MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. P.

Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, is one of the ablest financiers and economists on the American stage of action. This is conceded by his colleagues and the thinking men of the United States. His manufacturers sales tax amendment to the Fordney revenue measures was voted down. This did not put a damper on the senator. He took the count and when he came to the surface he came ready for action. Now he promises to continue his fight for the enactment of the sales tax into American legislation in every congress until enough votes can be mustered to put it on the statute books. "The country is heart and soul in favor of the sales tax," Senator Smoot asserted to an interviewer. "The letters which have been coming into my office ever since I announced that I would take the sales fight to the floor of the senate indicate the feeling prevalent throughout the country among business corporations, business people, working men and tax payers of all kinds in favor of sales tax legislation." Senator Smoot remarked to the interviewer that although 25 votes were cast in favor of his sales tax plan there were in fact 35 or more votes paired in its favor, several of the paired votes not being cast. He declared that had the democratic caucus not met the day before the taking of the vote to charge the democratic members to vote against the Smoot measure, his sales tax would have been victorious. Moreover, the Utah senator predicted that the time is not far distant when the United States will join with Canada and other nations that are successful administering the sales tax, which he insists is the only equitable and just cure for the present evils of our revenue laws. To prove that all the college professors of political economy and political sciences are not opposed to the sales tax, even though Professor Seligman, of Columbia University, the eminent authority on fiscal problems has testified before the Senate Finance Committee against the measure, Senator Smoot commented on valuable aid and advice he has received from many prominent world renowned economists, lead by Professor Bullock, chairman of the Economic Research Bureau of Harvard University. This celebrated collegiate, Senator Smoot said, was heart and soul in favor of the sales tax. Speaking of the opposition he has encountered ever since he began his fight for the sales tax, Senator Smoot said: "When I first proclaimed the virtues of the sales tax it seemed as though I was fighting the battle alone. Since that time, however, senators have made a thorough study of this great revenue problem, and as a result more than half have actually been converted to the doctrine, and I honestly believe that the sales tax will be a reality after this congress or the following one. The republican party pledged itself to a thorough tax revision, and I cannot regard the passing of the present revenue bill by the senate last week as such a revision which the people of the United States had a right to anticipate. I shall do all in my power to bring about a real revision of the revenue laws, and I regard the sales tax as the one great remedy for all the evils now thrust upon the American people by the revenue laws which have been in force and which have now only been modified." This is said to be a government of and for and by the people. If it is, then all the people should pay in proportion to their ability to pay. France has tried the sales tax plan and it is no longer an experiment in that country. Canada has tested the plan and Canadian law makers are opposed to its repeal. Senator Reed Smoot is an ultra republican in his politics but he has a clear brain and is one of the few constructive leaders connected with the law making department of the republic. He is as cold as steel, business in every fibre of his physical and mental makeup and has the courage of conviction.

Col. Alvin M. Owsley will not be a candidate for governor next year. His announcement does credit to his head. It was expected. Colonel Owsley is a young man. He is only thirty-two and a brilliant future awaits him. He was a prize man in one of the great colleges of America; he was a successful lawmaker in the lower house of the Texas legislature; he was a fearless and able prosecuting attorney; he was a gallant and popular soldier overseas; he was an efficient assistant attorney general of Texas; he is an eloquent orator and his friends are legion. Now why should he invite political suicide? Defeat might have blasted his career. He may be a governor or a United States senator some day but if he made the race against Governor Neff and the latter overwhelmed him at the polls then the favorite son of Denton county would have been a "has-been" ever after. He is too good a man to be sacrificed. Hon. Milton Farrier of East Texas is said to be "just rarin' to go." Let Milton go. He is a good man that defeat will not hurt. Politics is a cold blooded as well as a brutal game. It has its sordid as well as its fascinating side. Only last week former Lieutenant Governor W. A. Johnson of Hall county remarked in his newspaper that there would be a vast campaign fund behind Colonel Owsley. Well, the Colonel smilingly announced to his friends that "a political test between Governor Neff and myself might prove hurtful to the democratic party and the people of the state," and he would have none of it. It is up to the former lieutenant governor to tell just what became of the "vast campaign fund." Has it jumped in behind the Hon. Milton Farrier of East Texas who is "just rarin' to go"? Of course it

With the formal letting of the contract for the construction of the big Wichita irrigation project to the W. E. Callahan Construction company Wednesday by directors of the irrigation district, following the clear indication that this company was the successful bidder at the opening of bids Tuesday afternoon, the last obstacle to the beginning of actual construction on the big project during the month of December was apparently cleared away.

This formality was the last of a series of events which bears out in a remakrable way the information obtained recently by the Record News and given its readers that the actual beginning of construction would be sometime during that month—information which was obtained from an authoritative source.

Approval of the legal aspects of the project, sale of the bonds, agreement with the W. T. Waggoner interests on the purchase of lands to be flooded by the two dams and finally the letting of the contract, have come in rapid succession to bear out this prediction.

Assembling of machinery is already under way by the successful contractors, and plans are being made for getting into the work within the next 30 days, according to E. J. Heyser, vice president of the construction company, and the man who will be the directing head of their work here.

As previously indicated by officials of the district to the Record News the diversion dam and the south canal, with an outlet into Lake Wichita and the city water system, will be the first construction, although construction of the storage dam may be undertaken at the same time. The north side canal will be the last piece of work. The storage dam will be opposite Mabelle in Baylor county, and the diversion dam opposite Dundee, both of which will be shipping points for the work.

About 750 men will find employment on this construction, which will require about two years to complete.

Local Labor Preferred.

A considerable amount of the work will be done by teaming contractors, and the construction people have expressed themselves as anxious to give employment to people residing here and in this section, all other things being equal. Officials of the irrigation board expressed themselves as feeling extreme gratification at the winding up of the great amount of work preliminary to the actual beginning of the work—notably J. A. Kemp, president of the board, who has been at work on the idea for virtually a third of a century; T. B. Noble, vice president of the board,

FIELDS AND SCOTT ASK NEW TRIALS

Motion Made After Jury Sentences Scotty to 12 Years in Pen in Robbery Case.

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, Nov. 16.—Motion for new trials in the cases of H. T. Scott and Sewell Fields of Wichita Falls convicted of robbery with firearms in connection with the robbery of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Givens, proprietors of the store at Dean last month, will be heard by Judge H. F. Weldon of the 30th district court here tomorrow morning.

Notice of the motion for a new trial was given in the case of H. T. Scott as soon as the jury this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock turned a verdict of guilty and sentenced him to 12 years in the penitentiary. Fields, his alleged partner in the highjacking, was convicted last week and sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary.

In the event the motions for new trials are overruled it is probable that appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeals will be made in both cases. Scott, with the 12-year sentence, according to local attorneys, can secure his release from jail on bond pending appeal in the event the motion for new trial is overruled. Fields, according to the same authorities, cannot be released because his sentence exceeds the statutory maximum of 15 years.

The verdict in the Scott case was announced after it had been considered by the jury since 8:30 p. m. Tuesday. It is understood that the attitude of one juror was responsible for the delay.

Records at the police station and courthouse show that H. T. Scott and Sewell Fields have perhaps been the two most widely known characters in the city and county during the last year and half.

In spite of numerous indictments, charges, and complaints filed against them, the two men were never brought to trial in any important case up until their trials at Henrietta. Scott has been tried in police and county courts on vagrancy charges and found guilty with fines assessed.

Officers and officials have always explained the failure to bring the two men to trial as being due to the fact that they did not have sufficient evidence to justify prosecution.

Scott has been conceded to be one of the shrewdest men that officers have had to contend with. According to information from his friends, "Scotty" as he is familiarly known, recently perfected a jack to be used in the oil fields and sold an interest in the patent which he obtained for a large sum. This invention he is said to have perfected without assistance. While being tried on a vagrancy charge at the police station several months ago his attorneys introduced testimony regarding the invention to show that he was employed. The contention caused considerable amusement at the time but it was shortly after this that the sale of the patent became known.

The most sensational case in which Scotty is alleged to have taken part was the attempted assasination of Fletcher S. Jones, former district attorney. He was indicted for conspiracy to murder for his alleged connection with that affair. Nothing developed in this case, however. He has also been indicted for robbery with firearms, illicit sale of liquor, and gambling.

Fields is under indictment here for the alleged murder of John Reagan. He has also been indicted for a statutory offense, forgery and theft by bailee. Some of the indictments and numerous complaints against the two men have been dismissed.

DELEGATES AT ARMS PARLEY CUT OUT BUNK

Diplomats and Correspondents Alike Have Dispensed With Flowery Phrases and Actions.

From Out of This Meeting Must Come a Treaty, Is Sentiment Pervading Conference Room.

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS.
Record News Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—When the delegates to the Arms Conference assemble around the great 108-foot green baise table for the sessions now, there is a different air to that of Saturday.

Saturday was a show-day, with all the customary flub-dub. Now there are business sessions. The delegates seem to sense what all this country is feeling—and for that matter, all the world. Rather inelegantly stated that feeling is:

"Cut out the bunk!"

The country wants as near an approach as possible to the high ideals expressed by President Harding in his addresses here Friday and Saturday.

A good many more who have no ideals have pocketbooks and these pocketbooks are being flattened by national tax-gatherers. Around the pressroom in the new Navy building there are nearly a thousand regular accredited correspondents, special writers from the home offices, trained seals who customarily writers for the weekly and monthly periodicals but have designed now to write for the newspapers and various odds and ends of hack scribblers.

Most of them have heard from their home offices since their opening-day stories appeared Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning. And their instructions now are:

"Cut out the bunk. Our readers want the news."

Big Show On.

Pollyanna has had her day. Sweetness and light may have been alright for a prelude. But today the big show is on. And it is doubtless a good thing that this word came from the home offices. Especially was it fortunate for the regularly accredited Washington correspondents who have been accustomed to very prosaically writing the news.

When the conference began Saturday they had been writing for several days. Their hastily mobilized army of adjectives had suffered frightfully. The right bower of their adjective column was crushed, the left wing helpless before a single delegate gathered around the conference table. But gathering the broken columns for

MINGO MINE CASE NOW IN CIRCUIT COURT

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—The fight between the miners and operators of Mingo county, West Virginia, was carried into the United States circuit court of appeals here today when charges and countercharges were hurled back and forth in the appeal hearing from the injunction suspending the check-off recently issued by Judge A. B. Anderson in Indianapolis.

Charges that the United Mine Workers of America had entered an agreement in 1898 with the mine operators of the central competitive field to destroy competition in the field and of the West Virginia and other fields, were met with a charge that the West Virginia operators were trying to stir up trouble which would give them a greater market and higher prices.

The court gave on indication of when it would render a decision. Meanwhile Judge Anderson's injunction stands suspended.

PORTO RICANS ASK RESERVE BANK SYSTEM

By Associated Press.

SAN JUAN, P. R., Nov. 16.—Announcement was made here today of the program for Porto Rican legislation which E. Mont Reily, governor of Porto Rico, will urge action upon Washington. The governor, accompanied by a commission, sailed yesterday for the United States. The features of the program, as announced, include the following:

Extending the constitution of Porto Rico with provision that the Island retain such revenues as are now diverted to its treasury and extending the right of the territory to enact its own constitution when the people are considered to show evidences of preparedness for statehood.

Extending the federal reserve bank system to Porto Rico and speeding the inauguration of the federal farm loan system.

Obtaining a greater number of teachers of English and federal assistance in the eradication of illiteracy and of prevalent diseases.

Obtaining federal aid for re-forestation and the development of homesteads.

The governor also plans to invite President and Mrs. Harding to visit Porto Rico.

CORRECTION OF ERRORS APPROVED BY HOUSE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The house today passed in amended form a senate bill authorizing correction of errors made in the calculation of sums due individuals and companies for mineral furnished the government during the war and validating claims filed prior to noon June 2, 1919.

Naval Reduction Is Step Forward Henry Ford Says

By Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 16.—The American proposals for the reduction of world's navies represent a step in the right direction, but are not far-reaching enough, Henry Ford declared here today. He added, however, that the Hughes proposals "will tend not only to restore public confidence, but will raise public expectations that further steps will be taken toward ultimate disarmament.

AIRBRAKE COMPANY PASSES DIVIDENDS

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The New York Airbrake company today passed its regular quarterly dividend on to its $10,000,000 capital stock.

Chicago Mayor Irresponsible, Told in Letter

By Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 16.—Mayor J. Couzens tonight made public a letter to Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago in which Mr. Couzens declined an invitation to speak on traction problems at a banquet at the Cook County Real Estate Board December 8. His reason for declining the invitation Mayor Couzans stated, was the alleged attitude of Mayor Thompson on the recent unemployment conference at Washington.

Mayor Couzens quoted Mayor Thompson as publishing a statement declaring the conference a "capitalist move, a drive against union labor and a conspiracy to lower wages."

The truth of that alleged statement, Mayor Couzens, a member of the conference, denied.

"Under no circumstances could I visit Chicago while a man so irresponsible is in the mayor's chair," Mr. Couzens declared.

RATE SCHEDULE INJURES ROADS OF SOUTHWEST

Railroads in Cotton Growing Section Not Compensated by Proposed Rates, Is Declared.

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—Rate schedule governing the export cotton traffic to the Far East from Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana, producing centers, should enable the railroads originating this business to ship the cotton through Galveston rather than Pacific coast ports because of greater profits on the short haul, representatives of Southwestern railroads urged at an interstate commerce commission hearing today.

The share to be derived by these railroads of the haul under the rates which the westbound carriers propose to put into effect to enable the Pacific coast to compete for this business is no compensatory compared with the returns received on hauling cotton to Texas, it was asserted by R. L. McLennon of Palestine, Texas, general freight agent of the International & Great Northern railroad.

McLennon declared no satisfactory basis of equalizing the combined rail and water haul to the Far East via Galveston and via Pacific coast could be made because of the fluctuations of ocean rates.

J. W. Garvin of Dallas, general freight agent of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad, said he did not believe the rate to the Pacific coast should be lowered because it would divert cotton shipments, forcing the railroads in the cotton territory to give up a profitable traffic to Galveston for an unremunerative share in a longer haul.

Light, Scattered Showers Reported In Northwest Texas

Light and widely scattered showers were reported in this section of the state during the day Wednesday and up until late last night, the only places visited by heavy rainfall being Alvord and Decatur, on the Fort Worth & Denver and between Denison and Muenster, on the Katy. On the Wichita Falls & Northwestern, general cloudy weather conditions prevailed with Woodward, Okla., reporting a temperature of 46 degrees. A slight sprinkle was reported at Frederick.

North of Wichita Falls on the Denver road, there was no moisture during the day and up until midnight last night, although cloudy skies held some promise of rain.

Cloudy weather, yet without even the scattered sprinkles of Tuesday night, is reported on the Wichita Falls Valley.

Baylor Countians to Aid In Irrigation Project; Prepare to Build Road

Special to the Record News.

SEYMOUR, Nov. 16.—Baylor county commissioners in regular session this morning passed an order for a jury in view to be appointed for the immediate surveying and construction of a road to go from Seymour to the damsite of the Big Wichita Irrigation project, crossing the river 14 miles north of Seymour, thus going on record as supporting the project, and lending every effort to further it.

R. E. Baskin, George S. Plants and F. F. Fisher were appointed a committee to confer with the engineers and contractors of the project immediately. As soon as the road is located work will start, it is announced. The new road will connect with the Ozark Trail, and the highway from Wichita Falls to Seymour, and will take the place of the present road from Seymour to Vernon. It will be built across the river at a place to be designated by the irrigation district engineers, and will be of permanent construction.

Wednesday's action by the commissioners court sets at rest reports that had gained some circulation that the court disapproved of the irrigation project, principally on the ground that it would ruin the present connecting road between Seymour and Vernon, necessitating the expense of a new road. By their action on the new road, concurrently with the letting of the contract in Wichita Falls for the irrigation construction, they have put themselves on record as favoring progressiveness, and the committee has been authorized to make offers of all possible co-operation and assistance from the city of Seymour and the county, to the engineers and the construction company.

The commissioners present at this meeting included County Judge Nat G. Mitchell and Commissioners H. W. Emsoff, H. H. Machen, R. G. Quisenberry and Walter Fancher.

WORLD RELIEF POSSIBLE IN CHINA'S PLAN

Effect of Accepting Proposals on Anglo-Jap Alliance First in Minds of Delegates.

Japanese Attach Greatest Importance to the Section Concerning Existing Commitments Relating China.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Acceptance in spirit and in letter of the principles suggested today by China for solution of the Far Eastern problems, would, in the opinion of some diplomatic experts have a sweeping effect on the aspect of the whole Pacific and Oriental situation.

As analyzed by some, the policies proposed by the Chinese delegation might not only do away with the existing "spheres of influence" in the Far East and put an end to extra territorial rights within the Chinese Republic, but also erect a barrier against renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance unless China was given an opportunity of becoming a party to it. The British do not take that view.

Anglo-Jap Alliance.

Responsible officials of all the delegations reserved judgment regarding the effects of the Chinese plan, preferring to scrutinize with greatest care. The possible influence on the Anglo-Japanese alliance aroused liveliest interest in the discussions of the delegates generally and every nation represented found much food for thought when its special interests were considered in connection with the proposal.

That portion of the Chinese statement to which the Japanese appeared to attach greatest importance as affecting their individual national interests was the section proposing that all existing commitments relating to China should be "examined with a view to determining their scope and validity."

"Closed Incidents."

From the beginning of the armament negotiations, Japan has maintained that "closed incidents" should not be considered within the province of the conference and although her spokesmen declare themselves ready to admit any shortcomings of which world opinion may find her guilty, they assert that to go back through the pages of history and question the validity of agreements made long ago would complicate rather than facilitate an agreement.

In the opinion of many of those connected with the conference this provision of the Chinese plan would throw open to review at the armament conference a long list of cove-

Diaz Is Dubbed "A-Cheeza Chuz" By Crow Tribe

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—General Diaz is now more than generalissimo of the armies of Italy. He is heap big chief A-Cheea Ohuz of the Crownation.

