STANDING ON THE CORNER

. . . With P. J.

"My boy," a father advised his son, "treat everybody with politeness, even those who are rude to you. For remember that you show courtesy to others not because they are gentlemen, but because you are one."—Cheer.

One of my fondest childhood memories concerns H. P. Caveness, former Tahoka and county superintendent. He made the mistake one day of showing me some books when I accompanied Pa to his office. That started it—every time I caught everybody busy in the "back" of The News, off I'd go to see the pretty books and eat lemon drops.

It didn't bother me that sometimes the whole town was looking for a smudgy five-year-old. And I'm not the only person in town that still has a book on the library shelf that Mr. Caveness gave away in an effort to develop a child's interest in good books.

How observant are you?

Maybe you noticed a certain classified ad. in the paper last week, but it is doubtful you know the story behind it.

Doug Finley and Odelle King tied the knot recently and while they were away from town, some of Doug's bosom buddies thought they'd do him a favor.

They placed on sale all of his fishing tackle, boat and motor, and even his trailer house. We're anxious to find out how much property they left the pore boy.

Not only this, but we were instructed to send the bill for the ad. to Doug.

Two reporters were on a tour of a new telephone building. As they viewed the maze of equipment, one of them was intrigued on observing a small bowl in the midst of all the ingenious mechanisms. It was filled with water, wherein a pair of goldfish swam. "What is that for?" the curious newsman asked. "That," replied his companion, "was probably put there to remind mortals that some very wonderful things were also invented by God."—Illinois Bell Telephone News.

Mrs. Dean Wright is really proud of her new Ford. In fact, she's so proud of it that she won't even turn on the headlights.

All joking aside, the other night she rushed into the concessions stand at the swimming pool and told her husband (he's the "little" man who works there) that the lights on her car had burned out.

Dean took one look, and after a flick of the wrist had them working again—he just turned them on!

Showers Help, Insects Scarce

Rain showers this week have aided crops in several areas of Lynn county. Rainfall in Tahoka amounted to only .19 of an inch. Up to an inch or more was received in portions of the New Home, Lakeview, Petty and West Point communities, and a heavy shower fell in the New Lynn area.

Most crops, especially cotton, are doing wonderfully well, farmers report. Some early feed has burned badly and will not make much, but generally cotton promises a bumper crop.

Insect infectation of crops over Lynn county has been generally light the past week, according to County Agent Bill Griffin.

There has been spotted heavy infestation of both leafworm and bollworm; however, he says, and both are on the gradual increase. He advises farmers to keep a close check on their fields.

An infestation of square-borers are flaring squares to give an appearance of bollworms, but the square-borer is not generally of an economic importance.

Qualifying Starts In Club Tourney

The second annual T-Bar Country Club golf tournament for members only will be held during next week with finals to be played on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 25.

The event, held for men, women and teen-agers, will begin with qualifying rounds that must be played Friday, Saturday or Sunday of this week with the deadline for turning in scores at 6:00 p. m. Sunday, according to C. W. Conway, chairman of the tournament committee.

Those who wish to qualify for medalist honors or the championship flight in any of the three divisions, must play 18 holes on specified days with at least a three-some.

Those unable to qualify on the three days pecified must turn in their scores at the club house not later than 6:00 p. m. Sunday.

During the week of the tournament, two rounds must be played between Monday, Aug. 18, and Saturday, Aug. 24, Conway said, in order for finals only to be played on the last day.

Trophies for winners, runners-up, consolation winners, and medalist have arrived for all flights for both men, women and teen-agers and are on display at Tahoka Drug and Wynne Collier Drug.

At this time, only one boys' flight has been secured for the teen-age division, but a girls' flight will also possibly be held, this being the only division that non-members may enter.

The golf course is expected to be in excellent condition for the event, with mowing and shredding to be completed by this Sunday.

Editor, The News:

Your paper has certainly been something to look forward to, even if it is a month and a half old when it does get here.

