An Odessa drama

An infant car seat, with the passenger door mashed up against it, is left behind in the 1979 Ford Mustang belonging to 22-year-old Cathryn Priest Dawson of Odessa. The vehicle was demolished Friday afternoon when it was hit broadside by a car being pursued by Odessa police in connection with a burglary case. Ms. Dawson and her 9-month-old daughter, Beverly Lynn, were treated for minor injuries suffered in the crash. At left is the shed behind an elderly Odessa woman's house where one of two burglary suspects was arrested Friday afternoon. The other suspect reportedly was arrested near City Hall shortly afterward.

Police chase lands suspects in Odessa jail

ODESSA — A high speed, bullet-punctuated police chase ended with the arrest of two burglary suspects and minor injuries to a mother and her infant daughter after their car and the one being pursued by police collided at an intersection near the downtown area shortly after 1 p.m. Friday.

Released following treatment at Medical Center Hospital were 22-year-old Cathryn Priest Dawson of Route A, Odessa, and her daughter, 9-month-old Beverly Lynn.

According to police accounts of the incident, she was southbound on Washington Street when her car was hit broadside by one driven eastbound on 9th Street by 26-year-old Jerry Wayne Leija. He and a passenger, Richard John Olivas, no age available, were not injured. Both men are from Odessa.

Police said the Leija vehicle was being followed in an unmarked car by Warrant Officer Albert Janke. Janke had burglary warrants against the men and attempted to pull theircar over near the intersection of 22nd and Golder Streets. But Leija refused to stop and a five-minute chase, which reached speeds of 60 miles an hour, ended when Leija ran a stop sign and his vehicle struck Ms. Dawson's car.

Other officers joined the pursuit, and one motorcycle patrolman radioed headquarters that gunfire had erupted. The men attempted to flee on foot after the accident but were captured without incident shortly afterward.

One of the suspects reportedly was arrested near City Hall, a short distance away, while the second was found hiding in a shed about a block from the scene of the accident.

No weapon was found on either man, according to police, who later said the only gunfire came from Janke, who fired one shot in the air to stop the men. It wasn't immediately known if he fired during the chase or when the suspects fled on foot.

A nearby resident, Don Hough, said his wife saw one of the suspects run through their yard and enter a small cinder block shed behind a neighbor's house. Hough got a .32-caliber pistol and was approaching the shed when three officers entered the alley and Hough pointed to the shed.

According to Hough, the suspect began screaming incoherently as police, guns drawn, opened the shed door. They laid the man face down on the ground and quickly handcuffed him. It could not be determined which of the men was hiding in the shed.

The neighbor, an elderly woman who asked not to be identified, said she was listening to the radio in her house when officers knocked on the door and told her what had happened. "I was in the back yard less than a half-hour before," she said. "It scares me."

Both suspects were arraigned before Ector County Justice of the Peace Jimmy Harris, who set bond of $25,000 on each of the men in connection with an Odessa burglary Thursday. Traffic charges, including failure to stop and render aid, were expected to be filed against Leija later.

Evening downpour drowns out motorists

By GAIL BURKE

Midlanders did not have to travel beyond their front yards Friday to get to a lake. The rains came pouring down just at the time workers streamed out of the offices to go home, stalling cars and then engulfing them with the swirling waters, leaving people stranded and wading through the surging rivers that suddenly materialized to flow over many curbs in the city.

"Cars are going all over the place," police reported from Wadley Avenue and Big Spring Street, "with three cars stuck in the intersection."

One officer reporting conditions at Neely Avenue and A Street to another officer over the radio said "they're OK — just drowned out. Those people in their cars might as well sit there because if anyone goes out to help, they'll get drowned out too."

Reports like these began at 5:30 p.m. Friday and continued past 9:30 p.m. However, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport, today's forecast calls for partly cloudy skies with a 20 percent chance of afternoon and nighttime thundershowers. The high through Sunday is expected to be near 90 with the low tonight dipping to near 60.

While Midlanders treaded through flooded streets, the Odessa Police Department reported "a steady rain with no unusual problems." Andrews, Lamesa and Stanton reported steady rain, but Big Spring and Garden City said they "were dry without a drop."

The cold front slipping through West Texas out of Kansas brought an abundant amount of moisture, according to the weather service, with .43 of an inch of rain falling from 7 to 9 p.m Friday.

With Friday's wind-whipped downpour, the rainfall total for the month peaked at 1.51 inches. And for the year, the total tops out at 11.85 inches. Average rainfall for a year in Midland is reported to be about 13 inches.

Another mishap reported Friday night was a car spotted submerged near the intersection of Scharbauer Drive and L Street. In addition, lightning hitting a house was reported by the Midland Fire Department, but no damage was incurred.

Moslems march through Cairo streets

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Riot police used tear gas and bamboo canes to rout Moslem demonstrators Friday, and the government announced a near-unanimous "yes" vote in the referendum on President Anwar Sadat's crackdown on political foes and religious extremists.

Some 300-400 Moslem demonstrators, many of them bearded and in white robes chanting "God is great," marched into the streets from the El Nur mosque in northeast Cairo shortly after the end of Friday Sabbath prayers.

After marching about a half-mile and obstructing traffic on a highway, the demonstrators were charged by some 1,000 riot police in formations of about 60-80 men each. The police fired teargas and used bamboo canes to disperse the demonstrators in a matter of minutes.

Reporters saw some demonstrators being beaten and loaded into police trucks. They said one man continued shouting, "God is great" as he was kicked and punched.

The demonstrators were angry that a government-appointed prayer leader was speaking in place of Sheik Ghazala, the fiery Moslem preacher arrested with more than 1,500 other figures by Sadat's police earlier this month.

Another protest took place at the nearby Ein el-Haya mosque. Its leader, the blind Sheik Abdel-Hhamid Kishk, also was among those arrested by Sadat's government.

About 200 chanting fundamentalists, most of them wearing white robes, were dispersed by the cane-wielding police. No injuries were reported, but some demonstrators were arrested and windows of shops were broken.

Casette tapes of Kishk's vitriolic, anti-Sadat, anti-Israeli, anti-American sermons were blared from a stereo set in an apartment building near El-Nur mosque.

The overwhelming approval came as no surprise. Four previous plebiscites on national issues like the peace treaty with Israel were approved by nearly unanimous, officially announced votes. The "yes or no" question put before voters in the latest referendum was :

"Do you agree to the procedures and principles of national unity and social peace?"

Begin offers U.S. use of Israel's military bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin said Friday he has offered the United States use of his nation's air and naval bases to deter the "danger to freedom" posed by the Soviet Union in the Middle East.

Begin told reporters at a Blair House luncheon his proposals, which also include storing U.S. tanks in Israel and flying Mediterranean air cover for U.S. transport planes, were under discussion by Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and Israeli Defense Minister Ariel Sharon.

But he said Israel would not call on American troops to fight in its wars and that he did not request a defense treaty with the United States. "We draw a line of distinction between defending Israel and our common interest in resisting Soviet expansion into the Middle East," Begin said.

Making his points with considerable passion over a salmon and rice luncheon in the ornate presidential guest house, the 68-year-old Israeli leader urged the United States to keep pace with the Soviet Union, which has stored thousands of tanks in Libya and Syria.

Under Begin's proposals, Israeli ports would be open to the U.S. Sixth Fleet and the American air force could use the new bases the United States is helping Israel to construct in the Negev. These are to replace the modern air bases in Sinai that Israel is relinquishing to Egypt under the 1979 peace treaty.

At the same time, Begin renewed his attack on Reagan's plan to sell Saudi Arabia $8.5 billion in U.S. weapons and he said he had a commitment from the administration that Syria would withdrew its missiles from Lebanon.

Begin did not explain how the United States intended to arrange removal of the missiles, but he said he also had a commitment to continue Israeli overflights to check on enemy installations in southern Lebanon.

Condemning the Saudi arms deal as " very dangerous to our security," Begin said that it would put every Israeli town within the reach of U.S.-built F-15 fighter jets that would have enhanced fuel capacity.

"Saudi Arabia participated directly in all the wars involving Israel," Begin said. "We have to assume they would participate in another one."

Before departing the capital for New York, Begin met with evangelical Christian leader Jerry Falwell, who declared that God will treat nations on the basis of how they treat Jews. "If we could get Adolf Hilter out of hell for about 30 seconds, he'd say 'Amen' to that," Falwell said.

Polish, Soviet leaders attack union

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Polish and Soviet authorities leveled communism's harshest charge against Solidarity Friday, calling the independent union "counter-revolutionary." A radical member of the union suggested the labor federation now had people capable of running Poland's government.

Czechoslovakia charged Solidarity with interfering in the internal affairs of other nations and Hungary joined the barrage of criticism, accusing the union of launching an "open attack" on Warsaw Pact countries.

Soviet warships were reported deploying thousands of Soviet marines in a mock landing exercise on the Soviet coast north of Poland, and the official Soviet news agency Tass quoted a letter from a Polish worker saying Solidarity leaders "have discarded all camouflage and call directly for a counter-revolution."

The Warsaw chapter of the Communist Party said Solidarity "was developing, in defiance of agreements and the statutes, as a socio-political movement aiming at a counter-revolutionary change of the political system in Poland.

"Thisifound confirmation in the sharpened attacks on the party, the government and the country's political-legal order" during Solidarity's just-adjourned, six-day national congress in Gdansk, where the union was formed 13 months ago, the Warsaw party said.

The army newspaper, Zolnierz Wolnosci, said the congress manifested an "anti-state, tough course," and that its resolution threatening to boycott a government law on workers' reforms was a "sharp challenge to the state authorities, including the Sejm (parliament) as the supreme authority."

The paper said the union's warnings to impose Solidarity's version of worker self-management and hold a national referendum on the issue "on the one hand impressed (us) with their openness and horrified (us) with their utterly provocative character on the other."

The suggestion about running the government came from the leader of Solidarity's chapter in Szczecin, a Baltic port on the East German border. The official, Marian Jurczyk, is regarded as a radical in the 9.5-million-member labor federation, the first one free of party control in the Soviet bloc.

Jurczyk, in an interview with Solidarity's news service, said that the "union didn't have the proper people to nominate the government" during the period last March when Solidarity threatened a general strike.

When asked, "Would the union be able to nominate the proper people today in case of a strike?" Jurczyk replied, "I think so."

Jurczyk used the word "nominate" to mean install or replace the current government, but since Solidarity still is not regarded officially as a political party and does not have any role in the parliament it is unable to do such a thing.

Nonetheless, Solidarity adjourned its Gdansk congress Thursday with a call for free elections in Poland. A second congress is scheduled Sept. 26.

"We demand that the election law ensure social and political organizations the right to put forward candidates," the congress resolution said. "The right to put forward candidates should also be given to groups of citizens."

Haig leaves for Europe, Fahd meeting

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. left Friday on a quick trip to three European countries and a secrecy-shrouded meeting with Crown Prince Fahd of Saudi Arabia.

After a 12-hour stopover in Malaga for the Fahd meeting Saturday, Haig planned to continue to Yugoslavia and Germany. He was scheduled to return to Washington on Tuesday.

In Germany, Haig will consult with Chancellor Helmut Schmidt over growing anti-U.S. and anti-nuclear unrest, particularly among German youth. On that score, Schmidt is expected to ask — and likely get — Haig's assurance that the United States will not deploy neutron nuclear weapons in Europe in the near future.

Haig himself is the target of demonstrations planned Sunday in Berlin, where he will deliver a speech on U.S. defense strategy.

Little has been said about the meeting with the Saudi crown prince, who is considered one of the most influential members of the royal family and whose support for U.S. policies in the Middle East is considered crucial.

Although a reporter learned of the Haig-Fahd meeting on Tuesday, the State Department declined to confirm it until just prior to Haig's departure.

Haig said earlier Friday that Saudi Arabia is "essentially oriented toward Western interests" and that its cooperation in easing the Lebanon crisis and in holding down oil prices "has underlined as perhaps nothing else has heretofore the importance of the American-Saudi Arabian relationship."

He made the remark on the ABC television program "Good Morning America."

Government and diplomatic sources said Haig probably wants to reassure Fahd there will no last-minute hitch in the controversial sale of $8.5 billion in U.S. weapons, including five Airborne Warning and Control Systems aircraft, known as AWACS.

The Saudis have made the sale a test of their relationship with the United States, and Fahd reportedly has said he would cancel a proposed visit to the United States later this year if the sale didn't go through.

President Reagan refused to budge despite the objections voiced by visiting Israeli Prime Minister Menahchem Begin this week that the AWACS are a threat to Israel.

Sources have said Haig also will consult with Fahd on the prospects for a Middle East peace, and that they probably will discuss the Reagan-Haig conversations with Begin on the matter.

Haig said at a news conference Thursday he is optimistic about the chances of achieving an agreement between Israel and Egypt on Palestinian autonomy by April. They are scheduled to resume autonomy talks in Cairo on Sept. 23.

Fahd recently put forward his own peace plan that would recognize Israel's right to exist if other conditions are met, including creation of a separate Palestinian state with Jerusalem as its capital.

The Saudis have considerable influence as the chief financial backer of the Palestian Liberation Organization and they played a crucial role in helping arrange the cease-fire between the PLO and Israel along the Lebanese border.

Haig's 16-hour stop in Yugoslavia is designed to show support for the leadership which is maintaining the nonaligned policies of the late Marshal Tito.

One purpose of Haig's visit to Germany on Sunday and Monday will be to coordinate U.S. and German policy in advance of Haig's important meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in New York later this month.

Haig and Gromyko will draw up plans for formal negotiations aimed at restricting deployment of medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe, negotiations in which Germany has a vital interest.

Schmidt has agreed to accept U.S. medium-range missiles on Germany soil, but he is under pressure, even from within his own Social Democratic Party, to back down. While he is holding firm, he wants U.S.-Soviets negotiations to go forward.

Haig also feels that the administration's decision last month to go ahead with production of the neutron warhead has caused additional problems for Schmidt.

Perhaps a Permian Pit?

By PATRICK DEAREN
Staff Writer

Well, the Permian Pit finally has surfaced...uh, plunged?...to join the ranks of the Kermit Crater and Wink Sink.

When Sylvia Yharte returned home to 908 Fort Worth St. Friday afternoon, she discovered that an apparent sinkhole had gobbled up a chunk of the yard alongside her house, giving her a sink that wasn't the kitchen type.

Situated in a formerly used driveway that for many years had provided access to a car shed, the grave-sized pit — six to seven feet deep — baffled her and attracted numerous onlookers, who could not conceive how the belly of the ground could have bared itself.

Had all that oil being sucked for decades from the bowels of the earth finally left such a cavity there was no place for Midland to go but down?

Not exactly, for the Permian Pit failed to prove as dramatic as imagined by Ms. Yharte, though its residue certainly was more potent than the water which left its Winkler County counterpart a small lake.

For in reality, Ms. Yharte's find was not a sinkhole at all, but a long-since forgotten cesspool whose support beams had rotted and collapsed.

Oh well, so much for the ol' home sinkhole, the Permian Pit and nationwide publicity.

But look out, Super, Cotton, Rose and Sugar. Here comes Midland's own "Permian Bowl."

Peering into the pit discovered Friday afternoon in the yard of Sylvia Yharte is Ramon Valles. Unlike the Kermit Crater, this pit is an abandoned cesspool.

Jury deadlocked 9-3 in local assault case

A jury trying to resolve an aggravated assault case allegedly involving a peeping tom, a deputy sheriff, a man with a shotgun and disturbed neighbors wound up in a 9-3 deadlock in favor of acquittal following about six hours of deliberation in 142nd State District Court in Midland on Friday.

Presiding Judge Pat Baskin declared a mistrial after defense and prosecuting attorneys agreed to accept the hung-jury situation and not again to send the jurors into deliberation.

Date for retrying the case has not be set.

Defendant in the case was Daniel Edwin Kolas who was charged with assaulting Midland County Deputy Sheriff Luther Hawley last Oct. 19 near Kolas's home southeast of Midland.

Prosecutors Jim Rex and Rob Sutphen contended that Kolas silently had pointed the shotgun at Hawley and walked toward him after the deputy was dispatched to the rural area to quell a minor disturbance, including shots fired skyward.

Kolas contended that he was using the shotgun to ward off a peeping tom in the neighborhood.

"It was a confusing case, really," said defense attorney Harold Jones. Co-defense counsel was Ralph Noyes.

The judge thanked the seven-woman, five-man jury for their service.

"I deeply appreciate your service," Baskin said. "I'm not the least bit discouraged or put off (by the deadlock)."

Iranian assassin kills self, seven others

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An assassin posing as a questioner walked up to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's representative in the Iranian city of Tabriz on Friday and set off a grenade that killed himself, the official and six worshippers in the crowded square, Iran's state-run media reported.

The blast, which Tehran Radio said also wounded 12 worshippers, continued the 2½-month-old campaign of bombings and assassinations aimed at overthrowing Khomeini's Islamic fundamentalist regime. The government, also facing a rebellion by Kurds in the western provinces, announced troops killed or wounded over 100 of them in a drive against the Kurds this week.

Iran's official Pars news agency said the "terrorist was killed on the spot" while Khomeini aide Ayatollah Assadollah Madani was rushed to a hospital where he died in surgery.

The news agency reported that the assassin, wearing a grenade around his waist, pretended that he wanted to ask a question and approached the 80-year-old Madani, the Friday prayer leader.

"Suddenly the grenade exploded, severely wounding the Friday prayer leader and other worshippers," Pars said.

Khomeini proclaimed the assassinated aide a martyr to his Islamic revolution and immediately appointed a replacement as his personal representative to Tabriz, Iran's fourth largest city about 310 miles west of Tehran.

Tehran Radio said Ayatollah Meshkini, prayer leader in the holy city of Qom, immediately left to fill the vacancy in Tabriz. His first name was not given.

Khomeini, 81-year-old patriarch of the revolution that deposed the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi in 1979, has insisted his course will not be altered by the underground campaign that repeatedly has claimed his top leaders.

The leftist Mujahedeen Khalq, Iran's largest underground guerrilla group, was held responsible for bombings in Tehran and other Iranian cities during the past 11 weeks that claimed the lives of more than 200 fundamentalist supporters or leaders of the regime.

Among those killed were the successor to ousted President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, the prime minister and the chief justice of the Iranian supreme court.

Madani, a fiery orator who climbed quickly to national prominence with his militant adherence to fundamentalism, was considered a powerful figure in Khomeini's regime.

An official in the provincial governor's office reached by telephone, told The Associated Press in Beirut that the grenade blast occurred at 1:30 p.m. — 9 a.m. EDT.

The city, capital of Turkish-speaking Azerbaijan Province, was a center of the final revolutionary drive in spring 1979.

Tabriz remained a Khomeini stronghold until he split with Grand Ayatollah Kazem Shariatmadari, who is from Tabriz, after militants seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran on Nov. 4, 1979.

The outlawed Kurdish Democratic Party as well as the Mujahedeen Khalq command a strong following in Tabriz and the rest of the province.

Tehran Radio reported that in western Azerbaijan province Islamic Revolutionary Guards continued a campaign against Kurdish rebels. The broadcast said in four days 70 "counter-revolutionaries" were killed, more than 100 wounded and 40 captured, while nine guards were killed and 15 wounded.

Khomeini appointed a new commander for the guards, his most trusted security force, on Friday, and Iranian sources said the move was intended to insure cooperation with other security branches.

