Livestock Show is this weekend

Excitement mounts as preparations get under way for the 54th Annual Mitchell County 4-H and FFA Livestock Show to be held this weekend at the county agricultural barns.

Last Saturday between 60 and 70 FFA and 4-H students who will participate began setting up the pens for the show. Today, Thursday, January 17, the animals will begin to arrive for their weigh-ins, which start at 5 p.m.

Saturday, January 19 is the big day. The swine show, featuring approximately 100 pigs, begins at 8 a.m., and the lamb and steer judgments will begin between noon and 1 p.m.

Judging of the 62 lambs will be alternated, by category, with judging of the 11 steers throughout the afternoon, and when that portion of the show is complete, there will be a new event, the Pee Wee show.

Introduced for the first time this year, the Pee Wee show should prove interesting and enjoyable for all.

Eligibility for participation in FFA and 4-H shows normally begins at the age of eight, if a participant has also reached the third grade. According to Mitchell County Extension Agent for Agriculture Bryan Limmer, this practice has excluded younger siblings, even though they may indeed have had a hand in the raising of the animals being shown.

For that reason, to acquaint

Nimmo contract extended

At its regular meeting on Monday night, January 14, the board of trustees of Colorado Independent School District approved a three-year contract for Superintendent of Schools Don Nimmo. The contract contains the same benefits as Nimmo's current one-year contract.

The board heard, from a representative of American Fidelity, a presentation explaining an insurance plan known as "the cafeteria plan." The presentation was the result of the board's insurance committee's attempt to seek out alternative, less costly health care plans for the employees of the CISD.

The plan, which is used by several Texas school systems, is named, according to the information presented, for the fact that those who elect to use it are able to pick and choose various types of coverage from among several

Space saved for serviceman

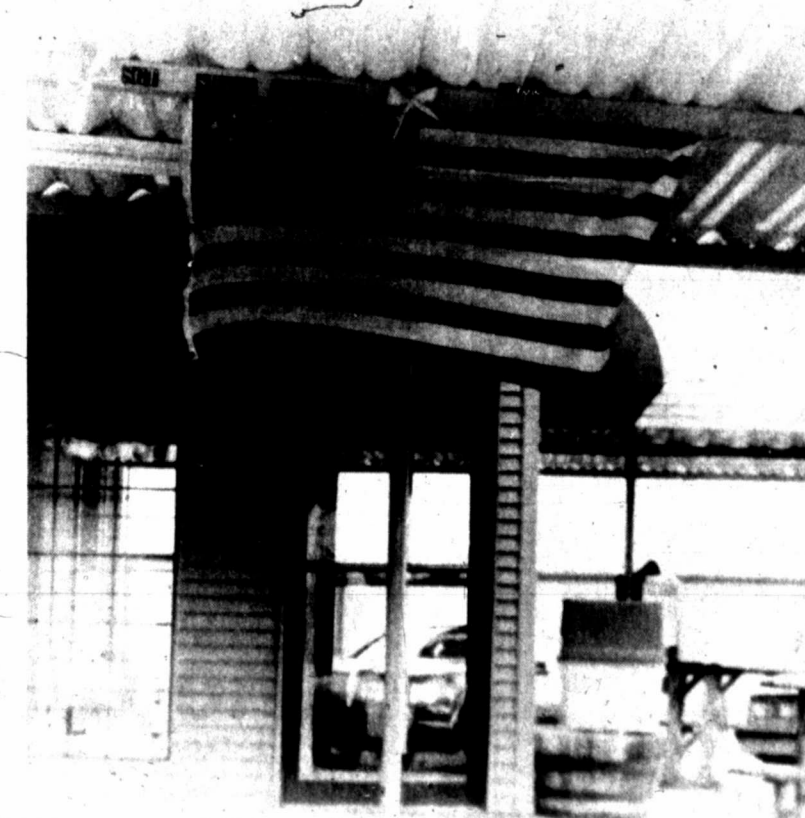

Shane Harbour was a regular customer at Colorado City's Sonic Drive-in Restaurant, even while he was stationed at Fort Hood.

The Army sergeant, who is the son of Fred and Edith Womack of Colorado City, visited Sonic every time he came home for a visit, which was as often as possible.

Now that he has been sent to serve in Saudi Arabia, he still stays in touch with Sonic owners Tommy and Janette Meeks, and they, along with the rest of the staff of Sonic, hope he comes home safe and sound as soon as possible.

Harbour has a favorite parking spot at the restaurant, and it has been designated as his very own by the display of yellow ribbons, Harbour's name, and an American flag.

The Meeks intend to leave Sergeant Shane Harbour's favorite parking spot just as it is until he can come back, pull in and park there himself.

Sgt. Shane Harbour's flag will fly at Sonic until he comes safely home.

Special election slated Saturday

Saturday, January 19 is voting day in Colorado City. City Council representatives for residents of voting districts 1 and 6 will be elected, in the first city election since the partitioning of the city into districts.

That partitioning, into single-member districts, was accomplished in response to a lawsuit filed on behalf of local minority groups who did not feel fairly represented by the at-large system under which council member elections had previously been held.

