Commissioners Ask Ochiltree County Included In Aid for Drought Areas

Bleak Outlook Is Painted In Resolution

A resolution was passed by the county commissioners court in session Tuesday afternoon calling for both state and federal assistance for farmers and ranchers hit hard by drought.

Copies of the resolution were sent to the governor, to the U. S. senators and representatives in Congress, according to county judge Howard Slaughter.

The resolution, similar in form to other resolutions passed by counties in the drought area, asked for a four point program of aid. These included (1) Loans to small business in amounts to enable them to give credit to farmers and ranchers (2) Loans to those in real distress to pay their living expenses and carry on operation of farms and ranches (3) Additional loans enabling farmers to deep break their land so as to put clay or hard pan on top of their land so the top soil will not blow away (4) An arrangement by which the FHA loans could be made payable over a period of ten years and payable at or before the due date.

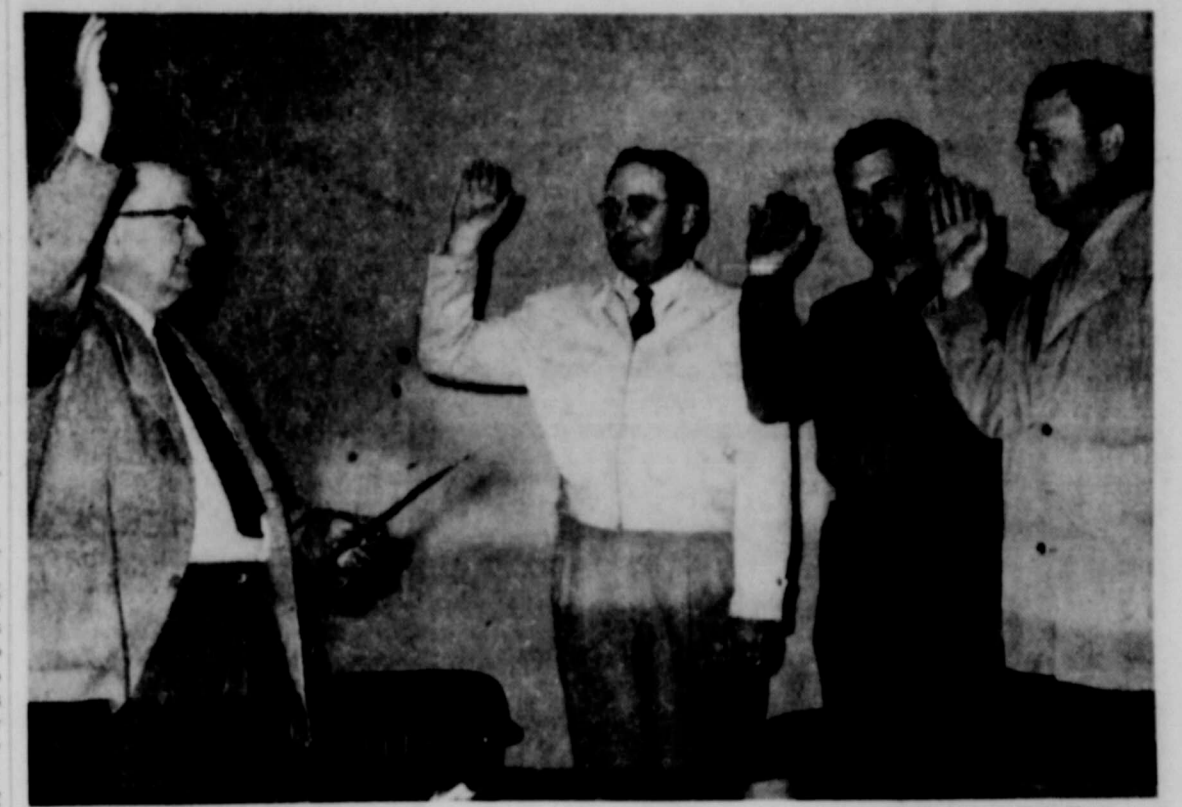

"The problem for the farmers and ranchers now goes beyond the matter of temporary aid in providing for livestock and reaches to a matter of temporary aid in providing for livestock and reaches a question of whether the farmers and ranchers are to be able to remain on their homes and exist without aid from some source," the resolution points out.

