THIRTY SEATS NEEDED FOR MAJORITY IN PARLIAMENT

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, May 31.—The labor party at 5:40 p. m. had captured 278 seats in the house of commons, scoring a lead of 42 seats over the conservatives but needing 30 of the 47 seats still unreported to obtain a clear majority.

At 5:40 p. m. the count was as follows: Labor 278; conservatives 236; liberals 47; others 72.

With 615 seats in the commons: 308 were necessary for a clear majority.

Ed R. Kelsey of Cleveland, Ohio, told the convention that at least a score of agencies in the United States, working for the salvation of crippled children, owed their inception to Rotary's devotion to its motto, "Service." "Since we have started this work," Mr. Kelsey said, "we have learned that there is no longer any such thing as a crippled child, if the mind is not crippled."

Austin reported bettered conditions with the river dropping to three and a half feet below flood levels. Highways serving San Antonio were open with the exception of the one to Houston which was flooded by the San Marcos at Gonzales. The Austin, Brenham, Navasota and Waller roads were open to that San Antonio traffic could reach Houston by way of Austin.

HOUSTON HAS WORST FLOOD IN HISTORY

WATER FAMINE FEARED AS PLANT IS DOWN; LOSS TO BE HIGH

(By Associated Press)
HOUSTON, May 31.—Houston today was in the grip of what was described as the worst flood in the city's history and paradoxically was threatened with a water famine. The central water plant was paralyzed by the raging waters of Buffalo Bayou, hundreds of homes in many sections of the city were standing in water or swept downstream, many business buildings were inundated, and streams still were rising.

Property damage will run into the millions before the waters subside, it was estimated. The crest was not expected until tonight.

At noon the entire business section of Houston, with the exception of that supplied by private wells, was practically without water.

Mayor Walter E. Montiel asked owners of private wells to turn their water into the city mains.

At one of the six substations left to furnish the supply after the main plant had been stopped the machinery was breaking fast due to the heavy strain on the plant.

The health department issued instructions to turn to Page 14, Column 3, Please

WOMAN'S PLEA IS INSANITY

AGED ROOMING-HOUSE MATRON WILL TRY OLD DEFENSE

(By Associated Press)
MACON, Ga., May 31.—Insanity will be the defense of Mrs. J. C. Powers, 71 year old Macon rooming house proprietor, who Earl Manchester, 21, confessed induced him to kill James Parks, 25 year old boarder at the woman's house.

Attorneys for the woman announced the insanity plans just as police learned she had been engaged in liquor transactions as well as insurance plots.

In addition to complicity in the murder of Parks, whom police said she lured to her rooming house by a newspaper advertisement for "a young man who desired a home," officers said they had unearthed other various instances where she had insured young men roomers in her home.

Manchester confessed he shot Parks to death at the insistence of Mrs. Powers, who he said promised him $1,000 after she had collected $14,000 on a 17,000 double indemnity policy she held on Parks' life.

THE TINYMITES

The raft still bobbed, then took a dip which made the little Tynmites slip. They all splashed in the water while the Goofygoe flew high. It was a very thrilling scene. Said Scouty, "Oee, those fish were mean. We all are soaking wet and it will take us long to dry."

Then Clowny said, "At least I'm cheered to know the fish have disappeared. Twas funny how they ducked our raft, and then swam out of sight. Let's climb back on the raft real quick, or we might all get very sick. The water seems to be real cold. In fact, it is a fright."

The Goofygoe still flew around and then he shouted, "I am bound right back there to you Tynmites. I'll pull you from the sea. Hang to the raft until I come, and I will prove I'm not so dumb. Whenever you need rescuing, you can depend on me."

And then his rescue stunt was done. He pulled them all out, one by one, and sat them down upon the raft. The sun was shining bright. The big bird said, "Now don't you cry, 'cause shortly you will all be dry. The water you have soaked up will be steamed out by the sun."

So, all the bunch spread out to dry, and Coppy wailed, "Oh me, oh me!"

MYSTERIOUS MEXICAN IN CANADA BELIEVED TO BE FORMER GENERAL GONZALO ESCOBAR, REBEL LEADER

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 31. (Canadian Press)—In the most luxurious suite of the Hotel Georgia, surrounded by the most expensive flowers money could buy, a man believed to have been General J. Gonzalo Escobar, fleeing leader of the Mexican revolution, lived for three days, May 15, 16 and 17, it was learned today.

The man left the hotel May 17, accompanied by a family of four and his secretary, believed to have been Pedro Alvarez. It was reported they left by automobile.

During the last week four Mexicans have arrived in Vancouver and although all denied connection with their government, rumors persisted they are secret service men on the trail of the former revolutionary leader.

The arrival of the mysterious Mexican was preceded by a visit from his secretary, reserved the best suite available. By arrangement with the secretary, the rooms occupied by the Mexican visitor and his family were flooded with flowers. The party gave the impression of having plenty of money.

When the secretary registered for himself and his principal he gave no address. The clerk asked for his address and the reply was "Oh, the last place we were in was Seattle." The clerk then filled in that address.

While the group was in Vancouver a party of Mexicans inquired for information about British Columbia roads at the automobile club. They did not indicate which direction they proposed to travel.

FARM RELIEF MEASURE IS FACING A SHOWDOWN

CONFEREES' MEETINGS TO GET INTEREST

CONFERENCE RENEWAL SEEN AS SURRENDER OF SENATE GROUP

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON

Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, May 31.—Congressional interest over the week-end is focused on the farm relief measure of the senate and house.

The renewal of conferences was regarded as forecasting a surrender of the senate group on the debate, but that point had not been reached, and Senator McNary, republican, chairman of the conference, hoped to go ahead with an original plan of taking up other differences between the senate and house on farm relief before settling a big dispute.

Issue Is Forced.
The edict of President Hoover at farm relief must be enacted so law before a congressional session is arranged for has forced the issue. House leaders are standing the presidential opposition to the measure. It appears that the senate next week will be called upon to make a choice between eliminating the controversial provision or voting in session to fight it out in the house.

The bill of Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, to place commission merchants dealing in perishable products under federal supervision, is the business before the senate today. So many members made plans for the week-end carrying on out of the city, however, that hop was held of making headway before Monday.

Showdown Next Week.
Next week is expected to bring a showdown on the congressional session. By that time something definite is expected from the farm relief conference; a vote will be had on the Borah bill; and a vote is in prospect on the motion of Senator McNary, republican, North Dakota, to carry out President Hoover's recommendation for repeal of the national origins immigration quota.

The house is expected to carry in the week on the census apportionment measure passed Tuesday by the senate. At Mr. Hoover also has given that before any recess is taken, he expects the senate to make definite date for a vote in the house on the tariff bill. Subsequent some sharp differences of view as to vacation plans have been disclosed.

Jones Bolts Program.
Senator Jones of Washington, assistant leader, has bolted the program of Senator Watson of Indiana, the party leader, for the all-summer recess. Senator Jones says the tariff bill ought to be enacted into law before any recess is taken.

Senator Smoot, Utah, veteran chairman of the finance committee, however, has answered that the committee will require two months to get the bill ready for the senate. So, the hope of Senator Jones to force a continuous session and action on the tariff measure by September seems to have been severely jolted. Senator Watson, meanwhile, is going ahead working out an agreement for a vote in November in the senate on the tariff.

The river continued to rise, and it was feared more than the 6,000 acres now flooded would be covered.

