WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE — A 10-inch water line was cut around 2:30 p.m. Thursday in the 1500 block of 26th Street, sending a stream of water skyward. Workers with Rhode's Construction were working on the city's water line replacement project when the line was cut. Interruption to the area's water supply was minimal. (SDN Staff Photo)

Snyder man is victim of crash in Fort Worth

By Local, Wire Reports

FORT WORTH – A 45-year-old Snyder man is believed to be the victim of a fiery truck wreck that occurred in Fort Worth early this morning.

While not yet positively identified, it is believed that the driver of the dairy truck owned by Triple S Dairy of Sweetwater was driven by Barry Runnels, 2602 26th Street in Snyder.

Kay Runnels, the mother of Barry Runnels, said this morning that she had talked to the coroner's office in Fort Worth who described the victim's jewelry. "I know it was my son."

Mrs. Runnels said her son was a driver for Triple S Dairy.

A positive identification was made difficult because of the severity of the burns, and the coroner's office had called Scurry County seeking fingerprints. If good fingerprints are not obtained, the medical examiner's spokesman said it would then rely on dental records.

The crash temporarily closed two major Fort Worth traffic arteries when the tractor-trailer rig slammed into a bridge support on Interstate 30 at Texas Highway 183. The mishap occurred about 3:20 a.m.

After hitting the bridge support, the truck reportedly burst into flames.

The force of the collision and the resulting explosion sent an orange ball of flames 20 feet above the bridge, and the impact may have weakened the Highway 183 overpass on the interstate, located on the west side of Fort Worth.

"It pretty much looked like a napalm," said Michael Ward, a newspaper delivery man who witnessed the wreck. "The truck was immediately engulfed in flames. Unfortunately, we were helpless in doing anything for the driver."

The fire was extinguished within minutes, but the driver died in the flames.

The interstate and the overpass were shut down in both directions to clear the debris and to assess damage to the overpass. Westbound I-30 was reopened about 9 a.m.

Runnels has two sons, Brad Mark Runnels of Midland and John Tyler Runnels of Snyder; a daughter, Ashley Ryan Runnels of Snyder; three grandchildren, Cody Runnels of Colorado City, Bradley and Lindsey Runnels of Midland; his parents, Burt and Kay Runnels of Snyder; a sister and brother-in-law, Candyce and Ray Derrick of Wichita Falls.

Services are pending.

County holds public hearing

No one attended the public hearing on the county's proposed tax rate, making for a short meeting for Scurry County Commissioners.

The court approved the minutes of its Aug. 21 meeting and then opened the floor for comments. Only media representatives and one county employee were present, therefore Judge Ricky Fritz closed the public comments session and the meeting was adjourned.

Commissioners will meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday to formally adopt the $21.3 million budget, which is figured at a tax rate of 53.88 cents per $100 valuation.

2001 will see a 17.2 percent increase in insurance costs for the county. Twenty percent of that cost will be passed on to employees.

The bulk of the budget, around $15 million, represents Cogdell Memorial Hospital's expenses. The hospital will receive $395,000 tax subsidy from the county and an estimated $50,000 of tobacco settlement funds

A 2.4 percent pay hike is included in the budget, but there are no merit raises proposed. The county's cost of living adjustment is the same rate used by the Social Security Administration uses.

The adjustment will mean that County Judge Ricky Fritz' base salary will increase $751.62 to $32,429.02. The judge also receives a $10,000 supplement from the state that is paid out over a 12-month period.

County commissioners Ralph Trevey, Roy Idom, Chloanne Lindsey and Howard Limmer will get an additional $656.18 in 2001, raising their annual base salaries to $27,997.01.

County clerk Joan Bunch, district clerk Trina Rodgers and county treasurer Charlie Bell will see an increase of $678.27. This sets their base salaries at $28,939.53

Precinct 1 Justice of the Peace Deborah Boyd's salary will go up $619.42 to $26,428.62.

County attorney Michael Hartman will receive an additional $834.59, bringing his base salary to $35,609.10.

Hartman's office also receives a supplement of $25,425 from the state.

County auditor Eddie McHaney said the county attorney has the option to use the funds to benefit his office in any way, and that he can — but does not have to — take it in salary. The county judge, however, is required to take his state supplement in salary.

During the current year, $4,500 of the money was used to supplement the salaries of Hartman's staff and plans are to do that again in 2001.

The tax assessor-collector's adjustment in salary will mean another $684.36 for the upcoming year for her, while the sheriff's salary will increase $874.82. The elected officials' salaries, respectively, are $29,199.53 and $37,325.48.

For 2001, a total of $2,159,698 is budgeted for county employees' salaries and $1,061,095 for benefits. Included in that salary total is longevity, which is paid to every county employee at a rate of $5 per month for every consecutive year they have been an employee. If a person leaves employment with the county and then returns later, he looses the first longevity pay.

Included in the budget for hospital employees is $5,434,588 in salaries and $2,200,766 in benefits.

No capital purchases are included in the 2001 spending plan.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Nothing is busier than the ant, yet it finds time to attend picnics."

Highlight of last weekend's chamber banquet was generosity.

During the course of the banquet, chamber executive director Donna Fowler announced that some $4,000 is needed so that Bryce Doty, a Stanfield second grader, can have a new medical treatment performed.

