Rusk, Bell Seek Aid for Asia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and foreign aid chief David E. Bell today opened their campaign for congressional approval of President Johnson's request for $89 million in extra assistance for Southeast Asia.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee scheduled a closed meeting with the two officials before considering the request. Despite varying degrees of opposition from some senators, eventual approval of some form of additional aid appeared likely.

A probable approach would be to offer the extra money as an amendment to the $3.37 billion overall foreign authorization bill which the Senate is expected to begin debate on Friday or Monday.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., favors that approach. He told reporters he hoped the committee, of which he is a member, will approve the request in that manner.

The House already has approved a $3.37 billion, one-year aid authorization giving Johnson "open end" authority to spend whatever he feels is needed in South Viet Nam.

Other congressional news: Right-To-Work — The U. S. Chamber of Commerce predicted that more unions would be destroyed by repeal of laws forbidding union shops than if they remained in force. A chamber spokesman testified before a House labor subcommittee considering legislation to repeal federal authorization of the state "right-to-work" laws.

Guns — New Jersey's attorney general, Arthur J. Sills, said the United States deserves to "inherit the legacy of a Lee Harvey Oswald" if it does not learn to apply tighter controls on firearms from the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. His testimony was heard before a Senate subcommittee considering firearms legislation.

Snooping — Civil Service Commissioner John W. Macy Jr. was to appear before a House government operations subcommittee looking into invasions of privacy by government investigative agencies and information-gathering offices.

Gemini-4 Flight At a Glance

By United Press International
The men—Maj. James A. McDivitt, command pilot; Maj. Edward H. White II, co-pilot.

The flight—62 earth orbits, 97 hours and 50 minutes.

The vehicle—Gemini spacecraft, weight: about 7,000 pounds.

The missile—Booster, Titan-2, two-stage modified intercontinental ballistic missile; first stage, 430,000 pounds of thrust; second stage, 100,000 pounds of thrust.

The orbits—Initial range, 10-165 miles above earth; major changes raise spacecraft to 105-165 miles, then 108-154, 107-143, finally 52-113.

The mission—Experiments on weightlessness effects; spacecraft rendezvous with another orbiting vehicle, burned-out second stage.

The highlight—White climbs out of Gemini, using spacegun to maneuver close to possibly touching second stage; takes pictures.

The significance—A step toward Apollo program and a man on the moon.

Lake Meredith Festival Starts

Crowds began pouring into Borger for the Lake Meredith celebrations which began today and will run through Saturday night.

The three-day celebration will feature frog-gigging, Miss Minnow Beauty Contest for children 24 years of age, Miss Lake Meredith Contest to select Borger's representative to the Miss Texas Pageant, fishing rodeo to be held starting at 2 p.m. Friday and a boat show to be held outside the aluminum dome.

Some 10,000 persons are expected to attend a fish fry to be held Saturday at the aluminum dome.

READY TO GO — U.S. Astronauts James McDivitt, left, and Edward H. White as they were strapped in and ready for their hoped-for history-making journey into space today. The flight was delayed about an hour and a half due to electrical trouble.

Cong Inflicts Heavy Loss In Surprise Ambushes

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist forces have isolated a jungle district near the border with Laos. Government relief columns trying to reach the district have been badly mauled in a series of Viet Cong ambushes.

U.S. Air Force and Navy planes today kept up the pressure of round-the-clock air attacks on North Viet Nam, attacking army barracks, radar stations, bridges, military convoys and a truck refueling site.

In an unrelated incident, two more Americans were killed late Wednesday when a Marine Corps observation plane crashed and burned during a mission near the Da Nang air base.

Three U. S. Air Force men were slightly injured when their rescue helicopter hit a tree and crashed in an attempt to land near the place where the observation craft went down.

The Americans killed in the plane crash were Marine officers on a reconnaissance flight near Hai Van Pass about 4 1/2 miles northwest of Da Nang. Viet Cong forces are known to be in the area but a Marine spokesman said the L19 plane was the victim of mechanical failure. No ground fire was reported.

Five Navy airmen were killed Wednesday when North Vietnamese gunners shot down two U. S. Navy planes during a strike against a Communist radar station 75 miles south of Hanoi.

The Central Highlands fighting, in Pleiku Province about 220 miles northeast of Saigon, has already claimed the lives of two American military advisers. More than 160 Vietnamese have been killed, wounded or captured. Viet Cong losses are estimated at 20 dead.

The Communist drive began Tuesday when a Viet Cong battalion smashed the 100-man government garrison in the district headquarters of Le Thanh and shattered three columns of relief troops rushed in from Pleiku, the province capital 30 miles away.

A U. S. military spokesman in Saigon said "operational reasons" were delaying fresh attempts to relieve the beleaguered area where a population of more than 37,000 is separated from Pleiku by a twisting mountain road.

Among the buildings hit in Hale Center were the post office, bank, city hall and fire station. Four fire trucks were inside the fire house and all Center Church of God of the

Rendezvous Fails; Walk in Space Next

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Astronauts James McDivitt and Edward White flew into orbit aboard their Gemini-4 spacecraft today but failed in history's first attempt to achieve a close rendezvous with the second stage of their Titan-2 booster rocket.

Still on schedule, however, was a space-walk attempt which would make White the world's first self-propelled space-man.

Command pilot McDivitt tried to fly Gemini in formation with the orbiting rocket stage but ran so low on jet maneuvering fuel that he was warned by ground control to abandon attempts to make a close approach to the rocket.

As Gemini-4 sped over New Mexico, McDivitt advised that he had used about 50 per cent of the spaceship's maneuvering capability in attempting to close the gap between the capsule and its spent booster.

"We're just about holding our own with it," he advised Gemini Ground Control. He said it was "taking quite a bit more fuel" than expected.

"Do you want me to make a major effort to close or should we save the fuel?" he asked.

Gemini Control advised him to "save the fuel" and not attempt such an effort at this time.

The distance between the capsule and the booster rocket at that point was varying from 300 to 400 feet at perigee, or the closest point to earth, to about a half mile at apogee, or the farthest distance.

Plans had called for Gemini to approach within 20 feet of the Titan second stage and for White, on his space walk, to maneuver even closer and photograph and perhaps touch his space neighbor.

This part of White's venture was ruled out by failure of the two satellites to achieve a close approach.

The booster, a huge object about the size of a house trailer, was tumbling end over end at a much more rapid rate than had been hoped. That would have complicated a rendezvous attempt in any case.

Gemini control reported McDivitt and White took two 16-mm movie cameras aloft. After White opens his hatch to begin his walk in space, he was to mount one of the cameras on the outside of the capsule.

McDivitt will operate the other movie camera as he peers at White through the left-hand hatch window.

Early in the flight, the two astronauts flew into the first of the many "sunsets" they will view in space.

About 20 minutes after launch, Paul Haney, the voice of Gemini, reported from the Houston, Tex., space center that early difficulties with the voice communication from the capsule had been cleared up by switching to a backup channel. He said the astronauts were "coming through excellently."

McDivitt was told everything looked good as the capsule passed over the Canary Islands. He responded, "Roger thank you."

Ouster of Barerra Seen By U.S. Diplomatic Sources

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said today disgruntled members of Maj. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera's junta regime may attempt to oust him from office.

Reports that Commodore Francisco Rivera Caminero, commander of the Dominican navy, already had attempted an anti-Imbert coup d'etat were denied Wednesday by Francisco J. Cardona, Imbert's Puerto Rican press secretary.

The diplomats said Imbert's consent to inter-American neutralization of the Dominican "White House" had caused deep dissension within the junta.

They said most of the high-ranking military officers on Imbert's staff objected to the neutralization because they had hoped to use the executive mansion as a basis for attack on the rebels.

