Garland Woodard Will Not Enter Attorney's Race

To the Voters of the 72nd Judicial District:

During the past few weeks numbers of citizens from over the 72nd Judicial District have sought my consent to make the race for District Attorney and until now my decision on the matter has been undetermined and in justice to those who have taken an interest in my behalf and others interested in the matter, I believe it my duty to make an announcement through the press to the effect that I will not be in this race at this time.

I assure those who have taken the interest that I fully appreciate their attitude but my professional duties at this time will not permit me to announce my candidacy for that important office.

DR. HORN RETURNS FROM BROWNWOOD TRIP

President Horn returned late Monday afternoon from Brownwood where he attended a meeting of the Mid-Texas Teachers Institute which was in session there Friday and Saturday. He made an address to the Teachers on Friday and also made a talk at the meeting of the Brownwood Rotary Club. On Sunday morning he spoke at the First Methodist church. ## DEAN HALL TO VISIT COLLEGE FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Dean Colby D. Hall of Texas Christian University will visit the Tech Friday and Saturday of this week. He planned to visit here last week but sickness in his family prevented leaving home. He is secretary of the Texas Association of Colleges and will visit the Tech in reference to its application for membership in the Association. The school of Home Economics plans to give a luncheon for the Dean.

Several of the students are planning to teach next year and the blanks will be used for applications. They may be obtained from the office of the Registrar at any time now. The Teachers placement bureau will aid the students in receiving positions as several calls have come into the college already.

OLD SCHEDULE TO BE ADHERED TO IN SPRING TERM

The schedule of the winter term classes will be adhered to as much as possible for the spring term classes. The Deans of the college had a meeting yesterday afternoon at four relative to the new schedule of the students in the school of Liberal Arts. The other schools will not fare so well as they will have to make changes in several courses. The school of Agriculture and the School of Home Economics will change a number of their class periods.

FLORICULTURE TO BE OFFERED IN SPRING TERM

A course of Floriculture will be one of the new courses added for the spring term. The course will be taught by C. H. Mahoney, head of the department of Horticulture. It deals with the culture and use of flowers, annuals, perennials, bulbous plants and flowering shrubs. It also deals with the study of varieties, flower panels and group plantings and general beautification of the grounds and home. The course will be offered for students of the School of Liberal Arts and Home Economics as well as students of agriculture.

C. H. Mahoney asks that all students who wish to take the course to please sign up before March 20, in room 103 of the Home Economics building.

MISS WEEKS TO SPEAK AT COUNTY LINE TODAY

Miss Margaret Weeks, Dean of the School of Home Economics will go to County Line today with Miss Dubois, county demonstration. Miss Weeks will make her second talk of a series to the clubs of the county. She will talk today on "Value of Milk and Vegetable in the Diet."

The Rook and forty-two party which will be staged by the Home Economics club promises to be one of the best affairs of the year. Plans are going forward daily in making everything pleasant for the crowd. A good program is being prepared and no moment will be dull during the evening. The club is putting on the party to raise funds for the Loan Fund which they have established. The tables will be sold for one dollar, twenty-five cents a place.

AGRICULTURE SCHOOL RECEIVES GIFT

The first pecan tree to be donated to the college was received yesterday from Welton Wynn, farm editor of the Lubbock Morning Avalanche. The tree was delivered at the college and planted yesterday afternoon. A carload of trees was received the past week and are being set out as soon as possible. The lot contained Arizona Cypress, Evergreens and Chappa Bing. Additional Chinese elms have been ordered and will be set out as soon as they arrive. With the arrival of spring, the campus will have a slight touch of green here and there. A row of evergreens have been planted back of the administration building.

ANNUAL SALE CONTEST CLOSE TODAY

The Annual Sale contest conducted by members of Las Chaparritas will close today. Over 100 annuals have been sold by the girls of the clubs. The girl selling the highest number of books will receive a five pound box of chocolate as an award for her work. Several of the girls have been showing competition for the prize. The following girls stand high in the number of sales up to date: Pauline Trippett, Pauline Scott, Edna Yonge, Afton Gilker son, and Almeda Murray.

BAND TO HAVE SWEATERS AND EMBLEMS

At a regular practice of the college band Monday night the members voted to have sweaters and emblems for all members making the requirements. The sweaters will be scarlet with the Tech emblem and lyre. They voted to continue this policy throughout the life of the school. Prof. Harry Le Maire is now directing the practices of the band and is doing good work. He is an accomplished musician and gives the boys some real instruction. Prof. Waghorne and De Maire are working together and will soon have one of the best concert bands in this part of the state. They plan to make a tour of neighboring towns in the spring.

PRESS CLUB MEETING TONIGHT

Regular meeting of the Press Club, Los Escritores will be held tonight at 7:30 in the Library. The program will consist mostly of "Reflections of O'Henry" given by Mamye Alexander and Agnes Brown. Discussion will follow their talks. Every member is requested to be present and take part.

Miss Billie Nell Pirtle, sister of Miss Ruth Pirtle, head of the department of Public Speaking, arrived in Lubbock yesterday and will enroll in the Tech for the spring term. Miss Nell is an advanced student having attended Clarendon College for two years.

Miss Bess Neely, sister of Harvey Neely, deceased Tech student, was in Lubbock Monday and visited at the college between trains. She was on her way to Clovis, New Mexico, where she teaches in the public schools.

A member of the faculty stated yesterday that a great number of the students were spending their idle moments during classes in the cars in front of the administration building. He further stated that they always rested in a car not their own. He reported that many of the students spread picnic lunches in the cars and leave the crumbs and remains there. It is a sad state of conditions to go out and find your car littered with bits of food and paper. It is hoped that this practice will stop.

BLOOD AND SAND FROM EL TORO

Spring-time is here without doubt. We said so some time ago when we heard a mockingbird singing and looked around and saw the songster settling on a bush by the side of the road.

But what makes us think so more than ever is the fact that the baseball nine is just now taking the form of nine-squared or nine-cubed. Any how, the old "charley-horse" mode has taken hold on just lots and lots of the fellows and even down-town yesterday evening, we had to dodge a horse-hide missile hurtling down the middle of the street. Woe to any young fellow that dares show his shapely young limbs in the vicinity of a baseball bat factory.

Not willows, so don't think; but if you get a chance, just look south over the campus from the west end of the Ad building, down that Lane toward nineteenth street which is to have trees on each side. Pretty well, rather.

We wonder, perchance, if that's to be the "lovers lane" of the future? From what dame rumor is telling now, it's headed in the right direction toward Slaton. Some of those Slatonites may be laughing up their sleeves at the out-of-town business they're getting; but we don't care. The two couples of Tech students who went down Sunday and got married in Slaton (they didn't go much further down) are setting the examples, and keeping up the good work.

