BOND ISSUE KEPT ALIVE

ENLIST YOUTH TO BATTLE WETS

A nation-wide movement, created to appeal to the youth of the country, The Allied Forces, has been launched in New York. It is composed of three divisions, Allied Campaigners, field workers and speakers; Allied Youth, young people's organization; Allied Business Men, backers of an advertising and publicity program. Among its sponsors are (1) Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania; (2) Senator William E. Borah of Idaho; (3) Miss Jane Addams of Chicago; (4) Thomas A. Edison; (5) Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former U. S. assistant attorney general; (6) Dr. S. Parkes Cadman of New York, and (7) Senator Morris Sheppard, Texas.

Two Youths Are Held For Theft

Charges of burglary were filed at Plainview against Brewster Dillard and Wendell Thompson, both of Lubbock, following their arrest early this morning at Hale Center, the sheriff's department here reported.

The two youths also face automobile theft charges here, a deputy sheriff said. The arrest of Dillard and Thompson as they prepared to leave a filling station, which had been burglarized at Hale Center, also resulted in recovery of an automobile stolen here last night.

Tire Punctured

Hale county officers had received a description of the stolen machine prior to the arrests at Hale Center. A rear tire of the car was reported to have been punctured by a shot fired when the Lubbock youths attempted to escape from a Hale Center peace officer.

Car Stolen Here

Stolen from near the Palace theater, the machine was owned by C. C. Lindsey, theater manager here. A spare wheel, casing, and a metal tire cover from the Lindsey automobile were found this morning at Twenty-fifth street and Avenue L, police reported.

Six and a half gallons of gasoline was stolen last night or early today from a filling station at Nineteenth street and Avenue M, after a pump-lock had been broken. Police investigated the theft.

Dillard's record includes a sentence imposed in federal court here for automobile theft, a deputy sheriff said. The two suspects are on the borderline of maturity, one being 18 or 20 and the other 20 or 21, officers said. The two will be returned here.

SEEKS AID IN CRIME FIGHT

WICKERSHAM ASKS LAW INSTITUTE TO HELP IN CAMPAIGN

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 7—Chairman Wickersham of the law enforcement commission today urged the American law institute to enlist its scholarship and research in the fight on crime.

Wickersham, who also is president of the institute; said in opening its ninth annual session that he felt the time had come for an intensive study and clarification of criminal law, and asked the institute to undertake the work.

"The time for such action is peculiarly opportune," he said, adding that the work of the law enforcement commission would come to an end next June 30. He said reports on some of its crime studies would be issued soon and that the information should be helpful in the law observance problem.

Cleanup Winners To Be Announced Today

Results in contests in the second annual cleanup and paintup campaign will be determined at a meeting at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon of the campaign steering committee at chamber of commerce offices.

District winners and outcome of essay contests conducted in the public schools probably will be announced following the meeting, attaches of the cleanup corps said.

Public Ownership Of Stations Asked

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 7 (AP)—A resolution favoring public ownership and operation of radio broadcasting channels and facilities and eliminating of advertising programs was ready for introduction at the final session today of the national congress of parents and teachers.

Thirty resolutions have been offered as a guide in achieving the aims of the "children's charter" formulated at the White House conference on child health and protection.

REPORT ARMED MEN AWAIT ACTION

GUARDSMEN READY TO MARCH TO CENTER OF DISPUTES

(By The Associated Press)

HARLAN, Ky., May 7.—More than 200 members of the Kentucky national guard, the first contingent to arrive for duty in the coal fields, reached Harlan shortly after 8 o'clock this morning.

The troopers milled about the streets as military and civil officers conferred on their plan for movement into the Evarts section, nine miles away, where labor disorders have cost five lives.

Women Evacuate

Reports that armed men were perched atop houses and at other vantage points around Evarts continued to reach authorities here today. All women have been sent out of Evarts, the reports said.

The soldiers reached Harlan from 15 Kentucky cities in the biggest military movement in the state since 1921 when 750 soldiers were sent to Newport to quell disorders, and 1926 when a similar number went to Lexington to guard a negro slayer.

Adjutant General W. H. Jones, jr., came to Harlan to supervise plans for the placing of the soldiers. They will be commanded by Colonel Dan Carrell, commanding the 138th field artillery and a veteran of the Mexican border trouble and of the World war.

Order Issued

The order for the troop movement was issued yesterday by Governor Flem D. Sampson after a conference with labor leaders and requests from civil authorities and residents of Harlan.

The chief executive termed the Evarts situation as "a state of terror and lawlessness" and added "this must stop and stop now."

The disorders in Harlan county have been blamed on unemployment due to economic conditions and to disagreements between coal mine operators and employes as the basis for discontent.

Food Demanded

The situation has been the subject of investigation by Red Cross workers, mine union officials and civil authorities. Several organized demands for food have been made by unemployed miners, some of whom have been evicted from mine owned houses.

Governor Sampson charged the trouble to "undesirable citizens from

RESCUE CHILD FROM WELL

THOUSAND LOOK ON AS VOLUNTEER FIREMEN EFFECT RESCUE

(By Associated Press)

GENEVA, Neb., May 7—While more than 1,000 persons watched, Carroll Brower, 18 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brower was rescued last night by volunteer firemen from an abandoned well into which she had fallen. One leg was slightly bruised in her fall otherwise she apparently suffered no ill effects.

Working in shifts, the firemen dug a shaft alongside the well, two feet distant. They went down 25 feet and then tunnelled to the bottom part of the well.

The girl's father had driven over the old well with a motor truck, causing a cavein. The child toddled along after the truck and fell through the opening. The hole was not large enough to admit the body of an adult. First workers thought of letting down a rope, then they thought of letting down a boy, but the boys who could get through the hole were not big enough to do the job.

QUAKE DEAD 390

ERIVAN, Armenia, May 7 (AP)—Official figures on casualties in the recent Armenian earthquake place the dead at 390 and the injured at 7,420. Fifty-one villages were destroyed and nearly 6,000 head of livestock killed.

Gets Three Years On Murder Charge

HOUSTON, May 7 (AP)—Luther Berwick was convicted of murder today by a jury and sentenced to three years.

Berwick, 29, was given the death penalty in his first trial. The jurors had been deliberating since six p. m. yesterday.

The state asked the death penalty and the defense pleaded for a suspended sentence.

Defense attorneys were jubilant over the verdict.

"We certainly will accept that sentence," declared Defense Attorney C. W. Howth. "There will be no appeal from it."

Earl Berwick, brother of the defendent, shook hands with the jurors.

Students Protest Military Training

COLUMBUS, O., May 7 (AP)—The weekly parade drill and review next Wednesday will be the signal for a strike of several hundred Ohio State university students against military training.

The "zero hour" was set at a mass meeting on the campus yesterday amid cheers and jeers and a few scuffles. After the student corps paraded before President Emeritus W. O. Thompson, leaders of the proposed "mutiny" gathered their followers and demanded that military training be optional instead of compulsory.

BLAZE DAMAGE HELD SEVEN MILLION

OVER FIFTY FIREMEN OVERCOME BY SMOKE DURING FIRE

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 7—Fire which swept through the 106th field artillery armory here and caused damage estimated by Captain William Speidel, regimental supply officer of the 106th artillery at more than $7,000,000, was completely under control early today.

Captain Speidel said that, with Captain Joseph W. Becker of the 174th regiment, he made an appraisal of the armory and its contents three years ago. He said they appraized the value of the armory alone at $3,000,000 and the equipment at $4,000,000. Captain Speidel said that little equipment was saved and that the armory would be a total loss. Captains Speidel and Becker are both real estate dealers.

Church Destroyed

The blaze spread during the night to a nearby church and destroyed the structure. Fire officials estimated this loss at approximately $50,000.

At 8:30 a. m. the ruins were still smoldering but most of the suburban companies summoned to the scene were ordered back to their stations. Of the more than 50 firemen overcome by smoke all but two had been discharged from local hospitals.

Minute men of a legion post were drilling when John D. Marvin, a city fireman off duty and a member of the minute men, discovered smoke coming out of cracks in the floor of the armory and sounded the alarm.

MAN ADMITS BURNING OF HIS FAMILY

(By The Associated Press)

GREELEY, Colo., May 7—Sheriff W. W. Wyatt announced today that James V. Foster had made "a full and complete confession" to setting his home on fire here early last Tuesday morning, causing the death of his wife and three children.

"I planned this thing for a month," Wyatt said Foster told him. "At first I planned to use acid. I wanted to make it look like my wife had smothered the children and then committed suicide. Then I changed my mind and decided to use gasoline. I thought it would give the same impression.

"I bought the gasoline the night before I woke up early, went into the children's bedroom and poured gasoline in the beds. I set them afire and threw gasoline on Margaret (Foster's wife). She woke up as I threw a bucket on her. 'My god, im, what are you doing', she screamed at me.

"I don't know why I did it. I must have been crazy. The devil made me do it."

ELECTION SET FOR TONIGHT

TECH STUDENTS WILL NAME OFFICERS IN ANNUAL VOTING

Students at Technological college tonight will elect a president, vice-president, student council secretary, student athletic council representative, and head cheer leader for the 1931-32 school-year.

The pre-election period this year has been marked by little open campaigning. Originally scheduled for Wednesday, the election was postponed until tonight by the student council.

Assembly in the gymnasium at 8 p. m. will mark start of nominations and speeches. Customary standing vote will be taken.

Principal candidates for president of the student body are Bill Collins, junior class president, of Brownfield and Don Maddox, president of the college chamber of commerce, of Lubbock. Collins is in the liberal arts and Maddox in the engineering school.

Wayne Castleberry of Eastland is retiring president.

The student publications election will be May 12 and 13, Castleberry said.

World's Economic Situation Talked

WASHINGTON, May 7 (AP)—A general resolution summarizing the world economic situation and suggesting ways of improving it was in process of formulation today in a series of meetings of national committees of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Although differences of opinion were apparent, especially over suggestions for a continuing study of war debts in the light of the decline in commodity prices, Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the American section, said "everybody is working toward a common end and when it comes to a showdown, tomorrow or Saturday, there will be no differences of opinion."

Ruth Nichols Will Make Atlantic Hop

HAVRE, France, May 7 (AP)—Captain H. Railey, manager of Ruth Nichols, said on debarking from the liner Paris today that the American girl flier would make her proposed trans-Atlantic flight from St. John, Newfoundland to Le Bourget, France, between May 20 and June 1.

Miss Nichols will fly from New York to St. John on the first lap, Captain Railey said, refueling there for the ocean hop. She expects to make the flight in about 14 hours, he said, inasmuch as her plane is capable of a speed of 230 miles per hour.

McKEE ASKING REHEARING

CONVICTED SLAYER OF BILLINGSLEY MAKES ANOTHER MOVE

(Special To The Journal)

LAMESA, May 7—Ira McKee, former Ballinger man, whose sentence of death in the electric chair for the slaying of W. R. Billingsley of Sparenberg, was affirmed recently by the state court of criminal appeals, has asked for a rehearing of the case, according to Thomas L. Price, district attorney who prosecuted the case. The request was made following the decision of the appeals court affirming the decision of the district court here.

"Generally the state court of criminal appeals takes from four to six or eight weeks to determine if it will rehear a case," Mr. Price said. "I am looking for a decision in the case the latter part of May. In capital cases, such as this, the court usually takes at least six weeks to consider the case."

McKee was found guilty by a jury in district court here last June and was given the death sentence. It was the first capital case to be tried in Dawson county and attracted wide attention.

Judge Gordon B. McGuire of Lamesa, judge of the 106th district court, heard the case and pronounced sentence.

Portales Group To Come To Meeting

PORTALES, N. M., May 7—(Special)—This New Mexico city will be well represented at the thirteenth annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Lubbock, May 14, 15 and 16.

Fifty farmers and merchants will attend group conferences.

A band will accompany the Portales delegation. Miss Mse Watts will be "Miss Portales" in an historical pageant. Portales also will be represented in the My-Home-Town interscholastic speaking contest, according to Thomas B. Sowell, secretary of the chamber of commerce here.

