Relief From Bitter Cold On Horizon

By The Associated Press

Bitter cold stung wide areas in the Midwest again today but some relief from winter's coldest weather appeared possible.

The temperature was near 40-below zero in sections of northern Minnesota and far below zero in other parts of the state and in eastern sections of the Dakotas and Wisconsin. The subzero belt extended into parts of Iowa, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana. The cold air headed into the Northeast.

Warmer air spread into sections of the Western Plains. Temperatures in western sections of Nebraska and the Dakotas and northwestern Montana were near freezing after several days of below zero.

The Weather Bureau said temperatures were expected to moderate in the northern and central Plains and Upper Mississippi Valley.

Light snow fell along the leading edge of the cold air into New England, with rain mixed with snow in southern New England. Snow flurries, with gusty winds, whirled across areas in the Great Lakes.

The lowest readings were 42 below zero at Hibbing in northern Minnesota and 41 below at International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border. It was 80 at Key West, Fla., a spread of more than 100 degrees from the Minnesota readings. The 60s prevailed in most southern parts of Florida and Texas.

Chicago had its coldest day since Dec. 31, 1963, 2 below zero.

Cost Totals 3.38 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today for $3.38 billion in foreign aid to promote the defense and economic strength of free countries.

Johnson's proposal—$1.17 billion in arms aid and $2.21 billion in economic assistance during the coming fiscal year—was the lowest such presidential request since the beginning of massive foreign aid under the Marshall Plan after World War II.

Johnson stressed continued efforts to streamline the program.

In a special message to Congress outlining the 1965-66 aid program, Johnson said more than a half-billion dollars will be used for weapons and economic help to counter Communist guerrillas in Viet Nam and Laos.

"Indeed, $500 million may not be enough," the President said.

He said he would ask an additiona. open-end "standby authorization," for use if he decides later that more money is needed "to protect our interests there" against the Reds' "frontal attack."

The presidential message left undecided some touchy matters that are likely to come up in Congress as it begins work on the bills to set ceilings for, and name the amounts of, the aid programs for the coming year.

The message did not say whether further aid will be going to Egypt and Indonesia, whose presidents have publicly scorned U.S. assistance.

Administration officials say direct aid to those two countries is now small. Nevertheless there have been protests in Congress against continuing any part of it.

Also left open was whether the specific legislation — to be sent to Congress later — will be in one package or in separate bills. Senate and House members are at odds on this. Administration officials said the economic and military measures might be split this year.

The $3.38 billion Johnson is seeking compares with the approximately $3.52 billion he sought, and the $3.25 billion he got, from Congress last year. Previous presidential foreign aid requests have run up to the $8.5 billion proposed by President Harry S. Truman in 1952.

Administration officials describe the new proposal as a bare bones program and express hope Congress will not cut deeply into it. Such reductions in the past have ranged as high as a billion dollars.

Sketching the aims of the program, Johnson told Congress that amid the conflict and confusion of a turbulent world "the United States holds firm to its primary goal — a world of stability, freedom and peace, where independent nations can enjoy the benefits of modern knowledge."

"Here is our difference with the Communists — and our strength. They would use their skills to forge new chains of tyranny. We would use ours to free men from the bonds of the past," he said.

Outline Of Aid Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is President Johnson's foreign aid message to Congress at a glance:

Total aid — $3.38 billion, $1.17 billion for military assistance and $2.21 billion for other categories, "the smallest in the history of the foreign aid program" and $136 million below last year's request.

Military aid — "Nearly three quarters of the money will go to 11 countries around the great arc from Greece to Korea. Over $500 million will be deployed to meet the frontal attack in Viet Nam and Laos."

Viet Nam emergency fund — Asked for an additional open end authorization for use in Viet Nam if $500 million proves too little to contain communism.

Alliance for Progress — $580 million for aid to Latin-American nations, up $70 million over last year.

IF REDS DON'T PAY

US Threatens To Review UN Funds

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States is reported telling United Nations members that it will take a second look at the big sums it pours into U.N. projects if they let the Soviet Union keep its General Assembly vote without settling its peacekeeping debts.

Informants said U.S. officials were relaying this warning to delegates as the time nears for the threatened showdown over Soviet refusal to pay U.N. peacekeeping assessments.

In another effort to avoid a clash when the assembly resumes Monday, Secretary-General U Thant called in U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson and Soveit Chief Delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko Wednesday.

Neither Stevenson nor Fedorenko gave any indication whether any progress had been made toward breaking the deadlock.

Philippine Ambassador Salvador P. Lopez, who talked with Thant after he saw Stevenson, told reporters he saw no sign of a breakthrough.

Thant has been sounding out the two powers on an Asian-African plan to resolve the dispute. It would set aside for this session Article 19 of the U.N. charter, which says a member two years in arrears on assessments loses its assembly vote.

This would deny voting rights to Russia, France and 16 other nations who are two years or more behind because of their refusal to pay for the Congo and Middle East operations.

The plan also calls for voluntary contributions to a rescue fund to help clear up the peacekeeping deficit of nearly $86 million.

The United States has agreed to the voluntary contributions but refuses to waive Article 19.

Defendants Win Suit On Slant Wells

TYLER (AP)—A group of defendants won Wednesday an $800,000 damage suit brought by Cities Service Oil Co. and others.

The oil companies claimed the defendants took petroleum from beneath Cities Service leases in Gregg County by slant drilling of oil wells.

The federal jury was asked to answer a number of queries. The first query was whether it believed the defendants had taken oil from beneath the plaintiffs' leases. The answer was "no," making the answering of the remainder unnecessary.

Defendants were Douglas Godfrey, J. W. Baton, Kelley Godfrey and Reid Allgood, all of Longview, and Kathryn Elizabeth Peterson of Kilgore, as independent executor of the estate of Jack Peterson, deceased.

Plaintiffs were Cities Service Co., Cities Service Oil Co. and Lutex Oil and Gas Corp.

Dismissed earlier as defendants were Carter Jones Drilling Co., Inc.; Carter Jones Drilling Co., a co-partnership; J. K. Maxwell; H. C. Jones; and W. T. Maxwell, all of East Texas.

Testimony lasted about nine days.

POLL TAX SALES UP

With two elections in 1965 announced and discussed this week, poll tax sales have taken a decided upturn.

At noon today 889 poll taxes had been sold, and 612 exemptions had been issued at the Tax Assessor - Collector's office in the courthouse.

The elections which are already under discussion for the coming year are those in which three members will be chosen for the school board, and also the election in which three councilmen and a mayor will be elected. Poll taxes or exemptions are necessary before one may vote in these elections, or any other state or local elections which will be held this year.

Turkey Jars N-Fleet Plan

By ENDRE MARTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Turkey has pulled out of the proposed multilateral nuclear fleet, knocking another pin out from under the already wobbly project.

The notification was given Washington Wednesday, but officials say they are not surprised. The State Department has been aware of Turkey's lack of enthusiasm for about two months.

Turkey borders Russia, and officials speculated that Moscow's stiff opposition to MLF might have had something to do with the decision.

Uncle Sam's pet tiger already has picked up more than its share of thorns. France attacked MLF violently last month. Britain's new Labor government has been working on alternative plans. Other Allies are cool. In fact, West Germany is the only major Western power to see MLF in the same light that Washington does.

Turkey's desertion is the first, however, and officials consider it a heavy psychological blow. Others, it is feared, might follow suit.

MLF is a proposal for a separate force of surface ships, equipped with nuclear-tipped Polaris missiles and manned by a mixed crew of Allied sailors. In this way America's allies would share in a nuclear force and yet proliferation of nuclear weapons would be avoided.

U.S. policymakers figure that major countries — West Germany is prominent in their thinking — would build an independent nuclear force of their own if they failed to share in atomic control.

Turkey was one of eight Allied nations studying the political, military, technical, and financial possibilities of the plan to launch the fleet of 25 vessels equipped with 200 Polaris missiles. An 11-man Turkish contingent is on the Ricketts, an American destroyer operating experimentally with a seven-nation crew. U.S. officials expect the Turks to be pulled off.

Burch Takes Rap For GOP Snafu

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Outgoing Republican National Chairman Dean Burch took the rap for the conservative cause he championed in a campaign he did not control.

It was Barry Goldwater's show, and Burch was Goldwater's man. When the show flopped, only Burch was around to face the critics.

Goldwater and his influence were their real target. But the former senator was out of public view, and the key men in his campaign policy decisions were back in private life.

During the futile effort to keep his job, Burch argued that he was a technician, not a theoretician. And he insisted he had done his technical chores well.

But that was never the argument. To his liberal and moderate critics Burch was simply a symbol of Goldwater, a leader they never relished.

Every step Burch took in hope of holding on only tied him closer to Goldwater, without whom he would never have had the job in the first place.

Perhaps his status was best dramatized on the December day when Burch sat across the hall while Goldwater, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon talked about his future.

A newcomer to top-level national politics, Burch could only turn to Goldwater for help in the effort to withstand his foes.

Each time the chairman did so, his own image as a symbol of the defeated presidential nominee and the party's conservative wing — an image Burch acknowledged — became more firmly set.

