Thousands Of Yanks Pour Onto Luzon

Mighty Tank Battle Rages

Yanks Closing In On Nazi Road Hub As Blinding Blizzard Sweeps Front

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF, Paris, Jan. 9—American tanks clashed with German armor in a battle that raged all day today in a blinding blizzard as Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's two-Army team whittled another mile off the northern side of the Belgian bulge and closed within three-fourths of a mile of the important communications hub of LaRoche.

The U. S. Third Army, which had been forced to give ground late yesterday under repeated counterattacks on the southern side of the salient, roared back today with gains up to a half-mile at several points despite the worst weather of the winter and continued fierce enemy resistance.

As the Allies in Belgium pinched Marshal Karl von Rundstedt's salient to a width of 9 miles between the areas of LaRoche and Herbaimant, the Germans increased their pressure in Alsace and shelled Strasbourg with heavy artillery from the east bank of the Rhine.

American forces on the northern flank of the German bulge drove to within four miles of the last main escape and supply highway and von Rundstedt was reported hurriedly shifting tanks from the Bastogne area northward to meet this threat to his lifeline.

Should the smashing Yank drive from the north waist of the bulge sever the Houffalize-St. Vith highway, all German forces in the western half of the salient would be placed in a precarious position—perhaps faced with a second Falaise disaster.

Turning Point Near

A field dispatch from Roger Greene of Associated Press tonight declared that 'the next 12 to 24 hours may Provide the turning point in the great battle that began Dec. 16 when von Rundstedt launched his surprise blow."

The American forces threatening the enemy's only lateral highway out of the potential trap were pushing through snowdrifts four and five feet high south of the captured villages. of Provendoux and Ottre. Their drive, if unchecked by Nazi reinforcements, would cut the vital road at a point about five miles northeast of Houffalize, the Germans' principal base inside the salient.

Newton Name Brought Into Thomas Trial

By C. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche Staff Correspondent

LAMESA, Jan. 9—The name of Dr. W. R. Newton of Cameron, Tex., today was brought into the trial of Jim Thomas, who is charged with murder in the Oct. 26, 1943, death of Dr. Roy E. Hunt of Littlefield, Tex.

Defense Counsel John B. McNamara of Waco drew from Dr. Ewell L. Hunt, of Lubbock, brother of the slain man, the statement that Dr. Newton had been convicted of an attempt on his brother's life.

Thomas' Second Trial

This is Thomas' second trial on the slaying charge, the first hearing in the 64th district court at Plainview last August having ended in conviction and assessment of the death penalty. A new trial and change of venue was later ordered by Judge C. D. Russell after it was revealed irregularity had occurred in the jury room when Thomas' past record was disclosed.

The prosecution presented 12 witnesses during today's session.

Dr. Newton had been assessed a seven-year term but his case was reversed and a new trial is pending.

A parade of 12 witnesses testified in an aisle-packed courtroom as attorneys, thumbing transcript of testimony from the Plainview trial, reeled off their questions in rapid-fire order.

Little Cross-Examination

In sharp contrast to the Plainview trial, defense attorneys did not cross-examine but one state witness and then only briefly.

Witnesses testifying today included Roy Granbery of Olton, Dr. and Mrs. Fred W. Janes, formerly of Olton, but now of Littlefield, who had played cards at the Hunt home the night of Oct. 24; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Grissom, neighbors of the Hunts; Sheriff Sam Hutson of Lamb county; Aubrey Fawver, Lubbock police identifications officer; Norvell Redwine, Texas Ranger; Dr. Ewell Hunt, Mrs. Marie Hall of Galveston and Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Veazey of Amarillo.

Granbery and Dr. and Mrs. Janes testified to leaving the Hunt residence about 2:15 or 2:20 o'clock the morning of the murder and described various rooms and details concerning the house.

Floor Plan Outlined

District Attorney Harold M. LaFont of Plainview, who is directing the prosecution, directed Mrs. Janes to draw an outline of the floor plan of the house which showed location of bedrooms, beds, windows, etc., which was shown to the jury.

Hutson, Fawver and Redwine testified as to their investigations at the scene of the crime, describing the ghastly scene of the double murder—how the bodies of Dr. Hunt and his wife were lying in bed, battered and bound and how they found tracks of rubber-soled shoes around the house. A child's chair, which was found near a window of the home, pieces

YANKS POUR ONTO LUZON—Led personally by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, whose "I Shall Return" reverberated around the world, American Sixth Army troops of Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger stormed ashore from an 800-ship convoy along a 15-mile stretch of Lingayen Gulf (center of western coast fo Luzon) Tuesday, and drove inland over flat country enroute to Manila, Bataan and Corregidor.

800 Ships Disgorge Along Lingayen Gulf

By JAMES HUTCHESON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Wednesday, Jan. 10—Tens of thousands of U. S. Sixth Army forces, accompanied ashore by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, landed Tuesday along 15 miles of Lingayen gulf coast on Luzon island from an 800-ship convoy and pushed deep into flatlands leading 120 miles south to Manila over ideal tank-war country.

Tanks were among the equipment put ashore in strength to make possible a power-house offensive.

From the beaches, cleared of Japanese by fierce warship shellings and aerial bombings, the lightly opposed Yanks surged inland over the same crescent of sand dunes the Japanese employed three years ago. The invasion scene now is dry and suited for a war of movement.

A field dispatch, disclosing that MacArthur already has set up headquarters on Luzon, said the landings were on the southern extremity of the gulf which includes the city of Lingayen.

At one point, only 11 enemy snippers could be found in an hour's hunt.

3,000 Small Craft Active

Just prior to the landings, fully 3,000 small amphibious craft, each with a full complement of troops, rotated near the transports while the last naval gunfire and blistering rocket barrage softened the four landing beaches.

When this curtain of fire lifted, troops crowded into armoed amphibious tanks and tractors churned toward the langing points, extending roughly from San Fabian on the southeast west to Lingayen city.

Shores Set Aflame

Covered by salvos of bombarding battleships and exploding bombs of carrier and land planes which drove the enemy's main forces inland, they got ashore on the south and east sides of Lingayen at 9:30 a. m. against light opposition.

Within two hours after the first transports had disgorged the soldiers to landing boats, following a dawn shelling of the areas, MacArthur was back on the island where he fought the losing battles which opened the Pacific war.

The war for this showdown fight for all the Philippines was paved by a multiplicity of warships and aerial attacks. These included the destruction or damage of 262 enemy planes and the sinking or damaging of 73 ships in three days of carrier-based assaults on Luzon, Formosa and Okinawa, in the Ryukyu chain.

Navy Fliers Get 73 Ships, 262 Planes

By MORRIE LANDSBERG
Associated Press Staff Writer

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Jan. 9.—U. S. naval fliers, slashing at Japan's sea-air strength within the Luzon defense orbit, sank or damaged 73 ships and destroyed or damaged 262 planes in a three-day sweep over the Luzon-Formosa-Okinawa area.

A Navy communique today listed additional damage to the enemy on Luzon in the carrier based strikes of Jan. 5 and 6 and ship-plane casualties in the far ranging raids Jan. 8 on Formosa, Okinawa and other islands in the Formosa area.

(In Washington, a 20th airforce communique said that B-29s based in China also battered Formosa Jan. 8, U. S. time—Jan. 9 Formosa date—bombing by precision instruments because there were clouds over the target. They found no enemy fighter opposition of anti-aircraft fire, testifying to the effetciveness of the carrier plane assaults.)

Hellcat fighters shot down a total of 18 Nipponese planes and joined divebombers and torpedo planes in destroying 74 more aircraft and damaging 103 o nthe ground at Luzon in heavy pre-invasion attacks by the Third Fleet's carrier forces.

Jap Shipping Sunk

Shipping sunk in the Luzon sweeps, which like the Formosa slashes were coordinated with Gen. MacArthur's invasion of Luzon Tuesday (Philippine time), included three medium cargo ships, four small coastal cargo vessels and five luggers. A large cargo ship, three medium cargos, nine small cargos, a tug and 15 small craft were damaged.

Fifteen American planes were lost in combat, the communique said.

Incomplete reports on the raids from Formosa to Okinawa, including Ishigaki and Miyako Jima in the Sakishima group, showed 17 Japanese planes were destroyed and 17 more damaged. In addition, 14 small ships were sunk, 17 small vessels and luggers damaged and one large tanker left burning off Toshien, Formosa.

Significantly, the communique noted that the enemy offered no opposition in the air as the Yanks

Luzon Well Suited For Open Warfare

By RAY CRONIN
Chief of the Former Associated Press Manila Bureau

When American liberation forces hit Luzon, Main island of the Philippines, they tackled the largest land mass in the Archipelago and hub of Japan's war -stolen gains in the South and Southwest Pacific.

As the Japanese demonstrated in the months immediately following their sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, Luzon is well suited for open warfare in which tanks and other mechanized equipment can be used.

Japan's exact strength on Luzon is not known, but has been variously estimated at from a quarter to a half million fighting men.

She holds many important airports on the island and has in her hands such strategic installations as Corregidor fortress and other fortified islands guarding the month of Manilla bay; the Nipponreconstructed naval base at Cavite, also on the bay; the Navy yard at Olongapo on Subic bay northwest of manila; Fort Stotsenberg, the Army base at Clark Field airdrome; and other Army centers in the Manila area.

American Army and naval airpower has been thrown against Luzon time and again with the Yank pilots concentrating on airfields, rail supply lines, troop concentrations and shipping. The Japanese have lost thousands of planes and scores of warships, transports and other surface craft in Manila, subic, and Lamon bays and Lingayen and Albay gulfs.

Carrier Plane Strikes

Carrier plane strikes against Manila bay shipping highlighted the campaign of naval fliers to knock out that great center as a main Japanese supply and ship repair depot.

In pre-invasion smashes against Luzon, Army fliers hit the strategic military installations on the island almost daily since last Dec. 3. They raided Luzon on 32 days between Dec. 3 and Jan. 7, missing only four days in that period. Navy fliers from carriers also blasted the island Jan. 6 and 7, Manila time.

Luzon, of the 40,814 square miles, is the largest of the 7,083 islands in the Philippine archipelago. Its population is between 4,000,000 and 4,500,000 out of a total of about 18,000,000 in the islands. Manila's war-time population alone shot over a million.

Ideal For Big Fighting

Luzon's flat country, ideal for major fighting, is in the west central sector and in the northeast. In the west central section, stretching southward from Lingayen gulf, one of the Japanese invasion points in Dec. 1941, is the flat country of Paganisinan, Tarlac and Pampan-

Japs May Stake Remaining Fleet

By LIEF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Jan. 9—Japan may risk her remaining first line warships in another sea action with the Pacific fleet, now that General MacArthur's invasion of Luzon has opened the Pacific war's most critical campaign.

I say this on my own responsibility, knowing Luzon is more vital to Japan's defense of her empire than was Guadalcanal, Saipan or Leyte.

Come Out For Key Jobs

Every time American amphibious forces have assaulted objectives of key importance of Japan, her fleet has joined in major sea action—the second battle of the Philippines after the Leyte landing; first battle of the Philippines seas after the Saipan landing in the Marianas; the Solomons surface battles after the Guadalcanal landing.

It is not logical to expect that Japanese Navy commanders will lie around in empire ports while MacArthur's troops are taking Luzon from Japan's grasp, cutting in tow her greater co-prosperity sphere.

The Japanese almost certainly will try to reinforce the Luzon garrison. The only way they can reinforce Luzon is from their homeland and Formosa.

As it was when MacArthur land-

Floyd Beall Dies Of Heart Attack

Floyd Beall, pioneer Lubbock citizen, who was in the drug business here in earlier days, but in recent years had owned and operated a wholesale oil agency, died unexpectedly at his home, 2627 Twenty-first, last night about 10:30 o'clock after only a few minutes illness following a heart attack.

Mr. Beall had appeared in excellent health earlier in the evening, a member of the family said, had enjoyed his evening meal, and was talking with his family when he apparently was stricken without warning about 10 o'clock. A doctor arrived shortly, and was discussing his case with Mr. Beall when the fatal stroke occurred about 30 minutes later.

Here About 30 Years

He had been a resident of Lubbock about 30 years.

Funeral plans had not been completed early today. The body is at Rix Funeral home.