Coe Howard was re-elected as director from Portales in the regional chamber.

BILL ELIGIBLE FOR FUTURE ACTION

RESOLUTION FALLS 12 VOTES SHORT OF MAJORITY

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 7—Highway bond issue standard bearers were not inclined today to pronounce the $212,000,000 highway bond resolution dead although it fell 12 votes short in the house yesterday of the two-thirds majority necessary to finally pass proposed constitutional amendments.

A quick shift by a proponent from the losing to the prevailing side and a motion to reconsider and spread on the journal were sufficient to keep the resolution alive and eligible for future consideration.

Fight In Senate

Meanwhile, proponents and opponents of the highway bond issue were to retrace at least some of their steps today as they lined up to open another chapter in the legislature's fight over highway building and bond retirement programs. The fight was to be confined to the senate, however.

Shortly after members of the senate were advised yesterday of the bond resolution's failure in the house, Senator Pollard of Tyler moved that the senate reconsider the vote by which it refused to print the Brooks bond refunding bill on a minority report. Opponents of the bond issue said since the bond resolution had failed they were ready to launch a program to bring some relief to Texas counties voting funds for state highway building. Pollard notified the senate he would call up his motion today.

No Action Taken

THREE PERISH AS LINER HITS BOAT

NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—Three men were believed to have perished early today when the eastern steamship liner New York rammed and sank the tugboat Trimount in heavy fog off Race Rock, Fishers island, in Long Island sound. Six others were rescued by the crew of the New York.

The missing men were members of the Trimount crew.

The tugboat, a former rum runner, was towing the 48-foot motor dredge tender Alice to Providence for repairs when struck by the steamer. The steel bow of the 6,000 ton steamer cut the wooden vessel in half and it sank almost immediately.

After vainly searching for an hour, the steamer proceeded to New York with the rescued men.

HULEN CONFIRMED

AUSTIN, May 7 (AP)—The senate today confirmed the appointment of General John A. Hulen of Fort Worth as a member of the board of directors of Texas Technological college at Lubbock. General Hulen succeeds F. E. Clarity, resigned.

SENATE FUNDS COMMITTEE DEFIED

WITNESS IN CANNON PROBE REFUSES TO TESTIFY TODAY

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Chairman Nye of the senate campaign funds committee said today he intended to cite Miss Ada Burroughs of Richmond, to the senate for contempt after her refusal to testify to the committee.

"Certainly," said Senator Nye, "we will have to cite her to the senate for contempt."

The committee will not take up the case immediately, however. The senate does not meet until December.

Sinclair Jailed

When Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil operator, refused to testify to a senate committee, the senate cited him for contempt and he was subsequently sent to jail by the court.

Miss Burroughs, formerly treasurer for the Cannon-Anti-Smith organization in Virginia, was called before the committee today at the beginning of its investigation into Bishop James Cannon's campaign activities. She refused flatly to testify after reading a statement which challenged the authority of the committee to make the investigation.

Senator Nye said he would ask the committee to consider next week "information which may be found the basis for reporting to the senate a violation of the corrupt practices act."

He indicated that the committee would seek no further testimony in its search for the use of money by Bishop Cannon in the 1928 campaign.

WASHINGTON, May 7 (AP)—The senate campaign funds committee was defied today by Miss Ada Burroughs of Richmond, Va., who was called as the first witness in the inquiry into the use of funds by Bishop James Cannon in the 1928 political campaign.

Miss Burroughs flatly declined to

TEXAS LEAGUE MEET OPENS

TWO HUNDRED FIFTY HIGH SCHOOLS ARE REPRESENTED

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 7 — The twenty-first annual university interscholastic league state meet opened today.

Registration of entrants began at 9 o'clock officials expecting to sign 1,500 Texas school students. Two hundred and fifty high schools were represented.

In addition to a heavy list of entries, interscholastic league officials expected more than 3,000 visitors.

Today's program included preliminaries in boys' tennis, both doubles and singles. The first tennis contest was scheduled for this afternoon.

The one act play contest and preliminaries in boys and girls debate will be held tonight.

Preliminaries in the track and field events will be held tomorrow with the finals Saturday.

Home Rule Measure Being Considered

AUSTIN, May 7. (AP)—The senate today began considering the Beck home rule resolution.

A proposed constitutional amendment, the resolution would authorize counties with population of 60,000 or more to adopt home rule charters and by vote of the people combine city and county governments.

If passed by the senate the proposed amendment will be summitted to the electorate during the general election of 1932.

Some Call It The Irony Of Fate

CHICAGO, May 7 (AP)—Some will call it the irony of fate.

Oscar A. Riton was to have been married yesterday. He also was to have appeared in court on a hit-and-run charge. He did neither.

Instead he went to Milwaukee, Wis., and killed himself by shooting, apparently worried about the traffic accident.

Alex Wynowski, who had been struck by Riton's automobile, walked into court—uninjured.

SMEDLEY BUTLER TELLS OF SERVING AS SPY IN MEXICO WHEN RELATIONS WITH UNITED STATES WERE STRAINED

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—Major General Smedley D. Butler served in 1914 in Mexico as a spy obtaining information for President Wilson at a time when relations with the Mexican government headed by Victoriano Huerta were strained.

The general posed as a bibliophile, an eccentric entomologist, a capitalist, secret service operative, an author and an accountant.

While intoxicated, Huerta signed an order giving the marine officer power to enter every army barracks in Mexico City. The mission won Butler his first congressional medal of honor.

General Butler told the story last night in addressing the annual dinner of the Unity Stores association.

Posing as a detective looking for a murderer from Ohio who was believed to have joined the Mexican army, Butler said he gained the confidence of one of Huerta's aides. This aide finally obtained for him an audience with President Huerta.

"Huerta was lying in his bed at Chapultepec palace, drunk," Butler declared. "I actually sat on the edge of his bed, and I prepared an order which he signed, giving me free access to every one of the 23 or 24 garrisons in the city and to examine every man at close range, examine the equipment and count the guns.

"This yarn hasn't hitherto been published, so I don't know whether the Mexican ambassador to the United States will take a shot at it or not. I suppose before telling it, I really ought to jump down to Mexico City and see if the palace really is there."

The general referred to the recent "Haitian incident" in which the Haitian minister to the United States said he did not know of the existence of Port Riviere, a Haitian bandit strong-

HIGHER AUTOMOBILE SPEEDS, BETTER HIGHWAYS SEEN BY CIVIL ENGINEERS

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 7—Higher automobile speeds, with centerridged highways to make them safe, are predicted in civil engineering, by the journal of the American society of civil engineers. The forecast is by Maxwell Halsey, traffic engineer of the national bureau of casualty and surety underwriters.

"There can be no question," he says, "but that the higher comfortable speeds of inexpensive cars, which constitute some 70 per cent of present registrations, have increased the average highway speed at least 10 miles an hour. Both vehicle and the surface of the highway are capable of permitting the average speed desired by most motorists, but the design of intersections and straightaways is not such as to make these speeds safe.

"Average highway speeds have not reached their maximum and unless highway design is improved to keep pace with them, more and more accidents will result.

"It is a fundamental principle that safety and facility should be incorporated in the highway during its construction. Roadways should be so

End Of School Affairs Hold Interest Of Teachers And Students In Lubbock

Picnics, May Pole Dance On Program

The end of another term of school is occasioning several affairs among public school teachers and students at this time.

Early this morning, about 200 people left for Silver Falls lake, near Crosbyton. This group was composed of the graduating class at Lubbock High school, faculty sponsors for the class and several parents. The picnic is an annual one and follows Senior Day at which time seniors have charge of the last assembly program for the term.

High school faculty members attended an annual social affair Wednesday evening. A picnic had been planned and was changed to a party in the school gymnasium because of cold weather. Fish and steak were fried and a picnic dinner was served. Faculty members with their families attended. Special guests were Superintendent and Mrs. M. H. Duncan and family and Mr. and Mrs. Corroll Thompson and family. Mr. Thompson is principal of the Junior High school.

Bride Elect Honored

Another party of particular interest to school people was given on Wednesday evening when Miss Alice Honea, a teacher in the George M. Hunt ward, was complimented.

Hostesses on this occasion were Mrs. R. W. Wright, Miss Gladys Pryor and Miss Mozelle Gable. The party was given in Mrs. Wright's home, 1504 Avenue Q, and was devoted to anagrams and bridge. Miss Honea's engagement to Herman Dean, Borger, was announced Saturday afternoon at a party given by her aunt, Mrs. Norton Baker. She is to be married on May 31 in Lockney where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Honea, reside.

A bride's motif was used at the party Wednesday evening, featuring pink and yellow in a color scheme. The honoree was presented with a flower bowl filled with sweetpeas and high cut table favors were sweetpea wristlets. The sixteen guests registered in a bride's book and cupid favors were on the plates. Guests were confined to teachers in the Hunt school.

A basket lunch is to be spread this evening at 6 o'clock for those who attend a May Pole dance and program on the campus at Dupre Ward school. The affair is sponsored by the parent-teacher association of the institution and two girls will be crowned May queens. This will be the last meeting of the P.-T. A. for the school year.

Expression Pupils In Varied Program

A program of short plays, musical numbers, dances and readings was given Wednesday evening at Hotel Lubbock when Mrs. David Dallas presented her class in recital. Those having parts on the program were Mary Elsie Parrish, Lafon Bass, Zelda Clay, Marlyn McCravey, Isaac White, Orville Alderson, Billy Denman, Geraldine Fulton, Tag Hutson, Rachel Campbell, Bunnye Dow, Norma Jean Crites, Eva Eaton, Ruth Leberstein, Elizabeth McCravey, Myrtle Gibbs, LeNelle Allen, Beth Woodrow Bristow, Mrs. L. B. Hodges, Davis Vaughn, Billy Walker, Joiner Young, Gordon Tucker, Myra Moore, Graydon Ausmus, Flora Mae Cook and Ruth Bell.

Bruce Bryans Have Fete Wednesday

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bryan entertained Wednesday evening with a three-table bridge party in their home at 1904 Main street, using spring flowers in decorations. High score was made by Mrs. Claxton Draper. During the evening, losing couples in the games had to play wearing canvas garden gloves and these mits were awarded as table cut favors at the end of the evening.

Guests were Messrs. and Mesdames Ance English, Paul Hardy, E. E. Key, Ira Jenkins, L. G. West and Mrs. Draper.

DR. MYERS

Doctor Myers' Daily Column On Child Welfare

BY GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D. Head Division Parental Education Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

PUBLIC SPEECHES

I get all sorts of requests for helping devise programs and prepare speches. I am glad to do the best I can.

Let me suggest that all who desire such assistance write early enough. Since your letter must be relayed to me, and I am away from home a great dea, and on return nave a huge pile of mail awaiting my personal attention, it often is several weeks before an answer can be sent to you.

Now I am not very good at writing speeches for other people, and am unusually poor at writing my own speeches. Although I rarely speak from manuscript, I am often hounded for an advanced copy of my address. How I hate to write them!

But I can suggest brief outlines and turn the inquirer to materials bearing on his subject. I admire those persons who, in good time, carefully prepare the talk they are to make and who then speak without the manuscript, or from notes.

When you must speak before your own organization you are confronted by a hard task. Those who know you personally are, as a rule, most critical and least helpful as auditors. To this day I dread to speak before such audiences.

When any one presumes to talk about such personal matters as are involved in parent problems, child guidance and family relationship, his auditors constantly are checking what he says against what he is known to practice in his own home.

The first essential, then, of such a speech, is modesty and humility. It is not well to use such words as ought or should. Rather it is desirable to take the attitude that here are some problems practically all of us face. These are some of the things we are likely to do. Here is what seems to happen as a result. But when by thought and painstaking effort we do so and so we seem to get these results ,etc.

Most inexperienced speakers think they must appear to be scholarly by echoing a number of high-sounding words and phrases and by quoting at great length from authors whose names carry weight. A better way is, during preparation, to read rather widely and to absorb a great deal from such authors, but to quote rarely or briefly, and even then to do so from memory. If you are not sure of yourself memorize your speech, using a few notes, if necessary to help you in its delivery. But be sure it is first prepared to your own language. There is eloquence in simplicity.