A special election was deemed necessary to elect City Council representatives from districts 1 and 6, owing to the resignation of Dee Hearn and Eric White, who had been assigned those districts, respectively, when the partitioning took place.

A requirement of the city charter calls for a special election when two or more vacancies exist on the City Council.

Absentee voting in this special election was very heavy, according to Interim City Manager Glenna Garrett. Ballots cast in that voting, which ended at 5 p.m. on Tuesday, January 15, totalled 14 in district 1 and 25 in district 6.

Regular voting in Saturday's election is expected to be very heavy, as well.

Candidates for the vacancy in district 1 are Sam Crenshaw, Sammy Contreras, and Apolinar Molina.

District 6 candidates are Coleen Palmer, Brenda Hammond, Allen Pharis, and Duff Chesney.

Voters in district 1 will be casting their ballots at the Civic Center on 2nd Street, and voters in district 6 will vote at the fire station on East 11th Street.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m., and the results may be known as little as one hour or less after the polls close.

Lake Champion boating accident has happy ending

T.C. Love of Lake Champion and Charles Lane of Odessa have some very important advice for anyone who ever goes out in a boat: Always wear a life jacket.

Like most of us, Lane and Love have heard that advice all their lives. Like most of us, they weren't always careful to follow it. After thousands of hours spent on the water, they said, they didn't think they needed to follow it.

From now on, they will.

Lane and Love were not wearing their life jackets on Saturday evening, January 12 when they went out in a boat on Lake Champion for what was meant to be a brief excursion. And without life jackets, they also didn't have the benefit of a kill switch.

Ideally, a kill switch connects a boat motor to a life jacket, and if the life jacket falls into the water, the force of the pull turns off the motor.

But when the boat they were in was struck on the side by a large wake, and Love and Lane were thrown into the water, the boat continued to move in circles.

Love, remembering the incident, said he knew he had to get back into the boat, because the water was too cold and the shore was too far for the two friends to survive if they had to swim.

Still, he said, after several attempts to get into the boat he realized he would not be able to do so. The motion of the boat caused him to be dragged by the force of the water as he attempted to climb up the side. His efforts actually bent the handrail and cut his hands.

Finally he called to Lane that they would have to swim for shore, and the two men proceeded to attempt to do just that.

Lane remembers that he didn't think the water was too terribly cold, and that he thought he and Love would make it to shore. They became widely separated, he said, but he looked off to his side a few times, and was able to see his friend still swimming toward shore about 100 yards away from him.

He doesn't remember any more after that until he woke up in the emergency room of Mitchell County Hospital.

Love, on the other hand, was not sure at all that they would make it to shore. He could feel his body gradually becoming weaker and more numb with every passing moment, he said, and he was unable to see Lane at all after a while.

Love said he was sure Lane had gone under, and that one thought that kept running through his mind was how awful it would be to have to tell Lane's wife, Darlene, that he had drowned.

Finally reaching shallow water, Love said, he thought at first that he would be all right, but realized as soon as he tried to stand that his lower body was too numb to do so. He remembers thinking that after all his struggles to get to shore he would probably drown there in less than two feet of water.

Somehow, though, he managed to get to shore, and somehow managed to start walking in the direction of his home to get help for his friend.

Suddenly, he heard a sound from the direction of the boat they had just left, and he began to shout for help.

Love believed the sound he heard was that of another boat hitting the boat, but Fred Salmon has a different explanation. He says it was the sound of his feet hitting the bottom of the moving boat as he jumped into it.

Salmon and his wife, Jane, who live in Lubbock, were visiting the mobile home they are buying from Salmon's sister. They had just finished stripping the floor, and Salmon was waxing it while his wife relaxed for a moment and gazed out at the lake, he explained.

Suddenly, he said, she saw a boat lurch, and then begin to go in circles. When she told Salmon, he

C-Court chooses grievance committee

Members of the Mitchell County Grievance Committee for 1991 were chosen during the regular meeting of the Mitchell County Commissioners' Court on Monday, January 14.

Nine members were chosen by random drawing, subject to their notification and approval, from persons who had served on the grand jury in 1990. Three alternates were chosen in the eventuality that any of the original nine choices are unable to serve.

The nine original members chosen were: Warren Lee Zant, Sue Lowrance, Anastacio Alvarez, Raymond Hollis, Neysa Beights, William Crockett, Robert Chambers, David J. Botts, and Nelda Bruce.

Alternates are: Bertha Faye Snyder, Frank Garcia, and Juan Espinoza.

County Judge Ray Mayo will be a non-voting member of the Grievance Committee.

In other business, the commissioners approved minutes of previous meetings, approved bills for payment, and approved the monthly reports.

Court members set the 1991 holiday schedule as follows: Friday, March 29, Good Friday; Monday, May 27, Memorial Day; Thursday, July 4, Independence Day; Monday, September 2, Labor Day; Monday, November 11, Veteran's Day; Thursday and Friday, November 28 and 29, Thanksgiving; Tuesday and Wednesday, December 24 and 25, Christmas; and Wednesday, January 1, 1992, New Year's Day.

They set the 1991 court term, and determined that compensation younger children with the process of showing an animal, and to promote early interest, the Pee Wee show has been initiated. It will be open to children four years of age and younger, and children five through eight years of age who have not yet reached the third grade.