The "White House," which junta forces wrested from the rebels during the fighting here was cordoned off Wednesday by Brazilian troops of the inter-American peace force.

A token force of Imbert's troops remained in the building as a symbol of his claim to the premises, but the demilitarized zone created by the Brazilians effectively isolated it from the rebels holding adjacent areas.

Tornadoes

were destroyed. The twister also hit the Hale First Born, in which seven persons were worshipping, and a drugstore owned by the mayor. The tornadoes were spawned by a fast moving squall line which rushed across the South Plains and Panhandle late Wednesday night. While heavy rains were reported in other areas, there were no other reports of tornadoes.

The system first swept into Cotton Center. Witnesses said at least three tornadoes dipped down from the clouds, but that only one touched ground.

When the funnel cloud hit the Shackleford home, it picked up a large combine and tossed it 100 yards into the fenced-in yard of an electrical station cop across the road.

The tornado then hit the home of Oscar Allen, but the Allen family had fled to a storm cellar.

Then the storm system moved on to Hale Center, about 10 miles to the northeast.

Once again a tornado formed, possibly the same one that hit Cotton Center. First hit were some homes on the western edge of town. A few injuries were reported there.

Then the twister struck at the church. The church was given only a glancing blow, but many of those inside were injured. The DPS said at least four persons were critically injured in Hale Center.

Finally the tornado struck at the downtown district. The town's city hall, built less than a year ago, was demolished. The volunteer fire department truck inside was destroyed by falling bricks. Across the street from the town hall, a drugstore owned by mayor L. D. Dyer was destroyed.

"We're just wiped out here," said Dyer. "I don't know what we will do."

Rains accompanied the twisters, slowing attempts to rush the injured to hospitals.

Thunderstorms swept from the west across the Panhandle Wednesday night and early today. The weather bureau said afternoon and evening thunderstorms would continue over much of West Texas east of the Pecos River.

Most of Central and South Texas was devoid of clouds and the weather bureau said those areas would enjoy fair and warm weather today.

First Federal Highway was the 609-mile road from Cumberland to Vandalia, completed in 1852 at a cost of $7,000,000.

Trio Handed Light Fine for Illegal Antelope Possession

David F. Cason, 21, of 412 W. 17 and George E. Mixon, 21, of 609 Roberta, entered pleas of guilty to charges of possession of a wild antelope carcass before Justice of the Peace Nat. Lunsford yesterday and were fined a total of $29, including court costs.

A companion, Bill Warren, was filed on in Gray County Court on the same charge and was fined $25 and court costs. Warren was charged in county court rather than in justice of the peace court because state law dictates that if a violator has a valid hunting license he must be charged in the county. Game Warden Buck Williams said Warren possessed a valid hunting license when he was arrested and Cason and Mixon did not.

The trio was stopped Friday by a highway patrolman for running a red light. The patrolman discovered the dead antelope in the back seat of the car and notified Williams, who filed the charges.

Warren originally pleaded not guilty to the charges, but late yesterday changed his plea to guilty.

and would continue to be made of copper-nickel alloy. Pennies still would be made of copper.

There would be no reduction in silver in the $1 coin. It would continue to be made of nine parts silver and one part copper — a formula that has been in use for silver coins for 173 years.

Johnson proposed that the new coins be placed in circulation some time next year.

"I want to make it absolutely clear that these changes in our coinage will have no effect on the purchasing power of our coins," the President told Congress.

The nation's silver stock, most of which is stored at West Point, N.Y., is now down to about 1 billion ounces. Last year the Treasury used 350 million ounces and, at that rate, the government could be expected to run out of silver in three more years.

The Treasury can't buy more silver to replenish its dwindling pile because there's none for sale. The world uses about twice as much silver every year as its silver mines produce.

In fact, instead of buying silver, the Treasury has to sell silver to industry in order to keep the price from rising to the "melting point," $1.38 an ounce, where it would pay users to melt down coins for their silver. The price is now at $1.29 an ounce.

If most of the nation's coins suddenly went into the melting pot, commerce would be crippled.

The government faced two choices. It could eliminate silver from coins altogether. Or it could reduce the amount of silver in coins.

Earliest known contour map is a chart of the English Channel drawn in 1737.

Useful Gadgets for Cookout

By AILEEN SNODDY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Accessories adding to the fun of outdoor cooking may range from a $260 aluminum-screen house to a 59-cent pack of paper plates.

Colorful aprons and hats are primarily frills, but essential aids boil down to four items. These are tongs, turner, fork and brush. These should have handles 15 to 17 inches long to protect the chef from burns. When buying these tools make certain they are strong enough to hold the weight of the food you want to turn—a thick steak, for example.

How is the handle applied to the metal portion? Tools have additional strength if the tang, or blade extension, runs to the end of a wood handle and is riveted securely with three or more rivets.

Specialists in the field recommend you consider buying U.S. items with wood handles. Many imports are softwood while American-made accessories are of a more serviceable hardwood such as walnut. Metal accessories such as baskets will give longer wear and remain presentable if stainless steel. Also essential to keep fingers guarded against burns are sturdy insulated mitts. You will get the most protection if the mitts are elbow length rather than shorties.

Whatever you buy in the way of cookout accessories, start with the prime consideration: is it the right size for the job you want it to do?

Select pots and pans, skillets and other utensils of sturdy ease-to-clean materials. When shopping for an electric fire starter, look for one with a long, insulated handle and UL seal. Don't leave your electric unit outdoors. Exposure to rain and heavy dew can cause it to short. There are many types of quick starters or artificial coals. However, look for those that provide the safest method of lighting charcoal without flaring up.

Other pleasant companions during a cookout are decorative paper plates. Although 75 per cent of the paperware business is in white, colorful designs let a hostess set a pleasing table. Fortunately the pressed plate industry now offers plates with added rigidity.

Paperware is not expensive to use. But it's disposable—and this fits paper cups, paper plates and bowls into most budgets for outdoor eating.

Jugs, ice buckets and ice chests also have come a long way. Test-tube plastics such as styrofoam and polystyrene make a big difference in weight and performance. In the past there were bad batches of "foam" which meant some containers leaked after slight use. The manufacturers say "quality control" eliminates this among the under $3.99 items.

In better stores handling outdoor equipment, the store will replace a chest if it is damaged when shipped or when made.

In heavy-duty items, check for securely fastened handles treated or embossed so your hands don't slip when carrying the unit, and look for bonded seams.

In metal coolers, you can avoid pitting in the metal by following care instructions. After use, empty the cooler, rinse and wipe dry. Leave off the lid to dry thoroughly.

Tamale Bean Bake Adds to Picnic Time

"It's Picnic Time!" The coming of summer makes backyard cook-outs and picnics on the patio a must for the entire family. What a treat for children, celebrating the beginning of summer vacation with a patio luncheon. For a bit of flair in the picnic menu why not use a Mexican theme and serve Tamale Bean Bake. You will discover the "kids" will really go for a new twist to the ever popular outdoor eating and will want it quite frequently. Because Tamale Bean Bake is so easy to prepare the youngsters will eagerly lend a helping hand. No need to worry about it being too strongly seasoned for the younger group. Only a small amount of seasonings is added to the Kidney Beans which complements the spicy sauce of the Tamales. The rich full flavor of the Kidney Beans enhances the tasty Tamale cornmeal coating and the zesty meat sauce. So if you are looking for an easily prepared dish that will make appetites come alive; serve Tamale Bean Bake. Family and youngsters alike are sure to come back for seconds.