I arrived on Okinawa April 30. Things are quite different than I expected, but until February of 1959 it will be our home.

The customs are quite different than in the States, and it has rained almost every day since I have been here. The food is about the same except milk, and we have recombined milk. So, the next time you drink a glass of milk, think of us.

Farm Workers Now On Social Security

Farmers and ranchers and other employers of agricultural workers such as cotton gin operators, are reminded by John G. Hutton, district manager of the Lubbock office of the Social Security Administration, of some changes in the method of reporting the wages of their employees.

In 1957, agricultural work is covered by social security if either (1) cash wages of $150 or more are paid to a worker by his employer during the year; of (2) regardless of the amount of wages, if an employee works 0 or more days during the year where the wages are figured on a time basis.

The total covered wages of farm workers are reported only once a year in January for the preceding year to the Director of Internal Revenue. Mr. Hutton added that if employers keep an accurate record of the name, social security number, and the amount of wages paid to each worker that will be all the information needed to complete this annual social security report.

A letter from Mrs. A. H. Brunson, formerly Miss Dama Anglin, of Grand Valley, Colo., said that they live in the midst of the shale oil activity, stories of which recently appeared in national magazines. They own a small farm and like the climate there although they miss the West Texas people.

Hans Irniger, Swiss Visitor, Likes Little Customs of American People

The following is an article written for The News by Hans Irniger, 22-year-old visitor here from Switzerland, who was brought to Tahoka by the local Rotary Club.

* * *

Tahoka through Swiss eyes . . .

My list of things I like and of others which I don't contains about the following things on its front side:

Your keeping doors open . . . Mrs. Redwine's belt . . . Mrs. Huffaker's paintings . . . Maurice Bray's ability to discuss . . . Dr. Prohl's memories of Switzerland.

Joe Unfred's taking me around without belonging to Rotary . . . girls in shorts . . . loud shirts . . . the open space with all its interesting plants and animals such as horn toads, poison spiders, rattlers, skunks, turtles and coyotes . . .

Moreover, I like the American way of housekeeping, because in my beloved Switzerland, accuracy expands from watchmakers to women, so that they are real pedantic in keeping their residences clean. The purpose of many Swiss homes is not to live in, but to be cleaned.

The back side of the above list still comprises segregation. I like to discuss it with anybody though. And then maybe a many a radio rather disturbs because nobody listens to it. No wonder, by the way, for commercials are rarely breath-taking.

For women. A Swiss breakfast always consists of bread and butter with hot milk and coffee. Imagine my surprise when I first came to New York and could choose one from nearly ten different breakfasts! As for petticoats, our girls don't wear more than one. Nor do our country girls use lipstick. Most of them are roughened by farm work. But they do not look grown up at the age of 15 or 16, and they are very shy. I like them.

Do the above mentionings make you doubt at our civilization? Be sure we have the second highest standing of living in the world, although our salami is made of horse meat.

Our process in cheese fabrication is kept secret. Mr. Bray asked me how we trained our rats and mice to bite those big holes into the loaves (of cheese), whereupon I had to tell him that we do this job otherwise. Namely, we make the cheese roll downhill and let soldiers have a machine gun practice with it.

Statistics of questions I am asked:

How do you like it over here, 25%; how long have you been here, 15%; how long are you going to stay, 11%; what sports do you all have, 10%; do you all have TV in Switzerland, 9%; do you have American cars, 7%; do you have a many appliances, 2%; do you have electric lights, 1%?; total, 80%.

(Notice the "you all's".—Ed.)

The remaining 20% are mainly intelligent questions. Nobody ever asked me if there were mountains in Switzerland.

An interesting controverse came to my mind yesterday, i. e., America has many churches and just two main parties (political), whereas Switzerland has many political parties but just two main churches, the Zwinglian Protestants and Roman Catholics.

This article was not very serious. Probably I shall write a better one about Switzerland whenever Mrs. Jacobs is in trouble (at the newspaper.) —Hans Irniger.