Richmond and Rosenberg were packed with refugees from the lowland along the Brazos river as the crest moved down from Bryan and Navasota. Prison officials prepared to move convicts to high ground from the Retrieve, Ramsey and Imperial farms as flood warnings were broadcast in the lowland country of Fort Bend county.

Neches Rising.
The Neches reached a new high for the season yesterday at Beaumont and was rising at the rate of 2 foot an hour. The crest and fall were expected today. The Old Spanish Trail, yesterday reported closed, was open. Creeks in the vicinity of Beaumont fell.

Traffic over a bridge at Fletcher Tuesday was still blocked beyond Little Cypress creek. It is blocked on one side by the washout of the Hickory Creek dump, and on the other by the high water of Village creek.

Conditions were reported slightly improved at Woodville with the road now open nine miles north of town.

Sand bag embankments were thrown up at Voth to protect a lumber yard, and some parts of that town were flooded. The tomato crop in Jasper county was reported destroyed.

OKLAHOMA LOWLANDS ARE INUNDED

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 31 (AP).—Lowlands in many sections of Oklahoma were under water today following Memorial Day downpours. Heavy damage was done to crops. In many cases replanted after the last high water. There was little other damage, however, and danger of serious floods appeared small. Reports from various parts of the state today indicated swollen rivers and creeks were receding, but at the same time came reports of additional rains.

NECHES RIVER RISING HIGHER TODAY

BEAUMONT, May 31 (AP).—The Neches river here was still rising today, inundating more land and threatening to cut off highway traffic.

The Old Spanish Trail between Beaumont and Orange, the only highway out of Beaumont that had remained free of flood waters, was under water for three-quarters of a mile. Traffic, however, was continuing, but it was predicted the road would be closed by tonight should the stream continue to rise.

Sand bags were used this morning to keep the water from the Pennsylvania shipyard's plant, located on an island in the Neches river at the north edge of Beaumont.

to today this year, as compared to 1928, according to City Fire Marshal L. H. Simpson, shows a remarkable improvement and a condition that is very pleasing.

"The cost per call, as figured from the total losses obtaining because of disastrous fires," says Mr. Simpson, "showed last year to have been $470, while that for this year shows only $120."

"Last year, out of 119 calls made, the total loss was $56,000, approximately, while out of a total of 90 calls made this year, the loss has been only $11,718."

The typical library assistant receives $1,597 yearly, says the American Library association.

SCHOOL MEN BACK AFTER INSPECTIONS

LOCAL OFFICIALS VISIT LEADING CITIES OF
SOUTHWEST AREA

With their heads literally packed with ideas bearing upon the erection of a proposed new high school building for Lubbock, N. L. Peters, local architect, and A. C. Jackson, secretary of the local school board, have returned from an inspection of school buildings which took them to Tulsa and Oklahoma City as well as a number of cities in Texas.

Following an inspection of buildings in Abilene, Fort Worth, Dallas, and Cleburne, M. H. Duncan, superintendent of Lubbock schools, W. Atkins, C. E. Maedgen, S. C. Wilcox, all members of the school board, accompanied by W. H. Fowler, architect, returned last week.

Robertson, another school board member, who accompanied the committee to Dallas and remained in that city several days for the Regional International convention, accompanied Messrs. Peters and Jackson on the return.

Visit Oklahoma Cities. Making additional inspections, Messrs. Peters and Jackson visited Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

Action will be taken probably as the kind of high school building that will be proposed for this city at the next meeting of the school board, members announced. An election will be called shortly after final plans are agreed upon, it was indicated.

Impressions of the committee members indicate that Woodrow Wilson high school, Dallas, impressed the Lubbock men as a structure best suited to the needs of the city.

Central high school, Tulsa, a $3,000,000 building, was inspected by Messrs. Jackson and Peters. "In point of beauty and size the Tulsa high school building excels any school structure I've ever seen," said Mr. Jackson. "Of course, the expense of such a building is beyond anything the Lubbock board can plan."

PROHIBITION FORCES OPEN CAMPAIGN IN FRANCE BUT WETS ARE IN SADDLE

By MINOTT SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer

PARIS, May 31.—Prohibitionists and suffragists, both decided minority elements in the political life of France, are using every subterfuge to bring their issues before the public. During the recent municipal elections such popular figures of history and romance as Colonel Lindbergh and Joan of Arc were used in appeals.

The prohibitionists picked on Lindbergh. They printed placards and posted them all over France reading:

"I never drink alcoholic liquor. Signed, Charles Lindbergh."

But French humor never fails. On a placard posted at the Trocadero an assumedly fervid "wet" wrote on the placard in letters equally as large:

"I never fly in airplanes. Signed, Dupont."

The suffragists picked on Joan of Arc. On the Sunday of the elections there appeared on the pedestal of her statue in the Place des Pyramides a large sign reading:

"To Jeanne d'Arc, who saved France but who would be considered unworthy to vote today for municipal councillors."

Among those who tire of struggling in the byways of Paris it has always been considered fashionable, once the mind was made up, to commit suicide off a bridge of the Seine. The Pont du Carrousel, near the Louvre, is one of the most popular bridges chosen for this grim business. And of those who have chosen it, one of the most imaginative was Charles Garonne.

This young man was so determined to make a good job of his suicide that he took along a lantern to help him to see his way into the future life. He climbed down under the bridge at night and lit the lantern so that he could see what he was doing. He hung the lantern on a button of his coat, while he used his hands to tie the rope to a beam and around his neck. But he slipped up when he failed to blow out the light. Passersby were attracted by the strange light dangling under the bridge and they rescued Garonne just in time to save his life.

Failure to act wisely on a strange request for guidance by the police of Strasbourg resulted in the murder of a woman there. The police commissioner, M. Brunet, received a telephone call at 9 o'clock at night by a man who said:

"My name is Kreutner. I am night watchman at the garage on the Place de la Bourse. My wife is threatening me with a sabre. May I kill her?"

The police commissioner knew the couple and he tried to use diplomacy. He replied:

"You are crazy, Kreutner. Go and take a walk and you will get over it. Tomorrow I will send a policeman to tell your wife to behave herself."

A few minutes later the telephone rang again and Kreutner said:

"Never mind the policeman tomorrow. I have done it."

VAUGHAN IS POSTAL HEAD

LOCAL MAN NAMED TO POST AT BROWNFIELD
MEETING THURSDAY

(Special To The Journal)

BROWNFIELD, May 31.—The Plains Postal Workers association, of the Eighteenth congressional district, in convention assembled here yesterday, elected Postmaster John L. Vaughan, of Lubbock, as president for the ensuing year. Tahoka was selected as the next place.

Foster Carroll, of Slaton, was elected as vice-president, and Cleve R. Austin, of Lamessa, as secretary. Attendance during the day was placed at 150.

The rural letter carriers' division of the association elected L. N. Nicholas, of O'Donnell, as president of that division. He was formerly a vice president of the association.

Speakers during the all-day program urged the betterment of service and methods, the aim being to make to the postal service of the Plains what the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is to West Texas.

The Brownfield Chamber of Commerce were hosts for luncheon to the visitors, about 75 4-H farm club boys of the county being in direct charge of preparing and serving the food.

Among the Lubbock delegation, rang again and Kreutner said:

"Never mind the policeman tomorrow. I have done it."

other than Mr. Vaughan, were J. R. Green, superintendent of mails; G. A. Cantrell, rural carrier; John R. Potts, rural carrier; W. C. Barnett, clerk, and E. D. Farris, city carrier. Afternoon session of the convention opened at 1:30 o'clock. W. L. Underwood, of Post, state treasurer of the association, made a talk on the subject of "How to Improve and Better the Service."

