Formerly on the General Staff, the Massachusetts visitor has spent considerable time in Europe both during peace and war. He also has served at Texas posts upon several occasions. The younger Colonel Estes transferred to the Air Forces after earlier service in the cavalry.

Wallace Rejected By Vote Of 14-5

Committee Accents Rebellion By Shift Of RFC From Commerce Department

By TOM REEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — The Senate Commerce committee coldly rebuffed Henry A. Wallace today, voting 14 to 5 against his nomination as secretary of commerce and federal loan administrator.

The adverse report went to the Senate, where the nomination may be acted on early next week.

Critics of Wallace, contending the former vice president is without the experience necessary to handle the big lending agencies, are claiming 48 to 50 votes in the Senate—enough to beat him.

The committee's decision after hearing the deposed Jesse Jones and Wallace himself amounts to this: It sends President Roosevelt's nomination to the Senate with a black mark against it. Similar actions in the past, however, have had varried receptions by the full body which sometimes backs up its committees and sometimes overrules them.

RFC Is Divorced

At the same time, the commerce group decided, 15 to 4, to report out the bill of Senator George (D-Ga) stripping the Commerce department of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and all its subsidiary financing agencies.

This leaves the cabinet post only such routine bureaus as the Coast and Geodetic survey, the Census and kindred activities.

It was not made clear immediately which would get the green light in the Senate first—the nomination of Wallace itself or the George bill.

A similar measure divorcing the lending agencies from the department has been introduced in the House but leaders there say it will take considerable time for passage.

Wallace's Friends Busy

Jones was replaced by Wallace on Inauguration day, Mr. Roosevelt saying in his letter of announcement that he owed a political debt to the retiring vice president.

Despite the action in the Senate committee today, friends of Wallace continued to plump for him in the dual job.

An organization named the National Business Men for Wallace sent word to Vice President Harry Truman protesting that they had been denied a hearing in Wallace's behalf.

Nevertheless, Chairman Bailey (D-NC) asserted that the committee had received no demand from Wallace supporters for additional hearings.

The businessmen sent their word to Truman in a telegram signed by 250 men, including war contractor Andrew Jackson Higgins, J. Louis Reynolds and James

Gateways To Ruhr Open To Allies

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Jan. 26—All German resistance collapsed today west of the Roer river system at the gateway to the prize Ruhr industrial valley and the U. S. Ninth and British Second armies—with 35 miles of the Westwall behind them — seized assault positions only 25 miles from Dusseldorf.

The Ninth broke a six-week lull and pushed to the Roer on a five-mile front as the U. S. Seventh army far to the south threw a new German drive into reverse, erased all its northern Alsatian gains and lifted the threat to Strasbourg by driving the enemy back across the Moder river.

By nightfall the fighting had dwindled to sporadic machinegun and rifle fire along the entire 20-mile front.

Slight Resistance Met

The U. S. First and Third armies crushed virtually the last of the Ardennes wedge in Belgium and Luxemborug.

The Third army pushed eastward to a number of points where the enemy's December offensive kicked off, moved its lines up to within a mile or two of the German frontier along most of the Luxembourg front, and put five divisions on a ridge-top highway overlooking the Westwall.

The First Army to the north captured five more towns and edged eastward within two and a half to five miles of Germany against such light resistance that it was asserted officially German troop shifts to meet the Russians had definitely relaxed pressure in the west.

Hold On Roer Firm

In southern Alsace, French and American troops of the French First army fought into Houssen, three miles north of Colmar for the closest approach yet made to that stronghold in the Rhineland pocket. Other ground lost to counterattacks in this area was rewon.

On the front north of Aachen, Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson's Ninth army in a pre-dawn attack found the Germans had pulled out west of the Roer and reached the river 11 miles inside the Reich with such ease that a scheduled artillery barrage was cancelled.

At the same time, Scottish patrols of the British Second army mopped up the remainder of the sector to the north all the way to the stronghold of Roermond, where the Roer joins the Maas.

The combined action gave the Allies a firm hold on the west bank of the Roer and its tributaries from Roermond more than 35 miles southward on a giant arc to the area of Monschau.

Siegried To Rear

Roermond is 27 miles northwest of Aachen and Monschau is 19 miles southeast of the city.

Behind them was a 35-mile stretch of the Siegfried line, with its pillboxes and rows of concrete dragons teeth by which the Germans had hoped to balk any drive from the west along the historic invasion routes to the Reich.

Simpson's troops, by today's assault, reached the Roer along their entire front.

By noon his 202nd Infantry division, which made the attack, had nine casualties, none fatal.

The Germans had given up their last toe-hold on the west bank of the Roer, and blew their bridges

Soviets Trap 25 Divisions

Hindenburg Falls; Spearheads Probe Past Besieged Poznan On Two Sides

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 26. — The Red army today captured the Silesian stronghold of Hindenburg, biggest German city yet taken by the Russians, reached the Danzig Free State border, and trapped the battered remnants of perhaps 25 enemy divisions in East Prussia by driving a spearhead through to the Baltic coast.

The Germans said without Soviet confirmation that other Russian units had raced around both sides of besieged Poznan on the direct route through western Poland to Berlin, stabbing close to the Brandenburg province frontier. The nearest point to the German capital on this border is 91 miles due east.

On the 15th day of their powerful winter offensive the Russians were reported to have driven closer to the rim of besieged Breslau, Silesian capital, to have crossed the upper Oder river defense line and broken into Brieg, on the west bank 22 miles to the southeast, and also to have fought their way into Beuthen, five miles east of fallen Hindenburg, whose normal population is 126,000.

Moscow radio said that Breslau, Germany's eighth city and the greater Reich's ninth, had been "isolated" with with Russians cutting all direct communications into it, and also said that the Oder river had been crossed at several points.

Berlin said Russian troops in northern Poland had crossed the Bromberg canal west of Bydgoszcz (Bromberg), indicating that Marshal Gregory K. Khukov's First White Russian army units now were sweeping northward into the Polish corridor to widen the salient between the German homeland and the cut-off Junkers province of East Prussia.

It was Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army which broke through to the Danzig border and the Baltic coast to encircle East Prussia and threaten Konigsberg, its capital, from the rear.

One Russian spearhead captured the key rail town of Marienburg, on the Nogat river border of Danzig territory 24 miles southeast of the city and port of Danzig. Another, in a 14-mile advance north of Briensdorf, taken Thursday, occupied Tolkemit on the coast 28 miles northeast of Marienburg and 43 miles southeast of Konigsberg.

Elbing Under Attack

Tolkemit is on the Frisches haff, or Baltic lagoon, a five-mile-wide bay sheltered by a mile-wide strip of land running from Danzig to the Konigsberg area. The Russians had cut the last Berlin-Konigsberg rail links with the plunge into Marienburg and Tolkemit, and Berlin said Soviet troops were attacking in the southern part of Elbing, Baltic port mid-way between the two fallen points.

The town of Etuhm, seven miles south of Marineburg, and Mulhausen, 11 miles east of Elbing, also were swept up in the encirclement, operation.

Berlin frankly admitted that East Prussia now was cut off from the homeland except by sea, and said that the Russians already were attempting to cross the Nogat river into Danzig territory. To reach the city of Danzig the Russians also must cross the Vistula river near its mouth.

German home radio stations announced the evacuation of civilians from Danzig and the Polish corridor and said that ration cards issued in the provinces of Danzig and West Prussia would be valid elsewhere in Germany "from to-

Manpower Bill Threat Widened

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — A manpower bill laden with explosive issues headed today for an uncertain fate in the House.

Leaving the way open for amendments dealing with strikes, closed shops, and racial discrimination, the Rules committee scheduled the measure for House consideration next week after its members indicated keen dissatisfaction with its present provisions.

The committee's action came after disclosure that the military committee, which wrote the legislation, had first approved and then rejected an amendment that would have given statutory backing to the Fair Employment Practices committee created to prevent discrimination because of race, creed or color.

Another Amendment Sheared

The FEPC amendment came out of the bill, Representative Kilday (D-Tex) revealed at the rules session, in a compromise that also tore out an anti-closed shop amendment.

Kilday's disclosure brought from Representative Cox (D-Ga) the comment that there obviously had been "a little political horse trading."

The Rules committee's decision to permit unrestricted consideration of amendments at the conclusion of general debate ending probably late Tuesday made it virtually certain that the manpow-

Boss Pendergast Taken By Death

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 26 (AP)—Thomas J. Pendergast, 72, former Kansas City machine boss, died tonight at Menorah hospital.

The stocky Democratic boss who made governors and senators and whose nod of approval was sought by Missouri politicians for years before his downfall in May, 1939, had been in the hospital with an undisclosed ailment since Tuesday. He had been in poor health for some time.

It was in 1939, after years at the top of a political machine which ruled Kansas City, Jackson county and at times Missouri, that Pendergast was sentenced to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth for income tax evasion.

Built Powerful Position

Upon his release he was placed on probation for five years and forbidden to participate in any way in politics.

Pendergast, in 1911, took over a small political machine molded by a saloonkeeper brother, Jim Pendergast, and built it into a powerful force in Kansas City politics.

One of the men he supported was Harry S. Truman, now vice president of the United States. It was with Pendergast's help that Truman rose from Jackson county politics to a post in the Senate—a stepping stone to his present rank.

One of the men largely responsible for Pendergast's undoing was Lloyd C. Stark, Democrat whom Pendergast's machine sent to the governorship in 1936. Stark nam-

Advance On Luzon Is Key To East

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

STARTLING as is Russian success in snapping shut the East Prussian trap on a whole Nazi army and lunging to within less than 100 miles of Berlin along the direct road from Warsaw, all within two weeks time, an equally amazing spectacle presents itself to American eyes in the Philippines.

It is less than three weeks since General MacArthur's troops poured ashore in Lingayen gulf prepared to fight the battle of Luzon. Recapture of that great northern island or any substantial part of it including Manila bay would go far to pave the way for final defeat of Japan. Tokyo broadcasts conceded that the Philippines and especially Luzon and Manila bay were the key to the war in the Pacific, even to the war in China.

From MacArthur's up and down through the American military command the most desperate Japanese resistance yet encountered was fully expected. It has not yet come. Instead the Japanese command on Luzon has frittered away the lives of thousands of its men in a seemingly useless and certainly ineffective delaying action, incurring losses at a ratio of 10-to-1 against those inflicted.

In his stride down the west side of the wide and well watered valley that leads from Lengayen gulf to Manila bay MacArthur's advance guard has now reached, captured and passed Clark field and Fort Stotsenburg. The fate of the American and Filipino garrison that so gallantly and so long held out on Bataan and Corregidor no doubt was decided at Pearl Harbor, but it was in destruction

Unconfirmed Jap Report Hints New Blows

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

THE FIRST organized Japanese resistance to the American advance on Manila has been encountered by the Yanks south of the Bamban river, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported late Friday.

In his communique the general noted the resistance and said the Japanese had moved up artillery and brought Clark field, largest military airdrome in the Philippines, under fire. American capture of the field was announced Thursday.

Just where the Japanese were resisting south of the river, which flows near the Tarlac-Pampanga provincial border line northwest of Clark field, was not disclosed and there was nothing in the communique to indicate that Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, the Nippon commander-in-chief, had finally established a battle line.

Squeeze On Rosario

Doughboys were clearing the Japanese out of the hills to the southwest of Bamban town.