Chief Plenty Coups of that tribe assisted by Chiefs Ped Neck and White Faced Bear today adopted the generalissimo into the tribe with appropriate ceremony. They did the dance of adoption, chanted three songs with tom-tom accompaniment, dressed the generalissimo in tribal costume trimmed with Ermine and Bear Claws, placed a war bonnet on his head, hung a necklace of sharks' teeth around his neck and gave him a pipe sack.

Then in conclusion old Chief Plenty Coups gave the generalissimo his own name which, in Crow, is A-Cheea Ohuz.

General Diaz said that when he was a boy he read and dreamed about American Indians, but never thought he'd be one.

REDUCTION LAND FORCES WILL NOT BE URGED BY U. S.

China's Proposals on Far East Question Surprise to Japanese Delegates; China Asks Administrative Integrity Within Own Territory.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The United States does not contemplate offering any definite program of limitation of land forces during the cnoference here, and so far as the American delegates and their military advisers have been able to ascertain, none of the foreign delegations have prepared proposals for army reduction.

The question of army reduction will be broached in open conference by Premier Briand of France. He has intimated that France would urge an army for herself sufficient for protection against her neighbors, and the whole question of armies is then expected to be referred to the armament committee of the whole. The United States, it was said on authority today, considers the American army already as small as consistent with national safety and domestic needs. Great Britain, it was said, was in a similar position, her army not admitting of any reduction.

EXPECT HOUSE FIGHT ON TAX BILL TODAY

Conferees Agree to Strike Out Exemption on Incomes From Foreign Trade; Vote on Surtax Today.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—House conferees agreed today to the senate amendment striking out the tax revision bill the provisions under which foreign traders and foreign trade corporations would have been exempted from taxation on their net income derived from sources outside of the United States. It was the understanding that house conferees would agree to the senate amendment exempting from taxation the income of such corporations doing business in the Philippine Islands and Porto Rico.

The house managers also accepted the senate amendment repealing the tax on parcel post packages and also the stamp tax on bonds of surety and indemnity.

The house managers also accepted the senate amendment striking out a provision in the original house bill requiring a single income return from families in the eight western and southern states which have martial community laws.

The big issue in the tax revision bill—the senate amendment fixing the maximum surtax rate at 50 per cent—is to come to a vote tomorrow in the house.

Spokesmen for the "insurgent" republicans and the democratic minority expressed confidence that they could muster the necessary votes to keep the high rate in the bill. While making no prediction, republican leaders generally were hopeful that ultimately there would be a compromise as between the rate and the house rate of 32 per cent, probably around 40 per cent.

Treat Me With Mercy Balfour Asks Reporters

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Arthur J. Balfour, head of the British delegation to the Washington armament conference, stood in a circle of more than 100 correspondents in the dining room of the British embassy tonight and answered almost as many questions. It was a new experience for the British statesman and he seemed to enjoy it. But while he answered nearly every question, there was one big reservation—he was not to be quoted.

"Treat me with the same mercy that you do your American secretary of state," he said smilingly, as he mopped beads of perspiration from his brow. It was warm in the room and Mr. Balfour apparently was worn by his long day of conference.

There was a twinkle of amusement in his eye when somebody addressed him as "Lord Balfour," and again when he was asked to express offhand an opinion on a delicate subject, of which he would not speak.

The cordial manner in which he received the correspondents and endeavored to enlighten them brought a sharp ring of applause at the end, as Lord Riddell took him by the arm and announced that he was wanted elsewhere.

Arangements were made today by which one of the British delegates will receive the correspondents every afternoon. Mr. Balfour was selected to meet them first.

DELEGATES TURN TO FAR EAST PROBLEMS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The Washington conference today turned to consideration of Far Eastern questions with almost the same momentum with which it tackled the question of naval armaments.

It was the Chinese delegates who led the way this time. In the committee of nine, at which all nations participating were represented, they produced a basis of discussion which represents their views.

The open sympathy of the United States with their position was at once manifest. The British supported it in many respects. The positions of the others were not so clearly defined, although members of the Japanese delegation have given expression of approval, in part at least, of China's "bill of rights."

In brief China wants guarantees for territorial integrity and political and administrative independence; she proposes the open door for all in all parts of the country; she wants all spheres of influence relinquished; she want no treaties made affecting her without being consulted about them.

The full extent of China's proposition is much broader than that, but these are the essentials. The last feature may be construed as affecting the Anglo-Japanese alliance, although the British take an opposite view.

Today's session of the Big Nine was occupied entirely with the presentation of the Chinese views. Immediately after it became known that they commanded the moral support of the United States. The British viewpoints were made known a little later. The Japanese did not state their position, but previous pronouncements by some of their representatives have put them in line with some parts of China's proposals.

The discussion of Far Eastern affairs will be continued at another meeting tomorrow. Meanwhile the committee of admirals appointed at yesterday's meeting of the big five is continuing its examination of the

MAN KILLED IN FALL OUT OF DERRICK

Sustaining a severely fractured skull and a dislocated neck, Edward I. Dryer, 52 years of age, was instantly killed Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock when he fell from a derrick on the Panhandle lease near Bridgetown. Workmen reported that the deceased was not seen when he fell, and no one was able to advance reason for the fall. He was dead when picked up by friends who rushed to him, they asserted.

The deceased had been working in the oil fields near here about two years and was reported thoroughly accustomed to working on the derricks. Workmen expressed a belief that a misstep caused the fall.

The body was brought to Wichita Falls and prepared for burial. The remains are being held at the Merkle-Lunn Undertaking establishment pending word from the widow, who is in Fort Worth.

REDUCTION IN LAND FORCES NOT SOUGHT

American proposals for naval limitation.

JAPS PUZZLED AT CHINA'S PROPOSALS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—China's proposal today surprised the Japanese delegates to the arms conference. They had been expecting a series of suggestions from the United States, rather than China, because it was the United States that first laid emphasis on the importance of discussing the Far Eastern question in connection with limitation of armaments.

The first wave of fear in Tokio that as examination of Far Eastern matters would be tantamount to placing Japan on trial at Washington was followed by more tranquil views. Japan determined to enter into a frank discussion and her spokesmen gave assurances tonight that China's ten points laid before the conference today did not change their plan.

A quick study of the Chinese points brought from the Japanese the expression that they contained many propositions to which Japan would heartily subscribe, but that it included others which, if not opposed would necessitate a more prolonged examination. The paragraph asking the powers not to conclude treaties affecting China without China, was regarded by the Japanese as a reference to the Anglo-Japanese alliance, and they felt it might also be construed as an allusion to the Ishii-Lansing agreement and the Root-Takahira accord of 1908.

The portion demanding the declaration of all special privileges, immunities and commitments and an expression of them to fix their scope and validity is regarded by Japan as opening up a wide subject, affecting Great Britain and France as well.

The question of administrative freedom is declared in Japanese circles to affect particularly England and France because of England's interest in the customs tariff and France's administrative connection with the postal service.

Administrative Integrity Sought

The Japanese say they are ready to support the administrative integrity of China. The presence of Japanese troops from time to time in China they concede, has been accompanied by temporary exercise of administration. But they contend that this has been done by the army and has been a necessary concomitant of the presence of armed forces in a foreign land.

What seems to puzzle Japan the most is the declaration that China's rights as a neutral are to be respected. This is interpreted by some as meaning that China wishes to have the powers guarantee her neutrality. Others share the Japanese argument that "order in commitments and engagement means a central authority in China to regulate them and the whole situation goes back to a question of building up an orderly China able to exercise her prerogatives as a state like other countries.

CZECHO-SLOVAK LEGATION PLEASED WITH U. S. PROPOSAL

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The Czecho-Slovak legation here today made public the following cablegram received from Prague, capital of Czecho-Slovakia:

"The Czecho-Slovak press enthusiastically welcomed Secretary Hughes' disarmament proposals. The newspapers are expressing the hope that the practical consequences of naval disarmament will be also the reduction of the land forces in Europe. This will be considered especially by the central European states as a great step toward the undisturbed and peaceful completion of their post-war reconstruction program."

250 TONS SET AS LIMIT FOR SIZE OF SUBMARINES.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—British naval thought in Washington has suggested 250 tons as the limit of size for submarines, it was learned today. That would represent a type of craft not now existing in the first line of the American navy. It would go back to the days of the Grampus, the Pike, the Viper and the Tarantula, now carried on naval lists as the A-3, A-5, B-1 and B-5. These boats are the oldest in the navy and are included in the second line group more as a type of self-propelling floating mine for harbor defense.

It is apparent at a glance, officers say, that the United States hardly can accept any such limitation, yet a submersible of the 800-ton type, similar to the ships with which the Germans did most of their work in the war, can cross the ocean and is not within the limitations of operations the British seek to establish.

CHINA PROPOSAL FORMS EQUITABLE BASIS.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Members of the French delegation commenting upon the Chinese proposals agree that they form a suitable basis for the discussion of the whole Far Eastern question. The proposals to them, however, seem to lack definiteness except as to principle and it is presumed that the Chinese delegation will take an early occasion for suggesting specific settlements of such outstanding issues as Shantung, Mongolia, Manchuria, and all other disputed problems.

Officers Are Named for 1922 Fair At Seymour

SEYMOUR, Texas, Nov. 16.—Officers and directors of the Baylor County Fair association were elected at the annual business meeting here this morning. The 1922 fair dates were set September 14, 15 and 16 and other business was discussed. The officers for 1922 are:

I. O. Newton, president, F. G. Pirtle, secretary and treasurer, J. T. Leach, vice president, and directors: Lon Bellows, J. A. Wheat, W. B. Craddock, Al Baker, W. H. Snider and R. E. Baskin.

Ex-President Woodrow Wilson, Himself a World War Casualty, Accorded Tremendous Ovation

Ex-President and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson on their way from the capitol to Arlington cemetery.

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS.
Record News Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Washington today was still trying to solve the Woodrow Wilson mystery.

What does it portend when a man who has had his career and is very quietly and very earnestly trying to keep out of the public eye suddenly finds 150,000 people in the street shouting madly as he passes and later 100,000 people surrounding his home to pay him homage?

Certainly blase Washington never saw anything like it before and Washington has seen, or thinks it had seen everything.

Washington went home talking about the Wilson episode Friday night and it has talked about it every since. Here, where are gathered Hughes, Briand, Balfour, Kato and all the others in mighty conference the talk is of Wilson.

It is known here that Mr. Wilson has very assidiously tried to keep in the background. He very adriotly managed to be away from home when Premier Briand called. He was ill when Marshal Foch called, but had he not felt that as a former president he should not intrude on President Harding's party. Mr. Wilson, his friends say, would have sent Marshal Foch word to call again.

Mr. Wilson did feel that it was his duty to ride in the procession in honor of America's anonymous symbolic hero. Here was where he might appear without violating any of the proprieties, for he was commander-in-chief of the army in which the obscure hero fell. Of course, President Harding received no cheers as he came up the historic Pennsylvania avenue. The president walked solemnly behind the flag-draped casket and the crowd was standing with bowed heads. The great crowd was solemnly paying its tribute.

Wilson Far Back.

Far back in the parade came Woodrow Wilson. The throng had paid its silent tribute to the dead soldier who had typified all of the America's dead. And here, far back in the parade, was the man who had sent that soldier to battle. Here was the man who had on his shoulders the terrible responsibility of America's greatest war. His own body had been broken under it as much as if he had been wounded in the trenches and for more than two years he had been ill.

But under his suffering he had never winched. From a sick-bed he continued to fight and in a national referendum saw his policies defeated by an overwhelming majority. As he rode along the avenue the crowd noticed that his skin had a ruddied glow. He gave evidence that he was winning his battle for health.

Far down the avenue the crowd began to cheer. It was a faint cheering at first. There was a suggestion that the crowd did not know whether it was quite the proper thing to do on such an occasion. Then it grew louder. The applause now had a suggestion of "Why isn't it the proper thing to do?" Up the street a couple of blocks more and the crowd had decided that it was fitting that the man who came out of it broken, but living and now near back to health, should have their cheers just as the dead symbolic hero had had their silent homage.

Vociferous Cheers.

The crowd was now cheering Mr. Wilson vociferously. When the former president came to Fourteenth and Pennsylvania avenue the caisson bearing the body of the unknown soldier had turned into Fifteenth street. Then it was that the throng no longer felt restraint. Then it was that the cheering swelled into a mighty volume.

But even more remarkable was the great outpouring at the Wilson residence. Here were 100,000 men and women jamming the street for blocks to cheer a man in private life, a man who never again would hold public office and who never would have any patronage to distribute, any favors to confer.

"How do you explain it?" I asked a grizzled old man.

"Because he stood for a principle and never wavered in his devotion to it," he replied.

"But his party standing for that principle went down to overwhelming defeat a year ago," I suggested.

War Reaction.

"It did," this old man replied. "But last year does not count for anything. America was reacting from the war. Men and women were defiant and they struck out boldly against the things they had been taught to venerate. But 1921 is another year. The country has been sorely tried. Taxes are breaking the backs of the people—taxes to build up great armaments. And in the minds of many people the whole program of the conference here will fail unless there is a treaty and an agency for enforcement—a league or an association of nations must be the enforcing agency, and today we are right back to where Wilson was in Paris."

That may or may not be the answer, Washington doesn't know what the answer is.

But something has happened. When a republican victory by 418,000 in New York City just a year ago is followed by a democratic victory of 437,000 a week ago, when there is a 20,000 vote turn over to make Syracuse Republic, when Maryland and Kentucky swing back into the democratic column, when Virginia elects a democratic governor by an unprecedented majority, when President Harding's home city goes democratic and when Washington turns out to honor Woodrow Wilson—anyway, something is happening or has happened.

WORLD RELIEF POSSIBLE IN CHINA'S PLAN

nants, including the agreement growing out of the famous twenty-one demands, the leases held by Japanese on Shantung and Manchuria and the numerous contracts permitting foreign control of railroads in China.

In addition, it has been charged by Chinese authorities that foreign nations have concluded "treaties" with various local Chinese potentates and all of these might have to be laid on the table if the proposed principles was accepted. Some thought it likely that the Anglo-Japanese alliance might also fall under the classification of that section of the Chinese proposal, although the section regarded as affecting it more directly is that by which the powers would "agree not to conclude between themselves any treaty or agreement directly affecting China or the general peace of these regions without previously notifying China and giving her an opportunity to participate.

In less than a year the alliance will expire by limitation, unless renewed, but the British hold to the view that its effect on the Chinese nation directly would not be sufficient to warrant its inclusion in the class of agreements that it is proposed to bring under Chinese scrutiny.

Economic Question.

In the view of the Chinese, the greatest importance of the plan would lie in the complete political and economic emancipation they believe it would accomplish. They place especial stress on the provision that "existing limitations on China's political, jurisdictional and administrative freedom of action," are to be terminated as soon as possible, declaring actual execution of such a policy would mean not only the restoration of much alienated Chinese territory but also the end of the restrictions on tariff and tax laws which are held to be seriously handicapped national development.

SETTLE THREATENED SUIT IN CONNECTION WITH STREET PAVING

A settlement in the threatened suit in connection with the city council assessment and ruling on the paving of Ohio street in front of the property owned by W. E. Frieze, on which the Galbraith-Foxworth lumber company stands, was reported to have been reached Wednesday between attorneys for Mr. Friebe and the contractors.

The ruling of the city council had been appealed by Mr. Frieze and was scheduled to come to trial next week before Judge P. A. Martin in the 30th district court, according to the report of the settlement.

The paving work is expected to be put through immediately, City Attorney Mann, who attended the conference, asserted. The settlement was said to have been made on a cash basis.

PLATFORM FOR NEW PARTY IS BEING FRAMED

By Associated Press.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 16.—At a meeting here yesterday held in response to a call of the committee of forty-eight with a view to getting sentiment on the proposition of organizing a new political party, a committee was appointed to frame a platform which will express the sentiments of local interested persons.

Similar platforms will be framed in other sections, the whole to be sifted into a concrete national platform for

Arbuckle Jury Is Not Secured Third Day Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—The third day of the manslaughter trial of Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle saw the jury box filled five times with jurors passed for cause, but with the final choice of a jury still unmade because of the exercise of peremptory challenges.

Questions asked prospective jurors and arrangements between counsel over these questions were largely a repetition of yesterday. An exception was that Milton T. U'Ren, assistant district attorney, asked one prospective juror if he would be swayed in any way if it was shown that a minor had been present at the party in the Hotel St. Francis in which Miss Virginia Rappe, for whose death Arbuckle is being tried, is alleged to have sustained her fatal injuries.

There were vacant seats in the courtroom all day and the police guard was reduced.

BURCH ATTORNEY DECLARES BELIEF CLIENT IS INSANE

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Charles S. McNett, of Evanston, a friend and former legal adviser of the family of Arthur C. Burch, held at Los Angeles, California, for murder, today signed a deposition in support of the claim that Burch is insane. Mr. McNett said in the affidavit Burch told him a weird story in February 1920, of an alleged attempt by Mrs. Allie Quayle Burch to kill him.

Mrs. Burch, the daughter of Bishop Quayle, recently obtained a divorce.

Mr. McNett's deposition says Burch claimed his wife had attempted to murder him in bed and had then talked with, what she thought was his spirit in an effort to get his impression of the future life. Mr. McNett's statement says he drew up a divorce bill on the strength of this story, at Burch's request, but after talking to Mrs. Burch dismissed the matter as the product of a diseased brain.

IRRIGATION WORK STARTS NEXT MONTH

who attended to most of the press of this business during the past few months, to the neglect of his private interests; and Frank Kell who has been called into consultation with the board on all of their recent deals, and who has made a number of trips in the interest of business connected with the project.

Express Gratification.