Short talks were made by D. D. Langford, Lockney; C. Shirley, Floydada; A. B. Clements, Kirkland; Grady Boyd, Wilson; W. E. Suddeth, Ahoka, and M. L. Garrett, Littlefield.

Morgan Copeland, of this city, delivered the address of welcome at the opening of the morning session, and W. C. Foote, of Petersburg, responded. A short address was given by Paul Childers, of Lubbock, who also conducted a question box.

Edgar R. (Red) Enoch, 22, climbed out to the left wing of the plane as it circled above the track, and jumped off.

The parachute did not open, and Enoch's body landed in a pasture.

BANKER DROWNS NEAR PIONEER

CISCO, May 31 (AP)—George B. Scott, cashier of First State Bank, Cisco Plains, drowned Thursday afternoon in the Phillips Petroleum company's lake near Pioneer when a small rowboat in which he and Roy Mock of Fort Worth were fishing capsized during a rainstorm.

The two occupants were attempting to pull ashore from a duck blind near the center of the lake when a strong wind tipped the boat and threw them into water about 20 feet deep.

All efforts to locate the body have been futile.

Schalk Claims No-Hit Witness Title

Schalk, former manager of the White Sox and present coach of the Giants, probably has seen more no-hit games than any man in baseball.

Schalk has caught five of them and seen two others from the dugout.

He was behind the plate when nine innings of hitless ball were pitched by Rex Russell, Jim Scott, Joe Benz, Eddie Crockett and Charlie Robertson. He saw Ted Lyons turn the trick in 1926 and this year watched Carl Hubbell stifle the Pirates off without a hit.

Scott, recalled Schalk, did not permit a hit for nine innings, but was beaten, 1 to 0 in the tenth.

GOLF NO GAME FOR WEAKLING

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (P) May 31.—(P)—Don't let this wear you out, but 18 holes of golf take the energy needed to lift the player five times to the top of the world's highest skyscraper.

This is the dictum of Dr. Andy Hall, state health director, who warns people with weak hearts that the little white pill is not medicine for them.

"People not in condition should not play golf without medical advice," says Dr. Hall.

SHREVEPORT'S SENSATIONAL BATTING WINS

CUBS WOBBLING WHILE LOUISIANANS GO UP; CATS IN FOURTH

By GAYLE TALBOT Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

A dashing team from Louisiana was in full possession of the Texas League pinnacles today, at the climax of a great drive that started a month ago. Art Philbin's Shreveport Sports, six of whom are hitting over .300, rode into the leadership yesterday behind the southpaw slams of Wilbur Cooper and Oscar Estrada.

By noosing out Dallas, 5 to 4, in a great 12-inning first game and battling them to a 2-2 deadlock in the nightcap while the wobbling Waco Cubs were getting an even break with Beaumont, the Sports gained a half-game margin over the team that had led the pack since the barrier dropped in April.

Shreveport's position today justifies their almost unanimous selection as the "dark horse" of the league. They have climbed into the van despite the loss of two of their most valuable outfielders, McClanahan and Hutson, who went out early in the season with injuries.

Waco can attribute its loss of the lead to the spell which the revived Exporters have cast over it of late. The cellar occupants brought the Cubs down within reach of the Sports with their double victory last Sunday at Beaumont and then threw open the gate to the Louisiana entry by scrapping the Prattmen on even terms yesterday. Earl Caldwell turned the Shippers back, 11 to 9 in the opener, although he had to have help from Thurman to squelch a visitor stamped in the ninth. Earl Hanson limited the Cubs to two hits in the nightcap to earn a hardline 2 to 1 decision.

Cats In Fourth
Fort Worth tightened its grip on fourth place by sweeping its double bill with the Spudders, 5 to 1 and 7 to 0.

A great ninth inning rally in which they scored all of their runs off Paddy Shea gave the Houston Buffs a 5 to 1 victory over San Antonio in their first go-round, but Walter Glaser came back in the second to allow the champions only four safeties and lick them, 4 to 1.

