B&PW Have Successful Meeting Here

The District 13 Business and Professional Woman's Club convention here Sunday was attended by approximately 75 people.

One of the high points of the convention was the luau held Saturday night at Big Tree Lodges, at which the piece de resistance of the feast was a roast young pig cooked whole by Capt. Jim Furlong.

The first event on the program that evening was a hula by members of the Rockport club, including Mrs. Lucile Schultz, Mrs. Yvonne Leonard, Mrs. Roy Lee Hart, Miss Elsie Hawes, Miss Veronica Kleaser, Miss Iris Sorenson, Mrs. Gladys Nelson, and Mrs. Eugene Everett.

Group singing followed, with parodies composed by Mrs. Schultz and Mrs. Leonard set to popular music. The parodies dealt with the professions or businesses represented by the various members.

Mrs. Nelson gave a parody of "Dr. Schock" and his lovelorn column on problems of wives with middle-aged husbands.

Mrs. Everett presented a beatnik poem in appropriate costume.

Delegates from George West gave a comical question and answer skit, using as their questions the ones commonly seen on bubble gum wrappers. Answers were furnished by the audience.

The program was interrupted at this point by the roast pig, served with various fruits, dips and punch prepared by the Brumleys of the Big Tree Restaurant.

When the program was resumed, Vern Holman of the Corpus Christi Club who gave a satirical reading on the evil thoughts behind the creation of the mother Goose rhymes.

The Rockport Club then sponsored a hula contest in which each member of the audience was called forth and asked to hula. All delegates, including Federation President Miss Elizabeth Tandy of Fort Worth, took part in this event.

The next contest was a limbo contest in which those participating danced beneath a pole on supports in time with appropriate music. The pole is lowered each time all dancers have passed beneath it. Mrs. Nelson was the only remaining contestant after approximately 45 minutes, and at a time when the pole had been lowered to three feet.

Last on the program was Miss Lola Bonner and her Mexican guitar.

Throughout the evening, participants were rewarded with prizes donated by merchants of Rockport, obtained through the efforts of Miss Elsie Hawes.

C. of C. Directors Discuss Possibility Of Annual Festival

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce gave serious thought to an annual festival for Rockport at their regular meeting, on the recommendation of the Tourist Promotion Committee.

Among ideas advanced for the two-day festival, if it becomes a fact, were a big ski show and barbecue; motor boat races; a beauty contest; a fishing rodeo; a band festival; and an air show.

The discussion followed an earlier meeting of the committee at which all the civic clubs in the area, except one, had met with members of the Chamber of Commerce to explore the possibilities.

In the director's meeting, it was suggested that if at all possible, such a fesival should be unique, and not in competition with events up and down the coast line.

It was also pointed out that band festivals in surrounding towns had been very successful in bringing many people to those communities, and that Rockport and Aransas County possessed one outstanding advantage that many of them did not have—the finest county airport in possibly all of Texas.

However, beyond approving the work of the committee, the directors did not go into detail on what form the festival should take, but did suggest that all people interested and with ideas along these lines should contact members of the committee, which is headed by James Kautz.

However, in an informal discussion after the meeting was adjourned, it was suggested that perhaps an air and boating program, with races, bands, and a parade might be of more than a passing interest.

Possible dates were suggested, with June or July being the favored season.

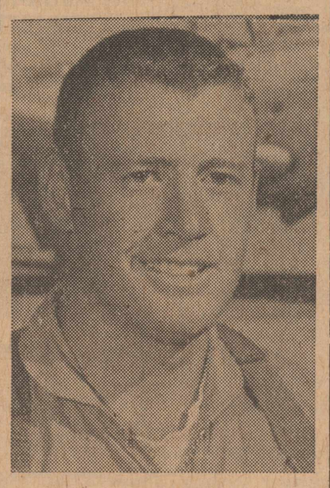

In other business, President Seth Steele appointed a steering committee for the annual barbecue given for the Aransas County Emergency Corps by directors of the Chamber. Those appointed were Charles La Bounty, Jack McCready, and Vernon Kleypas.

