RUSSIANS MAKE DESPERATE FIGHT

Force of 500 on Sakhalin Island Hold Out Against Enemy for 24 Hours

JAPS SIGHTED

Appearance of Vessels Off the Mouth of River Cause Many Inhabitants to Flee

TOKIO, July 21, 2 p. m.—A special telegram from Otaru says that the Russians were defeated at Daline, where they were about 500 strong, with six field pieces and three machine guns, and taking the fullest advantage of the topographical character of the district offered a most desperate resistance.

The Russian positions were hidden among the thick forest, and it was impossible for the Japanese gunners to make correct observations. The cannonade, however, was opened by the Japanese at 6 o'clock on the morning of July 7 and was kept up until dusk. The Japanese infantry gradually gained ground and closed in on the enemy's line of defense and awaited an opportunity for a final charge. It was nearly two hours past midnight when the enemy's first line of defense, strengthened by barricades and trenches, was taken.

This success was vigorously followed up, but it was not until 9 o'clock in the morning of July 8 that the enemy was driven out of the second line of his defense and the victory secured with the trophies of the field and one machine gun.

The nature of the ground exposed the Japanese assailants to a great disadvantage, and it is believed that owing to short supplies of ammunition and provisions the Russians at Sakhalin had could not hold out much longer.

JAPANESE SIGHTED

COPENHAGEN, July 21.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg to Godsladan says that private advices received at the Russian capital say that Japanese warships have been sighted near Nikolaiovsk at the mouth of the Amur river. Many of the inhabitants of Nikolaiovsk and Vladivostok is added, have fled to Kharbarovsk.

AMERICANS WANT DAMAGES

ST. PETERSBURG, July 21.—Ambassador Meyer is making representations to the government regarding the British steamer Oldhamia (burned by the Russians at Urup Island) on behalf of the American consignors of her cargo of oil. Ambassador Meyer is endeavoring to hasten the sitting of the prize court, but the government is without information regarding the capture or the fate of the ship.

DISCUSSES PEACE CONDITIONS

ST. PETERSBRPG, July 21.—The Novoe Vremya today devotes a leading article to the laleged Japanese peace conditions as published by the Vienna Tageblatt and the Frankfurter Zeitung, dwelling especially on the specifications against the double tracking of the Siberian railway, which the paper declares is utterly unacceptable in every way, it being equivalent to the practical and economic suicide of Russia.

RUSSIANS SURRENDER

TOKIO, July 21, 9:30 a. m.—It is officially announced that the Russians who have thus far surrendered at various points of Sakhalin island, number 461, including one colonel and fourteen inferior officers.

An imperial ordinance was issued this morning, authorizing the appointment of commissioned officers from the reserve conscripts; also converting those sundry service ranks to privates of the general service rank.

MAN CUTS OFF HAND

Crazed With Rage Because Wife Had Drinks Stopped

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 21.—Aroused to fury upon discovering that his wife had ordered the saloons to sell him no more liquor, George Maxwell, a tin worker, 50 years old, seized a hatchet and hacked off his left hand. Mrs. Maxwell had visited the various saloons in New Castle and notified the proprietors to refuse her husband liquor.

Maxwell entered several places later and upon being refused flew into a passion. Finding that Mrs. Maxwell had issued the order he returned home. Maxwell became almost delirious in his rage, and suddenly rushing into the back yard raised a hatchet in the air and brought it down on his left wrist. Only a shred of flesh held the hand to the arm. Maxwell, weak from loss of blood, was hurried to the hospital. His left hand caused him pain as a result of a burn received on the Fourth of July, and it is thought this may have had something to do with the form his mania took.

U. S. CAN DO NOTHING

Chinese Have Right to Boycott American Goods If They Will

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The state department has been informed by its consuls that the Chinese boycott against American goods, which was instituted recently, was organized by the trade guilds in five ports, Shanghai, Canton, Tientsin, Hankow and Newchwang. It is believed the boycott will not be successful or do any particular injury to American goods, except in the cities of Canton and Shanghai, where the guilds are stronger than elsewhere. There is no official action which the United States government can take as long as it remains a simple boycott or refusal to purchase American goods, but it is thought the boycott will be discouraged by the Chinese government as far as possible.

HEAT KILLS TWENTY

List of Mortalities at Chicago Still Growing

CHICAGO, July 21.—Twenty deaths have been added to the list of Chicago mortalities, due to the blighting heat of the first three days of this week. Of this number seven were adults and the others were infants.

The cool weather which came with northerly breezes Wednesday continues.

SECTION BOSS HEIR TO TEXAN'S FORTUNE

Thomas O'Keefe of Long Island to Get One-Third of a $11,475,000 Legacy

NEW YORK, July 21.—Thomas O'Keefe of Greenlawn, Long Island, has the positive assurance of lawyers who claim to know all about the estate of a deceased relative who settled in Texas a century ago that he is one of three heirs to a fortune of $11,475,000. Thomas O'Keefe's share will be $3,825,000. O'Keefe received the word in a leter from his sister in Ireland, and the investigations that have been possible in the two weeks since the first hint of the windfall came to him over the big water have lent strength to the plausibility of the news.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Keefe the other day celebrated the fortieth anniversary of their marriage.

In 1804 Dennis O'Keefe of Kilkee, County Clare, Island, left his home and shipped as a sailor. His travels took him to Texas, where he settled. No one knows what line of business he pursued, but a lawyer named Hildreth, after years of search, learned the address of one of his three heirs, Mrs. Maria O'Keefe Fennell of Kilkee, Ireland, and communicated with her, telling of the large fortune left by Dennis O'Keefe. Mrs. Fennell, after some consultation with an Irish lawyer, wrote to her brother, Thomas O'Keefe, in America, telling him the glad tidings of their probable rise from poverty and obscurity to affluence.

Forty years ago O'Keefe married Mary Leahy, and they came to America in the steerage. O'Keefe got a job on the Long Island railroad as foreman of a section gang at $1.20 a day, and Mary took in washing. They moved to Greenlawn some time later.

O'Keefe retained the same position, merely assuming charge of a different gang. Mrs. O'Keefe kept right on washing, notwithstanding the advent of seven children.

Pensioners Decreasing

TOPEKA, Kan., July 21.—The Topeka pension agency, which handles the business of Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Indian Territory and Oklahoma, has 115,368 pensioners on the rolls, a net loss of 252 for the year. The total gross loss was 5,031, of which 4,506 were due to death. The number of Spanish war veterans and of civil war widows increases, but the rate of death of civil war veterans is very high.

RELIEF COMES TO SUFFERING STATES

Broken by Cold Wave That Comes From Northern Michigan

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 21.—The United States weather bureau today gives the most encouraging information as to the general weather conditions. From abnormally hot to abnormally cool seems to be the trend of the atmospheric record. The report says:

"The temperature continues to fall slowly in the New England, Middle Atlantic states, the lake region and the Ohio valley. In the lake region a fall of temperature now continued upward of thirty-six hours as a consequence of the abnormally cool weather reported this morning from the upper lake regions, with light frost at Ascanada. The weather also turned cold the Dakotas, Missouri and the middle Mississippi valley. Rain has fallen in the Eastern North Carolina, Eastern Missouri, Southern Indiana and Southern Ohio and Western Tennessee and South Dakota Western Nebraska districts and there has been scattered thunder storms in the Rocky mountain region and Southern Colorado.

"For Friday night and Saturday fair weather is indicated, except in the Ohio valley, southern portion of the Middle Atlantic states, North Carolina, where showers will probably occur. The temperature will not change materially in the southern districts."

U. S. EXPEDITION TO STUDY ECLIPSE

Fleet Arrives at Villanueva del Grao, Where the Eclipse Will Be Total

VALENCIA, Spain, July 21.—The United States cruiser Minneapolis, having on board Rear Admiral Colby N. Chester, superintendent of the naval observatory, and other members of the American expedition which will observe the eclipse of the sun here on Aug. 29, arrived today at Villanueva del Grao, from Gibraltar.

The cruiser, which is accompanied by the supply steamer Caesar, having on board the instruments and materials for the observatory which is to be erected on the shore, exchanged salutes with the land batteries.

The American officers later exchanged visits with local authorities.

CRIMINAL BUREAU ORGANIZED HERE

Final Steps in Establishment of Police Identification System Taken

Final organization of the Central Bureau of Criminal Identification of Texas was effected at a meeting of the executive committee of the Chiefs of Police and City Marshals' Association of Texas, which was held in the office of City Marshal J. H. Maddox this morning.

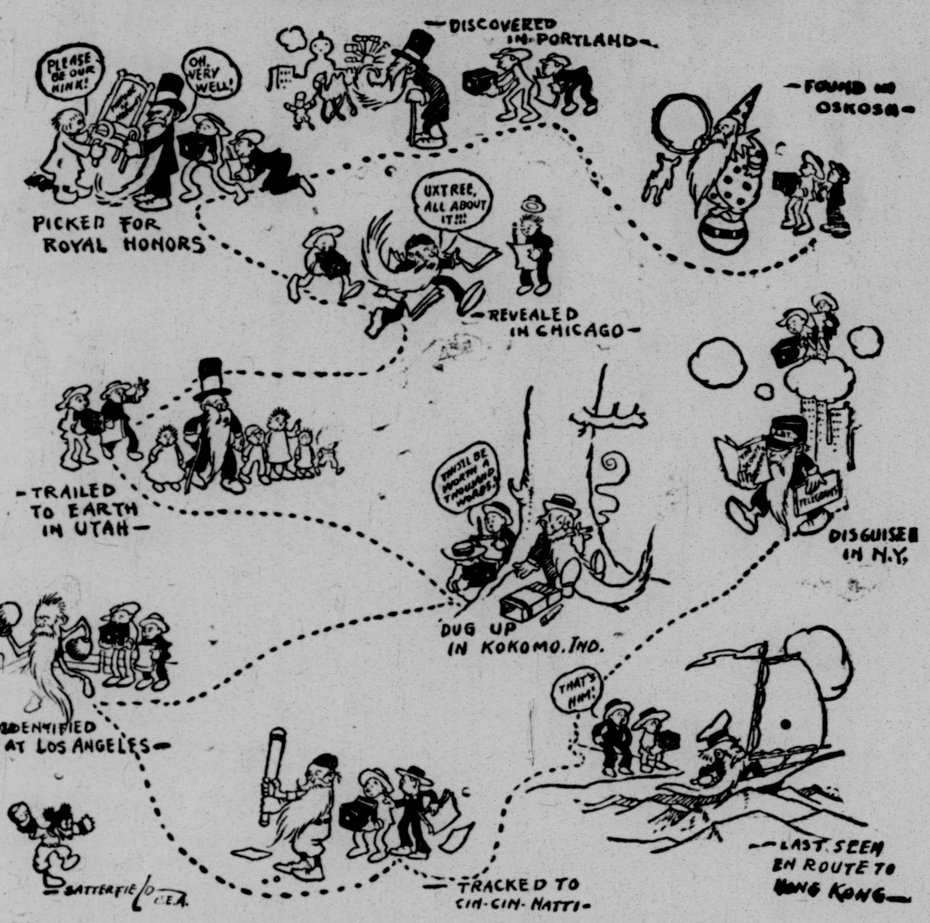

Detective George Smith of Dallas, with offices at 345 Main street, this city, will begin his duties as general manager of the bureau at once.

At the meeting held in this city today by-laws and regulations of the bureau were partly drawn up. Benefits of the bureau will be for members of the Chiefs of Police and City Marshals' Association only.

Those who attended the meeting here today are: Chief of Police Knight of Dallas, City Marshal John Dollins of Waco, William Rea and Chief of Police J. H. Maddox of this city.

Under the plan records of criminals, crimes, etc., are kept at the central offices, from which information is sent out to all officers.

THE SEARCH FOR JOHN D'S DAD

The most wanted man in the United States today is John D. Rockefeller's dad. Nobody seems to know why he is wanted, but the general opinion is that the mystery of his disappearance must be cleared up. For this reason The Telegram organized a journalistic expedition which traversed a large chunk of territory. Many patriarchs were seen who bore a resemblance to the picture printed in McClure's magazine. The expedition is compelled to report progress only, and the search is still on.

MILLIONAIRE AUTO DRIVER KILLED IN COLLISION

M. T. Hancock of Los Angeles Who Boasted of Fast Driving Fatally Injured. Family Also Hurt

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 21.—M. T. Hancock, the well-known millionaire plow inventor and manufacturer, is dead as the result of an automobile accident in this city late last night, in which also his wife and daughter were seriously injured. Hancock himself sustained two fractures of the skull and concussion of the brain.

He died at the receiving hospital without recovering consciousness.

FORTY MILES AN HOUR

The party, in a large machine, were traveling forty miles an hour on South Main street, near Forty-eighth street, when the machine collided with a buggy. The car swerved to the curbstone and crashed into a telephone pole, demolishing it and hurling the occupants to the street.

Following are the injured:

Mrs. M. T. Hancock, cut and seriously bruised.

M. T. Hancock, Jr., severely cut and bruised.

J. Saul, dairyman, scalp wound and internal injuries.

Saul was the driver of the buggy into which the automobile dashed. He was thrown from his vehicle to the street and severely hurt. M. T. Hancock, Jr., a 16-year-old boy, was driving the machine at the time of the accident. With him on the front seat was his younger brother, Newton Hancock, who was the only member of the party to escape unhurt. In the rear seat was Hancock, his wife and daughter. All were hurled to the pavement by the terrific impact of the machine against the curbing and telephone pole and several of them were rendered unconscious. They were promptly removed to the receiving hospital. The machine was wrecked.

BOASTED OF FAST DRIVING

Hancock was known here as one of the most reckless automobile drivers in the city and he had been in the police court on different occasions for driving his machine in excess of the speed limit and on one occasion a few months ago was fined $150 for fast driving. He paid his fine at the time with a check, which he insisted should bear the inscription across its face:

"For driving an automobile sixty miles an hour in the city of Los Angeles."

"PA" ROCKEFELLER AN ILLINOIS MAN?

Freeport Citizens Think Their Fellow-townsman the Much-Sought Parent of J. D.

FREEPORT, Ill., July 21.—Does the father of John D. Rockefeller, the richest man in the world, live in Freeport?

Is he the venerable man who has resided here for the last thirty-two years under the name of Dr. William Livingston?

So strange are the resemblances and coincidences that they have caused suspicion in the mind of Dr. Livingston's wife herself. She has been heard to say that she believed her husband was William A. Rockefeller, but today she said, "We do not desire to discuss the question," and refused to say whether or not she shared in the general belief of her fellow citizens.

Photos Look Alike

In McClure's for the present month was published a character sketch of John D. Rockefeller, prepared by Miss Ida Tarbell. Among the photographs was one purporting to be that of William A. Rockefeller, father of John D. This photograph is declared by numerous residents of Freeport, bankers, lawyers and merchants, to be a portrait of William Livingston—not a picture bearing some resemblance to him, but an actual portrait of the man himself, and no one else.

These men have known Dr. Livingston for years and cannot be mistaken. Not only are the features and expressions the same, but there are points of dress that are identical. The picture represents a man wearing no cravat, with a diamond in his shirt front. Both of these points are characteristic of Dr. Livingston's usual attire.

There are further resemblances in the letter press descriptive of William A. Rockefeller. He is spoken of as a man full of the joy of life, jovial, generous, free, and even coarse spoken. He is referred to as an expert shot and fond of horses.

Was a Crack Shot

Dr. Livingston was up to a few years ago expert with rifle, shotgun and revolver, and he was a regular contestant in shooting matches. He was also fond of good horseflesh.

William Rockefeller is described as a traveling doctor, who was supposed to sell some decoction of his own. Dr. Livingston is supposed to have pursued the same business. He was not a regular graduate in medicine, as he has told his friends here he picked up his knowledge of the subject in a doctor's office where he was employed.

The matter cannot be settled by reference to Dr. Livingston. He is nearly 96 years old, having been born, according to his statement to his wife years ago, on Nov. 13, 1809. He is feeble both in mind and body, entirely deaf, and almost blind. Altogether it is impossible even for his wife to communicate with him. He maintained his faculties and his energy to a great age. When he was 90 he did not appear to be over 70. But a year ago last January he fell and broke his right arm, and the shock, at his age, had a disastrous effect upon him.

Mrs. Livingston knows practically nothing of her husband's early life. She was Miss Margaret Allen, and she was married to him in New York city fifty years ago.

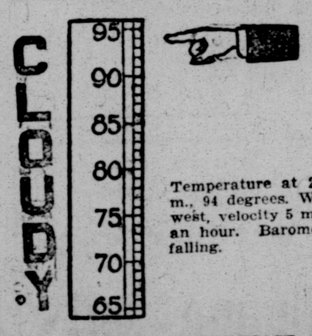

"Truth is stranger than fiction," said Mrs. Livingston, "and any developments will have to come from the other side."

She was asked if by the other side she meant Rockefeller's, and she said "yes."

Interurban Meeting

A citizens' meeting will be held at the city hall Saturday morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of considering the Beardsley proposition to build an interurban road from Fort Worth to Mineral Wells. Captain Paddock, secretary of the Board of Trade, who has been deeply interested in seeing the road built, is anxious that every one who wants to see the line constructed be on hand.