Before the night was over, more than $900 in cash had been donated. And Frenchie Burke, the night's featured entertainer, had volunteered his services for a benefit dance and concert. That offer prompted the Emil Schattel Band from Lubbock to also say they would be on hand for the fundraiser.

Beat Monahans!

Congratulations, chamber award recipients:

—The Vestal Award, given for community service, went to longtime Snyder booster and workhorse Jack Denman.

—The Winston Award, for contributions to agriculture, was presented to S.D. and Judy Hays.

—The McLaughlin Award, for contributions to the petroleum industry, went to Ricky Daniell.

—Educator of the Year Award was presented posthumously to Bill Moss. The school administrator was serving as a school trustee at the time of his death.

—Chamber Choice Award, for service to the chamber, went to the TDCJ's Price Daniel Unit and was accepted by Warden Wilhelmenia Howard.

—Sizemore Award for being the most active Gold Coater was presented to Nancy Smith.

—Business of the Year Honors went to the Spanish Inn and was accepted by Joni Gonzalez.

Go Tigers!

Masonic Lodge honors were presented recently. The Rev. Miller Robinson was presented the first-ever Community Builder Award.

Sonny Greenfield was recipient of the Golden Trowel Award for his devoted service. And 50-year service awards were presented to Bob Ivey and Rex Fields.

Crush the Lobos!

For the first time, Presidential Ambassadors for Western Texas College have been chosen.

The WTC Ambassadors are Reid Johnson, Chelsie Birks, Lina Alvarez, Helen Fare, Crystal Purser and Thomas Lowery.

Beat 'em, Tigers!

Coming later this month...

Billy Ray Browning and crew are working fast and furious for the first Bluegrass Festival to be held Sept. 29-30 at the Wagon Wheel Ranch.

It's worth the drive out to just to seek the "pond" and stage now under construction.

Three sentenced in district court

A 20-year-old Snyder man will now serve five years in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice following a probation revocation hearing Thursday in 132nd District Court.

Marcus Rocha, serving a five-year probated sentence for a 1998 aggravated assault conviction, was ordered to serve the prison sentence by District Judge Ernie Armstrong.

Rocha violated terms of his probation by assaulting another individual, for fighting in the Scurry County Jail and by failing to complete the community service work program.

In other district court action, two persons pleaded guilty to felony driving while intoxicated and were placed on probation.

Buford Jay Pettijohn, 51, 449 Bonham, pleaded guilty to a June 30 DWI charge. He also was assessed a five-year probated prison sentence, fined $750, ordered to serve 240 hours in the Scurry County Jail and participate in a court-approved substance abuse program.

Pettijohn had two prior DWI convictions.

Elijah Eugene Jeffrey, 37, of 808 31st Street pleaded guilty to a June 21 DWI offense.

He was given a 10-year probated prison sentence, fined $1,000, ordered to served 240 hours in the Scurry County Jail and participate in a court-approved substance abuse program.

Jeffrey had two prior DWI convictions and one for burglary.

Labor Day holiday for some

The Labor Day holiday on Monday will prompt a number of closings around town.

All financial institutions will be closed, including West Texas State Bank, Texas Savings Bank, Snyder National Bank, First American Bank and American State Bank.

County and city employees will also have the day off Monday. One exception is the city landfill which will close Saturday and open Monday.

All county schools observed the holiday. Students, faculty and staff of Snyder ISD, Ira ISD, Hermleigh ISD and Western Texas College will not report Monday.

Scurry County library also observes the holiday and will not be open Saturday or Monday.

Other Monday closings include the Texas Workforce Commission and the Scurry County Museum, both located on the WTC campus. In addition, the Scurry County Health Unit will not be open.

Snyder Post Office will also be closed Monday. Mail will not be delivered or placed in boxes.

Man arrested in Emulex stock hoax

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Was the man accused of sabotaging a company's stock by issuing a phony press release a clever cyber criminal or an amateur investor who hatched a clumsy plan to cover his losses?

Federal documents filed in the case of 23-year-old Mark Jakob reveal the man authorities say caused Emulex's stock to plunge 62 percent went to great lengths to cover his tracks, registering at one Las Vegas hotel and making stock trades from another the day he allegedly perpetrated the hoax.

But the documents also paint a picture of a typical twenty-something who listed snowboarding and dancing as his hobbies — along with playing the stock market.

Jakob, charged Thursday with securities and wire fraud, faces up to 15 years in prison if convicted. He was jailed on $100,000 bail.

Jakob is accused of issuing a false press release last Friday stating that the head of Emulex Corp., a Costa Mesa, Calif., maker of fiber-optic equipment, had quit and the company was restating its quarterly earnings from a profit to a loss.

The company's stock plunged after some financial news services, including Bloomberg and Dow Jones, ran stories based on the bogus release.

Authorities say Jakob, of El Segundo, sent the release because he faced a huge loss from a "short sale" of 3,000 Emulex shares. A short sale involves selling borrowed shares of a stock in anticipation that the price will decline.

The bogus release was issued through Internet Wire, an online distributor of press releases where Jakob had worked. He left the company "on good terms" a week before the crime, authorities said.

