Labor Day is coming up Monday. This national holiday which was set up to honor the working man and woman has become just another day to stretch a week for loafing or playing, neither of which has much to do with "a hard day's work."

Remember that slogan, "a day's pay for a day's work?" I think it was back when people really worked for their pay, or maybe worked six days a week for very little pay. This is when labor unions got into the act, and they served the working man well until they got so fat and corrupt and so "all powerful," they began to demand too much from management.

The decline of the railroad industry can be traced directly to the union. America's auto industry is in serious trouble as a direct result of union demands and many $25 an hour auto worker is out of work because of his union's demands. America can't compete with foreign auto makers because of the outrageous wages and benefits demanded by union-workers. Air traffic controllers are unemployed, simply because they followed union orders in an illegal strike. Their leader is now saying it wasn't greed but improved working conditions the union wanted and he wants to negotiate. Before the strike, the government wanted to negotiate. It's been awhile since we've had a leader who says what he is going to do, then does it, and it fell the air traffic controllers' lot to have this brought home to them and to the nation.

Most people don't belong to a union and have the freedom to decide when they are overworked and underpaid and the freedom to look for another job if they are unhappy under present conditions. This is what America is all about and this is what Labor Day was all about, not a day for labor unions to stage parades and have speeches from union officials. In the past thirty years we have seen the union worker go from a highly skilled individual with pride in his work to a sloppy craftman who could care less as long as he gets overpaid and receives his benefits whether he has earned them or not. The time is right for the decline and fall of powerful labor unions. Public opinion has made this very clear, and nobody would be hurt except the officials, who didn't come up from the ranks like their predecessors.

Perhaps we can look forward to a Labor Day of free-thinking laborers who take pride in their work and steer their own ship, without orders from the labor union bosses. Not this Labor Day, but perhaps not too far in the future. Nearly everyone had rather have a job than be a union member, anyone worth his or her salt, that is.

The Lion's Roar has a new look this year and we are proud to publish it. We think you will enjoy it too. This is the first edition and it's put together by Ozona High School's newly-formed journalism class under the instruction of Chesta Stuart. Journalism has not been offered in a number of years, but we feel this class has an apparent interest in the subject and nowhere could they put their talents to better use.

We've been closing the office at noon on Tuesday in order that we might get the paper out, but we haven't had much success.

EMERALD HOUSE GETS A BOOST-Mrs. P. L. Childress, III, presents a check to Mrs. Bill Cooper, center, from the Ozona Womans League in the amount of $250 for use in restoration of the Emerald House. Also present were Mrs. R. A. Harrell, chairman of the Historical Commission, left, and Mrs. Jeff Sutton of the League, right. The presentation was made by the newly restored chimney. Donations may be mailed to Mrs. Cooper at Box 991. All donations will be appreciated and necessary to finish the work. Also, weathered wood is greatly needed in the project.

Prosecutors offer tips on childrens' safety

[The following article is a public service by the Ozona Stockman through the cooperation of Thomas Cameron, County Attorney, and Bill Mason, District Attorney. Its purpose is to make you aware of a prosecutor's role, of your responsibility as a resident of this jurisdiction, and how we can work together to alleviate some of society's problems.]

September means school and for parents of young children, their child's trek to and from school each day can be a constant source of apprehension.

Parents should teach their children basic, commonsense precautions and work with school officials and the PTA to initiate crime prevention strategies in and around schools.

Give your child a healthy suspicion for "strangers", and a stranger is anyone a child's parents don't know, even if the person knows the child's name or "seems like a friend."

Children should never accept food or an automobile ride from a stranger and should never play around public restrooms.

Teach your children to never open the door to a stranger and never enter a stranger's home. If your child is selling Girl Scout cookies, Easter Seals or Christmas cards door-to-door make sure he or she is accompanied by at least one friend.

If a stranger bothers your child, he or she should remember the stranger's description, his clothing and the color and license number of his car. Call the police Immediately.

Parents of young children might consider organizing "child safety patrols" if child harassment becomes a serious problem. A more aggressive form of the "block parent" idea are child safety patrols, which are composed of parents who walk the streets when school opens and closes each day.

Know the length of time it takes your child to walk to and from school. Immediately check any delay in arrival home. Also know the safest route to and from school and instruct your children to follow that route. If your children are to arrive home after dark, arrange to meet them.

Know your children's playmates and where they congregate. Visit the school and become acquainted with teachers and school officials. You may learn of delinquent behavior before it becomes a serious problem. Give the school instructions to release your children only to persons you have designated in writing.

Tell your children never to admit being home alone--on the phone or to someone at the door. Be sure your babysitter is a responsible person and capable of acting in an emergency.

Children should be encouraged to talk with their parents any time they have a problem, whether the problem is with a stranger, friend or relative. Remind your children that the police officer is a friend who can be called on any time there is trouble.

This article is provided by the Prosecutor Council in cooperation with your local prosecutor and the Texas Crime Prevention Institute.

Ozonan participates in N.S.F. program

Thomas Gries, son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Gries, spent 8 weeks this summer at Louisiana State University as a participant in the National Science Foundation's Student Science Training Program for high-ability High School students. The National Science Foundation's support of selected institutions across the United States provides opportunities for academically outstanding high school students to obtain intensive experience in science and mathematics. By giving science-oriented high school students an experience with college-level instruction, investigative laboratory work, and problem-oriented studies, the Foundation seeks to stimulate their scholarly development and to encourage the further development of similar programs with other sources of support.

Qualifications for admission to these summer science projects are determined by the sponsoring institutions and are based upon scholastic ability, science motivation, and the completion of specific high school courses in science and mathematics.

Thomas and 29 other students from all over the United States participated in Louisiana State University's Engineering and Engineering Design Projects for the summer of 1981. The students spent the first two weeks in the study of nuclear, mechanical, civil, electrical, bio, chemical, industrial, aerospace, petroleum, agriculture and materials engineering. After this introduction, each student chose a field of engineering for specialized research and project work. Project groups consisted of 2 to 4 students, and each team was supervised by a faculty member. At the completion of the 8 week program, each team produced a final written and oral presentation of their individual projects. To aid in their understanding of engineering and design, the students were taken on field trips to Exxon's refinery on the Louisiana coast, Louisiana Power and Light Company's hydroelectric and nuclear power plants, Avondale Shipyards in New Orleans, Fluor Corporation and NASA in Houston, and a Texaco off shore rig in the Gulf of Mexico.