Other parts of the resolution read, "Whereas, it is the desire and purpose of the Ochiltree County Commissioners Court to call the attention of our Governor and also our Representatives in Congress to the dire need of these citizens, who have now reached the point where it is a matter of bare existence and a matter of receiving a helping hand, or abandoning their homes, and that section of the state becoming a barren desert.

"Now, therefore be it resolved by the Commissioner's Court, Ochiltree County, Texas, that the needs of these people and the direful condition of this part of Texas be called to the attention of our Governor, Senators and Representatives in Congress, and that they be urged to take such steps as are possible to obtain relief in the respects above outlined, to the end that these people will not be forced to abandon their land and their homes in order to exist, and

Commission Sets $5,927 Damages In Day Hearing

Damages in the amount of $5,927.40 were awarded to Ivan Day in a condemnation suit brought by the North Plains Electric Cooperative before a special commission in county court Friday.

The suit was brought by the cooperative which sought to cross Day's land, a tract about 340 feet wide, in order to build a line to the site of the new Equity sub-terminal elevator at Twichell.

The commission was composed of Sam Hergert, Harlan Hawk and Harold Simpson. Day was awarded $2,927.40 for moving the buildings beneath the proposed line and $3,000 for inconvenience in the moving of the property.

The cooperative had built a new line south of Twichell and had set poles across the railroad tracks for service at the elevator site when failure to secure right-of-way resulted in the suit.

Dan Archer, cooperative attorney, contended that condemnation was necessary in order to secure the right of way because the line was needed for "public use," benefiting many persons.

Max W. Boyer, representing Day, claimed that no "public use" was involved since the line would benefit only a corporation or group of individuals and not the public.

Boyer also cited the statute authorizing the formation of cooperatives which provided that such cooperatives are designed to provide electricity for persons in rural areas not then receiving electric service.

Day and his attorney contended that the Twichell elevator had been receiving electric service for many years and that facilities of the Community Public Service Co. were available, therefore no need was seen for a new

New Jobs for Texans

Texas industries have been providing new jobs for Texans at the rate of about 70,000 a year. That's about 200 new jobs every day.

All kinds of jobs... in offices, on construction work, in manufacturing plants, in the development of the natural resources of the State. Jobs for riggers, for secretaries, for engineers, for truck drivers, for accountants, for lawyers, for crane operators, for decorators, for sailors... all kinds of jobs.

And the reason why these new jobs have been, and continue to be available is this: Texas industry is expanding, and industry makes jobs.

On the average, each new job created in Texas requires the investment of $12,000 capital*. Thus, Texas industry invests over three-quarters of a billion dollars each year in new plants and in plant expansion to create 70,000 new Texas jobs.

Much of this annual investment in new jobs for Texans is made by the oil industry itself and industries which depend on oil and natural gas for fuel and raw materials. Every year a wider variety of industries put to profitable use a larger number of the resources of the State, and call on a broader assortment of available Texas skills.

Forecasters predict an even greater industrial development in Texas, and an even larger number of new jobs, as more industries recognize the advantages that Texas offers: good markets, raw and manufactured resources, trustworthy and dependable people, efficient and abundant fuel, a mild climate, and a good state government... In that list of advantages, the Texas oil industry provides raw materials for processing, and the world's finest industrial fuel—natural gas.

*In the oil industry, the required investment for each new job is over $50,000.

FOUR LEADING AUTO EDITORS GO OVERBOARD FOR NEW MERCURY!

New 161-horsepower Mercury with ball-joint front wheel suspension gets top marks for performance, efficiency, economy and handling ease

"HOT AS STRAIGHT TABASCO ON-THE-ROCKS"
Tom McCahill MECHANIX ILLUSTRATED

"The place where Mercury really shines this year, aside from its speed-over-the-ground performance, is in its handling and roadability... and what a difference ball-joint suspension makes!"

"The guy who buys a '54 Merc will be getting a really new car, not a warmed-over old one. Some of Merc's competitors are... overdue for a change. When these changes come, the buyer of these competitors will be out-of-date as an Indian-head penny."

"161-HP PUSH, BUT DRINKS NO MORE GAS THAN BEFORE"
Wilbur Shaw POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY

Read these quotes from Wilbur Shaw, President of the Indianapolis Speedway.

"Three years ago a Mercury engineer told us that the men in his department would never be satisfied until they designed an engine that ate up a lot less of its own power. Well, they've done it!"

"When I drove the car on the test track in Dearborn, Mich., and again on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, I was struck by the smoothness of the power pick-up as the accelerator went down."