Mr. Kemp, who has been in Galveston taking a rest following ardous work on the project during the heat of the summer months returned to Galveston Wednesday following the letting of the contract. He had returned for a brief stay for the final winding up of preliminary work to the letting of the actual contract. Among the tasks disposed of during his stay here was the affixing of his signature to the 4500 one thousand dollar bonds issued for the building of the project. A handsome gold mounted fountain pen which he used in signing the first and last of the bonds was presented to him by Fred Emert of St. Louis, representative of the interests which purchased the issue.

Before leaving Mr. Kemp reiterated the expressions of extreme gratification at the actual letting of the contract that he voiced recently when the sale of the bonds were announced.

Details of Bids.

Of the bids received, only two firms bid on the complete project, the Callahan people, and the Smith-Healy Construction Co., with the Callahan bid lowest by approximately $135,000. The Callahan bid was lower on every item of all bids received. With the exception of the Smith-Healy bid, which was fairly close in all items, the differences between the figures submitted by the Callahan company and the other three bidders was remarkable.

Following is a tabulation of the bids received. It will be noted that the totals, except for the first two, represent only a portion of the whole project, and that both the first two fall by half a million dollars within the limit allowed for construction.

hasn't. There was no vast fund behind Colonel Owsley. There will be no vast fund behind Governor Neff. There will be no vast fund behind the Hon. Milton Farrier. When in doubt, junk the prison plants, sell the prison farms, abolish the penitentiary system and make public road builders of the 3,000 convicts. Give the thinking and tax paying people what they want.

"I consider the agricultural and cattle loan agency of Fort Worth one of the most important factors in determining the future success of the cattle and agricultural industry in Texas," Hon. Cato Sells declared at a meeting of business men in the city of Houston. Mr. Sells went beyond this. He said, "the huge sums distributed where they are greatly needed at this time are already having a decided effect on the country and a new enthusiasm and confidence in the future of the stockmen and farmers is everywhere present." While in Houston after a visit to the famous King ranch near Corpus Christi, the former Indian commissioner spoke of the accomplishments of the American Indian in livestock production and farming and he predicted that the cattle raised in the most fertile pastures of the reservations will supply other sections with sufficient cattle and sheep to afford the Indians a good livelihood. Faith in Texas cotton was also expressed with a prophesy that a heavy demand and excellent price for the fleecy staple will be seen when cotton is placed on the markets next spring and summer. Hon. Cato Sells was United States Commissioner of Indian dependents of the government. He made them self-sustaining. There are more Indians in America today than when Columbus discovered a new world. As Commissioner, Sells exiled the grafters, he bludgeoned the rascally agents, he outlawed the whiskey runners, he smashed the gambling rings and he did all in his power to make the wards of the government self-sustaining and self-reliant men of affairs. Noble is the record of the American Indian during war time. Hundreds crossed overseas, wore the uniform of Uncle Sam, fought for the flag of their country and there were no cowards or slackers among them. Never an Indian soldier deserted and never an Indian soldier accused of a capital crime while on the crimsoned fields of France and Flanders Those who remained at home bought Libery bonds; they subscribed to all the war chests fund and the farmers among them gladly gave their aid when the call came for increased production of food staples so necessary to sustain the soldiers in the fields and the peoples of allied nations. Flowers for the living. Poor Lo is a myth.

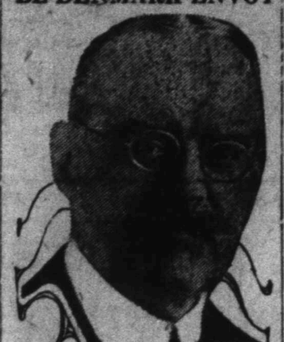

Warns Sign Regulations Soon in Force

Warning to business men to bear in mind the provisions of the new sign ordinance was issued Wednesday by City Engineer Julian Montgomery. The new ordinance prohibits the use of wooden signs which extend more than six inches from the building to which they are tied and also prohibits the use of electric signs which are supported by poles, requiring that the electric signs be tied to the building only at the base.

The new ordinance was passed at the urgent request of the business council of the Chamber of Commerce. Later, at the request of a number of business men, several establishments were permitted to maintain their old signs for a period of one year. Mr. Montgomery asserted that the expiration of this time limit is now only three months off, and he desires that business men be prepared.

Under the new ordinance no cloth banners are permitted across streets except in advertisements of a public nature such as are frequently used on gala occasions.

one final stroke the corresponednts charged with their adjective center when the parley finally did get under way, and the center was broken at the parley barrier. Consequently today they were depending on parts of speech, other than adjectives.

Today we had waded out of the sea of brotherly love. We knew this was no Christian Endeavor convention. We woke up to the fact that the Versailles conference began with the same passionate declarations of altruism that all the visiting delegations ran to the press with as they arrived here.

Honeyed Statements.

Oh, those wonderful messages brought by the arriving delegations. One would thing that each delegation was just fairly yearning to present a piece of its territory to any nation, that might desire it. But now we realize that we have with us a crowd of hard-boiled diplomats. Here is the big thing that stands out.

From out of this conference must come a treaty. This treaty must be ratified by the United States senate on our part. It must also be ratified by other countries.

We realize also that a treaty had to be drawn in Versailles and that the United States senate failed to ratify the Paris treaty. There is no evidence that the senate is prepared to ratify any old kind of treaty that this conference may draw up—not even though the venerable senator from Massachusetts and the beloved senators from Alabama are two of the conferes.

So now we hear that the United States expects to get an agreement that, at the minimum will cut $200,000,000 a year off our billion dollars of preparation for possible future war. That may not strike the country as enough, but if we get that it will help some.

We hear that Japan is ready to abandon or at least modify her "8-8" program. The "8-8" program of the Nipponese really means about 231 ships in all. An abandonment of that program would be fine, unless, as we hear from another source Japan demands an alliance with the United States and Great Britain, this tripartite alliance to take the place of the one she now has with Great Britain. Surely, this country which refused to go into the League of Nations will not enter into what is more dangerous, an alliance. Some day Russia and Japan might clash in Siberia and then we would fight a Russian-German alliance. An "8-8" program is better.

'NOTHER REPORT.

And again there is the report that Japan wants here citizens admitted to this country on terms of racial equality—that she wants them free to purchase and cultivate lands in the parts of this country best suited to them—California, Arizona, Texas and Oklahoma.

And France is ready to talk land disarmament provided she is given an alliance with Great Britain and the United States which will protect her against Germany. Such a treaty is now pigeon-holed by the Senate Foreign Relations committee which was so much opposed to it, that it has never even discussed reporting it out.

China is represented by a delegation, the government which sent them here being in danger of falling before the conference adjourns.

Our own country which called the conference talks of restricting arms and of settling our troubles in an orderly manner around a conference station. But are the people really in favor of orderly procedure.

Only last week we had the citation of Postmaster General Hays to a Lake Charles, La., mail carrier, who battled a robber. "My only regret is that you did not bring in a dead robber."

And again we had the example of the Temperance Board of the Methodist Episcopal church, the largest Protestant church in America, urging that bootleggers be killed on sight. There was no suggestion in the state suggestion of Hays that he wished the robber had been captured and sentenced by orderly procedure. There was no suggestion by the Methodist temperance board that there should be a law condemning to death after orderly trial bootleggers who vend poisonous liquor. Both church and state argued for summary death without trial in a country which asks the world to settle international disputes in an orderly manner.

Little wonder the editors have wired Washington correspondents to "cut out the bunk."

Guides assert to vistors that the candles at the birthplace of Christ have been kept burning for 500 years.

Japanese Want Greater Naval Ratio; Now Have More Than Proportion

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The reported intention of the Japanese delegation to the armament conference to ask higher ratio of naval strength compared to Great Britain and the United States, than the 60 per cent fixed in the American plan, give added interest to statistic comparisons of the three countries.

Extent of coast line in part determines the need of naval forces. The United States has 40,206 nautical miles of coast as compared to 50,938 for the British Empire and 21,948 for Japan. On the basis of their existing and projected naval fleets, each country would have per mile of coast line as follows:

United States 50 tons; British Empire 40 tons, and Japan 61. Population might also be considered and the figures are:

United States 118,832,000 including insular possessions; British Empire 469,432,000 on the same basis, and Japan 78,001,000.

The density of population is:

United States 31 persons per square mile; British Empire 37 persons and Japan 299.

The comparison as to national wealth runs:

United States $350,000,000,000; British Empire $180,000,000,000; Japan $25,000,000,000.

To convert some of these figures into a percentage of the average for the six powers, the British Empire, the United States, France, Italy, Japan and China, the following results are obtained:

The American population per square mile is 35 per cent of the average; per capita national wealth 312 per cent; foreign commerce per capita 161 percent; expenditures on armed forces per capita 106 per cent.

The British empire shows 42 percent of the average in population per square mile; per capita national wealth 41 percent; per capita foreign commerce 76 percent; per capita national wealth 41 percent; per capita foreign commerce 76 percent; per caipta expenditures for armed forces 45 percent.

The Japanese figures against the average of population per square mile are 340 percent; per capita national wealth 34 percent; per capita foreign commerce 62 percent; per capita expenditures on armed forces 98 percent.

OIL INDUSTRY LEADERS WILL HOLD MEETING

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute will be held in Chicago, Dec. 6 to 8 inclusive. An important program has been arranged by the committee in charge, and some of the leading figures in the industry will express their views on the outlook for petroleum, both from a domestic viewpoint as well as from the world viewpoint.

Among the principal speakers are, A. C. Bedford, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey; Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard of New Jersey; Edward L. Doheny, president of the Pan-American Petroleum & Transport company; Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation; Commodore J. C. Donnell, president of the Ohio Oil company; Henry L. Doherty, president of H. L. Doherty & Company; Judge Amos L. Beatty, president of the Texas Company, and R. D. Benson, president of the Tide Water Oil company.

Crude Oil Production

Crude oil production in the United States during the week ended Nov. 5, averaged 1,192,380 barrels daily, according to the American Petroleum Institute. This compares with 1,190,380 barrels in the previous week and 1,311,273 barrels in the corresponding week of 1920.

Following are the daily estimates with comparisons:

Oil Trade News

The Humble Oil and Refining company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, has paid $1,000,000 for 176 acres of proved oil lands in the new Mexia field. The property was bought from the Occidental Oil Company. Part of this property, which consists of 76 acres lying on the north edge of the pool, has two oil wells producing about 600 barrels daily. The remaining 100 acres are located in one tract on the south end of the field with only one gas well drilled.

Application has been made to the Listing Committee of the New York Stock Exchange to list the shares of the Imperial Oil company, operating in the Mid-Continent field. The corporation is one of the properties controlled by C. N. Haskell.

The Standard Oil Company is reported to have received an order from the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey for the shipment of 2,000,000 gallons of gasoline from Casper, Wyo. to New Orleans. The gasoline is to be exported.

THE PROP

Chapter 1

For years Henry Browning had been an accountant in the railroad office. It makes no difference what road. They are pretty much alike the world over.

Browning was tidying up his desk before he left for the day. In such petty affairs he was meticulous.

"The boss wants to see you before you go," the tow-headed office boy told him. "Going t, raise your salary—maybe."

That last word, that "maybe" struck a chill to the heart of Henry Browning. He knew there had been talk of laying off men. His hand trembled as he rapped on the manager's door.

"I suppose you know why I have sent for you Browning?" Charles Hart, the alert manager, greeted him as he swung about on his swivel chair.

"Well—I—No, sir."

"You probably have hear that we are going to economize on this road. That we must! In that process, Browning, all that is driftwood must go first. You have been driftwood for a long time now, Browning. You haven't earned your salary—not half of it."

"But—Mr. Hart—you aren't going to turn me off, are you? After all these years? I will work harder, longer hours—" Then with a gulping sound, his Adam's apple working nervously. "I—my family—"

"You should have provided for them, Browning; have looked out for the rainy day. Let me see. How old are you, Browning? About sixty."

"Sixty-two last month."

"And you haven't saved anything; haven't looked out for your old age? Of course sixty-two isn't really old—but you, like a lot of others—thought the good times, the big salaries caused by the war were going to last forever."

"Yes—I—guess I did think so. But—Mr. Hart, I can't go now! There's my boy, Sam, him that was hurt in the war. He can't work yet; perhaps he never can. Then Ted, my other boy, he ran away. He wouldn't be tied down. He's been gone siv years He was just sixteen when he went—he's twenty-two now. My oldest girl is married. But the oldest at home, Ruth, she's just been graduated from college. A smart girl, if I say it as shouldn't But she don't earn much yet, although she got a job right away so she could pay me back for her education. She helpe a lot too by teaching the stupid girls. Then there are my two little girls—Susan, thirteen, and Betty, just turned sixteen, and in high school. You see I just can't go, don't you Mr. Hart?"

"I'm sorry, Browning, but all this isn't my affair." Hart spoke kindly. "I am here to make this office pay. Railroading is a business, not a charitable institution. I will give you a letter of recommendation. You will soon land another job."

"Not at my age."

"As I said, Browning, I am sorry. But duty is duty, and mine is plain. As I told you, all driftwood, and much that is not will have to be cut off. Goodnight, Browning, and—good luck."

One month before her father had been cast off as driftwood, Ruth Browning had been graduated from college. She had at once applied for a position with Carr & Co., bond and investment brokers. And because she was bright, and in earnest, and had the poise college gives a girl she had been taken on at eighteen dollars a week.

Always—as long as Ruth could remember—life had been a constant struggle. A struggle to make ends meet. Then came the war. Then the inflated salaries paid to workers. Ruth's dream was realized. She went to college. Her expenses she kept at the minimum by coaching backward girls. Yet she promised both her father and herself to pay back every penny he had spent for her.

Many years before our story opens Henry Browning had bought a house in the suburbs. He paid $2,500 down and there was a mortgage of $3,000. The mortgage was still hanging over his head.

Henry Browning had heard of the economies planned by the railroad officials, that they intended to lay off many men. But with the sense of fatality inbred in such natures he never once thought that his time had come, that he might be one of those men. So blithely he went on his way.

Mrs. Browning had long talked of the time when they should own their home "free and clear." But things were going so well with them there was no need to hurry. Neither was it necessary to go without what they wanted in order to pay off the mortgage.

Ruth, however, used to dream of the time when she would earn enough to pay it, and so assure the family of a roof over their heads. As she grew older Ruth had sensed a weakness in her father without knowing just what is was, or how to combat it.

All of them laughed at Ruth for a visionary, a dreamer, when she told her plans for the future. She was so energetic, so ambitious that her father dubbed her "the odd chicken" and "the stray cat."

That she would ever come to be the solo asset of the Browning family not one of them would have believed.

New Process Proven.

Manufacture of an insulating board from bagasse, the cane from which the sugar juices have been extracted, has been started at Marero, La., in a plant which has been completed at a cost of $500,000. If the process proves a success, further units will be erected as rapidly as possible. It is hoped that within a few years, says the Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, a large part, if not all, of the bagasse produced in Louisiana will be used in this way. It is said that the board can be produced at less than the cost of lumber, that it can be used in the place of lumber for nearly all purposes and, unlike wood it is not subject to decay.

Why Be Only a Christian?

To Wichita Falls' Religious Public:

The Church of Christ uses this means in a further attempt to be understood by the other religious bodies of the city. Again we state the grounds of our faith. We repeat our offer to yield every item of our faith and practice which is not in inspiration's own words positively commanded us. We even propose to give up our own house of worship and meet with others upon the sole condition that we shall all agree to do only what the Lord explicitly and in his own words bids of us. What the Bible says is the divine basis for union. Why not everybody unite upon this non-partisan and infallible ground?

Christians come together when they come to God, and under the leadership of inspired men they never "joined" anything. All who accepted Jesus as Lord were joined together in the same Spirit and in the same body, the church. And as long as they were faithful to God division among them was impossible. They were all born again, born into God's family, the church. The steps necessary to entrance into Christ, which were the identical steps they had to take to become Christians, brought them into fellowship with all other Christians. Thus the Lord added them to the church. And all were forbidden to do anything save what the Lord commanded. (Deut. 28:14; 2 John 9.)

Any religious organization as a whole which does not include all Christians is not the church we read about in the Bible. Whatever divides the body of Christ and destroys its unity is sinful. To cut a body so as to separate its parts is to mutilate and kill it. But this is precisely what denominationalism does. Sectarianism destroys Christian unity and fosters discord because it fences up some of God's people in one party and some in another. Partyism is the negation of the aim of Christ. No wonder that sects are called "damnable" (2 Pet. 2:1) and "carnal" (1 Cor. 3:3). To divide the children of God, as he does who upholds party institutions and names, is a very grave sin.

Obedience to Christ will make a Christian, but not a Methodist Christian or a Campbellite Christian. The unmixed seed of the kingdom (Luke 8:11) cannot produce such mongrel breed. To make people anything more than simply and only Christians the doctrines and commandments of men (Matt. 15:9) must be taught. But we must give up the teachings of men if we are to go to heaven. (Matt. 15:14.)

If we are married to Christ (Rom. 7:4) whose name should we wear? You reply there is nothing in a name. But Jehovah says there is salvation in his name (Prov. 18:10; Acts 4:12). Always the Lord has put His name upon his people (Num. 6:27; Deut. 28:10) and he cursed Israel for adopting another name (Isa. 65:15). The Lord promised his people through Christ "a new name," "an everlasting name" (Isa. 56:6; 62:2). Paul was sent to bear this name (Acts 9:15; 11:25, 26). God called it "that worthy name" (Jas. 2:7) and says we are to "glorify" him in wearing it (1 Pet. 4:16) and to "suffer" for it (Luke 6:22). And when the Corinthian Christians wore also Paul's name, as folks today wear other names, they were straitly condemned for it. And we ask you if it was carnal to wear the name of so great and so worthy a leader as Paul, why is it not carnal to wear the name of any man, or any name save that which the Lord puts upon us to wear?

Why not let us all be content to be simply Christians?

—We extend a most cordial invitation to all the people of the city to come out and be with us in our great revival. Services daily at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m.

SPEAKING OF REILY.

