A cold wave swept into the midwest today, pushing temperatures below zero, as snowstorms hit the upper Great Lakes and east coast areas.

The Pacific Northwest was hit by the first of a series of storms raging across the Pacific ocean from North America to Japan.

Temperatures began sinking as the cold wave poured down from the Hudson bay area into Wisconsin, upper Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa and the Dakotas.

Mercury Skids Below Zero; Lubbock Coldest Spot In Texas Today At 28

The mercury was expected to hit 15 below in some sections of Minnesota tonight. Some parts of Wisconsin expected minimums of -8.

The cold wave was expected to moderate somewhat as it moved southward and eastward but forecasters predicted "much colder" weather as far south as Illinois and Indiana.

Early today, temperatures sank to four below zero at Minot, N. D., one above at Jamestown, N. D., and five above at Fargo, N. D.

"Temperatures will rise slightly this morning and then plunge downward throughout the day," a forecaster at Chicago said.

The cold wave whistled into the area on strong northerly winds that kicked up old snow blanketing the northlands.

It was preceded by a snowstorm that laid three to eight inches of new snow across the northern peninsula of Michigan and northern Wisconsin.

Pressure For Secrets Denied

Hopkins And Wallace Are Said In Clear

Gen. Leslie Groves Testifies In House Committee's Probe

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. — Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves testified today that neither Harry Hopkins nor Henry A. Wallace ever tried to get any atomic secrets or materials from him for the Russians.

Groves, who headed the wartime atomic bomb project, told House investigators that he had never, in fact, met Hopkins or had any correspondence with him.

As for Wallace, Groves said the former vice president never brought any direct pressure on him in connection with the atomic energy project and, as far as he knows, never put on any indirect pressure.

Closed-Door Session Held

Groves was a witness before congressional investigators digging into a story of atomic materials going to Russia in lend-lease planes during the war and of a mysterious note signed "H. H." saying, "Had a hell of a time getting these away from Groves."

After getting Groves' testimony, Rep. Walter (D-Pa), acting chairman, said the committee would give Wallace a chance to testify later.

The committee broke off its hearings to hold a closed door session.

G. Racey Jordan, former air force major, told the House un-American activities committee on Monday that he opened a Russian suit case at Great Falls, Mont., in the winter of 1943-44 and found "Oak Ridge" materials and the "H. H." note.

Groves told the committee:

1. The Russians got some atomic material during the war,

Bank Robbery Suspects Held

KENTWOOD, La., Dec. 7 (AP)—Authorities held two men today for questioning in a $4,438 bank holdup here yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff Richard Sanders said the two men are soldiers on furlough from a camp in North Carolina. One is a native of Roseland, La., and the other of Houston, Tex. Their names were withheld.

They were found in a car similar to the one bank employes described as the car used by two youthful bandits after their shotgun holdup of the Kentwood branch of the Guaranty Bank and Trust company of Hammond.

No Money Found

The car was rented in North Carolina. The two were held after authorities said they learned the men left Roseland with three shotguns on a hunting trip.

Only one gun was found when they were arrested. The pair said the other two were lost on the trip. No money was found in the men's possession.

The men were arrested earlier in the day, but were released when bank employes failed to identify them.

Sanders said the pair was arrested for the second time for further questioning.

"Most Discourteous I Have Ever Seen," Hoover Declares

Lubbock's Drivers Are Branded As "Bullies Behind The Wheel" By Officer In Club Talk

"Lubbock has the most discourteous drivers in comparison to any other town I have ever seen," Police Sgt. Jerry Hoover told the Exchange club today at a luncheon meeting in Hotel Lubbock.

If members of the club had any illusions concerning traffic conditions of the Hub City, they had none after the traffic sergeant answered more than a score of questions fired at him by Gar Decker, program chairman for the day.

Hoover said traffic conditions are bad here mainly because of three factors—disrespect of drivers for obeyance of traffic rules and towards other drivers, lack of proper facilities and manpower for handling traffic and an increase by three times the number of cars registered here in the last two years.

"Drivers here are bullies when they get behind the wheel," he explained.

To handle the situation, according to Hoover, "the police department needs more men, better equipment and public support."

He said only six traffic officers are on duty at one time "and that's not very many men to handle 50,000 vehicles," he added.

Main causes for accidents here are failure to stop for signals and turning from the wrong lanes, according to Hoover.

"Drivers here consider it an accomplishment to beat the caution lights," he said. He said speeding is at a minimum here" because of traffic lights and stop signs as design-

Protests Over Cotton Quotas To Get Action

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP) — Complaints of some Texas cotton farmers that their 1950 acreage allotments are unfair are being studied by Agriculture department officials.

But Wilson C. Tucker, an official of the cotton division, said today it appeared Congress will have to amend the cotton quotas law before any real relief can be given the Texans.

Most top officers of the division were in Memphis, Tenn., for a meeting of Production and Marketing administration executives.

Upon their return next week the Texas case is to be gone into in detail, Tucker said.

Complaints From Coast

Most complaints coming to Texas congressmen have been from farmers in the state's coastal bend area and scattered counties in the western part.

Texas' 1950 allocation under the control program to be voted on by cotton growers Dec. 15 is 7,637,029 acres. The national quota is 21,000,000.

The Texas quota was figured under a provision of a 1949 law allowing a state to get 95 per cent of the annual average acreage planted to cotton in 1947 and 1948. This is called "the California gadget" by some congressmen. It was a compromise proposed by cotton interests of that state.

Plan Is Assailed

Agriculture department officials said this plan gives Texas 95 acres more than it would have received with the allotment based on crediting farmers with acreage diverted during the war from cotton to war crops, such as peanuts and grain sorghums.

But Rep. Poage (D-Tex), a member of the House agriculture committee, contends a proper credit for war crops would increase the

Burglars Enter Hog Pens, City School

Loss was light in two burglaries reported to city police this morning, one of them at K. Carter school, 700-block Ave. Q.

A cash register containing no money was removed from the school cafeteria and battered but not opened.

A $25 radio, several old leather jackets and a sweater were removed from the office of Armour & Co. hog pens, at 1320 Ave. A.

Entrance was at a window in each case, City Detective Pete Hubbard said.

AMA Prepares For Insurance Struggle

REX BEACH

Rex Beach Is Suicide Victim

SEBRING, Fla., Dec. 7. (AP)—Rex Beach, 72, nationally known novelist, was found dead of a pistol wound in the head at his home near here this morning.

His death was pronounced suicide by County Judge J. Howard Livingston and Sheriff Broward Coker.

Nurse Finds Body

Beach had been suffering from a throat ailment for three years. His body was found by a nurse who brought him breakfast, the sheriff said.

His nurse, Miss Aania Simonian, found the writer in his pajamas on the floor of his second story bedroom. The body lay by the bed in which he had slept through the night.

Robert Fox, his secretary for 33 years, said funeral arrangements would be made later.

In Midst Of Novel

Beach was in the midst of a psychological novel, "Woman In Ambush," on which he had completed 27 chapters. He had not worked on it for several months.

This summer, Beach's life was despaired for a while at Miami where he had gone for treatment for his throat.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Leaders in the battle of the American Medical association against what it calls "socialized medicine" say that the final win-or-lose struggle may come in 1950.

Members of the AMA have been informed by their top officials that backers of the Truman proposal for federalized compulsory health insurance have given ground—but only temporarily.

They've been told that "skirmishes" have been won by the AMA against its "enemies" and that extensive public support has been rallied to the AMA's cause.

But they've been placed on notice that the war itself has not been won.

Victory Not Won

President-Elect Almer L. Henderson of Louisville told the doctors yesterday at a clinical session here:

"American medicine is stronger today than at any other time in its history, bulwarked by the support of hundreds of other groups and millions of aroused citizens. But we would be foolish, indeed, if we assumed that the final victory had been won."

Declaring that in the 1949 session of Congress, "the fight for compulsory health insurance was abandoned, even though the White House itself had become a sounding board for the socializers," Henderson said in a prepared report:

"The advocates of socialized medicine, at the start of 1949, were in full cry. American medicine was under violent attack from those who would destroy it, or reorganize it as a political arm of the government.

"Medicine's critics, at the moment, are falling back, waiting for public vigilance to relax—and

Defense Plans Prepared For A Sneak Raid

Johnson Declares A Second Pearl Harbor Possible

(By The United Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Secretary Louis A. Johnson called on American industry today to gain the lead "in every category of munitions" because a second Pearl Harbor attack "could come tomorrow."

In a speech prepared for delivery at the National Association of Manufacturers' 54th annual congress of American industry at the Waldorf Astoria hotel, Johnson reported that the 8th anniversary of Japan's bombing of the Pacific outpost found the United States prepared.

Counterattack Planned

He disclosed that the joint chiefs of staff had agreed unanimously on a plan to meet any such sneak attack with an air force counterattack.

"Our first attack will be a counterattack," the defense secretary said. "It will be an air job and in it the primary role will belong to the air force. We must be prepared to hold the line for a time, and most likely a long time—until we expand our forces and mobilize our industry."

Paul G. Hoffman, economic administration chief, told the NAM members in a prepared speech that the cold war in Europe was only half won and warned that the most difficult task was ahead.

Become Garrison State

"Only here and there will you find an individual who has yet wrapped his mind around the hard, cold fact that the Kremlin is really aiming at world conquest," Hoffman said. "If we don't get into our heads that America has got to keep western Europe from falling into the Soviet orbit, the United States will have to become a garrison state."

Johnson said that any future war might be touched off by an air attack on the United States at "four-o'clock-in-the-morning when an enemy would hope to catch us

Youth Tells Of Texas Holdups

One of four persons charged in connection with recent robberies in Lubbock and Crosby counties gave a long statement this morning to E. G. Pharr, assistant district attorney, and George Eubank, chief deputy sheriff.

In it, Pharr told The Evening Journal early this afternoon, James Scrivner, 21, admitted complicity in the Nov. 26 robbery with firearms of a Crosbyton drygoods store and the abduction, pistol-whipping and shooting of the proprietor.

Still In Hospital

A. W. Wallace, shot in the arm and head by one of three bandits who kidnaped him after taking money from the store, remains in a hospital for treatment.

Scrivner, according to Pharr, accused William Robert Leeman, 22, of firing the shots.

Scrivner admitted, Pharr continued, that he had asked the two men with him to let him "put a hole" through Wallace's head. But, he said, he was jesting. He had no gun, he explained.

He admitted among other things, Pharr said, participating in armed robberies at Fort Worth and Benjamin (a gasoline station)

WTCC Officers Meet

Bitter Dispute May Be Aired

By C. W. RATLIFF
Journal Staff Writer

Officers of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce are meeting in Lubbock today for a two-fold purpose, one of which was to set up a work program for the organization centered around water conservation and the other to hear both sides of a dispute following the discharge of L. A. Wilke, service director, by D. A. Bandeen, manager.

Here for the meeting are Jim Willson, Floyadda, president; P. B. Bludworth, Brownwood, first vice president; Frank H. Kelley, Colorado City, second vice president; Homer D. Grant, Lubbock, third vice president; Edd S. Stewart, Abilene, treasurer; and John D. Mitchell, Odessa, immediate past president.

Resigned In Protest

Max Bentley, who resigned as organization director in protest of what he called "unfair treatment" of Wilke by Bandeen, and Wilke were both here this morning to present their cases to the directors.

Bandeen, the manager, said the meeting had been called for the sole purpose of setting up the work program authorized by the recent WTCC convention and that "there possibly would be a statement on the discharge of Wilke if the officers get around to it."

Wilke had submitted a letter at the outset of the meeting, which opened at 10 a. m. in the directors' room of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce building, in which he asked full reinstatement without prejudice, claiming his position was created by the executive committee as a directive of the membership in 1927 and that it was abolished without authority of the creating committee, which has not rescinded its directive.

Regret Is Expressed

Bandeen and Bentley had appeared before the officers when the group adjourned for lunch at noon.

Bentley, before going into the meeting, expressed regret that the case was not being considered by the entire executive board composed of ten district directors in addition to the officers.

Bentley said he has submitted his resignation to the directors of the organization and not to Bandeen, who had announced it along with Wilke's discharge to the press in Abilene last week.

Bandeen's position in the matter, he said this morning, is that

Young Traffic Violator Gets Marriage And $30 Fine Instead Of Psychiatrist

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7 (AP)—Motorcyclist Blair M. Bernbaum, 19, came into traffic court today, charged with speeding. It was his 14th citation.

"You should ask a psychiatrist what's wrong with you," said Judge Roger A. Pfaff.

When the court indicated a 90-day sentence was coming up, Bernbaum pleaded that he planned to be married soon. In fact, said he, his fiancee, Georgia May Jones of Burbank, was in court with him. He also produced a marriage license.

"How soon is 'soon?'" the judge demanded.

"Right now, your honor," said Bernbaum.

"Marriage," said Judge Pfaff, "is as good, if not better, than any psychiatric examination." Forthwith he married the couple.

The court's wedding present: A $30 fine, a year's probation and an order to sell the motorcycle.

Mine Owners Deny Ranks Are Broken

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 — John L. Lewis' proud announcement that some mine owners have met his contract terms apparently left major coal operators unimpressed today.

They said the owners who signed with the mine leader produce comparatively little soft coal — less than 2,500,000 tons of the nation's annual total of 550,000,000. They scoffed at suggestions the new move might mean a major break in the long coal dispute.

Lewis made the announcement late yesterday. He said United Mine Workers members at the affected pits would return to work immediately on a five-day week.

Terms Are Revealed

The balance of the anthracite and bituminous coal industries went on a three-day week at Lewis' direction last Monday, as part of his over-all strategy to obtain new contracts. The old ones expired last July.

From the signing operators, mostly in Kentucky, Lewis obtained these terms:

1. A 95-cent daily wage increase—first "fourth round" postwar pay hike won by a major labor leader this year. It would make the miner's basic daily pay $15.

2. A 15-cent increase in the operators' welfare fund royalty. That makes a total of 35 cents a ton, which goes for medical, hospital and death benefits and the $100 monthly pensions for 60-year-old UMW members.

Plan Used As Boost

The total boost in the production cost of coal, Lewis said, would be 25 cents a ton—less, he added, for the more efficient mines.

The new royalty, if accepted by

Swiss Navy Not Just A Joke; Nation Builds Patrol Boats

ZURICH, Switzerland, Dec. 7 (U.P.)—The "Swiss Navy" is no joke any more.

Imagine speedboats, carrying anti-tank guns and heavy machine guns roaring across picturesque Swiss lakes, beneath towering mountains. There are no battleships or aircraft carriers in the Swiss Navy, of course, but only because they are not needed.

What neutral Switzerland must have to defend itself in case of war, military authorities say, are fast craft to patrol the four big lakes, forming part of Switzerland's frontier. They would have to prevent foreign agents entering the country by means of rubber dinghies or planes.

But the Swiss Navy is ready also for battle on the many lakes inside Switzerland, especially the fjordlike lakes at the approaches to the famous "Reduit," the mighty system of underground fortifications, factories, warehouses and even airfields in the center of the Swiss Alps.

Lake Invasion Feared

Swiss military authorities anticipate that a potential aggressor of Switzerland would try to "jump" the country's border fortifications by putting planes and gliders down on the bigger lakes inside the country.

Therefore, units of the Swiss Navy are trained also on these lakes well known to tourists, such as the lakes of Lucerne, of Thun and of Spiez.

Whoever has seen one of these lakes with almost perpendicular cliffs in certain parts rising direct from the shore up to snow-capped peaks, can easily imagine the functions of the Swiss Navy.

Their speedboats suddenly whizzing out of their caverns along the shore, and firing from their two-inch anti-tank guns, might easily sink enemy planes, or even hamper tanks and supply units near the lake side.

The Swiss military authorities, after gathering experience from the last world war, now have created the first regular units of the Swiss Navy.

Its members do not have bell-bottom trousers or any other colorful paraphernalia, but are, as all other Swiss citizens, members of the Swiss armed forces.

They wear the standard green-gray uniforms and keep it, together with their individual carbines, at home after their basic training.

Training Started

The first training course for "rookies" is just being held at Brunnen on the Lake of Lucerne, whereas up to now units of the Swiss Navy consisting of soldiers reassigned from other army units, or were part of the home guard.

In case of war, the pleasure speedboats of private owners would be requisitioned. The men are given special training as boat commanders, wireless operators and gunners.

They must know "their lake" and although they all must be excellent swimmers, they are given "Mae Wests."

The boats which are to be used for tactical offensive and defensive, have one anti-tank gun and one of two machine-guns each, and are equipped with powerful searchlights and radio sets.

The transports are built to carry regular army units and supplies. The waterways might, under certain circumstances remain the only means of communication, once the roads and railroads along the steep shores of some lakes would have been blown up to slow down the enemy's advance.

Designer Of Vetmobile Hopes His Invention Will Give New Interest To Crippled Veteran

By JAMES D. WHITE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7 — Edward T. Adkins is a stubborn man. Right now he is an excited one, too.

After years of trying, he thinks there is now a good chance to get his "Vetmobile" in the hands of a crippled veteran. If Adkins' idea works, the vet will find a new interest in life and a way to support himself.

"At least he won't be in a bed or a wheelchair, but out in the Vetmobile. He'll be making keys, turning out leather goods, copper and plastic novelties and costume jewelry," says Adkins.

"He'll be on his own, meeting people and making at least part of his own living. That means everything to a boy whose normal life has been all but stopped by what hit him."

For Paralyzed Vet

Adkins' new Vetmobile has been built with the special needs and abilities of one particular veteran in mind. He is Robert F. Driscoll, 23, a Navy electrician's mate, 2nd class, of Brockton, Mass. He now is at Cushing Veteran Administration Hospital at Framingham, Mass., with a broken back. He is paralyzed below the waist. The new Vetmobile, streamlined with two halves of an old naval airplane belly-tank and the plastic blister from an old Grumman fighter plane, is made to be driven entirely with the hands.

In fact, it's all made of surplus or reclaimed plane parts. Driscoll will not be able to travel about in it. He can use it as a movable work-shop and sales counter.

The little four-wheeled, scooter-like machine is powered by a plane-charging motor. It can crawl or go 20 miles an hour. Its powerful batteries will run the lathe mounted above the dashboard, or the key-maker bolted to the side, or the two-way radio behind the seat. Driscoll could even trundles out on an airport apron and start the engines of big planes—his own motive power is standard plane-starting equipment. Driscoll himself may find new uses that Adkins has not thought of.

Adkins has made it complicated, deliberately so. In several years of working with handicapped men he has found that the bigger the challenge to their mechanical ability and knowledge, the more they respond and forget their troubles.

NAVIGATION for veterans without use of legs, this vetmobile displayed by its designer, Edward T. Adkins, permits them to get around and earn their livings.

So the Vetmobile has a control-panel from some old Navy plane that bristles with switches and dials. It baffles the crowds of boys—young and old—who cluster around whenever the Vetmobile appears in public.

There is no steering wheel, but a tiller that once guided a fighter plane.

Adkins got interested in helping handicapped veterans during the war, when an illness threw him temporarily with some of them at Oak Knoll Naval hospital in Oakland.

"The Vetmobile isn't patented," Adkins explains, "I refuse to sell it to people who want to make money out of it. There are plenty of such people, but what I want to do is to make this thing to be given to veterans free of charge. Each one should be made for a specific case. And if possible it ought to be made by other veterans who need the work."

Wichita To Improve City On Bond Issue

WICHITA FALLS, Dec. 7. (AP)—Wichita Falls will buy $3,250,000 worth of city improvements with a bond issue approved overwhelmingly yesterday.

It will be the first time since World War II the city has used a bond issue for improvements. A similar but smaller bond issue was voted down, two to one, last year.

The results, by five groups of bonds:

For $1,250,000 water system expansion, 3,671; against 1,000.

For $800,000 street program 3,585; against 1,058.

For $200,000 park improvements, 3,440; against 1213.

For $100,000 fire stations and new equipment 3,711; against 960.

TRAFFIC AND SEWER PROGRAMS

City Will Vote On Two Bond Issues

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first of three articles discussing the $1,979,000 bond issue upon which the qualified citizens of the City of Lubbock will vote next Tuesday. The issues include $550,000 for enlargement of the sewage disposal plant and system and $525,000 to buy rights-of-way necessary to the completion of the City Highway Dispersal system).

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

THE proposed sewage disposal and dispersal system bond issues will appear on the ballots as separate propositions next Tuesday. Those choosing to do so can vote for one and against the other.

Both are of great importance to the future of Lubbock. But, between the two, the one providing for enlargement of the sewage disposal plant and system is, by far, the most important.

KIEFER

It is doubtful whether any proposition of greater importance to the health security of this community ever has been submitted.

Lubbock has so far outgrown its present sewage disposal facilities that their inadequacies will be a continuing menace to health until the plant and collecting mains are enlarged.

The present plant was built in 1938, with a capacity sufficient for a city of about 50,000 population. Lubbock then had about 30,000 inhabitants. Expert opinion at that time was that the plant would not require enlargement before 1958.

Lubbock passed the 50,000 population mark long ago. The present plant attempts to serve more than 65,000 people. At least 10,000 to 15,000 others in Lubbock, or in areas now in process of annexation, want sewage connections as soon as they can get them.

Approval of this bond issue will mean that all of them will get sanitary sewage service a good deal sooner than otherwise.

People Do Not Know Problem

People, generally, are not apt to be conscious of the city's sewage problem during the cool and cold seasons. The flow of sewage is at its lowest point of the year during such times.

But, unless provision is made for enlargement of the plant and system before next Summer, everyone is likely to be almost constantly conscious of the existence of the problem.

They will be aware of this condition because of odors, because of overflows from sewage lines too small for the loads flushed into them and, if they visit the disposal plant in Southeast Lubbock, from the nauseating sights they will see there — sights more sickening than those which were of common occurrence last Summer.

CITY officials estimate that, unless the plant is enlarged, an average of more than 1,000,000 gallons or raw sewage will remain untreated each day. It will be dumped, raw, upon the city-owned lands surrounding the plant or behind an earthern dam which, officials hope, will not permit contaminating leakage downstream in Yellowhouse canyon.

The disease danger represented by untreated sewage is too obvious for discussion.

Fortunately, the condition will not be particularly difficult to correct. The present plant was designed in a manner so that sections can be added as needed.

Good Until 1953

The bond issue proposed, according to engineering estimates, will be sufficient for Lubbock needs until about 1953, or for approximately 86,000 people.

Members of the city commission have given assurance that, if the bonds are approved, they will proceed with all possible speed to get the work started and finished. They believe enough progress can be made to provide for the peak needs of next Summer, although the entire project probably will not be finished until next fall or winter.

The proposition has all the appearances of an absolute must for approval unless the people of Lubbock are willing to risk epidemsis of many kinds which often have their origin in improperly treated sewage.