"THIS CAR IS A KNOCKOUT... AND REAL EASY TO DRIVE"
Walt Woran—Don MacDonnell MOTOR TREND

"You'll like the 1954 Mercury. It's like power that'll make you sit in your seat when you stomp the gas."

"If there is no other reason for increase in horsepower (now 161) added acceleration for passing is Mercury's front wheels eliminate kingpin, reduce front end vibration, cut the number of forward gears from 16 to four."

While other drought stricken cities hauled in water last summer, Longview didn't worry. Its supply was never threatened.

Around the long shoreline, hundreds of houses and cottages have been built. They range from mansions to metal boat-houses.

On Sunday and holidays in good weather the lake is a colorful panorama featured by speedboats, outboards and a sailboat here and there.

But back in the creek mouths and brush-filled bays are quiet spots where the fishermen can cope with bass and white perch undisturbed.

The lake varies in width from one-half to three-quarters of a mile. The dam is 12 miles from Longview but the nearest point of lake water is five miles away.

Despite the drought, Lake Cherokee has had little difficulty keeping water. Several streams feed it. The lake is backed up by a dam just where three of the largest streams—Cherokee Bayou, Lee's Creek and Mud Creek—converge.

A SHORT CUT in painting the

When the edges are dry, the

Gainesville State Girls School Continues Its Improvements

A modern fireproof hospital building almost completed at the Gainesville State School for Girls represents another in a series of progressive forward steps taken since 1949 to improve the plant, administration, and program of that institution.

Until the State Youth Development Council assumed jurisdiction of the state's training schools for delinquent children three years ago, the Gainesville school operated with a restricted academic program and rigid disciplinary rules. When Mrs. Maxine Burlingham was appointed superintendent in March, 1949, she began what was to become a vocational education program of wide scope and banished many types of punishment being used at that time for infractions of regulations. Leg iron, head shaving, hobble skirts, and other types of punishment were discontinued and haven't been used since.

The entire situation at the school was greatly improved and the morale of staff and students alike rose perceptibly. The girls were allowed substantially more freedom than in the past and were given increased opportunities for education, vocational training, recreation, and entertainment.

Today the Gainesville campus appears to a visitor much like that of a private junior college. The girls wear nice clothes and take care of them. They are allowed makeup and are encouraged to go to the school's beauty parlor once a week for a hair-do or manicure. They have had their own style shows and cosmetology exhibitions in Dallas and Fort Worth. The buildings are clean and bright, the grounds well kept.

The Youth Development Council believes that its Gainesville institution is as good and has as up-to-date a program as possible under present conditions, and that it will compare favorably with any other such school in the country.

Where formerly the school's few academic contributions were limited to the three R's, today every student can have training in a variety of vocational subjects which not only provide new interest and develop pride in work well done but also furnish the practical schooling necessary to secure a job in the outside world.

A registered nurse is employed full time to direct a training course for practical nurses and nurses' aides. Girls get classroom work and experience in the school hospital and complete the course in a Gainesville hospital, where they receive training in surgery. A few of these girls have later gone on to take training as registered nurses.

Cosmetology is one of the school's most popular subjects. Only two graduates have ever failed to pass the examination of the State Board of Cosmetology.

A special commercial instructor teaches typing, filing, shorthand, office work and business English. One graduate is now private secretary to a prominent businessman in a large Texas city.

Girls who take the floristry course learn how to make corsages, arrange flowers, make wreaths, and perform other work required in a commercial shop.

A thorough home making course provides a model kitchen and dining room where the girls are taught cooking, table setting, serving and hostess techniques.

Sewing, embroidery, and mending are taught in another part of the school, and metal and leather craft are handled by a special instructor.

At least 92 per cent of the girls completing the principal vocational courses have secured good jobs when they returned to society.

Make your own "proving ground" test

... and we know this is what you'll find

Chevrolet is out ahead in powerful performance

Chevrolet is out ahead in economy

You can easily tell the difference between engines when you drive and the difference is all in Chevrolet's favor! That's because Chevrolet's great engines deliver full horsepower where it counts on the road. What Chevrolet promises, Chevrolet delivers.

There's new power, new performance and new economy in the 1954 Chevrolet engines—the "Blue-Flame 123" in Powerplant models and the "Blue-Flame 115" in gears models. And they bring you the highest compression ratio of any leading low-price car. That's why they can deliver a big gain in power, acceleration and all-around performance, along with important gasoline savings.