Children participating in the Pee Wee show will be showing goat kids which they will choose from several provided by Limmer.

Judging of pigs, lambs, and steers in regular competition will be done by Glascock County Extension Agent for Agriculture Norman Kohls.

All animals will be judged on the proportion of muscle to fat, and will be divided into categories according to weight and breed.

Hogs, all of whom will be approximately six months of age, and weigh between 160 and 260 pounds, will be divided into four breeds: Duroc, Hampshire, other pure breeds, and cross breeds. Each breed category will then be divided into three weights: light, middle, and heavy, for a total of twelve classes.

Judging will determine as many as ten top places in each of those twelve classes.

The first place winners in each weight for each breed will compete against one another for the title of breed champion, and then the top four breed champions will compete against one another for the title of grand champion.

The reserve breed champion in the breed from which the grand champion is chosen will then become the breed champion.

This same process of judging will apply to lambs and steers in their own separate competitions.

Lambs, under one year of age, will be divided into three breeds, finewool, finewool cross breeds, and mediumwool. Those three breeds will be divided into two weight classes each for a total of six classes.

An interesting note about lamb judging is that lambs are required to be shown a certain period of time before a show. Prior to this show it was no later than December 15. The reasons for this are twofold: to prevent the lambs from being uncomfortable from the cold, and to prevent them from wrinkling their skins from the cold and creating an unattractive appearance.

Steer judging will be on two breeds, British and European, and on two weights, light and heavy, for a total of four classes. Steers will be approximately 15 to 18 months of age.

On Sunday, after all of the judging is over, all of the participants will go, in the afternoon, for the clean-up of the agricultural barns. According to Limmer, attendance at clean-up is required for a participant to collect any prize money he or she might have won the previous day. Attendance at clean-up, he reports, is always high, but he feels it likely would be high in any case.

Students who are not maintaining passing grades in school are not allowed to participate in county and state 4-H and FFA livestock shows.

According to Limmer, however, there were no disqualifications last year, and he does not expect any this year.

He said that students who participate in 4-H and FFA are, for the most part, good students and responsible citizens.

of precinct officers will be on a yearly salary basis.

Charity requests which have come into the office of the County Judge were discussed. Three requests were approved by the commissioners: A request from a disabled individual for gasoline to fuel the car of a friend who will drive him to Abilene and Sweetwater to gather medical records needed for medical assistance; a request from an unemployed couple for a prescription and payment of a doctor's bill for their baby who had been burned; and a request from a social security recipient for a loan to pay the part of her utility bills she was unable to pay this month.

Several other requests did not gain approval from the commissioners, who decided to look into the possibility of turning all charity requests over to a central clearing point. This central clearing point, yet to be determined, would be comprised of one or more representatives from the various charity organizations and agencies in the area.

The purpose of the clearing point would be to screen applicants for real need, as well as to determine that they were not receiving aid from other sources and not reporting it.

In regards to one item on the agenda - the matter of advertising for a depository contract - commissioners were advised that, in order to comply with regulations, advertisements must be scheduled to appear three times over a 20-day period.

Commissioners will comply with this requirement, as well as with another requirement which dictates that applications must be received and agreed on at a specified time: 10 a.m. on Monday, February 11.

The commissioners scheduled a special meeting on that day for that purpose. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m.

A deficiency in a computer program caused the necessity of budget amendments, according to County Auditor Georgie Griffin.

Ms. Griffin pointed out to members of the court that the program in question was able to list, on the budget, the following items and their costs: court transcripts for the district attorney, $2,000; court transcripts for the county judge, $1,500; and office equipment for the county attorney, $2,500.

The program was, nevertheless, unable, probably because it had been outgrown by the needs of the situation, to add those amounts to the total.

Upon her discovery of this discrepancy, Ms. Griffin brought it to the attention of the commissioners, who subsequently approved the necessary budget amendments in the amount of $6,000.

County Treasurer Ann Hallmark advised the commissioners of some areas of the new Texas Workers Compensation Act which require compliance.

Covered employers, which category includes Mitchell County, are required, under the new act, to advise employees of a 24-hour hotline service which has been activated in order that employees might report alleged violations of an occupational health or safety law in the workplace.

The new act states that an employee may not be suspended, terminated, or otherwise discriminated against for reporting an alleged violation.

The Texas Workers' Compensation Commission, under the terms of the new act, provides a workplace health and safety program which is designed to help employers meet federal OSHA regulations. The program is free to Texas employers who maintain workers' compensation insurance.

The act requires that notices advising employees of the hot line and its function be posted in prominent locations around the workplace, and the commissioners were advised that these notices had been posted on the courthouse bulletin boards.

Commissioners were given notices to be posted for their precinct employees as well.

The board voted to allow the insurance committee to continue to investigate the plan, and to offer it to CISD employees if it met all desired criteria.

The board also approved the recommendation of Food Service Supervisor Christine Cooley to accept the low bids, which met specifications, on all food and supplies for the school with the exception of ground beef.

Ms. Cooley's recommendation was that the board accept the bid of Cox Quality Meats on that item, even though it was not the lowest, because ground beef which is fresh, and not frozen, is available from Cox Quality Meats any day of the week.