Man Guilty Of Statutory Rape

BELVIDERE, Ill., Dec. 7 (AP)—A jury convicted George Frost, 34, last night of raping a 13-year-old bobby soxer and recommended a five year prison term.

Frost, a laborer, was the first of 10 men to be tried on morals charges involving nine girls 13 to 15 years old. The charge was statutory rape.

All ten are accused of plying the girls with ice cream sodas and then taking them into neighboring fields and haymows.

Frost was convicted on testimony by Clara Jane Grelee, a slim brunette, who hesitantly told the jury she was intimate with him in a field. Both had climbed a fence around the field, she said.

Clara Jane and two other teen agers told of a wild beer party the night of October 8, when the alleged intimacy occurred.

Complaint Investigated

She said she and Barbara Friebrantz, 15, had been employed earlier that night as baby sitters. Afterward, she said, they went to a confectionery ,met Frost and two other defendants, Fred Ashley, 18, and Herbert Dyer, 18, and then went to the party.

After the affair in the field, she said, she got home about 6 a. m.

Police Chief Fred Stone testified he went to the house where the party was held at 11:55 p. m. after receiving a complaint about the noise.

He found about 15 automobiles parked near the house and a number of young men and girls inside, many of them drinking from a keg of beer, he told the jury.

Stone said he told the group to quiet down and then he went home.

Miss Friebrantz confirmed Clara Jane's account.

Judge William Carroll did not set a date for sentencing Frost, who was freed on $2,000 bond. The judge indicated the next one of the remaining defendants will not come to trial until after January 1.

Young Air Force Men Charged In Robbery

WICHITA FALLS, Dec. 7. (AP)—Two teen-age Air Force men are charged here with armed robbery.

The charges were filed yesterday against Pvt. Richard M. Nelson, 18, and Robert D. Rodenwald, 19. They are accused of robbing a Wichita Falls filling station attendant of about $95 and slugging him with a blackjack.

Police recovered most of the money, along with the blackjack and a pistol believed used in the robbery.

The charges were filed in Justice of the Peace C. B. McConnell's court. No bond was set.

Gen. Eisenhower To Address Houston C-C

HOUSTON, Dec. 7. (AP)—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower will address the 109th annual meeting of the Houston Chamber of Commerce tonight, and some 15,000 people will hear him.

The time of Eisenhower's arrival here from San Antonio was indefinite. He said late yesterday he planned to drive but would fly if the weather turned bad.

Ultramatic Drive

IMPARTIAL, independent technical observers gave us the idea for the name . . .

They reviewed the basic principles of this new Packard automatic drive . . . heard about the 16-year development and test program behind it. They drove it themselves . . . compared its performance with that of other leading types of drives. Then, out of their own experience, they told us:

"The best way to describe this Packard drive is to say it's the last word in automatic, no-shift control!"

New simplicity: Naturally, there's no clutch pedal. And that's only the first hint of the convenience of Packard Ultramatic Drive! There's nothing new to learn. Just step on the gas, and steer!

New smoothness, new quietness. No jerking or "clunking," because there's no gear-shifting anywhere. No "racing engine" sensation, because there's no slippage at cruising speeds.

New safety: No chance of involuntary unexpected "down-shifts," which might cause a prolonged skid on slippery pavement. Packard Ultramatic Drive gives you smooth, gradual engine braking power for safe deceleration.

New economy: Ultramatic Drive saves gas—because there's no slippage at cruising speeds. And thanks to its advanced design, Packard Ultramatic Drive requires no complicated maintenance.

More responsive: No lag, at traffic speeds or highway speeds, waiting for gears to shift. For instant bursts of safety-sprint acceleration—just "tramp down."

More positive, more flexible: Your choice of high-range, or low-range operation—with rapid acceleration, and slippage-free cruising, in each range. Easy shift from forward to reverse. Yes, you can rock the car in snow!

Come in for your introductory drive!

Floating in each cup of punch will be a star-shaped piece of ice, in which Christmas holly has been frozen.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE

Children Will Get Assist From Santa In Choosing Careers

ENGINEER . . . Junior can do a real excavating job with newest steam shovel.

FARMER . . . Back to the land movement in barnyard pigs that suck, cows that milk.

By DOROTHY ROE

America's 43 million children will get an assist from Santa this year in preparing for future careers.

The 1949 top pack, totalling close to last year's $300 million record, definitely spotlights playthings designed to help children discover their vocational aptitudes. Emphasis is placed on new play aids for road construction, farming, homemaking, housing, engineering, fashion design, nursing, science and transportation, says Kenneth P. Fallon, president of the Toy Manufacturers of the U. S. A.

Good news for parents is the greatly increased output of toys in lower price ranges. Because of late placing of orders by many department stores as well as the steel strike, shortages of a number of play items are expected and assistant Santas are urged to do their shopping early.

Toy designers this year have catered to juvenile demand for realistic miniatures of everything on the road with a variety of new truck and automobile models as well as agricultural implements. A garbage disposal truck appears for the first time in the wheel toy lineup, and there is an armored truck that is an exact duplicate in miniature of those that deliver cash to banks. There's a bus that reproduces the clink of a fare deposit when the door closes. A new remote control dump truck operates from a steering wheel. Electric trains are streamlined. A new taxicab set includes three cabs, a taxi stand, a plastic bus stop and a parking meter.

The cowboy holds top billing as playroom favorite. More than a million girls join 12 million boys this year as enthusiastic users of cow-punching equipment such as lariats, two-gallon hats, two-gun holsters and other accessories. Newest ideas for the junior dudes are a horse's head and tail designed to be attached to velocipedes or bikes.

There's an astra-domed train and a new jet fighter plane with a nose gun that has a spring loaded shock absorber to protect furniture. There's a unit model crane with an outrigger and jacks that make it possible to lift heavy weights. A miniature parking lot gives small fry a chance to try out the problems of business.

The newest Dydee doll not only has real hair that can be washed but comes with a diaper disposal can and a nurse's outfit and rubber gloves for the small mother. There's a magnificent new talking doll with a phonograph record attachment inside and another with hair designed for a home permanent wave. There are dolls in shadow box frames, dolls with lifelike voices and almost human skin.

New styles in household equipment keep step with the adult field. Newest play washing machines have the latest attachments for spin-drying and such. Cooking gadgets include angel food cake pans, electric mixers and impressive white enamel stoves. There's a 21-piece baby feeding set complete with bottle rack, bottle brush, formula measuring cup, spoon and rubber nipples.

And we must not forget the newest refinement in toy telephones—it says "hello" when dialed.

BIG OIL MAN . . . A real parking lot for Junior's trucks is a new toyland idea.

OES Grand Officers Honored With Dinner

Honoring two members who are grand officers, Lubbock chapter of Order of Eastern Star gave a buffet dinner Tuesday night at the Masonic building. Honored were Mrs. Ben V. Smith, Grand Adah, and Mrs. A. T. Cocanougher, grand representative of West Virginia.

Tributes were paid to Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Cocanougher by Mrs. John Cocanougher and Carlos Reynolds. The women's husbands presented them with gifts. After each tribute was paid, Mrs. Amos Bond sang their favorite songs: Mrs. Smith's being "I Would Be True" and Mrs. Cocanougher's "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

Mrs. Jim Roberts was in charge of table decorations, which carried out a Christmas motif in an artificial tree and the colors of the Grand Matron, Mrs. Mabel Harle of Port Arthur. Blue and purple bows were placed on the tree and the colors were repeated in ribbons that were entwined down the table, being caught at intervals to decorated cattails. S-shaped silver candles burned in three holders.

Ninety-one attended, with Mrs. Pat Boone of Littlefield and Mrs. Annie Daniels of Idalou being other grand officers present and visitors from chapter in St. Louis, Mo., Plainview, Brownfield, Lorenzo, Idalou, Littlefield and Mineral Wells.

A Christmas program has been planned for Dec. 20 with Mrs. Cliff Elliott in charge. Gifts that do not exceed one dollar in value are to be brought for an exchange and members will bring food to be placed in baskets for OES members.

Banquet Is Served

Mary Haworth's Mail

Married To Complaining Man For 28 Years Woman Asks How To Stop This Nonsense

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband is a constant complainer and after 28 years of it I sometimes think, "If he complains once more I'll jump out of the window."

To outsiders he is all smiles and gay and full of compliments, but the minute he's inside our door he gives a big yawn. He is very good looking and all the women flatter him and think what a lucky wife I am — but he is so cranky I feel I can't stand it another minute. He is even cranky with my grown children who are good and sweet, otherwise I would think he is just picking on me.

His complaints are so depressing. Here are samples. The bedroom is noisy. The new mattress is too soft. (The old one was too hard). His socks aren't warm enough; also they are too tight. The bathroom mirrors aren't right for shaving — although there are triple mirrors with fluorescent lighting.

GREATLY DISTURBED BY RECENT EVENTS

His summer suits were too hot, but his winter suits aren't heavy enough (although three tailers told me last week that no heavier suiting is made than the kind he has). Well, to continue — the grapefruit is too small. The prunes are too large. The Italian bread is sliced too thick (although sliced to a gourmet's taste).

The other evening we were going to the theater and as usual for 28 years I put out his tuxedo, tie, handkerchiefs, shirt (with studs inserted), his overcoat, scarf and hat. I did everything but shave him, and then when we got downstairs and he realized he hadn't got change for the taxi, he said, "You should always check me on that." I was ready to scream.

He was cranky this morning and left me so upset that I'm ruined for the day; and I am writing to you to relieve my feelings and to ask for suggestions on how to stop his complaints.—Signed K. S.

WIFE IS PROBLEM TO SELF AND MAN

DEAR K. S.: If Henry (let's call him) has been perniciously fussy in all the years you've lived with him, I can understand that your patience might be overtaxed at times. But it seems odd indeed that after 28 years' familiarity with his carping, you continue react with raw sensitivity to his gripes, and to get upset and feel as hurt as if you were a nervous bride on the defensive about burnt biscuits.

As I see the picture, Henry is something of a hairshirt, but then I think you are something of a trial to Henry, too — and even more an unsuspected problem to yourself.

For neurotic reasons all your own, you've figuratively knocked yourself out from the start of marriage, trying to please Henry, and need I remind that a doormat wife usually gets treated as a convenience after a time, not as an object of chivalrous appreciation.

HUSBAND'S FRETTED BY HER SOLICITUDE

HEAVEN only knows how much your slavish exertions have contributed to making Henry impossible at home, and in my opinion it is no wonder he yawns as he enters the door. He is entering an atmosphere and situation that somehow connote suffocation to his sensibilities, so that instantly he feels weared and fretful—a reaction caused by your smother-love tactics and his unconscious awareness of their objective, namely, to "hold" him.

I think his supposedly cranky disposition might improve remarkably if you would relax your excessive striving for his approval. In short, I suggest that you try to fathom and overcome the fear factors in your make-up, which compulsively drive you to completely surround Henry (behind the scenes at home) with your buttery solicitude.

What if the grapefruit is too small and the prunes too large, the mattress too hard or too soft for Henry's taste? Well, so they are, or so he says. But you aren't the grapefruit or the prunes, the mattress, the tailors, etc. — so why take it personally, as if you were maligned, when he turns on his daily output of complaints For advice, cultivate self esteem and self acceptance, and stop acting "unworthy," frightened and supplicant.—M. H.

Two Sought In Robbery Case

FORT WORTH, Dec. 7. (AP)—A Fort Worth cafe owner was abducted by two men who robbed him of more than $500 and then left him taped to a tree before taking his car, he reported to police today.

Joe Smith, 46, owner of Joe's cafe, said he closed his establishment about midnight. As he drove to his driveway at home, the two armed men stepped up on either side of the car, he said.

Taped To Tree

One of the pair drove to the south end of the Ridglea golf course while the other held gloved hands over Smith's eyes, he related.

At the golf course, he said he was forced from the car and the pair used tire tape to bind his arms to a tree trunk.

Smith worked loose from his bindings and hailed a passing police car as he walked toward town. His abandoned car was found by police several hours later.

Smith said it was the second time he has been robbed in about four years. On the first occasion, he said, gunmen slugged him in the driveway of his home and took $3,400.

Ill Child To Spend Christmas In Bed

LAMESA, Dec. 7. (Special)—Mary Etta Arwine, 7-year-old rheumatic fever victim, isn't a bit happy concerning the prospects of spending Christmas in bed.

In bed since last July, the little girl was under the impression she would be able to be up and about Christmas because her physician permitted her to get up for short intervals a few days ago.

But her hopes were smashed into grim reality Monday when her doctor ordered her back to bed after her feet swelled and her heart condition worsened.

Now Mary Etta is having to take medicine again and will have to stay in bed until Dec. 28 at least. That's the day of her regular monthly examination.

"Santa Claus will be back at the North Pole then," she said sadly.

Would-Be Policeman Tries Wrong Methods

DETROIT, Dec. 7. (AP)Thaddeus Holewinski, 26, today regretted his enthusiasm for getting on the Detroit police force.

Two years ago, he sent his brother, Stanley, 30, to take the written examination for him. Stanley scored 98 and was given an intelligence quotient of 128. However, the application lapsed when Thaddeus failed to appear for a physical examination.

Last April, Thaddeus took a crack at the written examination. He flunked with a 56, and had an IQ of 85.

He sent Stanley back for another written test Nov. 12, and his brother led the applicants with 107. Then Thaddeus sent Jan Humeniuk, 35, to take the physical examination for him.

But authorities decided that Thaddeus couldn't have an IQ of 128 one day and 85 on another. They also knew he couldn't have three different sets of fingerprints and look like three different men.

Yesterday, Thaddeus, Stanley, and Jan pleaded guilty to giving false statements to get on the force. They will be sentenced Dec. 20.

New Lana Turner Forsakes Nightclubs For Enjoyment Of Television At Home

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 7 (AP)—Meet the self-proclaimed-and-proud-of-it new Lana Turner.

"I'm strictly the homegirl now," she says. "You wouldn't know me."

The same goes for husband Bob Topping. "We're very folksy, she told me in her studio dressing room. "Surprised? So are we."

And so will be all Hollywood. Time was, even on a dull night the hot spot photographers could almost always count on Lana to put in an appearance. Now, she says, they haven't been to a night club since they dropped into a Sunset strip spot after a premiere a couple of months ago. So what do they do?

"We just stay home. Bob plays tennis and we both watch television. Every Saturday night I get the urge to go to a movie. But Bob says, 'You know the theaters are crowded on Saturday night; I'll take you any other night of the week.'

"But all the other nights, I'm too busy watching television. So we just stay home."

Television is the Toppings' passion. They have five screens in their new home and a forest of aerials on their roof.

Lana the homebody has amazed many people in her new role, including her studio publicity chief. She said he shook her hand one day and said, "Lana, I want you to know how proud I am of the fine way you and Bob have been conducting yourselves. I know it's hard for you."

"This may be hard to believe," she answered, "but I like it."

EDITORS POLLED ON TEN BIGGEST NEWS STORIES

Truman Announcement That Russia Produced Atomic Explosion Chosen Top Story Of 1949

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (U.P.)—President Truman's announcement that Russia has produced an atomic explosion was the biggest news story of 1949 in the opinion of editors in all parts of the world except Russia.

It was first on every list in the annual poll of the outstanding events of the year compiled by the United Press.

The story broke on Sept. 23 and in most newspapers got the biggest headline type of any story since V-J day in 1945.

"The core of the story was 14 words that were read and heard around the world," said Earl J. Johnson, UP vice president and general news manager. "President Truman said simply: 'We have evidence that within recent weeks an atomic explosion occurred in the USSR.' The UP flashed the news to all countries and editors instantly recognized it as the biggest news in four years. It marked the beginning of a new phase of cold war.

"Editors in the Soviet Union have not replied so far to our invitation to list the ten biggest stories. However, our Moscow bureau reports that the stories that received the most prominence in the Russian press this year included: Communist victories in China, announcement that the Soviet had possession of atomic weapons, organization of the east German republic, the series of notes exchanged between Moscow and Marshal Tito, the Soviet notes protesting the Atlantic pact as an aggressive action against Russia."

Here are the 10 biggest stories from the standpoint of American editors:

5. Jury convicts 11 top Communists in U. S.

8. Hungarian court convicts Cardinal Mindszenty of treason.
9. Vice President Barkley marries Missouri widow.
10. Major league races end in baseball's closest finish.

Columbia Newspaper Derides Eisenhower

NEW YORK, Dec. 7. (U.P.)—The Columbia university campus newspaper has criticized Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Columbia president, for stating that many Americans were sacrificing independence for the "illusion of security."

The Columbia Daily Spectator chided Eisenhower for his remarks before the St. Andrews society and said: "If the speech was a trial ballon, we think public reaction will soon flatten it."

Some persons, the newspaper editorial said, interpreted his remarks as a "test of public sentiment by a possible nominee in the next presidential election."

Deriding his remark that perhaps the people wanted "champagne and caviar when they should have beer and hot dogs," the editorial said that "being content with beer and hot dogs has never been part of the American tradition we know."

The newspaper said that the search for security in employment and civil liberties "can hardly lead to the 'slothful indol-ence' which the General deplores."

HAMBURG, Germany, Dec. 7. (AP)—Legislation is being prepared to close down all houses of prostitution in the West German republic.

Westerners Drub Plainview

Wilson Sparks 47-30 Victory

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 7 (Special)—Paced by the shooting and backboard work of Big Jim Wilson, the Lubbock Westerners romped to a 47-30 basketball victory over the Bulldogs of Plainview here last night at Wayland college gym to gain their fourth victory.

In his best performance of the new season, Wilson meshed the net for 16 points and turned in a fine performance on the court. Guard Richard Allen scored eight tallies, and Forward Jimmy Exton garnered seven points.

High for the Bulldogs was C. Harris with seven markers, and he was pressed by Bryan Bell and Jack Howton with six points each.

There was never any doubt as to the outcome of the ball game as the Westerner squad jumped to an early lead and pushed it higher as the outmanned but fighting Plainview squad sought to hold the score down. They succeeded only i cutting the margin of victory to 17 points, compared to the 30 point gap in the first game between the two quintets.

The Westerners scored eight points before Plainview was able to hit the basket and took advantage of rebounds to lead 27-17 at the half.

Strong Third Quarter

During the third quarter Lubbock regulars hit the basket for 15 points while allowing the Bulldogs but four and led 42-21 at the conclusion of that period. Lubbock substitutes entered the game at this point and finished the contest.

The game was ragged at times, with each side making blunders which always show up in early season. Many shots were missed.

Wilson's performance was the best of the year after a shaky start, and little Carl Ince was outstanding as a ball handler and defensive player.

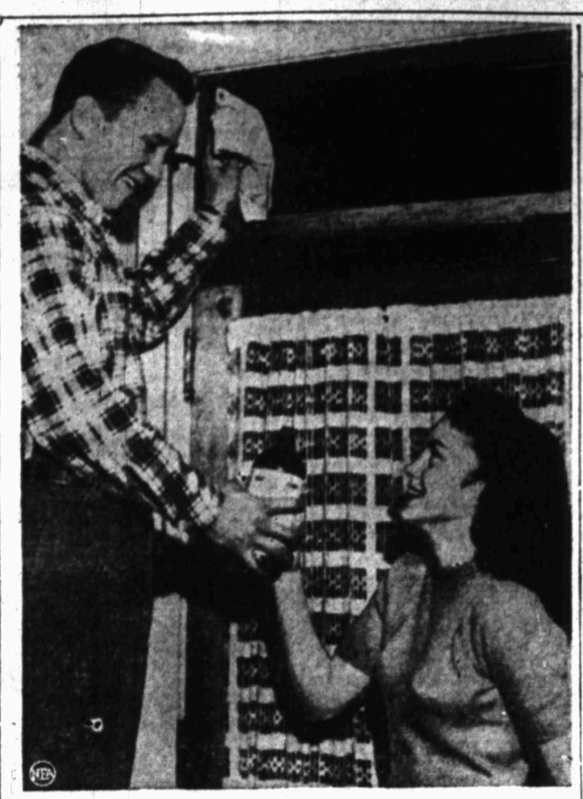

Lubbock's next opponent is a home stand against Big Spring on Friday night in another non-conference game.

The Westerners "B" team came out with a 32-18 victory over the Bullpups as Tommy Yelvington bucketed 12 points.

MAY JOIN LOOP

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 7 (AP) — The Gulf Coast conference may add a school, becoming a five-member loop. Members will discuss the possibility at the yearly meeting in Dallas Saturday. Oklahoma City university is known to be interested in joining the new conference, now made up of North Texas, University of Houston, Trinity and Hardin.

CLEAN-UP MAN—Outfielder Roy Sievers, who walked away with rookie-of-the-year honors in the American League, cleans up around the house for his pretty wife, Joan. The St. Louis sandlot product batted .306, knocked out 28 doubles and 16 home runs for the seventh-place Browns.

Southwest Tops Grid Section

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (U.P.)—The Southwest, with its wide open style of football built around the aerial circus, compiled the best record in the nation for intersectional competition during the 1949 season, a United Press survey disclosed today.

Eleven teams from the badlands of Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas won a total of 18 games, lost eight and tied one for a percentage of .692 against clubs from other sections of the country to steal the thunder from the Midwest, the traditional intersectional leader.

Midwest Is Second

The survey, which covered 95 major games involving 89 teams, was based purely on geographic lines, regardless of conference affiliations. As a result, a few Big Seven and Missouri Valley conference games were regarded as "intersectional" because of the far-flung distances between the teams involved.

Twenty-two Midwest teams, led by mythical national champion Notre Dame which was unbeaten in six intersectional clashes, had the second best record with 31 victories, 20 defeats and two ties for a percentage of .608.

East Gets Third

The East, with 16 teams compiling a mark of 16 victories, 21 setbacks and three ties, shaded the South for third place. The Dixie elevens, with 24 teams meeting opposition outside their own section, won 16, lost 22 and tied two. The Far West, which was combined with the Rocky Mountain area, was last with a record of nine victories, 19 defeats and two ties for 16 teams.

Notre Dame, which long ago picked up the nickname "Ramblers" because of its practice of roaming far and wide for football opposition, compiled the outstanding intersectional record in the land. In beating the University of Washington, Tulane, Navy, North Carolina, Southern California and Southern Methodist, the unbeaten Irish amassed 214 points to 40 for their opponents.

Irish Players Say Ponies "Toughest"

SOUTHBEND, Ind., Dec. 7 (AP)—The Notre Dame football teams says Southern Methodist was the toughest opponent it met this season.

The balloting yesterday was by the 36 team members who made the trip to the SMU game last Saturday. Notre Dame won, 27-20, the closest margin of victory this season.