TAMALE BEAN BAKE
2 cans (15 oz. each) New Orleans Style Red Kidney Beans

1 can (15 1/2 oz.) Tamales
1 1/2 teaspoons seasoned salt
1/2 teaspoon monosodium glutamate

1/4 teaspoon chili powder
1/2 teaspoon onion powder
Drain just one can of Kidney Beans. To the other can add drained Kidney Beans, 2 tablespoons of Tamale Sauce and seasonings. Pour into a 1 1/2 qt. casserole. Remove papers from all six Tamales and nestle down in the Kidney Beans. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Makes 6 tasty servings.

Hungry Little Leaguers Are Refreshed by These Cookies

HOME RUN MOLASSES DROPS refresh hungry Little Leaguers.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
The baseball season is in full swing. Little Leaguers are big news. True the local team may not always win, but it's probably endlessly hungry. That's when the family cookie jar goes to bat.

These spicy molasses drops will touch all bases—they are soft, nutritious, plump. Not only the players, but also the coaches (dads and older brothers) will dive into the cookie jar after the game and refresh themselves with these molasses drops and a glass of milk.

SPICY MOLASSES DROPS
Makes 4 dozen
1/2 cup shortening
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg
2 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 1/2 teaspoons allspice

1 1/2 teaspoons ginger
1/2 cup light molasses
1/4 cup boiling water
1 cup rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Heat oven to moderate (375 degrees). Beat shortening and sugar together until creamy. Blend in egg. Sift together flour, salt, soda and spices. Add alternately with molasses and water to creamed mixture. Stir in oats and nuts.

Drop teaspoonsful onto greased cookie sheets. Bake in preheated oven (375 degrees) 8 to 10 minutes. When cool, frost with Browned Butter Frosting.

BROWNED BUTTER FROSTING
Brown 1/4 cup butter or margarine over low heat; remove from heat. Beat in 1 1/2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla and 2 tablespoons evaporated milk until smooth and of spreading consistency. If necessary, add a little more milk.

Line the oven broiler pan with aluminum foil to avoid a messy cleanup job.

Food Buying Guide
The following guide to the nation's food buys for the week-end was prepared by the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dairy foods, seasonally plentiful in June, take the spotlight among weekend food buys for the first week of June is dairy month.

Dairy cases will feature plenty of milk, butter, cheese, cream, ice cream, and many other nutritious dairy products. Eggs, usually displayed in the dairy case, are also in generous supply this week.

Features at the meat counter vary considerably, depending on the area.

Fresh produce counters will offer plenty of celery, corn, lettuce, onions, potatoes, squash, and tomatoes. For fruit salads and snacks there are generous supplies of bananas and strawberries in most localities.

Consumers Are Satisfied With Food Packaging

WASHINGTON, D.C. (SPL) — The majority of American consumers are well satisfied with food and grocery packages and with information given on labels, Paul S. Willis, president, Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc., told the Senate Commerce Committee.

Testifying at hearings on the Hart bill on packaging and labeling, S. 985, Mr. Willis said that his statement was based on the results of a nation-wide research study to find out what consumers think about food and grocery manufacturers, their products and how these products are packaged.

"After hearing the numerous conflicting statements about consumer attitudes made at the earlier Congressional hearings on Senator Hart's bill, GMA engaged Opinion Research Corporation, Princeton, New Jersey, to make a comprehensive study to find out what consumers really think," he said.

The study, results of which were reported to the Committee by Walter Barlow, president, Opinion Research Corporation, showed that both men and women have a favorable view of food manufacturers and what the manufacturers do for them. Seventy-five per cent of those interviewed have a favorable over-all impression, less than ten per cent have an unfavorable impression, Mr. Barlow reported.

One of the purposes of the study was to find out whether consumers are satisfied with present packages or desire any changes. After hearing the proposals for changes and the manufacturers' viewpoints on these changes, most consumers express satisfaction with the information given on packages and labels: pictures on them; shapes and designs of packages; package sizes; statements of number of servings; and the level of fill in packages.

The few consumers who want changes, the study revealed, consider it to be the manufacturers' responsibility to make them rather than the responsibility of the government. Less than 1 in 19 consumers favor government agencies making the changes.

Consumers also indicated almost no interest in standardization of food products. Only one per cent of the women called for standardization of shapes or designs of packages. Similarly, in regard to changes in package sizes, eight per cent of the women want an increase in the range of sizes available. Only six per cent would like to see sizes standardized.

Four out of five and in some instances even a higher ratio of consumers express satisfaction with the quality of food products.

Highlights From the State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association
AUSTIN — Political and Legislative history has been written in the 59th lawmaking session just ended.

Highlights:
—A $3,600,000 budget providing for expanded services in every area of state government and affecting every citizen.
—Record improvements in higher education, including creation of the powerful coordinating board for Texas colleges and universities.

—A $101,000,000 salary raise for school teachers, $70,000,000 of which will be paid by the state.

—A sweeping overhaul in the entire system of state mental hospital and tuberculosis control administration.

—Major public welfare expansions, including a proposed constitutional amendment to permit full state participation in the new federal medical care program for the aged, blind and disabled. A provision of the amendment would qualify non-citizens who have lived in the state for 25 years or more.

—Overhaul and extension of the state's program for water control and development.

—Congressional and legislative redistricting which will change the makeup and complexion of future legislatures, shifting the balance of power from rural to urban areas.

—If voters approve proposed constitutional amendments, the Senate will be enlarged from 31 to 39 members and terms of the governor and other statewide-elected officials now limited to two years, as well as those of state representatives, will be extended to four years.

Gov. John Connally emerged as the most powerful governor in modern Texas history.

WHAT IT WILL COST — Despite its record achievements, the 59th session handed a relatively-modest tax bill to Texas citizens.

Cigarette smokers will bear virtually the entire share of the cost. Tax was increased from eight to 11 cents a pack — the nation's highest state rate. This will raise $70,000,000 to $73,000,000 in new money during the coming biennium.
A one-time gain of $6,000,000 will be achieved by setting of a 15 months-from-date-of-death limitation on payment of the inheritance tax.

Teacher pay raise also will require financing at the local level. Present estimate is that the owner of a $15,000 home will pay $2.52 more in annual property taxes to school districts.

BILLS PASSED — Among the new laws passed during the final days of the regular session of the 59th Legislature were:

—Continuation of the Bay Study Committee, which is concentrating on the problems of water pollution;

—Regulation of the taking and processing of oysters and other shellfish for sale;

—Creation of Permian State College, if higher education coordinating board approves, at Odessa;

—Asking members of Congress from Texas to vote for keeping the section of the Taft-Harley law which permits Texas to outlaw closed union shops;

—Prohibition of the use of .22 caliber rimfire ammunition to hunt deer, elk, antelope and wild sheep in counties not regulated by the Parks and Wildlife Commission;

—Prevention of city councils from making residence within the city limits a condition of employment;

—Legalization of free games on pinball machines;

—Requirement for testing of all babies born in Texas for phenylketonuria (PKU), an inborn error in system which, if uncorrected, causes brain damage;

—Parents liability up to $5,000 for malicious and wanton damage by their children.

MIGRANT PROGRAM PROPOSED — Governor Connally's Office of Economic Opportunity made application for $5,400,000 in federal funds under Economic Opportunity Act for massive program of assistance to state's 128,000 migrants.

Program seeks $3,200,000 to extend special six-months' intensive schools for migrant children from 10 districts to 40. A $1,100,000 component would start adult basic education, homemaking training and occupational training in communities with large numbers of migrants.

Texas OEO also proposes to build and staff, for $735,050, five rest-stops for migrants.

A tuberculosis screening and testing project would cost $302,665. It calls for six regional offices in South Texas.