"In the spring-time," they say, "a young man's fancy,—etc" you know the rest; but anyway, it must have turned rather heavily in this instance.

Wonder if there's any connection between that and that little song "Show me the Way to Go Home?" And on top of that, the Hiking Club Girls jauntily setting out on a twenty-five mile stroll? Some jelly-bean suggests that they've been getting in practice.

CAPTURE GUNMEN WHO SHOOT POLICE CHIEF

EARTH HUNGER

Bolton Hall has graphically pictured man's earth hunger: "Suppose a great giant should grasp the planet in his right hand and with the fingers of his left hand scrape off its inhabitants into the palm—just suppose. Standing there with all the people in one hand the whole round earth in the other, the giant would say to the wiggling, squirming mass in his left palm—Now what do you want, home rule in taxation, prohibition, free speech, the 'revolutionary movement'?" "What would you want if you were that mass? You'd want the earth first, for how could you practise any of your systems without the earth? This giant supposition is quite to the point? A giant AIMLESSNESS, IGNORANCE and GREED has scraped the people off the earth, not into a closed palm, but into a number of wriggling, huddled masses called cities, widely separated by immense stretches of idle land. And millions of the huddled ones don't know that they want the earth. What would I do with land? they ask. Where do you sleep, suspended in the air? Where do you eat, toil or wander about in search of a job? On the sea? Every moment of your life you are paying toll to some one for the privilege of standing, sleeping, or working on the bare earth. All your food and clothing first paid tribute to the landlord before it passed to the manufacturer and the storekeeper."

We boast of living in the most scientific era of the world's history. We have delved into the inmost secrets of nature. We have analyzed and catalogued the facts of the physical world, until we sometimes wonder how much there is left to be discovered. In the midst of all this research we persistently ignore the one vital thing for man's peace and happiness. He is a land animal and cannot exist without it. The child born today to primitive man. We can settle this question and settle it right if we bring to it the same unprejudiced intelligence that we have applied to our research into physical laws. It is merely a question of honest endeavor.

AS YOUNG AS SHE SINGS

Perhaps the saying, "a woman is as old as she looks," might be paraphrased to read, "a woman is as young as she sings." At any rate it would be appropriate in the case of Mme. Schumann-Heink, who has just returned to grand opera. She will be 65 on June 15 next.

In the present season at the Metropolitan opera house in New York, she is sharing honors with Marion Talley, 19-year-old prima donna, the two being fast friends.

Mme. Schumann-Heink has had a career almost without parallel, especially as it appears to be by no means finished. She was the principal contralto of the Dresden Court Opera at 17, when she first appeared as Azucena in "Il Trovatore," and at an early age made a great reputation in Wagnerian roles at Bayreuth. She was formerly a leading artist at the Metropolitan, to which she has now returned after several years on the concert stage.

To have ranked with the greatest singers of the world for 47 years is a wonderful record. From the ovation which was accorded Mme. Schumann-Heink upon her return to opera a few nights ago, it seems safe to say that she will round out a half-century of high artistic achievement.

ODD MEDICAL IDEAS

Probably no science has been evolved from a greater mass of early superstition than that of medicine. Still, it is said that some of the old-time prescriptions may possibly have had a certain curative value although appearing ridiculous at first glance. A recent writer declares that the broth of red ants was once used for intestinal disorders, and that modern research finds that the formic acid in ants is a strong antiseptic, which may have killed intestinal germs. Some believe that the sting of bees and wasps relieve rheumatism. These insects also secrete formic acid, the injection of which through the "stinger" may possibly have a beneficial effect. Baked toad, ground to powder, was used by the Greeks as a remedy for heart disease. Chemists find that there are certain alkaloids in the skin of a toad which act as a heart stimulant. Some other odd alleged remedies have not yet been satisfactorily explained however. Among the innumerable ones may be mentioned tying a pickled herring to each leg for dropsy; eating a dried and powdered magpie for epilepsy; carrying a buckeye in the pocket or sleeping with a black cat for rheumatism; various incantations for the removal of warts and so on. Considering the mystery which formerly surrounded

ANCIENT INDIA

Sir John Marshall, the Indian Government archaeologist announces the discovery of a buried city in India. Here beneath the sand has been found a 5000-year-old city of the chalcolithic-brass and stone-period of the third millennium before the Christian era, and beneath it layer after layer of still older remains representing structures erected successively on their predecessors' ruins. The ruins show a highly developed civilization, with wells, bath rooms, brick flooring, elaborate drainage systems. Crude stone knives are found in large numbers, and specimens of copper, gold, silver jewelry and fine glazed earthenware and engraved seals indicate a high degree of ancient art.

ed most diseases, it is not surprising that equally mysterious remedies have been suggested and applied. And while we have made amazing progress in medicine and surgery, the highest skill is still baffled by a few maladies that have been studied since the dawn of civilization.

MADE HIS OWN JOB

It seems that there should always be a job in this world for any person who really wants to work, and there probably is if he only knows how to find it.

That using one's head is often better than wandering aimlessly about seeking work is illustrated by the experience of a French Canadian, who removed to Vermont and spent the summer looking after cottage dwellers on the shores of Lake Champlain. When the season was over he was out of work, but he had 13 children and something had to be found to help tide them over the winter.

He heard that the Vermont school law required the township board to furnish transportation for any group of ten or more children living more than two miles from a school house. Ten of his 13 children were of school age so he asked the board to furnish them transportation. The board agreed that his request was not to be ignored, so he was employed to take his own children to school at three dollars a day.

Yes, there is usually a job for each of us somewhere, if we will only use our heads to find it.

PRESS-MUZZLING JUDGE

Another judge who would interfere with the liberty of the press has gained some notoriety by warning newspaper men that they shall not publish any testimony offered in a Mississippi murder trial under penalty of a jail sentence for contempt of court.

The special assistant attorney general of the state has declared that there is no law in Mississippi to prohibit the publication of testimony in murder cases. So it appears that the judge in question would set himself above the law.

His order on the subject of publicity of testimony as quoted in dispatches, included this: "They (the newspapers) will not publish anything with reference to this case without referring its subject matter to some official of this court, with the view of seeing that the report does not constitute an infraction of this order."

This means that while any ignorant or irresponsible individual may spread by word of mouth anything he may desire about the trial, either true or untrue, a reputable and responsible newspaper is prohibited from giving its readers the facts.

That the judge's attitude is entirely unwarranted and an attempt to unlawfully interfere with the constitutional liberty of the press can hardly be questioned.

CHICAGO'S SHAME

An appeal to the federal government to rescue Chicago from the grip of lawlessness, presented to Vice-President Dawes by the Better Government Association of that city, reveals a situation perhaps without a parallel in the history of American communities.