Woman charged with taking infant from hospital room

ATLANTA (AP) — A baby abducted from her mother's hospital room a month ago was found safe Friday in nearby DeKalb County, and a woman has been charged in the disappearance, police said.

Shanta Yvette Alexander was returned to Grady Hospital, where she was reunited with her mother, Atlanta police spokeswoman Beverly Harvard said.

Arrested on charges of kidnapping and forgery in connection with the abduction was Louise Lett, 26, of Decatur, Atlanta police Lt. B.L. Neikirk said.

Hospital spokesman Mike Yelton said the child was examined by a pediatrician and "she's in excellent health. She was very well taken care of."

The baby was abducted from Grady on Aug. 4, when she was less than 12 hours old. The abduction occurred when the baby's mother, Sandra Alexander, left her room for a few minutes.

"I was always hoping I would see her again," Mrs. Alexander, 28, told an afternoon news conference moments before she and her husband, Bobby, were reunited with the child.

Missionaries are attacked

LIMA, Peru (AP) — About 40 masked men attacked a Roman Catholic religious center in southeastern Peru and threatened to kill the five American missionaries working there, the victims reported.

A mimeographed circular obtained Friday by The Associated Press said some of the missionaries were slightly injured, with one nun wounded in the face and legs from a bomb thrown into a bedroom.

A Peruvian nun at the mission also was threatened by the assailants who were armed with clubs, knives and at least one handgun, according to the circular.

It said the attack came at 9:30 p.m. on Aug. 15.

The incident was not reported by the news media, and Catholic sources said church leaders apparently did not want to have it publicized. A brief mention was made in the Aug. 22 edition of Informativo, a small, church-related magazine.

According to the circular, five of the six victims were members of the Maryknoll order based in Maryknoll, N.Y.

Arizona Indian tribe is documenting own history

DENVER (AP) — At age 97, anthropologist Ruth Murray Underhill is setting out to help Arizona's Mohave Indians write their own history — a way of documenting Indian history she says that has never been tried.

"This is an entirely new way of telling about Indian ways," says Ms. Underhill, a former teacher at the University of Denver. "They asked me to write a book about the tribe. I said no, I'm too old to write it and white people have been doing this long enough. You write it this time."

While she acts as a consultant, the tribe will write, edit and publish a series of booklets on the oral traditions of the Mohave people, never before set down on paper.

The project was explained here recently by Ms. Underhill and by the tribe's oral historian, Edward Swick, 64.

The two first met in the 1930s, when Ms. Underhill was living on Indian reservations in Arizona and gathering material for 19 books and countless articles on the Papago tribe, neighbors of the Mohaves.

During that time, she compiled reams of notes on the Mohaves, and Swick says those will prove invaluable as most tribal elders of the 1930s have died. Additional interviews would be conducted to corroborate and supplement her material.

Swick said he hoped that a large number of the 1,800 Mohaves on the Colorado River Reservation would be drawn into the project.

The two said they thought a series of pamphlets covering aspects of Mohave history — including tribal legend on how the world began and the afterlife — would be easier to read than "a big, fat book." They plan to sell each illustrated pamphlet for about $1.50, and expect them to be used in Mohave schools, as well as those on other Indian reservations.

"Most Indians know only their own tribe," Ms. Underhill said. "When you ask them about other tribes, they really don't know much about them."

Swick noted that the booklets were important for Mohave tribe members as well.

"More and more, they ask about their own life, traditions and religion," he said. "They want to know what their background is."

The history project would be funded by the reservation, through profitable businesses, including a charter air service, a mobile home park and a 6,000-acre farm.

Members of three other tribes share the Mohave reservation. Members of the Chemehauvis, Hopis and Navajos were invited in during the 1940s to swell the reservation's population and thus qualify it for federal aid.

Today, however, the Colorado River Indian Tribes pride themselves in being virtually self-sufficient, the only federal funds coming in are to pay salaries of Bureau of Indian Affairs personnel.

Blind Commission's spending criticized

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The executive director of a charity organization told the State Blind Commission on Friday it is spending more and doing less for Texas blind people each year.

Glenn Crawford of the Texas Lions League was joined by Rep. Doyle Willis, D-Fort Worth, and Fred Hamilton of Houston, president of the league, in supporting a Lions program for the blind.

The commission voted April 10 to terminate its contract with the Lions job-training camp for adult blind people at Kerrville. The program is funded by state tax dollars and money collected by the Lions.

Crawford said it costs the commission $77.90 a day to teach a client a job, but it only costs the Lions $59.52.

He said in 1979 the commission rehabilitated 2,850 clients at a total cost of $9,087,000 or $3,188 per client. In 1980, however, the commission spent $9,347,000 to train 1,812 clients for a cost of $5,158 per client, Crawford said.

"The continued reduction of the number of blind being served by the commission greatly disturbs us. ... To have that great a change can't be blamed on inflation," said Crawford.

The commission responded with a cost analysis that showed the state could save $252,700 a year by training clients at the Criss Cole Rehabilitation Center in Austin, rather than referring them to Kerrville.

Willis, a Lions club member, said he added a special provision to the state budget requiring the commission to continue a job-training program at Kerrville or a similar facility outside Austin for two years, and he added:

"We shouldn't have to be going through these mechanics at this time."

The Legislature approved the budget with Willis' "rider" in May, after the commission vote to end the contract.

COST lacks confidence in Commission for Blind

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Elaine Johnson of the Coalition of Sight-handicapped Texans told the State Commission for the Blind on Friday she questioned their capacity for setting policies and practices.

Ms. Johnson, of Pasadena, said the coalition — COST — lacked confidence in the commission's executive director, Evans Wentz, and objected to the commission "running off its best staff."

"The best joke going around is that you're really an optimist if you work for the Blind Commission and bring a sack lunch," she said.

Although she spoke only briefly — claiming commission chairman William Conner of Fort Worth had restricted her presentation to three minutes — Ms. Johnson distributed a packet of materials to reporters.

The packet included a letter to Conner, which said, in part, "Right now ... the State Commission for the Blind does not have left on its payroll any person who would be worth the powder it would take to shoot that person who is not looking for a less instable and less insecure position."

COST in a "position statement" dated Aug. 10 said it would seek Wentz's resignation, as well as the resignation of each board member "who has knowingly condoned the director's irresponsible and disastrous policies and practices."

COST also called for full and immediate reinstatement of four career employees fired last month and an in-depth investigation of the commission by legislative committees.

The organization said administrative costs of the commission had tripled during the past three years.

The packet also included a copy of an Aug. 28 letter to Gov. Bill Clements in which Francis "Frankie" Sawyer, co-chairperson of COST, told the governor " ... it's bad for blind people in Texas these days. The situation stinks."

She said in eliminating the Coordinating Office for the Visually Handicapped the governor had "shut down one of the first and most effective organizations that any state has ever set up" to monitor programs for disabled Texans.

"Right now," she said in the letter, "the State Commission for the Blind is bogged down in the biggest mess it has ever been in since being set up in 1931. The way that tax money is being wasted is not only prodigious and unprecedented, but intolerable and disgraceful."

COST has prepared a petition asking Clements to "clean house" at the commission, stating that Wentz "has undertaken systematically to dismantle a number of traditionally successful rehabilitation programs," which has forced "all too many blind persons to go on the welfare rolls."

Clements 'not concerned' over attacks

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Gov. Bill Clements, in his hometown to accept an award for his anti-crime bills, said Friday he was not concerned about various attacks on that legislation.

The Greater Dallas Crime Commission threw a luncheon to award Clements the group's "Law Enforcement Man of the Year" award for his efforts in passing the Legislature's anti-crime package.

"I never said it would be easy," Clements retorted when asked whether he was worried about a Dallas ordinance restricting location of halfway houses.

He said he had "a commitment to halfway houses by all the metropolitan areas of Texas."

Nor was the governor surprised by a Fort Worth judge's ruling against the new anti-drug paraphernalia law.

He said his office was monitoring progress of all the new crime laws "and if we need corrections, or amendments, or new laws...those will be effected."

He said at the luncheon that he intended to submit to the 1983 Legislature the two bills in his package that did not pass this year — one to instruct juries about parole laws and how they affect time served and one to strengthen laws against sales and distribution of pornography to minors.

At a press conference before the luncheon, Clements called the legislation "the most comprehensive crime prevention package...since World War II."

Clements was asked what would be done with Texas prisoners now living in tents when winter rolls around.

"We're going to put a stove in the tent," he said.

On another topic, Clements was asked about a U.S. Civil Rights Commission report issued Wednesday detailing specific instances of alleged harassment in Texas and other states.

"The Voting Rights Act has been good for Texas," Clements said. "We have more registered voters in minority districts than ever in our history.... The kind of results that we have achieved in Texas would be good for the rest of the country."

He said the "most flagrant violations" occur in Michigan and Illinois, not in Texas.

While saying the act "should be extended to all 50 states," Clements said states that have conformed and acted "in good faith" should be able to bypass the heavy bureaucratic burden the act requires.

"Then perhaps the answer is to let Texas out from under the Voting Rights Act, or out from under part of the Voting Rights Act," he said.

It wasn't fence, candidate contends

SEAGOVILLE, Texas (AP) — A losing mayoral candidate contends the real reason for his arrest was to prevent him from speaking at a meeting, not because of his fence.

O.B. Spencer, a 51-year-old trucker, had planned to speak against a proposed tax rate increase Sept. 1. Instead, he said, he spent 25 hours being booked and transferred to the Dallas County Jail for having a fence that didn't conform to the city's building code.

"It was a political deal," Spencer said. "When it really comes down to it, it wasn't over a fence. But it's the only thing they could bring against me.

"They didn't want me to speak at this meeting. And in doing so, they arrested me until the next day."

Don Smith, who beat Spencer in the mayoral race last April, denied that Spencer was arrested because he criticized city services. He said he was just doing his job when he signed the arrest warrant.

"It was a clear-cut violation of the law," the mayor said. "I didn't have much choice."

Spencer spoke before 300 local citizens, including the mayor and other city officials, a week before his arrest and called for the recall of the entire city council.

When he was arrested, Spencer claimed his constitutional rights were violated because he thought the matter had been dismissed in a June trial. That trial — the first jury trial ever in Seagoville municipal court — ended in a hung jury.

Spencer said he went to court when the city building inspector granted permission to build the fence and later told him to tear it down.

Hit-and-run driver, 28, faces murder charges

DENTON, Texas (AP) — A 28-year-old railroad worker faces murder charges stemming from a hit-and-run that killed a father and his two young daughters.

Clifford Ray Shropshire remained jailed Friday under a $50,000 bond set by Peace Justice James Erwin.

Police also confiscated a 1978 pickup they believe is the vehicle that hit the family as they rode bicycles on a city street Wednesday night.

Shropshire, named in an arrest warrant, was picked up at his home Thursday night.

Police recieved a tip after several rewards were announced by concerned citizens and businesses.

Fred Marsh, Denton County chief felony prosecutor, said the decision to seek an indictment for murder was based on a written statement Shropshire made while in police custody.

Bond reduced

DALLAS (AP) — Jo Ann Starr Harrelson, a figure in the investigation of a federal judge's death, remained in jail Friday after succeeding in having her bond lowered to $25,000.

U.S. District Judge Sarah T. Hughes, who arraigned Mrs. Harrelson Wednesday, agreed to lower the bond from $500,000.

Mrs. Harrelson was transferred from Harris County Jail a week ago on a charge she used a false name to buy a hunting rifle 12 days before U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. was assassinated in May 1979.

Hunt will push suit

DALLAS (AP) — Attorneys for Nelson Bunker Hunt say they will proceed with a civil suit against a former Hunt Energy Corp. executive who has been acquitted of a real estate conspiracy.

A federal jury deliberated six hours before returning the innocent verdict Thursday against Bill Bledsoe. He was accused of conspiring to defraud Hunt of $200,000 in unauthorized real estate fees.

"I just want to go back to work and see if I can be productive; it's been a [redacted] verdict was announced.

But Cecil Casterline, an attorney leading a civil suit against Bledsoe, said he would show in the civil trial that the defendant "resorted to all kinds of maneuvers and spurious charges against the Hunts" to obtain the innocent verdict.

Supreme Court nominee Sandra Day O'Connor, left, was questioned sharply on her abortion stance by Sen. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala., during the third day of her confirmation hearing.

O'Connor completes Senate questioning

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court nominee Sandra Day O'Connor, completing three days of confirmation hearings, declined to endorse the idea that teen-agers should be denied abortions unless they have a parent's permission.

However, she told the Senate Judiciary Committee Friday that she believes teen-agers should voluntarily consult with their parents before having abortions.

Mrs. O'Connor's refusal to call for mandatory parental consent for abortions or receipt of birth control information came during a final exchange with her principal adversary on the committee, Sen. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala.

In most cases, the Supreme Court has ruled that states may not require doctors to obtain the consent of a teen-ager's parents before performing a requested abortion.

In answer to questions about abortions for teen-agers, Mrs. O'Connor said, "It is my personal view that I would want the child to consult the parents."

Conservatives on the committee pursued Mrs. O'Connor to the end on her specific views on abortion without getting the kind of answers they really wanted.

She made it clear on several occasions that she personally opposes abortion, but gave no hint as to how she might vote on the explosive issue as a Supreme Court justice.

The 51-year-old Arizona appeals court judge apologized for not being more specific on abortion and a variety of other issues but politely and repeatedly said that to do so might prejudice rulings she might make.

After using an extra half hour in an attempt to pin down Mrs. O'Connor on the abortion issue, Denton said, "I feel quite frustrated that these matters have not been fully developed."

When Denton began questioning Mrs. O'Connor on a Justice Department memo apparently used to inform President Reagan on Mrs. O'Connor's abortion views, Denton was interrupted by committee chairman Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

"The subject we are considering here is her fitness for the position for which the president selected her," Thurmond said sharply. The method of selection, he said, "is his (Reagan's) business, not ours."

Thurmond, who has said he sees no obstacle to Mrs. O'Connor's confirmation, said he would schedule a committee vote Tuesday. Full Senate confirmation is expected Wednesday.

Denton and other conservatives had questioned Mrs. O'Connor in detail about four votes she cast on abortion bills in the Arizona state Senate between 1970 and 1974.

National debt expected to surge past $1 trillion mark by next year

By ROBERT FURLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid all the talk of budget cuts and spending restraint, the Reagan administration told Congress Friday that for the first time, the national debt will surge past the $1 trillion mark next year.

Not stopping at that landmark, the debt will probably rise an additional $75 billion by the end of the 1982 fiscal year, Assistant Treasury Secretary Roger Mehle said.

He gave those estimates during testimony in which he asked Senate support for a bill to raise the government's legal dformer President Carter was in office, but that opposins while former President Carter was in office, but that opposition ale former Presiden whenter was in office, but that opposition all but disappeared whenter was in office, but that opposition all but disappeared whenter was in office, but that opposition all but disappeared whenter was in office, but that opposition all but disappeared whenter was in office, but that opposition all but disappeared when President Reagan was forced to make the same request earlier this year.

And Mehle said the new request was not the fault of the administration, which has made budget-cutting and fiscal restraint its hallmarks.

"The increase in debt each year is simply the result of earlier decisions by Congress on the amounts of federal spending and taxation," Mehle said in testimony prepared for Friday's hearing by a Senate Finance subcommittee.

He added that the administration's estimate that the debt limit would reach just under $1.075 trillion on Sept. 30, 1982, "is subject to change based on new legislation and unfolding economic developments."

So he asked that the limit be raised $5 billion above the estimate to "give the Treasury sufficient borrowing capacity with some added leeway for borrowing should contingencies arise."

The administration is projecting a $42.5 billion federal budget deficit for fiscal 1982. But numerous private economists — and the Congressional Budget Office — say the deficit could be much higher, raising the possibility that federal borrowing also would have to be increased.

House members apparently have avoided the controversy that usually surrounds debate on raising the ceiling, having approved the Reagan-requested figure as part of other legislation earlier.

If no new debt-ceiling legislation is passed by Oct. 1, the ceiling would revert to its "permanent" level of $400 billion and government borrowing would stop.

Mehle asked for prompt action on the new request in order to avoid such a situation, in which he said the Treasury Department "must consider which obligations it should pay — Social Security checks, payroll checks, unemployment checks, defense contracts — and whether for the first time in history it will default on its securities."

The Treasury official also asked for passage of separate legislation to raise the limit to $999.8 billion just for Sept. 30.

Nancy orders new White House china

By MAUREEN SANTINI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nancy Reagan is spending $209,508 in donated money to buy new White House china at nearly $1,000 for each place setting.

"The White House really badly, badly needs china," the first lady told The Associated Press in an interview.

She said she had fun selecting the pattern, which uses her favorite color, red, as a border on ivory plates with a raised gold presidential seal. The border is etched in gold.

Mrs. Reagan's press secretary, Sheila Tate, said the White House had not purchased a full china service since President Truman bought green and white dinnerware in 1951. President Johnson bought a partial service in 1967.

"It's badly needed," Mrs. Reagan stressed. "Johnson was the last time there was any china ordered at all." Crossing her fingers, the first lady said she hoped some of it would be delivered in time for Christmas entertaining.

Lenox China, Inc., is making the 4,732-piece set at cost in its plant in Pomona, N.J., according to Robert Sullivan, vice president for advertising and promotion. He said almost half of the order probably will be delivered in mid-December with the rest arriving in January.

The cost of the china — averaging $952 for each of the 220 place settings — will be borne by the White House Historical Association, which controls the $822,641 fund that President Reagan and his wife raised in private donations to refurbish their living quarters.

Mrs. Tate quoted the first lady as saying she was "very happy" the fund had enough money left to purchase the china.

Each place setting consists of 19 pieces, including a service plate, dinner plate, fish plate, salad plate, soup plate, dessert plate, finger bowl, butter plate, tea cup and saucer, bouillon cup, cream soup cup and stand, demitasse cup and saucer, berry bowl, cereal bowl, ramekin and cocktail cup.

Newspaper reports 'secret salary'

Probe of Cardinal John Cody's activities continues

By SUSAN J. SMITH
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A newspaper said Friday that Cardinal John Cody paid a "secret church salary" higher than his own to a woman who is a life-long friend and remote relative.

And an attorney said he is representing the Chicago Archdiocese in a government investigation of the cardinal.

The Chicago Sun-Times said in a copyright story — its second in as many days about Cody's finances — that Helen Dolan Wilson of St. Louis received a salary ranging from $7,200 in 1969 to $11,500 in 1975, but that several church employees said they never saw her working for the archdiocese.

On Thursday, the newspaper said a federal grand jury is looking into allegations that Cody diverted up to $1 million in church money to enrich Mrs. Wilson.

Attorney Don Reuben, meanwhile, confirmed he is representing the archdiocese in a government investigation of Cody.

Reuben said he was not aware of any grand jury proceedings, but, "they wouldn't tell me about those."

The archdiocese issued a statement Thursday denying any misuse of funds, and refused further comment Friday.

Cody, leader of the largest Roman Catholic diocese in the nation, has been unavailable for comment.

Mrs. Wilson has denied receiving the salary or any money from Cody, who earned $8,000 a year through most of the 1970s. The archdiocese describes Cody and Mrs. Wilson as step-cousins.

U.S. Attorney Dan K. Webb refused to say if there is a grand jury investigation.

Reuben would not comment on a Sun-Times' report that the archdiocese had not complied with a subpoena for financial records.