THE WEATHER SPOTTER

Temperature at 2 p. m., 94 degrees. Wind west, velocity 5 miles an hour. Barometer falling.

NEW ORLEANS FORECAST

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 21.—The forecast:

Arkansas, Oklahoma and Indian Territories and Eastern Texas—Tonight and Saturday, partly cloudy weather.

U. S. INTERESTED IN RECIPROCITY

Representatives of Government Will Be Visitors at Conference Held in Chicago

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 21.—The government is beginning to manifest an interest in the national reciprocity conference, to be held at Chicago Aug. 15 and 16. This is especially true of the departments of agriculture and commerce and labor. Without committing themselves upon the merits of the contention involved in the reciprocity question, both Secretary Wilson and Secretary Metcalf will have representatives at the conference in the persons of their principal experts on live stock, agriculture, tariff, statistics, foreign trade, etc.

If Secretary Metcalf is able to wind up the official and private business matters which called him to the Pacific coast a week ago in time to return east by the date of the conference, he will probably attend and deliver an address. He has shown his practical interest in the conference by having Major Carson, chief of the bureau of manufactures, add additional instructions to those under which the five special agents of the department are now looking into the trade relations and conditions of the Orient and South and Central America.

WILL BE REPRESENTED

These agents, under their additional instructions, are particularly directed to inquire into the causes of the comparatively small proportion of the trade in canned vegetables and fruits and dairy products which the United States has with the countries of Latin-America. The fruit and vegetable packers of Maryland and other states adjacent to the Chesapeake Bay basin are especially interested in the subject, and the dairy men of the Central West are also concerned over the discovery that Central America, Cuba and the West Indies generally get the largest share of their butter supply from the Netherlands and other small states of Europe. These interests will be largely represented at Chicago, as will also the manufacturers of farming implements.

A pressing invitaion will be extended to President Roosevelt in the name of the agricultural, live stock and meat-producing interests of the country to attend the conference, and it is expected that if the President finds it impossible to accept the invitation he will send a letter expressing his views on the general subject of reciprocity along the lines marked out in the last speech delivered by President McKinley at Buffalo, in September, 1901.

PRESIDENT'S CONCERN

President Roosevelt's concern is known to be even more active and immediate than was that of his predecessor, in view of the fact that when President McKinley spoke so strongly on the theme at Buffalo our trade arrangements with Germany, made under the provisions of the Dingley tariff law, had then five years to run, whereas now these advantageous arrangements are limited to only a few months more duration. On the first of next March Germany will put into force an entirely new tariff schedule, under which practically prohibitive taxes are laid against American exports. On that date the tariff on American meat products will be increased, although that tax is already so high that it is virtually impossible to get American meats into German markets. On the same date the new tariff imposing an additional impost of 40 cents a bushel on American corn will be applied by the German government, and this will completely shut one of the greatest products of American agriculture out of Germany.

Our trade in corn with the Kaiser's country has grown in the last ten years from insignificant figures to millions of dollars in value. It is these things which have arrested the attention of President Roosevelt, and are giving him and his administration grave concern over the question of finding new markets for our rapidly growing agricultural and live stock products.

BABY FALLS FROM FLYER AND LIVES

Tumbles Out of Window While Train Is Moving at Mile-a-Minute Gait

DENVER, Colo., July 21.—Falling from a train going at sixty miles an hour, undergoing a trepanning operation upon the skull and completely recovering, until today it is a bright, healthy child, with not a trace of the terrible accident about it, a 3-months-old Denver baby furnishes a case hitherto unknown in the annals of medical science.

A few weeks ago Mrs. Ophelia Bales, a well-known society woman of Denver, started east with her baby to spend the summer at Bar Harbor. Mrs. Bales took a Burlington train, and when a few miles out of Denver the accident happened. The train was going very rapidly, registering nearly a mile a minute. Mrs. Bales was seated in the Pullman with her baby close to the window. Suddenly a gust of wind caught the flying baby clothes, and in the fraction of a second the little one had been hurled headforemost out of the window.

SEARCH FOR THE CHILD

The train was brought to a standstill as soon as possible and a party was quickly formed to search for the child. About a mile back it was found, lying between two piles of cross-ties. Instead of being as was expected, a mangled bit of humanity, the little one was alive and kicking.

Mrs. Bales took the next train back to Denver and placed her child in St. Joseph's hospital under the care of Dr. Leonard Freeman. Its skull was trepanned, and the most careful examination made to see that no internal injuries had been sustained.

The baby recovered rapidly, and about ten days ago it was taken from the hospital completely cured. Physicians who have been watching the case pronounce it one of the most remarkable incidents on record.

Mrs. Bales and her baby left Denver yesterday for Bar Harbor, where they will spend the rest of the summer.

SAYS HITCHCOCK DISREGARDED ACT

Lawton Newspaper Accuses Secretary of Interior With Failure to Hold Conferences as Instructed

LAWTON, O. T., July 21.—The State Democrat, a daily paper of this city, charges that Secretary Hitchcock has violated an action of a committee of the United States senate in advertising the Indian pasture lands for the "new country" for lease for agricultural purposes. That paper recites a motion that was passed by the senate committee in which it was ordered that the secretary of the interior hold a council with the Kiowa and Comanche Indian tribes during the interim between congresses this year and secure their advice regarding the prices of the lands and their consent to the sale of them.

BAN ON DIVORCEES

Can't Be Married in Kansas by Episcopal Clergymen

TOPEKA, Kan., July 21.—Grass widows and widowers desiring to re-marry will have to rake up some other than an Episcopal minister in Kansas to tie the knot. The Episcopal clergymen have placed a ban on marrying divorced persons. They have issued this manifesto:

"We, the undersigned clergy of the diocese of Kansas, sensible of the great evil in divorce conditions in the United States, do hereby agree that we will not under any circumstances marry a divorced person within the lifetime of the other party."

"This doesn't mean," said one of the clergymen, "simply that we preachers are placing a ban on grass widows ourselves. It means that we will not perform a ceremony uniting other parties if one of them is divorced."

The manifesto is signed by Bishop Millspaugh and all of the Episcopal ministers in his diocese.

PAINTED HAIR RED

Insane Veteran Was Going to Make It Red, White and Blue

CARTHAGE, Mo., July 21.—Love for the flag under which he fought has turned the mind of Veteran O. W. Pearson of Joplin. He was apprehended yesterday after he had succeeded in painting his hair a brilliant red, in an attempt to put on the red, white and blue of Old Glory.

Hhe was a pitiable sight when the officers carried him into the car to bring him to the county jail at Carthage. The old man's locks were a pure white before he applied the paint. He explained that as soon as the red paint had dried he intended intermingling the blue. Last week he painted the woodwork in his room, using the colors of the flag, but the paint was in spots

Negro Teacher Barred

LAWTON, O. T., July 21.—Professor E. B. Nelson, county superintendent of Comanche county, yesterday refused to admit a negro school teacher to the normal institute. He is opposed to mixed schools and as well to mixed institutes. There is talk of mandamus proceedings being instituted by the applicant to compel the superintendent to admit her.

OFFICIALS MAKE PAVING ESTIMATES

Improvement District Work Will Cost $200,000—The Property Value

First steps by the city toward carrying on the work under the improvement district plan will be taken at the meeting of the city council tonight. City Engineer Hawley announced this afternoon that he had prepared an estimate of the cost of paving the two districts, including the territory from Bluff street to the Texas and Pacific tracks, north and south from Rusk to Throckmorton streets, east and west, placing it at approximately $200,000. This report, with one from the city assessor, giving the valuations of all property in the district, exclusive of improvements, at $2,360,000, will be presented to the council tonight. By tax levies on the valuation given the work of paving will be done.

In a petition filed with the city secretary this afternoon Chief of Police Maddox has made a plea to the council for the improvement of the basement of the city hall and corporation court.

BOATS CAN RUN TO FT. WORTH

U. S. Engineer Says Navigation of Trinity to Fort Worth Is Possible

MONEY IS NEEDED

Dallas Has Advantage Only of Government Appropriation for the Work

Navigation of the Trinity river to Fort Worth is a possibility, according to Major C. S. Riche, who made report for the government on the navigability of the stream to Dallas.

Major Riche, who is in charge of the government engineering corps stationed at Rock Island, Ill., was in the city Thursday night on his way to Dallas to consider matters in connection with navigation work at that place.

APPROPRIATION NOT BIG ENOUGH

In discussing the matter he said it is his belief that the Trinity river can be easily made navigable as far as Dallas and possibly to this city, but that the government appropriation made by congress does not include this city as a point.

Appropriation for navigation to Dallas was made by the Federal government, a fund of approximately $65,000 being raised by that city.

Water rates for commercial shipments securable by the navigation of the river to Fort Worth would within a short time cause a return of sums expended.

LIBERALS WIN IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

Premier Balfour Refuses to Resign When Asked, and Body Adjourns Until Monday

LONDON, July 21.—The house of commons sat barely a half an hour today, then adjourned until Monday to await the government's decision in regard to the future course of action, in view of the defeat of the ministry last night on John Redmond's motion to reduce the vote for the Irish land commission. The house was packed in every part. Much excitement was visible there, in view of the defeat of the government, as it is more serious than was generally regarded in the early hours of the morning.

Immediately after the house assembled Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the liberal leader, moved its adjournment, declaring that it would be unseemly under the circumstances to proceed with the business while the government was considering its position.

Premier Balfour, however, declined to adjourn the house until the bill dealing with the differences of Scottish United Free church had passed. This was quickly accomplished and the house rose and some excited members swarmed into the lobbies and eagerly discussed the probable decision of the cabinet, which had been summoned to meet this afternoon.

Will Not Resign

The view that the government will resign, however, is not held in circles generally well informed of the government's intentions, and it is reiterated that the resignation of Balfour and his ministery is not likely in view of the almost practical certainty that the government will be rehabilitated by its normal majority on the trial of strength on July 24, to which opposition formally challenged the ministry.

Defeated on Vote

The goverpment was defeated in the house of commons last night by a majority of 3 on the motion to reduce the membership of the Irish land commission.

On the announcement of the vote a scene of the greatest excitement was produced by the liberals and the Irish members yelling, "Resign." The incident is considered hardly of sufficient importance to justify the government in resigning, but when asked by Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the leader of the opposition, what course he intended to pursue, Premier Balfour declined to make a statement.

John Redmond, leader of the Irish party, said the premier had repeatedly declared that he would resign if defeated and that if he disregarded this vote of want of confidence he would be acting against all precedents. Was he going to swallow this humiliation as he swallowed every other humiliation during the last few years? the premier was asked by Mr. Redmond.

Mr. Balfour, replying very coolly, said that Mr. Balfourf$Z½nro shmdfrl mbz that Mr. Redmond had greatly agitated himself over a matter which could be settled in due time. He was, he said, not conscious of any humiliation. There would be ample opportunity within a few hours of proving whether the government still enjoyed the confidence of the majority of the house.

The premier said he would consult his colleagues as to whether the question would again be submitted to a vote and would make a statement Monday.

WAS WEARY OF LIFE AND WANTED TO DIE

Young Wife, Deserted by Husband, Takes Laudanum to Escape from Her Troubles

CHICAGO, Ill., July 21.—A young woman giving her name as Mrs. Marie Johnson, 21 years of age, whose husband is said to be a wealthy business man in Kansas City, attempted to commit suicide at her apartments today.

She swallowed the contents of a bottle of laudanum. She was taken to a hospital, where she was revived. The woman refused to make any statement further than that she had been deserted by her husband shortly after their honeymoon and that she lived in Kansas City. The police believe that the name of Johnson is fictitious.

CHINESE TO AID KANSAS IN FIGHT

Boycott Includes Everything American — Will Refuse Rockefeller's Oil

SHANGHAI, July 21.—The boycott of American goods is now working, but it has been agreed that the completion of all the running contracts for supplies will be allowed.

Meanwhile all the Chinese shops will refuse to sell American goods, including Standard Oil. All the schools and colleges in this section have decided to discard all American books.

TEXAS GINNERS TO MEET HERE

Organization Will Likely Be Formed July 31—Other Meetings Called

Winfield Scott of this city Thursday afternoon received a call issued by Major Baldwin of Erath county calling for a meeting of ginners of Northwest Texas in this city July 31 for the purpose of forming an organization. Place of meeting has not yet been announced. Mr. Scott estimates there are 500 gins in the territory included in the call.

Word has also been received here of a call for a similar meeting at Decatur Aug. 9, following a conference there yesterday of leading ginners with V. C. Hart of Galveston, secretary of the National Ginners' Association. A meeting in the interest of the organization will be held in Bell county Saturday.

TICKETS INFRINGE ANTI-TRUST LAW

Provision Against a Transfer Said to Violate Late Texas Statute

J. S. Davis, attorney for ticket brokers in the recent injunction cases here, has raised the point that the tickets sold by railroads at reduced rates contain contracts in violation of the anti-trust laws of the state. Provision that the tickets cannot be transferred by the original purchaser is the portion he declares violates the law.

Action by the courts in upholding injunctions forbidding the resale of such tickets, he says, would form a defense to railroad companies for violation of the law and would be valuable to them in that respect.

What action will be taken by him in regard to the matter has not been announced.

BEST CORN CROP IN TWENTY-TWO YEARS

Wichita County Has Banner Yield, Says Former Mayor of Wichita Falls. Other Grains Good

"Wichita county will have more corn this year than ever," said Otis T. Bacon, former mayor of Wichita Falls, this morning.

"Wichita county has the best corn crop raised in twenty-two years," he said, "while the wheat and oat crops are also very fair. The wheat has, in some sections, been quite badly damaged by rust and army worms, but despite these facts it is yielding from ten to eighteen bushels per acre.

"Business of all kinds is prosperous and it has been a long while since there has been such flattering conditions in my county. These conditions are not confined to Wichita county, but prevail over much of the Panhande country."

Mr. Bacon says that the people of Wichita are very much concerned over the report that Major Beardsley proposes to build a railroad from Abilene to a connection with the Denver road at Vernon, touching Seymour en route, at which point the new line will also connect with Colonel Morgan Jones' railroad, the Wichita Valley line. This, Mr. Bacon says, will be of benefit to Wichita Falls, as it will give a connection with the territory to be traversed by the new line.

SHOT STOPS PHONES

Nineteen Instruments Disabled by Bullet Lodging in Cable

Serious damage has been done to the Fort Worth Independent Telephone system by holes shot through the lead-covered cables, injuring and short circuiting the inclosed wires, it is reported.

Nineteen telephones are today out of commission on the South Side as a result of thus injuring the cable on Hemphill street and a force of men is at work repairing the damage.

Shooting of the cables with twenty-two caliber rifles has been done several times. Samples of the cable with holes torn in it and the bullet imbedded in the wires have been removed at times by workmen. Small boys with target rifles are supposed to be doing the work.

BRITT WILL MEET SULLIVAN TONIGHT

Contest for Lightweight Championship Is Expected to Be a Lively One

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 21.—James E. Britt of California and "Kid" Sullivan of Washington, D. C., meet in the ring at Woodward's pavilion tonight, the battle being for the lightweight championship of the world.

The men will weigh in this evening at 133 pounds and both will be nearly at the weight. Britt is a 2 to 1 favorite in the betting and even at these odds Sullivan money does not come strong, his backers waiting for a change in the odds, which is considered likely to occur before the men meet.

CITIZENS COMPLAIN OF BLOCKED STREET

Say That Houston Street Is Impeded by Truckers and File Complaint With City Marshal

Complaint was made to Chief of Police Maddox this morning that produce dealers near Fourteenth and Houston streets are blocking both the street and the sidewalk with wagons and wares. The complainants say that it is almost impossible to pass either in the street or on the walk. Unloading of produce in the front of the building instead of in the rear is said to be the seat of the trouble.

Chief Maddox says he will investigate the matter.

Complaint is also made by persons using Houston street daily in passing from the south side of the city to the north side that certain parts of Houston street between Eleventh and Twelfth streets are constantly blocked by vehicles driven by truckers and peddlers.

Many teams, they assert, stand at this point from about 4 o'clock to 8 or 9 o'clock in the morning, and in driving past this point they are forced to zig-zag their way through the teams, or else use another street.

"If the truckers are not granted this right to monopolize the street by the council, they are certainly usurping the rights of the public and should be stopped at once," said a south sider to The Telegram this morning.

SALVATION ARMY IN COURT CASE

G. W. Beaty, Fined for Assaulting Captain, Says Trouble Followed Joining of Army by His Wife

On a charge of assaulting Captain Waters of the Salvation Army on Lower Main street Wednesday night, G. W. Beaty was fined in the corporation court this morning. In addition to this he was convicted of assaulting G. T. McGlasson, a bystander, who interfered.

Beaty entered a plea of guilty to the first charge and Judge Prewett, after hearing the testimony in the second case, imposed the fine of $5 in each case.

Beaty, who is an employe of Armour & Co. and lives at 1101 East First street, said that he attacked Captain Waters for causing discord in his family, Mrs. Beaty and he having trouble after her conversion at the hands of the Salvation Army.

Beaty says he will appeal the cases.