In other action the board approved budget amendments and payment of bills, approved the financial report and agreed to refund taxes for one individual who had paid his brother's taxes by mistake, and for one individual who had inadvertently paid more than he owed.

The board voted to approve a microcomputer course for Colorado Middle School, and the driver education policy for the spring, 1991 semester.

Members approved a form change regarding personal leave policies for teachers, approved the addition of a baseball program and coaching staff, and changed the date of the regular meeting in March from March 11 to March 18.

A request from the Rotary Club to announce the recipient of the Rotary Youth Leadership Award, a junior, at graduation ceremonies, was discussed by the board. Members decided to request that the Rotary Club announce the winner at another occasion, rather than one oriented solely toward seniors.

Results of the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills are in, and board members were advised of CISD results.

The Record will present, in an upcoming issue, an interview with Sam Huffman, counselor at Colorado High School, who will explain, in detail, that test and the scores achieved on it by students in the CISD.

CHIEF LONE WOLF

Once upon a time, not too many years ago (February of 1930), a handful of local men met and discussed the feasibility of staging a "baby beef livestock show exposition." That was a fancy title for what was to become the Mitchell County Livestock Show. Those trailblazers of 61 years ago had big dreams.

The "first annual" stock show would be co-ordinated by the Chamber of Commerce, the County Agent (W.S. Foster) and the Vocational Ag teacher, (Doyle Williams). The show was scheduled for April 12, 1930 and was to be held on the lots owned by Guitar Gin. (The old concrete structure just west of today's Producer's Gin). Some oldtimers recall the show was eventually held in the tabernacle where the Mitchell County Library now stands.

Plans were for entries to be made in three classifications; 4-H Club, Vocational Ag or Demonstration Clubs. Boys and farmers who were "feeding out baby beves" were eligible for the competition. Prizes promised to winners were "cash and other substantial awards in the sweepstakes show." (Winners would get a free trip to Dallas and the State Fair, in October).

The Chamber of Commerce sponsorship was based upon the hope the show "would help increase production of pure-bred beef and dairy livestock." Of course there would have to be a few rules. Calves would have to be ready when judging began, or exhibitors would be disqualified. And calves would be judged on finish and market type. Also, anything not covered by the rules would be decided by the executive committee, consisting of J. F. Morris, Doyle Williams and W. S. Foster.

When show day arrived, a large crowd turned out for the event. The associate professor of Animal Husbandry at Texas Tech, Roy Mowery, was the judge and Sam Wulfjen was recruited to be auctioneer. 65 calves were entered by youngsters and another ten animals were exhibited by adults.

It was a long day for participants, the judge and spectators. But, as the day drew to a close, there were a bunch of happy kids with a few bucks in their pockets.

In the student classification, first places were won by S. O. Wulfjen (Demonstration Club), Tom Henderson (Vocational Ag) and Marion Hardison (4-H).

In the "best finished" competition, Formwalt Brothers of the Dorn Community (Demonstration), J. L. Gailey (Vocational Ag) and Charlie Northcutt (4-H) were in the money.

History has recorded that the Grand Champion of the first ever Mitchell County stock show was a 915 pound Angus heifer, owned by Formwalt Brothers. Second and third places went to J. L. Gailey and Charlie Northcutt.

The Angus was bought by Dr. P. C. Coleman, who paid 15 and a quarter cents per pound for the animal. None of the calves sold for less than 11¢ per pound.

Sponsors of the show were able to line up a number of buyers for the calves. J. F. Morris, a local butcher, bought 24 of the stock show. Others were purchased by Berry-Fee Lumber Company, Mills Chevrolet, Colorado Drug, Coca Cola Bottling Company, Lions Club, R. P. Price, Colorado Laundry, J. C. Hall, Farmers Gin, John Colson, Chamber of Commerce and Piggly Wiggly.

The show had other residents who helped underwrite expenses. A sampling of the contributors, and their donations;

U. D. Wulfjen	($50)
Fred McKenzie	($25)
O. F. Jones	($15)
P. C. Coleman	($10)
Texas Electric	($10)
Charlie Thompson	($5)
Lay Powell	($5)
Dr. C. L. Root	($5)
Dick Hickman	($1)
Dick Gregory	($1)

When the show was over, judge Mowery of Texas Tech gave his appraisal of the event. "When you note such large attendance at a small livestock show, you can count on results to be lasting."

Very prophetic, Professor Mowery. And while the stock show is now under the auspices of an efficient Livestock Association, the hopes of youngsters are the same as those of 1930. It's the 54th annual shingdig. Why not go out and help keep the results lasting.

Fairview Homemakers meet

The Fairview Extension Homemakers met December 10, 1990 for their annual Christmas luncheon. Club members met at 10:30 a.m. in the home of Velma Hester to exchange gifts and reveal secret pals.

The group then travelled to Snyder for lunch at the Golden Coral. Good food and fellowship was enjoyed by all. Club members then visited Gentle Dove Ministries in Snyder.

Members present included Velma Hester, Peggy Faulkenberry, Faye Faries, Sherry Autry, Terryn Autry, Muriel Thurman, Ginny Moore, Edna Pace, Brenda Casey, D'Dee Morris and Billie Smith.