"We have responded in the appropriate fashion to whatever we were expected to respond to. I am not indicating it was a subpoena or anything else. At all times the archdiocese has complied with the law," Rueben said.

"Nor do I believe one is called upon to account for his activities because the media reports them," Reuben continued. "My client is answerable to Rome and God, not to the Sun-Times. I have a client who is not well and tending to his flock as best he can."

Cody, who had a heart attack five years ago, was hospitalized late last year for treatment of a clogged artery. Mrs. Wilson was quoted Friday in the Chicago Tribune as saying the allegations about Cody's handling of church money could kill the cardinal.

"This will be the death of him," Mrs. Wilson said.

According to the Sun-Times, Mrs. Wilson received the "secret" salary as an "office manager" for the archdiocese, but several church employees at the time said they never saw her working.

The newspaper said the 74-year-old Mrs. Wilson actually was a retiree who spent winters in Florida while leasing a luxury apartment on Chicago's lake front.

The newspaper said Mrs. Wilson cited her title in Cody's office in applying to buy a second Florida home in 1972 and in opening an account with Stifel Nicolaus and Co. Inc. in St. Louis. An official of that brokerage firm was quoted by the Sun-Times as saying his company has complied with a federal grand jury subpoena of Mrs. Wilson's records.

The Sun-Times reported that for years Cody has exercised complete control over two unaudited bank accounts. The newspaper said the government is investigating allegations that Cody, leader of 2.4 million Catholics diverted up to $1 million in church funds from those accounts to Mrs. Wilson for such items as her Florida home, a luxury car, expensive clothes and furs.

As a religious organization, the church is subject to federal laws that prohibit tax-exempt money from being spent to enrich an individual.

Fourteen Baptist ministers attending a convention in Detroit have been arrested at the Detroit-Windsor, Ontario, border for attempting to carry guns into Canada. According to the Rev. Melvin Brown of Cambridge, Mass., many pastors at the convention also serve as police officers. The Rev. Clarence Wagner, left, feels there are racial overtones to the arrests and to the attention given the matter in the American press.

Fourteen American ministers arrested on weapons charges

WINDSOR, Ontario (AP) — Fourteen U.S. clergymen attending a Detroit convention have been arrested on charges of carrying firearms into Canada, authorities said.

"We're just going through routine searches, and we're coming up with the guns," Marc Baillargeon, acting superintendent of Canadian Customs at the Detroit-Windsor Tunnel, said Thursday. He said the guns ranged from .357-caliber Magnums to .22-caliber revolvers.

Eight ministers were arrested Thursday and six others have been arrested since Saturday, said Windsor Police Detective Sgt. Jeff Thachuk. He said 12 ministers were released on bail and two were being held until they appear in court or could make bail.

Earlier, a Windsor police sergeant who refused to give his name erroneously verified Canadian Customs' officials report that 23 ministers had been arrested.

Thachuk said he did not know whether the arrested ministers had permits to carry the weapons in the United States. Officials confiscated the guns.

Thachuk said the ministers apparently were in Detroit for the national meeting of the National Baptist Convention U.S.A. Inc., which has 6.3 million members and claims to be the world's second-largest Baptist organization.

"We go by the license plates," said Baillargeon. Most of the ministers are from the South, as are most people caught entering Canada with firearms, he said.

"It's not just them. We get truck drivers, campers and everything," Baillargeon added. "We like to have them as visitors. That's why we want this information (that handguns can't be brought into Canada) passed on to them."

Police identified the arrested ministers as:

—Robert Rogers, 42, of Fort Worth, Texas.

—Homer Mitchell, 47, of Phenix City, Ala.

—Columbus Franks, 66, of Ardmore, Okla.

—Luther Jeffries, 51, of Little Rock, Ark.

—Johnny Lewis, 33, of Marvell, Ark.

—David Benton, 57, of Hutchinson, Kan.

—Jeff Row Williams, 75, of Poplar Grove, Ark.

—Ann Andrews, 54, of Detroit.

—Roosevelt Malone, 45, of Metarie, La.

—Richmond Banks, 40, of Memphis, Tenn.

—Troy Groves, 57, of Oklahoma City, Okla.

—Jefferey Joseph, 52, Lakeview Terrace, Calif.

—Lezell Williams, 67, of Jackson, Miss.

Three bombs found in church van

MIRACLE VALLEY, Ariz. (AP) — A bomb blew up a church van belonging to a faith-healing religious group, killing one man and injuring three, and authorities said Friday three unexploded bombs were found in the wreckage.

The dead man apparently was carrying the bomb that went off in his lap Thursday night as the group headed toward a nearby town where two colleagues were in jail, the authorities said.

Investigators found three other bombs intact in the wreckage after the explosion on Arizona Route 92 about three miles west of Miracle Valley, said Ron Leitch, a spokesman for the Arizona Department of Public Safety.

"These were not toys for make-believe," Leitch said. "They had triggering devices, batteries and caps on them."

The man and woman who were in jail had been arrested separately earlier Thursday.

Tensions have flared periodically in this rural community of 1,500 where the all-black, 300-member Christ Miracle Healing Center and Church moved from Chicago in 1979, but Cochise County Sheriff Jimmy Judd said the area was calm Friday.

"It's as quiet as can be," agreed Sgt. Allen Schmidt, another public safety department spokesman in Phoenix.

Members of the church, which believes in faith healing, have been keeping their 85 children out of the area's elementary school this year and have resisted efforts by state Department of Economic Security officials to take over the children's medical care.

Schmidt said church members identified the dead man as Steven Lindsey, in his mid-20s, but positive identification had not been determined.

The injured were identified as Frank Bernard, 31, and Clinton and Julius Gillespie, both about 30. It was not known whether the Gillespies were related.

Schmidt said officers had questioned the Rev. Frances E. Thomas, the church's leader.

"We've been talking to her right from the beginning," said Schmidt. "She's been very cooperative."

Some additional explosives were turned over voluntarily by church members to authorities, but there were no immediate plans to seek search warrants or to press charges, he said.

Evangelist Roloff wins court battle; Judge sends felon, 23, to facility

DALLAS (AP) — Evangelist Lester Roloff, who for eight years has battled with the State of Texas over licensing of his homes, has emerged a winner in a court proceeding of a different sort.

A state district judge Thursday agreed to send a twice-convicted felon to Roloff's Lighthouse home for troubled young men.

Randall Mathis Ward, a 23-year-old probation violator, told State District Judge John Ovard his criminal history was linked to a drug problem that he believed could be treated by Roloff.

Roloff himself flew to Dallas to assure Ovard that his homme regularly deals with criminal offenders and drug abusers.

"I was convinced their facilities are appropriate as long as the defendant agreed and was aware of them," Ovard said after the hearing. He also pointed out that prosecuting attorneys did not object to the unusual sentence.

Fourteen Baptist ministers attending a convention in Detroit have been arrested at the Detroit-Windsor, Ontario, border for attempting to carry guns into Canada. According to the Rev. Melvin Brown of Cambridge, Mass., many pastors at the convention also serve as police officers. The Rev. Clarence Wagner, left, feels there are racial overtones to the arrests and to the attention given the matter in the American press.

Fourteen American ministers arrested on weapons charges

WINDSOR, Ontario (AP) — Fourteen U.S. clergymen attending a Detroit convention have been arrested on charges of carrying firearms into Canada, authorities said.

"We're just going through routine searches, and we're coming up with the guns," Marc Baillargeon, acting superintendent of Canadian Customs at the Detroit-Windsor Tunnel, said Thursday. He said the guns ranged from .357-caliber Magnums to .22-caliber revolvers.

Eight ministers were arrested Thursday and six others have been arrested since Saturday, said Windsor Police Detective Sgt. Jeff Thachuk. He said 12 ministers were released on bail and two were being held until they appear in court or could make bail.

Earlier, a Windsor police sergeant who refused to give his name erroneously verified Canadian Customs' officials report that 23 ministers had been arrested.

Thachuk said he did not know whether the arrested ministers had permits to carry the weapons in the United States. Officials confiscated the guns.

Thachuk said the ministers apparently were in Detroit for the national meeting of the National Baptist Convention U.S.A. Inc., which has 6.3 million members and claims to be the world's second-largest Baptist organization.

"We go by the license plates," said Baillargeon. Most of the ministers are from the South, as are most people caught entering Canada with firearms, he said.

"It's not just them. We get truck drivers, campers and everything," Baillargeon added. "We like to have them as visitors. That's why we want this information (that handguns can't be brought into Canada) passed on to them."

Police identified the arrested ministers as:

—Robert Rogers, 42, of Fort Worth, Texas.

—Homer Mitchell, 47, of Phenix City, Ala.

Newspaper reports 'secret salary'

Probe of Cardinal John Cody's activities continues

By SUSAN J. SMITH
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A newspaper said Friday that Cardinal John Cody paid a "secret church salary" higher than his own to a woman who is a life-long friend and remote relative.

And an attorney said he is representing the Chicago Archdiocese in a government investigation of the cardinal.

The Chicago Sun-Times said in a copyright story — its second in as many days about Cody's finances — that Helen Dolan Wilson of St. Louis received a salary ranging from $7,200 in 1969 to $11,500 in 1975, but that several church employees said they never saw her working for the archdiocese.

On Thursday, the newspaper said a federal grand jury is looking into allegations that Cody diverted up to $1 million in church money to enrich Mrs. Wilson.

Attorney Don Reuben, meanwhile, confirmed he is representing the archdiocese in a government investigation of Cody.

Reuben said he was not aware of any grand jury proceedings, but, "they wouldn't tell me about those."

The archdiocese issued a statement Thursday denying any misuse of funds, and refused further comment Friday.

Cody, leader of the largest Roman Catholic diocese in the nation, has been unavailable for comment.

Mrs. Wilson has denied receiving the salary or any money from Cody, who earned $8,000 a year through most of the 1970s. The archdiocese describes Cody and Mrs. Wilson as step-cousins.

U.S. Attorney Dan K. Webb refused to say if there is a grand jury investigation.

Reuben would not comment on a Sun-Times' report that the archdiocese had not complied with a subpoena for financial records.

"We have responded in the appropriate fashion to whatever we were expected to respond to. I am not indicating it was a subpoena or anything else. At all times the archdiocese has complied with the law," Rueben said.

"Nor do I believe one is called upon to account for his activities because the media reports them," Reuben continued. "My client is answerable to Rome and God, not to the Sun-Times. I have a client who is not well and tending to his flock as best he can."

Cody, who had a heart attack five years ago, was hospitalized late last year for treatment of a clogged artery. Mrs. Wilson was quoted Friday in the Chicago Tribune as saying the allegations about Cody's handling of church money could kill the cardinal.

"This will be the death of him," Mrs. Wilson said.

According to the Sun-Times, Mrs. Wilson received the "secret" salary as an "office manager" for the archdiocese, but several church employees at the time said they never saw her working.

The newspaper said the 74-year-old Mrs. Wilson actually was a retiree who spent winters in Florida while leasing a luxury apartment on Chicago's lake front.

The newspaper said Mrs. Wilson cited her title in Cody's office in applying to buy a second Florida home in 1972 and in opening an account with Stifel Nicolaus and Co. Inc. in St. Louis. An official of that brokerage firm was quoted by the Sun-Times as saying his company has complied with a federal grand jury subpoena of Mrs. Wilson's records.

The Sun-Times reported that for years Cody has exercised complete control over two unaudited bank accounts. The newspaper said the government is investigating allegations that Cody, leader of 2.4 million Catholics diverted up to $1 million in church funds from those accounts to Mrs. Wilson for such items as her Florida home, a luxury car, expensive clothes and furs.

As a religious organization, the church is subject to federal laws that prohibit tax-exempt money from being spent to enrich an individual.

Three bombs found in church van

MIRACLE VALLEY, Ariz. (AP) — A bomb blew up a church van belonging to a faith-healing religious group, killing one man and injuring three, and authorities said Friday three unexploded bombs were found in the wreckage.

The dead man apparently was carrying the bomb that went off in his lap Thursday night as the group headed toward a nearby town where two colleagues were in jail, the authorities said.

Investigators found three other bombs intact in the wreckage after the explosion on Arizona Route 92 about three miles west of Miracle Valley, said Ron Leitch, a spokesman for the Arizona Department of Public Safety.

"These were not toys for make-believe," Leitch said. "They had triggering devices, batteries and caps on them."

The man and woman who were in jail had been arrested separately earlier Thursday.

Tensions have flared periodically in this rural community of 1,500 where the all-black, 300-member Christ Miracle Healing Center and Church moved from Chicago in 1979, but Cochise County Sheriff Jimmy Judd said the area was calm Friday.

"It's as quiet as can be," agreed Sgt. Allen Schmidt, another public safety department spokesman in Phoenix.

Members of the church, which believes in faith healing, have been keeping their 85 children out of the area's elementary school this year and have resisted efforts by state Department of Economic Security officials to take over the children's medical care.

Schmidt said church members identified the dead man as Steven Lindsey, in his mid-20s, but positive identification had not been determined.

The injured were identified as Frank Bernard, 31, and Clinton and Julius Gillespie, both about 30. It was not known whether the Gillespies were related.

Schmidt said officers had questioned the Rev. Frances E. Thomas, the church's leader.

"We've been talking to her right from the beginning," said Schmidt. "She's been very cooperative."

Some additional explosives were turned over voluntarily by church members to authorities, but there were no immediate plans to seek search warrants or to press charges, he said.

Evangelist Roloff wins court battle; Judge sends felon, 23, to facility

DALLAS (AP) — Evangelist Lester Roloff, who for eight years has battled with the State of Texas over licensing of his homes, has emerged a winner in a court proceeding of a different sort.

A state district judge Thursday agreed to send a twice-convicted felon to Roloff's Lighthouse home for troubled young men.

Randall Mathis Ward, a 23-year-old probation violator, told State District Judge John Ovard his criminal history was linked to a drug problem that he believed could be treated by Roloff.

Roloff himself flew to Dallas to assure Ovard that his homme regularly deals with criminal offenders and drug abusers.

"I was convinced their facilities are appropriate as long as the defendant agreed and was aware of them," Ovard said after the hearing. He also pointed out that prosecuting attorneys did not object to the unusual sentence.

Grafitti: Then and now

Texas Park Ranger James C. Cage reclines in a cave at Hueco Tanks State Park near El Paso. The cave holds Indian paintings estimated to be 600 years old. New 'art' endangering ancient drawings

By STEVE BREWER
Associated Press Writer

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Forty-niners headed for the California gold rush scrawled their names on rocks at Hueco Tanks, three rugged volcanic formations sitting in an open prairie about 30 miles east of here.

So did travelers on the Butterfield Stage, which stopped at Hueco Tanks before the Civil War.

But long before a white man ever saw the mountains surrounding what is now El Paso, they were sacred ground to the Indians who depended on the water and the game they attracted.

And hundreds, maybe thousands, of years ago, those Indians painted designs on the rocks — "pictographs" which played an important role in the tribes' religious life and gave them a way to document their histories.

Today, the state of Texas and local archaeology buffs are fighting to preserve the paintings — sometimes the only signs the Indians left behind — from the threats of time, weather and graffiti.

Most important among the area sites is Hueco Tanks State Park. The Spanish named the rocks "hueco," or hollow, because pits in the rocks formed natural cisterns that collected water. The "tanks" made the mountains a popular stop for westward-bound pioneers.

"There have been people at Hueco Tanks for 10,000 years," said ranger James Cage, who guides visitors on tours of the 41 rock art sites in the state park.

"The El Paso Archaeology Society has established that some of them have been here 900 years, give or take 100 years," Cage said. "There's no written evidence. We can only judge the Indian art here at Hueco Tanks as it relates to art in other areas of the Southwest and northern Mexico."

Indians painted designs in crevices and caves and on sheltered rock walls.

"All of this art relates to their religion," Cage said. "Since it was an eternal religion, they wanted their art to be eternal. So they would seek out places where it could eternally preserved."

One of those places, now called Site 30, is in a small, almost inaccessible cave at one of the highest points in the mountains.

A visitor must slither through a hole in the rock to reach the cave, in which nine ornamental masks are painted on a wall. The masks, estimated to be 600 years old, are of the Kachina design that's best-known among the tribes in northern Arizona and New Mexico.

Jerry Fitzgerald, a society member, theorizes that the Kachina culture came north from Mexico.

"The distinctive thing about Hueco Tanks is the proliferation of masks and Kachina-type designs," he said. "We feel the immediate El Paso area is probably the point where the Kachina cult diffused into the rest of the Southwest."

The development of the culture in the area was interrupted by the arrival of Spanish conquistadors in the late 1600s.

As white men moved west, they saw the Indians' signs and left behind their own. On one rock wall are huge letters leaving a well-intentioned but misspelled notice for future travelers: "Watter Hear."

This century, as the formations became a popular picnic site, more and more visitors felt the compulsion to make their mark on the mountains. At Site 30, smudged pencil marks near the mask paintings show that Fort Bliss soldiers visited the cave in 1941.

Unfortunately, experts say, much of the graffiti ruined the rock art left by the Indians.

A survey report by the archaeology society in 1974 said 25 percent of the original art had been destroyed.

"There are about 3,000 individual bits of art out here," Cage said. "About half or maybe more have been damaged."

Wind and weather have been the major causes of deterioration, but some of the pictographs have been obliterated by years of campfire smoke and graffiti.

In the 1970s, the archaeology society began a letter-writing campaign asking the state to protect the paintings from smoke and spray paint.

"We put on a big fight," Fitzgerald said. "We wrote letters, letters, letters to the Parks and Wildlife people requesting more protection be given to Hueco Tanks. It has improved a lot."

Recently erected signs at the entrance to the park warn that fines and jail terms will be given to visitors who try to leave their marks on the mountains.

"On the weekends, we have foot patrols and one vehicle driving back and forth," ranger Danny Olivas said. "We just let them know we're here."

Olivas said stricter enforcement, along with better public awareness, has cut down on the graffiti.

"People are becoming more and more aware of the value of art," he said. "There's no way to replace it."

Dan Baffa, director of the Mesker Park Zoo at Evansville, Ind., caarries a saurus crane back to the zoo. Zoo officials used a helicopter to capture the freedom-loving fowl who "flew the coop" a week ago.

Wayward crane recaptured

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Love calls and ambushes failed, but a helicopter finally helped zoo officials recapture a 5-foot-tall crane who apparently forgot he wasn't supposed to be able to fly.

The Mesker Park Zoo's male saurus crane had his flight tendons removed in 1977 in an operation designed to keep him earthbound, but that didn't stop him from taking off into the wild blue yonder last week.

Officials spent a week trying to entice the fowl back to his cage. First they tried recordings of his mate's call. "Apparently it wasn't interested," said zoo director Dan Baffa.

Then they tried ambush, hoping to capture the miscreant while he wasn't looking. "But we never could get him to stay in one place," Baffa complained.

Finally zoo officials called out the big guns. On Thursday, a helicopter borrowed from the Black Beauty Coal Co. swooped into the area where the bird had been spotted. While the chopper chased him across cornfields and rooftops in a northwest Evansville neighborhood, about a dozen zoo employees followed in hot pursuit.

For nearly an hour, the gray and red fowl soared and dipped, avoiding the helicopter and capture, with reporters and photographers dutifully recording every foul-up.

Finally, the bird's 8-foot wings tired and he took to the ground. Looking a bit like an ostrich, the 25-pound crane ran across yards and down streets. He ran into Robert Shirel's backyard fence, and Baffa pounced on him.