CITY COUNCIL TO HAVE BUSY SESSION

Committee Meeting This Afternoon—Will Prepare Grist for Tonight's Regular Session

Many important matters are on hand for consideration at tonight's meeting of the city council. Special committees this afternoon considered the daily report question, the "Jim Crow" ordinance, the matter of having Northern Texas Traction cars run both ways on Hemphill street and purchase of a street sprinkling outfit.

Residents in El Paso street desiring paving by the improvement district plan, City Attorney Orrick has prepared a suitable resolution in behalf of the residents, which will be presented to the council tonight. The resolution asks for the creation of an improvement district on El Paso street, from Summit avenue to Henderson street.

Pursuant to instructions from the council, the city attorney has notified the Katy and Denver railroads that they must provide flagmen at the East First street crossing. As yet he has received no reply from the roads.

PEDESTRIANS BUMP PROCEED TO FIGHT

Collision at Tenth and Throckmorton Followed by Quarrel—Officers Take a Hand

After indulging in a fight directly in front of police headquarters, shortly after 9 o'clock this morning, W. F. Sallis and Grover Johnson were arrested by Officer Peterson.

The men became engaged in a quarrel after bumping into each other on the street corner at Tenth and Throckmorton streets. In the fight which ensued Johnson struck Sallis on the left side of the face with a stone.

Sallis is charged with fighting and Johnson with aggravated assault.

FAIR BOARD TO MEET

Texas Commissioners Hold Session in Dallas This Afternoon

The Texas World's Fair commission will hold a meeting in the Oriental hotel, Dallas, this afternoon, for the purpose of winding up the business of the commission.

President Louis Wortham was here today and with Captain B. B. Paddock left at noon for Dallas. Mr. Wortham said there exists a deficit of $5,000, which must be provided for at the meeting today. Just how this balance is to be liquidated, Mr. Wortham was unable to say. He says it may be necessary for each Texas commissioner to go down in his pocket and dig up his pro rata.

Disposition of the Texas World's Fair exhibit is also to be made by the committee. Fort Worth is after the exhibit and the Board of Trade has named Captain Paddock and Paul Waples a committee to look after the matter.

Some time ago the Arlington Heights Land syndicate considered the matter of buying the Texas building and erecting the same at Arlington Heights. This matter may also come up at the meeting.

HARRINGTON WILL SAID TO BE FORGERY

An Estate of Over $200,000 Will Go to Grand Nieces and Nephews

WACO, Texas, July 21.—A peculiar case has just been settled at Bryan, a Waco man having been a witness. More than a year ago G. W. Harrington, a weorthy bachelor living on the Brazos near Bryan, died while in Houston for treatment of his eyes. His estate was worth about $200,000, and an administrator was appointed. It was not wound up at once, as there were certain contracts with the state. A short time ago a will showed up purporting to be that of Harrington, the instrument reciting that it was to be kept a year and then probated. It was witnessed by certain parties and left most of the property to a negro family living on the place. Several bequests of two, three and five thousand dollars were made, and one was to the Odd Fellows and another to the Confederate Home at Austin.

The negroes did not push the will much, and when it came to probate it was denied, especially as the parties whose names were signed as witnesses said that they knew nothing about it. Harrington had no brothers and sisters living and the property goes to grand nieces and grand nephews, most of whom are living in Texas.

One clause in the will left a sum of money to a certain cemetery, and the cemetery in question was designated as "the cemetery where I and my family are buried." Experts pronounced the will a forgery.

SMALLPOX APPEARS

State Reformatory at Gatesville Reports One Case—No Alarm Is Felt

WACO, Texas, July 21.—Parties who have been in Gatesville in the past day or two report that a case of smallpox has appeared in the state reformatory there, though it is thought that the disease will not spread. The case which was detected early was isolated in the top of the building, and no one but nurses go about it. The location of the institution is in a place which is cut off from the city and no uneasiness is felt, though every precaution is being taken.

DIES AT AGE OF 102

Negro Woman of Waco Was Formerly Slave of J. V. Smith

WACO, Texas, July 21.—Aunt "Dicy" Smith, an aged negress, died yesterday. She was formerly a slave in the family of J. V. Smith and it is asserted that she was born in 1803 and was therefore 102 years old. She was brought to Texas in her young days and has lived here most of the time. She was one of the old regime and was liked by white and black.

BIG TEAMSTERS' STRIKE ENDED

Thousands of Men, Long Idle, Seek Former Places Only to Find Them Filled

CHICAGO, Ill., July 21.—The teamsters' strikers, who last night gave up their long struggle against the Employers' Association, broke ranks today in a stampede for work. The barns of the employers who were affected by the strike were besieged by men seeking their former places. The employers in many cases announced that they had vacancies for only a few. Out of more than 4,600 men who quit work not more than 1,400 or 1,500 will be reinstated during the next few days. The coal teamsters and truck drivers did not join in the rush for re-employment today.

IN THE COURTS

LUNACY CHARGED

A warrant charging lunacy against Albert Eastman was sworn out by Justice Rowland this morning. Eastman was arrested and placed in jail.

Eastman is about 28 years of age and lives at Dublin, Erath county. He reached here Thursday night. He wired Sheriff Honea to meet him at the train and arrest two men who were trying to kill him. The officers were on hand and took Eastman in charge. At the sheriff's office he insisted some one was going to murder him and asked protection. He will be held in jail until friends at Dublin are notified.

INQUEST HELD

Inquest over the body of Walter Kirklen, the young man found dead on the Frisco track about six miles west of the city, was held Thursday by Justice Chas. T. Rowland.

It was the verdict of the coroner that deceased probably came to his death by being struck by a locomotive.

He has two brothers living in this city, Frank and Henry Kirklen, the former being now employed at Glenn Bros. He was about 25 years of age and had been in the employ of Glenn Bros. as wagon driver for about eighteen months, having resigned employment there about a month ago. When young Kirklen was killed he was on his way to Mr. Harris' farm, about nine miles west of this city, where he was to work cutting hay.

Interment will be made at Mansfield this afternoon.

STANDS CHAMPION OF ALICE ROOSEVELT

Kentuckian Willing to Go Into Court to Prove She Met Persons of Repute

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 21.—This is Representative Joseph L. Rhinock of the Sixth congressional district of Kentucky, who has caused the arrest of Robert W. Criswell, publisher of a New York society paper, on a charge of criminal libel.

The trouble comes out of a visit of Miss Alice Roosevelt to Cincinnati. The article, which is admitted to have been hot stuff, spoke of the president's daughter as the prospective fiancee of Representative Nicholas Longworth, and asserts that Longworth introduced Miss Roosevelt to a "band of bookmakers" which is alleged to include Rhinock.

Rhinock is well known all through the south as a spender and is also intensely interested in horse racing. Mr. Rhinock says that Miss Roosevelt met only persons of repute at Cincinnati, and that he proposes to prosecute Mr. Criswell to a finish.

Prisoner at Georgetown Is Convicted of Murdering 15-Year-Old Girl

Special to The Telegram.

GEORGETOWN, Texas, July 21.—Late yesterday afternoon after one of the most sensational trials ever held in Williamson county, Thomas Young, alias Jack Wade, alias Jack Halley, was found guilty of murder and his punishment fixed at death.

When the verdict was rendered a shout went up which approved the verdict, and the judge ordered silence. There was assembled one of the largest crowds ever seen here at a trial.

Youn was convicted of murdering Lena Reece, a 15-year-old orphan, at Florence, in May, by beating her. He was from Travis county and was an ex-convict, pardoned by ex-Governor Sayers.

An inventor who devised a folding bicycle, but never could make a commercial success of it while the bicycle craze was at its height, is now selling quite a few of them to owners of touring cars. They are carried on back or top of the car, and provide for the emergency of being stalled on a lonely country road. With the bicycle the chauffeur can go quickly for supplies or help, whichever is needed.

AN INCREASE IN TAXATION

The federal government at the next session of congress will find itself in identically the same position that the state of Texas was in before the state legislature at its last session made provision to stop the big hole that existed in the state treasury. The deficit now existing in the federal treasury will approximate the sum of $24,000,000, and it is expected this will approximate $100,000,000 by the end of the fiscal year, and there is already considerable discussion of the proper method of providing funds to wipe out the deficiency.

This question has just been threshed over abundantly here in Texas, and the fact demonstrated to the complete satisfaction of our people that when a deficit is created there is but one method of providing for it, and that is to go deep down in the pockets of the people and fish up the required revenue. The very same principles attach to the federal government. We all know the deficit is there and that it must be wiped out. We know further that the government has but one method of raising revenue and that is by the process of taxing the people. It makes no difference how that deficit was created. It has materialized, and deficits only occur when there is a lack of revenue production. We may prate about high taxes, cry for the blessings of free trade and declare this the most extravagant and corrupt government on the face of the earth, but that will not get us away from that deficit. It is a condition that must be met.

This great government of ours is a big thing and its expenses are fixed to the extent that there is not much opportunity to reduce them. As government is of, by and for the people, the people necessarily have to support government. When things are moving along smoothly under low rates of taxation no kick is heard concerning the oppression of the government, but as soon as emergencies arise which require an advance in the rate of taxation a howl goes up from one end of the country to the other and every fellow swears he is already taxed to the limit of human endurance. But the tax is increased and paid. The increase which looks so big when considered in a lump dwindles into insignificance when divided up among 80,000,000 progressive and prosperous people.

As it seems certain that there can be but little if any reduction in government expenses, it seems the only thing that can be done is to increase the taxes, and the indications are that the war taxes prevailing after the close of the war with Spain will be restored. There is talk of placing a tax of four cents per pound on coffee, which is now on the free list. It is said that a duty of even three cents per pound on coffee would yield the government about $35,000,000 per annum. During the war with Spain the tax on beer was temporarily doubled, and while the measure was very unpopular with the brewers, the people did not utter one word of complaint. They may have gotten a little more froth and foam on their beer, but the brewers had to pay the tax. It is estimated the restoration of this tax on beer will yield the government about $40,000,000 annually. There is also talk of restoring the tax on bank checks, telegraph messages, stock transfers, etc., which can be made to yield much revenue.

The beer tax is looked upon with the most favor, and it seems almost certain that the breweries will be the first to be struck by the advanced taxation lightning, as raising revenue in this manner will result in the least disturbance of business matters and relations. The brewers will do all in their power to avert this tax, but the idea is that beer is more of a luxury than a necessity, and the burden of taxation should not rest upon the necessaries of life where they will weigh down and oppress the very poor. The idea in all taxation is that it shall be borne according to a man's worth and ability to pay, and if it comes to the point of determining whether coffee or beer shall pay the greater part of this required additional revenue, the decision will very promptly be given to the beer.

It always seems a hardship to raise taxes of any kind during times of peace, and the idea is always repugnant to the people. In fact, there are a great many people who would prefer to pay no taxes at all. These do not stop to figure on the proposition that without taxes we can have no government, and the taxes we pay are but the price of the protection afforded us under our form of government. We must remember that governmental expenses are fixed, and while we may take off the burden of taxation in some quarters, we will just as surely have to increase them in others. As long as we have government we must have taxes, and the only thing possible when there can be no reduction in expenses is to equalize the taxation so that it may be properly distributed among the American people.

PASSING OF TOM LAWSON

If the woods and prairies of the west were ignited as a result of the recent speech-making trip of Tom Lawson, the ignition must have occurred in such remote places that not even the smoke has become apparent to those who have been eagerly watching for the result.

Lawson has been about the best advertised man in the country since his first appearance as the Nemesis of the system. His articles on the subject of Frenzied Finance attracted much attention when they first made their appearance in some of the leading cheap magazines, and there was at first a disposition to take him seriously, even though there was much questioning of the motives that were serving him for an inspiration. The magazines containing his fulminations were eagerly sought for by the reading public, and chapter by chapter he was followed through the long and harrowing recital of how his associates and himself had long bled the public through manipulation of the stock exchange. There were thousands of people who hung upon his every utterance and looked upon him as the chosen instrument that had been devised for the complete undoing of the Wall street interests believed to prey continually upon the body politic. But there has been a revulsion in public sentiment.

As the Lawson story has been gradually unfolded it has become more and more apparent that personal grievance is the animus of the Lawson attack upon Frenzied Finance. As long as he was permitted to reap his reward for manipulating the market, this newly arisen champion of the people was seemingly content to command enemies' forces, and when the split came he turned upon his former associates not through love for the masses or repentance for his own overt actions, but through the very human desire to play for even. His avowed object is to make paupers of the multi-millionaires with whom he was formerly associated, and he has planned to accomplish this by enlisting the services of the people to help him settle the grudge he is harboring against his former associates.

In some of his public utterances Lawson has admitted that he has in his possession some millions of dollars that were wrongfully accumulated at the expense of the public, and says he intends to restore this money to its rightful owners. But beyond that announcement no action has been taken to perform the specific act. When a man genuinely repents a sinful act the first thought that comes into his heart is to make restitution where wrong has been done. The intention to ultimately restore does not count for much as it is said by a forgotten or unidentified authority that good intentions are so common that they are used for paving purposes in a very tropical country. It is not what Lawson intends to do. It is what he has done that counts in the present emergency.

Every possible expedient has been invoked by Lawson that could aid him in the fight he is making for revenge, and the vindictive side of his nature is clearly in evidence. Leading daily papers have been constantly importuned for free advertising for the same purpose. Through the employment of all these agencies and his general bureau of publicity, Lawson was able to precipitate one small financial panic last fall, but it is an expedient that will not again be crowned with success.

The man who, in the newspapers and from the lecture platform, deliberately proposes to bring about a panic for the purpose of wrecking and ruining the big capitalists with whom he was formerly associated is not the leader the people are crying for to come over into Macedonia and help them. That fact is exemplified by the extreme flatness that characterizes the recent speechmaking tour undertaken by Lawson. His voice gave out and the engagement was cut sohrt, but as a matter of coincidence the voice did not give out until public confidence was in the same condition. The Lawson entry upon the stage was a most spectacular one, and he has been the most talked about man in all America, but with the full comprehension of his motives the public has acquired a genuine feeling of ennui and is ready to turn to some other source for a genuine sensation. The Lawson spiel has lost its power to further charm.

THE STATE'S INSANE

In discussing the fact that the president of the State Sheriffs' Association had stated a few days ago that there were 100 insane persons confined in the county jails of Texas, The Telegram stated that the last state legislature had failed to make proper provision for these unfortunates. The idea intended to be conveyed was not that the legislature had deliberately ignored these deplorable conditions, but had neglected to do the proper thing for month after month when these people were being compelled to serve the equivalent of a long jail sentence.

The fact is that a measure was passed appropriating $119,140 for immediate use for building and equipping more room at the various asylums, but this measure was not passed until the close of the extra session, when it should have been the first measure enacted after the mileage and per diem, and should have carried the emergency clause.

The Telegram is disposed to give the legislature credit for all it accomplished, and in its comment upon the situation simply followed the line of reasoning employed by the president of the Sheriffs' Association, which was predicated upon right and justice to an unfortunate class utterly incapable of helping themselves.

It is argued by some of our people that it is impossible to make Fort Worth a great cotton market, from the fact that there is but little cotton produced within a radius of ten or fifteen miles of the city. This fact but constitutes a strong argument for going out withip a larger radius and seeking to make good the deficiency existing in our immediate environments. If men can haul peaches and watermelons here from Wise county to find a market, as is being done daily, it stands to reason that they can also be induced to haul their cotton here. Give the cotton producers of our trade territory to understand that they can always get a better price here for their product, and can always buy their supplies here a little cheaper than elsewhere, and cotton will seek the Fort Worth market in large quantities. It is foolish to argue that the plan is impractical and impossible. Nothing is impossible for Fort Worth except to stand still. The man who is trying to stand still in this community is being carried forward by the sheer weight of the general momentum.

That interurban line between this city and Mineral Wells will be built and right speedily built at that. The primary movers engaged in promoting the proposition may name conditions that cannot be met at this time, but there are others. The Telegram is not a knocker, but The Telegram stands flat-footed upon its original position and that assumed by the good men who have been working like Trojans for the success of this enterprise. They are in position to best judge of the situation, and they have said the bonus demanded is beyond the willingness and ability of the people to pay, and if this is true it will be made plain at the public meeting to be held at the city hall Saturday morning. If the required $100,000 cash is not raised, our people should not feel the least bit discouraged, for there is more than one man willing to undertake the building of that proposed interurban line and it will be built.

People are sleeping out on the commons in the east on account of the extreme heat, and down here in the Lone Star State we are reaching for our share of the "kiver" almost every night that passes.

Employes of the state comptroller's office at Austin are agitating the subject of erecting a monument to the memory of the late comptroller, R. M. Love, who was assassinated in his office about two years ago.

It is said that more money is needed in the agricultural department at Washington, in order to increase its efficiency. Such was apparently the views of the late assistant statistician, Holmes.

Sunday morning you will feel better after you have read The Telegram. When you have read it you have had the very best there is going.

Just look at the daily list of real estate transfers and see if it can be possible that Fort Worth is a dead one.

