Pampan Blasts Canadian Dam

Douglass Charges Project Economically Unjustifiable

By HENRY J. GORDON

A prominent Pampa attorney today blasted the proposed $85,000,000 Canadian River Dam near Sanford, saying it would not be fit for use before it is paid off and that it opened the door to increased taxation and additional federal control.

The attorney, Curtis Douglass, who led the Texas States Rights forces in 1948 and still holds the chairmanship of that party's now inactive state executive committee, called the project economically unjustifiable and detailed his objections to it in a five-page statement this morning.

The dam, if built, would serve at least 11 Panhandle and South Plains cities — Borger, Amarillo, Pampa, Plainview, Littlefield, Lubbock, Levelland, Dalhart, Tahoka, O'Donnell, and Lamesa. The plan now is for a water district to be formed to create a legal entity that would negotiate a loan from the federal government and then pay out the dam through the sale of water in the 21 cities and towns over a 50-year period.

Douglass said he has studied the dam, the proposed district and other data on it that he gleaned from water engineers and water experts before making any statement for or against the plan.

"Views With Alarm"

In his statement, Douglass pointed out that creation of a master water district would be for "the purpose of controlling, storing, preserving, distributing and using waters impounded by the dam." This district, if created, would not be limited in authority specifically to the foregoing purposes. But would be for "the purpose of giving the project 'much thought' before voting to create such a district.

He pooh-poohed the talk of leaders of the project that "the Panhandle and South Plains are in imminent danger of being starved for lack of drinking water."

"This area overlies one of the largest underground water reservoirs in the nation. Competent water engineers tell me that a properly designed well can produce sufficient water for municipal needs comparable to the life of the Canadian River Reservoir."

He said the project would cost millions for construction of the dam and millions to construct a pipeline more than 200 miles long. "I do not believe there to be any economic justification for such an expenditure in light of the facts we have to date."

Douglass further declared that the engineers he talked to had pictured the underground water reservoir of the North-South Plains (See PAMPAN, Page 2)

Allied Planes Mistake Unit For Red Target

SEOUL, Jan. 9 — UP — An undisclosed number of American soldiers were killed or wounded by United Nations planes Thursday when UN pilots mistook their artillery battery for an enemy target.

The tragic error took place behind the lines. At least 15 bombs were slammed into the supply unit artillery company before the surprised soldiers could dive for cover.

The planes followed up their bombing attack with a general strafing of the area.

The company attacked by the Allied bombers was a service battery which ordinarily is a rear area unit which supplies the guns and ammunition for the fighting front lines.

The Army clamped a lid of secrecy on details of the bombing attack. But at least two jet airplanes attacked the battery nine miles behind the front.

Army officers on the scene said they had been ordered not to reveal the full casualty figures.

The major commanding the battalion also ordered his men not to talk to correspondents about bombing or write home about it to their families.

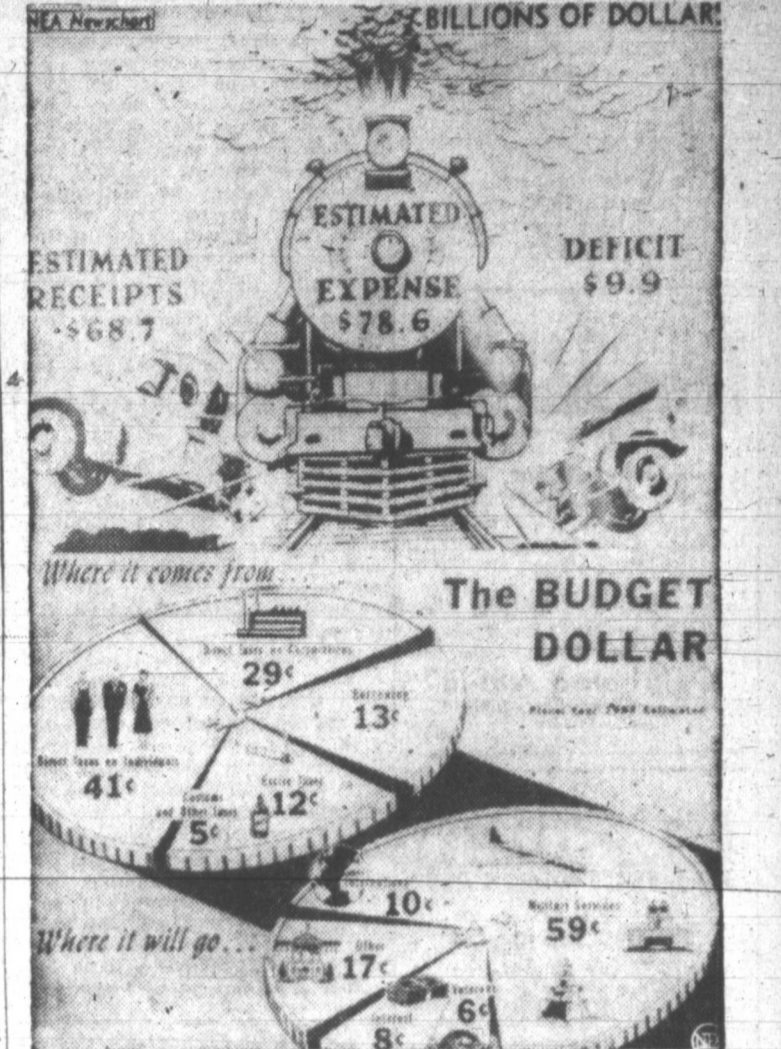

The corps commander denied any such instructions were issued.

A colonel from Eighth Army headquarters and several Air Force officers were investigating the incident on the scene Friday morning. "We are getting a lot of conflicting testimony," he said.

"No one saw whether there were any markings on the planes," the colonel said. "One man said they had swept wings, another swore they didn't. They said the same things about whether they had wing tanks."

(Both Russian built MIG-15s and American Sabrejet fighters have swept wings.)

BUDGET DEFICIT IS UP — Newschart shows the governmental receipts, expenditures, deficit, where it comes from, and where it will go as presented in the fiscal 1954 budget submitted to Congress by President Truman. Fiscal 1954 runs from July 1, 1953 to June 30, 1954. The deficit is $4.03 billion more than the $5.8 billion deficit estimated for the current fiscal 1953 which ends this June 30th. Submits $78.6 Billion Budget Truman Says High Taxes Must Remain

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 — UP — President Truman sent Congress Friday a proposed spending budget of $78.6 billion for fiscal 1954 and said the Republicans ought to continue present high taxes or even raise them.

He said the whole total is "essential for the safety and wellbeing of the nation" in this time of arming against the Soviet threat. Three-fourths of it he assigned to "national security" — the military, atomic weapons, aid to Europe, and related programs.

If the Republican Congress adopted the whole budget—an unlikely "if"—federal spending in fiscal 1954, beginning July 1 this year, would be the biggest except during World War II.

Goal to $70 Billion

President-elect Eisenhower and such GOP leaders as Sen. Robert A. Taft have set a general goal of cutting it to $70 billion. The Eisenhower version of the budget will be submitted piecemeal later, beginning in April.

Mr. Truman said the government would go in the red by $9.9 billion under his budget if Congress lets a $2 billion corporate and individual tax cut go into effect as scheduled. He said Congress shouldn't let this happen.

He went further to say that "the (See TRUMAN, Page 3)

GOP Seeks End To Family Fuss On Patronage

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 — UP — The Senate's Republican "Big Three" plan to meet with President-elect Eisenhower in New York probably Monday, to thresh out the GOP's family fight over control of federal patronage.

It's a strange kind of controversy boiling up in GOP ranks. Senators insist publicly that no one's mad at anyone. But behind closed doors they buzz like hornets.

Sen. William F. Knowland (Calif.), chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, diplomatically told reporters that "It is fair to say that some members are very interested in what procedures are going to be adopted" on passing out jobs in the new administration.

The trouble, influential Republicans say, is that Eisenhower has laid down no clear rules on who picks candidates for federal jobs. The senators don't like it that way. They want the final say on all appointments but postmasters and similar "local" officials. But Republican national committee members, state chairmen and local GOP officials also are asserting claims to a big voice in patronage.

Knowland, Senate GOP leader Robert A. Taft and Chairman Eugene D. Millikin of the Senate Republican conference have been delegated by their colleagues to seek a "meeting of the minds" with Eisenhower and his high command in New York.

Brutal Slayings In Amarillo Solved As Two Confess Today

By ED NASH

Two young men who have terrorized Amarillo for the past 13 days with two sadistic killings and two brutal beatings have confessed and are behind bars today. Charged with two murders and one assault with intent to murder are Joseph Paul Lucas, 20, AWOL from Amarillo Air Force Base, and Earl George Robertson, 19, of Floydada. Lucas' home is in Tomoga, Pa. Complaints against the killers—who were roommates—have been filed and warrants issued, Sheriff Paul Gaither, Amarillo, told The Pampa Daily News today, and they were scheduled to be arraigned this morning.

The two murders were committed within 66 hours of each other. Harry Gibbs, 60, Amarillo cab driver, was slain about 7 p.m. Thursday by the pair who stabbed him 24 times and beat him on the head. Victor G. Smith, 50, Amarillo station attendant, was killed in a $48 holdup between 1:30 a.m. and 3 a.m. Tuesday.

The murderous assault was committed Christmas Eve against Paul G. Renner, 45 another Amarillo cabbie, who was beaten, stabbed and robbed. Two days earlier, Tommy Malone, 45, a third Amarillo taximan, was beat over the head.

But Lucas and Robertson will not be prosecuted on this crime. Gaither said, "for we've got enough on 'em as it is." Lucas and Robertson have not been tied into a fifth crime—a $50 holdup pulled at 6 a.m. Thursday on Kenneth G. Wallace, 25, attendant at the Watts Gulf Service station, who replaced Smith.

Following Thursday night's killing, an estimated 75-100 law enforcement officers tore into a city-wide search for the murderers. Gaither continued, including railroad officers; Texas Rangers; city, county and state officials; air police; and city firemen.

Officers combed the town with a "fine-tooth comb." Gaither said, in what The United Press called the "largest manhunt in Amarillo's history."

Arrest came when one of the killers—Robertson—entered the Amarillo police station about 9 p.m. with a story that he had been stabbed on the hands in a robbery. Capt. R. H. Rhodes, Amarillo police force, told The News today.

Young Stockmen Won't Be Skunked By Scales In 1953

Junior livestock showmen will not be skunked during the 1953 show and sale Feb. 16-17. But to insure it Bill Goldston, acting county farm agent, became a social outcast Thursday.

Numerous complaints about the accuracy of the scales in Recreation Park were registered during the '52 show and sale, according to Goldston. An inspector from the scales company was called in yesterday.

Ben Figg, Fairbanks, Morse & Co. inspector, checked the park scales in preparation for the coming show and found it alternately checked correct, overweight and underweight—up to 29 pounds.

A further investigation underneath revealed a "papa" skunk and his family had been making his home there. Goldston said it is possible the family had been there throughout the year.

Only "papa" skunk was home at the time and depending on his position on the bar underneath, changed the weight readings.

After attempts were made to vacate the resident with cyanide gas, poking with a stick and pelting with a piece of iron, Goldston shot the animal—and carried the proof of his sharp-shooting around all day to the consternation of his associates.

However, Goldston reports the scales are now showing perfect weight everytime. And to insure that they continue to do so he filled the space with cement.

He assures young showmen that sales cents won't be misjudged by scents this year.

Wheat Farmers Plan Parley On Research Program

"State wheat farmers tomorrow are expected to decide whether they want to be taxed a quarter of a cent per bushel to support research on control of insects and plant disease.

The topic will be the principal piece of business brought up during the annual convention of the State Wheat Growers Association, being held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Herring Hotel, Amarillo, Saturday.

The tax would have to be levied and collected by the state. It is to pay for research programs pertaining to production and marketing of wheat; and battling insects and plant diseases.

The convention will start at 10 a.m. Leaders of the organization have asked all farmers in the area to attend the meeting.

Scouters Select Ivey Duncan To Head Advance Fund Drive

Final organization of the 1953 Boy Scout Finance campaign has been completed and a tentative budget for the new year set, according to Paul Beisenherz, Boy Scout executive.

Ivey Duncan has been appointed chairman of the advance gifts committee for the campaign scheduled Feb. 16-23. With Duncan's appointment the drive organization is complete.