Your test car's ready now... We'll be glad to have you compare the smooth, quiet performance of this new Chevrolet with any other car in its field. Come in and put it through any kind of "proving ground" test you care to, and judge its performance for yourself. Your test car's ready now and we hope you are too.

Year after year more people buy Chevrolets than any other car!

PARTY DRESSES EVERY DAY

THESE DRESS-UP STYLES CAN TAKE IT . . . Here are two party styles for the younger set in easy-to-care-for nylon sheers. Left, enchanting pastel sheer with flocked vine pattern in a perky frock with its own befrilled petticoat and wide bertha collar trimmed in nylon lace. Right, smart outfit for a style-conscious junior high charmer, with dainty white bodice, navy or red skirt with flocked white dots.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

Time was when those dainty, trimly party dresses for little girls were reserved strictly for state occasions. Mothers couldn't face the prospect of weekly washing and ironing of the befrilled and lace-trimmed organdies and batistes.

Today's easy-to-care-for miracle fabrics have changed all that, however, and this year there are more varieties of the new man-made fibers than ever before in children's dresses. Favorites for pint-size party dresses are the nylon sheers, which come in plain and printed fabrics, in dotted Swiss effects, in shamung, dainty and seersucker weaves, and in the crispest, daintiest kind of Sunday-best frocks which can be washed and dried in a few minutes and need little or no ironing. In addition, the fragile-appearing fabrics retain their crispness and have unusual tensile strength, so that they can be worn every day, if desired.

Most of the new children's clothes in nylon, Orlon and Dacron are budget-priced, appealing on still another score to thrifty mothers. Many come with their own befrilled petticoats or detachable crinolines, to give skirts that important bouffant look.

He was at the local probation office bright and early one morning recently to report a parole violation—he had been thrown in jail a night previous for drunkenness. County Judge Charles said the man's value intact, and that possible future reference would go on. The man was sentenced to three years probation.

It was announced that six miles of paved farm-to-market roads in the northwest part of the county have been approved, at a cost of approximately $51,000.

Quote from the column "Just Here and There" by the late Van W. Stewart: "We think Perryton would be very foolish to go all out to serve the oil industry and forget the farming and ranching business that has made Perryton. Perryton can serve both adequately if we only try. Just remember that we've gone through years in a row when the farmer and rancher made money hand over fist, and just as sure as we're here today, those dry years and low prices will come again. It is then that the oil business will keep Perryton from slipping back to the dark days of the early thirties. So let's keep on an even keel, building on to a town that will serve and appreciate the patronage of the oilman, the farmer and the rancher."

The PHS speech students returned Saturday from the Interscholastic League contests at Canyon with eight first places, and ranking no lower than fourth in any contest. The high school chorus won another first place.

READERS

You have me straightened out on the fact that I am an alumnus. But, now with the advent of the TV set and all accompanying paraphernalia I find myself exceedingly confused.

I take it then that being one male I would have an antennus on my house. If my neighbor were similarly equipped (he is a male, too) then we would have antennae. Now we can even include my wife and his wife in on this too, as I understand and we still have antennae. Now, in the event my widowed neighbor puts in a set, beyond doubt she will have to put up an antenna. But now, and let's don't be hasty, if her maiden aunt should come to live with her it would automatically become an antennae. Now you accent the middle syllable of this word, that is, "ten" (even if there is just one). So it's all very logical.

John Smith puts up an antennus. Now to John's wife it's just a plain old antenna. John and his friend Bill each have a set so they have to put up antennae. Mary and her friend, Sue who is presumably a TV fan, refer to the antennae. John, Bill, Mary and Sue taken together are owners of an antennae.

How confusing can you get? Now between us (and I certainly wouldn't want you to think it is the money involved) I'm so confused that it will no doubt be some time before I get around to owning a TV.

When I do I'm going to put up an ariel.

Sincerely
Alvin F. Klotz

Why No More Horses

Economists at Cornell University have come up with the real reason farmers have turned to tractors, abandoning horses.

It costs more to maintain a horse than a tractor.
The economists say it costs $141 to maintain a horse in harness on the farm. A team of horses would cost $282 per year. It costs about $50 a year in labor to keep up the horses, furnishing feed, water and bedding.

In brief, it costs about 68 cents an hour for every hour of work on the farm with horses.

Tractors don't cost that much—while they aren't working, they aren't eating—something that can't be said about horses.

