THE LAST OF A DIP ON DEEP CREEK

The above picture shows three phases of construction on the bridge over Deep Creek dip on Thirty-seventh Street. The section of the bridge closest to the camera re-inforcing steel is in place for another "pour." In the second section only the wood frame is in place over supporting pillars, while the concrete has hardened in the sections at the far end of the bridge. Contractors say all concrete will be poured by Wednesday night. (Staff photograph.)

Ike Blasts 'Steal' By Taft Forces In Texas

Welcomes Support Of Independents

DALLAS, Tex., June 21 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower bitterly accused the Taft forces in Texas tonight of a ruthless steal of Republican National Convention delegates which he called a "great betrayal" of the GOP party and its principles.

"In this case," he said, "the rustlers stole the Texas birthright instead of Texas steers."

Then the general in his first real fighting speech of his young campaign for the Republican presidential nomination:

1. Invited Democrats and inpendent voters to join with the Republicans in ousting an administration which he said is "ingrown, inbred and incapable."

2. Called for an "open door policy" with a nation-wide political revival "that will result in a lot of Democratic conversions."

3. Charged a "small clique" of unworthy Republicans in Texas and Louisiana look on the party as "their fenced-in, personal preserve."

4. Urged honesty and fair play in the Chicago convention next month because "no political party can tolerate a rigged convention and win."

With this prepared speech for delivery before a Texas audience the general—for the first time in public—flayed the political tactics used by the supporters of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, his chief opponent for the GOP presidential nomination.

Eisenhower did not call Taft or the Taft forces by name, but there was not the slightest doubt at whom he was shooting in this speech which had been billed as a "rip snorter." He came here from his Denver, Colo., headquarters to deliver this major campaign address.

Eisenhower and Taft forces namde rival Texas delegate slates to the national convention in a bitter battle that has split open the state's GOP party. Taft forces claim the Eisenhower delegates actually were named by Democrats voting under the cloak of Republicanism.

Reviewing this situation, Eisenhower said:

"A good many weeks ago I heard how your young people here in Texas were moving into the Republican party accordnig to the rules laid down by ourselves. They went to work for the party at the precinct level. They rang doorbells. They addressed envelopes. They did the down-to-earth drudgery that is an essential part of the business of self government. That was good news to me.

"Then later I heard of the Great Betrayal of these young people. Let me tell you, that was a betrayal of the whole Republican party and its principles. A party can not have room for victory that does not make room for youth.

"Instead of the great upsurge or moral and spiritual strength we need, how sadly must we look on what has happened here.

"Thousands upon thousands of Republican voters—an overwhelming majority of them—were deliberately and ruthlessly disenfranchised. Majority rule, the very basis of our free government—was here flouted and over-ridden. As one of our own Texas newspapers said: 'If a businessman used the same tactics he would be indicted and sent to prison by any American jury.' And in this case the rustlers stole the Texas birthright instead of Texas steers."

UN Forces Braced For Heavier Fighting To Start Once More

SEOUL, Sunday, June 22 (AP) — American and Filipino infantrymen braced early today for expected new Chinese Red assaults of "T-Bone" and "Pork Chop" Hills on the Korean Western Front.

They inflicted an estimated 865 casualties in a furious six-hour battle Saturday. But late Saturday night the Reds renewed their intensive bombardment of the hills—west of Chorwon.

Associated Press correspondent Milo Farneti, with the U. S. 45th Division, reported the Chinese assaults turned into the biggest battle along the front since the U. S. 3rd Division drove the Reds off "Little Gibraltar" last November. Farneti added:

"Chinese casualties in the two weeks of fighting rose 'probably close to 3,000,' a frontline American officer said. American troops called the two main hills "T-Bone" and "Pork Chop" because of their peculiar shapes. The hills are separated by a valley and a low ridge.

"The Chinese poured in about 7,500 rounds of artillery and mortar before and during their six-hour attack. The 179th Regiment and the Philippine 19th Battalion Combat Team fought off—sometimes with bayonets—four Chinese battalions between 10:25 p.m., Friday and 5:30 a.m., Saturday. Red artillery hit "T-Bone" with 500 rounds in 15 minutes during the early part of the battle."

Frontline officers estimated the Chinese attacking force at between 3,000 and 4,000 men.

Farneti reported that American troops on "Pork Chop" Hill said a Chinese woman — apparently a nurse—charged up the hill with the attackers.

"One soldier said he saw what appeared to be a nurse come into the bunker he was in," Farneti said. "He pretended to be dead and escaped."

On the East-Central Front, southwest of Kumsong, elements of the South Korean 6th Division held off a Chinese battalion within small arms range.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force reported in its weekly summary that Sabre jet pilots shot down six Communist fighters and damaged two. The Air Force said F86s bagged three MIG15s and three propeller-driven LA9s. U. S. losses were listed as an F84 Thunderjet, downed by ground fire, and a Marine Corsair, lost to unknown causes.

Prime Minister In East Zone Of Germany On His Way Out

BERLIN, June 21 (AP) — Ailing Otto Grotewohl, the fire and steam gone from his speeches, may step aside as Prime Minister of Germany's Russian zone when the Socialist Unity (Communist) party meets next month.

West German political quarters said today they have heard that Walter Ulbricht who holds the real power now, is ready to take over the big name spot. Ulbricht is deputy prime minister. But more important, he is general secretary of the East zone Communist party.

The position of Grotewohl with Moscow has been reported shaky for sometime. Now 58, he has found it necessary to take two vacations since Easter. Last year he was away from his office 10 weeks on what was called a "rest cure." In his last public appearance he spoke like a tired man.

A decision to replace him with Ulbricht may be reached at the annual rally July 9-12 of the Socialist Unity party. If such be done some West German political sources said the Western Powers could expect new heights in bitter attacks from Ulbricht, champion of unification of all Germany under Russian ideas.

Grotewohl, a theoretical Socialist, beame co-chairman of the Socialist Unity (Communist) praty the Russians forced a Socialist-Communist merger.

An effective speaker, with great punch up till now, Grotewohl was chosen to keynote Russian demands for a four-power conference to write an all-German peace treaty on the Kremlin's terms.

Until now Ulbricht apparently has been content to remain in the background, holding his subordinate title within the government. His authority was real nevertheless. He controlled the party as general secretary.

The party rally next month is viewed here as the most important yet to be held by East German Reds. Decisions will chart the course for the Soviet zone government for the immediate future. Last year's meeting put the seal of approval on a huge purge of party ranks and also developed violent attacks against the West which are now being reflected in squeeze tactics toward West Berlin.

Truman Said Favoring Demo Ticket Of Stevenson-Harriman

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP) — President Truman is reported to have told friends he would be delighted to have a Democratic ticket headed by Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, with W. Averell Harriman in second place.

Although Truman has refrained from making any public commitment, men long associated with him in politics now are privately working for the Stevenson-Harriman combination.

The chief difficulty in this connection, these men say lies in the continued personal determination of Stevenson to avoid becoming a presidential candidate if he can help it.

Although Harriman now considers himself a strong possibility for top place on the ticket, most Democratic leaders believe he could be persuaded to take second place as a good soldier. They aren't so sure, however, they can stake out second place for him.

Stevenson, who said on April 15 that he could not accept any nomination this summer other than that for re-election as governor still is threatening to say it again in other words that he feels might be final.

But friends say he finds great difficulty in drafting any such statement so that it wouldn't be interpreted as demeaning of the office of President.

He can't bring himself to believe any genuine draft movement will develop for him, but obviously would not turn it down if it materialized. Neither do friends expect him to encourage it by any public statement at this time.

Despie these handicaps a definite movement is spreading from Illinois and reaching into Michigan, New York, New Jersey and some other states to bring Stevenson's name before the convention.

Most politicians calculate that the so-called regular Democratic leaders will control loosely about 700 of the 1,234 votes at the nominating convention opening June 21 in Chicago.

This group has made plain it doesn't want Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee for the nominee. Although Kefauver himself says confidently he will get the prize, some of those around him recognize the difficulties that beset them.

The urge for Sevenson among he regular leaders seems to be founded on the theory that the Illinois governor is their best bet to head off Kefauver and to win in November if either Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio or Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is the Republican nominee.

Kefauver's defeat by Harriman in the District of Columbia primary this week is being advertised widely as the kind of thing that might happen to him in the big cities in November.

If the party regulars can get Stevenson in the race, they may not be adverse to trading off the vice presidential post.

2 More Deaths From Polio In State Reported

By The Associated Press

Two new deaths were reported in Houston Saturday as Texas appeared headed for its worst siege of polio.

Latest health department figures for the state listed 771 cases, compared with 717 for the same period in the peak year of 1950 and 287 for the same span last year.

At Houston and Dallas, the combined totals of polio patients under treatment climbed past the 330 mark. These included victims brought from surrounding counties and small towns.

Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, repeated his eight-point long-range plan for battling the disease—a plan centered on cleanliness.

A 15-year-old girl and a six-year-old boy were the latest fatalities at Houston, bringing to 15 the number who have died there this year.

Alma Jean Wagner, 15, of Willis and James McGowan, 6, of Harris County, were the death victims.

Polio at Houston reached within two cases of what many medical officials regard as epidmeic: 20 cases per 100,000 population. The count thus far at Houston is 118 city cases and six deaths; 75 county cases and three deaths and 88 out-of-county cases and six deaths.

Impeachment Is Doubtful Now

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP) — House members apparently have lost much of the enthusiasm some of them avowed to impeach President Truman.

Only 20 have signed a petition which, if signed by 218, would force a House vote on an impeachment resolution.