Kleypas, as chairman of the merchant's committee, reported that welcoming letters had been sent to 25 new people in the community, and that the program was meeting with excellent response.

Mrs. Mary Juergens, Chamber of Commerce manager, reported that one new member—Sandra Courts, had been received during the month.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gentry, of Houston, were house guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Sanders last week.

Loss Survey Conducted By Jaycees

As part of an exhaustive study of Hurricane Carla losses, made for the U. S. Engineers by the city and the Aransas County Junior Chamber of Commerce, it was determined that approximately 200 business houses in the area were damaged.

Time lost due to the hurricane amounted to approximately 16,000 hours the survey showed, with around 500 employees affected. The approximate value of employee wages lost, the survey showed, was $20,252, while production losses totalled $132,282.

Total costs of plant shutdowns amounted to approximately $96,960, and costs of cleaning up and starting all over again were around $100,000.

Wind damage to real property in the area was $72,840; losses to other property, including merchandise and stock were $46,664. Damage from rising water to real property was $56,444, while damage from the same cause to merchandise, stock and similar items totaled $253,840. Total property damage loss was estimated at $428,408.

These losses were exclusive of damage to roads, public buildings, municipal works, and navigation district damage to harbors, piers and other installations.

Navigation district authorities estimated their loss at approximately $140,000.

Aptitude Tests To Be Given At School Oct. 17

Preliminary scholarship aptitude tests will be given members of the Junior Class at Aransas County High School on Tuesday, Oct. 17, Principal A. B. LeFevre said this morning.

"In the past, we have given these tests to the seniors, but we are changing our policy," he stated. "By giving them to the junior class, we are able to aid students materially in preparing for further schooling during their senior year."

The tests are paid for by the school, and are offered by the College Entrance Examination Board to help students interested in going to college.

The College Board consists of schools and colleges that cooperate to help high school juniors and seniors make intelligent plans for college, and to make good college choices.

"While the major purpose of this test is to provide schools and students with useful guidance information," LeFevre said, "a number of sponsored scholarship programs also make use of the test scores in their consideration of candidates for their awards. The College Board makes the scores of the pupils available to sponsors when requested to do so, in order to avoid need for duplicate testing."

Two Starters Out Of Line Up For Calallen Game

Coach Dave Segler said he will have to start the Calallen game Friday with two starters out of the Pirate line up. Larry Iles is still incapacitated by a bad knee, and Eddie Steele, injured in the Bloomington game, will not be able to play.

"We're still a young ball club," Segler said, "and we sure lack speed and experience. But the boys have made a very definite improvement this week, and they've been working hard to perfect a defense against the Calallen Attack.

"Calallen uses an unusual combination of single wing and T-formation, and we've had to readjust our assignments to combat this. And the boys haven't forgotten that Calallen beat us last year. They lost every other conference game, but they won here, and our team hope that they can wipe out that defeat Friday night."

The Calallen team has one very fine tail back in Charlie McGee; they have good average team speed, plenty of weight, and a fine passer in Keith Sanford, with Bill Polk acting as his favorite receiver, Segler said.

They were undefeated until they started conference this year, then lost to Woodsboro 30-0, and Mathis 18-8. But they're still dangerous.

Rockport A. F. Station Plays Houston Sunday

Game time will be at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Aransas County High School. Admission fee.

The Rockport Rattlers have played three games so far this season. The record now stands one win, one loss and one tie. The Rattlers lost their first game to Sweetwater, 36 to 6 on Sept. 29. The next Sunday, Rockport defeated Houston, 34 to 6. This past weekend the Rattlers tied Ozona, 18-18. The tie was an official win for Rockport by one penetration.

Head Coach Ed Enderby says his Rattlers are in good condition and will be ready for Houston. Dallas Ford has been showing improvement at quarterback and has been doing some fine running on keeper plays and options. Ford has made four touchdowns this season, by running the ball over and passed to Willie Daniel and Gary Andrew for three scores. Hard runs by halfbacks Garrett and Mackey, have accounted for several yards gained and a touchdown for each man. The team needs more work on ball handling and defense. Fumbling has cost the Rattlers many yards and touchdowns, but surely they will improve by this weekend.