Aside from Goldwater and former Rep. William E. Miller, Goldwater's running mate, Burch had no top-level allies to plead his cause. As a newcomer he lacked the store of political contact and past-due favors that might have helped his losing campaign.

Ray C. Bliss, the man Goldwater finally accepted as a replacement, has his own store of alliances, built during 16 years as Ohio party chairman.

Arguing Burch's competence, Goldwater pointed to the surplus in the National Committee's treasury. Its size has not been disclosed by the committee.

Republican critics answered that there was no point in having dollars left over if the money could have helped avert a landslide loss. Some charged that liberal and moderate candidates were short-changed during the campaign.

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania accused conservative leaders at national headquarters of hoarding the money in anticipation of their defeat.

And soon Burch was busy denying that the committee's bank balance was as big as some reports indicated.

The chairman himself was not the policy maker in the Goldwater campaign. The men who were stepped out of the lineup soon after the election, and Burch stood alone as a visible symbol of the election day debacle.

Texas Solons Mark Today As Organization Work-Day

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN (AP) — Today was marked "work day" on calendars of the 59th legislature.

There were indications, however, the work would consist mostly of more behind - the - scenes organization like that of the two opening days — and a probable quick adjournment until Monday.

Senators were first to complete their session — opening ceremonies and routines. Lt. Gov. Preston Smith announced assignments for the Senate's 24 standing committees Wednesday, clearing the way for introduction of bills.

Due to be SB No. 1 was the Legislative Budget Board's recommended $3.5 billion appropriations bill offered by Sen. Borsey Hardeman of San Angelo, head of the powerful Senate Finance Committee.

This measure was sent to a subcommittee for a study that will continue until Hardeman's group has completed public hearings and is ready to recommend its version of an appropriations bill, probably late in the session.

Smith said that by agreement with House Speaker Ben Barnes, the Senate will originate public hearings on an appropriations bill to prevent any delay.

The House, slowed in its opening routine by a last minute speaker's race, marks time while Barnes continues interviewing members for assignments to the 43 standing committees.

Barnes has said he hopes to make the assignments Jan. 28, the day after Gov. John Connally's address to a joint session.

Connally, a host of legislators and other state officials leave Sunday to join an expected crowd of about 500 Texans in Washington for the Jan. 20 inauguration of President Johnson.

There was speculation that both houses might recess from day to day next week because absentees would make it hard, particularly in the Senate, to get a quorum for doing business.

The only definite business scheduled next week is a canvass Monday by committees from both chambers of the Nov. 3 voting for the governor and lieutenant governor, as required by the Texas Constitution.

Newsboy Shot While Delivering Papers

STRATFORD, Tex. (AP) — Eddie Williams, 14, was shot in the shoulder early today while delivering newspapers on his motor scooter.

Sheriff Doc Wilson said the shot came from a vacant area and that he was investigating.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Williams, was taken to Dumas, 30 miles south of here, where he was reported in good condition.

Big Crowd Due For CC Banquet

A big attendance appeared in prospect today for the annual banquet of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, scheduled for Friday evening.

The banquet is set for 7 p.m. tomorrow in the Snyder High School Cafeteria.

Ticket sales this morning already had gone over the 300 mark, and sales were continuing at a steady pace. A ticket sales committee, headed by Bug England, has been working since Monday morning. Members of the Chamber's Producer's Club have been accepting orders and delivering tickets throughout the week. In connection with the banquet promotion, the Producers are wearing their gold coats this week so that they may be easily recognizable by anyone desiring banquet tickets. Banquet tickets are priced at $2.50 each.

The banquet program will feature an address by Preston Smith, Lieutenant Governor of Texas.

There will be special entertainment, and another highlight of the banquet program will be the presentation of the "Outstanding Citizen Award."

The Chamber of Commerce administration will officially change hands, as new officers and directors are recognized. W. Felix Jones, executive vice president of Snyder National Bank, is the 1965 president. The retiring president is John Boren, local insurance man.

Believes Taxpayer Should Foot Bill

NEW YORK (AP) — Marion B. Folsom, former secretary of health, education and welfare, says the taxpayer — not the patient — should pay for hospital training and research programs.

Because these costs are used in determining the hospital rate structure, he said at a news conference Wednesday, it has placed a heavy financial burden on patients and hospital insurance programs. Folsom is chairman of a New York State Committee on Hospital Costs.

Ruby Transcripts Reach Destination

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN (AP)—Jack Ruby's appeal—three boxes of court material weighing 380 pounds—reached the Court of Criminal Appeals today.

The appellate court will consider the death sentence assessed Ruby for killing Lee Harvey Oswald, assassin of President Kennedy.

One of the first items pulled from the cardboard boxes was a snub-nosed .38 caliber revolver, the murder weapon.

Two boxes, about 3 feet high, were filled with newspapers tied with a string, and the other had the trial manuscript, statement of facts and exhibits, such as photographs.

Court clerk Glenn Haynes said a date for oral arguments before the state's highest tribunal for criminal cases will be set later today, probably for March.

Ruby was convicted March 14 of shooting Oswald to death in the basement of Dallas police headquarters Nov. 14, 1963, two days after Kennedy's assassination.

Ruby, 53, a former Dallas night club owner, is in the Dallas County jail.

The trial was marked by defense lawyer Melvin Belli's tirade against the Dallas court after the verdict was announced.

Belli contended Ruby was insane.

Belli, 57, was fired shortly after the trial. Since then, several famous lawyers were retained, then either quit or were dismissed by Ruby's relatives. Phil Burleson of Dallas has been with the case since pretrial days.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I know that, technically, my sister's husband is MY brother-in-law, but does that make him my husband's brother-in-law, too? Also, my husband has three married sisters. I know that their husbands are my husband's brothers-in-law, but what are they, technically speaking that is, to me? And while I'm asking, are my aunts and uncles my husband's aunts and uncles, too? And how about cousins?

JUST TECHNICAL

DEAR TECHNICAL: Technically, your sister's husband is YOUR brother-in-law, not your husband's. And neither are your husband's brothers - in - law YOURS. Your aunts, uncles and cousins are not your husband's, technically. Nor are his yours. But (and this is a very big "but") in most healthy marriages, both husband and wife "take on" the relatives of their spouses as their own. And don't get too "technical" or you might give the impression that you are trying to disclaim relationship to your husband's relatives.

DEAR ABBY: I was unemployed when I met my wife, but she said she'd marry me anyway and she would work until I found a job I could handle with my bum back. We've been married 11 years, and I'll admit I haven't worked much, but it's because of my back. I've been to all kinds of doctors and not one of them has been able to help me, so they say it is all in my head and I am just lazy. I am NOT lazy and it is NOT all in my head. When I wake up in the morning my back feels like a locomotive ran over it. Now my wife refuses to give me any money. Can I sue for non-support?

BAD BACK

DEAR BAD BACK: A lawyer can tell you whether you can sue or not. It sounds to me like a case of not enough backbone and too much wishbone.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: You told the girl whose "wonderful" fiance insisted on driving 90 and 100 miles an hour that you hoped she looked good in black. I liked your answer. I also had a "wonderful" fiance who loved to speed. I knew it when I became engaged to him, but loved him too much to break off with him.

One night he was doing 85 on wet pavement and we skidded into a pole. My right leg was so badly mangled it had to be amputated near the hip. I was later fitted with an artificial limb, but I must use crutches, too.

After I lost my leg, my fiance lost interest in me. He broke our engagement and married a girl with two legs. I have a good job, live in a nice apartment, but I don't have much fun. If it's true that "men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses," it is truer that men rarely make clutches for girls who use crutches. While girls in love seldom listen to advice, my experience might help some girl break with a speed demon before she spends the rest of her life regretting it.

Carlos Romulo Gets Long-Delayed Medal

MANILA (AP) — Carlos P. Romulo finally received today a medal voted him by the Philippine Congress 14 years ago.

President Diosdado Macapagal presented a congressional gold medal of honor, the only decoration of its kind ever issued by the Philippines, to the veteran diplomat on his 65th birth anniversary. The citation spoke of Romulo's "distinguished service to the Philippines and to the cause of world peace."

Burton Says Renunciation Was All Elizabeth's Idea

LONDON (AP) — Richard Burton says Elizabeth Taylor's decision to renounce her American citizenship was her idea.

"I had nothing to do with it at all," the brunette beauty's Welsh husband said in an interview. "It was entirely Elizabeth's idea.

"She had dual nationality because she was born in London of American parents and had always used her American nationality. Then, about a year ago, she decided she would like to be British.

"While we were in the United States, Elizabeth applied for and got a British passport. She first used it when we came across on the Queen Elizabeth last October."

In October, Miss Taylor arranged with the U.S. Embassy in Paris to send a consular official to her hotel so that she could renounce her American citizenship. The State Department refused to recognize her renunciation because it was not in the prescribed form. Miss Taylor refused to forswear allegiance and loyalty to the United States.

"She has been using her British passport since last October and it was apparently only last week in Paris that someone noticed it," Burton said.

Burton has just started work in the lead role of a cold-war espionage movie being filmed in London.