The petition has been on file with the House clerk for four days. It was presented last Tuesday by Rep. Shafer (R-Mich).

Shafer filed it because the House Judiciary Committee, to which his impeachment resolution has been referred, decided to shelve it.

Russian Past Actions Used In Peace Talk

MUNSAN, Korea, Sunday, June 22 (AP)—Allied negotiators return to the armistice meetings today curious about Red reaction to the disclosure that world communism's senior partner—Russia — has advocated voluntary repatriation of war prisoners.

Twice during World War II the Russians offered German war prisoners a choice of whether they wanted to be repatriated, Maj. Gen. William Harrison, Allied senior delegate, told the surprised Red negotiators at Panmunjom Saturday.

Today's session was set for 11 a.m. (9 p.m., EST, Saturday).

Chinese and North Korean insistence that prisoners can not have a voice in their return is the key issue blocking an armistice.

The Soviet Union offer was made at Stalingrad in January, 1943, and Budapest later. And it was applauded by an official Russian publication, Harrison said. The Communist delegation had no immediate comment.

In a fruitless 30-minute session, the first after the second Allied-imposed three-day recess, senior Red delegate, North Korean Gen. Nam Il, reiterated the Red opposition to voluntary repatriation and acidly turned down any new screening of Allied-held POWs.

The focal point of Communist opposition is the disclosure made in the Allied prisoner exchange offer of April 28 that only 70,000 of nearly 169,000 Allied-held prisoners want to return to Red rule.

Lattimore Not Planning Trip

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—An investigation into the plans of Owen Lattimore, which the Far Eastern specialist said today do not include any trip behind the Iron Curtain, is being pressed by the government in the wake of its order slamming the country's exit gates to him.

The State Department announced late yesterday that it had ordered customs exits barred to Lattimore while it looks into a tip which it said came from an official source, that he was planning a visit to Russia or her satellites.

At his home in Baltimore, Lattimore said there was no truth—"none whatsoever"—in any such reports. The State Department itself had said the tip was uncondeparture from this country, it was firmed, and it gave no additional clues as to its origin.

The order barring Lattimore's learned from reliable sources, will stand until the inquiry has been completed. That may come within a week.

What will be done about the ban then—whether it will be removed or whether some other kind of ruling will be made—is something that officials declined to comment on today.

Jones Is Named Head Of Tech

DALLAS, June 21 (AP)—Dr. Edward Newlon Jones, 52, today was named president of Texas Technological College at Lubbock.

Jones, vice president of Tech since 1948, succeeds Dr. D. E. Wiggins who resigned after heading the state school for the past 14 years.

The board of directors today also:

1. Voted that Greek letter fraternities and sororities would be allowed at Texas Tech "but no houses will be allowed either on or off the campus without securing board approval."

2. Empowered the school president and the building committee to represent the board in negotiating with the city of Lubbock on construction of a new 12,000-seat coliseum, auditorium and field house to be used by both the city and the college.

Celebration Is Planned Today For Pioneer

More than 80 persons are expected today at the celebration of the ninety - first birthday of O. N. Blair, retired Scurry County rancher, who lives at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. M. Brown, 1007 Twenty - fourth Street.

Blair, who still owns a ranch near Polar, retired and moved to Snyder in 1945. He still manages his own business.

Born June 18, 1861, Blair was the first white person born in Eastland County. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Blair, pioneers of Texas. He remembers several raids made on the home of his family by Indians, whose raiding parties usually stole livestock. He particularly recalls one Indian, who was lost from his tribe and entered his family's home and ate most of the meal prepared for about 10 persons while frightened women fled. The Indian explained to Blair's father that he was lost and hungry, and he remained on the Blair ranch until a group of calvarymen carried him away several weeks later.

Blair said he will make an after-dinner talk at the Sunday celebration telling about the "old days" in West Texas.

The 91-year-old man is the great-great uncle of Keith Merrick, county attorney.

More Spy Charges Are Made On Young Britisher At Hearing

LONDON, June 21 (AP) — Crown prosecutors heaped additional charges today on William Marshall, Foreign Office radio operator accused of giving state secrets to Russia.

The sallow-faced Marshall, 24, central figure in Britain's latest spy case, fidgeted in the dock at a 15-minute Magistrate Court hearing, and made a fight for freedom on bail.

The crown blocked that move promptly. Prosecutor J. S. Bass said Marshall had been found in possession of a document containing "highly secret and confidential information." The document now is safe in the hands of British authorities but there is a chance the substance of it "can remain in his head," Bass said.

Once again the name of Pavel Kuznetsov, second secretary of the Russian Embassy here, was brought into the proceedings. He is the man, the prosecution charged, to whom Marshall delivered information which might be useful to an enemy.

Kuznetsov was named in three of the four new charges brought against Marshall.

The crown did not reveal much of its case today. A blanket charge on which Marshall was arrested Friday, June 13, as he conversed with an unnamed man in a suburban park, merely said he had communicated improperly with Russians on divers occasions.

The new charges today stated he had given data to Kuznetsov at Kingston, Surrey, Apr. 25, at Wimbledon May 19 and at Wandsworth, a London district, June 13.

The fourth charge opened a new phase, alleging Marshall in addition to giving information to the Russian secretary also received data which might be useful to an enemy. It came into his possession, the charge said, between June 1 and 13 at Hanslope Park, 40 miles north of London, where the Foreign Office radio station is situated.

Marshall was employed there sending government messages, many of them in code, to British missions around the world. For a time he also was a radio operator at the British Embassy in Moscow.

Magistrate Clyde T. Wilson did not require Marshall to make a plea, and continued the hearing until Thursday. He ruled against the application for bail.

Hope For More UnityOnKorea

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP) — United States officials expressed hope today that a demonstration of solidarity between this country and Britain on the Korean truce negotiations and conduct of the war might improve prospects for getting an armistice agreement with the Communists.

Britain's defense minister. Viscount Alexander, is due here tomorrow for conferences with Defense Secretary Lovett and other high officials following his recent visit to Korea. Enroute here he has spoken in high praise of the handling of the stuation by the present command. His appearance here is expected to produce new evidence of Anglo-American unity on this point —contrary to the expectations two weeks ago.

Meanwhile Secretary of State Dean Acheson will leave on a European trip Sunday night. On the first stage of this he will receive a degree at Oxford University, and will also confer in London with British Foreign Secretary Eden and French Foreign Minister Schuman.

New Cop At Hermleigh; Water Bond Situation Is Explained

Hermleigh's tax equalization board met with the town's city council Friday night and began work on property valuation while the aldermen hired a new police officer.

Charlie Youngblood of Snyder, former deputy sheriff here, was hired to replace R. H. Creech who was fired by the council Tuesday night. Youngblood began work there last night.

The equalization board will continue its work in another meeting next Tuesday night, according to Herman Richburg, mayor, who said it was not yet known how long it would take to get the valuations set properly.

After setting the valuations, the tax rate will be determined, and the city council will probably discuss possibilities of calling a tax bond election for water improvements.

The mayor said that several persons had apparently misunderstood recent activities of some of the residents there in their intentions to call the election. No election has yet been called, he said, although some of the towns' citizens have unofficially agreed they would ask that an election be ordered.

Richburg explained there was a difference between deciding to call an election and actually ordering one. In a special public meeting June 12, citizens discussed calling an election for issuance of bonds for improvement of the water system. No action was taken in the meeting, which was attended mostly by those against the proposal.

After the public meeting, some of the aldermen met with the mayor and tentatively agreed to have A. J. Smith of Anson, a bond specialist and attorney, to make preparation for a probable election which they believed might be called for July 14. Richburg said. The council still has taken no definite action of the matter, and cannot until after valuations are fixed, the mayor said.

It was decided that if such an election is called, the proposal will be on issuance of up to $25,000 in bonds. In October, 1950, the city approved issuance of $40,000 in bonds, but they were never issued because of decisions made later. At the same time, a $30,000 tax bond issue for construction of a city hall and fire station was defeated.

1,000 Hungry Englishmen Eat Texas Steer At Big Barbecue

CAMBRIDGE, Eng., June 21 (AP)—A Texan in a ten-gallon hat barbecued a one-ton Texas steer for 1,000 hungry Englishmen on a cricket field here today. The majority verdict: "jolly good."

One top-hatted gentleman, his waistcoat splattered with tobasco sauce, said: "I'm going right home to barbecue a rabbit."

"All in all," drawl d Buster Shely of Corpus Christi. "It went off right good. Only trouble is I had to use elm wood for the fires instead of slipwood like back home."

The barbecue — complete with steer, chili powder, tabasco sauce, and butter—was the gift of the Texas Corpus Christi to Corpus Christi College here at Cambridge University.

The college was anxious to do something special for its 600th birthday. Back in the good old days, when there was no meat ration the college used to roast an ox.

That seemed like only heavenly dream until the people in Texas got wind of the dilemma and sent Shely, a 41-year-old insurance man and long-time barbecue expert, all the way to Cambridge to do up the steer they sent.

Wearing a bright yellow shirt with a Lions Club emblem, Shely was up at 5 a.m. to start things cooking. College undergraduates had been up all night keeping the fires going in newly dug pits.

A queue 40 yards long was waiting eagerly hours later when Shely announced "come and get it."

A band from the Queen's own IV Hussars (Winston Churchill's old regiment) struck up a stirring march, flags of the college and the City of Corpus Christi were unfurled and a cricket game under way nearby was hastily suspended.

The bandmaster asked Shely what tune he would like played.