This situation can best be described by quoting verbatim from the petition, which was presented by Dean Lee of the John Marshall Law School, acting president of the association which reads:

"Evidence multiplies daily that many public officials are in secret alliance with underworld assassins, gunmen, rum-runners, thugs, ballot box stuffers and repeaters; that a ring of politicians and officials, operating through criminals are selling beer under police protection; police working out of the principal law enforcement office of the city have been conveying liquor," and so on.

It is also asserted that more than 100 bomb outrages have been perpetrated during the past year, with no convictions except when defendants pleaded guilty, and then they were released with little punishment.

The document was referred to the Senate immigration committee. There will be an investigation, perhaps.

That reminds us, isn't it terrible that the Mexicans should tolerate such an awful place as La Juana? Shouldn't Uncle Sam send an army down there, or something?

EDUCATORS PROTEST

As a protest against the growing tendency of legislators to meddle with our public schools system, the superintendent's division of the National Education Association, at its recent convention in Washington, adopted a resolution containing the following: "Only that education can be free which provides under conditions appropriate to the age of the student, complete liberty to seek the answer to any honest question. We would respectfully remind our fellow citizens that while legislation seeking to control the subject matter of the curriculum may impede educational progress, it has not the power to alter, modify, or set aside any immutable law of nature, of science, or of God." In that resolution the educators compressed a lot of wholesome truth into a very few words.

WHITHER ARE WE DRIFTING?

SO THINK WE

We think that to err is human and common. To admit it is not human nor is it common.

We think one good way to save gasoline is to ride in the other fellow's car. That is about the only way around it too.

We think about the latest joke is the proposal to appoint a committee of unbiased men to investigate prohibition.

We think that the Indianapolis ice cream man who went broke in business is possibly caused by too many frozen assets.

We think that possibly "better speech week" is a good thing but a deeper think week would possibly do much more good for the community.

We think that Missouri boy who attended school for twelve years without being tardy or absent could be counted in the list of those regular in their habits.

We think that Tahoka is holding up the reputation of the South Plains in going forward educationally, in the voting of $100,000 for a new school building.

We think for the sole reason that they had been married since December 1926 is hardly reason enough for granting a divorce but such seemed to be the case in a recent divorce pugilion.

We think it would be a good thing to fine every battle axe cutter ten dollars for every spit in the entrance to the postoffice.

We think there is some people that never do anything on time except buy goods. They are good at that however.

We think the people of Lubbock should encourage all the products of the farm to be raised that possibly can and for that reason the recent milk ordinance should be explained to the readers of this paper and patrons of the city, in a way that they will not confuse it with wrong interpretations and where it is not practical it should be repealed immediately.

We think it is well and good to take care of the health situation in Lubbock. In fact it is very important that we should, but we must also take care of the industries of the South Plains.

We think it is dangerous to kick. We read yesterday where a fellow got mad and kicked over a can of condensed powder and his friends have been looking for him ever since.

We think if that fellow is correct about the American dollar being worth seventy cents, we would like to know what has become of the thirty. Its a cinch we haven't got it.

We think it has not been so very many years since ten yards of calico at six cents a yard made a mighty nice dress for nice people. Them days are gone forever now, however.

IT IS REPORTED

That some folks in this city would like to know who in the Avalanche office is capable of writing two columns of worthless stuff like this every day. For the benefit of such curious people we will have the party sign each paragraph with the letter "x", if it will help you in identifying the person that gets up this dope. We like to be accommodating to our readers, and this liberality on our part should certainly convince you that this is true.

That Ben Smith of the Slaton Times has an idea that Lubbock people have a habit of taking credit for things that they do not do. Lubbock folks do so much that people sometimes think they are responsible for many things that they do not claim credit for, but we are of the opinion that The Times editor does not know some things that he does on some things that he says he knows, and some of these days when he gets us keyed up we may say a few things that we know that he does not know, and he will be surprised that we know a lot of things that he does not know.

That the Cumberland Presbyterians will soon have a new brick church building in which to worship. That's one thing you can say about Lubbock church people. Like the schools of the city, the church buildings are also kept well to the front. When education and religion keep pace with the commercial needs and requirements of the city there is no need to fear for the future of the city.

That Dan Moody said a lot of things about the present administration in his opening announcement for the office of governor that many of the papers would not print. It just simply would not get by the statutes that define libel. Dan said some hard things which if true would strangle the natives of Juarez.

BUILDING OF AN EMPIRE

Jackson—1837
Organized 1837; created March 17, 1836. One of the 25 original municipalities. Edna, the county seat. Created as a result of a consultation held in 1835. Named for Andrew Jackson, one of the great warriors of that day and at the time President of the United States.

Jasper—1837
Organized 1837; created March 17, 1836. One of the 25 original municipalities. Jasper, the county seat. Named after William Jasper, a Revolutionary patriot. Immortalized for his daring bravery. Killed in an attempt to plant the colors on Spring Hill at the terrific storming of Savannah in 1779.

Jefferson—1837
Organized 1837; created March 17, 1836. One of the 25 original municipalities. Beaumont, the county seat. Named after Thomas Jefferson, third President of the United States.

Liberty—1837
Organized 1837; created March 17, 1836. One of the 25 original municipalities. Liberty, the county seat. The naming of this county follows a custom which began during the Revolutionary War. One authority says that in the various states of the Union "Liberty" has become a geographical name 83 times. The first town in this Texas municipality was called Liberty.

Matagorda—1837
Organized 1837; created March 17, 1836. One of the 25 original municipalities. Bay City, the county seat. Name is supposed by many to be derived from Spanish words, meaning a dense canebrake. An outstanding feature is Old Caney Creek which, in remote times, was the bed of the Colorado River.

Milam—1837
Organized 1837; created March 17, 1836. One of the 25 original municipalities. Cameron, the county seat. Named after Benjamin R. Milam, one of the great names in the founding of Texas. Born in Kentucky in 1791. Came to Texas in 1816. He soon obtained a concession for a Colony on Red River, and in 1826 another for a Colony of 200 families in South Texas on the San Antonio and the Guadalupe. Was in the battles of Nacogdoches and Goliad. Killed by Mexicans at San Antonio December 8, 1835.

Montgomery—1837
Organized 1837; created December 14, 1837. One of the 25 original municipalities. Conroe, the county seat. Named after Richard Montgomery, hero of Ireland, and came to this country in 1773. As Brigdier General, he was killed at Quebec in the winter of 1775. He took his place in history as an American patriot.

Nacogdoches—1837
Organized 1837; created March 17, 1836. One of the 25 original municipalities. Nacogdoches, the county seat. Named after an Indian tribe. Remnants of De Soto's adventures found them within our borders as early as 1542. A mission was established. Upon the coming of the French in 1719, the Indians were moved to Espada, near San Antonio, in 1731. It was here they lost their identity. Nacogdoches was re-established about 1775 by the Spanish.