On the north in the embattled Rosario sector the Yanks secured high ground northeast of the roadside town. Other American elements swept over stubborn Japanese resistance through San Manuel, destroying 10 tanks. Putting a squeeze on Rosario from the south they captured the town of Cauringan, on the main road leading toward Baguio, the summer capital.

American airmen continued their strikes against Luzon airfields, lines of communications, supply areas, coastal and other defense installations. Bataan peninsula, scene of the heroic American-Filipino stand in 1942, was blasted together with Subic bay on Luzon's west coast. Batangs province, southwest Luzon, was bombed and the Tuguegarao air-

Slaton Chamber Gives Program

By WALTER SWITZER
Avalanche Staff Writer

SLATON, Jan. 26.—"The time to talk about winning the peace is while we are fighting," said Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor of Lubbock First Baptist church, in speaking here tonight at the annual banquet of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce in the County clubhouse.

Dr. Hereford said that after the war is won "we will not have time to think of winning the peace" because "we will not think of anything else except getting our boys back home."

He said the nation has a job to do in winning the war, but if it does not win the peace the memorials erected in memory of those who are dying in this war will be matched by those that would be built to those who perforce would die in World War III.

Mistakes Cited

"We have shown the world that we can make war," he said. "Let us show the world that we can make the peace."

Dr. Hereford pointed out that many people of this nation are afraid of our enemies and our allies, but there also is distrust of this nation. Other nations are afraid of us, he said, "because we let them down after the last war."

"If this nation had cooperated as it should have in peace conferences following the last war, there would not have been a World War II. If we are as earnest about winning the peace as we are in winning the war, we can prevent a recurrence of this war."

The speaker was introduced by W. R. Sewell, toastmaster.

Teacher Salary Bill Passed By Senate

AUSTIN, Jan. 26. (AP) — The Senate today passed its first piece of major legislation of the 49th session, to raise the salaries of some 15,000 rural aid teachers approximately $300 annually.

The vote was 26 to 0.

The measure was similar to House bill three, which was passed by the lower House body in the opening days of the session. The exception was the Senate reduced a provision for $60 maintenance per teacher to $30. The bill will now go back to the House for concerrence.

The measure, in addition to boosting teacher salaries and setting a $30 per teacher maintenance and operating top, also increases school bus transportation aid one dollar per scholastic and raises the amount of tuition $7.50 which is equivalent to one month's apportionment.

British Offer Figure To Prove Sacrifice

LONDON, Jan. 26. (AP) — Describing what it termed "a mobilization unprecedented in history," the British Ministry of Labor today said only 11,000,000 people between the ages of 14 and 64 had been left to carry on in homes all over England.

Out of 33,250,000 in this age, group, including women and children, ministry figures listed 22,250,000 of them as mobilized manpower.

Cancellation Of Points Charted

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP) — Acting to allay fear of another sudden invalidation, the OPA today set for housewives a definite policy on cancellation of food ration stamps.

Hereafter, the agency announced, red stamps for meats and fats and blue for processed foods will expire four months from the date of issuance. This replaces the program of indefinite validity for these coupons which had been in effect since last spring.

Sugar stamps also were given fixed expiration dates again. Number 34, now in use, will be invalid after Feb. 28. The next sugar stamp, number 35, will be valid Feb. 1 for five pounds and remain good through June 2. Sugar stamp number 36 is scheduled for validation May 1.

New Series Each Month

OPA will continue to validate a new series of red and blue stamps at the start of each month, usually five of each color at a time. Since they will be good for four months, this means that four blocks of each kind will always be in use, expiring on a staggered basis.

The first red and blue stamps to expire under the new system will be those which came into use Dec. 1 and 3, respectively. They will not be valid after March 31. They include:

Fuel Limitation Decreed In East

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. (AP) — —A coal shortage so severe it closed some schools and threatened more brought drastic fuel limitation orders today for homes as well as amusement places in the winter-struck northeastern states.

The Solid Fuels administration specifically denied that it was ordering closure of any schools, C. J. Potter, deputy administrator, saying its order "does not contemplate the closing of any schools if they have coal or can get coal. If they have ample fuel, it would be silly to shut down."

But Major Frank S. Harris in Albany, N. Y., ordered schools as well as libraries, museums, night clubs, theaters and bowling alleys to close Sunday until further notice.

Drastic Cut Urged

And Potter's telegram to city officials in Washington, D. C., St. Louis, and 16 states and part of another east and south of the Great Lakes said:

"During the emergency period . . . these officials are also urged to do everything within their power to curtail or eliminate the use of solid fuels in places of amusement such as theaters, moving picture houses, bowling alleys, night clubs, and in educational institutions such as libraries, museums, schools, and in any other building, public or private, where this can be done without endangering the health of the community."

The order from Secretary Ickes, solid fuels administrator, asked close controls over home deliveries in the area affected by a storm-caused embargo on non-war railroad freight. The rule was no deliveries to anybody having more than five days supply, and then only one ton or seven days sup-

Blaze Episode Clearing And Elliott's Chances Excellent

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. — The Senate Military commitee decided today upon separate studies of the exploits of Col. Elliott Roosevelt and the air travels of his dog Blaze.

Chairman Thomas (D-Utah), mentioning some of the colonel's citations for air force work, said he felt that the President's second son had "a very fine record" to support his promotion to Brigadier general.

The nomination will be considered Tuesday, he said, along with more than 100 other Army promotions which came over from the White House yesterday.

Thomas had little to say about Blaze, but a subcommittee headed by Senator Stewart (D-Tenn) will inquire later in the week into how the animal got a "top A" priority that bumped three service men off an Air Transport command plane early this month.

Senator Bridges (R-NH) said Major General George, head of the ATC, will be asked about it at the first meeting.

Saying he saw no reason for delaying Roosevelt's promotion pending the outcome of the priorities inquiry, Bridges pointed out

Ickes Unleashes Invective On Publisher Of Chicago Tribune After Tax Evasion Charge

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Secretary Ickes today described as "a strange admixture of smearing tactics and politics of a low order," statements that he had obtained an $8,500 tax reduction on a Chicago building by filing an "erroneous" affidavit.

County Assessor John S. Clark contended in Chicago that Ickes obtained the tax reduction for 1943-44 on the building through an affidavit claiming he received $24,000 rent from a three story building whereas he actually received $61,350 on a five story building.

In a formal statement Ickes declared that "never, to my knowledge, did I at any time make an affidavit to the board of tax appeals."

"Out in Chicago the select 'More Calumny for Ices club,' headed by Bertie McCormick of the Chicago Tribune, is brewing another tempest in a teapot," Ickes statement said.

"This time the faked issue seems to be my real estate taxes, which I am accused of evading to the tune of $8,500.

"Here is a strange admixture of smearing tactics and politics of a low order. The comic relief lies in the fact that the hue and cry is led by that upright citizen, the publisher of the Chicago Tribune, which corporation indignant citizens have tried to reach through the courts for years on the allegation of tremendous tax evasions, principally that the expense of the school children of Chicago."

In Chicago Col. R. R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Tribune, issues this statement in reply to Ickes:

"He apparently has been caught in a criminal act and I am not going to let him avoid the consequences of it by dragging my name into it."

DEAR:—

Suggestions for a postwar building program in Lubbock were made at the luncheon meeting of Kiwanis club Thursday noon that commemorated the club's local observance of the 30th anniversary of Kiwanis clubs. Clark M. Mullican, principal speaker, suggested the most pressing need of the city is a "magnificent coliseum" and advocated the site of Central Ward school for such an enterprise.

Later Thursday at a meeting of the city commission a group representing the club outlined a proposition which envisages the building of a civic center, dominated by a magnitudinous all-purpose building. As a result, special election may be called within the next few months to determine whether or not the city shall issue bonds to purchase the grounds and adjacent lots of the school.

The school board has placed the property on sale for a purported price of $250,000.

Of course it may be several years before the building program could get underway, but in the meantime it is thought advisable for the city fathers to take the matter under serious advisement. As it was pointed out, it is the only remaining location for future development as a civic center which might house a library, club rooms headquarters for Boy Scouts, the Red Cross, etc.

Lubbock Army Air field will soon have added to its facilities a prisoner-of-war camp capable of housing and keeping 250 prisoners of war, George H. Mahon, member of Congress from the 19th Texas district, telegraphed the Lubbock Morning Avalanche this week.

Whether or not South Plains Army Air field, which is to be "inactivated" by the Army Air Forces Feb. 15, will become in its entirety, a prisoner of war camp has not been officially announced. However, from out-of-town sources the Avalanche has been advised that plans are underway to fence and otherwise change the field for use as a prison camp.

Relatives have received a number of messages this week from Lubbock servicemen who are Japanese prisoners of war.

Rest Camp For 36th Is Something Super

TEMPLE, Jan. 26 (AP) — The Texas 36th division now has a second rest camp somewhere behind the battle lines. And according to the "T-patch," the division's newspaper published somewhere in eastern France, it's a G.I.'s idea of what a rest camp should be.

Clippings from the "T-patch" sent to the 36th division memorial commission say that the chief attraction is a Roman bath. Here men who have spent well over 100 continuous days in the line lie in a pool of hot natural springs water and "just plain make up for all the baths they been missing."

There are new clothes from head to foot for every soldier, a dining room with china dishes—no bringing a mess kit for chow—and waitresses too, lounges and reading rooms, two shows daily at the movie house, and a snack bar to replace the old corner drug store at home.

The five hotels which make up the rest camp have been renamed for the five men of the 36th who have won the congressional medal of honor—The Wise, The Logan, The Crawford, The Bjorklund, and The Kelly.

Audience Is Fervently Appreciative Of Concert By Isabel, Silvio Scionti

Isabel and Silvio Scionti, duo-pianists, scored heavily in an exacting program and established themselves as gifted as any duo-piano team ever to appear here when they appeared in concert Thursday night in Senior High school auditorium.

The audience was large and was feverently appreciative and demanded encores continuously in testimony to the compelling Scionti' spell.

Perhaps most eyes were on Isabel Scionti, who despite the inconvenience of suffering from a severe cold, overcame the difficulties of the masterpieces in a breathtaking manner. But her husband also came in for a full share of appreciation. Their playing is as one person at two keyboards.

Their expert sense of style and comprehension of the Bach numbers was of such poetic quality it must have inspired many in the audience to resolve to return to the keyboard.

The group of modern selections which included "Tango At Midnight" (Simmons) and "Brazileira" (Milhaud) was especially appealing to young members of the audience and the "Polka" by the Russian composer Schostakowitsch and arranged by Luboshutz (who incidentally appeared here several seasons ago) was one of their most vivid performances.

Sweetness and clarity marked the closing scheduled numbers by Rubinstein "Romance" and "Staccato Etude" transcribed by Mr. Scionti.

Encores included "La Cucaracha," "Chicken Reel," "Turkish March" and "The Blue Danube."

Mrs. Scionti, a slight figure, wore a cream moire satin gown and a wreath of flowers in her light brown hair. Mr. Scionti, who introduced the encores, seems gifted with a sense of humor and both seemed highly appreciative of their clamoring audience.

Lubbock and Allegro Music clubs sponsored the concert.

Honoring the musicians the two clubs entertained with a reception in the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. McLeod, 1901 Thirty-third following the concert.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Marlin R. Smith, jr., Mrs. McLeod, Mrs. Fred Litton, president of the Lubbock Music club, Mrs. Elois Elliott, president of the Allegro Music club and the guests of honor.