Immediate survivors are the widow and one daughter, Ophelia May.

Two-Day B-29 Raids Leave Tokyo Aflame

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP) — Flames seared the Tokyo target area after today's two-way smash at the Japanese homeland and the gret Formosa island base by scores of America's Superfortresses.

Apparently acting to keep the enemy occupied in conjunction with our invasion of Luzon on the Philippines, the mighty B-29s braved heavy weather to reach the Nipponese capital but found the sky clear over their objecive.

The Army, announcing results on preliminary information, made no mention of any losses on the Tokyo flight. All planes returned from the Formosa raid. Apparently upwards of 40 planes participated in each attack.

MacArthur Wades Ashore After Ride Atop Engine Box

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Wednesday, Jan. 10 (AP)—Wearing his famed campaign hat and five stars on his collar, Gen. Douglas MacArthur returned to Luzon with his assault troops Tuesday morning.

Two torpedoes from a midget submarine missed his ship as the convoy headed for the landing. MacArthur then rode upon the engine box of a landing craft and waded knee-deep in water onto the soil of Luzon he left nearly three years ago. He hit the shore abou t two hours after the first wave.

MacArthur talked with privates and generals alike and expressed himself pleased with the way the operation was proceeding.

Solons Start On Heavy Schedule

AUSTIN, Jan 9. (AP)—Swiftly, and without apparent discord, the 49th Texas Legislature organized today for a general session for consideration of war and postwar problems of state.

The session began officially at 12:05 p. m.

Down the course of a minimum 120-day meet lay a long agenda for the lawmakers, some of it fraught with explosive possibilities.

In the House where Rep. Claude Gilmer, Kerr county ranchman, was unanimously elected speaker, there were notes of watrime seriousness and a suggestion that the lower chamber conduct its business with caution and consideration.

Moffett Gets Senate Post

George Moffett of Chillicothe, a farmer, was chosen president protem of the Senate, to preside in the absence of Lt.-Gov. John Lee Smith, Senate president.

Organization of both branches was completed except for naming of committees, the legislative workshops, and real work cannot begin until committee assignments are completed. Lt. Gov. Smith said he expected to announce his appointments tomorrow and Gilmer said his would be named about Jan. 17.

It was Texas' second wartime legislature in a quarter of a century and presented, said several House members who made speeches in connection with opening day formalities, many serious problems.

Gilmer, taking the gavel after his unanimous election as speaker, declared he would sound only one note of advice to House members.

"That note would be caution," he said.

"Remember that the theory of government calls for consideration from all angles and standpoints of all problems. That is why we have two branches of the legislature

Clipper Crashes; 23 Persons Die

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 9 (AP)—Pan-American Airways reported today that 23 persons apparently were killed last night in the crash at Port of Spain, Trinidad, of a huge Africa-bound clipper.

W. O. Snyder, airlines manager here, said reports from the scene "indicated that 23 of the 30 persons aboard were dead."

Seven of the 30 passengers and crewmen aboard the Miami-to-Leopoldville flying boat are known to be safe.

The 26-ton plane, know as the China Clipper during its early service on the airline's trans-Pacific routes, apparently crashed in the darkness while coming to alight in a flare-marked area.

Ship Broke Up, Sank

Early radio reports to the airline headquarters were indicated the ship broke up and sank. Navy divers went to work in an effort to raise the wreckage.

A full check of the dead awaited completion of the salvage. Since the clipper usually alights at some considerable distance offshore, there was little hope that any of the 15 persons listed as missing had made his way to safety.

The only known survivors were picked up by boat fiot long after the crash.

Among the missing were a missionary, Paul J. Whitlock, 36, of New York, his wife and their three young children.

Two Of Family Survive

There were two known survivors from another family of five on the big plane. Charles Donald

Victoria Man Named Liquor Board Head

Soldiers Sentenced For Looting Trains

PARIS, Jan. 9 (AP)—Four American enlisted men were sentenced to from 45 to 50 years at hard labor today by a general court martial which convicted them of looting supply trains and diverting cigarettes and rations into the French black market.

MEAT OUTPUT UP

CHICAGO, Jan. 9 (AP)—Livestock and meat production in federally inspected plants during the week ended Jan. 9 was 15 per cent more than that of the preceding week, the War Food administration reported today, but 22 per cent below that of the corresponding 1944 week. The War Meat board's estimate of inspected met production for last week was 294,000,000 pounds.

Russian Forces Hack Out Gain In Hungary

LONDON, Wednesday, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Red Army, now in possession of more than half of Budapest and holding firm against the German counteroffensive northwest of the city, forged ahead to within four miles of strategic Komarom, Slovak communications center on the Danube 40 miles northwest of Budapest, the Soviet command announced last night.

The Russian communique broadcast from Moscow reported the capture of Izsa, on the northern bank of the Danube a little less than four miles from Komarom.

At that point the Russian forces were 54 miles from Bratislava anr 87 from Vienna and driving westward in a move that may outflank the Germans who were pushing back toward Budapest.

A supplemental report from Moscow early today said the enemy was beginning to draw on his reserves south of the Danube in an attempt to stem the Soviet tide north of the river.

Nazis Weakened, Bradley Says

U. S. TWELFTH ARMY GROUP HEADQUARTERS, Jan. 9 (AP) — Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley said today thwarting of the German offensive in the Ardennes may have reduced the enemy's ability to prolong the war.

Bradley said at a press conference that the enemy move "may materially affect the Germans' ability to resist."

He added the warning that this did not mean "we can assume the Germans are on the verge of collapse" and he said that much fighting was ahead.

German Losses High

He said the Germans had lost more prisoners since Dec. 16 than the Americans, while their killed and wounded probably were many times the American killed and wounded.

He described the American halting of the German penetration as "one of the greatest stories in the history of fighting men."

He said that an attack had been expected in the Ardennes area, where American forces previously had been weakened in order to enable the U. S. First and Third armies to strike.

He emphasized that the shift of the First and Ninth armies to the command of Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery was temporary and that these forces would be returned to Bradley's 12th army group when the salient was eliminated and direct communications reestablished.

Giant Transport Sets New Speed Record

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP) — A double-decked transport version of the B-29 Superfortress, known as the Army's C-97, apparently set a cross-continent speed record of approximately six hours today.

The time on this flight from Seattle to Washington compares with the record of six hours, 31 minutes and 30 seconds set by a Mustang fighter plane flying from Los Angeles to New York last spring.

The flight of the enormous Boeing-built plane, which in a commercial postwar model will be known as the Strato-Cruiser, compared also with a time of six hours and 58 minutes made by the Lockheed Constellation last May from Los Angeles to Washington.

Units With 9th Army In Europe Announced

PARIS, Jan. 9 (AP) — The 13th and 19th corps and the 29th and 102nd infantry divisions are operating with the U. S. 9th army of Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson on the western front.

Exact locations where these units are deployed may not be given. (The 13th corps is new, its commander had not been announced. The 19th corps is commanded by Maj. Gen. Raymond S. McLain and at last reports included the 2nd armored, 29th, 30th and 102nd infantry divisions.

(The 29th infantry division last was reported at Julich on the Roer under command of Maj. Gen. Charles Hunter Gerhardt. The 102nd also was last reported on the Roer under command of Brig. Gen. Frank A. Keating).

Texas Cars To Wear One License Plate

AUSTIN, Jan. 9. (AP)—Minature automobile license plates will give way to the full-sized design this year in Texas.

The highway commission today decided that 1945 plates—one each to a vehicle—shall be 10 inches in length. Larger plates were last used in 1942.

This year's tag feature black nuemrals on a gold background. A new numbering system will be used, a maximum of four numbers ceded by two control letters. This will make for easier identification, engineers said.

Measure To Draft Nurses Introduced

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP) — Chairman May (D-Ky) of the House military committee introduced a nurses draft bill today.

May's legislation would require the registration for draft of every registered nurse between the ages of 18 and 45 under regulations to be prescribed by selective service officials.

President Roosevelt has asked for such legislation.

Hospital Nurses Here Rally To Army-Navy Pleas For Aid

LUBBOCK hospitals and the Red Cross, which is charged with the responsibility of securing nurses for the armed forces, have been peppered with questions this week by nurses who are eager to get into uniform before the President's proposal that nurses be drafted becomes law.

Wherever nurses gather—in department stores, halls of the hospitals and private homes—they talk about the possibility of being drafted.

Many have expressed a desire to join the Army or Navy (most prefer the Army because they get overseas faster); others have already signed up, a check with hospitals revealed.

Forty-two graduates of Lubbock General hospital school of nursing are now serving in the armed forces, Mrs. Doris McCune, director of nurses said. Of that group, 18 are now overseas and 24 are serving in Army or Navy hospitals in the states.

"I have several more applications pending final approval and many others have indicated they will join at once."

Western Front Soldiers Recount Old Yet Ever New Combat Story

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

IN GERMANY, Jan. 7 (Delayed)—This is an account of combat, straight from the combat soldier. It's the sort of thing you hear scores of times as boys come out of this or that bloody fight.

Lt. Jack Melton of Dallas, was in the Hurtgen forest fight. His face was bearded and haggard. This is what that tall, gangling, Company I Texan had to say after the battle was won — when he was asked what it was like:

Kenneth Dixon

"It was tougher than the Normandy hedgerow fighting. The whole damned place was alive with mines. Kraut artillery and mortar fire were the heaviest I've ever ducked. To top it off, the weather was just what Adolf ordered—two weeks of sloppy rain and snow.

"We were full of vinegar that morning, back to the wars after a month's "rest" of Luxembourg defense. We'd relieved a badly tired outfit the night before and were all set to jump at dawn.

"We did jump—more crackin' and poppin' than you'd see at a western movie. Then after a few hundred yards there were explosions all around. All of us knew then that some of our boys had hit mines. Snipers let go from the edge of the woods. Then it came—kitchen sink and all. Jerry threw in 120 mortars and 150 artillery pieces on our sector alone. Everyone reserved himself a crater after the first few minutes of shelling.

"It was the damndest feeling of helplessness. We couldn't move ahead a few feet without mines popping or Jerry throwing more heavy stuff. We had to stay there for days. Even when hot food came up, only two or three men would risk the artillery to grab.

Patrol Gets Through

"The engineers made several attempts to get through the minefields, but they were unsuccessful. Finally a patrol pulled the company through. It was Stan and Hatcher and Minik and Trusty and Stevens who did it.

(He means Lts. Stanley Schwarz of Baltimore, Md., and Hudson Hatcher of Harlan, Ky.; S/Sgt. John Minik of Michanicsburg, Pa.; and Pvt. Harold Trusty of Cascilla, Miss., and Pvt. Jessie Stevens of Cumilton, Ala.)

"It was one hell of a series of firefights after that. Jerry was always hidden in pillboxes or behind log bunkers. Artillery and small arms couldn't push 'em out. So our doughboys guided tanks to the bunker flanks and flushed out Krauts by the hundreds.

Riflemen Not Only Heroes

"But it wasn't just the rifleman who was the hero. Take those "Q" boys who were carrying supplies of food and water. They carried it through that hellish forest of twisted trees for more than 4,000 yards.—And the litterbearers—sometimes it took six hours to evacuate one casualty.

"And somebody should write a book about those wiremen. Our battalion's wiremen laid more than 40 miles back and forth over that 3,100 yards. I still can see Jaconette and Printz panting after they worked a line clear up to our forward company's C. P., and found it already had six breaks. They mended them and on the way back found that the artillery had opened another three breaks. They worked 16 hours without a moment's relief.

(That's Pvts. Marty Jaconette of Poniac, Mich., and Walter Printz of Port Royal, Pa.)

Sometimes They Laugh

"You seldom laugh up there, but when you're safe you can't help it when you get to thinking about some of the crazy things that happened. Take Paul Boesch. Paul is a looey over at Company G. He splattered Krauts all over the streets of Hurtgen and led his men through the heaviest forest fighting—then gets called back to the rear on some administrative matter and falls down stairs.

"Then there's that private of Company A, a boy named Isserman from Philadelphia. He was tired as hell one night and decided he'd lie down beside a sandbag. When he woke up, he found the sandbag was a dead Kraut.