On Oct 15, they will play Sweetwater, here and this will be their toughest game. They have been spending quite a bit of time preparing for this game, and it should be a good one to see.

San Antonio Man Tells Plans for Frandolig

Hopes to Make Summer and Retirement Home Subdivision Over a Period of Five Years

Carl Kruger, of San Antonio, told the City Council at their regular meeting that plans for aquisittion of Frandolig Island and development of a summer and retirement home subdivision that will eventually number 500 homes, had progressed to the point that he hoped they would consider extension of the city's water and sewer system to take care of the subdivision.

The island, last large privately owned one on the Texas coast, now belongs to the Aransas County Navigation District, with whom Kruger is negotiating for purchase. It measures approximately 175 acres in extent, and lies offshore in Aransas Bay, between Rockport and Fulton.

Kruger and his associates plan to handle the development in stages, he said, with the first unit to comprise 199 homes.

"We will either sell lots," he said, "or we will build and sell homes, whichever the customer wants.

Included in the planning for the island is an extensive marina and club.

Approximate time for completion of the development will be five years, Kruger said.

The island, which varies from almost sea level to eight or nine feet in elevation, would be raised to an overall height of between six and nine feet, in five stages, with the necessary fill dredged from Little Bay, in which the Navigation Distict has already dredged an extensive small boat basin about a year and a half ago, and the dredging would extend this basin to the north.

Kruger told councilmen that he and his associates expect, if all goes well, to build streets and install utilities on the island, and if the city would be willing to extend water and sewer lines to join on to those which his group would construct.

The utilities would be deeded to the city on the island, which he hopes, will be annexed by the city, adding, eventually, a little over $1,000,000 to the present assessed valuation of $3,000,000 plus.

Engineers from the Corpus Christi firm of McClendon and Associates told the council that extension of the city's facilities to care for the first hundred homes would cost about $155,000. Of this, a pipeline to the island would use $122,500, while the additional sewage facilities would cost another $30,000.

As the development grew, the engineers stated, an additional $40,000 would have to be spent on 2 additional water wells, and additional elevated storage for water would cost another $50,000. Besides this, for every hundred-home unit developed, there would be an additional expenditure of $20,000 needed for extension of the city's sewage facilities.

In all, they said, total cost to provide adequate facilities to furnish water and handle the sewage of such a subdivision would probably amount to between $325,000 and $350,000 over a period of five to seven years, depending on the speed of the development.

Kruger estimated development costs as in excess of $1,000,000 if the island is developed, and said that lots would probly sell at anywhere from $3500 to $6500, depending upon location and desirability. Those on the waterfront and canals would be the most expensive, he pointed out, as they would be the choice lots.

Councilmen, after listening to his presentation asked for time to consider the matter, and explore methods of financing the utility extensions.

In other business, they set the same tax levy as for last year, $1.50 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Gray Says Schools Overcrowded

Supt. J. D. Gray told the Aransas County Independent School Board at their regular meeting that the most pressing problem facing local schools is lack of room.

"We normally count on a four parent increase in the student body every year," he said, "but this year we have had a 14% increase, using space that we had not counted on utilizing until 1964.

"The high school is overcrowded, with too great a teacher load in one or two instances; the elementary school at Rockport is crammed, and we haven't any place to put more students without doubling up in a number of instances. The only school that still has a little room left is Fulton Elementary, and if our population continues to increase it wont be long until we're out of room there."

He pointed out that steps should be taken to relieve this overcrowding, in order that students may be taught with full efficiency, and asked the board to study the matter thoroughly.

He also reported acquisition of a new school bus delivered this week as a replacement for one that is no longer serviceable.

In other business, the board renewed the contract with Thomas Y. Pickett and Company for valuation of oil and industrial properties in the district.