Colonel E. Mont Reily is a former Texan. Many years ago he was a dealer in dirt in Fort Worth—an irrepressible seller of city lots. He moved from Fort Worth to Kansas City, where President Harding found him. The Kansas City Star is an independent as well as one of the great newspapers of America. Colonel Reily should appreciate this thrust taken from the editorial page of the Star: "The Porto Rican delegation that has come to complain to President Harding about the acts of Governor Reily may have a just cause, but we wish it would not dwell so heavily on the fact that Governor Reily comes from Kansas City." If the Star feels that way about it, why not credit Colonel Reily to Fort Worth? It won't hurt Reily; it can't hurt Panherville.

A RAW MEAT EATER

Governor E. Mont Reily of Porto Rico is coming home to submit an account of his stewardship to President Harding. It appears that Governor Reily imagined himself to be a Spanish grandee sent to the island to be a dictator of Porto Rico and the Porto Ricans. Power makes men mad. They swell up like hungry lions fed upon raw meat. Colonel E. Mont Reily was as mild mannered and as purring in the old days as a Chesshire cat; as docile as an ugly pup is milady's boudoir and as harmless as a tame duck. Now the Porto Ricans say he is as despotic as Marshal Weyler in the days of Spanish rule and as dogmatic as a Romanoff in the days of old Russia.

Sensational developments may be expected in the Amarillo oil fields in the next few days, according to local oil men who are keeping in touch with the movements with the big operators in that section, says the Amarillo Daily Tribune. This paper says the Sinclair Oil Company paid more than $80,000 for the work of geologists in the Panhandle field and the Prairie Company is reported to have spent more than $2,000,000 in exploiting the field. There is money in oil—if one is in on the ground floor.

"Big Tim" Murphy of Chicago is a former state representative, a former secretary to a congressman, a former gang leader and president of the Gas Workers and Street Sweepers Union. He was convicted for a part in planning a $360,000 mail robbery. Judge Landis gave him a term of six years in the federal penitentiary and imposed a fine of $30,000. "Big Tim" made a splendid start, a disgraceful landing. Now he is in hock.

GAVIN M'NAB.

Gavin McNab of San Francisco is defending Roscoe Oleaginous Arbuckle. Gavin McNab is one of the famous criminal lawyers of America, a leader of the California democracy and all powerful in the Golden Gate city. Arbuckle must have parted from a large sized chunk of his money when Gavin M'Nab agreed to take his case. Of course, Arbuckle will be acquitted. All the participants in his hotel debauch are tarred with the same stick. They were drunk and dressed up in pajamas and one of the party paid the price. If Arbuckle had been a pauper, there would nave been no prosecution. It happens he is a millionaire and the pickings are rich

An All-American plan for a ten-year naval holiday and a scrapping of all but a limited number of warships paralyzed the delegates sent by foreign nations to the disarmament conference. Foreign diplomacy is subtile, selfish, sinister and slavish. There is only one way to disarm. Hughes pointed the way. His plan was submitted. It was bold and sincere. He laid his cards on the table. Then all the representatives of the earth talked and said nothing.

Kansas was one of the first of the Middle West states to go dry. There are mining camps near Pittsburgh in the Sunflower state. Prohibition enforcement officials raided the camps. They captured 4,000 gallons of wine, 800 quarts of home brew, 800 gallons of mash and a large quantity of whiskey. William Allen White and Governor Henry J. Allen say "there is nothing the matter with Kansas." There is. Kansas is wet in spots.

Charles Evans Hughes cut the red tape of diplomacy. In cutting it he created something of a sensation. The London Daily News says, "the despairing world has been shown a way to its salvation; the path to peace which was missed at Versailles has been revealed at Washington to be broad and straight." There is one London editor who is for a ten years suspension of warship building and he accepts the Hughes plan.

Fifty-five thousand garment workers in the city of New York are out in the greatest needle strike since 1916. These strikers have tied up 320 shops and 1,500 concerns are effected. Winter is here and winter has its terrors in the city of New York with coal selling for $18 per ton. Peace is found in one place and one place only—the cemetery.

There is a federal land bank at Houston. It has been allotted $15,000,000 for loan purposes until May of next year. Demand for farm credit is said to be very great, but $2,000,000 a month should help some. "Lest we forget," the federal land bank was given to the people by a democratic administration.

THE FRENCHWOMAN

By DR. FRANK CRANE

(Copyright, 1921, by Frank Crane.)

To the average American the Frenchwoman seems to be a figure of frivolity.

Conventional ideas often crystallize entirely erroneous, not to say malicious, conceptions.

As a matter of fact the Frenchwoman is about the most practical, hardheaded, and thrifty person in the world.

She is not extravagant, because the law of the country and the customs of society provide that she have money of her own from the day of her birth.

The first preoccupation of French parents is to secure a dot for their daughter. It is considered that she will need this in order to get a husband worthy of her position. And if she should not marry she will have enough to live on, and her fortune is so arranged by legal ties that she cannot dispose of it foolishly.

She is taught from her earliest years to appreciate the security of a solid financial background.

A recent article in the Times outlines the Frenchwoman's financial position. "She is brougt up," says this writer, "to treat money with the respect due that it represents. Neither vanity nor philanthropy is allowed to interfere with investments. To live from hand to mouth is not her way, and whether her income be large or small she lives within it and manages to save.

"To be thrifty is a precept she learns with her alphabet. To be discreet in conversation about her possessions is another. Prudence, taste, and natural intelligence help her to get good value for what she spends. Few Frenchwomen are dependent on their husbands for the money they spend on themselves. The system of the dot has its advantages, and this is one of them. The general rule in a French household is that husband and wife share running expenses and pay for their own personal needs out of their private purse."

A wholesome brake on a woman's spending opportunities in France is the custom of paying ready money for everything. This custom makes it difficult for a woman of small means to run into debt. Standing accounts are rare, and few husbands have the habit of saying, "Buy what you need and have the bill sent to me."

In every shop and restaurant of France a woman is at the cash box and keeps the books. One gets the impression after a while that it is the women of France that hold the reins.

Watching the Parade

By JOHN PILGRIM

There are times when I get sour and unhappy about all of us. It seems to me that something has gone wrong with our folks lately. We're getting tame-spirited, and snobby, and limber-kneed. What was it that Shakespeare said?

We "crook the pregnant hinges of the knee
That thrift may follow fawning."

This attack of mental indigestion is directly consequent upon a visit to the old home town last week. It is a small, brick-built, green-lawned, maple-shaded town is this home town of mine. When I was a kid the people were as straight up-and-up, high-headed, self-respecting a lot as you could find between the two oceans. It hasn't grown noticeably in size since then, but——

Last week the folks down there gave a subscription concert for some good object or other. It was the sort of horrible concert that concerts of that sort usually are. And when it was all over and we stood up in our places and began to shake hands and rustle into our overcoats something queer happened at the door.

There was the Chief of Police, in his Sunday uniform and his big gold badge. And Dick Schieffelin and Tommy Carr and other members of our local police force, also in their best uniforms and shaved and white-collared and shoe-shined. And they held the door against us citizens, while the Mayor and Mayoress and the Judge and the Judgess and the Banker and the Bankeress and other occupants of the row of boxes passed out ahead of the common people. I was one of the common people. That is why I'm so eternally put out about it.

I believe in respect for law and all that sort of thing. But to respect the law is one thing and to yield unquestioning, feeble-minded, abject obedience to policemen just because they wear blue coats and carry clubs is another.

Oh, no, I didn't start anything, then. I don't care to have my features all messed up by the Chief of Police in his new uniform. But I've started something now.

Most people act natural when they are asleep.

Money and poor relations are the two roots of some evils.

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

FOMENTATIONS FOR THE EYE

When Billie Kerr fell off the roof of the garage and hurt his head and face, the doctor ordered fomentations to be applied to his eye every four hours, for twenty minutes at a time.

There was consternation in the household, but eyes are very important, and despite the small boy's protests his mother carried out the orders faithfully.

"I had to put stupes on my William's stomach last year," said a distant cousin who had come to visit.

"But stupes and fomentations for the eye are entirely different," said the small Billie's mother, quietly. "You use pieces of flannel for stupes and small compresses of gauze or absorbent cotton for eye fomentations."

Mother Makes Preparations.

As she spoke (for it was the first time the treatment was given) Mrs. Kerr carried a towel, a bath thermometer, a small basin, and a pitcher of boiling water to the couch where Billie lay. These articles she arranged on a large tray on a table beside the couch. Then she brought scissors, a roll of absorbent cotton, and a paper bag to hold waste cotton. For she knew that one needs a number of compresses to treat an inflamed eye and that the same compress may not be used a second time.

Cutting a dozen compresses of cotton, about one and one-half inches square, she put a towel under Billie's reluctant head. Then she poured hot water from the pitcher into the small bowl, tested it, and found it to be 110 degrees Fahrenheit, which was the right temperature for eye fomentations.

Little Billie Pleased.

Wringing a compress from the water, she applied it to Billie's eye for two minutes, discarded it, and applied a fresh one. Keeping the water at the required temperature, Mrs. Kerr continued this treatment for twenty minutes, while the family looked on.

"I like it," said Billie at last, which was his mother's reward.

CHATTERER HAS TO KEEP HIS PROMISE

Chatterer, the red squirrel wished now that he hadn't been quite so greedy. If he had been content to let Sammy Jay get what corn he could from Farmer Brown's corn-crib, instead of playing that sharp trick to frighten him away Chatterer wouldn't have felt so uncomfortable. To be sure, he had made up with Sammy after their quarrel when Sammy had found out about that trick, but Chatterer had had to make a promise which he knew he would have to keep, and Chatterer is one of those little people who hate to be obligated to do things. He had agreed to help Sammy Jay get corn from that corn-crib and put it wherever Sammy wanted it put. It wasn't much to do. He really didn't mind doing the thing itself, it was the thought that Sammy could make him do it.

Now, Chatterer has sharp wits and Sammy Jay has sharp wits. Chatterer had always thought his the sharpest, and it hurt his pride to feel that Sammy had got the better of him. He couldn't think of anything else as he curled up for the night in his snug bed in the old home of Drummer the Woodpecker up in the Old Orchard. He thought and thought trying to find some way to wriggle out of his promise, and just before he fell asleep an idea came to him. He would go over to the corner-crib before Sammy was awake, eat his fill, and then hide from Sammy.

"Why didn't I think of that before?" he murmured sleepily, and smiled to think, after all, his wits were sharper than those of Sammy Jay.

The next morning very early Chatterer visited the corn-crib, ate a hurried breakfast, and then hid in the old stone wall to watch for Sammy Jay. But Sammy didn't come at the time he used to visit the corn-crib before Chatterer had given him that terible scare. Chatterer waited and waited, but no Sammy Jay. Chatterer began to get impatient, but still he didn't dare leave his hiding pl— for fear that Sammy might come. At last Chatterer decided that Sammy had gone somewhere else that morning, so he came out of his hiding place and frisked along the stone wall on one edge of the Old Orchard. After a while he forgot all about Sammy Jay. Anyway, he was sure that Sammy wouldn't think of going to the corn-crib so late in the morning for it wouldn't be safe at all. Farmer Brown's Boy would be almost sure to see him. So Chatterer forgot his troubles and frisked about and had a splendid time all by himself.

Right in the midst of it Sammy Jay arrived in the Old Orchard.

"Good morning, Chatterer," said he. "I fear I am a little late for breakfast."

"Breakfast," sneered Chatterer. "breakfast! Why, it's nearer dinner time. I had my breakfast hours ago."

"I thought likely," repiled Sammy, and there was a mischievous look in his sharp black eyes, "but I was rather tired this morning and as long as I didn't have to go way over to the corn-crib myself I thought I wouldn't hurry. I suppose you have plenty of corn ready for me here?"

"Corn ready for you?" I should say not!" snapped Chatterer. "You didn't say anything about getting corn for you this morning."

"Didn't I? Well, I guess I must have forgotten it. Never mind—you can run over there and get some for me now," replied Sammy.

"Go yourself," snapped Chatterer.

"I think I'd rather not," replied Sammy. "Farmer Brown's Boy is chopping wood right close by the corn-crib so I prefer to have you go."

"I won't!" Chatterer fairly screamed, and danced about in his rage. "I won't!"

"Oh all right," replied Sammy, yawning. "I saw Shadow the Weasel down in the Green Forest this morning and he inquired for you. I think I'll go look him up again."

Chatterer turned pale. He feared Shadow the Weasel more than any one else under the sun. He would rather face Farmer Brown's Boy. "I—I'll go," he stammered weakly. There was no way out of it; he had to keep his promise.

THE UGLY TOWN

Copyright, 1921, by W. Werner

It was past 4 o'clock when Lois stepped down from the train at the Belden station. She had been riding for six hours without lunch and had passed a sleepless night besides, so that she felt unduly tired. Then, too just as she was starting she had received a telegram from her husband saying that he was obliged to be away from Belden that day, and consequently could not meet her.

She had sent her trunk on a few days before and carried only a suitcase. She decided to walk to Mrs. Henley's for the sake of saving hack fare, although it rained. From a bystander she learned the way to Pearl street.

The wind blew and Lois had difficulty in keeping her umbrella posied, her hat on and her skirts where they belonged. However, after she reached the drug store mentioned in her instructions all she had to do was to follow where the sidewalk led. The street wound in and out, crossed and was crossed by other streets. There was a rolly brook with a bridge, and on both sides houses—shrunken, inhospitable looking dwellings that seemed to stare at the stranger with cold eyes.

Lois had come from the beautiful town of Belleport, where she had lived in one of the nicest sections. Belleport had modern architecture and splendid civic equipment. Lois hated to leave a place where she was beginning to feel so much at home, but of course Burt had to go where his work called him. He had a long, if not a permanent, job in Belden and he wanted her with him. She had broken up her home and stored her goods until Burt could find a house for her. And here she was walking toward fresh destiny without rubbers on a cold, wet November day.

Mrs. Henley's house was like all the others she had seen, only larger She rang the bell and Mrs. Henley came to the door.

"You're Mrs. Ladd," she said. "Mr. Ladd told me you'd be here on this train. Walk right in. Maybe you'd like to go right up to his room. I guess it's warm. The register is turned on."

"Thank you, I'll go upstairs," Lois replied.

The stairs were steep and narrow and the carpet that covered them was worn and dingy. Mrs. Henley turned on the light and pulled down the shades and showed Lois where things were. Then she went out and left her alone.

Lois began to look and find evidences of her husband. A necktie she had given him last Christmas hung over the glass on the bureau, a book she had not seen before lay on the little table and in a drawer were some soiled collars, a bathrobe hung in the closet, and on a chair beside the bed was a small alarm clock.

She hung up her coat and hat and before unpacking her suitcase sat down by the register to think. The dreariness of the room and the inconvenience of the house oppressed her Through the register came a smell of onions. She could feel Mrs. Henley's heavy step vibrating up to her.

It was such an ugly town. How was she ever going to endure it even with Burt to help her. It was different with Burt. He had his work, and that always absorbed him from the moment he left the house until he returned, but she had nothing. All the tender roots of her being had been torn up; she had been transplanted forcibly and was bidden to grow fast in this new soil. Her pretty home was gone, she was so far from her friends and relatives that she could not hope to see them often, if at all. She had only Burt, and if she were going to be as homesick as this at the start she wondered how she was going to keep on.

Somewhere near a whistle blew and she realized that it was 6 o'clock. She had sat by the register a long time. Mrs. Henley was calling up from below: "Supper's ready, Mrs. Ladd."

She went down. The dining-room was dark and small, and her chair was squeezed in between the table and the wall. Mr. Henley and a boy, who was their grandson, came to the table and were introduced to her. There were fried potatoes and warmed-up steak, dark and hard, and coffee and biscuit, and lastly, some very heavy cake. Hungry as she was, Lois could not eat much. As soon as the meal was over she returned to the room above and lying down on her bed, drew the extra blanket over her for warmth, and began to cry. It was all more horrible than she had expected.

At the supper table she had learned that Burt was not likely to return until next day, and presently she arose and got his bathrobe and snuggled into it. Between nervousness and fatigue and cold her teeth were fairly chattering. The warmth of the garment gave her comfort. She thought of Burt wistfully. After all, it was not easy for him to tear up and go forth to win a new place for himself. He, too, had friends, more than she had, and he loved his home. He loved her and had hated to leave her behind him quite as much as she hated to be left. It was a swift transition from his little "den" with its pretty comforts to this cheerless room, yet he had endured the cheerless room alone for three months before he sent for her.

Suddenly it came to her that she had come to help Burt; to cheer and comfort him, rather than to make him miserable with her miseries. It was the first hardship she had ever encountered and she was not bearing it bravely. When he came he should find a helpmate instead of a cry-baby who would add to his burdens. She hunted in the pocket of the bathrobe and found a handkerchief and wiped her eyes upon it. Then she fell asleep.

She awoke at the opening of the door. Even before she was fully aroused she realized that Burt had gone. He came to the bed and bent over it and lifted her into his arms. "Poor little stray kitten," he murmured in his deep voice.

Lois clung to him. "It's cold in here," he said as he released her, "Wait a minute." He went out of the room and returned with an oil heater, which he lighted. "I bought this so you'd have it to use," he said. "It's a whole comfort kit in itself. Let me show you."

From some place in the closet which she had not discovered he brought a couple of bowls and a saucepan and a can opener. Then from the deep pockets of his coat he brought forth a can of soup, a box of crackers, another box of little cakes and a pair of big red apples. In astonishment Lois watched him as he heated the soup and opened the boxes. His capability surprised her. She had always thought him the most helpless being alive at home.

In a few minutes he handed her the bowl of soup, steaming hot. "You'll have to drink it, for there are no spoons," he said gayly.

They sat down opposite each other with the glowing stove between them and ate the best meal Lois ever tasted.

"By the way," Burt said, "I've got a house for you. Tomorrow I'll telephone for our furniture and we'll move right in. It's a bungalow, new and cozy, I think—only four rooms, but I thought we'd make them do for a while. It won't be like the place you've just left, of course, but still—"

Lois came and sat on his lap and put her arms about his neck. "Home's where the heart is," she told him: "and my heart is with you."

