyway.

The wonderful climatic conditions in this country this year however has brought to mind of many people that there is a possibility here in agriculture that is not found in any other section of the Southwest, and men of different branches of agriculture are coming almost every week to investigate.

The South Plains got off to a very late start in the matter of getting the ground in shape for the present year's crop. Not only was this a fact, but the rains did not come for the planting of the crops till almost half of the year was gone, and it looked like it was a mighty doubtful gamble on whether to risk the price of the seed against the chance of raising a crop.

However, it has proven a mighty good investment. With the exception of the few small spots the crops have put on a wonderful fruitage and have matured and made good. The opportunity to gather the crops has been such that none could ask for anything better.

Some of the farmers have been able to take up loans this year that have been standing for as far back as three years and this is proving a great blessing to them, and the banks are able to get their loans in much better condition.

PROGRESS OF RAILROAD BUILDING IS LOOKING GOOD TO LUBBOCK

The first revenue freight train pulled out of Estelina a few days ago over the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains line, a news report under an Estelina date line has advised Lubbock people, and while crews are busy rushing construction, Lubbock citizens are anxiously awaiting the completion of the road.

with the exception of a short stretch north of Junction toward Silvertown and past Plainview toward Dimmitt, the grade is complete. Only a week's work is left within the city limits of Lubbock and the grade will be ready for the steel rails.

The Lubbock right-of-way committee secured the necessary ground in plenty of time to be deeded over to the railroad company without holding up construction. On the visit to Lubbock Clarity again assured the people of this section that the road would be completed and that trains would be operated before June 1, 1928.

Lubbock citizens have watched the piling up of the grade within the city limits with little interest, but as the time draws near for the completion of the system and operation of trains over the lines, the pulse of Lubbock enthusiasts is quickened.

The addition of the Denver Railroad system will make a total of eight rail outlets for the city of Lubbock. Other outlets are to Sweetwater, Amarillo and Clovis on the main lines of the Santa Fe, and to Lamesa, Seagraves, Bledsoe and Crosbyton on branch lines.

SANTA CLAUS AND CONVICT NO. 23319

A writer on the Los Angeles Record who annually holds a Christmas party for poor children received this letter from a convict in the Nevada state penitentiary: "I am sending a little parcel on this mail, hoping that the articles contained may find a place in your approaching Christmas distribution. It really is not my trade, but they may make some poor little girl retain their kidhood faith in St. Nicholas, and that is a pretty good item."

"Do you know that bad as convicts undoubtedly are, I've never met one who had sunk low enough to want to kill off old Santa Claus. In case you think the little bead chains will help fill any stockings, satisfactorily, and would care for them, I'll gladly fix a few more and see that they reach you by December 15."

The letter tells its own story. Goodness can live in man's heart, though he be caged like a beast for the blackest of crimes. There is something fine, something redeeming in No. 23319 in the Nevada state penitentiary. We hope it carries him into some share of this earth's happiness after his time is up.

OUT OUR WAY

SO THINK WE

We think that you should never lose your temper with women; but on the other hand, it is a good policy to pretend to sometimes.

We think that an ounce of reality is worth more to you than an arm full of romance.

We think that you can get a new angle on many a subject by the questions a small boy asks.

We think that anyway the Mexican government isn't so dirty as ours for they sting lead instead of mud down there.

We think that the people of the northern states should certainly be in position now to realize the benefits that might be derived from flood relief. For several months after the terror of floods struck the Mississippi section it was hard to get co-operation from the fellows in that section for the relief of the stricken in the South but since they have had one of their own they should appreciate the condition the people of the Mississippi were in.

We think that how is a good time for the Christmas shoppers to get busy with their purchases for the eventful occasion.

We think that the South Plains farmers were hit a pretty hard blow yesterday when the government estimate brought the market down to $7.50 per bale. An increase of nearly 200,000 bales in the 1927 production estimate was given out by the government.