A federal complaint claims Jakob used a computer at Internet Wire to make some of his short sales on Aug. 17 and 18. Instead of the stock price declining, however, it began to rise, leaving Jakob with the probability of having to repurchase the shares at a loss of about $97,000, according to a lawsuit filed by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Instead, authorities say, Jakob made more than $241,000 from Emulex trades after the phony press release was delivered.

On Aug. 23, authorities say, Jakob registered at the Luxor hotel in Las Vegas. The next day he allegedly opened an e-mail account using a computer at El Camino College in Torrance, Calif. Jakob attended classes during the summer session but was not a student at the time of the hoax, the college said.

Authorities say he e-mailed the news release Thursday evening using language that led Internet Wire staffers to believe the document had been approved for release.

Friday morning, Emulex's stock plunged. Jakob then allegedly bought back the 3,000 shares he had sold short, using a computer at Las Vegas' Mandalay Bay hotel.

Apparently not satisfied to merely cover his losses, authorities say that within minutes of his first trade Jakob bought 3,500 Emulex shares at their depressed price and sold them a few days later.

Minutes after the stock crash, Nasdaq halted trading after learning that the press release was false.

Trading resumed that day and the stock made up most of its losses.

Officials said they will continue their investigation to determine if anyone besides Jakob was involved in the hoax.

Astro-graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

SATURDAY, Sept. 2, 2000

It's to your advantage in the year ahead to be both practical and diligent in your efforts. With just a little bit of push, you can realize big beneficial returns.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll impress others with your wit and warmth today when involved in a social situation. However, your employer won't think you're so funny if you slack off on the job. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today might start out with you having giver's remorse about something you recently donated to another, but before the day is out, you'll realize it was actually a profitable thing to do.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Back-up funds might be needed today if you plan an activity with friends. Things could turn out to be a bit more expensive than you first thought.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Try to keep your forcefulness down to a minimum today when going after an important objective. It can better be achieved without being too pushy or aggressive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Subdue temptations to pass on juicy news you've recently heard before it can be verified. If the facts don't bear out, you could be left standing red-faced.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't give up the ship too soon if some kind of joint effort has been mismanaged. Regroup and try again. Chances are things will go well on the second try.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Unless you know exactly what you want today, there's a strong possibility you'll end up merely spinning your wheels. Have a game plan, and be methodical in executing it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Know in advance what you're getting into if you contract to do a job for somebody today. There's a strong chance of a misunderstanding concerning the costs.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Hard feelings could result if you attempt to renege on a commitment you made with a friend to do something together today. You'll feel better for honoring the date.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Provided you don't let people who aren't involved in what you're attempting to do today interfere with criticism, you can have a productive day. Keep kibitzers at bay.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Either schedule your day to attend to business matters or plan to participate in a social activity. Just don't try to do both, or you could find yourself pulling out your hair.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Funds spent on family or household needs will be well used today. However, when utilized for extravagant whims for anyone in the family, it could damage your budget.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

Mother disagrees that abusive boyfriend's ways have changed

DEAR ABBY: Last fall, my live-in boyfriend was abusive to me. My parents chipped right in and helped me move back to my hometown. They were wonderful and supportive even though I'd let them down in the past. They even bought a house so my children and I would have somewhere to live.

This boyfriend went to classes, did a lot of praying and I believe he's actually changed. I really do! Abby, he's the father of one of my children. We've started seeing each other and it really feels right. We want to get married.

My mother refuses to accept that he could have changed, and makes it clear she doesn't approve. She says if I get back together with him, they will have wasted all that time and money they invested in bailing me out. She says it's my low self-esteem that makes me want to see him.

I don't know how to resolve this. I'm in my late 30s yet I still want my parents' approval. Please help. — DAUGHTER OF AN IRON-WILLED IOWA MOM

DEAR DAUGHTER: Your mother knows you better than I do. She loves you and doesn't want to see you hurt again, and I can't fault her for that.

Daughter, I'm extremely skeptical about your chances of success in this relationship. If you decide to pursue it, I wish you the best of luck because I'm convinced you're going to need it.

A small percentage of abusers — those who are truly determined and self-motivated — can change if they receive long-term counseling. Only time (at least another year of counseling) will tell if this leopard has been able to change his spots.

Under no circumstances should you reconcile with him unless you maintain financial independence. That way, if he should backslide, you won't have to depend on anyone to bail you out. Should you decide to marry this "prize" I urge you to have a rock-solid prenuptial agreement so that you will be taken care of.

So your parents feel they have not "wasted" the money they invested in trying to help you, sell or rent the house and give the proceeds to them.

DEAR ABBY: I quit my job last year to stay at home with my children. All of a sudden, friends and neighbors began calling me to run errands, watch their children, sew costumes for the school plays, etc. Nobody seemed to understand that being a mother IS a full-time job.

Finally, I found a way to stop all the requests for favors: I made up fliers advertising myself as a "domestic consultant." I offered to baby-sit, pick up dry cleaning and groceries, sew and do other odd jobs for a negotiable fee.