John Springer, Miss Taylor's press agent, denied that she wants to give up her American citizenship to escape American taxes on her earnings.

"That certainly was not her idea," said Springer. "In fact we don't even know if she will gain a tax advantage out of this switch of nationality. If she does, it will be an unlooked for result — a sort of fringe benefit."

An official of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service in London said the general rule is that an American citizen living abroad is liable to pay U.S. taxes on income earned abroad in excess of $20,000 annually.

Any income tax paid to a foreign government would be credited against the U.S. taxes for which he or she was liable, he said. In general, British subjects living abroad pay no income tax.

Pastor Has Haven For Night People

By MARGARET SCHERF

CHICAGO (AP) — Amid the gaudy neon lights which awaken Rush Street at dusk is a small desk lamp, illuminating in a second-story window a narrow white sign: "Night Pastor."

Behind it, six nights a week, sits the Rev. Robert H. Owen, minister to the "night people" — the bartenders, B-girls, musicians, cabbies and cooks of Chicago's near North Side entertainment strip.

Father Owen, 40, a Protestant Episcopal priest with a wife and six children, describes his work as an "offbeat ministry." His comments during an interview Wednesday bore out the description:

—"This guy had just been rolled of $800 and somebody referred him to me. I didn't get the $800 back but I think I made him feel a little better about losing it.

—"A young couple who had been living together for six months saw the sign in the window and came up out of curiosity. Three days later I married them."

—"A lot of drunks wander in. They need to get some swill in them before they can talk about their problems."

New Book Shows The Work Of Top Decorators

Americans had gone through many periods of bad taste in their homes over a long period of time, until decorators appeared on the scene, Russell Lynes, author and arbiter of good taste, points out in a foreword to a distinguished new book, "The Finest Rooms," a compilation of the work, with illustrations of some of America's finest decorators. Katherine Tweed is editor.

Around the turn of the century Elsie de Wolfe set up shop as a decorator, and a new service for homemakers was begun.

"The clutter had accumulated for about 70 years before decorators started to clear it out, and it had been accumulated in the name of taste — indeed to start with, in the name of classical taste," he says, observing that the look inside the house was patterned by the house architecture — a Greek Revival, Gothic Revival or whatever.

But decorators have problems in selling taste.

In a chapter, "The Old and the New," decorator William Baldwin states that "the element and influence of fashion" is a problem in the interior design picture.

"Rooms should have far more permanent value than a seasonal excitement which can become passe in a year or so," he explains. "Color should not be subject to the rules of fashion. Any color at any time may be used, especially if it is the favorite color of the person who is to live with it."

Baldwin points out that "a national horror or orange" has been dispelled, but almost to the extinction of red. He feels disturbed when a client asks him if it is all right to use red when "they are using orange." Who are "they"? Baldwin asks.

Decorators can be versatile. They aren't pinned to one period as is evident in the chapter by long-time decorator Rose Cumming, who says, "I dearly love everything that is beautiful whether it is fish or fowl."

Though she lists all sorts of "likes" — almost all periods and styles of furnishings, a wide range of colors and objects such as bird cages and collections such as frogs, mice, monkeys, horses, dogs, cats, she also dislikes some things.

These include muted and muddled colors, pseudo - beams in ceilings that were never supposed to have them, figured wallpapers, coffee tables and lampshades.

"Wall to wall carpeting to me is unforgivable and not to be tolerated except in bedrooms or on poor staircases," she says. She likes an occasional rug over a pretty floor.

As Marion Hall points out in "Forty Years of Decorating," it is a mistaken notion that the furniture of different countries should not be mixed. "America is polyglot nation," she reminds us "and it is just as appropriate to mix furniture of different countries as it is to bring together people of different countries and let them get on with each other." She likes furniture of all periods and every country.

Decorator Eleanor Brown points out that "taste is relative, that it is the sum total of intellectual and emotional experiences of the individual. Taste, in order to be positive and vital, must be exercised and developed. Taste is changeable and is influenced by environment. . . "

Mrs. Brown is noted for her impeccable taste reflected in anything that has her decorating "stamp" on it.

Of the many color and black and white photographs in the book, one of the most cheerful is the oval drawing room of the late President and Mrs. Kennedy in the White House with its French furniture in cheerful yellows, white and orange, by Mrs. Henry Parish II.

". . . rooms should be timeless. They should have as much imagination and warmth as possible," she says.

George Statcey gives interesting views on hanging pictures, suggesting that they need not be hung by any rigid rule, such as keeping frames level either at the top or bottom. ". . . I prefer to hang them in groups rather than spread them around the room, provided the slide rule isn't used to determine the position. . . "

Michael Taylor observes that people often say to him that he doesn't use much color, when the fact is that there is a tremendous amount of color in his rooms. It's just that there aren't many colors. He likes to build a simple background — usually white or a very light shade — for the use of color, he says.

Tiffeau Shocks The Audience

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The French got in the last word at the closing program of spring style previews for fashion writers here.

It was the American designer series, but the French had a hand Tuesday in each of them one way or another, featuring "ye-ye," "oui-oui" and "oh boy."

The young ye-ye, the French counterpart of the English nods, had stirred the Arkin fashion house to mass produce their kind of crazy, mixed-up fashions.

The ye-ye dresses have very short and flouncy skirts, sexy waistlines, scooped out necklines, droopy ruffles and laces, and a combination of unorthodox fabric patterns.

Although the Christian Dior collection originated at its New York house with the American market in mind, it was one of the late Dior's proteges, Gaston Berthelot, a mere year out of Paris, who created it.

Old-fashioned demureness was his fresh approach, in contract to the non-stop necklines and see-through bodices which came out of the French house last year. Purely Puritan were his gray and white wool checks with crisp white collars, and utterly prissy was a black and white middy dress. Suits were spare, chic and young, with hip-length jackets over swingy skirts.

It was "oui-oui" too for Pauline Trigere, a daughter of France and now America's pride. Typical of a Parisienne's talent for originality were her double-dresses and suits.

Models flipped off skirts and peeled away jackets, or shrugged off V-necked jumper dresses and still had enough and the right kind of clothes on them to go to a cocktail party. Usually the hidden dresses were soft and billowing chiffons or silks in brilliant colors with cowl necklines or giant scarves.

Still another French import, designer Jacques Tiffeau, started the climb of already short skirts when he introduced his collection at the buyers market last fall.

Tiffeau's audience then was shocked. A lot of hemlines have hiked upwards since, and Tuesday's audience hardly batted an eye at his thigh-high shifts worn with thongs that crisscrossed up the legs to the knees.

But it was an "oh boy" reaction that Tiffeau got from the men from such fashions as: a porthole cut in a jumpsuit to frame the model's navel; necklines low, wide and handsome; and a gown slit so high on one side that it exposed much of the lady's hip.

Italians To Show Frocks Saturday

By LOUISE HICKMAN
AP Fashion Writer

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — The Italian spring fashion collections opening here Saturday promise, in the words of a Roman designer, "change, not revolution."

Early statements by designers suggest a new softness for the silhouette, usually concentrated in the skirt.

Many talk about bias alternated with straight of grain. Pleats are fashioned [illegible] Valentino even says "very gathered."

While skirts may be softer and hems wider, the hipline is expected to stay smooth and slim.

The waistline seems to have resumed its normal place after the ups and downs of recent seasons. Sometimes it will be belted, sometimes just loosely clinging.

Forquet will allow the natural form of the body to suggest his silhouette, described as "fluid." Galitzine will permit the body "great liberty of movement," presenting as typical of her new collection "suits no longer classic and rigid but clinging closely to the figure."

Carosa says "waists in the right place, and emphasized."

Antonelli's slim silhouette will show hemlines above the knee. Valentino says short, very short. Fabiani, back in Italy after a fling at Paris, says rather short.

Networks Assign Top Newscasters To Inauguration

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The three television networks will use their top newscasting teams to cover next Wednesday's presidential inauguration, an all-day affair followed by more coverage of the assorted balls in the late evening.

NBC, it seemed, originally had the greatest competitive advantage in the area of the social coverage. Nancy Dickerson, a member of its Washington staff has an acquaintance with the city's political inhabitants which is as encyclopedic as that of Martha Rountree in the days before a television image was considered important.

Mrs. Dickerson moved from CBS to NBC last year. A friend and a favorite of the President and Mrs. Johnson, she has since scored a number of impressive on-camera scoops for NBC and recently emerged as a formidable Washington social leader after the President and his wife attended a party given by the Dickersons.

Mrs. Dickerson can be depended upon to identify the Washington bigwigs and to describe the women's gowns on Wednesday night.

CBS could not be bested in this area, so it has added Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke, wife of the former State Department head of protocol, to its inauguration staff. Mrs. Duke's credentials in the social field are as impressive as Mrs. Dickenson's. She not only knows her way around political and diplomatic Washington, but before her marriage to Duke was Robin Chandler, one of the panelists on "Leave It to the Girls" and a fashion writer. She, also, knows the Johnsons and has been helping Mrs. Johnson choose her inaugural wardrobe.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has finally given his consent, and there will be a television series about the G-men. ABC and Warner Brothers have been working on the project and the series is set for a Saturday night hour starting next fall.

