Mexican Government And Catholic Church Reach Agreement On Differences

ROME RATIFIES GIL'S TERMS ON CHURCH ISSUES

Cablegram From Holy See Brings Close to Mexico Parleys

TEACHING PERMITTED

Priests to Have Custody Of Properties; Political Concessions

MEXICO CITY, June 21. (AP)—All women held at the prison colony on the islands of Las Tres Marias, off the west coast, for violations of the religious laws were ordered released tonight by the department of the interior.

The order did not include the Mother Superior Concepcion, serving 20 years as "intellectual author" of the assassination of General Obregon, or any others convicted of crimes other than violations of laws governing religious activities. There were said to be nearly 100 women at the penal colony to benefit by the order.

By GEORGE A. SCHRIENER

MEXICO CITY, June 21. (US)—The differences between the Mexican government and the Roman Catholic church have been settled.

A cablegram from the Holy See, which reached here today, ratified in behalf of the church the measures to which President Emilio Portes Gil and Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, the apostolic delegate, agreed. The measures were effected by envoys of both parties in conferences throughout the past week.

Three Provisions

The agreement, which was signed by the chief Mexican executive and the apostolic delegate with due ceremony at the national palace at 12:30 o'clock, provides:

1. For the delegation, by bishops, of the priests who are to register as custodians of the church premises;
2. That the church will be unhampered in teaching religious concepts outside any school giving lay instruction, and
3. That the Catholic hierarchy and the priests of Mexico are free, in the future, to take any legal measures they wish in any efforts to change laws and constitutional provisions which, in their opinion, should be eliminated.

The clergy is ready to resume services openly for the first time since July 1926, the statement said, in pursuance of the laws now in force.

The archbishop, who has acted as representative of the holy see, said he hopes "the renewal of services will lead the Mexican people to an animated spirit of good will to cooperate with all moral efforts for benefit of the fatherland."

The final conference began at

Shreveport Pilots Plan To Go After Record

SHREVEPORT, La., June 21. (UP)—Two pilots of the Shreveport Airways, Inc., announced today they will take off July 4 or July 7 on an attempt to shatter the world's refueling flight record now held by Reg Robbins and Jim Kelly, Fort Worth pilots.

Snook, Indicted For Murder, Begs To Be Electrocuted For His Crime

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 21. (US)—Indicted this afternoon for murder in the first degree for the slaying of Miss Theora Hix, pretty Ohio State university co-ed, Dr. James H. Snook, her confessed murderer, from his cell in the county jail tonight implored state authorities to quickly let him pay the penalty for his ghastly crime.

The supreme penalty in Ohio for conviction by a trial jury is death in the electric chair.

His stoical nerve gone, the dismissed professor of veterinary medicine at the university cried that he no longer wanted to live.

The bespectacled, 40-year-old prisoner, who broke down at the end of a fierce 24-hour grilling on Thursday night, to confess that he had mercilessly beaten his girl-mistress in the head with a hammer then slashed her throat with his penknife, now wants to go to the electric chair. And he wants no delay, no fuss, about it.

To a keeper he exclaimed, in hysterical voice:

"Let them get through with it at once. What's the use of my living now?"

Dr. Snook, who frankly says he murdered his 25-year-old sweetheart, with whom he had a love nest at an apartment in the shadow of the university campus, because she rebelled against his breaking up their liaison, asked that he be told at once if the grand jury had indicted him.

Dr. Snook sat tonight upon the edge of his cot in his stifling cell,

27 CONVICTS BACK; ONE DEAD

Body of Escaped Man Discovered in River; 2 Hurt

SWEENEY, Texas, June 21. (AP)—Twenty-eight of the 43 convicts who escaped Clemens state prison farm near here early Thursday had been accounted for late today.

At the same time some 25 heavily armed guards were closing in on the dense woodland near here where the other 15 are believed hiding.

Two trusties were held in close confinement at the farm, blamed for engineering the break.

Their bodies ridled with bullets, two other convicts were in a Houston hospital. They were Tom Nichols and Lee Hailey, and another, Frank Jones, was sought by Houston police.

Captain W. M. Hickman, manager of the farm, refused to give the names of the two trusties, but said he had suspended them as trusties and put them back "on the line."

"I feel sure they are the ones who slipped pistols to Joe Williams and Robert Massey, ring leaders of the break," Captain Hickman said.

"We are going to the bottom of this break and if we back up our suspicions I will see that the men are severely punished, either by whipping or solitary confinement."

The last man to be taken into custody was Ed Lambert. He walked up to the home of F. O. Fronberg at Cedar Lane and gave up, tired, hungry and exhausted from roaming through the jungles. Rangers Wheaton and Moore arrived here today and the search for the remainder of the convicts was renewed under their direction.

Mrs. Hickman, wife of the farm manager, said the body of one of the convicts was found floating in the San Bernard river near the farm this morning. The body was identified as that of S. W. Martin, sent up from El Paso for forgery.

Virulent Throat Disease Discovered in Dallas

Two Hoodlums Given Life for Kidnaping

(AP)—Two youthful hoodlums who kidnaped a 17-year-old boy and beat him in an effort to extort money were sentenced to life in the penitentiary today by Judge Frank Comerford, who told them if they had had previous criminal records he would have sentenced them to death in the electric chair.

WOMAN ADMITS FIRING SHOTS

Police Continue Quiz Into Mystery Shooting

A woman who admitted firing several shots in a house at 1600 Taylor street, resulting in the wounding of Mrs. J. W. Williamson who was visiting next door in the home of G. A. Caldwell, 1602 Taylor street, was being held Friday night by city police although no charges had been filed.

Found Pistol

The woman told city officers she had been looking in a dresser drawer for stamps, and had found a pistol which she took out to examine. She sat down on the bed in the room, she said, and while looking at the gun, pressed the trigger. The weapon was discharged four times, a fifth cartridge failing to explode. The four bullets crashed into the wall of the adjacent Caldwell home, wounding Mrs. Williamson just below the knee. The woman admitted, police said, that she had consumed two bottles of bear in the house at 1600 Taylor street before starting her investigation of the pistol.

Five men arrested at various times by city police had been released Friday afternoon after questioning, and officers still seemed without an explanation of the affair. Four pistols, a shotgun, and a considerable quantity of ammunition, as well as beer, a small amount of whisky and many empty bottles were found by police when they raided the house after the wounding of Mrs. Williamson. A man was being sought for questioning in connection with the case, and officers were unable to say if any charges would be filed against the woman who admitted firing the pistol.

Mrs. Williamson Improves

Mrs. Williamson was reported resting well at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital Friday night. An operation to remove the bullet from her leg was successful, although it was said she would remain in the hospital for several days. Mr. Williamson is an employe of the Panhandle Refining company.

Members of the Caldwell family were unable to give officers any information of the identity of the occupants of the neighboring house. The property, it was said, is owned by J. S. Nichols, at present out of the city, and had been leased for the summer. Tenants of the house were unknown in the neighborhood, several persons told officers.

MERCURY HITS 102 DEGREES

Temperature Friday Equals Season's Record

Friday, though it wasn't the 13th, stuck two other feathers in its cap by being the longest day in the year, and by equaling the 1929 heat record of 102 degrees.

At 1 p. m. the highest temperature of the present 'heat wave,' 100 degrees, was reached, only to be superseded later in the day when the mercury soared to 102 for the first time since May 10. In the three-day broil which has beset this region the temperature had not previously reached over 99 degrees.

The sun rose Friday at 5:26 a. m., and set at 7:41 p. m., making the day longer by a few seconds than any in the year.

TEXAS CITIES REPORT RECORDS

Waco, Abilene, Amarillo and Fort Worth were among those reporting that figure. Dallas reported 97 degrees and Galveston, Palestine and San Antonio had temperatures of 94. Only 10 degrees separated Amarillo and Brownsville, but the northern city was the hottest. Brownsville and Corpus Christi had maximums of 88 degrees.

Spanish Ocean Fliers Leave Last Tip of Land Behind on Gotham Hop

CARTAGENA, Spain, June 22. (Saturday) (UP)—The big Dornier-wal seaplane in which Commander Ramon Franco and three companions are attempting a flight to New York, via the Azores islands, apparently was well on its way towards the mid-Atlantic islands this morning, having passed beyond Cape San Vincent early last night. The fliers were making good speed on the first part of their venture, having covered the approximate 450 miles from the Alcasares seaplane base to Cape San Vicente at about 100 miles an hour.

After leaving the Portuguese cape, the last land point they planned to pass, Commander Franco and his companions faced a 1,085 mile flight to the Azores over the Atlantic ocean. They hoped to complete the first leg of their trip several hours after dawn this morning.

A clear, moonlit sky with a slight breeze prevailed in the vicinity of the Azores islands and there was no indication that the big plane had encountered unfavorable weather en route.

'Precedent' of Receiving Negroes Is Wrong, Moody Informs Creager

Governor Answers Republican Boss' Plea to Kill Resolution Condemning Mrs. Hoover's Tea

AUSTIN, June 21. (AP)—The "precedent" pleaded by R. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman, under which Mrs. Hoover entertained the wife of Oscar de Priest, negro congressman, is a precedent, which should have been broken, Governor Moody answered Creager today. A telegram from Creager asked Governor Moody to veto the legislative rebuke of Mrs. Hoover because the Hoover tea party was "official," rather than social.

"If the affair was the carrying out of a custom and precedent, then it appears to me under present circumstances, the precedent was a bad one, and this was a good time to break it," Governor Moody said.

"If the custom had been broken and the people of the Illinois district took offense they should have been told to elect a white man to congress and his wife would have been accorded all the social privileges of the White House."

TEXAS 'UNCHIVALROUS,' COLQUITT CLAIMS

WASHINGTON, June 21. (US)—Gov. Dan Moody of Texas, was told that his state will be held up to ridicule by the nation if he signs the resolution censuring Mrs. Hoover for entertaining Mrs. Oscar de Priest at the White House, in a letter sent Moody by O. B. Colquitt today.

Colquitt, himself a Texan, is now a member of the federal board of mediation to which he was appointed by President Hoover. The Texas legislature recently passed a resolution deploring the action of Mrs. Hoover in entertaining Mrs. De Priest, wife of the colored congressman from Chicago, at a White House tea, urging Moody to sign it. Colquitt's letter said:

"If this resolution is signed by you, it will bring Texas into ridicule with the whole nation, not only for a lack of chivalry but for making partisan politics out of a matter in which the present incumbents of the White House have no volition, and in which there has been neither offense nor desire to give offense to the feelings of the people of the South, but to adhere to simple principles of justice and custom.

"I feel you are too manly to strike

LEVY ON MOTOR FUEL PASSES BY 84 TO 16

Present Two-Cent Charge Would Be Doubled By New Measure

TRACTORS EXEMPTED

Farm Machines, Planes And City Vehicles Would Escape Tax

AUSTIN, June 21. (AP)—The house passed a four cent gasoline tax bill late today. It exempts from tax, gasoline used in farm machinery, airplanes, fire trucks, patrol wagons and ambulances owned by municipalities and operated on city streets. The vote on final passage was 84 to 16.

The tax would replace the present two cent levy. The 40th legislature enacted a law levying a tax of three cents per gallon for the first year and two cents after last Sept. 1. It did not exempt gasoline used in farm machinery.

Bare Quorum

The bill would not become effective until 90 days after the legislature adjourns, provided the senate passes it and it gets the governor's signature, because there were not 100 affirmative votes.

It was necessary to put on a call to get a quorum voting, after a long day in which the house passed the penitentiary concentration bill and spent many hours on the gasoline tax.

The gas tax withstood a number of amendments designed to reduce the revenue it would produce for the highway department.

The proposal to make the tax three cents per gallon, sponsored by Holder of Lancaster and Chastain of Eastland, was voted down, 66 to 39.

Exempt Gas Lavender

The house had substituted the bill by Montgomery of Edinburg, levying a sales tax, for one drafted by Rep. Leonard Tillotson of Sealy, proposing an excise tax. The vote was 66 to 51 on the swap.

Later, the Montgomery bill was amended to include many of the Tillotson ideas, including incorporation of the term "users" as those to come under the tax, rather than confining the levy to sales solely.

Under the amendment exempting gasoline used in farm machinery, motor boats and other gas-powered vehicles and machinery, distributors will be required to color the gasoline exempted in a lavender shade.

New Source of Graft

One found burning lavender gasoline in an automobile or other vehicle on the highways would be subject to a fine of from $100 to $1,000.

Kennedy of Kosse, a farmer, maintained the exemption that it would create a "new kind of bootleggers" and open "another field for graft."

The red radiance rose, which took first place Thursday in a deluge of votes, slipped back into second place with the steady balloting of friends of the larkspur all day Friday.

The winner in the voting will be selected as the official flower of Wichita Falls. Nominations in the contest now include almost every popular flower, and several that might be considered more or less rare in this section of the state. # MEXICO CHURCH ISSUE IS CLOSED

Holy See Approves Terms Made by Gil

the national palace at 1:05 p. m., and was attended by the president, Subsecretary of the Interior Felipe Canales, for the government, and Archbishop Ruiz y Flores and Bishop Pascual Diaz for the church. The meeting ended at 2 o'clock, but no official statement of the ending of the controversy was made until 4 o'clock, when news of the accord came from the presidencia.

While these provisions may not be all the church asked, it is considered here, at least, to be a good beginning. It is felt, in the quarters of the apostolic delegate, that the functioning again of the Mexican priesthood can give the government and outside unfriendly parties, a demonstration of the good faith of the Catholic church necessary to prepare the country for these changes in the cult laws which, for the public good, are deemed necessary.

The conditions of the agreement accepted are in all respects the same as those which formed the basis of negotiations in April, 1928, when the president, General Calles, met with U. S. Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and the Rev. John J. Burke, of the National Catholic Welfare society, for the purpose of settling the problem.

Earlier Conference

That meeting took place in the historic San Juanuloa pile at Vera Cruz, which, under the reign of Porfirio Diaz, was a notorious prison, but which now is part of the port defense system. General Calles was taking a rest there, and was not prepared to take up the question. But the efforts of Monsignor Fumasoniz Bionn, apostolic delegate at Washington, who was then charged with the care of Mexico, succeeded in interesting Ambassador Morrow and the U. S. government to the point where the ambassador suggested overtures for a settlement.

The agreement then reached was, in all respects, what has been reached now, but at that time the vatican decided not to accept. The matter, however, was held in abeyance, and led to the conference at San Antonio, Texas, in May, 1928, to which most of the Mexican bishops resident in the United States were invited. Among the others there was the Archbishop Mora del Rios, who died during the conference, being succeeded as senior archbishop of Mexico by Archbishop Ruiz y Flores, who has handled the present negotiations as apostolic delegate, an office to which Archbishop Mora del Rios did not attain.