County Lake To Open On Monday

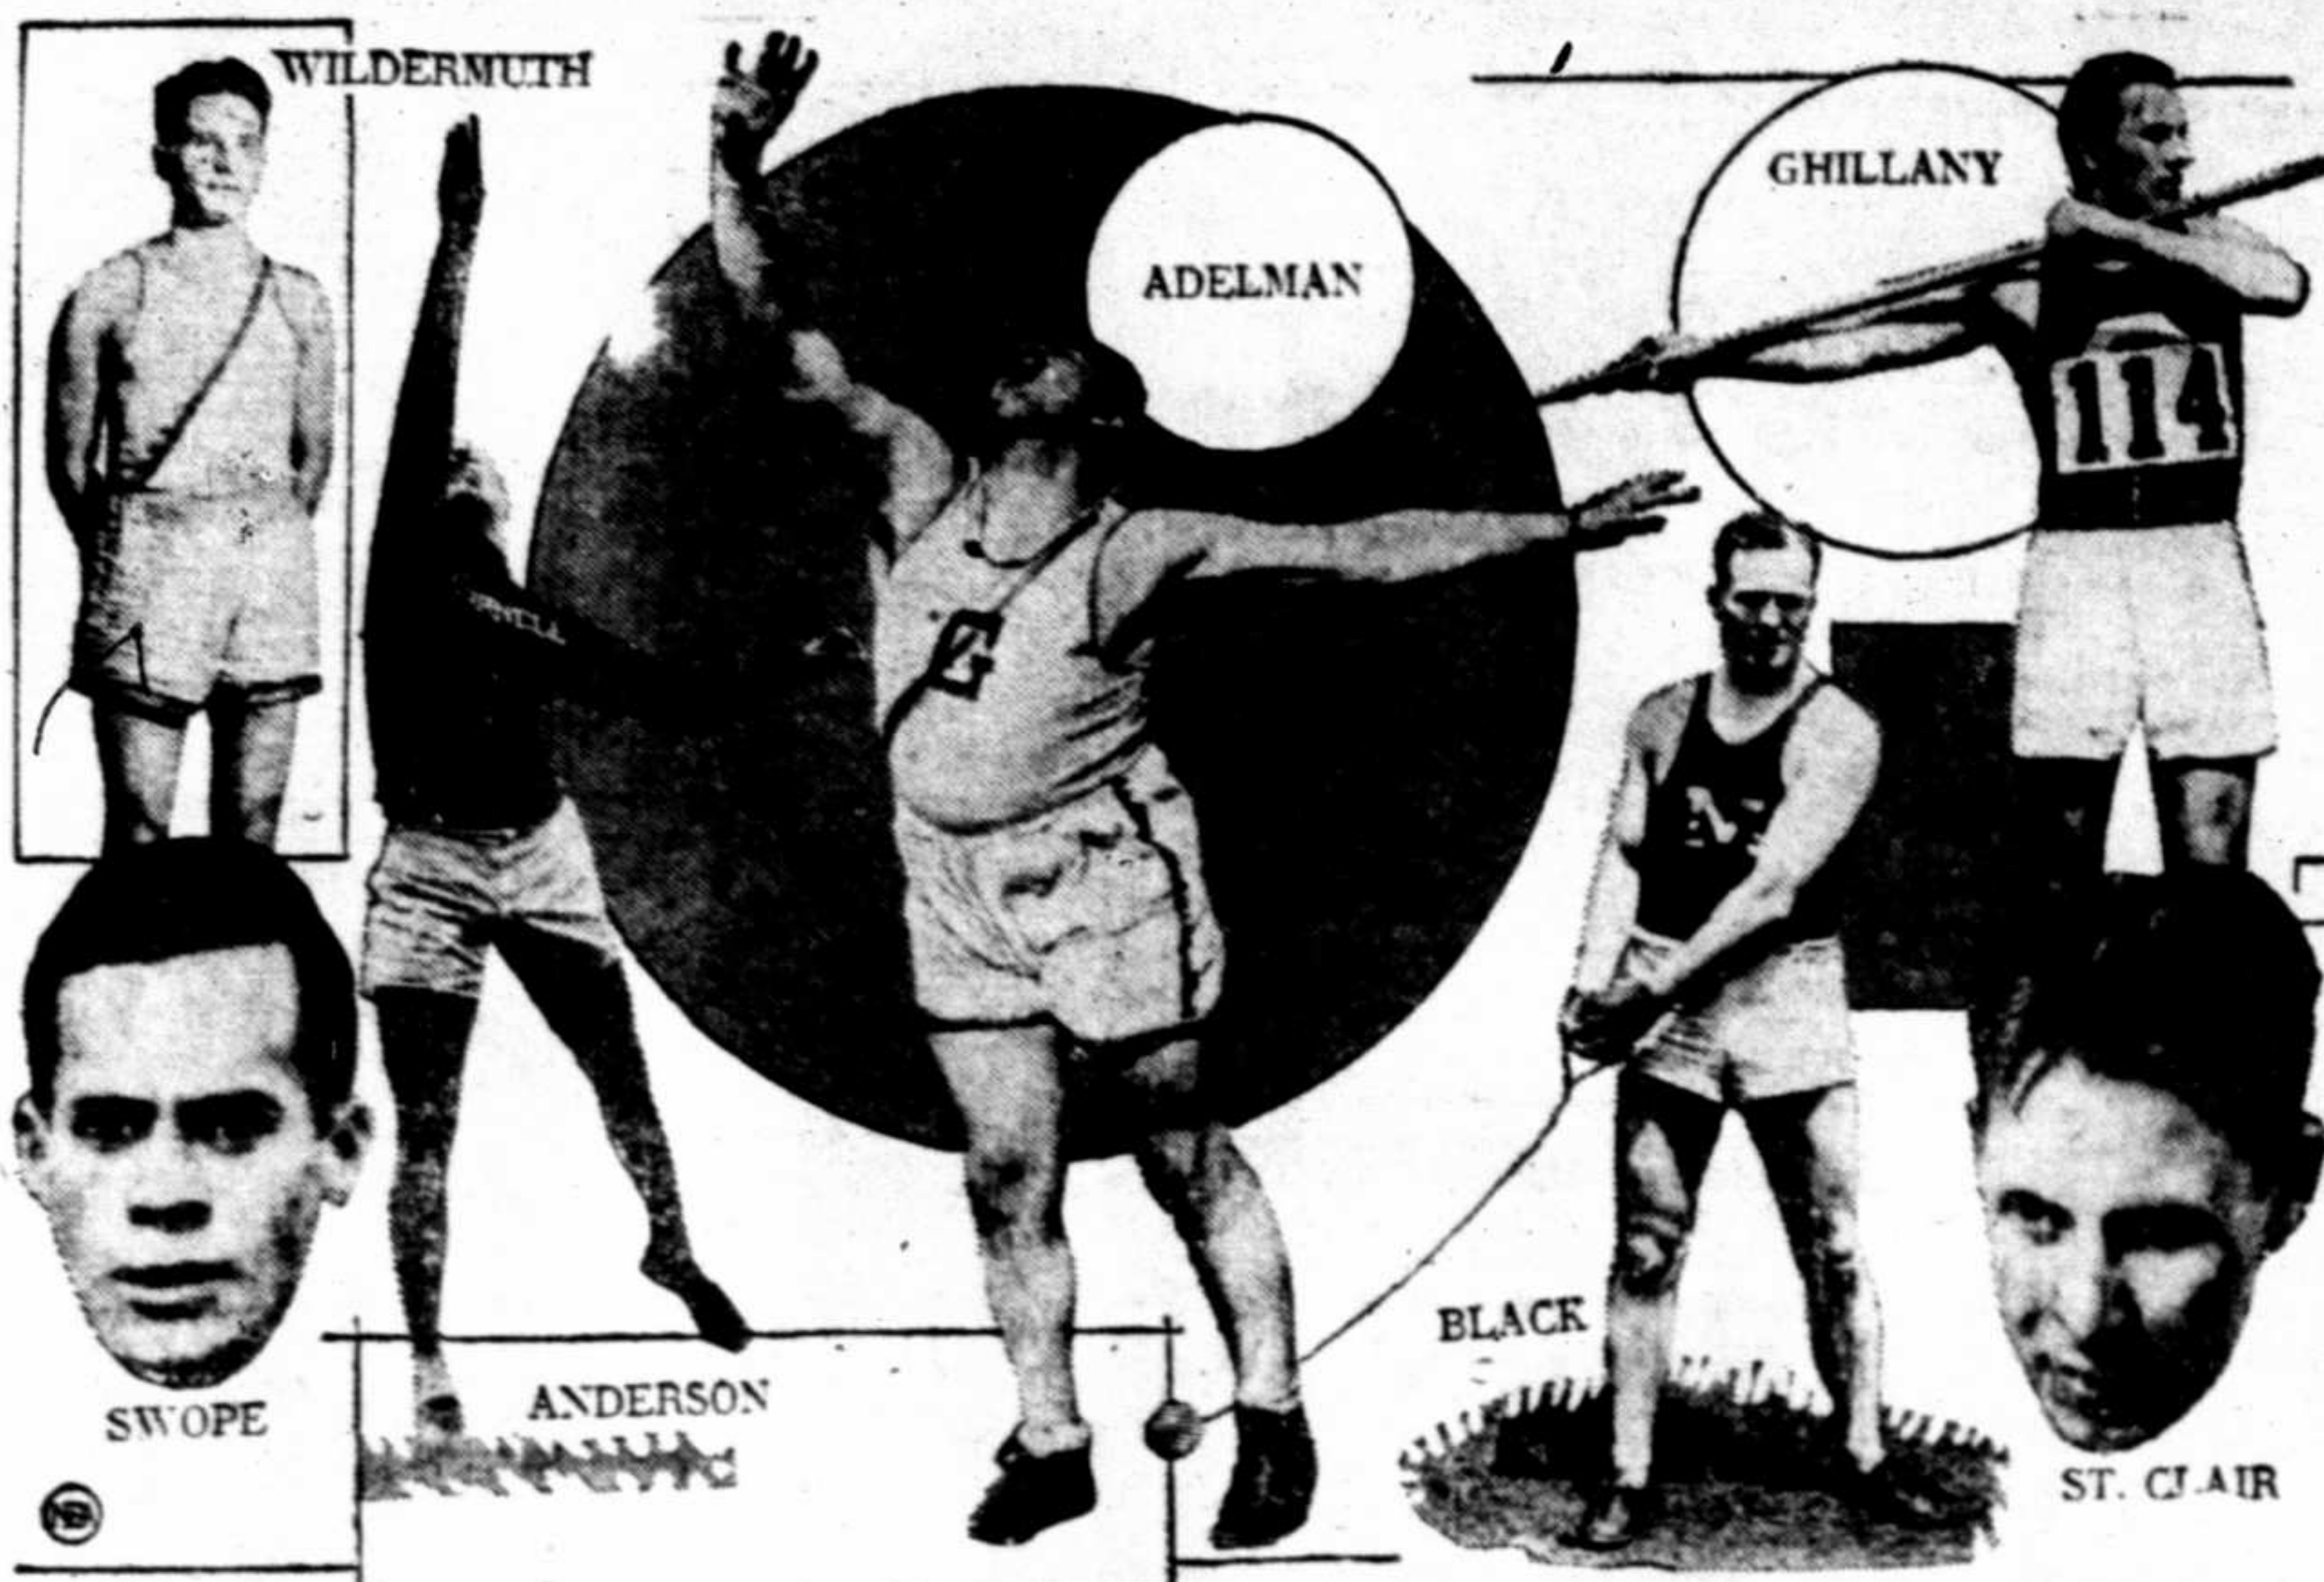

Beginning next Monday, County Commissioner N. A. Payne announced, the public will be permitted to fish in the county lake, one mile east of town.