(That's Lt. Paul M. Boesch of Long Beach, N. Y., and Pvt. Aaron Isserman of Philadelphia.)

"It seems funny that you remember little things like that. But may be it's for the best. Somebody said the other day that history would remember the battle for Hurtgen forest and one of the guys said that history might remember it, but he wanted to forget it."

Length Of Session Is Moot Question

AUSTIN, Jan. 9 (AP)—Predictions as to the possible length of the 49th session of the legislature and legislation that may develop as the most controversial:

Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith: "the legislative session may last the full period. (120 days is the constitutional suggestion).

"Labor measures may prove to be the most controversial."

Claude Gilmer, unopposed candidate for speaker of the house:

"The length of the session may depend entirely on the condition of the calendar around the end of the 120 day period. Pre-session planning, it is hoped, will help the house get off to a good start.

"Redistricting may prove to be the most controversial legislation."

Japs "Throw Book" At U. S. Liberator

HEADQUARTERS, 13th AAF, Southwest Pacific. (AP) (Delayed)—Here's what happened to a single American Liberator during the second 13th AAF super-distance strike at Balikpapan, prime oil center on eastern Borneo.

Met by intense flak and fighter opposition, it suffered a direct nose hit. Fragments shattered the hydraulic system, knocked out the nose turret so that its gunner had to turn the mechanism by hand.

The navigator was hit in the arm.

A 20 mm. cannon shell burst into the waist and exploded. Staff Sgt. Bernard L. Wikel of Chicago, who had shot down one of two Jap planes credited to the ship, was temporarily blinded but kept on working.

The tail turret was knocked out.

The pilot, 2nd Lt. Leon W. Steffy of Canton, Ohio, and co-pilot 2nd Lt. Daniel R. Morgan of Moody, Tex., landed the ship with parachutes tied to gunmounts to break speed, after flying 18 hours "by hand," the automatic pilot gone.

Crude Production Declines For Week

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 9 (AP) — United States crude oil production declined 37,000 barrels daily in the week ended Jan. 6 to 4,677,350 barrels daily, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Kansas output fell off 41,200 barrels daily to 229,900; Louisiana, 1,000 to 359,650; Michigan, 4,750 to 49,250; Rocky Mountain area, 200 to 124,350; Mississippi 3,600 to 49,700.

Texas production increased 870 barrels daily to 2,120,350; Oklahoma, 1,200 to 361,200; California, 1,000 to 886,250; eastern fields, 550 to 63,000, and Illinois 3,600 to 206,400.

Decision Of Supreme Court Praised By CIO

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (U.P.) — CIO President Philip Murray declared today that the Supreme court, in nullifying a Texas law requiring registration of paid labor organizers, had "dealt an effective blow at the . . . campaign in the southern states to cripple labor unions and undermine their strength."

"The decision, in emphasizing the values for which this war is being fought, should be hailed by good citizens everywhere," Murray said. "We believe that the CIO, in testing the right of Mr. Thomas (R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO Auto Workers union) to speak, has advanced the cause of liberty everywhere."

Thomas addressed a union meeting in Texas during the summer of 1943, soliciting membership in his union despite a Texas statute requiring that paid union organizers be registered in the state. Thomas refused to register as a test of the constitutionality of the law. The Supreme court held it unconstitutional yesterday.

Lee Pressman, CIO general counsel, declared the court's ruling was of "tremendous significance" because it (1) rejected the view of the State of Texas that solicitation of individuals to join a union is a business practice, (2) stressed the constitutional significance of the organizer is no impairment of the right of free speech.

Drive Opens For Service Nurses

Eligible nurses in Lubbock county will have an opportunity to enlist as second lieutenants or ensigns January 14 to 18 when Mrs. Hilda Watson Beaty, Eighth Service command recruiting agent will interview applicants in the Red Cross offices, Mrs. Teressa B. Gegg, executive secretary of the Lubbock chapter said yesterday.

A drive is now on to enlist 20,000 nurses within the next two weeks to prevent action in Congress to draft them. The West Texas district has headquarters in Abilene with Mrs. Fern Krutelak, secretary, and Stella McCullough, chairman of the nurse recruitment committee. Special recruiting representatives will be in Red Cross offices here and at Amarillo.

All Nurses Classified

All nurses have been classified by the War Manpower commission as to their availability for military service or their essentiality for civilian service. This information has been sent by the commission to the state committee for nurses.

Classifications of nurses are: Class 1, those who are unmarried or those who are married but with no children under 14 years old. They also are not holding essential positions and are potentially qualified and available for military service.

Classes 2 And 3

Class 2, those available for relocation outside or within home communities. Class, those essential for a limited time or until a replacement can be secured for hospital service, public health, industry and nursing education.

Commissions will continue to be given to nurses who enlist, but in the event drafting of nurses becomes necessary, they will go into the armed forces as do other draftees, either as privates or apprentice seamen, a statement released by the Abilene office said.

Friend Husband With "List" Is Buying The Groceries Now

An increase of male shoppers in Lubbock grocery stores has been noted by managers and clerks, according to a survey conducted by the Journal today.

More men are doing the family buying these days than ever before and the cause is laid to two major reasons: lack of household help and gasoline rationing.

Sends Hubby With List

When the little woman is occupied with her children, especially the younger ones, she sends hubby out to the neighborhood grocery with a list of edibles to be purchased. Also, if hubby takes the car downtown to work, he shops on the way home so precious gasoline will be saved by avoiding a double trip.

Although more women than men still do the family shopping, grocers have noted that about 25 per cent of the shoppers are men. Men who have never before done any buying in groceries march into the stores with prepared lists and leave it up to the clerk to fill the order. Men are more courteous than women, also, it has been found. They do not engage the busy clerk in long conversations, they decide more quickly on wanted items and have simpler tastes. They are willing to accept a substitute for an item that the grocer cannot supply. In many cases, it is the men of the families living in outlying sections who do the shopping.

Women Holding Jobs

While there are fewer women in war porduction in this section than in others, women are holding jobs where it is less convenient for them to do the shopping than their husbands.

A criticism by wives of marketing done by their husbands is that they are inclined to buy with too little consideration of the family budget, that they fall for things that appeal to their tastes forgetting that a pair of shoes for little Johnny has still to come out of the family allowance.

Men Less Impatient

However, after a day full of impatient women shoppers, grocery clerks find relief in the calmer male who takes all things in his stride posing a remarkably small problem to the harrassed grocer. Shortages, rationing, absence of a required article seem to distress the male shopper less than they do the women who must cope with them daily.

Probably one explanation of this is that the man does not have to do the shopping every day, therefore is more apt to rely on the discretion and greater wisdom—in such matters—of the clerk.

Typewriters Prove To Be Wartime Woe

AUSTIN, Jan. 9. (AP) — Stenographers with their own typewriters were in demand by the 49th legislature today, because of the scarcity of available machines.

Several of the members played hunches and even brought their own machines to town with them. Others were beating the bushes in the state departments. The typewriter scarcity was an added wartime woe for legislators, many of whom were still having difficulty in hurdling the house shortage.

Teen age page boys for a time promised to present a critical manpower problem until a patriotic appeal to youngsters to "make application for this position and receive pay while learning how the state government functions" brought in enough recruits.

Record Amount Of Money For Aid To Farmers Is Asked Of Congress

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — This session of Congress has been asked to provide a record amount of money for aids to farmers and for government purchases of food for lend-lease and overseas relief needs.

The amount requisted is $4,227,000,000. Never before has any single session of Congress been asked to make more than $3,000,000,000 available for similar purposes.

In his budget message to Congress, President Roosevelt asked that the department be granted, directly or indirectly, $2,227,000,000 for food purchases, farm benefit payments, loans to farmers, research activities, and expenses of the war food administration.

Holdover, Request Pending

Already pending was a holdover request for a $2,000,000,000 increase in the borrowing power of the Commodity Credit corporation. CCC funds are used to support farm prices at levels designed to encourage maximum wartime production.

Although the amount requested is $4,227,000,000, the sum which would be available for expenditure during the 1946 fiscal year beginning next July 1 would be about $1,000,000,000 less. Half of the amount sought for the CCC is expected to be obligated by the time the 1945 fiscal year ends June 30.

Expenditures projected by the President for the 1946 fiscal year include:

Lend-lease food and farm products $1,200,000,000; food purchases for foreign relief $400,000,000; payments to farmers for using recommended soil conservation practices $300,000,000; payments to farmers for complying with provisions of the sugar control act $48,446,000; for school lunch and school milk programs $50,000,000; for relief grants to low-income farmers $23,000,000; for agricultural research $44,175,000; for forest service $33,717,000; and for work of the Soil Conservation service $29,754,000.

Greenbacks Flying In Street Startle Police Sergeant

DECATUR, Ill., Jan. 9 (AP) — Police Sgt. Charles Kemper rubbed his eyes when a $20 bill blew past him. But he swung into action when several other tens, some fives and a $100 bundle of greenbacks went scattering down the street.

Passersby helped him round up a total of $377. Kemper investigated at a nearby bank and found a warehouse clerk had arrived with only $7 of $284 she planned to deposit.

The wind had scattered the bills.

Latest Army Attack Bomber Is Described

PARIS, Tuesday, Jan. 9. (AP)— The A-26 Invader, newest American attack bomber in operation on the western front, carries ten 50-calibre machine guns, Allied headquarters announced today in the first disclosure of any details of the plane's armament.

Six of the guns fire forward and are controlled by the pilot. The other member of the crew fires four flexible guns in top and bottom turrets.

In strafing operations, the top turret can be locked in position and controlled by the pilot while the gunner operates the lower turret.

When it was announced in Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 4, that the A-26 had gone into action, Army authorities said the plane was heavily armored and designed to carry an extremely flexible selection of machine guns, cannon, bombs or fuel as varying conditions might require. It is powered by twin, 2,000-horsepower engines.

Work Or Fight Gaining Favor

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP) — Congressional opposition to the enactment of drastic measures to meet war worker shortages showed new signs of weakening today.

Senator Johnson (D-Colo), long a foe of national service, told reporters he now is ready to support such a bill in view of President Roosevelt's request for it in his message Saturday.

And while there is still plenty of resistance to such a broad, overall step, legislation to force Selective Service registrants into essential jobs gathered mounting support.

Chairman May (D-Ky) said the House Military committee would begin hearings on the latter proposal tomorrow. He said the president's request for the drafting of nurses could be added as an amendment, but he did not say whether he favored such a course.

Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) of the Senate minority steering committee indicated members of his party would go along on the manpower legislation.

Under it registrants refusing to comply with draft board requests to transfer to essential jobs could be inducted into special service units of the army for disagreeable non-combative tasks, or made to work in war plants.

Republicans are willing, Taft said, to "do whatever seems practical or needed."

Rep. West To Head Texas House Group

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP) — Texans in the House today elected Rep. West chairman of its solidly Democratic delegation for the next two years. Rep. West succeeds Rep. Thomason, who was chosen to represent Texas on the Democratic steering committee, a position held during the 78th congress by Rep. Luther Johnson.

Rep. Fisher was elected secretary succeeding Rep. Beckworth.

Committee assignments were discussed but the delegation agreed to make no specific recommendation to the ways and means committee, which picks all committee members, since Rep. West is a member of that group.

The Texans plan to hold executive luncheon sessions on the second and fourth Wednesdays in each month.

Australian Exports To U. S. To Be Cut

CANBERRA, Australia, Jan. 9. (AP)—Acting Prime Minister Francis E. Forde said today that there would be a reduction of Australian food supplies to the U. S. armed forces in 1945 due to the severe drouth, which has affected cereals particularly.

During 1944 the Australian war minister said his country supplied U. S. armed forces under the reciprocal lend-lease agreement with food valued at 400,000,000 pounds (about $128,000,000) while this year's estimated value will be about 35,000,000 pounds (about $112,000,000).

NEW SHIP TURBINE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP) — A gas turbine is being developed as a means of ship propulsion, the Maritime commission disclosed today. It was described as "inherently more efficient" than steam, but experiments have not gone far enough to determine whether a change-over to the new motive power might be in prospect in the near future.