Gene Fatheree, general chairman, announced the selection.

Other members of the campaign are H. H. Hahn, industrial campaign chairman; Charlie Thut and E. E. Shelhamer, colonels of general solicitation and E. O. Wedgeworth, "kick-off" breakfast chairman.

Skellytown Mothers Hold Coffee Club For March Of Dimes

A Mothers Coffee Club today was in full swing at Skellytown for the March of Dimes.

Members of the club call 10 other women and invite them over for coffee. A charge, of course, is put on the coffee, the proceeds going, of course, to the March of Dimes. The women attending in turn call other women and hold coffees at their homes, and so on. Mrs. D. M. Covey, chairman for Skellytown, said. The coffee clubbers will continue their sessions throughout the remainder of the drive.

Meanwhile back in Pampa, local sports writers and casters have been turned down by their Amarillo counterparts for a return basketball match for the March of Dimes. According to Warren Hasse, the helium city overgrown dribblers complained that everything was spotted against them here last year — the officials were biased, the crowd was all for Pampa, and so forth.

However, the Amarilloans did luck out a victory over Pampa's apparently more skillful hoopers (See CITY, Page 3)

Stock Broker Is Insurance Speaker

George E. Sims, account executive of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane brokerage at Amarillo will be the principal speaker at noon Saturday at a meeting of Pampa Life Insurance Underwriters Association in the Pine Room, Hotel Schneider.

Sims will speak on "The Part Stocks and Bonds Play in a Man's Portfolio of Investments."

Schlumberger Corp. Wants Office Here

The Schlumberger Wells Surveying Corporation today announced plans to locate in Pampa in the immediate future.

Representatives of the worldwide organization, which has central offices in Houston, are in the city attempting to locate a garage and office space.

The representatives said they are looking for garage space with sufficient capacity to house large trucks and asked that any one knowing of available space contact The Pampa Daily News or Pampa Chamber of Commerce office.

World Emotional Malnutrition Assailed By City PTA Speaker

D. D. Monroe, internationally known speaker, entertainer and author speaking on world problems to be faced in 1953, ascribed "emotional malnutrition" as being the number one issue in the world today.

That was the analysis Monroe, Clayton, N. M. businessman, made when he spoke to a joint meeting of Pampa PTA units at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Junior High Auditorium.

"We are nuclear giants and ethical infants who know more about death than living," he said. "As a solution to our hectic conditions, Monroe called for a reestablishment of individualism and a return to reason instead of the method now employed of following the group movement of the moment.

Monroe, indicating concern over the state of the United States today, said there were many signs pointing to a darkness in the western hemisphere and continued that if we are to bring about a new dawn and improve over 1952 in the new year, a lot more people are going to have to take a lot more interest.

Board Ponders Thrill Killer's Release

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 9 — UP — The Illinois parole board pondered Friday whether "thrill killer" Nathan Leopold was a rehabilitated genius worthy of freedom or a fiend lucky to escape the electric chair.

Clergymen, professors and friends argued at a hearing here Thursday that the brilliant millionaire's son, who teamed with Richard J. Loeb in 1924 to kill 14-year-old Bobby Franks with a chisel should be set free. Loeb was stabbed to death in 1936 by a fellow prisoner.

A law enforcement officer called Leopold's backers "perpetual bleeding hearts" — worshippers of the high IQ and pseudo experts.

Leopold himself, balding and paunchy at 48, told the board that 28 years and four months in prison have changed him completely.

"My personality, even my physical being has changed," he said.

"No cell that was in my body at the time of the crime is there today.

Has 'Learned Lesson'

"I have learned my lesson. I am a textbook example of a burned child."

— Leopold has an intelligence quotient of 208, slightly above genius, but the group of educators backing his parole plea said they were not "overly impressed" by his exceptionally brilliant mind. Criminology Professor William Byron of Northwestern University said he was "impressed by the 'emotional maturity Leopold has achieved and demonstrated."

Cook County State's Attorney John Gutknecht asked that Leopold be kept in prison for the rest of his life to "spare a mockery of justice." His first assistant, Richard (See BOARD, Page 2)

Hospitals Busy ... City Hit As Flu Spreads Across State

All of Gray County's schools remained open today as one of the biggest flu epidemics in recent years hit Texas, closing at least three schools elsewhere.

The two local hospitals were busy with new flu cases and as soon as one bed is vacated a new flu patient is put in it, one doctor reported.

He estimated each of Pampa's 22 doctors were receiving from five to 10 new flu cases a day during the past two days.

Officials at Highland General Hospital said the institution's medical floor was swamped with new cases, but an exact count of just how many were flu cases wasn't available.

Will Get Worse

Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, told the United Press the epidemic will get worse before it gets better, hitting its peak in about 30 days and then tapering off. The flood of new cases were too many for accurate counting, Cox said, and health people reported being "too busy" to make any definite report.

Superintendent of Schools Knox Kinard was out of town and not available for a report on absenteeism in the schools because of the flu. However, a Pampa doctor said he had been treating more adults—for the flu—than (See CITY, Page 3)

Youngsters Taking Advantage Of MOD

A number of Pampa youngsters have been reported going from door to door collecting dimes for the March of Dimes and then pocketing the loot, Warren Hasse, county drive chairman said this morning.

"These children have not been authorized to make any door-to-door collections," Hasse said, adding, "the only door-to-door collection will be the Mothers March on Jan. 29."

Hasse said that the youngsters making the collections are not with the organization and are not a part of it in any way, even though they may be armed with coin cards.

Texas Budget Requests Far Ahead Of Expected Revenue

AUSTIN, Jan. 9 — UP — Texas lawmakers, who open the 53rd Legislature next Tuesday, will be faced with budget requests totaling at least $338 million which they must fill with $176 million of revenue.

State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert said the state is spending about $160 million during the current biennium and he predicted the state will take in $176 million in general revenue in the next two years.

The state would have a surplus of $16 million at the end of the next two years if spending continued at the present rate, Calvert said.

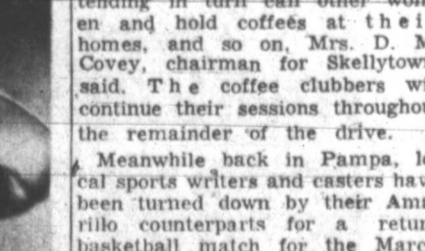

Seek Highway Maintenance

However, the Highway Department wants an additional $100 million a year for maintenance of the state's widespread network of highways.

Increases proposed in minimum pay for school teachers, from $2,400 to $3,000, would cost an additional $34 million a year. And budget requests are in from other state agencies calling for $36 million a year.

Self-Employment Tax And Losses From Business ... Your Income Tax Primer: Article 7

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
NEA Income Tax Expert

This article covers two items of interest to taxpayers with business or professional income. It explains the self-employment tax first imposed on 1951 income and shows you what to do if your business operated at a loss. The self-employment tax is 2 1/2 per cent of any self-employment income exceeding $400 and not more than $3600. It buys the same social security benefits that employees get.

The new tax does not concern you if you had no income from a partnership, business or profession. And many people with such income are not subject to the tax, including most professional persons, ministers and farmers. A complete list of people and income not subject to the tax is shown on the back of Schedule C.

The tax itself is computed on page 3 of Schedule C. Note that you may have self-employment income as a member of a partnership. Partnership income itself is computed on a separate return (Form 1065). This is an information return which shows how the partnership income is divided among the partners. Each partner then reports his share of the income on Form 1040 where it becomes part of his taxable income.

Let's assume you have income from a business profession or partnership and it is not the type of income listed under "Exclusions" on the back of Schedule C. Such income must be entered on the appropriate lines of the schedule. Follow the instructions for filling in the rest of the lines and you will arrive at the amount of self-employment tax. The tax will never be more than $81. It will be less if your self-employment income is less than $3600 or if you had wages from which social security tax was deducted.

Be sure to fill out Schedule C-a at the bottom of page 3 carefully and completely. This information establishes your rights to valuable social security benefits. Note that only one name is shown on Schedule C-a. If both you and your wife have self-employment tax to pay, use a separate Schedule C and C-a for each.

We have already explained briefly how a 1952 loss from your business or profession could be applied against any other taxable income. Here is additional information on how such a loss may also reduce your income tax for other years:

COULD YOU POSITIVELY TELL WHO FILLED OUT THIS FORM?

can be deducted from any other 1952 income. Suppose you had $1000 other income. This is offset by your $5000 loss, leaving you with no income and no income tax to pay for 1952.

But that isn't all the benefit you can get from such a loss. After deducting your 1952 other income you still have $4000 of the loss remaining. This can be used to get back the tax on $4000 of your income in 1951. If there is still some loss left after deducting your 1951 income, you can use the remainder to apply against income in 1953 and so on through 1957.

That is the theory of net operating losses. In practice, some taxpayers may have special circumstances which require adjustments to the losses. If you have a loss, it is advisable to check the computation with your tax collector or tax advisor.

The next article explains capital gains and losses. It will tell about the tax break for those

He Shoulda Stood In Bed ... Hank Bows Out Of Tournament To Give Pros A Better Break

By HENRY McLEMORE
DEL MONTE, Calif.

I shouldn't have come here for the Crosby Tournament. I should have stayed in Los Angeles where there are hundreds of what we used to call "pressing clubs" in Georgia. A pressing club is an establishment where a man short on clothes and have it pressed while he waits.

To put it perfectly honestly, I look out of place up here. If I had all my clothes together I might get by, but my clothes are scattered internationally. Some are in Mexico, some are in New York, some are in Hollywood, others are in San Francisco, and still others are in Seattle.

All I have here is a grey suit, a dark blue serge, two dinner jacket shirts, a pair of tennis shoes, and a fire sale cardigan that is minus all its buttons but one. I look as out of place as a dentist on a poultry farm.

I was over helping Phil Harris unpack an hour or so ago and the first things he brought out were two cashmere sweaters softer than a kitten's sneeze.

"My, those are pretty," I said. "Must have set you back a pretty penny. How much down-payment do you have to make on sweaters like that?"

Phil was too busy to answer me. He kept yanking out sport coats and slacks, until I knew I had better get out of there before I hit him on the head with a hammer and stole his wardrobe.

I played my first practice round in my blue serge suit and drew quite a large gallery. Large for me, that is. Two caddies and a man with a vacant stare who kept muttering, "Now I have seen all. I am ready to go."

Actually, the blue serge coat was a help to me. It kept me from overwinging, a weakness which has plagued me ever since I took up golf. It cut down my distance, of course, but by hitting from the ladies' tees when no one was looking, I turned the first nine at Cypress Point in an even-60 stroke, the best score ever registered by a man wearing a blue serge suit, and a pleated dinner jacket shirt and tennis shoes.

I haven't made up my mind yet, but I believe I am going to withdraw from the tournament and not play as a pro, as I originally intended. Look at it this way, and see if you don't think my withdrawal would be the sporting thing.

Professional golfers depend on what they win in tournaments for a living. Most of the pros are my friends. Why should I, a newspaperman, even though blessed with a great swing and tremendous courage on a golf course, take away the prize money from such players as Lloyd

Kidnap Trail Leads to Austin

HOUSTON, Jan. 9.—UP—The trail of two men wanted for kidnaping a Houston cafe man and leaving him tied to a bed in San Antonio led Friday to Austin, where two bus drivers said they took the men from Kerrville Tuesday.

The two men, who have been charged with kidnaping and with armed robbery in the $1,000 hold-up of the Blue Crown Cab Co., are Adolph N. Stroter, 27, a cab driver, and Eddie Hall, 27, an ex-convict.

They are charged with forcing Ronald Alexander, cafe owner, to drive them to San Antonio after the cab company holdup. They left in Alexander's car after tying him to a bed in San Antonio and taking about $1 from him.

Thursday Ranger L. H. Purvis found Alexander's car in Kerrville. He traced the pair to a bus depot and two drivers identified the men from pictures as passengers they took to Austin.

Pampa Lions Club Honors Area Farmers And Ranchers

Newton Harrell, Claude Armstrong county agriculturist, showed and narrated movies of New Zealand and Australia at a farmers- and -ranchers- day luncheon-meeting Thursday of the Pampa Lions Club.

Approximately 40 area cattlemen and farmers were present as guests of members.

Harrell was introduced by Foster Whaley, Claude Armstrong county farm agent and former Gray County farm agent.