Draw Wins In Softball Loop

Draw won the playoffs in the Draw - sponsored softball league, defeating Gail 3 to 0 Monday night and 9 to 6 Tuesday night.

Opening the play-offs last Thursday, Draw, the first place team, defeated O'Donnell, which had finished in fourth place, 8 to 3, with H. C. Gribble the winning pitcher and Shoemaker the losing moundsman. Friday night, Draw won again over O'Donnell 10 to 4 behind Gribble's pitching, while O'Donnell tried Hancock in the box. Lewis, third place finisher, forfeited each night to Gail, the second place team.

In the two final games, Iron-Man Gribble hurled his third evening in succession to win, while Gail had Kenneth Huffaker on the mound. The 3-0 affair was one of the best games of the year. In the next, Billy Quinn Jones was the winning hurler for Draw, and Shorty Farmer was the losing hurler for Gail.

Nolan Jones reports that J. B. Greer of Draw ended the season with six home runs, while Bunny Massengale of Gail and Herman Crawford of Draw each had five four-base hits.

Pitcher winning the most games was H. C. Gribble.

Draw is planning an invitational tournament beginning Monday, Aug. 26, with three teams from Lubbock, two from Lamesa, and Draw and Gail entered. Others who wish to enter may contact Nolan Jones and post the $15.00 entrance fee. A double-elimination tournament will be held.

Standing . . .

Here it is just days before school starts again. In a way, everyone hates to see another school year start. It means the kids are one year older, and one year closer to being grown up.

With out minds centered on our children at this time, maybe you will enjoy descriptions of them that recently appeared in "Together" magazine.

A little girl can be sweeter (and badder) oftener than anyone else in the world. She can jitter around and make funny noises that frazzle your nerves, yet just when you open your mouth she stands there demure. A girl is innocence playing in the mud, beauty standing on its head, and motherhood dragging a doll by the foot.

Boys are found everywhere—on top of, underneath, inside of, climbing on, swinging from, running around, or jumping to. He is truth with dirt on its face, beauty with a cut on its finger, wisdom with bubble gum in its hair, and the hope of the future with a frog in its pocket.

Disabilites Will Receive Benefits

More than 100,000 disabled workers all over the Nation have been notified that they are entitled to social security disability insurance benefits and will receive their first benefit checks during August, Mr. John G. Hutton, district manager of the Lubbock social security office announced recently. Most of the checks were delivered August 3 and the remaining ones will be mailed on following days.

Making this announcement, Mr. Hutton noted that action is being taken as speedily as possible on all disability applications and that many other disabled workers, who may not yet have received notice of final action on their applications, will be receiving their first checks in coming months. No further action is necessary on their part, he said.

In the first six months of 1957, applications for these new disability insurance benefits increased to a rate of about 12,000 a week throughout the Nation. Although social security benefit checks for a particular month are ordinarily mailed out for devivery on the third following month, the heavy load of disability applications slowed up processing and made it impossible to get checks issued on August 3 to all who are entitled to disability benefits for the month of July.

All disabled workers who meet the requirements of the law, and whose applications have been filed with their social security offices before the end of December 1957, Mr. Hutton said, will get benefit payments for the months of July through December. After December, payments cannot be made for any month before the month of application.

In order to get disability insurance benefits, a person must be between 50 and 65 years of age and must have a long-lasting disability so severe that he is not able to engage in any substantial gainful activity. He must have worked under social security for five out of ten years before he became disabled, including a year and a half out of the 3 years just before his disability began.

In addition to the disability benefit sections of the law which provide for a partial replacement of earnings during a disabled worker's middle years, there is a 1954 amendment to the law providing that disabled people of any age who meet the disability and work requirements may apply to have their social security records frozen. When a worker's social security is frozen, his own and his family's future benefit rights are protected.