The calls are much less frequent now. When someone does call, he or she is prepared to pay me fairly for child care and errand running. When I get requests for things that would interfere with plans I've made with my children (or don't want to do!), I simply tell the caller, "I am overbooked." — ALREADY WORKING (THANK YOU VERY MUCH)

DEAR ALREADY WORKING (TYVM): You're a clever woman and you may have devised a method from which other stay-at-home parents can benefit.

DEAR ABBY: A good friend of mine was married recently, without a traditional reception. I have now been invited to a postnuptial reception for the couple. Does a postnuptial reception carry an obligation to send a gift? — BOB IN OHIO

DEAR BOB: Yes, it does. If you attend the reception, a token of your good wishes is in order.

Whitewater office is closed

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Independent Counsel Robert Ray formally declared an end to the Whitewater era Thursday, announcing that he had closed the Arkansas office where President and Hillary Rodham Clinton's business dealings had been investigated for the past six and half years.

Ray said he is now focusing on whether the president should be held criminally liable for his testimony about Monica Lewinsky during the Paula Jones sexual harassment case.

A federal judge last year cited Clinton with contempt of court and fined him $90,000 as a civil penalty for what she called misleading testimony in the Jones case. A grand jury was seated July 11 to consider whether Clinton should also face criminal charges for the sworn testimony.

During their work in Arkansas, independent counsels Ray, Kenneth Starr and Robert Fiske saw 21 people charged and 14 convicted for a variety of crimes, many of which did not pertain to the land deal which gave the Whitewater investigation its name.

In Arkansas, all that remains to be dealt with is an appeal and a plea for post-conviction relief by former Gov. Jim Guy Tucker, who left office after being convicted of fraud in 1996.

Starr's office said last year that the cost of the investigation was up to $52 million, the federal government's most epensive special investigation.

Hagelin announces Natural Law-Reform Party allianced

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — It's "a marriage made in heaven," John Hagelin said, announcing an alliance between his Natural Law Party and a faction of the Reform Party that favors him over Pat Buchanan.

Hagelin, an Iowa physicist, accepted the presidential nomination Thursday at the Natural Law Party's convention. About 400 people attended the gathering, about half of them delegates.

Hagelin and his running mate, Silicon Valley entrepreneur Nat Goldhaber, assured the crowd that a general election victory was possible. They cited the Minnesota victory by former wrestler Jesse Ventura, and Hagelin said he had hired a former Ventura aide as his campaign manager.

Saluting the blending of his party with the anti-Buchanan faction of the Reform Party, he said, "This is the birth of a union that is historically unprecedented — a powerful coalition of America's leading political parties that can credibly challenge the two parties in our political process."

Hagelin sought the Reform Party nomination in early August at the party's convention in Long Beach, Calif.

Buchanan, the former Republican, defeated him by a nearly 2-to-1 margin in a primary ballot count, but the anti-Buchanan delegates declared the process fraudulent and stormed out. They then held their own convention across the street and nominated Hagelin.

Both factions are seeking $12.6 million in Reform Party election campaign funds and are awaiting a ruling by the Federal Election Commission.

Buchanan spokesman K.B. Forbes said of Thursday's announcements at the Natural Law convention: "We hope people now realize the true colors of the situation."

"This proves that John Hagelin is the Natural Law Party candidate and that Pat Buchanan is indeed the Reform Party candidate. There should be no doubt now."

In the latest ruling in the battle to win spots on state election ballots, Buchanan's name will appear as the Reform Party's nominee in California. The secretary of state agreed to list him that way after Buchanan took legal action pressuring him to do so.

Buchanan's foes, who had asked the state to list Hagelin on the ballot, promised their own legal action challenging the decision.

The Natural Law Party, founded in 1992 with the help of Hagelin, grew out of the teachings of Transcendental Meditation leader Maharishi Mahesh Yogi. It promotes preventive health care, increased use of renewable energy sources and peaceful remedies for international conflicts.

"I am running as a scientist trying to bring principles to a government that has none," Hagelin said in his acceptance speech Thursday.

He focused on health care, saying that 70 percent of diseases are preventable and yet the government spends barely 1 percent of its budget on stopping them. He also said campaign finance laws must be changed to end the control of special interests.

"The candidate who spends the most wins. What kind of expertise is that?" he said.

Hagelin also pledged to strengthen the nation's military, saying the government spends too much on flawed weapons and pays too little attention to personnel and readiness.

Ford helps start renovation project

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Looking suntanned and healthy, Gerald Ford donned a hard hat and helped start a $9 million renovation project on an amphitheater that bears his name.

The former president, accompanied by wife Betty, told a crowd of about 200 he was pleased to return to the resort near his adopted hometown of Beaver Creek.

"We have such wonderful memories and recollections of the Vail Valley over the last 32 years," he said Thursday.

Ford, 87, was energetic and robust with no outward sign of the small stroke he suffered earlier this month while at the Republican National Convention in Philadelphia.

After the ceremony, he declined to discuss his health, choosing instead to chat with friends in the crowd.

"He looks great," Mayor Ludwig Kurz said.

Ford entered the hospital Aug. 2 and was released a week later after being treated for the stroke and an abscess on his tongue. He has been recovering at his desert home in Rancho Mirage, Calif.

Tigers seek redemption against Loboes

By Eric Drennan
Sports Editor

For the past 12 months, the Snyder Tigers have tried to forget about last year's season opener.