Guests speak to B&PW Club

The regular meeting of the Business and Professional Women was held in January at the Civic Center with the president, Molly Bruce presiding. The meeting was hosted by the Public Relations Committee, Earline Sellier, Margaret Oyler and Mildred Boyd. A delicious dinner was served to members and visitors before the program and business of the evening was conducted.

Three guests contributed to an interesting and informative program. Guests were Nell Holman, Marsha Burrus and Louree Upton. Nell told the group about her business, AAA Rental, located at 877 E. 2nd. Nell is a teacher in the CISD but she is also in business. She told the group why she had started the business and about the services she offers. Her business supplies items for rent for people who need to use items a few times and would prefer to rent them.

Marsha Burrus, who has recently been elected the first woman Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke to the group about the banquet scheduled for January 15th.

Louree Upton told members about the literacy needs of people living in Mitchell County and surrounding counties of Howard, Scurry and Nolan. She said that we live in an area of very deep need. She said that it is estimated that in Mitchell County alone there are 2,000 illiterate adults. She challenged the group to get involved by being a tutor, by sponsoring a student or by serving as public relations people to advance the cause of literacy in Mitchell County, in the state, and in the nation.

World Affairs Committee Chairman, Christine Cooley, gave a current event report taken from the daily paper. The writer asked about our reasons for being in Saudi Arabia. The writer said that we are there; not because we want to make the world safe for Democracy, not because we want to protect our oil interests, but because we cannot allow another Hitler to get away with gobbling up other countries.

The new business was presented on the recommendation of the Executive committee. That business was concerned with a survey which the B&PW will be taking this month. Members will be contacting women who are currently in business or women who have been in business in the past five years and who are not now involved with that business. The results of the survey will be studied by the club to determine common needs of women in the business world.

The meeting closed by recommendation from President, Molly Bruce. The next meeting will be a dinner meeting and members will be participating in a Hidden Auction.

Ladies Auxiliary holds regular meeting

The Ladies Auxiliary to VFW Post 9178 met Thursday night with President Lynn Hardy presiding.

It was reported that checks had been sent to the Big Spring VA Hospital birthday and coffee fund. Each patient in the hospital receives a gift pack on their birthday. Coffee is served the morning of their choice.

Cake and ice cream was taken to the Mark Martin Personal Care Home. There are seven men at the home.

Hand crocheted exercise balls have been taken to the Loraine Nursing Home and Valley Fair Lodge.

A check was sent to the State Nursing Scholarship Fund.

Five Christmas food baskets were delivered December 21. Six gifts were delivered to the veterans at the Martin home.

It was also reported that Jay Lynch, Emma Lee Hill and Andrew Rivera are all home after stays in Lubbock hospitals.

Jeremy Taylor, son of Woody and Sandi Taylor, has been transferred to a San Antonio hospital for more treatment.

ACCIDENT

quickly got a pair of binoculars, looked out toward the boat, and noticed that there was nobody on board. Mrs. Salmon, he said, evidently was able to hear shouts from the vicinity of the boat, although he said he could not.

He said that he knew at once what must have happened: that the occupants had been thrown overboard. He began to call to the neighbors to notify the authorities and to help him find a boat.

Jim Fowler, who was visiting from Big Spring at the home of Mrs. Lois Wright, came quickly with Mrs. Wright's pickup truck, towing her boat on a trailer.

Salmon and Fowler launched the boat, attempted to start the motor, and, when they realized they could not do so, they began to row toward the circling boat.

Salmon said there was only one oar in the boat, and that he was able to row with a board he found there which was approximately two feet long and six inches wide.

It was difficult to get near the circling boat, he said, because its wake kept pushing the boat containing him and Fowler away. Finally, though, Salmon said, he was able to jump into the moving boat.

Salmon got control of the boat, and then began to move it slowly across the water, searching for its former occupants, while Fowler, who has an artificial leg, remained to keep watch at the site where the men were believed to have gone overboard.

Soon, Salmon said, he happened upon a jacket which had been shed by one of the men, and very shortly thereafter, he saw Lane, lying still in the water.

Salmon, 60, said that Lane's face was out of the water as he floated there, and that he called to him to advise him that help had arrived. He said he tried to get Lane to help him, but that there was no response, and that he realized he would have to pull the man into the boat himself.

He believes that he grabbed Lane by the clothing around the front of his neck, Salmon said, although he cannot remember exactly. Then, keeping a firm grip, Salmon flung himself backward into the boat, pulling Lane with him as he fell.

With Lane on board, Salmon went back to get Fowler and head to shore, but when he arrived, Fowler, who had heard Love's calls for help, said, "There's another one on shore," and jumped into the boat with Salmon and Lane to go to Love's rescue. It was dark by that time, Salmon said, and he was unable to see Love, but Fowler directed him to the spot where he was able to hear the calls, and soon they were able to sight Love.

The boat could not reach shore, due to the shallow water, and Salmon and Fowler called to Love to wade to them.

Love remembers, but only vaguely, what happened then. He said he wasn't really sure what was happening, that nothing seemed real, and that his body knew what it was supposed to do, but seemed to be unable to do it.