"The Eyes of Texas," Shely replied. What else?

Since the band didn't have the music for this, a compromise was arranged. The band played first "The Roast Beef of Old England" followed by Souza's "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Shely, after a rest, plans to tour Europe before flying home. He will bring with him the Corpus Christi College flag as a symbol of Cambridge's thanks and good will.

He left the Texas flag at Cambridge with 1,000 well-fed Englishmen.

Taft Acts Like Nomination Is Already His; Tries Patch Job

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio held out the olive branch tonight to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on foreign policy and in the dispute over Texas presidential nominating delegates.

In a news conference in which he exuded confidence that he will win the Republican nomination in Chicago next month, Taft assumed something of the role of a peacemaker in party affairs.

He departed from this role long enough to criticize what he called "pressure tactics" against delegates he claims in New Jersey and New York.

He jabbed lightly at what he said was Eisenhower's "unwillingness" to criticize President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson on foreign policy.

But on the whole he talked like a man who thinks he has the nomination battle won and is looking toward the patching of party wounds in preparation for the November warfare with the Democrats.

Taft told reporters he thinks John Foster Dulles, named as a special adviser to the GOP Platform Committee, can draft a foreign policy plank acceptable alike to him and to Eisenhower, his chief rival for the nomination.

He said this would remove "the only dangerous element of a split in the party."

Although the five-star general has been quoted as calling Taft an "isolationist," the Ohio senator said blandly he doesn't believe there is any real differences between them on foreign or important domestic policies.

"I don't see any tremendous differences on principle," he said. "Eisenhower possibly puts more emphasis on Europe than I do but it is a difference in methods, not principle."

He said he regards Eisenhower as "unwilling to criticize—not willing even to name—Truman and Acheson" and as "unwilling to go after the administration on its lack of judgment and its mistakes."

But he indicated that this again, is only a difference of methods, not principle.

In the face of charges that his supporters have planned "steamroller" tactics at the Chicago convention, Taft said Eisenhower backers are exerting steamroller pressure through the use of state patronage in New Jersey and New York.

Noting that Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll has called a meeting of the 38-vote New Jersey group for Friday night, Taft said "the whole purpose of the conference will be to try to pressure themajorityinto voting with the majority." He claims from nine to 12 of the state's delegates.

"There always has been a completely ruthless use of state patronage in New Jersey against me," Taft declared.

He said that "steady pressure—including state patronage" had been used in New York against his delegates. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey claims all but one of the 96 for Eisenhower, but Taft has contended he will get a minimum of 17 votes there.

Taft said that if the Republican National Committee looks into the dispute over Texas' 38 delegates—where Eisenhower forces have cried "steal"—it might find "the basis for concessions" in that state's contest.

Eisenhower's backers have contended their delegates were frozen out of a state convention illegally and a pro-Taft delegation picked. They chose their own delegation in a separate convention.

Taft said that so far as he is concerned, delegates chosen for the state convention in areas where "Democrats" packed the county conventions should not be seated. He said it didn't make any difference whether the Democrats were for him or for Eisenhower.

New Member Is Added To ChamberBoard

Malven Stevenson and Herbert Feather were elected to posts in the Chamber of Commerce Friday night at a meeting of the board of directors.

Stevenson, a Snyder grocer, was named a director to replace G. C. Spence, who was fatally injured May 31 in an automobile accident.

Feather, the Daily News publisher, became treasurer of the group, a position also formerly held by Spence.

The board approved the proposed industrial foundation, an organization of investors who will aid non - competitive businesses to move to Snyder.

Leon Huff, chamber manager, read a letter to the board from the Civil Aeronautics Board, which set a deadline for the county's brief to be turned in by July 28 in connection with the application for air service in Scurry County. Huff said he and the chamber air service committee are now preparing the 120-page brief. He added that the final hearing for air service will probably be held in Washington in August.

The board called a general merchants' meeting for July 1 in the district courtroom. The meeting will be headed by Harold Bennett, head of the chamber merchants committee.

To Quit Scurry Well

Plane Builder Sees Future Flying Boat

BALTIMORE, June 21 (AP)—You can't help wonder how many times he has been taken for a parson. His big frame, snow-white hair, clear blue eyes and handsome face brimming with sincerity seem to make the choice obvious.

Yet he is the same "wild-eyed, hallucinated, visionary young man" who 40 years ago was as a reckless daredevil as he barnstormed around the country in his weird flying machine.

In a way, both descriptions fit. Glenn L. Martin—airplane builder, stunt flier, industrialist—has had a way of wearing a lot of shoes pointed in different directions.

Martin, 66, gradually has been stepping out of the management picture at his big aircraft plant on the outskirts of Baltimore and is assuming the position of adviser and "elder statesman" of the industry.

But his mind is as keen and agile as ever and many of his plans are far ahead of the times.

For example, there's his idea of the flying boat of the future, made possible by vast improvements to the jet turbine.

He envisions a "fast and tremendous vessel, rakish in design" that would speed from continent to continent with huge pay loads at 600 to 700 miles an hour.

THE ADVENTURES OF PATSY

Miss Iris Lomax has been named to represent the Snyder Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Texas Cowboy Reunion in Stamford July 1-4. She will compete in women's events at the rodeo riding her own horse, Roamy. Miss Lomax was reared in this area by an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Slaton, who now live in Sweetwater, and has lived here two years. She was among the contestants in the Scurry County rodeo last year.

Little League Workers Put In Long Hours With Their Boys

More than 300 man-hours a week are spent by Little Baseball League manager, officers, directors, umpires, and scorekeepers to maintain the summer athletic program here for boys.

The six managers, who spend the most time with the league and make daily contact with the boys, have all put in long hours in practice and games, but they all say they are more than rewarded for their work when they see the boys on the field in a game.

Leland (Mutt) Herod, Scurry farmer, whose Lions Club Cubs nine is now leading the league, said the only thing hard about working as a manager in the league is "sweating it out" on the bench and not being able to participate in the game while his boys are playing. Herod, who is aided by Pat Johnston, said parents are very cooperative in the league.

Herod and Skipper Joyce, former Snyder ginner, played baseball together on Snyder teams more than 10 years ago. Joyce, who heads the Whiteway Grocery Yankees, is now holding a close second place in the loop. He does not have any children of his own, but he expresses enjoyment in working with boys 12 and under in the league. He said that he sometimes has trouble with boys who want to visit the concession stand during games to buy hot dogs, but he and his assistants, Clarence Minton and Bentley Baze, keep them herded near the bench.

Hardy Scarborough, school tax assessor and also an old-time Snyder baseball player, is manager of the Quarterback Club Giants, now in a tie for last place with the Kiwanis Braves. Scarborough said he occasionally has trouble getting boys to games on time when parents have to work late or for other reasons, but he adds that most parents are very cooperative, even to the extent of helping with practice sessions. Scarborough said the biggest reward in working with the Little League is watching boys grow into men. He comments that it is worth a maximum of time and money to help children to learn just to keep them from using their energy in useless ways, which may eventually lead to their becoming delinquent. Scarborough has been aided by Rex Miller, Snyder grocer, who this week is taking over the Holder Construction Indians.

Ernest Kinney, former Indian manager, has resigned to move to Kermit. He resigned his job as high school basketball coach several days ago to take a coaching job at the Kermit schools.

Kinney said that boys of Little League age are fast learners, just the right age to be taught fundamentals of baseball, adding that it will help them in many ways as they grow older. Coaches for the Holder team are Robert Minton and Pinkie Ferguson.

J. C. Morgan, oil firm employe and former high school athlete here, heads the Kiwanis Braves. Morgan said that while he and his coaches, Roy Staton and Virgil Fleming, are constantly working to keep boys in line, the Little Leaguers are quick to learn sportsmanship, which is the object of the whole Little League organization. He said the best ball players are found in boys whose parents are very interested in the league and other affairs of the boys.

Irv Wiseman, telephone plant foreman and former professional baseballer, spends many hours teaching fundamentals to the young leaguers. From Wiseman, the youngsters pick up some of the traditions of the bigger leagues, while he must teach them to forget other traditions. The old habit of arguing with the umpire, along with other traditions not considered good for a young player, have been ruled out of Little League ball.

Speedy Moffett, league president and head high school athletic coach, spends long hours coordinating the league program. Moffett, who is looking forward to future years in the Little League, said the organization's main goal for next year is securing property for a permenent Little League ball park. He explained that while the school board has allowed use of the new high school diamond this year, further use will be impossible, since a larger diamond will be laid out at the field for high school play next year. The school, in addition to furnishing the ground, erected lights, and is now having plans drawn for seating at the park.

Those who must be present at ever game are Jack Blanchard, head scorekeeper; Harold Grant, announcer; and Ronald Hubbard, chief of umpires.

Chisox Deal Second Loss To Yankees

CHICAGO, June 21 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox rallied behind the deft six-hit pitching of Chuck Stobbs for a 5-1 victory today over the nervous New York Yankees—their second defeat of the league-leaders in two days.

The victory moved the Sox, in third place behind Boston, to within two games of the Yanks.

A crowd of 17,015 followed the 29,444 who saw the Sox take an 11-inning thriller 8-5 from the Yanks last night.

The World Champion Yankees, usually in complete mastery in encounters with the Sox, evinced a nervousness that resulted ni three errors—and two of them were extremely costly, helping to spoil Ed Lopat's seven-hit mound job.

Shortstop Phil Rizzuto and centerfielder Mickey Mantle were the guilty parties in a four-run Sox fourth inning that came from two miscues and two hits.