A fee of 25 cents will be required of all people more than 12 years of age, those younger than 12 being charged 10 cents. Mr. Payne states. Each person fishing at the lake will be required to register and no one can use more than one hook and line.

Bass measuring less than 11 inches in length and crappies less than 7 inches, must be thrown back into the lake when caught. There will be no fishing permitted at night nor on Sunday.

A cable message can go around the world in eight minutes. But of course gossip is much cheaper.

TRACK TITLE WON'T BE SO EASY FOR STANFORD THIS YEAR

Even though Stanford's track squad is favored to win the eastern intercollegiate again this season, there is a possibility that rival athletes may "cut in" for points in the events in which Stanford seems strongest and thus throw the meet which opens today into a mad scramble for team honors. Here are seven athletes from eastern colleges who may affect the scoring: Adelman of Georgetown, Anderson of Cornell and Black of Maine, weights; Wildernuth of Georgetown, sprints; Ghillany of Columbia, javelin; Swope of Dartmouth and St. Clair of Syracuse, middle distances.

PIRATES AND A' WINNERS

MOST OF REMAINING CLUBS JUST HOLDING BAG AT PRESENT

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Baseball advances from early season toward the outposts of mid-season with the Athletics and the Pirates holding the lead and most of the fourteen remaining entries clutching nothing but the bag.

The most hopeful expression which now may be made of clubs down in the running is that any contender owning a percentage of 500 can possibly rally sharply enough to win in the stretch. This statement just does include the Giants, the Yankees and the Tigers.

Margin Increased
The Athletics seized the opportunity presented in the decoration day double-headers to increase their margin over the Yankees to seven and one-half games. Bob Grove and Old Jack Quinn performed in front of Boston spectators, leading the A's to victory by scores of 9 to 2 and 10 to 3 as the Seniors trimmed the Yankees twice. Washington chased Herb Pennock from the box to take the opener 6 to 5, and hurled a ninth-round rally at Henry Johnson, Wiley Moore and Tom Zachary to east out ahead by 4 to 3 in the nightcap.

On the Eastern front pitchers were being manhandled by the Browns and the Tigers, who divided their double bill to the profit of Connie Mack. Detroit took the morning game by 14 to 6, but the St. Louis contenders came back in the afternoon to win by 13 to 2.

Two Teams Swap
The remaining action in the western half of the Barnard circuit saw Cleveland and Chicago swap victories. The Indians winning the first game by 6 to 5 and the White Sox the second by 2 to 2.

The Pirates retained the National League lead by turning back the Cubs, 4 to 0, in the afternoon after the Bruins had romped off with the opener, 5 to 1.

The lead of the Pirates is only in percentage points as the Cardinals entered into a virtual tie for the top by defeating the Reds, 5 to 1 and 8 to 2, in an afternoon bargain. John J. McGraw won his first double victory of the season when the Giants rallied to defeat the Robins by 8 to 7 in the first game and slammed the ball all over the lot to take the second, 15 to 6.

The Braves turned on the Phillies, 8 to 7, in the morning clash at Baker Bowl, but the home team resumed its spell in the afternoon to win by 11 to 5.

BOSTON WOMAN WALKS
PARIS, May 31.—(P)—After walking 421-2 miles in eight hours and thirty minutes Miss Eleanor Sears of Boston felt "fine" today.

The famed Boston sportswoman and pedestrian started from Fontainebleau at 5:32 a. m. yesterday and arrived at the Ritz hotel at 1:37 p. m., finishing fresh and chipper as ever.

FOUR NATIONAL CHAMPIONS WILL PROTECT CROWNS AT ANNUAL MEET OPENING IN PHILADELPHIA TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—(P)—Four champions will try to protect their crowns at the national intercollegiate track and field championships at Philadelphia, May 31 and June 1.

One of them, Eric Krenz, Stanford giant with the strength of a Hercules, is a strong favorite to retain his crown.

Stanford's strongest opposition is expected to come from Harvard, New York university, Yale, Penn. Cornell, Georgetown and Penn. State.

Injury has spoiled the chance of another sprint "double" for Charley Borah, the Southern California flash, but he is entered in the 220 anyway. The favorites in the 100 are Daley of Holy Cross, Wildernuth of Georgetown and "Hec" Dyer, Stanford sophomore.

The East-West struggle may be a record breaker in the pole vault, with Fred Sturdy of Yale and Vic Ulickard of Pittsburgh pitted against Jack Williams of Southern California and Ward Edmonds of Stanford. All have bettered 13-6 and Sturdy has cleared 14 feet.

University of California, three-time team champion in 1921-22-23, has no hopes of figuring in the main battle but Walter Christie's two javelin aces, Captain Curtice and Churchill, figure to have this event all to themselves.

RAY WALLER EFFECTIVE FOR LEADERS; C-P'S MEET HARDWARE

After getting off to a big start in the first inning, the Santa Fe nine of the City League fell before the onslaught of the Auto-Barbers Thursday evening and was the victim of the second triumph in two days registered by the league leaders. The final score was 9 to 5 with the Auto-Barbers on top.

Manage Hargrove's Railroaders started off with a bang in the first round, scoring four runs before the side could be retired, but the Auto-Barbers came back by plugging in the second and third with five runs to take the lead. Santa Fe tied the count in the fifth at 5 all.

Crew Comes Back
The Chisum crew came back in their half of the fifth with another counter and again took the lead. In the sixth, the Railroaders filled the bases with one out and seemed headed for a rousing rally, but a double play executed by Marshall at shortstop staved off the spree.

Lefty Bagby, who started on the mound for the Santa Fe, was relieved by President in the later innings. Ray Waller hurled effective baseball in his first City League appearance.

Rigney's triple and R. Wilson's sacrifice fly drove in three more runs for the Auto-Barbers on the seventh. Two men were aboard when Rigney cracked out his drive against the fence. He came home on Wilson's sacrifice.

MONEY TO BE DIVIDED FOR MEN TONIGHT

PURSE OF $101,500 TO BE SPLIT AMONG THE 33 RACE STARTERS

(By Associated Press)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 31.—Approximately $40,000 in cash and several trophies will be given Ray Keesch, Philadelphia, here tonight for having won the seventeenth annual 500 mile automobile race yesterday at the speedway.

The presentation will be made at a banquet for the drivers who will divide there a purse of $101,500. Each of the 33 pilots who started the long grind will receive some money.

Shocked at Tragedy
Used as they are to sudden death within their ranks, the racers were shocked at the accident which resulted in the passing of Bill Spence of Los Angeles. Spence died from a fractured skull a short time after his car had turned over early in the contest.

Louis Meyer, High Gate, Calif., 1928 American driving champion, who finished second, will be given checks for about $19,000. Jimmy Gleason of Philadelphia, who was third, will be rewarded with about $7,000.