He isn't really sure how he made it into the boat, but he did, and Salmon said he and Fowler never realized until later that Love was having any trouble. He appeared to them to be almost normal.

Love was, indeed, able to move around, but he said he was in what seemed like a semi-conscious state, which is one of the symptoms of hypothermia.

The trip back across the lake took less than five minutes, according to Salmon, who doesn't consider himself a hero, but says he is just happy that he was able to help, and that everything worked out. He says that anyone would have done what he and Fowler did.

On the other shore, Mitchell County Sheriff's Department deputies were waiting to take the men to the Mitchell County Hospital, where State Game Warden Randy Bullard had called ahead to alert the staff to be ready for severe hypothermia cases. Cold water, Bullard says, chills 25 times faster than cold air.

According to Bullard, he was at Fisher Park when he was called, just after 6 p.m., about the boating accident. Janie Pfeuffer was on dispatch duty that night, and she located him to advise him of the situation after the sheriff's department had received a call.

When Bullard arrived at the area at Lake Champion from which Salmon and Fowler had started, the two men still had not reached the circling boat.

Bullard said he then asked Ms. Pfeuffer to call around to try to find someone with a boat at Lake Champion to aid in the rescue, and suggested, ironically, that she call Love.

Love's wife, Deniese, answered the call and said that her husband was not available, as he was already out on the lake. She did not suspect, nor did anyone else on shore, that he was one of the men who needed to be helped.

Bullard said it was a miracle that Love and Lane survived. "It just was not their time to go," he said, and added that there were a lot of heroes involved, and a lot of things that happened in just the right way at just the right time.

For example, he said, when he talked to Lane after the latter had recovered, Lane mentioned that he had considered removing some of the clothes he was wearing, but that he had noticed what he thought might be a bubble of air trapped just behind his collar, and had decided to leave it as it was. Bullard said that bubble of air probably kept Lane's head afloat after he lost consciousness.

Bullard speculated that the heavy clothing both men were wearing might also have helped prevent what is known as "the mammalian reflex." Bullard explained that people who fall into icy cold water often gasp involuntarily because of the shock to their systems. The heavy clothing probably kept the men from feeling that first sudden impact of cold, in the approximately 47 degree water, and therefore from gasping, Bullard said.

Bullard said that the gasping often entails the inhalation of a great deal of water into the lungs, which can cause drowning.

Mitchell County Sheriff's deputies Patrick Toombs, Augustin Alvarado, Jimmy Sanders and Jimmy Browne were waiting on the shore when the men were brought in, and transported them quickly to Mitchell County Hospital.

Lane and Love have the highest praise for Salmon, Fowler, and everyone who aided in their rescue, and for the physicians and nurses at the hospital. "They saved our lives," Lane said. "We wouldn't be here without them."

On duty at the hospital that night, according to JoAnn Merket, Director of Nurses, were Melva Wharton, R.N., and M.J. Drummond, R.N.

Dr. Royce McAnally, a Bandera physician, was in Colorado City visiting with the intention of determining whether he might wish to relocate here in the future. He was the emergency room physician that night, but called Dr. Dee Roach to come in as well, as soon as he realized the two patients were both in such serious condition.

The two doctors worked as a perfect team, according to Dr. McAnally, and he said Mitchell County is very lucky to have Dr. Roach, whom he considers to be a great doctor.

McAnally has treated several cases of water-induced hypothermia, he explained, owing to the fact that he has worked in hospitals in three Texas cities which are near the border with Mexico.

During the winter months, especially near Christmas and New Year's, he said, he has treated people with hypothermia who have told him they were trying to cross the Rio Grande between Mexico and the United States to see family members for the holidays.

When they are brought to the hospital to be helped, he said, they are in a condition similar to the one Love and Lane were in, and Dr. McAnally knew it would be safer to treat them in the Mitchell County Hospital than to take the time to send them to any other hospital.

Love had a core temperature, the temperature of his inner organs, of 85 degrees, which is terribly dangerous, but Lane, according to Dr. McAnally, had a core temperature of 80 degrees. He said he had seen only one other person survive with a core temperature that low. He said Lane's veins had collapsed from the cold, and that his blood pressure was too low to measure.

Dr. McAnally and Dr. Roach had to use a central line, big bore, intravenous procedure to go directly into Lane's left sub-clavian vein, which leads directly into the heart.

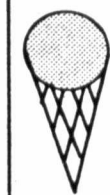

Dr. McAnally said he is very interested in locating here, that he enjoyed working with Dr. Roach, and that he appreciated the teamwork and professionalism of the nurses, the x-ray staff, and the laboratory staff at Mitchell County Hospital.

Love and Lane arrived at Mitchell County Hospital at approximately 7 p.m. on Saturday night and were stabilized by 9 p.m.

Both men have already been released from Mitchell County Hospital...Love on Sunday evening and Lane on Tuesday morning, and both men say they feel just fine.

How's that for a little good news, Mitchell County?

DOWNTOWN COLORADO CITY

Loraine Personals

By Lois Phillips

I hope all will be well with our service people during this troubled time. So many things are happening for whatever reason most of which I don't understand. Only God knows the reasons. So all we can do is pray and then pray some more. I really believe lots of bad things are going to happen in a hurry unless God chooses to settle all this another way. It's such a sad time with so many people with their lives on the line. Liz Mayes tells me she is sure Billy will be shipped back overseas, also Joan Merket is sure Quinton will go to the Gulf area. That will leave a wife and young child back home. As you know Donald Burt is on his way to the Gulf area also. Since they know each other maybe they will meet up sometime.