NOT IN ONE PLACE

An exchange says there is one outstanding ten thousand dollar bill in circulation and but two five thousand dollar ones. We looked through our roll carefully, but find we haven't any of such in our possession at this writing. Week before last, however, we had a one dollar bill, but paid that to Dan on last year's salary. We have been told there are several ones in circulation, of which any substantial proof will be gladly received at this office.—West Fayette (Ohio) Indicator.

Knocking, knocking.
Ah, my heart is heavy laden.
Ah, this heart is void and chill.

THE MYSTERY OF 19,000 POUNDS

BY BUFORD DELANNOY

(Copyright, 1905, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

CHAPTER XXVII.
THE NEXT MOVE IN THE GAME.

Before Gerald could answer the very unpleasant question, there came a sound which caused both men's hearts to cease beating for a moment, the one with hope, other with fear.

For it was a loud hammering on the front door, and an authoritative voice crying:

"Open instantly, or we break in."

Looking at he door, the lawyer saw through the ground glass a round disk of light, such as a bull's-eye lantern throws, and then silhoutted a helmet—a policeman's helmet.

Loide stood in the passageway with a blanched face—irresolute—for a moment. There was not time to be so longer.

Then he rushed to the back door and disappeared down the steps into the darkness.

His movements were quickened by the sound of breaking glass, and presently the door opened.

Three men in uniform stood on the steps, a sergeant and two constables. They paused a moment, listening, and then entered.

"Be careful," said the sergeant. "Throw your light ahead of you. Hullo! What's this?"

He was referring to the open trap which yawned at his feet.

He cast the light of his lantern down the hole, and a voice came up, saying:

"The police! Thank God!"

"Wasn't a hoax then, after all," said the sergeant, grimly. "Are you all right?"

"Yes," came the voice; "all right now you have arrived. Had you been five minutes later you would have had a dead man to carry out."

"Who's the would-be murderer?"

"Escaped the back way as you entered the front. I heard him run down the steps."

"Jim, Jack, quick; scour the back, and see what you can find."

The men found nothing. They returned.

"He knew the lay of the land better than we did," suggested the sergeant.

"Slip off your belts," he said turning to his men. "Here's mine; buckle them together. That's it."

He leaned over the hole, and lowered the length of the leather.

"Just wrap the end round one wrist," he called out to the man below, "and hold on with the other hand. Got it? Now, men, grip this. Stand on the corner there and pull all together."

In another moment Gerald formed one of the four panting men in the passage.

"And now," inquired the sergeant, "what's the meaning of this little game? How did you come to get down there?"

"First tell me," inquired Gerald, "how you came to arrive in the very nick of time?"

"Well, your note—ingenious idea that—round the cat's neck, was noticed by the cat's owner. She came with it to the station."

"Good woman!"

"It seemed a funny sort of story to find tied to a cat, and at first we believed it was a hoax. We probably should have treated it so, but one of our men who was standing in the office had reported that two vans had cleared the furniture away from the Elms during the evening.

"I think that decided us. If it had not been for the fact that it was an empty house—empty houses form the backgrounds of a lot of crimes, you know—I don't think we should have taken notice of it."

"Mine is a strange story," said Gerald, who for obvious reasons could not tell the true one. "I was lured here presumably by a madman, walked into that trap, and when you were knocking at the door, the fellow was standing over me with a pistol. He had dug a grave in the back garden—you can see it for yourself—and was intending to bury me in it."

"Who was it?"

"The man who lived here—Mr. Loide, the lawyer. I was his clerk. He sent for me to come here tonight, and I came down by train. When I got here—well, the man was mad; there can be no doubt of it."

"Just give me his description," said the sergeant.

Gerald gave it. Then the sergeant said:

"Your own name and address."

Gerald gave them.

While the sergeant had been eliciting these particulars, and writing an account of the affair, his men had searched the house from top to bottom, and reported absolute emptiness. Then the street door was locked and the four men made their way to the high road.

"Now, about sleeping," said the sergeant. "Will you come on to the station? We can give you a pitch there on a rug till the morning."

Gerald thanked him and walked to the police station. The next morning he was up betimes and caught an early train back to London.

His astonished landlady let him in, and opined with a shaking head that here was only one end for young men who stopped out all night.

Gerald did not awake till 11 o'clock; then he had breakfast, and mapped out his plans for the day.

He rehearsed his coming interview with the dentist—he did not suppose it would matter being an hour or so late—what he should say, what he should do, and then went out.

His landlady sarcastically inquired as he passed whether he thought he should sleep at home at night, and he answered by banging the door.

He made his way to Finsbury circus, and entered the building in which the dentist had rooms. Sawyer opened the door.

"Is Mr. Lennox in?"

"Yessir; will you come inside? What name shall I say, sir?"

"Brown—John Brown."

CHAPTER XXVIII.
AT THE DENTIST'S.

The dentist himself was left—the last time he was referred to in this chronicle—facing Sawyer and two policemen.

One of the men had a notebook in his hand. He spoke:

"Sorry to intrude, sir, but there's a fete on at the Crystal Palace for the police orphanage. Your name's down on the books as subscribing something last year, and we thought we'd just ask if you'd be so kind as to remember the poor orphans again."

What a feeling, what an intense feeling of relief came over him!

Relief! He almost laughed, the tension for a minute had been so great.

"What did I give last year?" he inquired in as natural a voice as he could assume.

"Five shillings, sir."

"Then here's the same again. That's all right."

The men thanked him and withdrew. The dentist closed the door and almost sobbed.

Then he changed his mind about the registered letter. Opening the door, he entered the outer room, and took it from Sawyer.

"I'll see to this," he said.

That police visit seemed to have roused some courage in him—it was an element in his nature that needed a lot of rousing.

Why should he be afraid of every shadow? Where was the need for it?

He would wait another half hour and see. Perhaps after all there was no need for fright.

During that half hour Sawyer tapped at and opened the door.

"The gent that came yesterday, sir."

The dentist braced himself for the interview. He put the envelope containing the notes in his table drawer, and looked up as his visitor entered.

"Mr. Brown?"

"That's it."

"You were recommended here, I think, by some one whose teeth I attended to."

"Well, I don't think you attended to his teeth only."

"No?"

"He was rather cut up by your treatment."

Gerald had his eyes fixed on the dentist, and when he had uttered that double meaning remark, he saw the man's face grow pale as death.

He knew then that his bolt had gone home; knew that he was on the right track at last.

He adopted bold measures. The dentist's appearance warranted them.

"Sit down, Mr. Lennox. You don't mind my turning the key in the door, so we shan't be disturbed, do you? That's it."

He seated himself opposite the dentist, and pulled out his hired-for-a-shilling handcuffs.

The effect of their production was electric. He was more than ever convinced that he was right.

"Of course," he said quietly, "you guess the game's up. That little game you and your brother played with Mr. George Depew when he came to have a tooth out?"

The dentist was incapable of an answer. He sat there as if turned to stone.

Gerald went on:

"I'm of the American detective force—you have perhaps heard of me, Detective Grabbem. I gave the name of Brown to your boy because I didn't want to give the show away."

Still no answer. Then Gerald said suddenly:

"Where are the £19,000 notes?"

For answer the tongue-tied dentist with trembling hand opened his drawer, and handed Gerald the envelope he had recently given to and taken from Sawyer.

"You intended them for the London police? I'm from New York."

Gerald opened the envelope and his eyes sparkled as he handled the notes.

GLEANINGS FROM EXCHANGES

The Beaumont Journal says that it is silly to talk of naming the man who will be the "railroad candidate" for governor of Texas this year. Why? If one can say on the stump and in private—"beware of the railroad candidate—he is about to gobble up Texas!" why wouldn't it be just as easy to name the gentleman who represents the octopus and is going to do the gobbling? It would be interesting news to the people of Texas.—Sherman Register.

The railways will have no candidate for governor next year. They are too wise to be caught in that kind of a predicament, and besides, it is the state legislature in which the railways are more deeply interested.

We sometimes wonder if the big ex-governor, Jeems S., contemplates tackling the young man of classic diction for the senate next year. It would be a royal fight and no mistake, and this they both love.—Orange Tribune.

There will not be much of a fight if Hogg ever concludes that he desires to go to the United States senate. All he has to do is to voice the desire and the people of the state will do the rest.

There is still another doubt coming to the people who, two weeks ago, were certain that Russia was on the verge of revolution. There are countless millions in Russia patiently waiting to hear of the surrender of Tokio.—Galveston Tribune.

The ignorance that prevails in Russia is a very strong guaranty of the stability of the present form of government. The masses would not know what to do with liberty if it was given them.

A small boy found a small knife in the big pasture near Chattanooga, Okla., with the initials T. R. on the side. It is thought it was lost by the President during the wolf hunt.—Austin News-Tribune.

And the knife will be treasured by the finder during all the coming years, notwithstanding that "T. R." may simply be the brand of some local cattleman.

A district judge in Tarrant county has granted an application of one George Sauerzapf to change his name to Charley Brown. We don't blame the man at all, and any court having jurisdiction ought to grant a man relief carrying such a burden. The petitioner stated to the court in his application that when he was introduced to strangers they would laugh in his face upon hearing his name pronounced, and this greatly humiliated him.—San Angelo Standard.

No man should be compelled to bear a name that has become hateful to him. But as a matter of fact men oftener disgrace the name they bear than vice versa.

The people of Wisconsin have decreed that any fellow who gives as well as any fellow who receives a free pass, frank or privilege for the transportation of any person or property shall, on conviction, don horizontal stripes and withdraw from the smart set.—Waco Times-Herald.

That ought to settle the pass question in the Badger state, but such drastic measures usually fail on account of their unconstitutionality.

Hon. William D. Williams is voted by leading Texas newspapers "a coming man." Bosh! To quote from the plain farmer man vocabulary of "Uncle" Travis Henderson, the Tarrant county statesman "driv up" last winter.—Dallas Times-Herald.

Williams drove up all right last fall, but the trouble is that he has all the politicians guessing where he is going to hitch.

The packing house project again confronts us, and it is now up to our business men, stockmen and ranchmen, to say what shall be done. There is no question but that a packing house would be the most important industry that could be brought into the Panhandle, as it means so many things toward the future development of it.—Amarillo Herald.

The good people of Amarillo and the Texas Panhandle will find two absolutely first-class packing houses in Fort Worth, and a good market here for all the live stock they have to sell.

When the investigator discovers that the price of beef cattle on the hoof has decreased during the past two years nearly $200,000,000 and the dressed product increased in price at the same time nearly 40 per cent he has stumbled upon the main reason why the people want the most drastic measures adopted to punish the magnates and simultaneously put the beef trust out of business.—San Antonio Express.

With the indictment of the packers there has come a mighty hush to the beef trust agitation. But the people are eagerly watching for evidence of real prosecution.

Ex-Governor Hogg is to speak at the meeting of the State Farmers' Union in Waco next month and already there is keen interest manifested in what he may have to say. Somehow there seems to be an impression that he will make an important pronouncement as to state or political issues on that occasion and thus give the public some idea as to how the campaign of 1906 will be shaped. People who profess to be able to forecast ex-Governor Hogg's attitude say they believe he will be found supporting Hon. Tom M. Campbell's gubernatorial aspirations. The Tribune does not know what Governor Hogg will say, or whether he will touch on political issues at all. But this we do know: That what he does say will be interesting and timely and it will be in line with the interests of Texas and Texas people. The record of the past warrants this prediction.—Waco Tribune.

More than one Texas politician is eagerly awaiting that Hogg speech that is to be made at Waco. It will largely serve as the opening gun of the next state political campaign and may exert a very great influence upon the result.

Letters to The Telegram

THE UNPARDONABLE SIN

To The Telegram.

There has been a great deal said and written and a great deal of speculation concerning it. There are two special reasons why it is is so little understood. First on account of the ignorance of the people as to what the inspired writers have said about it, because they are not willing to give the time and study necessary to a correct understanding of their teachings. Second, some people are not satisfied with what is written; they lack faith in the author or writers of the Bible; therefore draw on their own mental faculties. The whole truth is, it is the sin against the Holy Ghost which is attributing to the devil the power by which Christ performed miracles, when in reality it was the power of the Holy Ghost or Spirit by which he was casting out devils and doing all of His miracles. Now, in Mark, chapter 3, we read in verse 22, that the scribes came down from Jerusalem and accused Christ of casting out devils by the power of Beelzebub, the prince of devils. Then He called them to Him and explained to them that such a thing could not be done, and why it could not.

In verse 28 He tells them that all sins and blasphemy should be forgiven the sons of men. In verse 29 he makes the one exception, the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost, which is the unpardonable sin and which has never been forgiven. That is, it is unpardonable. In the 30th verse He says that because they said He hath an unclean spirit that is equivalent to saying the accusation of the scribes, charging Him with casting out devils by the power of the devil, is the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost, which is the unpardonable sin and the only one mentioned in the Bible.

All other sins are pardonable, because Christ says so in verse 28. Any person who says that Christ cast out devils, or worked any miracles by the power of the devil, commits the unpardonable sin. Therefore, men should be careful not to make such a statement. Now this is one of the things in the Bible that is not necessary for us to know in order to salvation, but it is there. Therefore, we have a right to know.

People who believe in Christ are not going to say such things, and if they do, they are lost already, unless they do believe in Him. The suggestion that unbelief is the unpardonable sin is a mistake, for that would debar the whole human family from pardon.

I hope this article will satisfy the minds of those that are simply looking for the truth and nothing more, for I have given the truth and nothing more.

THE PRACTICAL SIMPLE LIFE—IN PILLS FOR HOUSEWIVES

To The Telegram.

When a man wants to live the simple life and get back to nature he becomes an idler, packs a few belongings and goes off in search of nature. Poor, blind man! There is more nature in his own block than he will ever be able to see. But women are deceived by his opinions and, all over the country, they are asking, "How can we live a simple life when there's washing and ironing and sweeping and dusting and bed making, bread baking and fruit canning and sewing and patching and visiting; and the children to look after, and run after, and feed and clothe, and doctor and get up in the night for—and only twenty-four hours in a day. How are we to get back to nature?"

This complicated burdensome life is a disease which yields most readily to homeopathic treatment mixed with mind cure. Small doses taken with cheerfulness and faith. In some cases a certain phase of the disease needs the first treatment; in others, another phase. The inclosed pills may be taken in the order most convenient for the patient. They are not patented and are guaranteed to contain no poison:

Pill No. 1. In the majority of well-to-do homes there are from two to six times as many "things" as are needed. Every superfluous "thing" is a hinderance to the simple life. Pictures collect so rapidly that if all are put upon the walls the eyes have no chance to rest. By placing a few on the walls the others may be reserved to be exchanged for the hanging ones when the latter lose their power to please. Sofa pillow covers and knick-knacks of all kinds should be treated in the same way. If no space can be spared for storing, by all means, give the articles to some one who can enjoy them. Why burden one life with that which some other life craves? There is nothing good in the world not needed to supply some demand. Too often the woman who has more than she can enjoy is not a stone's throw from the woman who has too little to enjoy. There are homes where nothing collects—they are always bare. In one home a picture hung on the wall will remain for years and years; in another home nothing can be kept on the wall more than six months. Why? It is difficult to tell. But in the latter home the pictures are enjoyed as much as in the former. There is a simple enjoyment and there is a cultivated enjoyment. Who shall say which is the greater? What is true of pictures is true of many other articles. Reducing the furnishings of a home without lessening the beauty and comfort is a step toward the simple life.

Pill No. 2. "Everything they have is on their backs." In the truthfulness of this lies the pity of it. Silks and broadcloth, ruffles and laces and diamonds, veils and gloves and ribbons, in wholesale quantities. The larger the wardrobe the greater the difficulty of deciding what to wear. That part of the paraphernalia which does not contribute to the happiness and comfort should be disposed of somehow. One ruffle less makes the dress as comfortable and allows time to enjoy a sunset, or a sunrise. See how the Great Painter touches the clouds with the most delicate colors which last but a fraction of a minute! His picture is never finished—He is continually deeping that color, erasing here, massing these clouds and bringing others into view. Ten minutes' enjoyment of the kaleidoscopic sky makes a cloth ruffle seem heathenish—the folliest of follies. A comfortable, at-home-feeling dress, neatly made and neatly worn, is the garb for the simple life.

Pill No. 3. How many women who attempt to embroider leaves and flowers know the original leaf and flower? Why travel hundreds of miles for the sake of scenery when one has not seen one-half the scenery within walking distance from one's home? Not many of Fort Worth's homes are without a lawn and trees. Were single leaves from the different trees in one block placed side by side, who could name them all? If the Great Father's heart is like unto a human father's, how He must pity the blindness and ignorance of man—and woman! What wonderful mechanism causes the cottonwood leaves to move when all other leaves are motionless? One who understands the construction of a single leaf is near to the very heart of nature. Our parks are not as yet so spoiled by man but that they breathe freedom, and wildness, and naturalness. She who would touch hands with Dame Nature but go farther than the peacock and the rabbits and the roses.

Beautiful as these are, the ants, the lizards and the horned toads also deserve attention. Their familiarity does not render them less worthy of our acquaintance. Notice the snails on the trees. A dozen tiny ants pulling a large bug up a tree, or the life about an ant hill reminds the observer of workmen on a skyscraper. Do all ants keep cows? Ah how the boasted civilization of man dwindles before the revelations of the insect world! The wild flowers and weeds are as dear to nature's heart as the cannas and roses and geraniums. "A weed is a plant whose virtues have not yet been discovered." There is sufficient to learn (and books in the library) about the "everyday nature" near our doorvards to keep us humble and simple in spirit.