To Influence Others

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

In Mrs. Douglas Robinson's recently published book, "My Brother Theodore Roosevelt," there is a passage of special significance to all who would for any reason exercise influence over other people. Writing of President Roosevelt's manner of receiving guests at official functions, Mrs. Robinson notes:

"Almost always he would have some special word for each, and although the long line would not be held back, for he was so rapid in speech that the individual welcome would hardly take a moment, still almost every person who passed him would have had that extraordinary sense that he or she was personally recognized . . . and there was immediately established a personal sense of relationship."

And with reason Mrs. Robinson comments:

"Perhaps that was of all my brother's attributes the most endearing—namely, that power of his of injecting himself into the life of the other person and of making that other person realize that he was not just an indifferent lump of humanity, but a living and breathing individual coming in contact with another individual even more vividly alive."

Now, President Roosevelt could not have done this had he not been sincerely and keenly interested in people.

And in innumerable cases it is precisely because such human interest is lacking that men and women have to confess themselves deficient in the "magnetism" which counts for so much in the exercising of personal influence.

Obviously, people cannot well be drawn to one who permits or causes them to feel that their existence, their problems, their cares and their joys are of no moment to him. This is the feeling which many unconsciously create by their fashion of dealing with others.

They create it, moreover, because they actually give little or no thought to other people's affairs. Their habitual mode of thinking is either too self-centered or too abstract and impersonal to permit their doing so.

As a result, no matter how gifted and worthy they may be, they fail to command the sympathetic attention of those with whom they come into personal touch. Nor can they command this unless and until they cultivate the precious quality of "feeling with" others.

Such a quality can be cultivated to a high degree. In Mr. Roosevelt's case it was sedulously cultivated in him from early boyhood by his remarkable father. But it is susceptible of self-cultivation even when one is well advanced in years.

All that is essential to its cultivation is a resolute determination to became interestedly observant of one's fellow beings. Out of such observation will little by little grow the greater sympathy wherein is grounded that intuitive handling of others which is fundamental to personal influence.

Rippling Rhymes

THE CORONER.

The coroner is busy, he seldom has a rest; he rides in his tin Lizzie to hold another quest. He wears out teams of horses when Lizzies will not go; to sit on clammy corses he journeys to and fro. For every passing minute bootleggers sell their booze, and there is venom in it, and juice of overshoes, and sudden death and thunder, and powdered bones and crimes; and he who drinks goes under, long, long before his time. Some voters think it funny to beat the Volstead law, and so they spend their money for poison rank and raw. The coroner is toiling through bitter winds and strong; his clients will be spoiling if they are kept too long. The winds are gallivanting, it thunders and it rains; the coroner is panting along the country lanes; along the village highway, and down the city street; there is no road or byway that does not know his feet. The boys must have their bitters, from jug or demijohn, and, rounding up such critters, the coroner goes on. The boys must have their flagons—the Volstead law be blowed! And then they ride in wagons along the boneyard road. And while the boys drink toddies, the crowner's on his way, and on their tortured bodies he places his O. K.

JACKSON-BONNER WEDDING SOLEMNIZED.

In a colonial setting of exquisite beauty, with the impressive ring ceremony, the marriage of Miss Bereneice Jackson and Jouette M. Bonner, an event around which the interest of many friends has been centered since the announcement of the engagement, was solemnized at the First Baptist church Wednesday evening, Rev. O. L. Powers pastor of the church officiating.

The wedding, which is the first elaborate one of the autumn season, was of unusual interest on account of the popularity of the young people. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Jackson long time residents of Wichita Falls, while the groom is one of the most promising young attorneys of the city where he is a partner with his brother, Judge William N. Bonner. The bride is also a violinist of more than ordinary talent.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with palms, ferns, plume chrysanthemums and chrysanthemum pompoms in the orchid and white, with a garden wall in colonial effect, trellised with southern smilax, forming the background for the wedding party.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. F. R. Collard, at the organ, played "Dawns Enchantment," by Marion Austin Dunn; the Shrine choir composed of Paul Von Allman, Grover Bullington, Vaughn Ray and Ivan Murchinson, sang "Until" by Wilfred Sanderson; Mrs. Bruce Greenwood gave a violin solo, "At Dawning" by Cadman; and Mrs. Collard played a melody on the chimes. The bridal party entered to Lohengrin's Processional and Mendelssohn's "Springsong" was played throughout the ceremony. At the close Mrs. Collard played Mondelssohn's Recessional.

The bride was charming in a white gown of crystal beads over satin, John L. Mayer model, with court train of duchesse lace and satin with Grecian hem. Her veil was of tulle and point de venise lace caught and held in place with orange blossoms. She carried a duchesse lace handkerchief, which was used by her grandmother on her golden wedding anniversary, and a shower boquet of bride's roses and lillies of the valley. She was given to be married by her father, J. L. Jackson.

Miss Eva Lynn Weems of Dallas, maid of honor, was attractive in a silver lace gown over metal cloth and orchid, with bodice made of silver and orchid boquets and bateau neck line. The gown was in the colonial basque and hoop skirt effect, as were all the maids, carrying out the color scheme of orchid and white.

Mrs. Ben Bell, sister of the bride, and first matron, wore orchid duchesse and brocaded satin, with silver lace trimming. Mrs. J. H. Barnard, second matron, wore orchid taffeta with silver lace and handmade French flowers.

Misses Catherine McComb of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, Thelma Kahn, Frankie Adickes and Helen Snider, brides maids and junior maids, all wore dainty gowns in the chosen colors and made in the colonial style, and all carried colonial boquets.

Two little maids, Misses Ona Bell Britain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Britain and Florence Katherine Cabiness, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cabiness, dressed in dainty white frocks of lace and chiffon, and wearing the panteletts in the path of the bride. Little Miss Josephine Louise Bell, niece of the bride, as ring bearer and carrying the ring in the heart of a colonial boquet, wore a pretty frock of point d'esprit over white satin with trimmings of French roses. Master Joseph Fenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Fenton in colonial costume of white satin, with lace in the neck and sleeves, acted as train bearer.

The groom had for his best man, his brother, Judge William H. Bonner. Groomsmen were Messrs. J. G. Flowers and Ernest Fain.

Following the ceremony, members of the bridal party were entertained with an informal reception at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's cake was cut and the many handsome wedding gifts admired.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonner left for a wedding tour which will include Chicago and other northern cities, after which they will be at home in Wichita Falls. Mrs. Bonner wore on the trip, a handsome Beller model tailored gown of beaver cloth with accessories of dark brown.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding, included: Mr. and Mrs. E. Griggs of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Jackson of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Jackson of Houston, Mrs. Sam R. Weems of Dallas, Mrs. Vasco McCoy of Texarkana and Drew Bonner of Breckenridge.

HUMORIST LECTURER TO APPEAR HERE FRIDAY.

Booth Lowrey, who will lecture at the First Methodist church, south, corner of Tenth and Lamar, Friday night on "Simon Says Wig-Wag" is one of the most famous humorists in America today, and one of the most eloquent men of the platform today, according to advance reports. His subject within itself suggests very little, but from it develops some of the deepest philosophy of life, and weaves into it a line of humor that fairly sends his audiences into side splitting laughter, according to advance notices. Some endorsements of his former appearances read as follows:

Prof. Pulliam of Georgetown College (Ky.) says, "Lowrey is simply great. We have never had a man who pleased so well as Lowrey. We must have him again next year."

Dr. Geo. M. Savage, President of S. W. B. University (Tenn.) says, "Lowrey's lectures are eloquent, humorous, pathetic and powerful. I commend him as a man of strong character and great power."

Hon. S. A. Mynders, Superintendent of Education of Tennessee says, "If Booth Lowrey has a superior on the platform, I have never heard him."

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT MOTHERS' CLUB MEETING.

More than 200 members attended the Parent-Teachers Council held at the Austin school Wednesday afternoon, which was declared to be the largest attended and most enthusiastic meeting held by the club since its organization.

Completion of arrangements for a club benefit to be derived from the performance of the Lewis-Worth Stock company Tuesday evening were made at the meeting. The management of the company, selling the house to the club at a very low cost so that they may receive the benefit of the profit. The fund will go toward paying for the school piano.

The low seventh grade, with Miss Winnie Davis, teacher, won the picture for the month in the membership contest, and an interesting feature of the meeting was the demonstration by a staff from the telephone office, of the dial to be used on the phones.

In a short informal program given Mrs. J. C. Berney made an interesting lecture, and Mrs. Fred Barron sang a vocal number. Special music was also furnished by the students.

LUNCHEON GIVEN TRAVEL CLUB.

Members of the Junior Travel club were special guests at a delightful three-course luncheon served at the Y. W. C. A., with Mrs. E. F. Duff, hostess, Wednesday morning.

The table was attractively decorated in chrysanthemums and motifs suggestive of Thanksgiving for the affair, and the regular club meeting followed the refreshment course.

A review of the work done by the club since its organization, formed the lesson topic, and interesting talks were made by Mrs. J. C. Berney and Mrs. P. T. Datson.

Mrs. Datson read the paper for the afternoon on Caidman and Cynewulf Anglo-Saxon Christain Poetry.

Those present included Mesdames J. C. Galbraith, J. C. Berney, F. T. Datson, W. E. Hunter, W. B. McClain, John J. Fennessy, C. C. Cabiness John Davenport, W. L. Hawkins, I. R. Sheldon, E. C. De Montel, E. W. Niaper, W. C. Meritt, John Prewitt, Albert Lane and Miss Louise Lipscomb.

Fashions for Americans

Quaint and Unusual Is This Coat in Black and White Fur Combination.

Decidedly quaint and lovely! That describes the little fur coat shown in the sketch, a hip length model made of fine black seal and trimmed with a narrow band of ermine that extends all around the coat, including the collarless neck. The garment is lined in white and a small round muff of ermine tittingly accompanies it. The hat is of black hatter's plush, with a great rosette of white velvet centered with a black and white celluloid ornament placed directly in front. This hat and coat would be lovely worn with a black chiffon or lace afternoon gown. Both are distinctly out of the ordinary.

Among the new furs that are featured to some extent this season may be mentioned goat, shown in a beautiful silvery sort of gray and in texture resembling pony skin. Pony coats also seem to be in for quite a run of favor. They are shown both in black and natural color. The goat skin is a good deal more expensive than pony, but does not rank as one of the costliest furs.

Full length and short sports coats are equally popular in fur garments, and in the long coats, fitted or semi-fitted, straight line and draped or "wrappy" garments are available. Few dolman effects are shown, the tendency being to have sleeves set it.

Many cahrming little fur coats are shown for children, the pelts favored generally being the inexpensive ones, such as American broad tail, Iceland lamb, etc. Muffs and caps or hats to match are also frequently displayed.

New Toad Plant.

The French chemist Balland has analyzed an annual food plant called "woandsu," growing in tropical Africa, and introduced in southern Asia and Brazil, and his conclusions are interesting. This plant is, it appears, the first fruit, in the natural state, that has ever been examined and found to contain all the chemical properties of a perfect nutriment. Two pounds of it, it is claimed, would supply the daily requirements of the human system. Like the peanut, it matures underground. Its edible kernel is shaped like an egg. It furnishes a very white flour, the flavor of which, after cooking, resembles that of the chestnut.—Washington Star.

An Optimist.

Jud Tunkins says the only habitual optimist he knows is a fell r who simply doesn't want to be bothered.—Washington Star.

The famous river Jordan is only a winding dirty creek and can be forded easil at ordinary stages.

POLYTECHNIC HI TO PLAY HERE THANKSGIVING

The terms demanded by Polytechnic high school of Fort Worth have been accepted by the Wichita Falls high school athletic authorities, telegrams of acceptance have been sent and received by Coach Harry Viner, and unless some unforeseen obstacle intervenes the Fort Worth crew will furnish the Thanksgiving Day football opposition for Capt. Haney's red and black eleven.

Polytechnic high comes high, we'll say that. All they demanded for their little jaunt into our midst was a measly $400. But Viner decided he was going to send his team against some real, stiff opposition in the final game of the year, cost what it might. Quinah would have played here gladly; so would Stamford—but it is generally admitted they haven't got the punch this season to hold the hard-rushing Wichita Falls eleven. Viner figures that the better the team that plays here, the bigger the local attendance—and he is hopeful that Wichita Falls will fill the grandstand at Athletic park on Turkey Day and that sufficient "jack" will be obtained not only to meet all expenses but to provide a tidy little surplus for the local high school's athletic fund.

Polytechnic high has a powerful team. It defeated Mineral Wells, Mineral Wells held the North Side high eleven of Fort Worth to a scoreless tie, Electra defeated North Side 14-13 and Electra defeated Wichita Falls by one touchdown—figure it all out. Mineral Wells tried to have its game with Polytechnic thrown out of the interscholastic league on the ground that the Fort Worth team played at least one "ringer"—but the game stood, and according to one well-founded report the investigation showed both teams had been rather lax in certain matters. But when you mention such trivial details to Coach Harry Viner, he merely grins until his famous dimples show. "Dimpled" Harry don't give a hoot; don't give two hoots, and a hoorah thrown in.

"They can't do any worse than beat us, can they?" he says cheerfully. "And they haven't done that yet."

And somehow you get the impression that Polytechnic high will receive any beating that may be administered on Thanksgiving Day in football circles in "the city that faith and Kemp and Kell built." That's the way we feel about it, too.

EVERY TEAM ANXIOUS TO PLAY CENTRE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 16.—If Centre college could only play all the games offered to it by football teams this year, the boys would do nothing but travel. The University of Detroit is after the Praying Colonels hard and fast, and is willing to give a guaranty of $7,500 with the privilege of one-half the gross receipts. Under the conditions Centre might get as much as $15,000 for its end, which a couple of years ago was vastly more than the gross income of the little college.

Centre is wanted to play at Boston on Thanksgiving day, with a guaranty of something in the neighborhood of $8,500 and a privilege, but it is figured out that expenses make the Detroit proposition somewhat more attractive. There is no doubt of the drawing ability of Bo McMillin and his men. Centre made some pretty nice money at the Harvard game, estimates running the figure at about $9,000, but it is quite likely that the boys took home even a bigger purse than that, for they drew close to 100,000 against the Crimson, according to Boston estimates of the crowd.

CARPENTIER BREAKS DOWN: POSTPONES FIGHT WITH COOK

DIEPPE, France, Nov. 16.—Georges Carpentier has asked an indefinite postponement of his fight with George Cook, scheduled to be held in London December 9. The bout had previously been delayed a week at Carpentier's request.

The French fighter is reported to have broken down under his strenuous training routine and physicians say he is physically unfit to fight.

HOW TO PLAY GOLF

By "NICK" CARTER

The match was square, the 18th green
Five hundred yards away,
When old Bill Brown swung grimly back
To lick young Jimmy Gray.

Bill failed to keep his elbows in,
Yet still he didn't miss;
But with the open stance he used
He sliced
his drive like this!
But old Bill was a fightin' fool,
A hard-boiled egg, and tough;
He yanked a brassie from his bag
And
hooked
'er
to
rough!

Now Jimmy Gray was down the course
Straight as an arrow's flight;
But old Bill Brown he didn't care,
He'd just BEGUN to fight.

Out in the rough, and a rotten lie,
Bill's niblic cut the air;
He topped the ball, away it rolled,
Zigzagging
here
and
there!

Now Jimmy Gray was grinning, for
His third lay near the pin,
And with two putts the kid was sure
He'd drop the globule in.

Dil old Bill Brown give up the match?
Resign himself to fate?
Old Bill did nothing of the kind;
He hummed a Hymn of Hate.

And then he looked the distance o'er,
More than one hundred yards:
"I guess," mused old Bill Brown, "it's time
For me to play my cards."

He took his light weight jigger and,
Allowing for some roll,
Bill turned 'er loose; she struck the green—
And
shot straight
the hole!

AFTER FORTY-EIGHT YEARS OF PLAY, YALE LEADS TIGER IN EVERY ANGLE OF FOOTBALL

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 16.—Since 1873, when the Princeton University football team first visited New Haven to play the sons of Old Eli, forty-five games have been played on the gridiron by those great American institutions. Lale has been the victor on twenty-four occasions and her teams have succeeded in holding the famous New Jersey boys to a tie on nine more, leaving Old Nassau credited with twelve successes against their New Egnland rivals.

These battle have gone down in history, every one of them, for some deed of skill or daring that has been described to the last point wherever the clans meet to discuss football at these two seats of learning and football. The game is more highly developed today probably, but the rivalry is not. Loyalty to one's alma mater is no more intense today than it was away back there in the early years of play.

But in spite of these partisan sentiments a person cannot go beyond figures, and a perusal of the records made by both these great college elevens gives Yale a decided lead in every department of the game over Princeton, though the latter won in 1919 and 1920 by scores of 20 to 0 and 13 to 6 respectively. Yale won this year's contest 13 to 7.

Scores decide sport competitions not opinions, and certainly the tallies of the years are largely in favor of Yale. Except in kicking field goals and goals from touchdowns, of the latter of which Princeton has made eighteen against sixteen by Yale, the New Haven lads have the edge in every particular.

For instance, the Elis have scored nearly twice as many points as have the Jerseymen in the annual tilts, Yale accounting for 384 against an even 200 for the Tigers. Princeton has accounted for twenty-three touchdowns in the forty-four games, while Yale has run up forty-three—nearly twice as many. Old Eli has been successful kicking goals from touchdowns sixteen times, while the Jungle lads have made good twenty-one times. Even in the matter of the more or less inconsequential safety Yale has made two and Princeton but one.

There may be other contests in the college world that now challenge the Yale-Princeton game from the standpoint of play, but there is none to compare with the annual joust when it comes to development of the game in its present majesty. The annual clashes of these elevens have been responsible for the erection of the famous Yale Bowl, which will seat 77,000 persons and provide conveniently standing room for some thousands more. College athletic officials declare that if the capacity were twice greater every seat would have been sold, just as the nearly 80,000 have been.