Thomas is a senior in Ozona High School. Upon graduation he plans to attend Texas A&M University where he will study engineering.

Break in at Maness Texaco Sta.

Thieves took nothing but an undetermined amount of money during a break-in at Maness Texaco Sunday night or early Monday morning. The night deputy sheriff discovered the break-in about 4:00 Sunday morning when he saw a broken window on the east side of the building.

On investigation, it was determined that an undisclosed amount of cash was the only item missing from the station and the burglar did gain entry by breaking and entering through the window.

For Crockett County livestock producers—

Brand recording underway here

County Clerk David Weant and his staff began re-recording livestock brands for Crockett County livestock producers in his office Monday morning, the day set by law for all Texas producers to re-record all brands and marks on their livestock.

Weant said he had no idea how many brands were currently registered in the county, but did remind ranchers their brands and marks must be re-recorded before February 28, 1982. After this date, any un-recorded brand becomes available for use on a "first-come" basis. Weant said he had had several producers come in and record for the first time, brands or marks used by their grandfathers.

The Texas brand law, passed in 1971, requires that marks and brands must be re-registered during the same six month period every ten years, without regard to when they were originally recorded. The fee for re-registering each brand is $5, and the law also states that it is illegal to brand livestock without first properly recording the brand with the county clerk in the county in which the livestock are held.

Producers operating in several counties must re-record their marks and brands in each county since the county clerk has the responsibility for recording this information in his county only.

In the event it cannot be determined from existing records who first recorded the mark and brand in a county, then the person who has been using such means of livestock identification the longest will have the right to have them recorded in his or her name. There is no limit to the number of marks and brands a person can record in a county as long as the requirements of the law are met.

When the marks and brands are re-recorded for the first time, the location on the animal where the brand is applied must be shown, and if the brand is applied to more than one location on the animal, it must be recorded as a separate record of that brand.

Football tickets up this year

Inflation finally caught up with football tickets here in Ozona, and varsity game prices go up this year, plus a charge for junior varsity and junior high games for the first time in the school's history.

Home varsity games will be $3 per ticket for adults and $2 for students, as will out-of-town district games. There was no information on other out-of-town game prices with the exception of Sonora. All tickets for the Sonora-Ozona game Friday night will be $2.50.

Prior to this year, game tickets in Ozona were $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Friday was the deadline for reserve-seat holders to purchase season tickets for this year. Several reserved seats are now open to the public and may be purchased in the superintendent's office at the administration building. Tickets for the five home games are $15 per seat.

The charge for all junior varsity and junior high home games will be $1 for adults and 50c for students.

August rainfall scarce

Rain was scarce in Ozona, during the month of August, but parts of the county benefitted from up to four inches of rain during the period. A thunderstorm Thursday night left .58 of an inch of rain in the official gauge at the water district office, bringing the total for the month to 1.22 inches for downtown Ozona.

Some individual gauges showed more rain during the month, but that was the total for the official gauge. A shower August 8, amounted to .21 of an inch of moisture, August 17, an additional .35 fell and the next day, .08 of an inch of rain was recorded.

Heavy clouds gathered over Ozona, at midafternoon Tuesday and a downpour, accompanied by loud claps of thunder, had dumped .33 of an inch of rain in town by 4:10 p.m. and rain was still falling.

Firemen were dispatched to two separate fire calls during the height of the storm, one north near Midway Lane and the other south of town near the Texaco plant. It is not known whether they were lightening related at this time.

MORE ON THE MEDFLY

By Edwin Feulner

The mist hardly had settled when the first of the lawsuits appeared. One plaintiff claimed that the spraying of pesticides to kill an infestation of Mediterranean fruit flies (the "Medfly") in California upset his dog's stomach and caused the 17-year-old poodle to vomit. He asked the state to pay $45 for a visit to the vet. Another man claimed his passion fruit trees were damaged. (Perhaps they became "cold and aloof," as the writer of a Gothic romance might put it.) And a woman asked $1 million for herself and each of her two daughters for alleged health damage, even after a state conservation corps official had quaffed down a glassful of the malathion liquid to demonstrate its safety.

The story, when the last chapter unfolds, may become a classic in the annals of environmental zaniness. All the ingredients are there. An infestation of exotic, alien bugs in the world's most productive agricultural area. A governor who refuses to heed the advice of the experts, and instead of ordering spray to kill the bugs, calls out the National Guard to engage the bugs in hand-to-hand combat. Threats from Washington. Dire warnings of public health hazards, with one apparently misnamed group, "Friends of the Earth," arguing that the "decision to go to aerial spraying .. represents a cynical effort that will poison people, not the Medfly." A belated all-fronts spraying battle against the pests. One of the spray helicopters is sprayed itself — with gunfire. And now the predictable lawsuits.

Whatever the final outcome of this bizarre episode, the public is the big loser, several times over.

At a time when the United States, for both moral and economic reasons, should be looking for ways to increase its farm production — Dr. Jack Early, President of the National Agricultural Chemicals Association, told the House Agriculture Committee the United States will have to double its farm output over the next 30 to 40 years "to meet the rising demands of world hunger" — Governor Brown was leading another assault on a much-needed component of farm technology: farm pesticides.

While Dr. Maurice Rappaport, President of the Santa Clara County Medical Society, was warning his colleagues that the "greatest adverse effect" of the spraying would likely be "public over-reaction, over-concern, or even panic-like responses," Governor Brown was standing fast against the spraying, saying he didn't want to disrupt the "sense of well-being and security" of the half-million local residents. "There are human beings out there," the governor said. "Little children. Pregnant women."

Not to mention all those hungry little bugs.

Whether Governor Brown and the "Friends of the Earth" like it or not, agricultural bug and weed killers are absolutely vital to the continued well-being of the American people. To go on an hysterical rant every time the subject of pesticides moves into the policy arena is childish and counter-productive.

Certainly the government needs to insure that pesticides are safe and properly used. By the same token, as Dr. Early told a radio interviewer recently, if we were to eliminate all pesticides arbitrarily, we would see "something in the neighborhood of a 30 to 40 percent reduction in the availability ... not to mention the quality, of the food that would be in the supermarket."

In the next 35 years, the world will need to produce as much food as has been produced in all of history. We've all got to recognize that pesticides are among the proven scientific tools needed to do the job.

(Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.)

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—During the regular and special sessions, the Legislature approved seven proposed constitutional amendments which will appear on the Nov. 3, 1981 general election ballot.