Tonight, they'll try to wipe that memory away with a redeeming victory over Monahans.

Snyder, which suffered a 39-6 loss to Monahans a year ago, gets its shot at redemption tonight when it hosts the Loboes at 7:30 at Tiger Stadium.

Last year's debacle at Lobo Stadium was one of only three losses for Snyder, but it was an embarrassing start to the Tigers' year.

"So many things went wrong in that game. We were two steps slow on every play," said Snyder head coach David Baugh. "And the kids remember that. We're not playing up a revenge deal with our kids, but they've seen the film. They know how bad they played, and they want to set the record straight."

Snyder's offense, which mustered only 103 yards and four turnovers in last year's match-up, figures to be more productive tonight.

The Tigers own a considerable size advantage up front, and plan on establishing their power running game early on.

"I think our best match-ups are along the line," Baugh said. "We're quite a bit bigger than they are, so hopefully we can use that to our advantage."

Snyder's line will be anchored by seniors Tremaine Johnson and Lance Foreman, who tip the scales at 275 and 280 pounds, respectively. All total, the Tigers outweigh the Loboes by about 50 pounds per man in the trenches.

The size advantage should open up holes for fullback Tovares Brandon and tailback Edwin James, who draws his first start at the position.

James, the Tigers' usual starting wingback, is filling in for returning starter Josh Arizmendi, who is out two weeks due to injury.

But the change in personnel doesn't have Baugh too concerned.

"Edwin is a good runner, and we're confident in his abilities to play the position," Baugh stated. "Production wise, it shouldn't hurt us. Where it will show is in the smoothness of the operation. Any time you have a player in a different position, it takes a while for him to get into the flow of things."

It will be the first start for senior quarterback Jesse Haines, another talented runner.

Haines is always a threat on the option, and has an accurate arm on short timing passes.

"We're not going to strictly run the ball," said Baugh. "We'll mix the pass and the run. Monahans might double-team (Matthew) Grimmett, and if they do, then we'll look to some other guys."

Defensively, the Tigers have looked solid in pre-season scrimmage action, holding Sweetwater to minimal yards and only one score in last week's tune-up.

The biggest task facing Snyder's defensive unit tonight will be recognizing and adjusting to the Loboes' multiple offensive sets.

"They run from a bunch of different formations, and we have to recognize those," said Baugh. "Mark Medley is really good at seeing the formation changes, and our guys have to listen for him to make the right call."

Medley, a 5-11 205-pound senior linebacker, is a returning all-district selection for the Tigers. Along with Max Blackwell and Jamaal Pruitt at the ends, and a platoon of tackles, the Tigers should be tough up the middle.

Snyder's secondary is talented, but might be its weakest link due to inexperience, with three of the four players making their first starts.

Cornerbacks James and Chris McLeod, and strong safety T.J. Cagle, have never started a varsity game on defense.

Grimmett is the lone returning starter, but will be seeing his first action at a new position, after moving from cornerback to free safety.

"We have a lot of talent back there. We just don't have much experience," Baugh stated. "Hopefully our speed will make up for the inexperience."

Grimmett will also handle the punting chores, with Ralph Ramon doing the kicking.

Tonight's match-up is the first of only three non-district contests on the Tigers' schedule, before the Sept. 29 District 4-4A opener.

"It's strange to see the district opener on the schedule only a few weeks away," Baugh remarked. "But it's the same for everybody. I'm not sure that there's more pressure on the non-district games this year, but there's definitely less preparation time."

Following tonight's contest, the Tigers travel to Littlefield next Friday, before returning home Sept. 15 to host Abilene Wylie.

Freshman comeback falls short

Snyder made a furious comeback attempt, but couldn't overcome a large Monahans lead Thursday night in freshman football action at Tiger Stadium.

Snyder scored three times in the fourth quarter, including a pair of touchdowns in the final two minutes, before falling to the Loboes, 29-18, in the season opener for both squads.

Monahans built a 22-0 halftime advantage, before stretching the margin to 29-0 midway through the third period.

Marcus Villarreal jump-started the Tigers' rally with a 74-yard touchdown scamper that trimmed the deficit to 29-6, early in the fourth quarter.

Six minutes later, Blake Grimmett hit Tucker Early with a 6-yard scoring toss for a 29-12 tally.

Snyder's final points came from its defense at the 1:10 mark when Grimmett and Brock Tyrell pounced on a Monahans fumble in the endzone.

Snyder will be in action again at 6 p.m. Thursday at Littlefield.

Jr. high gridders fall to Ponies

Snyder Junior High took its lumps Thursday night against Andrews in the gridiron season openers for both schools.

On the eighth grade level, Snyder Gold suffered a 30-0 setback, while Snyder Black fell to the Mustangs, 52-6.

Israel Alvarado paced the gold offense with 38 yards on nine carries, while Cody Smith and Bryan Thomas anchored the defensive effort.

Snyder Black posted the lone touchdown for the Tigers on an 80-yard scoring toss from Cade Owen to Eder Borrego.

In seventh grade action, both Tiger squads were edged by Andrews, 6-0.

Tailback C.L. Davis led the gold squad with 35 yards on the ground.