The vatican, in appointing Archbishop Ruiz y Flores apostolic delegate, made a friendly gesture to the Mexican government which did much to prepare the ground for favorable action.

It is no secret here that in the present negotiations, Ambassador Morrow has played a most important role, as has another American, the Rev. Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, rector of the foreign service school of Georgetown university, who surveyed the situation here for the Holy See and toned down the extremists.

Most valuable services were also rendered by Miquel Chruchaga, former Chilean ambassador to Washington. It was he who presented to Pope Pius the first overtures, which led to the renewal of negotiations. These were, in fact, new overtures, since there was little left of the May conference, and the fruits of the gathering were dropped to the soil by the assassination of Gen. Alvaro Obregon.

The feeling engendered by the trial and execution of Obregon's murderer, Jose de Leon Toral, as well as the trial and condemnation to 25-year penal servitude of the nun, Madre Conhita Acevedo, was another factor in the delaying of the settlement.

One of the elements which caused President Portes Gil to take a sincere interest in the present efforts was that he had reason to be highly gratified with the attitude of the Catholics during the recent Sonora revolt. Though pressed to join this movement against the federal government, the Catholic clergy advised their followers to support the government loyally, and for a time, even the so-called "religious rebels" held to this advice. They were shaken later by forces which did not emanate from the clergy, it has since been disclosed.

Now that the settlement has been reached and duly ratified by the governmental and vatican representatives, the Mexican public is duly grateful that this so prolific issue is now of the past.

READY? AIM?? FIRE???

The Record News, and the press in general, seems to "pour it on" the Methodist board in Washington for its alleged approval of shooting innocent people by dry agents.

As a member of the Methodist church, permit me to say that, if the board approves these atrocities, your attack on that approval is mighty well founded. It is a fact that a minister makes most of his statements without fear of public challenge and, for that reason, some ministers do not restrain themselves and rightly get into deep water. A lawyer or business man has his actions and statements contested every foot of the way, and consequently usually uses precaution. But some ministers—comparatively few, I believe—seem to take advantage of their positions and do their cause more harm than good by refusing to weigh all the facts.

But, on the other hand, I noticed in the press last night that a man, whose life was equally as dear to his family and himself as were these others, was shot and killed by bootleggers while he was trying to uphold the law of the land. Another similar murder is reported in this mornings paper. This makes 35 officers recently killed by bootleggers. More murders just recently, than the opposition can muster in a decade of enforcement. Why didn't they get "Ready! Aim!! Fire" publicity? Isn't the press equally anxious to put these crimes before the public? Is the crime of murder in defying the law more justifiable? Are the lives of these officers, who died in defense of law, less valuable and precious?

If the Methodist board approved the murder of innocent people, I for one am glad you took the stand you did. But if the press is for law enforcement, if it is sincerely behind the effort of the churches and other good organizations to defeat the liquor lobby that has been in Washington for more than half a century, then why not, pray tell me, why not have a few "Ready! Aim!! Fire!!!" articles on the front page occasionally commemorating those who fall in line of duty of the flag, and condemning their bootlegger assassins?

Work on New Spillway Bridge At Lake Wichita Nearly Completed

Although the bridge and spillway on the Archer City road at Lake Wichita may be completed within two weeks, it will not be open to traffic for a much longer period, it being desired that the paving of both roads leading to the bridge be completed, D. M. Puckett, resident state highway engineer, said Friday.

The concrete work on the bridge has virtually been completed, it was said, and the structure is in the last stages of construction. However, the contractor for the road work on the highway from Archer City is still working in the vicinity of that city, and it is planned to defer opening of the bridge until the paving of that road at the bridge is completed, Mr. Puckett said.

This might mean a delay of from two to six months, he added.

L. A. Rodenhiser is in charge of the bridge construction.

HAWLEY BILL IS DENOUNCED

Demos Term Measure As 'Reckless'

By EDWARD L. RODDAN.

WASHINGTON, June 21. (US)—The Hawley bill was denounced as the "most reckless and extreme tariff bill that was ever conceived," in a statement issued by the Democratic national committee tonight.

The committee statement, which reviewed the legislative results of the interrupted extra session, likewise carried deunciations of the Hawley bill by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, and Senator McKellar of Tennessee.

The severe castigation of the house tariff bill was coupled with an assertion that senate Democrats will attempt to revise the measure downward when it comes to a vote next fall. The committee statement said:

"The house with its Republican majority of over 100 put through, under the gavel, the most reckless and extreme tariff bill that was ever conceived; under the guise of helping the farmer it raised the schedules on pretty much everything.

"Though the president in his message specified that there should be only limited revision of the tariff, he did not do anything to check the capacity of the measure. If the intended towering increases in the cost of living to the farmers and everybody else are presented it will be because the Democrats in the senate will have refused to permit the looting."

SNOOK BEGS TO GIVE LIFE

Indicted Professor Breaks Down in Cell

The prisoner would not eat. He had only one thought—escape by way of the law's extreme penalty—to blot out the hideous picture of his cold-blooded murder.

To his inquisitors, when he broke under the strain of the 20-hour grilling Snook had said his girl-sweetheart, just half his own age, had threatened to kill his wife and the 2-year-old Snook child, if the university professor tried to give Theora Hix up.

But one curiosity was expressed by Snook today and that was an uncanny desire that he be allowed to see the face of the girl he murdered. Between shaking fits, the bespectacled self-confessed slayer said to a keeper:

"I just want to see if she still has that sneer on her face that I saw just before I killed her."

In his confession, Snook had maintained he killed the fair Theora Hix only when she "sneered" at his effort to end their love affair.

As to the wife and child who lived a scant mile away from the scene of the tragedy, a week from Thursday night, Snook had no word.

After his confession was over and signed by the prisoner, Snook told the authorities he was perplexed over the facility with which they had broken down his alibis.

Snook had failed to discard a key to the love-nest on the outskirts of the university campus. The key had fallen from the clothing of his victim as she slumped to the ground under his hammer attack upon her.

Snook picked it up, and it was found at his home after he was arrested last Saturday. It was when confronted with this, at a climax in his inquisition, that he collapsed and eventually confessed to the crime.

Aged Lover at Point Of Confessing Murder

SANTA ANA, Cal., June 21. (US)—John L. McClure, 57-year-old Long Beach realty broker, charged with the murder of Mrs. Myrtle Wood, 40, began to crumple tonight under a grilling examination by Orange county officials, and admitted his previous alibi was a tissue of lie.

Instead of being shot by bandits who held him up and kidnaped him while riding with Mrs. Wood as he previously had claimed, robbers had nothing whatever to do with the affair, he now states.

The bullets found in his own head were inflicted by his own hand with intent to commit suicide, McClure is said to have confessed.

FRENCH CHEER OPERA 'MANON'

Hope Hampton Triumphs In Debut

By GEORGE W. HINMAN JR.

PARIS, June 21. (US)—Another notable American operatic triumph was scored this evening when Hope Hampton sang "Manon" before a distinguished audience, which enthusiastically greeted her European debut at France's celebrated opera comique.

It was the second American operatic demonstration within as many days, an American cast having only two nights earlier presented for the first time in Europe their countryman's opera, "The Light of Saint Agnes."

There is no doubt that Miss Hampton's great personal charm wins her sympathetic attention, from the moment she first appears before the footlights, but it is equally certain her artistic ability both as a singer and an actress enables her more than to justify the audience's immediate predilection in her favor.

For the French, it was especially pleasing that she had chosen one of their best works as the vehicle of her Paris debut, even as she used it in the United States when she first appeared as an operatic prima-donna.

The distinguished audience matched the distinction of the stage production. Among the box-holders for the performance were Gen. John J. Pershing, charge d'affaires and Mrs. Norman Armour with an embassy party; Mme. Claudel, wife of the French ambassador to Washington; Ganna Walska, Baron and Baroness de Zuylen, Baron de Trelis, Estelle Liebling of New York; Frank Harling, the author of "Saint Agnes"; Lee Shubert and Mrs. Edward Rothschild of New York, and Mrs. Jesse Livermore.

Lady Says She Was Much Better After She Had Taken Cardui.

McComb, Miss.—"A few years ago, I was a sick woman and rather discouraged," says Mrs. H. E. Dunaway, of 821 Pearl River avenue, this city. "I was so weak and thin, I was not able to do my work as it should have been done.

"This made me fret a good deal, and did not help my condition.

"I had pains across my back and lower part of my body. My nights were spent in rolling from one side of the bed to the other, hoping I would soon go to sleep. Then, when morning would come, I would be just as tired as when I went to bed.

"A neighbor, seeing how badly I felt, told me to try Cardui. After I had taken one bottle, I was much better. I kept on taking Cardui, and I was stronger and slept much better at night. I have been recommending it ever since."

Thousands of women have written that Cardui has helped them.

NEW CABINET HOLDS MEETING

Labor Heads Consider Ramsay MacDonald's Visit

By R. WELLES RITCHIE

LONDON, June 21. (US)—The first meeting of the new Labor cabinet today was devoted largely to the consideration of Premier MacDonald's projected visit to Washington and the government's keen desire for the furtherance of Anglo-American accord on disarmament.

From well informed quarters in Whitehall it is learned that the government's present decision envisions three distinct steps looking toward meeting President Hoover's proposals. These steps will be followed with all possible celerity:

1. Admiralty experts will prepare a "yardstick" according to Ambassador Dawes' suggestions in his Pilgrims society speech. That will be purely a technicians' job;

2. Through ordinary diplomatic channels this yardstick will be submitted to America and if the diplomatic situation warrants the inference that France, Italy and Japan are open minded, it will be submitted to them also;

3. Preliminary conference of statesmen, with the technicians in the background, will be held at Geneva under the auspices of the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations.

According to my information this is the new government's view of the preliminary "spade work" that is necessary before a new disarmament conference can be called. This program is the one determined upon to go through with America at all costs, even if the other powers do not accept the hint in the statement of MacDonald and Dawes at Forres last Sunday that "other naval powers are expected to cooperate in the negotiations."

I am also able to state on good authority that contrary to general belief of a few days ago that the British government is not in possession of President Hoover's yardstick, for the chief reason that such a yardstick at the present time is not in existence.

While the admiralty is working out Britain's yardstick, the Washington technicians will be doing the same.

Commenting on cabled reports from America that there was disappointment that nothing more definite had been revealed by General Dawes in his speech, one high authority said:

"I do not believe that President Hoover would have considered a banquet the most fitting place to reveal a matter of the higher mathematics and technical details of such a plan for naval reduction on a carefully weighed scale of values—even granting that General Dawes brought such a plan with him.

"As your ambassador most truthfully said the consciousness of the common people must be prepared for naval reductions before there is any hope of success. What MacDonald and Dawes did, even with a touch of the theatrical, perhaps may go a long way in preparing the consciousness of the people on both sides of the water."

MRS. WALKER SAYS SARGON HAS MADE LIFE WORTH LIVING

"The Sargon treatment has benefited me so wonderfully that life doesn't seem the same, after four years of bad health.

"In the last year and a half I had suffered terribly with neuritis.

MRS. EMMA WALKER

My whole body was racked with pain, my limbs all ached, and my breath would be almost taken away by sharp pains in my chest. All my muscles were so sore that I could hardly get around and I could not do my housework. I had become so weak and run-down that I did not feel like going anywhere, and life was just not worth living.

"I was constipated and suffered almost continually with billiousness and dizzy headaches. I had to take strong purgatives almost every other night. I was becoming a nervous wreck and had stood my suffering about as long as I could when I learned about Sargon.

"I had suffered so long and spent so much money for medicines without being benefited that I didn't have much faith in anything. But Sargon improved my health so wonderfully that I wish I had known about it a long time ago. I never have any of the pains I used to endure, my liver is active and constipation is a thing of the past.

"Sargon is the only medicine I have ever taken that does what they say it will do."

The above statement was made by Mrs. Emma Walker, 3734 McKinney Ave., Dallas. She is a member of the Hill Crest Baptist church, has lived in Dallas for thirty years, and is highly esteemed by her friends.

Sargon may be obtained in Wichita Falls from the Renfro Drug Co., Eighth and Scott streets, No. 1 main store, and Seventh and Indiana, No. 2; in Electra from Clough's Drug store; and in Burkburnett from Burkburnett Pharmacy.—Adv.

NINETY per cent of the capital hustling around the neighborhood had childhood acquaintance with poverty. Necessity spurred most of the great fortunes and new enterprise of America to the winning post.

People who begin with nothing always end with most. Ambition finds no fuel in truffles and caviar.

It takes corned beef and cabbage to nourish determination. That's why rich men's sons are so seldom richer men's fathers.

The Victory Over Fear

MOST of us are rather envious by nature. No matter how well we are getting along, we can usually find someone—someone with money, with power, with fame or with unusual ability—with whom we would gladly change places.

But did it ever occur to you that it might be quite possible to be envious of a man who is dying of an incurable and painful disease?

Dr. Ozora Stearns Davis resigned the other day as president of the Chicago Theological seminary. He is a sick man; the doctors have told him that he cannot live, and he knows that the rest of his life will consist of a more or less extended period of suffering.

But he is a man to be envied, nevertheless.

Announcing his reirement, and the reason for it, Dr. Davis remarked:

"Of course, I don't want to go—this is a mighty interesting world, and I'm having a mighty good time in it. But I'm no more afraid of it (death) than I am of walking through the door to this study, for I know that I shall have a spiritual body to do with as I please, and won't have to worry about the aches and pains."

Any man who can look certain death in the eye and talk like that is a man to be envied, no matter how uncomfortable his days are.

For a man like that has something that most of us never quite get. Do what we will, we find it hard to beat down the oldest, most paralyzing fear the race knows—the fear of death. A trace of it lingers with us in spite of everything.

And, when all is said and done, the fact remains that the conquering of that fear is the greatest task any man can accomplish. Dr. Davis, for example, has made a definite and everlasting triumph. Nothing can frighten him or depress him. Pain, loneliness, inaction, death—they have become, to him, mere shadow-shapes, things that will pass in a moment of time. He has the ultimate victory.

It is a victory that all of us can have, if we have the strength and the faith. Indeed, one might go farther; it is the one thing in life worth having. Without it, any conquests that a man may make are meaningless.

The jungle savage, carving grotesque faces in his totem pole, was merely trying his best to win that victory. The pyramids of Egypt were built for the same reason. All the temples of the ancient world, and all the forgotten prayers that went up to gilded images, were bulwarks put up by struggling men against the oldest fear of all. The question that was put on the shores of Galilee 20 centuries ago—"If a man die, shall he live again?" is, and always has been, the question of questions.

Dr. Davis has found the answer. He faces suffering and death—and he says, calmly, "I am no more afraid of it than I am of walking through the door to this study."

Of all the men in the country, there is no one more to be envied.

The Menace of Fireworks

THE SAFE AND SANE Fourth of July has been preached in this country for a good many years—so many that it seems almost like a waste of breath to repeat the preachment this year.