"The bird is fine," Baffa said. "Some of our employees were injured a lot more, running through the brush. Poison ivy, you know."

Early Friday morning, the crane had his flight tendons removed once again. "Obviously, it did not work when we tried it the first time," Baffa said.

Previously unnamed, the crane, a native of India, will now be called "Beauty" after the coal company.

Contamination threatens waterfowl hunting

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Pesticide contamination threatens fall waterfowl hunting in Montana, and state officials notified counterparts in 16 states Friday that tainted ducks and geese soon may be heading their way.

Because of reports of high levels of the pesticide endrin in birds, the Montana Fish and Game Commission will meet Sept. 25 to consider whether to bar the Oct. 3 opening of the waterfowl hunting season, said Fish and Game Director James Flynn.

The state Department of Agriculture reported Thursday that the fat of one duck contained 1.2 parts per million of endrin, four times the federal standard for domestic poultry. High endrin levels have also shown up in Canada geese and sharptail grouse.

Endrin was sprayed on at least 121,000 acres in Montana this year to combat army cutworms. The state has since banned the chemical.

States alerted of possible contamination were those in the Central and Pacific flyways, the fall migration routes from Canada to Mexico for millions of waterfowl. Included are North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and contiguous states to the west.

Montana officials telephoned authorities in other states and notified the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service of their test findings.

"The data suggests that the season has to be closed, in both and Central and Pacific flyways," said Wilbur Rehmann of the Montana Wildlife Federation, which represents hunting and fishing clubs.

Federation President Richard Day said private groups have spent millions of dollars on wildlife areas for ducks and geese. "Now this tragedy could close all waterfowl hunting in the western U.S., Canada and Mexico," he said.

The main waterfowl migration begins in earnest after the first freeze in Canada, sometime in late September or early October.

The Montana Fish and Game Commission on Sept. 4 rejected the advice of state health officials and allowed hunting for sharptail grouse and Hungarian partridge, despite endrin levels in grouse nearly twice as high as the federal limit.

The commission was told by Henry Spencer of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency that grouse and partridge would be safe to eat in limited amounts if the fat was trimmed off.

Spencer said endrin "is acutely toxic" even at very low levels, and can cause convulsions and death in animals or humans. State officials say it is unsafe for people to eat game with more than .3 parts per million of endrin in body fat, but they do not know how much contaminated game could cause ill effects in humans.

Ron Marcoux, associate state wildlife director, said ducks and geese are so laden with fat that "it is almost impossible to remove..."

State Agriculture Director W. Gordon McOmber has banned further use of endrin this year.

"There was a potential of some 200,000 acres of wheat destruction, and farmers in eastern Montana were suffering from the drought in a big way," he said of the earlier spraying. "Other chemicals didn't get the job done."

City's phantom knocker actually 'big black bird'

DEL CITY, Okla. (AP) — For more than two weeks, a phantom knocker stalked this Oklahoma City suburb, rapping at doors and vanishing.

Residents would answer a knock to find no one there. Joyce Kelly was frightened, and police were baffled. Then Mrs. Kelly captured the culprit as he sat on the hood of a neighbor's car: the phantom knocker was a big black bird.

The bird is "a crow or raven," said Jerry Jack, Del City animal control officer, who was called in by police after Mrs. Kelly snared the perpetrator.

Jack never took custody. "I left him with the Kellys. I figured he would be better off with them than in the truck with dogs or in the city animal shelter," he said.

The Kellys wouldn't mind keeping the bird, which they call "Crowee." But the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service advises that it is protected as a migratory bird and cannot be confined without a permit.

"We only want what is best for the bird. We love animals," said Mrs. Kelly, who's still mulling her next move.

Good help is hard to find — even for Prince Charles

LONDON (AP) — Newlyweds Prince Charles and Princess Diana are discovering it's hard to find good servants these days.

They are advertising for a cook at Highgrove, their country mansion.

The plea appeared in Thursday's issue of The Lady, a staid weekly mainly read by middle-class women. It said:

"Resident cook-housekeeper required for the Gloucestershire residence of the Prince and Princess of Wales. Applicants should provide references and details of qualifications and previous experience. Box 656C."

Daily Mirror columnist Peter McKay said Friday he thought it "extraordinary" that the heir to the throne has to advertise for servants, but Joan Grahame, editor of The Lady, disagreed.

"Why should the royal family be any different from anyone else these days who is looking for staff," she said.

McKay said that younger members of the royal family often have difficulty in acquiring and retaining servants. He said that Charles' sister, Princess Anne, has had five cooks in four years.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The retiring Miss America says her hundreds of appearances at state beauty pageants and christenings are not what got her an opera contract.

Powell

Susan Powell, Miss America 1981, credited television and its annual coverage of the Atlantic City beauty contest for the three-week stint she starts Sunday with the Seattle Opera company in a production of "Die Fledermaus."

"They heard me sing on television," the former Miss Oklahoma said Thursday. "I got the contract right after the pageant."

For her travels as Miss America, which left her only 10 days off for Christmas last year, she received $83,000, in addition to the $20,000 scholarship she won when crowned last fall, according to pageant officials.

The Elk City, Okla., native said she had not had time to count her earnings yet.

"I have no idea how much I made," she said.

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Former Republican presidential candidate Harold E. Stassen has lost a 20-year-old legal battle over a business arrangement with a California woman.

After a three-day trial, a Chester County jury Thursday awarded more than $200,000 to the estate of Alice Morris, who owned Bert M. Morris Co., a Los Angeles manufacturer of plastic desk items.

The jury found that Stassen, 74, had not honored an agreement to pay a $400,000 debt owed the company when it was sold in 1961.

"Actually, I've never been defended in a civil case in my entire life," said Stassen, who maintains a Philadelphia law practice. "It's quite a thing."

Stassen had said he was misled about accounting methods to be used in the transaction during negotiations for the company's sale.

MC surpasses its record enrollment

With three days remaining for late registration, Midland College has already exceeded its record enrollment set last fall.

Registrar Dee Windsor reported that 2,770 students had signed up for classes by Friday morning, compared with 2,534 for the same period in 1980. The all-time registration record had been 2,699 students last fall.

"There are still a number of classes which have vacancies and we have created some additional class sections for courses which filled up to the maximum number per class. We are making every effort to accommodate all students, but some classes have been closed due to a limited amount of equipment or laboratory space," Windsor said.

Students may still sign up for as many as three classes through Wednesday, Windsor said. Late registration is handled in the Office of Student Services in the Administration Building from 8 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Five-year legal battle settled in favor of Odessa College

ODESSA — A five-year legal battle between Odessa College and a former professor was settled in favor of the college Thursday, when college officials were notified of the ruling by U.S. District Judge Harry Lee Hudspeth of El Paso.

Jaroslav Piskacek, a former foreign language professor at OC, sued the college in June 1976, alleging he had been denied due process of law in being dismissed as a teacher at OC.

Piskacek, who began teaching at OC in 1969, was notified in September 1974 that his contract for the 1975-76 school year would not be renewed.

Subsequently, a college tenure committee and the board of trustees had hearings on the matter.

Trustees voted to affirm the college president's decision to dismiss Piskacek, a tenured professor.

In the lawsuit Piskacek filed against OC, it was alleged that college trustees and the president, in dismissing Piskacek, used "capricious" conduct and that the plaintiff was denied due process.

The suit further contended that Piskacek's rights under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution were violated.

Piskacek asked for a reinstatement to a teaching position as well as damages and back pay. Hudspeth's ruling in the case exonerated OC of the charges.

The judge ruled that Piskacek had not been denied due process and that the decision of the board of trustees was "based upon substantial evidence."

Hudspeth's ruling went on to say that Piskacek wasn't entitled to damages or reinstatement to his teaching position.

Odessa attorney W.O. Shafer represented OC in the law suit.

Alamo YMCA taking registration for several fall swimming classes

The Alamo YMCA, 901 N. Midland Drive, is now taking registration for fall swimming classes which will begin Monday. Classes will run in four week sessions meeting two times each week.

The swim classes will include the following: progressive swim program, 6 and older, meet Tuesday and Thursday, levels - beginner, 3:45 p.m., and advanced beginner, intermediate and advanced 4:45 p.m.; pre-school, 3-5, meet Monday and Wednesday at 12:45 p.m. or Tuesday and Thursday at 9 and 9:45 p.m., levels - beginner and advanced; parents and tots, 3 months-3, meet Tuesday and Thursday 6:30-7 p.m., levels - beginner (tots must be accompanied by an adult).

Man sculpts with chain saw

SEWANEE, Tenn. (AP) — Mountain man Elvin King has a surprisingly delicate touch when he carves birds and animals from walnut, maple and cherry with a less-than-delicate tool — a chain saw.

"There ain't nobody doing it like I do," King says.

King, 57, has amassed 18 years of experience as a chain-saw sculptor and has produced more pieces than he can remember.

Displaying his delicate touch with the motorized saw, the bearded King carves objects including quail, pelicans, wild hogs, mushrooms, snapping turties and salad bowls.

At his Sewanee home on Monteagle Mountain, he often works in the shade of a towering black oak, a place where sawdust is piled 4 feet deep. Sawdust also piles up near the couch in his living room, where he sits to file.

Barbara, his wife of 30 years, provides the finishing touch. She uses sandpaper to smooth the wood and rubs it with a rag soaked in hardwood sealant or linseed oil. King sometimes colors the works by dipping them in sawdust.

King's first carving was a Chinese goose, which he keeps on a shelf near his front door.

He got started carving while he and his brother, Pies, were building a retirement home for Robert P. Moore of Sewanee.

"He turned out to be a wood-carver while he was working," Moore said. "When I found out he was very good at this, I showed him a little goose and he took it with him that day. He came back the next day with just a great facsimile of the goose that I had."

Moore said King continued the carving while working in the maintenance shop at the University of the South. "He got to be so prolific with his carvings that he thought he would quit," Moore said.

King buys some of his wood and obtains the rest from trees he or other people cut down.

With four of their nine children still living at home, the Kings said wood carving is a tough way to make a living.

"It was real good 'til gas went up, and now I really have to scratch," King said. "The gas for the saw is four times what it was."

Gasoline's increased price has also hurt them on the road. King sells many of his wares at craft shows in Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina.

His works sell briskly, and King said he gets mail orders from as far away as California.

Jim Lehrer: A city editor makes it big on the tube

By DON FREEMAN
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD – How Jim Lehrer got into television – a move which would lead eventually to sharing with Robert MacNeil the billing on PBS' "MacNeil-Lehrer Report" – is by writing a book.

Lehrer remembered the Alamo but with a new, contemporary twist – in his yarn the Alamo is retaken by the Mexicans more than a century after the historic skirmish spoken of with reverence by Texans.

The book was called "Viva Max" and it was a success. The movie based on it was an even greater success – and Lehrer, suddenly flush in the wallet, fulfilled the American dream long cherished by journalists. Lehrer quit the newspaper he was working on to further the cause of literature and ended up on television where he talks as well as writes.

WHAT JIM Lehrer did not do, departing in that regard from the classic moment of sweet revenge in the old movies, was tell his city editor what might be done with his job. Lehrer didn't do this because he was, himself, the city editor.

Lehrer was working then on the Dallas Times Herald.

He's a 1956 graduate of the University of Missouri's School of Journalism, an institution which some people say is very acceptable for those who get rejected by Northwestern University.

He put in three years in the U.S. Marine Corps before entering the noble profession of reporting.

"Suddenly," Lehrer says, "I was a stereotype of the newspaperman who writes a novel and the world changes. By the time the book was published, I made some money. Not a helluva lot, but some. I decided, still in my early 30s, to retire and just write."

THEY HAVE A public television station in Dallas and Lehrer was asked to be a consultant a few days a week. Then they applied for a grant which enabled the station to establish a news-with-conversation series five nights a week. It was called "Newsroom." Soon, Lehrer was the show's executive director, on-air host and editor.

"Some retirement!" says Lehrer. "I was busier than ever – and no time to write at all."

Perhaps you remember "Viva Max," the movie based on Lehrer's book.

"'Viva Max' is still on television," Lehrer says, with muted pride, "but very, very early in the morning."

The biggest surprise, for Jim Lehrer, was in the casting of "Viva Max," which refers to Maxmillian Rodriguez DeSantos, the Mexican leader who heads the assault on the Alamo. The role went to Peter Ustinov.

"Peter Ustinov!" says Lehrer. "This Renaissance man, playing a modern Mexican! The movie wasn't all that great. Still, as my wife says, they retained the soul of the book, the people I had created out of my heart.

"BUT KEEP IN mind that I was still a newspaperman and they're filming my book at the Alamo itself in San Antonio.Jonathan Winters is in the cast and he learns about my daughter's 8th birthday. And Jonathan puts on a little impromptu show for her on the set. It's a nice memory of a nice gesture.

"For me," says Lehrer, "what meant the most was what 'Viva Max' did for my dad. He was so thrilled when he and mom went to the premiere of 'Viva Max.' It's my most telling memory – it was neat."

The senior Lehrer was then managing a Trailways bus station. This is significant because in 1975, by which time he was already on national public television, Lehrer wrote his second book. It was called "We Were Dreamers." Lehrer tells about it:

"The book is about one year in my parents' life, in 1946, when my dad had his own bus line, the Kansas Central Lines, which went north 150 miles out of Wichita. And that was mostly on gravel roads.

"My dad had three rattletrap buses. He drove one, my mother drove another. I was only 11 years old then but every detail came back to me as I started to write – my father's dreams and how they evaporated in the Kansas air and how he was forced into bankruptcy. I remember the awful, awful shame of it."

TV talk: PBS fall special shows to focus on people

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Public TV will present more than two-dozen special programs and series this fall, and the focus, for the most part, will be people — tenor Luciano Pavarotti, Nazi-hunter Simon Wiesenthal, explorer Jacques Cousteau.

Mark Russell will be back for another series of "Comedy Specials," but all the faces won't be familiar ones. The Public Broadcasting Service will introduce a defiant slave from pre-Civil War South Carolina called Denmark Vesey, and a Vietnam veteran named Frank.

Continuing series like "Masterpiece Theater," "Great Performances" and "The Shakespeare Plays" will remain staples of the PBS season, scheduled to start Sept. 27. But specials will provide the system, as they have in the past, with its unique constantly changing personality.

IN ADDITION to "The Mark Russell Comedy Specials," scheduled to return Nov. 11, PBS will call once more on two popular special series, "Live from the Met" and "Non-Fiction Television."

The "Live from the Met" season will premiere Sept. 30 with Verdi's "La Traviata," featuring tenor Placido Domingo. No date has been set for the return of "Non-Fiction Television," which will begin its 1981-82 season with a two-part production, "Pesticides and Pills: For Export Only."

As with all PBS presentations, air dates and times may vary from station to station.

AMONG THE special programs scheduled for broadcast in the fall, with air date if available:

—"The Los Angeles Philharmonic Bicentennial Concerts with Carlo Maria Giulini." Four hour-long programs.

—"A House Divided: Denmark Vesey's Rebellion." Yaphet Kotto plays the lead in this 90-minute drama, based on a true story of a freed slave's efforts to lead a revolt of his enslaved brothers. Oct. 28.

—"Survival Specials." Four one-hour programs, "Balloon Safari," "Penguin Island," "Secrets of African Baobab" and "We Live with Elephants," to premiere Nov. 18.

—"Frank: A Portrait of a Vietnam Veteran." An hour-long look at the emotions and experiences of a Vietnam veteran whose life was unalterably changed by wartime service. Nov. 11.

—"The Hunter and the Hunted." An hour-long documentary on Simon Wiesenthal's continuing search for Nazi war criminals. Oct. 21.

—"Just Another Missing Kid." A 90-minute real-life detective story on the search for a Canadian youth who disappears in the American heartland. Oct. 14.

—"STEPPING OUT." Forty people labeled mentally handicapped perform at the Sydney Opera House in Australia. Oct. 7.

—"Board and Care." An Academy Award-winning short story on the attempt by two mentally handicapped teen-agers to develop a meaningful relationship.

—"The Cousteau Odyssey." Jacques Cousteau returns with the crew of the Calypso.

—"Hot Shots." Profiles of young athletes.

—"In Record Time." The recording of a rock album.

—"Full Circle." Practical ways to save energy around the house, aimed at the adolescent audience.

—"George Caleb Bingham." A study of the work of "The Missouri Artist."

—"Autism: Reaching the Child Within." A documentary by the mother of an autistic child.

—"Pavarotti Christmas Special." An encore by the popular tenor.

—"Hundertwasser's Rainy Day." The world of Austria's most celebrated artist.

—"American Chinatown." A documentary on life in Locke, Calif., one of the country's first "Chinatowns."

—"American Folk Artists." Profiles of three American artists — Mario Sanchez, Queena Stovall and Ralph Fasanella.

—"Beginning Again." Profiles of men who have become widowers.

—"DAUGHTERS of Time." A look at the growing popularity of nurse midwiferey.

—"Legacy for a Small Planet." An hour-long report on the efforts of UNESCO.

—"Now is the Time!" An hour-long portrait of jazz musician Indrees Sulieman.

—"Paradox on 72nd Street." A one-hour visit to a single intersection — 72nd Street and Broadway — in New York City.

New man is 'doing fine'

NEW YORK (AP) — The new man on the "CBS Evening News" was talking about replacing a tradition. "I got a lot of letters, mostly unfavorable. They said I wasn't as warm as the other guy, they said I was too hard-edged."

Dan Rather? No, Walter Cronkite, referring to 1962 when he replaced Douglas Edwards, the 14-year veteran anchorman of CBS' nightly newscasts. "When I started out I was tense and intense," said Cronkite. "But it wore off as the seat became more comfortable."

It's been six months since Cronkite handed over the reins of power and visibility. "Dan's doing fine. He's coming along just as I anticipated. He's held up very well under the duress of being under the magnifying glass. He's gotten over that original intenseness quite quickly."

Cronkite's point is interesting. He wasn't born behind a desk. He once was a dashing war correspondent. Nobody called him avuncular back then. If CBS had a "60 Minutes" in the 1950s, Edward R. Murrow would have been Mike Wallace but Cronkite would have been Dan Rather.

Double talk on TV: Telling it like it ain't

By GUS STEVENS
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD – If all the baloney produced by all the people in the network television industry were put end to end it would stretch from Century City to Fred Silverman's Hawaiian pied-a-terre.

They like to pride themselves on leveling with the press, telling it like it is, as Howard would say. The difficulty is, they tell it like it ain't.

During a recent two-week television critics' live-in at the Century Plaza Hotel, the networks showed pilots of their new fall programming, brought in carloads of executives and on-air talent and, in general, talked shop.

At the press conference they got the star or the executive up before the critics. They got questions and they gave answers, but the answers had to be translated.

So here goes:

Question: How come you are in series television after being away from it so long. You swore, when you walked out on "Slime City," that you'd never come back.

Answer: The moment my agent sent over the script I knew that at last THIS was something special. When I heard that Frederico Spumoni was directing I was excited enough to cancel all my other projects. This show is another "M-A-S-H."

Translation: Look, I haven't had a job that paid more than minimum for 10 years. My agent won't return my calls. My wrinkles are showing like a hooker's thigh. If my hair gets any whiter, they'll think I'm Frosty the Snowman. I've got to get back on camera to find out if I have any fans left. Even with this lousy script we ought to last five weeks.