The game was scoreless up to that point.

Sedgman Wins At London

LONDON, June 21 (AP)—Frank Sedgman of Australia today won the last major warm-up tournament before Wimbledon—the London Grass Courts Tennis championship.

The agile Australian outlasted his Davis Cup teammate, Mervyn Rose, in the hour-long final to triumph 10-8, 6-2. Rose never has beaten Sedgman, and he folded noticeably after saving nine set points in the first set.

Americans won one of the doubles titles and shared another. Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., and Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif.; defeated Beryl Penrose of Australia and Gertrude Love of South Africa, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3.

Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt won the men's doubles against Rose and Don Canfy of Australia, 2-6, 6-4, 9-7.

Miss Connolly and Rose had qualified for the mixed doubles final but they withdrew by mutual agreement.

Mrs. Hazel Redick-Smith of South Africa got the mixed doubles title by default.

Legion Moves Up In Snyder Ball League

American Legion moved in third place in the Snyder Fastball League Friday night by defeating Humble 9-3, placing Humble in a tie for fourth.

Ted Masters, winning hurler, allowed only one hit, compared to five given up by Clary Fagan, loser. Lloyd Rinker slammed a home run for the Legion.

National Guard continued to climb from the bottom of the ranks by winning 11-5 over Hermleigh. The Guard is now in eighth place with a 4-3 record.

Only two hits were given up by Donald Jones, winning hurler. Cooper the loser, allowed five.

Playing at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night will be Sunray, now tied for fourth place, and Texaco, which is in the cellar. Diamond M, the league leader, and West Texas State Bank, ninth place, meet at 9 o'clock.

Three Olympic Spots To Be Filled Monday

HOUSTON, June 21 (AP)—Four events Monday open two nights of swimming and diving that will be highlighted by competition for three places on the U. S. Olympic women's diving team.

Pat McCormick of Los Angeles, winner of five national diving championships in the last 12 months, leads the list of Olympic aspirants.

Juno Stover Irwin of Pasadena, Jean Canfield of Chicago and Nancy Duty and Mignon Martin of Houston are other contenders in the high platform diving Olympic trials.

Cubs Leading Little League

Several Little Baseball League teams stay close enough at all times to change standings every week, completely, and some team' records may take a tumble during the coming week's schedule.

The Lions Cubs, now in first place with a 7-3 record after polishing off a 20-8 win over the Holder Indians Friday night, will meet the second place Whiteway Yanks (6-3) Tuesday night.

The Cubs and Yanks have both been on top during the past week, overtaking the Indians, who held first place for several games and are not in third with a 5-5 record.

Playing tomorrow night are the Yanks and the Optimist Cardinals (4-5) in the first game at 7 o'clock. Meeting at 9 o'clock are the Quarterback Giants (3-6) and the Kiwanis Braves (3-6).

This Week's Schedule

Monday — Optimist Cards vs. Whiteway Yanks; QB Giants vs. Kiwanis Braves.

Tuesday — Lions Cubs vs. Whiteway Yanks; QB Giants vs. Holder Indians.

Thursday — Kiwanis Braves vs. Optimist Cards; Lions Cubs vs. QB Giants.

Friday — Whiteway Yanks vs. Kiwanis Braves.

Third Round To Be Played

LOUISVILLE, June 21 (AP)—A series of violent thunderstorms, bringing gusty winds and drenching rains, added to the "Debacle of Big Spring" today and forced the first postponement in the PGA golf championship in 12 years.

Still staggering from the first day carnage which saw elimination of Champion Sam Snead, Medalist Dutch Harrison and a host of other big name stars, the tournament committee found it necessary to put off third round matches until tomorrow.

Sixteen survivors, half of them little known pros who emerged underdogs, will tee off, starting in yesterday's rebellion of the at 8 a.m.(CST).

The storm struck early last night and continued until mid-morning.

Similar weather forced a postponement in the semi-finals at Hershey, Pa., in 1940.

Kills Two Birds With One Stone

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 21 (AP)—Robert Walsh of Easthampton hit a birdie to make a hole in one at Northampton Country Club.

Walsh playing with three companions drove from the seventh tee yesterday. His ball struck a crow, dropped and wound up in the cup.

The crow dropped dead.

OPEN SEASON

By DALE WALTON

Little League Baseball seems to be in the mind of every parent in Snyder, as well as many businessmen and women who have no children.

The Little League, operated practically the same as the majors, has become a big league for this town, drawing an average crowd of about 700 persons every game night.

Credit should be given to the boys in the league for their excellent play. They are learning the game of baseball in addition to developing the qualities of sportsmanship.

Those qualities are being handed down to them by the league managers, who have been very unselfish in giving their time for work with the boys and work on the field.

A hard-working but unheralded organization is the Little League Auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Stanley Kerbow. Mrs. Kerbow, Mrs. Harold Brown, Mrs. E. N. Baker, and Mrs. Speedy Moffett have headed the work at the concessions stands. Team chairmen head each night's work at the stands. They are Mrs. Moffett, Mrs. W. S. Hatchett, Mrs. R. M. Phillips, Mrs. Pat Johnston, Mrs. March Springer, and Mrs. Virgil Fleming.

The man with the toughest job in the league is Speedy Moffett, president. While many persons on the school faculty secure summer jobs to bring in extra money, Moffett has given up that idea and is spending practically all his time with the league. When someone fails to show up to do a league job, Moffett [illegible] can think of no one who could do a better job with the league.

Recognition should be given to various business firms who have given time, products, and equipment to aid in the operation of the Little League. Among them are C. M. (Buck) Wyle, water well contractor; Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Co., Baker & Taylor Drilling Co. Alamo and Southland Ice Companies, R. C. Cola and Coca Cola Bottling Companies, Baldridge Bread, Beadel's Rainbow Market, Younger Construction Co., Grimmitt Bros. Sand & Gravel, Earl Davis, trucker, D & R Food Store, D & H Supermarket, Highland Park Cleaners, Joe Graham Cleaners, Snyder Tailoring Co., Lockhart Cleaners, Snyder Steam Laundry, and H & S Cleaners.

The league mothers' organization has managed the donation program of fans and business firms.

Erfurth Wins TAG On Putt

CORPUS CHRISTI, June 21 (AP)—Billy Erfurth, a 22-year-old tournament veteran from Brownsville, held off a blazing afternoon rally by young Bob Moncrief of Houston here today to win the Texas Amateur Golf Tournament, 2 and 1.

The slender native of San Antonio, who is playing golf out of the Valley city this summer, roared into a six-hole lead at the end of the morning 18 as his 20-year-old opponent, a junior next year at the University of Texas, ran into putter troubles from the first green.

Erfurth, winning his fifth and biggest tournament of the year, walked off the course at noon with the six-up advantage and the state amateur trophy apparently already tucked away.

But Moncrief, visibly nervous and hurrying every shot, suddenly caught fire. He won two holes on the front nine to close the gap to four-down and then took both No. 10 and 11 with pars as Erfurth ran into trouble on approach shots.

But with his big lead cut to two holes, Billy got busy. He won one back on 12 as Moncrief caught a trap, and then picked up another on the long par five 13th with a birdie.

Moncrief, however, still wasn't through. He won 14 with a birdie, halved 15, and then knocked in another bird on 16 to stay in the match. His 30-foot putt for another birdie on 17 stopped an inch short and Erfurth closed it out by getting his par.

Houston golfers received some consolation, however, by winning two other championships. Howie Johnson beat Rufus Chote of Corpus Christi, 3 and 2, for the championship consolation prize, and Dave Marr scored a 1-up win over Charles Ribelin, Dallas, for the first flight title.

Cubs Lose To Dave Koslo

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—Lefty Dave Koslo turned in a fine relief performance today as the New York Giants defeated Chicago, 6-2, to extend the slumping Cubs' losing streak to seven games.

Koslo came on cold in the second inning after George Spencer, making his first start of the season, developed a blister on his pitching hand.

The veteran blanked the Cubs on five singles until the ninth. When John Pramesa opened the inning with his first home run of the season. Dee Fondy followed with a triple and scored after Randy Jackson flied out.

Omar (Turk) Lown started for Chicago and was tapped for three runs and seven hits in six innings. Joe Hatten pitched the seventh and eighth and was tagged for New York's final three runs on home runs by Bob Thomson and Alvin Dark.

Fans Will Select Big State Stars

FORT WORTH, June 21 (AP)—Members of the Big State League all-star teams will be selected by vote of the fans, President Howard Green announced today.

Balloting will begin Thursday, June 25, and continue through July 10. The game will be played in Austin July 18.

The northern team will be chosen from players of Wichita Falls, Paris, Texarkana and Longview. The southern team will come from Austin, Waco, Temple and Tyler. There will be 16-man squads selected and names of not more than five players from any one team may appear on a ballot.

There will be two catchers, five infielders, four outfielders and five pitchers selected, Green said. Managers whose clubs are highest in their respective sections on July 15 will be the all-star pilots.

Rawls Takes Western Open

CHICAGO, June 21 (AP)—Golf's best current gal money-player, Betsy Rawls, indeed proved that today by erasing a 3-hole lag and surging ahead for the first time at the 33rd for a one-up, 36-hole victory over pro Betty Jameson to capture her first Women's Western Open title.

Miss Rawls, grabbing the $1,000 winner's check to boost her 1952 earnings over $10,000 was a meek player for 27 holes as Miss Jameson, 1942 champion, thrice held a 3-hole lead in their all-Texas scrap.