We think that we are not nearly so interested in the elections over the country now as we will be about this time next year.

We think that still the bank robberies over the state continue.

We think that there is no question about it, Mr. Sinclair's money talked out of turn last week in Washington.

Grandson—Doesn't that little boy swear terribly? Little Grandson—Yes'm; he sure does. He don't put no expression in it at all.

OPINIONS

EVERYBODY KEEP COOL Don't lose your head and sell cotton on this break from today's report. This does not materially affect the crop. We are still 6,000,000 bales short of the demand for American cotton. This crop should bring at least 25c and we think will bring more within a few months. The sale and same thing to do is to hold your cotton for the higher price, not less than 25c. This crop is all good cotton and the world needs all the good cotton produced and will pay a good price for it if kept off the present market. WELTON WINN.

BUSINESS PROSPECTS AND ADVERTISING

Prospects for industrial progress and continued business prosperity for 1928 are bright, according to a forecast issued by the president of the Association of National Advertisers.

The executive backed his prediction in part upon the circumstances that 93 percent of the member companies reporting a gross revenue of more than $5,000,000 would maintain or increase their advertising appropriation for next year. Thirty percent, he said, would substantially increase their investment in newspaper, magazine and outdoor advertising.

While this was on our mind, we found in the Dallas News, a local item concerning the question, "Who Pays For Advertising?" Because of the pertinent statements contained therein, we reproduce a portion

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that the first homecoming game in the history of the Lubbock high school is being planned for Friday. There are hundreds of students of the local high school located in Lubbock now and they should readily accept the invitation of the high school officials on this event.

It is reported that the sportsmen of this section are certainly enjoying themselves this season killing the feathered prey. Ducks are more plentiful this year than they have been for some previous seasons.

It is reported that the Lubbock delegation at the Northwest Texas Methodist conference is finding plenty of competition from the other cities of the conference territory. Lubbock invites the conference delegates to the high school building, which can conveniently handle the meeting since an annex is being added to the local church.

YOUR HEALTH

BANANA WINS WAY OUT OF SUSPECTED CLASS

The banana has forced its way out of the foods looked upon with suspicion to the group that men consider the staples of the human dietary. For people in many tropical countries it is the healthiest of foods, rich in carbohydrates and sugar in the diet. This fruit is now abundant, easily obtained and available at a moderate cost.

Because of the skin that covers it, the banana reaches the purchaser in a clean condition. It is easily peeled and therefore readily eaten under any circumstances. It requires no cooking, but it may be prepared in a number of ways to add variety to its taste.

A comparative test by the United States Department of Agriculture shows that the banana has 55.8 per cent of water as against 73.3 per cent for the potato. 1.3 per cent protein as against 2.2 per cent for the potato, 8.5 per cent carbohydrate as against 18.4 per cent for the potato and 0.8 per cent mineral matter as against 1.0 per cent.

LET'S BE NEIGHBORS

In last week's letter from our Eagle Springs correspondent, mention was made of some Abernathy folks being present at a picnic week held at that place that week. The item also continues: "We would like more of the Abernathy people to come out and help us when we have something doing."

To be there would be, in the first place, a courteous response to a cordial invitation. In the second place it would prove to our neighbors that we appreciate the courtesies they confer on us when they attend our "doings."

Abernathy does appreciate the presence of her neighbor folks at her own "doings," and will readily acknowledge their presence on these occasions aids materially in their success. So, if for nothing else than the carrying out of the saying "Turn about's fair play," Abernathy folks should help to make our neighbors' picnic a successful one.

But there is something more to it than that. It is not necessary that Abernathy folks should consider it a duty to attend these affairs. They should go, rather, expecting to have as good a time there as they would have at home—and they will not be disappointed.

So, if one of our neighbor committees puts on something, make just as much effort into attending it as you would into attending something similar in Abernathy. You will have just as good a time there as you would if it were held in Abernathy, and you'll have had the satisfaction of knowing that you have not only contributed to the success of that gathering, but that you have done it just as hard to estimate. One community can do much for the other, if they are on friendly terms and there is certainly no good reason why every neighborhood should not be friendly toward the other.