Outsmarting Ourselves

Mankind seems to be outsmarting itself, especially in America, but there seems to be no end to the cycle of new developments that create new problems.

For example, flies.
Used to be the only weapon against a fly was a fly swatter, or perhaps some spray which stunk up the place and caused the flies to leave temporarily.

Then they came along with DDT, guaranteed to end the fly menace forever. And it did, for a while. Then it was discovered that the weaklings died but in their place arose a new breed of flies which grew fat on DDT. Other chemicals were developed, but in the final analysis, a few flies were always left, enough to start the whole population.

So that problem hasn't been solved, by a long shot.

Same way with the so-called miracle drugs which were supposed to end most of the dread diseases. They did for a while, but when they became too common, it was found that in too many instances the new drugs had lost their effectiveness when a serious illness hit.

The automobile was considered a blessing in the early days, and perhaps it still is, in spite of killing more people than wars. But the automobile has created problems unheard of in grandpa's day and which lack a lot of being solved.

There is no place to park cars nowadays; you have to ride on antiquated highways; it costs like the dickens to operate one; the car is considered fair game for every tax collector throughout the land and bears a tax burden far out of proportion to its value.

Every state and the national government is greatly concerned about traffic—especially safety—and there was no traffic problem until we had automobiles.

So that problem isn't solved, either.
Latest is the hydrogen bomb, successor to the atomic bomb which was supposed to scare the rest of the world from making war or even a threatening move against America.

Now it appears that we have a bear by the tail and while we continue to make bigger and better hydrogen bombs, cobalt bombs and presumably have some old fashioned atomic bombs stashed away, we are still a long way from solving the problem of world peace.

Life was more simple, and perhaps somewhat safer, before we became so all-fired smart.

From the SIDELINE with HAROLD HUDSON

We heard a fellow editor at the Panhandle Press Association convention last week end who sorta lays the rest of us in the shade when it comes to plain talk. While the rest of us may shy away from insulting bankers, preachers, law officers, advertisers and creditors, Ernest Joiner of the Ralls Banner says it on anyone that catches the Joiner eye. Or at least that's what he said in his speech at the convention.

"The Ralls Banner is a private business institution, run solely and simply for the personal enjoyment of the editor," says Joiner to anyone that questions his methods. "We never run a 'trade-at-home' campaign for Ralls merchants because we don't think it does any good. If these merchants want people to trade at home they can get up off their rears and make it attractive for their customers to do so," he points out.

The Banner has at one time or another run editorials criticizing Baptist preachers, the Catholic church, printers, sheriffs, bootleggers, the schools, social security, Allan Shivers and socialism. During a campaign for a beer election, the Banner got off the fence by having editorial comment extolling the virtues of a glass of chilled beer.

The Ralls editor wound up his talk by saying that not only is it not necessary to please everyone, it is not necessary to please anyone. We doubt if this method would work with all of us—and anyway, we're not mad at folks all the time.

Just when you get enough money to buy something you had classed as a luxury, it ceases to be a luxury.

Last week at the conclusion of the annual county Red Cross drive, chairman Gene Akers was in the Herald office to see about putting a "thank you" in the paper on behalf of the Red Cross to those who worked and contributed toward the drive. This was fine. But no one publicly thanked Gene Akers for the splendid job he did, and this was a pure oversight, we're sure. Too often the people who give their time to these drives are overlooked when the drive is over.

We're sure Gene burned up a lot of his own gasoline and know that he spent a lot of

ON EASTER SUNDAY

Wolf Creek Philosopher Outlaw Hydrogen Bomb at Once

(Ed. note: The Wolf Creek Philosopher has been thinking too much about the hydrogen bomb, it seems, and this affects a lot of other people, too.)

Dear editor:
I was out here on my farm yesterday afternoon trying to steady my nerves after reading all the hydrogen bomb talk and hearing about this newest kink, his time on the Red Cross during this drive, and he has done this for several years. In spite of crop failures and tightened pocketbooks, the Red Cross in this county has met the quota, and went over the goal of $2,826 this year by over $100. A large part of this is due to the work of Gene Akers, and we think someone ought to brag on him. Maybe he'll quit some day and the chairmanship will fall on someone else, and we certainly wouldn't want it to fall this way.

Our neighbor Aldon Bell has installed some new kind of grass which the rest of us are keeping a pretty close check on. This grass is supposed to be a dandy—takes little water, little mowing, resists dandelions and crabgrass, makes a pretty turf, etc. If this grass works out like it is reported to do, we think it is the answer to yard men like us, who perform only the minimum and sometimes not even that.