Question: We've heard that everybody on the set of "Search for Donovan's Brain" hates everybody else's guts. Any comment on that?

Answer: Such nonsense! The "Brain" set is one big happy family held together by love and respect. After the day's shooting is finished, we party at one another's homes. Even our Mercedes are double-dating.

Translation: The leading man can't follow the arrows on the floor. The female lead not only can't remember her lines, she's almost too dumb to read cue cards. Thank goodness, she's allowed to move her lips. The at-home "parties" are more like firebomb raids and I'd never let my Rolls run around with a Mercedes.

Question: Your series, "Love Me, Love My Guts," is pretty well filled with gratuitous sex and violence. Can you defend sending such stuff into American homes?

Answer: If you were careful viewers, you'd see that the so-called sex on "Guts" is family-oriented. The violence – I'd call it "action" – is put there to warn the nation's criminals that the police are prepared to fight fire with fire from now on. Just in case they didn't get the message from last November's elections.

Translation: Why don't you moralistic meddlers stick it?

'Get High on Yourself' week starts on TV

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It began last Oct. 8 with acclaimed film producer Robert Evans standing before a federal judge in New York City, guilty of possession of cocaine, a misdemeanor.

The judge, Vincent J. Broderick, ordered Evans — as the producer of "The Odd Couple," "Love Story" and "The Godfather" recounted later — to use his "unique talents to look for a breakthrough where others have failed in this horrible thing of drug abuse to children."

Evans' response was the concept for a unique — perhaps precedent-setting — network TV campaign called "Get High on Yourself," a week of programs and promotional messages designed to steer young people toward alternatives to drugs.

"Maybe I'm a romantic," Evans said in announcing the campaign in July, "but sometimes, through some of the greatest adversities, come the most marvelous passions."

"GET HIGH on Yourself" week on NBC begins Sunday evening at 8 EDT with an hour-long variety special, and will continue through Sept. 27 with specially selected programs, musical messages before all prime-time programs, and discussions on shows ranging from "Today" to "Tomorrow Coast-to-Coast."

"The country's most powerful medium and a who's who of America's entertainment and sports heroes are being utilized to counteract what is considered to be the most dangerous threat to America's young people," said Brandon Tartikoff, president of NBC's entertainment division.

Evans was joined initially in the effort by Cathy Lee Crosby, star of ABC's "That's Incredible," and the two lined up a list of celebrity participants that includes entertainers Carol Burnett, Andy Gibb, Bob Hope, Henry Winkler, Kate Jackson and Mark Hamill and sports stars Muhammad Ali, Tracy Austin, Rod Carew and Bruce Jenner.

In addition, Steve Karman, who wrote the "I Love New York" theme, composed an original song — "Get High on Yourself" — for the campaign.

"WHEN I WAS a kid, the parents of America were worried about polio," Evans said. "They were afraid it would cripple young bodies. Today, the parents are worried about drugs — afraid it will cripple young minds.

"We whipped polio — and we can whip the drug danger, too," Evans said. "We want the 'Get High on Yourself' program to be the 'March of Dimes' of the 1980s.

The following special programs are part of the "Get High on Yourself" campaign:

Sunday, Sept. 20 — "The Coach of the Year." Rerun of a made-for-TV movie with Robert Conrad as a paraplegic football coach who takes on a team of young ex-offenders. 9-11 p.m. EDT.

Monday, Sept. 21 — "Every Stray Dog and Kid." Bruce Weitz from "Hill Street Blues" and Maureen Anderman in a comedy-drama about a female ex-convict trying to make a home for juvenile offenders while writing a book about her prison experiences. 8-9 p.m. "And Baby Makes Six." A repeat of the made-for-TV movie. 9-11 p.m.

TUESDAY, Sept. 22 — "How to Eat Like a Child." Dick Van Dyke in new comedy-musical production, part of NBC's "Project Peacock" series for family viewing. 8-9 p.m. "Oh, God!" A rerun of the George Burns-John Denver movie. 9-11 p.m.

Thursday, Sept. 24 — "A Love Letter to Jack Benny." A repeat of the tribute to the late comedian, starring George Burns, Bob Hope and Johnny Carson. 9-11 p.m.

Friday, Sept. 25 — "Better Late than Never." Harold Gould and Harry Morgan in a movie about a group of senior citizens who follow an aging rebel's plan to escape from a retirement home. 9-11 p.m.

Saturday, Sept. 26 — "A Shaun Cassidy Special." Loni Anderson and Jack Albertson join Shaun Cassidy in a musical special. 10-11 p.m.

Sunday, Sept. 27 — "Bob Hope's All-Star Comedy Look at the New Season." 8-9 p.m. "The Tonight Show with Johnny Carson — 19th Anniversary Special." 9-11 p.m.

New York Philharmonic opens on serious note

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Philharmonic and Zubin Mehta plunged in at the deep end to start its season at Avery Fisher Hall on Thursday night.

It wasn't an audience fashion parade or a musical evening of light tone poems and familiar favorites.

Mehta, in his fourth year as music director, led a serious evening of 20th century music and the Philharmonic did itself proud.

The concert began with the U.S. premiere of Karlheinz Stockhausen's "Jubilee," went on to a particularly morose "Kindertotenlieder" and ended with a bitingly articulated "Rite of Spring."

The music of Stockhausen, now 53, always sounds modern, although through the years it has not all sounded alike. According to program notes, this piece, 14 minutes long, is in a Baroque passacaglia form.

The public is invited to attend any or all of the talks.

Speakers to vist St. Paul's Methodist

The following speakers of the Big Spring District "Mobilizing for Missions" week will speak at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, 4501 Thomason Drive, beginning Sunday.

The Rev. William T. "Jack" Robison, UM missionary to Bolivia since 1948, will be the guest speaker at the church's 8:30 a.m. Sunday service.

The Rev. Luis Veagra, superintendent minister of the Colon Circuit of the Panama-Costa Rica District, will be the guest speaker Friday during the 10 a.m. Women's Bible Study, held at the church, and the Men's Luncheon, held at Bonanza Steak House beginning at noon Friday.

The public is invited to attend.

First Christian hosting choir workshop

First Christian Church, 1201 W. Louisiana Ave., is hosting a church choir workshop today from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The workshop is being conducted by Jerry Forderhase of New York. Forderhase, currently conductor of the Long Island University Community Chorus and a private vocal instructor and voice coach in New York City, is completing a workshop tour of the Southwest. He has also been guest conductor for Pro Musica of El Paso. He will return to New York Sunday.

Church musicians and choral directors are invited to attend the Saturday session free of charge.

Fellowship day activities scheduled

Peoples Baptist Church, 1201 E. Spruce St., is conducting a citywide fellowship day beginning at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. The theme of the service, which is a special men's day program, is "God Loves You and We Do Too."

The Rev. L.L. Martin invites the public to attend.

Church to register handbell choirs

Registration for the handbell choirs at St. Paul United Methodist Church, 4501 Thomason Drive, will begin at 4 p.m. Sunday in the church's choir room.

The two choirs are for junior and senior high youths. The public is invited to participate.

Reception scheduled for teachers

St. Luke's United Methodist Church, 3011 W. Kansas Ave., will hold a reception for its 1981-82 Sunday School teachers during its 10:50 a.m. worship service.

The public is invited to attend.

CBN to add game shows

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Pat Robertson, founder of the Christian Broadcasting Network, says the network plans to add game shows, news updates, soap operas and documentaries.

He said CBN, based in Virginia Beach, Va., will offer a "wholesome" alternative to the "unethical television network giants" which he accused of "glorifying sex and violence."

Robertson, 51, is the host of "700 Club," a 90-minute religious talk show that was CBN's mainstay until the soap opera "Another Life" was introduced in June.

He said at a meeting of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences on Thursday that CBN will revive the $50,000 Pyramid game show and create its own comic dramas. Another offering will be a morning show called "USam" with news, weather, sports and features.

Robertson said plans for "wholesome" programming did not mean he was associating himself with the threat by some fundamentalist religious groups to boycott network television.

'The Way' continues branching out

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The "Way Tree" shows "limbs" in every state, "branches" in most localities and countless "twigs," the small, intimate house units which meet several times a week to "fellowship" and study the Bible.

Such is the arboreal structure portrayed by the Way International, one of many novel religious groups that have arisen in the country and drawn thousands of young people into them.

Its "root" is the home base of the Rev. Victor Paul Wierwille, a one-time Ohio clergyman of the United Church of Christ who quit that denomination in 1958 to found his own special brand of Christianity.

Critics assail its methods and some of its teachings, but participants extoll it and claim bolstering spiritual and practical benefits.

"God bless you," operators answer its telephones at its headquarters in New Knoxville, Ohio, and at "Way" colleges in Emporia, Kan., and Rome City, Ind.

● RELIGION ●

Doctrinally, the movement departs from some historic church concepts, but Wierwille claims his Scriptural interpretations are the most accurate since ancient times. His view dominates the "Way."

Followers regard him right "or they wouldn't be associated with the Way," says Cathy Crawley, public relations coordinator at a $5-million main headquarters building in Ohio.

A full-time staff of 450 turns out literature, a magazine, books and videotape study courses at a complex of buildings, including Wierwille's home and about 20 mobile homes for students.

"We teach the Bible accurately and help a lot of people," Mrs. Crawley said in a telepone interview. "They believe it has done great things for their lives."

Some distinctive techniques are used in the process, including a stream of videotaped study courses featuring Wierwille at varying costs, $100 per person for the 33-hour foundational course, "Power for Abundant Living."

How much the organization takes in, or how many members it has are closely guarded secrets, but estimates have put participants at 20,000 to 100,000, and income in the millions.

"We don't give out figures, not because we're hiding something, but because we don't trust the media," said Mrs. Crawley, 25, a seven-year Way veteran, adding that she doesn't know the statistics.

"So many negative articles have appeared about us, we're pretty wary.... We don't cater to human curiosity and probably never will."

Fervent thousands show up at the group's annual "Rock of Ages" festival in New Knoxville — about 16,000 last month — and others pack Wierwille's regional "Heartbeat" festivals.

A jaunty, vigorous man, now 64, he travels about most of the time in a 40-foot, blue-and-gold motorcoach, taking the stage in zestful style, along with bouncy musical groups.

"When people apply what he teaches, they get the right results," Mrs. Crawley said, each according to their objectives, such as "better health, peace of mind, undertanding of God, harmony in the home, how to set goals and be successful."

"Maybe they want a more exciting lifestyle," she added. "God has that and will give it to anyone who knows how to believe and pray."

Asked if financial success was among the benefits, she said, "That's one thing it does. But spiritual abundance is the primary thing." She cited the movement's key Scripture verse, John 10:10:

"I came that they may have life and have it more abundantly."

The movement rejects one of the key mysteries of historic Christianity, belief in the Trinity — the threefold manifestations of one God as Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

"Jesus Christ Is Not God," Wierwille titled one of his books, rejecting traditional Christian belief that Jesus is truly God as well as truly man. To reject that dual nature was condemned early as heresy.

Asked about criticisms of Wierwillie as heretical, Mrs. Crawley said: "That's what you'd expect from the so-called Christian world that disagrees."

Belief in "the Trinity is the ancient heresy," she contended. "To us, it's not biblical. To us, it's not true. We believe in God, the Father, Jesus his only begotten son and the gift of the Holy Spirit.

"Christ is not God. Neither is the Holy Spirit. The Bible doesn't say they are."

To accusations of critics, including some ex-members, that the Way's heavy schedule of meetings and courses amount to brainwashing, she said, "Those who say that are either people who really don't know what we do, or people who are anti-Way."

The Way's recruitment methods involve a "one-on-one" approach by "twig" members, drawing others into the round of house meetings, multiplying by dividing into another "twig" when size reaches about a dozen.

Asked about criticisms that the movement was authoritarian, under the one-man control of Wierwille, she said:

"People who don't like the man accuse him of anything.... Whatever he teaches, he shows how he got it from the Bible."

The Newspaper BIBLE

GOD SPEAKS ON THE HOMOSEXUAL LIFESTYLE

Two angels came to the entrance of the city of Sodom, and Lot was sitting there as they arrived. As they were preparing to retire for the night, the men of the city -- yes, Sodomites, young and old from all over the city -- surrounded the house and shouted to Lot, "Bring out those men so we can rape them."

Lot stepped outside to talk to them. "Please, fellows," he begged, "don't do such a wicked thing."

"Stand back," they yelled. "Who do you think you are?" And they lunged at Lot and began breaking down the door. But the two men reached out and pulled Lot in and bolted the door, and temporarily blinded the men of Sodom so that they couldn't find the door.

At dawn the next morning the angels became urgent. "Hurry," they said to Lot, "take your wife and your two daughters who are here and get out while you can, or you will be caught in the destruction of the city. Flee for your lives," the angels told him. "And don't look back. Escape to the mountains. But hurry! For I can do nothing until you are there."

Then the Lord rained down flaming tar from heaven upon Sodom and Gomorrah, and utterly destroyed them, along with the other cities and villages of the plain, eliminating all life--people, plants, and animals alike.

Police work taking spiritual tone with more forces using chaplains

By MICHAEL DAVIS
Copley News Service

LOS ANGELES — Police work, once the exclusive domain of gun-toting, no-nonsense lawmen, is taking on a spiritual tone in some cases.

Pastor Herb Read, for example, was undressed and ready for bed recently when the suburban Hawthorne Police Department asked him to help talk someone out of suicide.

He arrived moments later at the Hawthorne mall to find a grieving man perched precariously on a high ledge over the parking lot.

"I found the situation rather tense, of course," said Read, pastor of the Church of Christ in nearby Lawndale.

After convincing the man he was indeed a police chaplain, the two began a dialogue that lasted for almost half an hour.

Eventually, Read said, "I actually prayed to the guy aloud." That did the job. As police were waved back, Read kept talking and the man returned to safety.

But Read's task wasn't finished. He accompanied the man, who was plagued with various job and family problems, to a nearby hospital where it was determined he was troubled but not insane.

The man showered at Read's home in the early morning hours after being released.

The incident, which ministers and police officials say is typical of the chaplain's role, happened in the second week of the new Hawthorne program.

Read and 10 other members of the Hawthorne-Lawndale Ministerial Association have agreed to rotate as the department chaplain.

Each works a month at a time, on call 24 hours a day, to provide crisis intervention, death notifications and counseling to troubled citizens or officers themselves, if need be.

The chaplain also promises to spend at least four hours a week cruising in a patrol car with police officers.

Police chaplains have been around for years — many departments have one permanently on staff and the Los Angeles Police Department has more than 40 — but the idea seems to be gaining new interest.

The Hawthorne program was started when Chief Kenneth Stonebraker decided to model one after the 2-year-old unit in nearby Redondo Beach.

Read says the local ministers were enthusiastic when Stonebraker approached them.

"It makes available to the officers the experience we have as counselors and pastors," Read said. "And it gives us a great opportunity to really see just what it going on in the community."

At first, Read said, some officers appeared apprehensive about his presence. "I'm sure they were uptight. But I made it clear we're not going to preach to them. If they wish to talk, however, that's fine."

The Hawthorne chaplains will be dressed in civilian clothing, identified with lapel pins and a card, but will not be armed.

"We carry our own weapon — the sword of the spirit, which is, of course, the Bible."

Woman bequeaths funds to Presbyterian schools

BATESVILLE, Ark. (AP) — A woman who died at age 97 has bequeathed $26 million to two Presbyterian schools in Texas and Arkansas, her attorney says.

In her will, Jean Brown of Hot Springs left $11.7 million to the Austin Presbyterian Theology Seminary in Austin, Texas, and $14.3 million to Arkansas College, the oldest private college in the state.

Much of the gift to Arkansas College consists of promissory notes from a subsidiary of International Paper Co. Her lawyer said Miss Brown obtained the promissory notes in 1979 in exchange for Bodcaw Lumber Co. stocks she inherited from her father.

Gary Chamberlin, deputy director of the state Higher Education Department, said he knew of no larger donation to an Arkansas college.

"I would venture to guess it will be one of the biggest gifts in the whole country this year," he said.

An entomology enthusiast hired as a bug salesman at Isetan's department store in Tokyo looks down in mock horror as a pair of beetles climb up his T-shirt.

Tokyo department store caters to insect lovers

By NEAL ULEVICH
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — There are cat people and dog people. The beetle people go to Isetan, a Tokyo department store that boasts a special section catering to a bug-loving clientele.

Cultivating a 3-inch horned beetle as a pet is a childhood custom in Japan, where love of nature is a tradition and the songs of insects are prized as the warblings of song birds.

Isetan's walk-in insect department, a summer promotion, has drawn 2,000 children and parents on weekdays, twice that number on a busy Sunday.

The store entered the beetle business 14 years ago when children in rural Yamanishi prefecture (state) gathered the summer pets for youngsters in urban Tokyo. It came to a halt six years ago when environmentalists charged that such well-meaning efforts were depleting several of the more exotic species.

Isetan went back in the bug business this year when it calmed critics by buying bugs from commercial farms instead of free-lance bug hunters.

The store charges children 200 yen (about 85 cents) admission. With the ticket comes a magnifying glass and permission to take home all the beetles you can catch.

Entomology students were hired to restock the trees, spread humus, peddle plastic cages and provide scientific information to youngsters who show an interest.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Claudette Colbert, whose comedy roles in such classic films as "It Happened One Night" and "Guest Wife" are winning her a new generation of fans on late-night TV, celebrates her birthday today. Also born on this date: stunning Jacqueline Bisset. All of you sharing this birthday can look forward to a very busy and satisfying year. Romance takes a back seat to career pursuits but will still be highly rewarding. Count on relatives to lend you a helping hand when you need it most! The financial outlook is excellent. Employ greater diplomacy when expressing your principles to influential people.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be patient. There are strong indications that a family member will lend you the support you need to deal with a difficult situation. Keep up the good work if on a diet.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Today's quiet tempo helps you achieve some personal goals sooner than expected. Count your blessings! You are able to take care of chores that will make home life more pleasant.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Do not try to force loved ones to move at a certain pace today. Let everyone proceed at his or her own rate! Romance is under highly favorable influence.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Relatives are most cooperative today. Call a family conference to discuss the best way to relieve financial worries. If single, you could find yourself falling in love.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Recognize extravagance for what it is! Do not allow friends to intrude on family affairs. Advice offered by mate or partner could be a blessing in disguise. Follow it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A Sunday sermon may give you valuable new insights. Do your entertaining at home to keep expenses down. Family members are supportive. Use any spare time to work on creative projects.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Home life is unusually happy for most married couples now. Silly differences of opinion are long forgotten. You may decide to dine out. Dress appropriately.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A very good day for visiting old friends. You make an excellent first impression on those who really matter. Resist the temptation to splurge! Keep entertainment costs within reasonable limits.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You have the freedom to pursue some very special interests today. An insight you get from a friend turns out to be pure gold. Your hopes, dreams move closer to fulfillment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Today's brisk social pace may leave you wishing for greater privacy. Be skeptical regarding unsolicited advice. Someone may have an ulterior motive!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Consider the importance of different kinds of love, and confide in those closest to your heart. They will want to help. Accept an invitation to go out this evening.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You can make your dreams materialize if you want them enough. Certain people are simply "in love with love". Understand this and proceed with greater caution.

200-year-old Italian cookie comapny sweetens U.S.