With every community on the South Plains working together there can be much done in this section for the development of the country. All working together will bring great results and there will be greater development and greater prosperity in the country.

THE REAL HEROES.

The sea braves man. One of the finest is Captain T. Gooch of the Dutch tanker, Barandrecht, which docked at Baytown, Texas, last Friday.

It was Captain Gooch's ship and crew which rescued Ruth Elder and Captain Haldeman, the American fliers Paris-bound who were forced down at sea.

Citizens of Wheeling, W. Va., appreciating the risk the ship and crew ran in making the rescue and wishing to show their appreciation, made up a purse of $1,000 and asked the Associated Press to distribute $100 to Captain Gooch, $100 to the commander of the life boat which effected the rescue, and $800 for the crew.

It took a lot of argument to get the captain to accept the money. He turned it down flat at first, but finally came down to the Wheeling viewpoint and accepted the gift—only to pass it along to the commander of the life boat and the crew.

SET EGG STANDARD

Directors were named at a meeting held at Plainview, Wednesday, October 19, and by-laws adopted in the creation of the Plains Poultry Association, which will serve to produce and market a highly standardized quality of eggs. The counties included in the organization are Floyd, DeWitt, Lamb, Brecken and Bailey.

The meeting Wednesday was the outgrowth of a series of meetings following the return from a tour of the western states of California, Utah and Colorado, where she studied the operation of similar poultry organizations in those states.

The meeting Wednesday was a general meeting of farmers of Hale county who authorized a temporary organization committee to

Husband Shirks Housekeeping

Further, five per cent of the new human habitations built last year were apartment houses, and only two out of every five families on the continent now live in the one-family dwellings which used to be designated under the group institutional title of "the family house."

These are the sober statistics of the United States Department of Labor, so the facts must be so.

Once again there can be stated a great hue and cry over the disappearance of family life. The kind that flourished in that inter-little period known as the good old days. Front yard, back yard, side yard, cellar and attic are as out of date as the human appendix, and the kitchen has devolved into a cubbyhole of infinitesimal dimensions.

Of course the reformers will shout that the modern woman is the cause of it all. She's too lazy to keep house, too intent upon her bridge and her novels and her makeup and what's going on at the movies.

Admit, if you must, that the home is not as it was, or that it just is not, but put the blame on the gentleness of the house as well as the lady.—Van Cover writes.

THE BARGAIN HUNTER

When wife goes shopping, she walks 40 miles, and both of her "toasties" are sore. And comes home at night looking like a dead ferret, and "ladies with bundles galore!" And when she has rested, she snatches the strings. And opens the parcels she's bought. And holds up to view all the wonderful things— "The marvelous 'bargain' she's bought!" She stifles them closely—examines each one. Until she has staid up the stairs. And early next morning, there's a knock on the door. Her mind changed—and she shows all back. —James Edward Thompson.

AIRPLANE SMASH

 able to answer most questions. Among the spectators were several with a rudimentary knowledge of flying. The general opinion seemed to have been that the pilot evidently hit an air pocket while "banking" and the plane dashed to earth before it was possible to regain control. Other spectators said that a new propeller had been tried on the plane and that this possibly might have been responsible for the crash. The motor did not "stall," according to the version told by witnesses.

Horn Makes Statement.
 Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the Tech, declared last night that the planes had Tuesday been cautioned not to alight on the Tech grounds. Dr. Horn expressed deep regret over the accident, and wished it made clear that the order warning the planes not to land at the Tech had been prompted by a fear that unavoidable accidents might ensue.

It was likewise made known that orders had been given against "airplane rides" at the girls' dormitories. Dr. Horn was a constant and anxious attendant at the surgical room of the Lubbock sanitarium last night.