Pill No. 4. Some home makers lead moderately simple lives until they arrive at the Sunday dinner. One of the mysteries of progress is why Sunday has come to be such a day of piggishness (a good English word, more expressive than any French). Let the day of rest be one of rest. Not many who read this have stomachs in no need of rest occasionally. The Sunday dinner may be a dress-up affair and at the same time, restful. A few choice dishes prepared on Saturday, served with fruit on a table given an extra touch or two, provides a meal in harmony with the day.

Pill No. 5 pertains to that, without which, no home is complete—the children. How often the small hearts ache for a little freedom, a little naturalness, a little simplicity. The "grown-ups" know the happiest days of twenty-five and fifty years ago were not the days spent in starch and lace, stiff collars and new shoes, but the days when clothes were not considered and we were free to follow impulse. How we grew up and out and oh, how we slept! In spite of all progress childhood has remained the same. Activity it must have. The mother's wisdom and patience are needed to direct that activity along lines helpful and not hindering to her. When water in which to play is their hearts' desire, the children can be as happy scrubbing the porch or walk as sailing boats in the bathtub. The little fingers can sew on buttons and the little feet save mother many, many steps. The child should not have all work, of course, but play becomes tiresome and does not fully prepare it for adult life. Yet play is absolutely necessary—some time and some place where the little ones are perfectly free to move or be still, laugh or talk, and—develop. A home can get along without a parlor, but not without some room for the children.

The woman who is the director of her home and not its slave leads a simple, natural life.

IOWA.

Verses That Ring

SWALLER 'EM

You with your hem, an' you with your haw,
An' you with your grumble and grunt,
Why can't you let up fer a few minutes to see
How others are doing their stunt?
Your hem an' your haw, your grumble an' grunt,
Ain't easin' your loads a bit;
An' that grouch—the one that you've always got on—
Don't frighten the world a bit.

You, the one with the load, I mean,
You sigh, but it's doin' no good;
That pack on your back's no bigger to tote
Than the pack that any man should.
You're joggin' along as though you expect
Every man that you met on the road
Would give you a lift, but you're wrong—for, like you
Every one of 'em's totin' a load.

Swaller your grumble, your hem an' your haw—
You're tyin' your face in a knot;
Give a hearty "ha, ha," so the people can see
What kind of a laugh you have got.
Then hem and the haw are ornery things,
An' likewise the grumble an' grunt,
Why can't you let up fer a minute an' see
How others are doin' their stunt.

Get a stretch on that opening you use fer a mouth,
An' try and get used to a smile;
Your troubles—just keep 'em—ferget 'em's the best—
They're tiresome after a while.
You with your hem, an' you with your haw,
Ain't easin' your loads a bit;
An' that grouch—the one that you've always got on,
Didn't frighten the world a bit!

IMPURE WATER

GLASS OF DRINKING WATER MAGNIFIED 1,000 TIMES.

Is the Direct Cause of Typhoid, Malaria, Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, the Fatal Hot Weather Complaints. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is Prescribed by Doctors Everywhere as a Sure Preventive.

If you are going to the seashore or countryside for your summer vacation don't fail to take a bottle of Duffy's with you. The greater share of the summer hotels and country farmhouses depend almost entirely upon impure wells and worm-eaten cisterns for their water supply. True, in most cases the drinking water is filtered, but think of the millions of tiny, minute germs which escape even the finest screened filter and cause typhoid, cholera morbus and bowel trouble. Examine a seemingly pure glass of drinking water under a powerful microscope and you will be horrified to find the water swarming with disease germs. Doctors of all schools say to put a teaspoonful of in every glass of water you drink. It destroys the germs, cools the blood and strengthens the system. It is the positive cure for cramps, dysentery, sunstroke, cholera morbus, congestive chills and weak stomachs. Duffy's contains no fusel oil, and is the only whiskey recognized by the Government as medicine. Doctors for fifty years have used it.

CAUTION—When you ask for Duffy's be sure you get the genuine. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and be certain the seal over the cork is unbroken. All druggists and grocers, or direct, $1.00 a bottle. Medical booklet free. Duffy's Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

INDIANS IN CAMP HERE

Sixteen Comanches in Quarters at Rosen Heights

Sixteen Comanche Indians from the Fort Sill reservation reached the city Thursday night and will give an exhibition at Rosen Heights Pike this afternoon. Spectators will be shown how the red man lifts the scalp of a pale face. The performance will be in the nature of a genuine massacre in which the Comanches will take part attired for the war path.

The Indians went into camp Thursday night on the pike grounds. They attracted much attention in their native wardrobe.

The party is in charge of Chief Captain Arrow, who is big chief. He is 52 years of age and a noted Indian among his tribe. There are a few squaws and papooses in the party.

These Indians are on their way to Granbury and Dublin.

Tent Meeting

Next Sunday night at 8:15 o'clock the Church of Christ of Fort Worth will begin a series of tent meetings at the corner of Evans avenue and Myrtle streets, conducted by J. F. Punsley. The meetings continue indefinitely. Arrangements have been made to accommodate large crowds. A commodious tent, ice water, good singing and good preaching are announced.

Bicycle Records Broken

OGDEN, Utah, July 21.—Two world's records have been broken at the Saucer track here. Jack Hume ran the mile unpaced in 2:00 2-5, breaking the former record of 2:02 2-5, made by W. H. Ahrenberger in New York in August, 1899. S. H. Wilcox lowered the three-quarters mile unpaced amateur record from 1:37 to 1:32 3-5. The previous three-quarters mile record was made by B. F. Stowe at Springfield, Mass., in October, 1894.

BOTH "TEDDIES" LOOK GOOD TO CANADIANS

PRESIDENT IS MIGHTY POPULAR FROM ONE END TO OTHER OF CANADA AND IS TOASTED IN SAME BREATH WITH THE KING

BY GILSON GARDNER.

Staff Correspondence to The Telegram.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Canada, July 20.—From one end of Canada to the other, the name of President Roosevelt is greeted with acclaim. It is small exaggeration to say that our president is as popular north of the line as he is in the United States. King Edward VII. is also popular, and it is quite common at dinners where both Americans and Canadians are present to couple the names of the "two Teddies" in a toast.

The withdrawal by Great Britain of all garrisons from Canada, and of all warships from Canadian waters, has served to call attention to a rather new phase, if not interpretation of the Monroe doctrine. As the situation is now understood in Canada, the United States has become a sort of guardian of Canada. It is taken for granted that the United States will henceforth undertake the responsibility of safeguarding Canada from any European encroachment.

Great Britain is delighted to delegate this business to the United States, and, by withdrawing her military arm, has already transferred to us all further responsibility in this regard.

The large increase in the population from the United States in Canada has resulted in a good natured contest of national traditions and celebrations. For example: American Independence day, the "glorious Fourth," does not appeal to the native Canadian, and, on the other hand, Dominion day, which the Canadians celebrate on the first of July, and which commemorates the confederation of the separate Canadian provinces, does not appeal much to the men from the states. So a compromise is frequently made, and a joint celebration is held on the second or third of July.

While there is absolutely no sentiment throughout Canada in favor of annexation to the United States, there is discoverable here and there a lurking sentiment in favor of Canadian independence. But this sentiment struggles hard with the spirit of loyalty to the traditions of the mother country.

The Canadian toasts the king; but that is all he does for monarchy. And so long as that is all he is asked to do, things are apt to go on very much as they are at present. The Canadian is proud to share in England's glory; to be a member of an empire on which the sun never sets, and the drum-beats of whose garrisons follow the sun around the world. All that business fills the Canadian with ardor.

He is willing to let the British treasury pay the $50,000 salary of the governor general, and he is willing to have a governor general so long as the office is a mere figure-head. The Canadian is willing to send a few volunteers to aid the mother country to fight the Boers or others, so long as Great Britain makes no effort to force a levy of soldiers, or to tax the cost of the war against the colony.

Canada is willing to give England a slight preference in her trade relations, so long as it does not interfere with the full development of home industries. In short, the Canadian is delighted to cheer for the king, so long as it is a mere matter of cheering.

An American who was on his first visit to Canada, and who was somewhat surprised to find no greater difference between his own republic and the colonial tributary to the British crown, expressed the situation as follows:

"In all the essentials of genuine liberty the people of Canada are as free as the people of our republic. Their traditions of personal liberty are our traditions; they have the Magna Charta, the writ of habeas corpus, the right of trial by jury, and to cross-examine the complaining witnesses; they have representation in exchange for taxation, and the law-making of the country is done by the people. Personal liberty and private property are as sacred in Canada as in the United States. The jurisprudence and the traditions of the law are the same.

"In short, it is the nonessential forms that the countries differ. In all matters which are vital to the liberty of the people the two nations are now almost identical."

STOCK SHORTAGE NOW PREDICTED

Railroad Agent Reports Both Sheep and Calf Supply Unusually Small

J. I. Conway, live stock agent of the Santa Fe, predicts a shortage of cattle and sheep this year in Texas.

Farmers, he says, are unable to secure stock sheep in either New Mexico or Mexico. Sheep in the state are so fat and prices so big that large numbers are being sold, while the tariff on sheep from Mexico is so heavy that importation is practically prohibited.

Mr. Conway says that the calf crop in Texas this year is also much lighter than usual. He believes that the number of cattle that will go on feed will be smaller than has been known in several years.

EARNINGS OF TEXAS RAILROADS

Showing Made During Past Eleven Months as Compared With 1904

AUSTIN, Texas, July 21.—The following is a comparison of earnings and expenses of the railroad companies which have made monthly reports to the railroad commission of Texas for the last two years, the figures being for the eleven months ending with May 31, 1905, as compared with eleven months which ended May 31, 1904:

Freight Earnings—1905, $46,412,308.10; 1904, $45,460,028.72; increase, $952,279.38, or 2.09 per cent.

Gross Earnings—1905, $66,347,542.88; 1904, $63,852,540.00; increase, $2,494,994.85; or 3.91 per cent.

Operating Expenses—1905, $49,868,845.41; 1904, $49,672,680.27; decrease, $104,834.86; or 0.21 per cent.

Income From Operation—1905, $16,778,697.47; 1904, $14,176,868.73; increase, $2,699,828.74, or 18.34 per cent.

On a basis of $365,000,000, covering the face value of the stocks and bonds of the railroads of Texas, the income from the operation above shown means an earning or return of nearly 4½ per cent, or nearly 10 per cent on the railroad commission's valuation of the railroad properties of the state. Commissioner Colquitt stated that when the twelve months have passed, the income will be about 5 per cent of the face value of the stocks and bonds of the roads.

MERGER COMPLETED

El Paso Lines to Be Operated as Separate Divisions

The El Paso-Northeastern railroad system has passed out of existence and merged its corporate being with that of the El Paso-Southwestern, the property of the Phelps-Dodge company.

From now on the two roads will constitute one single system, but will be operated east and west from El Paso under different divisions. Superintendent Oster will have charge of the operating department of the eastern division, formerly the El Paso-Northeastern, and Superintendent Hunter will operate the western division, which extends from El Paso west to Benson.

All of the present officers of the old El Paso-Northeastern will retain their positions, with one possible exception. Their official title will relate to the El Paso-Southwestern, but they will be known as officers of the eastern division. The consolidated line will practically be under a double management.

RATE WAR ON

Frisco in Fight With Eastern Lines For Coffee Trade

The Frisco and the Illinois Central initiated Tuesday a coffee rate cut out of New Orleans. The rate was put on a parity with rates on sugar prevailing to Missouri river points.

The cut was made as a retaliatory measure against the eastern trunk lines, and maintains for the gulf the 10 cent differential to which the gulf is entitled under the tariff agreements for which the southern lines are now fighting.

The Frisco and Illinois Central say that they will cut the rate even lower should it be necessary in order to force the eastern lines for a peace conference.

LINE TO OPEN SOON

Within the next sixty days the Nacogdoches and Southeastern railroad will be completed to Woden. A depot has been erected at this point and plans for other depots along the line are now in the hands of the superintendent of construction. Passenger coaches have been ordered and will arrive shortly. The company is now building its freight cars in the shops at Nacogdoches and by the time the road is completed to Woden the company will have met with all the requirements of the Texas railroad commission and the line put into operation.

TO RUN SATURDAY

Orient to Be Operated Into McCauley at Once

A letter received here from Sweetwater gives the information that the Orient road will soon be completed to McCauley, twenty-six miles north of Sweetwater, by Saturday, at which time train service between the two towns will be established.

Material is on hand at Sweetwater to complete the line at least forty miles further.

Work of completing the line to Knox City will be pushed just as fast as construction material reaches Sweetwater.

648 MILES OF BLOCK SYSTEM

To quicken the schedules and improve the service of its passenger trains, at the same time making them absolutely safe, the Southern Railway has completed and put into operation a system of block signals of the most modern and improved type over the entire main line between Washington, D. C., and Atlanta, Ga. The most improved interlocking switch and signal apparatus has been installed at passing tracks, yards, and all grade crossings, thereby greatly facilitating the handling of all trains. There are 158 block stations on this 648 miles of track, averaging 4.1 miles apart. The block system is also being installed on other parts of the Southern Railway system as rapidly as possible.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

The Santa Fe announces two excursions. One will be run from Fort Worth to Arbuckle Mountains, in the territory, Sunday, July 23, for $1 for the round trip. The other taking place July 29, is to Galveston. The round trip rate will be $4.85. Tickets to Houston on the same date will be $4.60.

Saturday, July 29, the Houston and Texas Central will run a popular price excursion from Fort Worth to Houston and Galveston. The rate to Houston will be $4.60 and to Galveston $4.85. The return limit is July 31.

COMPANY READY TO CHANGE SCHEDULE

Willing to Resume Old City Belt Schedule if Desired by the People

Secretary-Treasurer George H. Clifford of the Northern Texas Traction Company declared Thursday afternoon that the company does not look unfavorably on the re-establishment of the former city belt schedule, whereby cars are run both ways.

"We are working for the interest of the greatest number of people," said Mr. Clifford, "and if it is desired by the majority that cars run both ways on the city belt, we have no objections.

"The ten minute schedule which we are maintaining at present on the line must give way to the former fifteen minute schedule, while in addition to this there will be the delay necessitated now and then waiting at the switches. It costs us no more to run cars both ways and we adopted the present method thinking that it would benefit the greatest number of residents in the part of the city traversed by the line. Of course there are some living nearer the central part of the city, say for instance Henderson and Peter Smith streets, who are inconvenienced by being forced to take the trip around the line south, whereas the former system would take them directly to the city.

"It is a matter of indifference to us, however, and I am anxious to hear the city council's decision in the matter."

Alderman Parker, chairman of the judiciary committee, to which the matter of requiring the Traction company to run cars both ways on Hemphill street has been referred, says that as yet the committee has made no investigation of the matter.

"We shall confer with both the Traction company and the residents concerned before making a report to the council," said Mr. Parker. "At present I am not in a position to say which system will benefit the greater number of residents on the South side."

SPIES IN NAVY YARD

Guards Doubled to Prevent Theft of Plans

NEW YORK, July 21.—Despite secret instructions to marines, orderlies and various patrolmen of the Brooklyn navy yard, it cropped out today that the government reservation has been visited by spies.

Guards have been doubled and tripled on the several gates and entrance is granted to few. Special agents appointed from the yard headquarters whose identity is unknown even to the yardmen are adopting every means available to discover the individuals who, it is believed, are prying into the government secrets.

Never before in the history of the local navy yard, it is declared, has so great a sensation arisen in time of peace. Owing to the reticence of the naval officials, which in this case is exercised to a greater extent than usual, just what has been accomplished by the unknown enemies of the government is a mystery.

One rumor is to the effect that plans of special value have disappeared. Knowledge of this was denied today by a prominent official who was able to give no explanation of an enlightened nature as to what has happened in the yard.

STRIKERS ARRESTED

Fifty Held In New York on Rioting Charges

NEW YORK, July 21.—Fifty striking members of the United Garment Workers of America are being held in the Tombs prison on charges of rioting. The prisoners recently quit their jobs in a Lispenard street cloak factory. Yesterday they made a descent on another factory where they declared work was being done for their old employers. Cloaks for the latter were destroyed, it is charged, in great quantities.

Police reserves hurried to the scene and after a sharp encounter put the strikers to rout, capturing twenty-five. The prisoners declare they caused no damage, but merely visited the factory to induce the workmen there to strike in sympathy.

"THE FREE EXHIBITION"

"I bought a canvas-back duck of you, yesterday," said the customer, "and five minutes after I ate it I was all doubled up."

"H'm!" responded the game dealer. "Sort of a free contortionist exhibition on the outside of the canvas, eh?"—Detroit Tribune.