The board also agreed to have the chairs in the high school auditorium replaced; approved acquisition of three houses at old Cabaniss Field in Corpus Christi, to be moved here to enlarge school facilities, and heard a report on tax collections in the district.

Gray told them that the oil companies in the area had been most cooperative, and that 49% of the coming year's taxes, amounting to $211,204 had already been paid.

Rockport Elementary Library In Full Swing

The Rockport Elementary library is in full swing for the 1961-62 school year. It has received a number of new books to circulate to the students, through the Junior Literary Guild. The membership is within three groups, primary, early grades, and the middle grades. The books received for the months of September and October, are the following:

Gift of Hawaii, Laura Banno; What is Red?, Suzanne Gottlieb; Roger, the rosin back, B. Garbutt; From This to That, K. W. Jennison; Lion at Large, Richard Parker; Firm Hand on the Rein, Jack Steffen.

For usage in geography classes, the library also receives monthly, the Life series of the World Library. To date, the library as in its stacks, Russia, France, and Germany. The Junior American Heritage series has added its selections in the history section with the addition of "The California Gold Rush," "Pilgrims and the Plymouth Colony," "Pirates of the Spanish Main."

The fifth and sixth grade students were given the opportunity to purchase paperback books for their own personal libraries through auspices of the library. The response from the students was gratifying, and the students are now waiting for the receipt of their choices.

The library is looking forward to a well-rounded program, of enjoyment, learning, and understanding. The science project that was used in fifth and sixth grades will operate again this year, beginning next week.

A kick-off breakfast will be served to the drive workers by scouts at the VFW Hall, starting at 7 a.m. Tuesday. The breakfast will be prepared by Explorer and Boy Scouts and will be served by Cub Scouts.

Pirates Take 33-0 Beating

In the closing minutes of the Bloomington-Aransas County High School game last Friday, a spectator said:

"Can't we just forget about this and start in all over again," a sentiment that was shared by many as the Pirates took a 33-0 lacing from the fast and aggressive Bobcats.

But the local boys didn't play that bad a game. They played a lot of football, and played it well, but were outgunned from the start by a faster, tougher team that will probably take the 31A District championship.

The Bobcats unlimbered in a hurry, with a pass from Donnie Moore to Alfred Dwarsky which netted them 30 yards, and from then on they played in the Pirate backyard all night.

The combination of Moore's passing arm and the sparkling receiving by Joe Galvan and Dwarsky, and the hard running by the rest of the Bobcat backs kept the Pirates in a hole all night long, and racked up 33 points for the Bloomington team against none for the ACHS.

Starting on their own 15, the Bobcats marched 75 yards before they were set back on their heels by a fifteen yard penalty for holding, and finally wound up losing the ball on downs on the Pirate 4.

The Pirates quick-kicked and Galvan grabbed the ball and ran it back for 10 yards and a touchdown. Donnie Moore kicked the point.

In the second quarter, the Pirates struck back but the drive foundered when a pass from Jackson to Steele was intercepted by Galvan and the Bobcats took off again. Moore threw a screened pass to Mike Hutto who blasted away for 85 yards around the left side of his own line, making the second touchdown.

Shortly after the second half opened, another Moore pass connected with Dean Shafer for 6 yards and paydirt, and a little later, Moore rifled another to Dwarsky for a 26 yard pass and run play that made the Bobcats' fourth touchdown. Gerald Wynn made another two points as he raced the ball over on the try for point after.

The last touchdown of the evening came when Karl Rydolph made 2 yards through the right side of the line.

Defensive standouts for the Williams, Galindo, Lugo, McHugh, Wright, Steele.

CHECKS DUE MANY WORKERS WHO CONTINUE TO WORK

Some social security retirement checks may be due a worker after he becomes 62 years of age even though he continues to work in his regular job, according to L. H. Fuhrman, field representative of the Corpus Christi Social Security office.

The Social Security Act requires that a worker less than 72 years of age be retired before he can receive retirement benefit payments. The law also contains a clear statement of "retirement."

