Custodian's quick reaction helps save life of choking third-grader

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff Writer

When assistant principal Trudie Thomason looked up in the Greathouse Elementary School lunchroom Wednesday, she was startled to see custodian Yisidro Sanchez grab a boy around the chest and lift him off his feet.

"Mr. Sanchez is always the soul of professionalism. So, I wondered why in the world he had picked this kid up off the floor," Ms. Thomason said.

It was then she noticed that third-grader Mohammed Majid was red in the face and struggling to breath.

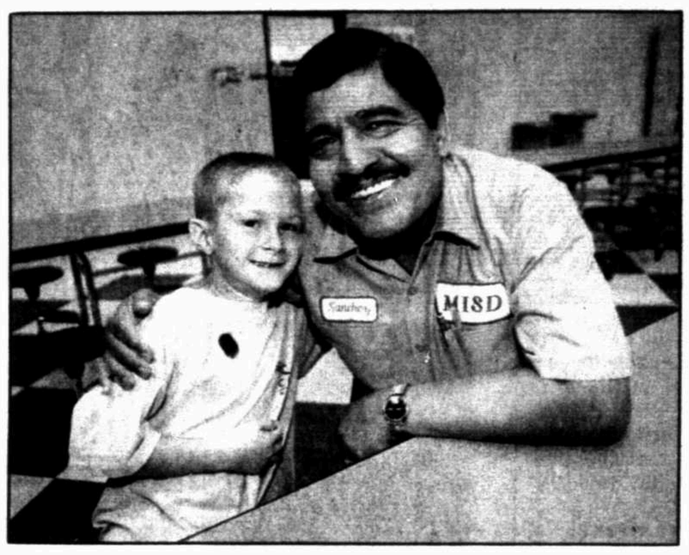

"When the boy walked up to me he was motioning and pointing to his throat. At first I thought he was trying to say something to me, but I saw he was turning red and couldn't get air," Sanchez said.

The custodian had to perform the Heimlich maneuver six times before part of a chocolate chip cookie was dislodged from Mohammed's oat.

"I brought it in my lunch," Mohammed said.

"Kids are so resilient," Ms. Thomason said. "Mohammed took a min-

Jury calls for death penalty

7-year-old's killer to receive lethal injection

■ This is first death penalty handed down in Midland since 1983 change-of-venue case.

By Gary Shanks
Staff Writer

Jurors on Friday sentenced convicted child killer Michael Blair to die for the murder of 7-year-old Ashley Nicole Estell of Dallas.

A jury of seven female and five male Midlanders deliberated about 90 minutes before coming back with their recommendations on a sentence.

Jurors had deliberated about 30 minutes on Wednesday before finding Blair, 24, guilty of capital murder in the Sept. 4, 1993, abduction and strangulation of the Plano girl.

This is the first death penalty handed down in Midland since a 1983 change-of-venue case from Lubbock also ended with a sentence of capital punishment, according to county records.

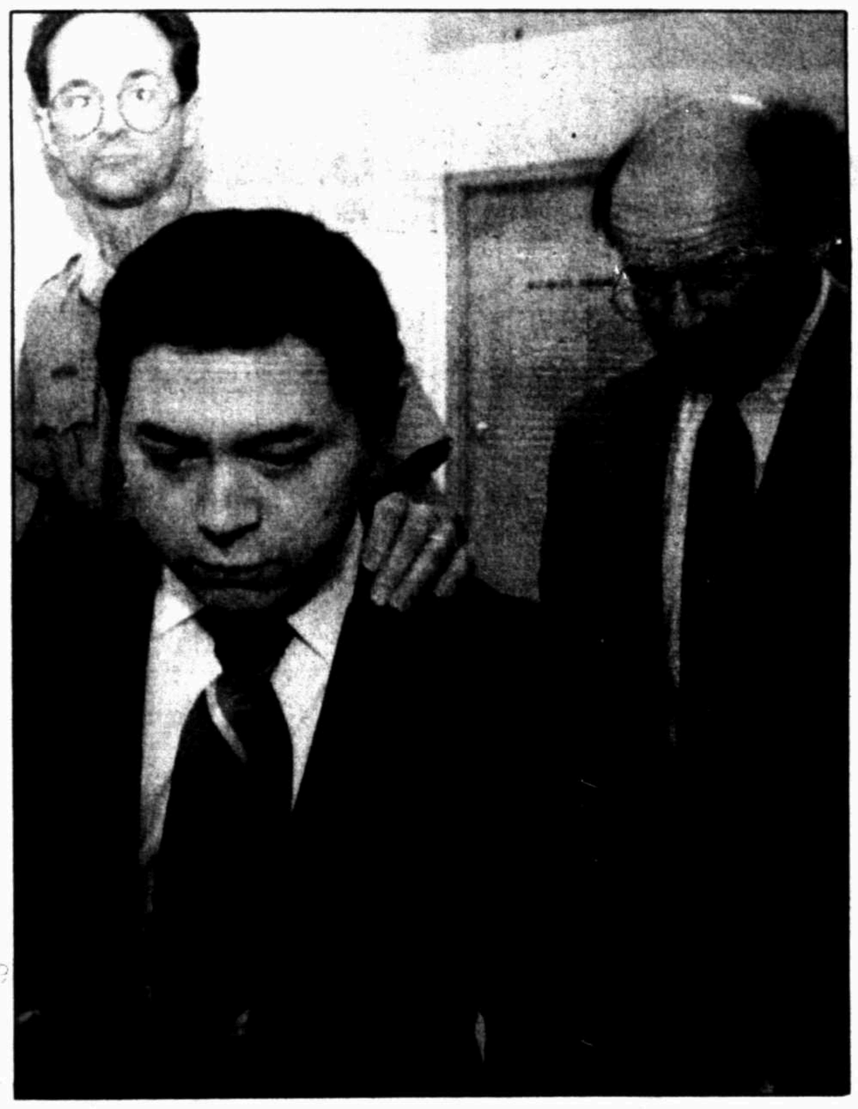

Before that it was 1962 when a Midland man was sentenced to death. He was eventually released from prison after serving more than 30 years in a state penitentiary, according to a Midland attorney.

Plano District Judge Nathan White read the jury's verdict on punishment at about 1 p.m. Friday.

Since this deliberation was to determine if the convicted man would be sentenced to life in prison or to death, the jury was asked to determine two points.

First, the jury was to decide if Blair constitutes a continuing a threat to society, or second, was there insufficient evidence of mitigating circumstances

Seemingly random shooting leads to story of legal disputes, suicide

By Amanda Covarrubias
Associated Press

SAN DIEGO — At first, it seemed like just another random shooting on a busy Southern California freeway.

But as the victim, a surgeon, recovered from his bullet wounds, police realized that the holes in the windshield of his BMW were too close together, too perfect.

It wasn't random violence. It was a hit.

Two days after Dr. William Shoemaker was wounded on Sept. 14, his former partner, Dr. Ronald Neufeld, killed himself with a shot to the head as he sat in his Mercedes.

Then the truck from which investigators believe the shots that wounded Shoemaker were fired turned up in a parking lot, registered to a Marine hero who rented a cottage from Neufeld.

A tale of intrigue involving botched surgery, bad debts and a big insurance policy began to unfold, though police have made no arrests and said they are still trying to piece together what happened.

"People are in a great deal of shock, they're stunned," said Rabbi Jonathan Stein, who presided over Neufeld's fu-

Hutu bandits take control of refugee camp

GOMA, Zaire (AP) — Hutu bandits seized one of the largest Rwandan refugee camps in eastern Zaire on Friday, and relief agencies pulled out after staff members were threatened, U.N. officials said.

"We've had our colleagues physically threatened with rocks and machetes," said Lyndall Sachs, spokeswoman for the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees. "This was a verbal threat that we took seriously. ... The last thing we need is aid workers killed."

The incidents at the Katale refugee camp came as a high-level delegation of U.N. and Zairian officials was in Goma to assess security at the camps and consider separating defeated Hutu soldiers from civilian refugees.

Katale is home to an estimated 270,000 Rwandans who fled civil war and ethnic violence in their homeland in July. On Wednesday, a Zairean boy scout was killed by Hutu militiamen at the camp as he helped to control traffic.

Hutus who seized the camp Friday threatened seven international aid workers by name. Sachs did not identify the organizations they worked for or the nature of the threats.

A U.N. source, speaking on condition of anonymity, identified the bandits as Hutu militiamen, who have been blamed for most of the massacres of at least 500,000 people in Rwanda, mainly minority Tutsis.

When aid workers arrived at Katale early Friday, about 150 people were moving through the camp and "it was clear that the bandits were in total control," the source said.

Nearly all the aid workers headed north across the border to the Ugandan town of Kabale because they feared the drive south past the camp to Goma, Sachs said. Only staff members of the French-based international relief agency Doctors Without Borders returned to Goma, she said.

The situation at Katale was reported calm late Friday, Sachs said.

The U.N. source speculated that the bandits want to control food distribution and other activities at the camp, about 36 miles from Goma.

"It's straight out thievery and extortion rackets ... and they don't like it because we are stopping them from carrying out their illicit ways," the source said.

Police make arrests in Mexico's assassination case

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Police captured a fugitive congressional aide and questioned a congressman and a former official on Friday about the assassination of a prominent Mexican politician.

The motive for killing Jose Francisco Ruiz Massieu remained obscure in spite of a reported confession by Daniel Aguilar Trevino, the 28-year-old ranch hand arraigned Friday on charges of shooting the politician.

Ruiz Massieu governed Guerrero, a poor, central Pacific Coast state noted for violence and drug cultivation, from 1987 to 1993. This year, he became No. 2 man in the governing party and was elected to congress in August.

He was due to become congressional majority leader for the newly elected Chamber of Deputies, the lower house.

The killing on Wednesday stunned a political establishment already in upheaval over an Indian uprising in the south and the March 23 murder of Luis Donaldo Colosio, the governing party's front-running presidential candidate.

Speculation about motives ranged widely: drug traffickers sending a warning to the government? Disputes within the ruling party? A private or business conflict?

The probe Friday reached into Mexico's political power structure, and focussed on political figures in the northern border state of Tamaulipas — the home state of accused assassin Aguilar.

The state, hugging the Gulf of Mexico, borders the southernmost tip of Texas.

Fernando Rodriguez Gonzalez, one of two men who prosecutors say hired the killer, is an aide to a congressman, Manuel Munoz Rocha, a member of Ruiz Massieu's Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, from Tamaulipas.

The government's Notimex news agency said police arrested Rodriguez on Friday at his home in southwest Mexico City.

Rocha was questioned by federal police Friday about his links with Rodriguez.

Police are still searching for Rodriguez's alleged collaborator, Carlos Angel Cantu Narvaez.

And the ranch where Aguilar worked as a groom and horse trainer was owned by Abraham Rubio Canales, a campaign organizer in Ruiz Massieu's successful run for the Guerrero governorship in 1987. Rubio was convicted of a $7 million fraud as head of the Acapulco Fund, a federal agency that helps oversees development in the Guerrero state resort area.

Notimex said Rubio, a close associate of Ruiz Massieu, had once been considered a possible candidate for governor.

Federal police on Friday removed Rubio from the federal prison where he was being held and reportedly took him to Mexico City for questioning.

On Thursday, Attorney General Humberto Benitez Trevino announced that Aguilar had confessed to the murder in return for about $15,000.

Tamaulipas secretary-general Jaime Rodriguez Inurrigarro told reporters that at least 18 people had been detained in his state for questioning in the case.

The newspaper El Diario of Ciudad Victoria, the state capital, said more than 30 people had been arrested, most during police raids on Corralejo, a village of about 300 people.

Neighbors and relatives portrayed the suspected gunman as a peaceful young man who liked to dance but had no interest in politics.

War supplies reach Serbs despite closed borders, Perry says

SEVILLE, Spain (AP) — Bosnian Serbs are still getting war supplies from Serbia despite reports by international monitors that the countries' borders have been closed, Defense Secretary William Perry said Friday.

His comments were the first public acknowledgement that the flow of war supplies to Bosnian Serbs has not been stopped. Serbia said last month it would close its frontier with the Bosnian Serbs to all but humanitarian aid.

The U.S. administration has received "incomplete reports" about war goods crossing the border, Perry said after a two-day NATO defense ministers meeting at which the allies pledged quicker air strikes against Bosnian Serb forces.

Perry said the allies agreed to make air power available "with greater speed, with surprise and with more force than in the past."

NATO has been threatening air strikes in Bosnia since June 1993, but its planes have struck targets only four times because U.N. commanders have been far more reluctant to use air power than NATO.

"Very clearly we do not want a divergence of views between the United Nations and NATO and there will not be one," Perry said.

Serb-led Yugoslavia had promised to shut off shipments of military goods through its border with Bosnia in exchange for the easing of some U.N. sanctions against Belgrade.

Perry said Washington has appealed to Russia to use its influence on Belgrade to close the frontier with Bosnia-Herzegovina.

U.S. soldiers prepare for 'turbulent weekend,' Perry says

CANNES, France (AP) — Port-au-Prince will be "blanketed with soldiers" in a U.S. effort to hold down Haitian violence, Defense Secretary William Perry said Friday. He predicted "a turbulent weekend" and unrest continuing as long as two weeks.

The number of American troops in Haiti swelled to more than 20,000, White House press secretary Dee Dee Myers said in Washington. "I don't think they expect it to go much higher," she said.

Perry, in Europe for NATO meetings, commented as violent skirmishes broke out repeatedly in the Haitian capital. He said intelligence reports indicated threats of further violence among Haitians and, to a lesser degree, against American troops.

"We do have some scattered reports of unknown credibility that there may be deliberate attempts to target Americans," Perry said.

U.S. officials have only sketchy information about such threats, according to Perry. Sniper attacks have been a concern since the Haiti operation began, and the grenade explosion that killed several Haitians Thursday also raised worries.

"Our expectation of what we were going to run into in Haiti has always included the recognition that this is a country with a history of violence," Perry said. "We knew there were Haitians who would be opposed to the restoration of the legal government, some of them well-armed, and some of them quite willing to turn to violence."

At the White House, President Clinton met with top foreign policy advisers to review the Haiti situation. He signed an executive order to extend a declaration of national emergency with regard to Haiti, maintaining a freeze on property owned by Haiti's coup leaders beyond Oct. 4, when it otherwise would have expired.

Myers said, "I don't think we can expect that we can manage every situation on the ground" in Haiti. But she added, "U.S. forces have had a stabilizing effect."

Perry said, "We see a turbulent weekend with the unrest continuing possibly for another two weeks."

With demonstrations and counter-demonstrations already building, Perry said the streets of Cap-Haitien in the north and the capital of Port-au-Prince will be "blanketed with soldiers."

"They have very special instructions on how to deal with this," Perry said. "I'm not suggesting that that will mean no violence, but I do believe it will minimize and quickly curtail violence when it does occur and keep it from becoming general or widespread violence."

The uncertain period between now and the scheduled return of deposed President Jean-Bertrand Aristide by Oct. 15 led to the Clinton administration decision to boost the U.S. contingent, Perry said.

Aristide, who met with several senators at the Capitol on Friday, renewed his plea for an end to violence in his country.

"I just gave a message in Creole this morning asking the Haitian people to continue moving towards reconciliation, neither violence nor vengeance. I hope it will help," he said.

Asked when he planned to return to Haiti, Aristide said, "I hope before October 15."

Perry said the expansion of the U.S. force in Haiti was being accomplished by prolonging the deployment of Marine units in Cap-Haitien and at the Joint Task Force headquarters.

Today partly cloudy, near 90

Staff Report

The forecaster at National Weather Service at Midland International Airport is calling for partly cloudy skies today, a high near 90, and southerly winds at 10 to 20 mph.

Tonight is to be fair with a low near 60.

Sunday is to be mostly sunny with a high in the upper 80s.

Friday's peak temperature was 88 degrees, and the overnight low was 55 degrees.

The record high temperature for Sept. 30 is 104 degrees in 1977, and the record low temperature for Oct. 1 is 42 degrees in 1966.

STATE

Texas was warm and breezy Friday as an upper-level air disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico spun off increasing cloudiness and southerly winds as brisk as 25 mph to the state.

Skies were mostly obscured by high clouds over the eastern half of Texas by mid-afternoon Friday.

Some rain and thunderstorms were churned up along the Gulf Coast.

Although the winds had reached West Texas, the clouds had not as skies remained clear. However, a few high, thin clouds began creeping west as dusk approached.

Afternoon temperatures were mostly in the 80s, although some 90s registered in western and northeastern parts of the state. Highs statewide ranged from a rain-cooled 80 in Brownsville to 94 in El Paso.

Today in North Texas should be partly cloudy west of the Dallas-Fort Worth area and along the Red River, but mostly cloudy elsewhere in the region. A widely scattered thunderstorm is possible in East Texas. Highs will be in the upper 80s to lower 90s. Lows will be in the mid- to upper 60s.

South Texas should start out under cloudy skies today, with the overcast breaking up as the day wears on. Widely scattered showers will still be around, however. Highs will be in the 90s. Lows will be in the 60s.

West Texas weather should be fair to partly cloudy, except for a slight chance of showers and thunderstorms in the northern Panhandle. Highs will be in the 80s and 90s. Lows will be in the 50s and 60s.

NATION

More rain drenched South Florida on Friday. Scattered thunderstorms and showers moved across the Northern Plains and high wind whistled in the central states.

Torrential rains from a tropical depression in the Gulf of Mexico prompted flood watches for South Florida, where 4 to 6 inches of rain fell in the Keys by the afternoon.

The tropical depression, the 10th of this hurricane season, drenched the western half of Cuba with up to 12 inches of rain as it moved slowly north through the Gulf of Mexico.

Strong thunderstorms hit Wisconsin and Michigan. And storms moved from the north-central states to the Rockies, including western Colorado, eastern Utah and northwestern New Mexico.

Wind pushing warm air north kept temperatures high and skies clear in the central states, from Texas to Missouri, across Minnesota and the Dakotas and in the High Plains. Gusts above 30 mph from Texas to Missouri were common.

Chilly morning temperatures were recorded for much of the East, with the mercury dipping below 50 degrees from the Carolinas northward. In the Great Lakes region, the temperatures were in the 30s. Warm winds kept overnight temperatures above 60 degrees in the Southwest.

DISRUPT: Militiamen, Aristide supporters clash

(From 1A)

tacks on army supporters, exposed the sharp divisions in Haitian society that complicate the U.S. military's mission of restoring the elected government. U.S. troops stayed away from most of the clashes, intervening to halt some looting and guarding key intersections.

The most violent skirmishes occurred outside the headquarters of FRAPH — a pro-army group instrumental in the reign of terror since Aristide's overthrow three years ago Friday.

Gunshots rang out as Aristide supporters clashed with pro-army "attaches" who had been waiting for them with machetes, guns and sticks. In one case, a man was pulled from a car and shot pointblank in the head.

Several blocks away, along the main march route, pro-army gunmen tore apart a loudspeaker truck at the front of the pro-Aristide march, shooting out its tires and pouring gasoline around it.

They seized a cage full of doves and took it back to the militia headquarters, where one militant bit off the head of one of the birds of peace.