Texas Employment Commission and Texas Education Agency plan to retrain and relocate migrants into permanent jobs in West Texas. An application for $205,626 will place Texas OEO in a coordinating position with respect to housing requirements and allow it to work with local community officials in a program of community relations while migrants are in school.

Day care in migrant labor camps is planned at cost of $100,888. A $60,110 allocation would enable Texas State Lib-MORE MORE MORE... rary to engage in a pilot project for services to migrants in labor camps.

Governor also announced State Department of Parks and Wildlife expects to employ 247 youths during summer in a park maintenance program under a $193,891 federal grant from neighborhood Youth Corps.

Financial Gossip

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—A long-simmering dispute over government control of patents resulting from research financed in part by federal grants has cropped up again in the halls of Congress.

Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) has said he will ask the Senate, in debate on a $5.2 billion authorization for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, to hold for government ownership of patents on research financed by the agency.

There have been other proposals for federal legislation which would give the government title to process and patents stemming from discoveries or developments where the government has paid part of the bill for the overall project.

Validity Disputed

Much of private industry disputes the validity of this claim, and some sources contend that it would reduce the participation of research men from major industries in projects where their brainpower is needed.

Pharmaceutical Manufacturers complain now that the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Public Health Service has adopted a restrictive policy toward patents on discoveries developed through university research in which the government has a share.

But neither party to the dispute questions the patent system concept as such; the arguments are over who will hold the patent rights, and what shall be done with them.

Study Under Way
The U. S. Patent Office, where such claims are filed, is observing this year the 175th anniversary of the first U. S. patent law, one which has been copied by most of the nations of the free world. In that time, nearly 3,200,000 U. S. patents have been issued.

President Johnson has set up a commission on the patent system to make a study which will be the first since the system assumed its present form in 1836.

Abyssinia became Christian in the fourth century when Christianity was made the state religion.

WOMEN'S JOB CORPS CENTER PROPOSED — McKinney Veterans Hospital would be used as a women's job corps center, if application of Texas Education Agency is granted.

Request was made contingent on closing of the hospital facility. However, Congressman Ray Roberts of McKinney is appealing decision to close the hospital.

Application calls for center with initial 600 enrollees and a staff of 275. A grant of $3,600,000 is sought for program beginning August 1, with average participation of 500 enrollees per month.

Hospital has 100 acres of land and 100 buildings.

PRESS RIGHT UPHOLD — A conference committee report on the new Code of Criminal Procedure, which contained the nation's toughest restrictions on pre-trial news coverage, was rejected.

Revised information restriction states:

"It is the duty of the trial court, the attorney representing the state, the attorney representing the accused, and all peace officers to so conduct themselves as to assure to the defendant a fair trial upon the presumption of innocence and at the same time afford the public the benefits of a free press."

A legislative resolution directs a study in the area of information on pre-trial activities.

NEW COLLEGES ASKED — Petitions have been submitted to the State Board of Education for creation of new junior colleges in Scurry, Bee, Maverick, Tarrant and McLennan counties.

Board has set hearings on the petitions for June 5.

Increase in applications is believed due to more state and federal aid to junior colleges and requests by the Legislature that junior colleges undertake expanded programs in academic and technical-vocational fields.

Members of the San Antonio delegation, meanwhile, obtained adoption of a resolution which asks the new Coordinating Board, Texas State College and University System — to be organized in September — to study the need and feasibility for a four-year institution in Bexar County and report to the next Legislature in January of 1967.

SHORT SNORTS — President Johnson was a legislative visitor for the unveiling of his portrait on the east wall of the State Senate Chamber.

A filibuster by Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan during the critical final days of the session kept from passage a bill by Sen. Andy Rogers of Childress, which would have directed the Texas A&M University regents to turn down applications for admission by women, other than members of the families of faculty and students and women who want to take courses not offered elsewhere.

Killed in the Senate was the bill which would have required that county tax assessor-closetor levy and collect a property tax on automobiles and prohibiting license plates from being issued until the tax was paid.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Quail Hatchery at Tyler is shipping bobwhite quail to be used by game wardens in supplying owner stocking requests.

NEW YORK: Major aluminum producers moved to push prices higher on a wide range of products in wake of the lead-off by Aluminum Co. of America following wage boosts.

The wage-price hikes contrast sharply with recent White House statements on such matters but the aluminum industry has not drawn any direct fire yet such as has been leveled at steel occasionally.

WASHINGTON: The Civil Aeronautics Board refused to approve an agreement among international airlines directed toward banning inflight entertainment such as movies.

The CAB suggested such an agreement, which in effect has already been voided because the federal agency did not act on it by an April 27 deadline set by the airlines, might be in violation of antitrust laws.

PHILADELPHIA: U.S. District Judge Thomas J. Clary continued hearing arguments today on a suit for preliminary injunction to halt the proposed merger of Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp. and Armour & Co. Thomas M. Evans, owner of more than 100,000 shares of Baldwin stock, asked the court to bar a meeting of Baldwin stockholders later this month called to vote on the merger.

NEW YORK: Some 24,500 workers went on strike at 19 U.S. Rubber Co. plants in 11 states Wednesday morning after a contract deadline passed without a settlement. Negotiations, broken off after nearly 17 hours of continuous bargaining, were expected to resume later.

REFUSES APPROVAL
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) Tuesday refused to approve an agreement among international airlines to ban such in-flight entertainment as movies.

The CAB action was somewhat moot, since the agreement already had been voided by its failure to act by an April 27 deadline set by members of the International Air Transport Association (IATA).

The CAB said it could not agree with the IATA claim that airborne movies are a "costly frill." Pan American World Airways, appraiser of the CAB decision, promptly announced in New York that it would start showing airborne movies on its long-haul flights as soon as possible.

EDUCATION CONFERENCE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A White House conference on education will be held July 21 to promote "a lively exchange of views on the major problems confronting our schools and colleges."

President Johnson announced the conference and selected John W. Gardner of New York, president of the Carnegie Corporation and the Carnegie Foundation for the advancement of teaching, as its chairman.

He also named four state governors as vice chairmen-at-large: Democrats Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California, John B. Connally of Texas and Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, and Republican John H. Reed of Maine.

ENGLISH PAPER
STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Sweden's first English language daily newspaper "Scandinavia Daily News," was published here. The paper is intended to inform tourists and visiting businessmen about economic affairs in Scandinavia.

Mountain sickness is a disease that may occur in an individual several hours or days after he has ascended a mountain to an altitude of about 7,000 feet or higher. It is caused by the rarefied air at high altitude and the prolonged lack of an adequate oxygen supply in the blood and body tissues. Symptoms may be headache, sleeplessness, depression, or rapid heartbeat.

Johnson Cool on Repeal Of Section of Taft-Hartley Act

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International
UPI's crack Washington labor reporter, Bill Eaton, reports that President Johnson is cool to repeal of Section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act. Bill says Johnson probably believes that union members do not place on repeal the top priority accorded it by AFL-CIO leaders.

Section 14-B permits the states to outlaw compulsory unionism within their borders. Labor leaders have made repeal of that right - to work section their No. 1 demand on Johnson in payment for labor support at the polls last November. Republicans are stalling at Johnson with charges that he praised the Texas right-to-work law against compulsory unionism in his 1960 campaign for the vice presidency. UPI has not turned up any Johnson quotes of that kind. But LBJ was at least adjustable. The Democratic presidential platform on which he campaigned for the vice presidency in 1960 promised repeal of Section 14-B. Johnson also was running in 1960 in Texas for re-election to the U.S. Senate. The Texas Democratic platform on which he sought support for his Senate campaign was opposed to repeal and he has asked Congress to repeal it but not positively. It is reasonable to doubt that he really wants repeal.