A person over 62 years of age may receive all of his social security benefit payments if he does not earn more than $1200 in a year; and, he may receive some payments even though he earns more than $1200 a year.

For the first $500 of earnings in excess of $1200 a year, the annual social security payments are decreased by only one dollar for each two dollars earned. Yearly earnings in excess of $1700 result in a dollar for dollar reduction in the benefit payments, Fuhrmann explained.

In addition to the yearly retirement provision, the law provides for the payment of benefits to a person who does little or no work during some months. This provision allows an individual to receive his social security check for each month in which he neither works for wages of more than $100 nor renders services in his own business, regardless of his total earnings for the year.

Some people who were told in the past that they could not receive peyments because they were earning too much may now receive some payments, Fuhrmann stated.

Persons interested in discussing their right to social security payments may telephone, write to or visit the Social Security Administration 530 South Water Street, Corpus Christi.

TEXAS LAWMEN

Major George Wythe Baylor
Ranger
". . the Apaches ran like a herd of deer . ."

George W. Baylor is said to be the first ardent secessionist to raise the Confederate flag in Austin, and he soldiered with distinction throughout the Civil War. However, Texans remember best his Ranger service on the western rim of the state. There, in 1879, a particularly vicious band of Apaches from Mexico, led by the notorious Victorio, was raiding and killing. Ranger Lt. Baylor was ordered to Ysleta to clean up the frontier. Accompanied by his wife and small daughter, he made the lonely six-hundred mile trek from San Antonio to Ysleta by mule and wagon. With Baylor's Rangers in action Victorio's days were numbered. His defeat and death ended the Apache terror for all time. Later, as a major, Baylor commanded a number of Ranger companies during the disturbance over fence cutting. After retiring from the Rangers in 1885, he represented El Paso County in the State Legislature, one of the many men of the Baylor family to leave their mark in Texas history.

Today in Texas so many of the good things in life are ours by right, and the industries that produce them are respected, just as we respect law and order. The brewing industry is one . . the producer of payrolls and community revenue as well as the refreshment of moderate beverages. In Texas, "Beer Belongs." Brewers, wholesalers and retailers, and the United States Brewers Association are working constantly in cooperation with today's lawmen, to assure the sale of beer and ale under pleasant, orderly conditions.

October Bride

Miss Sandra Gail Pounds Weds Terrance Ross Leary

Miss Sandra Gail Pounds, of Rockport, was married to Terrance Ross Leary, of Rockport, at 4:30 in the afternoon on Saturday, Oct. 7, in the chapel of St. John the Divine Episcopal Church in Houston. The Rev. Thomas Sumners performed the single-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with twin arrangements of white chrysanthemums.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Edward Pounds of 3749 Sunset Blvd., in Houston. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Ross Christopher Leary, of 137 East Terra Alta, in San Antonio.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an exquisite gown of white silk taffeta, an original design by Marie. It was created with a portrait neckline of scalloped Chantilly lace, re-embroidered in bridal jewels. Traditional long bridal sleeves of lace ended in petal points over the hands, and deep points of lace gave interest to the sculptured bodice. The ballerina-length circular skirt, appliqued in lace medallions in the front, was fashioned with a coachman's back, the cut-away revealing a panel of Chantilly lace with a pouffed bustle at the waistline. Her elbow-length veil, of silk illusion, was held in place by a crown of pearls. She carried a bocquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

Matron of honor was Mrs. John C. M. Thomas III. She wore a full-skirted chiffon and taffeta gown of rose pink, with a sculptured bodice. Her small headpiece was in harmonizing shades, with half-veil, and she carried a nosegay of roses.

Best man was Howard T. Lee of Austin, formerly of Rockport. Ushers were Thomas Wade Pounds, brother of the bride, and Capt. Donald Ray Burleson of Abilene.