Brevity is always a good trait. A speech of ten minutes is far better than one of 30 minutes. Don't worry about the introduction to your speech. Launch right into what you have to say.

Give no thought to oratory. The more naturally you speak, the better. Pitch your voice low and enunciate each word clearly. Take your good time to frame each sentence before you begin. Don't worry about gestures, but train yourself to stand still. As soon as you have finished, stop.

After the next meeting, this club plans to disband for the summer.

Youth Is Served In Styles Of Today

BY MME. LISBETH

Youth is served in the styles of today. No matter what a woman's age, she simply can't be old. The beauticians won't permit it, styles won't hear of it. She must be young and slim and charming, whether her hair be golden, Titian, brown, black or snow white.

Materials and colors of modern clothes all help her to be young. They are youth personified. Especially is this true of this season's offerings. White is so very good, and who can look aged in white—or feel old?

White makes you look cool, too, which is important when the summer sun sizzles down. Pictured are two chic little costumes for the warmer days to come. At the left is a spectator sports suit of white oxford shirting. The sleeveless frock is sashed with striped red and white crepe, and the little bolero jacket has a scarf of the same material. White hat with banding of matching red and white, and white shoes and gloves finish this cool looking ensemble.

The model at the right is also white, of chevron ribbed pique; that is, the skirt and accompanying jacket are of pique, with the very feminine little blouse, with its ruffled collar and tie, of checked voile.

Shoes and bag are of novelty cotton mesh.

Silks vie with cottons for supremacy in the field of sports wear—usually called spectator sports clothes. The rough silks like shantung and rajah are frequently seen in the tailored type of frock or suit such as those pictured here.

Miss Z. McCanlies Weds In Oklahoma

Miss Zella McCanlies, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. V. McCanlies, 1011 18th street, was married to Marvin Tisdale of Council Bluffs, Iowa, Monday evening in Ponca City, Okla., according to an announcement made here Wednesday. The bride was accompanied by her brother, Clarence McCanlies, and Mrs. McCanlies, of Oklahoma City.

Mrs. Tisdale has been residing in Lubbock for some time. Her engagement was announced on April 24 at a party given by Mesdames J. P. Rhodes and E. L. Lanthrop in Mrs. Rhodes' home at 1808 Avenue J.

The couple is in Council Bluffs.

Social Program Is For Baptist Class

Mesdames J. O. Oslin, W. E. Holder and H. W. Cherry entertained the First Baptist Alathean class Wednesday afternoon in Mrs. Holder's home at 1808 Avenue M. Mrs. C. A. Faulger presided during a brief monthly business session and an informal social hour followed.

Those in attendance were Mesdames W. H. Trice, Robert T. Bristow, N. L. Ball, C. W. Byers, Faulger, Dick Abbott, Minnie Fickas, T. R. Porter, W. B. Yeager, F. K. Mitchell, R. Scott, A. L. Hawkins, C. 225 Are Examined At School Clinics

A total of 225 children passed through free clinics at Hunt and Carter ward schools Tuesday and Wednesday, according to an announcement that has been made by Mrs. Joe Smith, public school health nurse. These clinics were conducted as a preliminary step in a summer pre-school round-up program designed to prepare children to enter school next September in good physical condition.

Charts, diagnosing the physical condition of the children, were filled out by local physicians and dentists and submitted to the parents with recommendations for corrections that may be carried out during summer months. Diphtheria toxoid and smallpox vaccine were administered when parents agreed to these. Free immunization will be furnished for other children whose parents cannot otherwise afford it, Mrs. Smith said.

This is the second series of such clinics to be sponsored by schools here and a follow-up program will be carried out by members of parent-teacher associations. As about 500 children will enter school for the first time next September, these clinics brought only a percentage of them in for examinations. School people had hoped to have a larger number in attendance, according to Mrs. Smith.

ARGENTINA IS TURBULENT

POLITICAL SITUATION PICTURED GRAVE BY TOURISTS

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, May 7 (AP)—The Argentine political situation was characterized today by tourists from Buenos Aires as developing along grave lines.

President Jose Uriburu was reported to have instructed the interventor of Buenos Aires province (the federal president's representative) to suspend the electoral college when it meets next Wednesday to elect a governor in accordance with the recent provincial elections.

All other provincial elections will be postponed until after the national legislative elections, the date for which has not been fixed, it was said.

The newspaper La Critica, influential Spanish language daily, has been suspended for an indefinite period and its editor, Natalio Botana, has been ordered to leave the country within 24 hours. La Critica has been strong in its criticism of the Uriburu regime.

President Uriburu was described as having taken a firmer grasp on the reins of power, counting on the army to support him. An organization numbering about 15,000 men and modelled along fascist lines was said to be organizing with the expectation of siding with Uriburu in case of trouble.

QUARTER-MILE-HIGH SKYSCRAPER IN NEW YORK ABLE TO DEFY ANY FORCE IN NATURE; DOMINATES SCENE

Towering nearly a quarter-mile over Fifth avenue, the new Empire State building now dominates the New York scene. This view, looking south on Fifth avenue, impressively displays the height of the world's tallest structure, topped by its mooring mast for dirigibles.

NEW YORK, (AP)—Neither an earthquake nor a gale nor the pull of a tethered dirigible can topple over the world's tallest skyscraper, unless the force exceeds any hereabouts hitherto known to man.

This Goliath of architecture and engineering, the Empire State building, has been built stronger than the ordinary Davids of the elements.

It would take a force of more than 4,250,000 pounds of pressure to overturn it, engineers have figured. That is more than the severest storm ever recorded in this latitude, and greater than the pressure felt from any recorded earthquake, says the American Institute of Steel Construction.

Even so, the institute intends to use the building to measure more certainly the margin of skyscraper safety.

It has announced the beginning of wind stress research in the glistening tower of the Empire State building, which rises a quarter of a mile above Fifth avenue.

16-Story Tower "Extra"

The dirigible mooring mast itself, in reality a 16-story tower about 60 feet in diameter, increased the cost of the building $650,000. Much of this expense was for an elaborate system of bracing to withstand the pressure of the wind and the pull of any Zeppelin that may tie up there.

Gothic arches of steel reinforce the interior of the mast, so that it can withstand more than 120 tons of horizontal pull.

The probable pull of a dirigible was estimated at 50 tons.

The Empire State is so tall it uses miniature astronomy to learn the sway of the top of the building in the wind. This is done with a telescope pointing upward from the sixth floor, its sights fixed upon the eighty-fifth story. This instrument—a collimator—will record even one-quarter of an inch tilt.

Not much bending is anticipated. Measurements on the forty-eighth floor of the American Insurance building in a 30-mile wind showed less than one-tenth of an inch sway.

"Nerves" Record Bending

Empire State is also fitted with some special nerves on each of its four sides, to record the infinitesimal bending of its steel ribs during high winds.

This bending, invisible to the eye, registers as additional strain on the building columns. Thus the world's tallest building will record graphically the information upon which future engineers can base still higher skyscrapers.

These "nerves" are extensometers, instruments which record a bending of one ten-thousandth of an inch. They will be grouped around the 24th floor.

Some modest "lungs" also have been built into the Empire State. They are a series of tubes at various levels—thirty-sixth, fifty-fifth and seventy-fifth floors—to suck in the wind like open mouths. Inside they possess apparatus to register the velocity of the wind and how hard it is pushing against the towering walls.

POLA NEGRI BACK IN HOLLYWOOD TO RENEW MOVIE CAREER; TO WED AGAIN

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 7. (AP)—After an absence of two years, Pola Negri, Polish film star, was back in Hollywood today talking of an American husband, the superiority of American styles and a new career in the talkies.

She said she was not interested in the recent marriage of Prince Serge Mdivani, whom she divorced in Paris a few weeks ago, to Mary McCormic, opera star.

"All I am interested in now is my screen career," she said. "For more than two years I have been in a trance. I have had a wonderful rest. I am inspired again and happy to be back.

"Yes there's going to be a new husband. He's an American too. Very wealthy and prominent. But I will not tell his name until I see how my first picture turns out."

Miss Negri complimented American styles as better than the Parisian, but she brought with her several trunks full of the latest Parisian models.

TO SEEK WTCC ATTENDANCE

1,000 REGISTRATIONS LOCALLY IS AIM OF PROPOSED DRIVE

A hundred Lubbock business men representing the city's four service clubs will start a canvass next Tuesday to obtain a thousand local registrations for the annual convention here of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, said Jed Rix, registration committee chairman.

The workers are to assemble at the American Legion hall at 9 a. m. Tuesday for general instructions and allotment of districts, Mr. Rix said. Each of the four clubs, the Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis and American Business clubs, have agreed to furnish 25 workers for the day.

Fee But $1

The registration fee this year is $1. "We hope to complete Lubbock's registration in one day," Mr. Rix said. "Our quota is not too large. Last year, more than 800 local registrations were secured in Abilene and the fee then was $2.50 per person. With the fee at $1 we should experience no trouble in reaching our goal.

Proceeds To Host

Proceeds from registrations go to the host city and will be used for entertainment purposes, the chairman said.

Mr. Rix called particular attention to the fact that convention entertainment cannot be paid by the board of city development out of tax funds.

"The courts have held that tax funds, such as support our board of city development cannot be used for such purposes," he said. "Therefore we must depend wholly upon registration fees. The convention will cost Lubbock a minimum of $3,000, which means that we must secure 3,000 registrations."

Cooperation Asked

Mr. Rix requested heads of Lubbock business houses to register their employes. One business man has agreed to pay for 50 registrations, he said.

H. L. Allen, vice chairman of the committee, pointed out the actual monetary value of the convention to Lubbock, outside of its publicity and development value:

"Estimating an attendance of 5,000 out-of-town people, spending an average of $12 per day, Lubbock will receive $180,000 of outside money during the three days," Mr. Allen said. "Many visitors will spend more than that amount used as an average. Almost every business establishment in the city will receive its share of this convention money."

Privileges of regularly registered persons will include the following:

Admission to dances at Hilton hotel and Hotel Lubbock, Thursday night, admission to engineering show, Texas Technological college, Thursday afternoon and night; admission to science show, Technological college, Thursday; admission to hear preliminaries in the "My Home Town" contest; admission to the historical pageant; admission to dances at Hotel Lubbock and Hilton hotel, Friday night, and receive a printed program of the convention.

General program of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention and details of arrangements for six group-conferences received the attention of three members of the convention work committee here Wednesday. Wibur C. Hawk of Amarillo, L. S. Kinder of Plainview and Arthur P. Duggan of Littlefield met here.

D. A. Bandeen, general manager of the regional chamber, and Maury Hopkins, convention manager, attended the committee conference.

While most of the program details have been worked out, the program will not be printed for several days because some of the speakers have not filed their acceptances, Mr. Hopkins said.

Another meeting of the convention work committee is slated for next Wednesday, one day before the opening of the convention. It will remain in session until the convention closes on the following Saturday, W. T. C. C officials said.

Doctor's 3 RULES Big Help to Bowels

What a joy to have the bowels move like clockwork, every day! It's easy, if you mind these simple rules of a famous old doctor:

1. Drink a big tumblerful of water before breakfast, and several times a day.
2. Get plenty of outdoor exercise without unduly fatiguing yourself.
3. Try for a bowel movement at exactly the same hour every day.

Everyone's bowels need help at times, but the thing to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You'll get a thorough cleaning-out, and it won't leave your insides weak and watery. This family doctor's prescription is just fresh, laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other helpful ingredients that couldn't hurt a child. But how it wakes up those lazy bowels! How good you feel with your system rid of all that poisonous waste matter.

Clean up that coated tongue, sweeten that bad breath, and get rid of those bilious headaches. A little Syrup Pepsin will soon free the bowels from all that waste matter that makes the whole system sluggish. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better.

You'll like the way Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin tastes. The way it works will delight you. Big bottles—all drug stores.