The huge crowd—the greatest that ever saw an athletic contest in the history of the world—that witnessed the Jack Dempsey-Georges Carpentier heavyweight championship bout in New Jersey last memorial day alone alone surpasses in size the throng that collects in the bowl for the big games.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT —By Ripley

FAINT HEART ONLY WEAKNESS OF FRED FULTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Harry Wills, the giant negro who knocked out Fulton almost as easily as Dempsey did, think very well of the plasterer. "That boy Fulton could beat Dempsey just like breaking sticks, and we could beat me too, if ever he got it into his head that he had something on us. He's got enough stuff to lick any heavyweight there ever was, but he just can't show it when he knows the other fellow is tough," said Wills recently when discussing Fulton.

Wills was basing his opinion a great deal on Fulton's performance in stopping Langford. Wills and Langford are bitter enemies, but Wills is fairminded enough to recognize and admire Sam's ability. Wills says that when Langford was right he was as good a fighter as ever lived.

Langford was far from being at his best when Fulton met him nearly five years ago, but he was a mighty dangerous man. He seemed to be the last fighter in the world that the fainthearted Fulton would face with any degree of confidence, yet something must have made the plasterer feel extra courageous that night, for he fought like a champion and Langford never had a chance.

Fulton is not at all popular with the fans and for that reason he is not much of a card except when matched with a top notcher. Then he draws well enough. If he were matched with either Tob Gibbons or Jess Willard it would be a great attraction.

Fulton stands out as the one man that Willard should face before meeting Dempsey. They were nearly matched on one occasion several years ago. Willard was sure he could beat Fulton then and he wanted the fight, but it never came off. That match might have developed into a good scrap if it had gone through according to schedule. Fulton really believed he had something on Willard. He got his idea when he boxed him a four-round exhibition back in 1915.

THEY DON'T KNOW WHERE TO, BUT THEY'RE ON THE WAY.

REDS BEAT YANKS TO MINERAL WELLS AS SPRING CAMP

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The Yankees today began a new hunt for a spring training camp, club officials recently received an offer from the chamber of commerce of Mineral Wells, Texas, to train in that city and they sent their acceptance, but yesterday a telegram brought word that the chamber already had negotiated a contract to have the Cincinnati team train there.

Owners Ruppert and Huston insist, however, that the American league champions will train "somewhere in Texas." They will engage in a short series with the St. Louis Cardinals while in the south, and probably will play a series of games on the way home with the Brooklyn club.

COLORED PUG TRIES COMEBACK AFTER 20 YEARS LAYOFF

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 16.—"Denver Ed" Martin, 41-year-old negro heavyweight, who has returned to the ring after nearly 20 years' absence, meets Harry Wills at Milwaukee, near here, Friday night. In 1900 Martin was considered one of the best heavyweights in the country. He has won three bouts and lost none since he started his "come back" recently.

DODGERS PICK UP HUMDINGER OF OUTFIELDER

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 16.—President Charles H. Ebbets appears to have picked up a humdinger for the Brooklyn Dodgers in one John Rosebery, a former semi-pro outfielder of Newark, N. J. Rosey, who has been boosted to the skies, is twenty-one years old, throws right-handed and bats left-handed. He is 5 feet 11-2 inches in height and weighs 160 pounds.

Rosebery went so big in the semi-pro ranks that he was signed toward the end of the season by Flint of the Michigan-Ontario league. He managed to get into thirty-eight games and hit for an average of .301. He stepped to the plate 156 times, made 28 runs, delivered 47 hits for 74 bases. His extra base blows included five doubles, eight triples and two home runs. He is credited with two sacrifice hits and stole six bases.

The youngster is said to cover a vast amount of territory. He gathered in sixty-eight flies and had three assists, which with three errors gave him a fielding percentage of .960.

BALL PLAYER HURT; GETS $12 A WEEK FOR SIX MONTHS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16.—For the first time since the state workmen's compensation act went into effect a baseball player has received an award for injuries sustained in a baseball game. The award was made to David J. Hickman against the Oil City Baseball association. His leg was broken at the opening of the 1921 season and he is unable to play baseball, according to his statement. He will receive $12 a week for the period in which he was accustomed to play baseball from May 17 to November 8.

Hickman was formerly an outfielder of the Brooklyn National league team.

BANDIT MUST SERVE FORMER PEN SENTENCE

Bandit Captured by Unarmed Mail Clerk Identified as Roy Gardner; Will Be Sent to Leavenworth.

Relates Thrilling Story of Flight From Prison Guards After Escaping During Prisoners' Baseball Game.

By Associated Press.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 16.—Roy Gardner, who was captured by Herman F. Inderlied, mail clerk, in a mail car at the Atchinson, Topeka and Santa Fe railway station here last night, will not be tried for the attempt to rob that car, but will be sent to Leavenworth, Kansas to finish serving sentences which were hanging over him when he escaped from the federal prison at McNeil Island, Washington, September 5, according to announcement made tonight by Thomas Flynn, United States district attorney here.

Mr. Flynn said he had asked the department of justice at Washington whether to prosecute Gardner for last night's affair and had been instructed to have Gardner transferred to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 16.—Roy Gardner, captured mail bandit, was bound over to the federal grand jury here late today and his bond fixed at $100,000.

After the bond had been announced Commissioner Herke asked Gardner if he thought he could make the amount. The prisoner answered: "Oh, yes sir, I can make it all right."

Gardner said that for three days after he escaped from the guards during a prison baseball game, he hid in the hay loft of the prison barn and later swam to the mainland. Twice while there, he declared, he heard the steps of guards searching the barn.

He was wounded twice during his dash he said, one bullet striking him in each leg. He stayed on the island until the wounds were nearly healed, he said.

The food and drink problem was solved by a herd of cattle owned by a big dairy on McNeil Island, he continued. Every night he would slip from his hiding place and go milking. He lost an enormous amount of blood from the wound in his right leg, he said, because he was unable to staunch the bleeding until it "clogged up." The wound in his left leg did not cause much trouble, although the bullet brought him to the ground when the guard fired, he said.

After remaining three days in the loft, Gardner said, he slipped out and hid in the brush two days, when he made the attempt to swim the channel. He did not disrobe, but plunged into the cold water at ebb tide and made the two mile swim he declared.

"The cold water acted as a bracer," Gardner said, "because I was pretty weak from loss of blood and the cold did not bother me once I got into it."

Gardner said he reached San Francisco about September 28. He said he met no trouble in his long trip to Phoenix, and asked if he got into any tight places with his pursuers, he said only once.

"That was in Raymond, Washington," he continued, "where I got jammed up with a party and had to leave in the night. I took a machine and drove to Portland."

He seldom if ever rode on a train, he said, almost the entire trip through the west and middle western states being made on a motorcycle which he obtained in Oregon City, Oregon, which place he reached in a 20-mile trip on an interurban line after leaving the automobile in which he drove to Portland.

The only disguise affected by Gardner was in his hair, which was naturally a heavy black. When he reached Raymond, Washington, he purchased a small bottle of peroxide, he said, and bleached his hair, which now carries a pronounced reddish tinge. When he rode the motorcycle he wore tinted glasses he said.

Throughout his trip, Gardner slept mostly on the outside but on occasions stayed in lodging houses, as he has since he came to Phoenix twenty-three days ago.

Gardner stayed in Medford, Oregon, for three days, he said, and from there continued on to Redding California, where he remained only overnight. During this stage of the journey, he was "traveling fast," he said. Leaving Redding the next day, he started for Napa, California, where his wife and baby were. After one night in Napa he left for Bakersfield, where he stayed overnight, and next day started for Los Angeles. That was about four weeks ago, as nearly as he could recall the time. The motorcycle engine froze between San Juan Capistrano and San Diego, so he abandoned the machine and walked about half a mile to the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe tracks and caught a freight train on which he rode into San Diego. After two days in this city, he went to Mexicali, Lower California, reaching there about twenty-seven days ago.

Asked by Sheriff Montgomery why he did not remain in Mexico, where he would have been safe from arrest, Gardner replied that there was no money down there and that he could not compete with Mexicans for work.

"I could have existed down there, I suppose," he said, "but then you can exist in the penitentiary."

He stayed only three days in Mexicali, according to his story, and then started for Phoenix by way of Yuma and Maricopa, Arizona, he said, riding from Maricopa to Phoenix on a passenger train.

United States Commissioner John Henke, before whom Gardner was arraigned this afternoon, came into the jail and walked down to where Gardner was sitting in a cell.

"Well, I was surprised to hear that Roy Gardner came to a little town like this and got caught," Commissioner Henke said to Gardner.

Gardner laughed. "I always get caught like this," he said, "but I'd just as soon be caught in a one-horse town as in San Francisco."

It was found at the police station that the first two shells in Gardner's gun contained small shot and would, if fired at a man at a several foot range, probably overpower him without seriously injuring him. Gardner explained that the reason he did not shoot was that he had the pistol pressed against Inderlied's stomach so closely that the shot might have killed him instead of merely rendering him harmless for the next few moments.

Throughout his story Gardner was in a light mood.

He is 36 years old and has a good education. According to his story he attended the public schools in Missouri, graduating from the Colorado Springs, Colorado, high school and the Colorado state university. He said he was a welder by trade. He also stated that his father and a married sister ner living in Chickasha, Okla. His father, he said, is a retired businessman.

Gardner said he was the author of an appeal to President Harding for a pardon published in a San Francisco newspaper after his escape from McNeil Island penitentiary.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—Edward C. McGrath, superintendent of railway mail service in the west, said today that the mail clerk, Herman Inderlied, would receive the reward of $5,000 offered for the capture of any person who attempted to rob the mails, and perhaps also $2,000 which was a special reward offered for the capture of Gardner.

JUDGE PHILLIPS RESIGNS FROM HIGH COURT

Ocie Speer to Be Urged as Successor to Nelson Phillips, Who Plans to Resume Private Practice.

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 16.—Announcement of the appointment of the successor to Chief Justice Nelson Phillips of the Supreme Court of Texas, who resigned Wednesday, probably will be made by Governor Pat M. Neff here Thursday. Governor Neff is in Fort Worth attending the convention of the State Federation of Women's clubs.

While Governor Neff would not intimate to whom the place would be tendered, he admitted that he had a man in mind whom he probably would appoint.

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 16.—Appointment of Judge Ocie Speer, Fort Worth attorney, to succeed Judge Phillips, as chief justice of the Supreme Court of Texas ,will be urged upon Governor Pat M. Neff here tomorrow by a committee of Fort Worth attorneys.

Governor Neff is attending the convention of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs in this city.

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Nov. 16.—Judge Nelson Phillips, chief justice of the Supreme Court of Texas, announced from the bench at the session this morning that he would resign today. The court then adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon and Judge Phillips retired to his office to prepare his letter of resignation to the governor. It is understood that he will enter private practice in Dallas.

The announcement was a distinct surprise to all members of the judiciary and to the capitol in general, as there had been no rumor whatever of his quitting the bench.

Judge Phillips has been a member of the Supreme Court for the last ten years and chief justice for the last six years.

Judge Phillips sent his resignation to the governor's office shortly before noon. It was a brief announcement of his resignation, giving no reasons therefor. The text of the letter is as follows:

"I hereby tender my resignation as chief justice of the Supreme Court effective today.

"In laying down the office, which in the surrender of the associations of the court, is not without some regrets, I return to the people of Texas my grateful appreciation for having been honored with their confidence and trust. As a private citizen, I shall give to their interests and their welfare the same full measure of devotion which I have tried to express in my judicial service."

Judge Phillips was appointed chief justice by Governor Ferguson when the place was made vacant by the death of Judge H. J. Brown in May, 1915. Before that he was associate justice, being appointed to the bench by Governor Colquitt.

Shriners Prepare for 1800 At Big Feed on Turkey Day

Something like 1,800 people are expected to partake of the Shriners Turkey Day feed at Call Field Thanksgiving, according to estimates by Julian Montgomery, general chairman. If there is anything left over from the feed after the multitude lets up on hostilities, Mr. Montgomery says, it will be turned over to the Salvation Army.

The lists of those who will be intrusted with serving the feast and with cleaning up and arranging the hangar at Call Field has been made public. Any Shriner who has not been named on any of the committees published should get in touch with the general chairman, who is anxious that no one shall be slighted.

OIL MEN, BANKERS AND BUSINESS MEN HERE ON TRIP OF INSPECTION

Headed by C. J. Webster of New York, president of the Noco Oil Corporation, one of the largest independent concerns operating in the Mid-continent, and by C. F. Colcord, pioneer of the Young county development, and president of the North American Oil & Refining Co., 125 bankers and substantial business men, representing 12 states, visited Wichita Falls twice Wednesday in connection with their inspection of holdings of the two companies and oil field conditions in this section generally.

The members are those holding principal interest in the two companies, and their inspection is in connection with proposed joint operations to be carried on by the two companies.

The party made two stops here, after spending Tuesday in the Duncan field. The early morning stop was a brief one, the party going on to Burkburnett from where they went on a tour through the pools in that vicinity. Returning here in the afternoon they made a stay of some two hours, visiting local business men whom they knew, making new acquaintances, and getting a general view of the city.

While here representative members of the party who had not been in this section before expressed their astonisument and pleasure at the modern and progressive appearance of Wichita Falls.

Leaving, the special carrying the party went via the Wichita Falls and Southern for Young county for a view of the South Bend and Bunger pools, where the holdings of both companies are considerable, that of the North American being the largest in the section and comprising some 800 acres.

Both on its own account and in connection with the Roxanna, a Royal Dutch subsidiary, the North American from the first has lead in the Young county development. Mr. Colcord was the first oil man to believe in the oil possibilities of that territory.

The North American, which has a capitalization of $6,000,000, in linking up with the Noco is joining with one of the largest independent companies in this part of the country. The capitalization of the latter is $25,000,000 and they have holdings in practically every pool in the Mid-Continent.

SLAIN MAN IS IDENTIFIED AS W. B. BROUSFIELD

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 16.—The stranger who was slain near Fort Worth two weeks ago, has been identified as William B. Brousfield, an I. W. W. organizer of San Diego, California.

San Diego officials wired Fort Worth police that at the time of Brousfield's arrest there nine years ago, he was a citizen of Australia and as far as known has never taken out naturalization papers.

SEPARATE RETURNS AUTHORIZED FOR HUSBAND AND WIFE

(By Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The house conferees late Wednesday accepted the senate amendment, allowing husband and wife to make separate returns on community property. The acceptance of this provision was a big victory for Congressman John N. Garner of Texas who stood out for the amendment, which means the saving of millions of dollars to Texas taxpayers.

The winning over of Chairman Fordney of the house ways and means committee, was the break that finally won for Garner his contention. Senators Smoot and Penrose and Representative Green of Iowa, finally capitulated and the amendment was adopted.

BUILDING SHOWS INCREASE IN 157 CITIES OF U. S.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—A sharp increase in building last month was shown by figures from 157 cities made public tonight by Bradstreets.

The total value of building for which permits were issued in October was $167,386,660 as against $149,506,906 in September and only $92,175,533 in October, 1920.

This indicates a gain of 11.9 per cent over September and 81.6 per cent over October a year ago. The total at all cities so far reporting for October was said to be second only to the aggregate of April, 1920, when the building boom reached its crest.

This 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent. Simply present the coupon. This test will prove a delightful revelation. It will show you the way which millions have found to whiter, cleaner, safer teeth.
This offer is for one week only. It means much to you and yours. Act now.

Do This Tonight

Watch the quick effects—see the change in a week

Present this coupon to your dealer. He will give you a delightful ten-day test of a new teeth-cleaning method which millions are employing.

Watch the effects, quick, pleasant and conspicuous. Watch the new luster that comes. In ten days let your mirror tell you the way to pretty teeth.

Leading dentists everywhere advise this method now. You will see and feel the reasons when you make this test.

End the dingy film

The chief purpose is to fight film. This viscous coat, which you can feel, causes dingy teeth and also most tooth troubles.

Film clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. The old ways of brushing did not end it. So film-coats night and day threaten serious damage.

Film is what discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. All these troubles have been constantly increasing. Despite the daily brushing with old methods, very few escaped them.

Now you can fight it

Dental science, after long research, has found ways to fight that film. Able authorities have proved them effective. Now leading dentists everywhere advise their daily use.

The methods are embodied in Pepsodent, the new-day, scientific tooth paste. Millions of people now use it, and the use is fast spreading the world over.

That is the dentifrice we urge you to try. Your druggist has a free tube for you. Enjoy its effects for ten days, then judge them for yourself.

Also starch and acids

Modern diet makes other things essential. And those essentials are embodied in this scientific tooth paste.

Each use of Pepsodent multiplies the salivary flow. That is Nature's great tooth-protecting agent. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's agent for neutralizing acids which attack the teeth.

An ideal diet would do these same things, but few people get it. So dental science now needs the tooth paste to bring these desired effects.

Pepsodent will daily bring you five great benefits which the old ways did not bring. Together they mean a new era in teeth cleaning.

Men's tobacco stains

Men who smoke stain these film-coats with tobacco. The use of Pepsodent brings them conspicuous effects.

Food stains with women make these film-coats dingy. The glistening teeth seen everywhere now show how Pepsodent removes them.

But children need Pepsodent most. Their teeth are most subject to film and starch attacks. Very few escape them. Dentists advise that they use Pepsodent from the time the first tooth appears.

Watch teeth whiten

The results of Pepsodent are quickly seen and felt. No user can long doubt them. A book we send explains the reasons for them. A very short test will convince you that this new way is essential.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects.

Then you will see and feel and know that Pepsodent is necessary. You will realize that old methods were not right. And this discovery may bring life-long benefits both to you and yours. Present this coupon to any dealer named this week. Cut it out now.

Some Chest-Nuts

A man was walking down the street one day when he met an old friend.

"Hallon, Bill," he said, "can you lend me a quarter, old sport?"