A reception and buffet dinner followed the ceremony, at the home of the bride's parents. Members of the house party were Miss Terry McKenzie of Houston; Mrs. Howard T. Lee and Mrs. Harold Beasley of Rockport.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Houston, where she was a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority, an ROTC sponsor, and Sweetheart of Scabbard and Blade Military fraternity. The groom was graduated from the University of Texas, where he was a member of Chi Phi praternity.

For her going-away costume, the bride wore a suit of gray wool, with boxed jacket. Accessories of magenta, with shoes and bag of lizard, completed the ensemble.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will live in Austin, where the groom is associated with the Texas Game and Fish Commission.

Tom Jessee Addresses Woman's Club

Tired of sweltering in Oklahoma's summer weather, Tom Jessee came home one evening and proposed a move to cool Alaska; two weeks later he and Mrs. Jessee embarked on a two-year adventure which he shared yesterday with the Women's Club, showing colored slides and tinted photographs done by himself to illustrate his lecture. Mr. Jessee showed samples of different crafts in which the natives are skilled, such as basketry made from cedar bark or beach grass, ivory carvings made of walrus tusks and a miniature kayak made of seal skin.

Mr. and Mrs. Jessee lived on the shore of the open sea, 800 miles from the nearest town, receiving mail and supplies but once a month by a ship whose schedule was not always predictable. They learned to eat moose, caribou, seal and even to enjoy whale meat, and came to love the climate of 74° in the summer and zero or 10 below during the winter months. Surprisingly, there is very little snow and travel and sightseeing was not hampered.

Living among the natives the Jessee's learned of their ways and lore and in turn taught them to read and write and helped the Eskimos establish and maintain fishing and water rights as part of his work for the Department of the Interior in whose service Mr. Jessee was.

In spite of volcanoes erupting and brown bears sharing their yard, there were humorous moments too. Mr. Jessee's generator for his light supply was a building some distance from the house and needed to be shut off each night. While he had illumination going, the return trip back was in total darkness and to eliminate danger from roaming bears, Mrs. Jessee stood in the kitchen doorway and pounded a dishpan to frighten the beasts away.

That Mr. Jessee's program was interesting was evidenced by the numerous remarks and questions which followed.

DOVE SHOOTING IN SOUTH ZONE OPENED SATURDAY

Austin.—Dove shooting in the south zone was legal at 12 noon Saturday, Oct. 7, according to H. D. Dodgen, executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

Reports from many parts of the South Zone indicate a good crop of birds is available. Many birds have been observed south of San Antonio, into the Rio Grande Valley with the last 10 days.

Birds, however, are said to be scarce at present in the Houston area.

Hunters in North Texas, especially in the area west and south of Fort Worth, have found an increase of doves in the North Zone, during the past week.

The North Zone season opened Sept. 1, and will close Oct. 30. The South Zone will close Dec. 5, except in the Rio Grande Valley counties, where mourning doves were shot during the three-day whitewing season. There the season will end Dec. 2. The bag limit is 15 per day or 30 in possession.

Dove hunting is permitted in the afternoons only. All shotguns must be plugged to a limit of three shells.

First national presidential nomination convention in the U. S. was held in Baltimore in 1831.

LOADED GUNS IN AUTOMOBILES CAUSE ACCIDENTS

Austin. — Hunters today were warned against carrying loaded guns in their automobiles. J. B. Phillips, law enforcement coordinator of the Game and Fish Commission, points out it's very dangerous.

"Many accidents happen to persons who carry loaded guns in their cars," the director said. "During the hunting season we hear of many reports where persons have carelessly handled these guns, resulting in accidental discharge.

"Guns should not be loaded until the hunter is in the field, and then they should be checked to be sure the safety is on. There are other precautions, too, such as not climbing fences with loaded guns."

MEETING THE CHALLENGE OF A GROWING SOUTH TEXAS

Good electric service is our product. Experience, planning and good citizenship help keep it high in quality, low in price.

They're Living in 1965

Central Power and Light Company's planning engineers have to "live in the future." They must plan new facilities today to help fill your electrical needs tomorrow.