Recommended tonight: "Perry Mason," CBS, 8-9 EST — Barry Sullivan pinch-hits for Raymond Burr in solving "The Case of the Thermal Thief," played by Bettye Ackerman, usually seen in "Ben Casey."

PROMOTED—Col. Robert J. Mills, former Snyder resident, is shown having his "Eagles" pinned on by Mrs. Mills and Col. D. M. Curtis at his recent promotion. Col. Mills has been assigned to NORAD Headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo., for the past three years. The Mills family visited the R. L. Terrys and the L. D. Stones here during Christmas vacation.

Survey Shows US Farms On Decrease

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of American farms declined last year to 3,479,180 —3 per cent below the 1963 level. Not since about 1875 has the number been as small.

Reporting this today, the Agriculture Department estimated there will be a further decline of about 2.7 per cent in 1965. The 1963 total was 3,579,800. The 1965 total was forecast at 3,383,000.

Farm numbers reached a record of 6,812,000 in 1935. Thus in 30 years the number has been cut in half.

Discontinuance of small farming enterprises and merging of larger units with existing farms continued, the department said, as important influences in the reduction.

Farm acreage did not decline as much last year as the number of farms. Land in operating farms was estimated at 1,158,505,000 acres, compared to 1,163,180,000 in 1963 and an indicated 1,154,545,000 for 1965.

The average size of 1964 farms was 333 acres compared to 325 in 1963, 288 in 1959 and an estimated 341 for 1965.

The estimated number of farms in 1964 and 1965, respectively, by states includes Louisiana 68,000 and 65,000, Oklahoma 88,000 and 85,000, Texas 210,000 and 202,000 and New Mexico 15,400 and 14,900.

Domestic Crisis Interrupts Ceremony

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Gov. Harold E. Hughes, being inaugurated for a second term today, had to take time out Wednesday to help free his granddaughter, 2, from a bathroom.

Tracy Otto had locked herself in at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Otto. Tracy's mother called the Governor's Mansion. When the telephone there was busy, she called the Statehouse.

Hughes alerted a rescue squad and called Mrs. Hughes. She sent a worker from the mansion to the daughter's home, and he got Tracy out.

Sukarno Seeks Probe In Borneo

By ANTOINE YARED

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno called today for a new investigation by an African-Asian commission or by the United Nations of whether the people of North Borneo want to remain in Malaysia.

Sukarno said he would abide by the decision of either group and added, "Am I not peaceful?"

"I am for a peaceful solution of the Malaysia issue," Sukarno told newsmen, "but let us investigate the real feelings of the people of North Kalimantan."

North Kalimantan is the name the Indonesians apply to Malaysia's North Borneo states of Sabah and Sarawak.

Asked if he would agree to a second investigation by a United Nations mission in Sabah and Sarawak although Indonesia has withdrawn from the U.N., Sukarno replied:

"Yes, I am calling on (Malaysian prime minister) Tunku Abdul Rahman to come back. I shall abide by any decision of an Afro-Asian study commission. I will (also) abide by any decision of a United Nations commission."

A U.N. team conducted a survey in August and September of 1963 to ascertain whether Sabah and Sarawak wanted to join Malaysia. The result was positive, but Indonesia rejected it with the contention that it was held under the threat of British bayonets.

The federation of Malaysia was proclaimed despite Indonesia's objection in mid-September 1963.

Vic Damone's Custody Rift Is Settled

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — A judge has ended a week of courtroom battling between Vic Damone and his ex-wife, Pier Angeli, by making this ruling on custody of their son, Perry:

Miss Angeli gets legal custody of the boy.

He will live with her in Rome.

But, under new visitation rights, Damone will bring the boy here each July and August.

The boy will spend alternate Easter and Christmas holidays with Damone.

Damone, 35, has held temporary custody of the 9-year-old boy since he brought Perry here from New York Sept. 30. Miss Angeli, 32, charged him with contempt because, she said, he violated the custody agreement following their 1960 divorce which granted her Perry's custody.

Superior Court ruled he was not in contempt, however. The custody agreement was reached Wednesday.

The judge met privately with Perry and explained the settlement to him.

BACKERS OPTIMISTIC

Immigration Law Prospects Eyed

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of legislation recommended by President Johnson to revamp the nation's immigration law expressed guarded optimism today about making a breakthrough in the obstacle-ridden field.

Johnson's key proposal was to do away with an immigration quota system based on the national origins of the U.S. population in 1920. The system favors immigrants from Northern and Western Europe over those from other parts of the world.

In a special message Wednesday he urged Congress to abolish this system over a five-year period and allow admission of immigrants on the basis of needed work skills, family relationships and priority of registration.

Johnson's predecessors — John F. Kennedy, Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman — tried without success to persuade Congress to eliminate or to overhaul the national-origins quota system.

Critics contend it discriminates against Italians, Greeks and other southeastern Europeans—to say nothing of Asians.

Whether Johnson will make any headway remains to be seen. But one Senate source said that he understands the push is on this year."

In the last Congress, a virtually identical bill submitted by Kennedy was backed by Johnson but got nowhere.

A House Judiciary subcommittee headed by Rep. Michael A. Feighan, D-Ohio, held hearings near the end of last year's session but took no action. Feighan is an outspoken foe of the legislation.

Mrs. Tidwell Is Kiwanis Speaker

Mrs. James Tidwell presented the program Wednesday at the luncheom meeting of the Snyder Kiwanis Club.

Mrs. Tidwell spoke to the club on her trip to the Holy Land and showed color slides of scenes there. She was introduced by Program Chairman Joe Williamson.

Bob Connelly of Sweetwater was a visiting Kiwanian at the luncheon, while guests of the local club were I. E. Martin, Harold Cook and Gerald Sheid.

Asks Divorce From Husband-Beater

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — A St. Petersburg man, 79, has asked for a divorce from his wife, 73, alleging that she had beaten him on numerous occasions.

Alfonso Lafazia also said in his Pinellas County Circuit Court suit that his wife, Eveline, whom he married in 1951, drinks heavily but is not habitually intemperate. He alleged that he still bears the scars of his last beating Nov. 6.

Weary Vietnamese Fighters Feel Time Is Running Out

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — At an obscure village named Binh Gia 200 bodies of South Viet Nam's best-trained, best-equipped and best-seasoned combat troops lay in the brush and rubble.

In the last six days of 1964 they had faced the most powerful Communist onslaught mounted to date in the war in South Viet Nam.

The spectacle of these bodies being removed on ox carts and litters was a fitting symbol of the decline in military fortunes for the government and the United States.

As 1965 began, there no longer was much question in the minds of any Vietnamese or U.S. officials here that the war was being lost.

The remaining uncertainties were how fast the war was being lost, and whether there still was a reasonable chance of reversing the tide.

The Vietnamese war always has been a hard thing to measure, because it is not a war for territory but for people and supplies. Some parts of Viet Nam are more or less controlled by the Saigon government, others are more or less controlled by the Viet Cong shadow government, and a third category is controlled by neither side.

These patterns of control, never known with any real certainty, change from day to day and even from hour to hour. It all depends on who has the strongest forces at any given point and time.

Increasingly, the advantage of numerical superiority is with the Viet Cong. The Viet Cong moves secretly to its intended battles in groups of twos and threes, joins together at the moment of fighting, and then dissolves again into little groups. The government troops move in long columns with tanks and artillery and overhead planes and helicopters sticking mostly to roads.

President Ho Chi Minh of Communist North Viet Nam said before the French Indochinese War began that his Communist guerrillas were like a tiger stalking the French elephant. The elephant is much larger and stronger than the tiger, Ho said, but by striking and running back into the jungle again and again, the tiger can make the elephant bleed to death.

The Viet Cong are using Ho's successful tactics now.

Because the war is so hard to measure, Americans have tried to draw conclusions and perceive trends from statistics. But until a little over a year ago, there were no reliable statistics.

Viet Cong fighting strength has grown dramatically and steadily during the past three years, despite their increasingly bloody losses. Most of this strength has been the result of local recruiting in South Viet Nam itself.

U.S. intelligence experts estimated three years ago that main force Viet Cong troops numbered around 18,000. By last July, this estimate had climbed to between 28,000 and 34,000 main force troops with around 80,000 regional guerrillas. Now the total armed strength of the Viet Cong is thought to be around 150,000 or even higher.

Furthermore, these enemy troops are far better armed and trained now. In 1964, the Viet Cong captured about 13,700 weapons from government forces, losing only 4,900 of their own. Captured weapons were supplemented by arms smuggled from the Communist bloc into South Viet Nam.

All this has happened despite current official Vietnamese and American statistics that 59,000 Viet Cong were killed between 1962 and 1964. Top U.S. officers concede that this figure is too high.

Nonetheless, the Viet Cong keeps getting stronger. These are some of the symptoms of growing strength.

—Roads and communication canals that were always open have been closed down by the Viet Cong. Today, the one national railroad line is closed at various points every day, and there is scarcely a road or canal in the country that is freely passable without mounting a clearing operation.