The Irish also voted on an all-opponent team, naming Kyle Rote, who spearheaded the SMU attack, to a backfield spot. He was the only unanimous selection. Neal Franklin, Southern Methodist tackle, was another all-opponent selection.

Brock, Stroud Given Honors

Tackle Joe Brock and Left Halfback Wayne Stroud were elected Tuesday as co-captains of the Lubbock Westerner football squad for the season just completed. They were named to the honor at a special squad meeting in Chapman fieldhouse.

The two seniors were chosen by vote of their teammates.

BROCK

At the meeting, Coach Pat Pattison announced that all 36 players on the squad at the close of the season will be awarded letter jackets. Of this group, 19 are seniors and 17 will return next season.

The Westerner grid managers, Merle Burchett and Don Lester, also were awarded letters.

The jackets, for which measurements were taken after Tuesday's meeting, will be presented at a school assembly as soon as they arrive, Pattison said. Delivery is expected in about six weeks, he added.

Brock and Stroud were outstanding performers on the Westerner team which finished the season with a 10-1 won-and-lost record, bowing only to Austin High of El Paso in last week's bi-district playoff round. Both were named to the Avalanche-Journal All-District 3-AA first team. Brock also was selected on the Fort Worth Star-Telegram all-state team, while Stroud gained a berth on that newspaper's third all-state team.

STROUD

The complete list of 1949 lettermen: Curtis Roberts, Bob Brown, Weldon Cobb, Garnet Reeves, Dale Young, Doug Wienke, Malcolm Young, Tommy Fisher, Freddie Gray, Sam Modrall, Joe Brock, Wayne Stroud, Charles McCown, Billy Wright, Billy Tooke, Morris Turner, Charles Williams, Douglas Poss and Wayne Noland, all seniors, and lower classmen Gene Nelson, Delwin Doyle, Jack Weldon, Jerry Van Pelt, Ross Craig, Bob Newell, Don Rawls, Deverle Henslee, Mac Taylor, Don Hufstedler, Frank Hill, Billy Presley, Lyndell Ross, Dick Cobb, Dean White, Bobby Dan and Don Herriage.

Rice Owls Edge Tech

Raiders Lose 57-45 Tussle

HOUSTON, Dec. 7 (Special) — Texas Tech's basketball squad moves on to San Antonio today for a game with Trinity university, after absorbing a 57-45 licking last night at the hands of the Rice Owls here.

The Red Raiders opened a four-game road trip by taking it on the chin, but only after throwing a scare into the Southwest Conference quintet.

Forward Chester "Jiggs" Jackson led an assault on the Owls that almost brought victory, but his 21 points, high for the night, wasn't enough to turn the trick. 9 tight Rice defense in the second half held him to a single field goal, after he had blazed an early trail with 11 points in the first eight minutes.

But the Owls, trailing by six points, pulled even with Tech at 19-19, after the West Texans had led from the start. Then they rallied to take a 32-28 lead at the half.

In the second half, Jackson was held to one field goal and Rice cashed in on 13 out of 18 free throw chances to increase its lead. Tech managed to match Rice's six field goals the final 20 minutes, but made only five of its 12 charity chances.

Jackson finished with 21 points to lead in scoring, followed by Rice's Big Joe McDermott with 19.

Tech Leads Early

Jackson's sharp eye for the basket and Tech's height under the backboards made things look like a West Texas runaway in the early minutes. With Tech leading 19-12, a quick five points by Rice's Warren Switzer and J. D. White pulled the Owls even at 19-19. But Jackson sank three more points to send the Raiders ahead again.

A field goal by McDermott and a free toss by Jim Gerhardt made it 23-23 and Tech never regained the lead. McDermott sent the Owls ahead for the first time at 25-23.

Fouls Hurt Raiders

WHITE SOX GET OUTFIELDER

Stellar Hurler Is Bought By Indians

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE, Dec. 7. — Bill Veeck, dynamic ex-president of the Cleveland club is gone but the Indians are still stealing the show from the rest of the major league clubs.

While the others were feinting and fencing but apparently accomplishing nothing in their efforts to swing the first big trade at the minor league convention, the Indians came up with one of the finest pitching prizes in the minors.

Get Prize Hurler

He is Hal Saltzman, 24-year-old righthander who won 23 and lost 13 for the Portland club of the Pacific Coast league. General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Indians, who announced the purchase last night, said Saltzman cost Cleveland five players besides an undisclosed amount of cash. He estimated the deal represented a $100,000 purchase.

Apparently taking his cue from the Indians, Frank Lane, general manager of the Chicago White Sox announced the purchase of Outfielder Bob Wilson from Sacramento to the PCL for three unidentified players and cash. That, too, was a $100,000 investment, according to Lane.

Both are regarded highly by veteran observers. Saltzman, a University of Oregon product who had only a year and a half of professional baseball experience before joining the Beavers last year, is generally regarded as the top pitching prospect on the coast. He pitched 22 complete games last year and fanned 120 in 276 innings.

Top Three Rivals

To get the youngster, the Indians had to top the offers of three rival big league clubs. Greenberg said both New York clubs and the Chicago White Sox were after him. In addition to about $30,000 in cash, the Indians gave up Outfielder Hal Peck and Luis Marquez from their own roster. Third Baseman Steve Mesner and Pitcher Charles (Red) Adams from San Diego and a fifth player to be named before Feb. 15.—Marquez played with Portland, where he hit. .394 last year.

Wilson, only 20, hit .246 for Sacramento in 106 games last season, but was out of the lineup most of the early campaign with a broken foot. His hits included 13 doubles three triples and 11 home runs He batted .384 for Wenatchee of the Western International league in 1948.

The record breaking minor league draft of 218 players for $439,850 will wind up today with the "delayed" selection just before the official opening of the national association convention.

Hughie Devore Is Favorite Citizen

St. Bonaventure Eleven Gets Full Support Of Rabid Fans

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

OLEAN, N. Y., Dec. 7.—Who's Frank Leahy and where is Columbus, Ohio?

There are only 25,000 people in this compact city in the foothills of the Alleghanies but, if there is a bigger, little football town in the United States, it had better sit up and start yelling.

This is the home of St. Bonaventure college which, in case you haven't heard, produced such baseball immortals as John McGraw and Hughie Jennings. But it's a football town now—spring, summer, fall and winter. They've got a lot of learned doctors but all the medical knowledge in the world won't cure them of the fatal bite received from the football bug.

Fans Are Enthusiastic

They're incurable gridiron maniacs, nice people, but just a little touchdown touched. In the heat of the golf season, it's a golf tournament to promote their gridiron club.

Later on it's a gridiron clambake, last night it was their annual dinner honoring Hughie Devore, who held the reins at Notre Dame briefly during the war.

Devore was one of the few lads who amazed Knute Rockne. As a freshman, quiet, likeable Hughie tackled a teammate so hard that the Rock cautioned:

"We are in favor of hard tackling, but we frown on outright murder."

There have been reports from time to time that Devore, whose bonnie teams have won 25, lost nine and tied one in four years, is destined for bigger things—possibly an eventual return to South Bend. But they are determined to keep him here.

Men Work Hard

"One of these days they'll be rumoring that Leahy is coming to St. Bonaventure," cracked William N. Davis, one of the gridiron club bigwigs.

Davis is typical of the ardent fan. A West Point graduate and a native of Georgia, he is one of the hottest fanatics of the tiny Catholic college. Then there's 78-year-old Fred W. Forness, jr., three-time mayor of this city. The school needed a stadium. Forness built it—even to the extent of putting on overalls and personally directing operations.

And busy businessmen like George Driscoll and Pat Dawson ignore their finances to bring in celebrities like West Virginia's Dud Degroot to tell the borderline cases how great a man is Devore. Oh, the city's full of fellows like them.

Last year, when Devore's contract expired, Hughie debated several other offers. It was a city crisis. They managed to hold on to him and, with another year to go on his paper, are doing everything within NCAA bounds to get him material.

Coaching Is Difficult

"It is more difficult coaching in smaller schools because the name colleges attract the best players," Devore asserted. "But you'd have headaches anywhere. That's part of a coach's life."

Devore, who also holds out for the much-libeled two platoon system, clinched his spot in Olean's hall of fame in his last game this year. The "T" wasn't given much chance against bowl-bound Boston university, but St. Bonaventure won, 19-0.

That knocked Boston university right out of a bowl game—and knocked the Olean fans right into a delirium which will last until the opening kickoff next fall. The dinner last night officially closed the gridiron season. But you know what they are doing now? Selling memberships in the gridiron club for next season.

Ropesville Eagles Down Meadow Quint

ROPESVILLE, Dec. 7 (Special)—Ropesville's Eagles today boasted an unblemished 2-0 basketball record, after downing the Meadow Bronchos, 40-25, here last night in a non-conference encounter.

In their season cage opener last week, the Eagles bested Levelland, 28-22.

Kenneth Means scored 13 points and Donnie Reynolds netted 11 to spark Ropesville's attack. Robert White was high for Meadow with 10. The halftime score was Ropesville 23, Meadow 9.

With Henson chalking up 17 points, Meadow gained a 36-30 victory in the girl's game. Glenda Bevers paced Ropesville with 12.

Ropesville captured the boys "B" squad game which opened the night's program, 20-7.

BOWL SITE REVEALED

STOCKTON, Calif., Dec. 7 (AP) College of the Pacific football players have voted to play their projected post-season game with Baylor university in the Lodi Grape bowl Dec. 26. They also voted to turn down a proposal to play in San Francisco's Seals stadium.

Between the Lines by Joe Kelly

Possibly the answer, or part of the answer, to why football players want to go to Notre Dame was contained in a column by Bob Bray in The Amarillo Times last week. Bob said that he had been talking with an alumnus of that institution, a man close to the picture. We don't verify the following information. We only pass on what Bray printed.

According to this Notre Dame graduate, football players at South Bend are given a varying number of tickets for each year they are on the squad. Freshmen are given a pair, sophomores four, juniors six and seniors eight. Allegedly Notre Dame always plays to sellout crowds and allegedly the tickes given to the players always are sold for $100 each. Even with our weak mathematical mind, we can figure where a conscientious player, saving his money carefully, would be able to accrue $20,000 at the end of four years. At $200 a game his first year for 10 games its' $2,000. That would be $4,000 the second year, $6,000 the third and $8,000 the fourth. And that would be a total of 20,000 iron men.

We don't know whether the alumnus giving out with the information knew about what he was talking, or whether he was pulling Bob's leg. We do know that Texas Tech players, like all players on college football teams, are given tickets before each game. They can give them to friends, sweethearts, parents or anyone else. They also can sell them. And we know for a fact that if a Tech football player should get as much as $10 for one ticket, he'd almost die of rapture. As it is, Raiders are lucky to get as much as $10 for two tickets. And usually, if they sell the tickets, they get either the face price or less. This isn't considered scalping, but is one of the ways football players receive assistance.

Burning up District 15-A this year was a boy who has definite connections with Lubbock. The youth is Billy Jack Meredith, who scored 120 points as a junior for the Mount Vernon Tigers. He is a grandson of Mrs. Winnie White of 2119 Sixth street.

You'd never have believed it if you hadn't read it in black and white, and neither would we. But the Texas Aggies have given Baylor a lift on construction of the new Baylor Stadium. The Aggie student body, on the motion of a senior from Waco, put across a purchase of a $100 stadium bond to be financed by money from the student activities funds. The lad who seconded the motion, C. C. Munroe, told the Associated Press: "We aren't thinking of changing schools, but we do want a nice stadium to play Baylor in after Adrian Burk graduates and our games are back on an even basis again!"

Informed sources say that the Sherman- Denison baseball team of the Big State League will be in operation again this year, or in 1950, that is. The baseball club owners found themselves $50,000 in red and they must raise it before next season. Subscriptions already have raised over $20,000, leaving the club short of its goal by a considerable distance. And J. Tipp Newell, club president, thinks the rest will be hard to get. The funds will be used to retire club debts and to provide operating capital. But if the Sherman-Denison club fails, look for Alert George Schepps to move his Corpus Christi franchise in, if he can. He already had his eye on raising it status anyway he can, even if Greenville has to suffer.

The TAAF boxing tournament here Thursday and Friday nights ought to be well worth the price of admission to any boxing fan. Your amateur isn't a professional and he is included to throw caution to the wind, or winds. He wades in and powee! Sooner or later one of the two will go down. It's not really scientific. It's not class at all. It's sheer power and will power that keeps most of the amateurs on their feet. The longer they have been boxing, of course, the better they are. This tournament seems to be getting a lot of all types and there should be some furious action. Unfortunately, Tom Adams won't be here. He'd go a long way toward making this a classy tournament, but even without him there'll be a lot of action. And it's a good warm-up for the Golden Gloves, which will be coming off in another six weeks or so.

Texas, Aggies Lose In Tilts

(By The United Press)

Rice Institute got back on the winning road last night, but two other Southwest conference basketball teams remained on the losing side of the ledger.

The Owls turned in a 57-45 verdict over Texas Tech Texas A&M dropped its third straight game, a 55-51 verdict to St. Louis university, and Texas lost its second straight start, this time to Texas Wesleyan 38-35.

Texas Five Loses

The Aggies meet Oklahoma A&M in Stillwater in tonight's only game.

At Austin, Texas led at the half 20-11, but Texas Wesleyan sliced the lead 20-18 after five minutes of play in the second half. Then the independent Fort Worth squad pulled even on a field goal by Lou Zastoupil of Dallas, a transfer from Texas. He was fouled on the shot and made a successful charity toss to boost two into a 36-35 lead.

Wesleyan froze the ball with 72 seconds to play and scored two more points before handing the Longhorns their second loss in as many starts.

First Win For TWC

It was TWC's first victory in two games this season.

Forward Bill McGee of Texas, with 12 points, was the leading scorer. Texas' Tom Hamilton and TWC's Doug Higgins scored 10 points apiece.

Texas A&M suffered its third straight defeat of the fall against a St. Louis team that looked ragged. The Billikins sank only 21 out of 73 field goal attempts. The teams were almost even on the free throw line.

Forward John DeWitt of the Aggies was the evening's high scorer, with 13 points. Two St. Louis forwards, Ed Scott and Co-Captain Joe Ossola, got 12 each.

Rice Wins

From that point Rice never was behind. Gerhardt, Switzer and Grawunder made it 32-25 for Rice three poin's seconds before the half ended.

Second half roughness gave Rice the chance to pull ahead gradually.

Three Games Slated At Boys Club Today

Today will be a quiet one at Boys club, as only three basketball games are scheduled. The Five Angels tangle with the Alley Rats and the Eagles meet the Galloping Ghosts in the Midget loop, and the Pee Wee Wildcats face the Mustangs.

Tuesday in the Senior game the Golden Gophers defeated the Dirty Demons, 26-21, in the closest contest.

Billy Diamond's seven points was high for the Gophers, and Davis Hopper sent six points through the mesh for the Demons.

Scoring honors went to Bobby Tollison with 23 points as he paced the Sorry Lot to a 50-24 triumph over the Basketeers. Jim Johnson was high for the losers.

Two games were unreeled in the Midget loop, with the Alley Rats, paced by Jimmy Washington's 22-point total, taking a 36-28 verdict over the Palominos. For the losers Dale Ball was tops with 11.

Jim Hawkins helped the Raiders defeat the Galloping Ghosts, 25-9, by hitting the baskets for 12 points. Doug Tucker's three free throws was high for the losers.

In the Pee Wee game the Buffaloes kayoed the Roughies by an 8-0 count as Roy Rucker and Kenneth Marmaduke scored four points each.

CONTRACT PURCHASED

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 7 (U.P.) — Ezzard Charles, the NBA recognized heavyweight champion, today was under new management. Tom Tannas, New Kensington, Pa., sportsman and real estate dealer, purchased Charles' contract yesterday from three Cincinnatians, Gene Elkus, Charles Dyer and George Rhein, for a price reported between $50,000 and $60,000.

Gridders Honored By Bus Firm Here

Football squads of Texas Tech and Lubbock High school were guests of the T. N. M. & O. bus lines and Jess C. Levens, president, at a dinner in the Hotel Lubbock last night, with Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor of the First Methodist church, giving the principal address.

Dr. Robinson declared that good football players are the result of good coaching and that good men are the result of following the greatest of all coaches.

The Methodist pastor was introduced by Elmer Tarbox, who served as master of ceremonies. Throughout his speech, Dr. Robinson livened things with references to his own grid experiences and to humorous anecdotes.

Rev. Robinson said that there was a great parallel between coaching and religion, for no player was any good without a coach and every man was responsible to the One Great Coach.

He cited the story of Pilot in the Bible asking the crowd who was their king? And the crowd's answer that they had no king. He said that the term "king" and "coach" were allied closely, could even be substituted for each other, and that any crowd lacking a coach naturally was lost.

Preceding Rev. Robinson's speech, players of both squads were regaled with several clever tricks, mainly the machination of D. M. McElroy, Texas Tech alumni secretary.

Assistants Introduced

Coach C. R. Pattison of Lubbock High school introduced his assistant coaches and thanked the crowd for their support this year. Coach Dell Morgan of Texas Tech followed with an introduction of his coaches and also thanked the people of Lubbock for their support. He also praised the Westerners for their fine season.

The Westerner season was given in tableau form as "A Dream," with an actor impersonating Coach Pattson having a dream. Two players pantomiming Lubbock's victory successes and Joe Meador, Lubbock Chamber of Commerce member, impersonated Austin (El Paso).

The skits concluded with a quartet composed of Lou Jones as Morgan, Arch Lamb as Coach G. B. Morris, McElroy as Coach Tipp Mooney and Ed Smith as Coach Polk Robinson, singing two songs. The songs follow:

(To the tune: "Far Away Places")

"The Southwestern Conference, far away under the plains;
The Southwestern Conference, with its big sounding names;
Ain't calling, ain't calling me.
Ballots are secret, they swear not to tell.
I'd like to see for myself.
Just how they voted, and who was our friend,
When they voted and noted you're not in.
I start getting restless whenever I hear,
'Maybe they'll vote again.'"

"I pray for the day, when they all will vote yea,
And we can play them again and again.
They say they are for me, and maybe they are,
But their ballots are burning you see.
That Southwestern Conference with its big sounding name,
Ain't calling, ain't calling me."

(To the tune: "All My Sins Are Taken Away")

"We warmed up with ACC. We warmed up with ACC, It wasn't so easy as you could see. And none of our fears were taken away.
Next we played old Texas U. Next we played old Texas U. despite that heat we still got beat, and a lot of players were carried away.
We went down to San Antone. We went down to San Antone. We went down to San Antone, all we did was groan and moan. Oh, how we hated to go back home.
Oh the wolves did howl and they showed their teeth. Oh the wolves did howl and they showed their teeth. Oh the wolves did howl and they showed their teeth. We prayed for a team that we could beat And none of our fears were taken away.
Next we played West Texas State. Next we played West Texas State. Next we played West Texas State, the score didn't let our fears abate, and none of our fears were taken away.
Now here came old Tulsa U. Now here came old Tulsa U. Now here came old Tulsa U. they brought their coach, and their elbows too. And some of our fears were taken away.
Here they came with that stinking Bear. Here they came with that stinking Bear. Here they came with that stinking Bear, Adrian Burk just filled the air. None of his passes were taken away.
Arizona came out of the West. Arizona came out of the West. Arizona came out of the West, we won the game but it wasn't out best. All of our seniors are going away.
Then we played the Wise Old Owl. Then we played the Wise Old Owl. Then we played the Wise Old Owl, we got beat but you can't howl, 'cause that old Bird was Cotton Bowl bound.
Then we finally hit our stride. Then we finally hit our stride. Then we finally hit our stride and gave Jack Curtice a hell of a ride. And all of our seniors are going away.
Then we gave Coach Burl a fit. Then we gave Coach Burl a fit. Then we gave Coach Burl a fit, didn't help his job a little bit. Nick packed up and came home to stay.
The Baptist boys brought us no fear. The Baptist boys brought us no fear. The Baptist boys brought us no fear, we meet and beat them every year. Sixteen seniors are going away.
(Coaches go into a huddle and turn back facing the audience with "Coach Morgan" holding a Border Conference pennant, and all four coaches holding a box of raisins go back into a song).
Now we've sung our little song. Now we've sung our little song. Now we've sung our little song. Who's afraid of the big bad wolf, the big bad wolf, the big bad wolf. Who's afraid of the big bad wolf, Tra la la la la."

HART GETS TROPHY

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Leon Hart, Notre Dame's All-America end, will receive the Heisman Memorial trophy tonight as "the outstanding college football player" of the 1949 season. Doak Walker, Southern Methodist halfback, was last year's winner. He finished third this year behind North Carolina's Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice.

Shallowater Notches Win Over Levelland

SHALLOWATER, Dec. 7 (Special) — It may be monotonous to Class B teams on the South Plains, but the Shallowater High school Mustangs appear to be picking up where last year's cage crew left off.

Further proof of that was given last night when the Ponies pounded to a 35-30 victory over Levelland to run their 1949 victory streak to 18 games without a loss.

The boys idle until Saturday, when they travel to Roosevelt to play an exhibition game as a feature of the state-wide girls basketball tournament.

But the girls, who lost to Levelland last night 23-21, return to action tonight and Thursday night in games against Slaton. Both will be conference tilts.

Bobby Reed, elusive successor to Derrell Murphy, fired the goals that gave the Mustangs their victory. Reed drove in for two quick goals with the score tied at 25-all and the Ponies never were headed after that.

Reed was the night's high scorer with 14 points, while a trio of Lobo shooters, Bailey, Guinn and Spence, each had seven for the losers.

The game was close all the way. The Mustangs and Lobos were tied at 6-6 at the end of the first quarter. They were locked at 15-15 at the intermission. And the third quarter ended with the score tied at 25-25.

Lamesa Tornadoes Shade Big Spring

LAMESA, Dec. 7 (Special) —Lamesa defeated Big Spring, 29-24, here last night in a non-district basketball tilt for their second triumph of the season, having defeated Plainview earlier.

Approximately 600 persons watched in the new gym as the Lamesans chalked up a 17-9 halftime score and then pushed to a 24-19 three-quarter lead. Big Spring did not score a field goal until three minutes of the half.

Bobby Hawkins paced the winners with eight points and was outstanding defensively.

In a "B" team game Big Spring defeated the Lamesans, 36-30, although Jerry Millsapps scored 15 points for the losers. Big Spring led at the half, 18-11.

Lamesa plays Plainview here on Dec. 13 after participating in the Hardin-Simmons tournament on Dec. 9-10.

Tag Team Bout Features Card

The problem of matching suitable opponents for the two final events tonight at Sled Allen's arena came to a suitable solution when the promoter decided on a tag team match for the main bill of the card.