The violence sent marchers moving in several directions, disrupting its route toward the cemetery, where demonstrators had planned to commemorate the thousands of people killed in army-tolerated violence since the coup on Sept. 30, 1991.

Mobs attacked at least three army auxiliaries throughout the capital, one of them killed two blocks from the U.S. Information Service building.

Journalists were caught in the violence outside the headquarters for FRAPH —the Front for the Advancement and Progress of Haiti.

Reuters photographer Lee Celano was grazed in the head by a bullet. Celano, 32, was taken to the U.S. hospital ship Comfort, docked in Port-au-Prince harbor.

A FRAPH member hit Associated Press photographer Rick Bowmer on the back of the head with the blunt side of a machete. He was not seriously hurt.

One FRAPH member, waving a Molotov cocktail at foreign journalists, said: "It's all the fault of the Americans. You'll see what happens to you Americans later."

Thousands of American soldiers were deployed along some streets of the capital to try to maintain order, but none were outside FRAPH headquarters.

The U.S. military, aware of its involuntary slide into full policing operations in Somalia, hasn't conducted full police protection here to prevent looting and violence since troops arrived Sept. 19.

The violence followed a grenade attack and shooting at a seaside pro-democracy march Thursday, killing at least seven people and wounding 86.

Friday began calmly enough. American soldiers met no resistance when they seized control of state television and radio at daybreak. Col. Barry Willey, a U.S. military spokesman in Port-au-Prince, said U.S. forces would not use the television and radio stations, which were mouthpieces for Haiti's military.

Hours later, about 2,000 Haitians congregated at the cathedral for a Mass commemorating the victims of army and militia violence.

"We don't want dictatorship in Haiti any more! We want democracy!" parishioners shouted in unison at the church, where pro-Aristide priests delivered a Mass in borrowed vestments after thieves stole their robes, chalices and censers the night before.

The Rev. Yves Voltaire appealed for reconciliation in a divided nation, as did Aristide in a message in Creole broadcast to his nation from exile.

Aristide in Washington said his message asked the "Haitian people to continue moving towards reconciliation, neither violence nor vengeance."

Demonstrators carried Aristide red-and-white banners, the Haitian and American flags and photographs of the exiled leader.

"We have to persist, we have to keep going, even if we die, because democracy has to be established in Haiti," said Frantz Joseph, 32, a pro-Aristide activist.

Four Haitians were reported down in the clashes during the demonstration, including one man pulled out of a car and shot pointblank in the head. Their condition was not immediately known. One FRAPH member fired at a group of American journalists.

7-year-old's killer to receive lethal injection

to warrant the sentence of life imprisonment instead of the death penalty.

All 12 jurors were unanimous in this verdict, and in sentencing Blair, White elaborated on his reasons for sentencing him to death.

"You have left a trail of destruction of the greatest magnitude," White said to Blair. White spoke of how children today, unlike the Plano of his youth, are unable to play outside without supervision and are unable to be helpful or kind to strangers.

"Your trail of destruction is at an end," White said, ordering that Blair be confined "until his transfer to the institutional division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice where you shall be put to death by lethal injection."

Before passing sentence, White allowed Blair to read aloud a prepared statement where he again told the judge, prosecutors and jurors that he was innocent.

"I'm not perfect and I've committed a lot of wrong acts," Blair said in his statement.

Defense attorney Don McDermitt said Blair was convicted on the basis of his past record and not the evidence of this case.

Although McDermitt was appointed by the courts, he later became convinced of his client's innocence "The man didn't do it. I am totally convinced of that," he said.

Jurors, however, were completely won over by the preponderance of evidence. All 13, including the alternate, were convinced that Blair committed the crime, said juror Pam Six, following the trial.

Ms. Six said none of the jurors wanted to hand down a capital sentence. "We were all wishing ... there was a shred of hope that something would redeem this person," she said. In the end, she said the jury just could not allow someone like Blair ever to walk the streets freely.

"I didn't want him ever to grab my Ashley or your Ashley," she said.

Most of the jurors were too emotionally affected at the end of the trial to make statements, several of them said.

However, none of the jurors were influenced in any way by the majority, Ms. Six said. "I think we all really had a strong sense of where we were going," she said. She congratulated attorneys in selecting 13 very strong-willed jurors.

Prosecuting attorneys were congratulated by an emotional group of family members, who were glad to see justice come at last.

Lead counsel for the prosecution, Tom O'Connell was angered by Blair's speech. "I didn't particularly want the jury or family exposed to that kind of — program — if you will," he said.

O'Connell thanked the Midland jurors saying they performed superbly.

Co-counsel for the prosecution, Bryan Clayton said Blair's speech proclaiming his innocence was in character for the manipulative, emotionally twisted Blair.

"It's just about as reliable as any other statement he's made," Clayton said of Blair's speech. Blair was found to make contradictory statements in other parts of the trial.

"He basically stood up and spit in the face of the jury and the family," Clayton said. "He's a dangerous individual," he said.

Blair appeared pale but unshaken as he was led away from the trial for the final time.

TALE: Police discover doctor's shooting was hit

(From 1A)

neral. "People just look at it as a terrible, terrible tragedy."

This is what police have been able to put together:

Shoemaker was driving to work to perform knee surgery, talking to his secretary on his car phone, when he heard glass breaking and two loud blasts.

He smelled gunpowder. Blood began oozing from his shoulder and wrist. Shoemaker steered his car to the side of the road and shouted to his secretary for help.

The shots were fired from the bed of a pickup driving in front of Shoemaker's car, witnesses told police.

After the truck was found abandoned nearby, police traced it to 28-year-old Ronald Self. He retired from the Marines after receiving the nation's highest peacetime medal in 1990 for pulling 15 men from a burning helicopter in a 1989 South Korea training mission.

Detectives found a silencer and steroids in a safe at Self's cottage.

"We don't know if he's involved or not," Detective Dan Johnson said. "Right now, what we know is he's the registered owner of the truck."

William Nimmo, Self's lawyer, said his client has an alibi — he was at home with his girlfriend that morning. As for the silencer, Nimmo said, "He's a Marine and they play with weapons."

Neufeld was found dead as evidence mounted that he might have been involved in Shoemaker's shooting. Police theorize that Neufeld arranged to have Shoemaker killed because of a bitter legal dispute.

Neufeld had taken out a $1 million life insurance policy on Shoemaker as security on a loan for their medical partnership. Shoemaker knew about it but said he was unaware it was for such a large amount.

The two had been partners for three years but split a year ago over 1990 allegations by the Medical Board of California that Neufeld was negligent and had performed incompetent surgery on six patients. One patient became a paraplegic, the board alleged, and another had her gangrenous toe mistakenly amputated. Neufeld, 40, agreed to stop performing orthopedic surgery.

Shoemaker said he didn't know about Neufeld's troubled past before the two joined forces, and he left the partnership. Neufeld then sued Shoemaker, accusing him of failing to pay a $100,000 loan and stealing patients, workers and insurance contacts.

Shoemaker countersued, saying he had been damaged by the partnership.

"It's a pretty big case," Johnson said. "It's not everyday people are going down the freeway being shot by the car in front of them."

Shoemaker, an orthopedic surgeon, said he will be able to perform surgery again despite his wounds.

CHOKE: Quick thinking helps save third-grader ute to collect himself, then sat back down and finished his cookie."

Sanchez, a Midland Independent School District employee for 12 years, credited the district's annual training program for bus drivers and custodians with giving him the skills he needed to react quickly. Although he never had to help a choking student before, he said, "The film was real accurate. I knew just what to do."

The Heimlich maneuver is an emergency technique used to dislodge an object stuck in the windpipe. Air is forced up the windpipe by applying sudden sharp pressure to the abdomen, just below the rib cage.

When Sanchez's daughter, now grown, was 4 years old, he once beat on her back to try to help her when she choked on a piece of food. "We almost lost her. I didn't have the training then," he said.

Wes Washam, MISD director of transportation and custodial services, said all of his employees are required to learn general first aid and safety.

"Problems like this can come up all of the time, even with adults," Washam said. "The Heimlich maneuver is such a simple thing, but it really works. We are tickled when someone can think fast and do the right thing."

He said MISD staff members often intervene to prevent children from becoming injured. "They do lots of things like this that usually go unnoticed," Washam said.

"I work with kids almost every day, so I feel close to them," Sanchez said. "I feel good that everything worked out all right."

Sanchez said he had some harrowing moments while trying to perform the maneuver with just enough force on the third-grader. "I was afraid I was going to hurt him," he said.

The piece of cookie was never ejected from Mohammed's throat.

"It went down," Mohammed said.

"He began coughing and breathing again. So, I knew he was all right," Sanchez said.

Ms. Thomason said she once performed the maneuver on a child at Parker Elementary School when the child choked on a piece of meat. "He was so frail. I called his mother to tell her what happened and I said: 'I'm afraid I've bruised your kid.'"

Mohammed said he was in top condition after the incident. He said his parents, Khalid and Stacy Majid, were grateful to Sanchez.

The third-grader grabbed his wrists and pulled them to his chest, demonstrating the Heimlich maneuver. He said his mother — who works in the critical care unit of Memorial Hospital and Medical Center — taught him.

And the other bit of wisdom he learned? "Chew your food real good."

Assassinations call attention to U.S. gun smuggling

McALLEN (AP) — Drugs coming north is certainly one side of the smuggling equation between Mexico and the United States.

But as the assassinations of two top officials in Mexico's ruling party have shown, another side is guns going south.

Guns smuggled from the United States are believed to have been used in the March 23 killing of presidential candidate Luis Donaldo Colosio and the shooting Wednesday of Jose Francisco Ruiz Massieu, the No. 2 official in the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party.

The U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms confirmed Friday that the Mexican government had requested a trace of the TEC-9 semiautomatic pistol that police say was used to kill Ruiz Massieu in Mexico City.

ATF spokeswoman Susan McCarron said the agency won't comment further until it hands the results of its investigation over to Mexican police. The San Antonio Express-News, without naming its source, reported Friday that the TEC-9 had been purchased in McAllen.

The TEC-9, a 9mm pistol with a large magazine, is manufactured in Miami.

Joseph Vince, chief of ATF's Firearms Division, said simple economics explained the illegal flow of drugs northward and guns southward.

The United States, which produces some 4 million firearms a year and imports nearly the same amount, is Mexico's nearest and biggest market for guns, he said.

"We don't have a lot of narcotics-growing areas in the United States, and likewise, they don't have a lot of firearms manufacturing and they have very restrictive firearms laws in Mexico," Vince said.

Guns command a high price on the Mexican black market and often are used as barter among the country's powerful drug gangs, Vince said.

Vince said more than 90 percent of the guns that the ATF tracks for the Mexican police turn out to have originated in the United States.

He added that the most common form of gun smuggling occurs through "straw purchases" — when a person buys guns in the United States for someone who cannot legally do so.

An ATF study for fiscal year 1993 concluded that most guns purchased along the border end up illegally in Mexico.

The ATF received 3,376 reports of U.S. guns being sent illegally to Mexico in 1993 — by far more than any other country. The Philippines was second, with 871.

Shortly after the Colosio shooting, the ATF traced the Brazilian-made, .38- caliber handgun reportedly fired by Mario Aburto to a now-defunct San Francisco store. The first retail purchase of that gun was in 1977 and it likely changed hands several times.

Many Mexicans reject the theory that Aburto was the lone assassin, believing the Tijuana campaign rally shooting was part of a wider conspiracy.

Police hold three suspects in teen-age girl's abduction

ARLINGTON (AP) — All three men accused of kidnapping the teen-age sister of two men who allegedly bilked them in a drug deal were in custody Friday, but police said they had no idea of the girl's whereabouts.

Authorities had been looking for 23-year-old Orlando Hall since a warrant was issued for his arrest Thursday morning. Hall, accompanied by his lawyer, turned himself in Friday morning to El Dorado, Ark., police, Sgt. David Smith said.

Arrested Thursday in Arkansas were Demetrius Hall, 19, of El Dorado, and Steven Beckley, 22, of Irving, Texas. They were charged with aggravated kidnapping in the abduction of 16-year-old Lisa Rene and ordered held in lieu of $100,000 bond.

All three waived extradition Friday before Union County Municipal Judge George Van Hook and will be returned to Arlington as soon as authorities come for them, a court official said.

Attorney Jim Bennett wouldn't discuss when Hall first approached him about accompanying him to the police station. But he said Hall "is willing to go back to Texas as soon as possible to get this all straightened out."

"I talked to him about turning himself in. We did that and he maintains his innocence," he said.

Arlington police say Miss Rene was abducted Saturday night because her brothers had reneged on a drug deal.

Officials charge A&M student in murder of 20-year-old

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — A male Texas A&M University student was in custody Friday charged with capital murder in the slaying of another A&M student during a break-in at her home.

Lori Ann Baker, 20, was killed early Friday by a gunshot wound to the head, authorities said. Her home also had been set on fire.

Ron Scott Shamburger, an Amarillo native and A&M senior majoring in biomedical sciences, later walked into College Station police headquarters. Investigators said Shamburger provided a statement on the slaying and other burglaries in the area.

Shamburger, 22, was held in the Brazos County Jail.

Ms. Baker's 20-year-old roommate, Victoria Kohler, also a student at the university, was abducted from the home and ordered into the trunk of her car. She freed herself later.

Authorities discovered Ms. Baker's body about 3:30 a.m. when they responded to a call of a fire at the home.

Police Lt. A.W. Ontstott said Ms. Kohler arrived home late and heard noises from her roommate's bedroom. As she started walking down the hall, she was confronted by a man who had just left the rear bedroom of the house.

The man "caught her and took her outside and placed her in the trunk of her own vehicle and drove her to a street nearby where she was told to stay in the trunk and not leave until she heard sirens," Onstott said.

Chamber offers assistance to Midland companies

Curt Wilcott/Reporter-Telegram

Scott Clark, production manager for Tomcat USA, middle, explains his company's product to W.C. Wilson of the Private Industry Council, left, and County Commissioner Guy McCrary.

Staff Report

Each week, Midland Chamber of Commerce representatives visit two or three local companies to offer assistance as part of the chamber's retention and expansion efforts.

On Friday, 12 volunteers from businesses, local government and the chamber participated in a "blitz" of a dozen manufacturing companies.

"The purpose was to highlight the efforts of the chamber under the existing industry program," said Mark Thomas, coordinator of the existing industry program.

The program — part of the chamber's economic development department — involves touring manufacturing facilities, and holding a question-and-answer session to identify problems and opportunities where the chamber can provide assistance, Thomas said.

In retention efforts, the biggest challenge would be working with a company considering moving out of the area.

For expansion efforts, the chamber might provide assistance to a manufacturer looking to move to a larger location or wanting to improve and increase marketing.

Thomas said working with existing businesses is as important as attracting new businesses to the area in terms of economic development. That's because about 80 percent of jobs come from existing manufacturing, he said.

The businesses visited Friday were: Duo-Delites, Hirschfeld Steel Co., Agri-Empresa, Automotive Industries, Harrison Laboratories, Don-nan Machine & Manufacturing, Jacobs Electronics, Linco-Electromatic Inc., Tomcat USA, The Midland Certified Reagent Co., Oil Dynamics Inc., and American Toy.

Among the volunteers were Mayor Bobby Burns, City Manager Mike McGregor, City Council member Pat Schneider and County Commissioner Guy McCrary.

DEATHS

Tom Jones

Graveside services for former Midlander Tom Jones, 74, of Lubbock are to be at 1:30 p.m. Monday at Resthaven North Cemetery with the Rev. Bob Porterfield, pastor of Kentucky Street Baptist Church in Midland, officiating. Arrangements are under direction of Sanders Funeral Home of Lubbock.

Jones died Thursday in a Lubbock Hospital.

He was born in McRae, Ark., where he grew up and attended schools.

He served in the U.S. Army during World War II.

Jones married Nell Yeager on March 28, 1949, in Midland.

They lived in Midland until 1961, when they moved to Lubbock.

In 1975, they returned to Midland and then to Lubbock in 1991.

Jones was a self-employed automobile mechanic.

He was preceded in death by his wife on Sept. 21, 1991.

Survivors include a son, John Jones of Lubbock; a daughter, Barbara Brannan of Wilson; a brother, Connie Pelley of Amarillo; a sister, Lucy Pelley of Gunter, and three grandchildren.

Veda Stapp

Graveside services for Veda Stapp, 84, of Midland are to be at 11 a.m. today at Resthaven Memorial Park with Tim Walker of Golf Course Road Church of Christ officiating. Arrangements are under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

Mrs. Stapp died Thursday at a local hospital.

Pallbearers are to be Mike Routh, John Harrell, Carl Walzel, Bill Cockrell, Chase Stapp, and James Edwards.

The family requests that memorials be sent to charities of the donors' choice.

Mary Wasson

Services for Mary "Jeannie" Wasson, 51, of Midland are to be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at Midland Baptist Temple with the Rev. Verl Gunter officiating. Burial is to be at Versailles City Cemetery in Versailles, Ky., under direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

Mrs. Wasson died Friday at a local Hospital.

She was a member of Midland Baptist Temple.

Officials delay cultists' burials

WACO (AP) — Paupers' funerals for 30 Branch Davidians have been put on hold while officials finalize paperwork and give families one last chance to retrieve unclaimed remains.

The bodies, being stored at the Tarrant County Medical Examiner's Office, were due to be picked up Friday, but McLennan County officials asked for a week's delay, said Darrell Thompson, chief forensic death investigator for Tarrant County.

"We certainly would just like our facility to be cleared. We have completed all of our examinations and have no reason to maintain custody of all of these bodies," he said. "But we're trying to accommodate the circumstances that have developed."

Sonar locates ferry; waves ripped door open, officials say

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Searchers using sonar found the wreck of the ferry Estonia on Friday and prepared to begin looking for evidence of what caused the ship to suddenly roll over and sink during a storm in the Baltic Sea.

A Swedish official said crashing waves ripped open the bow door and let in a flood of sea water that doomed the ferry with more than 1,000 people aboard. A Finnish investigator said there was evidence pointing to that as the cause.

The search teams were waiting for a storm to clear before lowering camera-equipped underwater robots to examine the hull, the Finnish Coast Guard said. It said the wreck was lying on its side on an undersea slope.

The Estonia sank early Wednesday off Finland's southwestern coast, killing more than 900 people. About 140 people were rescued, most of them strong young men able to climb up the ferry's tilting decks and hang on to life boats swept by waves of frigid sea water.

Bengt Erik Stenmark, the Swedish maritime safety chief, said Estonia met safety standards.

"Now we know that normal standards are not enough," he said at a news conference in Stockholm.

Stenmark said the "excessive forces of the sea" pushed through a small gap in the bow cargo door and eventually tore it open. The waves smashing into the hull reached 30 feet and higher.

"Apparently the bow door disappeared in a later phase," Stenmark said.

Finnish investigators, at first seemingly caught off guard by Stenmark's statements, later said they were focusing attention on the bow of the 515-foot Estonia.

The Swedish news agency TT quoted the chairman of the Finnish investigating commission, Kari Lehtola, as saying there were "certain indications" that the front cargo door had been ripped off shortly before the ferry sank.