Others who will get large shares of the money are Carl Marchese, Kansas City, who was fourth; Speed Gardner, Philadelphia, fifth; Fred Winnall, Philadelphia, sixth; Louis Chiron, Paris, France, seventh; Billy Arnold, Chicago, eighth; Cliff Berger, Los Angeles, ninth and Fred Frame, who was tenth.

Lite Drives Lap Prizes
Deacon Litz, Dubois, Pa., who was in the lead for 125 miles but wrecked his car in a wild dash off the track and did not finish, won $4,900 in lap prizes and a few hundred dollars of $10,000 consolation fund.

Lou Moore, whose car broke down five miles from the finish while he was two laps ahead of all others for second place and $10,000 won $2,300 in lap money. He finished second last year. Moore's breakdown yesterday was one of the greatest bits of misfortune he had had in his racing career.

In addition to winning a fortune addition to winning a fortune by his clever driving, Keesch gathered 1,000 points toward the 1929 driving championship. Keesch leaped from obscurity to fame a little more than a year ago when he established a world's record speed of 207 miles an hour on a mile straight-away course.

In his first City League appearance, Rigney's triple and R. Wilson's sacrifice fly drove in three more runs for the Auto-Barbers on the seventh. Two men were aboard when Rigney cracked out his drive against the fence. He came home on Wilson's sacrifice.

HAGEN LATE

American Is Hour Late And Has To Wait Also

MOOR PARK, England, May 31.—(P)—British public opinion forced Walter Hagen to keep his golf date with Archie Compston, English pro, but all the king's horses and all the king's men couldn't get "The Hag" out of bed in time to reach Moor Park at 10:30 a. m. today when the 36-hole match was to have begun.

Hagen kept Compston and a gallery of 1,500 waiting for nearly an hour before he turned up at the course.

Compston also showed he could be temperamental for he waited until Hagen arrived before going to the clubhouse to get his golf bags.

Thus for ten minutes Hagen, himself an hour late, stood at the first tee before his British opponent was ready for the start of the match.

MOOR PARK, England, May 31.—(P)—Archie Compston, noted British professional, was two up on Walter Hagen, American star, at the end of the first round of their 36-hole match play which opened here today.

BUNION BOYS IN ARIZONA TODAY

LORDSBURG, N. M., May 31.—The union boys in the Pyle country race cross another state line today in a 38-mile run to Douglas, Ariz.

Herbert Hedeman, 35-year-old runner from Australia, set the pace for his youthful competitors in yesterday's 64-mile lap from Lordsburg and finished first in 8:37:37. He advanced to eighth place in elapsed time by his victory, depositing Harry Abramowitz of New York. Pe Gavuzi, England, leader in elapsed time, retained his margin of 21 minutes and 10 seconds by tying Johnny Salo, Passaic, N. J., for second place.

Dickinson Delivers Fish Over Section

More than 160,000 bass and crappies have been distributed over the section during the past week, it was announced yesterday by Deputy Warden M. W. Dickinson, who just returned from Muleshoe.

Coming from the state hatchery at Dundee, the fish were placed fishing points from Muleshoe, Black Water Draw and Two Dr. Lake near Fort. This will assure good supply of fish for the current season, Mr. Dickinson stated.

Fishermen are warned to observe the state fish and game laws which went into effect on May 1 when the season opened.

The county lake will open on Monday, it was announced by deputy game warden.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
After working three years as private secretary to ATTORNEY JOHN CURTIS MORGAN, NAN CARROLL discovers she is in love with Morgan and believes that is a matter of honor for her to resign. Her resignation is temporarily postponed, however, because she believes Morgan is going to need a faithful secretary during his defense of BERT CRAWFORD, a supposed friend, who is indicted for embezzlement of funds accumulated in a suspicious stock selling scheme.
Nan distrusts Crawford and IRIS MORGAN, beautiful wife of the Morgan. Morgan has implicit faith in Crawford, but Nan is suspicious of him by means of a listening-in device overhears a conversation between Crawford and Alice Belmont, board operator. Alice Belmont, which takes place in Morgan's office. With a bribe, he "fixes" this device so she will forget that he fixed with the cashier of the bank approving the check young ROY BLAND cashed before his disappearance.
Nan quickly types off the notes from the conversation she overheard and, after a conference with the unsuspecting Morgan, she is delighted with Alice Belmont's testimony, she confronts Crawford with the typed evidence of his perjury. Crawford asks her what her price is and she tells him that she will tell Morgan the truth when he gives up, Iris Morgan at last agrees and Nan keeps her secret. Morgan defends Crawford as ably that every prediction for an acquittal. Iris Morgan comes to the court room every day. Nan is beginning to wonder if she was wrong in suspecting Crawford of the embezzlement when Alice Belmont places in her hands absolute proof of his guilt.

CHAPTER XII
It was Saturday morning, the last day of the Crawford trial. Nan Carroll was at her desk before nine, although she had worked with Morgan until nearly twelve the night before, helping him to prepare his speech to the jury. Now, at half past nine, the last of the notes which he would require in making his summation and his plea for Crawford's acquittal were ready for him.
His tall, thin shadow loomed against the glass panel of the door, and as always at his approach Nan's heart leaped with painful joy. She straightened her tired shoulders, put on the cheerful, friendly grin that he liked. "Good morning, Mr. Morgan."
Morgan grinned back at her, his eyes sparkling with anticipated triumph. "I still live in hope of getting your tongue twisted on me," he said. "Good morning, Nan." "Morning," she said. "It's nearly eleven now. He's here. He's here!" Morgan knew he was lying. "Heard him make such a washy speech before a jury as made yesterday. But I'm not ready to relax on my speech. Every day!"
Nan smiled as she remembered the notes she had typed for him. "The jury's going to give a treat. I'm glad the poor fellows will have a chance to get away by Christmas, though. You don't think they'll take long to reach a verdict, do you?"
"I doubt if the jury will be out in an hour," Morgan assured her. "Why don't you come along to the court house with me? Iris is going to be there. This is Saturday before Christmas, you know. No use working today."
"I've got one or two things to do," she told him, "but I'll be as glad to come as soon as I've finished. I'll probably be there before you've opened."

It was 10 o'clock—just time for court to convene—when Nan closed her desk. The court house was only a few blocks away, she wouldn't miss much of his speech—she wouldn't. "Merry Christmas, Nan! Look at the little Santa Claus that has come to see you! Hurry, love! Mother hasn't a minute to waste. Face bright, Morgan, her lovely face brilliant with winky color into the office. "Oh! Nan wheeled from the hat rack. "I thought you were at the court house. Mrs. Morgan is just going over myself. Hello, Curtis! Merry Christmas! she said to the child, her voice tender in spite of herself.
"I'm on my way to the court house now," she spoke hurriedly. Then, cajoling, "And I've the most tremendous favor to ask of you, Nan. Curt's new nurse didn't show up today of all days; Estelle is taking the day off to do her Christmas shopping, and the cook positively refused to keep the baby for me. Her insolence is absolutely amazing. Nan, but what can one do? So I told him his sweet Nana would take care of him while Mother goes to hear Daddy spellbind the jury. You will, won't you, Nan? Curt comes bearing treasure, Nan! Merry Christmas and love from the Morgans! Give Nana the package, love, and then give mother a big kiss before she leaves. I'll come for him just as soon as court's adjourned, Nan."
Nan was too angry at first to speak, and Iris took her silence for consent, or pretended to do so. Leaving behind her the mingled odors of Iris was gone. . . . "Wanna typewriter, Nana," a petulant little whine pierced Nan's turbulent rebellion. She had flung herself into her desk chair and had buried her head on her arms.
"No!" Nan gasped, without raising her head. "Be quiet! I'm not going to wait on you all morning!" The child's voice was lifted in a sudden, ear-splitting howl, but Nan resolutely paid no attention to him.