Nevertheless, we have been pretty slow to learn. On the outskirts of every city there are suburban stores and roadside booths where fireworks are on sale—and thousands of otherwise intelligent parents are permitting their children to buy as many of these things as they wish.

The natural result will be that on July 5 we will read in our newspapers that a great many children have been killed and that a great many more have been blinded, crippled, burned or disfigured.

Practically every town in the country gives a free fireworks display on the Fourth of July. Let your child get his thrill that way; firecrackers and skyrockets are altogether too dangerous for children to handle.

Betting a Dangerous Business

FOR THE second time within recent months a betting transaction has resulted in a killing in Texas. The most recent killing was at Paducah where a bet precipitated an argument between one of the bettors and the stakeholder in which the bettor was killed.

A practical joke had a part in the tragedy.

Shakespeare had Polonious say: "Neither borrower or lender be; for loan oft loses both itself and friend—" A modern Polonious would tell his son: "Neither bettor nor stakeholder be; for bet oft loses both itself and friend and somebody is likely to get killed."

Bettors and stakeholders and players of practical jokes are in dangerous business. And when betting and practical joking are combined it is tempting fate too much.

Mr. Bumble May Be Right

A. EDWARD NEWTON of Philadelphia, an author and a scholar, is a book collector of considerable prominence. Recently, while in England, he bought an old edition of Rabelais. Returning to the United States, this book was taken from him by U. S. customs men, who held it to be an "obscene document."

Seldom has the utter dumbness of the official busy-body been better illustrated than in this case.

There are passages in Rabelais, to be sure, that could never be read at a church social. Yet any man can get a copy of the book in any reasonably complete library in the land. It is for sale, quite openly, in any large bookstore. To prevent a man of Mr. Newton's standing from bringing a copy in from England is to provoke again Mr. Bumbie's famous remark—"If the law says that, the law is a ass."

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, June 21.—It is not unusual for comedians to go a little bit too far in personalities during their appearances on the stage. One example of the license taken by comedians engaging in what Broadway calls "ad libbing" is brought to my attention.

The comedian, during the middle of his act, called "Oh, Professor," to the orchestra director, and pointed to the pit orchestra, describing the musicians as "five men and two other people." Pointing to the bass horn player, the actor added there was one he couldn't vouch for. The musician, infuriated, leaped over the footlights, grabbed the actor and dragged him in front of the curtain, forcing him to apologize to the house for his bad taste.

High Hats in the Movies

It seems that one movie company intends to lend a continental aspect to its opening nights. Dave Loew and Dave Blum, upon their recent return from Europe, notified more than 20 employes that each must wear an opera hat on nights of premiere showings of pictures. The folding hats were presented to them.

Quite appropriate, since the movies have become so high-hat.

Westward Bound

Just to show how Broadway has succumbed to the lure of Hollywood, the Fox organization, reports that 206 persons have gone from the old street during the past year to take up movies. This includes production executives, players, directors, writers, musicians, casting directors, publicity men, fashion creators, sound technicians, and—and night watchmen.

Rules for the Beach

All sorts of rules and regulations, as usual, for conduct at the metropolitan beaches, have been issued. At Rockaway Beach the police have approved the one-piece suit for the ladies and even grant modest petting. At Coney Island the sun-back suit is barred.

Captain Patrick Dinan, philosophic chief of the Rockaway Beach station, has issued his "Don'ts" for beach behavior. One-piece bathing suits with or without stockings are barred; baseball and other "rough" games are out; no dressing or undressing in automobiles allowed; automobile petting barred.

How the Critics Rate

The season's box score for dramatic critics, as announced annually by variety, presents, for once, a vindication of the critic as a guide to public choice. Robert Littell, of the Evening Post, leads the lot, and Littell is perhaps the most brilliant critic in these parts. The runner up is Atkinson of the Times, and the last is a fellow, who shall be nameless, who failed to make the grade for the reason that he was afraid to express an opinion.

A critic or an observer, whether it be of the drama or of music or of the very life about him, who is afraid to express an opinion, is about as superfluous an individual as a canary in a cage, and canaries, my canary experts tell me are very superfluous.

Your House Obstructing Traffic

An airplane crashed through the roof and into the bedroom of Governor Larson of New Jersey at his summer home at Sea Girt, N. J., the other day. Accidents of this type are becoming more and more frequent. The complaint of the aviators seems to be that our homes do not carry rear lights or bumpers.

PHILLIPS

"I had a plane crash through the roof of my house and me and the family have become pretty accustomed to having the house sidewiped by aviators. They are breaking in a lot of new airmen over my way and they must be using my house to practice in. We've got so we can tell by the sound of the motor whether a plane is going to put a new hole in the roof or not, but it keeps our nerves pretty ragged.

"Now and then we get fooled, though. We calculate by the sound that the birdman is going to miss us and hit the house next door, but he suddenly smacks right through the building, grazing the children's room, taking a yard or two off the dog and settling down at the foot of my bed.

"I am for long strides in aviation, but when these birdmen take to flying into bed with you it is carrying a stride too far.

"What gets me is that they are so bold about it. A passenger plane with three people in it crashed right into my bedroom last week with no warning of any kind. Had the pilot given any signal I could have moved the bed over to the extreme right and let him pass.

"But the first thing I know is when he telescopes the bed. The pilot lands on my wife's pillow; and the two passengers, a Mrs. Bean and her daughter from Detroit, land on my chest. It was all pretty embarrassing.

"But was that pilot sorry? Was he willing to accept the responsibility for the collision? Was he even polite about it? He was not. Do you know what he did?

"He got up, glared at me and yelled, 'Why didn't you hold out your hand?'"

"Mrs. Corey should buy Prince Louis at once, even if she has to do it on margin," said Elmer Twitchell today. "His technical position is excellent and he is due to jump 50 or 60 points by the first of July. I hear he is to be split two for one."

The GREEN SHADOW - By Herman Landon

(Copyright by Public Ledger)

"Your father is the mysterious Mr. Graves. Dr. Moffett knows it—"

While Captain Summers is meditating on the escapades of "The Picaroon," whom he is convinced is really his friend, Martin Dale, Mr. Alexander Ferryman calls and requests that strange happenings at 262 Bank street, the house next to the one in which he lives, be investigated. Axelson, a watchman employed by Ferryman to guard the house in which he lived before he moved next door after his wife had deserted him, has heard footsteps and seen an eerie green light.

Just as Ferryman is showing the captain a picture of his wife, the telephone rings and a voice tells of finding a woman's body at 262 Bank street. Summers and Ferryman hurry there. The dead woman is Ferryman's wife. Summers finds only one clue, a piece of green lens.

"The Picaroon," who preys upon the rich and then offers the return of his loot on the payment of 10 per cent of its value to charity, has written a note to Adele Castle, requesting a meeting in Central park. Adele has had a terrifying experience. She was taken to a strange house where, through a queer green light, she could glimpse only the outline of a man calling himself Dr. Moffett, who tells her he holds evidence which would convict her father of being connected with a crooked financial deal and send him to prison. Mr. Castle tells Adele Dr. Moffett demands blackmail of $100,000.

Summers continues his investigations and finds a band from a Verona, the special sort of cigar Martin Dale smokes. The captain and Dale meet in a restaurant and save that Dale seems to know something about a green light and admits that there are few Veronas in the country. Summers learns nothing.

A Bench for Two

Dale jumped into a taxi and hurried away to keep the appointment of which he had spoken. His face had worn a light frown when he left the restaurant, but it changed quickly to a whimsical expression. At one of the entrances to Central park he dismissed the taxi and walked briskly inside. A girl was seated on a bench and he gave her a quick and unobtrusive inspection, then raised his hat.

"I believe you are Miss Adele Castle?" he murmured.

"Yes," said Adele, regarding him a little doubtfully out of her dark, troubled eyes. "But you"—she hesitated—"certainly you are not the Picaroon."

"Why not?" he asked lightly casually noting the trim lines of her smartly garbed figure.

"You don't look a bit—er—vicious."

Dale laughed. "You can never go by appearances. I may be a wolf in sheep's clothing."

Her lips relaxed a little. "Anyway, sheep's clothing is becoming to you."

"Thanks. Is there room for two on that bench?"

She edged away a little, making room for him, and she was still regarding him with a shy, questioning glance.

"I'm glad you came," said Dale, sitting down beside her. "I wasn't sure you would."

"Well, I hesitated a bit, but when one is desperate, then there is nothing to do but clutch whatever straw may come along."

Dale nodded. He twirled his stick between his knees and gazed out over the rolling greensward and the trees in the autumnal coloring. There was a warm haze over it all, and a certain tender feeling was pushing wistfully through the beauty of the landscape.

"Forgive me if I speak bluntly," he murmured. "Your father is the mysterious Mr. Graves. Dr. Moffett knows it—"

A gasp came from the girl beside him.

"Dr Moffett has documentary evidence which proves that your father is the mysterious Mr. Graves," Dale calmly continued, "and he has placed an outrageous price on his silence, a price which your father is unable to meet even if he were so inclined. That's the situation in a nutshell, isn't it?"

The girl shrank away from him a little. "How do you know all that?"

"It is true, isn't it?"

"Yes!" The little word came on a fluttering whisper. "But I don't understand—"

"It isn't necessary that you should understand just at present, Miss Castle, do you think you could trust me?"

She looked at him solemnly and with a quaver. "I have no choice. I am at your mercy. You seem to have information in your possession that could destroy my father."

"Nonsense, Miss Castle. You are not at my mercy. You don't believe for a moment that I would use the information I have in an unprincipled manner, do you?"

"No," she replied faintly, after a little period of hesitation, during which she scanned his frank expression and clear-cut features. "No, I don't believe you would."

"Thank you," Dale said gently. "I don't believe you would betray me, either. By inference I have admitted that I am the Picaroon. You are the first and only person to whom I have made such an admission. Of course," he chuckled, softly, "there are no witnesses to this exchange of confidences. I can be frank without jeopardizing my safety. But I don't believe you would harm me even if you could."

"No, I wouldn't. That wouldn't be playing fair. Besides"—and with an expression of doubt and keen curiosity she scanned his face—"I don't believe even now that you are the Picaroon."

"Tell that to Summers," Dale laughed. "Now, Miss Castle, let us face a few facts. This Dr. Moffett appears to be a villainous old soul. Neither you nor I have seen him, but we have heard his voice. Rather pleasant voice, hasn't he?"

"Yes, but I had a feeling he was disguising it."

"So did I. You were closer to him than I. What did you see?"

"A rich, green light like velvet." Adele shivered a little. She had not yet grown accustomed to the presence of this strange man who in some intimate way appeared to have acquired a knowledge of the facts that concerned her most vitally. "I also saw a figure, but it was very shadowy. The face I couldn't see at all. There seemed to be a cloud over it."

Dale nodded understandingly. "You found it a bit spooky, of course. That's what Doctor Moffett intended. One of his objects was to make you feel that it would be useless to resist a man like him. I don't believe he quite succeeded. I don't think you are easily frightened."

"Oh, but I was. I was all chills and fevers for a while."

"But only for a while. The net result fell short of Doctor Moffett's aim. So far he has been successful in his secondary aim, however. He has preserved his anonymity. Probably there is no such person as Doctor Moffett. We wouldn't know him if we should come face to face with him. Even the voice we heard was dissembled."

"You heard it, too?"

"I was there."

"In the room with the green light?"

He smiled mysteriously. "I was not far away. I heard nearly every word. Let me tell you a secret. The Picaroon visited Doctor Moffett's house one dark night about a month ago. It was just chance that brought him here that time. He didn't see Doctor Moffett, but he observed a number of curious things. He decided to make a return visit and find out some more. That's how he happened to be present during your interview with the doctor."

"Oh, I see." She smiled faintly, but soon her face sobered again. "He told me he is the ugliest man in creation. That's one reason why he doesn't want to be seen. Now, if we should come face to face with a very ugly man——"

Dale laughed. "Yes, that would shatter Doctor Moffett's anonymity. If he is as ugly as he told you, then he would be very conspicuous in a crowd. But it's possible he told you a lie."

"I hadn't thought of that."

"Well, we can't be certain. Maybe he lied, or maybe he told the truth."

"He also said that he is suffering from a nervous ailment that makes his eyes sensitive to most colors except green."

The Caterpillar

"That may have been true. One thing is certain. He is very careful to conceal his identity in his negotiations with his victims. That gives him added security, and in addition it makes him appear more formidable. You're a brick, Miss Castle. Ever so many girls would have fainted or gone into hysterics. You braved it out like a thoroughbred."

She blushed faintly beneath his frank, admiring gaze. It was very difficult to believe that this man was the notorious Picaroon.

Her eyes, no longer full of distrust and doubt, searched his face. It was odd how quickly this stranger of dark repute had won her confidence.

"You were there," she murmured absently. "You heard everything, yet you didn't see anybody. That proves it! It wasn't all my imagination. I wasn't in a trance. It was no hallucination. It actually happened as I thought it did. I was wondering afterward if my senses hadn't tricked me."

"Perhaps they did, but it was all real enough."

"How could it be real if my senses deceived me?"

"It's a poser, isn't it? The trouble is that it's hard to tell where reality ends and illusion begins. See that caterpillar, Miss Castle? It's difficult to believe that such a creature will be a butterfly some day, isn't it?"

"I don't see any caterpillar."

"There he is." Dale pointed with his stick. "You see him now, don't you? The reason you didn't see him at once is that he is green, almost the same shade of green as the grass he crawls in."

For a moment she followed the writhing motions of the larva, then stared up into Dale's face. A look of bewildered and partial understanding appeared in her dark eyes.

"Oh!" she exclaimed. "That would explain. But," and a little pucker appeared on her forehead, "Doctor Moffett has no protective coloring, and he doesn't crawl in grass."

"No, of course not," said Dale in a queer voice.

Her great, puzzled eyes were still full upon him. "Do you understand how Doctor Moffett makes his face invisible?"

"No, I don't, but I hope to understand some day. I was only trying to point out that there is nothing supernatural about invisibility. This poor, ugly little caterpillar is giving you a partial demonstration. Maybe Doctor Moffett isn't any more dangerous than he."

"That's Miss Conway!"

For a moment longer she remained silent, almost breathless, then gave a clear, bright laugh.

"I don't feel such dread of Doctor Moffett now. You have—er—pulled his fangs."

"Splendid! We are making progress. Now that we have deprived the devil of his cloven hoof, there is another thing you must know. You have no idea, I suppose, as to the location of the house where Doctor Moffett interviewed you?"

"Not the slightest. I was taken there in an automobile by a most fascinating woman who calls herself Miss Conway. The windows were blinded and I couldn't see where we were going."

"Miss Conway?" Dale murmured. "Well, names don't seem to mean much in this affair. The house, Miss Castle, was No. 262 Bank street. A certain Mr. Alexander Ferryman owns it. He also owns the adjoining house, No. 260, in which he resides at present."