By EILEEN PUTMAN
Associated Press Writer

CONGERS, N.Y. (AP) — An Italian company needed to produce its gourmet cookies near its major U.S. market, but didn't want to entrust the 200-year-old secret recipe to the hands of a U.S. producer.

So New York state stepped in with a recipe of tax incentives and 100 percent financing and Lazzaroni Saronno decided to build a plant — its only bakery outside Italy — in this Hudson River village north of New York City.

Wooing companies such as Lazzaroni, which officially opened its plant Sept. 3, is a story told with increasing frequency as states and other developers seek foreign businesses in order to boost local economies.

Lazzaroni uses apricot kernels, egg whites and sugar to produce expensive, dark brown, sugar-topped "Amaretti" cookies that, together with the company's 156 other types of cookies, gross $50 million annually in sales.

Gourmet stores in New York and San Francisco account for most of the U.S. sales, but with freight costs and increased production costs in Italy, prices on Lazzaroni's best-selling Amaretti cookie rose to $9.50 a pound on the retail market.

"We were outpricing ourselves in the American market. We would have been out of the market pretty soon," said Paolo Lazzaroni, who is in the sixth generation of his family in the cookie business, during a tour of the plant.

When word got out that the company was searching for a U.S. location, Lazzaroni, which has operated a business in Saronno, Italy, since 1750, was courted by several states, including Connecticut, New Jersey and North Carolina.

"Almost all the states offer this kind of program," said Lazzaroni. "But we needed to be somewhere not far from our major market, the New York City area."

Lazzaroni said the company considered having a U.S. firm produce the cookie, but didn't want to risk the secret recipe developed by his great-great-great grandfather in other hands.

"The secret is not only in the proportions but how we make them. We don't use flour," he said.

When Lazzaroni started daily production of 2,000 pounds of Amaretti cookies — the only kind the plant will make — 25 workers were employed on the assembly lines at the 21,000-square-foot plant. The company plans to expand to 75,000 square feet and 210 workers in the next few years.

The New York state Department of Commerce says that since its International Division began actively recruiting foreign businesses in 1977, 18 foreign companies have opened facilities in the state, creating 1,500 jobs.

Some local communities also operate their own recruiting program. Nearby Westchester County has recruited on its own several foreign businesses, including Ordibel, Royal Copenhagen and Hitachi Metals.

The financing is arranged by the local community, which gains jobs, taxes and the benefits of a mixed economic base.

Under the state arrangement with Lazzaroni, the company will pay only 50 percent of the local taxes it would normally be charged on its 6.5-acre site, and it will receive a 10-year tax abatement from the state.

The state also arranged for the entire cost of the $2.3 million project to be financed by long-term, low-interest, tax-exempt bonds sold to area banks under the auspices of a quasi-governmental industrial development agency.

"It is a very good deal," said Lazzaroni.

Pelicans deported for eating pigeons, ducklings, and sparrows

LONDON (AP) — A Russian pelican and his lady love were deported to the London Zoo today on charges of disorderly conduct — eating their neighbors in the park facing Buckingham Palace.

Khan and Clarissa developed a rude habit of swallowing the live pigeons, ducklings and sparrows which also inhabit St. James's Park, instead of eating the dead fish provided by the government.

"It wasn't good for the pelicans and it was distressing to the public," a spokesman said after wardens nabbed the pair. "They will have to eat fish at the zoo."

That wasn't the only flap birds were causing in Britain, however.

In Berkshire, woodpeckers were in for a headache after workers nailed metal plates to power poles to prevent damage by the frustrated birds, whose first choice of elm has been wiped out by disease.

And in Reading, pet shop owner Colin Powell was offering a $90 reward for the return of his abducted security guard, Mini the mynah bird.

"I spent years teaching her to say 'Put that back' and 'Who's a rascal?' whenever customers picked things up," Powell lamented.

Meanwhile, the Trust for Nature Conservation in Somerset was encouraging people to open their hearts — and attics — to homeless bats. The conservationists say the bat population is declining through loss of roosting and breeding places in houses and barns.

"One of our jobs will be to rectify the Dracula image," said conservation officer Robin Jarman.

WHY FALL IS THE BEST TIME TO PLANT TREES, SHRUBS AND BULBS.
It's always better to plant outdoor trees, shrubs and bulbs during the fall when they are dormant. These plants, when dormant, will channel all their energies toward establishing root growth that will greatly benefit their ability to gather nutrients in the spring and become greener, healthier plants. You'll also find a much greater selection of these plants in the fall. For spring shade and landscaping beauty, plant your trees, shrubs and bulbs in the fall!

Rebs use blocked kick, 83-yard run for win

By ROBERT BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

A heavy rain storm Friday night kept the Midland Lee fans away from Memorial Stadium in droves, but it didn't keep the Rebels from posting a 13-0 victory over the Snyder Tigers.

Approximately 100 people were seated in the stands, huddled in groups under umbrellas when they had them, getting wet when they didn't, and rooted the Rebels to victory.

Both Rebel touchdowns came via the kicking game. In the first quarter, Lee held Snyder to only one yard in the Tiger's first possession, forcing a punt that was blocked and recovered on the five-yard line. Two plays later quarterback Bart Ryan pushed the ball over the goal line from three yards out. Van Gravitt added the PAT and the Rebels were up 7-0.

Midway through the fourth quarter, Lee was unable to move the ball so, for the fourth time in the game on third down and long yardage, the Rebels lined up in punting formation, giving up the chance to gain the first down. Only the fourth third-down punt turned into an 83-yard touchdown for fullback Calvin Riggs.

THE CENTER snapped the ball to Riggs who went off the right tackle and broke through the line of scrimmage for clear sailing to the goal line. Ryan, also the team's punter, acted out the play by jumping up like he was reaching for a bad snap to help open the way for Riggs.

Gravitt missed the PAT kick.

"It's a play that's in our repertoire," said Lee head coach Spike Dykes. "We felt like it was the opportune time to use it. Snyder had all 11 men on the line and we thought if Riggs could get beyond the line of scrimmage it could go all the way."

Lee's Luther Johnson also had a good return of a kick, 80 yards, and it would have been a touchdown except a clipping penalty brought the ball back to the Lee 10-yard line.

While the Lee offense was hampered by the rain, Snyder was suffering from a severe case of Rebel defense. Lee didn't give up a first down in the first half and only allowed three for the game. The Tigers were held to 94 total yards, 44 rushing and 50 passing.

"I THOUGHT the defense played well again," said coach Dykes. "They did well and rallied when they had to. One turn over (following the punt return that was called back because of clipping, the Rebels fumbled the ball away on the 12-yard line) on the field the defense came on to do the job."

Considering the circumstances of the game, the offensive unit also did a good job. With his 83-yard scoring run, Riggs easily led all rushers with 134 yards in 13 carries while the rest of the Rebel runners added 68 yards for a 202-yard total. No passes were completed. The Rebels gave up the slippery ball four times on the night, two by fumble and two by interception. One interception was a third and five situation on the Tiger five-yard line in the second quarter. Ryan's pass was intercepted by Tiger David Miller who was run down by Ryan, the final hope, on the Lee 35-yard line. Ryan used Miller's face mask for the tackle, but he saved a touchdown.

"I thought the offense did a good job under the circumstances," said Dykes and on the interception play he said he called it because "we were trying to score a touchdown. I thought it would be open and I thought the play might work, It didin't work, my fault."

The victory upped the Rebels season record to 2-0 while the Tigers dropped to 0-2. Next week, Lee stays inMemorial Stadium for an 8 p.m. game against Plainview.

Lloyd eliminated by Navatrilova

By BOB GREENE

NEW YORK (AP) — Martina Navratilova broke Chris Evert Lloyd in the eighth and 10th games of the third set Friday to upset the tournament's No.1 seed 7-5, 4-6, 6-4 and advance to the women's final of the U.S. Open tennis championship.

"This was like the finals, only I've got to go out and play again," Navratilova said of the 2-hour, 12-minute battle.

Navratilova, who has never won America's premier tennis event, will meet third-seeded Tracy Austin in today's final. Austin advanced with a 6-1, 6-3 victory over No.11 Barbara Potter in the day's first match.

The men's singles semifinals also are scheduled for today, with top-seeded John McEnroe meeting No.15 Vitas Gerulaitis and No.2 Bjorn Borg of Sweden taking on No.4 Jimmy Connors.

"It's a question as to whether I'll be on such a high (for the finals), whether I'll be playing great or whether I will have expended so much energy that I'll be flat," Navratilova said.

LLOYD, the defending champion, was going after her sixth U.S. Open title in seven years. Navratilova, who became a naturalized American citizen earlier this year, had never before made it to the finals.

In the opening set, the two traded service breaks, Lloyd breaking in the first and ninth games, while Navratilova broke in the second and sixth. Then Navratilova, a native of Czechoslovakia who defected after the 1975 U.S. Open, broke in the 12th game when Lloyd hit a forehand long.

Both had trouble holding serve throughout. In the second set, there were five consecutive service breaks as Lloyd jumped to a 4-3 lead. Lloyd held her next two serves to send the match into the third and final set.

The third set was delayed five minutes by a ruckus in the crowd of 18,588 with Lloyd leading 3-2. Two men were ejected from Louis Armstrong Stadium before Lloyd came on to hold her serve and take a 4-2 advantage.

But Navratilova roared back, holding her own serve before play was interrupted for another five minutes as security police ejected a third man.

Austin had very few problems making her second trip to the final round at the National Tennis Center in Flushing Meadow. She won the 1979 crown, defeating Lloyd.

POTTER, who was seeded 11th here, changed her tactics and stayed primarily on the baseline, which Austin's domain. The tactic proved disastrous as Austin ran off the match's first three games and, in the second set, won 12 straight points to pull from a 1-0 deficit to a 3-1 lead.

"I was surprised she stayed back as much as she did," said Austin.

Tech's Moore makes debut

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Jerry Moore makes his Texas Tech coaching debut Saturday but the spotlight is on the Texas-Rice Southwest Conference opener in Austin where the Owls try to break a 15-game losing streak to the Longhorns.

The Owls used to be a big pest for Texas back in the Jess Neely years between 1940 and 1966. In fact, the last Rice victory was in 1965 — a 20-17 upset in Austin.

Texas was a 21-point favorite although the No. 8-ranked Longhorns will be missing running backs A.J. "Jam" Jones and Rodney Tate with injuries. Terry Orr was scheduled to shoulder the running back load for the Longhorns.

JUNIOR COLLEGE transfer Michael Calhoun, who hails from Wichita Falls, was to start at quarterback for Rice while Rick McIvor drew the man-under starting nod from Texas Coach Fred Akers.

A crowd of some 60,000 was expected for the 7 p.m. kickoff in Memorial Stadium as the preseason favorite Longhorns open the 1981 SWC campaign.

Moore's Red Raiders were a touchdown pick over Colorado in Boulder. The Red Raiders are 2-0 versus Colorado and 13-3 against the Big Eight since joining the league in 1960.

IN OTHER games, defending SWC champion Baylor, upset 18-17 by Lamar last week, was a solid two touchdown choice over Mid-American Conference foe Bowling Green; Southern Methodist was a 14-point selection over North Texas State; and Arkansas was a 13-point pick over Tulsa in Fayetteville.

SMU is ahead 22-2-1 in the rivalry with the Mean Green. The Mustangs blasted Texas-Arlington 48-0 last week while NTSU fell 28-6 to Kentucky.

Arkansas owns a 40-15-3 all-time series lead over Tulsa although the Razorbacks have had to scramble in recent years.

Tulsa won 9-6 on a last second field goal in 1976 and Arkansas returned the favor 13-10 last year.

Tulsa lost its opener 14-11 to Kansas while the Razorbacks were waiting to start the season.

MOORE, HEAD coach at North Texas last year, said "I have never been so excited about a season in all my life but I don't know if I'm being realistic.

"We are going to have to be lucky, and by that I don't mean breaks, I mean injuries. I have never been around a team with less depth."

Moore closed practices at Tech to work on various experiments out of Tech's new I-Formation.

Campbell in light workout

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler fullback Earl Campbell worked out lightly Friday while nursing a bruised shoulder and remained questionable for Sunday's American Football Conference Central Division game against the Cleveland Browns.

Campbell, the three-time National Football League rushing champion, bruised his shoulder in the fourth quarter of Sunday's 27-20 victory over Los Angeles.

An Oiler spokesman said Campbell, who was excused from practice Thursday, jogged lightly during Friday's drill.

Andrews beats Bulldogs

Keith Brooks ramrods Mustangs to victory

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

ANDREWS — Andrews' Keith "Van Who" Brooks wrote his name in the super star category here Friday night as he picked his way through Midland High's new eight man defensive front to lead the Mustangs to a 27-6 victory over an almost helpless Bulldog team.

For the last four years, the "name" at Andrews has been Van Pearcy. But now Pearcy is at Notre Dame and Brooks has now shadow to live under. With the shadow gone now, Brooks has become one of the most explosive forces in Texas high school football.

The Bulldogs will not soon forget the Brooks legend after Friday. The 190-pound quarterback riddled Midland High's defense for 149 yards on 25 carries. He also scored three times on runs of 21, 66 and six yards, intercepted a pass, ran for a two-point conversion and passed for another six pointer with a seven yard completion to Brent Petross.

Brooks had 177 yards rushing last week against Seminole and was almost as effective against the Dogs, who threw everything at him but the kitchen sink. He was a dominant force that the Bulldogs couldn't handle.

It still could have been a close game, but Andrews also threw Petross at Midland High for 74 yards, Adam Smith for 59 and Darrell Ray for an additional 44. It was an awesome display from the AAAA squad as it went on to rumble for 327 yards rushing against a defense that was supposed to be designed to stop the running game flat.

And while Andrews was running up and down the field with ease, Midland High's new Wishbone attack sputtered from start to finish, ending the game with a mere 101 yards rushing and 17 passing. Ricky Madrid led the Bulldogs with 49 yards rushing, but even he had his problems in the steady rain when he fumbled at the Andrews eight yard line in the fourth quarter after a gain of 24 yards, the biggest play of the night for Midland.

Andrews jumped to a 14-0 lead when Brooks ran 21 yards for one score and hit Petross for seven yards for another. He also ran a two-point conversion.

Midland High, even with only a 21-yard production on offense in the first half, stayed in the game at the half by scoring with 6:47 left. Andrews made that one a gift when the snap on a punt attempt sailed over the head of Andrews punter Floyd Cornejo. Cornejo tracked down the ball and tried to punt, but it was blocked by Midland's Scott Louderback at the six. Wesley Williams scored two plays later from the five and the try for two points failed. Williams, who was the leading rusher for Midland last week with 61 yards, gained only 15 yards on five carries.

In the third quarter, Brooks broke for a 66-yard TD dash. Once he cleared the line, only Jim Sutherland had a shot at him and he couldn't bring Brooks down with a tackle try at the 10 yard line.

Brooks also takes credit for the final Andrews TD. He intercepted a Allen Chick pass at the Midland 35 and returned it to the six where he scored on the next play. He seemed to do just whatever he wanted.

The Andrews offense was impressive enough, but the Mustang defense is stout also. Midland made only four first downs all night as Randy Nelson, Petross, Brooks, Rumaldo Falcon, Smith and Jeff Ashabranner showed what a swarming defense can do. Midland could never really solve those problems.

The only threats the Bulldogs posed were the blocked punt and Madrid's fumble at the eight. That last drive was set up when Madrid gained 23 yards to the Andrews 40. Later he broke for 24 yards, but fumbled the wet ball at the eight. Midland was trailing 20-6 at the time.

Midland High, now 1-1 on the year, has to have some inward questions about both the offense and defense after that almost helpless showing. Andrews is now 2-0, and showing signs of maybe being the best Andrews club in history. If the Mustangs are not near the best team in the school's history, then MHS may have even more problems to solve. There is no question that Andrews was awesome against the Bulldogs.

Midland foils CBS

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

Midland's Dallas Cowboy fans and tennis buffs will have the best of both worlds Sunday, thanks to the Tall City TV Cable Company.

Tom Mixon, manager of the local cable company, has announced that arrangements have been made to bring the Dallas-St. Louis football game to Midland at 3 p.m. Sunday on cable channel 11.

"We are going to bring in the micro-wave signal of KDFW from Dallas on channel 11. We will drop KTVT during the duration of the game only and KTVT will return to the air on channel 11 after the game.

"KDFW is the CBS affiliate in Dallas, and as far as I can determine, KDFW and a station in St. Louis are the only stations allowed to carry the game by CBS. CBS is showing the U.S. Open tennis tournament at 3 p.m. Sunday and we will have that too since KOSA will have that coverage."

Mixon said permission had to be obtained from the Dallas Cowboys to bring in the micro-wave transmission of KDFW and that was done.

CBS announced last week that the Cowboy-Cardinal game would only be seen by television viewers in Dallas and St. Louis. Dallas fans across the state have been in an uproar over the decision.

CBS Sports decided to carry the U.S. Open tennis championships, thus restricting its normal three National Football League regional games to the six hometown cities.

The Associated Press reported that the network has received a "considerable number of calls" from individuals, according to a CBS spokesman in New York. "Affiliates are throwing up their hands and telling everyone to call here," he said. He said all those who called voiced a preference for football over tennis.

Cowboy President Tex Schram has been critical of the network.

Schramm told The Associated Press, "I think this decision by CBS is the crassest example of ignoring the desires of affiliates and their viewers that I have ever seen in a long time."

A Lubbock television station, KLBK-TV, ran an ad in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal with a coupon asking viewers their preference. A spokesman said Thursday more than 1,000 people had responded and the Cowboy-Cardinal game was the overwhelming choice.

As of Friday, however, Lubbock fans and others across the state will have to do without the Cowboys Sunday. But Midland fans can have their football and tennis too if they are equiped with cable TV.

Badgers foil late Owl bid; win 7-0

By MIKE CRUVER
Sports Writer

MCCAMEY — Reagan County head coach Richard Davis had written the perfect script. There was one hitch, though; his Owls failed in the final act.

The star in the finale scene of the Reagan County-McCamey football game Friday was not the Owls, but the Badger secondary.

Before the season, Davis had said if the Owls found themselves down and needed a big play or a quick score, he would move Gregg Fisher to quarterback and go to the shotgun formation.

With 1:48 left in the game, Danny Schwertner recovered a Badger fumbled on the RC 29. Trailing 7-0, and 71 yards away from paydirt, Davis went to the shotgun formation.

Fisher went to work. Running and passing out of the shotgun, he moved the Owls to the Badger 30 with 31 seconds. Mark Nichols slowed down the Owl drive as he crashed through two tacklers and knocked Fisher down for a 9-yard loss with 19 ticks left on the Badger Stadium clock.

Facing fourth and 11 at the 39, Fisher rolled to his left and found Brad Armstrong along the left sideline for an 14-yard completion to the Badger's 25. As the officials unpiled the tangle of bodies, the buzzer blared to signal the of the game.

Not so! The officials conferred; RC coach Richard Davis argued for more time; and McCamey coach Larry Nabors pleaded for the game to be over. After five minutes of discussion, six seconds were put back on the clock and the Owls had one final crack at the Badger's goal line.

Fisher, under center, took the snap, faded back and spotted Armstrong at the goal line. Fisher cut loose. The ball, Armstrong and McCamey's Jerry Stacy and Tony Velasquez arrived all at the same time. Armstrong had the ball on his fingertips but the collision knocked it loose as time expired for the final time as the Badgers hung on for the 7-0 win.