But suddenly, Betsy from Austin, Tex., tore into the final nine of Skokie Country Club with a fury that gave her the 28th, 29th and 30th holes in quick succession.

That evened the match for the third time, and Miss Rawls went out in front for the first time on the 33rd with a par four while Betty missed a five-footer for a five.

Spending much of spare time with her grandchildren, Mrs. Porter King puts some of her 28 years of school teaching experience into helping her granddaughter, Mary Kay Sharp, with her reading. Mrs. King began her career as an educator in Snyder.

Twenty-eight Years A Teacher Here; Still Likes Her Work

Much improvement in the Snyder school system has been witnessed by Mrs. Porter King, 3008 Avenue U, since she began teaching here more than 28 years ago.

Mrs. King, who has been teaching in the schools here longer than any other Snyder teacher, marvels at the school's new buildings, its army of faculty members, and its modern equipment. She even goes as far as to say that she may continue teaching in this system when she is eligible for retirement two years from now — if she is needed on the faculty.

Twenty of the 28 years Mrs. King has spent as an educator has been in the Snyder school system. She attended school in Snyder after her family moved here to a ranch in 1902 from Palo Pinto County, graduated here, then passed a state exam, in 1909, which qualified her as a teacher of first and second grades. After teaching in Snyder schools for about two years, she spent two years teaching in Scurry rural schools, including Guinn School, about 12 miles east of Snyder; Lone Wolf School, south of Hermleigh; and another school northwest of Snyder.

Mrs. King later attended South Texas State Teachers College at San Marcus, Texas Tech at Lubbock, and McMurry College at Abilene, receiving her bachelor of science degree from the Abilene school. She has been doing graduate work in several schools.

Mr. and Mrs. King were married in 1918 in San Antonio, and King, then in the Army, was sent to France, so Mrs. King went to Oklahoma and taught there about a year.

After World War I was ended, Mr. and Mrs. King came back to Snyder, living then at the same residence where they now live, and Mrs. King stopped teaching to raise a family. She said she had intended never to teach again after she was married, but her experience and the county's need for teachers caused her to go to the Ira schools in about 1927, where she instructed students for eight years before coming back to the Snyder schools in about 1935.

During her second year back here, all the school building except the high school burned, and Mrs. King and other teachers were forced to move into churches and other buildings with their classes, where they taught for more than a year while the school building, now called Central Elementary, was being rebuilt. Mrs. King remembers that classes could not be resumed for several days until an emergency shipment of textbooks arrived, but she said there were more books available when the shipment came in than the system had before the fire.

Mrs. King will be a first grade teacher in the West Ward School this fall. She spent the last few years teaching at the Primary School.

Practically all of Mrs. King's years at teaching has been with the first grade, which she calls one of the hardest years for students. The first year is hard, she said, because children must learn to spend most of the daylight hours away from their parents and begin their road toward getting an education and becoming useful citizens.

Mrs. King has enjoyed her teaching because she has been in a position to watch her former students grow into adults and to take their places in life. It takes little drain on her memory for her to remember one of the 900 students she has taught. Two of her oldest students still living in Snyder, she said, are Joe Graham, cleaner and tailor, and Mrs. Roy Stokes, partner in the Lewis-Stokes insurance agency.

One of the greatest improvements in the teaching profession in Texas since Mrs. King began, she said, came with the Gilmer-Aiken Bill, which increased the teachers' pay and limited the number of students taught in one classroom. She remembers that monthly pay for teachers when she began was $35.

Once, Mrs. King said, school funds were short for about three years, and teachers were forced to take IOU's instead of pay. Teachers could cash the IOU's upon receipt by taking a discount, which many were forced to do, but they received full pay if they saved them until the crisis ended. Many instructors took part-time jobs to provide for their families while they taught. Mrs. King does not remember the reason for the money shortage, unless hard times caused many taxes to become delinquent.

If she retires at the end of her 30 years' service, Mrs. King plans to spend most of her time at housework or with her five grandchildren. One grandchild, Mary Kay Sharp, is now staying with Mrs. King while her parents, M-Sgt. and Mrs. James E. Sharp, and her brother, Jimmy Sharp, are moving to an Air Force base in Kansas. Mrs. King's other grandchildren are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Bill King, 3102 Avenue V.

Palestine Arabs Can Enter Their Fields At Risk Of Lives

BEIRUT, June 21 (AP) — A Palestine Arab farmer stepped into his wheat field to get food for his starving children. Before he could get back to his house, he was shot dead by frontier guards.

The man was one of 100,000 Palestine Arabs who still live in their farm houses, but can enter their fields only at the risk of their lives.

These are the people of the "frontier villages," the little agricultural settlements on the periphery of Israel whose farmland has been cut away by Arab-Israeli armistice lines. In many respects these villages constitute a greater threat to peace in Palestine than the 750,000 refugees actually driven from their homes.

The desperation of these villagers has led many of them to risk death in crossing to their fields in Israel.

Cut off from their land and livelihood they are not considered refugees by the United Nations because they still have their home. As a result they get no relief of any kind from the United Nations relief and works agency (UNRWA), which cares for the 750,000 actual refugees.

All County Judge Candidates Are Experienced Politicians

The three men who want to be Scurry County's judge next term have all had experience in political office.

Edgar Taylor, incumbent, has held the job since January, 1949, and before that had been elected for three terms as county tax assessor - collector.

F. C. Hairston was elected to the office of county judge in 1944, when he defeated Richard W. (Dick) Webb and Ben Thorpe, now district judge. Hairston was unopposed in 1946 and was defeated in 1948 by Taylor.

C. E. McGaw, who moved to Snyder in 1949, had been district judge in Longview for one elective term, 1936 to 1940, being defeated for a second term.

The county judge's duties are not altogether judiciary, although he is judge of the county court. Practically, he is the county's business representative, handling all business not specifically delegated to some other official.

The county court has jurisdiction over civil, probate, lunacy and criminal cases, and apellate jurisdiction in cases tried in justice and corporation courts.

The judge is presiding officer of the commissioners' court, and, in Scurry County, acts as presiding judge of the juvenile court.

In their platforms, the candidates all state their policies on handling county finances.

McGaw's platform was given to the Daily News as follows: "I favor wise management and cautious spending of our county finances, so that the tax rate will not have to be increased. Fair and impartial and speedy trials of all cases pending. A conservative bond issue for money to be spent, if it is necessary, by a vote of the people. Fair and impartial handling of all matters with special privileges to none."

Hairston made the following statement, directed "to the citizenship of Scurry County: To those of you who have moved to our county within the last few years, I will say that it was my pleasure to serve ... as county judge two terms, and if again elected . will strive to co-operate with city, county, and state law enforcement officers in upholding and maintaining law and order in the county. In regard to the financial interests of the county, I will endeavor, with the co-operation of the county commissioners, to advocate a wise and economical expenditure of the taxpayer's money, and as far as possible avoid involving the county with exorbitant bonded indebtedness."

Taylor stated his platform as follows: "I am in favor of retiring all bonds, to pay off debts accumulated prior to 1937. I am not in favor of issuing any bonds for more than a ten-year maturity period. I am against issuing warrants for building a jail or any other project. I am in favor of more roads to serve rural mail carriers and school bus routes. I believe we must have a sufficient tax rate to pay for the hospital, airport and park projects."

The traditional "seven seas" included the North and South Atlantic, North and South Pacific, Indian, Arctic and Antarctic Oceans, the last of which does not exist.

Barbara Boydston adjusts the draperies she made for the living room of her home. She is helping her mother decorate their new home as part of the high school home making summer project.

Miss Vera Periman, who with Mrs. Frank Jenkins, is conducting the crafts and sewing classes at the high school during June, helps Helen Ross design shell ear screws. Mary Nell Strickland, right, is etching a copper picture. The craft classes will continue next week tomorrow through Thursday.

Karmen Simmons and Gloria Sheldon are learning cut-work during the craft session. While the high school girls and other women are working on hand work, a day nursery is being conducted, where the girls get training in child care. The play corner is well-equipped with stick horses, books and dolls.

Summer Projects, Craft Classes Keep Homemakers Busy

As the lazy summer days designed for siesta roll around, many girls and women in Snyder use the early morning to learn a new craft or art that they will be able to use the rest of their lives.

As shown on this page, the studies take on a variety of forms. Some are for amusement, but most are so that the students can more profitably apply their hands to make things with a personal touch. That the newly learned arts will prove to be money savers is a motivation force in this pleasant way to spend a summer.

Robbie Pratt, another home making student who is carrying out a summer project, helps prepare meals for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Pratt and her sister and two small brothers. The girls are required to do 100 hours of meal planning, preparation, sewing or other related work in order to earn scholastic credits. Mrs. Jenkins and Miss Periman visit homes to check.

Mrs. R. W. Foster is shown stitching a pink linen jacket which she is making in the sewing class. The women sew on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Mrs. E. W. Bonner gets some cutting instructions from Mrs. Jenkins, while Mrs. Lowell Thornburg, in the background, works on a garment. By opening the classes to adults, the school benefits the community. (Staff photographs.),

Leather craft is another of the projects, besides making jewelry from shells, learning cut-work embroidery, making copper pictures by hammering in designs and other related crafts. Working on a billfold are Velesta Sumruld, left, and Marsha Fisher, extreme right. Billy Mae Hutchins and Myrna Walker are tooling belts.