On All Sides
In any event, the President has been on all sides of the question. On March 17, 1960, the official publication of the International Association of Machinists said of LBJ:

"In his successful Senate campaign in 1948 — he won the primary by a scant 87 votes — Johnson made his support of Taft-Hartley a principal issue."

Texas constituent wrote to Johnson in 1959 demanding a tougher bill than the Senate version of a then pending labor reform bill and that LBJ replied:

"Throughout my public life, I have favored strong regulatory legislation to protect Americans from improper labor practices, having voted for the Vonson bill, the Smith-Connally Act, the Taft-Hartley Act and, in two instances, having voted to override a Democratic President (vetoes) to make these measures law."

Blows Not Powerful
Consistency is not often found among the crown jewels of any politician, least of all among the treasures of a politician who swapped a Texas Senate seat for the White House. The labor vote, the Negro vote, the racial blocs, in general, are not powerful forces in Texas politics. A successful Texas politico doesn't need them.

A president of the United States needs the bloc votes. The only way to get them is to promise the bloc voters what they want even though it may not be necessary to deliver. So it is that LBJ is changing his political image from what it was to what it must be to hold national political support. Johnson needed the left wingers and he got 'em.

The image Johnson needed to change is suggested by an Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) statement in June, 1960, in opposing LBJ's effort to win the Democratic presidential nomination. ADA said: "He (LBJ) is a conservative, anti-civil rights, gas-and-oil senator. He has supported all of the major anti-labor legislation enacted during the past two decades — and bragged about it."

CIA Information on Russia Would Surprise Soviets

By HARRY FERGUSON
UPI National Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A story is going around that one day a top official of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) needed some information on the manager of a factory in the Soviet Union. He called for the files and, somewhat to his surprise, found all possible information about the man, including the fact that his mistress had dyed her hair three times. Different color every time.

It could be true, for the CIA has information about Russia that would shock Moscow. Each month the CIA buys or otherwise obtains 200,000 pieces of literature from Russia, the European Communist bloc and Red China. It has a translating computer that turns Russian into English at the rate of 30,000 words an hour. Nothing from Russia is too small to interest the CIA—railroad timetables, the pig population in the Ukraine, what movie is being shown in Kiev.

Two-Front Fight

The United States fights Communist subversion on two fronts: The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) is responsible for Communist activity inside the United States. The CIA carries the battle to all other parts of the world. In doing so, it operates in a highly unorthodox fashion. It lists its number in the telephone book and the other day it held a news conference about the state of the Soviet economy. Everybody knows that the CIA headquarters are at Langley, Va. This open-handed way of doing business would shock odd-line espionage officers, but the CIA has plenty of secrets and keeps them well.

SETS FIGURE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Job Corps hopes to have approximately 10,000 young men and women enrolled in its centers in 26 states by the end of June. The total is expected to reach 40,000 by year's end.

Dr. Otis A. Singletary, corps director, said today that two men's training centers, three women's centers and about 20 conservation centers — in 15 states — will be opened this month. At present the corps operates five men's centers, two women's centers and 17 conservation centers accommodating more than 2,200 young men and women aged 16 through 21 who are out of school and out of work.

There are perhaps a dozen men in Washington who know how much the CIA spends annually, but the best guesses are between $400 million and $1 billion. Nowhere in the federal budget will you find any money allotted to the CIA.

Each year the CIA director appears before small panels made up of senior members of the Senate and House Appropriations Committees. He tells them how much money he needs, but doesn't have to explain how he is going to spend it. After the congressmen okay the expenditure the money is broken up into small items and salted and hidden throughout the federal budget. An item for 1,000 monkey wrenches in the Air Force budget well could be CIA money.

People who work for the CIA are divided into "overt" and "illegals." The "overt" work in the open, keep regular office hours and the only restraint they are under is that they are forbidden to discuss the type of work they do. No "overt" is ever quite sure what the fellow in the next office is doing.

May Lose Lives

The "illegals" fan out across the world, penetrate the Iron and Bamboo Curtains and operate in the full knowledge that if they are caught, they may forfeit their lives.

In Congress, the CIA has warm friends and bitter enemies. Its enemies see it as a sort of anonymous branch of the United States government that is going around meddling in the internal affairs of both friendly and unfriendly nations. It is accused of helping make a complete botch of the Bay of Pigs invasion in Cuba and the events leading up to the present crisis in South Viet Nam.

Some persons even profess to see a threat to our own government from an organization maintaining a sort of private army and operating in secrecy.

Allen Dulles, former CIA director, denied all this in a recent television interview. He said the CIA never had jumped into a situation without getting the consent of the president of the United States. He also defended the necessity for secrecy by pointing out that Russia and Red China were pushing their espionage battles strongly and that you had to fight fire with fire.

The CIA has had some successes, too, but as President Kennedy once remarked "You hear all about the failures, but nothing about the successes." The CIA correctly predicted the British - French - Israeli invasion of Egypt before the Suez crisis. It gave the U.S. armed forces ample warning that the Chinese Reds were going to intervene in the Korean War.

And sometimes the failures in our foreign policy stem, not from the fact that the CIA did not deliver the information, but from the fact that nobody in the White House or State Department used the material correctly.

FLOWERS FOR THE QUEEN — A young German girl dashes for the sidewalk after tossing flowers into the open car carrying Britain's Queen Elizabeth in Hamburg, Germany. A baffled policeman, right, salutes hurriedly as the Queen and Hamburg Mayor Paul Nevermann ride by.

You, Your Child and School

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

Children with unusually high academic ability often need special attention in order to fully develop their talents. Although much recent attention has been directed toward the disadvantaged students, it is always important to provide proper programs for children with all levels of ability and background.

Gifted children may present some difficult problems. Since they learn very quickly and are extremely curious, they might become bored or restless. At home, they may be spoiled and hard to understand. In school, teachers may find that they are becoming careless and developing undesirable behavior.

Schools have developed a variety of programs for these children. The approach ranges from advancing the child's grade level (skipping) to arranging special classes either full or part time. Sometimes schools attempt to work with such students in the regular classroom and to challenge them with extra assignments. Regardless of the school's approach, parents should be prepared to supply a home environment which is interesting and encouraging. Careful attention should be given to the child's social development.

It is natural for you, as parents, to take pride in your child's ability and achievements. Don't push him beyond his capabilities for your own satisfaction. Do recognize his needs if he is in this highly gifted group.

There is no exact measurement to identify a gifted child. Good indications are possible. IQ, which is a measure of intelligence, is important. The school may not permit this.

An IQ score of about 130 or above probably means high ability. Next, you might look at achievement. Is the child doing very well in school or is he having difficulty? This refers to the ease with which he learns, not his behavior. Does the child have a vivid imagination? As the truly gifted child develops, he should be able to analyze his work in great depth. He will probably be able to perform school tasks with a great deal of understanding.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Perhaps no one could be more surprised than the British that one of their best friends in the hotbed of African nationalism should turn out to be none other than Kenya President Jomo Kenyatta.

In 1954, the British jailed Kenyatta as the convicted leader of the dread Mau Mau. The Mau Mau were dedicated to the expulsion of Europeans from Kenya and against their victims and their ceremonial rites conducted practices of a particularly revolting nature.

When in 1959 it developed that Kenyatta's conviction had been obtained at least partly on perjured evidence, the British released him from jail but kept him confined to a remote residence in northern Kenya far from the capital of Nairobi.

For among his other sins, the British regarded him as a political trouble-maker.

This was the man who in 1964 became president of the new republic of Kenya.

Instead of expelling the white farmers who had built up Kenya, he encouraged them to stay. Kenya remained within the British Commonwealth and when rebellion threatened to spread from neighboring Uganda and Tanganyika (now Tanzania), he had no hesitancy in calling upon the help of British troops.