Dr. H. W. English, V. V. Clark and D. D. Cross examined Amosonette. Staff surgeons at the Lubbock sanitarium examined the boy and girl.

 and conference visitors were inducted. This afternoon ministers and laymen were taken for a sight-seeing tour of the city and adjacent country including a jaunt around Lookout Mountain.

Speaks on Endowment
 Dr. C. W. Wetzel, St. Louis, spoke on the superannuate endowment. This conference he said was assigned a five year suit to raise $75,000 and had raised to date only $58,000 of which amount about fifty-six hundred dollars had been realized this year. Bishop Moore urged ministers to place this cause prominently and "worthily" before their congregations.

Rev. Frank Sonderdonk, superintendent of Mexican missions, preached a mountain-top sermon this afternoon to a capacity audience. The Sunday school anniversary was observed. The Abilene district through Presiding Elder W. E. Lyon, reported 1,351 additions, 669 on profession of faith and 762 net gain. Salaries 98 per cent raised and conference claims 88 per cent. Anarillo district had $12 additions, 425 by vow, 79 infants baptized, and nineteen charges paid out in full. The Clarendon district had 956 conversions and one thousand additions.

A quarter million dollar building program is now on. The Stamford district, Rev. J. H. Hamblin, presiding elder, reported nine hundred and 764 accessions. Two new churches were built. Advance reports indicate the conference will show the greatest gains in conversions and membership since it was created eighteen years ago.

VISITORS HONORED

 night, arriving at Stamford Tuesday. Joined by Homer D. Wade there, the men went to Spur where they spent Tuesday night at the Spur ranch headquarters. A cowboy breakfast Wednesday morning was followed by a round-up and rodeo and noon found them at Crosbyton, where they were the luncheon guests of the Crosbyton Chamber of Commerce.

Program at Crosbyton.
 Following the luncheon, presided over by W. M. Romaine, president of the Crosbyton chamber, an informal program was held, the principal part of which was a short talk by Mr. Schuler. After other members of the party had expressed their appreciation of Crosbyton's hospitality the trip to Lubbock, headed by Lubbock Chamber of Commerce officials, was begun, the visitors arriving here yesterday afternoon.

At the banquet held last night the visitors were frank in their praise of Texas and in expressing the belief that the agricultural future of the South Plains is great. Mr. Schuler is gathering first hand information from which he will publish an article in the Country Gentleman concerning agricultural possibilities in Texas.

LORING SCHULER

 starvation follows down here in the South Plains," he said last night. "I'd like to show them just what you have here now and then improve them with your possibilities."

Doesn't Blame The Ladies
 Just because the women are not wearing cotton underwear and stockings anymore is no reason why the staple will be in less demand, the visiting editor said. Cotton which formerly went into stockings and underwear now goes into tires and paint for automobiles—a demand which will increase rather than decrease and the world will always be using the entire cotton supply, he thinks.

"Under ordinary conditions and cheap production costs 20 to 25 cents per pound is a good and fair price for cotton," said Mr. Schuler. "Run the price higher than that, and you'll see England, South Africa, Egypt, South and Central America, parts of India and every other possible spot on the globe rushing pell-mell into the cotton raising business. United States should hold the monopoly on cotton and should profit by Great Britain's failure to hold its rubber monopoly. Invite competition from other parts of the world and you'll see not only a greatly lowered price but an over-supply."

Is Strong For Texas
 Mr. Schuler believes Texas is advancing more rapidly than any other state in the union and feels that its agricultural resources have been scarcely tapped. He was high in his praise of agricultural colleges in this state because they are "the only ones in the country which have a larger enrollment now than ten years ago." "I take off my hat to the wonderful work done by Texas A. and M.," the visitor said. "I see but one thing wrong with Texas and that is Texas doesn't advertise itself enough."