Bowers pointed out that the recent legislature had increased appropriations to state agricultural agencies, especially to those conducting experiments to produce better agricultural products as a benefit to Texas farmers.

Lyntegar now has 8,568 members in 10 counties including Lynn, Garza, Terry, Dawson, Gaines, Borden, Hockley, Yoakum, and small parts of Lubbock and Martin.

Poka-Lambro reported almost exactly 1400 members in the five counties of Lynn, Terry, Dawson, Borden, and Garza. Both cooperatives have their headquarters in Tahoka.

Following the program, directors for both co-ops were elected.

Frank Harris of Ackerly, existing president of Lyntegar, and Howard Moore of Lamesa were re-elected to the board of directors representing Districts 3 and 4, respectively. Holdover directors are Earl Houx of District 1; J. S. Smith, District 2; L. G. Thuett, Jr., District 6; and Floyd Heck, District 7.

All of the directors for Poka-Lambro were elected, because of the lack of a quorum at last year's meeting, with two new names appearing on the board, J. O. Allen and Herbert Green. Re-elected members are Lee Bartlett, V. H. Wheatley, George Teague, C. W. Roberts, and Loyd R. McCormick. All will serve two year terms except Wheatley, Green and Roberts, who will serve one year.

Officers for both co-ops will be elected at the next meeting of the boards.

Garland Pennington is manager of Lyntegar, and W. D. Harmon is manager of Poka-Lambro.

Officers of Poka-Lambro the past year have been James T. Dunn of Dawson county, president; Loyd R. McCormick of Lynn county, vice president; and V. H. Wheatley of Terry county, secretary.

A catering service served the barbecue supper preceding the program and business meetings, and children were entertained with free rides on the ferris wheel, ponies, little cars and swings. Also preceding the program was the music of the high school string band of Plains featuring rock and roll numbers.

Highlighting the evening's activities was the drawing for prizes directed by Joe D. Unfred. Lyntegar members drew 75 electrical appliance prizes, and Poka-Lambro members drew 15 colored telephone sets.

This year's meeting was termed one of the most successful during the 19 years that Lyntegar has been holding annual meetings, and for Poka-Lambro, which is relatively new.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Caveness, Pioneer Teachers, To Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Caveness will observe their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday, August 18, from 3:00 to 5:00 p. m., at which time they invite all their friends, especially former school students, to call at their home at 1300 North Fifth.

Actually, Mr. and Mrs. Caveness were married on August 28, 1907, but the open house is being held early for convenience of their daughter who will be here from Akron, Ohio.

The daughter is Mrs. Henry (Jeanette) Dixon, whose husband is associated with Goodrich Rubber Co. in Akron. The Dixons have four children. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Caveness is Dr. Bob Caveness, a dentist, who lives in Dallas with his wife and three children.

Mr. Caveness was superintendent of the Tahoka schools from 1918 until 1925, following which he was county superintendent of Lynn county for a little over 12 years. Since retiring he has been looking after his farms, fishing a little, and taking life easy. Mrs. Caveness also taught with him in the schools here for several years.

Mr. Caveness has reason to be proud of his leadership in developing the local schools from unorganized status in 1918 to a fully accredited school with 22 units in 1925. In fact, he was instrumental in getting the very first units recognized and the school ultimately fully accredited.

Under his administration, the brick school building, then located in south Tahoka, was modernized and an auditorium and more class rooms added.

Also, under his administration, the first football team was fielded in 1921 or 1922, with M. B. Hood, now mayor of Plainview, the first coach. The second coach, Cecil Peeples, is now a college president.

Under his administration as county superintendent the Lynn county schools made rapid advance toward modernization.

He was hired by the Tahoka board sight-unseen on the recommendation of Rev. L. L. F. Parker, then Baptist pastor here who had been pastor at Cushing, where Mr. Caveness was head of the schools in 1918. Members of the Tahoka board at that time were J. E. Stokes, president; H. M. Larkin, secretary; G. W. Small, Jack Edwards, Ira Doak, Jop Adams, and Bart Reece.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Caveness also have reason to be proud of their church work, having been active in the First Baptist Church of Tahoka nearly 40 years. He has been a deacon since 1922, and taught a Sunday School class more than 30 years. Both sang in the choir until three or four years ago.