Assisting in hospitalities were Mesdames F. C. Stanley, C. N. Hallmark, Stuart McCallum, John Watson, Don Mitchell, Gordon Treadaway, James Vickers, Lloyd Croslin, Chester Elliott, Charles Webster, Dewey George, Misses Hattie Herm, Etoile McLeod, Nell Verna Lemond and Mary Wilson.

The refreshment table was covered with a white, embroidered cloth and centered with an arrangement of gladioli.

Musicians Pleased

Aptly expressing the appreciation of Lubbock musicians, Miss Margaret Huff said, "It was as a whole a wonderful demonstration of music as the universal language."

Commenting on range of the program from the intricate fugues of Bach to the tempting rhythms of neighbors below the border, she pointed out the first part of the program was from the severely classical school, with numbers from Vivald-Saar and Bach. "The audience listened with deep interest but not until after the intermission and the versatility of the performances began to unfold did the audience show its spontaneous approval."

"From Bach's 'Sheep May Safely Grze' to Rubinstein's 'Romance,' the musical thought was brought out in a manner that made the meaning clear to the listener though only a lover and not a student of music."

Negro Nurses To Be Taken By The Navy

NEW YORK, Jan. 26. (AP)—Rear Admiral William J. C. Agnew, acting chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, U. S. Navy Medical corps, said that the Navy planned to accept negro nurses.

Agnew and Maj. Gen. George F. Lull, deputy surgeon general of the Army, spoke at a meeting sponsored by the New York Times.

In answer to a question, Agnew said of the negro nurses: "If they meet the requirements they will be given the same consideration as white applicants."

Agnew also said the Navy may relax its ban against acceptance of married nurses as recruits. He added that the Navy is considering reinstatement of nurses discharged because they married while in the service.

Lull said: "At the present time we have approximately 42,000 nurses in the Army. We have been authorized 50,000 nurses and that authorization will have to be increased to meet our needs."

Texas Oil Workers Go Back To School

AUSTIN, Jan. 26. (AP)—Workers in Texas oil fields which are supplying a heavy volume of petroleum for war have gone back to school to bring themselves up to date on methods.

The University of Texas bureau of industrial and business extension training, under direction of James R. D. Eddy, has held 65 classes for 1,400 employes in the last 12 months.

This bureau, in co-operation with the state board for vocational education, has been holding training conferences and classes on problems peculiar to the various areas.

In the Permian basin area, a study of the problems of pressure maintenance has been of principal importance; in the Panhandle, repressuring problems have been uppermost in the classes; and in the East Texas (Kilgore) oil field, the intrusion of salt water has been the problem.

Cigaret Seekers Are Cause Of Stampedes

NEW YORK, Jan. 26. (AP)—It's as though Dorothy Lamour were giving away kisses at an Army base.

Let one package of cigarets be slid across a counter and the stampede is on. Traffic has been blocked and passersby trampled by the crowds that collect whenever the "no cigarettes" sign comes down.

Dealers have yet to find a means of spreading limited supplies to accommodate the largest possible number of customers.

"Our stores sell cigarets for three one-hour periods a day as long as they last," said the sales head of a chain with 86 stores "We try to arrange it so office workers, night workers and everybody else will have a chance.

WPB To Tighten Screws On Army And Navy Munitions Procurement

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP) — To cure production lags caused by tardy delivery of parts to war plants, the War Production board has asked the armed services to make contracts at once for the full year ahead.

The move reflects Chairman J. A. Krug's belief that armament policy should figure on European hostilities running into 1946.

Some "serious delays" have threatened, said his memorandum to the Army, Navy and Maritime commission, because the government and prime contractors, in recent months of military optimism, failed to order far enough ahead.

This development came to light shortly after Krug disclosed a series of new steps—aimed at both military and civilian activity—to limit manufacturing and construction in tight labor areas. The program, made public last night, requires:

1. That no new "spot" authorizations for civilian goods manufacture be granted in any "group 2," or potentially serious, labor shortage area after about mid-February. This would affect some 77 cities in addition to the 125 industrial areas where the suspension already is in effect.

To Review Building Projects

2. That building projects already approved be reviewed and, if they are using construction labor needed to build critical new war plants, halted for the time being.

3. That WPB approval be obtained before the placement of new war contracts of $100,000 or more in acute shortage areas—the 72 cities classed in "group 1" by the war manpower commission—if the contract would mean new hiring.

This last encroachment on the procurement power of the armed services, ordered effective February 1, is intended to prevent the piling up of new war contracts in cities where manpower resources already are strained.

day onward."

The Nazi gauleiter in Danzig, Albert Forster, also called upon Home army recruits to report quickly at West Prussian mobilization centers in an effort to halt the Russians.

German troops in East Prussia now have been caught in a circular sack of about 4,000 square miles, having now lost most of the province.

The Fortress capital of Konigsberg not only was menaced from the rear by Rokossovsky's troops but also by Gen. Ivan Chernlakhovsky's Third White Russian army now held a 115-mile line almost straight through the heart of East Prussia from the Baltic coast down through Johannisburg near the Polish frontier, and the fall of Lotzen, where a surrounded German garrison held out successfully in the First World war, broke the main link in the enemy's defenses built on the extensive chain of Masurian lakes. Lotzen is between Maurer see and Spirding see, the largest lakes in the defense belt.

Subsidy Abolition Favored By Jones

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. (AP)—War Food Administrator Marvin Jones said today he favored gradual abolition of farm subsidies after the war, but believed farm prices should be maintained near present levels.

His statement before the Senate Banking committee brought from Senator Taft (R-Ohio) the comment that if subsidies were abolished either consumer food prices would have to rise or farm prices go down.

Jones excepted from the subsidies he would abolish those which may be used in connection with foreign policy, such as export subsidies.

Luker Resigns As Lubbock's Auditor

Resignation of R. B. Luker, for the last two years auditor for the City of Lubbock, has been accepted by the city commission and is effective Feb. 1, said City Manager Marlin R. Smith, jr. Mrs. Leila Ashford, chief assistant in the department, will assume the duties of acting city auditor.

Luker, who was with the state comptroller's office before coming here in August, 1942, has accepted a position with the Paul Faulkner ice plants and grocery stores in Lubbock and Littlefield. He will continue to make his home here.

Mrs. Ashford has been in the auditor's office the last 14 years and held the position of acting city auditor before Luker was employed.

Wallace Rejected

H. McGill, chairman of the board of McGill Manufacturing company.

Wallace Noncommittal

Wallace, informed in New York about the committee action, merely commented.

"I said all I had to say yesterday."

The committee vote came on a motion by Senator Overton (D-La) to report the nomination favorably. Overton was joined by Senators Bilbo (D-Miss), Mead (D-NY), Pepper (D-Fla), and Magnuson (D-Wash). Against it were Democrats Radcliffe of Maryland, Bailey, O'Daniel of Texas, McCarran of Nevada, Chandler of Kentucky and McClellan of Arkansas; Republicans Johnson of California, Vandenberg of Michigan, Brewster of Maine, Wiley of Wisconsin, Robertson of Wyoming, Burton of Ohio, Cordon of Oregon and Brooks of Illinois.

Bilbo, Mead, Pepper and Magnuson were against reporting the George bill.

President Tied

If this measure passes, the federal lending agencies would be grouped in a separate and independent category. It has a proviso specifically prohibiting the President from transferring them back to the Commerce department.

One of Wallace's long-time friends in the administration, Treasury Secretary Morgenthau meanwhile urged that Wallace be given the whole job.

In contrast to Jesse Jones' statement that Wallace is not qualified for a banking job, Morgenthau said he was a "Yankee businessman with the horse sense to recognize that we are living in a world of change."

Discussion Set On Civic Center

Presidents of the various service clubs in Lubbock will meet at noon today in Hilton hotel for a luncheon and round-table discussion of the recommendation that the city purchase the Central Ward school site for a coliseum and civic center, it was announced Friday night by William C. Wood, president of the Kiwanis club, sponsoring organization.

Wood said that circulation of a petition to effect a called election on a bond issue to provide construction funds had not begun.

Endorsement General

Wood and other representatives of the club appeared before the city commission Thursday and asked that the city consider purchasing the property. The commissioners agreed to ask the board of trustees of the Lubbock Independent school district for an option on the property until they could check further into the matter.

The board has set a purchase price of $250,000.

Meanwhile, came statements from Lubbock citizens endorsing the suggested project.

Dr. Weston A. Petley, president of the Lions club, said, "I am extremely enthusiastic about the plan. I think it is definitely in reach of the city with the help of the civic clubs. I see no reason why we shouldn't accomplish far in excess of our dreams of such a center. I pledge the entire support of the Lion's club to the work of accomplishing the center."

Jimmy Wilson, president of American Business club, said, "It sounds like a very fine idea to me. I think the Kiwanis club can depend 100 per cent on the ABC to support the idea. It is a very good movement and we've needed something like the proposed center for a long time to help us carry on our civic programs. It would also be a fitting memorial to Lubbock's men in service."

Mrs. L. L. Miller, president of the City Council of P-TA, "It's a very worth while project and such a building would be a splendid memorial to our men in service."

M. L. Shepherd, president of Optimist club, "Offhand I would say that the city certainly is in need of a civic center and auditorium and it seems to me there couldn't be a better location. The price is high, but with the city buying it, the price might not be too objectionable."

Mrs. A. W. Young, president of the City Federation of Women's clubs, "I am heartily in favor of the plan. It is a desperately felt need for Lubbock's post-war development, Since I have been interested in civic affairs, I have felt that Central Ward was an ideal location for a civic improvement of this type, and I feel that the city-county library should be incorporated with the expressed plans for a civic auditorium with clubroom facilities."

Cliff Cummings, president of Junior Chamber of Commerce, "I feel that this proposal for a city auditorium has been the greatest civic need we've had and that since Lubbock has grown to its present size, we certainly need a civic center in our post-war plans."

Clarence A. Bestwick, president of Lubbock Rotary club, also commended the idea. Said he: "There is no doubt that one of Lubbock's greatest needs could be served by the proposed civic center project. The location is ideal. The Kiwanis and city officials are to be commended for this project."

Issue On Rainey Is Checked To People

AUSTIN, Jan. 26. (AP) — Three new members of the board of regents of the University of Texas today asked the people of the state to express their sentiments in the controversy over administration through the Senate, which faces confirmation or rejection of a majority of the board.

The board voted six to one to reject a petition seeking reinstatement of Dr. Homer P. Rainey as president.

The three new members present today were Dudley K. Woodward, of Dallas, chairman, David M. Warren of Panhandle and Dr. C. O. Terrell of Fort Worth. They voted to reject the petition for Dr. Rainey's reinstatement.

There are only three holdover members of the board of nine whose names will not eventually be confirmed or rejected by the Senate. They are W. Scott Schreiner of Kerrville, Orville Bullington of Wichita Falls, and D. F. Strickland of Mission. They voted Nov. 1 and again today against Dr. Rainey.

The other member present was Mrs. I. D. Fairchild of Lufkin. Her successor has not qualified because of the delay in Senate action on confirmations. She voted Nov. 1 against Dr. Rainey's discharge, and for his re-election today.

Pendergast Dies

ed a new Kansas City election board which halted ghost voting in Kansas City elections and also declined to reappoint the Pendergast appointee for insurance commissioner—R. E. O'Malley. An investigation into an insurance rate settlement approved by O'Malley brought to light fraud and bribery.

Ran Corrupt Empire

At Pendergast's income tax evasion trial the government charged that the boss had received a $315,000 "cut" in the illegal settlement.