Study shows surgery is best for prevention of strokes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists found surgery so effective in preventing strokes among patients with partially blocked neck arteries that a nationwide study was cut short and the results announced earlier than planned.

Health officials said Friday that the $20 million study found that surgery can cut the risk of stroke by 55 percent for patients who have a severe narrowing of a carotid artery, but have no other symptoms, when compared with such patients who are treated only with aspirin.

"The results are dramatic," said Zach W. Hall, director of the National Institute of Neurological Disorders and Stroke, a National Institutes of Health agency that paid for the study. "The study has the potential of improving the health and quality of life for thousands of Americans."

About 150,000 Americans are killed annually by stroke. About 75 percent of these strokes are attributed to narrowed carotid arteries. About two million Americans have survived strokes, but two-thirds have major disabilities, including paralysis, loss of speech and memory.

Because of the apparent proven benefit of surgery, Hall said a committee monitoring the study advised that it be stopped prematurely "and physicians be advised immediately of its results."

The study involved 1,662 patients who were enrolled at 35 centers after doctors at 35 centers confirmed that each had a carotid artery that was at least 60 percent blocked.

About half the patients received an operation, called endarterectomy, in which fatty deposits that narrow the arteries are removed. These patients also received aspirin, a drug that lowers the risk of clot formation.

Other patients in the study received only the aspirin therapy. Both groups, however, received counseling and assistance in reducing or controlling other health risk factors, including smoking, high blood pressure and excess weight.

Questions to prospective jurors cover wide range

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Do you own any special knives? Did you ever want to beat up a loved one? Can you handle math?

The answers are being used to help decide who makes it — and who doesn't — on the jury in the O.J. Simpson case.

The questions are among 294 asked of prospective jurors in an 80-page form, released Friday by the court.

Would-be jurors were grilled on a wide range of issues, from their views on race, domestic violence and Simpson's media image, to their exposure to pretrial publicity in the case, the nature of any cutlery they might own and whether they ever called Simpson's 800-number hot line.

The questionnaire also seeks to determine how jurors will handle the vast amount of scientific evidence expected in the case, with questions on their views of DNA analysis and blood tests, and their grasp of "mathematical concepts."

And some questions flatly try to weed out people whose minds are already made up: "Do you think O.J. Simpson's celebrity status may make it very difficult for you to find him guilty or not guilty regardless of what the evidence shows?"

The questionnaires were filled out this week by 304 people who passed the first phase of jury selection, which began Monday.

Lawyers are reviewing the completed forms to prepare for the first round of in-person questioning of prospective jurors, set to begin Oct. 12.

The answers will help Superior Court Judge Lance Ito and lawyers choose 12 jurors and eight alternates and will help Ito decide whether to order the jury sequestered for the entire trial, which could last six months.

Some of the questions explore people's views on the former football star who appeared in commercials and movies and worked as a sportscaster.

Several other questions asked about race. Simpson, 47, is black; the victims, ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson, 35, and her friend Ronald Goldman, 25, were white.

"How do you feel about interracial marriage?" asked one question. "Have you ever dated a person of a different race?" asked another.

Other questions seemed off track: "Have you or anyone close to you undergone an amniocentesis." Another question asked if the would-be juror felt it was "immoral" to undergo an amniocentesis to determine if a fetus had a genetic defect.

A common theme in the questionnaire, believed to one of the most detailed in any criminal case, was potential jurors' reactions to the vast publicity. It asks them to describe witnesses from the preliminary hearing and their impressions of the lawyers and victims.

The questionnaire also asks, "Have you seen, read or heard any portion of the 911 calls made by Nicole Brown?" and "If yes, what did you think about the calls."

In addition, "Have you seen, read or heard any information regarding the 1989 incident between Nicole Brown and O.J. Simpson?" This is a reference to Simpson's alleged beating of his then-wife.

Federal panel urges registry, end to benefits for illegal aliens

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal commission recommended tough measures Friday to stop illegal immigration, including a computerized registry to keep undocumented aliens from getting jobs and near-total denial of public services and assistance.

"If a person is here unlawfully, he should be entitled to no benefits," said former Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Texas, chairman of the U.S. Commission on Immigration reform.

"Illegal aliens don't have the right to be here," she said. "They broke the law to get here. They never intended to become a part of our social community and they are not entitled to benefit."

Jordan said illegal immigrants should be allowed tax-paid benefits only in case of "an emergent need for specific assistance," such as emergency health care or school lunches.

Within hours of their submission to Congress, the commission's recommendations met with fire — especially the requirement that a prospective employer verify an applicant's immigration status through Social Security and Immigration and Naturalization Service files.

"That proposal would require every employer to obtain federal government approval before job applicants could be hired," said George E. Bushnell Jr., president of the American Bar Association. "The registry would involve the development of national data files on every citizen and legal resident."

Jordan said, however, the computerized registry is the most promising option for a simpler, more effective work-site verification than the current requirement for a Social Security card, which is easily forged.

She suggested a system of personal identification numbers and identifying codes, such as banks use.

GM workers reach tentative settlement

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Workers at a General Motors Corp. parts complex reached a tentative agreement with GM on Friday to end a strike that had forced the automaker to shut down one factory after another.

Under the agreement, GM will hire more employees to relieve pressure on the 12,000 workers at its Buick City complex, who complained they were making themselves sick trying to keep up with demand, a United Auto Workers leader said.

The Buick City strike, which began Tuesday, shut off the flow of parts to other GM plants. By Friday, at least three had shut down and four others had cut back production, putting thousands more employees out of work.

If union members vote to accept the agreement at a meeting today, some production might resume Sunday at Buick City, but the interruption in the flow of parts to other plants will take several days to undo.

"It's possible, and certainly almost likely, that we're going to have a few more plants affected by this," said GM spokesman John Shea. 'It's going to be several days before all of our plants have resumed normal operations."

Senate members meander before they complete work on final appropriations bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The District of Columbia's government faced a post-midnight shutdown because of Congress' failure to approve its budget. So the Senate snapped into action Friday: It spent hours debating the baseball strike.

And that wasn't the only diversion.

Attached to the budget of the nation's capital were measures cracking down on crime and health-care fraud. Other amendments were waiting in the wings, including provisions calling for U.S. withdrawal from Haiti, ending taxpayer-financed health insurance for members of Congress, and allowing communities to refuse to accept out-of-state garbage.

But as if by magic, senators late Friday afternoon suddenly withdrew their amendments. That completed action on the bill and sent it to the White House.

Sound weird? Maybe, but it's standard procedure in the Senate, especially when Congress nears adjournment for the year, as it is doing now.

"I don't like the fact that non-germane amendments are offered to a bill," lamented Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, as the Senate began sorting through the logjam. "But I am the majority leader, not the king of the Senate."

Watching from the other side of the Capitol was a bemused Rep. Julian Dixon, D-Calif., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee's subcommittee that had helped write the spending bill.

"I saw a sign once that read, 'Republicans are our foes, but the enemy is the Senate,'" he said.

By Friday afternoon, Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, had withdrawn his amendment partially removing major league baseball's antitrust exemption. And behind the scenes, Mitchell and Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., seemed on the verge of persuading other senators to withdraw their amendments, too, which would free the district's budget for shipment to President Clinton for his signature.

"Most of the time, when they bring down all their forces on a Friday when people want to get out of town, they're pretty successful at it," said one admiring congressional aide.

Mitchell and Dole were getting some help.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., said he had gotten a telephone call Friday morning from Eleanor Holmes Norton, the district's delegate to the House. As a result, he said, he decided not to introduce an amendment that would have established a museum for African-American culture on Washington's mall, and will pursue the measure next week instead.

"I don't want to be causing problems for D.C.," said Simon in an interview.

Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, said he agreed to drop his amendment cracking down on health-care fraud after Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., asked him to do so. "I hope to sometime next week find another vehicle" to which the provision can be attached, Cohen said.

Minutes after Sen. Dan Coats, R-Ind., withdrew his amendment allowing local governments to refuse trash from other places, the Senate approved the same measure as a separate, free-standing bill.

U.S., Japanese officials express confidence as trade deadline nears

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trade officials from the United States and Japan struggled Friday to conclude a tortuous 15 months of negotiations aimed at opening Japanese markets to more American products.

Both sides expressed confidence that deals could be reached — at least in some areas — but it was far from certain that an agreement would be obtained in autos, the most politically sensitive area under discussion.

Arriving in late afternoon for talks with U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor, Japanese Foreign Minister Yohei Kono refused to predict the outcome, saying only, "I will do my best."

Kono left after meeting with Kantor for three hours, saying the two sides had not reached agreement. Soon after that, Japanese Trade Minister Ryutaro Hashimoto arrived in Washington to continue talks with Kantor.

Hashimoto told reporters his mission in the talks was to "do the best we can do." However, asked if he was bringing any new offers to bridge the negotiation gap, he said, "We will never change our stance or principles."

The talks were expected to go well past the midnight deadline set by the United States. Kantor scheduled a midday news conference today to announce what actions the United States planned to take.

The administration has said it will begin proceedings to impose economic sanctions on Japan if the last-ditch negotiating effort does not produce results.

The two sides were seeking to strike deals in three priority areas — government purchases of telecommunications and medical equipment, insurance and autos and auto parts.

All these sectors were included in a framework agreement President Clinton signed during a trip to Tokyo in 1993.

Consumers earn more, spend more in August, government says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans flocked to automobile showrooms in August and overall spending increased more rapidly than it had in six months. The surge was more than twice the increase in income, the government reported Friday.

The Commerce Department said income rose 0.4 percent in August, the seventh straight increase, while spending jumped 0.9 percent — the largest gain since 1.3 percent in February.

Consumer spending, the largest force driving economic expansion, was up for the fourth straight month and six of the last seven.

While the latest rise was more than many analysts anticipated, they noted it was in line with recent data suggesting there is still considerable strength in the economy.

"We still have good momentum from spending," said economist Carl Palash of MCM Moneywatch in New York City. "But the income growth points to moderate consumption ahead."

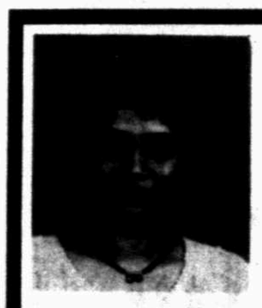

The government previously reported that car and truck sales surged in August, as automakers restarted assembly lines that had been shut down for part of July to retool for the 1995 models.

The latest income and spending figures are on the heels of a series of reports Thursday that pointed to continued expansion, although analysts said they expect the pace to slacken.

"We expect September spending to be up more slowly," said Bruce Steinberg of Merrill Lynch & Co.

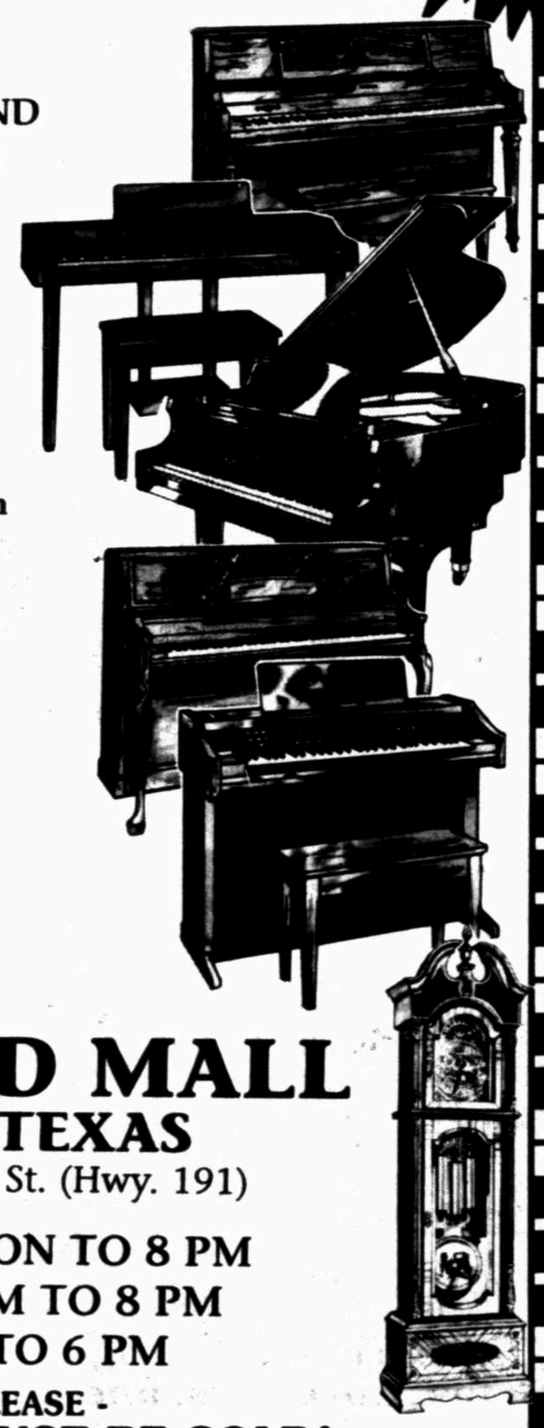

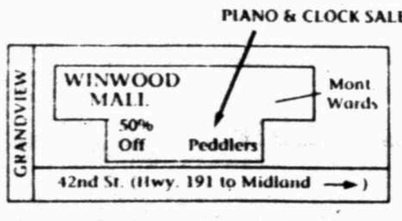

Analysts said the new data are not likely to affect the Federal Reserve's timetable for increasing short-term interest rates. Most expect the Fed to boost rates for the sixth time this year by mid-November.

Toddler dies in house fire

WHARTON (AP) — A frightened 2-year-old girl died under a coffee table as she tried to hide from the flames that destroyed her family's mobile home.

Erma Linda Barron would not heed her mother's call to follow her out of the burning trailer, witnesses said.

Pamela Barron, 22, told authorities she awoke about 10 a.m. to find her home full of smoke and flames. She scooped up her two sons, ages 1 and 3, and ran from the house, urging her daughter to follow.

Ms. Barron said that instead of heeding her calls, her daughter crawled under the living-room table, a favorite hiding place she used whenever she misbehaved.

Troy Allen, who was at work in his parents' upholstery shop across the street, said he followed the smoke to find the trailer on fire.

Ms. Barron and her sons bolted from the rear door as he tried to open it, but she told him that her daughter was still inside and needed help.

Allen said that he went to the front door and struggled to get it open. When he did, the flames intensified.

Commissioner calls for train awareness

AUSTIN (AP) — Railroad Commissioner Mary Scott Nabers says more awareness is needed about the danger of train collisions. Two people have been killed and four people injured this week as the result of seven collisions between cars and trains, she noted Friday.

Two of the accidents were in San Antonio, with others in Longview, Sugar Land, Huffman, Fort Worth and Mount Pleasant.

"We must open the eyes of Texas drivers to rail crossing hazards to bring an end to the needless suffering and death that these accidents inflict," she said.

Nabers said she will be contacting major Texas railroads about coordinating Railroad Commission actions to raise awareness.

How To End Drain And Septic Problems

When your pipes were new, they were clean inside like the pipes in Fig. 1. In time, gook can accumulate to make your pipes look like the ones in Fig. 2. This build up is the cause of slow running and clogging drains.

Well, now there is a product that is guaranteed to completely clean your pipes, and eliminate this build up, when used as directed. This product, call Bio-Clean, actually digests grease, hair, soap film, and food particles. It cleans your entire pipe - even the top and sides! And Bio-Clean will keep pipes open when used regularly.

SEPTIC SYSTEMS

The major cause of septic problems, in properly designed systems, is a lack of bacteria to break down the incoming waste. When undigested waste fills up your tank, it can flow into the drain field pipes; causing back ups, odors and standing water.

Bio-Clean puts an end to these problems once and for all. It contains a specially selected strain of bacteria. They break down waste much faster than the organisms found at random in septic systems. These bacteria will digest approximately 60 times their weight of waste each hour! As this waste is destroyed, so are the problems it causes - we guarantee it. But you don't have to have problems to use Bio-Clean. It works great as a septic starter, too.

SAFETY

Bio-Clean is 100% safe for people, pets and all types of plumbing - even garbage disposals and plastic pipes! It contains no acid, lye or solvents. It generates no heat or poisonous fumes.

Good golly, Miss Dolly

■ From hill-billy country music to screen star to big-time author, Dolly Parton has always been as genuine as she's been outrageous.

By Robert Dvorchak
AP National Writer

NEW YORK — Look beyond the trademark big hair and, well, the other obvious big traits of Dolly Parton, and you marvel at the heart of a big-time star who emerged from the humblest of backwoods roots.

She holds back nothing. She likes herself, likes life. With a candor rarely found in show business or anywhere else, she bares her soul's joys and sorrows and scars with an earthiness that can bring laughter, tears and blushes.

She is raw and rough and perky and personal, but as genuine and distinctive as the high-pitched Smoky Mountains twang that launched her career as a country singer.

In short, she's someone you just like being around.

"This outrageous look fits my outrageous personality," said Parton, wearing a black leather short skirt and low cut V-neck leather blouse adorned with white, loopy-lacy decorations on the sleeves.

"I like myself. I feel good about who I am," she added, a bundle of boundless energy during a recent interview. "If you're talking to me, you're going to hear what I've got to say."

Well, there's a lot to listen to these days.

Her autobiography, "Dolly: My Life and Other Unfinished Business, hit the book shelves Sept. 27. It was published simultaneously with the children's book "Coat of Many Colors."

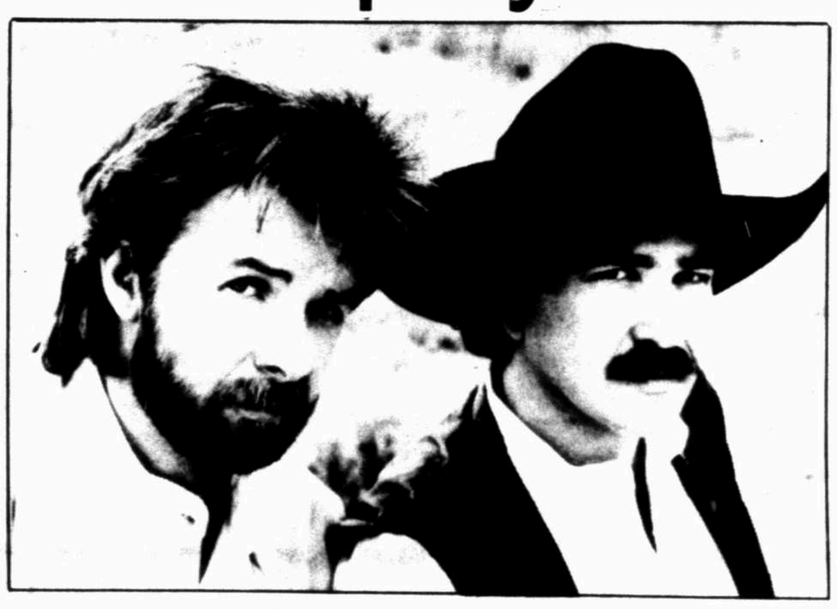

"Dolly" is the story of a country girl born poor but rich in spirit, the fourth of 12

Dues pay off for duet

Ronnie Dunn, left, and Kix Brooks are out with their third album.