The movies Harrell showed were made while he was a member of a Texas A. & M. agriculture committee which toured the two countries to investigate grass production.

The agriculturist, world traveler and speaker, said both countries are abundant in grasses and both raise vast sheep herds. The primary difference is that Australian prairies are natural grasses while New Zealand's crops have resulted exclusively from efforts of improvement and planting.

SLAYING

Officers on duty in the station how he had gone to the hospital for treatment, Rhodes said, fingerprints taken from the vent windows of Gibbs' vehicle were brought into the station.

When one of the officers casually remarked that the prints might match his (Robertson's), Rhodes went on, Robertson said, "I bet you're right." And they did. For Rhodes said, "Robertson's story just didn't add up."

Robertson quickly implicated Lucas, Rhodes said, and he was picked up shortly afterward.

Both men confessed the four crimes at 2 a. m. today. Gaither went on, and were lodged in county jail overnight.

Following the Smith killing Tuesday morning — but prior to the Gibbs' fatal stabbing Thursday night — The Amarillo Daily News and Globe-Times had offered a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who committed the crime (against Smith).

The newspapers had mentioned the "feeling of alarm," hanging "over the community since the brutal murder" of Smith.

In the latest of Amarillo's terrorizing, Gibbs — beaten and stabbed — had managed to stagger to the front porch of a home in a peaceful residential neighborhood, crying, "Help me! Help me! I'm bleeding to death."

He died about 20 minutes later after a neighborhood woman saw two men fleeing from his car parked in an alley. Death came at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Bailey, 3605 Rusk, to which he had staggered crying, "I've been beaten and I'm bleeding to death. Help me."

Gibbs' right eye was swollen almost shut and he had a deep gash on his forehead over his eye. Witnesses said the cab — just before he died — was bleeding profusely from several wounds and was restless.

He stumbled out onto the lawn in front of the house — and was dead moments later, they said.

dence and wisdom" dictated that the budget be balanced and rearmament be financed pay-as-we-go. This would mean still higher taxes. Under his spending program.

At a seminar with reporters, Mr. Truman made it double plain that he favors raising taxes to balance the budget. And he expressed doubt that Republicans could cut it much without weakening military or foreign aid programs. He called it a very tight budget.

Should Enact Substitute Taxes

The President said that if Congress permits the scheduled tax cuts to go through, it should enact substitute taxes.

Last January, Mr. Truman estimated federal spending in the current fiscal year at $35 billion. This estimate now has been cut back $10.3 billion to $24.7 billion because of military "production difficulties" and congressional cuts in appropriation requests.

Unless world conditions worsen, Mr. Truman said, military spending will hit a peak in fiscal 1954. He predicted a drop of $15 billion a year but not "for at least two or three years."

Mr. Truman said wage, price and rent controls should be continued at least until June, 1954, when the defense peak will be reached.

youngsters, adding that this seemed to be the trend locally.

"These flu epidemics," he explained, "usually come about every two years and sweep across the country like prairie fire and then die out, dying down first where the epidemic appears to have its start."

Threat Hit Hard

Dr. Cox said the hardest hit areas in Texas are the Panhandle, Rio Grande Valley and Central Texas.

Schools at Raymondville, Elgin and Chilton were closed down after almost a fifth of their students came down with the flu. At Waco 1,700 children were reported absent due to illness.

The local telephone exchange took a licking yesterday from the epidemic when one shift found 12 operators because of illness. Today, however, the forces were back to almost normal even though some of the girls at the switchboards weren't "feeling too well."

ering our water rights and possibly many other rights to the federal government; this goes for every public subdivision which votes for the creation of this water district."

He declared it entirely possible that a farmer or rancher might have to first get the consent of the reclamation bureau before he could drill a well on his land — especially after the Federal Bureau of Reclamation's activities in California.

Dougllass pointed out that the reclamation bureau never makes a contract for more than 50 years, adding "in each case there is a recapture clause."

Can Take Dam Back

He said the recapture clause would permit the bureau to take the whole project over and not even sell water to the cities, if it so wished.

Concluding, he declared there is sufficient underground water in the area that "can and should be developed by each of communities at a fraction of what the proposed dam would cost."

Dougllass' statement came almost on the eve of the hearing before the State Board of Water Engineers for an election to be held in the 11 cities and towns for creating a master water district for the dam.

Representatives of all the cities are expected to attend the hearing in Austin on Jan. 12. Dougllass said he would also attend the hearing, but did not say whether he would take an active part in it, or just sit in as a visitor.

Then he slipped at the Bureau of Reclamation, calling it greedy for power and said:

"The Federal Bureau of Reclamation is notorious for its greed for power. The citizens of this area need not think for one moment they could, through such a proposed water district, borrow such a vast amount of money from the government and not have to pay it back in taxes — and we are, in addition, surren-

Welch Admits 12 Forgeries In Pampa

Lee Riley Welch, 23, of Wichita Falls, has signed a statement before Sheriff Jordan, admitting 12 forgeries in the Pampa area.

In a five-day period between the last of November and the early part of December, Jordan quoted the statement as reading, "Welch passed forged checks on Wilson-Drug, City Drug, Allied Paint, and Homebuilders Supply, in the vicinity of Dec. 30, he forged checks on each of Pampa's florist-shops for $20 each.

Arrested early Wednesday afternoon on a tip from Tommy Sorrels, 19, employee of the Sherwin-Williams Paint Co., Welch made his statement to Jordan late Thursday night.

Jordan continued that there were still three or four checks out — between $15 and $20 — each signed by Welch, using the name "W. M. Welch."

His statement also disclosed, Jordan went on, that he had forged checks in several other counties. And he is known to be wanted in Borger, Wichita Falls, Odessa, Big Spring, Midland, Abilene and Plainview.

Midland and Abilene authorities have wired "hold warrants," Jordan said, but "Borger officials will get him next."

Captains in the "Trot" division are Rufe Jordan, Bob Quick, Jack Edmondson, Herman Foster, A. E. Whitten, Don Cain, Bob Knott, Greely Warner, Walter E. Ellier and Doss Millisp.

Captains in the Shelhamer division are Fred Brook, Coy Palmer, Jimmie Thompson, Joe Miller, Dr. J. L. Chase, Joe Crete, W. J. McNeill, Dr. Ed Williams, Jack Foster and Leslie Hart.

District committee members, executive board members and community representatives from the Aboe Walls Council of Boy Scouts met at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the Palm-room for the annual budget planning conference.

To ascertain an estimated budget for the coming year the conference split into seven groups following a general session led by Mayor C. A. Huff, council president.

When the groups reconvened each advanced the estimated cost of its operation for the year and the final estimated budget was established.

check history to see the cycle civilizations have followed.

"Countries go from bondage to spiritual faith, to courage, to freedom, to a measure of material abundance, to selfishness, to complacency, to apathy, to fear and worry, to dependency and back to bondage," he said. "And the United States is now in the fear and worry stage," he continued, as he implored persons to recognize how far we are over the hump in the cycle."

"One thing is certain," he said, "and that is that we stand on the threshold of a new age." But what the age will hold he directed to the people. He asked that people reestablish individualism and practical teaching, heed the Ten Commandments, and grow up emotionally as well as physically so that 1953 will go down as an improvement over 1952.

Rex Rose, member of the Pampa School Board, introduced Monroe.

Also included on the program were vocal selections by a Pampa Senior High School quartet composed of Bruce Campbell, Sam Daugherty, Walter Colwell and Elmer Bynum.

And referred to the war "mess" in Korea as an example. In 1952, the lecturer asserted, more than 50 per cent of the male population of the United States became veterans or members of the present war — yet he charged that persons only became concerned when a member of their own family or acquaintance was involved.

"Crime of the Century"

When arrested 28 years ago for the so-called "crime of the century," Leopold and Loeb said they picked Franks at random and killed him for the satisfaction of committing a "perfect crime." Prosecutors charged the two philosophy students had a Nietzschean "superman" theory.

Thursday board member Joseph Lohman asked Leopold bluntly what was his motive for the crime.

"I cannot truthfully give a motive that makes sense, even to me," the slayer said. "It was just a damn fool stunt by a child. It seems as bizarre to me today as it must to all people."

And, "If there is anything to learning a lesson, I am it," Leopold said.

"In 1924 I was a wild, smart-alecky kid. At least I'm not a kid now."

The parole board was not expected to reach a decision in Leopold's case until the end of the month.

Friends Trade Their Identities

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—UP—Two friends who traded identities so one could go to the Air Force and the other could marry the girl he loved have been placed on probation for three years.

Richard D. Phelan, 20, and Robert H. Y. B. 22, pleaded guilty Thursday in federal district court on charges of conspiracy to evade military training.

He later confessed the deception to FBI agents at San Antonio, Tex., where he was stationed with the Air Force.

City Insurancemen Outline Difference Between Mutuals

One of the big reasons no Pampan were reported having the bite put on them for assessments by the state to meet obligations of the 16 folding "county mutual" insurance companies is that a very few of them have insurance policies with such companies.

Local insurance men point out that there is a difference in the so-called "county mutuals" and the bigger "mutual" insurance companies. From a local angle, about the biggest difference is that none of the county mutuals are operating in Pampa or have any representative here.

From a technical viewpoint, the legal reserve mutuals operate under different charters and have a more powerful backing than the "county mutuals" which operate mostly within their own backyard, with some efforts at writing policies outside their own counties.

Celanese Grants Base Pay Increase

Base wage rate for Celanese employees has been increased 4.5 per cent, according to J. H. Frick, Celanese plant manager.

The increase became effective Thursday following approval by the Wage Stabilization Board and is to be retroactive to Oct. 1, 1952, Frick said.

In addition to the increase in the base wage rate there is to be an increase differential of four to five cents for the evening shift, and six to 10 cents for night shift.

The 4.5 per cent increase will mean an advance from $1.97 per hour to $2.06 per hour.

Also reported is the anhydride unit which is to be in operation in early February. With the operation of the anhydride unit, the Celanese Pampa Plant is completed.

However an expansion plan is underway which according to officials will not be ready before late summer. It is now in the engineering stages.

A small addition is now under construction.

Pampan Charged In Hand Chain Carrying

Burlus W. Wood, 25, of Pampa, was charged before County Judge B. Maguire today on a charge of unlawfully carrying a hand-chain.

Wood was arrested at Foster and Hobart about 9:25 a. m. Thursday by city police who all had been looking for him, following notification of his participation earlier in the "Bert" Bertveder Club, 2200 W. Alcock.

According to Police Chief Jim Conner, Belvedere personnel had notified the police department of a fight in which Wood had beaten R. M. Rhoten, Pampa.

Officers at the scene of his arrest, Conner said, did not know of his possession of the weapon until he pulled it out of his pocket and tried to flip it into the rear of his car.

Wood was lodged in city overnight and handed over county authorities this morning.

Subtle Patterns Appearing In New Spring Prints

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

Flowers seem to have disappeared from the spring prints. The prints that will blossom everywhere around Easter time are new and subtle patterns, according to the fashions being previewed this week at the New York Dress Institute's press week.

Shades of the same color in small indefinite patterns have replaced bright-colored flowers. Tweed, ermine and leopard all served as inspiration for the new prints.

Tweed, Fur Prints Used
Designer Adele Simpson has created dresses, jacket-dress costumes and coat-dress combinations with both tweed and fur prints. Mollie Parnis uses white, gray and black for a spring print dress topped with a black raw silk coat lined in the same print.

Print dresses have print collars to match in all shapes and designs. Some are triangular with fringed edges; other are long streamers with a loop at one end to hook securely over one arm. There even are narrow fox fur stoles lined with print to match the dresses in Mrs. Simpson's new collection.

With a few exceptions such as the fur stoles and jewel-studded cocktail dresses, American designers stress simplicity as the most important thing in future fashions. "Simple, direct and uncluttered," explained Mrs. Simpson, who managed to get the sleekly modern United Nations building into spring fashions by calling her straight, slim coats and suits the "UN silhouette."

Straight And Stiff
That uncurved look (men prefer it ignored. It suits every figure, ably won't like it) is too popular to sport or tall, the designers insist. Philip Mangone settled for a suit he calls "semi-fitted." It has a straight skirt, boxy jacket and a low belt across the back that indents it only slightly at the waistline.