Adele gave him a startled glance. "How do you know all this?" she exclaimed.

Dale smiled. "For the present you will have to accept my unsupported word. Until four years ago, when his wife left him, Mr. Ferryman lived in No. 262. Then the associations grew too painful and he moved next door. The only occupant of the former residence is an old caretaker named Axelson.

"The only ostensible occupant, that is. It appears Doctor Moffett is making clandestine use of the house for his enterprises. Just now I can't tell you how he contrives it, or why he has selected another man's house for the scene of his operations, but it was to that same house you were taken by Mrs. Conway."

Adele inclined her head thoughtfully. "It scarcely seems possible. We went there in broad daylight and we entered by the front door. There was no secrecy about it at all. We didn't act like trespassers. The Mr. Ferryman you speak of must have seen us if he had happened to look out the windows of the next house, and the caretaker surely——"

"I must have a little talk with the caretaker," Dale interrupted. "I have my doubts about him. As for Ferryman, he may have been absent. Or perhaps," he added whimsically, "Dr. Moffett flung a cloak of invisibility over the car and its occupants. At any rate, that was the house. And last night a most distressing affair took place there—murder."

A little exclamation of horror broke from the girl's lips.

"It appears Mr. Ferryman's missing wife returned very quietly," Dale went on, speaking rapidly, as if trying to skip over the unpleasant details. "Some time during the night she was killed. This morning the caretaker found the body in one of the upstairs rooms.

"It's quite pathetic. All this time Ferryman has held to his faith that she would return. He has kept everything in order for her homecoming at the former residence. Now he is heartbroken. The blow may kill him. The wife was much younger than he, and from what I've heard she must have been a beauty."

"Have you seen her?"

"No, but some one gave me a description of her this morning. It gave me quite a vivid picture of her." He proceeded to repeat the detailed description of the dead woman which Captain Summers had given him.

Adele listened intently, her face growing tenser and tenser, and toward the end she uttered a startled little cry.

"That's Miss Conway!" she exclaimed.

It was Dale's turn to show astonishment. "Miss Conway? Are you sure?"

"The description fits her exactly. Of course, it's possible for two persons to look almost exactly alike."

"Yes, possible, but in this case the coincience is a bit staggering. H'm! no. I can't believe it's a coincidence. The woman who took you to No. 262 Bank street must have been Ferryman's missing wife. If so, she must have been associated with Dr. Moffett. That would partly explain why Dr. Moffett found it so easy to make use of Ferryman's house.

"It explains nothing else, however. Ferryman, poor devil—but all that is beside the issue. What interests us more is that your father is being persecuted by one of the blackest scoundrels in creation."

The Picaroon's Past

Her face darkened. The strange man seated beside her had momentarily scattered the clouds hanging over her, but now the shadow fell athwart her path again.

"Will you let me help you?" he asked.

"Why would you wish to help me?"

"I hardly know." A look of wistfulness entered his gray eyes. "Life is a queer thing. Fate is having its merry way with us. Now and then we feel like taking a hand in the game. Do you know, when I caught a glimpse of you at 262 Bank street I was reminded of some one—some one almost as good and beautiful as you."

She felt a rush of color to her cheeks and her eyes fell.

"That isn't flattery. It's only a statement of fact. I am trying to make you understand something I scarcely understand myself. She—the other one—went away and left me one day, just as poor Ferryman's wife left him. She wasn't to blame. There had been a—a misunderstanding. The majesty of the law was at fault."

He chuckled a little bitterly. "The law makes queer mistakes at times, and prison walls are ugly things. Such perishable flowers as love and faith can't survive for long in their shadow. But I mustn't bore you with all this. It happened years ago and now——"

His voice drooped, then paused. With his cane he was tracing figures in the sandy walk at their feet. A feeling of sympathy and understanding took hold of her as she listened, her mind bridging the gaps in his story.

He laughed. "They say time heals all wounds. It's a pretty piece of fiction. Some wounds form scars and last forever. Maybe I'm a hopeless imbecile. I should let bygones be bygones, but somehow I can't. I'm a vindictive cuss, you see, Miss Castle. The law did its best to tear my life to tatters, and ever since I've been snapping back like an impudent bull pup.

"The temptation to get even has been a little too strong for me. I have tweaked the law's nose and twisted its tail. Silly rot, isn't it? Well, that's the way I am. But once in a while, when I see a woman who is both beautiful and true, then—Oh, hang it all! I'm trying to explain, and I'm only making a mess of it."

State Delegate to National Convention Honored by Grove

Mrs. Pearl T. Somers, state delegate to the national convention of Woodmen Circles meeting in Seattle July 10, was presented with a beautiful leather handbag at the meeting of Wilson Grove No. 175, Woodmen circle, on Friday afternoon.

The circle convened in regular meeting and after a short business session, Mrs. Ruth Dotson was appointed guardian pro tem during the absence of the guardian and advisor.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We have a neighbor whose wife loves cats. He opened his front door one morning, he said, and stumbled over eight of her pets. So he started out to buy her the best Persian he could find, thinking with this paragon in her possession, she would care nothing for the ordinary breed.

But alas, Fluff, the Persian, is the only one in the family beside himself who scorns the plebeians. There are something like three cats and half a dozen kittens around the place, and his wife pets them all. When a kitten gets near "Fluff" he sweeps a dignified paw and knocks him over. The simple kitten at first felt a deep interest in Fluff's tail and really thought it might be a nice plaything. But the aristocrat taught them better.

That gentleman of 76, Congressman St George Tucker of Virginia, who is to be married next Wednesday to a lady of 60, is a man of courage backed by wit. When someone spoke to him of the courage it took to marry at his age, his answer was "It was the spirit of '76 that made these United States."

About the most ridiculous thing we've seen in the papers lately is an excerpt telling of a double wedding in Lebanon, Tenn., which took place in Cedar Grove cemetery with the ceremony performed by a justice of the peace who was also a funeral director.

But then you know how Tennessee stood on evolution. We love her in spite of her faults.

And when Mrs. Lindbergh was married, she carried a bouquet of blue larkspur, plucked by her husband.

In our grandmother's garden, there grew sweet spicy pinks; along the borders were candy tuft and sweet alyssum; there was a hedge of purple and white lilacs that filled the air with perfume. At Easter time, there were tall white Easter lilies. But we can't forget the little spicy pinks and the sprays of blue. Yes, there was another flower, we don't often see now—heliotrope. It is one of the odors of our childhood.

Everyone loves roses. But more than the American beauties which we have carried with stems touching the floor, we love roses like the pink briar rose that grows beside the country roads in the old Southern states.

In such a way, it must have been, that Browning loved hawthorne.

A city flower—if people can love it as the city flower—should be one that everyone can have. Not one that costs money and time to produce. There are transients in cities—people who can not make that place their home for always and there are so many simple, lovely little flowers that one can start with five and 10-cent packages of seed and be as rich as anyone with the beauty round them.

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

FIFTY YEARS FROM NOW!

The world is going to the dogs.

Dr. Watson—no, not Sherlock Holmes' boy friend—says so.

Dr. Watson, the behaviorist!

He doesn' actually say the world is going to those bow-wows, but that, I'm sure, is the conclusion you will draw from his remarks. He says that men won't marry 50 years from now!

And if the world won't go to the dogs then where will it go to?

Doc Watson says that men won't marry 50 years from now, in spite of the fact that the rascals have been doing that very thing since Adam and Eve went companionate.

And I only know what doctors themselves tell me—that nature itself, the greatest of all doctors, has always prescribed marriage, and that the aim of all medicine and sane thinking is to assist and explain nature.

But Doc Watson, in effect, says no.

Doc Watson says men won't marry 50 years from now. And I'm sure I won't be alive then. And I'm glad.

Doc Watson says other things, too.

He says that girls today are doing the only permanently thrilling thing left for them to do—they have become huntresses of men.

He says married women don't stay young with their husbands and that husbands are compelled to seek youth and, of course, "understanding," outside the matrimonial circle.

He cites the constant increase of divorces, and implies that life is just terrible, and that marriage is worse, and so forth and so on, and it's all too bad; and so, because of all this, men won't marry 50 years from now. And there you are!

Or aren't you? . . . Central! Operator! . . . Hello! Hello! . . . Are you there? . . . We were cut off.

As I was saying, it's all very elementary, you see. Marriage is a failure, always has been, always will be, and in 50 years men will be so smart they just won't marry.

So says Dr. Watson. But he also says he hasn't a real solution of the problem—and that's one thing I am sure he's right about!

Betty Brainerd will be glad to help her readers with their problems. Send a self addressed stamped envelope to her in care of this paper.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, June 21. (US)—A woman visits New York and advertises, mind you, that for eight years she has been making lonely, trustful people acquainted. Object—matrimony!

But who helps them out of their dilemma?

She says flappers have "motions only" while the woman of 40 has the emotions.

Men who have been hitched to emotional wives will accept that tip with thanks.

She's "jolly," this matrimonial agent. And she deals in widows and widowers.

The strange thing about matrimony is that no matter how unsuccessful it may be, the participants always rush straight into it again as soon as they are free. So a matrimonial agent for widows and widowers sits pretty!

Tell her marriages are made in heaven—how she'd laugh! They're made in the moonlight, most of them, when "men are not themselves."

A matrimonial agency sends out letters telling how many rich, beautiful women want husbands. You pay $1 and when you ask for the one with $50,000 and an income of $8,000, you are told that one "is gone," and given a horse shoer with lumbago.

One woman advertises herself in a matrimonial paper: "Widow by death, very pleasing personality, children are married: a fine girlie for the right man. Am always trying to please and help."

And lord, what a bore that can become!

She has money too, a car, a home, looks—the only thing is, she's probably ever so little, oh, just a teeny weeny bit insane. You pay $5 for the name and address.

If you can wait till she's locked up in an asylum you can see her for nothing. That's all you'd want her for anyway.

You join a matrimony club not for a day, nor for a year but forever! There's no limit to the number of times you can get a wife if the first few are flivvers.

The ads don't tell you what's the matter with the men in their home towns that they let these "loving, kindly, rich, beautiful, talented" women run amuck in a matrimonial newspaper.

If they were not widows it would be easier to understand. But you know widows! (Wink.)

There's some information that such a paper doesn't broadcast. They never mention cross eyes, knock knees, big feet, oily hair, and excess avoirdupois. You take "as is" and it usually is as I state.

As an awakener the agent to get bad-bets married to each other is a lulu! And perhaps the community owes her thanks. She averts accidents.

CUSTOM ONLY MODESTY GUIDE

And There's Nothing Modern in "Bad Girl," Says Dix

Can a Modest Girl Be Up-to-Date? The Woman Who Wants to Meet Her Husband's First Wife—Getting Rid of a Prejudice Against In-Laws.

Dear Dorothy Dix—We have been having a discussion regarding modernism and modesty and would like to have your views as to whether a young girl can be modern and truly modest at the same time. We would also like to know what is required of a girl to be truly modest and what is required of a girl to be modern. Must a girl be old-fashioned to be modest?

—DOLLY AND MOLLY.

Answer—According to the flapper's dictionary a modern girl is one who drinks and pets and spends her evenings in parked automobiles and who has cast the entire code of what used to be considered proper behavior for her sex into the discard.

But the term modern in such a connection is a misnomer. There is nothing modern in such conduct. Nothing new. It is all as old as history. Old as tradition. There has never been a time when there were not loose women. Never a time when women did not use their physical charms to vamp men. Never a time when there were not women who went on drunken orgies with men. Never a time when women didn't barter kisses for jewels and furs and good times.

Mother Eve wore fewer clothes than any flapper who thinks she is being so daring with her rolled stockings and bare legs. Cleopatra knew more about the art of seduction than any vamp of today. Delilah could give any gold digger points about trimming a man and any up-to-date wild party would be a tame affair compared with those staged by the hettirae in ancient Rome. So there is nothing modern about being a bad girl. It is as old as sin itself.

As for modesty, that is mainly a matter of geography and custom. Things that are proper in one part of the world are improper in another and vice versa. The South Sea island belle, who wears nothing but a sweet smile and a shell necklace, is dressed with perfect modesty because that is the accepted mode where she lives and she violates no convention.

In our grandmother's time it was immodest for a woman to display even so much as her ankle. Now it is not immodest to wear a knee-length skirt because it is the custom and no one notices a woman's legs any more than they do her arms.

Also, in our grandmother's time it was immodest to discuss many topics that are subjects of casual conversation nowadays. In fact, we should consider anybody to be immodest and have a dirty mind who was shocked at the mention of many matters that we take as the commonplaces of life.

True modesty, which is neither ancient nor modern, but a characteristic of all times, consists in a delicacy of feeling, a fine regard for one's conduct, a due appreciation of the customs that prevail in one's environment, and an almost religious reverence for the sanctity of one's body.

Therefore, a modest woman will dress herself according to the fashions of the hour but without going to extremes or unduly exploiting her physical charms. She will conduct herself quietly and so as not to provoke the censure of her neighbors. She will not debase herself by getting drunk and she will shrink from the very thought of giving her lips to strange men and having them paw over her.

My idea of what it means for a girl to be modern is for her to be the exemplification of what this 20th century has done for women. I call a girl modern who has a good education, who is self-supporting, who is courageous and unafraid, who is frank and honest, who is a free, independent, self-supporting human being who can take care of herself, who can go where she pleases and who has broken with all the silly fetters and tabooes of her sex.

But she is also modest because she dresses properly, because she is clean in mind and body, because she values her good name as a man values his and because she says "hands off" and will not sell her kisses for a few dates.

I see no reason why a girl can't be both modest and modern.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I suppose you will think my problem a very foolish one, but I am crazy to secure meet my husband's divorced wife. Just once and never again. He is always talking about how beautiful she was and when he does it is a stab at my heart and the wounds aches for days so that I am sorry I married a man who had ever been married before. This woman lives only a few blocks from me, but I have never been fortunate enough to see her. But I think I would be happier if I could see her. How could I go about meeting her?

Answer—The simplest way is always the best, so why don't you just go and call on the lady and tell her frankly and honestly who you are and why you come to see her. Probably she is just as curious about you as you are about her, and so a pleasant time might be had by one and all.

Certainly the two women who have been married to a man and who have a mutual husband, so to speak, would have a lot of things to talk over in discussing his little peculiarities and ways. Possibly your predecessor, if she is a good sport, could give you some points and tell you where she lost out and so might pass you on a few valuable tips.

Very likely your going to see this woman will exorcise the very natural jealousy you have of her, because after you see her you may find that she is far from being the beautiful creature that your husband represents her as being. You may find her older, homelier than yourself, fatter, more settled, with less pep, and you will go home feeling like a flapper and a sylph and a human cocktail, and know that what your husband says about Number One is just hoey and doesn't mean a thing.