A SAILOR'S THANKS

MRS. FRED ROGERS, 2318 Twentieth, was one of the South Plains Navy Mothers club members who sent a Christmas parcel labeled to a 'wounded sailor overseas." She enclosed a card of greetings and signed her name, Mrs. Adeline Rogers. Tuesday morning Mrs. Rogers received a card of thanks from one Carl M. Sappenfield, seaman 2/c, that pleased her so she wanted to share it with readers of The Woman's Angle.

He wrote: Dear Adeline; Your Christmas package brought a great deal of joyful happiness to me on Christmas morning, being the only gift I received that day. You see I was at sea, the second Christmas I had spent away from home and your gift meant as much to me as one from people I know and love.

It may interest you to know that many other presents like yours did a lot to brighten the Christmas spirit of my shipmates. I am with all my heart wishing you a very happy New Year. May God bless you with all the happiness you justly deserve.

Mrs. Rogers is so pleased that she has already posted an airmail letter in return to Carl.

DEAR MARGARET:

Some months ago your column contained an account of an aviator who was shot down and lost both legs. He shomehow got out of the wreckage and pulled two men from the burning plane. I did not know him but realized he was Latin American and stationed at McCloskey's General hospital, Temple. I prepared a box of miscellaneous articles and sent him direct.

In a few days I had a nice letter of appreciation. His mother had been to see him and was glad that he was not sick or suffering and he was glad he was in a wheel chair for her visit. I also sent him a magazine which he said was his favorite one. A short time ago he wrote he was spending a 15-day furlough at home on the eastern border of Texas and having a good time and listen to this, 'in a few months I will be fitted with new legs and be walking."

His writing and letters are so boyish and I have no idea how old he is but this optimism equals the heroism in rescuing his buddies from that burning plane, although he was legless.

I am writing this as a follow up of the letter in your column and wondering if other Lubbock women might be interested in finding a way to help those lonesome boys without waiting for Christmas.

When I have finished with current magazines I slip the covers back on them; a two cent stamp will take them to someone in service. That's so much better than letting them accumulate dust on a library table.

Sincerely,
Reader on College Avenue.

MRS. Priscilla Foster, who died early Thursday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. G. Until her fatal illness made it impossible for her to knit longer, this patriotic woman, at the age of 85, made over 100 sweaters. Her like is what has made our country great.

Plans For Year Are Discussed By H-D Club

Plans were made for the year's work when the Bluebonnet home demonstration club met with Mrs Lucien Moore Monday afternoon.

She told the club members that fruit trees should be set carefully to insure their living. "The trees should be put out far enough apart to give them room to reach normal size and still leave room for cultivating. That means the plums and cherry-plums should be 25 feet apart and peach trees 30 feet she said.

President Gropes Into War Future To Pull Out Budget Of 83 Billion

By MAX HALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—President Roosevelt groped ahead today into a fiscal year that won't even begin until six months from now and pulled out a "tentative" budget of 83 billion dollars.

This would be a drop of 17 billion dollars from the present year, but would increase the total war spending program (1941 through 1946) to the gigantic total of 450 billion dollars.

(By The Associated Press)
Here is the 1946 federal budget at a couple of glances. The estimates are compared with estimates of the present fiscal year (1945).
Total expenditures $83,000,000,000, decrease of $17,000,000,000.
War expenditures $70,000,000,000, decrease of $19,000,000,000.
Net receipts $41,300,000,000, decrease of $4,400,000,000.
Debt increase $40,000,000,000, to a total of $292,000,000,000.
Total appropriations $87,000,000,000, decrease of $10,000,000,000.

Based On Nazi Collapse

The estimates of government spending in fiscal 1946 evidently are based on a hope that Germany will give up some time within the next 18 months, because—

War spending was estimated at 70 billion dollars, about half way between the best and the worst that might happen. The President told Congress that war costs could be less than 60 billions or more than 80, depending on various assumptions as to the war.

Presumably they would be 80 billions if we had to keep fighting on all fronts throughout fiscal 1946. But the President chose 70 billions as his tentative estimate. The whole budget leans on that figure.

Depends On War Fronts

The President said that "the rate of actual spending must depend on developments on the battlefronts.".

Because of the battle-smoke haze of uncertainty, the President postponed until early spring his detailed recommendations for war appropriations. He merely told Congress he thought 73 billon dollars in war appropriations will be needed.

War appropriations for any period are sometimes more, sometimes less, than war spending in that period. For example, vast amounts are obligated in one year and paid out the next.

The President estimated that "non-war" spending in fiscal 1946 will be $13,103,000,000.

Detailed Requests

He sent detailed requests for appropriations of approximately the same amount, to take care of those expenses.

And that brought the total of appropriations estimated for fiscal 1946 to $86,767,000,000. This would be 10 billion less than the estimated appropriations of fiscal 1945 which is now half over. The record amount of appropriations was for fiscal 1944—$128,000,000,000. We are still spending that.

It was clear from the President's message that even if the war roars along on all fronts throughout the fiscal year, war costs—and thus total costs—will be less than the all-time peaks of the present year.

Ghostly Yank Troops Stalk Nazi Outposts

ROME, JAN. 9. (AP)—Ghostly, white-garbed American Fifth Army partols—some operating on snowshoes or skies—stalked enemy outposts in the Appennine mountains below Bologna today, while on the extreme right end of the Italian front Canadian forces cleaned out the last Nazi strongpoints around the southeastern corner of the lagoon Valli Di Comacchio north of Ravenna.

Ground and air activity fell to a minimum as snowstorms raged at higher altitudes along the battle front and rain and sleet obscured the lowlands.

In the past four days the Canadians have cleaned the Germans out of some 50 square miles of marshy land near the Adriatic. They fanned out east and west from captured San Alberto, 12 miles north of Ravenna, and reached the sea at Casl Dorsetti, at the base of a spit of land which separates the Comacchio lagoon from the Adriatic.

Gallup Poll Surveys VP's Standing

Wallace Personally Liked By Most Of U. S. Public

By GEORGE GALLUP
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 9 — When Henry A. Wallace bows out of the Vice-Presidency on Jan. 20, he will take with him the good wishes of a large section of the American voting public, which has a favorable opinion of him as a man.

Often in the thick of controversies, Mr. Wallace has been the target of much political criticism, especially from conservatives, but he has succeeded in keeping the personal liking even of many voters who violently disagree with his views.

GALLUP

This fact is shown in a national survey by the Institute in which voters were given the names of several men prominent in public life, and asked to say what they thought of each man, and whether their opinion of him was, in general, favorable or unfavorable.

In the case of Mr. Wallace, more than eight voters in ten felt they were familiar enough with his reputation and activities to offer an opinion. Among this group the favorable opinions outnumbered the unfavorable in the ratio of more than two to one, as the following table shows:

Opinion on Wallace
Favorable	58%
Unfavorable	23
Unfamiliar or no opinion	19

Recent press reports from Washington indicate that Mr. Wallace may be invited to remain in the Roosevelt cabinet in another post.

While conservative Democratic leaders, especially from the South, opposed his renomination for the Vice-Presidency at the convention last July, Mr. Wallace kept a high degree of popularity among the rank and file of Democratic voters all during the nomination fight.

An Institute survey reported a few days before the convention found that Mr. Wallace was the choice for the Vice-Presidential nomination among 65 per cent of Democratic voters polled throughout the country.

Russell Signs As SMU Grid Coach

DALLAS, Jan. 9 (AP) — Quiet-spoken H. N. (Rusty) Russell, whose football legerdemain made little Masonic Home the giant-killer of Texas schoolboy football, attains his goal Feb. 1—coach of a college team.

The wizard of razzle-dazzle, who for 23 years has been producing top schoolboy elevens in this state—more recently at Highland Park here—today signed a contract to serve as head coach of Southern Methodist university until the return from the service of Matty Bell, whereupon Russell will become Bell's chief assistant.

Has Great Record

Russell leaves high school coaching ranks with one of the greatest records ever compiled—nine district champions and one tie, five times in the semi-finals and twice in the finals.

Announcement that Russell had accepted the position came this afternoon from James H. Stewart, athletic director of S.M.U. The deal was consumated when Russell returned to Dallas from a trip to East Texas and put his name on the contract.

Coach Bell, who entered the Navy in 1942, now is a commander in the Naval reserve stationed at the Georgia Pre-Flight school, Athens, Ga. There have been reports Bell would leave the service by next fall.

Russell has just finished a season of coaching at Highland Park High school in which he carried his team to the state finals where it lost to Port Arthur 20-7.

Two Winners In '42

He went to Highland Park from Masonic Home in November, 1942, to take over the team when Coach Floyd Hightower entered the Navy. Russell, at the request of the boys at Masonic Home, continued to coach there at the same time he was directing Highland Park. Masonic Home tied for the district championship but lost on the flip of a coin. Had it been the district representative Russell would have been coaching two teams in the state play-off at the same time because Highland Park won its district championship.

Russell's position at Highland Park was director of physical education and he was coaching the football team only until the return of Hightower from the service.

He started coaching in 1922 at Grenger High school, went to Temple the next year where he remained four seasons, then for 16 years was head coach at Masonic Home (Fart Worth) where the teams won fame as the "Mighty Mites" of schoolboy football. Seldom were they not outweighed greatly by the opposition but they won six district titles and one tie from 1932 until 1942. It was 1932 before Masonic Home entered the top bracket of schoolboy teams where it could play for the state title. That first year the Masons went to the finals, losing to Corsicana on penetrations in a scoreless tie.

Twice more Masonic Home was in the state semi-finals.

Russell won three district championships at Highland Park—a perfect record—twice had the team in the semi-finals and once in the finals.

"For a number of years I have remained in close contact with my friends Matty Bell and Jimmie Stewart at S.M.U.," Russell said. "We had discussed a proposition whereby I might go to the university as a coach but it has just now materialized. I know I am going to be happy to work with Matty and Jimmie and I feel this offers me a fine opportunity.

"I want to also pay tribute to the swell people at Highland Park who gave me wonderful support. I hate to leave them and to leave the boys on the team."

Russell's football teams always have been noted for their colorful, dashing play. It has been said by opposing coaches that his boys know more plays than any other team. Hightower, once after scouting Russell's Masonic Home eleven whom Highland Park was to meet the following week, said: "I just as well quit scouting Rusty Russell's teams. They never use the same play twice."

What, if any, changes are to be made in the present coaching staff at S.M.U. have not been determined, Stewart said.

Tip Mooney Accepts Pampa Harvester Job

Tip Mooney, 26, graduate of Abilene Christian college and left halfback of the Chicago Bears in the National Professional Football league, has been appointed line coach at Pampa High school, in District 1-AA, according, to an Associated Press dispatch released Tuesday night.

Mooney also played football at Oklahoma Baptist college before going to Abilene Christian, and was a team mate there of Buster Dixon and "Big Mac" McWhorter, stars for the past two seasons with Lubbock Army Air field grid teams.

In his college football, Mooney was a fullback, and according to his friends here, was one of the fastest men on the ACC eleven.

Arguments Grow Over Use Of Diamond Pros

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association has no specific interest in the basketball controversies now centering around Hamline, Minnesota, Colby and Ohio universities because they are using professional athletes, NCAA President P. O. Badger said today.

All have pro baseballers on their court teams with Hamline and its Howard (Stretch) Schultz, summer-time first baseman for the Brooklyn Dodgers, the most widely known case.

"Our members make their own eligibility rules and while I think the schools in question have gone a bit too far in the present cases, they have not violated NCAA rules because we have no rules," explained Badger.

In keeping with that opinion New York university, of whose faculty Badger is a member, has Ralph Branca, a pitcher with Brooklyn last summer, on the bench this season. A year ago Branca was a star of the NYU team and still has a year of eligibility left.

Badger, who left today for Columbus, Ohio, and the association's first full convention since Pearl Harbor, said the NCAA did have eligibility rules for its basketball tournaments and that they prohibited use of pro athletes in such playoffs.

Benny Zecker, a New York farmhand last summer, is a member of the Colby five while John Maldovan, who hurled for Newark of the International League, shoots two-pointers for Ohio university. In addition to Schultz, Hamline also has Rollie Seltz, Rochester infielder, on its roster while Minnesota has Arnold Lehrman and Bill Hermsen, minor leaguers.