Four of the top grapplers in the area will make their appearance in the big show. Opposing Herb Parks and Andy Tremain will be two of the bad men of the mat wars, Alex Kasaboski and the Grey Mask.

Opening the program at 8 p.m. will be Jack Pappenheim against Gust Johnson. Both matches are tagged for an hour time limit.

For the past few weeks upsets have been occurring at the arena, and wrestlers have been demanding rematches with previous opponents in an effort to salvage their prestige. Everybody wants to fight someone else.

The Mask has his sights set on Tremain, who pinned him in two straight falls two weeks ago, and Parks wanted a shot at Kasaboski. George Overhull, who has been appearing here regularly, also was after the Russian, and Tremain just wanted to fight. So tonight some of these men will get a chance to settle their grudges in the tag team match.

It is doubtful if the match will stay clean very long, although Parks and Tremain prefer that type of bout, because Kasaboski and the Mask are definitely inclined to the shady side of the grunt and groan game.

Johnson is making his appearance here for the first time in many months and will meet another West Coast product when he ties into Pappenheim in the opener. This should be an exhibition of skill.

Tickets will be on sale until 5 p.m. at the arena and also may be picked up at the gate.

Abernathy Defeats Lorenzo Cage Teams

ABERNATHY, Dec. 7 (Special) Lorenbo High's cage teams were no match for Abernathy quintets here last ngiht, dropping all decisions in a non-fonrence cage tripleheader witnessed by 500 fans.

Abernathy's Antelopes, with Esten Blackmon pumping 11 points through the hoops, downed the Lorenzo Hornets, 45-26, in the feature contest. Joe Mankins scored nine points to pace the Hornet attack, and played an outstanding defensive game. Jack Brownlow sparkled on defense for Coach Boyce Box's Antelopes. Abernathy girlsteam easily downed the Lorenzo sextet, 44-19, with Theo Pharr scoring 17 points and Doris Vineyard collecting 13. Doris Wise and Jean Kueher tallied seven each for the losers.

Murrey Sandefur registered 13 points to lead the Abernathy boys "B" team to a 33-14 win. Charles Shaw was high for Lorenzo with five.

Charge Of "Fixed" Bout To Be Probed

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7. (U.P.)—Lightweight Champion Ike Williams faced loss of his license as he went to today's commission inquiry into his statements about a "fixed" fight.

Before the hearing, Chairman George J. Jones of the Pennsylvania athletic commission warned sternly that Williams "had better remember" who told him Monday night's title fight with Freddie Dawson was in the bag" for Dawson.

Williams already is under suspension by the National Boxing association for failing to go through a scheduled fight in Los Angeles. The Pennsylvania commission, an NBA member, indicated it would honor the suspension after the Monday night.

"He'd better remember!" declared the chunky chairman from Williamsport, Pa. "Williams' statement to the press in his dressing room before Monday night's fight reflected upon the integrity of commission officials; and we're ready to take action unless Williams can offer proof to substantiate his statements."

Williams kept his 135-pound title Monday night by winning a unanimous 15-round decision over Dawson. After the bout, Ike admitted he apparently had been given a "wrong steer" by the close friend who telephoned him the fix information at his Philadelphia hotel Monday afternoon. The friend informed Ike that a gambling group had arranged for Dawson to win of the bout went to a decision. Ike "couldn't remember" the name of his friend.

NATIONALIST ARRIVES IN U. S.

Chinese President Plans To See HST

By SEYMOUR TOPPING
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—Li Tsung-jen, acting president of Nationalist China, arrived in the United States as a virtual political exile. The plain fact is that he has no safe place to go back to in China.

Li said upon arrival in San Francisco last night that his absence from China is only temporary.

Li left again at 12:22 a. m. (3:22 EST) by chartered plane for New York's Presbyterian hospital for treatment of an ulcerated stomach. This treatment is described as his principal reason for being in this country.

Li also plans to talk to American officials—presumably about aid for the Nationalist cause.

Civil War Denied

He said he "naturally" would pay his respects to President Truman.

Pan American said Li would reach New York around 3 p. m. EST today unless headwinds forced refueling in Chicago around 11:30 a. m. EST. In this case he would be an hour late in reaching his destination.

President Li, a lean man of medium height, with sparse, graying hair, sparkling eyes and a constant smile, is accompanied by his wife, Madame Li Tsung-jen, and his sons, Li Yau-Luen and Li Jackson, and several aides.

At a public reception here in San Francisco's Chinatown, largest in this country, Li said:

The Communist threat to China and Asia is grave but there is cause for hope. "I expect all Chinese will support the Nationalist government. This is not a civil war. It is a war of aggression directed by the third international. We're not only fighting for China. We're fighting a world-wide campaign."

Factors In Plight Cited

He blamed the present plight of his government on (1) the rise of Communism and Russian aid to Chinese Communists and (2) the government's past failures to work hard enough for the people's welfare.

A formal statement distributed by Dr. Kan Chieh-hou, his personal representative in Washington, declared the whole Asian continent and country beyond was faced with the danger of Communist rule should the present conquest go unchecked.

Li assured "our American friends that the Chinese people are determined to preserve their liberty." He declared his absence from China in no way affected the campaign against the Communists and "as soon as my physical condition permits . . ., I shall return to China and resume my personal direction of the struggle."

But developments in Communist-overrun China make it improbable that Li will be able to go home in the foreseeable future. He could return to the Brtiish Crown colony of Hong Kong, where he had been hospitalized since Nov. 20. Illness is a traditional refuge in Chinese politics.

WTCC Session

he had been directed to create a new department of coordination of projects which requires a man with a broader economic and engineering background.

To Discuss Commissions

Bandeen said today's meeting was called primarily to discuss the organization of four commissions to function under the West Texas Domestic Water association, authorized by a recent meeting in Fort Worth.

Speaking of the Wilke case, he referred to it at one time as "when they told me to fire Wilke" and set up the new program.

The new program calls for the creating of a Project Economic Justification Commission, a group to organize support to show justification of any West Texas project; a Projects Organization Commission, to act where there isn't a political subdivision to sponsor any project; a Municipal Water Rights Commission, where the WTCC is going to try to establish in both federal and state laws a first sovereignty over water in line with the Hoover Commission report and a Water Utilization Commission, which will make sure that the Reclamation Service gives full credit for maximum water utilization, when a report is submitted, so as to make more feasible these projects.

Need Broad Background

Bandeen said director of this program would "have to be a man of broad economic and engineering background."

Wilke was manager of the Sweetwater Board of City Development prior to joining the WTCC in 1947. Bentley, former newspaperman and radio station manager, has been an employe 13 years.

Bandeen is rounding out 20 years as WTCC manager.

The organization, supported only by memberships of West Texas business and professional men, has 6,000 paid-up members in 140 towns in 132 counties in North and West Texas.

Every town has a director, but ten district directors make up the executive committee of the organization, which Bentley declared, should be meeting here along with the officers.

District Directors

The district directors are: Roy D. Bourland, Pampa, district 1; Henry Teubel, Tulia, district 2; A. B. Taff, Childress, district 3; J. Holford Russell, Denton, district 4; Frank S. Roberts, Breckenridge, district 5; Charnell Jobe, Lamesa, district 6; L. J. Pinkerton, Monahans, district 7; Dr. R. M. Hawkins, Alpine, district 8; E. L. Buelow, San Angelo, district 9; and John C. Grammer, Coleman, district 10.

In addition to the officers, Bandeen, Wilke and Bentley, Mrs. Clara Bussell, Bandeen's secretary, is here for the meeting.

Possibilities of a flare-up over the situation had not developed at noon. Bandeen, Wilke and Bentley passed each other in the hallways outside the meeting room several times and at one time Bentley conferred for several minutes with Bandeen.

STEEL SHARES LEAD

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (U.P.) — Steel shares assumed leadership on the stock market today as the industry studied the need for price increases.

Mention of the prospect for higher steel prices by The Iron Age focused attention on the steel group where gains ranged from fractions to more than a point. One issue was up more than 3 points.

A spurt in New York, Chicago & St. Louis bolstered railroad issues which had a few soft spots. A few others were popular, notably Alleghany Corp., Illinois Central, and Nickel Plate preferreds all of which made new highs.

Numerous special issues moved ahead, reflecting selective buying. Utilities had a very strong feature in Peoples Gas whose rise lifted the utility average to a new high since Aug. 26, 1946. Auto issues firmed on favorable outlook for that industry next year. Oils impeded by record stocks of fuel oil, featured the market on the downside.

The industrial average presented an anomaly for the market. It showed a decline while the market actually was higher. This was accounted for by the fact that three of the issues in it sold ex-dividend an aggregate of 9⅞ or 1.09 points in the average.

Thus when the average at 2 p. m. showed a loss of 0.81 point, the market for those stocks actually was up 0.28 point.

Three Children Shot To Death By Father

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Dec. 7. (U.P.) —John S. Connor, 38, a mild-mannered engineer, blasted his three children to death with a shotgun today because "I didn't want them to grow up like I did," police reported.

Connor put down the weapon, which he had just reloaded, when police came to the house in response to calls from neighbors who heard the shots and the screams of the children.

Chief of Detectives Russell Hawes said that apparently "his mind snapped," but could not immediately report a reason. His wife was in the house at the time, but escaped the deliberate gunfire.

The children were five-year-old Cecelia, Michael, 10, and Stephanie, 11. Police said the two older children were preparing their school lunches and the youngest had two pieces of toast clutched in her hand.

AMA Fight

hoping that American doctors will tire of the battle and let their guard down.

"But the battle of Armageddon —the decisive struggle which may determine not only medicine's fate but whether state socialism is to engulf all America—is still ahead of us.

"That fight may be lost or won in next year's Congress, or in the 1950 congressional elections."

Henderson made these statements in a special message included in a report of "progress" in the AMA's year-old "national education campaign to acquaint the American people with the dangers of compulsory healty insurance."

The Louisville doctor is chairman of a 12-member coordinating committee which is conducting the campaign. The drive is directed by Clem Whitaker and Miss Leone Baxter of a Chicago public relations firm.

Whitaker and Miss Baxter declared that doctors had prepared the plan of the campaign with these objectives:

1. "To defeat the compulsory health insurance legislation pending in Congress."

2. "To put a permanent stop to the agitation for socialization of the medical profession by alerting the people to the costly consequences of such a program, and by providing the finest type of voluntary health insurance for all in need of prepared medical protection."

May Assess Dues

Another section of the report stated that $2,250,000 had been raised from $25 "voluntary" assessments among the AMA membership and that 80 per cent of doctors expected to contribute had done so. The AMA said a great many physicians, including retired doctors and those not having full-time work, were not expected to contribute.

Before the report was made public, another proposal for raising revenue was laid before the AMA's house of delegates, which last June went on record as favoring a system of compulsory dues for the AMA membership. The AMA doctors have never had to pay dues.

The AMA's board of trustees submitted a proposal that dues "not to exceed $25" annually be established. The proposal was referred to the committee on constitution and by-laws which will have to make a report before any final action is taken.

Cotton Quotas

Texas quota by upwards of 100,000 acres. He says the department erroneously interpreted the law in basing the Texas allotment on the "California gadget."

The 1949 law provides that a state shall receive its allotment under whichever plan gives it the larger acreage. It provides further, that the allocations within states to the counties shall be made by the same method under which the state allotment is figured.

This is where, the Texas congressmen say, that the complaints from certain counties arise. Some counties shifted larger percentages of cotton acreage to war crops than was done in other sectors.

And the farmers who made the shifts at request of the Agriculture department understood all such acreage would be figured in future years in computing cotton allotments.

"As we see it,' said Tucker, "our hands in the Agriculture department are tied" due to the new law.

"We have to follow the law, even though it does seem to work inequities on some counties," he added.

Views of Texas Reps. Poage, Lyle, Burleson, and others who have passed on criticism will be carefully studied next week, said Tucker.

ed to slow down potential speeders."

Immediate needs of the department include more through streets, parallel parking and more traffic lights. "Some one-way streets would help, too," he added.

Hoover also recommended that age limits for drivers should be increased from 14 years and that physical examinations be given periodically to aging drivers.

Survivors are two daughters, Mrs. A. W. Miller of Lubbock and Mrs. J. T. Verner of Chowchillo, Calif.; a son, W. D. Walker of Winnewood, Okla.; a sister, Mrs. Ida Roberts of Tipton, Okla.; 10 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Thursday in the First Methodist church at Idalou. Burial will take place in the Idalou cemetery under direction of Rix Funeral home.

Texas Holdups

with some of the other four, and said some of the other defendants had told him they had staged hijackings at Commerce and Denison.

He said Orville Wayne Mann, alias Billy Mann, 21, was not in the Crosby county holdup. Scrivner denied being in the Nov. 19 Lubbock robbery, although he said he had come here before it and helped plan it.

The officers planned to question the others, including Talmadge Bonham, 17, this afternoon.

Leeman, Scrivner and Bonham are charged in the Crosbyton offense. Mann, along with Leeman and Bonham, is charged in the Lubbock robbery.

Announcement was expected today from 72nd District Judge Dan Blair as to whether he will call a special session of the Crosby county grand jury to investigate the robbery and shooting of the Crosbyton merchant.

The four defendants were delivered early today to Lubbock county jail to await disposition by Crosby county.

All had been arrested early Monday by Dallas police.

All face a maximum death penalty upon conviction of robbery with firearms.

Announcement also was awaited at midmorning as to whether the four will give written statements.

Robberies Claimed Cleared

Two of them had talked freely, Dallas officers had announced.

Detective Captain Will Fritz of Dallas said the arrest of the four, all from Bonham, cleared up 12 robberies in widely scattered sections of Texas. He said other robberies cleared up include offenses in Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth, Sherman, Denison, Greenville and Commerce.

Men Were Handcuffed

Handcuffed, the four were marched into the jail here at 12:15 a.m. today. While being booked, they talked and bantered among themselves.

Sheriff Foy Addison of Crosby county, Sheriff Grady Harrist of Lubbock county and Ranger Captain Bob Crowder of Lubbock made up the official escort party which left Dallas early last night with the four suspects.

Addison was given custody of the four at Dallas after he promised officers from several other counties that "we won't wait all winter to try them," the Associated Press reported.

Officers from more than a half-dozen cities yesterday had scrambled for first custody of the youths.

Legal machinery to bring the youths to trial was expected to go into motion today.

Judge Blair, whose 72nd District includes Crosby county, said last night that he may render a decision today on the matter of calling a grand jury in Crosby county to hear charges against the three men.

Blair explained that he must first consult with officers to "see what the score is," before he would decide on calling a grand jury.

Principals and witnesses in both the Lubbock and Crosbyton robberies are expected to be asked to identify the four men, with action on this probable today.

Mike Wicks, jr., Crosby county attorney, said last night that since Wallace was still in the hospital, his suspected assailants may be taken to the hospital for identification. However, other witnesses to the holdup may be asked to view the suspects if the hospital trip cannot be arranged.

Although Wallace reported that one of the trio had shot him, all three men would be held accountable for the act since they were principals, officials said.

Judge Blair this afternoon was in Morton for the arraignment of Leo Nichols, charged with the Oct. 14 fatal shooting of his wife. On Thursday, Blair will be in Crosbyton for a regular call of the civil docket.

There was a possibility that the Lubbock trial might be held before the Crosbyton trial, since a 99th District court grand jury will meet on Jan. 2 at the call of Judge G. V. Pardue.

In the Lubbock robbery, the three bandits escaped with $714, while at Crosbyton the trio got $152 from cash registers.

but that he doesn't know how many shipments "because we don't know how many leaked through."

2. He found evidence of Russian spying within a month of the time he took charge of the atomic bomb project in 1942.

3. He knows the lend-lease administration was under "pressure" to give the Russians "everything they sought" and that a 'great deal of influence" was brought to bear. But he said he did not know who exerted the pressure.

Hopkins was at one time lend-lease administrator. A close friend of President Roosevelt, Hopkins went to Russia to consult with the Soviets on their needs to hold their front against the Germans.

Documents Claimed Taken

Major Jordan's wartime job was to aid in lend-lease movement of planes to Russia Great Falls was a main basing point on the air route to Russia via Alaska.

He has told of the Russians taking out suitcase after suitcase load of documents as well as atomic materials. He said some of the documents were State department papers.

At a news conference today, Secretary of State Acheson said the State department licensed no exports of atomic materials to Russia with prior approval from the Manhattan project (the wartime name for the atomic bomb project.) Acheson also said he knew of no State department documents going to the Russians.

Scientists Mentioned

Groves said it was impossible for information to have reached Hopkins from Groves' subordinates without Groves knowing about it.

Then he added:

"He could have gotten it from one of those scientists, who as you know, were giving information to Russia."

Groves did not say who he meant by the reference to scientists. The House committee has charged there were Communist cells at some of the wartime atomic laboratories.

The name of former Vice President Henry A. Wallace, as well as that of Hopkins, has come into the inquiry. Fulton Lewis, jr., the radio commentator, said Wallace had used his influence to get atomic materials for the Russians.

Wallace has denied that and asked the House committee to hear him.

On the point of Soviet espionage, Groves said the approach always was made "through my subordinates."

Groves said the spying efforts he knew about were here in Washington and not at Oak Ridge, Tenn., one of the main centers of the big atomic project.

Wallace has denied that he aided the Russians in getting any atomic materials. Friends of Hopkins also have declared they feel certain he did not.

"We shall make sure," he said, "that no four-o'clock in the morning attack will leave us prostrate at five."

Now Better Prepared

The secretary of defense said that although the U. S. is better prepared to meet such a sneak attack now than at any time since 1945 American industry still was inferior in some phases of munitions production.

Johnson indicated that upon the ability of American manufacturers to turn out new "miracle weapons" would rest the fate of the nation in any future war.

Will Thwart Plans

Hoffman said that if Europe succeeds in achieving a strong economy, Russia's satellites will break away and thwart the Kremlin's plans for world conquest. He said in that case "even the Kremlin might decide to live and let live."

The ECA administrator emphasized that a Russian cold war victory would mean the return of wartime economy in the United States "with controls, allocations, rationing, and all the rest." He said that instead of $14,000,000,000 the government expects to spend annually for defense, the budget would have to be greatly increased—"possibly doubled."

Coal Dispute

the remainder of the soft coal industry, would yield about $175,000,000 a year for miners' pensions and welfare benefits. The anthracite industry, with 80,000 employes, has a separate fund.

The agreement reached with the smaller operators obviously was considered by Lewis as bait to attract other hard and soft coal mine owners.

Anthracite negotiations were resumed yesterday in New York.

The hard coal employers, aware that the heating season is about to hit its peak, would like to work a full week while the market demand lasts.

Opposition Is Seen

Biggest opposition to Lewis was expected to come from the soft coal leaders.

The big operators talked tough. John D. Battle, executive vice-president of the National Coal association, said he would like to see the list of those who had signed with Lewis, adding:

"This is a 30-day contract, I fear, on the part of some people wanting to grab some quick dollars to keep from drowning."

Battle referred to a provision that either party could cancel the two-year contract on 30 days' notice. The new pact would take effect January 1, and would run until September 1, 1951.

Flight Faster Than Sound Is Disclosed

DAYTON, O., Dec. 7 (AP)—Capt. Charles Yeager, air force test pilot, disclosed today he had flown 100 miles an hour faster than the speed of sound "and then some."

It was the 26-year-old flier's first public announcement disclosing the extent to which he had exceeded the speed of sound, which is 760 m. p. h. at sea level.

The feat was accomplished in the air force's X 1 rocket plane, which Yeager has flown 30 times.

a norther moved southward across the state.

The thermometer's skid will continue throughout the state tonight, the weather bureau said. The colder weather is expected to hold for most of the state through tomorrow, with possibly some letup in the Panhandle and South Plains.

This morning's coldest reading was 28, four below freezing, at Lubbock in the South Plains. Clarendon had 28. Dalhart recorded a minimum of 31 and Salt Flat 33. Brownsville, in South Texas, had the highest overnight low—52.

The northerly winds were due to reach the upper coast late this afternoon and the lower coast tonight, thus completing the sweep across the state.

Yesterday's high readings ranged from 60 at Guadalupe Pass to 80 at Waco and Victoria. The only rainfall reported for the 24 hours ending at 6:30 a. m. today was .01 of an inch at Austin and .02 at Victoria.

Petrillo Bars Bands At Basketball Games

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (U.P.)—James C. Petrillo's Musicians' union today banned the use of college bands at basketball games in Madison Square garden styling them "a business venture for profit."

Officials of six metropolitan colleges said they would fight the order, fearing it might be extended to include football games and other athletic contests.

Local 802 of Petrillo's American Federation of Labor (AFL) imposed the rule in letters to New York university, Fordham, Brooklyn college, City college, Long Island university, and St. John's college.

City college and Long Island university, matched in a double-header tomorrow night against Southern Methodist university and Kansas State respectively, immediately told their bands to stay home. But officials of the institutions said they would protest the union action.

Crash Of Plane In Michigan Is Feared

MENOMINEE, Mich., Dec. 7. (U.P.) —An unidentified plane, apparently a small, private craft, was feared today to have crashed in the north woods after attempting to land at six widely-scattered cities during a raging snowstorm.

At Daggett, Mich., city officials were forced to turn out the street light to keep the plane from landing on the block-long main street.

Michigan state police said it was "impossible" to let the plane attempt a landing there because it "undoubtedly" would have smashed into buildings along the street.

Some States Plan To Tighten Laws Covering Sex Criminals

(By The Associated Press)

Fifteen states and the District of Columbia have acted recently to crack down on sex fiends.

A congressman wants the FBI to help protect children from sex crimes.

Thirty three states have not done anything of late to deal with sex slayers, perverts, and other sexual abnormals.

An Associated Press survey of the 48 states and the district followed a recent wave of rape, sex murders, and weird sexual crimes. It showed that of the 33 states which have taken no recent action, at least 12 plan no steps in the immediate future.

Many Involve Children

In other states, initial or further action to fight sex crime is expected.

During a single week end last month, police were facing sexual outrages in New York, Pittsburgh, Newport News, Va., Detroit (where the News has offered $40,000 in rewards for solving eight Michigan sex killings), Los Angeles, Twin Falls, Ida., and Huron, Calif.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has reported an increase of 1.3 per cent in rape throughout the nation for the first half of 1949, compared with the same period last year.

The bureau added that their statistics deal only with "rapes known to police," and show that such crimes shot up 50 per cent in 10 years.

Many of the recent crimes involve little children as victims.

Rep. Chelf (D-Ky) said recently that he will try to make it a federal offense to molest a child. He said that he believed such action would be as effective at curbing degenerates who prey on children as the Lindberg anti-kidnaping law has been in controlling kidnapping.

Mental Treatment Urged

The congressman said he had been shocked to read "horrible accounts of the ever-increasing brutal slayings of this nation's children." He said "apparently the state laws are insufficient."