Many of these little straight jackets have loose-fitting necklines, so the collar seem to stand away from the neck. At first glance the jackets seem too loose, and the designers are anxiously waiting to see whether women will wear them that way or insist that a fitter take up a seam to make the collar fit snugly.

Pauline Triguere used tucks and knife-sharp pleats from shoulder to hemline in coats and dresses to give the long, straight look. Evening dresses are cut higher in front and dipped lower in back this year. Miss Triguere managed a throat high front and a bare back by tying the front of a pastel wool cocktail dress around the shoulders with a tiny self fabric cord.

For all hours of the day the costume look is the newest thing. Short evening dresses are shown with matching sleeveless coats; suit jackets are lined with fabric to match blouses and fitted over-shoulder turn skirts into dresses.

New Coat Previews Show Slim Lines
By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
Now a girl has to worry about trim in warm weather too. They've put trim on short white wool jackets for spring and summer evenings. The round mink collar is used on a straight, high-length wool jacket with rhinestone buttons. Full length coats in pastel fleece wools have bright-colored flowers embroidered on the collar. A slim navy blue wool coat is trimmed with pearls and iridescent sequins on the white linen collar.

And for the luxury of the year, there's a white Vicuna fleece coat with an all-over leaf pattern embroidered in gold sequins and gold thread—price, $1,500.

These were some of the spring coats modeled in New York this week for the nation's fashion editors by the New York Dress Institute.

Coats Mostly Slimmer
Generally, spring coats are somewhat slimmer, though the popular flaring coat can still be found. The newest coat silhouette is called the wedge coat by Vincent Montezano. It cups in at hipline or hemline, depending on its length. The newest necklines is still the Cardigan, though collars vary from tiny standup tabs to huge cape collars.

The pushup sleeve retains its place in coat fashions. Little straight jackets that cling to the hips are given a softer look with bloused, puffed sleeves.

Eight designers showed their latest ideas at Tuesday's series of spring previews. Herbert Sondheim called his slim, straight suits, "match-box" silhouettes. But his dresses were as softly flaring as his suits were severely cut.

Girdle Sash Used
Clarie McCordell showed dress-jacket and dress-coat combinations in the new, straight line. A grey, tailored wool dress with a bright red silk girdle sash had a straight Cardigan coat with a matching red silk lining. Even her pleated and shirred dresses were carefully cut to give a slim appearance.

Musical Program Presented At Local Women's Club Meet

Mrs. Bill Waters and Mrs. Charles Hickman were speakers at the Twentieth Century Allegro meeting this week in the home of Mrs. Jim Leverick. Mrs. Waters discussed the life of Beethoven; Mrs. Hickman presented the history of American jazz, a spirited art that has been developing since the early 1900's.

Assisting the hostesses was Mrs. Robert Karr. Attending were Mmes. Billy B. Davis, James O. Evans, M. H. Wyatt, Raymond Reid, Harold Rinehart, H. Price Dosier, Jr., John Frisby, H. C. Grady, Jr., James E. Thompson, Clifford Braly, Jerry Thomas, George Cree, Jr., John M. H. Garman, Don Cain, Ewert Duncan, Waters, Hickman, and the hostesses.

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

He was a tough one. Some months before I met him, the police found him tap-dancing on the pavement before a cheap, sidewalk nightclub on Broadway. For weeks, he'd been feeding himself on the nickels and dimes tossed him by people who found it entertaining to watch an 11-year-old boy jig for coins at 4 o'clock in the morning.

The wheels of the law turned for Melvin—and I tossed him onto the lap of a quiet young man of remarkable intelligence. Like a plastic surgeon, he went to work. In a careful rebuild job, he snipped away tissues gone rotten with street-gang cynicism and repaired broken muscles of self-esteem.

After a while, you wouldn't have known Melvin if it hadn't been for the grin that had been so skillful at cadging coins from the pockets of the empty-headed. Because I knew how Melvin had used that grin to beguile nickel-and-dime attention, I didn't go overboard for it at once. But one day when it was all right to show him you thought he was fine, we sat under a tree together.

Melvin said, "I'm going to get out of here soon." "I know," I said. "I'm glad." "I'm going back to school," he said, chewing a grass blade. "Know what was the matter with me?"

"You told me," I suggested. "You spat me in the nose." Rolling over on his stomach, he said, "I was a real sorehead." "I didn't speak—and he reached for a pebble beside him on the grass. In the earth, he made a little grave for it and buried it. Then he looked up at me.

"Want to know why I was a sorehead?" he asked. "Sure," I said. "I'm listening." "I busted a window once," and the cop said, "Tell me the truth kid—and I'll let you off." So I told him the truth. I was green, see? I told him the truth and he hauled me in. He yanked me into court. And all the time the old guy on the bench was telling me how he wanted to help me. I was thinking, "Nuts to you, Nuts to everybody. You're liars, the whole works."

"You were wrong," I said. "We're not all liars." "Some are," Melvin said. "You tell people about kids, don't you? Well, you tell them I've got something to say to them. You tell them I said they better keep promises to kids. If they don't, the kids will say, 'Nuts to you.' They maybe won't say it out loud, but inside of them like I did. Then they're soreheads." "You couldn't be righter," I said. "OK, it's a deal. I'll tell them."

James W. Harvey Rites in California
WHITE DEER (Special)—Funeral services for James W. Harvey, 62, who died at his home in Modesto, California, Jan. 5, are scheduled to be held at the First Baptist Church, Modesto.

Mr. Harvey was born June 27, 1860, in Jackson, Miss. He came to Houston County, Texas, with his parents in 1865. He married Miss Theresa Tyler, of Houston County, in 1878. She preceded him in death in 1934.

Survivors include three sons, A. M. (Doc) Harvey of White Deer; John, of Portales, New Mexico; and W. E. of Modesto; two daughters, Mrs. Orie Ellis of Ceres, California and Mrs. Winnie Graves, of Livingston, Calif., and a number of grand children and great-grandchildren.

She Needed Help

CINCINNATI, Jan. 9—UP—Mrs. Martha Owsen, 37, was sentenced to a 30-day term in the workhouse for turning a false fire alarm to summon assistance. She was engaged in a fight with a relative.

back jackets, with collars that dipped in back, and evening dresses with low fullness caught at the back to resemble a train. Whimsical prints inspired by a South African safari were featured by Carolyn Shurmer on cotton fabrics. Everything from giraffe's sniffling daisies to exotic jungle plants were used for the prints.

Key wind blows away your beauty in winter if you don't take extra care. This girl is sorry now that she never bothered with hand lotion. Her hands are rough and red from constant slipping in water. But she finds comfort in using a rich cream (left) that she applies thickly before drawing on a pair of old cotton gloves to wear to bed. Henceforth she'll keep a bottle of hand lotion at both kitchen sink and bathroom basin and use them, and she'll make sure always to dry her hands thoroughly after washing. Her feet suffer, too, if she doesn't care for them. After a pedicure in which she files her nails straight across and softens and removes old cuticle, she applies nail cream to keep her toenails flexible and smooth she applies plenty of rich cream all over her feet and wears white socks to bed. Coming into a warm room out of the cold air can make your legs prickly and red so it's wise in winter to apply a good hand and body lotion to your legs before putting on your nylons (right).

Mrs. Otis Nace Presents Series Of Monologues

Mrs. Otis Nace presented a series of humorous sketches at the Jaycee-Ette meeting this week in the City Club room. She wore costumes depicting a soldier, "country cousin come to town," an elderly woman, and the disturbed wife.

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Elmer Francis, a bake sale was planned with all proceeds going to the March of Dimes.

Earlier this month, Jaycee-Ettes mailed March of Dimes letters to local residents and citizens of surrounding towns. The group voted to select secretaries and planned the monthly luncheons for 1 p.m. on the third Wednesday of each month.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Jack Vaughn and Mrs. Ivan Nobilit. The refreshment table was covered with a red linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of red and white carnations. Guests included Mmes. Raymond Kirby, Floyd Walker, Bill Sullivan, Terry Cullley, Sam Malone, Ralph Gardner, Homer Johnson, Raymond Laycock, and a former member, Mrs. John Garman. One new member, Mrs. Dick Stowers, was recognized.

The following members attended: Mmes. Bob Miller, Ruesly Ward, Bob Quick, James Roring, Tom Tipps, Bud Johnson, Bill Braly, H. C. Grady, Francis, Clifford McNeely, Bill Waggoner, Vaughn, Floyd Watson, Delton Sanders, Art Attergut, Nobilit, and Roy Taylor.

Mrs. Gordon Lyons Honored With Party
Mrs. Gordon Lyons was honored this week with a surprise housewarming staged by members of the Southwesterners.

Following a tour of the new house, games were played with all prizes going to the honoree. The final game ended when Mrs. Lyons found her gifts on the porch.

Refreshments were served to Mmes. Ruth Sewell, Leonard Husted, Ed Culbertson, O.K. Gaylor, Joe Gidden, Bill Bailey, Noal Clemmons, Marvin Cooper, Ewart Resvard, Gordon Lyons, Buck Moore, Floyd Lassiter, Robert Shugart, Omar Bybee, Joe Chudej, and Norman Flaherty. The next meeting of the group is scheduled for Jan. 19.

Miss Marie Chapin Honored On Birthday

SKELLYTOWN (Special)—Miss Marie Chapin was honored with a party January 2 on her fiftieth birthday. Miss Barbara Toth assisted as hostess. Barbara Toth assisted as hostess. Barbara Toth assisted as hostess.

Guests included Misses Barbara Homer, Gloria Wilson, Lynn Davis, Amy Jo Durming and Reta Gosnell. Others present were Jerry and Jimmy Gray, Walter Beauchamp, J. B. Roe, Daniel Cox, Howard Foust, Gary Gosnell, A.C. Malone, Donald Cook, Arthur Hernandez, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Toth, and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Chapin.

Tips for Task

To remove spots caused by wax dripping from a candle onto a tablecloth, use a blotter and a warm iron. Place a plain blotter over the spot and press with the iron for just a moment. The wax will loosen immediately.

Miss Mary Pursley Presents Program At Pi Mu Meeting

Miss Mary Pursley was program leader at a recent meeting of the Beta Phi Chapter of the National Society of Pi Mu. Mrs. Lily Hartfield, advisor, was hostess to the group.

Miss Pursley presented a talk which included the life history and works of Mozart, after which a duet, "Serenade from 'Don Giovanni,'" was played by Misses Kay Stewart and Claudette Matheny.

Others present for the meeting were Misses Juanette Adams, Sheila Lemons, and members of the Mother's Club. Mrs. George Adams, Mrs. C. C. Matheny, Mrs. C. B. Lemons, and a guest, Mrs. Carra Perkins, who is to act as co-advisor with Mrs. Hartfield.

Refreshments were served by Miss Stewart and Miss Lemons.

Parent Education Club Plans Rummage Sale For March Of Dimes

A rummage sale for the March of Dimes was planned at the Parent Education Club meeting held this week in the home of Mrs. Homer Johnson. The date of the sale is to be announced at a later date.

Mrs. George Snell and Mrs. Arthur Teed were program leaders. Mrs. Snell discussed new ways in discipline, and used as her subject, "Children Are People." Mrs. Teed discussed "Growing Into Maturity," a subject studied at a recent Methodist family life conference in Chicago.

Present for the meeting were Mmes. Tom Braly, R. S. Clark, Dale Culwell, Robert Curry, Clinton Evans, Gene Fathere, Jack Foster, Chilton Hill, George Hofness, Homer Johnson, Julian Key, Myron Marx, Jr., Albert Reynolds, Rex Rose, Tom Rose, Snell, J. B. Veale, C. C. Whitney, and Ed Williams.

Mrs. Hill will be hostess at the January 20 meeting when the study will be "Our City Government," and "United Nations Today."

Area Brotherhood Meets In White Deer

WHITE DEER (Special)—Clifton C. Kelly, White Deer, was host to the Baptist Brotherhood presidents and Royal Ambassador leaders of District 10 recently in his home. Purpose of the meeting was to make plans for the two groups for the coming year. Rev. Don Anderson, Cactus, District 10 Royal Ambassador Leader and representatives from the North Fork, Trans-Canadian and Palo Duro Associations were present. District 10 Brotherhood president is Clifton Kelly.

Beverly Caldwell Is Bride Of Sgt. Drew Godwin

In a candlelight ceremony read December 26 in the home of the bride's parents, Miss Beverly Caldwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Caldwell, Mobeetie, became the bride of Sergeant Drew Godwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Godwin, also of Mobeetie.