Red River—1837
Organized 1837; created March 17, 1836. One of the 25 original municipalities. Clarksville, the county seat. Red River, the boundary line of Texas on the north, flows through many miles of soil which colors the water—thus the name. The county takes its name from the river.

WORKABLE PLAN FOR STOCKING UP WITH HOGS

The banks of Floydada are taking a forward step in importing into Floyd County a carload of good sows and gilts.

Several plans have been submitted for restocking the farms of the Southwest with hogs. All have the same end in view, but the plan of the Floydada banks appeals to us as the most practicable.

J. I. Hammond has gone to Nebraska to purchase a carload of bred sows and gilts. He will personally select the animals to be shipped, assuring himself that they are fit individuals and that they are breeders.

Those sows will produce litters early this spring and their offspring will be ready for market this fall or winter.

Other methods of selecting hit and miss from the stock pens of the big markets do not appeal to The Herald as strongly as the Floydada plan. They lack any assurance that the animals selected are fit for breeding purposes. To use them here must be available suitable boars and there are few of them in the country now.

Mr. Hammond is securing the bred sows and gilts at prices which are reasonable, if representations of the seller by letter and by wire are correct. He can himself on the ground verify their correctness.

That Mr. Hammond is capable of performing his mission is well known to all who know him.

PREPARATIONS BEING MADE FOR GOLF TOURNAMENT TO QUALIFY LOCAL PAIR TO MEET SAMPSON AND QUALL OF POST

The Municipal Golf Association of Lubbock, which has just been reorganized for the purpose of reclaiming the county park links in the canyon immediately east of Lubbock, has enrolled 63 members to date, and preparations for the qualifying tournament to pick two men to play Jimmie Sampson and Charley Quall of Post City, are being made.

Tentative date for the qualifying tournament has been set for Tuesday, March 16th, and if weather permits and all arrangements can be made for the tournament by that time it will be started on that date. Registration cards have been placed in Bowen's Drug Store where all who will participate may sign up at this time. Officials of the association urge that those who will enter the tournament sign up as early as possible in order that the exact number of participants may be determined and details completed before the date above mentioned.

By next Sunday we will have a register box on the grounds by Number One tee, and all players, both members and non-members, will be required to register before play begins. All the holes have been measured off and distance marks will be placed between all the greens during this week. The work that was done on the links immediately following efforts of Attorney Vauhn E. Wilson, E. B. Adecock, manager of the Wooten Grocery Company and others in reorganizing the association was favored by the rains that immediately followed the rebuilding of the greens, which have been packed and are in better shape than has ever been the case since the first building of the links.

Membership in the association is growing steadily, and that there will be enough play on the links this season to make it interesting for all and that the approaching tournament will find the members ready for real competition. While the abilities of the Post City men have not been underestimated, it is believed that a local pair can be found that will give them a good game.

PLAINVIEW BULLDOGS EXPECT GOOD BASE BALL SEASON

PLAINVIEW, March 9.—Prospects loom exceedingly bright in the camp of the Plainview Bulldogs for a successful baseball season. With eight letter men back from the '25 team and some new material that is showing up exceptionally well, Guy Allen, coach optimistically completed the fifth day of practice with fourteen boys that have been coming out regularly. This number will be increased to sixteen as soon as Roy Teague and John Craig recover from the flu. No schedule has yet been arranged but a practice game with Wayland College will probably be played this week.

A. T. Boswell who has hung up a record as a leading athletic this year in both football and baseball and with two letters in baseball to his credit a center fielder, has been selected as captain and Jim DeJarnatt, pitcher of last year, manager. The pitching mound this year will probably be held down by DeJarnatt, McDonald, and McKinney, while Hix and John Craig will handle the receiving end. Infield applicants are Phillips and Cross, first base; McCowan and Pearce, second; Tom Williams, short; Jim Craig, and Teague, third. Kline, Boswell, Terrell, and Viser are trying for outfield positions.

MILLIGAN WILL GO INTO MIDDLEWEIGHT PRIZE RING

NEW YORK, March 9.—Tommy Milligan, whose "in again, out again" career in American fistic circles has been hard to keep up with lately, is out for good.

The Scotch welterweight appeared with his manager, Billy Ames, before the state athletic commission Tuesday, and announced that hereafter he will box as a middleweight. Milligan thus automatically renounced his title bout with Mickey Walker, the welterweight champion, and will sail at once for bonny Scotland.

KAPLAN WINS POOR FIGHT FROM WAGNER AMID HISSES

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—Kid Kaplan, world's featherweight champion, fought a 10-round draw with Eddie "Kid" Wagner, local featherweight, at the Arena last night. Kaplan and Wagner both put up a poor exhibition, neither doing much fighting. They stalled and hugged repeatedly. Eight thousand fans who packed the Arena booed and hissed both fighters throughout the bout.

AMERICAN GIRL RIDES STOWAWAY ON JAP SHIP

HONOLULU, March 9.—The first American girl stowaway ever carried on a Japanese liner has arrived aboard the T. K. K., steamer Karu Maru. Miss Cornelia McAllister, of San Francisco, made no attempt to hide after the vessel cleared from that port a week ago. At first she was assigned sleeping quarters in the storeroom, but an American consular official aboard obtained private for the 21 year-old girl.

BRAVES EXPECT FIRST DIVISION BERTH IN 1926

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 9.—"No worse than fourth place for us this year. We have only the Pirates, the Giants and the Cardinals to watch, as we're better balanced and stronger than the other clubs." This is the optimistic opinion of the peppery Dave Bancroft and his Boston Braves.

DELANEY PREPARES FOR MICHIGAN BATTLE

NEW YORK, March 9.—Bearing no marks from his Monday night's bout with Joe Loham, in which he stopped the rugged Cleveland in the tenth round, Jack Delaney Bridgeport light-weight, has begun training for his fight next Monday night with Mike McTigue of Dublin. The winner of the Delaney-McTigue bout is to have first shot at champion Paul Berlenbach. While the Bridgeport boxer will enter the ring a favorite over the aging Irishman, many believe McTigue is much too clever for Delaney. Mike might out point Jack just as he did "Tiger" Flowers some time ago.

FINALS IN FOUR-BALL GOLF TODAY IN MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., March 9.—Wild Bill Mehorn and MacDonald Smith meet Gene Sarazen and Leo Diegel in the finals of the international four-ball gold tournament at the Miami country club Wednesday.

Mehorn and Smith eliminated Johnny Farrell and Tommy Kerrigan from competition, 7 and 8, on Tuesday, and Diegel and Sarazen took the measure of H. Hampton, and C. Hackney, 4 and 3.