FORD BRAKES ARE UNUSUALLY EFFECTIVE

Reliability and safety due to simple design and careful construction

ONE OF the first things you will notice when you drive the Ford is the quick, effective action of its four-wheel brakes.

They are unusually safe and reliable because they are mechanical, internal expanding, with all braking surfaces fully enclosed. This prevents mud, water, sand, etc., from getting between the band and drum and interfering with brake action.

Other outstanding features of the Ford are the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, torque-tube drive, more than twenty ball and roller bearings, Rustless Steel, reliability, economy, and long life.

You save when you buy the Ford and you save every mile you drive.

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS CHAMPIONS OF EXTRA INNING GAMES

Collier Parris

Hold your horses, golfers! Spying on Sports is going to set things right and offer apologies before the rest of you can say anything. Yesterday this column devoted a couple or three paragraphs to the West Texas Golf Association annual tournament to be held here soon and went so far as to name a few professionals who might loom as possible favorites to win the event. Now, to our utter chagrin we learn that professionals are barred from competition—that it is for amateurs only.

* * *

Just another "bust" which scribes occasionally make. In making our debut as recorder of golfing activities in West Texas we were under the false impression that the tournament was an open affair and that pros were eligible to compete. No one told us different until yesterday's column was off the press and then it was too late. But ignorance is no excuse for itself or for making blunders. Yesterday's outburst stands corrected. When we asked Wesley Read and J. O. Smith just who was eligible to compete in the tournament they said, in unison, "Why, everybody—all of us—even you," so naturally we thought it was open to all comers.

Crip Golightly, Texas Tech mentor and right now breaking into headlines as a promoter of athletic events, says that in view of yesterday's weather, ice skates will be provided for the players in tomorrow night's baseball game at Texas Tech park. The Tech mentor says he now understands why they call West Texas the Wonderland of the Southwest—you wonder what in tarnation the weather is going to do next.

* * *

If the records were to undergo a search we shouldn't be surprised to find that a precedent has been set this season by the weatherman in connection with baseball. Hardly a day has passed since the major and minor league seasons started that from one to a dozen games have not been rained or frozen out. About as many have been postponed because of cold weather as because of excessive moisture.

* * *

It may rain tomorrow night and for the second time in as many years the House of David baseball club may be compelled to forego their exhibition game here. If it does Skipper Golightly will have to postpone buying that new spring suit and may drop behind in his payments on the winter outfit, for he is putting out considerable effort and no small sum in order to stage the game for entertainment's sake and for the benefit of the "T" club, members of which are working with the coach in preparation for the game. Golightly stands a chance to lose some of his prestige as a promoter also, not having made satisfactory arrangements with the elements.

There is no doubt that the coming of the House of David baseball team to Lubbock brings one of the chief athletic attractions to Lubbock of the year, particularly so since it is a night game, the first under lights on the Plains, and most particularly so since Grover Cleveland Alexander, one of the "immortal trio" of major league pitchers, accompanys the team as manager and moundsman. One of the largest crowds of fans ever to grace an athletic field in Lubbock is expected to turn out.

* * *

There have been many stories built up around "Old Pete" Alexander, perhaps as many as upon any other baseball subject ever known Human interest stories that make hero-worshipers out of Mr. Scrooges. baseball stories that thrill the casual observer as well as the full time fan, and plain fact stories that are full of interest are and for the past fifteen years have been carried at full length in books, magazines and newspapers. Alexander needs no introduction to anyone who has ever followed sports at all.

TRIS SAYS NEW BALL IS SLOWER ON THE GROUND

CHICAGO, May 7 (AP)—The new style baseball is just about the same in the air, but it's slower on the ground, Tris Speaker believes.

The former Cleveland, Boston and Athletics outfielder, ranked with the greatest of all time, is a radio announcer, specializing in baseball. He has watched the new and deader baseball with interest and has concluded that it will ride just as far through the air when well hit, but does not roll so far nor as hard on the ground.

"I've watched the antics of this baseball now since the season opened," he said, "and I have come to the conclusion that if you get a full swipe at it, the ball travels as far in the air as it ever did. Maybe it's the raised seams, but the new ball seems to slow down more quickly, once it hits the ground.

"You see infielders making plays on balls they couldn't have touched, or if they did, they couldn't have handled."

Speaker would like to watch some of the great batsmen of his own time batting the lively ball, or even the new one, under present conditions.

"I'd like to have seen Joe Jackson hitting against it for just one season," he sighed. "I doubt if they'd ever have got him out."

HOUSE OF DAVID GAME IS TOMORROW

WIN THREE OF LONG DUELS THIS YEAR

YANKEES DROP FOUR OF EXTRA INNING GAMES IN ROW

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

If the St. Louis Cardinals could arrange to play nothing but extra inning games the rest of the season, they likely would romp home in front of the National league field by a longer margin than they did in 1930.

Thus far Gabby Street's Red Birds have engaged in three extended sessions and they have yet to lose a decision. Twice they beat out the Chicago Cubs in overtime duels and yesterday they victimized the Pirates in 13 innings, 6 to 5.

Yanks Lose Out

In contrast, the New York Yankees have indulged in four extra period affairs and have yet to win one of them. Had they done as well as the Cards, they would be leading the American league chase.

Charley Gelbert, shining light of the last world series, was the hero of yesterday's victory over Pittsburgh. The Card shortstop tripled in the thirteenth and scored on Martin's single. He then came through with a brilliant assist to retire the Pirates after they had filled the bases on relief pitcher Jim Lindsey.

Two National league hurlers had thte unhappy experience of pitching four-hit games, yet being charged with defeats. Bill Walker, Giant southpaw, held the Brooklyn Robins to a quartet of blows, only to come up on the losing end, 1 to 0, when the Dodgers grouped one of them with a walk and an outfield fly in the seventh inning.

One Was Homer

Willie Sherdel of the Boston Braves was the other unfortunate flinger. The Phillies got to him for only four hits, but one of them was Buzz Arlett's fifth homer of the season. It came in the seventh with one on, so the Phils won, 3 to 1.

The Yankees finally won a series from Washington by taking their final, 10 to 7. Babe Ruth and Lyn Lary each contributed a homer.

Led by Al Simmons, who cracked two doubles and three singles in five trips, the Athletics enjoyed a field day at the expense of the Boston Red Sox. Homers by Foxx and Cochrane helped make the score 10 to 3.

Roy Johnson, Detroit rightfielder, hit two doubles and a single, drove in four runs and scored one himself as the Tigers made it two out of three from Chicago, 9 to 4.

Rain caused postponement of the Chicago-Cincinnati engagement at Chicago and cold weather spiked the Indians and Browns at St. Louis.

Martha M. Shelton, 16-year-old girl evangelist, converted 132 persons during a two weeks' campaign at Huntsville, Ala.

OSCAR FUHR MISSES BASEBALL HALL OF FAME BY ONLY 1 HIT WEDNESDAY

BY BILL PARKER,
Associated Press Sports Writer

Oscar Fuhr, a portsider who has pitched baseball many years in many leagues, missed the national pastime's hall of fame Wednesday by one hit. Feeding the Beaumont Exporters effective curves plus almost perfect control, Fuhr put the Dallas Steers pennant percentage a few points higher with a 3 to 0 win. It was a keen exhibition of pitching from the southpaw arm of a man who has been up and down baseball's lane.

One single, that by second baseman Holley in the third inning, spoiled Fuhr's otherwise near perfect day and clever pitching. So superb was Fuhr that Beaumont failed to send a runner safely to second.

In Slug Fest

The pace setting Fort Worth Cats spiked the rubber eight times in the fifth inning to defeat Galveston, 10 to 3. Up to this frame, Carroll had pitched commendable ball for the Buccaneers, but he aviated in the fifth and was relieved by Preacher Thursman. It was a day of hard-hitting for both clubs. Five doubles and four triples crashed against the fence, Galveston getting five of the extra base hits.

Tired of taking lickings Claude Robertson's San Antonio Indians defeated Wichita Falls to 4. Bob Sanguinet's mighty bat thundered when the Indians' rightfielder smashed three hits out of four times at bat. It was a day of free hitting for both clubs.

The Shreveport Sports barely missed their seventh win of the season but they failed to click when the Houston Buffaloes put on a three-run show in the ninth inning to overtake the Sports 6 to 4 lead and eventually win, 7 to 6. It was indeed a strange game of baseball for the Buffaloes secured their three winning runs without the aid of a base hit. It was won on a walk and three wild errors.

GOLIGHTLY IN CHARGE OF PLANS

"PETE" ALEXANDER IS SLATED TO PITCH FOR VISITORS

Coach W. L. "Crip" Golightly of Texas Tech announced this morning that everything was in readiness for the reception of the House of David baseball club tomorrow and the first night baseball game ever played on the Plains. Golightly is manager of the local team, the Lubbock Meteors, composed largely of Tech college players, who will meet the House of David team at the Tech field tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, one of the "immortal trio" of major league pitchers, will lead the bewhiskered boys from Benton Harbor, Michigan, into Lubbock tomorrow morning and will direct them in tomorrow night's game as pitcher and club manager. The House of David club, said to be the most famous traveling baseball organization in the world, has added to its stock of equipment one of the most expensive portable lighting plants in the country. It is the same used a year ago by the Kansas City Monarchs, who introduced night baseball to Texas.

With their full repertoire of tricks, including as a feature their famous "pepper game", the long bearded boys play for the first time in Lubbock tomorrow. They were scheduled to appear here last season but the game was rained out. It is thought that one of the largest crowds to attend an outdoor athletic event in Lubbock for several months will be on hand tomorrow.

The game will be played on the Tech field, west of the Matador football field. Bleachers are being arranged today and wire netting is being placed around the infield. Parking space for a limited number of automobiles will be provided on the first and third baselines. Admission to the game will be 50 cents for students who show student activity books and 75 cents otherwise, proceeds of the game going toward furnishing the varsity club room in the gymnasium.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

CHICAGO—Edgar Norman, Norway, and Buck Easterling, Wichita, Kas., drew, (10).

MONTREAL—Art Giroux, Montreal, outpointed Willie Davies, Charlerol, Pa., (10).

THREE TEAMS ARE DEADLOCKED FOR LEADERSHIP IN TECH TOURNAMENT

With three teams in a deadlock for the intramural basketball championship, Director Golightly has announced a program of eliminations that will result in a Texas Tech campus championship team next Wednesday evening.

The Sophomore Aggies, Freshman Liberal Arts team and Freshman Engineer team have each won two games and lost one in the interleague play for the campus title. Tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock the Aggies and Liberal Arts will meet in the first of the elimination games, the winner to play the Engineer champions next Wednesday night in the championship game.

Mrs. Doeg Again To Be A Professional

SANTA MONICA, Calif., May 7 (AP)—Mrs. Violet Hope Doeg, mother of John Doeg, national tennis singles champion and No. 1 ranking player, was on her way to New York today to again be professional at the Women's National Golf and Tennis club.

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, former Wimbledon women's champion, will join Mrs. Doeg as assistant. Mrs. Doeg will be met in New York by her son on Mother's day, May 10.

TO MOVE FRANCHISE

SAN BENITO, May 7 (AP)—Corpus Christi's franchise in the Rio Grande Valley Baseball league will be moved to Brownsville in order to cut down league expenses it was voted at a meeting of stockholders here last night. Details of the transfer were to be completed today. Where possible, payrolls of the respective teams also will be cut. Harlingen plans to inaugurate night baseball Saturday night.

STARS OF GAMES ON YESTERDAY

(By The Associated Press)

Buzz Arlett, Phillies—Hit fifth homer of season with man on base for runs that beat Braves 3 to 1.

Roy Johnson, Tigers—Drove in four runs with two doubles and single in 9-4 triumph over Chicago.

Al Simmons, Athletics—Hit three singles and two doubles in five times at bat to lead in 10-3 victory over Red Sox.

Charley Gelbert, Cardinals—Tripled in 13th inning and scored winning run to defeat Pirates, 6 to 5.

Ernesto Lombardi, Robins—As pinch hitter drove long fly that brought in only 1 run in 1-0 victory over Giants.