Most of them are related to tax relief and development of natural resources.

The amendments, in the order they will appear on the ballot, are:

Proposition One

SJR 8—Authorizes local governments to improve, develop, or redevelop certain areas through property tax relief and the issuance of bonds and notes.

Proposition Two

HJR 117—Authorizes the Land Commissioner to issue patents for certain public free school fund land held in good faith under color of title for at least 50 years as of Nov. 15, 1981.

In effect, the General Land Office could issue a patent to clear up the title problems of a Leon County rancher who believed he had bought his land 50 years ago. However, errors going back to the Republic of Texas clouded the title.

Proposition Three

HJR 38—Allows the Legislature to grant to a state finance management committee the power to manage the expenditure of certain appropriated funds.

The amendment, by Rep. Bob Simpson of Amarillo, would create a "state finance management committee" composed of the governor, lieutenant governor, speaker of the House and chairman and vice chairmen of the House Appropriations and Senate Finance committees.

Proposition Four

HJR 6—Authorizes the use of part of the state surplus revenues to develop water related projects; authorizes state credit to guarantee bonds of local governments for water-related projects; increases the interest rate that may be paid on previously approved but unissued state bonds; and authorizes a program to retire state bonds.

This is the "water trust fund" amendment sponsored by House Speaker Bill Clayton, intended to put surplus money to use solving future water needs.

Proposition Five

HJR 49—Include livestock and poultry with the types of farm products which are exempt from taxation.

This amendment will clarify confusion in existing law which already exempts "farm products" from property taxes.

Argument has occurred over whether livestock and poultry are to be included as "farm products," and a 1976 Attorney General's opinion concluded the issue is questionable.

Highly sought by the agriculture sector, this amendment would mean an estimated $6 million to $10 million tax break in local property taxes for farmers.

Proposition Six

HJR 81—Authorizes local governments to provide property tax relief for owners of residence homesteads and changes certain property tax administrative procedures.

It would allow a minimum $5,000 exemption, unless the Legislature votes otherwise, with an exemption of up to 40 percent between 1982 and 1984, 30 percent for 1985 through 1987, and 20 percent in 1988 and thereafter.

Proposition Seven

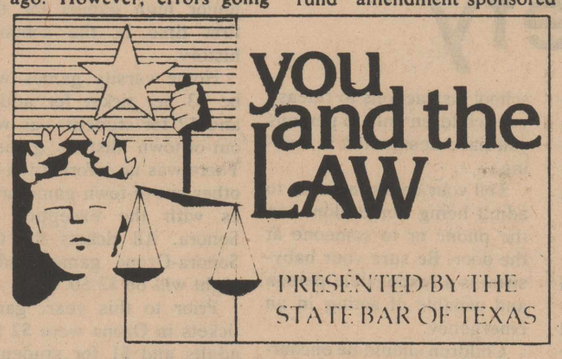

HJR 4—Authorizes additional bonds to finance the Veteran's Land Program and to increase the maximum interest rate (from 6 to 10 percent) allowable on Veteran's Land Fund bonds.

The emergency measure was passed when Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong notified the Legislature the land fund was running out of loan money.

Ad Valorem Repeal

The Governor scored heavily on the ad valorem issue, putting his foot down on an attempt to lower the 10-cent tax to 3 cents. Clements wants the tax off the books.

The Senate skirted debate on the 3-cent tax when Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby upheld a point of order the bill was not germane to the Governor's call.

Q: If I told my two sons that I planned to transfer the money in my savings account to them, putting the account in their names, they might just tap the till. Is it possible for me to do this without them knowing about it?

A: Unless you open a joint account requiring dual signatures or unless you open a trust account with you as trustee, your sons would have unrestricted access to the funds. As an additional alternative, you could form a trust that would keep the money for the sons until you died or your sons reached the age at which you decided to give it to them. In addition, under the Texas Uniform Gift to Minors Act, you may be able to retain control over moneys you have given away. Be certain that your tax planning and your will reflect this decision.

Q: I am an artist who draws pictures from photographs published in books and magazines. People who have viewed my works have offered to buy them. Would I be violating any copyrights on the photographs if I sell the drawings I have made?

A: The copyright laws reserve to an author the exclusive right to reproduce his work and prepare derivative works. A painting based on the expression of a photograph may be considered a derivative work of the original copyrighted article. The original photographer retains the only right to paint or produce a derivation but you may be able to obtain permission from the copyright owner to make such paintings. You are infringing whether or not you sell these pictures. The sale itself only affects the amount of damages.

Q: Can a person be sued for criticizing a public official without malicious intent?

A: Generally, no. Criticism of a public official which relates to his office or qualifications is protected by the law. If supposedly factual statements about the official are false and injure his reputation, then the person making the statement could be liable. In most cases, however, in a lawsuit for damages, the official would have to prove the speaker had malicious intent.

Q: I am 65 years old and a widow. I receive a small Social Security check and I earn about $500 a month in interest. Do I have to file an income tax return?

A: Social Security payments are not taxable and need not be reported on your tax return. Your other income, however, must be reported, so you should file a return even though there may be no tax due. Persons 65 or older must report income over $3,700 per year. Remember that income is not necessarily payment for work, but includes funds received from rentals and investments.

Q: How long after a person is divorced can she remarry? Is the law regarding this a state law or is it the same anywhere in the United States?

A: The Texas Family Code provides that neither party to a divorce may marry anyone else for thirty days. They may, however, remarry each other at any time. After the 30 days, both parties are free to marry anyone. State law controls marital and family matters, and this 30-day provision applies only to Texas. The law in other states will vary as to remarriage following divorce.

Send your questions to "You and the Law," State Bar of Texas, P.O. Box 12487, Austin, 78711. Answers may appear in columns in hypothetical terms; personal answers not possible.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

August 27, 1981

Dear Kitty,

On Thursday, August 13, 1981, one of our employees drove off the Devil's River bridge, 17 miles west of Sonora on I-10. The pick p was airborne for approximately 20 feet before crashing into the dry riverbed.

Mr. Dee Brown, a employee of El Paso Natural Gas Company was the first one to stop at the scene. Several minutes later a man who is with the Ozona Fire Department stopped. This man is also an emergency medical technician. His name is Mr. Gene Wilton, an employee of Intra-Tex Gas Company.

These two men administered first aid at the scene and stayed with our employee until the ambulance arrived. Mr. Wilton saved valuable time by keeping a very complete record of our employee's vital signs and left this information with the ambulance crew.