U. S. District Attorney Maurice Milligan recounted that Pendergast had bet $2,000,000 on the horses in 1935 with a net loss of $600,000.

In the lush days just before Pendergast's downfall, Kansas City was known as a wide open town, with gambling openly permitted in night clubs, strip tease waitresses in more than one cafe catering to the tired business man, and a flagrantly open red light district.

This ceased abruptly with Pendergast's downfall and the overthrow of the machine by irate citizens who formed an Independent party.

Some of Pendergast's henchmen were sent to jail, a few died by their own hand, others were disgraced.

When the boss went to prison his nephew, James M. Pendergast, who long had worked with his uncle, took over direction of the Democratic machine which still is active in Kansas City politics.

General Election May Be Called In Canada

OTTAWA, Jan. 26. (AP)—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King has made a "practically final" decision to dissolve Parliament and call a general election in Canada toward the end of March or during the first week of April, the Ottawa Journal said today.

Such a step would be an indirect result of Canada's conscription problem. Although King has stated frequently that he did not want to hold a general election during the war, recent developments have altered the situation.

Few Cases Left On Court Docket

Most of the criminal docket for the current term of Judge G. V. Pardue's 99th district court has been disposed of, officials announced Friday.

A jury Thursday found Charlie Moore, not guilty of theft on Dec. 2 of $75 in money, war bonds and checks from R. G. McNeely, Monroe man. Walter Price was foreman.

James Ross pleaded guilty of the same charge that named Moore and was assessed by Judge Pardue a two-year term in the penitentiary.

Dyer Case Dismissed

The case of Johnnie Dyer, charged with theft of $75 from McNeely, was dismissed.

Moore, Ross and Dyer are negroes.

Another black, Ernest McNeil, Monday was given a three-year term in each of four cases—three charging forgery by alteration and one possession of a forged instrument. McNeil pleaded guilty to the charges, which also were in connection with checks allegedly taken from McNeely. The sentences are to run concurrently.

One Indictment Dismissed

Court officials announced that one of two indictments naming Luis E. Romo, of which one resulted in a three-year prison term, had been dismissed. Romo was sentenced on the indictment alleging he shot Pilar Turrubiartez. The other charge alleged he shot at Juan Ariaz, who was not hit.

Originally set for trial at this session of court, two cases of receiving and concealing stolen grain against George Fulcher, a negro, and theft cases against Thomas Watson and Willie Lee Hervey are still pending, officials said.

Three cases were re-set for Feb. 21. Officials listed them as Jasper Fortman, assault with intent to murder Henry Woodford last May 2, and E. A. Fox, forgery.

Belgium Coal Strike Threatens Suffering

BRUSSELS, Jan. 26 (AP)—Belgium appeared tonight to be heading into her gravest coal crisis of the winter with canal ice immobilizing freight barges and strikes breaking out in the coal fields.

Six thousand miners walked out in the great Charleroi coal fields and another 12,000 were reported idle between Charleroi and Mons. Fragmentary reports reaching Brussels said that one group struck in protest against the failure of a barge-load of flour to arrive as promised.

Northeast Gripped By Sub-Zero Wave

Biting cold weather held its grip on the northeastern United States Friday night but the worst apparently was over.

Sub-zero temperatures, general since Wednesday slowed transportation and added to a fuel shortage that became critical in many communities.

Westerners Play Slaton Tonight

The Lubbock Westerners take on their next to last warmup for next week's start of play in defense of their District 1-AA cage championship tonight as they tangle with the powerful Slaton five tonight at the Westerner gym. There will be an A and B game, with the curtain raiser scheduled for 7:30 o'clock.

There has been very little known about the Slaton club, but the team is rated as one of the fastest teams on the South Plains, and has been very successful this season.

Coach Dixie White said Friday night that his club would take the floor with the same five starters who have started the last two ball games, but that he expected to add much scoring punch to the club with the addition of another performer who has been showing up well in workouts.

Lawrence Balch, who has been playing at the Boys club, and is also well known here as a junior baseball star and last week won the Tahoka boxing tournament championship in the lightweight division.

Balch has been very impressive in workouts since the youngster reported to Coach White, and has been showing a deadly sharpshooting eye for the basket from both near and far.

Balch has been playing guard, and will not start tonight, but he will be ready to step into the lineup and crowd somebody for a starting berth. The regular starters will be Gerald Davis and R. W. Moyers at forwards, Verdell Turner at center, and George Brewer and Charles Pressley at guards.

The Slaton club has been winning consistently this season, according to reports, and holds a 38-30 decision over the powerful Tahoka Bulldogs. The visitors are expected to give the Westerners one of the toughest tests they have faced this season.

Idalou Cagers Take All Three At Slaton

SLATON, Jan. 26 (Special) — The Idalou Wildcats clawed their way to three wins in a row over the Slaton High school cagers here tonight, the Idalou junior boys winning a 26-16 victory in the opener, the girls taking the semi-final, 32-12 and the Idalou boys A team winning the finale, 38-31.

In the opening game, Steely paced the winners with nine points, and Heinrich followed with seven. Gentry, Roberts and McCormack paced the losers, each with four points.

Capshaw set a fast pace for Idalou in the girls game, pouring in 15 points. Bartley, with six, and Woodford, with five, paced the losers.

The finale was a thriller all the way, with seven boys battling for the scoring honors of the game. Becknell of Idalou and Huckaby of Slaton gained the honors, each with ten points. Close on their heels came Isom, Bishop and Benson, all of Idalou, and Hanna and Burnett of Slaton, all with eight points.

Matador Five Shades Crosbyton In Thriller

CROSBYTON, Jan. 26 (Special) —In one of the hardest fought games of the season, Matador High school cagers nosed out a strong Crosbyton High school team, 31 to 29, with a field goal in the last few seconds of the game. The score at the end of the half was tied, 17 to 17.

Simmons of Crosbyton paced the scorers, accounting for 11 points. Close behind him were Willett of Matador with 10, and Collier of Crosbyton with nine.

In the "B" game, Matador defeated Crosbyton, 20 to 11, and in the girl's game, Matador was again victorious, winning by a score of 23 to 11.

Fuel Shortage Hits At Sporting Events

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. (AP) — Such wartime indoor sports as basketball games, Madison Square Garden events, hockey and fights apparently were temporarily frozen out today in 16 states.

The solid fuels administration announced further restrictions on the use of coal in states east and south of the Great Lakes, due to a log-jam of winter-struck freight traffic.

The announcement urged curtailment or elimination of the use of coal in places of amusement.

Lee Oma Stages Big Upset On Joe Baksi

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP) — Heavyweight Lee Oma, of Detroit, less than a year ago small time in the boxing world, scored a major upset tonight by decisively outpointing Joe Baksi in a 10-round bout before a packed house at Madison Square Garden.

Fort Worth Pro Takes Golf Lead

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 26 (AP)—Slender Raymond Gafford put a double dose of Texas into the Texas Open today as the Fort Worth professional slipped in with a five-under-par 66 to lead favorite Byron Nelson by a stroke at the end of the first round.

Nelson, the war bond wealthy transplanted Texan now getting his mail out of Toledo, O., had sprayed six birdies on the tough Brackenridge course for a 67 an hour before the tall, easy-talking Gafford came in with a 32-34 that stood up under the bombardment of a field cut to 150 players by first day withdrawals.

Gafford, little known outside this state and winner of no major tournaments, had five birdies and not a bogey and he didn't miss a green. He had only 32 putts.

Tied for third place were Tex Consolver of Wichita, Kans., and Frank Stranahan, amateur from Maxwell Field, Ala., each with a 68.

Next in line with 69's were Sam Schneider of Corpus Christi, Leland Gibson of Randolph Field, Toney Penna of Dayton, O., Sam Byrd of Detroit and Harold (Jug) McSpadden of Sanford, Me.

Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N. Y., National Open champion and one of the top-rated men in this tournament, had "spectator trouble"—that is his ball hit a couple of spectators—costing him heavily and he came in with a five-over-par 76.

Bob Hamilton of Chicago, National P. G. A. champion, shot a one-over 72, the same score posted by Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., defending Texas Open champion.

Former Tech Gridder Pictured In "Life"

Texas Tech was given world wide publicity this week in the issue of "Life" magazine that hit the local newsstands Friday morning as the popular weekly picture magazine devoted a double page spread to the Spaghetti Bowl, and pictured a former Tech grid star, Edward J. "Jack" Shanks.

Shanks, who lettered at Texas Tech as a guard and tackle in 1939 and 1940, played fullback in the big game of the day in the Mussolini stadium in Florence, Italy, on Jan. 1, and was one of the stars of the ball game.

He was pictured in the magazine while receiving the plaudits of the band's drum majorette following the ball game.

Shanks came to Texas Tech from Monahans, where he played high school football. He played freshman ball at Tech in 1937, and was on the varsity club in 1938, but did not letter. He was also a tennis champion while at Texas Tech.

Babe Likes Idea Of Match For Charities

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26. (AP) — Babe Didrikson Zaharias, the longest hitter in women's golf, is amenable to former National Champion Betty Jameson's suggestion that they get together in match play for war charities.

"I think it's a fine idea, but Texas is a long way off," said the Babe, referring to the suggestion the match be played in her home state. "I'd like to play a series of matches with Betty in various cities. In Chicago, or in Los Angeles, we'd draw big crowds, and the idea is to raise as much money as possible."

BAYLOR STAR TO NAVY

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 26 (AP)—Lt. Joseph William Patterson of Hillsboro, Tex., former Baylor grid star, reported for assignment to the Naval Air Technical Training center at Norman today. He is a survivor of the sinking of the carrier Gambier Bay last October. Lt. Patterson's wife lives at Alamo, Tex.

PROS SIGN STARS

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 26 (AP) — Miami's All American league pro team has signed four members of the Fort Pierce Naval Amphibious Training base's undefeated and untied 1944 grid team. Signers include Don Cohenour, former tackle with the University of Texas.

New York Yanks Ball Club Sold

NEW YORK, Jan. 26. (AP)—Control of the vast New York Yankee baseball empire today passed into the hands of Col. Larry MacPhail, Capt. Daniel R. Topping and Del Webb of Phoenix, Ariz., for an estimated purchase price of $2,800,000.

Real estate including the Yankee stadium and Ruppert stadiums at Newark and Kansas City were included in the deal as well as their respective franchises and those of Binghamton, N. Y., in the Eastern League and Norfolk, Va., in the Piedmont league.

Many Players Involved

Almost 400 players, 269 of whom are in the service on the organization's national defense list, went with the deal which was concluded shortly before a late afternoon press conference.

The 86.88 per cent of the stock administered by the Manufacturers Trust company in behalf of the three heirs of the late Jacob Ruppert brought $2,500,00 in cash, according to Wilfred Wottrick, vice-president of the trust company.

MacPhail said he concluded the deal for the 10 per cent owned by President Ed Barrow for an indefinite sum "between $300,000 and $500,000" but that George E. Ruppert, brother of the former owner, did not sell his holding amounting to 3.12 per cent of the stock.

Barrow will continue as chairman of the board of directors and will continue to be acting president until MacPhail is placed on the Army's inactive duty list Feb. 10. When the colonel is out of uniform he will become president and general manager of the club.

McCarty To Stay

Manager Joe McCarthy will continue to boss the club on the field and no changes are anticipated in the organization's personnel. McCarthy signed a three-year contract in 1944 and George M. Weiss, secretary of the club and head of the vast farm system, has a contract paralelling Barrow's which has three years to run.