Doubleheader For Browns On Sunday

ST. LOUIS, May 7. (AP)—The Browns have adopted the Sunday doubleheader plan, inaugurated last season by the Cardinals, in an effort to lure more customers through the turnstiles.

Phil Ball, owner of the Browns, announced today a double bill for next Sunday with the Athletics. Monday's game will be moved up as part of the twin attraction, leaving Monday an open date.

The Cardinals, who profited by the doubleheader plan last year, will use it again this season, but probably not as extensively as in 1930. Especially if they continue to attract sizeable crowds on week days. Business at the boxoffice has been unusually dull this season for the Browns.

MECHANIC-PILOT WILL MAKE RECORD ATTEMPTS WITH CRACKED-UP PLANE, NOW BEING REBUILT FOR TESTS

NEW YORK (AP)—Ben Zabora plans soon to seek in the air the triumphs his work on the ground has helped others accomplish.

At Roosevelt field the 31-year-old airplane mechanic is applying to the rebuilding of the plane "Green Flash," wrecked in an unsuccessful take-off by the trans-Atlantic fliers, Roger Williams and Captain Lewis Yancey, the experience and money accumuated in preparing many planes for record attempts.

What record Zabora and his pilot, Emil Burgin, will seek when Zabora's plane is ready, three months hence, depends on the targets then available.

If the present round-the-world record of approximately 20 days, now held by the Graf Zeppelin, still stands, they will probably aim at it, or they may try to better the non-refueling endurance record now held by Italians.

Chamberlin's Pupil

Zabora, who prepared the historic "Columbia" for the world's record endurance flight made by Clarence Chamberlin and Bert Acosta, was taught to fly by Chamberlin. He plans to relieve Burgin at the controls, but will leave the task of the take-off and the heavy work to Burgin.

The "Green Flash" is the Bellanca monoplane which Martin Jensen flew to a solo endurance record. Zabora bought it after Williams and Yancey left its shattered remains on the beach at Old Orchard, Me., following their crash.

A streamlined tank beneath the fuselage is his own idea for carrying an extra 100 gallons of fuel without unbalancing the plane. The main tank in the fuselage and the wing tanks hold 535 gallons, making a maximum capacity of about 650 gallons.

Range Of 6,000 Miles

As Zabora plans to take off with 600 gallons, his 325 horsepower Wright J-5 motor, with an average fuel consumption of less than ten gallons hourly, should, theoretically, carry the plane 6,000 miles at a speed of 100 miles per hour—far enough to set a new world's record for distance. In a try for endurance, the motor could be nursed along at low speeds with a 90-hour mark thought possible.

Zabora is single and sleeps in his hangar, hardly six feet from the plane that is his most prized possession. Within two months it will be ready to fly, and Zabora plans to spend another month test-flying and checking the instruments.

BRYAN UNTIEDT BACK IN WIDE OPEN SPACES; DONS HIS OVERALLS AGAIN

TOWNER, Colo., May 7. (AP)—Bryan Untiedt was back in the wide open spaces today.

The nation's juveline hero, credited with saving several lives in the bus tragedy near here last March, came back from his visit to President Hoover just in time to help his mother with the weekly washing and to assist his father, H. A. Untiedt, in feeding the pigs.

Back In Overalls

The youth's "store clothes" were put aside and Bryan got into the faded, baggy overalls he wears to do the farm chores.

None of the Untiedt family was at the station to greet him. They had not been advised of the hour of his return. Several of the crowd at the station did not recognize him.

Bryan looked around, saw no one he knew, and then deposited his baggage and went back to the train to get an arm load of gifts he brought from Washington for his parents, two brothers, and his sister.

Meets Teacher

Returning to the platform, he was recognized by Mrs. C. E. Heaney, his school teacher last year.

Mrs. Heaney rushed at the boy and gave him a kiss.

This set Bryan back and he showed his embarrassment. It was short lived, however, and the boy began immediately to talk with the teacher of the sights he had seen and the things he had done on his trip.

At home before he would allow anyone to unpack their gift packages Bryan had to hold his baby sister, Ruth Elaine, six months old, in his arms.

"Gee, mama, I guess she still knows me, all right."

One of the first presents was a table cloth Mrs. Hoover had sent to Mrs. Untiedt. Another box contained an inkwell and pen set from the first lady, made from wood salvaged last year when the White House was undergoing repairs.

Gets Rubber Cigar

The children laughed gleefully when Mr. Untiedt received a cigar "from President Hoover himself" and discovered it was made of rubber.

Last, but not least, after all the presents had been distributed Bryan brought out 24 harmonicas, ranging from one to 18 inches in length.

"We'll have a family concert every night," the boy told his folks.

Bryan was disappointed to learn the bathrobe he sent his mother had not arrived, but said he thought he could take the matter up with "the proper authorities" if the mailman doesn't oring it on in a day or so.

All the home coming ceremonies attended to, Bryan slipped into his bedroom, got out of his new suit and was back again in overalls.

"Gee these feel great."

VOIGT CARRIES RABBIT'S FOOT

NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—Carrying with him the rabbit's foot which Jess Sweetser carried when he won the British amateur golf championship in 1926, George Voigt, one of the leading golfers of the metropolitan district, is on his way to England to seek the same title.

Voigt sailed last night, accompanied by another member of the winged foot club, Johnny Foresman. He will carry the colors of the United States in the British amateur at Westward Ho, then join the big delegation of American professionals competing for the British open title at Carnoustie.

Voigt, who reached the semi-finals last year then bowed only to Bobby Jones, was hopeful of doing even better this year. "It's a big job," he said, "but I'm ready to do my best. I'm keen to play and in the rounds I've had this spring I seem to be hitting the ball better than ever."

Thought For Today

Six days shall work be done.—Exodus 35:2.

It is our actual work that determines our value.—George Bancroft.

England's Ills

When crippled little Philip Snowden stood up in the British Parliament to announce a pending increase in the rate of taxation on British land values he brought one step farther along a process that began about the time that Napoleon was sailing down to St. Helena.

The tax increase of course, was devised to gain more revenue for the government. One of its chief effects, however, will be to turn the screws a little more tightly on the landed proprietors whose vast estates have given a tone to English civilization since the days of Elizabeth.

Taxation has been ruining the landed gentry. Each year some of the old, established families quit the manor houses where they and their forebears had lived for two or three centuries and seek cheaper and less pretentious quarters. Some of the estates are subdivided into small holdings. Some are bought by the post-war rich; some pass to wealthy Americans. It is quite certain that Snowden's new tax, if it goes through, will still further narrow the steady-shrinking circle of landed aristocrats; and as this class vanishes, the English civilization that we have known, and that our civilization stems from, must take an entirely new tack.

Yet it was not the World War, with its accompanying financial burdens that started the landed gentry on the downward path. As much as anything, it was the steam engine.

Until the time of the Napoleonic wars, England was primarily an agricultural nation. The landed gentry were, in essence, large-scale farmers. They set the tone for the nation because of that fact. They were a sturdy ruling class, made secure by the unwavering stability of land values and of the price of farm produce.

Then a little more than a century ago, the mechanical age began to develop. England discovered that she had enormous coal deposits. Factories and factory towns sprang up like boom towns in a new Texas oil field. Ships began to carry English manufactured goods to all quarters of the earth, bringing back raw materials—and, especially, bringing back wheat and corn and meat from countries where these things could be grown more cheaply than in England.

The bottom fell out of agriculture. From that moment, though no one realized it, the landed gentry began to decline. They had no place in a factory era.

Now their decline is all too visible. The terrific taxation England has suffered since the war has hastened their dispersion. Snowden's new plan will knock some more old families out of their ancestral estates. But the job really began a long time ago. James Watts, and not Snowden, is primarily responsible.

The Minority

More than 75 per cent of all American motorists never have reportable auto accidents—never, in other words, have any traffic trouble more serious than a scraped fender or a scarred hubcap. About 20 per cent more average at least two serious traffic violations in their careers. And the small remainder—not more than four per cent of the total—cause most of the deaths, injuries and property damage ascribed to traffic accidents.

These figures, made public recently by a traffic safety expert, provide some real food for thought. They seem to imply that there is a certain small percentage of the population that is simply unfit to drive a car at any time. Most motorists have no trouble at all. A fairly sizable group has some trouble, but could probably be trained into better ways. But a small minority spreads death, injury and destruction lavishly.

Some way must be found of getting that small group off of the highways. Traffic safety will not be in sight until that can be done. Meanwhile, the ordinary motorist will have to put with restrictions that he really does not need.

The Plainsman Says:

That Girl on Broadway says civilization is a wonderful thing—it's too bad more of us don't go in for it.

* * *

The fellow who draws in the neighborhood of $50,000 per year certainly picked out a swell neighborhood.

* * *

BARRELS of publicity stories, uncermoniously dumped upon The Plainsman's desk throughout the average week, are usually given little attention. But in recent weeks a different sort of a campaign has been started—one which at this time especially is worthy of study. It is the nation-wide drive to improve maternity care for American mothers, to be launched next Sunday on Mother's Day by women's clubs, civic organizations and health associations throughout the country.

* * *

Most of us are thinking now about ways and means to make Mother's Day a happy one for Mother—which is well and good, as it should be. And while we're in the mellow, appreciative spirit it is not out of order to think of all mothers and to turn a part of our time and talents to making motherhood easier for those who willingly make the sacrifice essential to reaching the most revered human position.

* * *

A LOOK at the statistics gathered to support this humanitarian campaign should, and likely will arouse interest in many quarters. More than 16,000 mothers die each year in childbirth and authorities agree that at least 10,000 of them would not die if given adequate maternity care. On top of that, the same maternity care essential to saving mothers would save at least 30,000 of the 100,000 infants that die each year in the first month of life.

* * *

As The Plainsman sees it, it will be a long time before a more truly 'worthy cause' than this is advanced. Mother's Day, a day of candy, flowers and other presents for mother, can and should be made of even more significance through this new campaign for the mothers of everybody.

* * *

One way to increase office efficiency is to employ only married men. They aren't in such a hurry to get off early as the single ones.

* * *

That Man on Aveneu Q says lovers' lane is often mistaken for the road to happiness.

* * *

WHERE, oh where are the 'clinging vines' at? What has happened to the girls and women who just had to have protection?

The answer probably is that they're all out motoring, playing golf, presiding over political clubs or flying airplanes.

While it is nothing less than good taste to admit that he hasn't been looking for 'em recently. The Plainsman hasn't seen one of those blondes with bangs, who talk baby-talk with a carefully acquired lisp and are wont to hang on their escorts arm in many and many a day. They must have joined the other extinct races while nobody was looking.

* * *

You can pick up your Journal almost any day and see where Glenna Collett parred a course, Helen Wills Moody won a tight tennis set from a man and where Ruth Nichols cut didoes in a plane in a manner to bring awe to many a male pilot. A woman started the season as a pitcher with a professional ball club; others are in legislative and judicial positions. Women with such talents not only do not need men's protection, but man needs protection from them!

* * *

Thirty years ago nobody forecast that women would be doing the things they are doing now so don't be surprised if your newspaper of the future reads: "Susie Jones clouted the agate over the center field wall", or "Buxom Betty Brown slammed right tackle for nine yards and first down". There aren't any more clinging vines. They have gone to the final resting place of the coffee grinder!

* * *

Second sight has saved a lot of girls from falling in love at first sight.

* * *

COLONEL Bill Talbot, whose campaign "Buy Texas-Made Products" is one of The Plainsman's weaknesses, is continuing to hit straight from the shoulder on the economic plan to improve Texas bankrolls and industries. Speaking before civic clubs everywhere, the likeable Dallasite is driving home the lesson that this state can improve its status by "back scratching".

* * *

In his talk before the Rotary club yesterday, the Colonel told a story that amply illustrates Texas' position when it comes to sitting back and watching too great a share of the state's buying power filtering into the northeast.

"There once was a nigger", Colonel Talbot explained, "who bought his wife two presents. One was a looking glass, the other a washtub."