The doctors in Sonora believe that our employee would have bled to death before reaching the hospital in Sonora if it hadn't been for Dee Brown and Gene Wilton administering first aid.

The words thank you seem so inappropriate, yet we say Thank You! The gift of life is one of the greatest things a person will ever be able to give and these two men gave this precious gift.

We wanted you to know about Mr. Wilton and how thankful we are that he cared enough about his fellow man to take the time to stop and become involved in an accident situation. It made the difference between life and death.

We so often hear about the criminals in our society but this has to be a classic example that there are many honest, considerate people living in this world with us.

We believe that the people of Ozona can be proud of Gene Wilton and can be happy to have him serving your community in such an important way.

Sincerely,
David & Robin Bishop

August 18, 1981

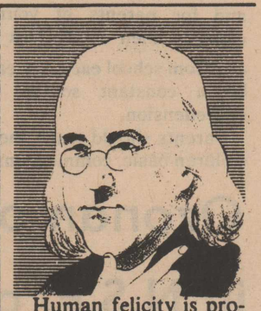

Dear Kitty,

First, I would like to give you my new mailing address so that the Stockman can get to me sooner. Please mail it to: P.O. Box 26811, El Paso, Texas 79926.

Secondly, I stopped by your office on Monday, July 13 to ask you to please thank the people of Ozona for all their help and understanding following Sandy's death. Just a few hours later my father suffered from heat exhaustion and had to be rushed by ambulance to the hospital. Once again, the people of Ozona were there to help me and my family when we felt so helpless. What makes me so much more appreciative is that, even though these people were friends of Sandy, I was a stranger to most of them. All I can say is that my husband certainly knew how to choose compassionate, understanding, and kind friends and acquaintances.

So, to all of you who were there when I needed you so badly, I want to say that you will always be very dear and special to me. Please keep in touch and God bless each of you. Thank you, again.

Sincerely,
Kandy Lopez

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

The most welcome and needed shower that came our way last week should give us a new incentive to want to garden again. Now we look forward to more to bring us beautiful fall flowers and colorful foliage throughout our area.

September brings the beginning of fall and cooling weather. The pattern of our gardening efforts begin to change from one of maintenance with planting and transplanting.

If you intend to have a strawberry bed, now is the time to plant them. Ask for the varieties best for our area and plant in a sunny location. Sow flower seeds mentioned in August.

To enjoy bluebonnets next spring you need to plant now. Soak the seeds in water for at least two days before planting, then sow them ½ inch deep in well-prepared soil. If planting on a hillside broad cast for a native display.

For fall fragrance in your landscape there are several flowering shrubs you may take notice of to plant this upcoming planting season.

One of my favorites is the Fruitland Elalagnus. It is fast growth to a height and breadth of 15 to 20 feet, an excellent free-form hedge or screen. It should be planted where pruning will not be required , so it will attain its naturally graceful, mounding form.

Another fragrant large shrub that does well here is the loquat. The fall flowers are a creamy white, in striking contrast to the large dark-green foliage. It too needs plenty of room to grow, but may be kept pruned.

A new plant to me is garlic chives (allium tuberosum). They are easily started from seeds sown outdoors in early spring. Once established, they need to be divided every three years, either in spring or fall. Fragrant, white blossoms appear in early summer. If allowed to remain on the plants, they will develop into globe like pods studded with dark seeds. Once mature and dry, the pods can be used in dried arrangements. Garlic chives should receive full sun to light shade. Almost any type of soil is fine, but they prefer soil that is rich in organic matter and well drained. Even the flowers are edible and can be a treat in fresh garden salads. They have a flat foliage, quite unlike the round leaves of regular chives.

September Planting Days: Above ground crops; 1, 2, 3, 4, 8, 9, 28, 29, 30. Root Crops; 13, 14, 17, 18, 21, 22

Never too hot for proper nutrition

A poor appetite is not a direct result of the heat. The same dietary needs apply in summer as during the rest of the year, says the Texas Medical Association (TMA). Family eating patterns need not be altered in hot weather. But few people feel like getting near the stove to cook well-balanced meals when the thermostat reads 95 degrees.

The typical light, summer diet tends to be short on protein and long on snack foods. "It's too hot to eat" is a statement which usually follows too many sweet lemonades and junk foods eaten on the run. One answer to poor summer-eating patterns may be salads.

You can increase the protein content in salads by adding such protein-filled foods as cheese, fish and meat to them. Even snacks should contain some protein for long-lasting energy. Nuts and yogurt are good sources of protein, and they don't require cooking. Ice cream is a relatively poor choice, being too high in sugar and calories for its food value.

Food cooked outside on a grill or a hibachi is another solution to the summertime I-hate-to-cook syndrome. Whatever you cook at home is likely to be of much higher quality and cheaper than what you can buy at the fast food place down the street. Good nutrition should never be sacrificed for the sake of convenience.

Drinking more water during the summer comes naturally to most healthy people. When it's hot, you get thirsty and you drink more, replacing the bodily fluids lost through perspiration. For fluid replacement, plain water is your best bet. Drink cool, not freezing-cold water in very hot weather to avoid cramps.

Infants, the sick and the elderly may need to be encouraged to drink more in hot weather. It is wise for mothers to offer their infants a few ounces of water between feedings. If you're a healthy adult, however, your own thirst will take care of your need for extra fluids.

The same applies to your need for salt. Taking extra salt in the form of salt tablets is a mistake. The amount of salt that an ordinary person consumes at the table is plenty, even on the hottest day. Those who are extremely athletic may be exceptions, but they should check with doctor before drastically increasing their intake of .

Corporate tax bills due soon

Corporations operating on a calendar year basis and having an expected Federal tax liability of at least $40 for 1981 are required to make a payment of 1981 estimated tax by September 15, 1981, the Internal Revenue Service says.

The amount due can be computed on Form 1120-W, a worksheet for computing corporation estimated tax. The form should not be filed with the IRS, but should be kept in the corporation's records.

When the payments are deposited in authorized commercial banks or Federal Reserve Banks, they must be accompanied by the Federal Tax Deposit Form 503, the IRS adds.

Supplies of Form 1120-W and IRS publication 542, "Tax Information on Corporations," are available free by calling the IRS forms/tax information number in the local telephone directory.

Debra Says

By Debra Price

Lots of people are working today; money is tight and we are hearing the word 'stress' a lot. I received a handout from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. with some thoughts on stress.