By Paulette Flowers and Otto Kitsinger

A "chicken-wire joint" is a bar where they string chicken wire around the bandstand to protect the musicians from flying beer bottles. Really.

■ Country Music Memo

Every veteran honky-tonk singer knows one way to stop a fight in a chicken-wire joint is to sing "Amazing Grace." Kix Brooks used to stop fights in Louisiana honky-tonks by firing off a round or two of blanks from the pistol he brought onstage.

For the last four years or so, Kix has had a different weapon with him — the amazing voice of Ronnie Dunn — and neither Brooks nor Dunn has had to duck a beer bottle in years.

But if there's one thing these boys do know how to do, it's keep an audience happy. After all, both were performing

Brooks & Dunn hang on to formula

■ If their third album is any indication, Nashville pop's top duet apparently believes in the old philosophy, 'If it ain't broke, don't fix it.'

By Jimmy Patterson
Special Projects Editor

No one would've ever guessed it at the time, but "Boot Scootin' Boogie" is the worst thing to ever happen to the Nashville Pop music duet of Brooks & Dunn.

■ Review

It was one of those monster hits back in the summer of 1991, a song that came along right about the same time Billy Ray Cyrus became an overnight millionaire with "Achy Breaky Heart."

Brooks & Dunn's just-released third album, "Waitin' on Sundown," is not completely bad. Six or seven of the 10 songs are really quite good as '90s country music goes.

But it's those three really dumb songs that mess up an otherwise OK album.

"Little Miss Honky Tonk," "My Kind of Crazy" and "She's The Kind of Trouble" are all from the "Boot Scootin' Boogie" mold. Cookie-cutter dancehall throwaways for which Brooks & Dunn have come to be known.

And it is unimaginative songs like these (not to mention the trite, horrible releases off the second album "Hard Workin' Man," "Rock My World Little Country Girl") that will be remembered long after these two have faded into the Nashville Pop woodwork,

'River Wild' awash in action

By Bob Strauss
N.Y. Times News Service

"The River Wild" is the kind of movie that ought to come with operating instructions: "Saturate before viewing."

■ "The River Wild" is currently playing at Midland Park Mall.

That's because when this distaff "Deliverance" is roiling in whitewater, it's among the most thrilling and beautiful cinematic experiences of the year. With unerring pacing and an astounding eye for what could only have been catch-as-catch-can composition, director Curtis Hanson, his camera crews and his editing team have created the fast-water movie against which all others must now be measured.

The action footage is so spectacular (and, wisely, concentrated for the most part toward the film's climax) that it mitigates the flawed, formulaic nature of Denis O'Neill's first screenplay and some not entirely successful casting choices.

Although the river turns out to be the movie's big draw (it's actually three: Montana's Flathead and Kootenai and Oregon's Rogue), the film's sight-unseen drawing card is ultra-actressy Meryl Streep in her first action heroine role.

She certainly looks the part, beefed up and physically confident, of her character Gail, a onetime river guide taking her disintegrating family — workaholic husband, Tom (eternally sullen David Strathairn), ornery 10-year-old Roarke ("Jurrasic Park's" Joseph Mazzello), big sloppy dog — on a

Please see WILD/3B

For a change of pace, Meryl Streep straps on the outdoor gear and experiences some death-defying action in "River Wild."

Wilder

Simply wild about Gene

■ As funny as Gene Wilder's schtick came off in a handful of movies, that humor won't translate effectively on the small screen without good scripts and a vote of confidence from the network.

By Steven Cole Smith
N.Y. Times News Service

With the Saturday premiere of "Something Wilder" (7 p.m. CST), we will have seen all of this fall season's new situation comedies. Look quickly, because some won't be around for long.

■ "Something Wilder" premieres today at 7 p.m. on KWES-TV, Ch. 9.

And this, an unfortunately tepid attempt to cast feature-film star Gene Wilder as a late-in-life father of 4-year-old twins, is probably one of them.

Wilder will likely be the latest film actor who fails to make the transition to TV. The promise of good money, a comparatively easy schedule and the prospect of years and years of job security — to be terminated only if and when the actor decides — makes it a pretty appealing package.

All this is probably what Robert Mitchum was thinking when he signed on for "A Family For Joe," a dreadful NBC sitcom that had a thankfully brief run in 1990. How could Fox go wrong with George C. Scott playing "Mr. President?" It did, but Scott was fooled again for last season's CBS summer flop, "Traps." Scott and "Traps" were quickly forgotten.

And so it will be for Wilder, taking his first shot at a television series. NBC's placement of "Something Wilder" at 7 p.m. Saturday — one of the least-watched slots of the entire week's prime-time lineup, and already populated by veterans like "Cops" and "Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman" — indicates that the children of a Locust Ridge, Tenn., sharecropper who raised a family in a one-room shack.

DOLLY: Singer not shy about extra-marital life

"I just wanted to write from my heart," Parton said of a book that was three years in the making. "I've always been proud of my people. I've never been ashamed of my family — as poor as we are as bad as we might have looked. To do that would be to deny your own soul, your own heart."

Without ever taking a music lesson, or knowing how to write a note, she learned to pick a guitar and began singing in church. At 18, she headed for Nashville the day she graduated from high school. And she was appearing on television before her family ever owned one.

What followed over the next 30 years was: 62 albums, four Grammy awards, an entertainment park called Dollywood in Pigeon Forge, Tenn., a career in movies that earned her a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame and country roots that put her in the Small Town of America Hall of Fame.

After making it big, she went back and bought the old homestead, refurbishing it as a theme park that includes a chapel, schoolhouse and a two-seater outhouse adorned with red and white corn cobs (country folks know what they're for).

"I just had a dream to follow. It wasn't about getting away as much as it was about getting out," she said. "I wanted to be loved. I wanted to be recognized. I wanted to be appreciated and to give something back.

"No amount of money could buy from me the memories I have, and no amount of money could pay me to go back and live through it again."

Her family now lives on a farm of their own, having turned down chances to live in more palatial quarters.

"If I got a dime, my family's got a nickle. They can have it all if they need it. I'm there for them, whatever they need," said Parton.

She writes about her husband, Carl Dean, whom she met on her first day in Nashville. A mystery figure of sorts, Dean doesn't surface at all in Parton's public life.

For years, the tabloids trumpeted rumors of extramarital affairs, which Parton doesn't exactly lay to rest.

"He don't ask and I don't say. And I don't ask and he don't say," Parton writes.

She also mentions Judy Ogle, a friend she's known since the third grade. Parton does allow that she and Ogle often share the same bed, but doesn't quite completely define that relationship either.

"One thing we've had to overcome is the constant rumor that Judy and I are lesbian lovers," Parton writes.

The 5-foot-2 Parton also discloses her 18-month-long bout with depression during the 1980s.

"For the most part, I was able to outrun everything. But this time I fell and I couldn't get up," she said. "I had to get all that far down in order to get it together properly, to get back on track the right way."

Recovery, she said, came through her faith. She shed 50 pounds to get down to the 115 she weighs today.

And, oh yes, she candidly admits to plastic surgery but won't say exactly what was nipped and what was tucked. Suffice it to say her face and her prominent chest were both lifted. (In a chapter on her figure, she credits a surgeon with doing "uplifting" work.)

"I'd be much more ashamed to be tripping over them than to have them perked up a little bit," Parton laughed during the interview. "I told him to just perk them up and make them stand at attention. They're brave little soldiers."

Brooks makes 'Scout ' worthwhile film

By William Arnold
N.Y. Times News Service

■ 'The Scout' is playing at the UA Cine 4.

If you happen to be one of those people who thinks Albert Brooks is just about the funniest thing on two feet — and I am — you will have some fun in his long-delayed new movie, "The Scout."

If, however, you never quite get the humor in his exasperated, morally flawed Everyman character, you might stay clear, because this umpteenth baseball movie of 1994 otherwise just never quite makes it around the bases.

Brooks plays a long-suffering scout for the recently luckless New York Yankees. His latest still-born rookie discovery provokes his boss (Lane Smith) into sending him on an extended scouting expedition in the wilds of Central Mexico.

He strikes gold there in the form of a strange American kid named Steve Nebraska (Brendan Fraser, in an endearing performance), who plays in some Podunk Mexican league, but has perfect control, a 112 mph fastball and a penchant for hitting home runs every time he comes to bat.

The scout signs this natural for a record $55 million, but there is a catch: The kid is psychologically "disconnected." He is so good at baseball because he channels his fear and rage (the result of an abusive father) into the game of baseball.

When the scout puts him into therapy and the boy begins to lose all his drive, the movie begins to play with an intriguing dramatic-/comic premise: the irony that troubled people are often able to channel that dysfunction into something that society rewards. (Richard Pryor, for instance, was hilarious when he was on drugs, and seemed to lose his edge when when he went clean.)

With a script co-written by Brooks and the always-reliable Andrew Bergman ("The In-Laws") and direction by Michael Ritchie (who the diabolically cynical sports movies "Downhill Racer" and "Semi-Tough"), I have a feeling this irony was intended to be the core of "The Scout."

But after setting up the situation, the movie does nothing with it. The film, rumored to have been "troubled," is full of story holes — the result, I would guess, of a bad compromise.

"The Scout" is also lacking as a baseball movie, despite fun cameos by George Steinbrenner, Bob Costas, Keith Hernandez, Bret Saberhagen, Ozzie Smith and maybe a dozen other diamond notables. Nothing seems very believable here, especially the fact that this scout's rookies keep appearing in the majors without any seasoning in the minors.

And yet this missed opportunity of a movie manages to work as a Brooks vehicle. His persona is perfect for this character, and there are a half dozen scattered bits that are classic, and alone worth the price of admission.

Saturday morning kids' fare shows promise

By Scott Williams
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK — The early ratings are in on the networks' hottest Saturday morning children's shows, and the Top 5 suggest the kids are all right.

You don't have to be young enough to qualify for a Happy Meal to enjoy these shows — suddenly, Saturday morning is full of offerings that are as appealing to adults as they are to kids.

1. "Mighty Morphin Power Rangers" (Fox) — OK, so it's an exception. The appeal of this top-rated live-action show eludes most adults — especially if we've shopped in vain for Power Ranger action figures.

Nonetheless, the Power Rangers have been a TV hit (and a retailing mega-hit) since their rollout as a syndicated weekday strip.

Using footage from a Japanese kids' show, the U.S. version features six teens of various genders and ethnicities who "morph" — er, metamorphose — into monochrome armor of red, blue, pink, green, etc., to battle evil.

Six-year-olds enjoy the Rangers' city-smashing martial-arts combat with dinosaurs and alien monsters, while older kids revel in shockingly bad dubbing and the cheesiest Japanese monsters since Mothra met Godzilla.

Other segment stars include Slappy Squirrel, a dour, opinionated gal star from the '30s; two would-be world-conquering lab mice, Pinky and the Brain; and the tot Mindy, rescued from constant peril by the faithful dog Buttons.

Verdict: Pass on this one.

2. "Animaniacs" (Fox) — Imprisoned in a studio water tower since the '40s, these three red-nosed, black-on-white zanies are Warner brothers Yakko, Wakko and their sister Dot. They periodically escape for some of Saturday's most sophisticated silliness.

This high-octane half-hour combines classic cartoon gags with the hip irreverence of the '90s. Where else can a cartoon critter get mashed by a toppling statue of filmmaker Martin Scorsese? Quelle homage!

Verdict: A delight. Now, pay attention!

3. "X-Men" (Fox) — Emotionally complex mutant superheroes (who actually inspired the Ninja Turtles!), the X-Men survived their transition from Marvel's popular comic book into the simpler world of children's television.

It's a teen-age wish-fulfillment fantasy, with emotionally immature adults (i.e., teens) coping with relationships and responsibilities — while saving the world from nifty explosions and evil, alien peril.

Verdict: "Evil mutants! Duck!!!"

4. "Batman & Robin" (Fox) — The Fox network brought the moody, atmospheric "Batman: The Animated Series" to TV last year as a daily, afternoon strip. It was the most distinctive, stylish cartoon on TV.

Critics loved the series' well-written, character-driven stories, its somber-hued palette and the expressionist cityscapes that evoked the Batman comic's original style. Surprisingly, kids loved it, too.

The Saturday show adds the Teen Wonder, Robin, as a regular player to offset some of the series' darkness and broaden its appeal.

Verdict: The dark side of the hero, still magnificent.

5. "Eek!stravaganza" (Fox) — Starring Eek! the Cat, one of Saturday morning's more abused 'toon critters, who absorbs an horrific amount of abuse from an arbitrarily hostile universe, yet never loses his optimism, his sweet nature or his bilateral emission lisp.

Verdict: The sweetest victim since Mr. Bill.

DUET: Experience like this hard to come by

in country bands before they were old enough to shave. Kix (who shaves his chin) learned to play the ukulele at age six, about the same age Ronnie (who doesn't) was when he first picked up a bass guitar.

In fact, Ronnie loved performing so much it got him kicked out of a Texas college where he was studying to be a minister. The folks there didn't think a minister should be playing in such dens of iniquity.

Kix says his stint working on the Alaskan pipeline was good because, "I got firsthand experience being drunk and tired for eight months — what a great foundation for writing country songs!"

Together and separately, they both write great songs. Their latest album, "Waitin' On Sundown" is full of good-time honky-tonk music that should keep their legions of fans happy, and maybe make them a few more.

Kix's rowdy ways once cost him a lot of heavy makeup to cover the black eye and seven stitches he got when he hit himself in the face with his own guitar (onstage) just before they flew to Portland, Ore., to film the video to "Rock My World (Little Country Girl)."

Ronnie's a lot calmer onstage, but that mix of the cool drink of water from Texas and Oklahoma and the wild man from Shreveport has propelled Brooks and Dunn to six Academy of Country Music awards, two Country Music Association awards and one Grammy, not to mention their seven No. 1 singles and two multiplatinum albums. They may just add a few more CMA awards soon since they're nominated for three different awards.

But Ronnie's mind will probably be elsewhere: He and wife Janine are expecting their first child together, with an Oct. 27 due date (it's a girl, by the way).

Brooks and Dunn say all they want to do is make music that folks can dance to and have a good time with. So far this combination has struck gold and platinum with the fans and on the radio.

You can't buy experience like they've got. It takes starving and despairing and almost giving up when you get tired of not having two nickels to rub together. But it's experience like theirs that makes country stars. And now they'll never have to duck another beer bottle in their lives.

Quibbles 'n Bits

I Wonder If They Ever Think of Me Dep't.: The man who "turned 21 in prison" (San Quentin, specifically), will be the newest member of the Country Music Hall of Fame. Merle Haggard will receive this long-overdue honor during the live CBS broadcast of the CMA Awards on Oct. 5. 'Bout time.

Smash Hit? Dep't.: That big model of the Earth that Joe Diffie stands on in his hit video "Third Rock From The Sun" was being displayed outside Sony's Music Row offices. But it's rolled off down Music Square East twice now. So far, it's taken out two (very expensive) lampposts and smashed into Curb Records' offices. That styrofoam "third rock" weighs in at 1,500 pounds, so watch your backs, ya'll.

Rough Cuts Quote of the Week: "After all, God gave us the equipment and the opportunity. There's that old saying, 'If God had meant us to fly, he'd have given us wings.' Well look at what he did give us." — Dolly Parton, on sex, in her new autobiography, Dolly: My Life And Other Unfinished Business." This one's worth the price of admission folks.

R.E.M. offers fans a 'Monster' smash

By Steve Dollar
N.Y. Times News Service

If "Monster" were only an excuse for R.E.M. to get its ya-yas out, the band's ninth studio album would be one of the year's more welcome releases. The fuzz, spit and swagger of Peter Buck's guitar, liberated at last from those Byrds-inspired arpeggios to wallow in the gutter, sends a telegram: All aboard for fun time.

This seminal American alternative rock band brings the noise as effectively as the legion of grunge cadets who came of age listening to "Murmur," its first album, on their headphones.

Yet, "Monster" also is vocalist Michael Stipe's look at his own slippery self — or someone's — loose in the media fun house, hearing echoes, catching reflections in the mirror and questioning their accuracy. "I'm the real thing," he intones on the tremelo-stoked "Crush With Eyeliner," recklessly eyeballing an object of desire.

Stipe's baritone, all but buried under layers of feedback and sonic decay, communicates emotional weight while floating free of true confession. Unlike 1992's spare and plain-spoken "Automatic for the People," these new songs require dredging.

SUNDOWN: Album not entirely without merit which, by at least one critical account, should be any day now.

The album opener, "Little Miss Honky Tonk" will certainly be an embarrassment for composer Ronnie Dunn a few years from now, with lyrical gems suh as: "She's a slick nickel, she's right on the money/I wouldn't give her up for a thousand buckle bunnies/I'm her big cat daddy, she's my Little Miss ..." yeah, well you get the picture. Pretty clever way to turn a phrase, eh?

For whatever reason, some artists lack the creative drive from time to time that would allow them to avoid repeating the same song from one album to the next (ala Alan Jackson with "Chattahoochie" and "Summertime Blues," which melodically are identical.

Inexplicably, though, Brooks & Dunn have recorded the same song twice on the same album. "My Kind of Crazy" and "She's The Kind of Trouble" both deal with the same brainless guy out to try and tame his wild, without-a-clue babe. From "My Kind of Crazy": "I saw you at the drive-in-/Dancing on a car/Rocking to the radio underneath the stars." And from "She's the Kind of Trouble": "She's hanging out the window on the way back home/She yells at everybody just come on along-/Party at my place just follow the truck/We'll be cuttin' a rug til the sun comes up."

Memorable stuff, ain't it?

Bad stuff aside (and trust me, it is downright awe-uninspiring) there are some decent tunes on here.

"A Few Good Rides Away" is a touching way to close the album; a song dealing with tough economic times and broken dreams in West Texas, it would go over particularly well if radio programmers out this way would choose to play it since it likely won't be a single release.

"A Few Good Rides Away" and "I'll Never Forget My Heart," in fact, are two of the best songs Brooks & Dunn have ever recorded. Kix Brooks' "You're Gonna Miss Me When I'm Gone" is also above average for these two.

If nothing else, Brooks has put his stamp on this album. Although he has been a big contributor on the first two releases, those efforts belonged almost solely to Ronnie Dunn, while Brooks played a sidekick role, goofing it up on stage and looking like Dunn's daffy assistant. Five of the songs on "Waitin' On Sundown" — including two of the worst, and two of the best — belong to Brooks.

As a result, Brooks & Dunn are now more of a duet, instead of the "Brooks with Dunn" sound that has come across before now.

Even though this album establishes the two as a true duet, and even though a couple of the songs here are really top notch songs for these guys, it's those three dancehall type wastes of time that render only a C+ for "Waitin' On Sundown."

But hey, use the "skip track" or "fast forward" buttons when necessary and it's not bad for C+.

WILD: Oscar-winning actress makes most of script rafting vacation down the waterway of her youth. And Streep's as believably heroic in the role as a Sean Connery or Harrison Ford might be in as haphazardly written a part.