"'Now, Liza'", the African was quoted, "you can have either one of these presents. Take the washtub and go to work—or take the looking glass and watch yourself starve to death!'"

That's the way with Texas. It can either go to work and improve its economic condition, or sit idly by and do nothing about it.

Strangely Enough, Democrats Will Cooperate With The G. O. P. In Staving Off Tax Increase Until After 1932

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, May 7. — The federal deficit may conceivably run close to a billion dollars and insurgent members of Congress will lead a hot fight to plaster bigger taxes on wealth to meet it. But the dope now is that regular Republicans and Democrats will cooperate wholeheartedly in staving off any tax increase until after the next election.

There may be some question whether it is good business to increase taxes at the next session instead of having the treasury borrow money. The argument that current expenses should be met from current revenues is met with the contention that increased taxes would retard the nation's economic recovery.

But there is no question about the politics of the situation. Mr. Hoover and Mr. Mellon, on the one hand, will be kept busy enough explaining that huge deficit without also having to explain a tax increase. In fact, the avoidance of a tax boost between now and election time, considering the deficit's size, can be made to look rather like a triumphant piece of fiscal skill.

Democrats Fight Increase

On the other hand, the Democrats are now trying to attract the support of business themselves and they feel they can't afford to be in any way responsible for a tax increase. That, at least, goes for most Democrats and for the present party management which represents the ideas and ideals of Mr. John J. Raskob. Hence, one finds Pat Harrison, ranking Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee, recommending that the deficit be met by diverting the payments that would ordinarily be applied to retiring the national debt. His statement, issued by the party's national committee, points out that the country, thanks to prosperity and past treasury surpluses, is seven years ahead of the debt retirement program and that it can afford to slow up.

President Hoover and Secretary Mellon have opposed suspension of payments into the debt sinking fund—amounting to $441,000,000 this year—and have planned to keep going on short-term treasury borrowings until business picks up and more taxes are turned in.

But the battle for higher income taxes and estate, inheritance and gift taxes will go on just the same. Various members of Congress, including Senators Borah of Idaho, Couzens of Michigan and Wheeler of Montana and most recently Congressman Ramseyer of Iowa, have publicly announced their stands for tax boosts. Even that arch-conservative, Senator Bingham of Connecticut, has declared for a blanket increase in income taxes, although he drew fire from both the Republican politicians who want an increase less than anything and from the Progressives who want especially to tax the rich.

Would Tax Rich More

Proposals for taxing the higher income brackets and boosting the so-called "death taxes" are always popular and will gain plenty of support in the near future, especially as their advocates point to the increasing concentration of wealth in the hands of a few. In respect to income taxes it is being pointed out that whereas last year a $200,000 income was taxed about $39,000 in this country it was taxed $86,000 in England.

On the other hand a married taxpayer with two children and a $4100 income paid $314 in England, $313 in France and only $2.21 this year in the United States.

Some students of government argue that with only some 2,500,000 persons showing a taxable income on their return in this country it would be wise to establish a broader base in order to lessen a present widespread indifference to federal affairs. Congressman Ramseyer points out, however, that if we had an estate tax at the British rates the government would pull in $1,200,000,000 a year instead of the $180,000,000 now collected by both state and federal governments.

The divergence of opinion about the government's best fiscal course is somewhat reminiscent of confusion among the nation's best financial minds in past months as to how large a deficit there would be. The official guess nine months ago and the official guess now differ by about $1,000,000,000. Last August Secretary Mellon unguardedly admitted that a deficit was threatened which probably would require restoration of the general 1 per cent tax reduction on 1929 incomes and President Hoover promptly repudiated the idea.

By December, however, a probable deficit of $100,000,000 was generally admitted. Subsequent increases in the estimated deficit averaged nearly $200,000,000 a month and even though the temporarily removed reduction was restored this year and the first two payments on 1930 incomes will be received during the present fiscal year latest estimates have placed the deficit at $800,000,000 by June 30.

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets and six articles by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each pamphlet and 2 cents in coin for each article, with a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1439 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are "Reducing and Gaining," "Feminine Hygiene," "Indigestion and Constipation," "The Care of the Hair and Skin," "Infant Feeding" and "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes." The articles are "Normal Diet," "List of Books for Mothers," "Bed Wetting," "Diet of the Expectant Mother," "Ear Troubles" and "Tuberculosis."

DUCTLESS GLANDS

ONE OF THE first active extracts of the ductless glands which the medical profession had came from the adrenal glands and is called adrenalin, or epinephrine. It was the very first ductless gland extract to be isolated in pure chemical form. When it began to be used in medicine it was found that it was a very powerful drug—that it raised blood pressure, contracted the blood vessels of mucous membrane surfaces such as the nose, increased the pulse rate, etc. It has now many uses in medicine in nose and throat affections, asthma, hay fever, shock, etc.

Dr. Clendening

The commonest disease of the adrenal glands is called Addison's disease. It is usually associated with tuberculosis, and the adrenal glands, when it is present, are destroyed by a tuberculous process. Peculiar changes occur in the body in Addison's disease, especially the deposit in the skin, tongue and gums of a brown pigment. The patients have great muscular weakness, and until lately the death rate was very high.

Soon after adrenalin was isolated it began to be used in Addison's disease. This was logical, because Addison's disease was due to destruction of the adrenal glands and adrenalin was the secretion of the adrenal bodies. But the treatment did not work. It was soon pointed out that the reason for this was that the adrenal gland was really two glands—the middle part, the medulla, being different in structure from the outer part, the cortex. It is from the medulla that adrenalin comes, and it is the destruction of the cortex which causes Addison's disease. So the reason for the failure of adrenalin in treatment of the condition was plain.

For many years various people have been trying to isolate the active substance from the cortex of the adrenal gland in order to treat Addison's disease. But only within the last year has there been any success. It might seem simple to an outsider to get an extract from a ductless gland for treatment purposes. All one ought to have to do is to grind up the gland and give it to a patient. But success is not so simple. Innumerable difficulties arise. We now have six active extracts—representing the hormones of the posterior pituitary lobe, the thyroid, the parathyroid, the pancreas, the adrenal medulla and the adrenal cortex. We have as yet no active extract of the pineal gland, the anterior or middle pituitary glands, the thymus, or—let the fact be known—the male sex glands. The female sex hormone is probably known, but in practice it is valueless because it disappears from the body so fast.

The active principle of the adrenal cortex was isolated by Drs. Swingle and Pfiffner of the faculty of Princeton; neither of these gentlemen has a medical degree. The extract of the adrenal cortex which they have made is indeed a remarkable substance. It literally brings the dead to life. Patients with Addison's disease who are bedridden, exhausted, in coma, are revived in a few hours by its use.

The case of a woman is reported who became unconscious, the pulse and breathing had stopped when the adrenal cortex extract was administered. Two days later the doctor met the patient in the lobby of the hospital, demanding to be allowed to go home.

SUSPECT QUESTIONED

MARFA, Tex., May 7 (AP)—J. P. Thomas, charged with murder after the body of a Dr. Taylor from Texarkana was found in a well between Alpine and Presidio several weeks ago, was questioned today by District Attorney Roy Priest. He denied the killing. Priest said examining trial would be set soon. Complete identification of the slain man had never been made.

In a recent month more than 3,000,000 pounds of coffee were shipped from La Guaira, Venezuela.

In New York With Gilbert Swan

SWAN

NEW YORK, May 7—Life is like that! But it's also like this:

Every night, a portly, middle-aged entertainer takes the spotlight at the Russian Arts Cafe, one of Second Avenue's atmospheric night spots.

He opens his program with one of those good old "laughing" songs. You know what I mean—a song in which the vocalist doubles up in glee and goes "ha-ha-ha" and "haw-haw-haw." It's a Russian song and the words, when translated, have to do with laughing at cares and troubles and hard luck in general.

Very well—the gent who gets so merry each evening is one Ilya Sarnatov. In the old Russian days he was one of the most popular performers in Moscow. He was thrifty and invested his money in theaters. Soon he had a great theatrical chain and was one of the most important stage figures. His properties were valued into the millions. All were wiped out in the revolution.

Now he sings a funny song about a fellow who lost all his money, and has the crowd laughing with him!

There's an old story, too, about Myer Golub, the owner of this particular place.

Golub decided to give the East Side more and better art. He opened the Jewish Art Theater, putting on some of the most famous folk plays with some of the most famous Yiddish actors. The basement of the theater was used as an overflow storeroom for extra scenery and properties.

But art proved to be an extravagant investment and Golub found himself loser of a small fortune in a relatively short time. With a friend he went down into his huge basement to view such assets as might remain.

Then a bright idea came to him. The place looked rather colorful with various scenes propped against the walls. His rent covered the basement as well as the theater upstairs. He had scene painters and stage designers at his command. And since he had suffered a large loss upstairs, why couldn't he try the basement?

A few weeks later, an atmospheric Russian cafe blossomed in this cellar. Four years have passed. Golub has his money back—and then some!

The small number of music shows this season, plus the indifferent reception of most of them, has made this as tough a season as the chorines have ever known.

When Flo Ziegfeld sent out a call recently for his Follies chorus, something like 600 girls had appeared, jamming and cramming until police had to establish a regular line.

Six hundred girls—and only 16 jobs! And beauties among them by the dozen. And discouragement written on dozens of faces.

In casting a production, applicants are lined across the stage in three groups, generally according to size. Gradually they are weeded out, sometimes five at a time, sometimes 10!

As the weeding process goes on, hope burns bright only to die again as a second and third inspection cuts the number to the final 50. Even to an impersonal bystander, the next half hour is packed with tension, drama and heartbreak.

In the end the losers shrug their shoulders and walk out, feigning a nonchalant slouch.

Cosmo Hamilton, British novelist, says the modern young man is afflicted with tender skin and metal freckles. The tin horn sport type?

Gangsters who think they're tough probably are only suffering from hardening of the arteries.

Breaking a date these days seems quite up-to-date.

Ball players who pull boners seldom pull a bonus.

You've got to have plenty of "pull" to make the college crew.

Catalonia, it seems, is the big pain in Spain.

Scotland recently observed the centenary of the Scotsman. William Symington, the first man to make a steamboat there.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

At first the little Chinese tot was rather frightened, like as not. However it began to grin when Clowny hopped around. Then all the others shook its hand and then it seemed to understand that everyone was friendly and a smile replaced a frown.

"How old are you?" one Tiny said. The Travel Man then shook his head and said, "He cannot understand unless you talk Chinese. I know a few words I can say." And then he turned the baby's way and rattled off in Chinese, "I won't let these Tinies tease."

The youngster clapped his hands and, gee he looked as cute as cute could be. They played with him a little while and then they waved goodby. Before the bunch were out of sight, said kindly Scouty Tinymite, "He seemed real sad to see us go. I know I heard him sigh."

Nearby they had a noontime meal. Said Doppy, "My, how good I feel! What are we going to do at next? There's still a lot to see." The Travel Man replied, "You bet! Another thrill you'll shortly get. We're going to a real straw street. Come on, boys, follow me."

They reached the street he had in mind and all were quite surprised to find that it was just a winding stream that traveled through the town. "It's water, but it's still a street. I hope that we will shortly meet a boatman," said the Travel Man. "He'll take us up and down."

And so they waited till a craft came down the stream. Wee Coppy laughed and said, "We'll sure look funny if we scrambled on the ship." But, when up to the ship it slid, that's just exactly what they did. The Travel Man exclaimed, "Sit tight! We're on another trip."

Hawks Puts Mercury To Shame

h one more record behind him Capt. Frank Hawks, American ace, is ing for more marks to shatter. His latest feat in flying from Le rget field, Paris, to Heston airdrome, England, a distance of 229 s in 59 minutes, faster than any other person ever has made the trip, ally alleviates his disappointment in failing to complete his round- flight to Rome from London. Exhaustion of his fuel supply by head is forced him to land in a field near Glen, 100 miles south of Paris.