Wasted $600 With Doctors for Eczema THEN CURED BY D. D. D. Prescription

THIS IN THE GENTLEMAN'S OWN STATEMENT

51 Alice Place, Chicago, Nov. 3, 1904.
D. D. D. Company.

Gentlemen: In the course of six years, during which I suffered untold agony from Eczema on the hands and feet, I spent $600 to $600 with the best skin specialists in Chicago. I should gladly have spent many times that if I could have been cured, for the constant itching and burning drove me almost to distraction and made life not worth living. A brother conductor, Mr. Edward Cain of West Chicago, Ill., who had suffered from salt rheum and better for twenty years called my attention to D. D. D. I started to use it and received instant relief from the terrible itching. This made me happy, but I found that the Eczema eruption instead of disappearing seemed to spread. I was told that it was sometimes a symptom after D. D. D. was first applied, and so I continued to apply the remedy and got at least relief from the itch for the time being. Since then, I am glad to say, D. D. D. has worked wonders, for the Eczema gradually disappeared and I am now completely cured. SIMON CROWLEY.

Conductor Wisconsin Division, Northwestern Railway.

That D. D. D. has cured all these people whose letters we published there can be no doubt, and D. D. D. will just as surely cure you. No matter how severe or of how long standing your skin trouble may be. We absolutely guarantee this and will refund you every cent you pay for D. D. D. if you are not cured. Don't delay, for a minor skin trouble may quickly develop into fearful itching Eczema. Go today and get a $1.00 bottle of D. D. D. and your cure will be assured.

FIRM ADDS MEMBER

Charles D. Hill Joins Local Architectural Company

Charles D. Hill, who has been superintendent in Fort Worth for the firm of Sanguinet & Staats, architects, during the past two years or more, commencing Tuesday took charge of the Dallas office of the same firm, which brings with it a change of the firm name, which now reads Sanguinet, Staats & Hill. This affects only the Dallas office.

In Houston, on August 1, a change of firm name will occur, by the addition to the firm of C. V. Seuter, who will have charge of the Houston office.

Mr. Hill will move to Dallas. He has been in the employ of Sanguinet & Staats in Fort Worth during the past two and one-half years and his entry into the firm, with complete charge of the Dallas office, marks an appreciation of his labors here. Mr. Hill came here from St. Louis.

Mr. Seuter who connects himself with the firm will go to Houston from San Antonio, where he has a reputation as an able architect.

The growth of the business of this firm during the past few years has been really remarkable, a large number of the big buildings that have been built in Texas having been constructed by this firm as architects and superintendents. The recent acceptance of their plans at Sioux City for a ten story bank building, in competition with architects from many of the big metropolitan cities, sets high standard for their work.

ECZEMA

ITCHES AND BURNS

The return of warm weather means a return of torture to Eczema sufferers. The blood is charged with burning acids and acrid matter which is forced to the surface through the pores and glands, forming pustules which discharge a sticky fluid, and the itching is intense.

The doctors said I had pustular Eczema; it would break out in small white pustules, mostly on my face and hands, discharging a sticky fluid; crusts would form and drop off, leaving the skin red and inflamed. I was tormented with the itching and burning characteristic of the disease for five years, and during the time used various medicated soaps, ointments and washes, but these applications seemed to make me worse. After taking S. S. S. a short time I began to improve; the itching did not worry me so much. I continued the medicine, and soon all the ugly eruptions disappeared and my skin is now as clear as anybody's. I have not been troubled with any breaking out since.
Urbana, O. E. E. KELLY.

Sometimes the disease is in the dry form, and bran-like scales form on the skin, but the cause is the same—humors in the blood. Salves, cooling washes, powders and the like can do nothing more than relieve the itching, because they do not reach the acid-laden blood, the seat of the trouble. S. S. S. cures Eczema and all skin diseases by neutralizing the acids and carrying them off through the proper channels. When S. S. S. has done this the symptoms pass away, the blood is cooled and the disease is cured permanently. Nothing acts so promptly or surely in skin diseases as S. S. S., and it at the same time acts as a tonic to the entire system. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice without charge.

MEN BATTLE WITH GIANT PYTHONS

Two Big Snakes Break Loose in Bird Store and Fight Desperately

CHICAGO, July 21.—Amid a discordant chorus of screeching monkeys, shrieking parrots, frightened canaries, squeaking guinea pigs and chattering song birds, in the semi-darkness of a single light at midnight in the bird store of E. C Vehle, 45 State street, the proprietor and Cy De Vry, animal keepr at Lincoln Park, battled for three-quarters of an hour with two giant pythons, in momentary danger of being crushed to death by the ferocious reptiles. It was as weird a fight as ever took place in Chicago, and ended, fortunately, for the two men, who succeeded in getting the snakes back into their den and found themselves uninjured. Then it was discovered that the larger of the two pythons had swallowed two valuable ringtail monkeys and had killed seventeen Java sparrows.

The two reptiles, one nineteen feet long and the other sixteen feet in length, and each as large of girth as a stovepipe, were received from the Philadelphia house of the Vehle concern. They were part of a recent importation of reptiles from India.

PYTHONS AT LAARGE IN STORE

The snakes were confined in a strong box, five feet square and two feet high, covered with a wire netting. When the store was closed at night the lid was left open so that the reptiles could get air, the only bar to their getting out being the net, the frame of which could easily be displaced.

Mr. Vehle and his wife went to a theater, and after the performance went past the store to see whether everything was all right, for in the place there are nearly four thousand birds and other small animals. As Mr. Vehle and his wife neared the store they heard a terrific commotion, in which every one of the 4,000 little tenants of the cages seemed to be taking part.

Mr. Vehle glanced through the window and in the dim light could see two great, squirming forms thrashing and wriggling here and there across the floor. A veritable inferno it was, with thousands of voices sounding terror and panic. Mr. Vehle, realizing that the big snakes had escaped, quickly unlocked the door, telling his wife to wait outside. When he entered, the smaller of the pythons was just making for a cage of monkeys that had been knocked off a balcony, and he grasped the reptile.

TERRIFIC BATTLE WITH A REPTILE

With a quick movement the snake tried to form a coil around his legs, but he prevented it by jumping to one side, not loosing his hold on the snake's neck. Dragging and lifting, the python the while squirming and seeking to get its huge form around him, Vehle fought toward the box, the net cover of which lay on the floor.

Mrs. Vehle outside could see the battle, and in fear watched the struggle of her husband. He shouted to her to telephone to Cy de Vry, at Lincoln Park, to come down immediately, and she ran to a phone near by.

Meanwhile Mr. Vehle was struggling with the python, only a few feet away from its den. A great cage of Java birds that had been knocked off a high shelf by the snakes lay on the floor, and a cage of ringtail monkeys also lay near by, one side of it broken open and the two animals missing. The screeching and cries of the birsd and monkeys continued, and above the sound of the other voices could he heard the deeper and harsher cries of a pair of baboons.

While Vehle fought with the smaller snake, the other did not attack him, but continued swirling and squirming about the room, knocking cages down and seeking to break into them. It was a little after midnight when Vehle succeeded in getting the smaller snake into the den and clasping the cover down.

The big python, still at liberty, had by this time ceased its efforts to get at the birds and monkeys, and lay quietly on the floor. Presently Cy de Vry arrived, and the two attempted to lift the big reptile into the den. Then the real battle commenced.

CLUBBED SNAKE WITH BLACKJACK

The big python weighs 170 pounds. To lift the dead weight, even if he complacently lay still, would be no easy task, but the instant De Vry grasped him, like a flash the snake wound his form into two coils around Vehle's body, and De Vry, seeing the danger, grabbed the snake's head in both hands and ran around Vehle twice, unwinding the coil before the snake could get sufficient purchase to crush him.

De Vry and Vehle, each seeking to get hold of the cold, slimy form, fought desperately for nearly three-quarters of an hour, the monkeys, the parrots, canaries, love birds, rabbits and other animals not once stopping their commotion and cries.

The confusion only added to the difficulty. Nearly exhausted, the two men were about to give up the struggle and summon more help, when Vehle told De Vry he could club the snake into submission. De Vry then struck the big fellow half a dozen times on the head with a black jack, and the battle was won. The two lifted the big form into the den.

It was then found that the larger python had swallowed the two ringtails that had occupied the cage that lay on the floor. A bulge in his body two feet back from the head told the story of the monkeys' fate. They had been destroyed before Mr. Vehle reached the store. The seventeen Java sparrows killed were destroyed when the big python knocked their cage to the floor.

EVIDENCE SEEKERS LOST IN MOUNTAINS

Fail to Find Murder Clew They Sought and Lost Their Trail Besides

NEW YORK, July 21.—Lost in the mountains near Midvale, N. J., while they were gathering evidence in a mysterious country murder case, Ralph Shaw, assistant prosecutor; Nathaniel Shane, county prosecutor's detective, and Coroner Edward L. Wheeler, were rescued late last night by a posse of farmers who scoured the mountains with torches.

For several hours the trio wandered aimlessly about the mountains and were preparing to sleep on the ground when they were found. No evidence was obtained in the case on which the officials were at work.

BOX IN THE OUTFIELDERS AND YOU ADD TO UMPIRE'S TROUBLES

There are few men identified with the national game who enjoy greater reputations than Willie Keeler. He is one of the greatest outfielders in the game, and his work in the right garden has been marked with sensationalism. At the bat he is always found among the first three or four sluggers throughout the season. His opinion on the suggestion to "box in" the outfielders, which was made by a Pacific coast magnate recently, is valuable as coming from the angle of vision of a great fielder and batter.

CERTAIN base ball manager on the Pacific coast some time ago advocated a new wrinkle to limit the fielder in his capturing of fly balls. From what I have heard, this manager proposes to place the fielder in a circumscribed position, boxing him in with lines such as are used to define the coachers' boxes, from which position he may not move until the ball is hit by the batter.

In my position as an outfielder and a batter of some recognized skill, an opinion on this question concerns me in two ways.

As a batter I would naturally like to handicap the opposing fielder.

As a fielder I would naturally want all the advantages possible for the man on the grass.

But I do not agree with the man who advocates the limitation of the fielder's activity. Head work is as much a part of a good outfielder's endeavor as it is in those who play other positions on a team.

The men behind the base lines play for each particular batter. We know them and occupy certain positions, prior to their possible hitting of the ball, with relation to where they may place it.

If compelled to overlook this and play for each batter alike, it would destroy one of the best features of base ball—the difficult running catch.

Take, for instance, Lajoie at the bat. He is a hard driver and long-distance hitter. If I, as a fielder, were compelled to play close in, it would be impossible to run back far enough to get the ball when he hit it.

It would be a very interesting question to find where our friend from the coast would place these boxes in the outfield. If he put them far out, we wouldn't get the short hits that drop behind the base line and too far out for the basemen to field. If they were placed too far in, we couldn't run back to get long hard hit drives.

Another thing that would militate against such a proposition as this would be the difficulty in obeying it. The whitewash lines would be quickly rubbed out and the umpire would have difficulty in watching the fielder and compelling him to remain within the circumscribed limits.

I am certainly not in favor of anything that would add to the umpire's troubles. He has enough as it is. Every player's hand is naturally against this unfortunate individual, and if this scheme of boxes was adopted it would result in all kinds of conflict between that official and the fielders or the batters.

Having to watch men on bases when the ball is struck and then note that the fielder does not leave his fenced-in position until the ball is hit would certainly prove a Chinese puzzle to the arbiters.

One of the beauties of base ball is the long throw to the plate. The fielder never, if he can possibly avoid it, relays the ball on a close play when a runner is about to score.

If the fielder were handicapped to the extent suggested, he would not get as many long hits as he now does and that would eliminate from the game considerable of this throwing.

From my point of view I think, when you take into consideration the ground covered by three men for all the directions in which a long hit ball will take, the outfielder, as at present working, has no pink tea of it.

There are some fans who think the outfielder's position is a lesser one on the diamond. It is nothing of the kind. Herman Long, the old Dutchman whom everybody knows, once said when he was playing short, that the outfielders were only spectators anyway. But then good old Herman, in his way, was a humorist and really didn't mean it.

FORMER SOCIETY LEADER BECOMES CHORUS GIRL

ELEANOR DOLE, KEEPING SECRET OF SEPARATION FROM FORMER ATTORNEY GENERAL OF HAWAII, IS CONTENT TO JOIN BURLESQUE COMPANY

ELEANOR DOLE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 21.—Eleanor Dole, the divorced wife of former Attorney General E. P. Dole of Hawaii, has climbed down from the dizziest heights of Honolulu's social life and settled herself comfortably in the chorus of a burlesque company.

In 1900 Judge Dole met his wife, since divorced. She was then a dashing beauty in San Francisco society, and many years the junior of the judge. But her face and vivacious manners won his heart and he refused to accept "No" as an answer to his suit. He followed her from place to place and after a very patient courtship induced the young woman to become his bride. But his happiness did not last long. Mrs. Dole suddenly discovered that she could not be happy with her husband and left him a few days after their wedding. On account of the social standing of both parties the matter was kept quiet for some time. It was only when one of the Honolulu steamers arrived in San Francisco one day carrying among her passengers Mrs. Dole that the public became aware of the unhappy ending of what had been thought to be a brilliant match.

Mrs. Dole absolutely refused to give any reason for her conduct and much mystery has always been attached to the affair. She finally allowed her husband to get a divorce, and is now perfectly content to sing and dance her way through life.

A GRIM TRAGEDY

is daily enacted, in thousands of homes, as Death claims, in each one, another victim of Consumption or Pneumonia. But when Coughs and Colds are properly treated, the tragedy is averted. F. G. Huntley of Oaklandon, Ind., writes: "My wife had the consumption, and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which cured her, and today she is well and strong." It kills the germs of all diseases. One dose relieves. AMUSEMENTS

ROSEN HEIGHTS PIKE

The Albert Taylor Stock Company delighted another record-breaking audience at Rosen Heights Pike pavilion Thursday night, in "Lend Me Your Wife." The piece was rendered in the usual satisfactory manner by the company, which elicited applause from the rise of the curtain to its fall on the last act.

The specialties included an act by the Kelcey sisters and moving pictures.

The bill for tonight will be "The Christian."

Magazines

The cover of the August Popular Magazine shows a typical American summer girl enjoying a dip in the surf, and on it is the inscription, "On the top wave of popularity." This is certainly no exaggeration so far as the magazine is concerned, as a large and constantly increasing circle of readers can testify. The complete novel this month is a tale of ranch life in the far west. "The Lure of the Dim Trails," by B. M. Bower. There is a new serial begun, entitled, "The Two-Handed Claymore," by Charles Carey, author of "The Van Suyden Sapphires," and judging by the opening chapters, the story will prove of unusual interest. Four other serial and eight or ten carefully selected short stories complete the number. The cover is entirely worthy of the excellent interior.

Ainslee's for August has for its novelette and leading feature a story with a distinctly French atmosphere. It is "The Adventures of Joujou," and is by Edith Macvane. The tale deals with the apparently irrepressible conflict between the old regime and the new, the irreconcilable hostility between the French aristocrat and the French peasant. That the author is able, in her story, to bring about an understanding between these elements is due to no small degree to the aid of the typical American girl.

There is a growing interest among thinkers and progressive people in such subjects as drugless healing, nature cure, psychic research, practical everyday psychology, auto-suggestion, will-power, memory culture, brain building and allied subjects. Those topics are discussed in the August issue of Suggestion, a journal of the New Psychology for health, happiness and success. The principle articles discuss stability, poise and determination in character building, hygiene, the cause and cure of old age, etc. Suggestion Publishing Company, 4020 Drexel Building, Chicago, Ill.

GORKY'S STRONGEST RIVAL

From "Tales."

The most striking literary expression of the prevalent feeling in Russia toward the present war has been Leonid Andreyev's work, entitled "The Red Laughter." This powerful presentation—it is rather a tract than a story—of the horrors of war has spread throughout Europe the fame of a man who is already known in his own country as a genius scarcely inferior to Chekhov and Gorky. Andreyev is a typical product of the unsettled social conditions of the Czar's country. Born in 1871 in Oryol, he studied law at the universities of St. Petersburg and Moscow, and was graduated in 1897. Three years before his graduation he attempted suicide. During his student days his efforts at story-writing were unsuccessful, and his literary career did not begin until 1898, after he had made failure as a lawyer. His first story appeared in Novikov's Courier. When his first volume of short stories was published, Countess Tolstoy attacked the author in a letter to the Novose Vremya. She cautioned the reading public again Andreyev's works, denouncing them as "poisonous and dangerous to society." Her words attracted immediate attention to the book, and edition after edition was exhausted with unprecedented rapidity. Since that time Andreyev has written a number of stories which, by the boldness and novelty of the themes and their artistic treatment, have placed him in the front rank of Russian short story writers. In popularity he is Gorky's only rival in Russia.

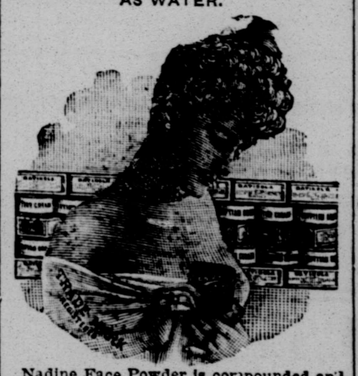

ENVOYS TO STAY AT SWELL HOTELS

Japanese Peace Commissioners to Occupy Twenty Room Suite in Fifth Avenue Hostelry

NEW YORK, July 21.—Arrangements for the accommodation of the Russian and Japanese peace envoys during their stay in New York city, have been completed. Twenty of the choicest rooms in one Fifth avenue hotel have been engaged for Baron Komura and his suite. The Russian envoys will be cared for at another hostelry nearby on the avenue.