But due to a script that confuses inconsistency with character complexity, Streep's performance floats all over the place. She can jump from worried wife to protective parent to manipulative psychout artist to hard paddlin' Mom Nature Herself in the course of as many scenes, all reactively dictated by the dramatic needs of the moment rather than springing naturally from a fleshed-out personality.

The few moments when Streep's allowed some behavior she can really get her chops into are as mesmerizing as anything in her Oscar-winning "Sophie"/"Kramer" canon. But they're so disembodied from the rest of her athletically based performance that they frustrate more than they captivate. Streep certainly turns Gail into an effective female empowerment fantasy, but a complete person would have been more powerful still.

Then again, you can forgive Gail a little schtickiness. She is under a lot of stress, especially after two gunmen, the revealingly named Wade (Kevin Bacon) and Terry (John C. Reilly, good and conflicted) commandeer her family's raft.

WILDER: Show's stars at least likable network lacks confidence in the show.

"Something Wilder" has likable stars and pedigreed producers, including Barnett Kellman ("Murphy Brown" and "Mad About You") and Tom Anderson ("Cheers"). But the flat script and sitcom-standard premise (after all, no one has tried to base a sitcom on Norman Rockwell's life, have they?) will doom the show

Thoughtful Moments™

Garden Prayer

The kiss of the sun for pardon,
The song of the birds for mirth, One is nearer
God's heart in a garden
Than anywhere else on earth.

Scripture of the week

For as the earth bringeth forth her bud, and as the garden causeth the things that are sown in it to spring forth; so the Lord GOD will cause righteousness and praise to spring forth before all the nations. ISA 61:11

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Animal blessings scheduled

"Blessings of the Animals" will be held at 4 p.m. today at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, 1400 W. Illinois Ave.

This is a celebration in honor of St. Francis, whose feast day is Tuesday.

The church requests that people bring their pets on a leash or in a cage. The offering will be donated to the Midland SPCA. Refreshments will be served for people and pets.

St. Nicholas Episcopal Church, 2900 Princeton Ave., is holding the same type of service at 4:30 p.m. Sunday on the church lawn.

In addition, St. Ann's Catholic Church is holding "The Blessing of Animals" at 2:45 p.m. Tuesday in the parking lot at the school, N Street at Illinois Avenue. Children from the school will bring their pets to the school for the blessing being offered on St. Francis' of Assisi Feast Day. The public is invited to come and bring their pets as well.

'Living' classes to begin

"Principals of Successful Living" classes are scheduled to begin at Permian Church of Religious Science, 2311 Elizabeth St.

"Religious Science Foundational Class" is being offered at 7 p.m. Tuesday for 13 weeks and "Self Mastery: The Emergence of the True Self" is being offered at 7 p.m. Wednesdays beginning Oct. 12 and lasting for eight weeks.

Each class costs $100, which includes a workbook. The book "Living in the Science of the Mind" is also required.

For more information, call 684-4230.

Church adds new class

Cuthbert Avenue Baptist Church is forming a new Sunday School class for adults ages 40 to 55.

Also, Sunday at the 11 a.m. service, Don Pearson will be the guest vocalist, and Pat Ham will be the guest pianist.

Transportation is provided by calling 684-7802 or 694-1645.

Ministry conference planned

Crestview Baptist Church is hosting the Conference for International Ministries Monday through Wednesday.

Programs include workshops for directors, staff and English as a second language teachers. Also offered are "show and tell" from other ministry programs, a cultures and regions presentation, a publisher's presentation and a video theater.

Registration is $20 and includes breakfast and a banquet meal. An optional box lunch is available on the second day for $6. Also, an incentive discount for churches with new programs is available with a registration fee of $15 instead of $20.

For more information, call Baylor University's Literacy Missions Center, 1-817-755-3854.

Church concert set for Oct. 8

New Jerusalem Baptist Church, 1801 N. Carver St., will present Emilia Walton, the Pertile Brothers, Gussie Anderson and Sue Roseberry in concert Oct. 8.

The concert begins at 7:30 p.m. All are invited to attend.

St. Ann's plans crusade

St. Ann's Spiritual Church, 208 N. Tilden St., is holding a Breakthrough Crusade Sunday.

Speaker for the crusade will be the Rev. R.C. Hobbs. For more information, call 682-8616 or 682-8081.

6-week study series to begin

Midland Lutheran Church, 2705 W. Michigan Ave., will begin a new study series for the next six weeks during the 9:15 a.m. Sunday School hour.

The "Back to Basics Evangelism Strategy" will be facilitated by deaconess Gretchen Shults.

The worship service with communion is at 10:30 a.m.

A nursery is provided. For more information, call 694-1373.

Outreach fellowship to meet

Midland Outreach Aglow Fellowship will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday at St. Paul United Methodist Church in the fellowship hall, 4501 Thomason Drive.

Guest speaker will be Barbara Hall from Big Spring.

Midland Outreach Aglow Fellowship is a Christian, inter-denominational ministry of women. For more information, call Helen Vaughn, 694-5456, or Jannie Linney, 1-756-3688.

Church offers Bible course

Memorial Christian Church, 1001 Andrews Highway, will offer a six-session course on a "Survey of the Old Testament" from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Sundays through Nov. 13.

The purpose of the course is to give an overview of the 39 books of the Old Testament, giving the time frame for each book and where it fits in the whole story. Also, each book will be briefly outlined.

Annual revival scheduled

The New Jerusalem Baptist Church, 1801 N. Carver St., is holding its third annual Son of Jerusalem Revival at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 10-14.

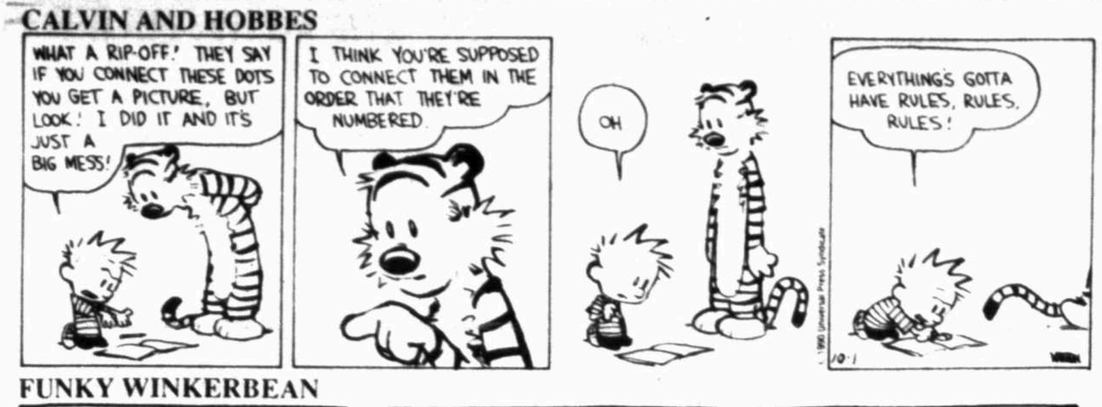

Speakers include the Rev. R.L. Smith, Oct. 10; the Rev. L.L. Green, Oct. 11; the Rev. A. Mills, Oct. 12; the Rev. J.L. Brooks, Oct. 13; and the Rev. L.C. Rhea, Oct. 14.

Bethel service to relocate

Bethel United Methodist Church will relocate its Sunday Celebration Service to First Christian Church Sunday only.

The 10 a.m. service will meet in the Family Life Center, 1310 W. Michigan Ave. Those attending are asked to enter through the G Street doors.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1994

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Your charisma is both a blessing and a complication. You must be very careful when it comes to romance. Someone you want to help may mistake your compassion for love. Be more tolerant of delays at work and career advancement will come faster. A dynamic worker, you shoulder heavy responsibilities without complaint! Early in 1995, your leadership skills will help solve a financial problem. Loved ones enjoy a new feeling of security.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor Walter Matthau, singer Julie Andrews, baseball great Rod Carew, actress Stella Stevens.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may have gained the wrong impression from a romantic partner's remarks. Ask for clarification. Someone could try to impose on your good nature. Be polite but refuse to be painted into a corner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Although mixed trends are indicated this morning, by afternoon you should be firmly in charge. If feeling somewhat restless, accept or extend a last-minute invitation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A good day for furthering personal aims. No major problems will crop up. Avoid keeping late hours if you want to avert a heated domestic argument. Family members will not be easy to convince.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Defer to your family's wishes today. They may be thinking about something that has escaped your attention. Have faith! Once you believe in yourself 100 percent, others will be eager to follow your lead.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You get an opportunity to make an important point to a teen-ager or younger relative. Get an early start if traveling. Adoption of a new route should work well. Improve the quality of key relationships.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your opinions pack a punch and could lead to a rousing debate. Curb a tendency to speak impulsively. Discretion pays dividends. Strive for restraint.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Share your creative ideas with loved ones; their suggestions may help you find even greater success. Be patient if financial rewards come slower than you would like. Eventually you will be on top!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): The emphasis this weekend is on setting a good example. Discipline your tongue; flashes of irritability may tarnish your image. Browse through your favorite stores if planning to buy new furniture.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Private matters and clandestine meetings require careful handling. Do not let a thoughtless remark compromise your security. Having a heart-to-heart talk with your mate will help you set the record straight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Give new ideas and methods a chance to work. Meetings with influential people are once more indicated. Romance does seem sweeter the second time around. Why rush things? Go slow on formalizing a casual arrangement.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be willing to forge a major undertaking from the ground up. Reducing business and personal expenses will give you more options. Romance beckons tonight. Sincerity will be rewarded.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A good weekend to reduce some of the clutter in your life. A new acquaintance may urge you to change your lifestyle. Try not to be overly influenced by this person. Trust your intuition.

Sinbad tells school children to do right thing, stay alive

OMAHA, Neb. — Sinbad tells it straight to America's young people: Being a knucklehead can get you killed.

Sinbad speaks straight to America's young people.

"Stay positive and do the right thing," Sinbad told children and their parents Thursday outside the Omaha Opportunities Industrialization Center.

"Don't be ashamed to be different from other people. It is hard. Life is hard. But it is just as hard being 6 feet deep because somebody shot you for being a knucklehead."

LOS ANGELES — Pete Townshend, who once wrote, "Hope I die before I get old," saw things differently after Who drummer Keith Moon did just that.

Moon's death from a drug overdose at 32 in 1978 "unhinged me terribly," the 49-year-old guitarist said in an interview on cable's VH-1 over the weekend.

Townshend said that while he and the band's former lead singer, Roger Daltrey, don't have much in common except the Who, they are united in a common grief — what Townshend calls the "awful phantom" of Keith Moon.

"The death of Keith affected us all, changed us," Daltrey said. "Maybe I should have gone through therapy after he died."

"Roger actually feels his presence. I feel his absence," Townshend said.

WASHINGTON — Washington Redskins owner Jack Kent Cooke and his former girlfriend, Marlene Ramallo, have settled their dispute over $600,000 worth of jewels he had given her, The Washington Post reported Friday.

The Post said it was unable to determine which, if any, of the gems Ramallo got to keep. But she can keep a $250,000 dowry Cooke gave her before their 1990 wedding ceremony, and Cooke will stop paying her a $90,000 "annual salary."

Cooke had sued for return of the gems, including a 10-carat diamond ring valued at $77,000; a $132,000 diamond necklace; and a $71,170, nine-carat emerald ring.

Cooke and Ramallo were thought to be husband and wife until the marriage was annulled in March on grounds her last divorce was invalid.

LOS ANGELES — Fred De Cordova, the longtime producer of "The Tonight Show" with Johnny Carson, has been hospitalized with pneumonia.

The 83-year-old De Cordova was taken to Cedars-Sinai Medical Center on Thursday. He was listed in fair condition Friday.

"His spirits I understand are very good and he's resting comfortably," hospital spokesman Ron Wise said.

De Cordova joined "The Tonight Show" in 1970 as producer and later became executive producer. He still serves as a consultant for Jay Leno, who took over for Carson in 1992.

Aside from "Tonight," De Cordova was the producer or director of "Burns and Allen," "The Jack Benny Show," "My Three Sons" and numerous specials for Bing Crosby, Claudette Colbert, Noel Coward, Lauren Bacall and others.

Before television, he directed about 50 movies, including "Bedtime for Bonzo," which starred Ronald Reagan and a chimpanzee.

It was in "a little chicken joint" in Southern California that the actor Beau Bridges learned about gun control.

"This guy came in and jammed a gun at my head while he robbed the place," Bridges said Wednesday night in Washington. "I've never forgotten it. Just a twitch of the finger separates my experience from Jim's."

Jim is James Brady, President Ronald Reagan's press secretary who was shot and disabled by John W. Hinckley Jr. during the assassination attempt on the president in 1981.

Bridges was in the capital for the third annual dinner benefiting the Center to Prevent Handgun Violence, which is headed by Brady's wife, Sarah. The event raised $400,000.

Bridges, who has also participated in the two previous benefits, became friendly with the Bradys when he played Brady in a 1991 HBO movie, "Without Warning: The James Brady Story," a role for which Bridges won an Emmy.

Bridges was asked whether anyone in his family owned a gun.

"No," he replied. "My whole family is studying martial arts instead."

RELIGION IN BRIEF

'Keyboard Plus' set

The opening "Keyboard Plus" recital at First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas Ave., will feature Darryl Knapp, organist and choirmaster of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, and Lester Ackerman, director of Music Ministries for First Presbyterian Church.

The recital is set for noon Wednesday. Lunch will be available in Lynn Hall for $4 a half hour before and after each concert.

"Keyboard Plus" is a series of half-hour concerts that will be performed at First Presbyterian Church each Wednesday in October from noon to 12:30 p.m.

Nursery care is available with reservations by calling 684-7821, Extension 37.

For more information, call Rebecca Sawyer, 684-7821.

Fall Festival is today

HERMLEIGH — Hermleigh United Methodist Church is holding its Fall Festival from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. today at the Hermleigh Community Center.

Hermleigh is in Scurry County near Snyder.

There will be arts and crafts, a big flea market, a farmer's market, a bake sale and auction.

A barbecue lunch will be served beginning at 11 a.m. featuring brisket, sausage and roast pig with all the trimmings.

A Chinese auction will be held throughout the day for donated art work. A drawing will be held at 2:30 p.m.

Proceeds from the festival go to various church projects.

ADEPT offers classes

First United Church's ADEPT Ministry — Alcohol and Drug Education in the Parishes of Texas — is sponsoring two classes connecting the lectionary scripture to 12 Step recovery.

The New Hope Sunday School Class meets in Room 219 at 9:20 a.m. Sundays. The class is open to all. Then, at 7 p.m. Wednesdays, the ministry sponsors a 12 Step discussion meeting, also in Room 219.

ADEPT Ministry also has several projects coming up in the next few months including hosting a Drug and Alcohol Abuse Awareness Booth at the Oct. 16 First UMC annual Lay Ministry Fair. And, the month of November is ADEPT Ministry Awareness Month. The ministry will hand out red ribbons to the congregation each Sunday.

Fall Gathering planned

The Fall Gathering at First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas Ave., is being held from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays.

A meal is served at 5:30 p.m. in Lynn Hall with classes beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The classes offered are: "The Hurried Family," by Jerry Hilton; "Contemporary Issues," by Steve Shorr; Stephen Ministry Training by Judy Warren; True Colors by Cathy Harris; and Grief Recovery by Mark Mercer.

All are welcome to attend.

CLER workshops set

The Unitarian Universalist Church of Midland, Neely Avenue at Midkiff Road, will offer the workshops of CLER Ministries for fourth- through eighth-graders.

On Oct. 9, the workshop will be "In the Beginning God Created . . ." and is for fourth- through sixth-graders. The boys attend from 1 to 3:30 p.m. The girls attend from 4 to 6:30 p.m. The fee is $10.

Then, Oct. 5 and 12, the workshop "And God Saw Everything That He Had Made and It Was Good," is for seventh- and eighth-graders. It is a two-session workshop for girls and boys together and meets from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. The fee is $20.

A parent must attend each course with their children. The workshops are open to the public. To register a child, call the church at 694-4308.

Aerobic celebration set

FORT WORTH — The first annual Christian Aerobic Celebration is set for Oct. 14 and 15 at the Convention Center.

Registration is set for noon to 3 p.m. Oct. 14 at the Worthington Hotel. Cost is $185. Also, a Jump Start Training Program is being offered for $50 Oct. 14 from 1 to 5 p.m.

No refunds will be made. For more information, write or call the Christian Aerobic Resource, 4262 Cadiz Drive, Fort Worth, Texas 76133, 1-800-650-9908.

Church hosts concert

BIG SPRING — Bishop Michael D. Pfeifer, OMI, and the Diocesan Liturgy Commission of the Catholic Diocese of San Angelo are sponsoring a concert and music workshop Friday and Oct. 8 at Sacred Heart Church, 508 N. Aylford.

Bob Hurd, a teacher, composer and liturgist, will be the guest presenter at both.

The concert is scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday at Sacred Heart Church. Cost is $5 a person.

The general content of the workshop, set for 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Oct. 8, will be "Music for a Multicultural West Texas Church." Cost for the workshop is $15 a person. Lunch is included. Both the concert and the workshop are open to the public.

For more information or to register, call the Diocese of San Angelo, 1-651-7500.

Ark schedules concert

ODESSA — Ark Concert Series celebrates the one-year anniversary of Ark Family Books and Gifts by sponsoring Phillips, Craig & Dean in the "Concert of the Age" tour at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Temple Baptist Church auditorium.

PC&D are touring in support of the second Star Song release, "Life Line," which is currently on the Top 25 album chart.

Opening for PC&D will be Brian Barrett, who plays high-energy acoustic rock with a country edge, and Cherry Keaggy, an inspirational/adult contemporary singer who has been widely received on Christian radio.

PC&D, Brian Barrett and Cheri Keaggy will be available at Ark Family Books & Gifts for a "Meet the Artist Hour" to sign autographs and answer questions.

For more information, call Phil Davis at 366-3335.

Fall Festival planned

St. Lawrence Catholic Church celebrates its Fall Festival, Sunday at the St. Lawrence Parish Hall, 10 miles south of Garden City on Highway 33, and then five miles west on Highway 2401.

Mass is to be at 9:30 a.m. Dinner, which includes homemade German sausage and barbecue, will be served from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. Sausage sandwiches, dessert and tea will be served from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Meal tickets are $6 for adults and $4 for children. Uncooked sausage will be sold at $3.50 a pound.

Booths will be open from 10:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. selling handcrafted items, baked and canned goods; candy and beverages will be available at the concession booths.

At 2 p.m., bales of cotton and other items donated by the St. Lawrence community will be auctioned. Bingo opens at noon and closes at 4 p.m.

A country-and-western dance begins at 7 p.m., featuring Johnny Blaine and the Spur Band. Tickets are $5.

BYU records win

PROVO, Utah — John Walsh threw for two touchdowns and Jamal Willis ran for two scores as Brigham Young rolled past penalty-plagued Utah State 34-6 Friday night.

The game was moved up a day to avoid conflicting with conferences being held by BYU's parent Mormon Church. The Cougars, who lost 58-56 last year to Utah State, lead the series 34-33-3.