"Very sorry," replied the other. "I haven't a quarter but I've got a dime."

"Never mind," said Jim, "lend me that and owe me fifteen cents."

The tramp shambled after the smartly dressed man carrying a prosperous-looking bag.

"Give us a couple of pennies, please," he pleaded. "Just somethin' to get some bread. Think wot it is ter be friendless, despised, and hated by all—"

"Shut up, you fool!" said the man with the bag. "I'm a tax collector!"

A lady was interviewing a servant.

"You must understand, we are strict teetotalers here," she said. "I hope that will not stop you from taking the situation."

"Lor' bless you, ma'am," said Mary Ann, "it ain't the first time as I've been in a reformed drunkard's family, not by a long way."

She was engaged on the spot.

A four-year-old who was taken to kindergarten for the first time was allowed to slide down the chute in the playground. Finally the teacher called to him to join the other children in a game.

"Oh, I want to slide down here," the youngster protested.

The teacher adjusted her most sympathetic tone to say, "But we are going to do something else now."

"Oh, I don't mind," said the magnanimous baby, returning to his slide.

An enterprising salesman was trying to persuade a farmer to buy a bicycle. The farmer was in town for the day and had determined to see everything.

"I'd rather spend my money on a cow," said he proudly. "But think what a fool you'd look like riding about on a cow."

"Not half such a fool as I'd look trying to milk a bicycle," answered the farmer.

"SCANDAL" POPULAR PLAY OF SEASON; THERE'S A REASON

Picture good looking women, well dressed men, a society atmosphere with little prickley thrills—some of them bordering on the risque—a charming boudoir scene, studio of a biase artist and a hunting lodge of a good looking man. All of these little by paths from the straight and narrow path combine into giving a wealthy, care-free and irrepressible American girl the excitement she craves.

It all happens at The Wichita Theater this week in Cosmo Hamilton's comedy success "Scandal." Mr. Lewis, Miss Worth, and each member of the company are seen to good advantage and they have been playing to capacity business all week. "Scandal" will continue for the balance of the week with a bargain matinee on Saturday.

"MADAME X."

For the fifth week of the Stock season starting next Monday The Gene Lewis-Olga Worth Company will offer the wonderful drama of Mother love "Madame X". Miss Olga Worth will be seen in the role of Madame X. She considers this her very best part. The play created a sensation when produced abroad and met with instant success when brought to this country. No Stock season is complete without a week of this famous play.

A complete scenic production is being built and the play will be produced in a complete manner. Thanksgiving matinee all seats will be reserved.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Coffee futures were very quiet today, but prices ruled higher on continued support of the December position and special cables reporting an advance in Santos. The opening was 2 to 4 points higher and sales ranged from 5 to 17 points above last night's closing with December selling at 8.59 and March 8.20. The close was a shade off from the best, but 5 to 13 points net higher. Sales were reported of 10,000 bags. December 8.54; January 8.40; March 8.12; May 8.00; July 7.90; September 7.80.

Spot coffee dull: Rio 7's 8 5-8; Santos 4's 11 3-4 to 12 1-4.

CHICAGO PRODUCE.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Butter lower; creamery extras 44c. Eggs unchanged; receipts 3,130 cases.

Poultry alive lower; fowls 13@20c; springs 17c; turkeys 35c.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Cotton goods were quiet today with print cloths and sheetings ceasing further. Yarns were dull and irregular while worsted yarns were quiet, with a slightly easing trend. Spring lines of hosiery were on a lower basis of 15 per cent advance over fall prices on cotton goods, and are based on silk goods. Buyers were lower.

Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Continued ease of money, signs of pronounced improvement in industrial conditions and the strength of British exchange were potent factors in today's active, broad and generally higher stock market, sales approximately 1,000,000 shares.

Call loans opened at 4½ per cent for the first time in nearly a month and that quotation again was reduced to 4 per cent in private negotiations, slight concessions also being made for accommodations extending into the coming year.

Oils of the domestic type, especially the Standard oil group, featured the trading at extreme gains of 2 to over 10 points. Royal Dutch was the one striking exception, showing heaviness on reports that dividends are to be paid in stock instead of cash.

Equipments, steels, coppers, shippings and an unusual number of specialties participated in the advance at substantial gains and rails of all descriptions added variably to their recent gains.

Frequent realizing sales were without market effect, a strong tone ruling the close. Sterling exchange crossed 400 for the first time in nearly six months, representing a gain of about six cents to the pound from the week's low. French, Italian, Belgian and Dutch bills also were irregularly higher and German marks displayed more stability.

Appreciable gains were made by liberty issues. Total bond sales, par values, $17,750,000.

Livestock

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 16.—A few hundred steers and cows were sent over the scales at a very seasonable hour today, but the general market was rather slow, after the first early buying, and the trade was late in closing. Prices held steady on most classes of cattle, however. Demand for calves was again decidedly poor and packers made no effort to trade until late. Outside buying took over a few cars at steady prices. Receipts amounted to 3,000 head of cattle and 3,000 calves.

Hogs sold steady to 10 cents higher, most of the run of 1,500 head failing to show any advance, however. A few choice light hogs brought 7.50 and a couple of cars were cleared at 7.35 and 7.50. Local packers stopped at 7.25. Bulk sales ranged from 7.00@7.30.

Pigs found a ready outlet on a steady basis, several deals being made at 7.50.

Draggy trading featured the sheep trade, but lambs sold early at steady prices. Receipts amounted to 1,200 head: Quotations:

Cattle—Beeves 3.00@5.75; stockers 3.00@4.50; cows 2.00@4.00; canners 1.25@2.00; heifers 3.00@5.00; yearlings 3.00@6.00; bulls 1.50@2.75; calves 2.00@5.50.

Hogs — Light 7.25@7.35; medium 7.00@7.25; mixed 6.50@7.00; common 6.00@6.50; heavy 6.75@7.00; rough 6.00@6.50; pigs 7.25@7.50; stags 5.00@5.50.

Sheep—Lambs 7.00@8.50; yearlings 5.00@6.00; wethers 4.00@5.00; ewes 3.25@4.25; culls 1.00@2.00; goats 1.00@2.00; stock sheep 2.50@3.50; stocker lambs 3.00@6.00.

Sheep 5,000; sheep slow and weak; native lambs 9.00; western 9.10; feeding lambs strong to 15c higher.

Grain

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Decided upturns in the price of wheat took place today owing more or less to a rise in foreign exchange. The finish in wheat, although unsettled, was 2⅛ to 2⅞c net higher, with December 1.06⅜ to 1.06¾ and May 1.09⅜ to 1.09½. Corn gained ¾ to 1⅛@1¼c and oats ⅝ to ¾@⅞c. In provisions the outcome varied from unchanged figures to 15 cents decline.

With sterling exchange quoted above $4.00 for the first time this year wheat had an upward slant throughout the day except about the middle of the session when large selling orders from the east forced a temporary sharp setback and VanCouver received considerable notice.

Active demand from the east together with scantiness of receipts here gave a lift to the corn market. Oats sympathized with the advance of other cereals.

Provisions at first were firm, reflecting the action of hogs and grain, but packers selling of lard brought about something of a reaction.

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—While still more or less nervous, local brokers thought they detected an improved tone in the cotton market here today and reported some broadening demand on the advances. January contracts sold up from 16.22 at the opening to 16.97, or the best price touched since the break of late last week and 53 points net higher. That delivery closed at 16.70, with the general market closing barely steady at a net advance of 20 to 27 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 10 to 25 points owing to Liverpool cables, but almost immediately rallied on local buying and covering. Optimism over the armament conference was encouraged by reports of an improved tone in the stock market and later in the morning buying was promoted by reports that the pink boll worm had been found in one of the larger producing counties of Texas and rumors that private ginning returns pointed to a crop of under 7½ million bales.

The advance met enough realizing and scattered southern selling to cause some irregularity, but reports of an improved spot demand came in during early afternoon and buying broadened with December selling up to 17.12 and March to 1.98, or 47 to 53 points net higher.

The fact that the market has recently shown more resistance to pressure as prices approached the 16 cent level may have accounted for some local buying, but in the late trading, the market met selling by houses with southern and foreign trade connections. The close showed reactions 23 to 27 points from the best.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—Covering of the short interest and buying by trade interests caused a strong cotton market today, prices at one time being 57 to 58 points higher than the last quotation of yesterday, while the close was at net gains of 36 to 38 points, December rose to 16.22 and closed at 16.08. That strength developed after a barely steady opening and losses of 7 to 9 points which carried December off to 15.57.

The early hesitation was caused by a poor Liverpool market and the announcement that Lancashire spinning on American cotton. Shorters had voted half time for spindles coverings were left almost immediately and new buying arose on bullish talk in connection with the progress of the conference at Washington. As the session progressed the demand for covers by shorts grew more urgent. The large export movement, 46,653 bales out of Galveston alone, helped to harden the market around noon and in the afternoon the highest levels of the session were reached following rumors that a large loan was being arranged for Germany. There also were persistent report of a better local spot demand.

Many ginning rumors were heard during the day, the chief of which was that a private bureau had figures indicating production this last period of 500,000 bales. While this was regarded as bearish, it led to little selling.

LIVERPOOL SPOT COTTON.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 16.—Cotton spot incresed demand; prices easy. Good middling 11.22; fully middling 10.82; middling 10.42; low middling 9.12; good ordinary 7.37; ordinary 6.62. Sales 6,000 bales, including 5,000 American.

COTTON SEED OIL.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Cottonseed oil was higher on buying by the south and short covering in anticipation of a bullish showing in the census report and in sympathy with the advance in cotton. Closing bids were off slightly from top, but 6 to 12 points net higher. Sales 22,600 barrels. Prime crude 6.55 bid; prime summer yellow spot 7.90@8.30; December 8.15; March 8.56 and May 8.75, all bid.

Conquering the World.

"The college graduate," said President Hibben, of Princeton, at a tea, "sets out from college to conquer the world. Yes, he sets out with a great opinion of himself, but the poor fellow soon gets taken down. A college graduate, the day after commencement, swaggered into a bank and asked to see the president. He was told to wait in an anteroom where a small boy was chewing gum.

"'Boy,' he said after a bit, 'do you know if there's an opening in this bank for a college graduate?'

"The boy, chewing grimly, answered: 'Dere will be if dey don't slip de extra five-spot wot I'm askin' for in me next nav envelope'."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

ASKS DAMAGES FROM DENVER

Suit for $30,000 damages was brought in the 30th District court Wednesday against the Fort Worth and Denver railroad by George B. Priddy for injuries alleged to have been sustained in December of 1919 when the plaintiff was a passenger on one of the defendant's train.

According to the plaintiff's petition he was a passenger on a Fort Worth and Denver train from Iowa Park to this city at the time the accident occurred which he alleges resulted in his injuries. The plaintiff alleges that when the train was coming into the local yards it was struck by a switch engine. He alleges that he was standing up in one of the passenger coaches due to its crowded condition, when the collision occurred. The impact he alleges threw him against the seat in such a manner that he sustained serious and permanent injuries.

According to the petition, the plaintiff who was a driller, making $30 a day at the time, has been unable to do any kind of work since and is also affected mentally through his injuries.

Investigator of Russian Relief Methods Recalled

By Associated Press.

RIGA, Nov. 16.—Former Governor Goodrich of Indiana, who went to Russia two months ago as a special investigator for Herbert Hoover, chairman of the American relief administration, has been recalled by cable and asked to return to America and report immediately to Mr. Hoover concerning the latest Russian famine conditions.

Mr. Goodrich arrived at Riga today on his way to England, whence he expects to sail for America on board the Steamship George Washington November 30. He said today the Russian soviet officials everywhere were assisting the relief administration and that what few small obstacles did exist were due to unintentional inefficiency.

Walter Lyman Brown, European director of the relief administration, is due to arrive here from London next Wednesday to confer with Colonel William N. Haskell, the Russian director, who is expected from Moscow Saturday, regarding the problems of extending the scope of the famine relief. After four months of work, the Americans are now actually feeding only about 300,000 children and the winter transport problems promise to increase the difficulty of reaching 1,000,000 hungry children as originally planned.

"Diapepsin" for Bad Stomach, Indigestion

Take "Pape's Diapepsin now! In five minutes your stomach feel fine. Dont bother what upset your stomach or which portion of the food did the damage. If your stomach is sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; you belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food—just take a little Papes Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear. If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless antacid is Papes Diapepsin, which costs only sixty cents for a large case at drug stores.—Adv.

NOTICE OF SHERIFF'S SALE.
STATE OF TEXAS,
COUNTY OF WICHITA.
IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF WICHITA COUNTY, FOR THE 78th JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF TEXAS.
AMERICAN DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION PLAINTIFF VS. W. A. McCULLOUGH, ET AL, DEFENDANTS.

WHEREAS, by virtue of an execution issued out of the 78th District Court of Wichita County, Texas, on a judgment rendered in said Court on the 7th day of October, 1921, in favor of American Development Corporation, and against G. W. Lyles No. 11377-B on the docket of said Court, I did on the 2nd day of November, 1921 at three o'clock p. m., levy upon the following described property situated in the County of Wichita, State of Texas, and belonging to the said G. W. Lyles:

The oil and gas lease and all oil and gas wells and all equipment and improvements thereon to all of lots No.'s 1, 2 and 3 of the Lyons-Klienman Subdivision, Tract A of Block 98, Red River Valley Lands, Subdivision, Wichita County, Texas, and on the 6th day of December, A. D., 1921, being the first Tuesday of said month between the hours of ten o'clock a. m. and four o'clock p. m. at the Court House door of said County, I will offer for sale and sell at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, all the right, title and interest of the said G. W. Lyles in and to said property.

Dated at Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 8th day of November, A. D., 1921.

FRED K. SMITH, Sheriff, Wichita County, Texas.
By H. C. DAKAN.
(SEAL.)

THE STATE OF TEXAS.
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita County, Texas—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon W. R. Shankle and J. R. White, by making publication of this citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the Honorable 30th District Court of Wichita County, to be holden at the Courthouse thereof in the city of Wichita Falls, on the third Monday in December, A. D. 1921, the same being the 19th day of December, A. D. 1921, then and there to answer an amended petition filed in said Court on the 29th day of October, A. D. 1921 in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 10802-A wherein, W. L. Schachner and C. F. Carew are Plaintiffs and H. C. Roberts, M. M. Ferrell and Theo. Hildebrand are Defendants, and said petition alleging, that on or about the 10th day of May, 1921, plaintiffs as trustees for Texlouana Producing & Refining Company, were legally seized and possessed of an oil and gas lease and the oil and gas being produced from the following described tracts of land situated in Wichita County, Texas, holding and claiming the said leasehold estates, and the said oil, gas and mineral right therein, to-wit: The oil and gas and mineral leasehold estates in and to and covering the South 20 acres of block No. 12 of the R. N. Ferguson Sub-division of the J. T. Lewis survey in Wichita County, Texas.

Also the oil, gas and mineral rights and leasehold estates in and to and covering Block No. 6, Knight's sub-division of the North ½ of Block No. 72 of the R. R. V. lands in Wichita Co., Texas, and as shown by the plat of said Knight's Subdivision.

Also the oil, gas, mineral rights and leasehold estates covering the west 2½ acres of the east 10 acres, and the east 2½ acres of the west 5 acres of the east 10 acres, of the south 3 acres of the south 40 acres of block 88 of the R. R. V. Lands in Wichita County, Texas.

That on the day and year aforesaid, defendants unlawfully entered upon said leasehold estates and premises, and ejected plaintiffs therefrom, and unlawfully withhold from them the said trustees and the said Texlouana Producing & Refining Co., the possession thereof, to their damages in the sum of $10,000.

Plaintiffs further allege that defendants, in order to cloud plaintiff's title to said property are claiming that plaintiffs are indebted to them for work and labor rendered by defendant to the Texlouana Producing & Refining Co., and have filed and caused to be filed and recorded on the deed records of Wichita Co., Texas, what purports to be Labor's Lien upon and against the property hereinbefore described, but that indebtedness on the part of defendants against plaintiffs, and said labor lien filed against plaintiff's property, are false and fictitious. Also that said leasehold estates were and are now producing oil; that the defendants while in the employment of plaintiffs on said leasehold estates during the months of April, May and June, 1920, illegally and unlawfully converted from said leasehold estate oil to the value of $3,000; that the defendants on or about said date did also illegally and unlawfully take into their possession one certain Essex automobile owned by plaintiffs of the reasonable market value of $2000, and converted the same to their use and benefit.

WHEREFORE plaintiffs prays judgment of the court against defendants for the title and possession of the hereinbefore described leasehold estates, that plaintiffs pray for judgment cancelling all claims and liens made by defendants for and against said leasehold estates, and judgment for $5000 and such other and further relief, special and general, etc.

Herein Fail Not, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ, with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND and the Seal of said Court at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 31st day of October, A. D. 1921.

A. F. KERR.
Clerk District Court, Wichita Co., Texas.

44—LEGAL NOTICES

December, A. D. 1921, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 20th day of July, 1921, in a suit numbered on the Docket of said Court, No. 11201, wherein Continental Supply Company is plaintiff and W. R. Shankle and J. R. White, composing the firm of Shankle & White, are defendants; said petition alleging a debt in the sum of $1,077.50, due and owing by defendants to plaintiff, for goods, wares, material and oil well supplies sold and delivered by plaintiff to defendants at their special instance and request; that plaintiff on January 31, 1921, it made and filed the affadivit required by law fixing its materialman's lien upon the lease, leasehold estate and oil and gas rights, and personal property and equipment upon the East half of the North 40 acres of Lot 1, Munger Subdivision of Block 24 of the Kemp Subdivision of the Wichita Valley Lands in Wichita County, Texas; that plaintiff's debt is just, long past due and unpaid, and that defendants have failed and refused and still fail and refuse to pay the same or any part thereof; wherefore, plaintiff prays for citation by publication to said defendants, and that upon a hearing hereof it have judgment against defendants for its debt, lawful interest thereon, costs of suit, a foreclosure of its materialman's lien and an order of sale thereof directing that the proceeds of such sale be applied to plaintiff's judgment.