Cowboys Reds Nose Out Cooper, 14-11

Lubbock's Cowboy Reds cagers edged out a fighting Cooper Juniors team 14-11 in a basketball game played Tuesday afternoon at the Lubbock Junior High gym.

The Cowboys piled up a seemingly safe 10-2 margin in the first half, but the Cooper quintet rallied in the second half to nearly overhaul the Reds.

Pierce of Cooper was high point man for the tilt, scoring 7 points. For the Cowboys, Marlin Smith tallied 6, and Bobby McKelvey 4, to account for ten of their teams 14 points.

Fliers Defeat Clovis, 41-34

Lubbock Army Air flied was forced to turn on the pressure in the last half here last night to beat out the Clovis Army Air field five, 41-34, in a battle that found the Clovis club leading throughout the first half.

Clovis bounded away to the lead, and were never headed until after the halftime intermission. LAAF pulled within two points just before the whistle ended the half, and halftime found the Clovis lead at 20-18.

Four minutes deep in the second half, LAAF tied the score at 22-22, then nosed into the lead, and were never headed off.

Three men staged a merry battle for scoring honors of the night, with Bruce Prior of LAAF and Bob Fisher of Clovis ended in a deadlock for the honors, each with 14 points, Gerald McCarty, making good use of his free throw chances, finished close on their heels with 12 points, half of them from the foul line.

The Tuesday night scoring boosted the season's total for Prior to 195 points and McCarty raised his own to 152 points.

The Fliers tangle with the high scoring Amarillo Sky-Giants tonight at the LAAF gym.

Abernathy Five Nips Idalou Club, 44-22

IDALOU, Jan. 9 (Special)—The powerful Abernathy Antelopes, one of the best schoolboy cage teams in West Texas, romped away from the Idalou Wildcats here tonight, winning a 44 to 22 victory for their 13th win in 14 games.

Idalou gained an even break in the night's program by winning the girls game, 17-11. Sawyer was top scorer for the winners in the opener with 10 points, closely followed by Capshaw with seven points. Ledford paced the Abernathy girls wth six points.

In the finale, the Abernathy club showed plenty of power by grabbing the lead early, and winning the game going away. Lewis Lutrick, rangy sharpshooter of the Antelopes, poured 20 points through the meshes, almost enough to win. Brown contributed 12 more points to provide a comfortable winning margin.

Becknell and Bishop set the pace for the local five, Becknell getting eight points and Bishop seven.

Westerners Rally To Beat Lamesa Tornados, 26 To 23

LAMESA, Jan. 9. (Special) — Lubbock's Westerners came to life in the fourth quarter here tonight, and roared past the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes in the final minute of play to win a 26-23 thriller before a crowd of about 400 fans.

The win gave the Westerners an even split in the evening's show, the Lamesa B team having won a 15-11 victory in the opener. Hoover was high point man in the opener with six points, while Wall and Davis tied for the honors for the Westerner B team, each with five points toaccount for 10 of the 11 points.

Lubbock B takes Lead

In the opener, Lubbock took a 3-2 lead at the end of the first period, and boosted this lead to 7-3 at the half. At the third quarter mark, the score was 9-9, and set the stage for another wild finish.

Lamesa took the lead in the early minutes of the game, and set up a defense that kept the Westerners scoreless for the entire first period. The Tornados rolled to an 8-0 lead in this session, and left the floor at the half with a comfortable 16-6 lead. Lamesa held it's own in the third period, and the two teams moved into the final stanza with Lamesa leading 20-11.

Coach Dixie White's boys began to click in this home stretch finish, and in the fading minutes of the game, Verdell Turner banked a long one to tie the score at 23-23. With less than minute to go, George Brewer slipped in under the basket, unguarded, and sank a crip shot that sent the Westerners into the lead for the first time during the night. There was one more scoring play in the game, R. W. Moyers sinking a free toss for the final point.

Scoring honors for the night went to Roberts, who set the pace for the Lamesa club during the early stages. Roberts poured six field goals through the meshes for a 12 point total.

Three Westerners staged a lively scrap for runnerup honors, with T. J. Price getting nine points for the lead. Brewer dropped in four field goals for eight points, and Turner added six more.

The Lamesa club has two more tough battles on the schedule this week(going to Tahoka Thursday night to battle the Bulldogs there, and returning home in Friday night to battle the high flying O'Donnell Eagles. The Friday games, an A and B game, will start at 7:30 with special entertainment planned between games. The Westerners have one more game on the schedule this week, playing the Amarillo Golden Sandies Friday night at Lubbock.

Amarillo Sky-Giants Invade Local Courts

AMARILLO, Jan. 9.—The Amarillo Field Sky Giants have a tough week ahead of their toughest opponents will be on hand to offer plenty of competition. Wednesday night, the Giants will play the strong Lubbock Army Air Field quintet at Lubbock and the next evening they will clash with the South Plains Army Air Field cagers, also in Lubbock. They will return home Saturday night to be host to the powerhouse five from Lowry Field, Denver, Colo.

Lubbock AAF bowed to the Sky Giants 39-32 several weeks ago and the Flyers will be looking for revenge Wednesday night. In fact, the hosts will be out to avenge the two beatings they took from the grid representatives of the Sky Giants last fall. South Plains will also be remembering the football edition of the Sky Giants from whom they took their worst beating of the season.

South Plains and LAAF are about evenly matched and both will offer the Sky Giants plenty of competition.

Lowry's visit to Amarillo will mark the home-coming of two former Sky Giants—Howard Shannon and Stan Fronczak. Both were members of last year's steam at the beginning of the season but later transferred to Lowry Field and have been burning up the courts there ever since.

Two Amarillo Field regulars will be missing this week. Don Loeser and Mike Margello are both furloughing. Starters for the three games will probably be Tommy Byrnes of Seton Hall and Paul Stevens of Purdue at forward, Hollis Dietz of North Dahoka State at center and Diz Dean of Long Island U. and Ray Adams, 6 foot 7 inch giant from North Texas State, at guards positions.

The first really catastrophic flood in American history was the Johnstown flood of 1889 which destroyed more than 2,200 lives and swept away $10,000,000 worth of property.

Phillips 66 Cagers Blast Arkansas Five

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Jan. 9 (AP)—A smooth-working Phillip's 66 quintet turned back the University of Arkansas Razorbacks, 60-40, in a hotly contested cage duel before a capacity crowd of more than 3,000 here tonight.

The first team to enjoy a height advantage over the Razorbacks this season, the more experienced former collegians from Bartlesville, Okla., led all the way and were never pressed after the first few minutes.

Six-foot-ten Charles Halbert, Phillips center, led the individual scorers with 13 points. Earl Wheeler, Arkansas guard paced the losers with 10.

Matador Cagers Nose Out Spur Five, 21-20

MATADOR, Jan. 9. (Special) — The Matador Bullfighters made a successful opening of their conference basketball play, but not until after they had been given a real scare by the Spur Bulldogs.

The Bullfighters nosed out the Spur five, 21-20, in a thriller that found the Bulldogs staging a garrison finish that kept the fans on their toes. Matador piled up a 15-2 lead in the first half, and appeared headed for an easy victory, when the Bulldogs stampeded.

Payne and Harp paced the winners with nine and seven points, respectively, to carry off scoring honors for the game. Byrd paced the losers with six points. Garth played some brilliant defensive ball for the home club, while Ericson was outstanding for Spur on the defense.

The CIO Backs Rainey

The Scoreboard Is Now Visible

THE Congress of Industrial Organizations (more widely known as the CIO) drew up a series of "demands" for certain actions by the current session of the Texas legislature and among the "demands" was that Dr. Homer P. Rainey be reinstated as president of the University of Texas.

Let us hasten to say that while the CIO probably represents no more than a handful of bona fide citizens of Texas, and while its policy of always "demanding" and never suggesting irks us quite as much as it does the great majority of Americans, the CIO certainly has a right to be heard in public matters. This is a democracy we have in this country, and in a democracy, all individuals and organizations have a right to be heard, the CIO along with the West and East Texas Chambers of Commerce, the Texas Bankers association, the YMCA—and everything and everybody else.

So as we give the CIO the right to its say, under the same rules of democracy, we take the same right ourself. And we shall have that say, here and now.

In this regard, we say this:

When the CIO came out in support of reinstatement of Doctor Rainey to the position from which he was discharged because of his refusal to fill his position in keeping with the plan set forth by the Constitution and the statutes of Texas, it brought the whole university trouble into the open. It served notice on every Texan that the CIO favors Doctor Rainey and his methods, which, to our mind, is enough to put Texans on guard against Doctor Rainey and all those who approve of his methods and educational philosophies.

By its action, the CIO proved the contention of those closest to the "Rainey mess" throughout, namely, that the real difficulty revolved around only one question, to wit: Shall the University of Texas be operated, according to the law and the Constitution, as an educational institution; or shall it be used as a headquarters—a sounding board—for the dissemination of left wing New Deal philosophies of government, economics and policies.

WHEN the CIO came out for Doctor Rainey, it proved the claim of many thoughtful Texans who saw behind the Austin smokescreen the long arm of the New Deal's left wing, as it reached down from Washington to meddle in a purely state matter; that left wing New Dealers were up to their knees in fostering the confusion which surrounded the whole matter.

Why should the CIO favor the reinstatement of Doctor Rainey?

To those who even casually have followed CIO methods since that organization began fishing in troubled waters, there is no mystery involved. The CIO is never for anythong, or anybody, that does not pour water on the CIO's wheel; that does not further, in one way or another, an extension of CIO philosophy—no matter how much may be the cost to the nation, or to the majority of people who compose the nation. Therefore, the CIO must be for Doctor Rainey because Doctor Rainey's ideas and philosophies are beneficial to the CIO's cause. There couldn't be any other reason for the CIO's espousal of Doctor Rainey, or of anything, or of anybody, else.

So in "demanding" the reinstatement of Doctor Rainey, who, like the leadership of the CIO refuses to submit to constituted authority when it does not suit his fancy, the CIO puts every Texan on guard.

IN so many words, the CIO says: "Give us Raney, because he's our boy!"

Le the people of Texas—the rank and file of the people of Texas—be well aware of the situation.

Let them apply the pressure which is their right to see that the CIO doesn't get its boy back in the presidency of the university, or let them realize right now that if he does get back, the University of Texas—owned by the people of Texas and not by the CIO and its boy—will be suspect of becoming the fountain-head of CIO philosophy in Texas.

Thanks to the CIO "demand" for reinstatement of Doctor Rainey, the air is cleared; the scoreboard is visible. The game is the CIO vs. the People of Texas. Let it be fought out on that basis.

THE STORY: Len and Sue Beckley are entertaining Walt Hilyard and his family, newcomers to Staton, at dinner. Len has known Walt a long time but hasn't seen Margaret Hilyard in 20 years. He is thunderstruck at the changes in the once beautiful girl. She is fat and overdressed and seems to take a delight in making other people feel ill at ease.

III

VIOLET managed to get everything from the pantry to the table and back again without a cataclysum; but there was always the dramatic expectation of one. Though Sue had drilled her for hours, Violet still exercised the technique of a lunch-counter waitress at a freight stop, and it was plain that Margaret imputed Violet's violences to Sue's ignorance. And Sue could not answer the unspoken accusation. It did not escape her that Margaret was also, more or less slyly, reading the maker's autograph on the service plates, and disapproving of them. Nor did it escape Sue that Walt Hilyard, who had been so jovial and so vivacious a guest, was silent now and keenly distressed by the little nagging nothings his wife said, or failed to say. He wanted to defend her from herself, but how could he?

At last in desperation Jennifer, who was feeling marooned in an Old Folks' Home, made a frantic effort to contribute something to the occasion:

"Papa, tell them that story you told on the way over."

"Oh, that old thing!" Margaret protested. "It's not really very nice.

"That makes it all the nicer," said Sue who had a taste for spice. "Do tell it, Walt."

More embarrassed by his wife's presence than he would have been at a banquet hall of bankers, Walt made the try. He could have told it well if he had been permitted to do it solo. But there are few stories strong enough to survive as a duet between a careless husband and a correcting wife. He began:

"Well, it's about two Swedes in Minneapolis. They—"

"It's really about three Irishmen in Chicago," Margaret broke in.

"That was my other story, my dear," Walt groaned.