Now—The "Armchair Parachute"

It's "as easy as falling off a log" to use this nifty new "armchair parachute" for passengers in cabin airplanes. The 'chute is attached to the seat and all the wearer needs to do is jump from the plane when danger threatens and float to earth in a sitting posture—at least, that's the theory. Josephine Forbes is shown above as she demonstrated the new device at the National Aircraft Show at Detroit.

DAILY MARKETS

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—Cotton opened steady today 3 points lower on May but generally 2 to 4 points higher on some overnight buying orders which evidently were brought in by the advance of late yesterday, while May was influenced by liquidation incident to the circulation of a few additional notices.

Reports of cold, rainy weather in the south may have encouraged some buying of later delieveries but the market was comparatively quiet after the opening with fluctuations rather narrow an dirregular. At the end o the first half hour July was selling around 9.96 and Dec. 10.51, or about net unchanged to 4 points higher Sales of fertilizer tags in the 13 southern states for the five months of December to April were said to show a falling off of 28.6 per cent as compared with the same period last year. A private report was published placing the probable acreage at 41,511,000 acres, or 10.1 per cent reduction as compared with last year.

Liverpool cables said continental buying had been supplied by liquidation in that market.

The market eased slightly later in the morning, possibly on the outlook for warmer weather in the western belt, but offerings were comparatively light and were absorbed on a reaction to 9.90 for July and 10.48 for December contracts. Prices were a point or two up from these figures at midday with the market quiet and barely steady within a point either way of yesterday's closing quotations.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, May 7 (AP)—Cotton here opened fairly steady although Liverpool came in lower than due. First trades showed losses of one to four points but the market soon rallied on unfavorable weather conditions in the belt. And on a private report that the sales of fertilizer tags had decreased 17.2 per cent during April.

Prices rallied 4 to 7 points from the opening with July at 9.95 and October at 10.31 but later eased again to the opening quotations, owing to lack of support.

At the end of the first hour the market was quiet and steady.

The market improved during the first half of the morning on reports of good trade buying both by the mills to fix prices and for foreign account, the buying being helped by some early improvement in stocks. July traded up to 9.98 and October to 10.34, or 7 to 10 points up from the opening quotations. Later, as stocks weakened, the market turned easier, losing all the gain. October dropping to 10.23, or 11 points under the high. Near midsession the market was quiet but steady two to three points above the lows.

NEW ORLEANS OPEN

NEW ORLEANS, May 7 (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady today.

May 9.70-bid; July 9.88; Oct. 10.37; Dec. 10.50; Jan. 10.60-bid; March 10.84.

NEW YORK OPEN

NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady today.

May 9.60; July 9.93; Oct. 10.30; Dec. 10.58; Jan. 10.65; March 10.85.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, May 7 (AP)—Rains in Canadian spring wheat territory tending to relieve drouth anxiety gave an early downward impulse to grain prices today. The moisture, however, was of only a scattered sort.

Opening 1-8 to 5-8 cents off, wheat afterward continued to sag. Corn started at 5-8 decline to 1-4 advance and subsequently underwent a general setback.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—The stock market displayed general strength during the early trading today but then tapered off, coincident with selling of some amusement issues and Western Union. The latter dropped 8 points to 107, the lowest since 1924.

Advances of 4 points in Atchison, 2 in U. S. Steel and 1 to 2 in American Can, Westinghouse, New York Central, Eastman Kodak, General Motors, Radio and Johns Manville were reduced. Woolworth was strong, rallying 3 points to a new 1931 high.

Paramount Publix sagged 1 1-2 to a new low. Loew's, Southern Pacific and Goodyear Rubber also were heavy, while Canadian Pacific, reflecting the lower dividend, dropped more than 3 to a new minimum.

Call money renewed at 1 1-2 per cent.

TECH WILL AID VISITORS

PERSONS HERE AT THE W. T. C. C. MEET TO VISIT COLLEGE

Arrangements are under way to direct and to aid visitors on the Technological college campus during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention here next week, attaches of the school said Wednesday.

An information bureau, consisting of 40 students, is being organized at the college. The bureau will be under the direction of a general steering committee, appointed yesterday by President P. W Horn, of the college. Members of the general committee are Cecil Horne, publicity director of the college, chairman; Don Maddox, president of the Tech Chamber of Commerce; Capt. H. E. Killen, Miss Nell Goodloe, president of the Women's Forum, and Miss Lilah Gaye Rodgers, head of the Association of Women Students.

Members of the information bureau will be conducted over the campus prior to the convention in order that they may better acquaint themselves with all divisions of the college, Mr. Maddox, of the college chamber, said yesterday.

During the convention the bureau members will pass out literature concerning the college and will inform the visitors of the various activities on the campus, including the engineering and chemical shows and the historical pageant.

give any testimony to the committee.

She gave this notice to the committee after reading a lengthy statement protesting the authority of the committee.

Put In Record

Chairman Nye called Miss Burroughs as the first witness after Bishop Cannon had asked if his letter of protest would be made a part of the record. Nye said it would.

Miss Burroughs brought a prepared statement and insisted upon reading it first. The statement protested the authority of the committee and was similar to the bishop's protest. She, too, declared the federal corrupt practices act unconstitutional.

"You were treasurer of the anti-Smith committee in Virginia in 1928," said Chairman Nye. "You certainly will answer questions about your activities won't you?"

Witness Nervous

"I decline to testify," said Miss Burroughs nervously.

As Nye put further questions she said, "I have nothing to add to my statement. I decline to testify."

Harry F. Sinclair, a millionaire oil operator, served a jail sentence for refusing to testify to a senate committee.

Bishop Cannon rested his chin on one of his crutches as he listened to Miss Burroughs.

"I decline to testify," she repeated as Nye asked her if she had filed reports "called for under the law."

She did answer a question whether she had filed a certain report, saying she had, but when Nye asked her about other reports she stated "I can't answer that."

Looking straight at Nye, Miss Burroughs then answered all further questions with a mildly spoken "I decline to answer."

The troop movement started last night and included a military police company, infantry, cavalry and medical units. The equipment included rifles, side arms, a tank and howitzers.

Jealousy Is Blamed In Double Slaying

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 7. (AP)—Mrs. Dollie Urton today blamed unfounded jealousy of her husband, Reuben Urton, for Urton's killing of her friend, Wilfred Poland, and subsequent suicide.

The double killing occurred late last night at the home of the Urtons, where, Mrs. Urton said, Urton had returned with Poland after a quarrel concerning attentions Poland had been paying her.

Mrs. Urton said she had known Poland, a cafe owner, for some time. She denied, however, there was any foundation for her husband's jealousy.

Increase In Wheat Crop Is Predicted

ENID, Okla., May 7 (AP) — John Manley, manager of the Oklahoma Wheat Growers' association, estimated today that the 1931 Oklahoma wheat crop would total 52,000,000 bushels. The Texas crop, he said, should approach 45,000,000 bushels.

Oklahoma produced 32,000,000 bushels last year, Texas 20,000,000.

The estimate was based on the present condition of the crop.

VERDICT EXPECTED

SAN ANTONIO, May 7 (AP)—A verdict in the case of William Bryan charged with robbery by assault with firearms, was expected today. The jury began its deliberations late yesterday afternoon.

Cooked 36-Cent Dinner For Hoovers

It probably was one of the cheapest White House dinners in history. For 36 cents was the total cost of a tasty meal which these Washington Girl Scouts cooked and served for the President and Mrs Hoover at the White House the other day. Left to right, in the front row, are Shirley Schafer, Louise Erk and Faith Shesong, who served the dinner, and in the second row are Betty Leake, Betty Jane Oswald and Helen Sheets, who were the cooks. In the rear is Mrs. Edmund F. Erk, wife of the Congressman from Pennsylvania, who supervised preparation of the meal.

TALBOT TALKS HERE TODAY

BUY - TEXAS - PRODUCTS DRIVE TO KIWANIS CLUB LUNCHEON

Outstanding advocate of the Buy-Texas-Products program, Col. W. E. (Bill) Talbot, of Dallas, was to address the Kiwanis club at its luncheon today noon. Colonel Talbot, Republican gubernatorial candidate in 1930, spoke to the Rotary club here Wednesday.

Since the first of this year he has appeared before more than 100 luncheon clubs, he said, the last 24 appearances coming during the past three weeks.

Repeating his popular campaign story which compares Texas with the cow that is eating in Texas and being milked in the northeast, Colonel Talbot urged his hearers to "get up on your hind legs and help haul the cow down here, so we can milk her as well as feed her."

Urges Cooperation

"The opportunities are here," he declared. "All we have to do is make the best of them. And if we just take care of the industries we already have we'll be helping Texas a lot."

"We need industry," he continued, "to parallel the agricultural interests we already have. If we'll just start using cotton in Texas we'll forget about hard times and will use up three and a half million bales per year more than we are using now."

Guy L. McAfee was in charge of the program which also featured club singing and two solos by Miss Nell Parmley, with Mrs. Mamie I. Neal at the piano.

President W. A. Jackson was in the chair and President-elect N. L. Peters reported the recent district conference held at Plainview. More than 100 men were in attendance.

session through May 22. The original date carried in the resolution which the house adopted was May 12, but an amendment extending the session ten days was adopted. The senate took no action on the resolution. Members said adoption by the senate would automatically set the adjournment date.

The adjournment resolution was listed on the senate calendar today.

The senate passed a bill by Senator Williamson of San Antonio which would increase the personnel of the state highway patrol from 50 to 150 men. Williamson's original bill sought to increase the total to 200, but he agreed to an amendment fixing the number at 150. Deadlocked over salaries of the chief of the patrol and his force, the senate finally adopted an amendment by Senator Woodruff of Decatur empowering the legislature to determine the amount of pay each should draw.

General Butler said his secret mission in Mexico was ordered by President Woodrow Wilson and that it was necessary because the exact military strength which Huerta could put in the field, together with the defenses of the city, was unknown to American military commanders. He said war with Mexico was imminent because of the "Vera Cruz incident" and that the American fleet lay in Vera Cruz harbor.

Lea County Ranges Show Improvements

Marked improvement in conditions of Lea county ranges has been reported by J. R. Smith, rancher living west of Tahoka who was in Lubbock this week.

Mr. Smith rented his pastures this winter to several Texans for cattle. Last Saturday M. S. Doss of Seminole shipped 780 head of three year old steers from Tatum to Canadian where they will be pastured on grass owned by Mr. Doss.

The shipment was made from Bledsoe. The pasture to which the animals was sent is north of Canadian about 20 miles.

built as to make it impossible for the motorist to do the wrong thing.

Raised center strips will prevent head-on collisions by forcing motorists to drive to the right hand side of the highway, by preventing mid-block turns and by reducing headlight glare. Building of three and four lane highways with the outside lanes of smooth cement and the inside lanes of rough macadam, encourages motorists to use the attractive outside lanes, leaving the center free for passing. Improved shoulders will induce motorists to park off the traveled way."

HEARING HELD IN SLAYING

EYE - WITNESSES TELL ABOUT BROWNFIELD SHOOTING CASE

BROWNFIELD, May 7.—(Special)—Two eye-witnesses testified here yesterday at a hearing for J. A. Bond of Brownfield, charged with the murder of J. C. White, Brownfield grocer, April 5.

Bond was released on $10,000 bond following a habeas corpus hearing before Judge Gordon B. McGuire of 106th district court. Bond had been held in the Dawson county jail since the early morning of the shooting.

W. V. Stephens, cook at the restaurant where the shooting occurred, testified he was drawing a cup of coffee when Bond came into the cafe and started firing at White.

Dr. Copeland, a retired physician, testified he was leaving the cafe when the shooting occurred. He said he turned in time to see the shots fired.

Bond made a plea of self defense. He said White had threatened his life on numerous occasions. He is scheduled to go to trial during the September term of 106th district court.

DAVIS CHOSEN DIRECTOR

LUBBOCK COUNTY MAN NAMED OFFICIAL OF COTTON CO-OP

A Lubbock county farmer, Earl R. Davis, was elected a director of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association from district 18, defeating W. H. Hames of Crosbyton.