Rev. L. E. White, minister of the First Baptist Church, officiated at the ceremony read in the presence of the immediate family.

Miss Maurea Godwin, the bridegroom's sister, provided pre-nuptial music. Geoffrey Caldwell, brother of the bride, and Jay Godwin, brother of the bridegroom, lighted candles.

The Caldwell home was decorated with poinsettias and holly, carrying out the holiday theme. For her wedding, the bride selected a winter white suit and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses on a white ribbon. For something old, she wore earrings belonging to her great-grandmother Caldwell. Her father gave her in marriage.

Attendants were Mrs. Bill Godwin, who served as matron of honor, and Mr. Bill Godwin, who served his brother as best man.

For the reception following the ceremony, the table was laid with a lace cloth, and accented with crystal and silver appointments. Napkins, handpainted by the bride's mother, featured a wedding bell design duplicated in the individual cakes.

After a short wedding trip, the bridegroom returned to Camp Perrin Air Force Base for further orders. Mrs. Godwin expects to join him following his reassignment.

Skellytown Scout Group Elects Officers

SKELLYTOWN (Special)—Mrs. P. E. Stephenson was elected president of the Skellytown Brownie Scouts committee at a recent meeting in the Cabot Club house. Mrs. Gene White, outgoing president, presided at the meeting.

A carnival was planned for the month of March. Attending were Mmes. White, Darlene Wagner, Stephenson, and Elton Aubert.

Krehbiel-Flowers Vows Said At Canadian

CANADIAN (Special)—Miss Mamma Krehbiel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Krehbiel, became the bride of Joe Flowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Flowers Wednesday evening.

Only members of the immediate families were present when the wedding vows were read by the Rev. Taft Holloway, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Women's Club Activities For January Announced At Council Of Clubs Meeting

January activities of three local women's clubs were announced at the Council of Clubs meeting Thursday in the City Club room. Mrs. Raymond Harrah, president, presided.

Among the forthcoming events is the Parent Education rummage sale planned for January 17. All proceeds are to go to the March of Dimes now in progress.

Delta Kappa Gamma representatives announced their presentation of Miss Evelyn Oppenheimer in a book review January 19 at the Woodrow Wilson school. Miss Oppenheimer, who appeared here last year under the auspices of the DKG, is to review "The Silver Chalice," by Thomas B. Costain.

Also scheduled January 19 is a traveling art exhibit sponsored by the Pampa Art Club. The exhibit is to be held in the public library during library hours and will continue through January 31.

Following announcements of this month's activities, Mrs. Raeburn Thompson, representing the League of Women Voters, urged council members to pay poll taxes and become informed on the following subjects: United Nations, world trade, the dollar gap, federal taxes, balancing budget, and treaty making powers of the Senate.

The Council will hold its next meeting February 6.

RUTH MILLETT

You're cheating your husband if. However humble your living quarters, you don't make them as attractive as a woman's ingenuity, can so that he will never be ashamed to bring friends into the place he calls home. For remember, his home is as much his background as it is yours.

You don't see it to that your own family thinks he is a wonderful husband and that you are proud of him and happy with him.

You don't always have a warm, welcoming smile for him when he comes home at night no matter what kind of a day you have had. You perk up for company and certainly it is more worthwhile to make an effort at cordiality for a husband than for a guest, however blue you may feel.

You don't face the fact that his work is hard and often boring, but kid yourself that the business world is all excitement and interesting associations and that you alone shoulder all the drudgery of your marriage.

You'll never go with him on a business trip or away for a weekend because you are sure that if you did you would worry about the children—the whole time you are gone. However noble a woman may feel when she makes that excuse, she is actually saying to her husband: "The children are more important to me than you are."

You don't dress as well as you can afford to. A man likes to take pride in his wife's appearance and feel that he is able to give her the things other men in his position are able to give their wives.

You give him no say-so about how the home you share is decorated, how it is run, etc. A husband has a right to help select furniture, decide on color schemes, etc., and should be encouraged to do so.

Nor should his suggestions for improving the way the home is run to be taken as criticisms of your own management.

"BLESSED ARE THEY..."

As the little birds trust the mother bird, so let men trust God. If a sparrow cannot fall without God's attention, if He counts the hairs of our head... why do we fear (Mat. 10:29-31)? Worry about future security? God is the security for those who trust Him. Your Heavenly Father feeds the birds, and you are of far more value than they (Mat. 6:26). "Blessed are they who hunger for God's good things; they shall be filled." In childhood we needed mother and welcomed her... as adults we need God and ignore Him. In prosperity we forget God, the Bible, the church; but when disaster comes we want them all.

As your days so shall your strength be (Deut. 33:25). He will cover you with His feathers, and under His wings shall you trust (Psalms 91:4). Then why not trust God where you cannot see; the plan is His, the promise yours. "Blessed are they."

The Pampa Daily News

One of Texas' Five Most Consistent Newspapers

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

Who Done It?

If you ever wonder how the New Deal, Fair Deal philosophy became popular with so many people, Frank Chodorov, Editor of Human Events Magazine, tells you in "For Our Children's Children."

The success of the Bolsheviks gave impetus to the dogma of inevitability. Here was positive proof that Lenin was right; history can be pushed along.

There were speeches to be made, pamphlets to be distributed. Intergovernmental conventions required a lot of organizational skill and one's Witschewitz was soothed in writing, debating and every ill of mankind.

When Franklin D. Roosevelt looked for help and advice... these quite articulate smart boys were the logical ones to turn to. They had established their reputation for wisdom in books and articles, on the rostrum and in the classroom.

It Can Be Done

The incoming attorney general, Herbert Brownell, has ambitious plans for a house cleaning in the Justice Department. He is especially interested in eradicating all suspicion of corruption or Communist subversion.

It is comforting, at the same time, to hear that Brownell will not discharge Justice Department employees without cause. If a career man has been doing a good job, he will be kept on regardless of his personal political ties.

Brownell's opportunity actually is far broader than merely a chance to clean house. He can restore to his department prestige that it has not enjoyed for many years.

As top legal officer of the nation, it ought to set standards for all other government law agencies. Its various divisions should be commanded by men of high legal talent and training.

The Nation's Press

PROSPERITY THROUGH WASTE (The Wall Street Journal)

The seers in the Commerce Department have just taken a look in their crystal ball and come up with the prediction that we are going to have a very prosperous New Year—but that economic things aren't going to be so good the year following.

The logic behind this prediction is simple. There is going to be a lot of defense money being spent in 1953. That is supposed to make us prosperous. There will very likely be a tapering off of this defense and foreign aid spending in 1954. That is supposed to make us less prosperous.

Well, our own crystal ball has been misled and we don't know whether we are going to have a prosperous New Year or a recession in 1954, or vice versa, or what. But we are rather stubborn, in our conviction that whatever we have in 1953 or 1954, a nation can't buy prosperity merely by using guns.

Yet we must confess that the idea of prosperity through spending is a persistent one. Near the end of the last war, as everyone remembers, the Government seers told us that we were headed into a heavy recession when the Government quit spending billions to fight the war.

The explanation, we think, lies in the fact that a country gets from the quickened tempo in a war. Millions of soldiers are withdrawn from the working force to be supported by the rest of the community; this means more work to be done by those left. New factories spring up to make war goods; they are built and their products are turned out without regard to cost.

It's easily forgotten that the nation is really the poorer. It produces more economically useless goods, but it produces fewer useful goods. People have more dollar bills but fewer houses, automobiles, clothes.

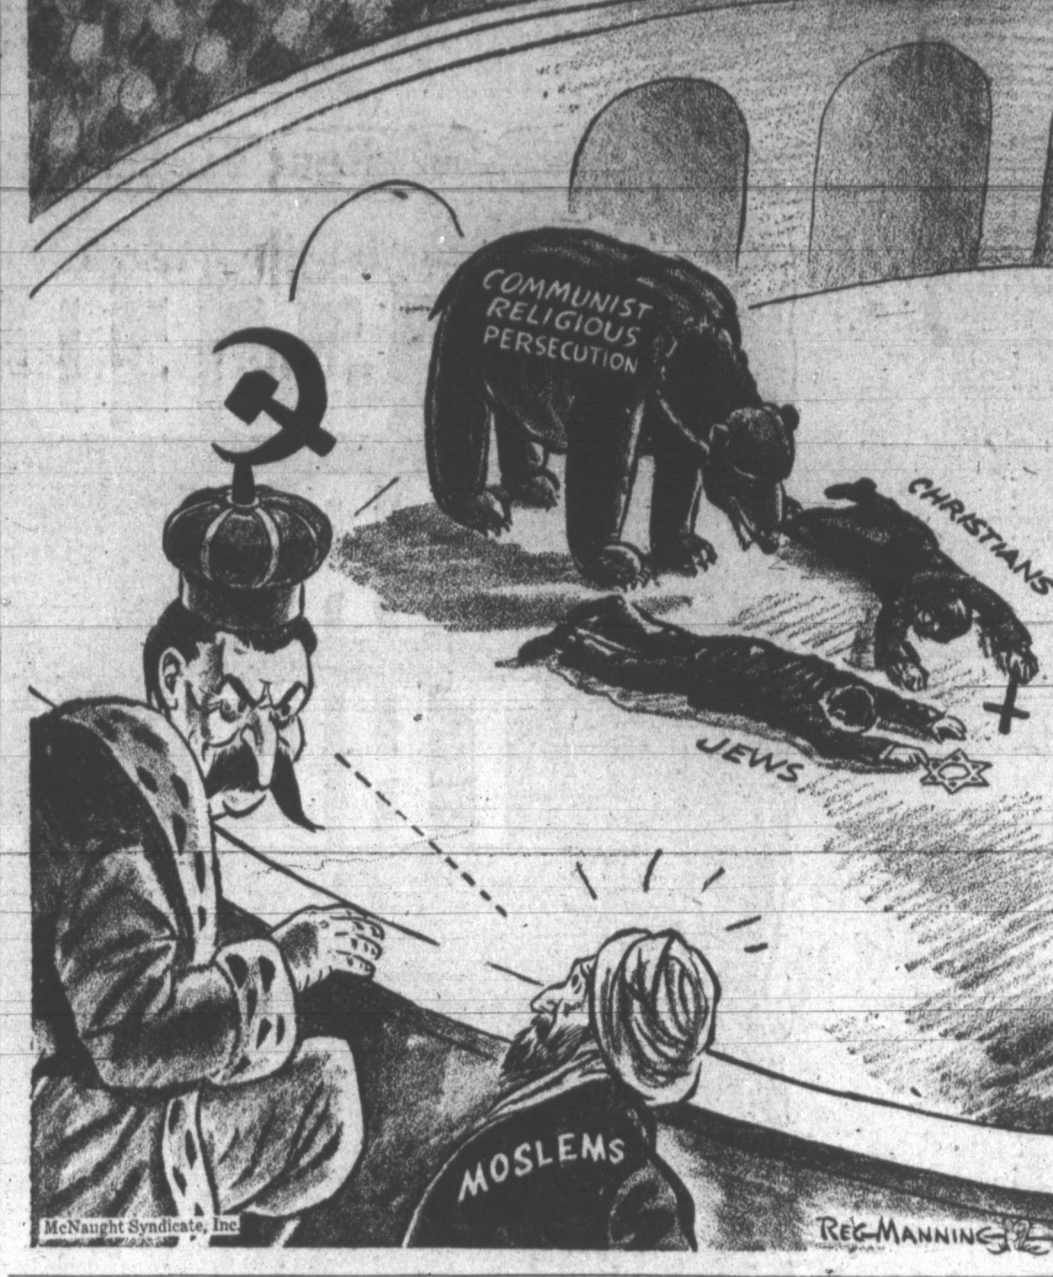

Temporarily we can get the same illusion from giving things away. When we give away a large percentage of our national production we can keep pretty busy producing more things so that we can give more away. If we can give away non-essential things like guns which cannot be used by the recipients to make anything for themselves, so much the better because it means we can keep busy giving them more of other things. The more waste the richer we will be.

No one would propose such a silly proposition about a man's labor or that of a family. But if you propose it about a nation—and particularly when what is given away is just dollar bills, pieces of paper that can be made to seem very profound.