LEN was so rattled as to intervene in a family row:

"Let him tell it, Margaret. A part of a wife's pledge at the altar is to love, honor, obey, and listen in silence to her husband's stories."

"Go on, then," said Margaret, "and get it over with while I ask Mrs. Beckley if she knows of a good lady's tailor in this town."

"But I want to hear the story," Sue pleaded.

Margaret shrugged her shoulders with the effect of a flesh-quake and subsided as if grossly insulted. The poor story being dead already, Walt smiled pitiably and begged off:

"Some other time."

What is sadder than the funeral of a good story murdered in its cradle? A pall fell over the struggle for laughter. The obsequies were interrupted by a violent ringing of the doorbell, a pounding on the door, and a loud voice shouting through:

"Open in the name of the law!"

Sue and Len stared at each other in unbelief, then leapt to their feet. Sue gasped:

"Tom! But it couldn't be!"

Host and hostess fled from their guests and ran out into the hall. Walt explained:

"Tom is their son. The last they heard of him, he was in the South Pacific with his regiment. They've been worried sick over him."

There was a hubbub in the hall, a confusion of Sue's shrieks of delight and Len's booming voice mingled with the uproar of an overgrown youth who had spent a year in the hell of jungle warfare, and was a boy again at the sight of his parents. The guests could hear his berserk laughter.

"Our transport got in yesterday. I've traveled all night and all day. I wanted to surprise you. I've got a whole month's leave. Hot damn! God, but you're sweet, Mom. And Dad, Lord love you!"

THEY came into the dining room in a huddle, arms enlaced. Tom had known Walt before he went to war, and he said:

"Mr. Hilyard! How do you do, sir?"

Walt wrung his hand and said: "This is my wife." Tom bowed. "My daughter, Jennifer."

"Gosh! The pin-up of my dreams!" Tom advanced with his hand out like a grappling hook. "I had to come all the way home to find what I went all the way to the South Seas to see. But, of course, as usual, I'm too late. You're married, or something horrible like that."

In Jennifer's eyes almost anything in a uniform was beautiful. Her patiotic ferver added anything that might be missing. But Tom did not really need her charity. He had already turned a dull evening of watching a dinner-duel of old parents into a promising duel with a young soldier of her own epoch. Jennifer shook her pretty head almost off in denial of his accusation that she was old married people. Still Tom scowled and growled:

"Then you must be engaged to some dirty dog of a Marine or a colonel or something in the Navy."

"Not guilty, your Honor," she said. He grinned:

'Well, you're engaged now! The rest of you can get on with what's in your messkits. I had my dinner on the train and all I want is this piece of angel's food here. And what I've got to say to her is a military secret."

He reached out, caught a chair, swung it into place next to Jennifer's and, with an exaggerated violence that did not disguise his real agitation, fastened his hungry eyes on her and let them feast. And hers feasted on him. They drew, as it were, an arbor of youth about them and were alone.

"Buy A War Bond TODAY"

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

AFTER 27 years as a rural mail carrier, Clare Rossman of Oakfield, N. Y., has retired.

In an interview with his local newspaper he said that he would take it easy hereafter, just loaf, tend to his garden and take long walks.

He also told the reporter that he had traveled 271,000 miles during his 27 years as a mail carrier, that he had made 1,301,500 stops, delivered 3,733,000 pieces of mail and worn out 21 automobiles.

I don't know how Mr. Rossman kept track of all these figures, but those are his words and there is no reason to doubt them.

271,000 miles and never got out of the little town of Oakfield!

1,301,500 stops and all of them among a few hundred people!

Seems an awful lot doesn't it? And yet don't we, all of us, travel thousands of miles during our life time, without ever getting anywhere?

For instance, I have traveled more than 200,000 miles just going from my home to my office and back.

My wife has walked about 20,000 miles without leaving the house.

Have you ever complained that you don't get any traveling?

Just think for a minute. How many rooms in your home? How often do you walk through the house? Figure it out in miles over a period of years.

How far to your grocery store? To the butcher? To your children's school?

How far to the office, to the restaurant where you eat your lunch, to the cigar store?

Oh, we are travelers, all right. There isn't a one of us who doesn't travel enough miles to take him clear around the world several times over.

But mileage alone doesn't mean a thing.

It's what you get out of your mileage that counts.

Everybody can't go to India or South America or to other distant lands. That, of course, is the kind of traveling we would all like to do.

But there is lots to be learned even on those little journeys that we take day after day and that become so monotonous after a while.

For instance, is your grocer just a fellow who slices some bologna for you or hands you a jar of coffee, or is he a human being with whom you might well get acquainted?

I AM almost sure that Mr. Rossman of Oakfield learned plenty on his 271,000 miles of carrying the mail. I am sure he made many friends; I am sure he learned a lot about life, and I am sure that those 271,000 miles will give him many a happy memory to take along on his retirement.

It's true that Oakfield is not as picturesque as Rio de Janeiro or Naples or Cairo.

May be it would have been nice if Mr. Rossman could have traveled only 150,000 miles in Oakfield and the rest of the mileage in far-away countries.

Probably you'd rather take a trip to Florida or California right now than to your kitchen or the shop or the office.

But as long as you have to do your traveling at home do it with your eyes and your heart open.

It's an old saying that traveling is broadening.

And that does not refer to your figure.

Solons Study Tax Cuts

(The National Whirligig)

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

TAX reduction has become a clamorous subject on Capitol Hill with the convening of the Seventy-ninth Congress, even though it may be several years before the present high levels can be shaved. But the gentlemen on both sides of the middle aisle are dangling black checks before the pay-as-you-enter patients.

Democrats and Republicans realize that the present excessive duties will loom as our livest public issue when the need for funds to pay for the war dwindles or ends. They anticipate a widespread demand for relief as soon as Germany is crushed. So the rival financiers seek to outdo each other with undated but fulsome promises.

Sen. Walter George of Georgia, chairman of the Senate Finance committee, led off with a suggestion of a 10 per cent cut as soon as Hitler is washed up. Rep. Dan Reed of New York, who heads the Republicans' Tax Research committee, topped that scheme with a proposal for a 50 per cent revision

Henry Morgenthau's experts are constantly playing with figures and rates looking to a lightening of the burden. But they are not tipping their furtive hand to outsiders. Naturally, if anyone is to get credit for reducing taxes—or even for advancing a workable program—the administration wants the glory.

The politicos sense already that the 1948 presidential election, as well as the 1946 congressional contests, may hinge on this bread-and-butter rather than on any foreign question which may then seem rather remote to a war-weary people.

SPENDING: Two factions within the government have already clashed as to methods of managing postwar budgets and taxes. It is the same sort of struggle which liberals and conservatives have engaged in over almost every important issue since the New Deal came to Washington. The outcome will have an everyday effect on the pocketbook of each corporation, workingman and consumer.

The free spenders advocate a program in which Uncle Sam will disburse 30 billion dollars annually for the postbellum years. They are the believers in the theory of compensatory taxation. Simply put, this means that the government can maintain a semblance of prosperity by taking vast sums from the people and doling it out again for public works, relief, subsidies, foreign loans etc.

Principal proponents are Henry Wallace, Harold Ickes, Ben Cohen and the Cooper-Dingell clique of the House Ways and Means committee. Their 30 billion budget contains the following items: Regular departments, six billion; financing of public debt, six billion; veterans, five billion; national defense, five billion; public works, one billion; foreign loans or credits, five billion; miscellaneous, two billion.

The federal take from present taxation amounts to about 42 billion a year. With a drop in postwar industrial activity and employment, this figure may fall to 30 billion or less. Thus, if the school's lavish ideas prevail, there will be no cash left for cutting taxes or even for reducing the public debt.

CONSERVATIVES: The more hard-boiled financial experts have framed a schedule allowing for both tax easement and amortization of the 300 billion-plus obligations imposed on the United States by Hitler and Hirohito. They describe it as an "America First" program and argue that the world cannot recover unless this country remains solvent.

Leaders in this retrenchment movement include Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones, House Ways and Means Chairman Bob Doughton of North Carolina, War Mobilizer James Byrnes and Economic Stabilizer Fred Vinson, who was a tax authority when he served in the House. It is also believed that Secretary Morgenthau, who wants to close his books with a good record on paper at least, is in sympathy with their views.

These conservatives envisage an eventual budget of about 17 billion, as follows: Regular department costs, four billion; public debt charge, five billion (through lowered interest rates); veterans, three billion; national defense, three billion; public works, one billion; miscellaneous, one billion. The total is 17 as against 30 billion.

COLLECTIONS: No money for foreign loans appears in this ledger, and this is the largest item eliminated. Under an alternative plan, credits would be extended by private agencies, with the government guaranteeing 50 per cent of the advances. Losses, if any, would not show or be paid off for many years.

Should Federal collections total about 30 billion in future years, this thin budget would leave a tidy balance for reduction of taxes of the public debt—probably the former. If the surplus continued that long, and if it were applied to payment of the national bill, the mortgage on the American homestead might be lifted in from 30 to 50 years.

In any event, you can bet whatever dollars you don't pay to "Mister Whiskers" on January 15 that the political financiers will handle it in their best ballot-box interest. Which may mean a small break for the taxpayers!

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

MAKING farm youths subject to the draft, and the abrupt manner in which OPA tightened rationing have given housewives a scare about food supply.

New York grocery and processing executives admit that scarcities are developing in utility beef, pork, chicken, lamb, canned fruits and vegetables, sugar and potatoes. But they assert that the overall pantry picture for the first months of 1945 is no worse than for the same period last year.

The present appraisal will have to be revised if fresh war emergencies arise. Should too many skilled farm hands be taken by the Army and Navy —and their places left vacant—additional shortages may develop in garden-truck and dairy products The effects on agricultural stocks of disastrous floods in Europe and record drougths in the Australian wheat and sheep belt may hit us sooner than is now anticipated.

MEAT: Consumers, restricted by butcher strikes and the consequent disappearance of items from restaurant menus, are puzzled by reports from Canada that stockyards are so overcrowded that cattle die in the pens. As meat is unrationed there, people can enjoy it three times a day if they wish.

Washington is charged with refusing to allow Dominion beef to cross the border even if offered, by reason of pressure exerted by the cattle lobby. The bloc is accused of embroiling us in tangled relations with Buenos Aires as a means of shutting out beef from the pampas.

In the past this group was powerful anough to bar Argentina from selling juicy cuts in her pavilion at the New York World's fair.

DINING: Spokesmen for cattle and slaughterhouse interests deny that they are responsible.

They maintain that, since Canada is a sparsely populated agricultural country with local cows available in every community, rationing of meat is impracticable.

The bulk of Canadian beef feeds the British armed forces and industrial home front. The commodity is usually exported when vessels are loaded.

However, sudden war demands—as in the invasion and the current breakthrough—often mean the transfer of ships to other tasks. In the meantime supplies pile up in stockyards and dock warehouses. As soon as transportation becomes normal these reserves again melt away. There is nothing to spare for us.

New Yorkers in the trade would welcome beef from across the border. Formerly, American families were accustomed to partake of roasts or tenderloins on certain days. The industry, with an eye to postwar business, would be happy to have them continue this practice—no matter what the source —rather than have them change the custom.

Jeep's Postwar Use Studied

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

COLLEGE STATION — How adaptable is the Army jeep to chores of Texas farms and ranches?

The Texas A. and M. college Agricultural Experiment station will find out in a thorough series of tests during 1945, and reports on jeep efficiency will be available for those who plan to use one after the war.

A factory-reconditioned Army jeep was delivered to the A. and M. college early last month and turned over to H. P. Smith, agricultural engineering division head.

Texas is one of eight states where through an arrangement made by the United States Department of Agriculture tests of the jeep will be made. The others are Illinois, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York, Mississippi, Arizona and Washington.

In Texas, the tests will be concerned with what farm implements the jeep will pull successfully, operating costs in comparison with other sources of farm power and transportation; and its general all-around adaptability to use in the dry land and irrigated sections, principally in rice harvesting operations; and on the cattle and sheep ranches of the state, Smith said.

Thorough Tests Planned

"Glowing accounts of the performance ability of the jeep for war-time purposes have given the impression that it will solve all of the farmer's and rancher's problems in the postwar period," Smith added.