STOCKS HAVE STRONG SALE

NEWS OF REPARATIONS CAUSES RECOVERY; RAILS MOVE UP

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—Strong buying support came into the market over the holiday, and opening prices today displayed a strong undertone. Coppers were heavily bought as a result of the more cheerful news from the Paris reparations conference, inspiration opening 2 3/8 points higher and Amsonda more than a point. Ralls again moved forward under the leadership of Atchison, which showed an initial gain of 3 3/4 points, and New York Central, which opened 1 1/2 points higher. Hudson Motors sank to a new low level for the year.

The market turned irregular soon after the opening when fresh selling developed in the motor, farm equipment and mail order shares. Ralls and Public Utilities continued to show independent strength.

Hudson Motors extended its loss to nearly 2 points. General Motors sank 1 1/2 to a new low at 70 and Nash yielded fractionally to a new low at 83 3/4.

Sears Roebuck dropped 6 points. Case Thrashing 4 and Montgomery Ward yielded 1 to a new low at 103. Wright Aeronautical dropped 6 points to a new low at 111 and International Combustion also touched a new low price.

In the rails, New York Central and Missouri Pacific common extended their initial gains to 2 points each. New Haven moved up 2 and a few others advanced a point or more.

RIVAL WIVES

he would never forgive her. But if she turned it over to Morgan, he would have no recourse but to use it as a day's doing to publish his wife's faithfulness to the world. The thought of Morgan going through the Gethsemane of sensational publicity, as well as through the deeper hell of knowing himself betrayed by wife and friend, nauseated her. But if she destroyed this letter and followed Bert Crawford to be acquitted, the world and Morgan both would soon know that Iris Morgan was an unfaithful wife, for there could be no doubt now that the two—Crawford and Iris—were planning to elope when the trial was over.

But wait! Some doubt perhaps Crawford was a confirmed lady-killer, as Morgan had jokingly called him. Was it possible that he cared no more deeply for Iris than for Alice Belton, that he had merely been "using" his lawyer's wife as he had "used" Alice Belton, the little switch board operator?

But why was she wasting time in debate? John Curtis Morgan had a right to this letter, to the shameful, incriminating information it held, no matter how much his having it might hurt him. And she had no right to withhold it a moment longer. She would rather die than be the messenger that brought it to him, but there was no longer any choice—with honor.

'I HAVE NEVER SEEN IT'S EQUAL,' RUSSELL SAYS

"I Feel Like A Different Person Since Taking Orgatone," Says Amarillo Man

"For several months before I found out about this Orgatone I simply wasn't worth a nickel so far as my health was concerned," said W. H. Russell, a well known employee for the Louis H. Smith tire shop, who lives at 1303 A. Wash. St., Amarillo, the other day.

"I was in a general run-down condition," he continued, "had no appetite and in a few months time had went down in weight from one hundred and fifty pounds to one hundred and thirty-five. I nearly always had a nauseated feeling after eating and my liver was sluggish. I did not rest well at nights and would wake up in the mornings with that tired dull sluggish feeling and would just have to pull myself out of bed. In fact I just felt all worn out and good for nothing most of the time."

"I am just on my third bottle of Orgatone and I never thought of it doing me so much good in so short a time. I can eat anything I want and that sick, nauseated feeling has disappeared. My food seems to digest and I am gaining in weight and strength right along. My stomach is beginning to feel like a new one, my nerves are in better shape than they have been some time and I can do my work without feeling all tired and worn out like I did. I am feeling like a different person already and I never saw the equal of Orgatone, and I am glad to tell others about the medicine that is doing so much for me."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowen's Drug Store under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.

COTTON OPENING IS EASY FRIDAY

NEW ORLEANS, May 31 (AP)—Cotton opened easy at a decline of 5 to 6 points. Initial weakness was in sympathy with a decline in Liverpool, attributed to uncertainty over the election.

Prices continued to ease after the start until July and October traded at 18 1/2 and December 18 5/8, or 12 to 13 points below yesterday's close. At the end of the first hour the market was rather easy and at the low.

Some buying developed but was absorbed on small rallies and the market promptly turned downward again in sympathy with weakness in stocks and grains. July traded off to 18 3/8, October 18 3/8 and December 18 5/8, or 21 to 23 points below yesterday's close. At mid-session the undertone was still easy and prices were at the low.

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—The Cotton market opened steady at an advance of 4 to 11 points, with active months selling 10 to 15 points net higher during early trading and covering and local or commission house buying promoted by reports of rains and firm cables. The advance met realizing and after selling up to 18 1/2 new October reacted to 18 3/8, or within 3 points of yesterday's close. The market was quiet at the end of the first half hour.

The market lost its opening advance later under realizing and liquidation, which appeared to be influenced by weakness in the grain markets and the unsettled tone of the stock market. October declined to 18 1/2 with active months generally selling about 3 to 5 points net lower before the end of the morning. At midday the market was quiet but rather steadier with the active months ruling 2 or 3 points above last Wednesday's closing quotations.

NEW LOW RECORD ON WHEAT FELT

CHICAGO, May 31 (AP)—Wheat values dropped early today to new low record prices, owing to sharp setbacks in price at Winnipeg yesterday, while United States markets were closed. In a general rush of selling, corn, oats and rye today also went under previous bottom levels.

Opening 1 3/4 to 3 5/8 off. Chicago wheat later held near to the initial range. Corn started 1 to 1 1/4 lower, and afterward fluctuated irregularly. Provisions likewise tended downward.

GAVE HER LIFE War Mother Dies As Result of Too Much Heat

CHICAGO, May 31 (AP)—Mrs. Catherine A. Roberts threw all her energy into two "Poppy Days" this week when funds were raised for disabled war veterans. She was thinking of her own son, left an invalid by the war. The oppressive heat failed to keep her from standing on a sun baked street corner, trying to help other ladies whose bodies were wrecked by shells and gas.

Last night another son of Mrs. Roberts returned home to find that his mother had paid dearly for her efforts. She was dead of heat disease.

BAD HEADACHES, NERVOUS, UPSET

Virginia Lady Says She Prevents These Troubles by Taking Black-Draught.

Elliston, Va.—"Sometimes I suffer with bad headaches," says Mrs. I. G. Conner, of this place. "They come on me after a little spell of constipation and nearly drive me crazy."

"I get nervous and upset. My color gets yellow and my skin just as sallow. I begin to suffer with a kind of intestinal indigestion, which makes me sick all over, resulting in one of these fearful headaches. I have to give up and go to bed for several days."

"I have found that if I take Thedford's Black-Draught in time, it will prevent a spell of this kind, but if I neglect it I always suffer for my carelessness. That is why I have grown to think so highly of Black-Draught—it keeps me well."

"We never are without Thedford's Black-Draught. A box of it is always kept in our medicine chest. I give it to the children too, when I find that they are bilious or constipated."

Insist on the genuine Thedford's Black-Draught, in yellow packages, plainly marked for your protection. Sold everywhere.

The Breaks by JEAN NEAL FORD

Illustrations By PAUL KROESSEN

*The Story of an Only Son
Who Followed Too Willingly
In His Father's Footsteps
When Luck Was Against Them*

Paddy slowed to about 30 miles. "Jump, boy, jump." Dazed, the boy obeyed.