But, anyway, don't worry about her. Men seldom fall in love with the woman they have quarreled with and they hate with a bitter hatred the one they have to pay alimony to. Your trouble is being married to a man stupid enough to throw up his ex-wife's charms to his present wife.

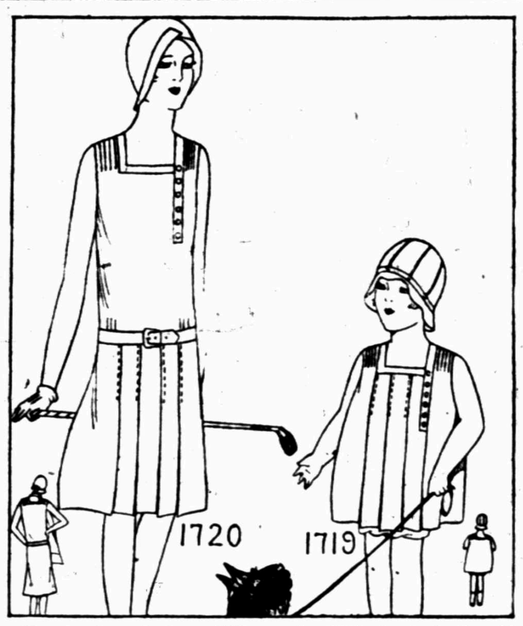

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am married to the best man in the world and I love him dearly, but I do not like his people and just can't treat them decently. He is so good to my family, always welcomes them when they come to see me and takes them out in our car and is willing to have me make them handsome presents but I make it horrid for his people when they come to see us and don't want them around, and at Christmas, when I buy the presents, I get fine things for my family and cheap ones for his. I know this hurts my husband's feelings very much, but he never says anything. How can I change myself?—MRS. W. A. L.

Answer—The only way to quit being mean and little is to quit it. You can if you will. Force yourself to treat your husband's people as nicely as he treats yours. Do something kind and generous for them, and if you do you will soon find out that you have got over your prejudice and have begun to love them, for it is a curious law of life that the more we do for people, the better we like them.

—DOROTHY DIX.

TIME HERE FOR PEACE EFFORT

Stimson Points to Japan's Friendly Attitude

WASHINGTON, June 21. (US)—The United States believes the time is ripe to make a definite step to the reduction of armaments, particularly naval armaments, Secretary of State Stimson announced today.

Great significance was attached in state department circles to the olive branch offered by Premier Tanaka yesterday. The Japenese prime minister announced through the American charge d'affairs at Tokio the readiness of his country to proceed to a drastic reduction of expenditures in the national appropriations for war purposes.

This statement from the third great naval power in the world profoundly influenced the words of Secretary Stimson today. The secretary of state believes that with the formal declarations of Great Britain through the new British premier, Ramsay MacDonald, and the late pronouncement from Japan, the three great naval powers of the world are unanimous in feeling the need for arms reduction.

Diplomatic correspondence that has been almost exclusively confined to the other side of the Atlantic suddenly veered and today intensive diplomatic exchanges between the American embassy in Tokio and the state department are in full swing.

Secretary Stimson indicated today that he feels the last great barrier to a frank exchange of views on the subject of arms reduction has been removed by the spontaneous gesture of the Japanese premier.

Uncertainty had been felt lest in the face of the rapidly increasing unanimity between the United States and Great Britain, some misapprehension might be aroused in other quarters. That Japan has come forward to associate herself voluntarily with the work of disarmament has produced the most favorable effect in the White House and at the state department.

Irene Castle Wins Court's Ruling To Prohibit Calling Dog 'A Mutt'

Former Dancer Probably Will Lose $10 Suit Against Boy But Judge Agrees That a Dog Is a Dog

By W. F. SULLIVAN

CHICAGO, June 21. (UP)—Pedigrees do not a dog make and even if Irene Castle McLaughlin's mongrel was only a hound it was not a "Mutt" and she voiced her resentment in no uncertain terms before spectators, the judge and Irving Hopkins, 17-year-old defendant in an Evanston police court Thursday.

The former dancer, who now spends much of her time directing the Orphans of the Storm home, a haven for friendless canines, aired her views when Hopkins made slighting remarks against a combination Airedale and police dog he had purchased at the McLaughlin farm.

Sues for $10

Mrs. McLaughlin is suing the youth for $10 to recover the dog, who now is either in the pound, in "some disgusting pet shop" as she expressed it, or wandering about Chicago's famous West Madison street where all wanderers daily spend their idle 24 hours.

"I paid $5 for a rough dog at this Orphans of the Storm home these ladies operate," Hopkins said. "It was part Airedale and police dog of a low grade. A friend of mine took it back and they gave him a second dog.

"This one was no better so I took it to a pet shop to get a real dog. The owner wouldn't allow anything on it so I bought a real one and gave him the mutt I had."

"No dog is a mutt and I object to that statement judge," Mrs. McLaughlin interrupted. "Dogs are just as human as we are."

Judge Charles G. Franklin recognized the exceptions.

"Don't call this dog a mutt any more," the judge warned the defendant. "Let's call him a dog."

Purp May Be Hungry

"We only want the dog back but we feel he owes us $10 for breach of contract," the complainant continued. "Conditions in these pet shops are disgusting—They don't know how to treat dogs. We don't know where this dog is and he may be out somewhere homeless and hungry."

"Contracts made by minors cannot be recognized," the judge remarked.

"Why not?" Mrs. McLaughlin asked. "They are tried for other crimes (she listed a few) so why not breaking contracts?"

"I'm going by the law," answered the court and turning to the youth asked if he could find the dog.

"It is in some pet shop on West Madison street," Hopkins replied.

"I'll go to a higher court," insisted Mrs. McLaughlin, when her case seemed to be weakening.

"It's the law in all courts," Judge Franklin said. "But we'll continue this case until Wednesday to give this young man time to hunt for the dog."

"All we want is the dog," the once noted dancer said in resting her argument.

VOID MARRIAGE SPLITS COUPLE

Priscilla Dean and Leslie Arnold to Separate

HOLLYWOOD, June 21. (UP)—Priscilla Dean, film actress and Lieut. Leslie Arnold, round-the-world flier, will separate temporarily, but intend to marry again as soon as the law will permit, they said today after learning that an Atlanta, Ga., court had held Arnold's divorce from his first wife illegal.

"There seems nothing else for us to do but part for a while if the law says we aren't legally married, but we'll marry all over again as soon as we are allowed to," the actress said.

They arrived home from a trip today and became aware of the court's ruling. Arnold obtained his divorce in Atlanta four years ago. His first wife persuaded the court this week that he had not given her a chance to oppose his action and the decree was set aside. Arnold had married Miss Dean last September.

How the cooking tests were conducted

Slowly, carefully tasting as they went

WOMEN of the United States will be interested in knowing how the now famous cooking tests were recently conducted in New York by four famous cooking experts.

Vegetable foods were chosen and cooked in many ways, because vegetables are so important to the balanced diet. The experts were experienced in discriminating shades of flavor. Not more than three vegetables were cooked and tested at one time in order that the sense of taste should not be blunted. This explains why the tests had to be carried over such a long period of time.

In every case, vegetables cooked in little water with the addition of a dash of sugar won unanimously.

This, at first, might strike some as surprising, but it must be remembered that it is not the purpose of the small amount of sugar to make the vegetables taste sweet. Sugar is used here as a seasoning, and it is perhaps the greatest seasoning of all. It develops the natural, delicate flavors of the vegetables just as it does of fruits, cereals, meats, gravies and soups.

Encourage variety and you encourage health for every member of your family. Serve at least two cooked vegetables a day in addition to a raw vegetable salad. Serve at least two fruits a day. Serve milk desserts. Then make the balanced diet so attractive that everyone will welcome it. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

city superintendent of parks and an expert on flower and shrub cultivation.

The first official tabulation of votes in the contest will be made by members of the Garden club over the week-end, and the total votes for each flower announced in Monday's Record News. Leaders of the club have urged that Wichita Falls residents cast their votes in the poll, in order that the flower selected at the end of the contest will be representative of a majority opinion of residents here. While any flower may be named in the contest, members of the Garden club pointed out that flowers suitable for this section of the state should be selected. The two leaders in the contest at present, the larkspur and the red radiance rose, both have this qualification, it is pointed out by their friends. Supporters of the red radiance are urging that the larkspur is chiefly a flower of the spring time, and while it grows in profusion, is absent from the gardens of the city later in the year. The red radiance, on the other hand, they point out, blooms both in the spring and fall.

Larkspur supporters have urged the ease with which the flower is grown, the fact that it thrives unusually well here, and returns each year without cultivation or replanting. It was also pointed out that the larkspur is adapted to the smallest of plots, requires little or no attention, and may be successfully grown even by the novice. Poems in tribute to both the larkspur and the rose have been received by The Record News, as well as several letters discussing the merits of various flowers in the contest.

The final ballot in the contest will be printed in the Wednesday morning Record News, and the result of the contest announced as soon thereafter as possible to tabulate the votes. A committee of the Garden club, named by Mrs. Frank Timberlake, president, will canvass the returns and officially declare the winner of the nomination as Wichita Fall's official flower.

Only one ballot may be cast by each person, but each member of a family may register his or her choice in the contest. Ballots should be addressed to the Flower Contest Editor, care of The Record News, and may be either mailed or brought to this office.

Floral Heights Mission Circle Presents Play to Full House

The interior of a day coach on a slow train was the scene presented to the audience that filled the basement of Floral Heights Methodist church Friday night when circle four of the Woman's Missionary society presented "Fun On the Podunk Limited."

Farmer Boggs and his family were the first passengers waiting for the train to start and Farmer Boggs was a star whether he was meant to be or not. Lester Aldrich, taking this part, chewed right manfully on a seemingly full sized piece of tobacco and refused to be a hen pecked husband. Tom and Mary, the children, were real chips off the old block and Frank Rose Jr., as Tom, was a real boy in his manner of speaking and acting.

Everyone seemed to enjoy Grandpa and Grandma Wiggins and have a thorough sympathy with Miss Clovis Robinson's heart attacks.

Mrs. M. T. Clements brought a big laugh when she boarded the train as Susie Olson. Her costume was brilliant and her brogue was decided.

Mrs. T. R. Boone as Mrs. Herbly, made a decided hit with the audience. She had a cure for every ailment under the sun and was ready to offer it.

Each character in turn, brought the laugh she or he deserved, but the real hit of the evening, if one would judge by the audience's laughter, was little Margaret Burch as the suffragette's daughter. She is very young and was exceedingly clever in acting her part as well as in its expression.

The music was especially good under the direction of Durward Park. Miss Mildred Anderson was pianist. Ralph Anderson, saxaphone; William Donnell, violin, and Scott Hunter, mandolin.

The entertainment was well prepared and well rendered and the orchestra was a splendid feature.

Following is the personnel of the cast:

JURY INDICTS TEXAS SHERIFF

Immediate Impeachment Is Recommended

PALESTINE, Texas, June 21. (UP)—Recommending that immediate impeachment steps be taken the county grand jury today indicted Sheriff W. G. Rogers and Constable Pink Scarborough on five counts of driving while intoxicated and failure to enforce dry laws.

Rogers was indicted on two counts and Scarborough on three.

In a report made to special Judge Fountain Kirby of Groesbeck, the grand jury charged that the two officers were responsible for a huge illegal liquor traffic which they said exists in Anderson county. They said the officers have made no effort to enforce liquor laws.

The report also charged that Sheriff Rogers had been under the influence of liquor many times, while in attendance at court.

The grand jury also indicted Deputy Constable Joe Henderson, charging that he had hired a woman to trap men so that he might make raids and collect fees. Henderson's immediate dismissal was asked.

The investigation was conducted by District Attorney Earl Porter Adams and County Attorney B. R. Reeves. John R. Walker, Palestine bank clerk, was foreman of the grand jury.

DE PRIEST HOST TO 3,000 OF HIS RACE

WASHINGTON, June 21. (AP)—More than 3,000 negroes and a dozen or so whites attended a musicale and reception given here tonight by Representative De Priest, negro Republican congressman from Illinois, to which most Republican members of congress had been invited.

Representative Yates, former governor of Illinois, was among those present.

De Priest, in a brief speech, said he would ask the negroes "to repeat this again next February when everybody is over their summer vacation." Most of the members of congress left Washington yesterday after the adjournment of the two houses for a summer recess.

There was a brief reference in the speech which prefaced the entertainment to the comment that followed the recent attendance of De Priest's wife at a White House eat.

James Weldon Johnson, New York negro, secretary of the National Association for Advancement of the Colored People, said the statement by De Priest had been "the only dignified and statesmanlike thing that has come out of all the humcombe and moonshine that has been thrown out in Washington in the last few days."

De Priest a few moments later declared there had been too much said in the press recently.

"I gave out a public statement in which I said everything there was to say," he added.

His wife was cheered vigorously as she went to the stage to receive a bouquet.

MORE PROTESTS FROM ANTI-SMITHS

DALLAS, June 21. (AP)—H. Bascom Thomas and former Senator V. A. Collins, both of Dallas and active anti-Smith Democrats, today sent a letter to Governor Moody urging him not to sign the legislature's resolution condemning Mrs. Herbert Hoover for entertaining Mrs. Oscar de Priest, wife of Chicago's negro congressman, at an official party.

The letter stated that the "action of the legislature reflects no credit on our state and is fraught with much evil to our common country. Those broad minded legislators who passed this resolution are they who preached so volubly the spirit of tolerance last year, and we fail to see how they could so soon become intolerant."

DONATIONS BY U. S. MEN FOUND

Brookhart Would Bar Political Contributions

WASHINGTON, June 21. (AP)—After placing in the record letters to the effect that Representative Robsion, Republican, Kentucky, had solicited personal campaign funds from a postmaster, Chairman Brookhart of the senate patronage committee today revealed he is considering proposing legislation to bar federal office holders from contributing to political funds.

The announcement came after the investigation of federal appointments in southern states and on the eve of the committees departure for Texas in quest of further evidence.

Representative Robsion was accused by R. B. Waddle, postmaster at Somerset, Ky., of demanding funds to meet campaign expenses and then filing a statement showing "no expenditures were made."

Waddle added that he refused "certain illegal demands" of Robsion and was not reappointed.

Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, concurring, Brookhart declared legislation should be enacted that "would stop such methods of collecting from federal employes," and placed in the record a statement by himself describing as "coercive" methods used in politics by R. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman for Texas. At the same time he filed a letter by Creager denying the charges.

Beauty Spot Near Stamford Picked For Filming of Drama of Ranch Life

Two Big Movie Concerns Make Location on S. M. S. Ranch; Second Film on Colbert Place

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, June 21.—Location of a big motion picture drama, depicting ranch activities on the ranch of today, which is to be filmed near Stamford by two of the countrys' largest motion picture corporations, was made today on the S. M. S. ranch northeast of this city. Staff cameramen representing Paramount and Pathe, accompanied by officials of the Stamford chamber of commerce and the Swenson Land and Cattle company, returned here late today after spending all of Friday on the ranch completing preliminaries for staging the specially arranged round-up Monday.