Walsh, who left the game with one quarter to play, completed 17 of 27 passes for 306 yards for BYU (4-1). For a second straight game, he had no interceptions.

Willis, who had a personal-best 204 yards in BYU's 49-47 win over New Mexico last week, was held to just 51 yards by Utah State (1-4) — but still reached a school-record 34 career touchdowns.

REBS TAKE HOME WIN

■ Midland Lee blasts Abilene High 49-14 to win its homecoming game at Memorial Stadium.

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

Midland Lee head football coach Earl Miller went into this Homecoming outing against Abilene High "scared to death," but his undefeated Rebels never blinked an eye in a 49-14 win over the outmanned Eagles.

Only seven days before, Miller had seen his No. 1 running back Melvin Dunson go out for the season with a broken shoulder blade. His team was also coming off an emotional game against Midland High and he had no idea of how his team would respond.

But in the face of adversity, Lee scored all six times it touched the ball in the first half for a quick 35-0 lead and it left plenty of time to celebrate the Homecoming halftime activities without worry. Well, maybe a little worry.

"We have to do something about the lengthy halftimes," Miller said. "That's how you get kids hurt when they get cold sitting there for so long."

If there was any pressure for Lee in this game, it was the response of junior halfback Alex Strambler, who had the duty of replacing Dunson in the line of fire. Strambler did just fine, thank you, with 89 yards rushing on only 10 carries and three touchdowns, including runs of

No. 2 Cooper rips Midland High, 38-3

■ Bulldogs drop second league game while the Cougars remain unbeaten.

By Bill Petitt

ABILENE — Abilene Cooper used a 14-point spurt in the first five minutes of the third quarter to break away from Midland High enroute to a 38-3 win here on Homecoming evening at P.E. Shotwell Stadium.

Cooper, ranked second in the state in Class 5A, improves to 5-0 on the year and 2-0 in District 4-5A while Midland drops its second straight district game and to 2-3 on the season.

Looking at it on paper, it was a mismatch with the size and depth of Cooper against a Midland team that had been plagued with a cold virus through its camp all week. And while Cooper did flex its muscle at times, Midland withstood the Cougars vaunted offensive attack for the first 24 minutes and trailed just 15-0 at halftime.

It was the closest any team had been to the Cougs at half, but Cooper came out in the second half and took the opening kickoff 80 yards in 11 plays, capped off by one of Jamine Rozzell's three touchdowns on the night, a six-yard burst, to make it 22-0.

Rozzell finished the night with 104 yards on 15 carries to lead Cooper.

Cooper, ranked first in the district in defensive yards allowed, held Midland to just three yards in three plays on its next possession and then returned a David Leaverton punt 48 yards to the Midland 32.

Cooper quarterback Zac Allen connected to receiver Ben Rozzell on the next play and the Cougars had a 29-0 lead with 6:20 left in the third quarter.

"We came out in the second half and just lost field possession with that punt return," said Midland coach Ronnie Reeger. "We were waiting for someone to make a tackle instead of making the play. They already had our defense stretched out and then they hit the play."

Field position was something the Bulldogs lacked all night. In the first half, Midland started four of its six

Sanderson trips Rankin's Devils

Rankin quarterback John Evridge (85) drops back to pass while Sanderson's Juan Rodriquez gives chase. The Red Devils lost 21-14.

■ Penalties hurt Red Devils against Eagles in non-conference contest.

By Tom Ruiz
MRT Correspondent

RANKIN — The Rankin Red Devils displayed the heart of a lion before falling to the Sanderson Eagles 21-14 here Friday night.

The 1-4 Red Devils, who trailed by a touchdown with 30 seconds to play, got four cracks at the end zone from the 10-yard line only to see their hopes fade away by the length of a fingertip.

Twice in the final drive, Rankin receivers nearly made incredible finger-tip catches only to see the pigskin drop harmlessly to the turf.

"That old tackle put 'em there. We just came up short," said Rankin coach Raul Sanchez, who was refering to John Evridge, who was playing quarterback. Evridge normallly plays the tackle position on

Iraan slips past Buffaloes

■ One hundred yard rushing games from Jerele Lee and Todd Davis aren't enough to keep Stanton from its first loss.

By Pete Herndon
MRT Correspondent

STANTON — Coach Bill Grissom said his previously unbeaten Buffaloes were well aware of why they lost a 34-33 decision to the Iraan Braves in a non-district Class 2A football game Friday.

"I'm going to have to give them credit," Grissom said after losing to the Braves by a point for the second consecutive year. "They lined up and marched it down our throats all night. The time of possession was the difference in the ballgame."

The Braves had scored on drives of 13 and 10 plays in the first half, but no drive was more critical than the one the Braves started midway through the fourth quarter. Iraan faced fourth-and-1 at its own 26 when Braves coach Larry Hanna decided to go for it. Fullback Damon Drake ran for 14 yards up the middle.

"Against Stanton you better (go for it)," Hanna said. "If you give it back to them, they can score at any time. Anything can go wrong, but we had confidence in our offense. That fourth down probably went a long way in making our season."

It definitely went a long way Friday. Nine plays later Heath Copeland scored from 12 yards out. Ovidio Mendoza's point-after proved to be the game-winner.

Iraan put the game away with a successful on-side kick on the ensuing kickoff. The Braves then held the ball long enough to take Stanton out of its run-oriented attack.

"Whether their kicker meant to do that or he just missed the football, I don't know," Grissom said. "It worked out well for them. At that time, we would have still had time to do some things within our gameplan."

The kick ended what had been an offensive showcase by both teams.

Mustangs end tough pre-district

By Mike Butts
Staff Writer

ANDREWS — The Andrews Mustangs have a message for their just-completed, non-district football season.

See ya. Come again when you can't stay so long.

Andrews bid a fondless farewell to its torturous pre-district schedule Friday with a 27-14 loss to Class 5A Lubbock Monterey (3-2). The Mustangs (0-5) now must win all of their last five games to avoid the first losing season in Andrews in 19 years.

But even with a winless record Andrews fans still have high hopes, according to Mustang coach Mike Lebby.

"Now people are talking, 'That's all right. We lost five games but now we're going to win district.' And how realistic (is that)," said the first-year Mustang coach.

Andrews came into the season ranked as high as No. 10 in the state among 4A teams.

"When we came here the expectations were so high with untested players," Lebby said. "I didn't understand why it was that way but we've all been very humbled."

Andrews offense accomplished next to nothing in the first half, gaining no first down and minus 11 net yards. Monterey, coming off a 13-7 district loss to Amarillo High, took a 13-0 halftime lead and stretched it to 27-6 in the fourth quarter.

"We now we lost but we feel like we're just that much closer as a team," said Andrews receiver Chris Fisher, who gave the Mustangs hope in the third quarter when his 68-yard catch and run made the score 13-6. "As soon as district comes we need just one win and we will put it all together."

The Mustangs open District 4-4A play Friday at Pecos.

Andrews finished with only 24 yards rushing. Last years leading Mustang

Buffs stampede into Texas territory

■ The Longhorn defense hopes to halt Colorado's powerful offense in a Top 25 showdown.

AUSTIN (AP) — Fifth-ranked Colorado has been stampeding defenses.

Today, it's No. 16 Texas' turn to try to slow the Buffaloes (3-0). And the Longhorns (3-0) are prepared to see everything: option, play action pass and, oh yes, the Hail Mary.

"If that Hail Mary shows up, I promise I'll break up the play," said Longhorn safety Tre Thomas.

Of course, Thomas is talking about the most replayed sports highlight of the week, Kordell Stewart's 64-yard, tipped prayer to Michael Westbrook in the end zone that gave Colorado a 27-26 victory against Michigan with no time left.

That play padded some already impressive statistics for the 5th-ranked offense in the country, which is averaging 536 yards and 43 points per game in victories against Northeast Louisiana, No. 15 Wisconsin and No. 7 Michigan.

Take Westbrook's 120-yards-per-game receiving average and throw in the rushing threat of Rashaan Salaam, who is averaging 136 yards per game, and Stewart, who is scrambling for 73 yards per game, and Texas' defensive playbooks should be busting at the binder.

"They are the most complete offense we will see all season," said Texas linebacker Thomas Baskin. "This is the kind of offense that can put up 52 points without breaking a sweat. We have to be ready. If we can't get up for this, we shouldn't be playing."

Texas coach John Mackovic says his offense must play error-free and put up enough points to stay with Colorado.

"We can not assume that they will score only seven or 10 points," Mackovic said.

The Longhorns will rely on sophomore quarterback Shea Morenz, towering wide receiver Lovell Pinkney and the running attack of Priest Holmes and Rodrick Walker, who each had over 100 yards in last week's victory against Texas Christian.

Texas, which has also knocked off Pittsburgh and Louisville, is averaging 378 yards a game, including 180 on the ground.

The Longhorns' defense, which gave up 251 yards to a single running back against Pitt, has stiffened, allowing an average of only 59 yards on the ground to Louisville and TCU.

Texas will be without receiver Mike Adams, an All-Southwest Conference performer in 1993, who also returns punts and kicks. Adams is out for at least three weeks with an injury to his right knee from the TCU game.

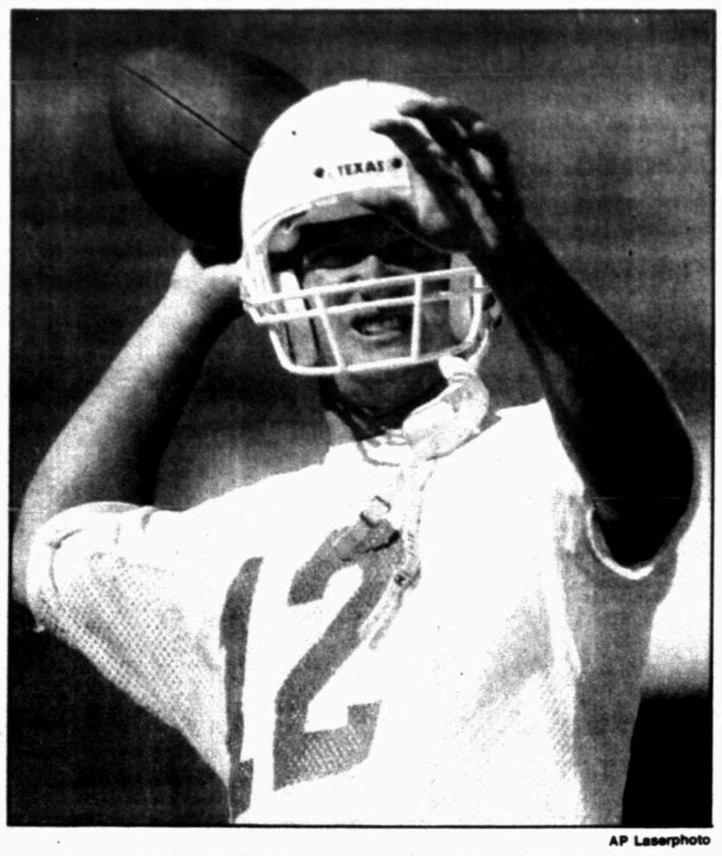

In Colorado's 36-14 victory at home against Texas last year, Adams and Pinkney each had 100-yard receiving days. But that was overshadowed by six Longhorn turnovers, three of which were turned into Buffalo touchdowns.

"Any time you play against a team that has the caliber offense that they have, your main goal is to sustain some long drives and keep them off the field as much as possible," said Morenz, who has completed 57 of 103 passes for 595 yards with two interceptions.

Colorado this year is looking to mirror the success it had in 1990.

The Buffaloes had lucky breaks in each season that resulted in victories. They also visited Texas in 1990, claiming a 29-22 victory over the Longhorns before going on to win the national championship.

Texas quarterback Shea Morenz hopes to lead his No. 16 Longhorns over No. 5 Colorado today at Austin's Memorial Stadium.

The Buffaloes aren't making any comparisons between the two seasons. Coach Bill McCartney smiles and shakes his head, refusing to allow his focus to stray from Saturday's televised 2:30 p.m. CDT kickoff.

"I feel a real sense of urgency to win (in Austin) this year," McCartney said. "We're going to catch Texas at their best. It's going to be a real difficult game and one that's going to take our best effort."

And what about any lingering thoughts of the Miracle in Michigan?

"We feel like we have been given a new lease on life," McCartney said. "We see it as a big play made to use as a springboard, not as a reason to let down."

Aggies open SWC title defense in their minds

■ No. 10 Texas A&M hosts Texas Tech at Kyle Field, where the Aggies have the longest home winning streak in the nation at 22 games.

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — The Texas Aggies want to be champions the only place they can be this season — in their own minds.

The No. 10 Aggies begin defense of their third straight Southwest Conference title Saturday against Texas Tech (2-2), although they can't compete for a fourth consecutive title because they are on NCAA probation.

But that doesn't matter to the Aggies.

"If we could go undefeated, our players, in their minds and their's only, can feel that they are the champions," coach R.C. Slocum said.

The Aggies (3-0) will place their 22-game Kyle Field winning streak — the longest home winning streak in the nation — against the Red Raiders, who gave the streak its stiffest test two years ago. The Aggies had to score on the last play of that 1992 game for a 19-17 victory.

Tech coach Spike Dykes isn't worried about the Kyle Field mystique. He's more concerned about the Aggies.

"We could play them at Crandall's Gap and I'm not sure it would matter," Dykes said. "They haven't lost much on the road either."

The A&M winning streak started in 1990 after a 20-20 tie with Baylor. They haven't lost at home since a 1989 defeat to Arkansas, a string of 27 games.

Their home success became the longest in the nation when Washington snapped Miami's 58-game unbeaten streak last Saturday.

"We're at home, can't lose at home," Aggie linebacker Antonio Armstrong said. "We haven't lost at home since I've been here. That's enough incentive for me."

The Aggies have tried to diversify their offense to include more of a passing attack but they're still devastating on the ground, led by Rodney Thomas and Leeland McElroy, whose 100-yard return with the opening kickoff highlighted last week's 41-17 victory over Southern Mississippi.

The Aggies' defense ranks No. 8 nationally in total defense and No. 5 against the rush.

"I'd have to say we expect to play good defense here," Slocum said. "Year after year, we have come up with some pretty good defensive teams. This year we not only lost players but we changed coaches too."

The Raiders lost their top three offensive performers from last season, quarterback Robert Hall, running back Bam Morris and wide receiver Lloyd Hill.

That still didn't make Slocum feel comfortable after seeing Hall's replacement, redshirt freshman Zebbie Lethridge.

"I knew they would have a good offense, even though we knew of their losses," Slocum said.

"This quarterback (Lethridge) may be a better runner than the other guy (Hall). He looks like he'd just as soon run as to throw."

NHL season delayed; no progress made

Bettman

NEW YORK (AP) — The NHL delayed the start of its season Friday and invited the players union back to the bargaining table. It said games probably would be lost if progress toward a contract was not made in the next two weeks.

The players said they would keep talking but stop skating. The NHL Players Association said its members wouldn't practice until an agreement was reached.

"It's an owners' lockout, pure and simple," NHLPA executive director Bob Goodenow said.

The actions, one day before the season was set to begin, left the NHL in much the same position as major league baseball — no contract and no play because of a contract dispute involving a salary cap.

NHL commissioner Gary Bettman said the league wanted to play a full 84-game schedule with playoffs. He said the owners wanted to start the season with a new contract but would consider playing if substantial progress had been made at the bargaining table.

"We have invited the players association back to the bargaining table immediately," Bettman said at a news conference. "I am hoping the players meant what they said yesterday, that they want to negotiate in good faith and help make a deal."

On Thursday, the union pledged to play the season without striking, provided the league dropped its lockout threat and restored contract givebacks imposed before the start of training camp.

The exhibition season ended Wednesday night and training camps officially ended today. Bettman, in announcing the postponement of the season's start, said practice sessions would continue although games would not be played.

But after discussing the situation with player representatives, Goodenow said players would stay away from practice rinks while talks continued.

"The players are professionals and will stay in shape," he said.

The NHL Board of Governors considered the union's no-strike offer during a 2½-hour conference call Thursday night. Earlier, it was feared owners had called this news conference to announce a lockout.

"Everyone wants a full season, and from that standpoint, the players association's offer is particularly seductive," Bettman said. But he said it was "not acceptable in the current environment."

Bettman said it was likely that — if the start of the season was pushed beyond Oct. 15 — games would be lost.

Bettman said that in the last four years the NHL had gone "from profit to loss. Salaries have tripled. Most teams are not profitable."

"It would be easy for me to say, 'Let's play hockey tomorrow.' We're not losing money. But I cannot ignore the well-being of my partners," said Jeremy Jacobs, owner of the Boston Bruins.

Bettman and several owners said it was imperative for the league and the players to reach agreement on major financial issues before going ahead with the season.

"We have critical issues that must be addressed, and now," said Cliff Fletcher, president of the Toronto Maple Leafs. "To be in the same position a year from now makes no sense. Before we drop the puck, a new (contract) must be in a place."

Jacobs said the owners were not trying to provoke the players.

"We're not looking for a fight," he said. "The governors have never been more united. We are looking for peace but we are fully prepared for the alternative."

Marcel Aubut, co-owner and president of the Quebec Nordiques, said the "realities of hockey" had been ignored too long.

"We are a small-market team," Aubut said. "I don't know how much longer we can proceed. If a system is not in place, we do not have a future."

From the players, the reaction was anger.

"It's plain and simply a lockout." said Stu Grimson of the Anaheim Mighty Ducks. "You can call it a two-week postponement if you'd like. Players aren't being paid. It's another installment of them trying to quash the free-market system that exists in the NHL today.

"I don't think we'll be playing hockey in two weeks. They'll continue to hold to their position and we'll continue to hold on to ours. By October 15th, we'll be in the same place we are now."

Wayne Gretzky of the Los Angeles Kings had similar comments.

"This union is going to stick together," said the league's best-known player in an interview with KCAL-TV in Los Angeles.

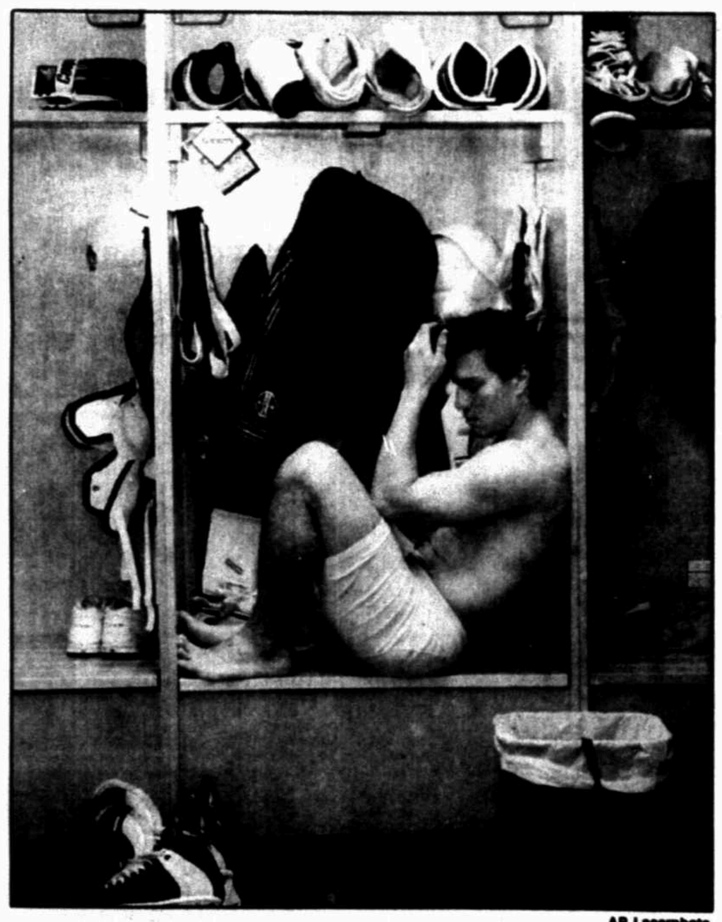

"Right now, there are huge differences and I just don't see hockey being played this year.