Defensively, Garrett Pinson picked off an Andrews pass. Tackles Salvador Perez and Samuel Ramirez, along with linebacker Chris Smith, helped shut down the Mustang's attack.

For Snyder Black, it was Manuel Aparicio rushed for 20 yards to spur the offense.

All four Tiger squads will be in action again Thursday against Big Spring.

SHS spikers ready for Wayland Baptist event

The Snyder Lady Tigers were to have squared off with Plainview this morning in the opening round of the Coca-Cola Classic at Wayland Baptist University in Plainview.

The two-day tournament is the final tune-up for the Lady Tigers, who open district play Tuesday at home against San Angelo Lake View.

This morning's match with Plainview will be followed by contests with Sanford-Fritch, Dalhart and Dumas, later in the day.

Also competing in the event are Lubbock Monterey, Borger, Midland Greenwood and Levelland.

Snyder entered the tourney with a record of 8-7.

Snyder JV falls, 21-6

MONAHANS — The Monahans Loboes turned a couple of Snyder miscues into 21-6 victory Thursday night in the junior varsity season opener at Lobo Stadium.

Monahans took advantage of a short field on two first half drives.

After Snyder fumbled the opening kickoff, the Loboes scored from 10 yards out to go on top, 7-0.

Monahans stretched the halftime margin to 14-0 with a 5-yard drive, following a bad snap by Snyder on an attempted punt.

In the third quarter, the Loboes built a 21-0 advantage, before the Tigers struck paydirt on a 1-yard plunge by Clay Williams to cap the scoring.

Snyder will be in action again at 6:30 p.m. Thursday when it hosts Littlefield at Tiger Stadium.

Ex-assistant U.S. attorney being investigated

HOUSTON (AP) — The former prosecutor who warned Attorney General Janet Reno of a possible cover-up within her own department has been told he is being targeted for prosecution by Waco Special Counsel John C. Danforth.

Former assistant U.S. Attorney Bill Johnston has been a target of Danforth's office since he spent three days under interrogation last month in St. Louis, two government sources told The Associated Press on the condition of anonymity.

Johnston's attorney, Michael Kennedy, said his client has been told he could be indicted on charges including obstruction of justice and perjury.

"This law office and Mr. Johnston believe that he was unfairly targeted for his frequent criticism of the U.S. government and for blowing the whistle on the government's eforts to mislead the public about the government's use of pyrotechnic devices against the Branch Davidians," Kennedy said in a statement.

The charges reportedly stem from pretrial notes Johnston made in 1993 that show he may have been present at a meeting where "military rounds" were discussed.

Johnston did not pass those to Danforth's office because he was concerned they would be misconstrued and used to falsely implicate him, the sources told the AP. Johnston, who resigned from the Justice Department in January, did not remember the meeting, the sources said.

Jan Diltz, a spokeswoman for Danforth's office in St. Louis, declined to comment.

Friends and former law enforcement associates in Waco say they are starting a legal defense fund for Johnston.

"The whole town is incensed that they would pick on him. He's as fine a man as I have ever known," said David Smith, a former Waco city manager spearheading the fund. "As the word gets out, there are going to be more and more people incensed about it."

Last month, Danforth absolved the government of all blame in the blaze. A week before, an advisory jury hearing a $675 million wrongful-death suit brought by surviving cult members and the victims' families came to the same conclusion.

Johnston helped draft the search warrant that the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms attempted to execute on Feb. 28, 1993, in a botched raid that turned into a gunbattle. Four federal agents and six Davidians were killed.

The gunfight sparked the 51-day standoff at the Davidians' complex outside Waco. The siege ended on April 19, 1993, with a fire that consumed the compound, killing sect leader David Koresh and some 80 followers inside. Some died from fire, others from gunshot wounds.

Johnston in 1994 helped convict nine Davidians during their criminal trial.

But he has been at odds with Justice officials since he paved the way for filmmaker Michael McNulty to review evidence sifted from the compound ruins. McNulty's discovery of a spent pyrotechnic tear gas canister forced the FBI last year to recant its longstanding denials that potentially incendiary devices were fired on April 19, 1993.

The about-face triggered investigations by Congress and a special counsel appointed by Reno. Danforth was asked to review government actions in the standoff and determine if there was a government cover-up.

Meanwhile, Johnston wrote Reno a letter on Aug. 30, 1999, stating that government lawyers had known about the potentially incendiary devices for years. Ten days later, Johnston was abruptly pulled from the case.

It was the second time Johnston had bypassed his immediate superiors by going straight to Reno. In 1993, Johnston wrote Reno about the FBI's handling of the crime scene at the burned Davidian compound, which included bulldozing the area, after his complaints were ignored.

Johnston resigned from the U.S. attorney's office in January. Danforth twice has brought him before a federal grand jury for questioning since his resignation.

In another matter, U.S. District Judge Walter S. Smith on Tuesday canceled a Sept. 18 hearing on whether federal agents shot at Branch Davidians on the final day of the standoff.

The hearing was canceled because plaintiffs would not pay travel costs for David Oxlee, an expert from England. Oxlee worked with British firm Vector Data Systems Ltd., which examined infrared images taken by an aerial FBI surveillance camera on the final day of a 51-day standoff between federal agents and the Davidians.