Ideal Setting Found

Location for the round-up, in which several thousand pure bred Herefords are to be accounted for by the clicking cameras, is at Antelope Lake, scenic water hole nestled in the midst of the Pea Ridge hills. The natural setting is claimed by representatives of the motion picture corporations to be one of the most ideal known in West Texas.

The picture was to have been filmed Saturday, but was postponed until Monday in order to permit the assembling of several herds of cattle at the location. Dock Ellis, ranch foreman, will personally direct the work of gathering these beautiful, white faced animals and concentrating them in the hills near the lake.

Saturday afternoon the cameramen are to film some scenes at Flat Top ranch of the Swensons, six miles west of Stamford. Here steer bulldogging, rodeo stunts and other western entertainment features are to be given.

To 'Shoot' Buffalo

Sunday the scene will change to the R. V. Colbert and Son ranch on Clear Fork of the Brazos river, 20 miles east of Stamford, where the Colbert buffalo, among the few remaining herds of this once dominant ruler of the plains is to be filmed. Here, too, a herd of deer will be given opportunity to strut their stuff before the cameras. # 'VANDALISM' OF LANDS SHOWN

Soil Experts Study Land Problems

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, June 21. (AP)—In an effort to halt what one speaker termed "national vandalism," the dissipation of millions of acres of fertile soil through erosion, 100 representatives of Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas conferred here today on a program of national scope.

H. H. Bennett of the United States department of agriculture estimated yesterday that 17,500,000 acres of fertile land had been permanently ruined for agriculture by the dissipation of the rich top soils through floods and other natural phenomona. He said conditions made the farm lands of the United States waste from this cause faster than those of any other civilized country and said that erosion "amounts to national vandalism."

The meeting, said to be the first regional conference on the subject ever held, was called by T. O. Walton, president of Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college.

FRANCE WANTS TO PAY DEBTS

COURT RULES CHANGE ASKED

Barrister Makes Adviser of Trial Judge

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, June 21. (AP)—A plea for modification of the rules of court procedure to permit the trial judge to act as an adviser to the jury rather than "assume the rather humiliating position of a mere figurehead or colorless moderator," was made today by Gurney E. Newlin, president of the American Bar association.

To see that the facts are ascertained and made clear rather than submerged and obscured; that the law is honestly and fearlessly applied to such facts, and that no unfair advantage is taken by any party or his lawyer—this, I submit, is the supreme function of the presiding judge in the institution of trial by jury," he said.

Our Spudders returned home yesterday and made a Roman holiday for the populace. Greeted by more than 2,000 enthusiastic enthusiasts, Galloway's gallopers hammered an 18 to 5 decision over the Waco Cubs in the start of ann 11-day home stand.

It was an impressive victory and showed the Spudders in a continuation of the scintillating ball that has enabled them to win 14 out of the last 16 games. The Wichita Falls athletes shelled poor Bill Harris for 20 hits and they fielded errorless and sensationally.

Fitz and Red Hit Homers

Howard Fitzgerald and Red Bennett maced home runs, both circuit smashes coming with runners on bases. Fitz, Bennett and Sullivan were the batting leaders with three hits each, including a brace of doubles for young Dick. Turgeon and Lapan also hit a brace of two-base smacks and Stapleton clouted a double and single. Every Spudder got a hit and all except Goff crashed at least two blows.

Bill Goff was unsteady at various stages of the pastime, but with his own bearing down and brilliant support prevented the hostiles from threatening and of course the big Spudder lead helped him stay in the box. Goff gave up 11 hits and passed six.

Spuds Get 4 Double Plays

Four double plays were made by the Spudders. Every infielder flashed some sparkling defensive work and Dick Sullivan pulled a great play in the ninth when he took Johnson's smash off the wall and doubled Blackerby off first to end the pastime.

George Blackerby had a great day at bat, our Georgie whaling a home run and three singles. It was Blackie's 18th homer of the season. Battle clouted a pair of doubles.

The play of Ray Andrews was particularly gratifying. The youngster drove in two runs early in the game with a timely knock and sparkled with some glittering fielding, though Stapleton helped him with some of inimitable Bud's digging them out of the dirt.

To further show how the Spudders were hitting—17 of their 18 runs were earned. Fitzgerald drove home four tallies. Bennett and Lapan three each, Stapleton and Andrews two apiece and the others except Goff one.

Both Score in First

Sanguinet doubled to center and was driven home by Blackerby's sharp single to give Waco a run in the first inning.

Harris walked the first three Spudders and Bennett smashed a hit to Windle's right to score Benton and tie the count, Bill preventing further tallying by striking out Stapleton and causing Andrews to hit into a double play.

The Spudders made a brace of hits and two walks count for three runs in the third. Benton led off with a hit and Fitzgerald and Bennett strolled, filling the bases. Stapleton sent a long fly to Sanguinet that scored Bennett and advanced Fitzgerald to third. Andrews punched a single into right, scoring Fitzgerald and Bennett slid in under Warwick.

Goff lost effectiveness and allowed two runs in the fourth and then tightened up. Johnson and Pratt strolled, and scored on Battle's long double to center. Bennett went back for Warwick's lift. Andrews made a fast play and Stapleton a sharp pickup of Ray's throw to Windle, Battle going to third. Lapan retrieved a wild pitch that slid off his mitt and tossed to Goff to catch Battle at the plate.

Fitz Whacks Homer

Fitzgerald whaled his homer, a mighty drive over the left-center wall, scoring Benton, who had walked, and Turgeon, who had doubled ahead of him to give the Spudders a 7-3 lead in the fourth.

The Spudders hammered in four runs in the fifth. Andrews singled and Sullivan doubled and both scored on Lapan's two-base smack to center. Benton's long hit to right tallied Lapan. Rabbit stole second and was driven home by Turgeon's double, his second consecutive two-base wallop.

Blackerby clouted his homer in the sixth over the left field wall and the next two Cubs walked but the Spuds turned them back without further tallying that round.

Red Hit for Circuit

Bennett opened the Spud sixth with a single to right and tallied on Stapleton's two-base smash to the right field wall. Sullivan drove Bud home with a hit to left.

Bennett smacked his home run over the left palisade in the seventh, driving in Fitzgerald, who had singled, ahead.

Battle got his second double in the eighth and was batted around the base lines on singles by Windle and Harris.

Sullivan and Lapan doubled, Goff singled, Blackerby dropped Benton's lift after a long run and Fitzgerald singled to give the Spudders three more in the eighth.

NOTES ON THE GAME

Payne or Wiltse will oppose the Cubs today in the second of the series.

They will play a double-header tomorrow, starting at 3 o'clock.

Vigare was hit on the arm by a pitched ball in the first inning yesterday and forced to retire from the pastime.

Papa Del Pratt played third base the rest of the way.

History never repeats itself. But it has its similarities. Bill Goff beat Bill Harris here May 15, 8 to 1. Harris was relieved late in that game by Brancheau. Goff allowed only eight hits.

Benton and Turgeon, greatest keystone pair in the loop, handled a flock of chances, Rabbit seven and Pete eight.

The kid, Andrews, looked good handling ground balls and started one glittering double play. His throwing still is a bit off-color, however, but is improving.

Old Iron Man Pete Lapan continues his mighty hitting. He is out there hustling all the time and working his pitcher to the fullest extent. Like old wine, Pete grows better with age.

George Blackerby, one of the best hitters in the Texas league for many a moon, got a big hand from his townsmen when he clouted his homer. George is a mighty popular boy in his home town, and deservedly so.

The River Jordan wanders 220 miles in covering 60.

San Antonio Acquires Pitcher From Giants

SAN ANTONIO, June 21. (AP)—Pitcher Jim Chaplin has been obtained by San Antonio from the New York Giants, it was announced here today. He is expected to join the Tribe at Wichita Falls Monday.

Southpaw Carl Spencer recently purchased from Tampa, Fla., of the Southeastern league, has been released. He was not yet ripe for class A ball, it was said.

ATHLETICS AND YANKEES SPLIT

66,145 See Simmons and Ruth Star in Duel

NEW YORK, June 21. (AP)—Babe Ruth was just a ball player in the first game of the series of doubleheaders between the Yankees and the Athletics and the A's won, 11 to 1. In the second he was Babe Ruth in person, not a convalescent invalid, and the Yanks squared the day's play, 8 to 3. With two home runs and a single the big fellow accounted for seven of the Yankees' eight runs.

The two games and Ruth attracted a crowd of 66,145.

The big Babe went to the bat six times before he reached first base but thereafter he was very much in evidence. He singled to drive in a run on his seventh appearance and on his eighth and ninth chances he drove the ball far into the right field bleachers. Of the three Athletic pitchers he shot at during the afternoon, Bill Shores was his favorite, the two circuit clouts coming from the delivery of George Earnshaw's relief.

Grove Silences Yanks

Against Robert Moses Grove in the first game, Ruth had no luck but the same was true of most of his mates. A run in the first inning, through the medium of Robertson's single and Gehrig's triple was all the damage the world champions could do to the lean lefthander, who turned in his 11th victory against a single defeat.

The league leaders, who retained a seven and one-half game advantage over the Yankees through the even break, made enough home runs to win the first game, Simmons cracking out two and Haas one.

Al Has Great Day

But for the late volcanic eruption in a big way by Ruth the customers would have gone home with the name of Al Simmons on their tongues. Simmons blasted five hits and scored five runs in the first game and added three out of four hits, two doubles, in the second.

Ruth played 17 of the 18 innings on the day's program, being supplanted by Cedric Durst in right field for the last half of the ninth. Score:

Bartell Is Named Regular Shortstop

PITTSBURGH, June 21. (AP)—Manager Donnie Bush's infield juggling act is all but ended with Dick Bartell, "the pepper-pot," elected as the Pirate mainstay at shortstop.

After switching Traynor, Grantham, Riconda, Jones and Bartell between second, short and third, Manager Bush has found Bartell the solution of it all as a clever lead-off man in the batting. His hitting has been at a .321 pace, which puts him well up among the Pirate batters, and his fielding standing has clung to the .979 mark.

The way the Pirate infield slowed up recently while the peppery Dick was nursing an injury was to Manager Bush the convincing proof.

The SPORTLIGHT

Features of the U. S. Open
No. 2—Horton and Mac Smith

The golfing careers of Macdonald Smith and Horton Smith are as far apart as Labrador and Florida. Yet they are two of the leading favorites for Winged Foot's big carnival next week.

Mac Smith was born in St. Andrews, Scotland, about 40 years ago. Horton Smith was born in Missouri 21 years ago. Mac Smith, now of Lakeville, tied for the United States open at Philadelphia in 1910 when Horton Smith was two years old. The veteran has been one of the greatest golfers of all time for 20 years and yet has never won a major championship. He has won any number of big tournaments. He won the $10,000 Los Angeles open two years in succession—1928 and 1929.

Horton Smith stands in 1929 where Mac Smith stood in 1910. But he has shown even greater promise with a long string of big tournaments already cashed and deposited.

Both are rated high up for the coming open because both are long and straight with wood and iron and both are first-class putters. Either is quite good enough to win any championship.

The odds against each come from entirely different causes. They are against Mac Smith because the breaks have been against him so long that he finds it difficult not to get over-keyed. They are against Horton Smith because his championship experience has been quite brief. Yet the odds against neither are overwhelming. They are as strong a pair as any other in the field, with just as good a chance to win.

Both are fine wooden club players, from the tee through the fairway. Both are fine long iron players and fine mashie players. They have all the stuff from which champions are made. And Winged Foot, calling for both strength and control, is just the course that suits their games.

Both are sound stylists. They play with an almost monotonous ease. Mac Smith is the king of the swingers as opposed to the hitters. Two or three years ago he played 18 consecutive tournament rounds at an average of 70½ strokes per round. That shows his consistency.

Either Can Win

There are, perhaps, 10 golfers who can win this next open without interjecting an upset of any sort.

Mac and Horton Smith are two of the lot. The championship golf touch is a delicate affair that comes and goes. True golf timing is something difficult to hold for many days. It may affect the long game More than all, it may affect the short game around the greens. If these two happen to have the touch next week they will be worth looking over. No one who misses the touch around the greens has much of a show, and that applies to them all. No one is good enough to waste any putts and beat the competition that has been gathered from almost every state in the union.

There is an absence of physical tension in the games of both Smiths and this is a helpful factor. They get their results without any display of effort or any show of nerve strain. They may be suffering as much as the others, but their swings don't show it.

Horton Smith will be much better on his native American turf under summer skies than he was in the cold and blustery gales of Muirfield. He has a great chance to reach the peak if he will only play golf and not attempt to play the field.

If Mac Smith would forget 20 years of unsuccessful open wars and simply do his stuff he, also, will have a great chance on this course. But that feature is easier to write down than it is to carry out. The mental, the imaginative side of golf as applied to the nervous system is often overpowering.

A Crowd Puller

Horton Smith will be a worthy rival of Jones and Hagen as far as the gallery goes. He gets away to an earlier start than either on the first day and he is sure to take along the majority of those present. He is something new to most of the crowd and they all want to see what makes the clock tick.

They will see one of the straightest of all straight left arms, for, as Hagen says, he seems to be double-jointed or rubber-jointed at the left elbow. Which means that he can straighten the left without any outside tension.

Young Smith has come through a terrific campaign that started last December. He has battled from Honolulu to Berlin. He has moved from one tournament to another. Whether or not this long campaign has dulled part of his keen edge remains to be seen. It often happens that way. It is as easy to play too much golf as it is to play too much football.

But the tall, slim Missouri entry is young and strong and this will be on his side. He doesn't get excited and he doesn't waste his surplus nerve reserve in worry or in fretting.

The Smiths have a great chance to be one of the outstanding features of next week's championship. The veteran who came within a stroke of winning 19 years ago and the youngster making his first real bid—both great golfers—both extremely well liked by all, who know them.

Texas Net Aces Play in National

Bell and Barnes to Enter Titular Play

AUSTIN, June 21. (AP)—The University of Texas will present a strong front both in singles and doubles at the national intercollegiate tennis tournament next month.

Barnes, while less well known than his brilliant teammate, fast is gaining recognition. His defeat of Bell in the finals for the Southwest conference crown was a major upset of the Texas season.

FOR SOME reason or other, not entirely clear, there is agitation in some quarters favoring the splitting of the 1929 Texas league schedule. Just why a pennant race as close and thrilling as the fight for the gonfalon in the Lone Star state circuit should be ruined by ending it and starting all over again is not clear. At the best, a split season is a poor procedure. It might be excusable if one or two clubs were making a runaway race of it.