MacDonald Smith opened up with some brilliant golf on the second round and hardly needed the assistance of Mehorn to out class Farrell and his partner. Diegel shot sensational golf to help his side reach the finals.

YANKS MAKE POOR SHOWING AGAINST BRAVES

By United News. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 9.—Playing their first exhibition game of the season, the New York Yankees made a poor showing and were beaten here Tuesday by the Boston Braves, 6 to 1. ### CHARACTERS FOR PLAY BY LITTLE THEATRE TO BE SELECTED

Try-outs for the next play to be given by the Little Theatre will be held Thursday evening at 7:00 in room 202 of the Administration building of Tech college.

Miss Ruth Pirtle will direct the play which is to be "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh" a comedy by Harry James Smith. The play calls for 12 characters, six women and six men. The parts range in age from 20 to 30 except for two elderly characters.

Miss Pirtle especially urges that persons be not timid about offering for parts, as she thinks there is much undiscovered talent in Lubbock that should be used.

"Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh" will be given at the Palace Theatre, April 29, three weeks after the three one-act plays which will be produced April 8.

The casting committee is composed of Miss Edith Carter, Mrs. Elmer Conley and Mrs. J. E. Vickers.

SIX FRIENDS GRUBSTAKE MODERN PROSPECTOR IN RED LAKE GOLD FIELD AND REALIZE STUPENDOUS PROFIT

(Copyright, 1926, by United News)
HUDSON, Ont., March 9.—Stories of fabulous wealth made by prospectors and "grub stakers" already are beginning to trickle into this snow-bound town from the site of the rich gold strike at Red Lake, 120 miles northwest of here.

Much of the wealth remains to be proven through months of development work but the one outstanding story of sudden riches concerns Lorne Howey, discoverer of the Red Lake group of claims and six men who staked him to $25 each nine months ago and already have $14,000 each to show for the gamble they took.

Howey is an experienced prospector and like most others of his ilk he had little or no money. Always looking along the rainbow trail he saw vast wealth in the distance but never quite caught up with it. It takes time to find even a worthless claim. There is a pack train to acquire, provisions to buy and tools for digging and blasting; one must come from somewhere to keep a prospector going.

It is a customary procedure for those prospectors to rely on friends to supply them with a stake. The gambling instinct in every person makes them ready game for a prospector with a rosy dream, so Howey had little difficulty in persuading six friends to give him $25 each to make a trip into Red Lake region. Howey knew gold must be abundant in that region. The rock formation told him so. He sold the idea to his friends and started forth last June with tools and three months stock of supplies. As the six bade him goodbye they envisioned one or two things: The total loss of the $150 or a fancy return on their speculation. They knew only a modern strike would bring them a handsome return.

Howey struck it rich. He uncovered a lode which his crude assaying outfit showed him went better than $25 to the ton. He traced the vein for several hundred feet, staked his claim and then set out for Hudson to cash in.

"Escape Proof" Jail Costing $6,000,000 Must Be Rebuilt

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 9.—Although it has been occupied only three weeks, the $6,000,000 Los Angeles county jail should be reconstructed, a coroner's jury recommended here Tuesday.

The verdict was reached after an inquiry over the body of Natale Carradi, 16, who fell to his death while trying to escape from his tenth floor cell.

The jury also urged that additional guards be placed on duty at the palatial prison where eight captives have escaped in five recent outbreaks.

The luxurious bastle was pronounced "escape proof" when it was occupied three weeks ago.

WINTERS MAN WILL OPEN DRY GOODS BUSINESS HERE

H. B. Hawkins, who for the past 15 years has been associated with his father, W. P. Hawkins in the dry goods business at Winters, Texas, has arrived in Lubbock with a shipment of fixtures and is making preparations for the opening of a general merchandise business in the modern brick building just completed at 1205 Broadway by George Pickle, local building contractor.

The new business will be styled The Hawkins Dry Goods Company. Mr. Hawkins said yesterday. However it is not known just at what time the store will be opened as a large shipment of new fixtures have not yet arrived and it will require some time to get the store in readiness for the new stock of merchandise that will be carried.

Wireless Phone for Business Still Dream of Future

NEW YORK, March 9.—Science may have a long, painstaking fight ahead before the American business man vacationing in Europe can keep in touch with his office in this country by trans-Atlantic telephone, despite the remarkable success attained Sunday when voices were clearly heard in conversations between New York and London.

Research workers who conducted Sunday's experiments frankly admit that "it is not now possible to tell" when this development will be realized.

FLOYD COUNTY GETS ADDITIONAL SCHOOL AID

FLOYDADA, March 9.—$65,000 additional State aid was allotted to Floyd county rural schools, by State Aid Inspector J. S. Rasey, who spent four days in inspection of these schools a few days ago. Of the twenty schools that were seeking aid, nineteen were successful. This brings the total amount of aid to $7,800.

Floyd Receiving Pure Bred Hogs

FLOYDADA, March 9.—Sixty pure bred Duroc gilts arrived in Floydada yesterday from Alexandria, Nebraska, and will be sold to the farmers of Floyd county in an effort to restock the county with good hogs. These hogs were shipped in by the banks and business men of the city. It is believed that this campaign will place 300 or more meat hogs in the county by fall. Since 1920, when Floyd county boasted of 11,000 hogs, there has been a shortage of good stock. In a recent report there was less than 1,000 hogs in this county.

A course in genetics is offered in applied sociology by the school of religion, Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. Miss Mary Dunn, president of the South Plains Music Teachers' Association, who are now at work on the third annual South Plains Music Festival, was present at the meeting and asked the support and co-operation of the association in making the festival a success this year. A motion that the association go on record as commending Miss Dunn and the teachers' association in their work with the festival and that the association give the movement their moral support carried unanimously.

"Use the Association More," was the subject of Mr. Arledge, of Barrier Brothers department store who stated that it was poor business policy not to use the association and the credit department of his firm found one of the most useful services of the association outside of calling for ratings on all customers before extending credit, was the information to be had in the weekly credit meetings when slow accounts and cold checks are discussed by the merchants.

"The advertising campaign is one of the biggest things the Retail Merchants Association has ever attempted," Spencer Wells stated in a general discussion of the movement.

"The person we want to appeal to," B. Sherrod stated, in regard to the Pay Your Bills Promptly Advertising, "is the man who can pay and will if he wants to. We have customers with good ratings and plenty of property and funds to take care of their accounts whom we can not collect from under a year. This causes the merchant more expense and trouble than the business is worth, and what we should do is to educate the general public to the fact that a good credit rating is a valuable asset and that the best policy is to pay promptly at the first of each month."

Speaking on the subject of "A Greater Need For A Retail Merchants Association in Half Times," Jed A. Rix stated that cooperation between merchants, especially during times when money is scarce, was the best policy and that the association was in position to serve every merchant who cooperates.