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan has said that the sex crime situation must be solved; "it is not a problem that can wait."

In several states efforts are being made to have the sex offender treated as a mental case, subject to care by physicians, rather than to cold,. impersonal, penal sentence with no rehabilitation chances.

Gov. Earl Warren of California recently endorsed a budget request of the department of correction for $10,000,000 for a mental hospital for the criminally insane, particularly sex cases. He said, however, he felt there were adequate laws to deal with sex offenders if they were enforced.

Judge Adrian Bonnelly, a veteran member of the Philadelphia court of common pleas told the Associated Press: "We don't need new laws . . . we need more trained psychiatrists. Whether a boy is abnormal or asocial is a strictly medical problem." Judge Bonnelly, 60, added that he didn't think there were any more sex crimes now than when he was a boy.

Nowadays, there are simply more detailed police records, he added.

Boy Who Survived Burns To Observe Christmas At Home

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Little Mike Rector, who suffered burns over 70 per cent of his body more than a year ago, is going to get home for Christmas.

The four-year old has been in casualty hospital since Nov. 12, 1948. He has had numerous skin grafts—being brave about them all—and still faces the need for eight or ten more.

Walks In Corridors

Mike has been walking in the corridors for about a week now, using a wheeled bar device called a walker. Yesterday he got out on the sun porch for a time.

His Christmas at home may last only a few hours before he has to go back to the hospital but his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Rector, and the local Optimist club are planning to make it merry.

Mike was burned when his cowboy suit caught fire. For a long time, he wasn't expected to live.

She found her cousin in the middle of a big tantrum. "I can have a bigger tantrum than you," she said, and proved her point with various screams and an adult aptitude for breaking furniture.

Amarillo Looks For Big Jump

By JIM PARKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

The 1950 federal census may show five additions to the list of Texas big cities—those with more than 100,000 people.

They are Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Corpus Christi and El Paso.

Of these, only Amarillo isn't sure. But it's not hard to find boosters in the Panhandle capital who will bet cash the city will edge into the "100,000 and over" bracket.

Four Already "In"

Already comfortably in the "100,000 and over bracket"—and far beyond it—are Houston, Dallas, San Antonio and Fort Worth. All have grown, and Houston spectacularly, since the 1940 census.

Of the four metropoli, Houston probably has come closest to doubling its population in the decade.

The big chemical, oil and shipping center, listed at 384,514 in 1940, estimates its populations, with annexations now underway, at about 620,000.

The annexations boost Houston's area from 76 to 166 square miles—more than double.

Houston is often cited as the prime example of the great southwest's virile growth in the last decade. The growth is based on rapid industrialization, discovery and processing of new resources such as sulphur, and a shift of many established industries from the east to the southwest.

Continues To Grow

Fort Worth absorbed a seemingly unending tide of immigrants in the war years. The army and air force brought some, but most came because of the war industries, especially the mammoth Convair plane plant.

But in the industrialized postwar era, Fort Worth has continued to grow. The 1940 census showed 177,662 people in Fort Worth. The chamber of commerce believes the figure will reach 274,869 when the federal census begins in April, 1950.

Fort Worth's metropolitan area, counted at 207,677 in 1940, is now estimated at 343,465.

San Antonio, whose population in 1940 was 243,854, believes it has 392,000 people now. The estimate was made by the chamber of commerce. The Alamo city has more than doubled its area since 1940, annexing 36 square miles to bring the area to 68 square miles.

Dallas Estimate Made

Dallas, listed at 294,734 in 1940, estimated its population on Aug. 31 at 485,492, on the basis 4.67 persons per water meter. In making the estimate city officials said they took into account that some of the meters were not in the city

Church Property Under Consideration

Business Expansion Plan For Broadway Is Discussed Here

A group of local citizens attended am meeting last night in Hotel Lubbock for the purpose of discussing the proposed purchase of a block of downtown property now owned by First Methodist church.

No definite action was taken at last night's meeting other than voting to hold another meeting at Hotel Lubbock at 7:30 p. m. Monday, Jan. 9, 1950. Approximately 23 persons attended last night's meeting.

The consensus of those attending the meeting was that the proposed acquisition of the Methodist property, at Broadway and Avenue M, to allow the "opening up" of Broadway as a retail business street should be a civic enterprise —one which should be of interest to all Lubbock citizens, since the future growth and progress of the city, especially from a business standpoint, might well hinge upon it in many respects.

Tax Values Affected

Chas. A. Guy, editor of The Avalanche-Journal, who served as keynote speaker for the meeting, pointed out that the tax values of midtown Manhattan property in New York City has decreased within the past few years, since traffic and other factors have caused "spreading out" of business into suburban areas.

Coming closer home, he cited Dallas as an example of the same thing. Business there has branched out into suburban shopping centers, he said, and the tax values of downtown Dallas have gone down. However, the tax values of the community shopping districts have not risen enough to

Mahon Speaks At Littlefield

LITTLEFIELD, Dec. 6 — Rep. George Mahon last night denounced the fear that is driving many Americans to seek material security while forgetting "how to live."

He spoke here at the annual banquet of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, held in the city's new country club, and attended by almost 300 townspeople and out-of-town guests.

"In the realm of material things," he said, "we are rich people." He referred to this year's South Plains cotton crop of 225 million dollars, its 100-million-dollar grain crop, and the billion barrels of oil represented in the new Scurry county field.

"But our prosperity might rob

THE QUESTION
From your experience in a grocery store, what groceries are most popular with Lubbock residents?

THE ANSWERS

MRS. H. F. GREGG, 1105 Thirty-fifth, cashier at Piggly Wiggly: "I think that people buy more meat, different kinds, than anything else. Flour and sugar probably come next. I think that we sell more of these things than anything else."

CHAPEL C. HOLLINGSworth, 2222-A North Third, employe of Piggly Wiggly: "I believe that more people ask me about yeast than anything else. I believe that they want chili sauce next."

HUGH COOKE, Slaton, employe of 7 'til 11 Food Store: "People buy more milk and bread than anything else, probably because they're somewhat of a necessity. Bacon would probably come next and then eggs."

DAVE CUMMINGS, 1604 Twenty-second, owner of Fourth Street grocery: "Meat is the main leader, I think; no particular kind, just meat in general. Most of the time if you have a good quality of meat people want, they won't complain about other things."

Dug out 10 minutes after a ton of earth fell on him, a 12-year-old Brisbane, Australia, boy asked: "Is this Heaven?"

WAYNE GRIFFIN, 2505 Thirseventh, manager of Furr Food No. 19: "We sell more canned items, such as beans, tomatoes, soups, etc., than anything else. Soaps and bleaches are also large sellers. Even frozen foods are coming to the front."

C. G. PHILLIPS, 1308 Twenty-eighth, employe of Furr Food Store: "I'd say different kinds of fruit juices are our biggest seller. At this time of year particularly when there are so many colds, people are buying them. Various fruits would probably come next."

The operators said the No. 1 Ray C. Lunsford, which topped the canyon reef at 6,380 feet, flowed an estimated 30 barrels hourly through 3/8 inch tubing choke in a drillstem test. They reported gas to the surface in six minutes and oil in 23 minutes.

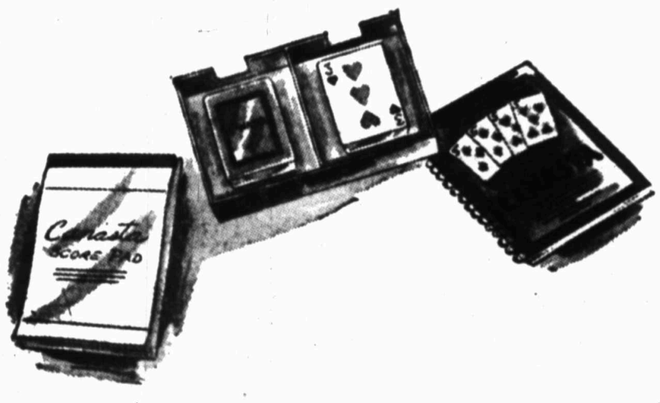

The well is located in the northwest 1/4 of the southwest 1/4 of tract 19, block 1, J. P. Smith survey.

Strike Halts Israel Traffic On Railways

HAIFA, Israel, Dec. 7. (AP)—Operations of government-operated railroad lines were halted today by a 24-hour strike of workers seeking higher wages and overtime pay.

The Israeli transport ministry said the workers had agreed to arbitration and expressed surprise at the demonstration walkout. Railroad administrators said the strike would slow up movement of oranges now being picked in Israel groves.

THOUSANDS TO SEE "TRISTAN"

Melchoir, Traubel Will Tour U. S. With Streamlined Opera

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—A streamlined, dehydrated and pre-digested version of "Tristan und Isolde," one of the greatest of Wagnerian operas, is going to be seen by thousands of people who've never before had a chance to see famous singers perform famous operas.

Lauritz Melchior, the Metropolitan's man-mountain, is going on tour this year with a cut-to-the-bone "Tristan," taking it to cities previously off the beater path of touring opera companies.

"America is becoming music conscious," says Melchior, whose movies and radio appearances have helped create that feeling. "The Metropolitan's Saturday broadcasts of opera and various other radio and movie appearances have helped create that feeling. "The Metropolitan's Saturday broadcasts of opera and various other radio and movie appearances have made the youth of America think about opera.

"So we figured that maybe the people would like to see what the animals look like. But we thought we should start giving them opera in small doses."

LAURITZ MELCHIOR: "Maybe the people would like to see what the animals look like."

Opera Cut Down

An old German Wagnerian authority, music coach and conductor, Ernst Knock, performed some major surgery on "Tristan," the opera Melchior picked. The heroic opera, which runs about four hours in its Metropolitan version—cut some at that—was reduced to three short acts.

All characters other than Tristan and Isolde, the hero and heroine, were bodily removed. Scenery and costumes were dispensed with. Even the story was cut out. All that remains are the finest arias and the finest duets, sung by the finest Wagnerian voices in America—Helen Traubel and Melchior, who calls them "the heavyweight team of the Metropolitan Opera's Wagnerian wing."

From the four-hour Met version, "Tristan" was reduced in Knock's pint-sized portion to what Melchior calls "a small two hours." Each of the three acts runs about a half-hour, with an introduction and some between-the-act music by the orchestra.

The program carries the complete story, telling what each number means and how it fits into the overall tale.

"I believe," says Melchior, "that a good sample of serious music is all that people who've never been educated to it can take at the beginning."

The Knock "Tristan," sung by Melchior and Traubel, had its debut in Philadelphia, at the Robin Hood Dell, last summer. They wanted to try it our before a "popular audience."

"We were amazed by the reception," Melchior says.

Full Orchestra Needed

Beginning this January, Melchior and Traubel are taking their new "Tristan" to 14 cities, such as Bloomington, Ind.; Minneapolis; St. Louis; Knoxville, Tenn.; Birmingham, and Atlanta.

A large orchestra is required for the performance, so Melchior has timed his tour to coincide with the appearance of full-scale symphonies in those cities. Such organizations as the Cincinnati Symphony will accompany him and Miss Traubel in their "Tristan."

The full-size orchestra is necessary, Melchior feels, because "it must be put together so it's smooth."

The six-foot, four-inch Danish-born tenor will sing his 220th Tristan this season at the Metropolitan in New York. But he's looking forward, with more enthusiasm, to his latest venture.

"I'm expecting great joy out of it," he says.

Iran Shah Ignores Two Star Athletes

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7 (INS) — Two of the world's most famed athletes were left cooling their heels in the lobby of the Ambassador hotel today instead of lunching with the Shah of Iran as they had planned.

The two were Glenn Davis of Army football fame and Bob Mathias, Olympic decathlon champion. Also left out in the cold was Henry Naamani, former resident of Tehran and a star tennis player.

Members of the Shah's party explained simply that the 30-year-old monarch had not invited the three to a special luncheon in honor of the Shah's official entourage and American and Iranian newsmen covering his tour of the United States.

State department attaches likewise said they had no knowledge of an invitation extended to the three.

Naamani fared better than Mathias and Davis, however. He did chat with the Shah about their tennis-playing days in Iran while his majesty took a mid-morning dip in the hotel's plunge.

Still another who encountered difficulties in meeting the Iranian ruler was Russel E. Baum, wealthy manufacturer from Wynnewood, Pa. He brought along a large illuminated scroll, signed by a dozen prominent athletes, and bearing an invitation for the Shah to attend a reception at his home.

State department officials said they didn't know if the Shah would receive Baum officially. Baum admitted that he was responsible for bringing Mathias and Davis to Los Angeles.

Present plans call for the Shah to leave for Sun Valley, Idaho, tomorrow aboard the former presidential plane, "Sacred Cow," for a few days of skiing.

CERTAINLY NO RAT

SCOTIA, N. Y. (U.P.)—When a local resident found a bushy-tailed animal with a white stripe down its back in a rat trap he had set, he knew it wasn't a rat. Police answered his appeal for help and ended the career of a full-grown skunk.

Major Surgery On 17-Hour-Old Baby Believed Success

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7. (AP)—Thomas Richard Russell, jr., who underwent a major operation just 17 hours after his birth, was reported "doing as well as could be expected" today.

A swelling in Thomas Richard's abdomen was noted by doctors in the children's ward at Jefferson hospital last Saturday several hours after his birth.

Specialists discovered the child's large and small intestines were congenitally malformed, and there was no connection between the large and small bowel.

Rupture Found

A rupture had been caused in the abdominal cavity by nourishment that had made its way down the small intestine to a blind end.

One of Jefferson's leading surgeons decided to operate.

The surgeon, who declined use of his name, said he made an incision in the right side of the baby's abdomen and cleared away the ruptured mass. Then he joined the large and small intestines and proceeded to treat the condition brought about by the rupture.

Now Thomas Richard is being fed from a bottle and through a supplementary feeding tube inserted in the veins.

Injured Postman Has Run Of Tough Breaks

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 7 (U.P.)—John Gard, 55-year-old postman, was knocked down and hurt in a street accident yesterday.

He was placed in an ambulance. It broke down. A fire truck was called to push the ambulance. The fire truck got stuck. A police car was called. It collided with another car en route.

A passing motorist picked Gard up and took him to a hospital. He was reported in good condition.

Water Jugs Blamed In Haystack Fires

PERCY, Ill., Dec. 7 (AP) — Roy Meyerhoff theorizes that many farm haystack fires can be traced to the old water jug. He got the idea while trying to find out what caused his jacket to burn on his farm near here one sunny day.

He figured he had the answer when he moved his hand past his water jug near the jacket. The sun's days focused by the jug—like a magnifying glass—burned his hand.

He believes many haystack fires probably can be traced to the common practice of farmers leaving their jugs on haystacks while at work.

CONSULATE STAFF BELIEVED FREED

Hopes Brighter For Release Of Americans Held In Korea

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. (AP)—A North Korean broadcast brightened official hopes today that a pair of Americans held by Communists there for two months may follow U. S. Consul General Angus Ward to freedom in the Far East.

As the State department awaited confirmation that Ward and members of his staff have finally been released from Communist-held Mukden, China, a broadcast was picked up here from Pyongyang, Korea, offering to free two men missing since late September.

The State department said it had no official word of such an offer. But the Pyongyang radio said the Communist government of North Korea is ready to turn the men over if a U. S. representative is sent to meet them.

Moscow Help Asked

The two, both officials of the Economic Cooperation administration (ECA), are Alfred T. Meschter of Kinderhook, N. Y., and Albert E. Willis of Brooklyn. They were on board ECA cargo ship which sailed from South Korea Sept. 20, and presumably was taken to a Communist port by the Korean crew.

The United States had asked Moscow to use its influence in North Korea to obtain the release of the two ECA men.

In the Ward case, officials looked for a Communist announcement that the group has now been "expelled." It was deemed barely possible also that Ward might have made arrangements for news of his departure to be sent out by way of Peiping.

Otherwise, prospects were that any direct information will have to await the arrival of the party at Tientsin, following a long and arduous train trip. At Tientsin, in North China, one of three American ships is due to take them all to Yokohama, Japan.

Two Others Held

After morfe than a year of isolation and imprisonment, Ward along with 15 other Americans and four European employs were due to leave Mukden yesterday on the first stage of a trip to freedom.

Ward was able to send a message in advance by way of Peiping that the scheduled departure time was 3:45 a. m. Wednesday (2:45 p. m. Tuesday, EST).

The Communist authorities, after ignoring for months repeated American official requests for transportation, agreed to provide a special train. The trip of 700-odd miles over war-damaged tracks was expected to require from two to four days.

The prospective windup of the Ward case, along with the indication that the two ECA officials may be freed, still leaves two Americans in Communist hands in Asia. They are Navy Chief Electrician William C. Smith, of Long Beach, Calif., and Marine Master Sgt. Elmer C. Bender of Cincinnati.

Smith and Bender have been missing since they took off on a training flight from Tsingtao, China, Oct. 19, 1948.

Troubled American relations with the hard pressed Chinese Nationalists also are due for fresh attention with the arrival in this country of Acting President Li Chung-jen.

He was expected in New York around mid-day after a plane trip from Hong Kong undertaken ostensibly for medical treatment for a stomach disorder.

Talks with American officials are considered to be almost certain during his stay.

Li announced on his arrival at San Francisco yesterday that China never will bow to the "Communist insurrection," although the situation "admitted[ly] gives cause for deep concern."

Singing Goldfish Is Reported By Woman

SMITHFIELD, N. C., Dec. 7 (U.P.)—Life in a bowl has made one of her goldfish quite a showoff, says Esther Radford. He sings, she claims.

The secretary at the chamber of commerce admitted she kept hunting for a cricket or some insect in the office until she noticed the little fish seemed to be putting on an act.

Miss Radford said the goldfish swims on its side while performing and if the audience is appreciative, switches to a vertical position and turns up the volume.

The chamber of commerce manager, Charlie Parrish, won't call it singing, but he vouched for the fish's vocalizing powers.

"Actually, it's more of a chirping sound the fish makes," he said.

CHIANG REMAINING IN CHENGTU

China Government Prepares To Flee Before Red Advances

By SPENCER MOOSA
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHENGTU, Dec. 7 (AP)—Premier Yen Hsi-Shan today whittled his government to 107 men and prepared to go over the mountains away from the approaching Communists.

Streamlining of the government was made necessary, Yen said, to keep it mobile. Ordinarily the Chinese Nationalist government is composed of thousands of persons within ministries and bureaus. Hundreds were dropped in Chungking.

The exodus of officials continued from Chengtu, fourth Nationalist capital this year. Most are going to Formosa by way of Hainan island, far to the southeast.

To Abandon Kunming

Yen is expected to take his slim government forces to Sichang in mountainous Sikang province to the west.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek still is in Chengtu. He is directing the Nationalists and attempting to salvage something from the approaching Reds, who are within 75 miles of Chengtu. Chiang most likely will go to Formosa when he leaves here.

(Hong Kong news reports said the Yunan provincial government was preparing to abandon Kunming and move to Tali, 430 miles northwestward.)

Trustworthy reports said the Communists had captured Tzuliuchiing's famed salt fields, one of rich Szechwan province's main sources of revenue. Tzuliuching is close to Neikiang, 90 miles southeast of Chengtu.

Official and private reports agreed Neikiang still is in Nationalist hands. But a small force of Reds is known to have by-passed that strategic town on the Tou river and is menacing Tzuchung, 75 miles east of Chengtu.

The Nationalists reported they had blunted a Communist drive on the more northern highway between Chungking, now in Red hands, and Chengtu. The Reds on this road have been heading for Suining, 90 miles east of Chengtu. It is the headquarters of Nationalist Gen. Yang Sen, commander in eastern Szechwan.

Another Red column thrusting into Szechwan along the middle highway between this province and Yunan was approaching Luhsien, a Yangtze river town 140 miles southeast of Chengtu.

U. S.-Red War Seen

(In Formosa, the official Central News agency quoted Irving Short, representative of the American-China policy committee, as saying if the United States allows the present situation in China to drag on she will find herself faced with the alternative of war or surrender to the Russians.

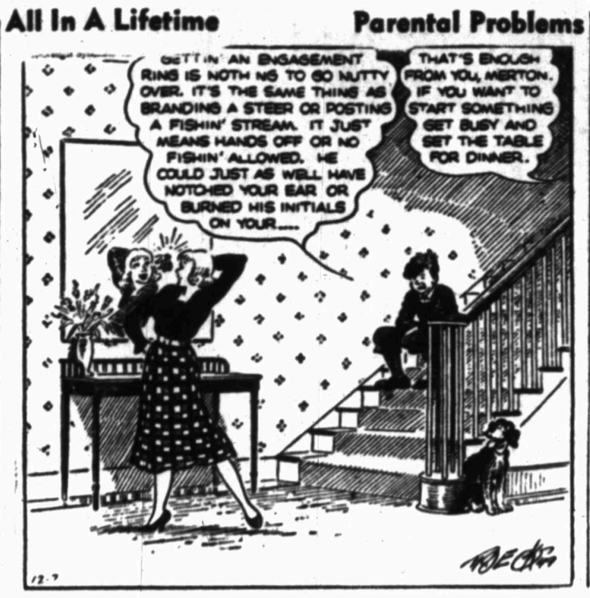

(Short, a former American army officer in Europe, said the Russians have been engaging in active aggress on in China while the United States and Great Britain have remained aloof to events in China. The Red menace, Short said, will extend not only to southeast Asia and other parts of the Orient, but to the United States proper if America does not take action now.

(The Central News agency quoted Short as saying Gen. Douglas MacArthur, occupation chief of Japan, should be authorized to reinforce the Chinese Nationalists on the mainland within 30 days. MacArthur, he said, should be able to keep open two corridors, one in Yunan and the other on Liuchow peninsula.

(If this plan is not feasible, the news agency quoted Short, measures should be taken to facilitate the evacuation of Nationalist troops from the mainland by reinforcing Liuchow peninsula, opposite Hainan island.

(The news agency said Short also suggested military assistance to Formosa and Hainan islands. This assistance would be for defense and future assaults on the Chinese mainland.)

All In A Lifetime — Parental Problems

Man Drops In For Breakfast And Stays

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 7 (U.P.) — Reuben (Washboard) Ruston dropped into First Station No. 5 for breakfast 14 years ago.

He's still there. Firemen call him their Eighth Wonder of the World.

Ruston, now 73, wrestles and races the young firemen daily and usually wins. Recently he climbed a tree to retrieve his bicycle prankishly tied in the branches.

Old Washboard tears into station food with his original teeth. He still has them, he claims, because he never smoked cigarettes. But cigars and beer are okay, Ruston says.