Of late he has been experiencing difficulties at home and with Uganda and Tanzania with whom he is bound in an East African common market.

The three maintain joint rail, air and postal services and use the East African shilling as a common currency. Governing the Common Market is a central legislative assembly.

But among the three there are galling differences. Uganda became deeply involved in the attempt to overthrow the government of Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe. Tanzania has become a port of entry for Red China.

In mid-May trouble developed when Kenya intercepted a 75-ton convoy of Chinese weapons traveling by night across Kenya territory en route from Tanzania to Uganda.

The Kenyatta government seized the convoy and arrested its 47-man escort on charges of arms smuggling.

For Tanzania it was especially embarrassing because of an impending visit this month by Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai.

For a time it appeared that the three-way partnership might dissolve altogether. But in the end the common market proved most important and Kenyatta, after exacting a groveling apology from Uganda, released the weapons and men.

At home, the fly in Kenyatta's ointment is his vice president Oginga Odinga.

Odinga is an admirer of Red China and the Soviet Union. He has been suspected of plotting Kenyatta's overthrow and this week aroused demands for his resignation with new attacks upon both Britain and the United States.

Dear Abby....

Privacy of 'Old Love Letters' Is Questioned

DEAR ABBY: Forgive me for taking exception to your viewpoint of "invasion of privacy" regarding the lady who read her parents' love letters after their death.

Have you ever read the classic, "The Letters of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning"? And if Margaret Mitchell had not read her grandmother's diary who would have written "Gone With The Wind"? If my great-grandmother had not examined the contents of her mother's trunk, a letter written by George Washington would have been destroyed.

I have saved my husband's love letters and valentines. Although my children may not be interested in reading them now, maybe after I die they will enjoy some of the sweet sentiments that are in my treasure chest.

"SENTIMENTAL"

DEAR ABBY: A letter in your column dealt with the same situation with which I was recently faced, and I would like to tell you how I handled it. My mother had made her home with me and my husband during her last years. I knew where she had kept her "love letters" from my father, who had preceded her in death by many years.

When mother passed away, I did not read them. I felt as you that they were private. Yet I could not bring myself to destroy those letters as I knew they must have been very precious to my mother or she would not have kept them for nearly 65 years. Before her funeral, I tied her "love letters" with a white ribbon and asked the undertaker if I might slip them into the casket to be buried with mother. He said he thought it was a splendid idea, so I lifted the coverlet and placed them deep beside her body. I have always felt that I did what would have pleased my mother the most.

Yours very truly,
HELEN G.

DEAR ABBY: So you regard it as an "invasion of privacy" to read old love letters left behind by those who have died unless the writers have indicated during their lifetime that they wished them to be read?

If my parents had left me a legacy of love letters, I would have had them published. All I got was a box containing their letters, which were filled with threats, bitter accusations, and ugly recriminations. With those letters were a divorce document, my mother's death certificate (marked "suicide") and my father's cancelled insurance policy. Sign me

NO LOVE LETTERS

DEAR ABBY: The letter about "old love letters" and who has a right to read them reminded me of an experience I had back in World War II. My buddy had a hobby of writing to girls and collecting their pictures. He had a boxful. He happened to be married, but he really wasn't a bad guy, Abby. He loved his wife, but when he wasn't with the one he loved, he loved the one he was with, if you get what I mean.

Well, his number came up in North Africa, and I lost the best buddy I ever had. When they put all his stuff together to send home to his wife, I made sure she wouldn't get anything that would scar her memory of him.

NO REGRETS

DEAR ABBY: Letters are personal property and belong to heirs—whether specifically willed or not — just like money, clothing or real estate. It could even be argued that heirs have a public and social obligation to examine all effects of the deceased including correspondence, because it might have a significant bearing on the welfare of those still alive. Who can say a "love letter" is only a love letter until he has examined it? Those who wish their correspondence to remain private should destroy it, or specify that it should be kept sealed for any period of time they choose. Yours, rationally,

Bubbles, Bikinis and Babes

By HELEN HENNESSY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA)—There is a time in every girl's life when she can wear a bikini and give no thought to her figure. That's when she is between the ages of 2 and 5.

And there are lots of bikinis

around for the lollipop set this summer. In fact, all the play clothes for the small fry are tiny editions of smart adult fashions.

Surf sets, back-wraps, shifts with slit sides, bubbles and bikinis are softened in the current mood with ruffles, bows or pleats and done in easy-care cotton knits and seersucker.

There are solid colored A-line tops with a striped pussycat bow at the neck and matching striped bloomers. And side-pleated shifts stir up plenty of striped action with every movement. Knits with a "tennis look" are plentiful. The lowered waistline and pleated skirt are teamed with matching panties.

Denim with bright touches of color vies for top billing with red, white and blue and prints that are a storybook world full of flowers.

The toga for little sunshiners are indeed a lighthearted, bouncy collection this season.

Trip Through Russia A Surprise for Reporter

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH
MOSCOW (UPI)—"The Russians and the Americans!" shouted the man with the gold teeth, looking a beefy, friendly arm around my neck. "I was in Germany with you Americans. We made Hitler crawl!"

This exuberant greeting at the Soviet - Polish border launched us on one of the world's most dramatic drives—along the 600-mile, 200-year-old highway slashing diagonally from Brest to Moscow across the vast and richly green plains of Russia and Byelorussia.

With our 6-month-old son lying in the back of our station wagon, my wife and I were driving to Moscow and my new post in the United Press International bureau there. It was a highway of lush fir forests, broad, flat farm fields, placid peasant and drab villages of wooden houses painted only around their intricately ornamented windows. This is "panzer country," the invasion route Hitler and Napoleon used into Russia, and we found a rusted German helmet in a ditch to remind us of it.

Land Gives Clue
The highway traverses only a fraction of the Soviet land mass. Yet the intimidating, untamed plains we saw gave a clue to the patient but expansive character of the Russian people.

It is a cruel land, buffeted by constant north winds. Farming in this area is still relatively primitive. In the entire drive, we saw only one piece of farm machinery — a tractor. Everywhere groups of 10 or 20 peasants pushed plows behind horses, planted fields by hand, or sat quietly in pastures tending small herds of underfed cattle. Women, dressed in trousers and quilted jackets, joined men in the field or in work gangs repairing the broad, uncurving highway. Girls in their early 20s strode manfully beside the road, picks and shovels perched easily on their broad shoulders.

For the last 400 miles the road—at all times a good one—widens into a four-lane superhighway. Traffic is sparse, but there is no speeding because of the children darting across the road to pick wild flowers, and the plodding, horse-drawn carts, shaped like long bread baskets on wobbly wheels, carrying peasants and their wives.

Impressed With Size
The great impression gained from driving across Russia is one of size. Farmlands and old battlefields stretch to a far horizon, and the woods roll by for miles with few signs of human life.

And the sky! Other nations have skies, but none so big as Russia's; like a cavernous blue bowl covering the globe, it forms a luminous backdrop to the pale green spring forests.

I can report that the natives are friendly, but reserved or perhaps bashful of strangers. They stared and seldom smiled as we passed, but returned our waves.

At our hotel in Smolensk, the waitress gave service with a smile, then pulled up a chair to chat and inspect with fascination our Russia-English dictionary.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 4
GENERAL TENDENCIES. Your interest in getting matters of vital importance to you handled and take into consideration to a greater extent the standpoint of others and just how much they will do to give you their backing and support.