Wottrick said the sale was "not in any way forced" although he admitted that federal taxes were a factor. He revealed the deal had been on the fire for over a year.

MacPhail has been serving as an aide to Under-Secretary of War Robert P. Patersotn since he reentered the service in September, 1942. He insisted he had not been discharged from the Army but that he expected to be put on inactive status, subject to call, as of Feb. 10.

Asked if he thought he had a bargain, MacPhail, who formerly was general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, and president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, replied, "Well we got a good ball club. Only eight or ten years can tell if we got a bargain.

Among the almost 400 players who changed hands in the deal were Joe DiMaggio, Charley Keller, Red Ruffing, Joe Gordon, Spurgeon Chandler and Phil Rizzuto, now in service; and the 33 active Yankees to whom Barrow mailed contracts ten days ago.

Last year the Bronx Bombers' farm system, which included 15 links in pre-war days, had shrunk to five clubs. They were Newark, Kansas City, Binghamton, Norfolk and Wellsville, N. Y.

Semi-Finalists Named For Meadow Cage Championships

MEADOW, Jan. 26 (Special) — The Meadow invitation basketball tournament was pared to the semi-finals in the championship brackets of both boys and girls, with Meadow and Tahoka placing both boys and girls teams in the semi-final brackets with Friday wins.

Post and Brownfield moved into the semi-finals in the boys play, while the other members of the semi-final bracket in the girls play were Cooper and Union of Dawson county. These eight teams will battle for the title in semi-final and final play Saturday.

Semi-Final Pairings

Pairings in the semi-finals will pit Brownfield against Tahoka and Meadow against Post in the boys bracket. In the girls bracket, Meadow will play Tahoka and Union will play Cooper.

In the morning round today, Post nosed out Wilson in the opening game, winning a 29-21 victory that found the Wilson club staging a game rally late in the ball game, but unable to overcome the early Post lead. Cash paced the winners with 14 points, and Thurman turned in 11 points for the losers.

The Meadow boys also pulled into the semi-finals by nosing out Cooper in one of the best played games of the day. The game was close until the fading minutes, with never more than three points difference, but Meadow holding to the lead.

Waton of Cooper won scoring honors of the game with 12 points, while Terry of Meadow looped in ten, and Barnes added nine more.

Tahoka, Union Win

The Tahoka and Union girls moved into semi-minals in the morning round, Tahoka winning an 18-11 decision over Post, while Union defeated Ropes, 23-16.

Scoring honors for the first game were divided between Willingham and Peggy Dunlap of Tahoka, each getting eight points. Alma Outlaw paced the Post club with six points.

Shepherd looped in 14 points for Union in the second girls game of the morning round, and copped scoring honors. McAter accounted for ten of the Ropes points.

Moving into the afternoon round, Brownfield and Tahoka moved into the boys semi-finals as the Brownfield Cubs romped over New Home, 24-10, and Tahoka's Bulldogs outscored Ropes, 31-23.

In the first game, Franks set the pace for the Cubs, getting eight points to double New Home's top man, Fillingim. In the second game, Nolan Jones poured in 15 points to lead the Bulldogs, while Hewlett dropped in ten points to pace the losers.

Cooper, Meadow Win

The Cooper girls team zoomed into the semi-finals with a 35-18 win over New Home, with Wilke pouring in 18 points to pace the winners, while Robertson topped the losers with eight points.

The Meadoow girls avenged their lone defeat of the season, a one point set back a week ago by Wilson, by bumping the Wilson girls, 27-15, to complete the semi-final girls bracket.

Pat Walker and Jean Finley accounted for 21 points between them as Walker looped in 11 and Finley 10, to lead the Meadow girls. Shambeck was high for the losers with six points.

Four consolation games made up the night show, with Plains winning a 34-13 victory over Wilson in the boys consolation as Albright set the high scoring mark of the tournament to date by swishing 23 points through the basket for the winners. Thurman and Spell, with four each, led the losers.

Wellman eliminated New Home from the tournament with a 26-21 victory in another well played consolation game. Welcher flipped in 16 points for the winners, to set the pace. Timmons and Fillingim each counted eight marks for New Home.

The New Home girls romped to a 20-6 win over Ropes in the consolation battle of girls, with Nettles dropping in 16 points. McAter led the losers with four points.

Wilson nosed out a 14-13 win over Post in the remaining game on the card, with Shambeck getting six points for the winners, while Outlaw and Shepherd each counted for five for the losers.

Rice Cops First Of Hog Series, 57-46

HOUSTON, Jan. 26. (AP) — Murray Mendenhall, smallest man on the court, was the outstanding performer tonight as the Rice Owls won the opener of their crucial two game series with Arkansas, 57-46, before a sellout crowd of 2600.

An Indiana boy, who came to Rice in the Naval training program, Mendenhall is a foot shorter than gigantic George Kok, six foot, 10½ inch Arkansas center. But his sensational ball-stealing, tight guarding and all around floor play stood out in the Rice triumph.

Mendenhall held Parson Bill Flynt, All Conference guard last season, to one field goal and found time to tally 11 points.

For the first time this season Bill Henry was outscored in conference play. Kok kept Arkansas in the game with 23 points while Henry was limited to 15. Bob Foley led the Owls with 16.

The Owls had a 25-17 half time edge.

Bulldog Turner Goes Into Service Today

The Lubbock Boys club and the Cowhands Black cage fives split even in a twin bill Friday night at the Westerner gym, with the Cowhand B team winning over the Boys Club B team, 18-8, while the Boys Club varsity defeated the Cowhands A team, 30-23.

It gave the Boys Club five a clean sweep over the Cowhand clubs, having nosed out the Golds Thursday night, 23-22.

Virgil Johnson paced the schoolboys in the opener, dropping in seven points, while Jack Smith accounted for half the Boys Club's eight points.

Johnny Lawson was the star of the finale, swishing 15 points through the nets to pace the Boys Club to the win, while Schmidt was tops for the schoolboys with eight points.

PIRATES NIP SOLDIERS

GEORGETOWN, Tex., Jan. 26. (AP) — In a hard fought game here tonight, the Southwestern university basketball team defeated Bergstrom Field 57 to 48. At the half Southwestern led 31 to 27.

Shallowater Breaks Abernathy's Streak

SHALLOWATER, Jan. 26 (Special) — The Shallowater High school cage five stunned the high stepping Abernathy Antelopes here tonight, and upset the Abernathy club in an 18-16 thriller, played before a packed gymnasium.

The Antelopes, who had romped to 16 wins in 17 games, losing only to an Army team, were handed their first defeat of the season by a high school five.

Johnson set the pace for the winners, and played a major role in the upsetting of the Abernathy five. Rhodes and Lambert were leaders of the losers.

Shallowater also made it an advantage for the night as the Shallowater junior boys rolled to a 20-10 victory in the opener. Wages paced the winners, and Shivy was high for the losers.

Abernathy salvaged some consolation from the evening as the Abernathy girls romped to a 30-6 victory over the Shallowater girls. Ledford and Lutrick set the blistering pace for the winners, while Giles was tops for the losers.

LI'L ABNER — Trail of the Loathsome Crime! — By Al Capp

OUR BOARDING HOUSE — With Major Hoople

OUT OUR WAY — By J. R. Williams

"Aunt Fanny" Stays On

But Don't Blame Mrs. Wilson

REFUSAL of the President to accept the proffered resignation of Mrs. Paul Wilson as Secretary of Labor means that Mr. Roosevelt will continue to handle the important Labor department through patchwork of boards, bureaus and subordinates while Mrs. Wilson continues into her thirteenth year as a figure-head.

Mrs. Wilson, who for some reason or another insists upon calling herself "Miss Frances Perkins" despite the fact that she is married, has a child and a grandchild, draws a fine cabinet salary plus some important expenses simply because as a New York social worker she attracted the admiration and friendship of Mrs. Roosevelt. Originally placed in the cabinet to attract political support to the New Deal by "Lucy Stone-ers" and other "moderns," Mrs. Wilson has done nothing to support the view that women can and should serve in high administrative posts in the government. Whether she is capable of such service, or not, nobody knows. She hasn't had much chance to prove her ability at any time in the past dozen years—and none at all since labor-management problems have become the No. 1 headache on the home front.

The first and only "Madame Secretary" in the history of American national government has been the "whipping boy"—or, perhaps better, the "whipping girl"—of the Roosevelt dynasty upon many, many occasions. She hasn't suited business—which, of course, isn't and shouldn't be too important in a Labor secretary; but neither has she suited organized labor. So, as a natural result, she has been made the target for "slings and arrows of outrageous fortune."

Mrs. Wilson does not deserve the criticisms which have been heaped upon her defenseless bonnet over the years she has been at the edge of the spotlight. Instead, she deserves only sympathy for having been kept immersed so long in futility. The truth is, Mrs. Wilson is a nice woman of at least average mental capacity and personal charm, and the fact that her loyalty to Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt has been so intense that she has taken many an unjust "rap" is and should be to her credit.

If she is poorly assigned, it is not her fault.

If she has been kept in a job that is beyond her ken, that isn't her fault either.

But the fact remains that the taxpayers haven't gotten their money's worth from Mrs. Wilson's services and there's no reason to suspect that they'll get any more for their money in the future than they've gotten in the past. Thus, again, Mr. Roosevelt "takes care of a friend" and presumably bolsters some political support by certain extreme liberals at the expense of the public treasury.

That's "practical politics," all right, but not exactly palatable to those Americans who think there should be a premium on ability and performance in governmental service, as well as in private fields.

A Proven Patriotism

THERE is considerable difference between the attitude of those able-bodied young and middle-aged persons who refuse to give their best efforts to war jobs and the attitude of hundreds of thousands of persons more than 65 years of age who continue to work daily despite the fact that they could retire and accept social security payments.

The Social Security board has announced that more than 700,000 men and women more than 65 years old have stayed on the job and have not claimed benefits to which they were entitled under the federal law. In addition, the board reported that 70,000 persons who had previously retired have given up their social security benefits temporarily to return to jobs.

The board said in announcing the figures that they constituted "an effective answer to those who say social security will only encourage idleness"—in line with its customary policy of interlarding its releases with propoganda—but the board might have pointed out that a great many people in the higher age brackets are determined to aid in winning the war and offer what help they can in that regard. It is a tribute to their patriotism as well as to their ambition that they remain at work despite loss of the benefits they could claim if they preferred to remain idle.

A few cynics might say that social security payments are not high enough to overcome the urge to attain a higher income through working, but not many of those cynical persons would relish the idea of working for nothing many days during each month. After all, foregoing social security funds and taking a job instead means working for nothing, until the income derived from working equals the amount of federal payments that otherwise would have been made. Persons over 65 who are willing to do that must be patriotic.

A PURITAN VILLAGE IN 1680

The basic principles of human conduct in the Puritan civilization were Work and Piety, but they were inseparable and had to be practiced together. If you had been a Puritan of the 17th century you might have been possibly one of the most willing, industrious and capable workers in the colony. But if you had lacked Piety, of you had neglected the church, if you had played games on Sunday, if you had observed Christmas as a holiday and a time of merrymaking, the heavy hand of authority would have fallen on you and most of your holidays would have been spent in the stocks.

But on the other hand, let us suppose that you were as pious as Cotton Mather, that you never failed to pray and to attend church, to read the Bible and to keep the holy commandments; but, let us suppose further, that you never got out of bed until 10 in the morning, that you never did a stroke of work and scorned industry of all kinds. In that case, though your Piety would have been commendable you would have found yourself in the stocks, side by side with the atheist who made work his religion.