Vickie Atkins has been in a Sweetwater hospital and was real sick for a time, but I think she is much better now.

Raymond McNeil is supposed to see a heart specialist in Lubbock the latter part of the week. We hope he will come out ok. He and Lorene are both in need of your prayers. They are both ill.

Donna Seaton is ill in Humana hospital in Abilene. She is having a hard time as she has been very ill as has her sister, Juanita Bryant of Lubbock, but she is better now. These ladies are the daughters of the late E.B. Stewarts. They are also sisters of Debbie Finley.

Lowell and Doris Aderson of Lubbock were guests of Nannie Hallmark on Sunday. Dorothy Phillips also visited her aunt Nannie last week.

On Sunday, Peggy Scarbrough came from Silver and spent the day with Nannie.

The Ken Albus family was here last week-end with her parents, Herbert and Chrystine Mearse. They attended service at the First Baptist. It was good to see them again. Jan happens to be one of my favorite people.

On Saturday, December 29th, Charles and Mary Rose Bowen had their children and grandkids with them. It was their Christmas and New Years celebration. Those present were Barbara and Jake Gonzales of Lubbock, Brenda, Wesley and Marshall Bewley of Lubbock, Charles Jr, Jan and Michele and Andrea Bowen of San Angelo and Brad Bowen of Indio, California.

The Bowens said it was all fun and between the visiting and fun they stopped every now and then to eat again. The pounds will just have to take care of themselves.

I saw Mrs. Alsobrook and Dorothy feeding their faces Saturday at the Cree Mee. Also saw Apple Sanchez feeding his face.

Miss Laci Hackfeld was dining out with her father, Stan. They had been to the Loraine stock show, I am sure, as their big girl, Lauren Hackfeld, had won the reserve grand champion steer at the show.

The Webb girls, Sheryl and Shelli, did real well also at the show. Shelli won grand champion steer and Sheryl won senior showmanship award.

In the swine division, Russell Burt had the grand champion barrow, Matt Givens had the grand champion reserve. Brian Butler won the Junior showmanship award and Lauren Hackfeld showed the reserve grand champion steer. Randy Herrington won showmanship in elementary division. Congratulations to these young ladies and young men, also to those who did not win, congratulations on your efforts. We will see you at the county show and wish you well.

L.H.S. won four games in both boys and girls on Tuesday and Friday of last week. The Jr. High boys won the Blackwell tournament in Blackwell last week. They also won big in Trent on Monday night. We are real proud of all our players.

Mrs. Cullen Payne had company last Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Strickland and kids of Dallas spent Saturday night with her.

I saw a very cute girl in our local grocery store the other day. She looked very familiar but I didn't ask who she was. Then when Thursday's paper came out and I was reading about the ballgames, there was the name, Justa Wells, a senior. Also a member of the girls basketball team. Yes I was glad to know she was back in our school. I have known Justa Wells since she was small but she moved away and grew up. I think she has been back a while but I somehow or other never did know that. Glad you are home Justa.

Sherry Webb spoke to the north Loraine H. D. Club last week on her trip to overseas. She had visited 13 countries while she was gone. She stayed 6 months and had a good time and met lots of people.

In view of the world crises, I will leave you with this little thought. "Prayer is the answer, let go, let God! Be still, and know that I am God; I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth."

The Lord of host is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge, selah." Psalms 46:10-11

I was asked recently if the PTO had dissolved. Of course, I said no and explained that we had just been busy with holidays and basketball season.

It is all coming to a close and I guess we really should get back to work.

We've had suggestions for a talent show and maybe a lip sync concert sometime in the spring. The teachers still want the little ones to put on a program at the end of the year and hopefully the teachers can recommend a goal for our PTO funds. We may have a hard time trying not to exceed our funds.

The students would still like to see the PTO sponsor some dances, so we really need to put our heads together and work on that.

We'll have a meeting Thursday, January 24 at 7:00 pm in the school cafeteria and get things organized for the second half of our school year.

Please be there if you possibly can. If you can't make it, give me a call afterwards and I'll try to fill you in!

Let's go PTO!

Bryant honored on 91st birthday

Mrs. Eddie Bryant, who was a resident of Loraine until the summer of 1990 was honored on her 91st birthday, January 12, in the home of her daughter and husband Doris and Glen Camp of Dallas.

It was a "come-and-go" party that lasted all day. Food was served throughout the day in addition to the birthday cake and ice cream. It was a very special day for Mrs. Bryant.

All four of her surviving children were present. They are Neal Bryant, Big Spring; Ralph Bryant, Petrolia; Johnny Bryant, Abilene; Doris Camp of Dallas.

In addition to her children, ten grandchildren and seventeen grandchildren were there also, eleven in-laws, and four cousins. Going from this was a sister, Effie Wheeler and a niece, Jimmie Jacks.