Herald Linotype operator Jack Payne has missed work the past ten days because, of all things, the mumps. Traditionally a children's disease, it has hit a number of adults here in Perryton and seems to be harder on adults than children. Payne says he's tired of people asking what's his trouble, then snickering when they find out it's mumps. Falls to see the humor in this, says victim Payne.

Occasionally we see a headline in some newspaper telling of the death of a person, and it is reported, "John Doe Passes." This always strikes us the wrong way and the the cobalt bomb which you fire up from a raft out in the ocean and row for the other shore while clouds of radio-active stuff drift toward the opposite shore, wiping out all life before them, you know, some people steady their nerves by lightning into a lot of work, jump on their tractor or grabbin a hoe, but I have never gotten that nervous.

Herald never, never reports a death in this manner. Somehow, use of the term "passes" always puts us in mind of a crap game and we just can't use it in connection with death.

Learn from the mistakes of others. You can't live long enough to make them all yourself.

Several weeks ago we secured a Farmer's Almanac from Gliner LaMaster, intending to set ourselves up as a weather prophet, but it doesn't look as though things are going to work out that way. This book, while maybe a dandy in other sections of the country, is behind times out here. Nowhere in it can we find a forecast for dust or high, dry winds. Every once in a while some storms are forecast, but we're never sure where the storms will be.

For example, this week, from the 12th to 15th we should have local storms, fair in eastern sections up to mid-week, becoming overcast and rainy. Showers in the Mississippi valley and unpleasant, says the Almanac. Must be written by an Easterner. Who ever heard of a shower being unpleasant?

Nothing changes the direction of a man's thinking quicker than spading up fishing worms while digging in the garden.

Down at the Herald we are proud of the showing made in the annual Panhandle Press Association newspaper contests. Entered three contests, won one first and two seconds out of 95 newspapers.

The way I calm my nerves is to stretch out on the ground under a shade tree and watch a buzzard sail around the sky in a big circle without ever flap his wings, and if more people had used my method, we wouldn't have to worry over the hydrogen bomb. Wouldn't have had one.

But now that we've got it I see no reason in ducking the job of facing up to it. I notice where President Eisenhower said we have no plans for building a bigger bomb, the one we've got now is big enough to accommodate any city and as I see it, it's now up to the cities to get bigger if they want us to keep forin ahead in bomb sizes.

But what I started out to say was I've been reading about the plight the cities find themselves in when they start thinking about evacuating their citizens in case of a hydrogen bomb attack. I don't see how they're gonna do it successfully. I guess if you had time you could get all the people out of Dallas or Houston say, but it sure would be hard on bobwire fences and grown crops around there, especially if some enemy hit on the idea of stagin dummy raids, just crank in up their planes two or three times a week and headin for a city just to see the people scatter. I tell you, after five or six of these there wouldn't be a stalk of cotton or grass growin within miles of Dallas or Houston, all trampled into the ground by the fleeing citizens.

In ancient times, you know, when an enemy attacked, everybody fled to the city and shut the gate behind em, but modern civilization has reversed this trend.

What it proves is that cities probably were a mistake in the first place.

I still say, though, the Texas Legislature ought to take this thing by the horns and outlaw the hydrogen bomb before mankind rubs himself out. It's goin to be hard on Legislatures if it happens and there's nobody left to tax.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

es Home Identified In ald Mystery Farm Series

farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Cates, 4½ miles north of Perryton, was identified as the Herald Mystery Farm. The farm is located on the edge of Beaver county and consists of 240 acres.

The farm was filed on by Wal-lings and Cates bought it from Beulah Hall in 1942.

Wheat and milo are grown on the farm, and the best crop year was 1944 when the farm averaged about 40 bushels of wheat per acre.

Poorest crop years have been "the last four years," which have been total failures, Cates says.

Cates has lived in Beaver county for 37 years. Mr. and Mrs. Cates have two boys, Odell, 13, and Doyle, 12. They are members of the Methodist Church and Farm Bureau.

The house, a five room stucco, was built in 1942 when the improvements were started on the farm. A number of other outbuildings have been built since the place was settled.

Veterans Forum

Q—I've just been released from active duty and I plan to apply within the 120 days allowed me for the kind of GI term insurance available to Korean veterans. Will I have to take a physical examination to get it?

A—No. A physical examination is not required for veterans who apply for Korean GI term insurance within the specified time.