"'If they can't get something done in 16 months, how can they expect to get something done in two weeks? Two weeks is not going to do it."

Mark Recchi, the Philadelphia Flyers players association representative, lashed out at Bettman.

"I'm very angry," he said. "We did everything possible to try and make the season go.

"It's obvious that he had something else on his agenda all along. Basically he's been lying to the association."

Congress drops effort for antitrust exemption

NEW YORK (AP) — Congress dropped its effort to partially repeal baseball's antitrust exemption, and a group of owners and general managers met Friday to figure out how to put a 1995 season together.

Meanwhile, baseball told television officials the sport will decide in about a month whether to renew its joint venture with ABC and NBC for the 1996 season.

The strike, which began on Aug. 12, reached its 50th day Friday and matched the 1981 walkout as the sport's longest. And for the first time, management looked ahead.

"We're trying to look at a lot of different components," said Sandy Alderson, the Oakland Athletics' president and general manager.

The players' association expects owners to declare an impasse in bargaining and impose a salary cap. Management negotiator Richard Ravitch said Thursday a decision will be made in about a month.

"A negotiated settlement is infinitely preferable," said Andy MacPhail, the outgoing Minnesota Twins general manager and incoming Chicago Cubs president.

Because there's not a World Series, the union will begin filing free agents on Oct. 16. General managers aren't sure how to proceed with reshaping their teams, so acting commissioner Bud Selig established the operations committee, which met for the first time Friday.

"Right now, you're probably in a holding pattern," Florida Marlins general manager Dave Dombrowski said.

Congress kept the effort to remove the antitrust exemption on hold for this year. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum withdrew his legislation after it became clear he didn't have enough votes. A similar measure passed the House Judiciary Committee, but Metzenbaum was blocked as Congress moved toward its scheduled adjournment next week.

Sen. J. James Exon, a Nebraska Democrat who blocked Metzenbaum's bill from moving to the Senate floor earlier this month, said the lawmakers may remove the exemption when they return next year.

"The 1994 baseball season for whatever reason is over. It is kaput," he said. "I am willing to consider in January whether we should lift the exemption baseball now has from antitrust law."

Players claim the exemption leads to labor struggles because they are powerless to sue owners under antitrust law. Union head Donald Fehr, speaking in Santa Fe, N.M., said players would push for the repeal when Congress reconvenes.

"If there is not a settlement (by then), spring training is not only in jeopardy, it's in dire and immediate jeopardy," Fehr said. "And I think that has a reasonable chance of getting somebody's attention."

The U.S. Supreme Court created the exemption in 1922 but said in 1972 that Congress could remove it.

"The real message today should be a wake-up call to baseball," said Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, who sponsored the bill with Metzenbaum. "If you do not want Congress to be involved, then settle this dispute yourself."

Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, is retiring after this session as is Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., the measure's sponsor in the House. The both say they are confident others will reintroduce the legislation in Janaury.

"Senator Metzenbaum's attempt to repeal baseball's antitrust exemption would have been defeated by about a two-thirds majority in the Senate," Selig said. "It is the position of the clubs that the labor laws of our country are based on the concept of free collective bargaining, without governmental intervention."

On the television front, The Baseball Network held a board meeting in New York on Thursday. The joint venture would automatically renew for 1996 if combined revenue for 1994 and 1995 reached $330 million, but that figure probably is unattainable because of the strike, leaving owners free to terminate the deal.

The deal, unique among the major sports, is risk free for the networks because baseball gets a share of advertising revenue instead of a rights fee. The union and a few owners have said baseball could get more money in a traditional deal.

Also Friday, New York State Labor Commissioner John Hudacs ruled that striking players won't be able to collect unemployment benefits. Hudacs cited state labor law that prohibits professional athletes from collecting benefits between seasons.

Hudacs decided the season ended Sept. 14, when owners canceled the World Series, and ruled players are ineligible because there is a reasonable chance the 1995 season will start as scheduled, Labor Department spokeswoman Kathy Do said.

New York and Rhode Island are the only states that allow striking workers to collect unemployment.

Irvan released from hospital

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Winston Cup driver Ernie Irvan was released from a hospital Friday, five weeks after he almost died following a wreck at Michigan International Speedway.

Irvan sustained life-threatening brain and lung injuries Aug. 20 in a crash during practice for the Goodwrench Dealer 400.

He recuperated in a Michigan hospital before he was moved in mid-September to the Charlotte Rehabilitation Hospital at Carolinas Medical Center. He left Friday morning for his home in Concord, about 20 miles northeast of Charlotte, with his wife, said hospital spokesman Alan Taylor.

"He'll undergo some exercises at home, and he'll come back to the hospital three times a week for some therapy," Taylor said.

Irvan, 35, apparently plans to visit the garage area next week at Charlotte Motor Speedway, where the Mello Yello 500 will be held Oct. 9.

AREA FOOTBALL REPORT

Levelland stops Big Spring, 28-7

LEVELLAND — The Levelland Lobos put a 28-7 haymaker on the Big Spring Steers here Friday night in a non-conference Class 4A matchup.

Levelland took a 22-0 lead in the first half and coasted to victory. Justin Thoms scored two touchdowns and passed for 17 yards to Levi Hayes for another score to key the win. James Fortner also had a Lobo TD.

Big Spring's Quentin Dickson scored on a nine-yard run in the third quarter and that was the only offensive effort to bring points for the 2-2 Steers. Levelland is now 4-1.

Levelland had 294 total yards while Big Spring managed only 191 yards.

Big Spring opens District 4-4A play next weekend, hosting San Angelo Lake View at 7:30 p.m.

Mustangs erupt over Crane, 51-11

DENVER CITY — Guy Kinman cuaght two touchdown passes to lead Denver City to a huge 51-11 win over the Crane Golden Cranes here Friday night.

Denver City scored 23 points in the second quarter after trailing in the first period 5-0. Crane's Quinten Robertson had 95 yards rushing on 17 carries.

Denver City's David Azam scored a touchdown in addition to throwing three TD passes, two to Kinman, who had 83 yards in receptions on three catches.

Coahoma blanks Hawley, 49-0

HAWLEY — The Coahoma Bulldogs improved to 4-1 here Friday night with a 49-0 whipping of Hawley in high school football action.

Coahoma quarterback Brandon McGuire ran for three touchdowns and threw for another in leading the Bulldogs, who racked up 369 yards rushing and threw for 68 more. Behind McGuire's three consecutive TDs to open the first quarter, Coahoma powered to a 22-0 lead. Kelby Bailey added a nine-yard run to end the quarter.

Trinity outlasts Marathon, 40-34

MARATHON — Trinity scored two touchdowns in the fourth quarter to stake a 40-34 victory over Marathon here Friday night.

The score was tied at 26-26 going in the fourth where the Chargers outscored the Mustangs 14-8.

Trinity rallied for a 20-18 halftime lead after falling behind 18-8 in the first quarter. The Chargers outscored the Mustangs 12-0 in the second period.

Trinity improved to 3-2 for the season and host Midlothian Christian Friday. Marathon fell to 2-3.

Littlefield scores comeback win

LAMESA — Lamesa lost a 21-7 halftime lead and then lost the game to Littlefield Friday when the Class 3A school scored 27 points in the second half. The 34-28 loss dropped Lamesa to 2-3. Littlefield is now 4-1.

The Golden Tornado took their first half lead when Ernie Morales scored on runs of one and eight yards. Max Kelly also scored on a 17-yard return of a blocked punt.

But in the second half Littlefield's Michael Benton got two of his three touchdowns with runs of one and 34 yards and Chris Thompson scored on a 62-yard pass from Joey Polk.

Lamesa's only second half tally came on a 64-yard run by Robby Trevino. The Tornadoes begin district play next week at Frenship.

'STANGS: Fisher TD covers 68 yards

(From 1C)

runner Kevin Lawrence carried the ball only three times and reinjured his ankle on two of those carries. His 12-yard run in the second quarter gave Andrews their first first down. But he left the game and carried only one more time after that.

So the Mustangs took to the air with quarterback Chris Miller throwing 15 times.

"The line up and average 240 pounds on the front," Lebby said of Monterey's defensive line. "We didn't have a lot of choice (but to throw)."

Fisher's touchdown put the Mustangs back in the game. He caught the ball from Miller on the sideline, broke two tackles and cut back into the middle somehow blasting through three Plainsmen who had the anlge on him. But that and a more or less meaningless touchdown with 19 seconds to play were all Andrews could put on the scoreboard.

"Coming off a real disappointing loss in our first district game we were concerned about how our kids would play against a non-distirct opponent," Monterey coach Buster Leaf said. "We've lost two games and we just needed to win a football game."

The Plainsmen's didn't exactly pile up impressive yardage totals. And the lost two fumbles and an interception. But with 6-foot-3, 220-pound junior running back Aaron Humphrey, looking out of place in the backfield with No. 99, leading the way, Monterey's four scoring drives were more than enough. Humphrey had 93 yards on 14 carries.

Monterey finished with about the same yardage on the ground (93) and in tghe air (87).

"We had to (balance our offense) because of injuries," Leaf said. "We're not known for that. We're pretty conservative on offense."

Dee Buchanan threw two touchdown passes for Monterey, the second 22 yards to Corey Jones to put his team up 20-6 with 7:50 left in the third quarter.

"We've played a tough schedule but that's no excuse," Lebby said. "In every game we played competitive. We could very easily be 3-2, but we're not."

Miller had enough success with the passing game, mostly in the second half, to complete 10 passes for 155 yards. Fisher was his usual productive self, catching for 99 yards and getting 71 yards in kickoff returns.

"Maybe October will be our month," Lebby said. "That's what we're looking for."

Lobos make "Case" for defense

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — A school-record six touchdown passes and 599 yards of total offense. If only Stoney Case could play linebacker too.

While Case has become one of the nation's most productive quarterbacks, New Mexico is 0-4, victimized by a young defensive unit whose generosity exceeds even Case's ability to put points on the scoreboard.

Case, the senior from Odessa threw six TD passes last week against Brigham Young and the Lobos finished with 599 total yards. It wasn't enough as BYU found enough holes in New Mexico's defense for a 49-47 win.

This week the Lobos face Western Athletic Conference leader Colorado State, which at 4-0 is off to its best start since 1977 and nationally ranked (No. 24).

The Rams, the WAC leaders at 3-0, possess an aggressive defense which has been especially tough against the pass, giving up less than 88 yards per game in a conference noted for offense. CSU is second in the conference behind Utah in scoring defense, giving up 18.8 points a game.

An indication of how good CSU's defense has been is the fact that opponents have not been able to get any points from the eight turnovers the CSU offense has committed in four games.

New Mexico, thanks to Case's prolific arm, is first in the WAC in passing (299.3 ypg) and second in scoring (34.5 ppg). Case ranks second nationally in total offense, averaging 328.5 yards a game, and barring injury will become the ninth player in NCAA history to produce 2,500 yards or more of total offense in three straight seasons.

But the numbers on the defensive side are just as offensive. The Lobos are allowing more than 526 yards and 41 points per game and so far no amount of offense has been enough.

A 17-0 first half lead against Texas Tech in the season opener evaporated into a 37-31 loss.

The next week New Mexico had 596 total yards against TCU, but the Horned Frogs got 606 yards in a 44-29 win. Most of the damage was done by TCU halfback Andre Davis, whose 325 yards rushing was nine more than what Emmitt Smith got against New Mexico in 1989, his final year at Florida.

That loss wasted one of Case's best days ever — 37 pass completions, 403 yards passing and 464 total yards.

Case threw two more touchdown passes the following week and New Mexico scored 31 points, but SMU went 80 yards in the final 2½ minutes to pull out a 34-31 win.

New Mexico has 10 redshirt or true freshmen, three sophomores and only seven seniors on its two-deep defensive chart. And as the psychological wounds mount, coach Dennis Franchione worries about morale.

"I've told them it's not wrong to hurt after a loss, but it's wrong to hurt too long," said Franchione. "I didn't see any residue from Saturday (the BYU loss)."

Case, a former prep star at Odessa Permian High School, says there are no signs of dissension between the offense and defense.

"I'm keeping it as positive as possible," said Case. "We won't point fingers."

Redshirt freshman linebacker Blake Irwin, who had 17 tackles against BYU, found that playing before 60,000 fans in Provo can be a little intimidating.

BUFFS: Davis scores three TDs

(From 1C)

Drake finished with 221 yards rushing on 31 carries. He had two rushing touchdowns and one receiving. Copeland finished with 181 yards on 21 carries and two touchdowns.

Stanton's Todd Davis finished with three touchdowns rushing on 157 yards in 13 carries. Jerele Lee contributed 102 yards on 19 carries for the Buffaloes.

Stanton took a 21-20 lead into intermission when reserve quarterback Taylor Looney slipped into the game and lined up at wide receiver. He took a pitch from J.J. Ortiz and found Cody Hirt wide open down the sideline for a 75-yard touchdown pass play with 32 seconds left in the second quarter. The play followed an Iraan fumble after the Braves had driven to Stanton's 23.

The Braves had dominated the time of possession in the second quarter. On the 13-play drive Drake carried 10 times before capping the drive with a 9-yard reception from Lance Harvey.

Three plays later, though, Davis scored his second touchdown. Kenneth Kendall's point-after gave the Buffaloes a 14-12 lead.

Drake countered 10 plays later with a 5-yard run. Harvey then gave Iraan a 20-14 lead with a conversion run.

Stanton (4-1) begins District 6-2A play next week at Forsan. Iraan travels to Ozona.

RANKIN: Red Devils try late win offense, but with injuries to four Rankin quarterbacks this season, he has had to step in at the helm.

(From 1C)

Though Rankin had a shot at winning the game, the Red Devils were dead in the water in the first half, as the Eagles flew up and down the field in the first half.

Sanderson, 2-3, rolled up 207 yards of offense in the first half, while holding the Red Devils to only 68 yards of offense.

The Eagles almost put away Rankin during the first two quarters. The Eagles drew first blood in the first period on an 86-yard run by quarteback Efrain Gallegos. Gallegos faked a pitch to the inside then dashed down the sidelines for the touchdown.

In the second quarter, Gallegoes engineered a 14-play, 68-yard drive which was culminated when he hit Buddy Eldridge with an 18 yard scoring pass in the endzone an a 15-0 lead.

The drive which chewed up nearly eight minutes of the second quarter clock, took a toll on the battered and beaten up Red Devils.

"I knew that with the rich winning tradition that Rankin has, they weren't going to lay down and die," said Sanderson coach Gary Durham, who used to coach in Rankin.

And Durham was right.

Rankin took the opening kickoff in the third quarter and went 63 yards for its first score. Evridge finished the scoring march with a one-yard run. They missed the PAT and trailed 15-6.

"Our kids showed a lot of heart, especially in the second half," said Sanchez. Unfortunatley, they also picked up a lot of hankies at the wrong time."

The Eagles followed up the Rankin score with a touchdown of their own. Sanderson came up with a 73-yard drive, however, 39 of those yards came courtesy of the Red Devils as the result of penalties.

"Some of those flags just dropped at the wrong time for them. Sometimes it's better to be good than lucky," Durham said.

A pass interference call against Rankin put the ball at the Red Devil one. One play later Gallegos snuck in for the score. But the Eagles failed on the two-point conversion and led 21-6 with 5:05 left in the quarter.

The Red Devils were far from dead though. On their next possesion, which began at the 40, Victor Castillo blasted off a 20 yard run, and the officials tacked on a 15 yard unsportsmanlike penalty against Sanderson.

Two plays later, Castillo busted into the endzone for the score. He also added the two-point try. Rankin now trailed 21-14.

While the offense was getting on track, the Rankin defense began shutting down the Eagles. On two other possesions in the fourth quarter, they allowed only 16 yards of offense.

Rankin then received two more opportunities to possibly win the game. Their first chance came up short at the Sanderson 20, after driving from their own 40-yard line.

Their second and final march came with 1:54 to play when they began their final march just inside the 50. On six plays they got down to the Sanderson 10-yard line.

Said Durham, "I really thought they had us when two of those passes were almost caught. It was just our night."

"I was really encouraged by the way our guys fought back," said Sanchez. "I hope that will give us a lift for our district opener next week."

Rankin will host Menard in the District 8-A opener next Friday.

COOPER: 'Dogs hang tough in the first half drives from its own 18-yard line or worse.

(From 1C)

Cooper's defense clamped down on MHS, limiting the 'Dogs to just 68 yards offensively in the first half. Sixty-one of those yards came in one drive that gobbled up 6:06 of the second quarter and kept the ball away from the Cougs offense.

Allen was the straw that stirred the Cooper drink, passing for 262 yards and two touchdowns. He also ran for 43 yards on nine carries and kept the state's leading offense clicking from the no-huddle formation as the Cougs matched its season average of 445 yards offensively, tops in the state.

Looking more like Frank Tarkington than a high school senior, Allen changed plays at the line of scrimmage and kept the Midland defense honest with a balance of the run and pass.

"He's definitely the sparkplug," said Cooper coach and father Randy Allen. "He has a good cast of skill people and a good offensive line, too. The key for us is for him to keep it balanced with the run and pass. I think when you play a good football team, it is important that you are not limited to one phase of the game.

"I thought Midland was vastly improved from a year ago. Their offense did a good job of keeping the football away from our offense and their defense played very well. They were very well conditioned and well disciplined."

In the first half, the Bulldogs played virtually on even terms, with the exception of an 80-yard pass from Allen to Miles Durham. Allen called an audible on the play and caught the Midland secondary shifted to the wrong side of the field, leaving Durham streaking down the left side of the field for the score.

Leaverton turned into one of Reeger's best weapons of the night. After allowing 158 yards in punt returns to Midland Lee's Jerry Stanford in last week's 37-0 loss, Leaverton kicked eight punts for a 42.4 yard average and allowed only one punt to be returned — the 48-yard scamper by Brandon Berg to set up Cooper's second touchdown in the third period.

Leaverton also booted a 49-yard field, to snap a string of six scoreless quarters in the third period to end the shutout at 29-3.

Roy Coats, the state's second leading rusher in Class 5A, rushed for 102 yards on 27 carries. Coats gathered his yards in spurts, gobbling up 43 yards in the first quarter and then 40 more in the third period.