Mrs. Caveness, a Presbyterian when she came here, was baptized and joined the Baptist Church on coming here, and the very next Sunday started teaching a Sunday School class. After nearly 40 years, she is still teaching a class.

He was born and reared at Jacksonville, in deep East Texas, and early started his struggle for an education. On reaching young manhood, he taught in rural schools of the area while doing work as he could in Sam Houston State Normal at Huntsville, finally graduating there in 1906. He also did work in the University of Texas, and in later years at Texas Tech.

While teaching at Fairy, Hamilton county, in 1906-1907, he met another teacher there, Miss Mattie Clark, in whom he took a great deal of interest. The next August, the two were married at her home in McGregor.

Mrs. Caveness had been reared at McGregor, attended Trinity University, then located at Waxahachie, following which she began a teaching career.

The couple taught successively at Bynum, Hill county; Garrison, Nacogdoches county; and Mount Enterprise, Rusk county, one of the oldest towns in East Texas, at each of which Mr. Caveness was the superintendent.

He then became high school principal at Henderson, in Rusk county, one of only 32 schools affiliated in the state at that time.

Next, he became superintendent at Cushing, and from there the couple came to Tahoka. In the meantime, after teaching four or five years, Mrs. Caveness dropped her teaching to raise her children and did not resume work in the profession.

Wilson Young Men In Service In Pacific

(By Mrs Carl Gryder)

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Henderson of Wilson that their son, David, who is now stationed with the 17th Communications Construction Squadron on Okinawa, has re-enlisted in the U. S. Air Force for six years.

A/1c David Henderson enlisted in the USAF in February, 1954, and took his basic training at Lackland Air Force Base at San Antonio. He got technical training at Francis E. Warren AFB, Cheyenne, Wyoming, and graduated as senior cableman.

He was then stationed at Brookley AFB, Mobile, Ala., and Wright Patterson AFB, Dayton, Ohio. He served in Communications Construction in Aquidilla, Puerto Rico, at Ramey AFB.

In May, 1956, he went to Japan. Since that time, he has been with the 10th Communications Construction Fleet in Korea, Formosa, Luzon, and various smaller islands. Recently he transferred to the 17th Communications Construction Squadron.

Before his enlistment, he was scheduled to return to the United States in November, 1957, and was eligible for discharge in February, 1958. Since his enlistment, his parents do not know just when he will return to the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Murray have had word from Captain and Mrs. Lynn Murray that they have just recently moved from Japan to Okinawa. The Murrays have been in Japan for some time. Lynn arrived in Japan in November of 1955 and was followed by his wife and family in September of 1956.

Captain and Mrs. Murray write that Okinawa is a very beautiful place and that they are very comfortably located in the U. S. Government housing development.

Mrs. Murray said that if Captain and Mrs. Murray return to the States on schedule, they should be back in December of 1958.

A/1c Cordell Hagens, son of Mr. Arthur Hagens, is home on leave. Cordell has spent the past 23 months on Okinawa. After his leave is up Cordell will be stationed at Big Spring.

Pvt. Dan Ray Lamb, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Lamb, who is now stationed at Fort Polk, La., is due to arrive home on leave on August 18th.

Newsom Child Is In Polio Hospital

Gonzales, Aug. 15.—David Newsom, six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Newsom of Tahoka, has been admitted to the Gonzales Warm Springs Rehabilitation Foundation.

David was stricken with polio in June, 1957. The Foundation's comprehensive program of physical rehabilitation each year benefits hundreds of patients like David as well as persons handicapped by crippling accidents, multiple scerosis, muscular dystrophy, cerebral palsy, strokes, etc.