Herein fail not, but have before said court on the said first day of the next term thereof, this write, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said Court in the City of Wichita Falls, this the 9th day of November, A. D., 1921.

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to summon H. C. Roberts and Theo. Hildebrand by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 30th District Court of Wichita County, to be holden at the Court House thereof in Wichita Falls, on the third Monday in December, A. D. 1921, the same being the 19th day of December A. D. 1921, then and there to answer an amended petition filed in said Court on the 29th day of October, A. D. 1921 in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 10802-A wherein, W. L. Schachner and C. F. Carew are Plaintiffs and H. C. Roberts, M. M. Ferrell and Theo. Hildebrand are Defendants, and said petition alleging, that on or about the 10th day of May, 1921, plaintiffs as trustees for Texlouana Producing & Refining Company, were legally seized and possessed of an oil and gas lease and the oil and gas being produced from the following described tracts of land situated in Wichita County, Texas, holding and claiming the said leasehold estates, and the said oil, gas and mineral right therein, to-wit: The oil and gas and mineral leasehold estates in and to and covering the South 20 acres of block No. 12 of the R. N. Ferguson Sub-division of the J. T. Lewis survey in Wichita County, Texas.

Also the oil, gas and mineral rights and leasehold estates in and to and covering Block No. 6, Knight's sub-division of the North ½ of Block No. 72 of the R. R. V. lands in Wichita Co., Texas, and as shown by the plat of said Knight's Subdivision.

Also the oil, gas, mineral rights and leasehold estates covering the west 2½ acres of the east 10 acres, and the east 2½ acres of the west 5 acres of the east 10 acres, of the south 3 acres of the south 40 acres of block 88 of the R. R. V. Lands in Wichita County, Texas.

That on the day and year aforesaid, defendants unlawfully entered upon said leasehold estates and premises, and ejected plaintiffs therefrom, and unlawfully withhold from them the said trustees and the said Texlouana Producing & Refining Co., the possession thereof, to their damages in the sum of $10,000.

Plaintiffs further allege that defendants, in order to cloud plaintiff's title to said property are claiming that plaintiffs are indebted to them for work and labor rendered by defendant to the Texlouana Producing & Refining Co., and have filed and caused to be filed and recorded on the deed records of Wichita Co., Texas, what purports to be Labor's Lien upon and against the property hereinbefore described, but that indebtedness on the part of defendants against plaintiffs, and said labor lien filed against plaintiff's property, are false and fictitious. Also that said leasehold estates were and are now producing oil; that the defendants while in the employment of plaintiffs on said leasehold estates during the months of April, May and June, 1920, illegally and unlawfully converted from said leasehold estate oil to the value of $3,000; that the defendants on or about said date did also illegally and unlawfully take into their possession one certain Essex automobile owned by plaintiffs of the reasonable market value of $2000, and converted the same to their use and benefit.

WHEREFORE plaintiffs prays judgment of the court against defendants for the title and possession of the hereinbefore described leasehold estates, that plaintiffs pray for judgment cancelling all claims and liens made by defendants for and against said leasehold estates, and judgment for $5000 and such other and further relief, special and general, etc.

Herein Fail Not, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ, with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND and the Seal of said Court at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 31st day of October, A. D. 1921.

FEDERATION OPENS MEET AT FT. WORTH

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 16.—The annual convention of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs formally opened here this morning with sessions being held in Fort Worth's newest hotel. More than two hundred delegates were in attendance when Mrs. Florence C. Floore of Cleburne called the 1921 convention to order.

Reports of various committee chairmen occupied the morning session, while addresses by Dr. Comer Woodward of Southern Methodist University, praising the club women for the work being done in the rural communities, and Dr. J. L. Henderson of Texas University, appealing to the women to investigate, understand and improve the University's faculty, featured the afternoon program.

Governor Pat M. Neff, addressed the convention tonight on "How women can better the state of Texas." The governor dealt with the prison reform problem and also declared the present boys' training school at Gatesville is a disgrace to Texas. He cited several hair-raising incidents, of which he learned during the probe of the reform school which was caused by the death of an inmate, supposedly at the hands of a member of the faculty.

Mayor E. R. Cockrell of Fort Worth delivered the address of welcome.

FEAR FALL MAY PROVE FATAL TO BURK MAN

Special to the Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Nov. 16.—Suffering from a fractured skull, Rue Huffman, about 22 years of age, is in an unconscious condition at a local hospital with but slight chance for recovery, following a fall Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock from near the top of a derrick, on the Laning and Moninger lease near here.

According to the report of workmen, Huffman was near the top of the derrick when spudding in of the well was commenced. A part of the machinery was in some manner torn loose from its moorings and crashed to the earth, causing the fall of Huffman and tearing out a number of braces and supports along the side of the derrick.

The injured man was unconscious when reached and according to attending physicians is not expected to regain consciousness before Thursday.

Mr. Huffman has been living here for over two years with his widowed mother and is well known.

TORNADO DOES DAMAGE NEAR MARSHALL

By Associated Press.

MARSHALL, Texas, Nov. 16.—Property damage estimated at $10,000 was caused by a tornado which struck about five miles east of here early tonight. So far as could be learned, no one was injured.

The roof was blown off the home of Sam Long, farmer, and the dwelling of J. Hennery is believed to have been demolished. Hennery's store was also damaged, while a short distance down the road, a building which housed a store was blown down and another dwelling slightly damaged.

Trees, telephone and telegraph wires were blown down by the gale which was accompanied by a downpour of rain and hail.

CHILDRESS HI WORKING HARD ON LINE PLAY

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Nov. 16.—Unless Childress fans succeed in obtaining a special train for the game with Electra at Wichita Falls Saturday, they will probably be outnumbered by the Electra rooters; but there are a number of the regulars that will follow the team to any point in the state, and the whole citizenship is pulling for state championship honors.

The team underwent a heavy afternoon work yesterday, but had a very light scrimmage. The chief work is being done to strengthen the line to help the fast backfield gain through the opposition. Coley is going to be relied on by the locals to charge through the Electra line, as are Newberry, Dowis and Fields around the ends.

Vaught will doubtless make gains with their interference in spite of his light weight. He has been showing up better all the time at quarterback, and is expected to rank with the best of generals in the championship games of Texas.

Although Childress has had reasonably good luck with the forward pass in some of the games, it is likely that straight football will be relied on chiefly in the Electra game, because few men have been able to stop them with very great success to date.

Local fans are expecting Electra to put up the hardest game Childress has experienced, but will depend on the little bunch of huskies to bring home the bacon.

CLUBMEN HEAR IRRIGATION HIGH LIGHTS

Discussion of the physical and legal sides of the irrigation project, with particular stress being laid on the immensity of the project, the first by R. A. Thompson, chief engineer to the irrigation board, and the latter by Judge J. T. Montgomery of the legal counsel, featured the Wednesday luncheon of the Wichita club.

Mr. Thompson repeated many of the figures showing the size of the project which he gave in an interview to the Record News soon after taking charge of the project. In dealing with the storage and diversion dam and the size of the reservoirs it would create, he used, as before, Lake Wichita as an object of comparison, showing that the capacity of the diversion dam would be three times that of the present lake, and that of the storage reservoir thirty-three, the combined capacities being thirty-six times that of the present source of water supply for Wichita Falls and truck farm irrigation.

In addition to providing a means of city water supply for a city of 250,000 through a period of more extended drouth than has ever been in the history of this section, he showed that it would store sufficient water to irrigate between 100,000 and 150,000 acres of intensively cultivated land during the same period.

Possibilities of extension of the system in the future were also touched upon, with the Brazos river valley as a possible source of supply for the water. Judge Montgomery spoke of the bar to irrigation work in the principles of the Common Law, the basis of law in our country, and inherited from England where irrigation was unknown and unnecessary. He spoke of the long fight necessary by Mr. Kemp before the adoption of the constitutional amendment which divested land owners of the riparian rights to flood waters in order that they could be stored for irrigation.

He spoke of the irrigation bonds, and the fact that they constitute a lien on all property in this district. The body of lands to be irrigated lie on the outside and farmers will pay a certain flat amount per acre for the water—an amount which has not yet been definitely determined, he said, but which will be considerably cheaper than any irrigation project in the United States.

Rio Grande Valley Land
For Sale or Trade

—The greatest opportunity ever offered you to obtain a home in the magic Rio Grande Valley of Texas; is presented in the following propositions:
—We are authorized to close out Six Thousand Acres of fine irrigated land near Mercedes, San Bernito and Brownsville, Texas, before May 1, 1922, in order to wind up the colonization business of a large land company which has been operating in the valley for almost ten years and are unable to obtain any more large tracts.
—You have probably been thinking you would go on the excursions and see this new country but have been disappointed in raising money or other matters. Now this is probably the last call as excursion days to Rio Grande Valley are about over.
—If you are now unable to pay cash and notes for land you may exchange at its actual cash value in North Texas and Southern Oklahoma (only) for the cash payment:
—PRODUCTION OIL ROYALTIES
—STOCKS OF MERCHANDISE
—CITY BUSINESS OR RESIDENCE PROPERTY
—FARMS AND RANCHES
—It has been predicted by many able men that Point Isabell will become the greatest deep water harbor on the Gulf of Mexico. This harbor is now absolutely assured and will soon be in operation.
—We will leave Fort Worth, Saturday evening, November 19th and every two weeks thereafter. Cost only thirty dollars for entire expense from Fort Worth and back there.
—See for yourself the Greatest Vegetable and Fruit Crop ever grown in the valley.
—See the beauty spot of Texas

WRANGLE IN SENATE OVER CONTEST VOTE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The senate took up the report of the privileges and elections committee today on the contest of Henry Ford against the seating of Truman H. Newberry, republican, Michigan who was his opponent in the 1918 election, and although the debate was at times heated and a night session was forced, little progress was made toward a vote.

The debate was opened by Chairman Spencer of the privileges and elections committee, who supported the report of the majority calling for the seating of Senator Newberry and in general defended the senator in his 1918 campaign. In concluding his address, Senator Spencer suggested that Senator Pomerene, democrat, Ohio, representing the minority views of the committee, proceed with a statement, but the latter declined.

As the night session wore on through quorum calls and a cross fire of political debate, Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, who previously had charged the republicans with attempting to force through the resolution for seating Mr. Newberry when the armament conference was occupying the public attention, took the floor and began to read the majority and minority committee reports. The documents total some 2,000 pages and other democrats said they were ready to take up the reading in relays if necessary.

Senator Spencer and other republicans denied that they were attempting to force the resolution through, as Mr. Harrison had charged, and said they were ready to vote. But Mr. Harrison and Senators Walsh of Montana and Swanson of Virginia then began an attack in which they accused the republicans of seeking a night session in revenge for the refusal through the objection of Senator Watson, democrat, Georgia, earlier in the day for a unanimous consent agreement to vote on the resolution December 28.

Senator Spencer in the course of his address said he admitted that the money spent in the Newberry campaign was too much but he contended that the Michigan senator had violated no law.

Senator Stanley, democrat, Kentucky, interjected to say that the campaign "was a race between a tin-lizzie and a golden chariot."

Here Is a Story Without Kick, Punch or Climax; That Is Coming Later

This is a story without a "kick;" a story that lacks punch, thrill, climax. For the kick, the punch, the thrill and the climax are component parts of the event which the story will feebly attempt to describe before it happens—wherefore, it is plain to see that the kick, the punch, the thrill and the climax will not be in this story, but in the EVENT.

And that event is the arrival in Wichita Falls on Sunday, November 27, of the Sells-Floto circus, plus the subsequent events that will create in this city a three-day festival of music, entertainment and fun for local citizens, hundreds of circus men and women and hundreds of visitors from cities and towns in this adjacent territory. The Chamber of Commerce, the Retail Merchants' association and officials of the Sells-Floto circus have taken advantage of an opportunity to effect an "entertainment consolidation" for the circus folk and citizens of Northwest Texas. Here's the how and the why:

Wichita Falls will be the last city of the United States in which the Sells-Floto circus will show in 1921. Following the evening performance of Monday, November 28, the hundreds of circus employes will receive their final pay checks of the season. A payroll close to $50,000 will be settled, and every clown, every acrobat, every equestrienne, every performer of any kind, every animal trainer and stake pounder and rope hauler and cook and bottle washer will then be free to do as he or she durn pleases. The first thing each will do will be to head for some Wichita Falls hotel, and flop for a long, delicious rest in a regular bed—after eight months of rolling over American soil in circus cars. And the next day each will be up and headed early for various Wichita Falls stores to buy clothing—after eight months of traveling in overalls and ginghams and working in costume.

So there was the opportunity. The circus was due to arrive on Sunday, and its hundreds of discharged employes would not be ready to leave the city until Wednesday. They had to eat, they had to sleep, they had to spend much of their money here—why not stage a three-day entertainment for them, for the citizens of Wichita Falls and for the hundreds of neighbors in the surrounding trade territory? The merchants were willing to cut prices and make bargains to the circus folk, willing also to offer the same bargains to visitors and local citizens; the circus was willing to donate its band, and many of its stellar performers; prominent citizens were willing to boost and help with the entertainment and the advertising—therefore, WE'RE OFF!!

On Sunday, November 27, a big free concert by the circus band will be given in Bellevue park. The Sells-Floto circus has a whale of a band; a big band, and a good band—and the concert will consist of a musical program that for the last two years at least Wichita Falls citizens have not had the privilege even of paying to hear. That will open the "ball" on Sunday.

On Monday, November 28, the circus will give its two final performances of the season, a matinee and an evening show—with all the stirring sights and sounds, the thrills and the laughter that are part and parcel of "the second largest show on earth." It will be the Chicago Coliseum show intact, the big city performance, that will be here. The tents, the menagerie, the giants, the high-hatted announcer's words, they're all bigger this year; and so's the parade that will wind the downtown streets.

But Tuesday is being saved for the most fun of all; for the grand wind-up. The circus men and women will be free, each out for a good time, willing to make friends, to spend money, to entertain and to be entertained. A mammoth free street fair will be staged downtown. Many of the biggest acts of the Sells-Floto circus will be "pulled off" on the business streets— and many feature numbers also that lend themselves to all outdoors but which cannot be used under the big tents. And meantime every store in the city will be offering bargains in pins and pencils, dresses and draperies, coats and collars, hats and handkerchiefs, trousers and trinkets, stockings and stovepipes, knives and knickerbockers, overcoats and oleomargerine, etc., etc., ad infinitum.

Everybody and his wife and sweetheart will be roaming 'round having a gorgeous, glorious, glittering, gallumptious time. It will be a large morning, noon and night; a big drunk without intoxicants—and then, laydees and gen'men, there won't be no more circus until 1922.

This is the story without the kick, also minus the punch, the thrill and the climax. The kick will come November 27, the punch and the thrill will be felt November 28, and the climax will fall upon us on November 29. Selah, selah.

BURLINGTON PARTY HERE ON FRIDAY

Hale Holden, president of the C. B. & Q., Colorado and Southern and Fort Worth and Denver, and his staff and F. E. Clarity, vice-president and general manager of the Fort Worth and Denver, making up the presidents special is expected to arrive here some time Friday from points on the North Denver. The train will leave Texline Thursday afternoon, according to reports at the local railroad office, but it is not known just how long the party expects to stay in this city.

SCOUTS TO BE GUESTS OF THEATER

All of the Wichita Falls boy scouts will be the guests of Manager Page of the Empress theater Friday afternoon on the occasion of the showing of the feature picture, William Duncan in "Where Men Are Men." The scouts will meet at 4 o'clock at the M. E. Church, south, at the corner of Tenth and Lamar and after having their picture taken will march to the theater. The boy scout band will lead the parade. Scout Executive Taylor urges all members to come out in uniform.

ARE YOU SATISFIED WITH YOUR SUCCESS?

Have You the Necessary Energy and Vitality to Win Out Today? Will You Have It Tomorrow?

The Most Influential Private Citizen of England Says the Greatest Aid to SUCCESS Is Good Normal Health.

There never was a more truthful fact spoken. When health fails, most everything else fails. When you feel yourself getting worn-out, run-down, and weak, you know that you can't work and think right. Everything is against you. Before you can attain full success and happiness, you must do something to bring back your vitality—your ability to think straight and to act quick.

What causes so much ill health? Usually it is due to the inability of the system to throw off waste products. The body is continually using up the foods we eat to give strength to our system. There is always a certain amount of waste that ordinarily should be carried off through the pores of the skin, through the kidneys, and through the alimentary canal. When this is not done, waste products get in the blood, and as a consequence you may suffer with many complaints.

To throw off the waste products, you must use a blood purifier and system builder to clean out the poisons. During the past 50 years, S. S. S. has restored thousands of people to normal health, by relieving them of the waste products which cause impoverished blood and its allied troubles—skin disorders, rheumatism and a lowered vitality.

RECLAIMING SWAMP AND ARID LANDS

(From the Waco Times-Herald)

We are printing on this page some remarks of Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald anent the matter of reclaiming the swamp and semi-arid lands of Texas.

This is a matter that should enlist the attention of us all, fellow-citizens.

Every acre of semi-arid land reclaimed means that much less of danger to the lowlands.

Take the Brazos River Valley, much of it subject to overflow; water impounded in the Panhandle is a benefit conferred on the entire Brazos River Valley.

Right in this connection, fellow-citizens, let's dam the Bosque River and thereby have a dream of ours come true.

SUIT ALLEGES ROOMER ALIENATED WIFE'S AFFECTIONS: ASKS $30,000

Alleging that his wife had left their home on October 8 in company with the defendant, C. E. McCrorry of Electra brought suit in the 89th district court Wednesday against Marian Inman formerly of that place for $30,000 for the alleged alienation of his wife's affection.

According to the plaintiff's petition they had been married several years with one child when in 1919 the defendant came to room at their home. Infidelity on the part of the wife at the time she left their home with the defendant is alleged in the petition.