Q—I am a World War II veteran. For the past several years I've been holding permanent GI insurance in an endowment plan. I'd like to exchange it for a permanent policy with lower premiums and, of course, a lower reserve value. If I do this, will I have to lose the extra reserve I've paid into the old policy?

A—No. The difference between the reserve on the old and new policies, less any indebtedness may be used to cover future premiums on your new policy. Or it may be withdrawn in cash, if you wish.

Q—Are there any circumstances under which a Korean veteran would not be entitled to make his one-and-only change of course under the Korean GI Bill training program?

A—Yes. If the veteran drops out of training because of his own misconduct, neglect or failure to apply himself to his studies, he would not be permitted to change to another course. In fact, he could be denied any further training.

Q—I'm taking on-the-job training under the Korean GI Bill. In addition, I would like to take a correspondence course in the same field. Could I receive a GI allowance for the correspondence course, as well as my monthly allowance as an on-the-job trainee?

A—No. The GI allowance for a correspondence course could not be paid, so long as you're receiving an allowance for on-the-job training.

Gasoline Smugglers Active

KHATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—Nearly half of all motor vehicles in this Himalayan Kingdom's capital have been rendered idle by a gasoline smuggling link with communist-occupied Tibet, reliable sources here declared.

The sources attributed local gasoline shortages to smuggler's prices exceeding 40 Indian rupees per gallon compared to a blackmarket high in Khatmandu bazars of slightly over 7 rupees.

How smart can machines be?

Back in the twenties there was a stage play about mechanical men, who repaid their creators by trying to wreck civilization. "Robots" have made people uneasy ever since.

How smart can a machine be? At General Electric we're beginning to find out. For some years now we've been working with machines that come startlingly close to thinking like men.

Can they outsmart men? Just the opposite: they make men even smarter by taking over routine mental chores and freeing men for the creative thinking only human minds can encompass.

A jet engine used to be designed by trial and error. You had to build it first, or a costly model, to find out how it would work. Now, an electronic computer helps solve long and complex jet development problems in advance. In 15 minutes it goes through 8 million mathematical calculations and comes up with an answer that would take a mathematician 7 years.

In management, "hunch" is giving way to fact. Electronic data-processing machines zip through head-spinning statistics on market changes, product design and income trends to come up with the answers General Electric managers need to make sound decisions, not hopeful guesses.

Their ability to digest tons of data in a hurry may one day help the farmer by making weather predictions more accurate. They may shed new light on the reasons for boom and bust.

Machines that can read, write, do arithmetic, measure, feel, remember, now take the load off men's minds, just as machines have eased the burden on our backs.

But these fantastic machines still depend on people to design and build and guide and use them. What they replace is drudgery—not people.

Don't worry; smart though they are, machines will never be as smart as people. Not while people are smart enough to think them up, smart enough to let them do a man's drudging work.

Progress is our most important product

A Crown of Thorns

"They Crowned Him With Thorns"... what do we crown Him with? Long ago the crowd cried, "Crucify Him." Today, many would prefer to crucify The Son of God than to Confess Him. How is it with you? Do you scorn Him with proud rejection? Are you pressing the painful sharp points of the crown of thorns against His brow? Do you revolt against all His Kingdom stands for? Do you crucify Him anew each day and put Him to open shame?

Blessed to know that He accepted the crown of thorns. He was despised and rejected by men; yet He opened not His mouth. Will you TRUST your soul to Him, or will you THRUST your thorns in Him? Go to church this week. Trust Him, confess Him... help lift that crown of thorns; help carry that cross.

Building Is Shrunk

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Engineers are squeezing a four-story, million dollar building to give it greater strength and load-carrying qualities. Scheduled for completion by December, 1954, it is said by the architect-engineers to be the first multi-storied structure in the nation employing prestressed concrete.

The big squeeze is done by running quarter-inch steel wires across the width of the beams and along the length of the floor slab. As the concrete sets these wires are tightened by special jacks, thus squeezing or shrinking the concrete and getting rid of the pull-apart tendency in advance.

The structure, 46 feet wide, the shrinkage will be about one-eighth of an inch.

Railroad Film Seen at Ranger

The picture tells the story of a group of outlaws who try to stop the building of a railroad by instigating Indian raids.