Tht Foundation was established in 1937 as a non-profit, non-sectarian rehabilitation center, and it has grown into one of the larg est hospitals in the United States in this field. It is fully accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

Odds and Ends

(By E. I. The Elder)

I struck Bud Milliken on the street the other day. I was a-foot, and he offered me a seat in his pick-up. I laboriously climbed in and he then informed me that he was going to run up to his house first and would then bring me home. I readily consented, for I had been up to his home before, not this year however, and I knew that he had many plants and shrubs and flowers and trees and fruits and other wouderful attractions on his premises that can not be found in such abundance anywhere else in this town or country. "I hear some folks say that they do not like this Plains country because they can not have anything out here growing on their premises," he remarked as we approached his attractive residence in north Tahoka. "If they can't it is because they don't want to," he continued as I slid down out of the driver's high seat and onto Terra Firma with a little help from him to be sure that my pedal extremities made proper connection with Mother Earth, which seemed to me to be several feet lower down than it ought to be. Well, a few more steps around the west end of the house and I was in a veritable garden of Eden. It must be something like that garden that Adam and Eve hid in, only Bud's fruit trees were mostly peach trees. They were so loaded down with fruits that all the limbs had to be propped up to keep them from breaking. Bud can trace the geneology of some of these trees. He has in his yard now a couple of trees that came from a hardy tree which he grew on the premises that he used to own when he lived in a big two-story house just east of the Pik&Pak store. The seed from which that tree grew was brought to this country by one of the early settlers who settled here in the days when the Millikens, the Ketners, the McDaniels, the McGonagills, the Larkins, the Bairds, the Georges, the Lockwoods, the Pettys, the Bill Nevels, the Sam Sanfords, the Thomases, the Sherrods, and others were new comers here. Bud mentioned the name of the man who brought the original seeds, but I have forgotten who he said.

Bud has a couple of pear trees too, a big fig tree, two or more pecan trees, a couple of fine box elders, and showy flowers that make one's eyes water to look at them, a lot of little roses and some of the most gorgeous cannas that one ever saw. He plucked for me a bunch of flowers that he could not name but my wife says it is a Crepe Myrtle. Yes, and he has a Redbud bush growing too.

On the west line of his premises he has a privet hedge about eight or ten feet high and the foliage is so thick that I doubt if a bear, a Mountain Lion, or a Python could break through it.

* * *

Of course Bud has a well and a water pump and a concrete little water tank back in one corner of his premises, and a great swarm of gold fish, minnow-size, will come to the top, if you keep quite, and give you a hearty welcome. He says he uses them for bait when he goes fishing and he often goes down to the Rio Grande or to some stream that flows into it below the Big Bend. But he knows the Big Bend too like a book. He told me once that there are ruins of the ancient cliff-dwellers near Presidio, which is near the head of the Santa Helena Canyon west of the Big Bend. But he does his fishing now down-stream, east, from the Big Bend. He may not bring home the bacon when he returns from these fishing trips, but a "fish-fry" usually follows, maybe. But, believe it or not, Bud raises a portion of his meat right there on his premises. He is raising right now what they call Canadian quail. He has a space, room-size, fenced off with mesh-wire, and when I was there the other day a mother hen was sitting on a nest full of eggs over in one corner of the pen, other young hens were keeping the eggs pushed up under the mother hen, and a protecting rooster was standing around apparently bossing the job. They call these birds quail and they were colored like quail, but they were fully as large as the prairie chicken that used to see occasionally out on these plains, which were even more numerous down in Central Texas when that was a frontier country. But Bud's family of Canadian quail was one of the cutest feathered households I have ever seen.

Yes, Bud has everything out there at his home, folks, and it is just because he wants it that way.