PATTERN

VARDEN PETITE

1103

If you have to tip-toe to reach the cabinet shelves, Varden Petite designed this dress for you. Designed especially for women five feet five or less, it will help you make the most of yourself. It also lends itself well to wear by the shortwaisted woman, regardless of her height. The dress draws its basic interest from emphasis on the neckline and unusual sleeves, with a full, gored skirt for a carefree swing. The original model was of a silk surah print, but you might choose shantung, linen, chambray or gingham with equal success. Size 12 requires four yards of 39-inch material, and the pattern comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. To order it, No. 1103, send $1 to Spadea Syndicate, Inc., Dept. 163, Box 258, Madison Square Station, New York 10, N. Y.

Ask Mildred

Send your questions to Mrs. Mildred Sparks, county home demonstration agent, the courthouse, or to the Snyder Daily News.

I am desperate and am hoping you can help me. We have lived in a new home for two months and I've had two months of trial and error in my attempt to have my hardwood floors look as pretty as they should. No, I'm not a fanatic housekeeper—one can't be in this dusty country; however, as I have a new home one can not help but want to keep it lovely. We had them finished with varnish and shellac and in two days they were so tracked up—sweeping 5 times a day and a chemical treated dust mop made no impression at all. I asked a neighbor whose floors are like mirrors and she said she never waxed them—only used a floor and furniture polish on them. I tried it and for a week or two they shone and all dust tracks from feet coming in off the dirt road swished out of sight with the oil mop and I was glad. Now I've used a bottle of polish and the floors don't shine at all. After living in what I call a "black house' (unpainted) is it any wonder I want our new place to be pretty? I felt I had to ask someone here who has the same climatic troubles to help me. I'm having a party June 26—not too far off—and I want my house to look as nice as it can by then. So if you can't suggest anything I haven't tried, would you try to think to ask others? Mrs. A.L.B.

I was glad to receive your letter and hope that this answer will be of some help to you. It is apparent from your letter that the top shellac coating is damaged. As soon as possible, I would say to re-shellac or varnish the surface. After the first coat of shellac or varnish sand lightly to remove any bubbles or rough spots. Then apply a second coat. It will be necessary to have no traffic on the floor for a minimum of 2 days so as to allow the shellac to harden. Apply paste wax to the floors. Never use oil on a waxed surface in this area it may wipe away dust and sand but it will make a surface which collects dirt. I am sending a bulletin which may prove helpful. I am sorry your floors have been a disappointment but they can be made beautiful. I have talked to several people about their floors and the care they give them, and the above suggestions are the same as their idea.

I have heard so many discussions on what to prepare tomatoes in. Could you tell me is it safe to cook tomatoes, or heat them for canning, in aluminum pans? Mrs. A. C. F.

Yes, There is no evidence that the small amount of aluminum dissolved by tomatoes heated in aluminum pans is harmful.

Mrs. Jack Weston

Miss Hataway, Jack Weston Married in Church Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Weston are at home in Seminole following their wedding June 14 at the Fluvanna Baptist Church.

The Rev. Cecil Rhodes, pastor of West Side Baptist Church in Big Spring, read the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with palms and ferns. Baskets of white galdioli and white tapers completed the setting.

F. W. Hataway gave his daughter, the former Miss Delphene Hataway, in marriage. She wore a ballerina - length dress of white embossed net over taffeta, with a fitted long - sleeved jacket of plain net. The finger-tip length veil of illusion fell from a tiara of nylon net.

The bride carried orchids on a white Bible, with a shower of white ribbon and maline extending from the book. Her pearls were a gift of the bridegroom and she wore a dinner ring belonging to Mrs. J. R. Meadows.

Miss Rona Merle Bley of Fluvanna was maid of honor. She wore an aqua strapless ballerina-length net dress with a stole. Her colonial bouquet was of feathered pink carnations with aqua trim.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Weston of Prague, Okla., was attended by Mack Weston of Midland. Ushers were Delbert Hataway, brother of the bride, and Don Jones of Fluvanna.

The musical program was given by Miss Patsy Holder, pianist, and Mrs. Benny Sims, soloist.

A reception in the bride's parents' home followed the ceremony. The table was centered with pink carnations and a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Sims presided at the cake, and Miss Billie Ann Weston registered guests. Others in the houseparty were Miss Holder, Mrs. Meadows, Miss Nelva Herring, Miss Neil Warren, and Miss Gloria [illegible].

For a trip to South Texas, the bride wore a two-piece linen dress with white accessories.

She was graduated from Fluvanna High School and attended Texas Tech. The bridegroom was graduated from Carbon High School. He is engaged in ranching.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Luther Vaughn and son David, and Mrs. Maudie Linsley of Dublin; Mrs. Darwin McCaslin and children and Earl Palvado of Morton; Mrs. Bill McCrum of DeLeon; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Weston and family of Sweetwater and Mrs. Mack Weston of Midland.

The contract to paint the bridges of the county and the roof of the courthouse has been let to John Coleman for a consideration of $65. There are four iron bridges in the county. Two are on the Colorado road, one across Sulphur at Dunn, and the other across Rip Roaring Hollow. The others are across Ennis and Deep Creeks. Mr. Coleman began work the latter part of last week.

We were shown last week a lump of coal that had been brought into town from Dr. A. O. Scarborough's ranch in Garza County. The specimen was taken from the side of a deep canyon from among a mass of conglomerates and slaty shales and from surface appearances seems to be deposited in great abundance.

The find is located among the breaks and draws contributary to Double Mountain River, in a very rugged section of the country near one of the gaps in the mountains that marks the passway to the plains and on the projected railroad line through the northwest section into New Mexico. Whether or not the coal exists in workable quantities will be left to further investigation.

Those who wish to engage to take ice daily will please so notify me as soon as possible, or by the first, in order that I may better arrange to keep a sufficient supply on hand at all times. It is not convenient for me to keep a large quantity of ice on hand unless I know what the demand is going to be. I am here to serve the trade and at the very lowest possible prices. I carry a line of the coldest drinks to be found in the town and would be glad to share your patronage. R. H. Henderson.

Hermleigh had a re-awakening last Tuesday and voted to again become a city. The progressives who believed in becoming a city incorporated totaled 56, while the boys who wanted to leave it a cow pasture numbered 44.

The town has been without city government since last January when it was voted to go into the township by a bare majority. Hermleigh is too good a little town —there are too many whole-souled boosters there—not to have a live, incorporated town. The Times-Signal, for one, is glad they got it, and wishes them every luck in whatever the town undertakes.

The Colorado Chamber of Commerce has unconditionally endorsed the plan of the Colorado student flying field. One of these sites was donated by Lewis Miller, farm owner and oil man, and the other by Earl Morrison local ranch owner and oil operator.

Let's have some good, staunch Snyder booster now come forward and donate a landing field for Snyder. We might as well crawl in the band wagon early—aviation has proved its absolute dependability, so let's all get dressed for it. We need a landing field! Who will donate one?

Beef cattle this spring have sold the highest for the season since 1920 when prices were on a high level because of war inflation. All classes and grades of cattle have participated in the advance, the general price increase over last year and the last five years averaging from 12 to 27 per cent.

Will Clark, proprietor of Clark's Grocery, is still loud in his praise of the Times - Signals advertising medium. He says that 450 persons visited his store last Saturday, and that he gives the Times-Signal credit for letting the people know that he was having a tea demonstration.

Philip Murray Will Make Public Spech

GARY, Ind., June 21 (AP) — CIO President Philip Murray will give an "important" public speech on steel negotiations and production of defense steel at Gary Sunday.

Indiana Governor May Run For Senate Post

INDIANAPOLIS, June 21 (AP) — Democratic Gov. Henry F. Schricker said today he would accept the nomination for U. S. senator from Indiana.

The announcement, expected for weeks, followed strong pressure on him by party leaders.

If nominated as expected at Tuesday's Democratic State Convention, Schricker would oppose Republican Sen. William E. Jenner in the November election. Jenner seeks re-election to the seat he has held since 1945.

DANGER OF DIETS CITED IN ARTICLE

For many of this country's 25,000,000 overweight adults, reducing diets have become a dominating influence. But the frightening fact is that many of the most popular diets are extremely dangerous. In an article titled, "Which Diets Are Dangerous," a recent issue of a national magazine lists some of the most prevalent reducing plans and tells why they can cause serious trouble.

Why not try the Barcentrate way to take off ugly fat? Barcentrate is the original grapefruit juice recipe for weight reduction. No starvation diet. No calorie counting. No vitamins, for you can't live on vitamins. You must have food to live. Nothing harmful in Barcentrate. Nearly four and a quarter million bottles sold in Texas in nine years. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour into a pint bottle or jar. Add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the way to reduce easily, sensibly and safely, return the empty bottle for your money back.

40 Pounds Lost
"My doctor told me I must lose weight, so I started taking Barcentrate. I lost 40 pounds taking eight bottles," writes Mrs. John Trahan, Route 1, Box 102, Alta Loma, Texas. "I ate what I wanted and I feel better than I have in several years. I think Barcentrate is wonderful.

Reduces 12 Pounds
Mrs. Maude Kelley, 1720 Avenue E, Galveston, Texas, wrote us as follows: "I have lost 12 pounds taking Barcentrate and I think it is a wonderful medicine."

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

High Level Lull In Business Is Existing In United States

By J. A. LIVINGSTON

The steel strike, now three weeks old, is beginning to pinch. Numerous companies — Ford, Oldsmobile, Dodge, Cadillac, International Harvester, and others—have been forced to revise production schedules downward. Layoffs and shorter work weeks in metal-working plants are not yet commonplace, but they're threatening. Output of military items—bazooka rockets, military trucks, mortar shells, tanks, among others—is being curtailed.