Jack Mahoney, fresh from his western roles in TV, is cast as a trouble shooter, sent by the company to investigate the Indian raids. He uncovers a plot by the town's saloon owner to terrorize the track workers over the proposed route. In a gory, hard-riding gun battle, Mahoney kills the ringleader and brings the outlaws to justice.

Duryea's Punch Flattens Nova

Big Lou Nova, one time contender for the world heavy-weight boxing championship, got a sharp reminder of his ring career during the filming of "World for Ransom," which comes to the Ranger Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday. During a fight scene in the picture, Nova forgot to duck one of Duryea's sizzling rights and caught it flush on the jaw. The 230-pound actor went down but not out and got up with a grin. "Man, I'd almost forgotten what it felt like to be hit that hard," he told Duryea good naturedly.

'Jubilee Trail' Famed Novel, Is On Screen

One of the greatest American dramas in modern literary annals "Jubilee Trail" by Gwen Bristow, is brought to the screen and comes to the Ellis Theatre on Tuesday-Thursday, April 20-22.

Vera Raiston heads the star cast, supported by Joan Leslie, Forrest Tucker, John Russell, Ray Middleton, Pat O'Brien, Buddy Baer and Jim Davis.

A brief outline of the story fails to capture the scope of this roaring romance which springs from American history, however, it concerns Joan Leslie, the eastern bride of a young California trader who makes the perilous overland journey to her husband's home. In New Orleans, she is befriended by Vera Raiston, beautiful and vivacious darling of the cabarets, who in turn is aided by Joan in escaping when wrongly accused of murder.

Powerful Drama

The two become fast friends during the remainder of the trip West, where the bride discovers her husband left a heartbroken girl with an illegitimate child when he married her, although he wasn't aware of the complications at the time.

Joan's husband is killed by the abandoned girl's father and Joan and Vera continue on to Los Angeles where Joan's baby is born as California becomes a state, and where she subsequently falls in love with Forrest Tucker, friend and associate of her late husband. Trouble reappears when the baby's uncle attempts to take the child by force.

Bob Hope Is Laugh Riot In New Film

Bob Hope has one of his funniest pictures in "Casanova's Big Night," a Technicolor production which comes to the Ellis Theatre on Sunday and Monday. Joan Fontaine and Basil Rathbone also are featured.

Making no pretense at historical accuracy, the picture is laid in Italy in the 18th century. Hope plays a meek tailor's apprentice in the days of the great lover, Casanova. The latter is loaded with debts and in order to make a quick retreat trades his clothes for Hope's horse.

Mistaken for Casanova, Hope gets into all sorts of difficulties, mainly the task of wooing a Duke's fiancée in Venice.

The dialogue is fast, and the picture ends with two endings, one Paramount's choice and the other Hope's.

DRAMATIC SCENE from Republic's stirring color drama "Jubilee Trail," that opens Tuesday at the Ellis Theatre. The stars are Pat O'Brien, John Russell, Joan Leslie and Vera Raiston. Produced by it's the greatest American drama since "Gone With the Wind."

A tense climax is reached when hired gunmen are brought on the scene to force the issue with Tucker figuring prominently in the swift denouement.

Cadillac

Starting the Day with an Hour's Rest!

It's about an hour from his home to his office—but he doesn't think of it as a drive at all.

He just settles back in the deep, comfortable seat—rests his hand on the inviting wheel—looks out over the hood in the general direction of the office—and starts to relax.

Comes first, the ten-mile stretch in the country.

If the car were standing still, it could not be smoother or softer or quieter—as it loafs over the broad, winding highway. There's only the faint sound of the wind, plus the receding trees and posts and buildings, to give him a sense of movement.

Almost before it begins, it seems, the ten-mile stretch is over—and a sign announces the city's limits. The soft pressure of his foot shifts from accelerator to brake—and the big car settles down easily, smoothly and quickly to the prescribed speed.

And then begins the real wizardry of Cadillac performance. Stop and go—in and out—roll and creep . . . all regulated with the slightest touch of toe and hand. Insofar as the driver is concerned, it's just as easy as the open road—a little slower, of course, but just as calm and relaxing.

And maybe a little bit nicer, in one notable respect—for now there are drivers all about him—stealing glances at his beautiful car, and wondering who's the fortunate person whose name is on the title!

What a car—for highway or street! Owners say the hours behind its wheel are among the finest hours of the day—restful, relaxing and inspiring.

If you haven't as yet driven a 1954 Cadillac—you've been missing something wonderful! Better come in soon—for the most revealing hour you ever spent behind the wheel of a motor car.