Stress is sometimes called the wear and tear of life. Mental, emotional, physical are different types of stress. Some types are good and some are bad for us. The buildup of unrelieved stress can lead to trouble. Warning signs of unrelieved stress are irritability, headaches, or digestive trouble.

Some guidelines for dealing with stress are: If you have persistent signs of stress, check with your doctor. Try to keep a balance of work with play. Take time to loaf sometime. Be sure to get enough sleep. When upset or angry work off tension by doing some type of physical exercise.

When you feel you are going around in circles, take time to get away from it all. Avoid self-mediation to relieve stress. Always follow your doctors orders.

The County Program Building Committee will be planning an Estate Planning Seminar for the fall. The program will include sessions for agriculture producers and the general public. You will want to watch for the announcement.

Interior Decorating on the Exterior

One of the major trends in the furniture industry has been the increasing interest in outdoor and indoor-outdoor living.

As a result of this increased interest, manufacturers have really greatly improved the style, quality and selection of this kind of furniture.

And so, today you can bring beauty and comfort to your outdoor living area whether it's a small porch or a big patio.

If you want a beautiful and comfortably decorated home you have to do more than the old way of just dragging a few folding chairs outside. To do the right job you should apply "interior decorating" principles to your exterior, and be concerned with such things as how your outdoor furniture looks, how it harmonizes with the surroundings, color coordination, proper tables for convenience to the chairs, accessories to heighten the overall scheme, etc.

Actually, if you pick the right outdoor furniture you can get more for your money by planning to use some of it inside in such rooms as a game room.

The main point to remember is that you can bring new beauty and ease of living to your exterior. We can help you with suggestions and a fine selecton of attractive furniture for any area of your home. Stop in Brown Furniture Today!

The Weekly Headline

Grandpa fumed when I took this picture. "It won't look natural," he said. "My desk is never clean."

It's clean now. The umbrella stand is empty, the hat rack is bare. His old Web press has been retired. But Grandpa's presence lingers on.

For over fifty years he printed the Mayfield Progress, reporting the news with integrity. There were times when he was threatened, cajoled by attempted bribery, menaced by pressure groups, but he stayed true to principle. He was a giant in our town.

What made Grandpa strong in the face of danger — incorrupt when confronted by unscrupulous forces?

His church was the center and circumference of his being. Its truths and its goodness sustained him. It was all that he needed — he remained steadfast and sure.

Your church is eager to help you meet the pressures of your day. Its resources are unlimited and eternal. Go to your church or synagogue and take your family with you.

PSAT/NMSQT CONTINUES EXPANDED SERVICES

Jim Williams, director of guidance at O.H.S., has announced that new services introduced last year as part of the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) will again be provided to students taking the test on October 27, 1981.

Before the test, students will receive the PSAT/NMSQT Student Bulletin which contains a complete sample test with an answer key and scoring instructions. In December, students will receive a Report of Student Answers which displays the correct answers and the students' responses as well as scores. Schools will return test booklets at the same time so that students can review the original questions. Students will also receive About Your PSAT/NMSQT Scores, a booklet containing information on interpreting PSAT/NMSQT results and on general college planning.

The PSAT/NMSQT is cosponsored by the College Board and National Merit Scholarship Corporation. It is administered annually to more than one million students and measures verbal and mathematical abilities that are important in college work.

The PSAT/NMSQT gives students a chance to find out what the College Board's Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) is like, and helps them in planning for college; further, students who opt to participate in the College Board Student Search Service have an opportunity to hear from colleges that they might not otherwise learn about. The PSAT/NMSQT is also the qualifying test for students who wish to participate in the nationwide scholarship competitions administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

OZONA LIONS

By-Jana Harris

"I feel the team is a good unit. They play as a unit and work together as a unit," stated Varsity head football coach Don Sessom.

Coach Sessom recognized some of the outstanding talent for the Lions in Ernie Borrego who was all-district player two years in a row and All-West Texas player last year. Special talent also in receiver, Larry Payne; quarterback, Varlyn Aldridge. On the offensive line, Cater Villerreal, Ruben Perez and Santiago Lopez. Felix Flores, and David and Ernie Badillo.

"There are 17 seniors on the team and I feel we're going to have a better season this year," said Sessom.

"I think the support of the OHS students has been superb the last 2 years and I hope it continues. I feel it takes the whole school to produce a winner. I don't think there's any better place or animal better than an Ozona Lion!" concluded Coach Sessom.

CONGRATULATIONS VICA CLUB

By-Leanna Kramer

For the past two years the VICA Club, a leadership club of OHS's Auto Mechanics department, has sponsored a volunteer Christmas party for the residents of the Crockett County Care Center. Coach Maldonado and the members of the VICA Club planned the parties and entertainment. For last year's entertainment two members of the club Johnny Rodriquez and Frank Galvan provided musical entertainments. Coach Maldonado was glad to remark that so far there has been 100% cooperation from the VICA members and also that the residents of the Care Center really enjoyed talking and singing Christmas Carols with the younger students. The club members also gained a lot of satisfaction from the experience of visiting with the Care Center residents.

On Friday, August 21st, the Care Center had an ice cream party and the President of the Texas Care Center Association presented Ozona High School's VICA Club with an Appreciation Award for all the volunteer work they have done for the Care Center's senior residents. The club also received the same award last year. Congratulations to Coach Maldonado and all the VICA Club members! We also appreciate the work you all are doing.

SUCCESS

"Isn't it strange?" Babe Ruth once said, "I'm the homerun king, but nobody ever asked me how many times I've struck out."

Actually he held the world's record for strike-outs! One thousand three hundred thirty-nine times he came to bat, fanned out and took that long humiliating walk from home plate to the dugout.

When a reporter asked Babe Ruth, "What is the secret of your success?" he answered. "It's the same as the secret of success anywhere else in life. You have to keep coming up to bat, and keep swinging."

Everyone fails at some time or other. The important thing is what you do with your mistakes and failures. Failure does different things to different people. Some complain. Some blame others. Some get discouraged. Some quit. Some get up and go at it again.

Just because you fail at something doesn't mean that you are a failure, but you must have desire backed by determination. All the opportunities in the world won't do you any good unless you want to accomplish something, unless you have a goal. Like Babe Ruth, one must pick himself up and try again. Some people never try anything for fear of failing. Learn to say, "I'll try," instead of "I can't." It's surprising what a person can do when he determines to do it.