The Walling family combined Work and Piety in such sound proportions that the two parts fitted together perfectly.

Every member of the family—except the very young children—had some kind of work to do. Even little daughter Patience, who was only 8, had been taught to embrodier samplers and to hem table napkins.

Henry, the oldest son—he was 22—was employed by his uncle in Boston. This relative owned a number of vessels that made trading voyages to the West Indies. Young Henry did not expect to remain permanently in the shipping trade. His father wanted him to pass a few years in that occupation, and to make voyages in the ships so that he might learn something of the world at first hand. After his experience in business and travel he was to come home and give his time to the Walling farm and other properties.

The second son, who had the Puritan name of Feargod, worked of the farm under Samuel Gaylord. He was not a laborer but a kind of student, learning what he could. Feargod Walling cherished a deep and rankling discontent which broke out occasionally in tantrums, or fits of temper. He did not want to be a farmer; he had no interest in the soil, in agriculture, in stock breeding, yet he was bound to these occupations, probably for life. If he lived today he would be called an intellectual. In 17th-century New England the only pursuits open to an intellectual were the ministry and schoolteaching. Feargod, although a faithful Puritan, was not sufficiently theological in temperament to pass his life preaching on Biblican texts. As to schoolteaching—that was impossible. In all colonial communities the schoolteacher stood low in the social scale, and usually with good reason. He was often a drukard, or n'er-do-well, and his pay was so small that he had to live in a state of perpetual shabbiness. No, Feargod Walling did not want to be a schoolmaster.

Harriet, the Wallings' oldest daughter, had been taught to do everything that belonged to the duties of a Puritan housewife. Part of each day she spent in the spinning and weaving room in the leanto, where she spun flax and wool and wove them into cloth. Among her occupations was the accumulation of linen for her own hope chest. She had already 12 pairs of linen sheets. She had also 21 towels and 46 table napkins.

The large number of napkins was due to the fact that forks had not come into use as table implements. Food was picked up on the flat end of a knife, or in a spoon, or with the bare hands. Whenever bones were encountered, as in a turkey or a piece of pork, both hands were used. In the course of an ordinary meal the hands became soiled several times. Before each person at the table stood a small ewer of water in which he would dip his hands and wipe them with a napkin. As a result many napkins were used at each meal.

Waitstill's wife Rebecca, a plump and blooming matron, was busy every day from morning to night with household tasks. Besides her grown daughter she had two maids to help her, and all of them had as much as they could do. Cooking stoves did not exist—nobody had ever heard of such a thing—and the huge meals were cooked on an open fire. In the yard back of the kitchen there was a brick oven for baking bread and roasting venison. All the water used in the house had to be brought by hand from a well in the barnyard.

In addition to the ordinary household activities there were others which are entirely unknown to the modern housekeeper, such as candle molding, soap making, weaving and dyeing, the making of brooms and the brewing of beer for the household.

Another of her jobs was the compounding of household remedies. Every girl, before her marriage, was trained to make palsy drops, mithridate, Venice treacle, snail water and pokeberry plaster, besides a long list of other salves and potions. There were no physicians in Sudbury and the nearest apothecary was in Boston, so the housewife had to be prepared to meet sickness in the family with remedies from her own medicine closet.

"Dognappers" Cause Plenty Of Trouble

TOPEKA, Kas., Jan. 26 (AP) — Dognappers at the Army Air field took six of a mascot collie's eight pups.

It made Mrs. Collie so mad she wouldn't let anyone in the furnace room which was doubling as a doghouse, and all the fires went out.

But things got worse. The dognappers played a return engagement. They brought back the runt of the litter, left it—and stole the two choice puppies remaining.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

IN a recent interview with W. Somerset Maugham, author of "Of Human Bondage" and many other best sellers, the 70-year-old writer complained, that at his age "incentive fails, invention fails, energy fails."

Mr. Maugham, according to New Yorker Magazine, in which the interview was published, has done pretty well by himself. At 70 with incentive, invention and energy failing, he lives in a sumptous suite in New York's Ritz-Carlton hotel, is still working on several manuscripts and plans to return to his chateau in Southern France when the war is over. He has enough energy to dine out almost every night, to go to the theatre or concert, to play bridge and to have an all-around good time.

BRANDEIS

But Mr. Maugham certainly is right when he has picked the three qualities, incentive, energy and invention as the requisites of successful living.

Every person, as he gets older should bear those three in mind, because it is so easy to complain and to blame surrender to the years on so many things except the real ones.

Incentive is to have an aim in life. It is to do whatever you undertake with a purpose -- even if it is only a seemingly most unimportant chore.

Cooking, scrubbing, doing daily household drudges — where is the incentive, you may ask.

I'll tell you where. In the happiness and the contentment a well cooked meal, an orderly home, a drawer full of mended socks and clean linen brings.

And what greater incentive is there than happiness?

YES, but how about energy? Suppose you fell tired and worn and ready to call it quits?

If you are sick and need a doctor's care, that's one thing. But if your lack of energy is caused by lack of incentive, that is another.

If you do your work mechanically, without interest, without purpose or zest, then your energy will lag and the world will be a pretty dreary place to you.

As long as you have incentive you will have enough energy to do the things you are supposed to do. If not, see your doctor.

Then Mr. Maugham talked about invention. By that he meant originality, the joy of creation, to do new things or old things in new ways

We can't all be writers or poets or painters or composers.

But how about a new coat of paint for that dreary room? How about a new way of serving meat balls or changing the valance on the kitchen shelf?

That, too, is invention — and you'll be surprised how much of it you can find in any five-and-dime store.

My wife is doing some hammering in the kitchen down stairs. And we are going to have meatballs for dinner tonight.

Incentive, energy, invention?

It's A "Brother Act"

FDR, Churchill Form A Team

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

WINSTON CHURCHILL'S stauch defense of Franklin Roosevelt's general foreign policy, in his recent Commons report, demonstrates again that these two world statesmen are staging one of the most spectacular brother acts in diplomatic history. Their close friendship and of offensive-defensive strategy are counted on by their respective aides as assurance that Anglo-American solidarity will be maintained for the duration and in the postwar period.

FDR's immediate circle was shocked when his congressional critics cited the Prime Minister's 1941 dismissal of the Atlantic Charter as only a "rough and ready statement of war aims."

TUCKER

That casual description plagued the White House when, after having compared that document to the Ten Commandments and the Magna Charta, Mr. Roosevelt disclosed late in December that it really consisted of only a few scribbled notes handed to the radio operators of the Cruiser Augusta after the pair met off the coast of Maine.

Mr. Churchill's belated reference to the Charter resembled FDR's so closely that it seems as if they had colloborated by transatlantic telephone. Although affirming that no formal agreement existed, both promised that its underlying principles would guide the great powers in their treatment of liberated nations. Mr. Churchill went even further in declaring that Lincoln's "of the people, by the people, for the people" pronouncement would be followed in postwar reorganiaztion of the world.

INAUGURAL: A close reading of the Prime Minister's oration convinces Washington observers that it was directed to the American public as well as to the British populace. Mr. Churchill, to use a baseball analogy, caught the fast balls hurled at FDR's head and knocked them for a diplomatic home run.

An indictment which has made headway here and abroad is the "unconditional surrender" demand, together with the Morgenthau proposal to cut up the Reich into small farms and homesteads. Since Mr. Roosevelt at the Casablance conference suggested the use of Grant's phrase, and as he has a great fondness for his ebullient Secretary of the Treasury, he has hesitated to retrieve these unfortunate declarations. Mr. Churchill did so rather delicately with his reminder that the Allies will behave like "Christian and civilized nations."

Winston also answered Capitol Hill isolaitonists who mumble about the small part the British have played in the western Europe offensive—another question the President has not wanted to discuss. The Prime Minister eulogized the American Army as the architect of victories in that area. But he noted that his legions and armadas had done the heaviest fighting in the Italian and Mediterranean theaters.

The other member of the Big Three—Josef Stalin—also tossed his chips into the diplomatic pot. As if to answer senatorial orators who charged him with welching on his pals by playing "doggo" on the eastern front, he launched the most powerful drive in the history of the present conflict.

Whether accidental or prearranged, the three world leaders closed ranks on the military and diplomatic fronts, and provided Mr. Roosevelt with a victory theme for his fourth inaugural address. Incidentally, this is not the first time that 10 Downing Street has extricated the White House from a domestic dilemma—and vice versa.

LIQUOR: Wet and dry leaders have staged a behind-the-scenes battle of considerable significance in Washington lately. Oddly enough, the prohibitionists displayed a spirit of cheer and confidence, while the liquor champions appeared to be restless and uneasy.

Feminine heads of the WCTU, reinforced by their congressional friends, bombarded the office of War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes with demands that he cap his new horse-racing, rationing, travel and heating restrictions by forbidding the manufacture of beer and spirits at least for the duration.

Although it faces tough opposition, the Bryson bill for drying up areas within a 12-mile distance of Army and Navy centers is making some headway. The whiteribboners also insist on more stringent regulations for opening and closing of entertainment places.

CLUBS: The wets have belabored Department of Commerce statisticians for their recent estimate that the national 1944 liquor bill amounted to the staggering total of seven billion dollars, or about one billion more than the annual prewar budget. They insist that this figure gives an entirely erroneous picture of their industry's role in the nation's economy.

As a result of these complaints the D of C-ers may come through with an explanation of how they reached that conclusion. It appears that the amount of liquor sold by the bottle can be computed to the penny from government reports on tax payments. These sales are three and a half billion dollars.

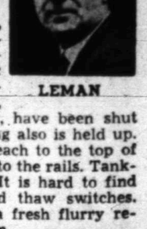

Federal experts arrived at the seven-billion-dollar sum by figuring that all alcoholic supplies were sold by the drink. It it the wets' contention that a large percentage of the cost per highball or cocktail should be allocated to overhead, entertainment and food, especially with regard to hotels, restaurants, night clubs and other "hot spots," and not to the booze business.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

NEW war emergencies are making transportation one gigantic headache—as rail passengers and law-abiding motorists already know.

Difficulties are cropping up all over the Allied world in trains, motor vehicles, ships—even camels. Railroad and steamship lines have done a remarkable job. But demands mount, heightened by terrible climatic conditions and severe manpower famines.

LEMAN

Unless further snow storms occur this week, yard superintendents think they will break the freight traffic jam in the area from Buffalo to Cleveland that has retarded shipments of coal, feed and other essentials.

From the military point of view, one of the worst phases of the current snarl is the tie-up of cars filled with raw chemicals. Sulphuric acid plants, whose products are urgently needed for high explosive, sulfa drugs and synthetic rubber, have been shut down. Calcium carbide for welding also is held up.

Drifts in some freight yards reach to the top of wheels, which are literally frozen to the rails. Tanker cars are blocked everywhere. It is hard to find enough men to shovel snow and thaw switches. Even when gangs are recruited, a fresh flurry results in an increase in absenteeism.

BUFFETED: A side light on the current winter travel problem was an occurrence at the super-exclusive Waldorf-Astoria in New York the other night.

A blizzard made it necessary for depots to cancel several trips. At the time, a national convention of big business executives was in session at the hotel. Managers buttonholed guests, informing those with duoble rooms or suites that they would have to share them with strangers stranded by the gale.

This sort of thing happens in other places; but not in the hostelry of America's millionaires. Some of Wall Street's mighty magnates are now pretty sore at Hitler for such invasion of their privacy.