No definite plans for any form of entertainment in honor of the Japanese envoy who has just started east from Seattle will be made until the party arrives and Baron Komura is consulted. With the exception of some small entertainments being planned by a few of Baron Komura's intimate friends, among them Baron Kaneko, who was a classmate of his at Harvard, it is not thought likely that the party will accept any social invitations until after the conclusion of the peace conference at Portsmouth.

TWO OPEN LETTERS

IMPORTANT TO MARRIED WOMEN

Mrs. Mary Dimmick of Washington tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well.

It is with great pleasure we publish the following letters, as they convincingly prove the claim we have so many times made in our columns that Mrs.

Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., is fully qualified to give helpful advice to sick women. Read Mrs. Dimmick's letters.

Her first letter:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I have been a sufferer for the past eight years with a trouble which first originated from painful menstruation—the pains were excruciating, with inflammation and ulceration of the womb. The doctor says I must have an operation or I cannot live. I do not want to submit to an operation if I can possibly avoid it. Please help me."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, Washington, D. C.

Her second letter;

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"You will remember my condition when I last wrote you, and that the doctor said I must have an operation or I could not live. I received your kind letter and followed your advice very carefully and am now entirely well. As my case was so serious it seems a miracle that I am cured. I know that I owe not only my health but my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to your advice. I can walk miles without an ache or a pain, and I wish every suffering woman would read this letter and realize what you can do for them."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 50th and East Capitol Streets, Washington, D. C.

How easy it was for Mrs. Dimmick to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and how little it cost her—a two-cent stamp. Yet how valuable was the reply! As Mrs. Dimmick says—it saved her life.

Mrs. Pinkham has on file thousands of just such letters as the above, and offers ailing women helpful advice.

DAILY FASHION HINT

2756—Russian Blouse Suit for a Little Boy

Knowing the propensity of the average boy for soiling his clothes, every mother should provide her young hopeful with as many wash suits as are necessary to keep him within the bounds of tidiness. The illustration shows a suit of brown Holland opening shirt-fashion in front with a lap and three buttons. A white linen "Buster Brown" collar and a red tie, with a red enameled leather belt held in place by straps of the material sewed to the side seams, give the necessary color touch to the neutral tint of the Holland. The full sleeves are held in place at the wrist by backward turning tucks. The bloomers extend a short distance below the skirt of the blouse. This suit would be very serviceable made of dark blue or brown cheviot. For a medium size it will require 2¼ yards of 36-inch material.

SECRETARY WILSON

A FARM GRADUATE

Head of Department, Now Under Lime Light Comes From Iowa

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The dean of the administration and the sole survivor of the original McKinley cabinet, is Jas. Wilson, secretary of agriculture. He took up his present duties March 5, 1897, and has been invited by President Roosevelt to serve a third term. Twelve years in the cabinet is a record rarely made in American politics.

In his line Secretary Wilson has made quite as creditable a record as has Secretary Hay in the department of state.

JAMES WILSON.

To be "head farmer" for a nation as large and rural as the United States is no small undertaking. Some idea of the vastness of the farm interests in the United States may be gathered from the fact that every year this nation exports $337,000,000 more of agricultural products than the total amount imported.

James Wilson is the fourth secretary of agriculture. Before it was raised to the dignity of a cabinet portfolio the department was a division of the interior department.

By far the largest share of the work has been carried on under the general supervision of Secretary Wilson, sometimes affectionately termed "Uncle Jim," a canny Scot, now 70 years of age, hale, brusque, kindly and broad minded.

Used to Be a Farmer

Secretary Wilson has combined in a peculiarly fortunate way the practical with the theoretical. He had enjoyed the privilege of preliminary training along both lines. Out in Iowa he was a practical farmer for many years before he came to Washington, and has trod the furrow in high-top boots, wearing the humble blue jean. Then he got a smattering of politics. He was a member of the Iowa state legislature for a couple of terms and for a while was its speaker. He came to congress and helped frame appropriations for the humble bureau, or division of agriculture. Then he returned to Iowa and became head of an agricultural experiment station run by the state. Later he was professor of agriculture in the state Agricultural college at Ames. He had six years of this theoretical and experimental experience.

The secretary has shown himself to be a good organizer, and an excellent judge of men. He does not pretend to follow all the scientific lines of experimentation in detail, but he is willing to "be shown" and is intelligent enough to "see." Scientists agree in testifying to his disposition to give them all necessary scope along lines which are practical and which hold out any fair promise of results.

SICKENING SHIVERING FITS

of Ague and Malaria, can be relieved and cured with Electric Bitters. This is a pure, tonic medicine; of especial benefit in malaria, for it exerts a true curative influence on the disease, driving it entirely out of the system. It is much to be preferred to Quinine, having none of this drug's bad after-effects. E. S. Munday of Henrietta, Texas, writes: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice, till he took Electric Bitters, which saved his life. At W. J. Fisher's, Reeves' Pharmacy and M. S. LOST CLICK FATAL

Fatal Wreck Caused by Misunderstood Order

EVANSVILLE, Ind., July 21.—The freight train collision on the Louisville and Nashville railway, at Upton, is said to have been caused by the failure of the operator at Mount Vernon to catch a single click in the transmission of the chief train dispatcher's order. The telegraphic characters for "5" are three dashes. The operator interpreted the signal as two dashes and two dots, the figure "7," and standing for the siding, No. 7, west of Upton, and the train went by before he realized the mistake. The order really called for the westbound train to take No. 5 siding, at Mount Vernon. John Reid, fireman, still clings to life, although he was terribly injured. The list of dead remains at four, but it may be increased in his case at any time.

CHEAP RATES FOR TEXAS ENCAMPMENT

Believed That All Railroads Will Make Rate of One Cent a Mile

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 21.—There are some unimportant details to arrange before contracts are entered into, but General Hulen was advised yesterday that nearly all the railroads in the state had about decided to give a rate of 1 cent a mile for the transportation of troops for the coming encampment, and one-third of the regular freight rate for the transportation of their equipments.

This is thought to be an act of great liberality on part of the roads.

WEALTHY WOMAN WEDS COACHMAN

News of Mrs. Granville Garth's Marriage in Ireland Causes a Stir In New York Society

NEW YORK, July 21—The news of the marriage abroad of Mrs. Granville W. Garth to Hubert Hartigan, her former coachman, has created a stir among her society friends in New York and Dobbs' Ferry. The marriage is reported to have taken place in Ireland.

Hartigan's name has been linked to Mrs. Garth's in romantic whispers ever since the death of Mr. Garth, manager and president of the Mechanic's bank.

Mrs. Garth was a daughter of James Jennings McComb of Dodd's Ferry, who left her an independent fortune of $4,000,000.

NO SKILL REQUIRED

Device by Which Any One Can Send an Electric Message

A St. Louis man has invented a telegraphic novelty for the teaching of telegraphy and the transmission of messages, says the St. Louis Star. The entire invention hinges upon an ingeniously devised metallic plate, so grooved that when an electrically charged stylus is drawn across its face it repeats every letter of the Morse alphabet with mechanical accuracy.

This little plate is imbedded in a composition base, which is attached to one side of a folding box. The box contains the battery. It also contains a key and sounder, with which the student repeats the telegraphic letters as they are made by the transmitter.

The inventor is Martin Armstrong, an old telegraph operator, who lives at 524 South Erwin avenue. The student simply takes the stylus in his hand and places its point in the groove and draws it down at uniform speed. As it passes over the electrical connection it causes the sounder to make dots and dashes representing the various letters of the alphabet. The transmitter can also be attached to a typewriter, so that anyone who can operate a typewriter can send a message, and at the same time keep a printed copy of it. No technical knowledge of telegraphy would be necessary to send a message on this telegraphic typewriter. The keys of the typewriter are so constructed that they operate another key, which causes a small metallic point to pass over the surface of the transmitter, thus making distinctly and with mechanical accuracy every sound of the letter corresponding with the key touched by the operator. As the key falls back into place the connection is broken. An expert telegrapher can send a message very rapidly on this machine.

Armstrong has been a telegraph operator for many years. He claims that telegraphy can be learned by using this machine, and that it takes the place of a teacher. It is a simple device, which can be placed upon a small table for use.

Aged Indian Murdered

EVERETT, Wash., July 21.—The body of Doctor Jim, an Indian aged 106 years, has been found under the bridge on the Darrington branch of the Northern Pacific, three miles from Arlington, Wash., today, with a bullet hole in the back of the head. The trail indicated that he had been dragged fifty feet from the point on the bank of the Stillaguamish, where it is believed he had been sitting when he was shot from behind.

W. C. T. U. Meeting

A meeting of the Rosen Heights W. C. T. U. was held at the Methodist Episcopal church Wednesday afternoon. Several interesting papers on temperance subjects were read. A mother's meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the church next Tuesday afternoon.

WHY THEY ARE HAPPY

TWO NOTABLE RECOVERIES FROM EXTREME DEBILITY.

Husband's Strength Had Been Waning for Three Years, Wife a Sufferer from Female Weakness.

"My strength had dwindled so that I couldn't apply myself to my business with any snap but was tired and listless all the time," said Mr. Goldstein.

"I went to bed completely used up by my day's work, and when I got up in the morning I didn't feel rested a bit. I had awful headaches too, and my kidneys got out of order and caused me to have severe pains in the back. At one time I became so feeble that I could not stir from bed for three weeks."

Mr. Goldstein is a young man and had then but recently established a home of his own. His anxieties were increased by the fact that his wife was far from being robust. Mrs. Goldstein says:

"For two years I had been ill most of the time. Sometimes I was confined to bed for weeks in succession under a physician's care. I had headaches, kidney trouble, pain about the heart and many more uncomfortable symptoms connected with that weakness to which my sex is peculiarly subject."

Trouble had invaded this household and settled in it in just the years that ought to be the very happiest. Physicians could not tell them how to get rid of it.

"I was utterly discouraged," said Mr. Goldstein. "Then the urgency of some friends led me to try a blood and nerve remedy which was said to be wonderfully successful. Within a month there were unmistakable signs of improvement in my condition, and within a year I was completely well. Through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I have now as good health as I ever had in my life."

Mrs. Goldstein adds: "The wonderful effect that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had in the case of my husband led me to try them and they helped me even more quickly than they did him. One box made me decidedly better and a few months' treatment cured me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best tonic and regulator, they make pure, rich blood and when there is general weakness and disorder that is what the system needs. Mr. and Mrs. H. Goldstein live at 38 Gove street, East Boston, Mass. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by druggists everywhere.

The "Anna Held" is a "cultured" cigar.

Real "cigar culture" begins at the beginning on the plantation—not in the factory.

It commences with the planting of the seed—and continues through the cultivation and harvesting, the sorting, the curing, the grading, the fermenting and the blending of the tobacco leaf.

ANNA HELD

is produced under the American Cigar Company's exclusive system, which combines all these departments of cigar-development under one management, insuring the correct treatment of the tobacco from plant to purchaser. This is real cigar culture,—possible only under such a system.

You benefit—as you'll realize, when you smoke the "Anna Held."

Sold by all dealers in good cigars.

"IT TAKES THE CAKE"

Is the usual favorable comment on the superb laundry work turned out at the Fort Worth Steam Laundry. The best of linen and other materials are easily ruined by careless and indifferent laundering. We cannot and do not hope to retain your patronage by slipshod work, and the best is none too good here.

KING LARRY AND THE FOOT THAT WORRIES ALL CLEVELAND

(Photographed for the Telegram by L. Van Oeyen, Newspaper Enterprise Association Staff Photographer.)

LARRY ON HIS FRONT PORCH.

Nap Lajoie, king of bingle-makers andsecond basemen, captain and manager ofthe Cleveland American League team, has been out of the game for the past tendays, suffering from an attack of bloodpoisoning, resulting from being spiked. During Larry's absence, Cleveland's playing has lost some of its dash and considerable of it's brilliancy. The games have been like Hamlet with the Dane in thefall timbers, dodging a sheriff's posse. For a time it was thought the accident might affect Lajoie permanently, but thebest of care and a magnificent constitution have overcome this fear. This photograph of the king bee was made at hisresidence, upon his first appearance outof doors since the accident.

TEMPLE WINNER AFTER 10 INNINGS

Better Stick Work Than Panthers Gives Victory—Wicker Found for 12 Hits

Officially Temple won a ten-inning game from Fort Worth Thursday afternoon at Haines park by the score of 3 to 2. Actually Temple won a regular inning game from the Panthers by a score of 4 to 3. Umpire Eldridge was responsible for the difference between realities and official scores. In the fourth inning with Clayton and Powell on bags, Deskins drove a hot one over third which took a twist and rolled gaily under the scoreboard, while the men romped home. The lone Temple rooter went wild but Eldridge called a foul. In the eighth Fort Worth was deprived of a run, Moran being called out for not touching third as he came home on Boles' double. Either way, however, Temple won by superior stick work and the only wonder to Fort Worth fans is that Waco is ahead of them in the race.

A hit to center in the second by Hubbard coupled with good base running and a hit by Wicker was responsible for Fort Worth's first run. The second was acquired in the fourth on a single to center by Boles and a double to left by Hubbard, who is getting his eye on the ball for fair.

Temple's runs were made in the second and sixth, a scorching three-bagger by Poindexter being the moving cause in the latter inning. Things then worried along until the Boll Weevils' end of the tenth.

Shelton opened with a double to center and waltzed around to third while Clayton and Aiken were proving easy outs. Powell then sent one to first and the fans settled for another inning. Wicker, who received the bag, however, dropped Will's toss and Shelton slid over the plate before the ball could be gotten back and the deed was done.

More Boll Weevils today.

NOTES OF THE GAME

Moran gets out of order as often as an automobile with an amateur driver.

Wilson got back in the game with a two-bagger.

Hubbard is hitting some.

Coyle was caught between third and home badly by Mauch.

Burleson will be missed at third.

Peanuts.

WACO DEFEATS DALLAS

DALLAS, Texas, July 21.—Waco won from the Giants yesterday by a score of 2 to 1. After playing a tie game until the eighth, Blumling hit Bigbie with the ball, thus passing him to first. He scored the deciding run when Williams drove a pretty one down the third base line. Hitting was almost even up.

RED HOT LINER PLEASES FANS

Baseball Phraseology Has Apt Name for Result Bringer, as Has Telegram Classified Advertising

The word Liner in baseball phraseology means a clean, hot drive—one that gets there in a hurry.

Have you ever noticed the similarity between that definition and The Telegram Liner? Telegram Liners are clean, well-worded phrases that get there quick and accomplish results.

Have you ever dropped a stone in a quiet pool of water then watched the rings as they spread, the circles gettting larger and larger, until they reach the shore? Have you ever put a Liner in The Telegram and then watched results? The Telegram goes to thousands of readers who see your wants or what you have to sell. Satisfaction will come to you as sure as the rings in the pool ultimately reach the shore.

An old story tells of a king who placed a stone in the center of the highway and under it a bag of gold. Peasants and noblemen alike passed, cracked their shins on the stone, grumbled to themselves, but never thought to move it away.

At last came along a whistling, enterprising youth. He, too, cracked his shins, but instead of passing on he stooped and pushed the stone to the side of the road. In doing so he found the gold.

There are some in modern times who neglect to find the gold under the stone in the road. They will make a new path around an obstruction rather than take the trouble to move it.

Every business life has its obstruction as every trouble has an antidote. Telegram Liners are an antidote for most troubles of business.

Are you going to be the enterprising youth who stooped and found the gold, or will you crack your shins, grumble and pass on?

YESTERDAY'S RACE RESULTS

AT BRIGHTON BEACH

NEW YORK, July 21.—Sysonby, James R. Keenes' colt, easily won the $7,500 Iroquois stakes for 3-year-olds at Brighton Beach Thursday. Victory for the Keene horse was almost a walkover. Migrane and Pasadena, who were his opponents, never threatened the colt at any part of the journey. Sysonby was held at 1 to 30 and galloped the distance, with 126 pounds up, in 2:06 2-5.

Sue Smith, the winner of the first race, was bid up to $4,500, an advance of $2,700 over her entered price. The stable kept the filly. In the third Whimsical made a new track record of 1:06 1-5 for five and a half furlongs.

First race, 6 furlongs—Sue Smith 1, Sly Ben 2, Edith James 3. Time—1:13 4-5.

Second race, mile and 1-16th—Chimney Sweep 1, The Mighty 2, Canteen 3. Time—1:46 1-5.

Third race, 5½ furlongs—Whimsical 1, Last Cherry 2, Early and Often 3. Time—1:06 1-5.

Fourth race, Iroquois stakes, mile and ¼th—Sysonby 1, Migrane 2, Pasadena 3. Time—2:06 2-5.

Fifth race, mile and 1-16th—Alan-a-Dale 1, Devout 2, Sinister 3. Time—1:46.

Sixth race, 6 furlongs—All Right 1, King Cole 2, Banker 3. Time—1:14.