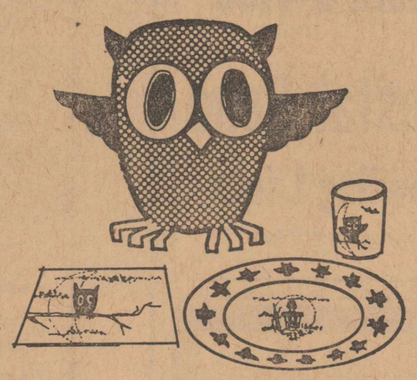

This long-range planning assures you of dependable electric service. Experienced men like these CPL engineers study statistics on a variety of area conditions to anticipate new and greater uses of electricity. Through their careful analyses, CPL is able to build the most modern facilities to insure efficient, dependable service.

It takes a long time to plan, build and equip power plants, substations and transmission lines. Right now, plans are on the drawing boards for major projects designed to meet your electrical needs in 1964, 1965 and the years beyond.

Because of this planning by the people at CPL, there has always been plenty of low-cost electricity for all South Texas. And there always will be. That's why there is no need for government-financed power projects, which spend your tax dollars to duplicate existing electric facilities.

Desert May Blossom In Time

Texas has, in the more arid portions of the state, a dollar potential that has never been realized, but that the marvels of industrial chemistry may one day release. This hidden resource lies within the desert vegetation itself, and the vast reaches of fertile soil which cannot be reached by water.

Here and there, of course, irrigation projects have reclaimed a part, but these man-made cases, like the Rio Grande Valley, present but a mere fraction of the arid lands. Exposition of irrigation from underground water sources is rapidly approaching an end, the experts say; in many areas falling water levels are of serious concern; in others, irrigation can be had only at enormous and probably impractical costs.

Population expansion has already reclaimed or used nearly all possible arid land; yet the world cries for more food and more room.

Utilization of our deserts may be, biologists say, part of the answer.

It is true, they point out, that, in many parts of West and South Texas where rainfall is scanty, ranching produces a considerable income. However, this is produced only through use of vast stretches of land.

Some scientists think that, through modern advances in knowledge and a much more intensive use, the same land can be made to support a larger population and to yield a greater return in dollars.

Any conventional approach to the problem is useless, they say, and we will never see the day when rain-making and irrigation will provide enough water for a widespread agriculture growing familiar crops.

Instead, if these areas are to be used intensively, new crops must be developed from plants already adapted by nature to the drying winds, the brilliant sun, the great variations in temperature and the scanty moisture of semi-desert or desert conditions.

Exploration for new desert plants in every part of the world, research to determine their possible usfulness, experimentation to determine their fitness as crops, all must be undertaken, the scientists state. Then, if such plants are discovered, they must, if possible, be adapted to conditions and a whole new science of agriculture be developed, before we can farm the dry lands of the south and west.

In any such program, research should, of course, begin with those plants already native to this area, and the possibilities of each be determined.

Fortunately, they are not without leads in this direction. The experience of native people who have dwelt in the deserts of the world and who have depended upon desert plants for their food, clothing, and even drugs, may point the way, through those people have never practiced agriculture in any form.

In our own deserts, they say, the records indicates that there are food-producing plants which supported a relatively large population of Indians. These same plants, improved by modern botanists and agronomists, and utilized to their utmost by modern science, might well furnish the basis of a desert agriculture, different from any the world has ever seen.

Among the many useful or interesting possibilities known to exist, there are a number that botanists think might repay some attention.

Various native tobaccoes have a delicate fragrance like some of the Turkish varieties. Species of bunchgrass, known as dropseeds, frequently produce crops of small grains heavy enough to bend over the plants. Indians ate these, and the scientists think that we might also, especially if they were improved by plant-breeding to an economically proftiable point.

Chia, a desert mint, has seeds that were used as flavoring, mush, and plants that produce dye, strong fiber, aromatic oils, and vegetable fats and waxes similar to that product of whaling days, spermaceti. Others produce insecticides, insect repellants, rodent poisons and repellants, antioxidents, antigerminants, possible weed killers, and many interesting toxims and drugs that might prove valuable in treatment of human ills.