Think about this as you work day by day this year at OHS. Remember that the final grade of the year in every subject is determined by averaging your grades for every day and every test all year-one failure does not mean that you have failed the course, just as one A doesn't mean that you have passed the whole course. Be consistent-be determined-and you, too, will be surprised.

A DIFFERENT KIND OF SUMMER

By-Gail Hunnicutt

Thomas Gries is a fellow student that did something a little different this summer. Thomas went to Louisiana State University to summer school. When I asked Thomas why he went, he answered, "I wanted to learn more about engineering." Mr. Reavis gave him a book on the National Science Foundation (N.S.F.) and L.S.U. had the best engineering department. Thomas says that he studied all disciplines of engineering and learned a lot about people from all parts of the United States. There were twenty-three boys and six girls involved and Thomas says he made lots of friends. After two weeks, all students decided on a final project in the field of engineering they would like to work. Thomas chose civil engineering. While he was there, he was able to make full use of all campus facilities and lived in the dorm. He took trips to New Orleans to an off-shore oil rig and to NASA in Houston. He says he really learned how to deal with other people. It also helped him decide that he will become an engineer of some type. Some advice to Juniors from Thomas was that they ought to go to summer school if they are interested and are able because you learn about college in general, learn about the field you want to go into, make friends, and have a lot of fun.

NEW TEACHERS AND SUBJECTS

By-Marilyn Wester

There are four new teachers in Ozona High School this year, Mr. Bradshaw, Mr. Gholson, Mr. Hicks, and Mrs. Arrott.

Mr. Bradshaw moved here from Brady, Texas, and he teaches Civics and World History. He is also a coach for the Ozona Lions Freshman and Junior Varsity football teams.

Mr. Gholson went to school at Howard Payne University, and teaches English III. He also teaches a class that is new this year. This class is a supervised study hall for Freshmen. In this class, the students are given help with their homework assignments.

Mr. Hicks went to school at Texas A&M. He is the new Vocational Agricultural teacher.

Mrs. Arrott has taught eighth grade English in Ozona Junior High for the past several year, but this year she will be teaching English I.

There are also some teachers who are teaching different classes. Coach Sessom is teaching all Physical Science classes this year and Coach Wilson is teaching all boys Physical Education.

There are two new classes offered this year to the seniors of Ozona High School. Both of these classes are taught by Mrs. Stuart, who also teaches English IV. These two new classes are Shorthand and Journalism.

Computer cattle marketing system, bigger and better

"Cattlex," the computerized cattle marketing system launched by Texas A&M University last fall, is now bigger and better.

The system is a joint project of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and the Texas and U.S. Departments of Agriculture.

CATTLEX has added 11 more cooperators to its network, making a total of 29 computer terminal locations in the statewide system. Thus CATTLEX now includes 11 feedyards, 13 auction markets, four order buyer firms and one producer marketing corporation.

"With these additional cooperators and the fact that feeder-stocker cattle are starting to move off summer pastures, we expect listings and sales to increase substantially this fall," points out Dr. Ernie Davis, Extension livestock marketing specialist and one of the initiators of the system.

In addition to handling an increased volume of cattle, CATTLEX should also operate more effectively in the future. Graders, the eyes of system, are certified at Texas A&M University. Fifty-five have been certified to list and grade cattle over the CATTLEX network.

"Graders are the most important segment of the system," contends Davis. "It can't run successfully without qualified people to accurately evaluate cattle."

The CATTLEX system has now been operating one year. The accurate description of cattle provided by CATTLEX graders has enhanced the confidence buyers have in the system. In fact, buyers on the CATTLEX network feel they have more information and description than otherwise provided, notes the specialist. There have been no surprises nor dissatisfaction of cattle delivered to buyers.

The grader's role is to list and describe cattle that someone has to sell. The description includes such things as sex of the cattle, age, grade, breed, weight and flesh condition. This information is then fed into the computer and is made available to buyers at all terminals in the system. Buyers can view listings on a cathode ray tube (CRT), a television-like screen which is part of the computer terminal, or they can obtain a printout.

Each day before the sale begins, buyers gather at the terminal site to review the day's listings of lots of cattle offered for auction. When a sale is made, a printout at both the buying and selling terminals will present a confirmation of sale.

Both buyer and seller also receive a copy of the individual description of the lot, notes Davis. Title transfer is at the time of official weighing for ranch cattle and after the sale for delivered cattle.

"With CATTLEX, buyers still bid competitively and sellers still seek the highest possible price," explains Davis. "However, the system expands the scope of trading and reduces transportation and stress through more direct movement. Sellers have the advantage of more purchasers while buyers have more lots of cattle from which to choose without scurrying over the countryside."

Recent trends toward more local auction sales as well as direct selling on farms and ranches have resulted in more dispersed, low-volume markets too small to attract large numbers of buyers. However, CATTLEX centralizes the price negotiation process in marketing livestock without the costs involved in physically centralizing buyers, sellers and livestock, the specialist points out.

An added benefit of CATTLEX is that it provides fast, up-to-date market information. Interested parties can watch the market as it occurs over the state or nation by simply viewing the CRT at the terminal site.

The CATTLEX Cooperator in this area is John S. Cargile of Producers Livestock Auction in San Angelo.

Crude oil production off in June

Texas crude oil production totaled 73,952,092 barrels in June, according to a preliminary report released today by the Railroad Commission's Oil and Gas Division.

The figure compares with final compilations of reported May 1981 production totaling 76,662,263 barrels and June 1980 production of 76,127,406 barrels.

Texas oil production averaged 2,465,070 barrels daily in June 1981, down from 2,472,976 barrels daily in May 1981 and down from 2,537,580 barrels daily in June 1980.

The June 1981 allowable totaled 109,786,166 barrels.

The preliminary June summary indicated Texas oil production was 32.64 percent under the allowable for the month.

PBPA energy report

Two state laws passed by the recent 67th Texas Legislature went into effect September 1. The first law concerns the theft of oil field equipment or petroleum itself. The offense was raised to a second degree felony, punishable by two to twenty years in prison and a fine up to $10,000. The law gives prosecutors more discretion in the punishment being sought and it removes the need to establish the precise value of the material stolen.

The second law involves dealers of used oil and gas equipment. These dealers must keep detailed records for at least two years. In addition to a description of the item, the dealer must get vehicle and drivers license numbers, location of the property, date, and the name and address of the seller. Failure to comply could result in a fine of not less than $500. per violation.