Smith is expected to issue a final ruling on the issues presented to the jury as well as the gunfire issue.

Gov. Bush fails to get dismissed from lawsuit

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. George W. Bush failed in his effort to get dismissed from a lawsuit that accuses him of violating free speech rights of environmental protesters at the Governor's Mansion last year.

State District Judge John Dietz on Wednesday said Bush could be called to testify when the case goes to trial. No trial date has been set.

The lawsuit alleged that Bush gave state troopers "unbridled discretion" to target protesters picketing in front of the mansion on a public sidewalk.

"We have now established one important part of our case and that is that the governor is not above the law and that the constitution can be enforced. We still have to prove the rest of our case so we aren't done," said David Kahne, a lawyer for the protesters.

Bush spokesman Mike Jones said Thursday that the security policies regarding the mansion were made by the Department of Public Safety, with no involvement by Bush or his office.

The lawsuit was filed against Bush and the DPS in August 1999 by people arrested and jailed on four different occasions. They were protesting environmental policies backed by Bush. In each case the Travis County's district attorney's office dropped charges of blocking an entry way.

Rick Abraham, one of those arrested, said previous governors of both parties allowed protesters to picket on the sidewalk and Bush is trying to silence his critics because he is running for president.

"Governor Bush is responsible, whether he told law enforcement officers to silence his critics, or simply gave approval with a wink and a nod," Abraham said.

Jones denied the accusation.

"Free speech is exercised freely around the Governor's Mansion and around the Capitol," Jones said.

"There are protests that take place almost weekly near the Capitol and near the Governor's Mansion and it takes place in a manner that is not harmful or disruptive to public safety."

Calcium deposits are common

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have calcium deposits in my spine. Would calcium tablets relieve my arthritis pain or simply make matters worse? I am a 70-year-old grandmother.

DEAR READER: Calcium supplements will neither affect your pain of arthritis nor make matters worse. The pain is caused by stimulation of nerves in and around joints (including the spine), resulting from inflammation (such as seen in gout and rheumatoid arthritis) or from the age-related wearing-down of joint surfaces (seen in osteoarthritis). In general, therapy for arthritis pain consists of anti-inflammatory drugs (of which there are many, ranging from ibuprofen to Vioxx) and physical therapy to maintain joint fluidity and range of motion.

As each of us ages, calcium in the body shifts location, leaving bone and appearing in the linings of arteries and in tendons. This unavoidable phenomenon is unrelated either to total body calcium or to calcium intake. Rather, it is due to poorly understood age-related changes in tissue metabolism.

Because a deficiency in bone-calcium (osteoporosis) is common in older people, physicians have experimented with various methods to prevent this loss. Exercise, a balanced diet, hormone pills (for women), and other prescription medication have been shown to retard the loss of bone calcium. In addition, calcium supplements (with vitamin D) slow the onset of osteoporosis, without harming metabolism. Therefore, you should consider taking 1,000 to 1,500 milligrams of extra calcium (with about 500 international units of vitamin D) for this reason, if your doctor agrees.

Also as a consequence of aging, calcium deposits may form around the spinal bones, causing "lipping" (seen as a shelf-like protrusion on X-rays) that can rub against nerves to cause pain. This is related to the shift in calcium that I alluded to above. Such deposits are not related to calcium supplements.

Because the therapy for the pain of arthritis and the treatment of osteoporosis have undergone such revolutionary changes in the past few years, you should check with your physician to learn what options are available to you. To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Osteoporosis." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I bruise very easily, even after minor trauma — or, in some instances, no trauma at all. Could the daily aspirin tablet I take be playing a role?

DEAR READER: Normal blood clotting depends on a complex series of chemical reactions. As an integral part of this process, tiny blood cells (platelets) play a crucial role by sticking together to form a superstructure that supports the clotting chemicals. When platelets lose their adhesiveness and fail to aggregate, a blood clot cannot readily form.

Aspirin (and similar compounds) disrupt platelet stickiness. Therefore, these inexpensive drugs are often used to prevent common diseases, such as stroke and heart attacks, that are related to inappropriate blood clotting. As little as one baby aspirin a day (one-fourth the strength of a standard adult tablet) will significantly reduce the speed with which blood coagulates.

I suspect that aspirin is the cause of your bleeding tendency, a common reaction in people who are so treated. Spontaneous or easy bruising is not harmful but can be annoying at times because of discomfort and the obvious cosmetic effects.

If your doctor has told you to take aspirin because you are at high risk for stroke or heart attack, you will simply have to put up with the bruising. On the other hand — because aspirin therapy is not recommended for most adults — if you are taking it on your own, I suggest you discontinue it, and see if your susceptibility to bruising disappears in a week or so.

I should add that unexplained bruising may also reflect a serious clotting disorder not related to aspirin; such diseases include leukemia and thrombocytopenia (a primary disease of platelets), both of which must be aggressively addressed. Therefore, while I suspect that your problem is aspirin-related, you may wish to check with your physician to make sure no serious ailment is to blame.

Entries equal ruffs plus one

By Phillip Alder

The Senior Life Master started his class by saying, "Anyone can cash aces and kings. But for success, most contracts require turning low cards into tricks."