For a long while it had appeared that the game would end in a tie. After a scoreless first half, McCamey had lite up the scoreboard on a 53-yard touchdown pass in the third quarter.

Facing a third and nine on their own 47, Stacy dropped back and found Clay Lindsey wide open at the 25. Lindsey, who was so open that RC's defense has to use field glasses to find him after he caught the ball, cradled the ball at the 25 and walked the final yards for the score. Stacy added the PAT as the Badgers went on top 7-0.

In the first half, McCamey had played most of the game in the shadow of the Owls' goal post. But penalties, fumbles, and some butterfingered receivers denied the Badgers some points.

Reagan County threatened late in the first period. After stopping the Badgers at the RC 33, the Owls marched to the McCamey 18 before the Badgers stiffened. Facing a fourth and two, Fisher got the call, but was stopped for a one yard loss by Bucky Watson and Mike Berryhill.

Ovett wins, but fails to crack world record

LONDON (AP) — Steve Ovett posted a convincing victory in a 2,000-meter race Friday night but failed to crack another world record.

Ovett, holder of the 1,500-meter mark, was the big attraction that drew a crowd of 17,000 to the Coca-Cola international track and meet at the Crystal Palace.

He produced a winning kick over the final 120 meters and left behind Eamonn Coghlan of Ireland, the leader early in the last lap. But Ovett looked tired and drained after his busy season and his time of 8 minutes, 25.52 seconds was far off his world record of 8:13.51, set in 1978.

Ovett has won 12 of 14 races over one mile or 1,500 meters this season, plus three 800-meter races.

The fans hoped to see Ovett gain revenge against Sydney Maree, the native South African who beat him in the mile at Rieti, Italy, this week. But Maree missed the meet and announced he will attack Ovett's 1,500-meter record at Hamburg, West Germany Saturday.

Greg Foster led a 1-2 finish for the United States in the 110-meter high hurdles. Foster was timed in 13.46, with Rod Milburn second in 13.74.

American Walter McCoy won the 400-meter dash in 44.99, the fastest time ever in Britain.

Mike Boit of Kenya edged American James Robinson in the 800.

Gary Cook of Britain led on the second lap of the 800, but Boit sped in front 200 meters from the finish and Robinson went after him. In a thrilling finish, Boit was timed in 1:47.06 and Robinson was a close second in 1:47.07. Cook finished third in 1:47.31.

Another American victory came in the long jump, as Larry Myricks leaped 26 feet, 7¼ inches.

Jane Blalock just two strokes back

Jan leads Virginia golf

SUFFOLK, Va. (AP) — Neither front-running Jan Stephenson nor runner-up Jane Blalock expected to be in those positions as they began today's second round of the 54-hole, $125,000 LPGA United Virginia Golf Classic.

"This is a course suited to a left-to-right hitter and I'm a right-to-left player," Stephenson said Friday after a no-bogey 7-under-par 66 over the Sleepy Hole course that gave her a two-stroke lead over Blalock after the first 18 holes.

Blalock, who birdied five of the first eight holes and finished with a 5-under 68, said she had been playing so poorly recently that she dropped out of the Rail tournament last week at Springfield, Ill., after the first round and went home to practice.

"It's a thinking person's golf course," said Blalock, who used a two-iron off six tees and a driver off eight while missing only one green. Stephenson used a driver throughout off the tees.

Janet Alex and Myra Van Hoose were tied for third at 70. Eleven players, including JoAnne Carner, the LPGA's leading money winner who has won the last two tournaments at Denver and Springfield, were deadlocked at 71.

Also at 71 was Amy Alcott, winner of this tourney in 1979.

A total of 38 players were at par 73 or under.

Donna Caponi is not defending her championship because of the death of her mother. Also absent is Nancy Lopez-Melton, who shot a tourney-record 8-under-par 64 last year over the Elizabeth Manor course in Portsmouth and finished second.

"Here I am 7-under-par and unhappy about the finish," Stephenson said after missing both eagle and birdie putts on the par-5 18th.

Stephenson has won two tournaments this year, including Dallas, where she set an LPGA 54-hole record with an 18-under-par score of 198.

"That's the best putting round I've had since the 64 at Dallas," the Australian native said.

She birdied three straight holes starting at the fourth and was 4-under at the turn. She birdied the 10th from 18 inches, then went 7-under with birdies on the 15th and 16th.

On the 18th, Stephenson hit a driver and 4-wood to within 25 feet of the pin. But she left the eagle putt 3½ feet short, then missed the birdie putt.

Blalock didn't arrive until Thursday night and played the course for the first time Friday.

She was 5-under at the turn but had only one birdie on the back side, missing birdie putts on the 10th through the 13th holes. She missed a 10-foot par putt for her only bogey on the 14th and parred the 18th, where she needed three shots to reach the green.

Irish, Wolverines hog grid spotlight

By Associated Press

Last week, the spotlight fell on Georgia, defending national champions and Alabama Coach Bear Bryant. This week, it shifts to Michigan, pre-season choice for No.1 n the Associated Press rankings, and Notre Dame Coach Gerry Faust, as the college football season swings into high gear.

Seventeen members of the Top Twenty are in action Saturday and the other three — ninth-ranked Pitt, No.14 Mississippi State and No.16 Miami, Fla. — all opened a week ago.

Top-rated Michigan gets under way on the road against Big Ten rival Wisconsin, while fourth-ranked Notre Dame kicks off the Faust era under in South Bend against Louisiana State.

Meanwhile, Bryant goes after career triumph No.308 when second-ranked Alabama meets Georgia Tech in Birmingham, No.3 Oklahoma hosts Wyoming, fifth-rated Southern California is at home to Tennessee in a night game, and No.6 Georgia entertains California.

ROUNDING out the Top Ten, seventh-ranked Nebraska visits Iowa, No.8 Texas entertains Rice in a Southwest Conference night contest, while Penn State, tied with Pitt for ninth, hosts Cincinnati.

In Second Ten, Duke visits No.11 Ohio State, No.12 UCLA is at Arizona under the lights, East Carolina at No.13 North Carolina, Air Force at No.15 Brigham Young, Pacific at No.17 Washington, Memphis State at Florida State at night, No.19 Stanford at Purdue in a nationally televised contest (ABC-TV, 3 p.m. EDT) and Utah at No.20 Arizona State.

The Notre Dame faithful have been waiting for Faust's debut ever since he was named to succeed Dan Devine last Novemeber.

"I know it'll be an emotional moment for me the first time we hit the field," says the 45-year-old Faust, who is attempting to make the jump from the prep ranks (174-17-2 in 18 years at Cincinnati's Moeller High) to the college game's biggest pressure cooker. "But I also know that once we go out there against LSU the honeymoon is over for good. It's time for us to get down to business and start trying to win football games.

"MY BIGGEST worry is that I still don't know how we'll stack up against other teams at this level. I'll feel a lot more comfortable once I see if our players can run and throw and tackle as well as the LSU players can. In my own mind, I feel like we should have a good football team this year. But I'll know a lot more about the situation Saturday when I'm down there on the field and I can see how we measure up."

LSU opened with a 24-7 loss to Alabama in which the Tigers surrendered a half-dozen or so long gainers. "We know we will have to eliminate that against Notre Dame," says coach Jerry Stovall.

IF ONE listens to Michigan coach Bo Schembechler, the Wolverines' No.1 ranking is in jeopardy right off the bat against Wisconsin.

"I felt that after the Wisconsin game last year, (Michigan won 24-0) that they were the best defensive team we had seen all season in the Big Ten," Schembechler says. "I still felt that way when the season was complete. We put 24 points on the board, but that is kind of deceiving because we really didn't put together a sustained drive all afternoon.

JIM MURRAY

Robinson never wrestled a bear

Los Angeles Times

He doesn't look like a football coach. He looks like your Uncle Joe, a malted milk with a whistle around its neck. He has this appealing stammer when he gets excited, which is often, the world's biggest Easter rabbit, a marshmallow sundae.

You know how football coaches are. Blue-bearded, red-necked. They wrestled a bear or rode a shark or ate light bulbs when they were young. They played on a team known as the Seven Blocks of Granite or the Dream Backfield or a Team Named Desire. They're aloof, stern, forbidding as a German field marshal, and they're nicknamed "Grizzly" or "The Iron Major," "The Wizard" or "Close The Gates Of Mercy." They whack players alongside the helmet, kick butts, read Von Clausewitz for pleasure, and growl a lot. They view the field from a lofty tower, they preserve a mystique about their profession. They talk of character," but they suit up pool-hall thugs, illiterates, and guys they have to hide the coeds from. It's known as doing-what-it-takes-to-win.

So, how come the second winningest active coach in the business seems more like a plate of fudge then a block of granite? How can a guy who pleads with his players compete with a coach who pummels them? How can players put out for a guy who doesn't singe them with contempt, mock their mistakes, whose nickname is "Uncle Robbie," not "The Headman" or "Old Blood And Guts"?

JOHN ROBINSON seems too nice a guy to coach the University of Southern California Trojans -- or anyone else. The USC Trojans, after all, are not Harvard or Cal Tech. They're not even Stanford. It's like the old joke about Germany: Some countries may be said to have their own armies. In Germany, an army has its own country. Ditto, USC. At USC, the football team has its institution. Yale could go 5-6, or even 2-8, with a shrug. If USC does it, the stock market trembles.

Lots of people think it's easy to coach at USC. That practice field full of all-state tailbacks, 18-inch necked linemen, the flower of California's junior colleges, the future Green Bay Packers before your very eyes.

That's exactly why it's difficult. Football put USC on the map, not vice versa. Yale might have made football. But for the little known Methodist institution out in the wilds of Los Angeles, the opposite was true back in the '20s. USC needed, needs football. A private institution, its athletic glories have made it a quasi-public trust. Other schools can lose. USC can't even tie.

HOWARD JONES made USC a national ominence. He was hired for precisely that purpose. A spare, fussy, ascetic Paul Brown type of man, cerebral, humorless, he fielded teams that were like himself, relentless, perfectionists, not terribly imaginative, but implacable in pursuit of goals. They went about their work as unemotionally as glaciers. Fathomable, but unstoppable. The longer the game, or the season, went, the more overpowering they got. "The Thundering Herd," the press called them, factually, not flatteringly. A stampede, not a team.

Then the alumni got blase. They thought USC didn't need football anymore. It had made its point. Wrong. Nobel winners are nice. Rose Bowl winners are nicer. In the counting house.

When the team started to lose Rose Bowl games 49-9, and lose to Notre Dame 40-12, and UCLA every year, they hired John McKay, a jaunty Irishman with a bouncy step, ready guip, smile -- and an offense that was as brilliant as an autumn sunset. He peppered his backfields with the fleetest sets of runners this side of a spring bok migration, and made "Fight On For USC" something other than a mockery in the Coliseum air.

WHEN HE left for the riches of the NFL, Notre Dame, the Big 10, Stanford, Cal and UCLA rubbed their hands in glee. It would be USC's turn in the barrel again, they were sure. John Robinson looked like a guy who could lose gracefully. Which was a good thing, everyone felt. When he lost his inaugural 46-25 to Missouri, alums got ready to hear "USC? Let's see. That's the one in Westwood, right?" again. How could a guy who looks like a Teddy Bear go to the Rose Bowl?

USC is more than a tradition. It's a football conglomerate. Every one of the 90 athletes on the squad costs the football operation $10,000 a year, John Robinson pointed out the other day, on the eve of his sixth season as chief executive officer of this $900,000 enterprise. "It costs $10,000-per-year-per-student," Coach Robinson revealed. "You can't let a kid waste that."

With a $40,000 career investment in the kid, neither can the institution let a coach waste it. You can't let a screamer, a puncher, a dictator into the program anymore. You can't be "Gloomy Gil," or "The Iron Chancellor" or even "The Tin God" anymore. You've got to be Uncle John.

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Dave Righetti and Rich Gossage combined on a two-hitter and Graig Nettles drilled three hits, including a solo home run and a run-scoring single, as the New York Yankees downed the Boston Red Sox 4-1 Friday night.

Righetti, 6-2, who struck out a major league career high 11 batters, held the Red Sox hitless for 32-3 innings before Carney Lansford singled. Boston's other hit was a ground single in the eighth by Jerry Remy which knocked the Yankees' left-hander out of the came.

Gossage relieved in the eighth inning with runners on first and third and none out and retired the next six batters to collect his 20th save of the season.

Nettles blasted his 14th home run of the season in the sixth inning, into the upper deck in right field. He had a run-scoring single in the first inning when the Yankees jumped to a 2-0 lead against Dennis Eckersley, 7-6.

Burroughs homer beats Jays

TORONTO (AP) — Jeff Burroughs hit a three-run homer and Jerry Narron added a solo shot to back the combined six-hit pitching of Glenn Abbott and Jerry Don Gleaton as the Seattle Mariners trounced the Toronto Blue Jays 8-1 Friday night.

Burroughs, who also had two doubles and scored twice, highlighted a four-run Seattle first inning with his 10th home run of the season.

Julio Cruz led off the first with a single and, one out later, moved to second on a single by Tom Paciorek. After Richie Zisk struck out, Bruce Bochte drove in the first run with a single to right. Burroughs followed with his homer over the left field fence.

The Mariners made it 5-0 in the second off Juan Berenguer, 2-9, when Joe Simpson singled, stole second and scored on a single by Paciorek. Seattle added a run in the third when Burroughs doubled, moved to third on a single by Dan Meyer and scored on a single by Bill Serna.

Tigers defeat Tribe, 6-3

DETROIT (AP) — Lance Parrish drove in two runs with a pair of singles and reliever Dan Schatzeder blanked the Indians over the final 6 1-3 innings on one hit Friday night, leading the Detroit Tigers to a 6-3 victory over Cleveland.

Parrish broke a 3-3 tie in the third inning with a run-scoring single off Cleveland reliever Tom Brennan, scoring Steve Kemp with the decisive run.

The Indians took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on three consecutive two-out hits off Tigers' starter George Cappuzzello. Mike Hargrove singled and scored on a double by Bo Diaz. Toby Harrah followed with a single to score Diaz.

The Tigers tied it in their half of the first off Rick Waits, 6-9, when Ron Jackson singled home Alan Trammell and Parrish got his first RBI, driving in Kemp.

Orioles nudge Brewers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Hot-hitting Eddie Murray homered, Doug DeCinces doubled home the winning run and Dennis Martinez scattered seven hits for his fourth straight victory as the Baltimore Orioles edged the Milwaukee Brewers 2-1 Friday night.

The Orioles scored both their runs in the fourth inning against Moose Haas, 8-6. Murray lined his 17th homer with one out, his 13th hit in his last 26 at-bats. John Lowenstein walked with two out, stole second, then scored on DeCinces' double to left.

Martinez, 12-4, who is 5-1 since the baseball players' strike ended, fell behind 1-0 n the second. Ben Oglivie doubled, took third on a passed ball and scored on a sacrifice fly by Roy Howell.

Play was interrupted for about three minutes as the Brewers prepared to bat in the seventh when several fans threw foam rubber seat cushions onto the field. The cushions were given away by the Brewers, and the littering occurred when many in the crowd of 20,987 pounded the cushions together in a clapping noise to urge a rally. About 50 were tossed onto the field.

Orioles' Manager Earl Weaver played the game under protest because of the debris. Umpire Dave Phillips called Brewers' Manager Buck Rodgers onto the field for a conference during the littering, although he said he did not threaten to forfeit the game.

Twins ease by Chisox

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Dave Engle's first major league home run, a two-run shot with two out in the seventh inning, lifted the Minnesota Twins to a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox Friday night.

Engle's blast, his third hit of the game, came off White Sox starter Britt Burns, 8-4, and scored Gary Ward, who had singled. The homer broke a 2-2 tie.

Minnesota's Al Williams, 4-8, allowed six hits before being replaced by Doug Corbett in the eighth inning after the White Sox closed within a run on an RBI single by Carlton Fisk. Corbett pitched the final two innings and recorded his 11th save.

Chicago took a 2-0 lead in the first. Ron LeFlore walked to open the game and moved to third on a single by Tony Bernazard. A single by Lamar Johnson scored LeFlore, then Greg Luzinski followed with a single to send home Bernazard.

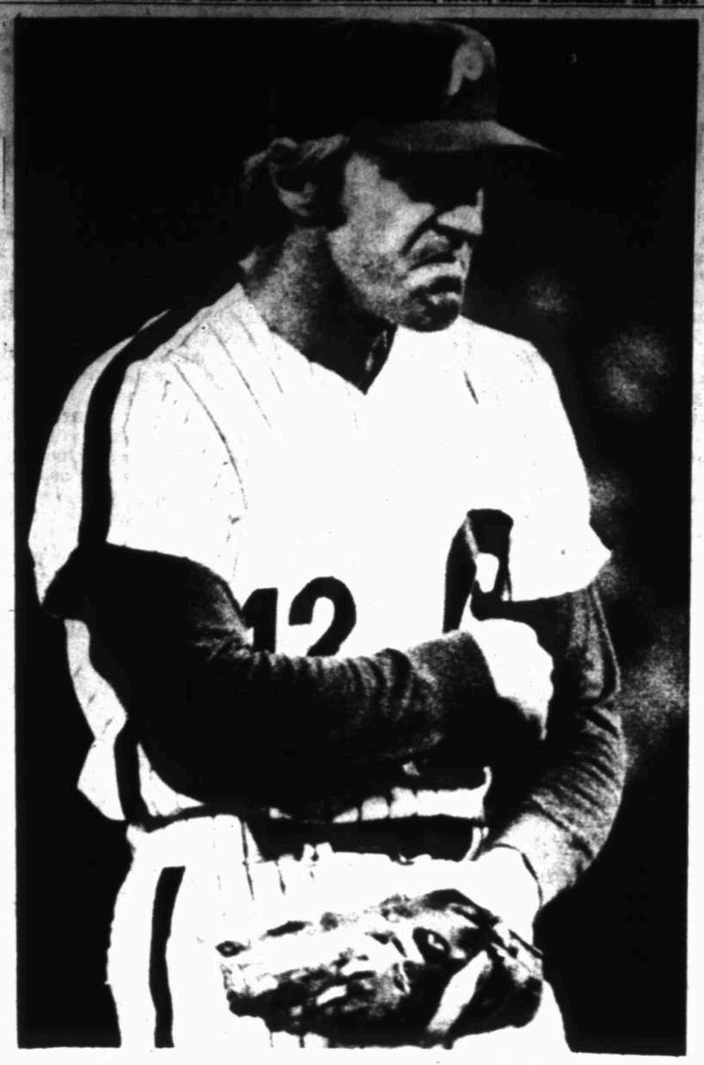
Minnesota bounced back with two runs in the bottom of the inning. With one out, Engle beat out an infield bouncer, took second on a walk to Mickey Hatcher and scored on a single by Roy Smalley.

Baseball today

Saturday, Sept. 12

On this date in baseball in 1979:

Boston Red Sox cptain Carl Yastrzemski grounded a single to right field off New York's Jim Beattie for his 3,000th career hit. The Red Sox went on to defeat the Yankees 9-2 at Fenway Park.



Okay, so the guy just before you hit a grand slam and now you get to hit against Phillies' Ron Reed. Can't wait, eh?

CFA-NCAA war worries high school officials

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — National high school officials are worried that the war over college football television rights could eventually cripple prep athletic programs.

And they're prepared to seek federal help if the fight between the College Football Association and the National Collegiate Athletic Association threatens high school athletics.