—Within 20 miles of Saigon, Viet Cong toll booths are operating on roads only a mile or so from government checkpoints. These toll points issue printed receipts to Vietnamese travelers as they leave the Communist zone, so they will not have to pay a second time when they return.

—Each time the government has taken on some new program to clear the countryside, such as "Operation Sunrise," the strategic hamlet, plan or the pacification plan, it has discovered it has bitten off more than it could chew. The current top priority plan, called "hop tac—cooperation"—is little more than trying to set up a kind of defense perimeter around Saigon itself, with the hope that it can be expanded outward.

—During this time, the Viet Cong has virtually completed a "ring of steel" around Saigon, with some of its armed agitation and propaganda teams working nearly every night in communities a few hundred yards across the river from Saigon's Majestic Hotel.

—A year ago, the Viet Cong rarely stood to fight a government battalion of 400 men and then, generally, only after being forced into a corner. At Binh Gia, 40 miles from Saigon, the Viet Cong took on the equivalent of a regiment of 2,000 men, the cream of Viet Nam's troops, and won a resounding victory.

On paper, South Viet Nam has around 615,000 men under arms, counting the various paramilitary forces and the police. In fact the government units supposed to spearhead major actions against the Viet Cong—the rangers, the airborne brigade and the marines — all are below strength. Some of their battalions have been bled white by casualties and slow replacements, and actually have as little as a third of their authorized strength.

With each modest step forward by various Saigon governments in the past 15 months, something has forced at least one step backward.

During the heat of the Binh Gia fighting, virtually all South Viet Nam's general staff was 20 miles away at the seaside resort of Cap St. Jacques, talking politics.

Even junior Vietnamese officers on the fighting line are talking openly about their pessimism, something they would not have dared a year ago.

There is a feeling sensed on all sides in many ways here that time is running out on the Viet Nam war.

Prisoners Find Release In Painting

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Will learning to wield an artist's brush help criminals from using more deadly implements when they get out of prison?

A rehabilitation expert at Southern Michigan Prison here thinks so. He's conducting art classes to prove his point.

The idea, says a psychologist, is that a prisoner tortured by pangs of hostility "works off these feelings on canvas before they develop into an explosive nature."

The program has been so successful that Dr. E. L. V. Shelley, supervisor of treatment for the State Corrections Department, hopes to expand it to other institutions.

Not only does painting help prisoners reduce hostility, Shelley says, but it also "helps them develop a sense of worthiness.

"They create something that other people recognize and appreciate," he explains. "Many convicts have feelings they don't know how to express or are afraid to express.

"In their group, expressing feelings is a sign of softness," Shelley says. "But in art, they can let themselves go."

Dr. Schweitzer Honored On 90th Birthday

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

LAMBARENE, Gabon (AP) — Dr. Albert Schweitzer's famous jungle hospital was thronged today as the man often called the world's greatest living missionary celebrated his 90th birthday.

Hundreds of well-wishers were still en route to the outpost three miles from Lambarene where Schweitzer has spent much of his life treating the sick of French Equatorial Africa.

The throng included black men, entire villages of grateful tribesmen, and white men, some 200 Europeans and a few Americans from outside Africa. They came by plane, river boat and on foot.

Schweitzer, who has helped more than 60,000 persons at the hospital he founded 40 years ago and won a Nobel peace prize, is stooped and burdened with age.

But the old man with the bushy white hair and the dropping mustache still had his familiar twinkle as he told visitors:

"I assure you I feel wonderful. I am grateful you could come."

A living legend because of his humanitarian work, Dr. Schweitzer is also one of the controversial figures of Africa. Despite criticism from some Africans, he has refused to change either his methods or the crowded corrugated iron shacks that serve as his hospital.

"He treats our people like savages instead of bringing progress," a Gabonese official said recently.

Dr. Schweitzer insists he knows what's best for Africans and will not change. He points to the man from the bush who continues to come for help and to his staff of 50 men and women, some of whom come from the world's best hospitals.

Renouncing a successful career in Europe, he first came to Africa in 1913. Although he was to win recognition later as a missionary, he had already achieved greatness as a young man.

Born the son of a preacher in the Alsace village of Kayersberg, Schweitzer enjoyed a wide reputation in music, philosophy and theology before he turned to medicine at the age of 30.

As an organist, he attracted large audiences in European concert halls. As a scholar, he left a storehouse of knowledge on subjects ranging from music, German literature and Bach to studies of Jesus.

Bengals To Brownfield

The Snyder Tigers will hit the road again Friday, heading northwest again in quest of a district basketball victory.

The objective this time will be a decision over the Brownfield Cubs at Brownfield, and once again it will be a crucial encounter for the Bengals who sport a 3-1 record in district play.

Any loss now apparently would virtually eliminate the Tigers from the district race, now that they have fallen to the Levelland Lobos at Levelland and the Lobos have routed the Lamesa Tornados in convincing fashion at Lamesa.

On the basis of the district proceedings so far, it appears that the best thing that can happen to the Tigers is to go through the remainder of the month without a loss and set the stage for a showdown with Levelland here on Feb. 2.

Since Lamesa, generally conceded to be a leading contender for the district crown, couldn't handle the Lobos in the Lamesa Gym, it appears highly unlikely that anyone else will stop the Lobos before their Feb. 2 date in Snyder.

The Brownfield Cubs, tomorrow night's foes of the Tigers, are in a three-way tie for fourth, fifth and sixth places in the district standings, with one victory in three starts in loop play.

In their latest outing, the Cubs dropped a 65-58 decision to Sweetwater on Tuesday night. That game was played at Sweetwater, and the Cubs figure to be considerably stronger on their home court.

Once again the Tigers will face a high scoring potential. Brownfield's Buzz Timmons poured 28 points through the hoop at Sweetwater. He gets a lot of help from such operatives as Ronnie Davis, Craig Collier and Dave Sherrod.

Coach Ned Underwood probably will go with his usual starting lineup of Drew Bullard, Leslie Anderson, Leslie Brown, Jerry Vestal and Phillip Floyd. Steve Crowell, one of the front line reserves who always sees a lot of action, has been slowed by a back injury he sustained in Tuesday night's game with Littlefield. Otherwise, the Tigers are in good physical condition.

Sweetwater's victory over Brownfield put the Mustangs in third place with a 2-2 record. Thus, Levelland and Snyder are the only teams in the loop above the .500 mark in district play.

Baylor's Thinlies Pick Tri-Captains

WACO (AP)—The 1965 Baylor University track team has elected as its tri-captains Rex Garvin, Ray Kayser and Jim Lancaster.

Garvin, from Lueders and a tri-captain last season, was the 1963 Southwest Conference half mile champion. Lancaster, from Temple, won the 1964 conference shot put championship. Kayser is a quarter miler from Wichita Falls.

Son Of Former Star Helps Keep St. Joseph's Rolling

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Like father, like son.

Matt Guokas starred for St. Joseph's College of Philadelphia during the Mighty Mites era that brought national prominence to the Hawks in college basketball nearly 30 years ago.

Now his 20-year-old son, Matthew G. Guokas, Jr. is helping the Hawks keep their lofty No. 4 spot in The Associated Press national rankings. Like his dad, the younger Guokas seldom is high scorer, but excels in defense and passing.

A 6-foot-5, 190-pound sophomore, the younger Guokas scored 12 points on six field goals Wednesday night as the Hawks set a Palestra team scoring record in crushing Seton Hall 115-81 in the opener of a Philadelphia doubleheader. In the other game LaSalle drubbed Duquesne 83-69.

Cliff Anderson, another soph, scored 29 points and Bill Oakes added 24 as the Hawks upped their season record to 13-1. They were the only team in The AP Top Ten to see action.

Rick Barry, the nation's leading scorer, threw in 54 points in leading the University of Miami Hurricanes to a 124-93 home court victory over Florida Southern.

N.C. State came from behind to beat North Carolina 65-62, Miami of Ohio downed Ohio Univ. 58-48, Maryland whipped Navy 77-58, Marquette edged Wisconsin 59-58, Drake took Creighton 76-67, Tulsa squeaked by North Texas 63-57 and Harvard crushed Dartmouth 96-80.

It was the 24th straight Ivy League defeat for the Dartmouth Indians who started five sophs in the game at Hanover, N.H. Merle McClung, with 32 points, and Keith Sedlacek, with 29 points, paced Harvard.

Down 17-1 and later by 21 points at 34-13, Marquette roared from behind to beat Wisconsin at Madison. A basket and a free throw by Bob Wolf put Marquette ahead for good after the Warriors had tied the score at 44-44.

N.C. State, behind by 14 points at 45-31, reeled off a 15-1 spurt to defeat North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The Wolfpack took the lead for good at 57-55 on Larry Lakin's basket.

It was N.C. State's eighth straight and tied the Wolfpack with Duke and Wake Forst for first place in the ACC.

Entries may be registered Friday night at the Settles Hotel in Big Spring.

There will be a puppy derby and competition for all ages. The entry fee is $5 per animal, and 32 dogs already have been entered.

The field trials will start at 8 a.m. Saturday, with the finals set for Sunday afternoon.