Other routine business was discussed at the meeting.

Concrete is the aristocrat of pavements

Why Wichita Falls Builds Concrete Streets

Wichita Falls laid its first concrete pavement in 1915—on Scott Street.

For ten years this firm, rigid, unyielding pavement has carried the heavy traffic of the business district. During that time only simple, inexpensive maintenance has been necessary to keep the pavement as good as when built. On many other streets in this thriving city concrete has given the same satisfactory service.

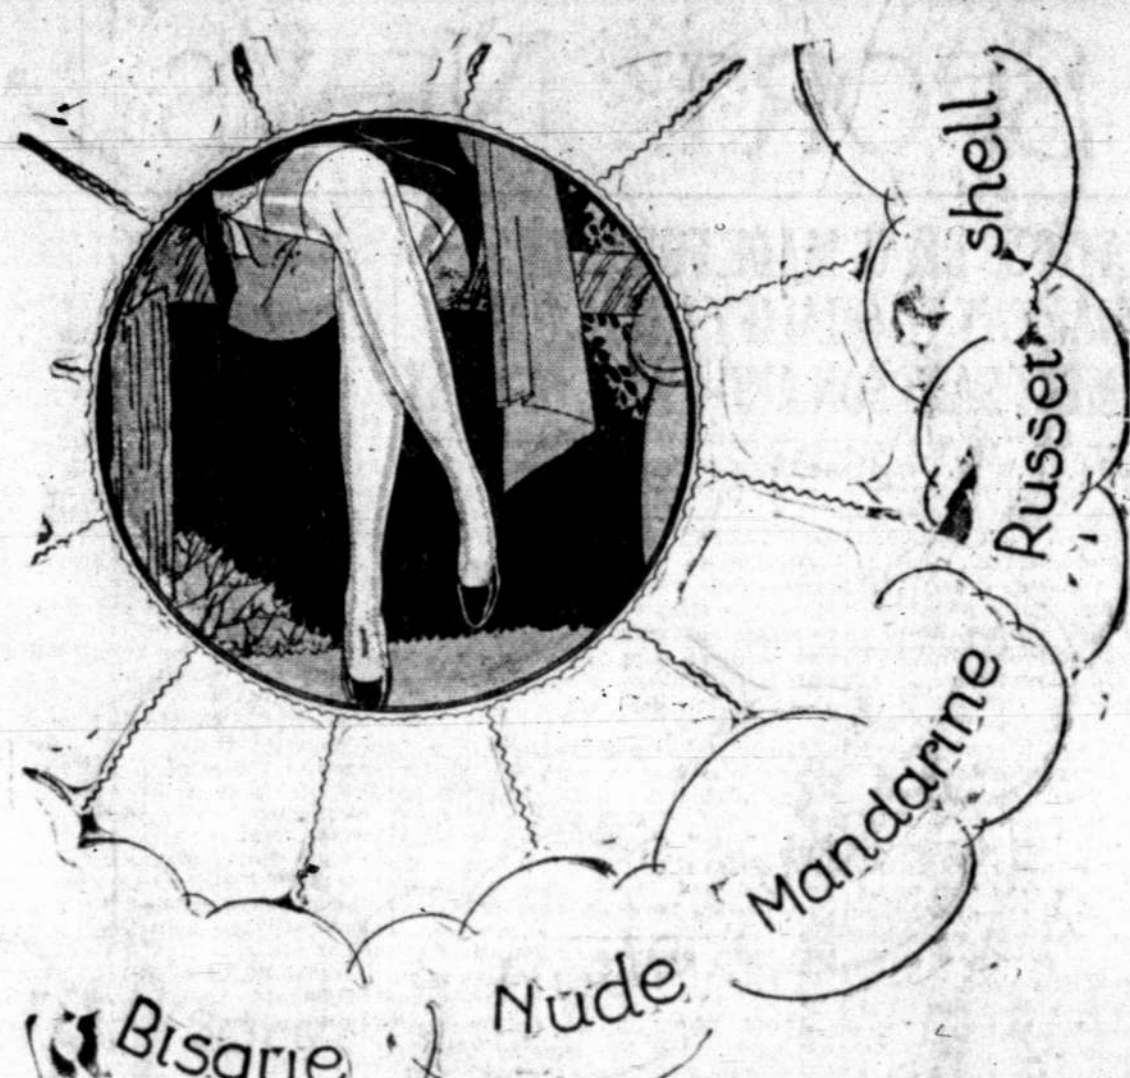

It now has over 500,000 square yards of concrete street pavement, and recently contracted for 200,000 square yards more.

Wichita Falls is known as "The City That Faith Built." Her citizens have pride in the present and vision for the future. Concrete pavements have helped this faith because they act as a town tonic.

What about the streets in your town?

All the facts are in our free booklet on "Concrete Streets." Ask for your copy.

Origin of American Indian To Be Sought By Smithsonian In Expedition Next Summer

By WILLIAM J. McEVROY
United Press Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, Mar. 8.—An expedition that may uncover traces of America's first inhabitants will be undertaken by the Smithsonian Institution next summer.

Headed by Dr. J. Walter Fewkes, chief of the Bureau of Ethnology, the institution will send a mission into lower Alaska to search for evidence of a migration to America from Asia centuries ago.

"There is no doubt in my mind," said Fewkes, "that the first emigrant crossed to America from Asia, via Hering Strait. We must find the remains of cooking utensils, broken spears, broken tomahawks, etc., that they left behind."

While searching for evidence of the first settlers, Fewkes will have several other groups of scientists at work seeking additional information on the American Indian and American food products. At the present time he has an expert investigator in Santa Barbara, Cal., running down "disappearing languages." From a number of old men residing in and around Santa Barbara, Fewkes said his investigator hoped to learn of languages that were used hundreds of years ago.

Fewkes is particularly anxious to find out how old the American Indian is and when he came to this country.

"We must find," he said, "whether he came here by way of Australia or by way of Bering Strait. However, he came here, we have the other problem to deal with. Did he come singly or in hordes, clans or in some other way. That leads us into the question of migration.

"There is one thing which I think is very evident, that however he came here he lived for a certain length of time under an environment which made him an American Indian and differentiated him from other races. A good many people contend that the American Indian was a Chinaman."

Culture of the Indians, Fewkes said, is rapidly passing.

"We are on the eve of the destruction of all that was interesting, scientifically, outside of psychology, in the American Indian. Now we are turning into the investigation of the past history and the character of the aborigines when America was discovered."

Fewkes believes the Cliff Dwellers and the Mound Builders were the direct ancestors of the Indians who were living here when the white race came. Investigators of the institution, Fewkes said, have discovered a ruin that dates back as far as 300 B. C.