SAUGUS, MASSACHUSETTS

SAUGUS, Mass., July 21.—The Friend, owned by S. S. Blackburn of Philadelphia and driven by Herman Tilson, was the greatest surprise at the local track Thursday.

First race, 2:13 pace, $1,000—The Friend won in three straight heats, Jubilee second, Octave B. third. Best time—2:09 3-4.

Second race, 2:25 trot, purse $500, first division—Burgess, ch. g., won the third, fourth and fifth heats and race, Susie A. second, Bell Rock third. Best time—2:15¼.

Third race, 2:25 trot, purse $500, second division, unfinished—Merrill Hawker won third and fourth heats, Chestnut X. won fifth and sixth, Adee won the second heat, but was distanced in the fourth. Club won the first heat, was distanced in the fourth. Best time—2:18 3-4.

Fourth race, 2:17 pace, purse $500, unfinished—Ben Como won second heat, Isabel won first, Mixed Wood won the third. Best time—2:12 3-4.

ELECTRIC STORM AT MADILL

MADILL, I. T., July 21.—Tuesday afternoon the most severe electric storm in the history of Madill visited the town. It lasted about a half hour, and the oldest people of the town say they never saw anything equal to it. The telephones in one portion of town were burned out and other damage is thought to have been sustained in the country near, but as yet nothing has been reported.

In Germany Protestants form 62.5 per cent of the population. Roman Catholics, with adherents of the Greek church, 36.1 per cent.

FASTEST BOAT IN THE WORLD OPEN TO MEET ALL COMERS

(Photographed by L. Van Oeyen, Newspaper Enterprise Association Staff Photographer.)

THE WINTON AUTOMOBILE LAUNCH.

Alexander Winton, manufacturer of Winton Bullets 1 and 2, in which Barney Oldfield and Earl Kiser have at different times shown wonderful speed upon the race tracks, has produced a twelve-cylinder engine which he has installed in a forty-five foot hull, the combination resulting in what Winton believes is the fastest craft whose keel has ever taken to its element. The Winton boat is designed for salt water and is open to meet any autoboat in the world. In speed trials off Cleveland the boat has shown approximately thirty-five miles an hour. It is estimated that in salt water, where the hull will not have so much displacement and the propellers will get a firmer grip on the dense salt water, a higher speed than that already shown will be attained. The best official record for an autoboat is 29.93 miles per hour, made by Napier II.

THE WEATHER

Generally cloudy weather with temperature and humidity high is the prevailing weather condition throughout the cotton belt.

Last Saturday's record of temperature in the city, when 97 degrees was recorded, has not been equaled or exceeded.

WEATHER FORECAST

The weather forecast until 7 p. m. Wednesday for Texas east of the one-hundredth meridian, issued at New Orleans, is as follows:

East Texas (north)—Tonight and Saturday, partly cloudy weather.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

D. S. Landis issued the following statement of weather conditions this morning:

The country east of the Rockies is partly cloudy, in general, with here and there a small cloudy area.

Local thunder storms, with slight precipitation, occurred in various sections, such conditions being reported at Wilmington, Memphis, Denver, North Platte, Qu'Appelle and Amarillo.

Rain is falling this morning at Cairo. St. Louis reports .84 of inch, as the maximum rainfall.

The temperatures are generally high. Texas reports showers in the northeast portion of the state. An excessive rain occurred at Paris, 5.60 inches being recorded.

QUITE NAKED

Miss Prim—Really, she's a regular hoiden. She saw a horse grazing in a field the other day and she jumped on its back and made it run all around with her.

Miss Ascum—And didn't the horse have any bridle or saddle on?

Miss Prim—No; it was—ere—perfectly nude.—Philadelphia Press.

Auditorium Notes

The friends of Miss Maggie Barton place 800 votes to her credit, making her a total vote of 1,500 in today's issue.

Miss Margaret Ochs is still in the lead with 4,000 votes to her credit. Miss Frances Pruitt is a close second.

Think of the value of these four prizes, get your friends interested in your behalf, show them that you are determined to win and the battle is won.

The first relay in this great contest will close July 31. That is the last day in which ten votes will be counted for each 10-cent coupon sold. The young ladies who are anxious to win should take advantage of this and get in their heaviest vote now. Do not wait until it is too late. Others will secure such a start that it will discourage you. Now is the time for a long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether.

The public should not overlook the fact that nominations have not been closed and other nominations can be made at any time, so send in the name of your favorite and if possible place enough votes to her credit to make her a good showing in the list.

The Auditorium committee has had some very unique badges made in the way of gold and white colors, with the name "Auditorium" stamped on the ribbons. The committee has adopted this as its colors. They were placed on sale this morning at 25 cents each. Captain Paddock succeeded in buying the first ribbon.

Technical Club Meets

Committees Named to Carry Out Plans of Organization

Committees on entertainment and work were appointed at a meeting of the Southwestern Technical Society held Thursday night in the council chamber at the city hall. The committee on entertainment will arrange for an entertainment to be given by the society, the exact date not being decided. The committee on work will arrange a schedule of questions to be discussed and work to be taken up at meetings of the society.

First series of designs for an emblem for the society were submitted and those of S. Wagner, H. F. Koeppe and F. E. Henkel selected. Many designs will be submitted three selected at each meeting and finally the most appropriate one chosen.

NEW VERSION

Just take care of the nickels
That you work so hard to collar,
And you bet your life
Your lawful wife
Will take care of the dollars!
—Detroit Tribune.

An Irish judge stated that if any women were brought before him on a charge of slapping or scratching a man's face because he had attempted to kiss her he would at once dismiss the charge. He, however, only awarded one shilling of damages against a man who had kissed a widow without getting scratched.

MINERAL WELLS IS RAISING BONUS

Committee of Business Men Canvassing the City for Interurban Line Subscriptions

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, July 21.—A special committee of Mineral Wells business men have done some special work on the required $20,000 bonus for the interurban road and better prospects now exist for success. Tomorrow a good large delegation of Mineral Wells leading business men are to attend the meeting at Fort Worth and all Mineral Wells is playing some definite action is to be taken by the promoters of the road.

Messrs. Hurlbert, Calvert and Lindley three young business men of Brownwood, have leased the Hawthorne well for the remaining weeks of the season and will improve the premises materially.

The Johnson building, a three-story brick, is making fast headway and adds much to the prominent corner on which it is located. The Evans photo gallery is to be moved as a result of this $10,000 structure, and will be placed on wheels today.

James Smith won the silk shirt given by Coleman & Co. in the past week's prize shooting contest. Charles Turner, the druggist, gives a gold medal in the Clifford gallery for the best score by Aug. 1.

CHINESE PROTEST HAS BEEN RECEIVED

Identical Note Addressed to Neutral Nations Reaches Washington

OYSTER BAY, July 21.—An identical note from the Chinese foreign office to the powers neutral in the pending far eastern conflict has been received by President Roosevelt. This note will be taken up and considered by the President and Secretary Root at their meeting today.

What attitude the United States government will assume towards China's protest cannot now be predicted. That the President and Secretary Root is considering that question is now beyond doubt.

It was intimated today that the matter is of such delicacy nature that a public discussion of it in an off-hand way, just now, is undesirable.

Secretary Root, after taking up in a formal way, the threads of the state department work in Washington, came here today to consider with the President some questions now pending. He will pass the day and the night at Sagamore Hill, and perhaps a part of tomorrow. He arrived here in time to take luncheon with the President.

Dr. Lyman Abbott of New York came on the same train. He also was a guest of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt at luncheon.

UNION ENDORSEMENT

Representatives of Unions Say it Has Not Been Given

"We wish to say that organized labor of this city has not indorsed any kind of trading stamp, nor co-operative concern of any kind, nor any proposition of similar sort," said R. A. Massey, president of the Fort Worth Trades Assembly, and C. W. Woodman, general organizer for the American Federation of Labor, today.

"We understand," they continued, "that representations have been made to Fort Worth merchants that organized labor of this city is back of a proposition of this character and desire to say that such a statement is without foundation."

An American professor has lately caused some excitement by proclaiming his opinion that the Garden of Eden was situated somewhere near the North Pole.

THE LIVESTOCK MARKET

Cattle receipts today were 1,000; receipts for the week, 14,000.

The market was inclined to steadyness on the basis of yesterday's sales, with the exception of calves, which were higher.

STEERS

Steer cattle again were relatively scarce, the bulk by rail being common to medium. The equal of a few loads of fat stuff came in on foot, and this made up all of the fat steers sold. Packers had disposed of about all orders thus far in the week, and little difficulty was experienced in making an early clearance at prices about steady with yesterday, fat steers selling at $3.40@3.90, with the bulk at $3.15@3.60, and the bulk of grassers at $2.50. Sales made today:

No.	Ave.	Price.	No.	Ave.	Price.
46.....	1,094	$3.15	25.....	1,214	$3.60
56.....	1,187	3.60	47.....	1,192	3.90
8.....	755	2.50	9.....	875	2.50

COWS

Cows made up the heavy end of the cattle run and the quality was about the same as shown on Thursday. Good medium cows being the most in evidence. The trade was brisk, local houses appearing to want killing cows and took the supply readily. Tops sold for $2.25, with the bulk at $1.80@2. Sales today:

No.	Ave.	Price.	No.	Ave.	Price.

BULLS

Bulls are still in light supply and selling a trifle stronger for the week. Bulk of sales today at $1.65@1.90.

No.	Ave.	Price.	No.	Ave.	Price.

CALVES

Calves were far short of the big runs which came in the early part of the week, but the supply was about equal to the demand. The quality improved somewhat today and prices rose to meet it some 40c. An early clearance was reached on the strength of the short supply. Top sales brought $4.40, with the bulk at $3.75@4. Sales today:

No.	Ave.	Price.	No.	Ave.	Price.

7.....	268	2.75	14.....	158	3.75

HOGS

Receipts of hogs were 323, and half of these were bought by the Houston Packing Company. The quality was not very good, though weights were mostly all right. The run came entirely from Texas points and prices were therefore 10c lower, though the market was active. Tops sold for $5.77½, with the bulk at $5.70@5.75. Pigs again higher at $4.72½@5.00. TRADE NOTES

Active cattle market today on light receips. Prices steady.

Hogs do not thrive any better than hens when crowded.

A driving or saddle horse should not be fat, let alone being overfat.

To get the best results from an early maturing breed, the pigs must be fed something in the manner used to establish early maturity in the breed.

The man who has first-class horses upon his farm has something that he can turn into cash at once if necessary.

The sheepman does not always do as well as he knows. For this he can give no good reason. In order to remind the old sheep men of some things they have forgotten or lost sight of we compile a few gems.

Most farmers realize that pure bred stock is better, but it requires energy to adopt the improved breeds; even a pure bred sire will soon grade up the farm stock.

Sheep should be gentle and tame enough to be easily caught and handled at anytime. To catch hold of one by the wool is very unwise, because its struggle to get away frightens the others; and wherever the wool has been pulled, inflammation results.

FACTORY CLUB OUTLINES OBJECT

Purposes and Aims of Organization Detailed by Committee Chairman

Chairman R. E. Speer of the advertising committee of the Factory Club said today:

"The Home Factory and Industrial Association is a chartered voluntary organization of public spirited citizens of Fort Worth, having for its fundamental purpose the location of manufacturing enterprises, and creating an increased demand for home products, and in addition to this, an active auxiliary to every move that tends to build Fort Worth in population or resources. This undertaking is not a light one, nor is one that will accomplish the ends desired unless supported by the citizens of Fort Worth, every one of whom are beneficiaries—the land owner, by an increased demand for his holdings; the business man, by an increased trade; the laborer, by a greater demand for his labor, and our children, by increased opportunities of a Greater Fort Worth. The merit of this organization properly conducted along this line is unquestioned by every progressive citizen, as the experience of every city now prominent in point of population or industry has taught us that a few willing workers, selected by the people and supported in their efforts, can accomplish far more results at less expense than an entire population working at random.

"The growth in population in Texas in the last five years has been almost phenomenal, and much of this growth has been in the country. The farms, with their bounteous yield have attracted farmers from the north and the east, and they have invested in property here and are helping to develop Texas. If by proper encouragement we could attract capital from eastern manufacturing enterprises, and by a properly conducted campaign create a general demand for home products Texas and Fort Worth would soon take on a growth that would lay our present progress far in the shade.

"Other cities are not idle. Our neighbors, realizing that factories are town builders are after them.

"We might quote the Sherman Register: 'Sherman is situated in one of the finest producing sections of Texas—an ideal location for factories. We have enterprise and wealth and these bring factories.'

"Judge Ed Gray of Dallas says: 'Every citizen of Dallas is being taxed for the 150,000 Club advertising campaign, and we are all paying it with a vim. We figure in this way, over in Dallas, that every dollar spent in advertising will bring us good returns on the investment and a more liberal lot of people I never saw than those we have in Dallas.'

"The spirit of progress comes from all directions and it is squarely up to Fort Worth to keep in line. Shall we do it?

"Our motto is to build a greater Fort Worth. How? By encouraging, maintaining and supporting the industries now located in the city. To do this, aid in advertising and promoting them; patronizing them in preference to those who are not of, with and identified in the material welfare of the city. By aiding in their enlargement, and by securing them financial assistance when found worthy.

"By keeping constantly before our people our factory industries and educational institutes with their advantages.

"By making it the great market for the southwest for cattle, hogs and horses; the greatest and best grain, hay and cotton market in the state; the center of the trade in fruits, vegetables and seeds.

"By aiding in securing an auditorium and additional street railways; by securing a market house adequate to the trade tributary to the city; by securing a warehouse for cotton, more elevators, more mills.

"By securing good streets, sidewalks and a clean city in which every man, woman and child who is now in it or may enter it, will be drawn to make it their home."

MEXICO TO BE BANANA CENTER

Cultivation of Industry Will Swell Texas' Fruit Shipping Business

John M. Flood of Chicago was here Thursday on his way to Mexico to investigate conditions in the state of Tabasco for one of the largest banana plantations in the republic. Mr. Flood is commissioned by several monied men of Chicago to make report on several propositions that have already been submitted as suitable locations for raising bananas and other tropical fruits. Should the propositions turn out to be as represented to the company half a million dollars will be invested in the project. A tract of not less than 50,000 acres of land is wanted.

Speaking of the matter, Mr. Flood said: "We believe that bananas are the coming tropical fruit that will be most largely exported from Mexico, and it is our intention, should our plans work out as proposed, to have a banana farm that will be the peer of any in the republic. We will import slips of banana plants from Jamaica and Porto Rico, as well as from Costa Rica, and will experiment as to which is the best fruit and the most suitable to Mexico. It is known that the Mexican banana does not take well in the United States, because the people have been educated to like the product of Costa Rica and the islands, and of course we have to cater to the tastes of the consumers. It is not impossible that we may grow some of the best classes of Mexican bananas and ship them to the United States in an attempt to create a demand for them. I believe that if the people of this country could learn what an excellent banana can be raised in Mexico, they would prefer it to the yellow, long variety which is consumed in such great quantities throughout the United States."

Mr. Flood said it is a part of the plans of his company to place bananas and other fruits in the United States at the very first point the company can touch and to this end it is not improbable that arrangements will be made with the new Mexico-Texas City Steamship Company to handle the fruits. If this should be the case Mexican bananas will reach Texas through Texas City, which fact will enable the company to reach the interior and west much sooner than by way of New Orleans or Galveston.

Mr. Flood is making his first trip through Texas and had some good words for Fort Worth and said it was to him one of the thriftiest cities that he has yet visited.

SICK MAN LEAVES BED AND IS LOST

Lloyd B. Smith, Prominent Business Man of Dallas, Has Been Missing Since Thursday

Rising from a sick bed after an attack of fever, Lloyd B. Smith of Dallas went from his home in Dallas Thursday to go to the bank and has not been seen since. Dallas police spent the night searching the city, but as yet have not found the missing man.

Chief of Police Knight of Dallas, who was in Fort Worth today, says that it has been reported to him that young Smith was seen in Fort Worth Thursday night on a northbound Santa Fe train. This cannot be confirmed, however.

The missing man is 28 years of age and a son of H. H. Smith, a prominent business man and assistant cashier of the American Exchange Bank of Dallas. Young Smith was paying teller in the same bank.

When he left the house he was still suffering from fever and it is feared that he has wandered in delirium.

H. H. Smith, father of the missing man, was formerly treasurer of Dallas county.

A meeting of Little Joe Davis Chapter, Children of the Confederacy, will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at the home of Miss Lillian Nichols, 929 West Front street.

Mrs. M. P. Feris and daughters Lena and Bessie, of Kentucky avenue and Henrietta street, have returned from Waco, where they have been visiting relatives, Mrs. M. A. Drain and Mrs. Foster.

If you have tried all other drug stores in Fort Worth for something you want don't give up until you have tried Lackey's Pharmacy. On account of their large transient trade they carry quite a complete stock.

TO THE PUBLIC

We thank the public for its liberal patronage in the past, and kindly solicit a continuance of the same in the future. Our factory is now running in its new location and we are prepared to supply all demands with macaroni, spaghetti and vermicelli that is fresh and daily made. Very respectfully,