He asked his students to look at the North-South hands in this deal.

You are in four spades (the SLM continued). West leads the club king. What are your thoughts?

After giving them some time to consider the problem, the SLM resumed.

You are faced with four losers: two diamonds and two clubs. Similarly, you have nine winners: seven spades, one heart and one club. The only realistic chance is to establish one of dummy's low hearts as a winner. That requires ruffing three hearts in hand, so you will need four dummy entries.

After winning with dummy's club ace, cash the heart ace (entry one) and ruff a heart high in hand. Return to dummy with a spade to the eight (entry two) and ruff another heart high. Play a spade to dummy's jack (entry three) and ruff a third heart high. Finally, enter dummy with another trump (entry four) and cash the established heart seven, discarding a minor-suit loser.

Remember that if you must ruff x times to establish a suit, you need x+1 entries: x for the ruffs and the extra one to gain access to the established winner (or winners). And an entry counts only if you can instantly take a ruff. Here, the club ace is not an entry, because you cannot ruff a heart at trick two. And immediately drawing a round of trumps would be fatal: You need all three trumps as dummy entries.

Hale hosts marathon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Turns out Raymond Burr was quite the practical joker on the set of the old "Perry Mason" courtroom drama.

"One time he gave me about two dozen roses for my birthday in a long box," said Barbara Hale, who played Della Street on the show.

Hale will be the host of a 20-hour "Perry Mason" movie marathon this Labor Day on cable's Court TV.

"He brought me up in front of the whole courtroom. I said, 'Oh, Raymond. Thank you.' I took the top of the box off because they were exposed up here and there were about 25 little white mice coming out," the 79-year-old Hale said.

Philippine rebels demand $10 million for release of one American hostage

AMBOANGA, Philippines (AP) — Muslim rebels have demanded $10 million for the release of an American kidnapped this week in the southern Philippines, despite a U.S. refusal to pay any ransom, negotiators said Friday.

The Abu Sayyaf rebels, who earlier threatened to behead Jeffrey Schilling, pledged not to harm him while negotiations continue. They asked that food and medicine be sent for the 24-year-old Oakland, Calif. resident, who U.S. officials say has serious health problems.

"You must send today medicine and food because you know this American doesn't eat cassava," rebel spokesman Abu Sabaya told newly appointed government negotiator Roland Sarmiento. Cassava is a starchy tropical root crop.

The two spoke in a telephone conversation broadcast over the Radio Mindanao Network.

Sabaya did not mention the $10 million ransom or make any other formal demands in the conversation, although he had earlier said the group would present its demands Friday.

The rebels are expected to seek the release of several Arab terrorists being held in U.S. jails.

The U.S. State Department has ruled out paying ransom or making deals with the rebels, and said the negotiations are the Philippine government's responsibility.

The Abu Sayyaf group, which says it is seeking an independent Islamic state in the southern Philippines, is still holding six other foreigners and 12 Filipinos. Earlier this week, they freed six foreign hostages for a reported $6 million ransom, paid by Libya.

Sabaya made the $10 million ransom demand Thursday night, a member of the negotiating team said.

He had earlier said that "one American is worth 10 Europeans" in ransom.

On Friday, Sabaya also asked that a man who helped arrange a reported $4.5 million ransom payment for nine Malaysians be included in the negotiations. The request suggests the rebels would agree to have Schilling's ransom paid by a third party, allowing the U.S. government to maintain its official no-ransom policy.

Sabaya also insisted that North Korea, China, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and Libya take part in the negotiations — a demand Philippine Defense Secretary Orlando Mercado rejected.

Sabaya pledged that "while we are conducting talks ... we will not consider any violence against Mr. Schilling," but warned that "if we lose our patience, then the U.S. will really regret it."

Family buries 11 after pipeline blast

Services were held last Saturday for eleven family members who died in an Aug. 19 pipeline explosion at a camping area near Carlsbad, N.M.

The explosion occurred near an area on the Pecos River south of Carlsbad where 12 members of two extended families were spending a weekend fishing trip.

The only survivor, 25-year-old Amanda Smith, is still listed in critical condition at University Medical Center in Lubbock although family members have said she has shown some improvement.

The explosion claimed the lives of her parents, Don and Glenda Sumler; her father-in-law, Bobby Smith; her husband, Terry Wayne Smith; her five-year-old daughter, Kirsten; her three-year-old son, Dustin; her brother and sister-in-law, Royle and Amy Heady; and their three young daughters, Kelsey Lynn Heady, Tamber Marie Heady and Timber Lee Heady. She still has not been told of the loss.

Bobby Smith's mother, Geneva Smith, his brother, Fletcher Smith, and his sister, Effie Witte, are all Snyder residents.

A public memorial service was held Saturday in Carlsbad Civic Center. Officiating were the Revs. D.Michael Lee of Victory Baptist Church and Ed Kneeland of Church Street Church of the Nazarene, both in Carlsbad. Interment was in the Carlsbad Cemetery.

A special fund for the family has been established at Snyder National Bank. Those wishing to donate should mail a check or money order to Box 209, Snyder, to the attention of Janelle Orr. The check should be made out to the Smith Family Fund.