The district vote was light, Davis receiving more than 300 votes to slightly less than 200 for Hames. Both were directors last year. Hames had been a member of the board four years.

Barron Is Winner

In the Lubbock sub-district office, C. A. Barron of Lamesa was named director without opposition for district 17; M. S. Hudson of Hale Center for district 19 without opposition, and Richard Wischkaemper of Shamrock, over T. M. Haney of Thalia for district 20.

In the Abilene sub-district office area B. Walters of Rule was chosen for No. 15; Lynn Stokes of Ballinger reelected for district 16 and T. E. Alvis of Roby won over L. S. Munger of Abilene for district 14. Walters defeated H. B. Welborn of Snyder and Stokes won over W. D. Wulfgin of Colorado.

MEASURED IN MILES

SUPPOSE for a moment that advertising didn't exist—that there were no trade-marked goods—that everything you bought had to be judged solely by its look or feel or taste.

Imagine yourself setting out to do the morning's shopping under such conditions. You'd drive down the street, looking in windows for the articles you needed—the blouses for Johnny, the half-dozen bath towels, the toilet soap, the ginger ale for tomorrow's picnic. You'd stop, ask questions, examine the towels, smell the soap, wonder if here was your money's worth or if you might find something better farther on. And though you followed this procedure mile after weary mile, you could never be sure.

Computed simply in terms of gasoline and tires and shoe-leather, advertising saves you a startling sum every year. And if you add the value of your time, the amount is vastly increased.

When you buy a product that is advertised you know in advance what you will get, how much it costs and where you can obtain it. That is why, in millions of modern homes, the newspaper advertising columns are a daily guide to purchases.

Read the advertisements in the Avalanche and Journal, decide what you need, then buy with assurance.

Let advertising save you time and money

WILD WELL IS SNUFFED OUT

BLAZING GUSHER IS EXTINGUISHED BY NITRO CHARGE

GLADEWATER, May 7 (AP)—The lofty pillar of smoke that for eight days had marked the site of the Sinclair No. 1 Cole and was visible as far away as Longview, 20 miles distant, was gone today. The blazing gusher was extinguished last night by a 200-pound nitroglycerin charge.

But the well was still running wild today—the eleventh day since it blew out of control. Sinclair employes prepared for a new attempt to cap it. A week ago Tuesday, such an attempt touched off the fire that took the lives of nine men.

Leg Broken

Harry Kinley, younger of the fire-fighting brothers from Tulsa, snuffed out the blaze last night. Aided by a youngster named Huxley Bunch, who substituted for M. M. Kinley when the latter's leg was broken, Harry placed four 50-pound packs of the explosive in a steel drum beside the well and touched off the charge by electricity.

The blast was heard 20 miles away in Longview. A great umbrella-shaped yellow blaze was blown upward for 200 fet, the most dazzling display since the well caught fire. The next instant there was darkness, intensified by memory of the glare that had come from the well.

Sergeant M. T. (Lone Wolf) Gonzaullas of the Texas rangers headed a squad of men who kept guard about the well last night. Gas hung all about the scene, needing only a spark to kill another crew of workmen. No one was allowed to carry matches within a mile of the well and automobiles were parked far away.

Today the crew prepared to slide a new derrick over the well, still spouting oil 50 feet into the air from the crater left by the explosion. Workmen carried specially made brass tools to prevent another fatal spark in this new attempt to cap the gusher.

Think Negro Made A Slight Mistake

CHICAGO, May 7. (AP)—The police consider that Jeff Sharkey, 30-year-old negro, made a slight mistake.

He saw a shiny new automobile coming down the street. He stepped out from the sidewalk, waved his hand commandingly, and brought it to a halt. Then he started to reach into his pocket and to open the car's door. He stopped at this point having noticed the ominous word "police" on the side of the machine.

"What," asked Sergeant John McCormick, "do you want?"

"All I wants," he replied, "is change for a $10 bill."

The police searched him, but since they failed to find $10 but did notice a pistol, they decided to lock him up. They did.

LEADER OF NICARAGUAN NATIONAL GUARD WHO KILLED LIEUTENANT OF SANDINO, WRITES OF EXPERIENCES

NEW ORLEANS, May 7. (AP)—Ralph Beardsley, leader of the Nicaraguan National guard who routed the bandit raiders after the Logtown and Moss farm massacres, in a letter to his wife here, told how he personally slew Pedro Bandon, Sandino's lieutenant. The letter was copyrighted and published by the New Orleans States.

"Last Saturday (April 12) was called up and told that the bandits had ambushed and killed Captain Pefley and Selser and that a guardia patrol was leaving for Logtown immediately and was asked if I wished to go along," the letter said.

Take 18 Men

"We left at 2 o'clock by train with one machine gun. Lieutenant Darrah and eighteen enlisted men. At Santa Cruz junction we passed the motor car with the body of Pefley and Selser, who at that time was still alive.

"Reached Logtown at 5:30 and were told that the bandits had proceeded to Anyupina. We left guard and proceeded to walk to Anyupina, a distance of eight miles. We scouted around until 10 o'clock, but had still no signs of bandits. We came back along that trail and lay in ambush until daylight. Then we proceeded back to Louisiana farm and picked up our train.

"At Louisiana farm we were told that all Americans and natives had been killed at Moss farm and that fifty bandits were laying in ambush for us at Moss farm. We moved toward Moss farm very cautiously. There were several dead along the track. At Moss farm we counted several Americans lying in the ditches. Two were horribly mutilated with their heads cut off and stuck on the fence posts.

Warning Given

"Here we received a message from Pedro Blandon, the bandit general, saying that they were ready for us and we didn't dare come and get him. So we proceeded down the track to look for the worthy general.

"The bandits were hidden behind stumps along the edge of the track and opened fire on us from both sides, immediately shooting our engineer who stopped the train right in the midst of them.

"We finally shot our way out, losing only one guardia. We then proceeded to take Moss farm house and made it our headquarters. We erected our machine gun and posted guards.

"We were surrounded on three sides, had nothing to eat for 36 hours and were low on ammunition. At 4 o'clock we received word from Blandon that he intended to attack and burn our house at 7 o'clock, when he would be reinforced by 500 more men.

Lines Down

"This was a lie. He never had more than 60 to 75 men. We had to have food and especially ammunition. The telephone lines were down, also the rails had been torn up on Snake bridge to prevent us from crossing it. Our engine was useless, as the boiler plugs had melted (having had no water for the boiler).

"At 4:30 we decided to take two motor cars and fight our way through a small band of about 15 bandits who were in front of us. Darrah was to protect me with machine gun fire while I laid steel railroad tracks.

"I laid the steel and at 4:30 we started full speed down the track. I was in the first motor car and as soon as I approached the bandit guard at the bridge I opened fire with a Lewis machine gun and drove them off into the bushes. At the bridge we stopped and I laid steel under fire. We crossed the bridge and travelled as far as Wakiwas farm, where we put our machine gun and kept guard all night.

Guard Reinforced

Next morning we were reinforced by Captain Wood from Bluefields and twelve more guardia. Monday at nine o'clock we started for Logtown, where an airplane had told us there were about 30 bandits with a pack train.

"At 1:30 we went into Logtown on the double and surprised them. Captain Woods cleaned up one side of the town, Darrah the other side and I had a mopping up party of six men who cleaned them out of houses. I shot Blandon and one other. Simmer got one and the guardia killed five others.

"I got Blandon's sword as my share of the spoils, but have had to send it to Managua, so doubt if I ever see it again.

"Left Logtown at 4:30 and walked to Moss farm to our train. We walked about 18 miles and carried two machine guns and a Lewis.

Bridge Burned

"Reached Wakiwas at 8 o'clock and was told that bandits were in strength along the line to the port. Headed for the port. At Wawa Boon, we were forced to stop, as bandits had burned the bridge in front of us. We placed a machine gun in front and one in the back.

"Tuesday morning planes dropped word that a large force of bandits were approaching from the rear and front. We decided to evacuate.

"The north star was in the river and with my usual good luck, I piloted her down the river to the wharf without ever touching a thing.

"Was on guard duty at the Commandancia all night. Wednesday we went out on patrol over the line. Thursday, on patrol to the Vanco tract and dispersed looters who had been robbing commissaries.

"Friday Lieutenant Crosby had orders from Managua to proceed to Logtown and take pictures of the various points of interest and to take a picture of Blandon. Pigs had eaten the body so badly it was impossible to recognize it.

Saturday was on patrol with Darrah by truck and motor car 35 miles out on the Savannah. Everything quiet.

CRIME WAVE IS REPORTED

SERIES OF RAILROAD ROBBERIES IN AREA RECENTLY

Additional railway and filling station robberies, which have become almost commonplace in this section in the last three weeks, have been reported to Lubbock police by D. Robinson, Santa Fe railway officer, of Slaton.

A safe in the Santa Fe station at Kress was knocked, 34 pennies, a dozen hacksaw blades, and several automobile pistons and piston-rings being stolen, April 29. Loot other than the money was taken from express packages which were broken open, Robison reported.

Cash and checks totaling $15, five gallons of oil, 15 gallons of gasoline, and a .22 calibre rifle were stolen from a Gulf Refining company filling station at Tulia the same night.

The "jobs" evidently were committed by the same persons who burglarized mail sacks in the Hale Center Santa Fe station, April 23, and took automobile tires, tubes and wearing apparel. Robinson opined.

Santa Fe stations at Tahoka and Seagraves were robbed April 15 and 16, respectively. A Phillips Petroleum company station at Seagraves also was burglarized the night of the breakin at the railway station there.

Italy's largest automobile concern is producing only 50 passenger cars a day.

LIGHTING

FACTORY working hours in 1850 varied with the sun, for candles provided unsatisfactory illumination. Each employee was given a "bell card," showing what time the factory starting bell would ring for each day.

Starting time ranged from 6 A. M. in the Summer, to 7:26 A. M. during the Winter. Stopping time, too, followed the sun—from 6 P. M. in the Summer, to as early as 4:42 P. M. in December.

Artificial lighting has progressed a long way since the days of the tallow candle and oil lamps, with their inadequate light, flickering rays and uncertain shadows.

Electric light is now industry's illuminant. Its steady light successfully rivals the sun's which varies in intensity and color every few minutes.

Fifteen per cent of industrial accidents are said to be due to improper lighting—insufficient light or incorrect light because improperly located, causing glare, refraction, reflection, or shadows.

WEATHER EXPERT SAYS ANYONE CAN FORETELL WEATHER OF NEXT WINTER

BY F. B. COLTON,
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON, May 7. (AP)—Weather experts have learned that any American can tell roughly how cold it will average in his home town next winter by calculating the distance from there to the gulf of Mexico.

Winters, in general, average one degree colder every 25 miles north from the gulf to Minnesota, Oliver L. Fassig of the United States weather bureau told the American meteorological society at its annual spring meeting. Mean winter temperature along the southern limits of the United States and up the pacific coast to northern California is 55 degrees, while in northern Minnesota it is five degrees, he said.

A similar rule holds for the depth frost penetrates into the ground, Fassig explained. The ground on the average freezes one inch deeper every 25 miles north from the gulf. In the far south there is no frost, he said, but in northern Minnesota the ground freezes to a depth of 50 inches.

The weather grows rapidly warmer instead of colder during an anarctic blizzard, W. C. Haines of the weather bureau reported. He was meteorologist on Admiral Richard E. Byrd's expedition to the south pole.

During one blizzard the temperature rose in less than 20 hours from 49 degrees below zero to 16 above, a climb of 65 degrees. The mercury rose from 40 to 50 degrees in a few houfrs during several other blizzards, he said, adding that such temperature changes are believed caused by the mixing of cold air near the ground with warmer air above.

Water particles can exist without freezing even when the temperature of the atmosphere is considerably below the freezing point, the expedition discovered. This was shown by fogs that formed during the sub-freezing weather, Haines reported.

The coldest day encountered by the expedition was 72.4 degrees below zero fahrenheit on July 28. The warmest was 35 degrees above on December 28. July was the coldest month, with an average temperature of 44.7 degrees below zero.