Much research has already been done on some of these. Among plants that possess commercial possibilities or that are already being used commercially are a number of old and familiar friends. Candelilla or jumete produces a wax with a high melting point, used to harden other waxes. Hence it is a valuable ingredient of floor waxes, shoe polish, sealing wax, candles, electrical insulators, waterproof boxes and a finishing material in the textile industries.

Most candelilla wax comes from northern Mexico, but some comes from the Big Bend.

Bear grass or sacahuiste makes an excellent substitute for broom corn.

Century plants or agaves produce fiber and alcohol. South of the border one of them is called henequen and it does more tricks than an organ grinder's monkey. Parts of it are roasted and used as food, but one of its most ancient uses is that by which the placid peon procures his pulque. The flower bud is cut off, and the crown of the plant scooped out. Here the sap gathers and ferments, forming a beverage of undoubted power and conviction. Mescal, or liquid chain lightening, is distilled pulque, and yields the palm for potency to no other drink known to most people. A similar liquor, prepared by the Apache Indians from sotol before their murderous forays was known as tiswin.

The fibers of the henequen are prepared and sold as sisal, from which binder twine and sacking are manufactured.

Agaves are also possible sources of pectin, vitamin C, saponi and glucosides. Patents exist for their utilization in jelling compounds, toilet preparations, emulsifying agents, and boiler compounds.

From the cresote bush is prepared an antioxident, with a jawbreaking name — nordihydrogusiaretic acid, worth about $35 a pound. It is used for retarding rancidity in fats, oils and carotene. Furthermore, it has been estimated that the plant residue, after extraction of the antioxident, is a potential source of 200,000,000 pounds of resins, used in varnishes, and a million tons of protein each year.

Wild rhubarb, or canaigre, is a source of tannin, heretofore produced chiefly by chestnut and mangrove trees, and selection and improvement of wild canigre plants have greatly increased the tannin content, especially under irrigation. Canaigre tamins offer great promise in the manufacture of sole leather and oil well drilling muds. They also affer possibilities for production of an antibiotic against organisms of the tuberculosis type.

Yuccas, or Spanish daggers, furnish fiber for burlap and bagging, and a textile fiber alleged to be as durable as wool has been made from these members of the lily family. Some blossoms are also collected annually to make yucca perfume, and the flower stocks are made into sticks from which fire can be made without matches. Boy Scouts buy about $4,000 to $5,000 worth a year of these last.

Kraft paper of a special type has been made from yuccas for the U. S. Navy, and they have been suggested as a starting place for manufacutre of cortisone.

Guayule, a small gray desert shrub is the source of guayule rubber. A mill using this source was built at Marathon 50 years ago, and drew its supply of the plant from the Big Bend area, almost exterminating it in that region. And experimental plantings were once made near Carrizo Springs. Guayule adds desirable qualities to some synthetic rubbers when mixed with them, and, during World War II was particularly useful as a swelling inner layer for airplane fuel tanks, stopping leaks from bullet holes and other causes.

Jojoba or goat nut produces a valuable wax and edible seeds; wild gourds are being investigated as a source of domestic oils and protein crops; devil's claw is a source of edible protein and oil; mesquite products considered have been charcoal, tannin, thyl alcohol, stock feed, acids, sugars, plastics, gum-drops and mucilage. Prickly pear furnishes perfume, cactus jelly and cattle food; chola cactus, a gum; and other desert plants have yielded various alkaloids, essential oils and saponin.

Huisache, transplanted to France, forms the basis of a arge perfume industry in that country.

However, the surface has only been scratched, scientists say. Wonders have been accomplished in producing giant blueberries and other fruits. They think there is little reason to doubt that similar miracles can be accomplished with desert plants, if the same time and effort is devoted to their development.

The discovery of even one native species of plant that would make cultivation of the dry lands a profitable venture would pay enormous dividends to West nd South Texas.