* * *

Well, most of the country out this way has had fine rains, and we ain't mad at nobody, not even at Eisenhower or the British. We do wish that Eisenhower would forget about Integration of the races, here in Texas, would let Southerners run their own schools just to suit themselves, as he is being forced to do in New York and Chicago; that both Democrats and Republicans would quit making grabs for hand-outs from Washington every time somebody wants a loan; that they would quit kidding themselves into believing that when they borrow from the Government they will not have to pay it back. Of course some of the loans they make are needful and are helpful to a great many people. We believe in helping the aged, the afflicted, and the needy, where these classes are not the creators of their own needs.

And, in this connection, we should like to say again that we would like to have the various states to provide better schools and school facilities for the colored people of our respective states.

Also, we want better law enforcement whenever and wherever possible, and particularly the stamping out of the use of narcotics and liquor as far as may be possible.

* * *

Aside from this, "we aint mad at nobody" except the British, and it has been so long since we first got mad at them it is now hard to keep our anger boiling. But, in reading from the World Book the the other day we came across a situation that re-kindled our wrath.

In the years immediately preceding the breaking out of the Revolutionary War, George III was King of England. The English Parliament, at his behest, was passing such laws as the Stamp Act and the offensive Search and Seizure Laws. King George was determined to make the Colonists pay the major portion of the costs incurred by Great Britian in the prosecution of the French and Indian Wars which had been fought over a long period of time between France and England to determine which country should be dominant in America. That war had come to a close in favor of England.

George III was King of England. He was a heartless ruler, one of the most unwise and unreasonable sovereigns in all the history of England.

The American colonists were rebeling against the payment of these taxes and proclaiming the doctrine that "taxation without representation was tyranny." They had no representation in the British parliament and under the circumstance they could not have. A few rebellious conflicts followed, and it became increasingly difficult for Great Britain to enforce such laws in America.

To cope with this difficulty, King George III ordered the issuance of "Writs of Assistance." They authorized all peace officers to search all ships coming into American ports or bound for America and to seize all goods found thereon, on which the taxes had not been paid. These writs were not like our "search warrants" issued by our courts today, for they could be issued without affidavits having first been made and filed describing the house or the person or the place to be searched. In other words, they authorized British officers to go out on "fishing expeditions" as it were, to catch whatever they could. Our search warrants today must be more definite.

The arbitrary searching of American vessels or other vessels bound for our ports was a high-handed procedure that stirred up the ire of every patriotic American colonist, and James Otis, Massachusetts, took to the stump to denounce the English Parliament for authorizing such a mode of warfare by England upon her English subjects. Extracts from his address are found in a work of ten volumes entitled "THE WORLD'S BEST ORATIONS," which I have on my bookshelves. Otis is praised as one of the most effective orators this country has yet produced. It practically stopped this diabolical "Search and Seizure" policy on the part of the British Government, but it did not stop King George's delivery. Now, here comes the acme of his hatred and malevolence in dealing with America.

* * *

I quote from the WORLD BOOK:

"In 1763 King George III issued a proclamation decreeing that the land between the Allegheny Mountains and the Mississippi River should be reserved for the Indians. He desired to limit colonization to the coast area, to make control by Great Britain an easy matter. The French and Indians Wars had cost England about $350,000,000; the King insisted that the American colonies, through taxation, should be forced to pay a part of that sum, notwithstanding the fact that they had plunged into debt to the extent of $130,000,000 in behalf of the mother country. . . Moreover the English Goverment proposed to maintain a standing army of 10,000 men in America, the King declaring it necessary for the purpose of holding the conquered French Canadians in subjection and to protect the colonists from the Indians. The Colonists were to be asked to meet this expense by stamp taxes, but they protested against the burden on the ground that they were strong enough to protect themselves from the Indians, and that they had no direct interest in Canadian affairs."