The Flying G Sportsman's Ranch, site of the trials, may be reached by turning off Texas Highway 350 (the Snyder - Big Spring Highway) three miles west of Vincent at a sign. From there, signs will point the directions to the ranch.

Wilt Traded By Warriors

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain, the highest paid player in the National Basketball Association, was traded to the Philadelphia 76ers by the San Francisco Warriors late Wednesday night after he had played for the West in the league's All-Star game.

The Warriors received forward Lee Shaffer, guard Paul Neumann, reserve Connie Dierking and an undisclosed amount of cash for Chamberlain, who pulled down a reported $65,000 a year for his astronomical scoring and rebounding.

Barry Still Top Scorer

NEW YORK (AP) — Rick Barry, the bridegroom-to-be, fell off to a season low of 17 points against Florida State last Saturday, but the University of Miami star nevertheless retained his No. 1 spot as the leading scorer in major-college basketball.

The weekly statistics from the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau showed today that the 6-foot-7 senior has a 35.9 average on 431 in 12 games through Jan. 9. It was announced Tuesday that he and Pamela Hale will be married in June. Miss Hale is the daughter of Miami's coach, Bruce Hale.

Barry rebounded from his 17-point low to score 54 against Florida Southern Wednesday night as the Hurricanes won 124-93. These figures will not be reflected until next week in the NCAA statistics.

Wayne Estes of Utah State ranked second to Barry with an average of 32.8 followed by Dave Schellhase of Purdue at 31.3. Bill Bradley of Princeton at 30.3 and Steve Thomas of Xavier, Ohio, at 30.2 round out the top five scorers. They are the only ones with an average better than 30 points.

Say Curtis On Way To Fry's Staff

DALLAS AP)—Chuck Curtis, the 29-year-old Garland coach with three state schoolboy football championships to his credit, apparently is going to join the Southern Methodist University coaching staff.

The Garland Daily News said Wednesday it had learned that Curtis has accepted a position as SMU's head assistant football coach.

Spokesmen for the SMU administration and athletic department said they knew nothing about the report. There nevertheless was growing evidence that Curtis might be on the Mustang staff before the end of the week.

Curtis, SMU Football Coach Hayden Fry, and the chairman and vice chairman of the university's athletic committee were in Chicago for the NCAA convention. They were due to return to Dallas later today.

The Garland coach told the Dallas News earlier this week he would accept a job as an assistant coach at a Southwest college but refused to name the school.

Fry said Curtis would "make a fine member of our staff" but said he did not have the authority to increase his coaching staff.

One source said SMU alumni, eager to grab Curtis before he joins some other university, have agreed to underwrite at least part of a $13,000 a year salary.

This was expected to help clear the way for SMU's faculty athletic committee to authorize Fry to increase the size of his staff. The Dallas News said the committee's approval could be expected soon.

Curtis is reported to be earning $12,000 a year at suburban Garland and he has received an offer of $13,000 plus fringe benefits to coach at either of two high schools in Odessa. But he has expressed a desire to get into college coaching.

The former Texas Christian quarterback won his first state championship in 1962 while at Class AA Jacksboro. His Garland teams won the Class AAAA crown in 1963 and 1964.

Evansville Challenged

By The Associated Press

High Point, one of the few remaining unbeaten teams in small - college basketball pressed closer to Evansville, also unbeaten and a conquerer of several major teams, in The Associated Press small-college rankings.

Ten of 13 sports writers and broadcasters voting put Evansville ahead, as usual, Thursday. But two voted High Point No. 1 and 10 others put the North Carolina school among the first 10. No one rated Evansville lower than fourth.

As a result, the Purple Aces polled a total of 125 points — one below last week's figure — on a 10-9-8 etc. basis and High Point jumped from fourth in the rankings to second with 96 points. The rankings are based on results through Sat., Jan. 9.

The top ten, with first-place votes in parentheses, and total points:

1. Evansville (10)	125
2. High Point (2)	96
3. Winston Salem	69

5. Grambling	44
6. Pan American	40
7. Wittenberg	27

NCAA Raises Hope For A Compromise

CHICAGO (AP) — A surprising twist to the end of the 59th National Collegiate Athletic Association convention may have opened the door to compromise of the long and bitter NCAA-AAU dispute for control of amateur athletics.

The NCAA, closing its convention Wednesday, approved—in essence—a boycott of AAU-sanctioned track meets after March 1, but tacked on a resolution to invite the AAU to co-sanction meets "at the domestic level."

This was the most compromising approach by the NCAA in its four-year battle with the AAU in which the real bone of contention has been control of sanction at the international level.

Immediately, the AAU's Executive Director, Col. Don Hull, countered with a courteous, but suspicious reply, while the president of the U. S. Olympic Committee, K. L. (Tug) Wilson, applauded the resolution as a "most promising bid" for peace.

Under the new NCAA policy, schools whose athletes compete in track meets not sanctioned by the U. S. Track and Field Federation after March 1, will be subject to the same penalties imposed for recruiting violations—ranging from censure to banning from NCAA championship and TV revenue.

The prohibition, in what seemed a slight NCAA backdown, will not become effective until March 1 when most of the prime AAU-sponsored indoor meets are completed. The delay was said to be due to paper work needed to implement the new by-law.

On the heels of a voice "majority" approval of the by-law, the "peace overture" bid to the AAU was proposed by Ross Smith, Massachusetts Institute of Technology athletic director —representing a rebel Eastern bloc.

The resolution, passed by a 99-33 standing vote, proposed that the NCAA "by direct communication invite the AAU to participate in negotiations directed towards the formation of a plan to achieve cooperative sanction and certification at the domestic level."

This action stole the spotlight from such earlier convention procedures as:

Voting for a mail referendum on penalties for any college coaches accepting money in any form for aiding pros in canvassing college football prospects.

Indorsing a minimum academic floor (C minus) for athletes of member schools.

Placing West Texas State University on a year's probation for fining its football players in disciplinary measures.

And authorizing the NCAA Television Committee to increase its football TV package from two to either three or four years when new contract negotiations come up later this year.

The NCAA Council's meeting today will decide the manner in which the truce offer should be presented to the AAU—either through the NCAA-backed National Track and Field Federation, or by direct NCAA communication.

AAU Director Hull commented he was "gratified and encouraged by the NCAA resolution." Hull said further:

"We would be happy to sit down and work out with the NCAA a solution that would benefit the kids in this country and amateur athletes."

Ara And Broyles To Share Award

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — One coach who went all the way, one who missed by two minutes and another who ranks as a real throw-back, have been named the Coaches of the Year by the American Football Coaches Association.

"I'm delighted," said Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian, who had to share the award with Arkansas' Frank Broyles when the balloting of the membership ended in a tie.

Outgoing president of the association, Len Casanova of Oregon, said the vote was counted three times.

"One ended in a tie, Broyles led on one and Parseghian led on another," he said. "So we got in a certified public accountant and he said it was a tie."

Clarence Stasavich of East Carolina College, one of only a handful of coaches still teaching the single wing, was named the small-college Coach of the Year.

"Of all the awards, this has to be the most pleasant—to be selected by your colleagues," said Parseghian, who previously had been named Coach of the Year by the Football Writers Association.

"No," said Parseghian in answer to a question, "I don't see anything wrong with the dual award. I think it's very fair. Look at it this way—Frank went all the way and I just missed by two minutes."

Parseghian, lured from Northwestern to rebuild Notre Dame's sagging football fortunes, surprised the football world and delighted the legions of Irish alumni by winning his first nine games.

Then, ranked No. 1 in the nation, Notre Dame was upset by Southern California 20-17, Southern Cal coming from behind in the last two minutes.

Broyles led Arkansas to its first undefeated season in history, including a 14-13 edge over mighty Texas—the defending national champion—and closed out an 11-0 season with a Cotton Bowl triumph over Nebraska.

"Our teams are a lot alike," Parseghian said of Notre Dame and Arkansas. "You've got to have the offense, the defense, the bench, a quarterback and some luck. We had 'em."

Stasavich, 51, compiled a 9-1 record at East Carolina, retaining as always the single wing. He said he was one of only five head coaches in the country still teaching the formation.

"I see nothing wrong with it—it works for me," he said

LBJ's Aid To Education Bill Is A Study In Compromise

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, like President Kennedy, has supported the separation - of-church-and - state tradition, but this week in his education program he proposed giving parochial schools some federal aid.

But he did this because of a rising tide of help to education in Congress, and did it in such a way that he may run into less storm than Roman Catholic Kennedy, who opposed such aid to Catholic schools.

Nothing he has done so far as president better shows Johnson's special technique of trying to cool off possible antagonists in order to make some progress, even if it isn't all he might like to have.

Kennedy made dismal progress in his first two years in trying to get Congress to approve a general aid to education bill, with particular emphasis on help for public grade and high schools.

Congress had never passed a law providing such general aid. In 1961 and 1962 Kennedy emphasized he was not asking aid for parochial schools. Both times he said he considered such aid unconstitutional.