There are good reasons for defense expenditures and good arguments for foreign aid. But it is foolish to say they make a nation "prosperous." Yet this notion is implicit in all these predictions that we are going to be prosperous so long as we spend so much on arms or abroad and that we are going to be poorer when we reduce this burden.

In fairness it should be noted that the Commerce Department did not propose we keep our heavy Government spending to maintain business activity. It pointed out that what happens after Government spending tapers off depends on how much ordinary citizens spend. With less taxes, we might remember, the citizens would keep more of their earnings to spend for useful things to make both themselves and the community more truly prosperous.

National Whirligig.. Washington Scribes Probably Will Have It Easy Under Ike

WASHINGTON—Although President-elect Eisenhower and his political-journalistic advisers have not yet made a final determination on the agenda of their relationship with the Washington press corps, it is now definite that the White House will not be a newsy or headline-making spot in the next four years.

The reasons behind this transformation from the gossipy Truman days and the stirring, "clicking" Roosevelt era, as well as the results of the change, are of far greater concern to the American people—the readers, that is—than they are to the "writing gals and fellows" at Washington, as California weekly biweekly press conferences with a President provide the principal contact between the public and the man in the White House. They cannot get a clear or vivid image of him from his official statements and communiques. It is through the give-and-take at these duels that they come to appreciate and understand him as a human being.

Most of the prospective, major shifts from the Truman program will not require legislation. They can be achieved by administrative action in the various departments and federal agencies. They can be effected with less jarring to the nation's economic system, if put into effect in a quiet and routine manner.

BID FOR A SMILE

Once upon a time the editor of a Virginia paper, tired of being called a liar, a white-washer and a booster of his friends, and announced that he would tell the truth in future issues of his paper.

John Cogle, our grocerman, is doing poor business. His store is dirty and dusty. How can he expect to do much?

David Conkey, "died at his home here Tuesday. The doctor gave it out as heart failure. Whiskey killed him."

Not all people who have polio have to go to the hospital, and an article in one of the medical journals, not long ago, suggested more could be treated successfully at home.

Fair Enough.... Good Reasons To Believe HST Kept $200,000 Expense Fund

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

No enemy of Harry Truman ever has epitomized his moral ignorance as well as Truman did when he bespoke for Gen. Eisenhower a continuation of the tax-free graft of $50,000 disguised as an expense allowance. Altogether, Truman has picked up $200,000 under this pretext.

There are good reasons to believe that he has kept all of it. One reason is that he is stingy. He does not "entertain" a d from way back he has been known a slow man on the draw. That is his reputation in Kansas City and he has done nothing to damage that reputation since he went to Washington as the worthy protégé of Tom Pendergast, who set such an example of greed that he docked the Kansas City cops for money to bet on the races.

LOOKING SIDWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

Now that the smoke has cleared away and the hostiles have retreated to their homes to sulk and cook up some new border devility, let us consider the Case of Miss Bette Davis, a dramatic bit of acting royalty, who decided to sing her pretty legs in a musical revue and got bruises for her pay.

It was no good rushing to her defense while the battle was on, because no calm voice could have been heard amid the swirl of criticism. Now that order has been restored and the happy producers of "Two's Company" have around $500,000 in the till with which to combat anti-Davisism, it may be a good thing to evaluate Miss Davis and her works as a "colored" talent.

No one is going to get up to say that she is better than such musical show champs as Ethel Merman or Mary Martin, because she isn't. She is a queen in that field and has a great, spectacular talent for that field. Miss Davis was not born to be a girl-and-giggler star. She couldn't work in the same league with the late Gertrude Lawrence and such slick and accomplished article as Miss Merman could leave her at the post.

But with the material she has, with the company she is doing, she is an impressive artist in her current show, the first musical she ever attempted except for a brief chant in a Warner item during World War II. She is a great and melodious singer, not a dancer to give other dancers major work. The lovely part of her work is that she doesn't pretend to out-dance dancers or out-sing singers. She just does her job, has an enormous amount of charm and is an excellent lady clown, complete in some cases with blacked-out teeth and sexy spangles.

Let Miss Davis, she is doing a terrific job at the Alvin. She is loaded with talent, her famed voice fits what she is doing and her glowing personality does a full-hearted job up there on the stage. I could have settled for a number material, but she didn't write the stuff and, therefore, can't be padded for it. I could also have hoped for singer songs for her, but she didn't write those, either, so you can hold back your horse-whip on that count. She does what every revue actress does: she gets out the 4 and does the best she can with the material given to her—and the best she can is plenty good enough for me, and should have been for anyone else.

Harvesters Host Bobcats Tonight; Eagles Tomorrow Night

PHS Unbeaten Spot In Serious Danger

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa Daily News Sports Editor

San Angelo's giant Bobcats move in on the Hustlin' Harvester cagers tonight to open one of the most crucial week ends that a Green and Gold quint has ever confronted at the new Harvester fieldhouse.

The Bobcats, boasting two lads measuring 6-6, meet the Harvesters at 8 o'clock tonight and then tomorrow night, at the same starting time, the ever-dangerous Abilene Eagles invade Pampa for a joust with the Harvesters.

Both games will be important District 1-AAAA contests.

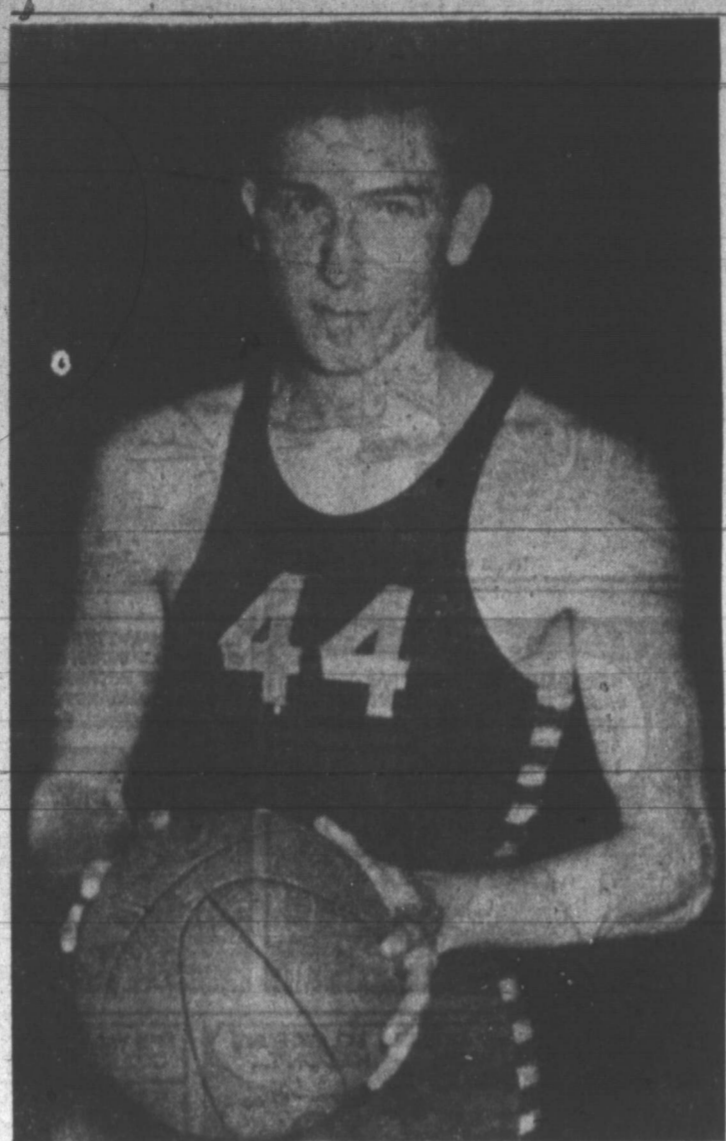

All three teams taking part on this weekend's card here are still very much in the title race. The Harvesters are currently tied with Amarillo for the lead with a 2-0 won-lost record while both San Angelo and Abilene are close behind with 1-1 marks. Abilene, however, will enter the game tomorrow night with either a 2-1 or 1-2 record since they meet the defending champion Borger Bulldogs at Borger tonight. Then, of course, Pampa's status will also be changed before meeting the Eagles as it will be either 3-0 or 2-1, depending on tonight's outcome with San Angelo.

PHS Record In Danger
The Harvesters will enter tonight's game with the only perfect season record in 1-AAAA, the Green and Golds having won all their 10 games to date. But Harvester coach Clifton McNeely is aware of the fact that the undefeated record of his charges is in serious danger in the two games this weekend.

Tonight's opponents, the Bobcats, knocked off one of the district favorites, the Lubbock Westerners, 55-39, in last Friday's opening district game. In Bobby Harris and Jerry Jones, both 6-6 lads, the Bobcats are apt to make it tough for any team without height.

The average heights of the Harvesters and Bobcats are about the same but the Harvesters don't have anyone as tall as Harris or Jones which will give the "Cats the rebound advantage. Jimmy Bond is the tallest Harvester at 6-5.

Plainview Baseball Fans Revive Hopes; Seeking Borger Or Lamesa Franchises

PLAINVIEW BASEBALL FANS haven't dropped their plans of obtaining a franchise in the West-Texas New Mexico League even though they failed in their efforts to get the Oiler club.

Ernie Brock and his crew of Plainview baseball boosters now have their sights set on Borger and Lamesa with hopes of buying one of the franchises.

Both Borger and Lamesa are up for sale and it's quite possible that Plainview will succeed in securing one of the clubs.

Neither the Borger nor Lamesa clubs have a selling price as high as the Oiler franchise. Oiler owner Doug Mills just had more invested in the club here than the Borger and Lamesa owners.

We doubt very seriously that the Borger club will ever leave that city, at least not right now, but we're not sure just what the situation is at Lamesa.

D. M. Spector, owner of the Borger franchise, definitely is stepping out of baseball this year and he has offered to sell the club to any interested person in Borger. He hasn't had any takers yet but we feel certain someone will speak up before an outsider steps in.

Lamesa formerly was one of the best drawing clubs in the WT-NM but the attendance figures have dropped tremendously the past two years. It's hard to tell just what causes this for the most part, the town has the same number of baseball fans who used to turn out to drool in the Lobo games.

Should Plainview obtain one of the Lamesa franchises, it would make it much better for the Oilers so far as traveling is concerned. That would give three clubs close by, Borger (27 miles); Amarillo (82 miles); and Plainview (130 miles). Then two there are still under the 200 mile mark, Clovis (161) and Lubbock (177). With five of the seven opposing clubs less than 180 miles away, the Oiler travel worries would be over.

The other two clubs are more than 250 miles distant, Abilene (258) and Albuquerque (346). Lamesa, incidentally, is 238 miles.

WHILE ON THE SUBJECT of baseball, there already has been some drastic changes this year among WT-NM personnel of last year.

L. B. Palmer, fiery manager of the Lubbock Hubbers last year, has signed to manage the Abilene Blue Sox for the coming year. Hack Miller, who started the '52 season as the Blue Sox boss but who resigned around the middle of the season, has signed to manage the Big Spring Broncs of the Longhorn League.

Miller had intentions of retiring from baseball when he tendered his resignation last summer to Sox officials, but guess the oyley has been in the game too long to bow out.

Art Bowland, popular catcher for the Blue Sox, is calling it quits as a baseballer. Art seems to have a good job at a construction company in Abilene and has decided to hold on to it and give up baseball.

So far as we know, Palmer is the only manager who has definitely been signed for the '53 season.

Boys Clubbers Battle Lefors Tomorrow Nite

The Boys Club boxers, still readying themselves for the coming District Golden Gloves to be held at the Southern Club Sports Arena Jan. 22-23-24, will invade Lefors tomorrow night to take on the Lefors High School fisticuffs.

Starting time of the matches tomorrow has been set for 7:30. The bouts will be held at the high school gymnasium.

Several good matches are on tap in the matches tomorrow with Bobby Wilhelm, ace of the Boys Club squad, to appear in the feature role. Wilhelm will fight Kenneth Woods of Shamrock but who has been representing the Boys Club in team matches this year, in an exhibition affair.

The Boys Clubbers are undefeated for the year but have been twice tied. They own victories over Clovis and Amarillo and have been held to draws by Roswell Military Institute and Clovis.

Proceeds tomorrow night will go into the Lefors athletic fund, some of the probable matches tomorrow will be:

80 pound class — Arnold Warner, Lefors, vs. Carson Watt, Boys Club.