Mammoth trucks and heavy duty tires, already worn by accelerated war work, are buffeted by some of the worst weather on record. One assembly line is over 200 miles long; motor vehicles haul forgings to a heat treat plant 100 miles away, the product is next trucked to a machining concern another 100 miles distance; the parts are finally conveyed 15 miles farther to the assembly terminal.

"Cousin Nat" Cuts Some Pie

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON—Nat Patton of Crockett has gone the way of a lot ex-congressmen—into other government jobs. He is now on the payroll of the Veterans administration.

Employed as an attorney in the Solicitor's office, he is in one of those brackets that pay around $5,600 a year. He is expected to be assigned to the Veterans facility at Waco after completing a brief training course here.

The former East Texas legislator, defeated in last year's primaries by Tom Pickett of Palestine, can get credit under the Civil Service pension plan for the 10 years he served in the House if he wants to pay up back assessments amounting to 3½ per cent of his annual salary to July 1, 1942, and 5 per cent since that date. That would be roughly $4,000, plus 4 per cent interest, and then 5 per cent on the salary in his new position.

Under civil service regulations, "Cousin Nat" could retire upon reaching 62, having double the minimum required service of 5 years. He will be 62 on Feb. 26.

Here's How It Works

The pension depends on the amount that has been contributed into the retirement fund. At present it runs about $8.39 for each $100 invested. In addition, the government pays out $30 a year for each year the individual has been in federal service.

That would be roughly $75 a month for life for anyone with 10 years' service and participation in the retirement plan. A person not participating in the plan until late in his federal career, and owing a large back amount, can make arrangements for a long-range settlement so he actually doesn't have to put up a large amount to become eligible for the pension. Or if he should pay up the total amount due, and should die before he has received back that amount in pension payments, his beneficiaries would receive the balance remaining from the lump sum he contributed.

IT'S hard for one who hasn't watched Congress work to appreciate the importance of committee assignments.

Every bill enacted into law first must be considered by a committee, usually a group of about 25 members with the party lineup in ratio to the political division in House or Senate. The chairmanship goes to a majority member. And under the present setup about 13 to 15 members of each major committee are Democrats and the rest Republicans. They study a measure thoroughly and then report it to the floor with recommendations whether it should be amnded, rejected or passed. In nine times out of 10 the recommendations are accepted.

There are 11 so-called major or "exclusive" committees in the House, those handling legislation on the most important subjects, such as the Army, Navy, taxes, appropriations, agriculture, Consequently, there is always a strong bid for membership on these groups, and freshmen members have to wait their turn, sometimes for years. In recent years the relative importance of some committees has changed. A member may serve on more than one of the lesser committees, but on only one "exclusive" committee.

Worley To Agriculture

Under the recent reshuffling of committee assignments, Rep. Gene Worley of Shamrock gave up chairmanship of the Committee for the election of President, Vice President and Representatives, with the extra office space and clerk hire that go with it, to go to the Agriculture committee.

Rep. John Lyle of Corpus Christi lost out by a close vote of 8 to 6 in trying for a place in his freshman year on the House Naval committee. The selection was made by the House Ways and Means committee. The group names all other committee positions. Its own membership is chosen by the House as a whole. Rep. Milton West serves on it as Texas' only representative. Lyle finally was assigned to another exclusive committee, however, that of Postoffice and Post Roads. The bulk of its work has to do with handling affairs affecting the postal system.

TOM PICKETT of Palestine was assigned to several non-exclusive committes, although among them is that of Irrigation and Reclamation, extremely important to the West and Southwest.

Rep. J. M. Combs of Beaumont, successor to Martin Dies, wanted to get on the Foreign Affairs committee because of his long interest in international affairs. But many incumbent congressmen also wanted on it and Combs had to take some minor committees, among them that handling Civil Service matters.

Another Texas newspaper man, Managing Editor C. W. Ratliff of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, came up with Archie Underwood and others of Lubbock to attend the inauguration; he got in on a presidential press conference, too. NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP) — After displaying early steadiness, the cotton market turned easy today on scattered liquidation and hedge selling which met only scale down trade support. of most of American air power in the Philippines at Clark field that the chance was lost to make the cost of the foe far heavier than it was. The grim satisfaction of the general and his troops in regaining the site of that tragic disaster can well be imagined.

Yet there must be even greater satisfaction for them in the fact that at Angeles, a step farther south, they stood within a dozen miles of the only road that leads from the Manila bay area into Bataan peninsula, scene of the last stand before Corregidor.

It seems certain that MacArthur regards Bataan the last refuge of outmatched defenders of the entrance to Manila bay, and as the key to reconquest of that bay for an advance naval base to use against Japan itself, or Japanese armies in China.

Luzon Fighting Grows Sharper

field in the Cagayan valley, in the northeast, also was attacked.

Attrition Tremendous

The MacArthur communique, issued on the general's 65th birthday, Jan. 26, U. S. time, said Yank airmen have taken this toll on Luzon from Dec. 25 through Jan. 16:

Destroyed and left unserviceable —79 locomotives, 466 railroad cars, 468 motor trucks, 67 staff cars, 16 tanks, five armored cars and 13 field pieces and cassons.

The communique also reported air raids against Japanese shipping and shore installations on Formosa and at Amoy port in China.

The Japanese radio reported Friday that American ships and troops were massing for new operations in the Philippines.

Radio Tokyo said, without American confirmation, that American ships continue to move into Lingayen gulf, starting place of the Yank Luzon invasion, while other surface craft were on the move to the south. Tokyo surmised that "the enemy is planning new developments in the war situation."

Japs Fish For Answers

The Japanese agency Domei asserted "the enemy intends to attempt new airborne operations on Luzon" from American-held Leyte island.

Another Tokyo broadcast, picked up by the Blue network, quoted Premier Kuniaki Koiso as advising the Japanese diet that many Nippon war industries already had gone underground to escape aerial bombardments.

Fierce fighting raged in China's Kwangtung province where the Japanese are attempting to seize the last Chinese-held section of the Canton-Hankow railway. The battling was in the suburbs of Kukong, the provisional capital 125 miles due north of Canton.

The Chinese now hold less than 100 miles of the vital railway, total possession of which would give the Japanese a solid land supply line reaching from Manchuria to Canton and Hongkong.

The Japanese aim in southeast China is to seal off the China coast line against possible American landings from the Pacific. A Chinese army spokesman said the Japanese were strengthening their coastal garrisons at Shanghai, Amoy, Foochow and other strategic ports.

Yank Airmen Busy

Meanwhile American planes lashed heavily against Peiping airfields. In hitting that North China base they destroyed two score Japanese planes, including five in aerial combat. They probably wrecked six others damaged two. Three American planes were reported missing.

The Americans also were blasting widely separated railroad lines in China. They destroyed 67 locomotives.

Radio Tokyo said several American Superfortresses attacked Singapore but claimed there was no damage.

In Burma, the Japanese line of retreat was being smashed by Allied fliers. They wrecked at least nine bridges and bombed supply dumps especially around Mandalay. British ground forces, driving for Mandalay, apparently marked-time while the airmen went to work on communications in the Japanese rear.

Manpower Bill

er bill—a limited national service measure for men between 18 and 45—would precipitate one of the bitterest fights in recent House annals.

Entire Bill Endangered

In fact, so sharp is the division on some of the issues involved that the House leadership voiced concern that the entire bill, which President Roosevelt has requested, might be defeated.

Major fights are in prospect over how far the legislation should go in dealing with strikes, union membership and racial discrimination in employment.

The way the bill now reads, local draft boards, subject to appeal, would determine whether a man moving from a job without authorization or failing to take a job when directed did so for reasonable cause.

This provision, southerners claim, would make it possible for draft boards to invoke the bill's penalties against a man who left his job to go fishing while excusing a man idle because of a strike.

Meantime, the Senate Military committee voted to press ahead with consideration of manpower legislation without public hearings.

behind them.

It was the first time that the Germans had given up any sector of the Siegfried line without a battle. Seven towns and 97 pillboxes were quickly overrun. Largest town taken was Brachelen, seven and a half miles northwest of the Roer stronghold of Julich.

Brachelen, long a thorn in the Ninth's side, was taken after patrols lanced into the town and found the Germans withdrawing.

(German broadcasts this week told of troops massing behind Julich for a new offensive strike across the Cologne plain to the Rhine.)

Six Towns Taken

Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey's British Second army on the north flank swept up to the Wurm—a tributary of the Roer—in a quickening advance that rolled up at least six German villages southeast of Heinsberg, six miles northwest of Brachelen.

Farther north, British patrols reached the Roer itself on a front of several miles just southeast of the enemy bastion of Roermond without encountering any Germans.

Thus along the Roer, and along the Wurm, the assault lines of two Allied armies were drawn up in position for renewed drives across the Rhineland plain.

The once menacing salient of Sittard was ironed flat, along with its 11 miles or so of trenches, minefields, bunkers and pillboxes. The bridgeheads that plagued the forces on the Roer had been wrung out.

Last German Across Moder

News from the U. S. Seventh army front was equally encouraging and it appeared Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch had rallied quickly against an assault launched by six or more German divisions.

A front dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Robert C. Wilson, said that by late this afternoon the last German was pressed back across the Moder river, 16 miles north of Strasbourg. It was along this river that Patch had thrown up a new defense line.

Deeply-drifted snows hampered the doughboys, but they cleaned out the entire area from two to five miles west of Haguenau, where the Germans crossed the river yesterday in considerable strength.

The Germans were cleared from Schillersdorf, 12 miles northwest of Haguenau, where the enemy offensive yesterday made its greatest gain—less than two miles. Several hundred enemy troops encircled for a time in the town managed to escape.

Farther south in Alsace, the French First army won back the soil lost on the northern edge of the so-called Colmar pocket to German counterattacks. They battled the Germans in the streets of Houssen, three miles north of Colmar, and along the Ill river.

French forces striking up from the south were locked in a give-and-take battle with the enemy between Mulhouse and Cernay, seven miles to the northwest in the Vosges foothills.

It was disclosed that some American troops now are fighting in Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny's First army.

Fuel Limitation

ply.

The closest controls over such deliveries announced immediately were in Quincy, Mass., where Mayor Charles A. Ross ordered all coal pooled and distributed, 100 pounds to a customer, from police headquarters.

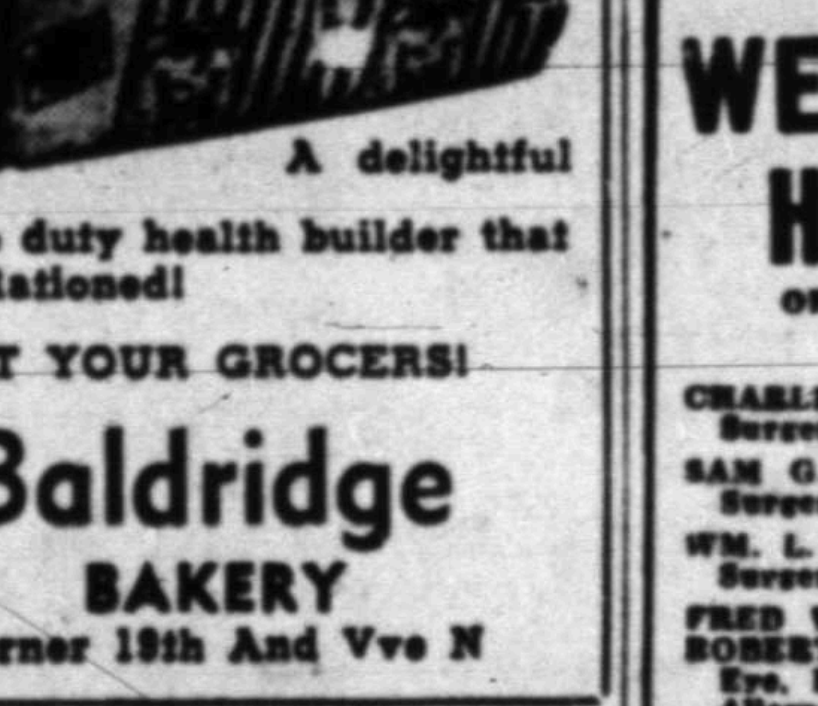

Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia said emergency fuel depots would be set up throughout New York City.