WIND COMES BACK

TACOMA, Wash. (U.P.)—On the ninth anniversary of the date the Tacoma Narrows bridge fell into Puget Sound during a windstorm in 1940, high winds halted construction of the new bridge. Workmen were forced to leave catwalks between two 508-foot towers because of winds up to 50 miles an hour.

Iraq, with 10,000 irrigation engines operating, plans a modern engine repair shop.

Post Office Setup In Canada Confused

STURGIS, Sask., Dec. 7 (U.P.)—If ever you're writing to friends in the Danbury and Glen Elder districts east of here, keep younr fingers crossed until your letter is delivered.

Here's why:

The Danbury school district got a post office in 1915 but the building later was moved a mile north of the school. It was moved again three years ago, this time five miles west of the school, in the village of Glen Elder.

While the Danbury post office was in Glen Elder, Glen Elder still had a post office of its own, but it was not actually in Glen Elder. It was three and a half miles away. Three miles in another direction sat the Glen Elder school.

Technically, the Danbury post office in Glen Elder village was neither in the Danbury nor Glen Elder school district. It was in Brush Valley.

And a letter for Danbury did not go there, anyway. It ended up in the Post office at Hyas.

ACTION BY 81ST CONGRESS URGED

Huge Cost To Put Schools In Shape Justified, Solon Says

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (U.P.) — Rep. Tom Steed, D., Okla., said today it would cost American taxpayers $7,000,000,000 to put the American school system in tip-top shape.

But he said the benefits the nation would reap from such a system would far outweigh the cost.

Steed is a member of a House labor subcommittee which recently finished three weeks of hearings on school conditions in the southwest and west.

"There are very few school districts in the United States that, because of increased enrollment, aren't hurt," he told a reporter. "Some are desperate.

"It's a tragic situation—one that Congress can't afford to overlook. The time for action is now—by the 81st Congress at ts next session."

He said a $300,000,000 a year program for building aid would go a long way in meeting the problem. This would be in addition to the $300,000,000 a year in federal aid for higher teachers' pay and maintenance—a program that bogged down in the House this year in a dispute over federal funds for private and parochial schools.

Steed, a vigorous advocate of federal aid, said the No. 1 problem is help to school districts where army, navy and air force bases and other major government installations are located.

He said the increase in the size and number of these installations and the corresponding increase in the number of school-age children, had brought about "appalling" conditions.

Second consideration should go to areas which lack funds to cope with the increasing number of children, he said. Some of these areas are too poor to build new buildings; others have lost their school buildings in fires, tornadoes or similar disasters and don't have the money to rebuild them.

He said there will be 40 per cent more children of school age by 1956.

"Even in places where there is no great problem now," he said, "there is bound to develop trouble later unless the necessary planning is done now."

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! BY FAGALY and SHORTEN

First Of Two Operas Will Be Presented At School Tonight

"La Traviata," the first of two operas to be presented in Senior High auditorium under the sponsorship of Allen Bros. American Legion post here will start at 8:15 o'clock tonight. The other opera, "Carmen," will be staged at the same time Thursday night.

Elvira Helal will fill the role of Violetta in "La Traviata."

Leonora Corona, dramatic soprano and leading star of the Boston Grand Opera company, will play the title role in "Carmen" instead of Lilli Valli as originally scheduled.

Announcement that Miss Corona would appear in the roll here came as a surprise Tuesday. The manager of the Boston Grand opera notified Floyd Lebow, finance officer of the Legion, from Amarillo that Miss Corona, a native of Dallas, would make her initial Texas appearance when the curtain goes up Thursday night.

She has appeared with the Metropolitan opera and has been billed as the most beautiful star on the operatic stage today. She is the youngest singer from Texas to star in the Metropolitan opera and the La Scala in Milan.

The opera company arrived in Lubbock late Tuesday.

With three singers prepared for the leading roles, the casts vary during the southwestern tour of the opera company. Miss Corona did not appear in New Mexico engagements last week but rested for appearances in Texas, the manager said.

Miss Corona gives a different impression of Carmen to that given by many singers appearing in the role. Believing Carmen to be traditionally accepted as a "low-class" heroine, she seeks to capture loyalty and true love of Carmen for the Toreador in her portrayal of the role. Referring to her portrayal of Carmen, she once said, "I will die with Escamillo's name on my lips."

Role of Escamillo, the Toreador, will be filled by John De Merchant.

The cast for "La Traviata," in addition to Elviro Helal, is to include: Alfredo, Frederick Eckart; Germont, John De Merchant; Flora, Laureen Butlar; Dr. Grenville, Frank Ferrero; Baron Dauphol, Ricco Froelich; Gastone, Ross Hunt; Marquis, Paul Farber, and Annina, Jeanne Comfort.

The box office at the high school is to open at 6 p.m. both nights, with tickets remaining on sale until that time at a booth being operated in Hilton hotel and at the Legion hall.

Bids on highway jobs that will total nearly $6 million and include work in Hale, Swisher, Cottle, Andrews, Martin and Gaines counties, will be opened here Dec. 13-14, the State Highway commission announced Tuesday, according to the Associated Press.

The commission will study offers on work including 290 miles of highways and structures.

Farm roads included in the bidding will total 238 miles to cost around $2,452,500. Federal aid highways on which bids will be taken will cost around $2,956,800 for urban and primary routes, and around $788,700 for secondary highways.

Work On Four Roads Set

Work in Hale and Swisher counties will be on farm roads 594, 1071, 1070, 145, 20.61 miles grading, structures, stabilized foundation course, prime coat and base preservative from U. S. 87 at Kress, four miles east to county road intersection; from 11 miles west of U. S. 87 at Kress, two miles east to county road intersection.

Work in Cottle county will be on farm 1038 and 1037, 10.37 miles grading, structures, flexible base and single asphalt surface from U. S. 83 in Paducah southeast to Saltcreek school and from end of pavement on Baccus street in Paducah west to U. S. 70.

In Andrews, Martin and Gaines counties, work will be on Farm 703, grading, structures, flexible base and double asphalt surface from farm 87 east of Andrews northwest to Dawson county line.

10-Year-Old Awaits Amputation Decision

BROWNSVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 7 (AP)—Ten-year-old Bety Lou Marbury settled down at her nearby farm home today to await a surgeon's decision whether to amputate her right hand.

Betty took her last x-ray treatment in Memphis yesterday, and the surgeon will make his decision sometime next month.

After her treatment, Betty went on a shopping tour given her by the Memphis Commercial Appeal. She bought a phonograph, a camera, and a cedar chest—and she had a visit with Santa Claus.

She's counting on the prayers she asked last week in a letter to the Commercial Appeal to save her hand from a malignant lesion on her middle finger.

DEMOCRACY PROGRAM CRITICIZED

Philippines Still Hostile To Soft Attitude Toward Japan

MANILA, Dec. 7. (AP)—Passage of eight years since Pearl Harbor has failed to soften the hostility of Filipinos toward the Japanese—hostility caused by the unprovoked attack upon the Philippines and brutal outrages during the occupation and liberation campaign.

The feeling still is so strong that the Philippines foreign office reliably is reported to have recently served notice on General MacArthur it could not guarantee the safety of any proposed Nipponese trade mission.

"Soft Attitude" Questioned

The Nov. 8 election of President Elipidio Quirino was, in a large part, attributed to his anti-Japanese attitude and his uncompromising stand for reparations from the Nipponese.

One of Quirino's most effective devices in his campaign against Jose P. Laurel, puppet president under the Japanese, was exhibition of a newsreel showing Laurel in Tokyo participating in formation of the southeast Asia coprosperity sphere under the late Premier Hideki Tojo.

Filipinos persistently ask why the United States has taken a "soft" attitude toward Japan.

Many of them say the United States is making a big mistake in trying to democratize Japan and Germany — people with an ingrained subservience to the military.

Spending Criticized

They strongly criticize the spending of large sums of American money to restore the economy of a trade rival and the waiving or reduction of reparations for damage caused by the former enemy.

In both cases, Filipinos theorize that the United States is motivated by a desire to erect a bulwark against the spread of Communism. But they quickly point to the rise of Germany under Hitler after democratization efforts following World War I.

Filipinos say they have no faith in Japan's constitutional disarmament. They express fear that another powerful Japan will arise because of the nation's habit of obedience to a dictatorial power.

Filipinos want economic self-sufficiency. They say Japanese political power surely would follow trade supremacy in Asia.

For such reasons, Filipinos do not reconcile themselves to waiving reparations for the damage they still see about them daily—damage started Dec. 8, 1941, when Japanese planes began dropping bombs here shortly after Pearl Harbor.

ONCE IS ENOUGH

DOTHAN, Ala. (U.P.) — "Incumbent" is virtually an unknown word in city commission elections here. They just don't run again. In fact, since the commission form of government was adopted in 1934, six of the 12 commissioners have resigned. Only three have completed their terms. One died in office.

The Way to Perfect Health

That health is always the natural condition of man is made wholly clear in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

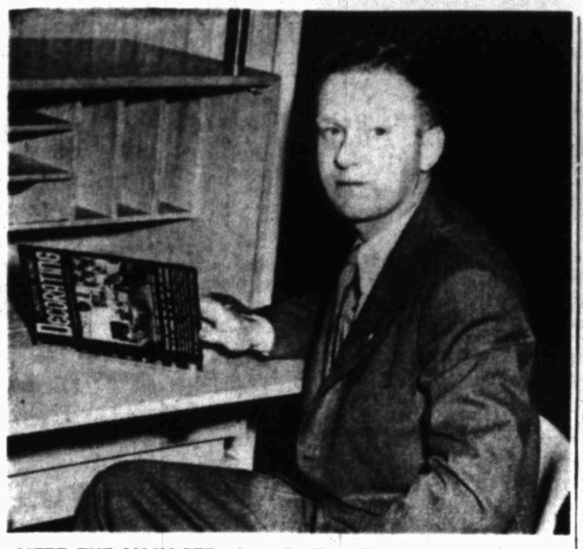

Through the thoughtful reading of this book, which contains the complete explanation of Christian Science, thousands have been completely and permanently healed of every manner of disease.

MEET THE MANAGER—John R. (Ray) Trost, owner and manager of Lubbock Home Fashions, Fourteenth and Ave. Q, was born at Philo, Ill., Feb. 18, 1916. His mother had gone west in a covered wagon from Illinois when the Cherokee was open, and his father was in the Oklahoma territory in the 1890's, but they moved back to Illinois. Trost went through high school at Philo, then attended the University of Illinois, where he got a business administration degree, then Northwestern university. He was in the accounting business two years, then became associated with the National Retail Furniture association in the American Furniture Mart in Chicago, remaining seven years, becoming director of services. Upon leaving he received a plaque commending him for his contributions to the furniture industry through the association. He then joined Alexander Smith Carpet Mills in New York City as director of sales promotion, remaining in that capacity two years. He established his own retail furniture business in Tucson, Ariz., in 1946, and Dec. 3 opened his business in Lubbock, after seeking a location for three years. An ardent sports fan, he belongs to Alpha Chi Rho fraternity and the Elks club. He is married and Mrs. Trost and two children, Judith Alice, 7, and John Noel, 4, are still in Tucson for the present, where Mrs. Trost manages the business there. (Staff Photo)

Woman's Training In Business Career Handicaps Marriage, Doctor Declares

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (U.P.)—A child specialist said today that some of the habits that make a girl a good employe sometimes handicap her in being a good mother.

"Young women are no longer geared for the main purpose of being wives and mothers," Dr. Leo Kanner of Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, said in a paper for an American Medical association meeting. "Most girls nowadays are prepared for a vocation."

That can be very good, Dr. Kanner said, and can enrich married life.

Premium On Perfection

"But very often the job puts a premium on punctuality, meticulousness and perfectionism which it often becomes impossible for the mother to shake off when dealing with her children.

"Especially the first-born child of the secretary, the salesgirl, the factory piece worker, the laboratory technician, the librarian or th nurse gets the whole brunt of this tense perfectionism, being more or less a substitute for the typewriter, the cash register, the machine, the test tube, the book shelf or the medicine cabinet." -ju

Hygiene Society To Hear Austin Speaker

Mrs. Elizabeth Gardner of Austin, executive secretary of the Texas Society of Mental hygiene, will speak at a meeting of the Lubbock County Society for Mental hygiene at 7:30 p. m. today, in the parlor of the First Christian church, Dr. Travis White, acting chairman of the society, said.

The meeting will be open to anyone wishing to attend.

Dr. White said plans have been completed for a six weeks' series of lectures to be given in January and February by Dr. R. K O'Laughlin, psychiatrist at Lubbock memorial hospital.

Shortage Of Funds May Close Ex-Students' Group At Tech

Possibility that the Texas Tech Ex-Students' association may fold up unless additional contributions are received to the Loyalty fund was hinted Tuesday by D. M. McElroy, executive-secretary for the organization.

He said that less than half enough money has been received for the past two years to operate the association.

"Only 928 alumni have donated to the Loyalty fund this year," he cited, "Out of of over 11,000 ex-students."

Quoting figures from a bulletin of the American Alumni council, the secretary said that only 21 colleges out of 141 had a smaller percentage of contributors to their ex-students' chapters. Of those 21, a larger amount of money was reported by 17.

The 141 schools used for comparisons are all those in the AAC operating their alumni associations on a donation basis and not carrying on capital gift campaigns last year. There were 19 of the schools which reported a smaller amount of money than Tech, but 17 of those are "considerably smaller" institutions, McElroy said.

Begun in its present form a little over two years ago, the Tech association was originally endowed with $18,000. That original fund plus the approximate $7,000 donated each year has been almost completely depleted, the secretary asserted.

"It takes $14,000 a year to operate the association," McElroy pointed out "including the salary of three workers, office maintenance, printing and mailing of the Ex-Students News and other data and publications, and Homecoming activities."

Comparing Tech with the Texas school nearest its size, McElroy said that 4½ per cent more exes of Texas A. and M. donated to their Alumni organization last year than did Tech's. The amount given was over 10 times as much. Since A. and M. is a much older school it reaches about twice as many alumni as does Tech, he said.

The Tech Loyalty fund is operated on a strict donation basis and no dues are required for membership in the association. Exes are mailed the Ex-Students News free of charge whether they donated or not and free activities are furnished for those attending Homecoming each fall. Occasional large donations are thus tax free.

Lubbock Residents "Worse"

Alumni living in Lubbock fare even worse than others in percentage of contributions, the secretary said. He disclosed figures which showed that only 189 out of approximately 2,500 alumni living in Lubbock have contributed this year. That is less than eight per cent, compared to an overall of nine per cent. The national average of contributions is 25 per cent, he said.

Persons graduating in the early years of Tech's history are the best contributors, according to McElroy. In contrast, he showed several drawers of mailing-list names with hardly a contribution marked.

"Many of our services will have to be either discontinued entirely or sharply reduced unless more of the exes send donations," he declared.

Besides its service to the alumni in keeping them posted of the growth of the college, the association was set up to promote scholarship and progress on the part of the college and to aid it in maintaining a high rating both athletically and scholastically throughout the nation. It offers several scholarships to "second generation students. Active members of local chapters throughout the state have been instrumental in persuading outstanding students to attend Tech.

Joe Louis To Seek Win Over Valentino

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (U.P.)—Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis battles Pat Valentino of San Francisco in the Chicago stadium tonight and a victory for the "Brown Bomber" might be the opening of his comeback campaign.

Louis was expected to weigh about 222 pounds for the brawl compared to 185 for Valentino. They will wear 10-ounce gloves, two over the usual heavyweight mitts, for the exhibition bout, scheduled for 10 rounds.

But Jolting Joe will be trying for a knockout before the eighth round, and has said that if he succeeds he might start working toward a genuine title fight with present titleholder Ezzard Charles.

Charles fought Valentino in San Francisco last September and although he was losing on points at the end of seven rounds, he knocked out the tousel-headed westerner in the eighth to hold his championship.

Rferring to the Charles-Valentino set-to, Louis said:

"I just want to better Charles' record against Valentino, even though the gloves will weigh 10 ounces."

INTELLIGENCE WITH TITO CHARGED

Ex-Communist Officials In Bulgaria On Trial For "Plot"

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Dec. 7 (AP)—Former Vice Premier Traicho Kostov, once Bulgaria's number 2 Communist, went on trial before a special court today charged with plotting to overthrow the present regime and turn his country over to Premier Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia.

Standing trial with Kostov are ten others—former top government officials and leading figures in the nation's Communist-run economic setup. All appeared in good health as they walked into the improvised courtroom.

The trial opened in the army's central home while nation-wide demonstrations organized in cities and villages condemned the "traitorous actions" of the accused. Thousands of resolutions have been published demanding the "heaviest punishment for the traitors."

Accused As U. S. Spies

Public Prosecutor Vladimir Dimchev opened the proceedings with a reading of the lengthy indictment which charges the 11 with espionage spying, treason and economic sabotage. He accused them of spying for Tito and Anglo-American intelligence agencies.

Kostov is accused also of carrying on an "insincere and unfriendly policy" against the Soviet Union. For this he was kicked out of the Communist party's politburo, its central committee and his government position before he was arrested last April.

This morning's newspaper called the defendants "Kostovists" and reported that Bulgarians at meetings were "unanimously condemning the disgusting espionage activity of the Anglo-American agents."

In a 20,000-word indictment Kostov and his co-defendants were said to have plotted with Yugoslav leaders at the instigation of American and British intelligence agents.

Same Charges Against Tito

Kostov also is accused of plotting to murder the late Premier Georgi Dimitrov and take over the government himself. Dimitrov, once comintern chief and hero of European Communism, died of a liver ailment in Moscow last July.

The anti-Soviet charges against Kostov are almost identical to those hurled at Marshal Tito more than a year ago when the cominform ousted him as a traitor to the Communist world.

Other charges were similar to those which sent former Hungarian Foreign Minister Laszlo Rajk to the gallows in Budapest recently. Rajk's trial intended to show—as does Kostov's—that Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia has entered into a campaign to break up the "democratic forces" of eastern Europe's Communist-led countries.

Under orders from Tito and American intelligence agents, the indictment said, Kostov organized a conspiracy to deprive Bulgaria of "her national sovereignty, territorial integrity and independence by her annexation to Yugoslavia; and first of all by tearing away the Pirin (Bulgarian) Macedonia region in favor of Yugoslav Macedonia."

No Appeal Possible

he trial comes only a few days after the cominform, led by the Soviet Union, called on Communists the world over to help the Yugoslav workers overthrow Marshal Tito and to stamp out "Titoism" wherever it showed its head.

Kostov is being tried before a special court consisting of a president, two judges and four jurors chosen by the national assembly from the penal division of the supreme court. Under a special bill for "bringing to trial members of the government" passed a month ago, the accused will have no appeal from the verdict of this court.

Kostov and his fellow accused are quoted in the indictment as having confessed their guilt to many of the charges before investigating police during preparation for the trial.

(The semi-official Yugoslav press said in Belgrade a few weeks ago that Kostov's trial had been postponed once because he "hadn't learned his lines yet"—a reference to the abject confessions usually featured in Red state trials.

Complicity Denied

Yugoslavia has repeatedly denied any complicity with Kostov whom they have called a "greater Bulgarian nationalist." Tito's Communist party claimed it had warned the Bulgars after the war of the "bourgeois tendencies" of such leaders in the Bulgarian Communist party.

On the dock with Kostov are five former high-ranking members of the government and five lesser officials who nevertheless had important tasks in the nation's economic affairs.

They are:

Nikola Pavlov, former administrative secretary of the Bulgarian Communist politburo; Ivan Stefanov, former finance minister; Nikola Nachev, former deputy construction minister; Boris Christov, former deputy of the economic and finance committee of the cabinet's ministerial council; Tsonoy Tsonchev, former commercial representative in Moscow; Ivan Gevrinov, former director of the state-owned Bulgarian national bank; Ivan Tutev, former director of the state rubber industry enterprise; Blagoi Hadjipanzov, former foreign trade director; Vassil Ivanovsky, former counsellor in the Bulgarian embassy in Belgrade, and Ilia Bayaltsaliev, former director of the mining enterprises.

The Gravesend, England, Cycling Club elected a novel vice president — Harvey, the imaginary rabbit of the play now running in London.

Church Site

compensate for those losses.

The same could conceivably happen in Lubbock, he pointed out, if some plan for orderly downtown business expansion were not mapped out.

Natural Trend To West

"There is really only one natural way for Lubbock to grow," Guy said. "That natural trend is to the west."

The westward extension of Broadway for retail business would tend to give Main street to the north and Thirteenth to the south a "shot in the arm," he observed.

"I believe that if this proposition is laid properly and intelligently before the people of Lubbock, you will find they are personally interested in the project for the growth and progress it could mean for the city," he said.

George S. Berry, Lubbock attorney who is acting as temporary chairman of the group proposing the purchase of the church property, presided at the gathering and acted as moderator for the general discussion which followed Guy's talk.

Not All Property Owners

Not all those who attended the meeting are property owners in this Broadway-Main-Thirteenth area, but came because of their interest in seeing Lubbock's downtown retail district given impetus through orderly, planned westward expansion.

The proposal to purchase the church property was made with aim in view of eliminating a "stumbling block" for the business district in that area.

With announcement recently that Lubbock Memorial hospital will erect a new building soon on west Nineteenth and the present property converted to commercial enterprises, and with the First Baptist and Broadway Church of Christ properties on the market, the group of citizens saw possibilities of expanding the downtown retail area in a manner that would attract many new businesses to Lubbock and greatly improve the downtown section.

Church To Receive Bids

According to announcement made at last night's meeting, the Board of Stewards of First Methodist church has instructed the church finance committee to act as receiving body for any proposition concerning the sale of the church property.

A. B. Brown, downtown property owner, spoke briefly, stressing Lubbock's vast potential that "from traffic and business standpoints, Broadway, Main, and Thirteenth are logical ways for the natural westward expansion."

John Toles declared that "the better Broadway you have, the better Main street and Thirteenth street you will have, also."

Others who commented briefly at the gathering expressed their belief that the proposed westward expansion of business via purchase of the church property should be a community project because of the ultimate benefits to the city as a whole.

Each of those attending the meeting agreed to bring two other interested persons to the Jan. 9 gathering.

1950 Census

limits. The park cities—University Park and Highland Park—are surrounded by Dallas proper but maintain a separate corporate existence.

Dallas has more than doubled its area since 1940, growing from 44.01 square miles to 107.9 square miles, and further annexations before the census begins may boost both area and population.

Austin was only 87,930 in 1940, but the capital city now estimates its population at 150,000, which city officials call "conservative." Surrounding military installations such as Bergstrom field, San Marcos army air field, and Camp Swift near Bastrop, brought a wartime influx which left its postwar residue. But expansion of small industries is credited for most of the growth.