85 — James Warner, Lefors, vs. Gary Watt, Boys Club.

90 — Cecil Saunders, Lefors, vs. Gary Wilhelm, Boys Club.

105 — Charles Layne, Lefors, vs. Gary Green, Boys Club.

112 — J. D. Redus, Lefors, vs. Rabbit Ramirez, Boys Club.

118 — Ronnie Rice, Lefors, vs. Jesse Ring, Boys Club.

118 — Johnny Quallas, Lefors, vs. Ronnie James, Boys Club.

126 — Fred Blackwell, Lefors, vs. Scotty Davey, Boys Club.

160 — Paul Cooper Shamrock, vs. J. N. Wright, Boys Club.

Tomorrow's matches will be broadcast over KPCH.

EAGLE STAR — Jerry Turner, above, heads the Abilene Eagle delegation who invades Harvester Fieldhouse tomorrow night for an important 1-AAAA tussle with the Harvesters. Turner was recently voted the outstanding player in the Cotton Bowl tournament at Dallas which the Eagles won. He is one of four returning Eagle regulars. Turner leads the Eagle scorers with 251 points. (Abilene Reporter News Photo)

Jerry Turner To Lead Eagles Against Harvesters Saturday

By FRED SANNER
Sports Writer
Abilene Reporter News

Somewhat slowed by a knee of injury received during the football season, 6-4 guard Tommy Estes has still been able to nail down second place among Eagle scorers with 160 points, followed closely by 6-2 center Bob Fry with 152.

Seale is fourth with 126 and Dick Wagley, a 5-11 guard who is the most improved player on the Eagle squad that finished third last year in the district race, is fifth with 122.

Paced by Jerry Turner, 6-2 1/2 senior center, who has poured 251 points through the hoops in 27 games for a little less than 15 per game, the Eagles have won 14, lost three.

The most prized accomplishment thus far of the Warbirds has been winning the 32-team Cotton Bowl tournament at Dallas. The first time in the 13-year history of the meet the title has gone to a non-Dallas quintet.

But the Cotton Bowl title may have cost the Eagles a better shot at the 1-AAAA title, which Coach Jake Bentley's senior-laden team covets even more.

Playing six games in eight days, the Warbirds dropped the sixth, the 1-AAAA opener, to Amarillo, 59-46, then state though they were, outlasted the Lubbock Westerners, 65-64, the next night.

The Eagles should be well-rested for tonight's game with defending champion Borger, having played only a Monday night March of Dimes tilt with Clyde, in which they waltzed to a 64-51 triumph.

In addition to the Amarillo loss, the Warbirds dropped a 61-49 decision to Fort Worth Poly, defending state Class AAAA champions, in the semifinals of the Hardin-Simmons tournament, and lost a 59-57 overtime thriller to the Brownwood Lions.

Only current casualty on Coach Bentley's quintet may be 6-0 starting forward Tommy Seale, who missed Wednesday's practice with the flu but who made the trip on the off chance that he would be able to help the Eagles on this important two-game trip.

Furillo Given Eye Operation
NEW YORK, Jan. 9 — Out-fighter Carl Furillo of the Brooklyn Dodgers was reported recuperating Friday at St. Clare's Hospital where he underwent "a routine eye operation" Thursday.

Hospital authorities refused to divulge the details of the surgery on Furillo but said the operation was not serious and that he is expected to be discharged shortly.

trout won its eighth game, 75 to 57, over Illinois Tech, and Morgan State won its fifth, 67 to 58, over Howard. Texas Wesleyan ended the nine-game string of Southwest Texas, 83 to 68.

The grand total of unbeaten teams, both major and minor, now stands at 15.

Good Records Risked
Southern Cal and Navy risk their spotless records Friday night, the Trojans in a Pacific Coast Conference game against Stanford, and the Midlans against Princeton.

Two other small-college unbeaten teams preserved their records with triumphs last night, while a third was defeated. Wayne of De-

Abilene's 14 victims have been Roscoe, Birdville, San Angelo, Coleman twice, Highland Park twice, Carrollton, Pleasant Grove, Crozier Tech of Dallas, Admson of Dallas, Bailey, Lubbock, and Clyde.

Two New Foes On '53 PHS Grid Slate

The 1953 Pampa Harvester grid will play five games at home and five away, Harvester Coach Tom Tipton has revealed.

Two new opponents will appear on the Harvester schedule next fall, Big Spring and Fort Worth Paschal. They will replace Vernon and Duncan of Oklahoma.

The other eight opponents were on the Harvester slate last fall. The '53 card, completed yesterday, shows the Green and Gold playing two non-conference and three conference games at home.

The road games include one non-conference affair and four District 1-AAAA contests.

The Harvesters will open with Austin High of El Paso, Sept. 18, here, and close Thanksgiving Day at Borger, Nov. 28.

In addition to Austin, the other two non-conference foes on the Harvester card are Big Spring and Paschal of Fort Worth. The Harvesters will play Big Spring here the second game of the season, Oct. 2, and go to Fort Worth the following week to meet Paschal.

The Harvesters open their District 1-AAAA schedule against the Amarillo Sandies here Oct. 9. Following is the complete '53 Harvester grid schedule:

Sept. 18 — Austin of El Paso, here.

Sept. 25 — Big Spring, here.

Oct. 2 — Paschal at Fort Worth, Oct. 9 — Amarillo, here, Oct. 16 — San Angelo at San Angelo.

Oct. 23 — Abilene, here, Oct. 29 — Midland at Midland, Nov. 7 — Open.

Nov. 14 — Odessa, here, Nov. 21 — Lubbock at Lubbock, Nov. 28 — Borger at Borger.

Sooner Aggies Bow To Kansas

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 — UP—Kansas, the defending NCAA champion basketball team, still is eluding the odds predicted for it by Coach Dr. Forrest (Phog) Allen and providing plenty of surprises.

The latest feat of the Jayhawks was a 65 to 53 triumph Thursday night over the Oklahoma Aggies, the nation's sixth-ranked squad which had entered the game at Lawrence, Kan., a 15-point favorite. For once, the ball-hogging Aggies ran into a team with a tougher defense.

After trailing most of the way, the Aggies managed to pull even at 45-45 with eight minutes to play. But Kansas scorned the Aggies' all-court press and blasted through the renowned defense set up by coach Henry Iba to tally 20 points in those last eight minutes. Six-foot, nine-inch B. H. Born, Kansas' successor to All-American Clyde Lovellette at center, paced the Jayhawk attack with 21 points and Dean Kelley had 18. Bob Mattick had 16 for the Aggies.

Only One Player Returned
Kansas has back only one player from last year's first team, which represented the U.S. in last summer's Olympics. Coach Allen predicted at the start of the year that his squad would absorb many beatings.

But this triumph was the sixth in eight games for Kansas—one of those defeats was a six-point loss to Kansas State, which is favored to lift the Jayhawks' Big Seven title. Thursday night's loss was the second in 12 games for the Aggies.

Two other high-ranked teams posted victories Thursday night. Brigham Young, the Skyline Conference favorite rated 14th nationally, skinned through to a 55 to 54 victory over Denver in a league game. Western Kentucky, ranked 16th, beat Cincinnati, 84 to 76.

The ranks of the major unbeaten teams were reduced to four when Georgetown of Washington, D.C., suffered its first loss in six games to George Washington, 78 to 65. The only major pre-record squads left are Seton Hall (14 games), Fordham (10), Southern California (10), and Navy (7).

Good Records Risked
Southern Cal and Navy risk their spotless records Friday night, the Trojans in a Pacific Coast Conference game against Stanford, and the Midlans against Princeton.

Getting back to our original subject, here is the way the coaches picked their own team to finish: San Angelo, sixth by Hinton; Amarillo, sixth by Hull; Pampa, sixth by McNeely; Abilene, sixth by Bentley; Lubbock, seventh by Cook; Odessa coach Malaise said he preferred to wait and see, and Midland eighth by Rutledge.

Tiger Jones In Return Bout
NEW YORK, Jan. 9 — UP—Ralph (Tiger) Jones, most improved fighter in the middleweight division, will try to lick Rocky Castellani Friday night at Madison Square Garden in their return 10-rounder, which officially opens the eliminations for the vacant 160-pound title.

Dusky Jones of Yonkers, N.Y., had Castellani on the floor in first round of their initial bout at the Ridgewood Grove Club last March 8; but Brown-haired Rocky of Luzerne, Pa., came on to win the decision by a slight margin.

GOSH, BRADSON, WHAT'S THE MATTER?

IT'S WONKING... HE'S ACCIDENTALLY MACHINED HIMSELF OFF SOMEWHERE!

UM... IT'S TOO LATE TO GET 'EM BACK NOW, IT SEEMS! WHERE'D HE SEND HIMSELF ANYWAY?

GOSH, OOP! I DON'T KNOW!

FER CATSAKE, HOW'D DOC COME TO DO SUCH A CRAZY THING?

HOW SHOULD I KNOW? I'M AN ARCHAEOLOGIST, NOT A PHYSICIST!

THEN Y'BETTER START STUDYIN' PHYSICS, LEGS! YOU'VE GOT TO STAY PUT!

Alley Oop

MR. GREEN, JR. IT IS OUR PLEASURE TO ANNOUNCE THAT YOUR ENTRY HAS WON OUR NATIONAL "WINTER VACATION CONTEST" LETTER FOLLOWS. S.S.C.O.

JUST CALM DOWN UNTIL THAT LETTER ARRIVES, YOU'RE READING NOT BURE OF A TRIP.

WHY ARE YOU READING TRAVEL BOOKS?

WE'LL HAVE TO MAKE SOME ARRANGEMENTS FOR BOARDING YOU AND BO WHILE WE'RE GONE.

MAYBE I OUGHT TO GET A TYROLEAN HAT AND A FANCIER OVERCOAT. I DON'T WANT TO LOOK TOO BOOSHMAH ABROAD.

Steve Canyon

DO YOUR HUSBAND RETURN THE PAY-OFF LIST WHEN HE DIDN'T... NO, MR. FLINT, HE DIDN'T...

"HE WRAPPED IT UP AND MAILED IT OUT OF THE CITY."

"AND THEN HE WENT TO YOU FOR PROTECTION, YOU SEE, HE REALLY WAS CALLING GLAND'S BLUFF, BUT GOOD?"

Alley Oop

HEY, LI'L DOC! LOOK WHAT YA DID TO MY BEANIE!

SORRY, CINDY, I DIDN'T SEE YOU!

BESIDES, I DID YOU A FAVOR—LOOK INTO THAT MIRROR!

GOSH, YOU'RE RIGHT... IT DOES LOOK BETTER!

Little Doc

WHAT'S THE FIRST THING YOU CAN REMEMBER, TYKE?

RUNNING... ON AND ON... I CAN'T RECALL WHY... ONLY THAT I'D BEEN GUILTY OF SOMETHING TOO HORRIBLE TO FACE!

I DIDN'T WANT TO LIVE! WHY DID YOU PULL ME OUT OF THE RIVER TO FACE IT ALL OVER AGAIN?

WELL... I'VE KNOWN YOU TOO WELL... YOU CAN'T BE GUILTY OF ANYTHING VERY BAD! AND I'LL PROVE IT TO YOU SOMEHOW!

DOES THE NAME MODESKA STRIKE ANY RECOLLECTION? MR. AND MRS. HAN MODESKA! THAT'S THE OLD COUPLE WHO DIED IN THE FIRE!

VAGUELY, PERHAPS. I'M NOT SURE. OH, PLEASE—I'M AFRAID TO KNOW THE TRUTH!

EASY! I HAVE A SUGGESTION...

Alley Oop

DISCHARGED CATHY? YOU?

THAT'S RIGHT! BY MR. SPANGLER HIMSELF!

I SUPPOSE I HAD IT COMING, BUT...

THAT HORRID OLD MISS HORNSBY PROBABLY HAD SOMETHING TO DO WITH IT! OR MONICA HERSELF!

IS THERE ANYTHING I CAN DO TO HELP, CATHY?

THANK YOU, BOOTS, THERE'S NOTHING EVERYTHING IS ALL OVER AND DONE WITH NOW!

Board Members Named
AUSTIN, Jan. 8-UP-2. Earl Rudder of Brady was appointed by Gov. Allan Shivers Friday to serve as a member of the Board of Public Welfare, and Louis Henna of Round Rock was named a member of the Texas Youth Development Council. The two men will succeed the late Mrs. R. J. Turrentine of Denton, who served on both boards.