Acting Defense Mobilizer John R. Steelman has been trying to work out a plan for stopgap output of steel to satisfy immediate munitions requirements. That's a major undertaking—orders are so widely scattered among so many companies, not only makers of steel, but also makers of munitions and parts.

ECONOMIST'S DREAM

As yet, the strike has had no noticeable effect on general business. The high level lull just continues. Employment is still virtually at an all-time high, unemployment virtually at a cold-war low.

This is the economist's dream world: Equilibrium. Neither inflation nor deflation, neither boom nor bust. The cost-of-living index rose a bit in May, is back to where it was in January. Food and rent are up, house-furnishings and clothing down. Cotton rises, wheat drops. Zinc's weak because of the steel strike—less demand for galvanizing. Yet steel prices are due for a rise once an agreement on higher wages is reached. Shoe production in New England shows a firmer tone, shirt manufacturers are feeling more cheerful about incoming business, cotton sheets are strong. On the other hand, tire inventories are high and prices have been reduced, and stores feature reductions on refrigerators, washing machines and other household hard goods.

Broadly speaking, the glacial advance in capital goods counter-balances the lag in the consumer industries. Thus, new housing starts this year have caught up and are now running ahead of last year. Another million-home year is in prospect (see chart). Corporate outlays on plant and equipment in the first nine months are estimated to be 9 per cent higher than in 1951 by the Securities & Exchange Commission and Department of Commerce. Defense outlays are still scheduled to rise. And state and local governments are engaged in large undertakings.

HOW MUCH MORE?

The determining question in the business outlook is still: How much farther has this capital expansion to go?

Some oomph seems to have gone out of home-building. Contractors are finding it a bit more difficult to dispose of homes. And it's easier to get help on odds-and-ends jobs.

Plant expansion seems likely to pass its peak this year.

Federal spending is also approaching a ceiling. A year ago, outlays on all national security programs were at a rate of 40 billion annually. The recent rate was approximately 54 billion, and the estimated peak, to be reached in '53, is around 65 billion.

Thus, the expansion that lies ahead is only 11 billion dollars as against 14 billion during the last 12 months. And it's quite possible, in view of Congressional cuts in appropriations, that even that increase won't be achieved.

The bright spot is state and local - government projects. The carryover demand from the war for schools, hospitals, sewage systems, turnpikes, throughways, etc., is still large.

DEPARTMENT STORES

Meanwhile, the general consumer plays it cosy. Or maybe it might be more appropriate to say he's not spending freely. Why? Partly because he is bought up. Partly because he's paying off debt. And partly because higher taxes and shorter work weeks have slimmed down disposable pay.

Department stores have been particularly hard hit, for several reasons:

First, the rise in food costs have put a crimp in the budget for clothes, shoes, housefurnishings.

Second, postwar emphasis on hard goods, rather than soft goods, has cut into the department stores' share of the consumer dollar. Department stores still rely more heavily for sales on soft goods than hard goods.

Third, farmers and suburbanites have been using big-city shopping centers less and less. They're using local specialty stores more.

Fourth, consumer confidence in advertised, nationally-known price-fixed merchandise makes the small store just as acceptable and reliable as the large store. The manufacturer's guarantee replaces the merchant's.

Thus, to some extent, department store sales statistics are not as good a measure of what the consumer's doing with his money as they used to be.

Forum Sells Books In Small Station Room

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

COLOGNE, Germany, June 21 (AP) —Every Wednesday the third class waiting room of the bustling main rail station here is packed to suffocation with a colorful collection of booklovers, artists, musicians and students.

They cram into the small room to hear outspoken debates on literary, artistic and musical themes.

This unique forum was started 2½ years ago by the owner of the station's bookstalls, Gerhard Ludwig.

Now it is one of the cultural events of this cathedral city. It attracts writers and composers from all over Germany and sometimes visiting foreign celebrities such as Hollywood's Peter Lorre, drop in.

The tiny waiting room, down under the main departure platform, holds less than a hundred persons. Most weeks there is an overflow of people craning their necks around the door.

Why did he begin this forum? He's quite frank about it—"to sell more books," he says. "That's my business and I decided that the way to make people buy books was to make them talk about them."

"The results have been very good. I've had over 2,000 press notices and a number of radio broadcasts."

Its something of an ordeal for a visiting speaker. The debate is a free-for-all, mental bout.

Education Is Hard Drive For Six Snyderites

Six Snyder teachers will travel 5,040 miles in six weeks this summer, to earn six semester hours each of college credit.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Glass, Mrs. Travis Rhoades, Mrs. Elwood Jones, Mrs. Glenn Holladay and Mrs. Nellie Smith drive to Lubbock every day, Monday through Friday, to attend summer school at Texas Technological College.

All except Mrs. Rhoades, who has already earned two degrees, are working on their master's degrees. All are teachers in Snyder schools except Mrs. Holladay, who lives in Snyder but teaches at Ira. Mrs. Smith is the exceptional children's teacher for Snyder schools.

Everybody in the group has a car, so that each person drives every sixth day. They've had no car trouble yet, not even a flat tire.

Getting a degree through long distance commuting suits the group perfectly. If they can get the courses they need, they want to do the same thing the second six-weeks term.

If they do, they may set some sort of record by driving over ten thousand miles to college in one summer.

Only a few generations ago, many English words were spelled in several different ways by reputable writers.

Snyder Students Find Work In Summer Healthful, Profitable

With the summer vacation here the young Snyderites are usually looking for part time jobs to fill their pockets with money and aid them in their chosen fields of work.

Some of the football team of Snyder high school are staying in shape by working on the construction jobs in and about Snyder.

A group of four is working for Ray Keenan on the West Texas Bank building on the southwest corner of the square. When asked if it was the coach's idea that they work, they replied that it was partly his but they like the idea of having the money that the job pays.

Something that money cannot buy the boys is being furnished by this type of work. That is muscle building exercise for eight hours a day.

Their boss says he already can tell that they are hardening up. He complimented them on doing the hard work well.

Roust-about work in the oil field, driving trucks for lumber yards and numerous other outside jobs are being filled by young boys still in high school or home on summer vacation from college. Service stations also draw a large number from the ranks. The majority of the college students try to find work that help them learn more about the work they plan to do later in life. However this is not always the easy thing to do.

English majors may be delivering a load of lumber to your house while a civil engineer in the making might be giving your car the final polishing at a local service station. Those studying for a place in the oil industry have more opportunities to find summer jobs in their respective branch. Many of the supply stores, drilling companies, and production departments are offering a plan where the students may go to school in the fall and work for them in the summer. Upon graduation they will have a job waiting for them in most cases.

Of course the derrick floor is still the best place to find a mixture of talent, education, and background working as one complete unit.

Summing up the outdoor job one fellow put it in these words. "You get two things for sure and most of the time a good third. The two for sure are sunburn and aching muscles. The third, after deductions, is the paycheck."

Unknown Superman

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 21 (AP) — A husky stranger stepped from a stunned crowd yesterday and lifted the right front wheel of an automobile which was crushing a 5-year-old boy.

After performing his amazing display of strength, he slipped back into the awestruck spectators before his identity could be learned.

Donald Beaudron tumbled from the car at nearby Ft. Screven and rolled under the wheel before his father could bring the car to a stop. The wheel was resting on the boy's head, neck and shoulders.

The young man lifted the wheel while Beaudron backed the car off his son. The child was reported in fair condition today at a Savannah hospital.

Cattle Raisers Get 321 New Members

FORT WORTH, June 21 (AP) — Ranks of the Texas and Southwestern cattle raisers association were swelled today by 321 ranchers who reported 25,250 head of cattle.

Association directors, in quarterly meeting, approved membership for the ranchers.

T. L. Roach of Amarillo, president, reported on the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association annual meeting and the National Livestock and Meat Board meeting at Chicago.

Joe G. Montague, association attorney, explained to directors details of the new agreement on Mexican labor, effective July 1.

Senate Passes Bill On Quickie Divorces

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—The Senate today passed a bill aimed to improve the legal standing of some quickie divorces. The measure now goes to the House.

It specifies that a decree shall be recognized in other states provided it is final and valid where it is rendered.

The measure was sponsored by Sen. McCarran (D-Nev), Reno, in McCarran's home state, is a popular spot among divorce seekers.

Not Too Much Change In Fashions For Next Fall

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Staff

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—The poodle, current darling of international fashion, has been clipped, curled, combed and teamed with sleek, smooth companions for next fall's all-American styles.

Textured fabrics are the big news of New York's fall fashion openings, which go into high gear next week when buyers and fashion editors from all over the United States and abroad converge on the big town's teeming garment district.

The silhouette is only slightly changed from last season, with slim skirts predominant for daytime wear, full skirts for cocktail and evening dresses, the hemline at mid-calf, shoulders smooth and unpadded, waistlines accentuated but not uncomfortably squeezed.

The whole feeling of the new fashions is one of smooth, rounded lines, lush fabrics and distinction in details. There will be few exaggerated monstrosities for cartoonists to jibe in next fall's feminine fashions. Most styles are wearable, understated, designed to fit the usual outlines of the female figure and endowed with a quality of quiet elegance by expert tailoring and the handsomest lineup of fabrics in many moons.

Favorite colors for winter will be combinations of black and brown, with other colors in deep, muted tones, subdued by weaving black undertones into colored fabrics.

The textured and napped poodle and zybeline fabrics are top of the heap for suits and coats, often shown in combination with smooth worsteds or flannels dyed to match exactly.