"Roy has been sick all week and got sick on the field so we had to take him out for a spell," said Reeger. "I thought Michael Acrey (three carries for 23 yards) did a great job. He hadn't seen that many reps this week offensively. I was proud of the way he responded."

Midland returns to action next Friday when they host Odessa Permian at Memorial Stadium.

REBELS: Strambler scores 3 touchdowns

(From 1C)

31, 32 and three yards.

"I really didn't feel any pressure," Strambler said. "All I wanted to do was go out and give 100 percent on every play and try to help the team. It was wonderful to get a chance to start and do something with it."

After the game, Dunson, armed with a sling, joked with Strambler, saying, "You're getting all my press. It should be me out there doing that."

Offensive lineman Rex Tucker said, "The line felt like we had to go out and pick it up an extra step and help Strambler out. We did that."

Miller was still adopting a wait-and-see attitude about how the loss of Dunson would drain the team.

"Strambler rose to the occasion tonight, but he's no Dunson," Miller said. "What would you rather have out there? An experienced senior, or a junior who I can outrun on a good day. But we have to go with what we have and that was pretty good today."

But it was diversity that made the Rebel attack strong. Quarterback Dedrick Adams had 62 yards rushing and Theo Macklin had 85 yards rushing and two touchdowns. Adams only went to the air twice without a completion, making it the first game that wide receiver Jerry Stanford hadn't caught a pass this year.

Still, Stanford did it again. He broke an 84-yard punt return for a touchdown and had three punt returns in all for 117 yards. He has had over 100 yards in punt returns for three consecutive games.

And the Lee defense was superb again. The Rebel Brigade held the Eagles to a mere 36 total yards in the first half while the offense produced 214 yards, all rushing.

The defense even turned in a TD when Fred Pertile sacked AHS quarterback John Lackey, forcing a fumble. Linebacker Michael Jones picked up the ball and scored from 17 yards out. Lee Lauderdale also had an interception.

"The defense gave up something like 35 yards in the first half. That was great for us. It set the tone of the game early," Miller said. "This game scares me to death because we were coming off an emotional win and had some adversity losing the running back.

"I don't think Abilene High played as well as they can. We got them down quick and they were also coming off an emotional game with (Abilene) Cooper."

Lee is now 5-0 on the season, but more importantly, 2-0 in District 4-5A play. AHS is 1-4 and 0-2. Lee will now travel to Odessa High next Friday night. Lee has lost to the Bronchos two years in a row.

Jordan in Arizona for Fall League

PHOENIX (AP) — Michael Jordan moves his quest of becoming a major leaguer to Arizona today as he begins training with his new club, the Scottsdale Scorpions.

The former Chicago Bulls All-Star was scheduled to report today, but Arizona Fall League officials did not know if Jordan would work out or just attend meetings.

Jordan is coming from workouts in the Florida Instructional League after his first season of professional baseball.

Jordan's appearance in Arizona has sparked interest in a league which has drawn only a few dozen fans a game in its first two seasons.

Major league teams send their six top minor league prospects to play a two-month schedule in the six-team league.

The Chicago White Sox had named their six and needed an exemption from the commissioner's office to allow Jordan to play with the Scorpions.

The team opens its schedule Thursday against Tempe.

Jordan will be managed by the same man who managed him at Double-A Birmingham this summer, Terry Francona.

Francona knows all about the media blitz he and Jordan will face.

"At the beginning of the season, it was a little bit hectic," he said. "And it was the same the first time we went into every town. They all wanted a piece of him."

Francona was impressed with Jordan, particularly over the last three weeks of the season when Jordan hit .300 (12-for-40).

"He accomplished a ton," Francona said. "He improved drastically in every area. More than anything, his knowledge of the game improved. That's why I think you'll see the rest of his game improve."

Cooper JV tops error-prone MHS

Abilene Cooper defeated Midland High 27-12 in junior varsity football action Thursday night at Memorial Stadium.

Cooper drove 54 yards on its second possession to take a 7-0 lead. The Cougars then converted three consecutive MHS turnovers into a 27-0 lead.

The Bulldogs scored in the second quarter on an 18-yard run by Antron Adkison. In the fourth MHS got a 2-yard plunge by Sam Powell, who finished with 116 yards rushing for the Bulldogs.

Nick Stapleton, Richard Henigan and Ronnie Gutierrez had catches for MHS while Horace Doyce recovered a fumble for the Bulldog defense.

MHS, which fell to 2-2, travels to Odessa Permian Thursday for a 7 p.m. game at Ratliff Stadium.

Townsend ignites Bobcats over Bronchos

Staff Report

SAN ANGELO — San Angelo Central quarterback Bobby Townsend threw for two touchdowns and ran for two more as the Bobcats opened District 4-5A play here Friday night with a 33-21 victory over a slumping Odessa High.

OHS, figured to be the district dark horse this year, fell to 4-2 for the season, but is now 0-2 in 4-5A play. The Bronchos can't lose another district game and expect to stay in the playoff hunt.

Meanwhile, San Angelo has now vaulted into the dark horse role on the arm and legs of Townsend. The Bobcats are now 2-1-2 for the season and 1-0 in loop play.

Townsend scored on a 25-yard run in the first quarter to tie OHS at 7-7 and then hit Jeremy Johnson for a 34-yard score for a 14-7 lead, one they never surrendered.

Townsend also scored on a 1-yard run and hit Jeremy Speciale with a 33-yard scoring pass in the fourth quarter to put the game away.

The Bobcats rolled out 373 total yards with Toby Davis knocking down 144 of them and a touchdown. OHS' Laqueency Williams had 120 yards rushing and a TD while Tavares Fowler scored two TDs for the Bronchos.

Townsend had 85 yards rushing and another 143 passing yards to account for four of Central's scores.

The Bronchos face the tough task of staying alive in the 4-5A race next week when they host the unbeaten Midland Lee Rebels, a 49-14 winner over Abilene High.

San Angelo travels to 0-2 Abilene High next week before hitting Lee the following week in Midland.

Sanders pleads not guilty to misdemeanor

CINCINNATI (AP) — Deion Sanders pleaded innocent on Friday to a misdemeanor charge stemming from his confrontation with a police officer at Riverfront Stadium.

The Cincinnati Reds outfielder was indicted Sept. 23 on a charge of failure to comply with a police officer's order. His lawyers entered a written plea on his behalf before Judge Robert Ruehlman of Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.

Sanders was arrested Aug. 8 and charged with misdemeanor counts of failing to provide a driver's license and resisting arrest during a confrontation with an off-duty police officer working as a guard at Riverfront Stadium.

The officer said Sanders, who made the last out in a game that night, tried to leave on his motorscooter through a pedestrian gate, argued when stopped and then drove away when told he was under arrest. The officer, Herb Kohus, said he was dragged 30-40 feet.

Police upgraded the charges on Sept. 9, tacking on a felony count of failure to comply with a police officer's order and two more misdemeanor counts of fleeing the scene after an accident.

The case then went to the Hamilton County grand jury, which failed to indict Sanders on the felony count. It indicted him instead on the misdemeanor charge of failure to comply with a police officer's order.

The remaining four misdemeanor charges are being handled in municipal court. Hearings are scheduled on those charges later this month.

Sanders' lawyer, Kenneth Lawson, said Friday that he would like to see all the charges consolidated into one case.

Sanders now plays cornerback for the San Francisco 49ers, signing with the NFL team after the strike-shortened baseball season was called off by the owners.

Hurley jury does not reach verdict, reconvenes Monday

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A jury deliberated about two hours on Friday without reaching a verdict in the trial of a motorist involved in a near-fatal collision with Sacramento Kings guard Bobby Hurley.

The seven women and five men retired for the weekend and are scheduled to convene again on Monday.

Deputy district attorney A.J. Pongratz argued during the four-day trial that Daniel Wieland had his headlights off the night of Dec. 12, 1993, when his station wagon slammed into the basketball player's four-wheel-drive vehicle near Arco Arena.

Hurley, the Kings' first-round draft pick last year, was not wearing a seat belt and was thrown into a half-filled drainage ditch. He suffered broken ribs and severe injuries to his lungs and back.

Defense lawyer Michael Brady claimed Wieland had his lights on and that Hurley rolled through a stop sign. He said Hurley was severely injured because he wasn't wearing a seat belt and his vehicle had a faulty door latch.

The 23-year-old point guard testified Wednesday that he saw no headlights when he turned into Wieland's path and he blamed Wieland for the accident. He also said he is considering a civil suit against Toyota, maker of his vehicle.

Turner prodigies meet at RFK

ASHBURN, Va. (AP) — Redskins coach Norv Turner would like to duplicate with rookie quarterback Heath Shuler the success he had tutoring Troy Aikman as an assistant with the Dallas Cowboys.

But Turner, in his first year with Redskins after serving as an assistant with the Cowboys, would be happy to develop with his new team even a semblance of the rapport he had with Aikman in Dallas.

On Sunday at RFK Stadium, Turner's quarterback of the future makes his first NFL start.

Across the field will be Aikman, whom Turner helped mold into a two-time Super Bowl champion, and with whom Turner developed a relationship he describes as the kind that comes along only once in a while.

"It was unique because it was the first opportunity to really go in and try to put an offense together," Turner said. "And with Troy, he was struggling, he had not had much success, he was hungry and eager, and basically said, 'Hey listen, I'll do anything you ask me to do.'

"So it was a perfect fit in terms of two guys that needed each other. And he's really a special person."

Aikman agreed their friendship had a rare quality. He said he didn't expect to have time on this visit for a meal with Turner and his wife, Nancy, as he used to do in Dallas, but an on-field handshake would have to suffice.

"It was a friendship that shares a lot of memories and a lot of good times," Aikman said. "I miss Norv for a lot of reasons. Certainly he and I had a good relationship while he was here, and still do to this day.

"He was a great football coach, so he helped me in that regard. It's hard to see friends go at any point. We're all very happy for Norv getting the head coaching job there at Washington.

Turner hopes to develop Shuler, picked in the first round of the draft (third overall) out of Tennessee, into his Aikman of the future. But it's early yet, and he knows better than to try to predict whether the chemistry will be the same.

"My situation is going to be different here, in terms of, we have a quarterback coach (Cam Cameron), and obviously I'm very involved with the quarterbacks, so I think that's going to be a different deal," he said.

"But I'd like to hope that with a bunch of the e players over a long period of time you feel those friendships, and as much as friendship, I think, it's that feeling that you're helping them and they're helping you. And that's the great thing about competing in athletics and the great thing about players depending on each other.

"You get to know each other so well when you're out there competing. And you depend on each other so much, it's a great feeling, a great relationship."

Shuler says he can't address the personal side of the player-coach equation at this point, but says he hopes eventually to be as good as Aikman.

"I think there's a lot of similarities and things that Troy and I can do and a lot of differences," Shuler said. "And I think, obviously, he's at a level that a lot of quarterbacks never accomplish, and I'm in a situation where I'm only working to strive to get to the level that he's at, the success that he's had thus far. So there's always a lot of things that you can look up to a quarterback like him, but then again you want to be your own quarterback, be your own person."

Jimmy Spencer rides with a doll from his sponsor McDonald's after winning the pole in the Tyson-Holly Farms 400.

Spencer swipes pole start from teammate Bill Elliott

■ Tyson-Holly Farms

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Jimmy Spencer and Bill Elliott gave team owner Junior Johnson a front-row sweep Friday in qualifying for Sunday's Tyson-Holly Farms 400 at North Wilkesboro Speedway.

Johnson, whose race shops are located just 10 miles down the road in Ronda, wasn't even on hand to watch Spencer nip Elliott for his first Winston Cup pole position on the half-mile oval. Spencer beat Elliott by one-thousandth of a second.

The car owner had already left the track to take care of some other business and did not get to see Elliott knock series point leader Dale Earnhardt off the pole as the 39th of 42 Friday qualifiers.

Earnhardt had established the target at 118.377 mph midway through the qualifying sesson.

Elliott, driving one of Johnson's Ford Thunderbirds, raised that to 118.552. But, after just one other qualifier, Spencer went out and turned a 118.558.

"That's my first-ever pole and it feels pretty darn good," said a grinning Spencer. "It's not as good as winnning a race, but real good."

Earnhardt, who comes into the weekend with a 217-point lead over Rusty Wallace with five races remaining.

Steelers, Oilers slump into showdown

PITTSBURGH (AP) — When he coached the Pittsburgh Steelers, Chuck Noll believed in having two plans for every game: one for "ahead" football and the other for "behind" football.

This season, the Steelers (2-2) have needed only one game plan: way-behind football.

Football has been played in four quarters almost since it was invented, but the Steelers, who have trailed by at least 10 points in every game, seem convinced it's necessary to play only three good ones to win.

The Steelers' stubborn refusal to play anything other than come-from-behind football began last season, when they fell behind early in eight of their last 10 games. Over the last two seasons, they have been outscored 99-41 in the first quarter, including a 24-3 disadvantage this season.

What's behind all this, coach Bill Cowher?

"What do you say? They're aware of it," Cowher replied. "What do you say if you don't get off to a quick start? You can't throw in the towel. Seattle hit a big play on us in the first quarter (Sunday), but we go down and kick a field goal and it's a 7-3 game — we're not ahead, but we're not out of it."

That came later as Neil O'Donnell threw a career-high four interceptions in a 30-13 loss that prevented the Steelers from tying Cleveland (3-1) for their AFC Central Division lead. It also might have kept the Steelers from an uncharacteristically good start.

The Steelers haven't opened 5-1 since their last Super Bowl season in 1979, but they could have equaled that by beating Seattle and winning at home against Houston (1-3) on Monday and Cincinnati (0-4) on Oct. 16. The Steelers are favored to beat the Oilers, and will be favored over Cincinnati.

Of course, the Steelers might not know how to play with a lead.

"We talk about it every week, not putting yourself in a hole ... but you can talk about it all you want and if you don't go out and do something about it, it means nothing," said Darren Perry, who leads the NFL with five interceptions.

Cowher knows how critical a good start can be not only on Sunday or Monday, but also all season. Two years ago, the Steelers seized the momentum by upsetting division favorite Houston in the opener en route to a 6-2 start. The Oilers never caught up.

Last year, the Steelers never rallied after opening 0-2, and Houston took the division by winning 11 in a row after a 1-4 start.

"We'd like to be sitting here at 4-0, we'd like to be sitting here at 3-1 but the reality is we're 2-2 and there's still a lot we can accomplish," Cowher said.

The Oilers aren't concerned as much with their slow start as who is healthy enough to start. Quarterback Cody Carlson already has injured his shoulder and broken his nose, and running back Gary Brown (ankle) probably won't play. Wide receiver Haywood Jeffires also isn't 100 percent.

The injuries have complicated a manpower transition in which a roster full of free agents left, including wide receiver Curtis Duncan, cornerback Steve Jackson and defensive end Sean Jones and William Fuller. Plus, center Mike Munchak retired and quarterback Warren Moon was traded.

"When you lose a quarterback like Warren Moon who has thrown for something like 20,000 yards it's going to hurt you, but Cody is a good quarterback and we're expecting good things from him," cornerback Chris Dishman said.

Tarpley return sparks Dallas contract offer

DALLAS (AP) — Roy Tarpley, who led the Dallas Mavericks to prominence in the late 1980s before his personal problems triggered the franchise's collapse, was allowed Friday to return to the NBA.

The Mavericks said a contract that would pay the 7-footer between $2.5 million and $3 million per season will be faxed to his agent by Monday. The deal is expected to be signed by the opening of training camp Friday.

"I'm grateful to the people who have stood by me the last three years," Tarpley said in a statement released through the team. "I'm excited to be back."

NBA commissioner David Stern approved Tarpley's return almost three years after his so-called lifetime ban and about five months after he had applied for reinstatement.

"He is working hard, he recognizes the extraordinary opportunity that he now has, and he understands what is at stake if he is unable to remain drug free," Stern said in a written statement.

Tarpley, 29, was banned Oct. 16, 1991, for refusing to take a drug test. It was his third violation of the league's substance abuse policy. He first sought help in 1987 and he got in trouble again Jan. 5, 1989.

In five seasons with the Mavericks, Tarpley averaged 12.6 points and 10.5 rebounds.

Dallas made Tarpley the seventh overall pick in the 1986 draft and, in his second season, he won the league's Sixth Man award as the Mavericks came within one victory of the NBA Finals.

But due to injuries and suspension, Tarpley played only 69 of a possible 246 games from 1989-91. Once he left, the team spiraled downward and has had the worst record in the league the past two seasons.

"It's 4 U" Game

Winners:

Frances Gronow - Midland
Jeanette McElyea - Midland
Cory Edmonson - Midland
Wayne Foster - Midland
Margaret Ortiz - Odessa
Cindy Carnes - Odessa
Trey Grey - Midland
Judie Bridges - Midland
Dawn Harrow - Midland
Jacqueline Manning - Midland
Ida Alferez - Midland

Rules:

Anyone 18 years or older can enter except employees (and family members of employees) of the Midland Reporter-Telegram, Brite systems Inc., Associated Publishing Co., and their advertising and promotion agencies.

The "It's 4 U" Game is designed for people who live in the Midland and Odessa calling areas and no purchase is required to play or win prizes, although long distance toll charges may apply if you call from outside the Midland-Odessa calling area.

Look for the "It's 4 U" Game ad here and in the advertisers' service directory in the Midland Reporter-Telegram every day until November 5, 1994. Call 560-2400 and enter any four-digit advertiser's code listed in the directory. You will hear a brief advertiser's message and, if you are one of five instant winners chosen at random each week, you will win one of that week's prizes. If you are an instant winner, listen for details about claiming your prize. In order to claim your prize, you will be required to give your name, age, address and telephone number. The more often you call, the better your chance of winning a prize.

You can also enter a second chance drawing for unclaimed prizes by hand printing your complete name and address and daytime phone number on a 3"x5" piece of paper and mailing it in an envelope to "It's 4 U" Second Chance Game, P.O. Box 1650, Midland, Texas 79702, so that it is received before the deadline, October 30, 1994. Enter as often as you wish, but submit only one entry in each envelope. Entries become the property of the sponsors. None will be returned.

Each game begins at 12:01 a.m. Monday and ends at 11:59 p.m. Sunday. Each week for eight weeks ending November 5, 1994, five entries will be selected at random and will win one of that week's prize. The total value of all prizes to be awarded in the "It's 4 U" game will equal $4,000 or more. The names and cities of winners will be published in the Midland Reporter-Telegram Classified Ads page. No substitution of prizes is permitted. Only one prize will be awarded to each winner.

By entering, winners authorize the use of their names, cities or photos for publicity purposes. Winners may be required to sign an affidavit of eligibility and release. Taxes are the responsibility of winners. Void where prohibited.

Get rid of your hang-ups...

And your throw aways, fold-ups and hand-me-downs, too. Hold your own garage sale. Get rid of your unwanted itmes and make money at the same time! When you advertise your garage sale in the Midland Reporter-Telegram classifieds, you'll be getting your message out to more than 46,000 readers! Turn your cast-offs into cash. Advertise your garage sale in the classifieds today!