New Industries Help

New industries also are credited for growth of Beaumont from 59,061 in 1940 to about 100,000. The present population is variously estimated, Mayor Otho Plummer saying 125,000, the chamber of commerce 110,000 and Postmaster F. S. Braden 95,000 to 100,000.

Mayor Plummer advises strongly against annexation of large areas, believing they are principally suburban, have property of comparatively low tax value, bring heavy demands for city services, and pay only part of their own way. In 1946 Beaumont, by commission action and without an election, brought in 20 square miles.

Corpus Christi has been called, in several magazine articles, "the fastest growing city in the United States." City officials there apparently have made no such direct claim, recognizing it could cause a lot of dispute.

Will Retain Claim

But the coast city has grown, and apparently beyond the 100,000 mark. On the basis of scholastics the population last March was estimated at 109,500. The chamber of commerce estimates 115,000. It looks as if Corpus Christi, with only 57,301 people in 1940, will retain its claim to having doubled its population ever ten years.

El Paso, whose people can't get together on present estimates, nevertheless has grown from 96,810 in 1940 to more than 100,000. Mayor Dan Duke estimates 137,000, City Tax Assessor J. B. Graves 149,000 by the time the census is taken, Manager Chris Fox of the chamber of commerce 125,000 to 127,000. New industries and annexation have figured in the growth. Fox calls El Paso's growth "stable and not a boom type" but believes it will attract more industry.

Amarillo had only 51,686 people in 1940. The latest available estimate is by T. W. Gilstrap, division manager of Southwestern Public Service, who says 96,272 on the basis of 4.011 persons per light meter. But there are many private estimates exceeding 100,000.

Dot Eason (who writes well for a 2½-year-old youngster, wants a doll, doll clothes, a doll suitcase, t tea set, a doll bed, nuts and candy.

Santa Claus may start coming to Lubbock five or six nights a week to talk to good little children (most of 'em are good this time of year) over KFYO. The North Pole informed Bill Morgan of KFYO that Santa has received more than 500 letters and just can't answer them all on Tuesday and Saturday nights during his fifteen minute broadcasts.

Disappointment of the week: Santa Claus must have been traveling through Alabama (or Mississippi) Monday before he made an appearance here that night at a local auto dealers because he had a pronounced Southern drawl, which caused many mamas and papas to have to tell their offspring that maybe he was a South Pole santa.

us of something great," he warned. "We must emphasize not only the art of making a living, but the art of living as well."

He lashed out at fear, but warned that there was no easy road to security. The government is spending billions of dollars today to prevent a third world conflict and thus assure the security of each individual citizen, he said.

He was formally introduced by E. A. Bills, recently appointed judge for the 64th district. Preliminary introductions were made by Mayor A. C. Chesher of Littlefield, and W. D. T. Storey.

Special music was provided by a barber shop quartet from Lubbock, composed of I. L. Jones, Dick Richards, Jim Black, and J. Ray Dickey. The quartet sang four numbers, and then returned for one encore. Hardy Shelby, president of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, served as toastmaster and introduced guests. The Rev. Carter McKemy offered the invocation.

Rep. Mahon is remarking on the new country club said it was representative of West Texas because there was "plenty of room on the outside and plenty of room on the inside," thus allowing for expansion.

In making a short report on the work of Congress, he brought out the point that the whole object of the government is to help the people. "The government is you," he said. "When the government helps you, it helps itself."

His comments on the budget brought considerable applause from the audience. In effect, he told them that the government must balance the budget. "We cannot continue to operate on a deficit," he said.

Although the armed services budget was one of the largest, he explained that the appropriations committee had deemed it wise to make budget cuts elsewhere, in view of the world situation.

He also made a short report on the progress of the Canadian Dam bill, the REA telephone proposal, and the farm program, which he said seemed to be working out with considerable fairness to most of the farmers in the area.

He closed with an expression of his belief in the determination of the American people to learn to live peacefully not only with themselves, but with the people of the rest of the world as well.

Guests included Carl Maxey, Raymond Burford, and Jim Crook, all of Lubbock; Bill Sansing of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Woodall and D. Davis, all of Tulia; Mr. and Mrs. Dick McFarland of Dimmitt; Robert H. Crowell and J. M. Willson, jr., both of Floydada; David Eaton and John McQuella, both of Amherst; and Clement Hendrix of the Flying H Ranch, N. Mex.

LUBBOCK this year is going to be more of a "Christmas City" than ever before—and that is good.

Our downtown decorations and lighting promise to be the best and most profuse ever.

High school and Tech singers and bandsmen will put on a downtown program, Yule music will be broadcast over the city from day-to-day and there is every indication that the holiday spirit will run higher here this year than ever before.

Let us hope, too, that more householders will decorate this year, too, entering the various departments of The Avalanche-Journal contest in which cash prizes are offered winners.

Under any circumstances, the Christmas season is a joyful one. It can be made even more joyful by music, lighting and decoration all over the city.

The Story Of "Mister Red" Has Its Sequel

REGULAR readers of this stint will remember, perhaps, the story told here a week or so ago. It was the story of "Mister Red," the cultured, educated, but very mysterious odd-jobs man of Lawrenceville, Ill., back about 1910.

Now the story has a sequel, supplied us by H. K. Highsmith, who now lives out on the Acuff Road, but who, in the 1910 era, lived in and near Lawrenceville as a young oilfield worker.

Mr. Highsmith not only remembers "Mister Red." He can, and does supply the answer to our query of whatever became of this most unusual man who did odd jobs, sometimes traveled with circuses and carnivals, but who was a gentleman to the manner born whose nemesis was alcohol.

The day after our story of "Mister Red" appeared in the paper, Mr. Highsmith dropped into the office.

"I can tell you," he said, 'what happened to 'Mister Red;' when, how any why. Want to hear it?"

"Yes," we said.

So Mr. Highsmith unfolded the story, as follows:

"IT was back in 1914," Mr. Highsmith said, "after you left Lawrenceville. One Sunday morning, some country folks were going early to Sunday school. As they reached a railroad crossing just east of Lawrenceville they noticed a man lying beside the tracks. They investigated, found the man still alive and semi-conscious, his legs chewed up and smashed to red bits.

"They picked the man up and delivered him to officers at the Lawrenceville jail. Doctors were called—three of them.

"The examination showed that the man had been run over by a train, apparently as he slipped under its wheels. From his toes almost to his torso, his legs were badly mangled. Although he was weak from loss of blood, amputation of both legs was the only hope of saving his life.

"I was there when they brought him to the jail," Mr. Highsmith says. "I was there when his legs were taken off. I remember that he spoke only once. That was when he said to the doctors: 'Don't take them off any higher than you have to, please.'

"The injured man was in such condition that the policemen and the doctors couldn't identify him. Maybe they didn't know him. But someone must have known of him, as I was sure I did. For they sent down to 'Frog-eye,' where they thought he had friends, for people to identify him if they could. Several came from 'Frog-eye,' looked him over and said: 'Yes, I know him. That's 'Red.' After they got him cleaned up, I knew him, too. He was the fellow everybody knew only as 'Red.'

"'Red' never got off the table alive," Mr. Highsmith recalls. "He'd lost too much blood, lying there along the tracks for hours before he was found. Later, officers reconstructed the affair.

"'Red had been seen in Vincennes, Ind., the night before. You remember that Vincennes was only 10 miles east of Lawrenceville and was wide-open 'wet,' whereas Lawrenceville was legally 'dry.' Maybe you recall how the the Lawrenceville folks used to go to Vincennes to get their liquor, get drunk, or both.

"'Well, 'Red' had been to Vincennes the night before, getting him a skinful of hootch. He was going to hook a ride home on the 2 a. m. B&O. He must have—and he must have lost his grip at the grade crossing just east of Lawrenceville. He must have been pulled partially under the train as he fell."

FROM time to time over the past 39 years we've wondered what happened to "Mister Red." After all, he was a delightful fellow who used to keep a small boy pop-eyed with stories about the lions, tigers and elephants he knew in the circus and about the wide world in general.

It was years later, as we wondered about "Mister Red" at the dinner table, when our parents explained that the charming "Mister Red" was a fugitive from John Barleycorn. It was not until then we learned that every so often he'd disappear into the Lawrenceville shanty-town called "Frog-eye," to wrestle with his ancient enemy, the cup which first cheers, then jeers.

Now we know about "Mister Red," we're sort of sorry we found out. But we can't say we're surprised.

For "Mister Red" always was one of those tragic players on the Stage of Life—one of those unfortunates apparently born to live as a constant slave to trouble.

Welfare Fund Trustees Try To Outsputter Each Other

WASHINGTON—Two men with bristling eyebrows glowered, snorted and shouted at each other last week when the miners' welfare fund trustees met behind closed doors. They were John L. Lewis and Charles Dawson, ex-federal judge of Louisville, Ky., representing the operators.

PEARSON

In the middle sat Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, neutral trustee.

Calling the meeting to order, Lewis announced: "The people present today are trustee Bridges, trustee Lewis and interloper Dawson."

Then Dawson tried to present his credentials, and Bridges moved to accept them. But Lewis rapped the table and called the roll. He spat out a surely "no"; Bridges voted "yes."

Dawson also clamored to vote, but Lewis cut him off.

This same routine was repeated over every question that came up. Each time Dawson demanded to vote, and each time Lewis refused to recognize him.

Lewis called him a "rank outsider," present only by "sufferance." Dawson shouted back his right to be heard. Finally the meeting adjourned. Nothing was accomplished, except that the two bushy-browed trustees were still sputtering at each other.

Illegal Air Treaties

It was buried in the financial sections of the big city newspapers, but one of the most important court decisions affecting the treaty-making power of the State department was handed down last week. As a result our relations with Canada are in a dither.

U. S. Judges Jim Proctor and Alan Goldsborough were the two judges who had the courage to challenge the right of the State department to negotiate executive agreements with another country without ratification by the Senate.

To date the State department has negotiated 38 air treaties without paying any attention to the constitution of the United States which requires treaties with foreign countries to be ratified by a two-thirds Senate vote.

Now, for the first time, the courts have called a stop. While the court decree did not actually pass on the merits of the issue, and actually passed the question on to the Supreme Court, nevertheless Canada is already up in arms.

What brought the issue to a climax was when Colonial Air lines, a small company with a phenomenal 19-year record without a fatality, got tired of being kicked around.

The State department had given Canada a route parallel to Colonial's, from Montreal to New York, while simultaneously denying Colonial the right to fly to Washington.

So Colonial challenge the State department's power to negotiate a treaty without Senate ratification. In retaliation, Canada is now so irate that it has served Colonial with notice to show cause why it should not be closed down on the Montreal route after December 12.

What the issue partly boils down to is that the big air lines are able to hire top cabinet-level lobbyists to protect their interests when State department executive agreements are being written.

American airlines, for instance, retains as its attorney, the son-in-law of Secretary of State Acheson; while Pan American, long retained Louis Johnson, now secretary of national defense. The little companies, able to afford no such lobbying luxury, have to fall back on the constitution of the United States.

IT HAS never been told before how "Kissin' Jim"—Alabama's fabulous Governor James E. Folsom—almost became known as "Sockless Jim."

Except for the delicate intercession of a thoughtful Mobile publisher, the Alabama chief executive might still be living down a front-page reputation as the "barefoot governor with shoes on."

The trouble was that Jim's feet were so big he couldn't find a pair of socks to fit. He solved the problem simply by going without socks and wearing his Charlie Chaplin brogans over well-scrubbed but naked feet.

This went against the grain with R. B. Chandler, publisher of the Mobile Press-Register, who suspected that the eyes of the nation would be cast on the governor's big, undraped feet.

So with the dignity of Alabama at stake, Chandler dictated a formal letter to the governor just before his inauguration. Chandler observed, in effect, that he didn't mind big Jim sticking his foot in his mouth occasionally as long as he didn't stick both feet in the public eye. He pointed out that the governor's feet—sans socks—would be exposed to news cameras at the inauguration and might make bigger news than the ceremony itself. Finally, to save the state from embarrassment, Chandler offered to scare up some socks for the governor.

Big Jim cheerfully accepted the offer, and Chandler sent out a frantic plea to the cotton mills. He warned that a "sockless governor" in the heart of the cotton belt would be bad publicity for the industry, might even start a fad among the younger generation who would imitate the governor and also go without socks.

A cotton mill in northern Alabama immediately responded. It made up a batch of oversized socks that would fit the governor of Alabama, and big Jim wears them to this day.

Neglected Children

While the American public has responded to many worthy drives to make our people healthier and happier citizens, the government—and particularly Congress—has been blind to a disgraceful social problem—the lack of public school facilities for feebleminded children.

While we have been making great strides in the scientific developments of the atom—chiefly for war purposes—we are still in the dark ages relative to caring for close to a million mentally retarded children.

Some of these unfortunate youngsters happen to belong to families who can afford to send them to expensive private schools, where they receive adequate care. However, the great majority are the children of poor families and either live like hermits, because their parents are afraid to expose them to the ridicule of other children, or—worse still, perhaps—roam the streets of our big cities, because there is no room for them in overcrowded training schools maintained by state governments.

A few states, notably Wisconsin, are making real progress in educating mentally retarded youngsters to be self-supporting. Also, a few cities like Cincinnati and Euclid, Ohio, have made starts—with the help of the American Legion, the Kiwanis and other civic-minded groups.

However, the sad fact is that less than 90,000 retarded children—about one-tenth of the total number—are receiving attention in special classes of our public school system.

NOTE—every state-operated training school for the feebleminded has a long waiting list. Two states, Nevada and Mississippi, do not even have a training school for this purpose. Arizona is building one.

Embarrassing

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

IF I had a daughter getting married tomorrow this is what I'd tell her today:

One. Don't be shocked or hurt the first time it dawns on you that your husband isn't perfect. And don't think your marriage is ruined the first time he lets you know that he has discovered you aren't perfect, either.

MILLETT

Two. Go at the job of homemaking as you would any other job. Be determined to succeed at it. It's worth all your brains, education, and imagination. Use all three.

Three. Be loyal to your husband in even the smallest ways. Don't let him down by discussing his faults with anyone, by making fun of him in public, or by doubting his ability to take care of you.

Four. Don't try to be your idea of a perfect wife. Be yourself, the girl he fell in love with. A woman's idea of a perfect wife and a man's idea of a perfect wife are often two entirely different things.

Five. Give in on little things to keep peace and harmony. But take a stand for the big things that are important to you.

DON'T FLATTED THE BRUTE

SIX. Don't try to build up your husband's ego by constant flattery. Help him develop the best of his abilities, and he won't need that kind of flattery from you or any other woman.

Seven. Don't be possessive. Bite your tongue if you start to say: "You never told ME that" when he is relating an anecdote to a crowd. Or before you ask: "Who was it, dear?" when he comes away from the telephone. Or before you demand to know just why in the world he is late to dinner.

Eight. Whatever you do, don't call him pet names in public. A man needs dignity, and it's all too easy for a wife to rob him of it.

Nine. Never be too proud to be the first to say "I'm sorry" after a quarrel, and never be to high and mighty to laugh at your own mistakes.

Ten. See that there is laughter in your house. The sound of a woman's laughter is music to a man's ears.

And here's an extra reminder for full measure. Remember that it's better to say "I love you" than to ask. "Do you love me?"

"Try And Stop Me"

MOST American plays imported to the London stage in the past year have been rousing hits. Tickets for Oklahoma and Annie Get Your Gun, for instance, have been fetching a couple of pounds apiece from pleasure-starved Britishers. One American comedy hit, however, failed to impress the London public. The critics were particularly cool. One confined his review to a single sentence. "Last night's play simply didn't come off," he stated, then added grimly, "but it will!"

Few Of Early "New Dealers" Still Hold Government Jobs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. (NEA) Oscar Chapman, newly sworn in as secretary of interior, is sometimes called "the last of the original New Dealers." The shoe fits, though not too well. Oscar Chapman was made undersecretary of interior by President Roosevelt in May, 1933, and held that job right up to the time President Truman promoted him. So he is the only cabinet or little cabinet officer who has stayed on the job during 16 years of continuous Democratic rule.

EDSON

This means that there has been a greater turnover in the Democratic dynasty than many people realize. If it's true that the United States is now overridden by a self-perpetuating machine that has ruthlessly flattened out all political opposition, it has been done with many changes of driver, maintenance crew and road gang.

There were something over 3000 government jobs that paid $10,000 a year or better, up to the last pay increase. This includes generals and admirals, career diplomats and the heads of the independent regulatory agencies like Interstate Commerce Commission, who are supposed to be non-political. A fair guess made by ex-President Hoover's Reorganization Commission is that something less than half of the total—about 1300—are political appointments for policy-making jobs responsible to the President.

Veterans Are Listed

Whatever the number, there are today only about 25 of these top policy-making officials of the Truman administration who were in Washington government jobs in the early days of the New Deal. The list is worth running over, to see who the real veterans are, along with Oscar Chapman:

David Lilienthal, just resigned as Atomic Energy Commission chairman, Gordon Clapp, also went to work there in 1933, in a minor capacity.

Arthur J. Altmeyer, Social Security commissioner, went to work under the NRA blue eagle in 1933. Next year he became assistant labor secretary, which puts him close behind Chapman.

Ambassador to Britain Lewis W. Douglas was Roosevelt's first director of budget, but he broke with the president in 1934 and got out of government till the outbreak of the war.

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas is often regarded as a pioneer New Dealer, but he wasn't made a member of Securities and Exchange Commission until 1936.

Stephen T. Early, now undersecretary of defense, was of course Roosevelt's first and only press secretary. And Presidential Secretary William D. Hassett first entered government in 1933 as an NRA employe.

Marriner S. Eccles, Roosevelt's fircal braintruster, was made a member of Federal Reserve Board in 1933, chairman 1936-48.

Edward H. Foley, jr., undersecretary of treasury, was made an RFC attorney in 1932 and has been in government service since.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson was Roosevelt's first undersecretary of treasury in 1933, but broke with the president and did not re-enter the cabinet until 1941, as assistant secretary of state.

Assistant Secretary of State Ernest A. Gross was a State Department legal adviser in 1931-2 and an NRA lawyer the next two years. Since then he has had a varied though non-political government and Army career.

Acting Chairman Leon H. Keyserling of the Council of Economic Advisers was New Deal Sen. Robert F. Wagner's secretary in 1933.

Joseph P. O'Connell, jr., now chairman of Civil Aeronautics Board, was assistant general counsel of PWA, 1933-38.

Oswald Ryan, vice chairman of CAB, was Federal Power Commission general counsel 1932-38, when he first became a CAB member.

Today's Journal Editorial

A BLOW TO TRUMAN'S PLANS

Fears of federal tax increases next year, as urged by the President, were eased further this week when Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Democrat of Wyoming, termed them a "practical impossibility."

Senator O'Mahoney's opposition unquestionably was a hard blow to Mr. Truman's hopes of obtaining congressional approval of his tax program. The senator's term does not expire until 1953, which means that he has less to fear in a personal political way from support of increased taxation than a congressman facing re-election next year. The Wyoming senator also has much influence in Congress, as evidenced by his chairmanship of the joint Senate-House Economic committee. His opposition to high taxes is likely to carry considerable weight.

In order to put over his tax program, the President would require the almost solid support of Democrats in both houses of Congress. With Senators like O'Mahoney lined up with the opposition, defeat for the program begins to loom as so much a certainty as to raise doubts as to whether Mr. Truman actually will propose it after Congress convenes. He may be persuaded that it will be expedient to set his tax sights a good deal lower than any he has suggested thus far.

New Faces In City Hall Goal Of Town's "Bad Boy Mayor"

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Dec. 7. (AP) — Andrew J. "Bossey" Gillis, one-time "bad boy mayor" of this seaport city, came back after six straight setbacks to regain the mayoralty—"slowed down some, but still no diplomat."

Gillis, who amazed Newburyport residents with his antics during his three previous terms, yesterday defeated Mayor John M. Kelleher who was seeking his fifth consecutive term.

In one breath, the once red-haired but now graying 52-year-old Gillis, insisted he was "too old to get as enthusiastic as I used to 22 years ago."

New Faces Planned

In the next breath he belied his lack of enthusiasm.

"My first act," he said, "will be to tear the police department apart and then fire the fire chief.

"I'm then going to give the highway department quite a shellacking and there are going to be some new faces in city hall."

The flamboyant filling station owner first gained notoriety while serving his first term as mayor in 1928. He was sentenced to two months in jail for cutting down elm trees to make an entrance for his gasoline station. He carried out the city's affairs from his cell.

Once he climbed in a second story window of the city's new high school to make an inspection because the school committee refused to give him a key.

Out For Highway Boys

On another occasion he indulged his sense of humor by ordering a policeman who worked against his election to ride an aged horse, living out its last few years at the city infirmary, to patrol the city's outskirts.

Gillis got his nickname "Bossy" when he threatened to have cows feed on the city hall lawn because he couldn't get an appropriation for a new grass cutter.

The fiery mayor-elect said today it was too early to tell yet exactly what changes will take place during his two-year term—"except the highway department is going to get quite a shellacking."

"They got equipment enough down in the city yards," he said, "to start a huge contracting firm."

And just as Gillis was getting warmed up about what he'll do next year, he broke off to say over the telephone:

"My wife, Louise, just pinched me and told me to slow down. I have to do what she says because she's my adviser and she has brought me back onto the victory road."

Gillis polled 3,420 votes to 3,132 for Kelleher.

Skunk's Tail Saved, But Car Is Damaged

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Dec. 7 (U.P.)—Her son's quest for a skunk tail gave Mrs. Adrienne Roy a lot of trouble. Also, the skunk still has his tail.

Mrs. Roy thought her automobile hit a skunk along the highway. Her 14-year-old son, Alfred, said he wanted the tail.

The obliging mother backed her car off the road. The car struck a telephone pole, which broke off and crushed the hood and right side of the car. Telephone wires entangled the car and covered the highway.

No one was hurt, particularly not the skunk.

Armed Service Unification Is Stressed At U. S. Academies

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 7—Future admirals at the U. S. Naval Academy are learning about sea navigation from a U. S. Air Force officer.

And at West Point, future generals are discovering that detailed studies of naval engagements have been added to their military history courses.

These are two plays Defense Secretary Louis Johnson is calling in a new Army-Navy (and Air Force) game with a long-range goal of unification for the future. He wants to instill in the minds of the student officers more loyalty to the unified services, rather than undivided loyalty to a single service.

Changes at both schools are taking place rapidly. At Annapolis, 27 Air Force officers have been given key teaching positions recently. More are expected.

Officers On Staff

Several Army ground force officers also have been put on the Naval Academy's teaching staff, with many more to follow. They are teaching newly-added courses in ground force strategy, as well as some of the Navy's regular courses.