The bumper crop of last year, which because of its size sold for 11 cents per pound and failed to bring prosperity, was a bad thing for a while but will make for better conditions for a number of years to come, Mr. Schuler pointed out. "The spinning industry, prior to last year, was sinking, sinking, sinking," he said. "One good year was all it needed to put it on its feet. It got that year last year and everything is all right now."

Mr. Schuler advises South Plains farmers to look to cotton for their profit each year but to other crops, such as grain sorghum, and vegetables for supplying food to both humans and stock. "Land should be treated to some rotation of crops," he reminded, "if it is to retain its necessary ingredients."

WAR ON BANDITS

 States in the knowledge of officials of the Texas Bankers Association. The largest previous one was offered by the Illinois Bankers Association and helped materially to change a similar situation in that state.

During the last two months more than a dozen banks have been robbed of amounts ranging from a few dollars to about $9,809, and averaging about $1,466, according to records of the association. Within the last ten days, however, robberies have been reported from widely separated sections of the state about every other day.

BANDS ROBBERS HEAD TO BROWNWOOD
 BANGS, TEXAS, Nov. 9 (AP)—Four bandits held up the First State Bank of Bangs, nine miles west of Brownwood, at 9:50 o'clock Wednesday and escaped with between $6,000 and $9,000, after locking four employees and three customers, two of them women, in the vault.

Three men, one of them masked, entered the bank, while the fourth remained in a closed automobile in which they escaped. The imprisoned employees escaped from the vault within two minutes. No shots were fired and crowds on the streets were unaware that a robbery had occurred, until bank employees gave the warning.

The bandits were first reported as going toward Triekham, southwest of Bangs, but it was said later they were headed in the direction of Brownwood.

MINNESOTA BANK LOOTED BY YEGGS
 IRONTON, Minn., Nov. 9 (AP)—Four men robbed the First National Bank of Ironton today and escaped with $2,500 in currency and gold. Three men entered the bank just before closing time, while the fourth remained outside in the large sedan that was used in making the escape. Three bank attaches and a patron were locked in the vault after it had been looted of the money that was to be used in meeting the payroll checks at ten mines near here. Tomorrow is payday. It was fully thirty minutes after the bandits fled that noise made by the imprisoned men attracted the attention of a shoemaker occupying a shop in the basement of the bank building and the men were released.

Thugs Take Money, Abuse Owner, Then Set His Automobile On Fire Near Dallas
 WAXAHACHIE, Tex., Nov. 9 (AP)—H. H. Miller was held up, abused and robbed by two men who then set fire to his automobile near Rockett early Wednesday, he reported to Sheriff Lee.

After robbing him the men unsuccessfully tried to fire the car and after the attempt failed tore off a piece of Miller's shirt, soaked it in gasoline and used it as a torch to finish the job, their victim said.

NORFLEET

The Manhunter's Own True Story
by Gordon Hines

WHAT HAS BEEN TOLD:—

Frank Norfleet, a Texas rancher, is wanted out of $10,000 by a gang led by Joe Furey. He resolves to break up the ring. It costs his last penny. After some effort he locates two of his men in California and follows clues that lead to Florida where he is double-crossed and handicapped by police officers who seem to stand in with the winders. After considerable discouraging effort, he goes home for a rest. Then he follows a clue that sends him to the Joe Furey home in Glendale, California, and to the apartment of a woman Furey keeps in San Francisco. While in San Francisco he receives a tip from an officer that Joe Furey is in San Diego. He rushes to that place where his search is fruitless. He goes to Tinajas, Mexico, knowing that many crooks hang out there. Almost broke he risks all but $3.00 of his money, placing it on a Texas horse. The race is close and exciting and the Texas animal comes in first. Norfleet leaves considerably enriched. He is very angry, believing that the San Francisco officer has deliberately double-crossed him and determines to rush back and settle things with him in no uncertain manner. His mind seething with rage he is in a murderous mood when he accidentally meets with an old woman friend from Texas.

Chapter Twenty-eight
I told her how I had been double-crossed and how I had been almost crazy with anger and vengeance. She did not say a word, but kept patting my hand and nodding as if she understood how I felt about it.