"We sincerely hope it will do all the things that are claimed for it, but we intend to find out for ourselves just how far it will solve the problem, and at what cost.

"We have outlined a pretty busy year for our jeep in Texas, and will be used in different parts of the state in the course of our experiments.

"As soon as we obtain sufficient gasoline for our tests, we will start the experiments. They will take us to West Texas where ranchers want to know what the jeep will do. It will be taken to the coastal rice fields, and to other sections of Texas to determine the jeep's adaptability to farm and ranch chores."

THAT long-standing trademark of Fort Worth — "Where the West Begins" — has some basis in fact, and the Army to back it up.

A truckload of cattle overturned in the business district and 19 escaping white-faced steers grazed on the City hall lawn and generally raised cain cavorting in the downtown streets.

Telephone calls brought a staff car of Military Police, four horse-riding cowboys and six patrolmen in their "wagons."

For nearly four hours of "riding herd," the cowboys, MP's and coppers succeeded in coralling the critters and herded them to the Fort Worth stockyards.

Regards To Tokyo!

One of the first bombs dropped on Tokyo at the beginning of the B-29 raids was inscribed 'With the complements of the people of Stamford, Texas, U. S. Capt. Canada was the pilot of a B-29, and when he first went over Tokyo, he wrote the inscription on one of his bombs.

WOMAN'S intuition worked again.

Friends of Mrs. Byron Sherman, of Kilgore, simply couldn't persuade here to leave home one night because she "just had a feeling" that her husband might be getting into the states and would call her.

Sure enough, during the evening the major called her from Florida to say that he was on his way home. He had been in the Carribean area for a year and a half.

TEHRAN, Jan. 9. (AP)—A campaign has been started in Iran to raise funds for the infantile paralysis foundation at Warm Springs, Ga. It is called the March of Rials, after the Iranian coin worth about 8 cents.

The idea originated last year at the Persian gulf port of Khorramshar where more than $6,000 was raised.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 —Heavy liquidation in the final hour coming through commission houses and New Orleans sent cotton futures down 50 to 70 cents a bale today as the selling met only light mill buying and short covering. Most traders put the reaction down to technical consideration following the uninterrupted rise of as much as $1.95 a bale since the first of the year.

Nurses Heed Call

ton, who heads the nurses' staff, said she regretted to report that only five are now in service. "However, seven of our 1944 graduates have applied for service recently."

There are 69 cadets and seven non-cadets in training at Lubbock General hospital now. Twenty-three cadets and five non-cadets will be graduated this year. West Texas hospital school of nursing reports a cadet class of 69 which includes 14 seniors who will be eligible for service soon.

Sister Mary Inez, director of nurses at St. Mary's hospital, said she thought an appeal should be made to all registered nurses of this area to come forward and serve in some capacity for the duration.

All three hospital directors of nurses agreed that no nurse on their staffs would be held for civilian duty if she desired to enter service or was called.

The hospitals realize the emergency of the armed forces must be met first and authorities registered little anxiety over the possible loss of many nurses. "We will get along somehow," they said.

The need for more nurses is brought out by Capt. Claudia M. Draper of Tahoka and Lubbock, who recently wrote friends here from her station in Belgium . . . "There hasn't been time enough to get out of our fatigue clothes for days. We are receiving patients straight from the front lines. Our men complain so little. We nurses feel we could work endless hours and never repay them for what they are doing for us."

Capt. Draper, who received training at Lubbock General hospital, joined the Army Nurses' corps in 1937, served three years, and returned to the service in 1941.

Newton's Name Enters Trial of cord, string, wire and electric light cord cut from the bodies; pictures of the bodies and an open window; and plaster of paris casts of footprints were entered as state exhibits.

Mr. and Mrs. Grissom testified how the Hunt children, Jo Ann, 6, and Jane, he little three-year-old sister, came screaming and crying to the Grissom residence after discovering their parents' bodies about 8 o'clock.

Death Not Immediate

Dr. Ewell Hunt described the wounds on the bodies and said a swelling over Mrs. Hunt's eye indicated she did not die immediately. She had suffered a severe blow over the right eye.

Defense objection to parts of the testimony of Mrs. Hall in the Plainview trial regarding Thomas' statement to her that he "had been rolled" in a hotel at Galveston a few days before the slaying was sustained by Judge Garland but he allowed that phase of her statement regarding telephone conversations to be included in the record.

Mrs. Hall, operator of a travel bureau, testified that she had talked with Thomas by telephone in Galveston Saturday before the slaying. The slaying was on a Tuesday. Mrs. Hall said Thomas told her he was going fishing.

Called From Vernon

Later, she said, he called her by long distance from Vernon and said he was through fishing. She testified she told him "you'd better fish on down this way. The sheriff is looking for you."

Mrs. Veazey testified Thomas came to their home in Amarillo late Saturday night before the slaying, remained there Sunday and left around 4 p. m. Monday. She said he did not come back until "around 8 o'clock Tuesday morning," the day of the slaying. She identified a pair of trousers and a shirt which the state is seeking to prove Thomas wore when the crime was committed.

Her husband also identified a pair of rubber-soled shoes, which the state claims were also worn by the slayer. Fawver, the Lubbock police officer, previously had told of taking plaster of paris casts of footprints near the Hunt residence.

Thomas, as usual, was immaculately dressed and groomed and seemed to take a more active interest in the proceedings than he did at the Plainview trial. His brother, W. R. Thomas and his sister, Mrs. S. T. Armstrong and her husband of Waco are attending the trial.

Efforts to get into the record the words of the children were unavailing. Special Judge J. E. Garland sustained a defense objection from Curtis Douglass.

(To investigators, Jo Ann had related immediately upon their arrival at the Hunt premises the morning of the slaying: "Daddy and Mama are killed—bad man did it." She minutely described a man, whom she said she had encountered in a hallway next the bedroom where her parents lay—

In the courtroom were observed Mr. and Mrs. Allie Hunt, Homer Hunt, Mrs. I. L. Hunt, Mrs. Warren Bacon and Mrs. Harvey Hays, all kinsmen of the late Dr. Roy Hunt, and C. N. Franks of Houston, father of Mrs. Roy Hunt.

A transfer of trial records from the 64th district was approved. The indictment, charging only the murder of Dr. Hunt, was read, and Thomas firmly pleaded innocent.

The witness list was read, and the witness rule invoked. Out of the courtroom with other witnesses went several peace officers, among them Capt. Maney Gault of ranger headquarters in Lubbock, and Fawver, both of whom had been subpoenaed.

Douglass asked if Mrs. Jennie Williams were in the courtroom. She was not present.

"Your Honor, we have no witnesses," he announced.

Speculation was immediate among spectators and newspapermen as to meaning, not immediately clarified, behind Douglass' announcement.

Crash Of Clipper

Williams, 29, of Rio De Janeiro and his daughter, Nancy Lou, 7, were saved.

His daughters, Judith Carol, 4, and Patricia Emily, 2, were dead, and his wife, Margaret Elizabeth, 28, was missing.

The clipper carried a crew of 13 for the 7,000-mile flight to the Belgian Congo, a route opened only last September.

Capt. C. A. Goyette of Miami, assistant pilot of the airline's Latin-American division, was the skipper. He was one of the survivors.

The airline reported that the crewmen known dead were Capt. L. W. Cramer, a pilot, and T. J. Fleming, radio operator, both of Miami.

Known to be safe among the crew members were Capt. C. A. Goyette, Capt. S. K. George, and J. W. Morse, operations engineer, all of Miami.

Missing crewmen, all of Miami, were Capt. E. A. Kerry, pilot; A. Moore, navigator; W. A. Koser, flight engineer; J. Folsom, flight engineer; O. L. Olsen, radio operator; A. Reyes, steward, and A. Azevedo, steward.

Unreported passengers included: Edward Thomas Kenney, 39, communications superintendent of Panair do Brazil, Rio De Janeiro and San Francisco, Webster Homer Rowell, 27, of Oerkley, Calif., and his wife. The Rowells were on their way to Rio De Janeiro, where Rowell is connected with the airline.

Levines File Suit For Tax Recovery

DALLAS, Jan. 9. (AP)—In four identical suits filed in federal court today, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Levine of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. William Levine of Wichita Falls asked recovery of a total of $24,447.84 allegedly collected as income taxes for 1941 by W. A. Thomas, collector of internal revenue.

The petitions say that June 30, 1941, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Levine gave their son and daughter, Robert David Levine and Doris Mae Levine 3.9 per cent interests each in the partnership of Levine Brothers which has stores in Lubbock and Wichita Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. William Levine made similar gifts to their two daughters, Rose Marion Levine and Denna Shirley Levine.

Although the four children filed separate income tax returns covering their shares of the profits of the partnership, the petitions state, the collector held that the parents were liable for the taxes on their incomes.

The alleged over-collections were $6,037.26 each in the case of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Levine and $6,186.66 each for Mr. and Mrs. William Levine, the petitions state.

Texas Legislature

and a governor to complete legislation. . . ."

He emphasized that the problems of war and preparation for conditions that will follow the war probably will be uppermost in the minds of House members. These problems deserve mature research and thinking, he declared.

Slated for early consideration were emergency recommendations to be made by Governor Coke R. Stevenson for legislative redistricting, pay increases for rural teachers and an appropriation to finance the liquor board fo rthe remainder of the fiscal year.

Governor To Appear

The governor personally will appear before a joint session this week to report on the general condition of the state which speech may form the basis of many of the bills and measures to be introduced early in the session.

The governor informally has advocated pay increases for state workers in lower salary brackets and may touch on this situation in his message.

In a general way there were as yet no indications of immediate controversy in the new legislature but undercurrent signs of possible clashes were noted in connection with possible proposals regarding labor regulation and the University of Texas administrative situation which was investigated by a special Senate committee of the 48th legislature.

Governor Coke R. Stevenson's new appointments to the board of regents of the university, expected to be announced this week, may bring this situation into sharper focus in the Senate which has the privilege of rejecting or confirming the appointees.

Luzon's Terrain

ga provinces. These lead southwestward to Bataan, the bloody battlefield of 1942.

In the northeast the fertile Cgayan valley, approximately 150 miles long, is sandwiched between high mountain ranges. At its northern extremity is the port of Appari, 225 miles southwest of Formosa.

Rugged mountains cover Luzon's northeast coast facing the Pacific and also the wild regions of the northwest. On the west and southwest coasts there are suitable troop landing points in Lingayen gulf and to the north, and also in Batangas province just across the Verde island waterway passage between Luzon and Yank-held Mindoro island. East coast Lamon bay and Albay gulf are suitable for the landing of an Army. The Japanese landed on Lamon beaches in 1941, swept across mountain ridges to Laguna province, and then marched northwestward to Manila.

The major airfields on Luzon are Clark, 75 miles northwest of Manila; Nichols, Nielson and Zablan, on the outskirts of the metropolis; Appari and Tuguegarao, in the northeast Cagayan valley; in Batangas on the southwest and at Legaspip on the southeast.

Many Camps On Island

On Luzon are located sundry military and civilian camps in which thousands of American and other United Nations nationals have been held for three years and more. The military prison camps, housing survivors of the Bataan death march, are located at Cabanatuan, in Nueva Ecija province northeast of Manila; at Clark Field to the northwest; and at Pasay and the bay area of Manila proper.

The civilian camps are Santo Tomas, in Manila, with a population of around 4,000; Los Banos, south of Manila, 800, and Holmes, in the baguio mountains, about 600.

When the Japanese lose Luzon they will be cut off from its rich war supplies, including sugar for industrial alcohol, cotton, copper, other minerals, rope plants, copra, lumber, rice and fish.

Luzon has many fine highway systems, covering the entire island and even penetrating the mountain districts. Its railroad line runs from the northwest to southeast with a terminal at Legaspi.

Italian Prisoners Remain At Large

Three Italian prisoners of war who escaped the POW camp at Hereford Thursday morning still remained at large Tuesday night while army authorities and various law enforcement agencies continued a thorough search of an area south, southwest and southeast of the Deaf Smith county town.