But when the teams are bunched as they are now, with only a few games separating the leaders from the tailenders, there is no valid reason that could be advanced for a division of the playing program.

◇ ◇ ◇

J ALVIN GARDNER is opposed to the split season, and he has support in that stand from at least two other clubs—Dallas and San Antonio. It would require a majority vote of loop moguls to bring about a split season. It is safe to assume that at least one more club would oppose the split if it were brought to a vote.

◇ ◇ ◇

TOM JENKINS again will play regularly. Ol' Dynamite has been sent to Milwaukee by the St. Louis Browns, and is carded to patrol an outfield post for the American association club. Jenkins could not break into the Brownie outfield, what with veteran stars available, and as he was quite a bust as a pinch-hitter he was handed over to Milwaukee to join Herbie Cobb.

◇ ◇ ◇

SPUDDERS acquired in the deal that sent Ed Taber and Wally Swenson to the Bridgeport, Conn., club of the Eastern league, are due to report early next week. Latest advices received from Pitcher Skinny O'Neal and Third Baseman Al Herman, the news Spudders, was that they have left the east and are en route to sunny Texas.

Herman of course will be inserted into the lineup at third base immediately on arrival, and O'Neal is due to see service on the hill soon after he arrives. The Spudders face three double headers on this present home stand of 11 days, and with only six other chuckers on the roster, Mr. O'Neal is going to have early opportunity for us to see what he can do in the line of fooling the opposition hitters.

FANS ACCLAIM OUR SPUDDERS

Luncheon and Parade Honor Returning Athletes

The Spudders were greeted with vociferous acclaim yesterday on their return home from a road trip on which they won 10 and lost two games. A luncheon and parade were features of the day.

The parade through the business section of the city was headed by two bands, and included the Boy Scouts, Knot Hole gang, the Spudders and civic organizations.

Optimism and pride in the Wichita Falls club was the keynote of an enthusiastic luncheon at the Kemp hotel attended by 150. W. W. Weeks and Roy J. Daniel were principal speakers and President J. Alvin Gardner and Manager Jim Galloway responded in behalf of the Spudders.

Stanley Benton, better known as Rabbit, the peerless and versatile Spudder shortstop, sang.

The welcoming festivities were sponsored by the Junior chamber of commerce. Frank Haley presided at the luncheon.

First National Wins From City National

In a Bankers league contest yesterday afternoon First National defeated City National, 8 to 2, and C. O. Smith, strikeout king, gets another victory on his strikeouts and the City's errors. Misjudged balls and muffed catches furnished the errors.

Smith limited his hits to three.

Alexander pitched good ball but his teammates' errors lost him the game. The First got a run for each hit they made. The heavy clouter for the First was Kubeca with a triple and a single out of four times at bat.

Health And Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

(Copyright 1929 by The Bell Syndicate Inc.)

Estimating Proper Weight

Weight is no longer considered an indication of health. The fashion of today favors thinness. Weighing machines abound in every public gathering place, and they are well patronized, according to statistics. Many of these machines have charts attached to them to show how much one should weigh according to height and age, but these standards cannot be accurate. The correct weight is largely an individual matter, according to build. Some people are naturally slender and others are stocky. It would be foolish to try to make a slender person as heavy as a stocky one, or to reduce a heavier built person down to the weight of a smaller boned type.

Those of the muscular type can carry a good deal of solid weight, but an excess of fat can certainly not be considered healthful. I therefore advise those suffering from obesity to reduce the quantity of food and to exercise a great deal. It is not wise, however, for a thin person to attempt to gain weight by stuffing with rich foods. A thin person should use a well balanced diet, avoid worry, sleep soundly, and attempt to gain by building muscle.

The standards given in weight charts have usually been taken from the average of a great many people and cannot be considered as health standards. The weight may also vary, according to age, temperament, heredity and occupation.

No one should go to foolish extremes, either in trying to gain or reduce. The best weight for an individual is the weight at which he has the greatest amount of energy regardless of all charts. I do not usually try to estimate a person's correct weight until I have studied his bony framework and a number of other factors. Frequently people write in asking for an estimate, and I am very glad to give this if they have given me their present weight, height in stocking feet, age, occupation and full-length picture, preferably in a bathing suit.

If any of my readers wish me to give them an estimate about their correct weight, I would advise them to have two photographs taken—one of a front view and the other from the side. Small kodak pictures will do. Write the present weight on the backs of the pictures. I can then give you my opinion based on years of experience and observation of thousands of patients. Many will be surprised when my estimate states that their weight should be perhaps 20 or 30 pounds lower. This is especially true with stout women who frequently talk themselves into the belief that nature intended them to be heavy. Very few women are tall enough to weigh over 140 pounds, while men of the same height can weigh as much as 200 pounds because of their larger bones and stronger muscular tissues.

If those who are interested will send me their photographs at once, I will be glad to give an extra amount of time to answering these letters and sending detailed information about either increasing or decreasing the weight to the normal.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question—Mrs. G. H. J. writes: "For the past year my husband has been affected with what is called spasmodic torticollis. Will you please explain something about it, and tell me if there is any way to relieve him?"

Answer—Torticollis, sometimes called wry-neck, is a contraction of the cervical muscles usually caused by some infection of the spinal accessory nerve. In females, it may be a hysterical condition, especially liable to occur in those of a nervous family history. It may appear following a cold or a blow. The back portion of the head is pulled toward the shoulder of the affected side. The face is raised and rotated to the other shoulder. In long standing cases these muscles may become very rigid or even atrophied. The best treatment seems to be simply the application of heat and osteopathic treatments. I would suggest the use of a fasting and dieting regime, instructions for which I will be glad to mail to you.

Is Leprosy Curable?

Question—Ralph K. writes: "I have suffered for years with a bad case of eczema. My body was almost entirely covered with scales, and no remedy seemed to help me. Since taking the fasting and diet treatment which you recommended I have been entirely cured. What I want to know is, could not leprosy be cured in the same way?"

Answer—I have not had the chance to treat a case of leprosy, but several cures have been reported by physical culturists who understand the fasting cure and have given this treatment to cases with which they came in contact. I would be glad to get in touch with anyone suffering from a true case of leprosy, as I am eager to demonstrate my belief that leprosy can be cured if the blood stream is made perfectly pure through fasting and dieting.

Grandfield Boy Scouts To Be Reorganized

Special to The Record News

GRANDFIELD, Okla., June 21.—A meeting of all boys between the ages of 12 and 16 has been called for 8 o'clock Monday evening at the Masonic hall by the local Lions club, in order to reorganize a Boy Scout troop in this city. At this meeting the election of officers, and patrol leaders will be held.

For several months the scout movement in this city has slumped. The local school has sponsored the organization in the past, but hereafter it is to be in charge of the Lions club. The regional scoutmaster from Altus spoke to the members of the club at their regular weekly meeting and persuaded the club to get behind the scout movement in this section.

MORE DRILLING IN WILBARGER

Activity Quickens After Strike in Foard

VERNON, Texas, June 21.—Renewed wildcatting activity in almost every section of Wilbarger county has followed the completion of the Shell Petroleum company's No. 1 Tarver in Foard county. This test, located on section 3, G. C. & S. F. survey, is 10 miles from the nearest production in the Fluhman field, and it opens up an entirely new area.

The Sinclair company has completed a four-inch pipe line to the test, and preparations are being made to take more sand. The well now has nine feet of sand at the total depth of 2,023 feet. Initial production soared to approximately 500 barrels a day after three additional feet was taken from 2,020 feet, but the output has fallen now to approximately 100 barrels a day and operators are anxious to drill further into the sand in an effort to accurately determine the production.

More than a dozen tests are expected to be started in the immediate future in the vicinity of this well, as acreage about it is blocked out in leases not larger than 160 acres and the majority of them expire on March 30 next year, practically forcing development before that time.

A new test was spudded in on the R. L. Castlebury land about 12 miles south of Vernon Wednesday. The test is located in section 66, about a mile from production in the original South Vernon field.

Activity at the Jones No. 1 well on the McAneny and Whittiken lease in the Farmers Valley 10 miles west of Vernon has been confined to reaming, preparatory to resuming drilling. The well was shut down about four months ago due to water shortage. The test will be drilled to the 4,000-foot level. The total depth now is about 2,500 feet.

Drilling will be resumed in the near future on the North Vernon Oil company's well. Operators are pulling casing now and it is believed actual drilling work will be started within 30 days.

Renewal of activities in proven areas is reflected in the announcement of 17 locations in the Grayback an Rock Crossing fields.

Unemployment Of English Workers Pressing Problem

LONDON, June 21. (INS)—"God knows, I realize what I am up against, but I am going to apply myself to the work with a single-minded desire to see whether it is possible to grapple with this most terrible of human tragedies."

This is the declaration of J. H. Thomas, the man whom Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald has given the job of ridding England of its greatest post-war scourge—unemployment.

His task will be to find work for the 1,100,000 men who are now idle. For four years, a conservative government has been trying to do this. For 10 years, industrial experts have said it was an impossiblity. The main reasons are overpopulation and the lack of an outlet for British products in Europe owing to the low rate of exchange in continental countries.

In order to keep the pound sterling stable, England has sacrificed her continental export trade. Her exchange rate is so far above that of the countries which before the war took most of her exports that they have now ceased to buy from her. Thus, the industries which supplied these exportable commodities are idle, and the men who worked them going hungry.

One of the first steps the labor government intends to take to lessen unemployment is to have the miners return to the seven hour day. It is expected this will make work for an additional 100,000 men.

The eight-hour day, which is now in force, was brought about by the conservative government on the grounds it was the only way to reduce the cost of production and thus compete with the low-priced products of Germany.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 21. (AP)—Continued favorable average of weather and crop advices were reflected by further realizing or liquidation in cotton today and after a compafatively quiet morning, trade became more active in the late afternoon. October contracts sold off from 18.70 to 18.50 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 17 to 23 points.

The opening was steady, off 1 to 5 points in response to relatively easy cables and a favorable view of the weather reports.

No fresh news factor was mentioned in connection with the late decline, but the continuance of July liquidation seemed to have rather an unsettling effect on sentiment, while there may have been some selling on a fear of labor disturbances in the cotton mills at Lancashire.

The main factor mentioned on the decline, however, was the recent more encouraging weather and crop reports.

Private cables reported liquidation in Liverpool on the favorable weather reports from the South, and said sales or cotton cloths were below production with some stoppage or looms considered likely.

Exports today 7,807, making 7,904,790 so far this season. Port receipts 4,743. U. S. port stocks 877,335.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 21. (AP)—Liquidation of the July position in New York, reported to afford scalpers an opportunity to raid the market, forced a sympathetic decline of 16 to 18 points in cotton here today. The market fluctuated narrowly for most of the session but in final trading business became more active and under general selling and liquidation Oct. traded off from 18.59 to 18.42 and closed at 18.43, for a net loss of 14 points. The general market closed steady at net declines of 14 points on all active months.

Liverpool cables were lower than due and were reflected in a opening decline of 3 to 6 points here.

In late trading, selling pressure increased due to reports of July liquidation in the Northern market with resulting raids by scalpers.

Receipts 5,953; for week 20,276; for year 9,309,278; last year 8,375,200. Exports 5,617; for week 77,786; for year 7,627,266; last year 7,175,048. Stocks 881,208; last year 942,865. Stock on shipboard 70,124; last year 90,105. Spot sales 2,847; last year 6,859.

Important Mergers Through Big Banks Cheer Up Stock Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 21. (US)—Important plans announced by powerful bankers enhanced cheerfulness in speculative circles today, and combined with continued favorable money conditions in putting the stock market higher. Steel gained 2⅝, General Motors 2⅛ while other standard industrials advanced about a point on the average.

Specialties featured from the standpoint of gains, however, with United Aircraft jumping 9¾, Adams Express 39, Allied Chemical 14, Allis Chalmers 18, Case 15, Commercial Solvents 8½ and Commercial Investment Trust 7¾.

Anaconda led a strong copper group with recovery of 3¾. New York Central with a gain of 4⅝ and Union Pacific with an advance of 5¼ featured a better rail market. Oils were quiet but steady. Turnover increased to over 3,000,000 shares while the call money rate was held to 7 per cent again.

J. P. Morgan & Co. announced the Fleischmann merger sooner than expected. Announcement came on the heels of the formation of the new tobacco combine and the formation of the new utility company to take over upstate properties. That these powerful banking interests should put through three such important developments in the course of a fortnight or so provided the most powerful influence to cheerfulness experienced in many weeks. It was regarded as the best possible evidence that they are satisfied with the business outlook. Before very long these holding companies which are almost the same as investment trusts will be traded in on the stock exchange.

From current rumors it is planned to take in the stocks of other companies after the stocks of Fleischmann, Baking Powder and Gillette are absorbed and it is expected that ultimately all the leading food companies will be controlled by one of three holding organizations.

There was some mystery over the increase in government security holdings but bankers explained that it was due to repayment by the treasury to the reserve banks on a note given to provide for payments over the 15th of the month. With income tax payments and other receipts deposited, the treasury is able to take up this note thereby causing drop in the item called "government security holdings."

Increase in bills discounted was further evidence of a more lenient policy on the part of the reserve. Unless stock dealings threaten another speculative orgy, it is felt, the reserve will not resume its pressure to cause undue tightness in the money market.

Pacific Lighting, California Edison were mentioned again in connection with merger rumors. Electric investors and utility equities both benefit by their holdings. The former's split up should come soon. Columbia Gas remained a favorite also as those in control are reported planning special action for stockholders. Interests who have been favorably inclined to air reduction for over a year are holding to their position in expectation of further favorable developments in the way of special distribution. Allis Chalmers, it was pointed out, is earning $18 a share and full results of simplification of capital structure have not been evidenced as yet. Mexican Seaboard, as forecast yesterday, announced bringing in of a new well that proves up its holdings at Kettleman hills. It is producing 60 gravity oil which is the nearest thing to pure gasoline that has ever been taken out of the ground.

Anaconda directors meet next Tuesday. It is generally believed that the $7 dividend rate will be maintained. Some folks maintain it will be due to offering of new stock and also the desire to get the 7 per cent bonds converted. There are less than $2,000,000 of those bonds outstanding, however, and as they have been called for redemption it is probable that they will all be converted in a few days. New stock offered has been subscribed for. At current rate of earnings the company would be warranted in maintaining the $7 rate. The one bearish factor in Anaconda is that there are many traders, caught in the last pool operating, hoping to get out even.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, June 21. (AP)—Cash grain prices here today were unchanged with estimated receipts for the day setting a new high for the year. Especially good demand was reported for wheat and white and yellow corn; others only fair. Especially heavy arrivals of new oats are having a depressing effect on that grain.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 21. (AP)—Assertions that crop damage reports from the Southwest may prove exaggerated led to heavy selling to realize profits in wheat today. Fresh advances in price scored thus were offset, despite announcement that exporters had purchased 2,000,000 bushels of North American wheat, almost altogether from Canada but including some domestic wheat at the Gulf of Mexico ¼c to ½c under the cost of Chicago July delivery.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, ¼c lower to ½c higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed at ⅜c to ⅝c net decline, oats ⅛c off to ¼c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10 cents.