The Judge in the lawsuit against the Windfall Profits Tax has ruled that the suit will be tried. The Federal Government had asked that the suit be dismissed. No date had been set for the trial.

And, the country of Nigeria has cut the price on its crude oil from $40 to $36 a barrel. Nigeria exports only about 300,000 barrels of oil a day to the U.S. It's hoped that this action would put pressure on other OPEC countries to lower their prices.

In the Permian Basin our rig count for last week was 493. One year ago it was 334.

Production re-opened in county

Spraberry B gas production was re-opened in the American (Canyon, Strawn, Clearfork and Spraberry) field of Crockett County with completion of The Canyon Co., Midland, No. 2 Sue Hoover-Sec. 2, Blk NNN, 4¼ mile northeast of the depleted original opener and 30 miles southwest of Ozona, for a calculated, absolute open flow of 2,700,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

Production was through perforations at 4,153-192 feet, which had been acidized with 1,300 gallons.

It topped the Wolfcamp shale at 4,650 feet on ground elevation of 2,173 feet.

It was drilled to 4,769 feet, with 4½-inch casing set at 4,365 feet, the plugged back depth.

Location is 1,355 feet from the south and 2,436 feet from the east lines of 2-NNN-W.P. Hoover.

The original opener, Dameron Petroleum Corp. No. 1-13 W.P. Hoover-Sec. 13 Blk. NN, was finaled Sept. 18, 1980, for a calculated, absolute open flow of 1,300,000 cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 4,042-282 feet. It was dually completed as a Spraberry A confirmer.

Joshua Smith of San Angelo, is spending a few days here with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Smith.

Estimated taxes are due soon

The third installment of estimated Federal tax payments on 1981 individual income is due by September 15, 1981, the Internal Revenue Service says.

This installment should be paid using declaration voucher No. 3 found in the Form 1040 ES-package. "Declaration of Estimated Tax for Individuals."

Taxpayers whose anticipated income changed during 1981 may have to file an amended declaration. Space is provided in the estimated tax package to compute an amended estimate.

Horses symposium subject

Horses will be the subject when owners, trainers and breeders meet here for an October symposium.

The first West Texas Horse Symposium, says Dr. Nelson J. Adams, will begin at 8 a.m. on Oct. 3 with a general assembly in Ector County Coliseum.

Nelson, coordinator of the event, is livestock specialist for the Far West District of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The day-long program will be in the coliseum, where specialists will talk on such subjects as consumer trends in marketing horses, horse health and horse nutrition.

The registration fee of $5 includes a noon barbecue and sessions in the afternoon for producers as well as users of horses.

Speakers after lunch will talk on the operation of a horse breeding farm, reproductive performance in broodmares and the training of horses with various bits and other techniques.

Gen. Tel. gives patrons options

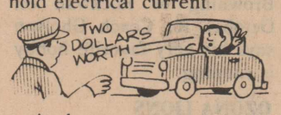

General Telephone now gives its customers three options on what to do with their telephones when having service discontinued.

The Public Utility Commission of Texas, in its rate order granting General Telephone $2.1 million, approved a policy which gives customers the options of paying a charge for the company to pick up the instruments, retaining the instruments and paying the associated costs for the instruments retained, or returning the phones to the company.

Customers terminating service who return their phones to their telephone company business office or GTE Phone Mart are not charged a pick-up fee. However, if the company picks up the instruments, a $10 charge is applied for residential customers and $13 for business one-party customers. Another option is for the customer to purchase the phones, paying the commission-approved charges for particular instruments. Under this option the instruments become the property of the customer. A schedule of rates for particular instruments is available from the business office or GTE Phone Mart.

The new policy applies to all residential customers and one-party business customers.

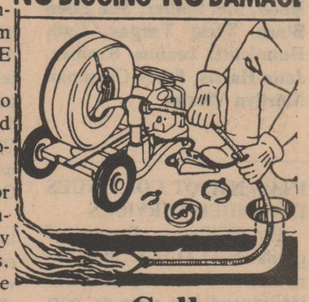

Customers who return or retain their phones can unplug the instruments if they have GTE Phone Mart jacks, or if wired into the old style wall block, can simply cut the wires near the block. The company urges customers cutting wires to avoid cutting wires which carry household electrical current.

And now for the big question: How do you gas up with gas up?

Labor Day could claim as many as 48 lives in state

The director of the Texas Department of Public Safety has warned that as many as 48 persons may die in traffic accidents this Labor Day weekend on the state's streets and highways unless drivers are especially cautious.

"Otherwise," said Colonel Jim Adams, "the 78-hour period could be a repeat of the most recent holiday. Traffic accidents during the last July 4 weekend took a total of 60 lives, 16 more than had been estimated," he said.

Drunk driving and excessive speed were the major contributing factors in the fatal accidents recorded over the July 4 holiday, according to data furnished by the DPS Statistical Services Division.

None of the drivers or passengers killed during the July 4 holiday were wearing seatbelts. In addition, 35 percent of these fatalities resulted from the person being ejected from the vehicle.

Adams urged motorists to wear their seatbelts to minimize the hazard posed by careless drivers. He said safety belts should be used during city driving as well as long distance trips.

"Last year in Texas, about 1200 lives would have been saved if all occupants of passenger vehicles had used safety belts," Adams said.

The DPS director said he is deeply concerned that 1981 may be another record year for motor vehicle deaths in the state.

"Unless more Texas motorists recognize the risks they face and take steps to protect themselves and others, this trend will surely continue," Adams pointed out.

Adams has instructed DPS Regional Commanders to utilize additional Troopers during the three-day holiday and he said "Operation Motorcide" would be placed into effect.

"DPS patrol officers will be enforcing the laws and assisting motorists by watching for drivers who exceed the speed limit and those impaired by alcohol or drugs," Adams said. They will also be on the lookout for vehicle defects.

Adams said Operation Motorcide would be in effect from 6:00 p.m. Friday, September 4 through midnight Monday, September 7, 1981.

During the Fourth of July holiday, 73 per cent of the fatal accidents occured between 8:00 p.m. and 4:00 a.m.

SPEEDERS BEWARE HIGHWAY PATROLMEN SHARPEN RADAR SKILLS

Drivers who fudge on posted speed limits will soon face increased odds of being ticketed for speeding, say law enforcement training officials for the Texas Engineering Extension Service (TEEX).

Texas highway patrolmen are going back to school on the Texas A&M University campus to learn how to use radar speed measurement equipment.