Another mysterious question that Fewkes wants to solve is how long it took the first settlers in this country to develop edible fruits or roots, such as the potato Indian corn.

"It took a long time, we know that," Fewkes said, "but we want to know just how long."

THIEF CONDUCTED SHOP TO SELL PROCEEDS OF JOB

BY ROBERT H. BEST
United Press Staff Correspondent
VIENNA, March 9.—Europe's master thief, Joseph Moransky, 33, is again behind the bars; and the Vienna police are determined that this time he shall stay.

A goldsmith by trade, a "front-door" thief by profession, Moransky has been a source of concern to the police of almost every Central European city for several years past. Many times he has been jailed but never for long. He always escaped after a few days.

Several years ago, when almost every one in Vienna was wondering where the next meal was to come from and when the bankers were the only persons who were doing any business, the Viennese were astonished to see a new jewelry business appear in their city. Concerning the proprietor of the store no one knew anything except that he kept it constantly supplied with most rare and beautiful ornaments which a lady could desire. No order was too extraordinary or too difficult for him to fill. Whether it was for a diamond tiara or a sapphire shoe-buckle he guaranteed delivery.

All that he asked of his customers was a few weeks in which to "obtain the necessary supplies."

In a room just over his store Moransky kept six goldsmiths busy melting down old jewelry and making new pieces for his counters. At times he would be away from his business for several months. Where he went no one knew.

All was going well with Herr Moransky, the jeweler, until a notorious thief in Budapest mentioned his name during a cross-examination on another matter. The Budapest police at once notified their colleagues in Vienna that Moransky might bear observation. The Vienna police placed a detective on Moransky's trail.

For a long time the detective could get nothing definite against Moransky. He invited the police of all the surrounding countries to send him lists of valuables which had recently been stolen in their districts. In vain, however, did he search the countless of Moransky's shop for these jewels—the goldsmith upstairs had done their work too well.

A tiara stolen in Zurich proved Moransky's undoing. It was so beautiful that he had placed it on sale without reworking its setting. The detective spotted it and arrested him.

Following Moransky's arrest the police of many cities were invited to come and inspect his stock. Here they found jewelry from almost every corner of Europe. Afterwards they visited Moransky in his cell. There several of them identified him as a thief who had escaped from jails in their country.

Among Moransky's possessions was one of the finest kits of burglary tools ever seen by the Vienna police. These tools were his reserve. His usual method was to carry with him hundreds of keys. On Sunday he would pick out the shop of his choice, open it in broad daylight, and take what he wished from it as though he were a clerk who had been sent by the owner of the shop. The long period of absence from his Vienna business were the times when he had been delayed in the jails of foreign countries.

In the Vienna jail Moransky has been recorded the honor of a special guard whose sole job is to see that he does not cup his visit short here as he has done in other cities. In order that he may not get away too easily he is given a different cell each day.

CRIPPLED LEAGUE MARKS TIME TUESDAY

By United News.

GENEVA, March 9.—Attempts to settle the dispute over enlarging the League of Nations council will be continued Wednesday, according to tentative plans made here following word from Paris that Aristide Briand will return on Thursday. Paul Boncour will represent France temporarily if negotiations are resumed.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, Chancellor Luther and Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany went into private session immediately upon the receipt of the encouraging word from Paris.

The message came after a discouraging day during which a badly crippled league attempted to conduct what routine business was possible. The chief business transacted was the referring of Germany's application for league membership to a committee of 10.

Luther and Stresemann, who have appeared to be serene while the dispute has continued over the council question, reiterated their determination to withhold any pledges on their future course until they had been seated in the league and the council as promised them at Locarno.

It is generally conceded that a recession by Spain from her demand that she be seated on the council immediately offers the best chance for solution of the dispute.

The league received word from Turkish Foreign Minister Bey Tuesday regretting the impossibility of that nation participating in the council session that will approve the new twenty-five year treaty between Great Britain and Iraq treaty caused by the league's decision on the Mosul award. Bey insisted that Turkey had not changed her position on the matter and that the Iraq-Turkey frontier is still an open question.

332 LEADING COLLEGES OF THE UNITED STATES REPRESENTED BY STUDENTS NOW ENROLLED IN THE TECH COLLEGE HERE

Some idea of the popularity that has been accorded the Texas Technological College in all states of the union may be gained from the reading of a list of those students who have been transferred from other colleges and enrolled in the fall and winter terms, 1925-1926.

A summary of this list shows that a total of 272 students from other Texas colleges are enrolled here, with other colleges not including those in Texas represented by 60 students, making a grand total of 332 students that have been transferred to Tech college from other institutions.

These students represent 43 colleges in Texas, 40 out of Texas, making a total of 83 colleges represented in the enrollment here.

These figures, in the opinion of Dean J. M. Gordon, prove that the Tech college has been recognized in all parts of the country, and that this recognition is unusual considering the fact that the school was just recently organized.

THIEVES CAUGHT TAKING GASOLINE FROM AUTOMOBILE TANKS

A number of car owners who had parked their cars in the private garages at the Barton House discovered that quantities of gasoline was being taken from their cars, and when a trap was set to apprehend these responsible two grown men were arrested.

They were caught using a rubber tube to drain cars into five gallon containers, but it was not learned whether they were taking the fuel for their own use or whether they had established a market for it.

S. A. Brogdon was among those whose cars had been drained of all gasoline more than once.

STOCKS

NEW YORK FINANCE
BY WALTER E. MOCKLER
Financial Editor United News
NEW YORK, March 9.—Although there was little evidence of any revival of speculative demand for stocks Tuesday, the trend in leading securities was upward and at times rather sharply. In the industrial division, the market showed the effects of short covering. Apparently there was not a great deal of stock for sale and shorts were forced to compete for the scanty offerings. Traders showed no inclination to climb for stocks, however, and the recovery burned itself out after the short covering had run its course. The total turnover was about the same as the trading in the last hour of last Tuesday's tremendous market.

Apparently the market is deadlocked for the time being. Lacking supporting incentives, this undertone is none too strong. On the other hand the worst of the forced liquidation is out of the way and there should be sufficient demand from shorts to ease for the offerings which might come along from day to day. Until there is some new development which would loosen further long holdings or some contrary development which could be used as a basis for a new bull campaign, the market seems destined for this deadlock.

Well posted market students believe that prices will gradually work out of the present uncertainty when April business reports start to come in. The spring increase in business should be ample evidence that last year's high grade is being maintained.

It was no fault in the general business and industrial structure which broke the stock market recently but rather the inherent weakness resulting from an over-bullied list. Inasmuch as technical conditions played the major role in shaping the price trend, the tremendous improvement in the technical structure resulting from the break, should be equally important.