The new poodle fabrics have deep curled surfaces, but are feather-light in the hand. Fabrics which look rich and heavy, with deep naps, turn out to be sheer as veiling on close inspection. This makes it possible for designers to use the deep-napped fabrics in new, suave suits and dresses which cling and drape as smoothly as silk, yet give the effect of weight and bulk.

Probably the top fashion for fall is the costume suit consisting of poodle-cloth jacket, either boxy or fitted, and sheath dress of butter-smooth flannel in precisely matching color, always deep and muted.

Designers show real winter suits this year, using brushed-surface and textured woolens which look warm and luxurious, but are always light in weight.

Skirts on these tailored outfits are almost always pencil slim in effect, but have adroit devices to provide fullness for walking in the form of low-placed pleats, usually at the back.

There are no square lines in fall fashions. Suit jackets are subtly rounded as to shoulders, bust and hipline, with even the bottom of the jackets dipping in a rounded line in back instead of being cut straight across.

Women will need a slim midriff, a high, rounded bustline and curving hipline to do right by the new styles, which definitely accentuate the feminine.

In evening styles the most popular length is 10 inches from the floor, or just above the ankle, though there are some formal ballgowns which sweep the floor, and many youthful cocktail-through-dinner gowns which are street length, with draped and revealing bodices often covered up by a jacket or bolero to be removed after dark.

Two Youngsters Die In Paris Accident

PARIS, June 21 (AP)—Two Paris youngsters died after a four-car accident four miles north of here early today.

The victims were Wayne Young, 16, son of Mrs. Sylvia Pierce, and Peggy Ann Taylor, 13, daughter of Weldon Taylor. They were passengers in a car driven by James Taylor, the girl's brother.

Injured included James Earl Holland of Dallas and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Billingsley and their two young children from Fort Worth.

Kelley-Snyder Location

Humble Oil & Refining Co. has staked the No. 6 L. N. Periman to be drilled immediately on the northwest side of the Kelley-Snyder field.

Location is 1,860 feet from south and east lines of section 438-97-H&TC, about 10 miles northwest of Snyder. Contract depth is 7,000 feet.

American Cotton Congress Ends Meet

HOUSTON, June 21 (AP)—A preview of mechanized cotton production on the Texas Gulf Coast was given members of the American Cotton Congress and other visitors today at a demonstration meeting at the Ramsey State Farm.

The Congress ended a two day session yesterday.

The highlight of the closing session was a speech by Lamar Fleming Jr., president of Anderson, Clayton & Co.

Fleming said the American cotton industry in the future will probably best thrive on annual crops of 13 million to 14 million bales.

Big TV Expansion Program Is To Be Completed Next Month

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—If television had its own calendar, July 1 would be a red letter day.

That's the target date set by American Telephone and Telegraph Company for extension of its network facilities to 10 more cities. Thus all but one of the nation's 66 TV cities can be hooked up for the Republican convention July 7 and Democratic convention July 21, and will continue to get network service thereafter.

On the same date, the Federal Communications Commission will start considering applications for licenses for new stations. A freeze has been in effect since Oct. 1, 1948.

The network expansion will add about 5,000 miles of TV circuits to the 24,500 now in service.

Cities that will start receiving network service are Miami, New Orleans, Dallas, Ft. Worth, Houston, San Antonio, Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Seattle and Phoenix.

Thus the lineup for the convention telecasts will be: 65 cities with 107 stations in range of more than 17 million sets in an area with 61 per cent of the nation's population. By contrast, four years ago the conventions were telecast in seven cities over 16 stations, and about 400,000 sets were in use.

Resumption of licensing means television once more can expand to new areas. But probably less than a dozen new stations can go on the air by the end of 1952, with the pace quickening to 100 or 150 in 1953.

New stations will mean the most, of course, to areas now out of range of television, but what about those with only one or two stations?

It will give television much more of a home town flavor when more stations go on the air, says G. Bennett Larson, vice president and general manager of station WPIX here—one of seven in metropolitan New York.

Larson, in radio since 1926 and TV since 1940, says the arrival of a second, third or fourth station in a city will, first of all, give the viewer a choice, or greater choice of programs.

Viewers who now can tune in only one station do get the best or close to the best of shows from all the networks. But they can't see all the network shows or choose among them. And the station's own schedule usually is pretty well filled with network shows.

But with more stations, Larson points out, the viewer not only has a choice of programs, but the stations have more time for local community telecasts.

"There will be more news programs for another thing," says Larson, who puts 63 news programs a week on non-network WPIX.

"There will be a lot more emphasis on music — although we haven't really come up with a good pattern for music on television."

There also definitely will be more religion on the air, he predicts, and more community service programs such as high school or other amateur dramatic productions and cooking shows geared to the eating habits of the locality.

Tito Changes Mind On Farm Collectives

BELGRADE, June 21 (AP)—Communistic Yugoslavia has eased up its high pressure campaign to persuade the country's peasants to join state-operated farm "co-operatives."

The party's advocacy of the doctrine of common ownership just didn't work when applied to simple farmer folk who judge efficiency by the fullness of their vegetable bins.

In the immediate postwar years, Marshal Josip Broz Tito's government ambitiously started off on a program ultimately designed to bring all of Yugoslavia's fertile fields into state-controlled co-operatives and collectives.

On the surface, the plan had some obvious merits. This was particularly true in a land of limited farm machinery which could be utilized more fully to till and harvest under government control.

But it had its disadvantages, too. Perhaps the basic one is the fact that Yugoslav farmers, like farmers everywhere, are rooted in the soil, like to call it their own, and are in good position to resist economic and political pressure.

There are very practical factors which probably influenced Tito's government to tone down its "collectivization" program.

High on the list would be the fact that Tito needs the co-operation of the independent peasant, representing more than half of the population, to resist pressure from the Russian-led Cominform. A sit-down strike by the independent farmers, tilling roughly about 80 per cent of the country's arable land, could wreck his regime. That's hardly likely, however. The peasants, whether they like or dislike the present administration, still prefer it to the possibility of Russian rule.

Of almost equal importance is the fact that Yugoslavia as a whole lacks the proper terrain for general application of the communistic principle of collective farms.

In Slovenia, in mountainous Montenegro and Macedonia and parts of Bosnia Hernegovia, centuries of sweating, stone-removing labor have produced checkerboard patches of farm land far from suitable for mass production.

English is the most widely used language in the world having, overtaken German in science and French in diplomacy says the National Geographic Society.

Mrs. Mary Caton, holds up a Guatemalan skirt she brought to her granddaughter, Hughanna Birdwell. Mrs. Birdwell, left, has a matching skirt with gay embroidery. Mrs. Caton returned last week from Panama. (Staff photograph.)

TALK OF THE TOWN

By SUE HOLMES

A former resident of Snyder came back this week with stories that bear out her theory that something always happens wherever she goes.

Mrs. MARY CATON, who moved to Lubbock from here several years ago, is visiting her daughter Mrs. HUGH BIRDWELL, and family. Smartly dressed in a lavender nylon dress with matching ear screws, she told us of her trip to Panama, which she made in private car, train, plane and ship. She left Lubbock in March with friends who wanted her to go to Panama with them, where one of the friends is associated with the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Beginning in New York City, Mrs. Caton had to overcome several fears, which, if catered to, could have made her trip miserable. She felt that having dinner on the eighty-sixth floor of the Empire State Building was a real accomplishment, considering that heights have always scared her.

When she sailed on the Panama Lines April 2, she started a campaign against sea sickness, and except for one severe chill the first night out, she made an admirable sailor.

Panama, the Latin American republic connecting Central and South America, is described by the West Texan as a land of contrasts.

"You can see the ultra-modern, such as beautiful modern El Panama Hotel, which would put the Shamrock in the shade. And you can see very primitive conditions and squalor," she said.

Homes provide little privacy. There are no windows—just screen walls, covered with blinds. There's nothing in the way of solid partitions to keep you from hearing the neighbors' quarrels, since many of the dwellings are 12-family apartment houses.

Among the things that happened when Mrs. Caton arrived in Panama: A woman walked through a plate glass window; there was an earth quake; Panama had 5.5 inches of rain during one 24-hour period; [illegible] opened in May since 1912, and there was an election riot.

The good - humored former Snyderite classes herself as a fatalist, so she said she refused to worry when she found herself in the midst of a riot. It took place on Sunday, since that is the day all elections are held in Panama.

She described the ancient arches and churches that the English pirate, Morgan, left in ruins in 1671 in old Panama. Many of these religious shrines are in the worst part of the city and the government has made no attempt to make tourist show places of them, she says.

Back to the fact that things happen wherever she goes—600 ships went through the canal one day, which set a record. These ships never ceased to fascinate the young - hearted grandmother. She was especially amused to see a big gray battleship come through, with tiny white-suited figures perched all over the decks. Next day, she relates, there would be the same white - suited figures all over town.

She got to Panama in time for the rainy season, and was able to see the verdant growths. Some of her stories about Panama flowers sound as if they've been flavored by a Texan, and she admits they have.

Mosquitoes are no particular problem, she says. Persons are warned to keep moving in the early morning and late afternoon, since that is when the malaria - bearing anopheles hunts his prey.

Coming here on the train Monday, she was met by another daughter, Mrs. Joe Alexander and children of Lubbock. Mrs. Alexander is the former Dossie May Caton, and will be remembered as a high - honor winner in her high school class.

Hughanna Birdwell, Mrs. Caton's 13-year-old grand daughter, is especially proud of her collection of ear screws brought from Panama, Houston, New York and other points her grandmother visited.

Perhaps we can look for rain during Mrs. Caton's visit!