The course is a result of a recent Florida court case, in which a speeding citation based on radar measurement was thrown out. The defense proved to the court that the equipment was improperly calibrated and operated.

The radar operators course offered by TEEX's Law Enforcement and Security Training Division will instruct officers on scientific principles and theory of technology.

Violent crime up

Violent crime in Texas increased 11% in 1980, the Department of Public Safety reported Friday. A violent crime-murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault-occured in the state every 36 seconds during the year.

A total of 844,257 major offenses occured in the state during 1980, including 75,148 violent crimes, the DPS said.

The DPS Uniform Crime Reporting Bureau counted 2,284 murders, 6,441 rapes, 27,694 robberies and 38,729 aggravated assaults in 1980. Property crimes-a category comprised of burglary, theft and motor vehicle theft-increased 6.5% in the year when compared with 1979's total, the DPS said.

There were 253,728 burglaries, 441,078 cases of larceny-theft and 74,303 motor vehicle thefts in Texas in 1980.

In addition to violent crimes and property crimes, the DPS reported 9,602 cases of arson in 1980.

The department reported these increases in 1980: murder 2.7%, rape 6.9%, aggravated assault 14.4%, burglary 6.2%, larceny-theft 7.3%, and motor vehicle theft 2.3%.

The amount of property stolen in Texas during 1980 totaled $750.4 million. Although police recovered about 30% of stolen property, the remaining value of property lost due to crime totaled more than $525 million.

The police recovered 55% of all motor vehicles that had been stolen, 45% of livestock, 20.5% of office equipment, 11.2% of firearms, 12.6% of clothing, 8.5% of currency, 6.8% of jewelry, 8.5% of household goods, and 7.1% of televisions, radios and stereos.

According to the DPS, law officers solved 76% of all murder cases, 62% of aggravated assualt cases, 50% of rapes, 32% of robberies, 15% of burglaries, 21% of larcency-thefts and 18% of motor vehicle thefts. In addition to the 2,284 murders reported by the DPS, 87 killings were classified as justifiable. Forty-seven killings were of felons by police officers in the line of duty, and 40 were of felons by private citizens. There were 3,163 assaults against law officers, and 10 officers were killed in the line of duty in 1980.

ENERGY SAVERS-Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tom Davidson plan to beat the high cost of gasoline with "his" and "her" bicycles. The Stockman camera caught the pair as they were passing Monday. They plan to cycle to the east coast next summer before hot weather sets in.

Dr. Sessom continuing education

Dr. Steve Sessom is attending a five-day continuing education program Sept. 7 thru Sept. 11, in "optimum dentistry" at the L. D. Pankey Institute in Miami, Florida, an affiliate of the University of Miami. Each year more than 1400 dentists and dental technicians enroll at the Institute to improve their skills and learn new dental techniques.

Participants in these courses are involved in intensive use of human similators and advanced TV display systems. After each lecture session, participants make hands-on application of the techniques and philosophy of excellence in a multi-chaired clinic and laboratory.

Dr. Sessom practices at 1104 Ave. I in Ozona.

Oxygen crucial for pond fish

Fish often are found gasping for oxygen this time of the year. Late August and September is a critical time for oxygen shortage in Texas ponds.

Environmental factors as well as oxygen consumption by plants and animals affect a pond's oxygen level. Low levels can cause fish to die or stop growing and also contribute to fish diseases.

"During late summer, the accumulation of nutrients from the growing season coincides with the hottest water temperatures," points out Dr. Ken Johnson, fish disease specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Both conditions reduce the oxygen level in the water."

Microscopic blue-green algae also flourish, and ponds become colored on sunny days as these tiny plants rise to the surface, notes Johnson.

Good pond management can minimize the hazards of oxygen depletion, says the specialist.

Many pond owners now have oxygen meters to keep tabs on oxygen levels. Such a surveillance device is helpful when raising fish at full capacity limits of ponds.

"Wise owners will check their ponds at dawn to see if fish are gasping at the surface. If this is the case, emergency corrective action is necessary. Aeration by splashing and establishing a current is the best bet," says Johnson.

Oxygen needs of fish vary according to species, age and culture conditions. Most warmwater fish need oxygen dissolved in water at a rate of at least 1 ppm (parts per million) for survival and more than 3 ppm for comfort. Oxygen at 5 or more ppm provides the best growing conditions, explains the specialist.

Oxygen in water comes from air and plants. Twenty-one percent of the atmosphere consists of oxygen, which dissolves into water when it hits the water's surface. The rest of the oxygen in water when it hits the water's surface. The rest of the oxygen in water comes from underwater plants that release it as they undergo photosynthesis (the food-making process of plants). Since photosynthesis depends on light, plants produce oxygen only during daylight hours. This cycle plus the total supply of oxygen to water is affected by a variety of factors.

Pond owners wanting more information about oxygen depletion may get a copy of the leaflet, "Oxygen in Fish Culture Ponds," at the County Extension office.

V.I.C.A. officers elected

Catarino Villarreal, a senior at Ozona High School, was elected President of Chapter 1949 of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, at a meeting held Aug. 27 at 5:00 p.m.

The meeting was held in the Auto Mechanic Building, and refreshments were served after the meeting by the junior class.

Other officers elected were Felix Flores, vice-president; Randy DeHoyos, secretary and treasurer; Henry Delgado, reporter; Stanley Najar, sergeant-at-arms, and Ruben Perez, parliamentarian.

Pete Maldonado, advisor of the club, gave a brief talk on the duties and responsibilities of the V.I.C.A. officers.

The V.I.C.A. Club has planned to have a High School Teacher Appreciation Breakfast on Wednesday, Sept. 2, in the Auto Mechanics Shop. This is an annual project put on by the students in this chapter.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By Jerry Lay

Who's the only head coach in the National Football League today who's coached a national championship team in college football? The only one is Tampa Bay coach John McKay who coached 3 national championship college teams at Southern California.

What are the odds that, of all the high schools in America, one school would produce two men who both became starting quarterbacks in the National Football League. Such is the case with Woodlawn High in Shreveport, La. Both Terry Bradshaw of the Steelers and Joe Ferguson of the Bills went to, and played for, Woodlawn High.

*****

Here's an oddity. A major-college football team once played four 0-0 games in one season. In 1937, Temple's games against Mississippi, Bucknell, Boston College and Holy Cross all wound up with a final score of 0-0. No other college football team before or since has ever played that many scoreless ties in one season.