And both times he ran into opposition from the Catholic hierarchy which thought such aid should be given.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, expressed it this way:

Passage of Kennedy's program would be the "eventual end of our parochial schools because we cannot compete with the federal government's support and subsidy of the public schools only." He said the program also would put an additional burden on Catholic taxpayers who get no benefit from it.

The opposition to aid for Catholic schools was equally determined. Under this combined pressure Congress did practically nothing for two years. The dam began to break in 1963.

Once more Kennedy proposed no help to church schools. Once more there was Catholic opposition. But by now Congress had begun to yield under a third pressure: Rising educational needs.

In 1963 it passed such a number of important measures that Johnson, after Kennedy's death late in the year, said the Congress of 1963 would be known as the education Congress.

These were some of the steps taken:

Help for college construction; increased funds for vocational education; a boost in college student loan funds; grants to help build new medical schools.

Nevertheless, not even that Congress touched the sizzling question of general aid for public grade and high schools, where the religious issue was most intense. And in 1964 Congress ducked this one again.

But the measures passed last year under Johnson's prodding were unprecedented in scope and number. Still, Johnson, like Congress, stayed away from the church-state issue as much as he could.

During the 1964 presidential campaign, Johnson was asked by Dr. E. S. James, editor of the Baptist Standard, for his views on federal aid to education, particularly to parochial schools.

Johnson affirmed his support of the "American tradition of separation of church and state. . .expressed in the First Amendment." And he closed his answer with this:

"Therefore, I would oppose any federal program — including assistance to schools — which does not strictly conform to this constitutional requirement."

Then last Tuesday, Johnson proposed the biggest-ever aid to education program, with accent on children of the poor.

It would provide modest sums to be spent on buying non-religious textbooks for private and parochial school students and some for educational centers to be shared by public and church schools.

Columnist Remembers Back When—

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Only memories can keep you young.

Your face may get as wrinkled as a contour map of the Rocky Mountains. Age may snow white hairs on you. Time may slow you from a hop, skip and a jump to a tired crawl.

But all that is only on the outside. Inside you, the serene eye of memory enables you to look back and see yourself at any age you choose to be. At your own wish you can be a child again, an adolescent, a young lover, a warrior for your country, a young man on his first job.

The past never dies, because all of us spend at least part of every day of our lives reliving it.

Your own past may be longer than you'd care to brag about if you can remember when—

The neighbors always brought food to your house when someone in it was ill or had died.

Fatty Arbuckle, the 350-pound comedian, was making $5,000 a week in Hollywood before scandal clouded his name and fame.

More people used tooth powder than toothpaste.

A juvenile delinquent was a boy under 17 who went behind the barn and smoked cigarettes made of dry cornsilk rolled in paper torn from a mail order catalog.

A father felt kind of crestfallen if his wife gave birth to a baby weighing less than eight pounds. The bigger the baby, the healthier it was supposed to be.

Everybody was expected to run away from home at least once before he got out of high school.

Few folks were afraid of a hobo if he knocked on the back door and asked for something to eat. But he usually had to chop some kindling or beat a rug before he got fed.

Nine out of 10 men carried toothpicks and a change purse in their pockets.

The $2 bill was common.

A radical was anyone who announced openly that he believed in the theory of evolution.

No woman felt her role in this world was complete unless she fainted in public at least once in her lifetime.

A well-bred lady always wore black stockings when she went swimming.

Lard was used as a food, an ointment for chest colds, and a hair pomade.

Junior Editors Quiz on RAINDROPS

QUESTION: Why does rain fall in drops?

* * *

ANSWER: 'Rain, rain, go away, come again some other day!' People don't sing this as much as they used to, for many parts of our country have been suffering during recent years from such severe drought that rainy days are extremely welcome. Janie, in our picture, likes rain anyway and enjoys the exhilaration of a raindrop driving against her face, although her dog doesn't seem to share her enthusiasm.

Water vapor carried up by warm air rising into the sky often becomes visible as clouds. Clouds are composed of very minute ice crystals and water droplets. Although gravity works to pull them down, these crystals and droplets are so small that the air currents can easily hold them up, and so a cloud can appear to remain almost stationary in the sky. But the cloud droplets are of different sizes. The tiny ones are easily whipped around by air, and if there are enough will collide with each other and form larger ones. When enough such collisions have made the drops large enough to overcome the air's lifting forces, they fall as rain. Sometimes, water droplets evaporate and then condense on ice crystals. If these fall down through warm air, they may melt into raindrops.

* * *

FOR YOU TO DO. Ask a friend to draw a falling raindrop. He will probably make it pear-shaped. Then explain it is only pear-shaped when it strikes something, sticks on at the top and hangs down at the bottom. As it falls through the air, the raindrop is a sphere (upper right). L-14

Veteran Finds Silence Is Unbearable

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — To live in a home of silence is the hardest task still facing Sgt. Wayne Traxler.

The 17-year Air Force veteran tries to put sound into his small apartment with a new phonograph and his collection of three records.

Nothing can replace the sound of seven children and a wife.

"It is hard to forget," the sergeant says, "when there is nothing but silence. It is hard to learn to live alone."

On Sept. 4, Traxler was serving in South Viet Nam.

On the same day his wife, Doris, and his seven children were returning to Sacramento from a vacation in Santa Ana, Calif.

The car rounded a curve near Merced, Calif. It went out of control and plunged over a 40-foot embankment.

When the auto came to rest at the bottom of the deep decline, five of his children — Caroline, 17; Dwight, 16; Gilda, 13; Duane, 5, and Anastasia, 1 — were dead.

A few hours later in a nearby hospital his wife of 17 years died. So did his daughter, Charmagne, 8, and his son, Wayne, 7. There was none left.

Traxler was brought home from Viet Nam. Today he is serving with his old unit, the 552nd Airborne Radar Wing, at Sacramento's McClellan Air Force Base.

"I'll go back anytime they want me," Traxler says. "I don't care where they send me."

The sergeant now lives in a three-room apartment near the base. One picture, of his oldest daughter in a party dress, is the only visible reminder of his loss.

The other pictures, the snapshots, the memories, are kept in a scrapbook, tucked away.

Like most service regulars, Traxler outwardly is a salty, tough veteran, accustomed to violence, a companion of death.

Since that day of grief, Traxler, 34, has attempted to rebuild his life in the old-service fashion, without a cry for sympathy, without a demand for aid.

"I spend a lot of time on the base now," he says, 'and I think a lot of the future."

The sergeant already has mapped his path for the days after he reaches the 20-year retirement plateau.

"After the accident," Traxler says, "Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps, wrote and asked if at some future date I would be interested in working with the Peace Corps.

"This has become my aim.

"I will go into the Peace Corps as soon as my service career ends, not quite three years ahead."

What type of job will Traxler seek with the corps?

"Just let me work with children," he says. "I guess it is, or rather was, obvious that I liked kids. I want to work with them again, even if they're not my own."

Then Sgt. Traxler, a native of South Bend, Ind., hopes there will be no more silence in his home.

Ex-Conductor Wins Suit

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Harold Coffman, 49, former freight conductor, has been awarded $160,000 for injuries.

A district court jury returned a judgment favoring the Hurst resident Wednesday, holding his employers were negligent.

Coffman was conductor on a 122-car Ford Worth & Denver Railroad freight train Feb. 18, 1961, when the accident occurred.

Witnesses testified that Coffman complained of a bad coupling on a car in front of the caboose before the train left Fort Worth but the yardmaster ordered the train to proceed.

Near Alvord, testimony revealed, the car became uncoupled from the rest of the freight, causing it and the caboose carrying Coffman to overturn.

Railroad lawyers indicated they would appeal.

One Dead, One Hurt In Car-Truck Crash

DALLAS (AP)—A collision of a car and a dump truck killed Mrs. Gladys Booth, 62, Wednesday in North Dallas.

She was hurled from a car also occupied by Mrs. Esther Nichols, 79, who suffered critical injuries. The dead woman worked for Mrs. Nichols as a maid.

Truck driver Curtis Hilton, 36, of Irving escaped injury.

Economy Watchers Nervous Over Most Recent Trends

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — More business firms are testing price increases in the market place. More concerns are piling up stocks of materials and at a faster pace.

These two moves, which in the past often have gone together, are making some of the professional economy watchers nervous. They fear that price boosts and inventory building together might be early warning signs of either inflation or boom and bust, or both.

But in each case — price increases and stockpiling — there are particular circumstances to mitigate the danger, or at least to explain their appearance just now.

Inventories are growing at the fastest rate in a year. But sales have been rising swiftly, too. So the total accumulation in the stockrooms may count for less, at the current rate of turnover, than it did in earlier months before the stock building got going strong.

Price rises of late, especially in primary materials and industrial products, often can be charged either to rising costs of production, or even more to tightening of supplies. World production may have slid because of labor strife or other reasons at a time that demand was increasing due to general prosperity among industrial nations. If the rule of supply and demand is to apply, prices tend to rise in such a situation.

But the Federal Reserve Bank of New York expresses concern that both consumer and industrial wholesale prices rose in November, and perhaps again in December. And it sees the increases announced by the steel industry late in December as adding "to the recently emerging climate in which businessmen seem to be less reluctant to probe markets to determine whether price increases can be made to stick."