Weak longs have been shaken out of the market and margin lines are again in strong hands. Good short lines have been established. The burden of proof now lies on the shoulders of the bears. They must show reasons why prices should continue around present levels and lacking sufficient reasons, must buy at a price.

The terms for offering of the new $500,000,000 financing by the government indicate very clearly that the government is inclined to look for easy money for quite some time to come. Granting the absolute security of government bonds, the rate of yield is such on the new offering that only continuance of easy money can hold the issue in line with the general market.

One result of the steadier stock market, plus the generally easier money situation has been the sharp recovery in the equilibrium of the bond market. For a time the more speculative industrial issues, especially the convertibles which owed the current market positions to the strong campaign being waged in the stocks behind the bonds, were under pressure. High grade investment bonds, however, have moved higher as stocks sagged.

Telephone's 50th Birthday Celebrated March 10th

MR. WATSON, COME HERE, I WANT YOU!

March 10th, 1926, marks the fiftieth anniversary of an important event.

On March 10th, 1876, in a small garret workshop in Boston, Alexander Graham Bell uttered the first words ever transmitted over telephone wires. Using a small crude transmitter and a wire but a few yards in length, he said, "Mrs. Watson, come here, I want you." His assistant, Thomas A. Watson, sitting at a receiver in another room, heard these words distinctly and hurried into the room to tell Bell that their tireless research had been rewarded.

Now the telephone is a national necessity, but at first it was considered a mere scientific toy and most people were inclined to scoff at it.

It remained for Dom Pedro, Emperor of Brazil, to place the first stamp of public approval upon the telephone in June of 1876. Bell had taken his crude little invention to the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia and had set up his exhibit in one of the booths. Late afternoon of the day when the judges were making a tour of inspection of the booths Dom Pedro entered the booth containing the telephone, just as the judges were about to pass it by with a glance of incredulity. Dom Pedro recognized Bell, whom he had previously met in Boston, and agreed to test the telephone.

As the incredulous judges looked on, their interest now aroused, Dom Pedro took his place at the receiver while Bell went to the transmitter. Suddenly Dom Pedro threw back his head, and with an amazed look on his face exclaimed, "My God, it talks!" The judges then took their turns at the receiver, testing it until late that night and next day the telephone was moved to the place of honor in the judges pavilion.

Once the practicability of the telephone had been demonstrated the demand for instruments and service increased rapidly. Theodore N. Vail was made general manager of the telephone company and he is the man who was largely responsible for the wide-spread efficient telephone system of today. Branches were opened in practically every state of the Union, and the formation of a real nation-wide telephone system was begun.

Many difficulties were encountered by the telephone pioneers. Improvements of the instruments, changes in the material used for wires, means of lengthening the range of long distance communication, construction of switchboards and central offices—all these problems had to be solved as they arose by the telephone engineers.

The two crude telephones of 1876 have grown into a nation-wide system of more than 16,000,000 telephones, approximately one for every seven people in the United States. This country with but 6 per cent of the world's population, has 81 per cent of the world's telephones. Conversations are now possible from any part of the nation to any other part. The longest continuous circuit is from Catalina Island, off the coast of California, to Havana, Cuba a distance of over 5,500 miles.

As a community develops, as its industries expand, the telephone company must be ready to take care of the expansion and development. Telephone engineers are constantly making surveys of business and social conditions of the country so that they may anticipate any demand for increased service. The semi-centennial of the telephone is being celebrated this year all over the United States.

CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS WILL COMPETE FOR CHICAGO TRIP

Some boy in Lubbock County, Texas, may win a free trip to the Fifth National Boys and Girls' Club Congress in Chicago next December.

The Santa Fe Railway has just offered sixty-two trips with all expenses paid, to club winners in nine western states. Texas is offered 19 of these awards. The other states to benefit are Arizona, Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas. The trip will be awarded to the boy or girl making the best record in crop or livestock projects in each of the winning counties traversed by the Santa Fe and having the services of a full time Agricultural Extension Agent who operates under the direction of the Agricultural College.

Because of the wonderful results which club work is bringing in benefits to the farm boys and girls and for agricultural progress along their lines is the reason why the executives of the Santa Fe are not only continuing their support, but are increasing it or the coming year.

This is the fourth year that the Santa Fe has offered champion club members educational trips to the National Club Congress held during the International Livestock Exposition in December, when 1200 farm boys and girls and leaders from all over our country and Canada are royally entertained, instructed, and justly praised as the hope of American Agriculture.

Our farm boys and girls realize that now is the time to decide to win one of these trips to Chicago and hundreds of them are enrolling with their local extension agents in 4-H club work in order to be able to carry their work to completion by an-

Stucco Overcoat Cuts Upkeep Cost of Frame House

(Article 1 in a series of spring remodeling suggestions.)
Spring is the usual season for repainting. But the need to repaint the whole house every two or three years is a large item in the maintenance cost—and authorities agree that the average expenses of upkeep equal the total cost of the house in forty years.

So economy is one of the main motives in the practice of "over-coating" an old frame house with stucco. If the structure is in good condition, this can be done inexpensively. All that is needed is to see that the siding is nailed "sn tight, then nail on a reinforcing fabric, and finally apply the three coats of stucco. The first two parts of the job can be done by the householder himself, reducing the labor-cost to one single item, the plasterer's bill.

Can the average home-owner afford this? Well, it costs two-and-a-half times as much to overcoat a home as to re-paint it. But paint must be renewed every two or three years, while stucco lasts indefinitely. So stucco over-coating is economical. It saves its own cost by eliminating painting within eight years and then continues to save during the rest of the building's life.

Next to economy, the greatest advantage of over-coating is that it greatly enhances the value of the home by raising it from the class of an old frame house to that of a new stucco building. The stucco also reduces the fire hazard, makes the home more weather proof by sealing up all cracks, and affords a high degree of heat-insulation.

Nor does it require any sacrifice of beauty. There now are on the market several types of stucco into the finish coats of which mineral colors are ground at the factory. This affords a range of color ample to meet anyone's taste. And the use of a prepared colored material eliminates the chances of impermanent and non-uniform coloring such as is likely to result from home-mixed materials.

Only one precaution need be observed, aside from the selection of the proper stucco, in overcoating an old frame house. That is, the right reinforcing must be chosen. Permanent satisfaction will be given by a strong steel fabric which is crimped so as to be self-furring. This eliminates the need of special lath or backing for the stucco.

Forty uniformed motor-cycle policemen are engaged in a safety education campaign in all rural schools on trunk lines in Michigan, under the supervision of the State department of public safety. The officers visit schools and personally instruct pupils in the necessity for safe play on school grounds and how to avoid danger on public highways. The campaign is endorsed by the State department of public instruction and the State teachers' association.