THEY had made 54 miles in the last hour and old Paddy was breathing easier. Farther up the line it had been hard going because the Federals were on the lookout for the man who had shot Sam Dickens last month.

They still had 100 miles to do, though, and Paddy didn't feel safe until they got in Jersey, where most of the boys knew him and would let him through.

Without taking his eyes from the road, old Paddy was watching closely the figure of his boy, sleeping there on the seat beside him. Young Pat had dozed about 20 minutes ago, and Paddy didn't have the heart to wake him. Rough on the kid, to get broken in on such a hard run as this!

Old Paddy thought of the boy as the car plunged on through the darkness. A game little devil. "What's good enough for the old man is good enough for me," he had insisted, and off he had come to learn "the trade" with his father, though his mother had begged him not to do it.

He was such a good kid. Nineteen now. He made Paddy feel happy, and his neck got thick. Maybe the boy's mother was right, but old Paddy had been bringing down stuff ever since the fool law was passed, and nothing had ever happened. Oh, sure, everything was all right. The game was safe, now. He was acting like an old woman.

THE boy stirred and sat up. "Where are we?"

"And a hell of a runner you'll make," jeered Paddy, "goin' to sleep on your first haul."

"Aw—"

"Pull out of it, kid. I was only foolin'," said Paddy kindly. "We're only about 90 miles from home and mother, and hittin' on all 12. A lot of extra men out, though. Still lookin' for the guy that shot Sam Dickens. But I guess we're gettin' the breaks."

They kept up a desultory conversation as Paddy guided the car along the glinting ribbon of road. Suddenly he looked into the mirror and said, "Look back, Pat, and see if it's a car I see."

The boy turned and said, "Yeah! Comin' like seven devils."

Paddy groaned. "Listen, kid, it's the Fed's trailin' us. Now I'll slow up when we get to this clump of trees and you jump it."

"Jump it nothin'! What'll you do? I can't let you take it alone."

"Don't go askin' what'll I do. I'll be all right. You get out, or I'll knock your head off. From here you can get home in a day or two."

They were nearing the clump of trees and Paddy slowed to about 30 miles.

"Jump, boy, jump!"

Dazed, the boy obeyed.

Paddy gathered speed and roared down the road. The other car was gaining on him, but if he could keep on for half a mile young Pat could make his getaway. It didn't matter what happened to an old warhorse like him, but he had been a damn fool to let the youngster come out, particularly when he knew things were tightening up and they were after anybody who might know about Sam Dickens.

Paddy prayed. Oh, God, don't let anything happen to him. He's so young. Just a kid. Only 19. Oh, God, don't let anything happen.

THE other car was gradually overhauling him and pushing him to a stop at the side of the road.

"What y' think y' doin'?" shouted one of the men as they got out and covered him. "We've been trailin' you for 30 miles. Didn't think you'd get away, didja?"

"Well, how much y' got?"

"Twenty-eight cases."

"Not bad."

"Yeah, handoff him, Bill. I'll drive to Clayton."

Two of them got in and they started back toward Clayton, talking and spitting amiably out the sides of the car. The third man followed in the Federal car.

Two shots. Paddy froze. The driver looked questioning at the man Bill. "Maybe we better wait for Charlie and Joe. I guess they got the other one."

Paddy sat between them. Still trying to pray. How'd it go? Mary, Mother. Oh, my God. He's just a kid. Have mercy. A good kid. Saying to his mother, "What's good enough for my old man is good enough for me." Mary, Mother. Just a kid. Save him, oh, God, save him.

The second government car drove up. A Fed leaned out. "We got this one all right, but a poor exchange—a bootlegger for Sam. He's dyin'."

Paddy struggled to get on his feet. "Sit down," growled the driver.

"For God's sake, let me get to him. He's my son."

The men looked at Paddy and had to believe him. His face was tortured and beaten with pain, his hands tore at the cuffs.

THEY helped him from his car and over to the other one which had drawn up alongside. Paddy swayed toward the door as one of the men muttered, "Tough break, the young one is his son." They grunted and made way for him.

One of the men helped him into the other car and he got into the seat where young Pat was, his eyes closed. Old Paddy put his arms over the kid's head. His hand came out with trailings of blood across it. A thick drop gathered a little above his wrist, clung to one of the hairs, dropped off, and rolled down a crease in the leather seat.

Pat's eyelids wavered and then opened. A little sound came from his lips. Paddy bent closer.

"thing all right then? You got away safe?"

Paddy nodded.

Pat sighed and murmured, "I'm glad. I thought it was all right. What's good enough for my old man is good enough—"

His voice stopped, one leg slid out across the floor, a warm sticky flow of blood ran off Paddy's wrist as the boy's body tautened and then went limp.

"What y' think y' doin'?" shouted one of the men as they got out and covered him. "We've been trailin' you for 30 miles."

Pat's eyelids wavered and then opened. A little sound came from his lips.

lution.

Deaths Are Feared

A number of deaths by drowning were feared, but none had been reported. Officers rescued eight persons.

The damage was done by three bayous, usually drowsy little creeks, which flow through the city. They are Buffalo, White Oak and Bray's bayous.

Other south Texas points shared the flood damage menace with Houston.

The angry Brazos was three miles wide opposite Navasota and was sweeping down upon Port Bend county and the prison farms in the Brazos bottoms.

Prisoners Moved

The river was out of its banks along the lower reaches of the Ramsey farm, backing the water up the sloughs. By noon half the farm was expected to be under water.
The 628 prisoners were being transferred to box cars 10 miles east of the farm.

The Imperial farm shifted its prisoners to higher ground. The Brazos had swept over the oil fields near Sugarland.

FOR EDITION

A letter received recently by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce
from the Grollier Society, pays a distinct compliment to the Lubbock organization for co-operation received in publishing the "Book of Texas," a supplement to the Book of Knowledge volumes.

"I wish to express in behalf of the Grollier Society and myself, our sincere thanks and appreciation for the splendid co-operation and courtesies you have extended our 'Book of Texas' editors, the letter reads.

Wish More Were Alike

"I wish that more of the chambers of commerce in Texas were as wide-awake as you are. The citizens of Lubbock should be proud to have such an able organization as your Chamber of Commerce, an organization, if properly equipped, so essential to a community."

The letter is signed by H. B.
Housman, manager of the Grollier Society at Dallas.

A large number of pictures sent in by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce were reproduced in the book and several write-ups were given to Lubbock, the South Plains of Texas, the Texas Technological college, the experiment station and other local institutions and things.

In the chapter on "Farming in Texas," an extra large per cent of the pictures were furnished by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

due in Navasota at 7 o'clock this morning, was reported lost. No word had been received of it since it left Somerville, about 75 miles north.

Brick Building Cracking

The brick walls of the five story
Scanlan building on Buffalo Bayou were cracking and all persons were ordered out of that building and the new $1,000,000 Farmers market.

Fearing that the flood waters might cut the city in two an ambulance company dispatched ambulances across the bayous to care for the injured there if that should come to pass.

C. W. McPhail, chief of police, ordered all except three bridges over Buffalo bayou closed because of the weakened foundations of the 15 other structures.

The main business section of Houston was the scene of one downtown traffic jam after another as a result of the flood. All policemen were in the flood areas attempting to steer traffic away from the high waters and no one was left to direct traffic on Main street. The traffic lights were not used.

People were able to see snakes in the business section. A large number of snakes, most of them rattlers, were carried down stream by the swift current.