Mrs. Bryant came to Mitchell County in 1906. Having grown up in Mitchell County she taught school at Lone Star and Buford. She married Gentry Bryant in 1923. Even though she lived in several areas in Texas she always considered Loraine as "HOME". From 1983-90 she was a resident in the Loraine Senior Citizens Apartments. She moved to Dallas in 1990 to live with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Camp.

Wolves score victories over Kermit Yellowjackets

District 6-AAA basketball continued on Friday, January 11, as the Colorado City Wolves hosted the Yellowjackets from Kermit. Although the mighty Wolves and Lady Wolves lost their opening district battles, the young men and women responded well for the double victory.

The Lady Wolves did all the stinging and swarming as the Yellowjackets fell by a powerful score of 64-47.

During the first period, the Lady Wolves had their only real trouble of the evening as they could only score 10 points to Kermit's 9.

As the intense game continued, the strong-minded Lady Wolves took over and led 28-22 at the midway point.

Picking up the defensive pressure in the third and fourth periods, Colorado City built a huge advantage with 2:19 remaining in the third, 58-33.

By games' end, the Lady Wolves earned their first district victory as they stung the Yellowjackets, 64-47.

Scoring for the Lady Wolves were Jennifer Munoz 14, Tracy Hoover and Pat Molina 10, Cynde Aguilar and Veronica Moreno 8, Bridgett Bridgford 6, Rosemary Rosas and Angie Biggers 2.

The Junior Varsity Lady Wolves also lit up the scoreboard as they completely dominated Kermit by the score of 64-23.

Those scoring were Bea Rivera

15, Crescent Ross 14, Lori Kay McElvaney 10, Lisa Martinez 6, Tammy Ceballos, Leah Watson, and Michelle Green 4, Holly Turner 3, and Tammy Lelek 2.

With an overwhelming victory by the Lady Wolves, the Pack was hoping to do the same, but instead of running up the score, the difference in the game was a buzzer-beater by senior, Jeremy Strain.

From the tip-off, the district clash was evenly matched. The Yellowjackets and Wolves traded buckets for most of the first half; at the midway mark, the score was tied at 30-30 as a Kermit guard hit a tri-factor in the closing seconds.

As play resumed in the third period, that is when the real contest began.

Lead change after lead change, the Jackets finally managed to lead by 8, 34-42. Just as the Wolf fans were growing restless, the Pack went on an 8-0 run and were trailing by one with 3:41 remaining in the third. Not only did the Wolves cut the lead to one, but took the lead with :26.

Looking to go into the fourth period with the lead, the Wolves let down their guard just long enough for a Kermit player to get another 3-pointer at the buzzer, 49-49.

With eight minutes left in the contest, Colorado City managed to gain a 7 point momentum of their own with more than half the period remaining.

Kermit, however, never lost faith in one another as they chipped away at the lead thanks to the help of the charity stripe.

With time running out, Kermit got the jump-shot with 9 ticks on the clock.

On a Wolf foul, a Yellowjacket athlete was sent to the free-throw line with the chance to put the game out of reach. Not having missed a FT all game long, Coach Chuck Claxton called for a time-out to set up a last second shot.

Initially, the game winning shot was set up for 3-point specialists, Mark Monroe or Scott Gale, yet what happened was one of the most exciting plays for the Wolf basketball season.

With :07 seconds remaining, Robbie Smith hauled down the missed FT. Smith then stuck to the plan and passed to Monroe. Monroe, who had no shot at the basket, unselfishly passed the ball to an open Jeremy Strain.

As Strain let the 20 foot jumper roll off his fingertips, the final buzzer sounded as the the 3-pointer fell for a 70-69 victory.

Scorers in the exciting game were Robbie Smith 19, Kevin Greed 17, Mark Monroe and Jeremy Strain 7, Wendell Iglehart 6, Scott Gale and Jason Lawson 5, and Mark Smith 4.

K. Green led all rebounders with 18, while R. Smith and J. Lawson had 15 and 12 boards respectively.

The Wolves also improved to 1-1 in district action and 8-8 on the season.

In the JV competition, the Kermit Yellowjackets jumped out to an early lead and never even thought about looking back as they won 69-49 in the win over the Pack.

Letter to the Editor

To The Editor:

This letter is in regard to January 6, Sunday's article on Dr. Vardeman and his wife, Lana.

Yes, I do believe very strongly that we, the people of Mitchell county, are very lucky to have these two very dedicated people in our community.

Dr. Vardeman does go beyond the call of duty. And yes one can call him at all hours of the day or night and he always answers all his calls no matter what time the call came.

But what I like to know is how many of us really do appreciate Dr. Vardeman.

Some of us take our dogs, cats, horses, etc., at exactly twelve o'clock without thinking about whether or not Dr. Vardeman and Lana are going to have lunch. We are so inconsiderate of Dr. Vardeman and Lana because we don't even let them have at least 30 minutes to themselves just to have lunch.

I believe this community should be a little more considerate of Dr. Vardeman and let him and his wife have a decent meal to themselves without Dr. Vardeman taking care of a horse or cow and eating his lunch at the same time.

Not even our medical doctors do that.

So let's all take care of our good Vet, so he can keep taking care of our dogs, cats, horses, etc., etc.

Sincerely,
Mary Ann H. Savely.