The District of Columbia was still working on its plans for cutting fuel supplies in public and amusement places, but officials here beat Ickes to his order with adoption of a plan under which it will take help from a policeman to get coal delivered to homes.

Under the program adopted at a meeting of coal dealers and district officials, a householder running short of fuel must call his local precinct station. A patrolmen will come and inspect his coal bin and if less than five days supply is on hand, the police will certify an order on a coal dealer.

Over 120,000,000 lipsticks were sold in the United States in 1943.

Elliott And Blaze

that "Congress can spank a general as well as a colonel."

At the time the Blaze affair first came to public notice through complaints from the bumped service men, Stephen Early, White House press secretary, said neither the colonel, back overseas, nor anybody in the White House, had anything to do with getting a priority for Blaze. He said young Roosevelt merely left a request that the big bull mastiff be flown to Hollywood to his wife actress Faye Emerson, if an empty bomber headed that way.

The ATC angle on that was given today by an Air Transport officer—fully qualified to know what went on. He said he couldn't afford to be quoted by name but:

"It was like this. The White House called the Air Transport command aid said they wanted this dog shipped west.

"What would you do—even a civilian—if the White House said they wanted something? You'd give it to them."

He added, however, that the White House did not ask for a priority.

Men aren't supposed to be on ATC planes at all, he continued, and when they are given free rides as an accommodation, they know they're on "D" priority, behind any freight that goes aboard.

Tag Was "Mistake"

After the dog got on as freight, the officer said, it was decided the thing to do was route it on through and "get rid of it as quickly as possible."

The ATC made one mistake, the officer said—when somebody put a tag on the crate reading "Mrs. Eliott Roosevelt."

If that hadn't been done, or if the tag had read "Mrs. Joe Doakes," he's willing to bet none of the fuss would have come up.

Seattle Soldier Is Conducting Own Private War With Germans

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Jan. 23. (Delayed)—German soldiers killed by S/Sgt. Arthur E. Williams have their names entered in a little black book. If there is time the Seattle boy also records the place, the weapon used and the date—but he always can fill in this information later.

Williams is settling a score with the German army and his fellow timberwolves in the 104th division don't kid him.

Williams has hated all Germans since his first night in combat when they killed his buddy. No doughboy ever forgets his buddy and—well, Williams and this other doughboy were especially good buddies.

Today there are 23 names in the book. Twenty-three Germans for one American—and the account isn't settled yet.

Mail Is Welcome

There's a Pfc. from Brooklyn in the Second division who smiles like he had been told the Bums had won another pennant every time he gets a letter from his dad.

Joseph Russo, came overseas with the 70th division in the last war and he knows just what it feels like to hear from home. He writes to his son George often, and before he seals the envelope he always slips in a new dollar bill.

Nazis dug in behind hedgerows and a line of foxholes in Germany were raising particular hob one night. Lt. Richard M. Jones of Salisbury, N. C., took out a patrol of the 78th division that killed 13 Germans and captured three. After that the Germans were quiet.

An automatic rifleman covered them as they worked their way across the soft snow. When the Germans in a nearby house got noisy the rifleman spattered lead into the windows and doors and kept the Nazis busy ducking while Jones and his men made a run for the hedgerows.

When a German popped up in front of them, Jones got him with one shot. Voices from a foxhole were silenced with hand grenades. A German rose from another hole and somebody dropped him.

Meanwhile an artillery unit of the 78th put down a box barrage and the men fanned out, carefully working over every fox hole. When they came in and counted noses, their casualties totaled one injured thumb.

Another Honor Goes To M. A. Stainbrook

Dr. M. A. Stainbrook, professor of geology at Texas Tech who is considered an authority in the field of research in paleontology of the Devonian, was recently elected to fellowship of the Geological Society of America.

A member of the Tech faculty since 1927, Dr. Stainbrook has been commended for a large amount of important research he has conducted jointly with his teaching duties. He has made valuable contributions to the science of paleontology and discussed many new species of fossils in articles published by American Journal of Science, American Midland Naturalist, Iowa Academy of Science, Journal of Paleontology, Bulletin of the University of Texas, Pan-American Geologists, Kansas Geological Society, and Special Papers of Geological Societies of America.

When Dr. Stainbrook came to Tech he served as assistant professor and was advanced to associate professor in 1932, and was promoted to full professorship in 1937. He holds membership in the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, Society of Economic Paleontaligists and Mineralogists, Palentological Society of America, Society of Sigma Xi and Phi Beta Kappa.

News Briefs

Twelve more students were enrolled Friday for the spring semester at Texas Tech, bringing the total to 1,615, and registration will be continued through Feb. 2, W. P. Clement, registrar, said. A marked decrease in enrollment was expected by college officials but they are now "highly pleased" with registration records. Last spring's enrollment figures were 1,454, and more students are expected to register today and Monday. A late registration fee will be charged after Jan. 29, according to Clement.

Lovic H. Liston and C. T. (Pat) Henry, new members, were introduced by Gradie Bownds who presided. Ray Dickey was named chairman of the President's ball ticket sales and each member was issued 10 tickets. Next week's program will be a mock trial of Jimmy Wilson, newly-elected president, it was announced by Dr. Wm. N. Cauley, program chairman for 1945. Guests were W. Guy Casey, Elson Landers of Fort Worth, Dr. Marshall Harvey, Manuel Ayers, and Frank and Walter Phillips.

A fractured leg was suffered by Carroll Cooper, 13, Avalanche-Journal carrier boy, when he was hit by a car early Friday morning at Seventh and Ave. O. Police said the driver of the car was Mrs. Alma Thompson of 422 Ave. F, who rushed the youth to West Texas hospital. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. M. Cooper of 2205 Eighth.

W. Avery Fix, owner of Plains laboratory, has gone to Dallas to attend funeral services for his father, G. G. Fix, who died of a heart attack suffered early Friday morning.

Condition of Miss Betty Jo Willburn of the Wilson community, who underwent major surgery Monday in Lubbock General hospital, was reported satisfactory Friday. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Willburn, Miss Willburn is a junior in Wilson High school.

Damages totaling $3,696 were asked by Kenneth Seal, 14, his next friend, M. L. Wilkison, and his mother, Mrs. Annie Anton Seal, in a petition filed Friday afternoon in 99th district court against H. H. Holmes. Damages of $3,500 are sought for personal injuries and special damages of $196.75 for subsequent hospital and doctor bills. The suit grew out of an accident last Sept. 19 when the youth, riding a bicycle, allegedly was hit by Holmes' car in 1300-block Main.

Capt. Alfred J. Jenson, who was on the staff at the West Texas hospital before entering the service, is taking a six weeks' leave course for United States medical officers at Queens university, Belfast, Ire. He is concentrating on orthopedic surgery.

High Brow Juke Box Plays Grand Opera

CLEVELAND, Jan. 26. (AP)—You take Beethoven with your bourbon in Al Luxenburg's east Cleveland bar—because the juke box has no jive.

Luxenburg banned popular records eight years ago and said "my customers are going to take grand opera and like it."

They like it, Luxenburg says, for example, his juke box made $300 profit in eight years on playing of the record "Stars Were Shining Bright," from Puccini's opera La Tosca.

Gallup Peers Into Fifth Term Prospects

Third Of Nation Expects FDR To Run Again In '48

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 26. (AP) Will President Roosevelt be a candidate for another term four years hence?

That question was raised by a reporter at a White House press conference last week on the last full day of the President's third term. Speculation on Mr. Roosevelt's intentions about future terms has become a kind of national guessing game ever since he broke the two-term precedent, and a good many voters from coast to coast are already making guesses about 1948.

GALLUP

Most of the ones who are willing to guess, a national survey finds, predict that the Democratic candidate in 1948 will be Mr. Roosevelt, with Henry A. Wallace next most frequently mentioned as contender for the top place on the ticket.

Others Mentioned

Others prominently mentioned as likely Democratic candidates include Vice-President Harry S. Truman, Secretary of State Edward Stettinius, jr., James F. Byrnes, the "assistant president," and Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia.

That is what the Institute's national poll revealed when it asked voters:

"Regardless of what political party you happen to prefer, what is your guess as to who will be the Democratic candidate for president in 1948?"

The national vote follows:

Roosevelt	30%
Wallace	11
Truman	6
Stettinius	4
Byrnes	1
Byrd	1
Others	5
No opinion	42

Those mentioned in the category listed above as "others" include Sen. Alben W. Barkley, Paul V. McNutt, Senator Fulbright of Arkansas, Supreme Court Justice Douglas, Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida, Jesse Jones, Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio, and James A. Farley.

One interesting highlight of the survey is that Republican voters are much more positive that Mr. Roosevelt will be the candidate than Democratic voters are.

Among people who voted the Republican Presidential ticket last November, 41 per cent think Mr. Roosevelt will be the Democratic candidate in 1948, while 8 per cent think it will be Mr. Wallace.

Among Democratic voters the President also gets top mention, but the percentage is 22 per cent, or considerably lower than in the case of Republicans voters. Mr. Wallace is second with Democrats, polling 14 per cent, with Truman, Stettinius, Byrnes and Byrd following, in that order.

Hardware Men Decide Against Convention

Complying with the recent ban on large conventions not related to the war effort, the Panhandle Hardware and Implement association will not hold its annual meeting this spring, it was announced by A. S. Meinecke, local hardware man and member of the organization.

The convention, which would have been the thirty-sixth annual gathering for the organization, was originally scheduled for February 5 and 6, in Amarillo. Meinecke said the association's directorate voted unanimously to concur with the wartime convention ban and postponed the convention "indefinitely."

Draft Rejection Chart Presented

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. (AP)—A Selective service survey just completed reveals overall draft rejection rates are lowest in the Pacific Northwest and Kansas, while North and South Carolina and Arkansas led the states in the percentage of men disqualified.

The report as a whole is a 20 per cent sampling of reports on more than 9,000,000 registrants examined from April 1942 to January 1944.

It discloses that during that period 59.6 per cent of such workers as household cooks, chauffeurs and valets were found to be physically disqualified for the armed services.

Rejections were next highest among "emergency" or part-time workers and the unemployed, where 56.5 per cent were turned down, and among farmers and farm managers, where 56.4 per cent were disqualified.

The survey offers no explanation of the relatively high rejection rate among these workers.

At the other end of the range are students, with only 25.7 per cent of their number turned down.

The report covers men of all age groups summoned for physicals, ranging up to registrants 45 years old.

A state-by-state breakdown of rejection rates per 100 registrants for the period February through August 1943, with the "white" classification including all races except negro, shows:

	Total	White	Negro
Arkansas	55.9	46.9	70.9
Louisiana	52.6	42.5	64
New Mex.	40.1	39.9
Oklahoma	40.6	38.2	55.9