Some other economists are keeping a close eye on inventory trends. The Commerce Department's latest figures show a sharp gain in November in all sectors, factory, wholesale and retail.

Combined the stocks stood at $108 billion, a gain of $680 million in a month. But combined sales also rose 2 per cent in the month to $73.5 billion. This brought the inventories down to 1.47 months' supply, compared with 1.53 month's supply in the like 1963 month. The ratio leaves the picture looking far from dangerous.

Some of the November gain is attributed to stockpiling of steel by users who fear they might be pinched this spring if current labor negotiations hit a snag and lead either to a strike or to much higher prices.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — You talk about Viet Nam, Cuba, Congo, Cyprus or wherever the skirmish will pop out tomorrow. We got an entertainment war going here in the ancient Aztec capital.

Mexico, which used to be a sort of graveyard for fading stars, is now passing out heavy bills to top musical persons who come down to pack in the patrons.

One club out on Insurgentes Avenue started it a year or two back. They brought down Mr. Benny Goodman and his clarinet to delight the clients. People stood clear down at the corner just to watch folks come out who had SEEN Benny Goodman.

Along came Miss Marlene Dietrich. And Mr. Ray Anthony plus numerous other famous people.

So another club down town said, "If they can pull a full house out yonder we'll get a bigger one here. We got more space."

They invited Mr. Eddie Fisher to come sing and take away something like twenty grand a week.

The club on Insurgentes got riled and brought somebody else to town. And the downtown club currently is presenting Mr. Romano Mussolini, one of the top jazz pianists, and his musical aides. Roman is the son of the late Mr. Benito Mussolini wno was employed as dictator of Italy during the fading '30s and WWII.

However, young Mr. Mussolini expresses no interest in politics. He is hot for jazz, mostly the progressive type but he can wallop out Dixieland in a fashion that would make Mr. Louis Armstrong tap his foot.

Of further interest (to psychiatrists, educators and scientists), Romano never studied music. He does not read a note in this day and age when a garbage collector needs a college degree.

Mr. Mussolini just sat down and made himself a gasser at the piano and played on up to the top. You get situations like the drummer says, "I think I'm a little off key. Will you please sound 'A' Flat, Romano?

And Romano looks around and says "A flat what?"

So the drummer tunes up the best he can, which apparently is all right because the little combo travels the fur-lined circuit.

This has created quite a stir in old Tenochtitlan. Music critics busily hammer out yards of favorable copy praising Mr. Mussolini's talented ear (the musical one) and nimble fingers.

Political analysts are hard at work trying to discover something significant because he is Benito's son and feels his daddy wasn't all bad.

Mr. Mussolini discussed his father briefly and said, "He left a legacy of some good things behind him and was the impetus behind some of Italy's growth today."

The analysts threw other political questions at him and Romano yawned and suggested everybody take a short run through Autumn Leaves.

We travel from pinacle to pinacle. The downtown club now announces Mr. Maurice Chevelier will be on hand in October to give the customers a treat. And the Insurgentes club is trying to load up a bigger gun for a louder boom.

A real hot war with scalding rhythms, packed houses and soft lights.

Decline Noted In Feeding Of Sheep

WASHINGTON (AP)—A further decline in the feeding of sheep and lambs for slaughter is taking place.

The Agriculture Department reported today that the number on feed Jan. 1 totaled 3,673,000, down 9 per cent, or 346,000, from a year earlier.

Feeding in Midwestern corn belt states was down 12 per cent from a year earlier. Feeding in Western states was down 3 per cent. The only states showing an increase were Montana, Idaho, Arizona and California.

SMOKING ISSUE—A cigar is clasped firmly in the left hand of Sir Winston Churchill in this 1,800-pound clay model of a statue sculptor William McVey is creating for the English Speaking Union in Cleveland, Ohio. But some union members have said the stogie is lacking in dignity and McVey is willing to remove it if the union insists, although he feels Churchill and cigar are inseperable. Here he works on another area while the Union polls its membership on the smoking issue. (AP Wirephoto)

MONTH-LONG STRIKE

Red Supply Line In Laos Is Target Of US Planes

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers have been smashing at Communist supply and reinforcement lines running through Laos for at least a month, government sources said today.

Wednesday's strike — which cost the United States two Air Force jets — bore down on Route 7, key segment of a road and trail network feeding both the Red Pathet Lao in Central Laos and the Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

American authorities refused to say anything publicly beyond the terse announcement that an F100 Supersabre and an F105 Thunderchief were shot down in Central Laos by ground fire.

Defense Department spokesman Arthur Sylvester declined to discuss the type of a mission the two jets were flying.

Later it was reported that the pilot of the F105, Capt. Albert C. Vollmer of Denton, Kan., and Henrietta, N.Y., had been rescued. And early today the Pentagon announced that the F100 pilot, Capt. Charles L. Ferguson of Clovis, N.M., and Parma, Idaho, had been "successfully recovered and was all right." At first Ferguson was reported missing.

Four Navy and Air Force jets were shot down over Laos prior to Wednesday's losses. Each was either conducting photo reconnaissance or escorting planes taking pictures of Red supply roads and trails.

For weeks, the Communist Chinese and North Vietnamese have been claiming that U.S. air and sea forces have been raiding Communist territory.

The U.S. government evidently is not ready to acknowledge that its war planes are in combat outside the borders of South Viet Nam.

The degree of escalation of the war still is rather low.

The issue of whether it will be stepped up further — possibly to strike at production and supply centers, rail lines and military bases inside Viet Nam — is in doubt.

So far, sources said, the air strikes against supply lines leading from North Viet Nam through Laos have been conducted chiefly by American planes, with some activity by Laotian-piloted aircraft. The South Vietnamese air force has not yet taken part in these operations, the sources said.

There was no word here on what downed the F100 and F105. But it is known that there are radar-directed 37mm antiaircraft guns in Laos, probably manned by North Vietnamese troops.

Talk about escalating the war reached a pitch by the time U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor came here in late November from Saigon to confer with President Johnson, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Taylor was reported to have proposed escalating the war in a bid to choke off North Vietnamese support for the Communist insurgents in South Viet Nam.

Unhappy With Viet Movies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The show will go on — but any sounds of battle from South Viet Nam must be real and not staged for U.S. propaganda.

With this decision behind him, U.S. Information Agency Director Carl Rowan awaited an explanation from Saigon today on why his movie-makers had Vietnamese troops put on a mock attack.

Rowan said the first he knew about it was from an Associated Press story by Peter Arnett from the scene Wednesday. Arnett went to Tan Hiep to check reports of a battle — and found the soldiers, with weapons blazing away, enthusiastically attacking an "enemy village" for cameramen.

A U.S. Army officer said "they might as well have sent me to Hollywood." A veteran combat photographer voiced hope that the actors "don't end up ambushing themselves."

No communist Viet Cong were in sight — other troops were on guard against their getting into the act. A USIA officer explained that in real life one never gets pictures of the elusive guerrillas.

"What we are looking for is realism," he said.

The spokesman said USIA will go ahead with the $100,000 project for a 30-minute movie to be shown around the world.

The purpose of the film, he said, is "to better inform the rest of the free world about the critical importance of today's struggle in South Viet Nam."

Pair Accused Of Stealing Phone Wire

ANDREWS, Tex. (AP) — A father and son are accused of stealing 30 miles of telephone line.

Ralph Flowers, 59, and his son Richard, 26, were charged Wednesday with felony theft in the disappearance of the wire, which linked Goldsmith, Tex., and Hobbs, N. M. It was not in service at the time.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. said the line was worth $6,500.

'Everybody Conned Me' Claims Estes' Associate

PECOS, Tex. (AP)—"I feel like I got conned by everybody," Russell Ramsland testified Wednesday in a $4 million suit against Billie Sol Estes and others.

He expressed the view that both Estes and finance companies to whom Estes sold mortgages on fictitious fertilizer tanks had defrauded him.

Ramsland is one of four Midland men suing for damages. They also ask to be relieved of liability for $1.3 million in tank mortgages purchased by the Walter E. Heller Co. of Chicago.

Most of the day was devoted to testimony by Ramsland, who took the witness stand for a second straight day. The defense asked if Ramsland had tried to conceal any papers used in dealings with Estes. He said he had not.

J. C. Barnes Sr., another of the four plaintiffs, testified by deposition. Counsel said he was ill in Florida and unable to come here.

In the deposition Barnes stated he and Estes lunched at the Midland Country Club in December 1961 before he signed some tank mortgages for the former West Texas promoter. Estes now is bankrupt and appealing prison sentences for fraud and swindling.

Barnes was quoted as saying that one of Estes' private pilots, Joe Henderson, came to the table as they lunched to report that "some of the tanks have arrived and are already on the farms."

To a question about whether he ever tried to determine if the anhydrous ammonia tanks existed Barnes replied: "I don't know an ammonia tank from ammonia."

Defense lawyers asked a recess in trial of the suit in order to call a handwriting expert as witness. Dist. Judge J. H. Starley denied the request.

Other plaintiffs in the case are J. C. Barnes Jr. and W. F. Wynn.