Rear Adm. James L. Holloway, director of the Academy, says a complete change of emphasis is being made in all of the history courses. Instead of complete emphasis on famous and significant sea battles, considerable time now is being spent on details of important ground and air engagements. Visiting lecturers from the Air Force and Army are being brought in to help explain them.

The school's leadership courses have also been altered. Officers from the other services as well as civilian experts now give practically all of the lectures on this subject.

Courses Are Studied

The only subject not affected by Johnson's orders to teach more unification are the strictly technical courses, such as engineering. But a special combined board is studying ways to change even these courses to help the cause of unification.

Among the midshipmen themselves, only those who will graduate next spring seem bewildered by what's going on. Typical reaction of an Academy senior is this:

"Everywhere you look, you see more Air Force and Army uniforms. I don't know whether they are training the lower classmen for the Navy or Army."

The younger students don't seem to notice the change. Generally, among all the midshipmen, there is little concern over the unification squabble which has been going on in the Pentagon.

The change at West Point has been a little slower. Only two Naval officers and a Marine officer have recently been added to the teaching staff. But there are now 40 Air Force officers teaching, and more to come.

West Point's history courses also are being changed to include more detailed studies of naval engagements. Key Naval officers are scheduled as regular lecturers for many of the courses.

For several years the graduating classes of both schools have worked together in a combined operation called "camid." Such joint maneuvers will be increased under the new plan, it is reported.

Official Language Mystery To Group

NEW DELHI, Dec. 7 (AP) — Thirty-two members of the constituent assembly have expressed their decision to speak in Hindi on the floor of the house. The house consists of about 300 members.

Though Hindi has been adopted as the national language of India, English has been allowed its present position for the next 15 years.

Purchase Of Good Grades Backfires

DENVER, Dec. 7 (INS) — A 10-year-old third-grade student today decided he wanted to buy some good grades in school.

The lad spied a money bag on the counter of a biscuit company as he was walking to school. He stepped into the office, grabbed the bag and ran to an alley where he counted the loot — $305 in cash, and $258 in checks.

With the money, he bought chocolates for his teacher and casually passed out quarters, dimes and nickles to open-mouthed but grateful classmates.

Shortly after the junior-sized millionaire had snatched the swag, detectives showed up at the school and calmly took Mr. Moneybags away.

150 County Farmers Attend Idalou Meet

IDALOU, Dec. 7 (Special) — Approximately 150 Lubbock county farmers attended a program sponsored by the Lubbock County Production and Marketing association and the Texas Extension service at the Idalou clubhouse here at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday. The program, the second in a series of eight, is for the purpose of familiarizing the area farmers with the 1950 farm program.

The meeting was under the direction of D. W. Sherrill, county agent; Glen Hackney, president of the Lubbock County Farm bureau; and Walter Y. Wells, administrative officer of the association.

Wells explained the cotton acreage allotment program and marketing quotas for 1950 to those attending the meeting tonight. He urged those present to vote in the referendum to be held throughout the state on Dec. 15.

Sherrill showed films designed to educate those at the meeting in livestock management and soil conservation.

Refreshments, furnished by the farm bureau, were served at the meeting by the Homemaking class of the Idalou High school.

Six other meetings are planned during the remainder of the month. There will be meetings at the Cooper school in Woodrow on Wednesday, at the Tech stock judging pavilion in Lubbock Thursday and at New Deal school Saturday. Other meetings will be held at the Frenship school at Wolfforth Dec. 12, Slaton school Dec. 13 and the Roosevelt school in the Acuff community Dec. 14. All of the meetings will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Houston Rabbi Is Speaker At Meet

Rabbi William S. Malev of Beth Yeshurun in Houston was principal speaker at a joint meeting here Tuesday night of the Lubbock Zionist district and the local chapter of Hadassah, a women's organization.

Rabbi Malev, who was in the same party with Rabbi Julius Kerman of Lubbock in a recent visit to Europe and Israel, spoke mainly on the impressions he received in European countries in comparison with those he felt while visiting Israel.

He said most European nations seem to be tired and jaded and the people old and sad, while the new Israel was young and hopeful, and willing to work for the future.

He also spoke on the work of the Jewish women's organization, Hadassah, in the new nation. He was introduced by Rabbi Kerman.

Mrs. Louis Freed, president of the local chapter of Hadassah, presided. Members of the organization served refreshments during the meeting.

Mexia Death Charges Filed

MEXIA, Dec. 7. (U.P.)—Three charges, including one for the murder of a teen-aged, thrice-married mother of two children, were lodged against James Rudasill today as he was held without bond at nearby Groesbeck.

Melvin Dempsey, 23, shot in the back of the neck a few moments before 19-year-old Mrs. Annie McDonald Milam was slain yesterday on a Mexia street, was reported improving at a local hospital. His condition was first described as "serious."

Rudasill, 26, surrendered by pre-arrangement to Limestone county authorities seven hours after the shootings, but refused to make a statement to officers.

A grand jury will meet in special session Friday to consider charges against Rudasill, including the murder of the blonde Mrs. Milam, assault with intent to murder in the wounding of Dempsey, an dtheft of a motor vehicle. It was charged Rudasill took a pick-up truck to flee Mexia.

Dempsey said the armed assailant approached his car at 1:15 a. m. He said Mrs. Milam, estranged from her third husband, was sitting with him in the car, parked before her father's home.

"This is for you," Dempsey quoted the man as saying.

"Then he fired a shot at me," Dempsey continued. "Annie jumped out of the car and started to run. I knew I was hit, so I drove away and came to the hospital."

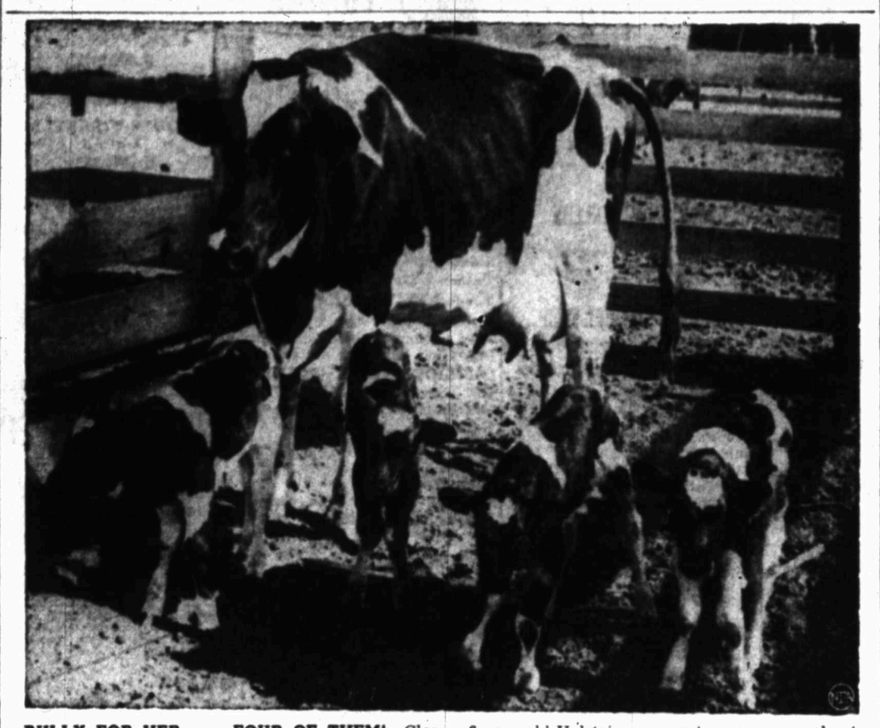

Mrs. Milam fell in the street with three bullet wounds in her body. Her father, awakened by the gunfire, called for help. The young mother was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Drivers Determined To Pay For Parking

MANHATTAN, Kan., Dec. 7 (U.P.) — Police took precautions against premature use of Manhattan's new parking meters, installed two weeks ahead of official operation.

They plugged the meter slots and then put adhesive tape across the openings.

But they reckoned without some people's peculiar determination.

A few motorists tore off the tape, removed the plugs and pushed their coins into the slots.

Salvation Army's Christmas Fund Is Increased To $490

Captain W. Thomas Gregory, local Salvation Army commander, announced Tuesday night that the Salvation Army's Christmas Cheer Fund had grown to $490.

The money will be used to provide food baskets, Christmas dinners, toys, and other gifts that go to make the Christmas season a holiday.

Contributions are being received daily through the Army' kettles which are stationed on downtown street corners and through the mail.

In the meantime, applications are being accepted from interested friends who know of families and individuals who would be in need of such Christmas gratuities. Also, families are making application direct to the Army headquarters at 1112 Seventeenth.

Several dozen of the dolls which were purchased by the Salvation Army a few weeks ago have been dressed and returned to the Army. Women of the various home demonstration clubs in this area have undertaken to dress the dolls which will be presented to the less fortunate children in the community. Mrs. O. R. Copeland is chairman of the committee dressing the dolls.

Captain Gregory pointed out that the Christmas activities have the full approval of the Lubbock Community Chest since funds raised through the Chest's annual campaign provide for the year round service of the Salvation Army.

It is our hope to be able to provide for every needy family in the Lubbock area on Christmas day, Gregory said. Excellent co-operation has been received from various church groups and Girl Scout troops in clearing with the Army headquarters the names of families and children they will provide for. This eliminates a lot of duplication and will assure that every individual will be remembered on Christmas day, he added.

Fire-Proof Beard For Santa Planned

WILMINGTON, Del., Dec. 7 (AP)—Say, kids, your worries are over—Santa's beard need no longer be a fire hazard.

EUROPE SKEPTICAL OF "GOOD IDEA"

British Bid For Closer Ties With Scandinavia Questioned

LONDON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Britain's bid for closer economic ties with Scandanavia met with some skepticism today in some west Europe capitals.

The general reaction was that it was a good idea but probably won't be put into effect for a long time.

Britain's recent invitation to Denmark, Norway and Sweden to talk about better integration of trade and economy was viewed by some politicians and economists as an attempt to meet recent demands by Marshal Plan Chief Paul C. Hoffman that Europe break down trade barriers for closer economic cooperation.

British Tradition Considered

The three Scandinavian governments are already in touch with each other on the matter and have shown willingness to discuss the whole problem with Britain.

Skepticism has arise principally out of Britain's traditional refusal to tie her pound sterling economy too closely with any other nation outside the commonwealth. Some Scandinavians have adopted a "wait and see" attitude, they want to see just how far Britain will go toward economic union.

Danish financial circles already have declared that Britain's suggestion for freer movement of currencies and goods is not as simple a problem as the British say it is. They say many other prob problems have to be solved first.

Money Conversion Questioned

A Swedish informant wanted to know if Britain would allow her pounds to be converted into dollars—something she almost went broke trying to do two years ago.

"Sweden has large assets of pounds," said the informant, "and we are anxious to restore the possibilities of converting pounds into dollars."

The liberal Stockholm newspaper Expressen, raising the same question, estimated that Sweden has sterling credits from sales to Britain amounting to some 40,000,000 pounds ($112,000,000).

Copenhagen's conservative Berlingske Tidente said the pound must be reinstated as a leading currency in western Europe's economy where the dollar now rules.

Reaction Varies

The newspaper posed the question "is Britain willing to take such a course in he reconomic policy' 'to abolish current distrust in the strength of the pound?

Official London sources said Britain had proposed limited convertibility of the pound with Danish Norwegian and Swedish currencies but said nothing about convertibility into dollars.

In Oslo the independent newspaper Verdens Gang called the plan a "natural solution of European economic integration."

But the independent Copenhagen newspaper Information said it was a "show-dish in honor of the OEEC (Office of European Economic Cooperation) in Paris" and that reports on it were exaggerated.

The Communist newspaper Land Og Folk in Copenhagen followed the Moscow line by calling it a "cynical means of incorporating Scandanavia in the Anglo-American war bloc."

ORC Men Are Urged To Contact Officer

Major Samsel said the campaign ized Reserve corps instructor in the Lubbock area, announced Tuesday that 300 veterans have enlisted and re-enlisted into the ORC since the beginning of a recruiting campaign last March.

A total of 4,200 veterans have come into the ORC in the state since the drive began, according to Col. Oscar B. Abbott, chief of the Texas Military district with headquarters in Austin.

Major Samsel said the campaign will continue through the winter and spring months so that former enlisted men may be brought back to ORC activities.

He added that during December and January, a number of men in the Lubbock area will be due for discharge and re-enlistment in the ORC.

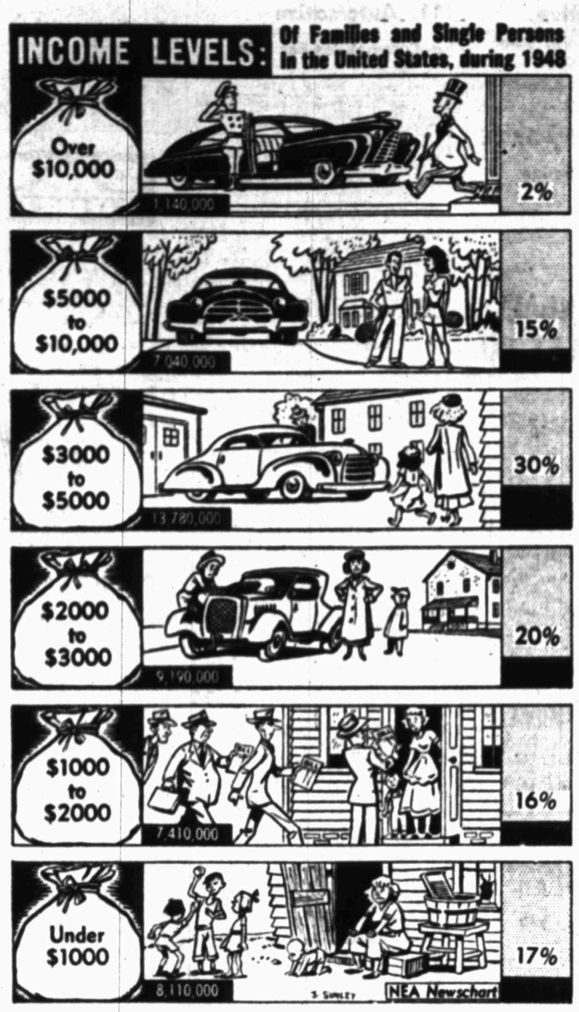

These men, who are urged to contact Major Samuel in the Lubbock Cotton Exchange building, include: T. E. Dunlap, Sterling L. Parks, Rafael S. Fernandez, Dorris E. Pierce, Rudolph L. Carr, Lynn O. Murray, Jacob Gonzales, Clarence B. Barber, George L. King, William E. Rogerson, William B. Roberts and James R. Gainer, all of Lubbock; James E. Scrivner, Gail; Eseouiel Gastre and Erlene H. Helicopter Making Tuna Fishing Easy

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 7 (U.P.)—The first use of a helicopter by a tuna clipper for spotting schools of fish has proved successful, according to Capt. Joe Machado, skipper of the tuna boat Espirito Santo.

The clipper returned from an 89-day fishing trip with a full load of 490 tons of tuna, caught mostly off Central America.

Machado took along a 1,400-pound helicopter for spotting fish. The aircraft has a cruising range of 150 miles.

Where does your family fit in the above pattern? About one-third of America's families and single individuals had money incomes of less than $2000 during 1948, according to a recent report of a sub-committee of the Joint Committee on the Economist Report. Chart reflects the report s data, which will be basis of hearings in Washington Dec. 12 to 16 on the problem of low-income families. The report cautions that low cash income does not necessarily indicate poverty, especially in the case of farm families which provide for many of their needs at home. On the other hand, city families with higher cash income may have trouble meeting basic needs.

Christmas Party Is Given For Orphans

COMMERCE, Dec. 7 (AP)—About 150 Texas orphans had a big time yesterday at a Christmas party given for them by East Texas State Teachers college students.

But James Saunders of Greenville, president of the student association, said, "we got more fun out of it than the boys and girls did."

The children, aged five to nine, were brought to the college from Boles' home, Quinlan, and state home, Corsicana.

New Mexico Miners Face Court Action

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 7 (AP) — Filing of criminal contempt proceedings against probably a score of Carlsbad potash miners was ordered today.

U. S. Dist. Judge Carl A. Hatch declared the group had deliberately violated a U. S. court restraining order by blocking Santa Fe railway tracks to struck potash mines.

The contempt action followed granting of a permanent injunction against nine leaders and associates ordering them not to interfere with Santa Fe railway operations. Twenty associates have been identified in court testimony. Evidence includes pictures of many more.

The railway blockades grew out of a strike by the Carlsbad local of the International Mine, Mill and Smelter workers (CIO) against three potash firms. The strikers seek a 25 cent hourly wage increase for about 1,500 workers.

Named in the injunction and order for contempt citations are Chester D. Smothermon, local president; William Gately of Douglas, Ariz., international representative; Reino M. Sillampa, Nelmo A. Toby, Alfred L. McMurry, Raymond A. Wilson, Carlos D. Andrews, James B. Miller and E. Doyle Reynolds.

The strike was called Nov. 19. The restraining order to keep pickets from Santa Fe tracks was granted Nov. 25. Testimony showed the strikers defied the order and blockaded trains by sitting on tracks until the temporary injunction was issued after court hearing here Dec. 1.

Defense attorneys Leonard T. May of Carlsbad and Samuel D. Menin of Denver announced they would appeal from the injunction.

Pastor's Sermon Is Credited For Gift

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 7 (U.P.) — An anonymous caller telephoned Dr. R. Paul Caudill, pastor of the First Baptist church here, and asked him to be at a downtown bank the next day.

When Dr. Caudill appeared, the stranger approached and said:

"I heard your morning sermon over the radio yesterday, and I was inspired to the extent that I would like to give $25,000 as an endowment to assist young people who desire to prepare for the ministry."

Gift Of Coat Helps American Servicemen

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 7 (U.P.)—Miss Mabel B. LaFar slipped a black velvet evening coat into a "Bundle for Britain" in 1942 but didn't realize it would serve such an odd need.

This year she got a letter from a British comedian, Tony Heaten, saying he had received the coat after having been shipwrecked, torpedoed twice and train-wrecked all in six weeks.

The coat helped America, too, he said. Heaton, who entertained American soldiers and sailors during the war, wore it in most of his routines.

Woman Fractures Leg in Tumble Off Table

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—Mrs. Isabell Shaffer said she fell off a laboratory table and broke her leg while being x-rayed for a broken arm.

Her $25,000 damage suit on file in circuit court against the Monongalia General Hospital contends the hospital was negligent and that she lost about $1,500 in wages she would ordinarily have earned as a waitress because of the accident.

APPEAL FOR EARLY POSTING GIVEN

Biggest Rush Of Christmas Mail In History Indicated

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. (U.P.)—The Post Office Department is gearing itself to handle the biggest bunch of Christmas mail in history.

The department expects Americans to mail between 5,000,000,000 and 5,500,000,000 cards, gifts and other items during the season and already the work has begun.

Several changes in procedure have been made since last year and the department expects that, as usual, some persons will ignore the changes through ignorance or forgetfulness.

Cards May Pile Up

For one thing, a lot of Christmas cards may pile up for lack of a two-cent stamp or because they are the wrong size.

Other persons will be disappointed because the cards they send to Christmas, Fla., and Santa Claus,, Ind., for a special stamp will get only a postmark.

Congress last year raised postage rates so that unsealed Christmas cards, which used to go through for 1½ cents, now need two-cent stamps. Also they must be no less than three inches long on two sides and no more than 12 inches long on two sides. Otherwise, they need three cents.

As for Santa Claus, Ind., and Christmas, Fla., the department frowned when it learned that the local post offices had hired special help last year just to hand-stamp cards from all over the country with special emblems. The department said it couldn't happen again.

To Hire Extra Help

This year the chambers of commerce at the two Yuletide towns are performing the hand-stamping service for anyone who wishes to mail cards there for remail.

The department expects to hire about 290,000 persons, 10,000 more than last year, to handle and deliver the extra burden of mail at $1.26 an hour.

Most of those will be put on the job just for two weeks but some started on Dec. 1 and will work the whole month.

When the flood of mailing starts, postoffices will stay open until late at night, keep piles of cord on hand for packages that aren't wrapped quite right, and provide an "information, please," person to tell people what window to use.

Trucks Needed

The department also will have to recruit a lot of trucks from the armed services and other government agencies to haul the extra packages. Postmasters are making those arrangements now.

To help make everyone's Christmas happy, including that of the postmasters, the department asked that cards be mailed by Dec. 15 and packages "well in advance" of Dec. 10.

From children, the postoffices will, as usual, continue to accept those very important documents addressed to Santa Claus, North Pole, and turn them over to the right people.

Ex-Prisoners Of War Advised On Payments

Persons who were prisoners of war must file applications with the Texas adjutant general's office before Jan. 1 in order to be eligible for $1 a day compensation authorized by Congress, F. C. Rector, veterans employment representative of the Texas Employment commission, said Tuesday afternoon.

He said servicemen or their dependents or survivors, civilians and religious workers who were prisoners of war may be eligible for the compensation at the rate of $1 for each day they were imprisoned.

The procedure for application is to write the adjutant general's office, Austin. A printed form will then be sent for the applicant to fill out.

Romania Buying Rush Caused By Broadcast

BUCHAREST, Romania, Dec. 7 (AP)—A Voice of America broadcast about Romanian currency troubles has touched off a buying spree by Romanians fearing another devaluation of the nation's money.

Sales of textiles, foodstuffs, cigarettes and other goods skyrocketed. Rumors of impending currency stabilization moves have been current for some time. But the buying rush got going after the Voice of America radio broadcast a report that the Bulgarian state bank was refusing to change Romanian currency.

The government-controlled press denied that any currency revaluation moves are planned. The leu was devalued in 1947 when the government decreed that 20,000 leu should have the value of one leu. The official rate now sets 100 leu as equivalent to 6.7 U. S. cents.

A semi-official source close to the Romania State bank said the Bulgarian move was prompted solely by a growing Romanian currency balance there. He said Bulgaria had temporarily halted buying from Romania and exchanging Romanian money for Bulgarian money.

Met Singer Presents Tech Artist Program

Arias from famous operas were presented by Licia Albanese, Metropolitan soprano, before a small but receptive crowd in the Lubbock High school auditorium Tuesday night.

Mme. Albanese appeared on the Texas Tech Artists course series.

Among selections presented were an aria from La Traviata, a Russian group of songs in English, and other selections in French Italian, Spanish and English.

Mme. Albanese has been a member of the Metropolitan Opera troupe since 1940, when she came to America from her native Italy. She became a citizen of the United States in 1945.

The shape of a room has no effect on speed of reading or loudness of voice, but both the size of the room and reverberation does. You speak more slowly in a large room than in a small one, and you raise your voice in a small room because there is less reverberation.