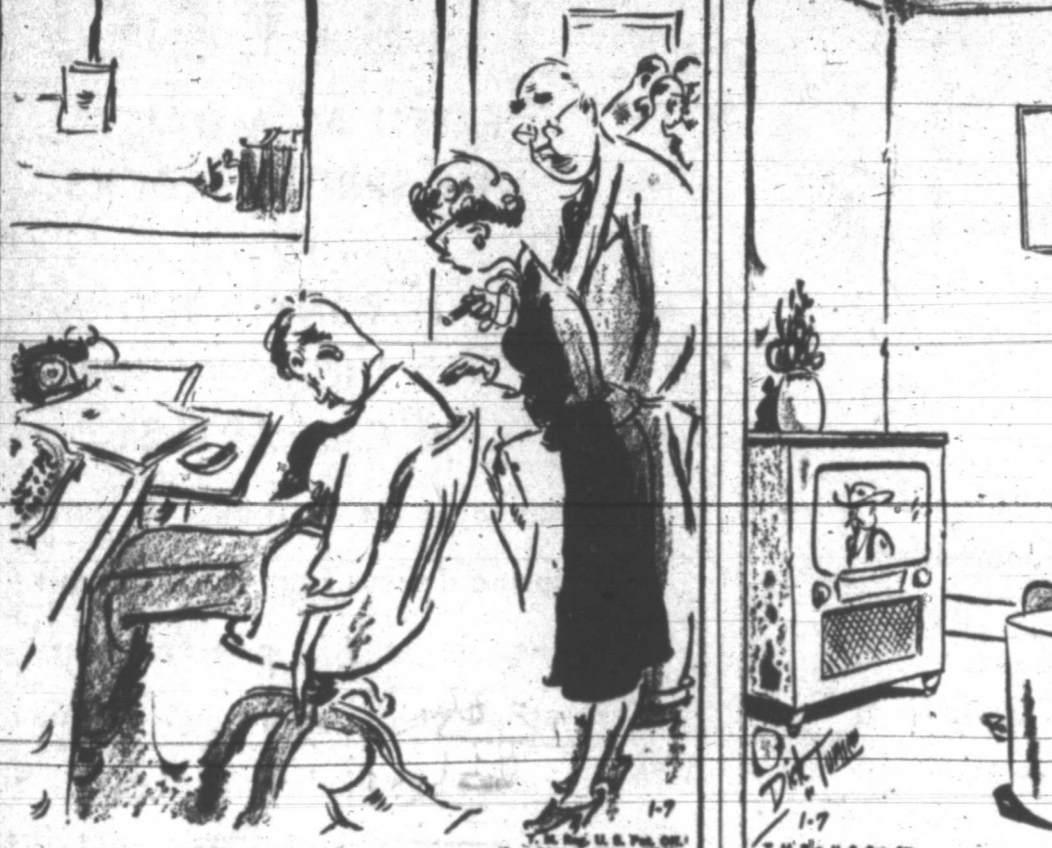

Two-Year-Old is 'Co-Pilot'
NEW YORK, Jan. 8-UP-A two-year-old San Antonio boy ended a European tour Friday with the title of copilot. The youngster, John Price Booth, was given the title by Larry Wells, pilot of the TWA airliner on which he flew to New York from Germany. John was allowed to sit in the pilot's cabin during the flight.

Hall Hearing Set
AUSTIN, Jan. 8-UP-The Texas Railroad Commission will decide Feb. 19 whether the International-Great Northern Railroad Co., a part of the Missouri Pacific system, may discontinue two trains operating between Houston and Galveston. The commission said a hearing on the company's application would be held in the Galveston county courthouse.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Outcome of Game Decided By Players

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
What would be the outcome of today's hand in a regular bridge game? The answer would depend on the quality of the players on both sides.

The average declarer would complain bitterly about the horrible trump break and would concede a club and a diamond. Down one.

The expert declarer would usually succeed in making his contract by the following line of play. Win the opening heart lead with the ace of hearts, draw one trump with the ace of clubs, and think a few violent thoughts about the bad break in clubs.

Recovering his calm, the expert would continue with another high trump and would cash the top spades and the rest of the top hearts before conceding a club trick to West. West is forced to return a diamond, since a heart return would allow dummy to ruff while South discarded his losing diamond.

When West returns a low diamond, dummy plays low, and East's queen is captured by the ace. South can now finesse dummy's ten of diamonds to make his span.

Put an expert in the West seat as well as in the South seat, however, and the contract is defeated. South goes through the process of stripping out the spades and hearts before giving West his club trick. But West comes up with a brilliant return. Instead of leading the jack of diamonds, West returns the jack of clubs. It doesn't matter where South wins his trick, or what he plans to do next in the suit. No matter how he squirms he must lose a diamond trick and will therefore be set.

For example, suppose dummy wins the trick with the king of diamonds. If declarer continues by leading the ten of diamonds from dummy, East covers with the queen to set up West's nine. If declarer continues with the low diamond, East can afford to play low. Either way, the defenders get a diamond trick.

PRIMARY BILL PUSHED
TEXAS CITY, Jan. 7—UP—State Sen. Jimmie Phillips of Angleton led a meeting of the League of Women Voters Tuesday night that a presidential preferential primary bill to be introduced in the state legislature was a "necessary and real reform," and any action taken on it should be extended to the national level. Phillips wrote the bill.

FLAMING OBJECT—Wylie V. Moore, a control towerman for 14 years, displays the sketch of a "flaming object" he spotted near the control tower at Love Field in Dallas. Moore watched the odd looking "saucer" fly in a straight line for 4 or 5 minutes at 2,000 feet then turn and fly straight up at a speed he estimated at 600 to 700 miles per hour. Reports of "something" in the skies were re-

JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

Hollywood (NEA)—Exclusively Yours: Lana Turner is planning to surprise Hollywood in 1953. She's not going to get married—she hopes.

As a fellow who almost always goes to Lana's weddings, I was curious about whether there will be a Husband No. 4 now that she's shed Husband No. 3, Bob Topping.

"I HOPE NOT!" she screamed with a wince between sessions of a hot Samba with Ricardo Montalban for "Latin Lovers." Fernando Lamas was Lana's Latin lover in the original casting, but when she cast him out of her life MGM also cast him out of her picture.

Now that Lamas has taken it on the lam, it's a "well-adjusted" Lana facing the new year, she says, with the exception of one thing.

"I have to get out of this town for a while. I need a new perspective. There's talk of a movie in Italy and I've got my fingers crossed."

Deanna Durbin's saying she doesn't want to make another movie, but her discoverer, Producer Joe Pasternak, is convinced the greasepaint lure will have her facing a camera again. They haven't seen one another since her return to Hollywood from France, but they've had numerous telephone conversations and Joe told me, "She belongs in pictures. It's like asking a duck if he wants to swim. If somebody comes up with a good story—and I hope it will be—Deanna will be back on the screen."

Joe Ferrer is the talk of the town for walking around on his knees as the dwarfed French artist, Lautrec, in "Moulin Rouge." "But he just walks on his knees. We DANCE on our knees."

Nannette Fabray, the Broadway musical star, raised her nose in a comical "You-can't-top-MGM!" pose about a dance number she and Fred Astaire do in "The Band Wagon." It's only a short gag sequence, but she and Fred, impersonating babies in Christening robes and bonnets, dance a few steps on their knees.

Mary Anderson and Oscar Award cameraman Leon Shamroy are headed for the altar as their pals have known for many months. Insiders label Mrs. King Vidor's charges against Mary as "ridiculous." Mary Astor, in retirement for several years due to a serious illness, definitely draws the small but important role of operatic diva Mary Garden in "The Grace Moore Story."

Scott Brady's blaring over the inconspicuous billing he gets in the Jane Russell starrer, "Montana Belle." His name can hardly be read.

Barbara Payton, the femme fatale of the Franchot Tone-Tom Neal hijinks, has resumed her film career in Hollywood—she's co-starring in "Run for the Hills"—but Miss Headlines of 1952 is ducking movietown's after-dark fun.

"I don't go out," sexy Barbara said. "I wouldn't dare. I've had enough headlines. It may sound dull, but it's all work for me from now on."

It's Humphrey Bogart's dough all the way in the upcoming "To Beat the Devil" with Jennifer Jones under John Huston's direction. Watch out, Mario Lanza! MGM just borrowed Met Opera tenor Brian Sullivan's screen test from U-I.

John Agar's keeping his lips sealed about a public Shirley Temple's anger over the Washington, D. C., private school that publicized the appearance of their five-year-old daughter, Linda Susan, in a play about fairies and elves. He hasn't seen Linda for almost two years except in photos sent to him by Shirley—and she looks more like me than she looks like Shirli.

Stalin's Nine Press Interviews Futhered Peace Not A Whit

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Russian Premier Josef Stalin has used the press interview technique to put over his propaganda nine times since the end of World War II. The results have been consistently futile in actually furthering world peace or understanding.

In March, 1946, President Hugh Baillie of the United Press called Stalin requesting his opinion on British Prime Minister Winston Churchill's argument for speedy action by the United Nations in settling the Iranian case. In reply, Stalin ducked. He said he could not admit Mr. Churchill's arguments as convincing. "As to the question of the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Iran," Stalin then replied with customary terseness: "It is known to have been already settled positively by agreement between the Soviet government and the government of Iran."

In other words, Stalin refused to admit that the United Nations, in its first and perhaps its most successful test as a keeper of the peace, had influenced the Russians to withdraw from their aggression against Iran.

At about this same time, Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press correspondent in Moscow, sent three questions to Stalin.

Stalin replied that he attached great importance to the U.N. Its strength was based on the equality of states and not on the dominion of one state. In other answers Stalin said he was convinced no nations or their armies were aiming at a new war. To preserve peace, all nations should organize a wide counter-propaganda against warmongers.

British Tried Interview
Alexander Werth of Manchester Guardian was the next to take a crack at Stalin with a questionnaire, later in 1946. To Werth, Stalin replied that it was absurd to say that western Europe's Communist were taking direct form Moscow. "A policy of using eastern Germany against western Europe and the U. S. would be contrary to the Soviet Union's national interests. Friendly and lasting cooperation between the Soviet Union and the west was bound to continue."

The tone of this line changed sharply when Stalin granted his next interview in October, 1948. This was a planted question-and-answer statement in Pravda. Then he regarded the United Nations debate on the Berlin blockade as aggressiveness in the policy of Anglo-American and French ruling circles. The members of the Security Council were lend-

Named Manager Of Canadian Grocery
CANADIAN—(Special)—R. H. Derby, recently of Woodward, Okla., assumed his duties as manager of the Best Way Grocery here Monday.

W. L. Job who has managed the Best Way here for the past several years has moved with his family to Woodward where he will be manager of the Adams Grocery, a store owned by the same group that owns the group of Best Way Stores.

Mr. and Mrs. Derby are no strangers in Canadian, having lived here as recently as last June when Derby was employed in the Best Way Store. The Derbys have a daughter, Sue and two sons, Delbert and Douglas.

ing their support to this policy, there were no grounds for United States alarm over this action. The Soviet Union, he said, still stood for prohibition of use of the atomic bomb.

In April, 1952, Stalin chose questions submitted by a group of American newspaper and radio officials traveling in Europe for another propaganda interview.

A third world war was no closer now than it was two or three years ago, he said. A meeting of the heads of the great powers would possibly be beneficial. He considered the present moment opportune for the unification of Germany. And finally his favorite chestnut: peaceful co-existence of communism and capitalism were possible, given the desire to cooperate.

All these previous interviews set the stage for the now-familiar answers to questions by James B. Reston of the New York Times:

War is not inevitable. The dangers all lay in cold war actions against the Soviet. He would regard conversations with representatives of the Eisenhower administration "positively." He offered to collaborate in any new diplomatic approach to end the Korean war.

Repeated "Warmonger" Line
During 1951, Stalin gave only two press interviews—both to Pravda. In February he was back with the old line that war was not inevitable, but it might be if the warmongers continued to deceive the people. The Anglo-American forces in Korea were doomed to defeat, he said. The United Nations, by condemning the action of the Chinese in Korea, was following the League of Nations and dooming itself to disintegration.

In October, after the explosion of the Russian atomic bombs, Stalin reassured Pravda that