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Get busy and make your plans for the vacation you want to take soon. Show true loyalty to loved one in p.m. Stay within your budget yet plan for the greatest amount of fun.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Home problems and family interests require your most intelligent handling and should be given just that. Get business matters finished properly, too. Be a delight to all in p.m.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Find a way to convince allies to be more cooperative during the day in regular work. Improve appearance during spare time. Take treatments you need. Be more interested.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Givever the data you need will show manner in which to become more prosperous in the near future. Improve property and make it more valuable. Show that you are on the ball.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — If you are more charming and courteous, you can get added support from others today. Fine opportunities can come via social circles. Get out in p.m. and make the right contacts. Put ideas to work quickly.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — Those whom you like the most can be helped in a quiet and unobtrusive manner now. Make it a point to be of service to those who are worthy. Be a fine and dependent.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) — If you do not get in touch with good friends more often, you are apt to lose them. It's fine to be a good family person. Don't get too close to those who place in your life. Go happy.

Scorpio (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) — If you have some special plans that will be mutually helpful to yourself and others, be sure to contact them now. Prosperity can be increased, understanding easily reached.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You can now grow appreciably in other areas besides the one in which you have been active for a very long time. Those at a distance can be contacted. Domestic problems also can be solved easily.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Let higher-ups appreciate the manner in which you handle your biggest opportunities and obligations today. Be more playful and make. Change your attitude for the better.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — All you need more help from you, but the rewards will be infinitely greater. Use if you can. The public backs you. Use such help very wisely and please all.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Make your surroundings more pleasant and you help yourself as well as others who labor with you. Be more systematic. Show that you have kind regard and feelings for others.

FOUR CONVICTED
GENOA, Italy (UPI) — Four anti-American demonstrators, including two Communists, were convicted of participating in a "seditious gathering." Their sentences were suspended.

The four were among about 50 persons who marched to the waterfront here Monday to protest U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The U.S. naval support ship Sylvania was docked in Genoa at the time.

Nun in New Garb for New Job

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Sister Francetta Barberis began a new job today in brand new attire.

After 47 years as a nun, Sister Francetta hung her habit in the closet and donned layman's garb to begin her new job as a coordinator in President Johnson's Job Corps.

Sister Francetta, 64, was president of Webster College in Webster Groves, Mo., for seven years until she took her new job.

Now, instead of living in a convent, she will live in a Washington, D.C., apartment, and travel around the country helping to set up Job Corps centers where young women 16 to 21 can be trained to become skilled workers housewives and responsible citizens.

Sister Francetta is still very much a nun. She took her new job only with special permission from the head of her order, Sister Mary Luke Tobin, superior general of the Sisters of Loretto.

"I didn't intend for this to happen," Sister Francetta said. "I wasn't aware that it would. But now I'm glad it did. Some good may come of it."

Sister Francetta has made a lifelong career in the education of young women. With her 65th birthday approaching, she announced in March she would resign as president of Webster. At the same time she revealed her new job.

"Mine is a service order which makes it especially appropriate to engage in a new type of service in the anti-poverty program," she said. "I want to keep at it as long as I feel fit for the work."

Job Corps officials, however, asked Sister Francetta to change to street clothes for the new job.

"Having to change my garb was a natural outcome of the work I am going to do. The kind of clothes a person wears doesn't mean a whole lot," she said.

"It makes no difference whether a person wears the religious habit or the clothes of a layman. A person makes it as a human being."

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Despite a ratings skid this season, CBS - TV's comeback attempt in the fall will be bolstered by the network's usual advantage, a solid core of immensely successful break - and - butter names in television: Lucille Ball, Red Skelton, Andy Griffith, Dick Van Dyke, Ed Sullivan and Jackie Gleason.

Other CBS - TV returnees with steadily successful ratings include "Gunsmoke," "The Beverly Hillbillies," "Peticoat Junction," "Gomer Pyle" and "Gilligan's Island." The network's slip this season was due in great part to the failure of so many of its new shows in the ratings, as well as in quality. The man who presided over this schedule, James T. Aubrey Jr., has been replaced as CBS-TV president. In his previous years as CBS - TV boss, he had established the network as the runaway ratings leader with comedy and game shows.

The new shows that failed to make it this season, and will not be back, include "My Living Doll," the Joey Bishop Program, "Many Happy Returns," the Cara Williams series, "The Bailleurs of Balboa" and "For The People." Canceled long ago were "Mr. Broadway," "The Reporter" and "The Entertainers." A documentary series, "World War I," which was first rate, was planned for only this season.

Established CBS - TV series that will not return in the fall include "The Defenders," the night - time version of "Password," and "The Doctors and the Nurses," which will move to ABC - TV as an all - new daytime soap opera entitled "The Nurses" — its original name on CBS - TV. A fall-in CBS TV series from England, "Secret Agent," is not on the fall schedule. And neither is a new twice-a-week night - time CBS - TV soap opera, "Our Private World," which doesn't seem to be scoring in the ratings.

"Perry Mason" will be thrown against the NBC - TV powerhouse, "Bonanza," next season. "Slattery's People" will return because the network needs some kind of programming prestige, however slight. Danny Kaye came near to being canceled under Aubrey, but narrowly made it back — and is solid with the new bosses.

"Rawhide" will be without Eric Fleming, with Clint Eastwood the new star. Meanwhile, CBS - TV will finally introduce its own prime - time weekly movies, and has also picked up Shirley Booth's "Hazel" series from NBC - TV and Fred MacMurray's "My Three Sons" from ABC - TV.

Maury Making Record Assault

By United Press International
Even the legendary base-stealing records of Sliding Billy Hamilton and Harry (Smokey) Stovey may fall before the onslaught of Maury Wills this season.

Stovey, at the age of 31, swiped 156 bases in 130 games for Philadelphia back in 1888 and Hamilton stole 115 in 133 games for the Phillies in 1891.

That's a bundle, but don't count Wills out of the race. Apparently, all he needs is to reach first base as often as Hamilton and Stovey, both better than .320 hitters in their record-setting seasons.

Wills, a .271 hitter, reached first base twice Wednesday night and twice stole second for the Los Angeles Dodgers as they downed the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1. He has a total of 32 thefts, putting him 12 games ahead of his 1962 pace when he set the modern record of 104.

Cincinnati stopped Houston 5-2 in a game halted after six innings because of rain and the other three National League games were rained out.

Wills was nailed once Wednesday night, trying to take third in the eighth, but the Dodgers already had a commanding lead, thanks to a home run by John Roseboro and run-scoring singles by Wally Moon and Lou Johnson. Moon also hit his first home run in the ninth.

Don Drysdale (9-3) tired in the sixth after allowing five hits, and Ron Perranoski relieved to blank the world champions over the final three innings. Ray Washburn was the starter and loser for the slumping Cards.

The victory gave the Dodgers a four-game lead over Cincinnati and San Francisco in the NL pennant chase, equalling their biggest lead of the season.

Tommy Harper doubled with the bases loaded to cap a four run second inning for the Reds. Gordy Coleman opened the second with his fifth home run and Johnny Edwards slammed his seventh round-tripper in the sixth against loser Dave Giusti (6-3).

Sammy Ellis allowed four hits over the six innings and walked four en route to his eighth victory in 10 decisions. The Astros scored both of their runs in the fourth inning, bunting a walk and singles by Joe Gaines and Bob Lillis with a throwing error by Pete Rose.

Nellie Fox, regularly a second baseman, played first base for the first time in his 19-year major league career because the Astros have outfielders Jim Wynn and Lee Maye and shortstop Eddie Kasko on the injured list. Regular first baseman Walt Bond played left field.

Nicklaus Protests Role As Buick Open Favorite

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus, one of golf's biggest hitters, insisted today he shouldn't really be the favorite in the $100,000 Buick Open over the longest course on the pro tour.

"It's built for a long hitter," Nicklaus agreed, "but it's not my kind of course. I don't know why. Maybe the course is okay for me, when my game is right but it isn't now."