They were: No. 1, Capt. Leo Musina, 25, 6 feet tall, 165 pounds, brown eyes, black hair, light complexion; No. 2, Lt. Ottone Sponza, 24, 5 feet 9 inches tall, 163 pounds, brown eyes, dark brown hair, small mustache; No. 3, Capt. Allesandro Brighenti, 30, 5 feet 6 inches tall, mustache. Any law enforcement officer should be called if persons answering description of any or all of the fugitives are sighted, it was requested.

Yanks Gain On Western Front

ed against describing the Nazis' situation as "hopeless," pointing out that von Rundstedt already had moved some of his tanks and infantry out of the western half of the salient and that he still would have usable minor roads to the east.

Furious Armored Scrap

Ten miles west of the American thrust toward the vital highway the famed "Hell on Wheels" Second Armored division was locked in a furious armored battle for the crossroads hamlet of Samree, three miles northeast of LaRoche, the decision was reported still in the balance when darkness closed over the snowy battlefied.

Samree was desperately needed by the Germans in extricating their forces from that sector of the shrinking salient and they defended the village with unyielding determination. They threw many tanks into the swirling fight, including numerous captured U. S. Shermans. Samree's stone buildings were hammered to bits by American tanks and eight-inch artillery, which closed in from three sides.

Weak Resistance In West

British forces hammering in on the western nose of the salient met weak opposition for the second straight day, the Germans withdrawing nearly a mile south of the Hotten-Marche sector. British infantry took the village of Cheoux, five miles east of Marche, and cleared the entire Nolaumont forest nearby.

With British capture of high ground northeast of Grimbiemont, midway between Marche and LaRoche, German armor began quitting the area. A forward officer said that, "as usual, the chosen and favored SS (elite guard) troops are first to go."

Far to the south of the snowy Belgian front the Germans threw a half-dozen attacks against American and French forces in northeastern France, one of them a powerful blow against the French in the Alsace plain south of Strassbourg.

From Calmar Front

Attacking northward from the Colmar front near the Rhine, Nazi infantry spearheaded by at least 20 tanks drove through the towns of witternheim and Neunkirch before being halted by the French about 16 miles south of Strasbourg.

North in the Rhine valley near Wissembourg the Germans launched two attacks four miles southeast of Solutz and at Nearby Heatten, but were beaten back with heavy losses. The enemy had shifted the weight of his attacks to that sector since his penetration below the French fortress city of Bitche was sealed off.

Japs And Fleet

ed on Leyte last October, Admiral Halsey's Third Fleet certainly will be deployed between Luzon and Formosa, covering MacArthur's Luzon invasion.

Since the Leyte beaches were assaulted, Fleet Admiral Nimitz has given the Pacific fleet's full power to supporting the Philippines campaign.

There is the closest kind of collaboration between MacArthur and Nimitz. They conferred at MacArthur's headquarters Christmas week to work out final details of the coordination of their forces for the conquest of Luzon. Nimitz will back MacArthur with the Third Fleet's carrier planes until the Japanese Luzon garrison is overcome.

Nimitz' First Job

Nimitz's first responsibility in the coordinated Luzon campaign is to prevent Japanese planes and troops from reaching Luzon from Formosa. The Japanese can be expected to deliver both at Luzon.

They were perfectly willing to expend large numbers of troops in reinforcing Leyte and Guadalcanal.

In this campaign, however, the Third Fleet's control of the sea north of Luzon should be complete. Any transport convoy would be a profitable target for Third Fleet carrier pilots.

The only way the Japanese would have a fair chance of reaching Luzon with troops would be for their remaining battle fleet to come out to cover the transport convoy and engage the Third Fleet.

Not Enough Power

Any battle force the Japanese now could send out would not be powerful enough to destroy Adm. William F. Halsey's Third Fleet. In fact, under the right circumstances, Halsey might have a good chance to wipe out most of the first line naval strength which Japan has left.

In the second battle of the Philippines, some damaged Japanese battleships escaped to the empire. These ships may now be repaired and ready to go to sea again.

Whether the Japanese have any new or repaired carriers ready for action is uncertain.

Several Capital Ships

But the Nipponese likely could send out a battle force of several capital ships. Such a force would be strong enough to make a serious try at reinforcement of Luzon, with the Third Fleet ready to intercept.

That is the kind of action the next engagement between the American and Japanese fleets is likely to be.

The Japanese reaction will be more immediate in the air. They could commit virtually all bombers and fighters available in the homeland to the defense of Luzon. Their bmobers can attack MacArthur's troops and transports from Formosa. It is about 600 miles from Formosa to Manila.

"Half the neighborhood" was out with brooms and dishpans and tubs, and a baby was handed over the fence to neighbors when fire that originated in a garbabe barrel was fanned by a brisk wind and raced over a vacant lot and under a hedge and against the 2503 Twenty-ninth residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Fondren Tuesday afternoon. The residence was scorched and blistered. Firemen finished beating out flames with water.

The public is invited to first of a series of Bible lessons to be held at 7:30 p. m. Friday at Grace church. Mrs. Tom Tarwater will direct the discussion.

Live Cattle Price Ceilings Due Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP) — An order imposing ceilings on the price of live cattle is expected to be issued by government food agencies within the next 24 hours.

Authoritative sources said the order would prohibit buyers from paying in excess of a price somewhere between $17.50 and $18.00 a hundred pounds. It would also increase the government subsidy to slaughterers from $1.10 to $1.60 a hundred pounds on cattle grading good and choice.

The subsidy is designed to help slaughterers sell beef at prices in line with OPA ceilings on retail prices of beef.

Landing On Luzon

ment, guns and armor already have been put ashore for the drive toward Manila down territory suited for mechanized war.

Although Tokyo radio had trumpeted that such landings could be made only at terrific cost, the communique said Yank losses were light.

The Nipponese obviously were caught unprepared.

The Yanks divisions were from the U. S. Sixth Army of Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger—the same Army which spearheaded MacArthur's return to the Philippines at Leyte last October.

Landings Not Hindered

The huge convoy—Japanese radio talked for days about 450 transprots—was under heavy attack of Nipponese planes and coastal batteries. Some losses to Navy vessels were suffered but the landings were not hindered.

The Japanese reinforcement tie line reaching down from the home land was cut prior to the landings by B-29 poundings of aircraft factories on Japan proper, carrier plane blasts at Formosa and warship shellings of such groups as the Bonins and Volcanos in the days just preceding the Luzon invasion.

Today's communique reported the erasure of 79 planes, two destroyers, a midget submarine and a cargo ship.

No Losses Enroute

(In a shortwave broadcast direct from Luzon, George Thomas Folster, of NBC, said the 70-mile-long convoy reached the gulf without the loss of a single soldier.

(He said 50 per cent more troops went ashore in the first wave than landed at Leyte. The waves of men sent in at Leyte were elements of four divisions.

("I visited the beaches with General MacArthur and we found no beach defenses worthy of the name," Folster reported)

Heavy Jap Losses

returned after knocking out 83 ships and 11 planes in the Jan. 2-3 strike at Formosa and Okinawa, the latter in the Ryukyus within 300 miles of Japan.

Ship Losses Total 310

In four attacks on the Formosa-Okinawa area since the first carrier attack there last October, the Japanese have lost 310 ships sunk, probably sunk or damaged and 609 planes destroyed. These figures are based on official reports.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced before dawn today that the planes from Vice Adm. John S. McCain's fast carrier force were in action in the Formosa area. He had no details at that time. This strike fell almost simultaneously with an assault by B-29s.

The B-29 attack on the Formosan base which feeds supplies and men to Japanese force sin the Philippines was announced in Washington. No details were available.

JAP LOSSES HEAVY

CHUNGKING, Jan. 9 (U.P.) — Planes of the U. S. 14th Air force destroyed or damaged a total of 1,749,000 tons of Japanese shipping between July 4, 1942, and Jan. 1, 1945, a headquarters communique reported today.

Luzon Viewed As Key To Future Action On Far Pacific Agenda

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Invasion of the big island of Luzon on the American road back in the Pacific was the next essential step in the Nimitz-MacArthur campaign to carry the fight to the foe relentlessly.

Whatever is planned beyond that point, Luzon is the key to the whole western Pacific - China sea strategic picture.

SIMPSON

Announcement by Gen. Douglas MacArtlur of landings on the capital island of the Philippines is a culminating step in the effort to bridge the Pacific and come to close grips with Japan.

That the campaign to reclaim Luzon has reached its final phases many months earlier than was deemed possible in Washington only a year or less ago seems beyond dispute. This appears as fruition of the Roosevelt-Nimitz-MacArthur meeting in Hawaii some months ago.

Long Fight Probable

In the light of the type of Japanese resistance encountered in the advance up New Guinea, there can be no swift and decisive results even after the landing in force on the big island.

The war in the Pacific has been a war of extermination rather than of attrition so far. Official American estimates on Japanese casualties on Leyte or in the attempts to reinforce it run to the neighborhood of 120,000 as against less than 500 prisoners taken. Nor was it disclosed whether that handful of living enemies taken consisted of wounded or unwounded.

Japs Are Tenacious

It is futile to attempt to estimate in advance how long it might take to effect the conquest of Luzon. Japanese fugitives still lurk in the wild recesses of Guam, or Guadalcanal even, as well as on some other islands wholly in American hands. Bypassed garrisons on still enemy held islands left behind in the American advance have given no sign of surrender utterly hopeless as is their situation.

With American landings on Luzon in progress, the grimmest extermination fight of the war in the Pacific is beginning only now.

FOOD SHIPMENTS HEAVY

MARSEILLE, Jan. 4. (Delayed) (AP)—More than 170,000 tons of foodstuffs for civilian relief have been delivered to French authorities in this area by the U. S. Army civil affairs section since the Allied landings in southern France Aug. 15.

Ban On Sale Of Babies Sought

HOUSTON, Jan. 9. (U.P.)—In a swift follow-up yesterday's startling disclosure that hundreds of babies are sold in Houston annually for cash prices ranging up to $500, law enforcement officials today began composition of a bill for presentation to the Texas legislature to outlaw the "baby brokerage."

The bill being prepared by District Attorney A. C. Winborn and Assisatnt District Attorney Tom Branch, will be introduced for passage into state law during the first sessions of the legislature, which opened today.

If passed, the bill will impose long jail sentences and fines on persons found guilty of selling a baby or offering a baby for adoption for any sort of profit.

Big Business In Babies

A report by Mrs. Margaret Markle of the Houston probation office disclosed yesterday that a big business is being operated in the city by "baby brokers" who act as go-between for parents who wish to part with their children—even unborn children—for a cash consideration.

Many of the baby transactions, it was revealed, are initiated by advertisements inserted in local newspapers either by persons who do not want their children or by childless couples who long for "the patter of little feet."

It was learned today that at a recent meeting called by District Judge Frank Williford, jr., and attended by District Judge Langston King, Winborn, U. S. District Attorney Brian S. Odom and W. E. Robertson, chief probation officer, it was concluded that neither Texas nor federal law controls the sale of a baby by an individual.

"There is absolutely nothing in the present law which prevents actual sale or any sort of trade being made by the individual in selling a baby," Winborn said.

Winborn said the only existing law leaves a loophole in that it states that "any member, person or manager of a corporation operating without a license (for baby adoptions) is guilty of an offensive) is guilty of an offensive."

Obviously, the law does not cover individuals who are not connected with a "corporation" engaged in adoption arrangements.

The district attorney said the grand jury is powerless to investigate the situation, since "a grand jury does not and can not investigate where there has not been an offense committed. Since there is no law, there can be no offense."

A delegation from the Lubbock chapter will go to Amarillo to hear National Commander Edward M. Scheiberling who will speak at a luncheon at the Amarillo hotel Saturday at noon. Cmdr. Scheiberling will make one of his four stops in Texas at Amarillo.

Capt. Tom Everheart who is here on leave after duty in the European theater, was speaker for the evening. He followed a discussion of his experiences in the war zone with a question and answer period.

Efforts For Synthetic Fuel To Be Intensified

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP) — Expansion off government efforts to develop spnthetic liquid fuels from coal products is provided for in President Roosevelt's 1946 budget.

His message sent to Congress today recommends an increase in the appropriation for development of synthetic liquid fuels from $5,000,000 in the current fiscal year to $13,000,000 for 1946.

"This will enable the bureau of mines to prepare designs and let contracts for construction of several demonstration plants," the president said.