"There's no limit to what we will do," Brice B. Durbin, executive director of the National Federation of State High School Associations, said Friday. "This is our bread and butter."

The preps are disturbed that if the CFA schools win their bid for television independence, they may also break with tradition and begin televising games on Friday and Saturday nights.

Those nights, thanks to NCAA cooperation and federal legislation, have long been the domain of high school football and basketball, the preps' major sources of athletic revenue.

"Most of the high school programs are financed with receipts from football or basketball games," said Durbin, noting that more than 7,000 prep football games are played on Friday nights in the fall.

In the 1960s, Congress passed a law banning the Friday and Saturday night telecast of professional football games from the first week of September to the second week of December.

And since 1952, NCAA bylaws have also included an agreement with the high schools not to televise college football games on those nights.

The NCAA recently reached a new four-year television agreement with CBS and ABC, but the 61-member CFA has tentatively negotiated a separate contract with NBC for the same period, 1982-85.

Two CFA members, Georgia and Oklahoma, have filed a federal suit over the right of the CFA and its members to negotiate their own television contracts. The suit also asks the court to restrain the NCAA from disciplining schools involved in the NBC contract.

Texas, another CFA school, filed a similar suit in state court and obtained a temporary restraining order against NCAA disciplinary action.

Cowboys face Anderson

IRVING, Texas (AP) — You don't have to be Tom Landry to figure out a game plan for the Dallas Cowboys Sunday in their National Football League tussle with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The plan is not a simple assignment for his flex defense but it's no mystery: Stop Ottis Anderson.

The Cardinal halfback in just four games has terrorized the Dallas Doomsday Defense like no other runner in the club's 21-year history.

He has rushed for over 100 yards in three of his four games against Dallas, the only back ever to take such liberties with Landry's defense.

Anderson has totaled 490 yards rushing on 80 carries for 6.1 yards per carry and 122 yards per game.

His 1979 National Football League debut was against Dallas where he romped for 193 yards, including a 76-yard touchdown gallop.

Dallas held him to 92 yards last November.

While the Cowboys will be geared to stop Anderson because rookie quarterback Neil Lomax willbe starting in place of the injured Jim Hart.

Garveys end marriage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — First baseman Steve Garvey of the Los Angeles Dodgers and his wife, Cyndy, have separated and [illegible] a divorce to end their marriage of nearly 10 years, it was announced Friday by a spokesman for the couple.

The Garveys were married on Oct. 29, 1971 and have two young daughters. It had been rumored for some time that they were having marital problems, and it was reported last week in the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner that Mrs. Garvey had been seeing Academy Award winning composer Marvin Hamlisch.

In announcing the separation, Lee Solters, of the public relations firm Solters and Roskin, said that a divorce "was in the works" and that he knew nothing of the legal settlement that would have to be reached.

Garvey, 32, has been a standout for the Dodgers since 1973. His wife, 31, had co-starred on a local television show, "A.M. Los Angeles," for several years before quitting the show earlier this week.

The Garveys were thought to have a perfect marriage, but last summer, a story written by Pat Jordan in the News-week-owned magazine "Inside Sports" reported that the couple had problems. The Garveys sued the magazine and an out-of-court settlement was reached earlier this summer.

Sutton blanks Giants, 6-0

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston right fielder Gary Woods fueled a big third inning with a two-run single and Don Sutton scattered five hits to lead the Astros to a 6-0 shutout over the San Francisco Giants Friday night.

The Astros, who boosted their divisional lead to 2½ games over the Giants, got to starter Vida Blue, 8-6, in the third inning on Woods' two-run single and a run-scoring grounder by Kiko Garcia.

Cesar Cedeno reached base on a fielder's choice, Jose Cruz singled and Art Howe walked prior to Woods' hit that scored Cedeno and Cruz. Howe came home when third baseman Darrell Evans booted Garcia's grounder for an error.

Sutton, 8-8, struck out six and did not walk a batter until the eighth when he put pinch-hitter Max Venable on first base.

Houston took a 1-0 lead in the first on Howe's single and added single runs in the fourth inning on Cruz's RBI single and in the seventh on a run-scoring base hit by Sutton.

Cedeno, returning to the lineup since being ejected from a game Tuesday in Atlanta, clubbed a one-out single in the first inning and went to second on a fielder's-choice grounder by Cruz. Howe then hit a full-count pitch into left field, scoring Cedeno from second.

Reds beat Dodgers in 10th

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ron Oester slammed a 3-2 pitch into the right field seats with one out in the bottom of the 10th inning to power the Cincinnati Reds to a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Friday night.

Oester, who had three hits in the game, smashed his third home run of the season, off Alejandro Pena, 1-1, the fourth Dodger pitcher. Joe Price, 5-1, got the victory in relief.

The Reds scored in the fifth inning on a two-run double by Ken Griffey.

Oester led off the inning with a single and reached second when shortstop Bill Russell misplayed former Midland Cub Mike O'Berry's ground ball. Oester was taken out at third on a bunt by Cincinnati starter Mario Soto, but O'Berry and Soto advanced on Dave Collins' groundout to the pitcher. Both runners then scored when Griffey doubled to the right-field corner.

Pedro Guerrero homered off Soto in the Dodger sixth, his 12th homer of the season. Rick Monday tied the game 2-2 with a solo homer in the Dodger seventh, also off Soto, his sixth of the year.

Cards snap losing streak

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gene Roof, making his first major league start, collected two hits and drove in a run as the St. Louis Cardinals snapped a five-game losing streak with a 4-2 victory over the New York Mets Friday night.

The triumph enabled the Cards to maintain a 1½-game lead over Chicago and pushed them 2½ games ahead of New York and Montreal in the National League East.

Bob Forsch, 8-5, who had lost three games in a row, pitched seven innings and former Midland Cub Bruce Sutter blanked the Mets over the last two innings for his 20th save.

Phils Carlton notches No. 12

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steve Carlton notched his 12th victory of the season, combining on a seven-hitter with rookie Jerry Reed as the Philadelphia Phillies scored an 8-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Friday night.

Catcher Keith Moreland drove in three runs for the Phils as they won their third game in a row and handed the Pirates their third straight loss.

Carlton, 12-3, yielded four hits and two walks over seven innings. Reed pitched the final two innings and allowed two hits.

Black's four touchdowns carries Rankin by Marfa

RANKIN — Fleet-footed Dennis Black galloped for four touchdowns and hauled in a two-point conversion pass to lead the Rankin Red Devils to an easy 42-8 win over Marfa.

The Red Devils struck for 14 points in the first quarter. Black opened the Red Devil scoring parade by racing 32 yards for a six-pointer. Jessie Hernandez entered and kicked the first of three successful extra points. Late in the quarter, Quad Midkiff got behind the Shorthorn secondary and Bo Rose hit him with a perfect 26-yard scoring strike.

Rankin added an 8-yard Black scoring run in the second quarter to take a 21-0 lead into the lockerroom at halftime.

Black continued to be the dominate force on offense in the third quarter. The junior fullback tallied on runs of three yards and one yard and pulled in a pass from Rose for a two-point conversion as the Red Devils stretched their lead to 36-0 after three quarters of play.

In the final 12 minutes of action, Black lite up the scoreboard one more time. With just over five minutes left in the game, Black skipped around left end fromnine yards out to register his four TD of the night.

Three share 1st in Jimmy Classic

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Touring pros Curtis Strange, Jack Renner and Denis Watson charged into a tie for the 36-hole lead despite a dramatic bid by an amateur Friday in the $300,000 Pleasant Valley Jimmy Fund Golf Classic.

Young Brad Faxon, two-time New England amateur champion from nearby Barrington, R.I., just missed in a charge for a share of the lead.

However, Faxon, a 21-year-old Furman junior, became the local favorite as veteran Lee Trevino, former baseball star Ken Harrelson and six former champions failed to make the cut.

Strange, one of the top money winners on the PGA tour this year, and Watson, a South African here only a few months, each fired 4-under par 67 for 136. Renner matched his opening 68 to go 6 strokes under regulation.

Faxon, given a sponsor's exemption after reaching the round of 16 in the recent U.S. Amateur, finished near sunset with a sizzling 66, a round which included five birdies and an eagle.

Locked in an 18-way tie for 44th place at 71 after the first round, Faxon moved to within 1 stroke of the lead, tying Scott Simpson, Jeff Mitchell, Gavin Levenson and Tommy Valentine at 137.

Miami admits violating NCAA recruiting rules

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — University of Miami officials Friday admitted violating some National Collegiate Athletic Association football recruiting rules, but said they will contest other allegations at a hearing next month.

President Edward T. Foote said an in-house investigation confirmed 40 to 50 of the NCAA's allegations. But he said the school will contest or could not confirm another 50 or more charges.

"There are a number of incidents in which this university has been guilty of violating regulations of the NCAA," Foote said. "Although some people may argue some of the violations seem minor, we have some correcting to do here. We are in the process of improving our procedures; that has been on for a long time and will continue."

Seton Hall coach quits

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — On the eve of the season football opener, Coach Ed Manigan of Seton Hall University announced Friday he will resign his position effective at the end of the 1981 season.

Manigan, who said he was quitting for personal reasons, has a 26-40-4 varsity record in eight years with 1974 his best season when the Pirates finished with a 7-2 mark.

Manigan, a star on the Bucknell University football team that won the Lambert Cup in 1964, became the head coach of the Seton Hall team 1970. Two years later, his squad won the national club football championship.

Seton Hall was scheduled to play St. Peter's of Jersey City in a home game Saturday.

Greenwood wins over Whiteface

GREENWOOD-Greenwood's Rangers scored a 28-0 victory over the Whiteface Steers in a game called at the end of the first half because of torrential rains and the increasing proximity of lightning.

"The lightning was just fierce," said an Greenwood official, "And just before half time it was so bad that the lights were blinking off on almost every play. So for the safety of the players, the game was called."

However, by intermission, Greenwood, now 1-1, had conclusively displayed its control of the situation.

Todd Brooks crashed in from five yards out after a fumble recovery for Greenwood's first score with 9:46 left in the first period. Kyle Longley then splashed seven and 32 yards for scores, the second coming 12 seconds before the end of the period, to make it 21-0.

Greenwood's second period score when Homer Lopez surfed in from the seven.

Kit Foshee didn't seem to might the wet, heavy ball, kicking all four conversions and averaging 43.6 yards on kickoffs.

Perry captures 196th win

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta's Gaylord Perry, four days short of his 43rd birthday, scattered nine hits over seven innings and rode Dale Murphy's two home runs to his 296th career victory, a 4-1 decision over San Diego Friday night.

Perry, 7-6, was making his sixth attempt at No.296. Rick Camp hurled the final two innings for his 14th save of the season.

The Padres reached Perry for a run in the first inning. One-out singles by Juan Bonilla and Gene Richards, a forceout, and Terry Kennedy's single produced the run.

The Braves tied the score against loser Steve Mura, 5-12, in the bottom of the first when Claudell Washington and Chris Chambliss rapped singles around a walk to Bob Horner.

Church's FG gives Stanton 3-0 victory

STANTON—Stanton's Buffalos defied the elements and Coahoma's stubborn Bulldog defense for a 3-0 non-district football victory in a blinding rainstorm here Friday night.

Scott Church toed a 25-yard field goal on the first play of the final quarter for the only points of the game, although the game was filled with mild threats.

Coahoma's last gasp reached the Stanton 26 with 2:27 to play when defensive back Maurizio Iquanellio intercepted a pass in the end zone and returned it to the Stanton 23. From there, the Buffs slogged to the Coahoma five where the game ended.

Stanton's game-winning drive began on its own 18 and took 16 plays to reach the Coahoma 15 to set up Church's winning kick. The Buffs completed their only two passes of the game as quarterback Scott Hazelwood hit Tommy Esparaza on tosses of 15 and 20 yards. Tailback Kevin Newman did most of the rest, gaining 41 yards on five carries on the way to a 19 for 114 night.

Fullback Bobby Barnhill had 42 yards in 10 carries for the Buffs. Defensive standouts were end Tracy Spinks, linebacker George Lewis, and halfbacks Iquanellio and Newman. Offensively, tackle Church, Newman, Hazelwood and Esparaza were the standouts.

Stanton, now 1-1, goes on the road to play Crane next week.

District 5-5A teams win six of eight contests

Members of District 5-5A had another big night Friday as six of the eight league teams pulled out victories.

Carlsbad nips Pecos

CARLSBAD (AP) — Gilbert Lara scored on a six-yard run and Greg Williamson hit Wade Locklear for a 19-yard scoring pass as undefeated Carlsbad edged Pecos, Texas 14-9 Friday night.

The Cavemen, unbeaten under first-year coach David Church, did all their scoring in the second quarter.

Pecos, now 1-1 for the season, got on the scoreboard first on a 27-yard field goal by Dennis Moseley. But Carlsbad's defense shut down the Pecos offense until the fourth quarter, when Bobby Jenkins scored from three yards out.

Carlsbad's defense also recovered three of five Pecos fumbles.

Pecos	3	0	0	0—9
Carlsbad	0	14	0	0—14

P—FG Moseley 27
C—Lara 6 run (run failed)
C—Locklear 19 pass from Williamson (DeAnda pass from Williamson)
P—Jenkins 3 run (run failed)

Defending state champion Odessa Permian rolled to a 17-0 victory over twice beaten Amarillo High while Abilene Cooper dominated Wichita Falls, 34-0. Abilene High got into the win column for the first time with a 14-0 shutout over Weatherford and Odessa High defeated El Paso Burges.

Big Spring lost its first game of the year in a 34-20 loss to Sweetwater and San Angelo, 0-10 last year, won for the second time this year with a 19-7 win over Austin Anderson.

Billy Howell and Robbie Brown scored on runs of 15 and 33 yards for Permian and Dale Carr rushed for 78 yards against Amarillo. Bobby Knott also had a 28-yard field goal in the game.

Sophomore Michael Reynolds again led Cooper. He scored three touchdowns on runs of nine and one yards and returned an interception for 20 yards against Wichita Falls. John Williams had a 70-yard punt return and Kent Strain scored on a four-yard run.

Abilene High scored all of its points in the first half against Weatherford as Scott Hamilton scored from four yards out in the first quarter and quarterback Karl Kearney hit tailback Leo Parrish with a 67-yard scoring toss in the second period.

Kel Crain scored three touchdowns on runs of one, one and 24 yards to lead San Angelo to its second straight win. Tailback Trey Wright rushed for 110 yards on 26 carries in one of the top performances in the loop.

The evils of trying to beat the point spread

Sermon on Saturday

We've laughed at other forecasters who have tried to beat the point spread with their published predictions, and little wonder. The so-called expert will boast of his 7-7-1 mark of the previous week and gleefully plunge into the next week's choice games, optimistically promising readers another bonanza.

It's tough enough predicting games without messing with point spreads that theoretically make every game a toss up. However, the risk involved in beating the point spread affords an irresistable opportunity for a Saturday morning sermon, an obligation one can't, in good conscience, sidestep. The title: How to go broke on a weekend.

So with that understanding...

On the college front:

Michigan -19 over Wisconsin— The nation's No. 1 team should have little trouble with a college that hasn't fielded a football team since Ron Vander Kelen.

Alabama -24 over Georgia Tech—The Wrecks' glory years are a faint memory.

LSU plus 14 over Notre Dame—The Tigers have a game under their belt and are playing at Baton Rouge.

USC -18 over Tennessee—Another like last week's loss to Georgia and Vol fans will be screaming for the return of Bill Battle.

Georgia -17 over California—Beware. Georgia has Herschel, but Cal has a passing attack that makes this a risky one.

Nebraska -16 over Iowa—Cornhuskers win easy.

Texas 20 1/2 over Rice—After the kind of season the Owls had last year, that's a lot of points to give up.

Ohio State -15 1/2 over Duke—Buckeyes have a reputation to restore.

Arizona plus 8 /12 over UCLA—Bruins can't be that good.

Stanford even over Purdue—Stanford has John Elway and Purdue has home field, but not Mark Herrmann.

The pros...

Atlanta - 4 1/2 over Green Bay—Vince Lombardi wouldn't believe it.

Houston plus 3 1/2 over Cleveland—Oilers and points too much to resist.

New Orleans plus 6 over Los Angeles—We're beginning to believe Pat Haden is too short.

New York Giants plus 6 over Washington—Post Cowboy blues.

Tampa Bay plus 3 1/2 over Kansas City—Tossed a coin.

Buffalo - 2 1/2 over Baltimore—If everything they say about the Bills is true...

Chicago plus one over San Francisco—We can't believe 49ers are favored over any one.

Denver -1 over Seattle—Are money rides with Dan Reeves.

New England plus 4 over Philadelphia— Close enough to take the points.

St. Louis 10 1/2 over Dallas—Okay, so we like to live recklessly.

Oakland -1 1/2 over Minnesota—Super champs can't lose two in a row, can they?

CBS, NFL give in to Dallas fans

(Compiled from R-T wires)

CBS and the NFL gave in to ardent, angry Dallas Cowboys fans objecting to replacing Sunday's Dallas-St. Louis game with the U.S. Open tennis championships. Sixteen Texas CBS affiliates have been given a choice of taking the Cowboys game on a tape delay basis or a live feed of the Green Bay-Atlanta game, but both will get the tennis. Twelve stations passed up GB-Atlanta for the live telecast of the Open and the tape-delay of the Cowboys' game...

Albuquerque first baseman Mike Marshall, triple crown winner with a .373, 34 homers and 137 rbi, was named the Pacific Coast League's MVP. Also named to the PCL all-star Southern Division team were: catcher Alan Knicely, second baseman John Ray, third baseman Guy Sularz and shortstop Bert Pena, Tucson; outfielders Candy Maldonado, Albuquerque, Brian Harper, Salt Lake City, and Charles Davis, Phoenix while Salt Lake's Daryl Sconiers was named DH. Albuquerque's Ted Power (18-3, 3.56) and Phoenix' Bob Tufts (9-2,1.70)...

Angry women jockeys say they'll picket and try to shut down the Del Mar Sept. 20 unless there's a paramutuel race with all women riders, claiming a promise of such a race has been reneged upon. GM Joe Harper shot back, "You can't look at this as an affirmative action program ... If I'm going to take off Laffit Pincay and Willie Shoemaker to put on a lot of female riders with limited experience and no name draw, you will have a race with a lot less money being wagered."...

Former Stanford tennis star and NCAA singles champion Tim Mayotte has been named College Player of the Year by Tennis Magazine...

Attorneys for a former U. New Mexico basketball assistant Manny Goldstein say they'll fight UNM for access to an internal audit of financial transactions within the school's athletic department, claiming the report might contain information that could bolster an attempt to get a new trial for the former cage recruiter...

Icarus Lobell drew the No. 11 post position for today's Kentuckyin Pacing Derby at Louisville, but Herve Filion thinks the colt is good enough to win it all. Filion noted there will be 11 horses in all competing and, "With a big field like that, 11 horses, and I got the 11 hole, there's going to be a lot of traffic for me. But if everything goes right, I should win the race."...

Kentucky cage coach Joe Hall doesn't know whether a "small, incomplete fracture of the left tibia" will keep 7-1 center Sam Bowie out of preseason practice. The injury apparently occurred last season, but wasn't detected by X-rays...

Defending champion Bill Rogers shot a 7-under-par 65 for a 2-stroke lead in the Suntory Open at Izaki, Japan, for a 133...