My recital of my experiences reminded the venerable dame and after a hesitating moment, I jerked away from the old lady and ran from the porch into the street, back toward the taxi station.

It occurred to me that I had conducted myself badly in return for the old lady's kindness, and I stopped, hesitated and looked about. She was there behind me—close. Her hand was on my arm and she was trying to calm me.

"Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord! Vengeance is mine!"

I caught my breath and looked into her face. So benign a face—so full of suffering—so pleading and hopeful.

"Remember, Frank—vengeance is mine!" She looked at me for a moment then relaxed her grip, her face relieved. She must have seen a change in my own face, for she turned about and walked away, back by the hill. I watched her, then turned and looked out over the ocean from that little hillside. Something had happened to me. I was calm.

I sauntered on down the hill, content to wait for a train to Los Angeles.

Back in Los Angeles, the sheriff's office, Lips, Anderson, Manning. All there, deep in confidential conversation. Apparently the Man in the Moon was watching the Furey home. Their peculiar expressions as they saw me gave me another sickening thud.

I knew—I didn't know why—that I had been double-crossed again. They couldn't conceal it. I couldn't afford to say anything. There we were, all embarrassed.

"Why the husky voice?" asked Manning as I spoke to them.

I hadn't noticed that it was husky. Perhaps it would be well to let him believe it was.

"Tonditja," I wheezed, affecting a vocal discomfort. It wouldn't be a bad idea to seem to be deaf, too. I thought, so I cupped my hand to my ear as he spoke again. Then I asked him to repeat, over and over, the things that he would say to me. I asked him if there were any new developments, and he shouted that there were none. They winked at each other and remarked in tones that were intended to be below the range of my deaf ears, that my condition was the only thing that had developed since I left. They did a lot of horse-laughing, and one of them finally suggested a salve that would relieve me. To make good my bluff, I had to go out and buy a jar of the smelly stuff and grease myself up with it until I could hardly get my breath. I went back to the sheriff's office smelling like an exploded pharmacy.

I stayed around for several days, believing that, if I affected deafness until they got accustomed to yelling at me, they would let something drop, not voice, which might enlighten me. They made several references to me as a "damned old fool" and, one day, one of them remarked that "the old sap would get an awful wallop if he only knew the real truth." These things convinced me that I was barking up the wrong tree. If I expected help from this gang, it was certain that they knew more about Furey than they would tell me.

I went to see Woolwin. He had heard nothing new.

Every possible clue had led to a blank wall, except the matter of following up the Stamford Court investigation, in San Francisco. I convinced my stars that I had confidence in no officers about this.

Even that seemed useless, for Lucille Carson was watching that situation as well as I could do it myself. I had learned, with justification, that the young lady was a close mouth, inspected as she was.

I decided to try the telegraph office to see if Furey had communicated with the Glendale family since last week. Anderson had done whatever possible thing they had done to the man. This took some money, but I got a receipt from a man with the telegraph organization that I would be notified if anything was transmitted between Furey and his family.

One, two, three days passed. No word. A telephone call to my party in the telegraph office. No, there was no news. More waiting—impatient, dull, interminable waiting. I sat in my hotel room. I sat in the sheriff's office, making myself as big a nuisance as possible, affecting deafness and hoping for an inadvertent tip.

Then, one night, my room phone rang. Joe Furey had wired a considerable sum of money to his wife, as a Christmas present, from Jacksonville, Florida!

It was 10:30 P. M. The next train for Jacksonville left at 2 a. m. An eternity! What would I do with all that time.

Christmas was but a day or so away. I would try to stop over at home for Christmas dinner. Then, I thought of some bouquets of bright desert flowers I had seen in the window of a florist's shop near the hotel. I wondered if a bunch of them would keep until I could get home. I'd try it, anyway.