Increased country offerings of corn made the corn market draggy, and had effect as a weight on the price of wheat. Favorable weather for the cultivation of the new corn crop was prevalent, and shipping demand here for corn was less active. Oats were governed by conflicting influences that sprang from the action of other cereals.

Provisions averaged higher.

DUN'S STATEMENT

NEW YORK, June 21. (AP)—Dun's tomorrow will say:

Less irregularity appears at this time in the business situation than is customary at this season, and conditions have been benefitted greatly during the past week by the first extended period of real summer weather. There is little evidence of any unusual dullness in the leading markets. Retail distribution is on a very wide scale and reports from all leading centers tell of activity in summer, holiday and sporting goods lines. Buying had heretofore been deferred, but many needed supplies in the wholesale dry goods market have now been cleaned up quickly, and reorders have been substantial, particularly for articles of apparel. Production in cotton mills is beginning to lessen and the usual curtailment of output for the first week of July has been directed. Cotton consumption in May was well up to the peak of earlier records. Silk production is lighter in some centers and finishing plants are over the rush period. Weekly bank clearings $12,174,744,000, a decrease of 2.9 per cent from a year ago.

KRAFT PLANS NEW ROUTES

Okla. Route to Increase Supply of Units

Further promise of increased milk deliveries to the Kraft cheese factory here were offered Friday with the announcement that arrangements have been completed for an extensive route in Cotton and Tillman counties, Okla.

Territory which formerly supplied milk for two separate runs will contribute to the new route, it was stated. Washout of the bridge last year effected a cessation of the deliveries from the Grandfield territory. It was estimated that the run will carry about 1,000 pounds at the outset Monday.

Wichita and surrounding counties are having one of the latest cotton crops in years, agricultural leaders said Friday. Many farmers have had to replant several times, one stating that his 150 acres of cotton represents the planting of 450 acres. Much of the crop is just above the ground in different communities. It is growing tremendously with the aid of much moisture furnished by the heavy rains which finally checked about two weeks ago, and the constant heat. Danger of bugs developing in quantity before the crop can fruit, however, has been greatly accentuated by the unusual late start, it was said.

One small section of land near Red river in Cotton county, south of Randlett, is showing about 20 bushels of wheat to the acre. The good crop is on high sandy land, which appears to have successfully retained moisture from early rains. Elsewhere, so far as could be learned, both wheat and oats are yielding only a few bushels per acre.

She had sued for $10,000 as the outgrowth of a bus accident here last March in which she said she was injured. In a previous trial she was awarded $1,500. A new trial was ordered, however, after allegations of misconduct of jurymen had been made.

PROPOSED NEW MOTOR FREIGHT LINE TO AID WICHITA TRADE

C.-C. MANAGER TOURS SECTION

Foard and Knox Deliveries Speeded Under Plan

Tentative plans were drawn for extension of motor truck freight delivery service from Wichita Falls by way of Seymour into Knox City, Rochester and other cities of that section by Hubert M. Harrison, general manager of the chamber of commerce, on a trip from which he returned Friday.

Excessive delay in rail shipments from this city into Foard, Knox and adjoining counties was found to constitute a material handicap for Wichita Falls wholesaling concerns, according to statements of buyers in those localities. Rapid transit by either rail or truck, it was said, would greatly enhance the possibility of developing more extensive trade exchange between this city and the territories visited. Negotiations opened with a truck line operator promise to afford an extension of delivery service west from Seymour. Data relative to the proposed route is being prepared by the industrial and traffic department of the chamber of commerce.

Road Work

Pouring of concrete on the Vernon-Crowell highway is expected to begin within three weeks, Mr. Harrison learned. Completion of that sector of pavement will provide travel over hard surfaced road from Wichita Falls to Crowell, the mileage totaling about 83 miles. The old road required a drive of about 91 miles to Crowell. Pronounced interest and activity have followed the sinking of a successful oil well recently near Thalia, it was said.

The best crops within a radius of 100 miles from Wichita Falls were observed just south of Altus, Okla., according to Mr. Harrison. Grain, cotton, and feed crops were in excellent condition and promising big yield, he said. The trade-exchange tour extended also to Waurika, where the local manager conferred with the chamber of commerce relative to completing a hard-surfaced road from that city to Wichita Falls, as part of a paved artery to Oklahoma City. It was indicated that the Waurika organization will petition the Oklahoma state highway department soon for inclusion of such construction in the program for the coming year. Comanche also was visited.

Quick Delivery

Mr. Harrison spent some time in Ardmore, Okla., Denison and Gainesville in the interest of the project launched by the Denison chamber of commerce in an effort to obtain a dam across Red river near that city as part of the federal flood control program. Directors of the local chamber of commerce recently voted to cooperate with the Denison organization in the matter, it was stated.

Throughout the trade territory visited, Mr. Harrison reported, a very friendly feeling toward Wichita Falls seems to exist. Competition from other possible wholesale centers makes itself felt particularly through the medium of unusually prompt deliveries and manifold personal services. The need of added effort and maximum development of quick delivery on the part of Wichita Falls establishments was stressed by Mr. Harrison.

House Defers Robison Case

Testimony to Be Resumed Today

AUSTIN, June 21. —Interest of the house in the proposed impeachment of J. T. Robison, land commissioner, lagged today, the membership preferring to act on the gasoline tax and penitentiary concentration bills. The taking of testimony in the hearing for Mr. Robison was deferred until tomorrow, after two attempts were made to resume it.

This morning the house voted to put the hearing off until after noon. When the hour for the house to go into the committee of the whole arrived it started to resume the hearing, but after the first witness had been called and before he could take the stand there was a motion to postpone until tomorrow.

There was some opposition to the delay and the vote on the proposition was close, 53 to 48.

Dr. J. M. Robison of Houston, son of the land commissioner, had been called to testify when the recess was taken. Testimony has been introduced to show that the land commissioner issued a check for $1,000 on the one-cent-an-acre reappraisement fund in favor of his son, while he (Mr. Robison Sr.), was ill in San Antonio in 1925.

JUDGE SHOWS UP

All of Which Is Expected to Result in More Space to Print Comics and Letters to e) Editor

By SAM LOVE

NEW YORK, June 21. (UP)—Robert Mason has reason to believe that some day editors will rise up and call his name blessed.

He has just finished devoting 30 years of his life to figuring out a short symbol for the word "the."

With any luck, Mason expects his boon to mankind to run the pesky article clear out of the language. The Intertype company has already made a matrix of the symbol, which Mason says is "simply an adaptation" of an Anglo-Saxon character which designated the "th" sound.

But finding it was not easy. When Mason first became irritated at the number of "thes" he had to write, ye editors were grinding out their accounts of the battle of San Juan hill with lead pencils and the snappier home girls were decorating their velvet neck-ribbons with dried musk melon seeds.

Failure After Failure

As he searched the language for his substitute, meeting with failure after failure, Roosevelt, a young president from who great things were expected, almost stole his thunder by simplifying the entire language, chipping battalions of "gh's" and "o's" out of regiments of words.

But Mason kept on. He exhausted the dictionary and took up the study of Esperanto, hoping to find the substitute there.

Airplanes were invented. The Diesel engine came into more common use on ocean vessels. Fly swatters were invented and ladies' ankles came into view for the first time in a century through the medium of the sheath gown. Still Mason pursued the ultimate, single-action, quick-firing "the" substitute.

The world war erupted with the unexpectedness of an earthquake. There was talk of "Hyphenated Americans." Mason was not interested in hyphens. He was looking for something handy to use for "the." The jaz age began to howl around his ears.

Shouts Eureka

Mason looked up while he was wondering what to do next and was greeted by the sight of whoopee socks, flappers and a strong odor of extract of juniper. He retired hastily to his cloister and plunged into the study of Anglo-Saxon.

Aged by three decades, he was able to shout at last., "Eureka!" Emerging from a musty copy of Beowulf, or maybe it was one of the Chronicles, he had the symbol between his teeth.

In upper case, Mason's "the" looks like an informal wedding of the letter "E" and the second half of a parenthesis sign. In lower case, it has the appearance of a merger between a "p" and a "b," retaining the best curves of each.

"The" occurs on an average of once in every 15 words and the substitute, Mason calculated 30 years ago, would save 34 letters in every 138 words, which is one column line and four letters to boot.

Its general use should prove a great boon to newspapers, facilitating composition and freeing space now given over to "the's" for more comic strips and letters to "E)" editor.

PARK PROGRAM HERE PRAISED

Curlee and Bunnenberg To Attend Convention

Eswald Petit, district representative for the Park and Recreation Association of America, is in Wichita Falls for the purpose of reviewing the summer recreation program of the park department and to select a representative of Wichita Falls to attend the national meeting of the association to be held in Louisville, Ky., Oct. 14 to 19.

Walter Curlee, former representative, has been again selected to attend the meeting, Mr. Petit said. It is probable that Mr. Curlee, accompanied by C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent, will attend also the meeting of the Institute of American Park executives, to be held in Miami, Fla., about one week from the other meeting.

Mr. Petit complimented highly the work of the park department here, especially in regard to the care of the city parks and playgrounds.

"Recreational work in all the Southwest is growing rapidly," he said, "and Wichita Falls has a peculiar advantage because of its rapid growth within the last several years. I am glad to see the start that your city has made in the building of wading pools which have come to be an important factor in recreational plans for children."

He expressed pleasure at finding that the park department had established courts and parks for various activities even on property not belonging to the municipal government, every available space being used in order that wider distribution of recreation facilities might be had.

Posses Frustrated In Hunt for Okla. Thugs

CANEY, Okla., June 21. (UP)—A sheriff's posse returned empty handed here today after a 24-hour search for three "horseback" bandits who galloped through the town Thursday, stopping to rob the bank of $2,165.65, and were told the story of another bank robbery, some 60 miles northwest of Caney, which ended fatally.

The sheriff announced that all but $1,414.65 of the money stolen at Caney had been recovered where it was lost by the fleeing horsemen but that a search for the men through surrounding bogs and forests was unavailing.

AUTO OWNERS GIVEN REFUND

County to Repay $600 On June Licenses

Refunds on automobile registration fees amounting to $600, ordered Friday in an opinion by the attorney general's department at Austin, probably will be made to those affected in Wichita county by Saturday, or not later than Monday, it was announced by Guy C. Raley, county tax collector. About 300 car owners in this county will be affected, he said.

The refunds were ordered to settle conflicts which arose subsequent to passage by the legislature recently of a measure changing the quarterly reduction of fees to a monthly reduction. Under the old law, fees were reduced one-fourth at the beginning of each quarter. The new law, which went into effect May 23, provided a reduction of one-twelfth the total amount on the first of each month. However, the tax collector's office here did not receive official notification of the passage of the law until June 17, and during the period from June 1-17 three-fourths of the fee, as provided by the old law, was collected, instead of seven-twelfths as provided by the new measure.

Persons entitled to refunds should present their registration receipts at the tax collector's office, Mr. Raley said. Those uncalled for will be mailed, he added.

Nonstop Flight Is Pilots Plan

Lee Schoenhair to Start Across Continent

LOS ANGELES, June 21. (UP)—In an effort to get off ahead of a rival, Lee Schoenhair, veteran Los Angeles aviator plans to start from Metropolitan airport, here for New York at 1 a. m. Saturday on an attempt to break the trancontinental nonstop record.

Schoenhair hopes to make a round trip within 48 hours, making nonstop jumps from West to East and from East to West. He plans to rest at Roosevelt field, Long Island, while his plane is being checked and refueled for the return.

The present record for nonstop flight from Los Angeles to New York is 18 hours, 30 minutes, 51 seconds and that for a trip from East to West is approximately 24 hours. Schoenhair hopes to cut two hours on the eastward flight and six hours off the westward run.

The low mark, West to East, is held by Capt. Frank Hawks, also of Los Angeles. It is Captain Hawks that Schoenhair hopes to beat in starting. He had intended to make the trip after Captain Hawks' scheduled start Monday, but today decided to get under way early Saturday.

BRUNER TO ACCEPT TERM

Appeal of 10-Year Sentence Withdrawn

Collie Bruner, convicted under the habitual criminal act and given 10 years by a jury in district court here last February which found him guilty of car theft, Friday withdrew his appeal from the conviction, District Attorney Sam B. Spence announced.

Mr. Spence said he took the affadavit from Bruner and immediately filed it with the district clerk, for forwarding to the clerk of the court of criminal appeals at Austin.

Bruner was found guilty of theft of an automobile from A. H. Fell here. Records at the trial showed he had previously been convicted of theft charges in Fort Worth.

Bruner received a flesh wound in an attempted break from the Wichita county jail about two months ago in which Raymond Sellers, Wisconsin youth, was killed.

Four Held by Police On Narcotic Charges

Four men were being held by police Friday for investigation in connection with the possession and sale of narcotics. One of the men was found to have a small quantity of dope at the time of the arrest. Another was also being held for questioning in four cases of forgery. All of the men will be turned over to federal authorities, it was said.

SMALL FIRES

Two fires within a few minutes of each other Friday morning about 11 o'clock caused slight damage, according to reports of officials of the fire department. The first blaze was in a chicken house on the Henrietta road near the east bank of Holliday creek. The second was in a garage at 2007 Jones street, causing damage estimated at $15. Companies Nos. 1 and 3 answered the first call and Nos. 2 and 5 the second.

COURT SETS OIL HEARINGS

Martin to Rule on Pleas For Injunction

Two injunction pleas seeking to restrain the Gulf Production company from further drilling on 280 acres of Wichita county oil lands, and for cancellation of leases on the land held by the oil company are scheduled to be heard by Judge P. A. Martin in 89th district court Saturday.

The injunction petitions were filed last Monday by Mrs. Grace Jennings, and by J. C. Jennings and others. Failure to properly develop the leases is alleged in both instances.

The J. C. Jennings petition includes Lady Ruth Conyers, C. R. Conyers, Bonnie Margaret Awtry, Francis Awtry, Spurgeon Jennings, Willine Jennings and Babe Helen Jennings as joint complainants. Their petition is concerned with a 120-acre lease on lands they own.

The suit brought by Mrs. Grace Jennings is concerned with similar complaints involving a 160-acre lease.

THE GREATEST RESPONSIBILITY

The Greatest Responsibility in purchasing a motor car is in the new car you purchase, rather than in what you receive for your used car.

An extra two or three years of dependable service will greatly offset a difference of even a two hundred dollar or more appraisal on a used car.

Many Dodge Brothers Cars were registered January first for their sixth and seventh year of service—Consult the records.