* * *

So, according to King George's plan, the English colonies were to be confined to a comparatively narrow strip of Atlantic Coast country on the eastern lope of Allegheny Mountains, and the Indians were to be given all that stretch of country lying between the crest of the Mountains and the Mississippi River to steal at will from the White settlers along the Atlantic seacoast and to hide their stolen animals, goods, white women and children in the mountain fastnesses just as they might be able to do so. Maybe, as some of the Colonists said, they would be able to protect themselves against these thousands of thieving, murderous, savages, but the prosperity of the Whites would be a standing invitation to the Indians to "come and get us," so as far as the British Goverment cares. It was an attempt to bribe the Colonists that did not work, Thank the Lord.

ELMER BLANKENSHIP

Billy Hancock is planning to seed his borders with rye. He is planning to use a hand seeder on the front of his tractor as he reworks his borders. The rye will help control weeds next spring.

* * *

Price Thomas plans to clean his own blue panic seed, sack it in 50 pound bags, and run a purity and germination test on it. He plans to adopt a brand-name for his seed and sell it in this area. Claude and R. M. Thomas and Leroy Davis are also planning to do this.

* * *

Livestock should be removed from native ranges to permanent seeding of grasses and also establishing better cover for the soil.

Any farmer who desires to construct or reconstruct terraces contact the SCS office. Terraces that have been constructed five years or longer are eligible for ASC cost sharing assistance. Contact ASC office for details on cost sharing assistance. Where terraces have been washed out, the washouts should be filled before the terraces are reconstructed. This prevents a swag in the terraces which will become a weak place for possible breaks. Also in constructing new terraces, washes should be filled. The terraces should have end closures staked out also. They should be two-thirds of the height of the terrace. This is one of the ways of keeping the rainfall on the land.

Buford Powers is planning to seed winter barley and rye in his cotton as a cover crop at the last cultivation; 25 pounds to the acre will be seeded. The seeder is attached to the front of his tractor and the seed is covered by the cultivator. The seeder is build by using a 10 gallon milk can as a hopper. An automobile heater motor was used for broadcasting the seed. It is an affective seeder for small grains or legume seeds. It costs about $5.00 to build including labor and parts. Contact the SCS office for further details on construction. Powers believes that the rye and barley will furnish winter grazing, protection against erosion, and will be a soil builder.

W. L. Gribble has 30 acres of sorghum almum that is looking very good. Assistance will be given by the SCS technicians on the time to harvest. For best results, sorghum almum should be cut with a binder and allowed to cure. It should then be run through a combine. The seed doesn't mature at the same time as in the case of sudan.

It is not too late to plant peas or millet for a soil building crop. Now is a good time to plant a soil building crop on acreage reserve soil bank land. Lynn SCD has an inter-row seeder for use in planting these crops.

* * *

Applications for ASC cost-sharing assistance on vetch and peas should be made to the ASC county manager.

* * *

The John Deere implement company has a 20-inch row seeder it is leasing. It is ideal for making furrow plantings of small grain, winter peas, or vetch.

* * *

In managing cover croys for the conservation reserve land of the soil bank, when the crop is heading or it is weedy, a stalk cutter or a shredder should be run over it. This leaves litter on the ground and the cover crop will sucker-out to produce more cover. It will also prevent weeds from going to seed. The secret of getting a grass planting established is providing ample crop residue on the surface of the soil. This residue prevents burn out, blow out, protects the young grass seedling, and holds moisture near the surface of the soil.

* * *

An economical shredder can be built if you have an old car or truck rear end. The drive shaft can be turned down and a piece of stalk cutter steel attached. The shredder can be pulled behind a tractor or pickup. It is usually quite effective. See SCS office for further details.

Joe D. Unfred is installing 1100 feet of 10-inch concrete pipeline this week.

Did you know that the District has two dirt movers that are leased out for dirt moving work on hte farm? The custodian for the dirt mover in Wilson is Dale Price, and the custodian in New Home is Billy Pryor. The District also has inter-row seeders available to the farmers. A float is also available.

In connection with Soil Building week, the slogan is "Cover the land and conserve the soil." This is a very wise suggestion, so plant a cover crop now and protect you soil from wind erosion next spring.