Foisting through the lobby, I met Mrs. Tinkle, the wife of the manager and one of the guests, a Mrs. Street whom I had met some days before. We had chatted idly in the lobby several evenings. I had also seen this little lady somewhere in Frisco, but could not recall where when he accidentally met with an old woman friend from Texas.

I had told her I was from Olin Junction, Wyoming, and that I had hoped to reach home in time to have Christmas dinner with my family. My train time drew near and she wished me a very Merry Christmas and bade me good-by.

Littfield, Texas, an hour's ride from my ranch, would be my first stop I planned running over by automobile, to give my family a great surprise. I told no one that I was going to Jacksonville, Florida. I hoped to have Christmas dinner with my family, then catch the next train for Florida, via Fort Worth, where I would get necessary papers for the arrest of Furey if I was lucky enough to find him.

Not a hitch occurred in my plans, and I walked in on my folks just as they were sitting down to the Christmas dinner. Shouts of joy arose at my appearance. My wife, God bless her, threw herself into my arms, and my little daughter clung to me as if she would never let go. My son, Pete, gripped my hand in an awkward way that made me realize that he had already grown beyond the age when I could greet him like a child.

Oh, it was happiness, that brief respite, snatched from precious time, it filled me with new courage and determination to keep on. It was these others like them that I must crush the swindling ring. No matter how bungling and amateurish I might be about it, I must be effective.

And the everlasting, harassing money question. It was money, money, money. There never seemed to be enough, yet we always found what we had to have. More sacrifices, more selling of prized stock and goods. My wife had sent me a renittance while I was in California and I had wondered how in the world she had raised the money. I asked her and she hesitated and quickly changed the subject. She turned away after a moment to keep me from seeing her as she brushed a tear away with her apron. I fell into the changed conversation, but I was perplexed and worried.

A little later, I visited the barn. She had tried to keep me in the house and my suspicions were aroused. I went out and sauntered through the stalls. There were a few new animals, cheap, poor ones, that I did not report. One old broken-down mare that we had owned for years raised her ears and nickered a hoody. I went to her and stroked her neck, looking over the partition for Horset. The stall was empty. I walked to the door and scanned the barnyard. No Horset. I walked out to the pasture gate and tried to spot him grazing in the large field. He was not there. Perhaps he was on the big range, but that was strange. He was always kept near the house, for the whole family loved to ride him.

Horset was the best cow-horse a man ever owned. He knew more about handling cattle than lots of men. We loved him for his absolute dependability and, I reckon, because he loved every one of us. I had been offered, time after time, whatever price I would demand for him, but no amount could ever tempt me.

Where was he now? I walked back toward the house and, as I drew near I could see my wife's face at a window; she saw me coming, a curdling fluttered and she was gone. I walked faster. I reached the house and entered, and she was unwilling to be seen. The others, in the front rooms, were shouting and laughing happily over Christmas gifts. I went to my bedroom and there was my wife, stretched across the bed, sobbing.

"Mhhhh! What's the matter?" I bent over her and tried to stay her tears. She straightened a little, tried to look at me, then turned away.

"Frank—it's—it's Horset—I've—"

Then I knew. She had sold him—had had to sell him to get the money I had wired for and here she was, ashamed to face me when she should have known that I knew how it tore her own heartstrings to part with him. I gathered her into my arms and soothed her, and, after a bit, she sobbed out the story.

HOMELESS, hungry, stunned—350,000 residents of the Mississippi Valley watched the work and savings of a lifetime drift away in the surge of an angry flood-tide.

Then, helpless, they turned to the Red Cross as millions of others have turned before in time of peril. And as always—the Red Cross, your Red Cross, was ready.

The Red Cross fed them—gave them 1,000,000 meals a day when the flood was at its height; the Red Cross clothed them, gave them expert medical attention and shelter through months of anguish and despair.

And now the Red Cross is rebuilding their homes, helping to replace the belongings which they labored so hard to acquire. Your membership and support of the Red Cross over the past years is what is making this work possible.