Nicklaus, leading money winner on the pro tour this year with two tournament victories, proved the accuracy of this judgment with an 82, 10 over par, in Wednesday's pro-amateur round. It was one of the poorest scores hung up by a pro among the 52 who tested the 7,280-yard Warwick Hills layout.

"I just can't guess what kind of score will win," Nicklaus said. "A lot depends on the weather. It's been wet and the wind makes a difference too."

Tom Rolfe Is Choice

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Belmont Stakes is the severest test of a jockey on the Triple Crown circuit and Ron Turcotte knows it.

"Winning the Belmont will be an important step in my career," said the 23-year-old jockey Wednesday. Turcotte will ride favored Tom Rolfe Saturday in the $125,000-added classic at Aqueduct. "It will enhance my reputation and I will get more stakes mounts."

Frank Whiteley, trainer of Tom Rolfe, emphasized the role of the jockey in the mile and one half Belmont, the longest test in the Triple Crown.

"The jockey probably plays a more important role in the Belmont than in any other race," Whiteley said. "A good sense of pace is essential."

Turcotte is confident Tom Rolfe will repeat his Preakness triumph Saturday, even though many observers feel strong-finisher Dapper Dan, should be favored.

His opinion reflected those of the other pros. Most believed the winning score, which will near $20,000, at the end of 72 holes on Sunday will range downward from "four or five strokes under par."

Arnold Palmer, who fired a 71 in the pro-am, was the most optimistic, predicting that 273, 13 under par, might be necessary to win if the weather breaks to dry out the links and the wind dies down.

Palmer, who has won only one tourney this year and ranks 11th in earnings, although he is the modern era money winning leader, was disgusted with his game despite his sub-par round. He went to the pro shop immediately after the round and changed the lie on four of his irons, tapping them with a rubber mallet into more satisfactory shape.

Nicklaus and Palmer, despite their problems, were mentioned along with Bruce Crampton, the only player on the tour to win three events this year. Bobby Nichols, Billy Casper and Bob Charles as logical choices.

Howard Defies Theory

By United Press International
Frank Howard is known around the American League as a nice guy, but with a bat in his big hands he defies Leo Durocher's pet theory about nice guys finishing last.

Big Frank currently leads the league with 39 runs batted in, tied for the home run lead with 10 and is batting a respectable .302, good for the No. 10 spot in the circuit.

Howard came to the Washington Senators from the Los Angeles Dodgers of the National League for pitcher Claude Osteen and infielder John Kennedy.

Wednesday night he returned to the city of Angels, this time to play against the home team—the Angels. He batted 10 times in a twin-night doubleheader, getting six hits including two homers, and driving in five runs as the Nats swept their fifth twin-bill 13-0 and 7-1.

Howard hit 3-5 in both ends of the doubleheader, driving in four runs in the first game and one in the second. He had plenty of help in his assault on the Angels' pitchers, with Joe Cunningham driving in five runs in the opener with a single and a three-run homer. Ken McMullen homered in the nightcap and Jim King had one in the first game. Phil Ortega won the opener, with Benny Daniels gaining credit for the victory in the nightcap.

Homer is Climax

Norm Siebern's fifth home run of the season climaxed a four-run Baltimore uprising in the sixth inning and helped Steve Barber to his record-equaling fourth victory. Dick Hall relieved Barber and pitched two-hit baseball for four innings. Dick Green hit his fifth home run for the A's, a blast that Oriole right fielder Russ Snyder caught. However, Snyder tumbled into the pennant porch in the Kansas City Stadium and Green was awarded a home run.

Monterey Bi-District Titlist, 10-0

LUBBOCK — The Lubbock Monterey Plainsmen used the effective pitching of Tommy Toombs and a seven-run third inning to rout Fort Worth Castlesberry, 10-0 Wednesday afternoon.

The victory gave coach Bobby Moegle's Plainsmen the bi-district championship. Moegle has never lost a bi-district series against a District 4-AAAA representative.

Gal Golfers At Phillips

BORGER — The third one-day golf event of the season for the Panhandle Women's Golfers Association was scheduled today at the Phillips Country Club course.

A shotgun start was to be used at 9 a. m.

Teams entered are Huber Course of Borger, Phillips Country Club, Pampa Country Club, North Plains Country Club of Dumas, Tascosa Country Club, Amarillo Country Club and Ross Rogers Golf Course of Amarillo.

Hogsett Wins 4-H Shooting

COLLEGE STATION — High individual honors in the rifle matches at the State 4-H Club Roundup held yesterday at Texas A&M University went to Danny B. Hogsett of the Top O' Texas Club. He shot a 370 out of a possible 400 in four positions. He won over 81 individuals in this contest.

The Top O' Texas 4-H rifle team represented Gray County and district I by winning fourth place with a score of 1064: only two points from the second place team. Team members and their scores were Hogsett (370), Monte Brogdon (351), Bob Ward (343), and Doug Abbott, alternant.

Hogsett and Ward were on the team that placed third last year. At that time Keith McCann won the high individual award with a score of 372. The high individual and first place team are ineligible to compete in future matches.

Do Pirates Have Angel in Outfield?

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Are there angels in the Pirates' outfield? Or a sorceress in their locker room?

"Naw," said Manager Harry Walker. "Nothing like that. But somebody came over the other day and let me rub his rabbit's foot."

Rabbit's foot, elixir or magic spell—not to mention the classic ingredients for winning baseball, good hitting and pitching — gained the Pirates the season's longest winning streak, 12 straight going into tonight's game with the New York Mets.

The spurt moved the Pirates out of the National League cellar to seventh place and comparative respectability.

Hitting Was Off

Although the Bucs had been getting excellent pitching during the first month of the season, their hitters were producing less than three runs a game.

Walker went to work. He brought Donn Clendenon, Bob Bailey and Willie Stargell to the ball park for some private instructions. His credentials were legitimate. The results were too.

Clendenon shot his average to .340 with 27 runs batted in. Stargell started hitting homers and now has 10 with 23 RBI's. Bailey, who started the year with a bang but dropped almost out of sight, was moved into the leadoff position and increased his average to .255.

But the turning point was the return to activity of Bill Mazeroski and the recovery of Roberto Clemente, who was the majors' top batter last year.

Just Hit .300

Clemente had an assortment of injuries during the off-season and reached a low point when he contracted malaria. He just brought his average over the .300 mark.

Mazeroski broke a bone in his foot in spring training. Since he returned to action the middle of last month the Pirates have been nearly invincible. In 14 games he had a .316 average and 12 RBI's.

The hard-charging Tulsa Oilers whipped the Dallas-Fort Worth Spurs 2-0 Wednesday night to take over the top spot in the Texas League's Eastern Division.

Albuquerque increased its Western Division lead to two games as it beat Austin 6-2 and Amarillo defeated second place El Paso 9-8 in 10 innings.

The Amarillo-El Paso game tilted back and forth with home runs playing the key role.

The game was tied 7-7 at the end of regulation play, but Amarillo's Brock Davis unloaded a two-run home run in the top of the tenth to put the Sonics on front. The Sun Kings came back with one in their half of the inning, but it was not enough.

The Sonics used five pitchers in quelling an El Paso 12-hit attack.

Bearcats To NAIA

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—The Sam Houston State Bearcats pack their bags today for a trip to the NAIA baseball tournament, beginning Monday in St. Joseph, Mo.

The Bearcats won their sixth trip to the national tourney Wednesday by edging Northwestern Oklahoma 7-6 in the second game of a best of three playoff series.

Sam Houston had won the first game 10-0 Tuesday. The Bearcats will meet Southern University of Baton Rouge Monday in its first tournament game.
