Ministers Are To Get Down To Cases In Meet

By EDDY GILMORE
(Associated Press Staff)

PARIS, March 6. — Deputies of the four great powers went into their second session today in an attempt to find out whether a conference of foreign ministers on international tensions can be arranged.

The four deputies were expected to get down to cases, after the general statements yesterday by the West and the Soviet Union on what they believe should be discussed in a major big four parley. Today's session could well tell the story whether a conference will be possible.

AUSTRIAN QUESTION

Karl Gruber, foreign minister of Austria, arrived in Paris, ostensibly to attend a European Marshall Plan committee meeting, but his presence here underscored the western demand that any foreign ministers' conference take up consideration of the long-delayed Australian independence treaty.

British Delegate Ernest Davies presided at today's meeting of the deputies. U. S. Ambassador-at-Large Philip Jessup was expected to speak, as was French Delegate Alexandre Parodi. Possibly Soviet Representative Andrei Gromyko would ask to speak again. He and Davies made speeches yesterday to the delegations.

The three western representatives met prior to the day's four-power session, to prepare their answers to the agenda proposed by Gromyko.

WORK LATE

The United States and British delegations worked late last night on their reports to Washington and London of yesterday's opening meeting. Today they were reported to have received reactions from their home governments.

French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman was in contact with his delegation.

Western delegations also discussed this morning how they would advance their own proposed agenda at today's and subsequent sessions of the big four.

Co-Op Gin To Move to Site In Northeast

Moving of the Snyder Co.Op Gin from its location two blocks west of the square on Twenty - fifth Street to a site south of the city limits was started yesterday, Bill Davidson, manager, said.

The move will probably require two or three months time, he said.

A new building and new ginning equipment ordered to replace the old building and equipment has not arrived, but the shipping date on the building was to have been some time between Feb. 15 and March 1 .he said.

Earlier this year the Joyce Brothers moved their gin to a temporary location pending an out-of-town move.

COUNCIL ACTS

Last night the city council moved to have the city attorney, W. W. Park, draw up an ordinance prohibiting the location of new gins within the city limits, and requiring present gins to use better smoke and dust eliminating equipment.

The ordinance is to be ready for action at the next council meeting.

The council is announcing its intentions now that gin owners will have warning and can make their plans accordingly, Forest G. Sears, Mayor, said today.

Members of the council said they thought it would be unfair to keep their intentions secret for another month, as that time would be important to the gin owners in preparing for next season's work.

WILL SELL LOT

The lot where the Co-Op Gin now is has not been sold, but will be offered for Sale, Davidson said.

New location for the gin is on Thirty - seventh Street about one mile west of the Sweetwater highway just outside the south city limits, Davidson said.

Cost of the new gin is estimated at about $100,000. When completed it will be one of the state's most modern with a capacity of eight bales per hour and with a building that can later accommodate another battery of gins to double its capacity.

Wildcat Gets No Oil Shows Dawson County

Sunray Oil Corp. No. 1 A. A. Harris, Southwest Dawson County wildcat, which indicated as a discovery of production from the Middle Spraberry section in a drillstem test at 8,116-8,137 feet, failed to develop any additional shows of petroleum in a test of the zone at 8,136-59 feet.

On that investigation, the tool was open 30 minutes. There was a weak blow of air at the start of the test which died before the tool was closed.

Recovery was 10 feet of drilling mud with no shows of oil, gas or water. Operator is reaming out the core hole at 8,137-59 feet. When that is accomplished, another core will be cut.

This prospector is located 11 miles southwest of Lamesa and 660 feet from north and east lines of labor 2, league 268, Moore County School land survey.

The project showed its signs of production during a two - hour drillstem test at 8,116-37 feet. Gas was at the surface in 26 minutes No fluid came to the top while the tester was open.

Recovery was 315 feet of clean oil and 60 feet of heavily oil and gas cut drilling mud. There were no signs of water.

MITCHELL FAILURE

Deep Rock Oil Corp. No. 1 Chester L. Jones, Northwest Mitchell and abandoned at 7,911 feet in low-County wildcat, has been plugged and abandoned at 7,911 feet in lower Pennsylvanian lime and shale

Car Licenses Sold To 1,879 Motorists As Deadline Approaches

The county tax assessor - collector's office reported today a total of 1,879 passenger cars registered for 1951 since the new license plates went on sale Feb. 1. About 250 sets of plates for trucks, trailers, and other vehicles have also been issued.

The county's shipment of tags to be issued included 8,510 sets of plates, and the office will probably need more when these have all been issued, Jim Ikard, assessor-collector, said.

The last date for registration without penalty is March 31. "We are hoping that most motorists will obtain their plates long before the deadline and avoid the rush and standing in line," Ikard said.

Search For The Devil

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., March 6. (AP) — Police are looking for "the devil" who stole a pen from the study of the Rev. H. B. Carter, pastor of St. Andrews Evangelical United Brethren Church here.

The thief left a note reading: "I hate you. The Devil."

Two Die In Air Crash

STAUNTON, Va., March 6. (AP)—A B-26 bomber smashed into a mountain and burned last night. Two crewmen air reservists from the east coast, were killed.

Marines wounded in fighting in Korea are on the pier in San Francisco as the transport General Breckinridge wtih 1,174 First Division marine buddies aboard is being berthed. County Hospital Bond Contest Suit Dismissed by Plaintiffs

The suit contesting the county hospital bond election of last April 1 was dismissed today by the plaintiffs, eleven months after the election.

"Now the way is clear for the county to process the bonds, have them approved and then offer them for sale," John Sentell, one of the attorneys for the county, said.

CASE REMANDED

The civil court of appeals at Eastland recently reversed and remanded the case for a new trial charging an error in procedure on the part of the trial judge, A.S. Mauzey of Sweetwater, in the thirty-second district court here.

Following the decision of Judge Mauzey that the election was valid, the plaintiffs carried the case to the higher court.

This case involves the county-wide election held on April 1, 1950 in which voters polled 823 to 606 to build an $800,000 combination health unit building and county hospital with 50 per cent federal aid.

The contest petition contained the names of the following plaintiffs R. P. Caperton, Dr. C. R. Cockrell, W. D. Everett, R. J. Randall, Hilton C. Lambert, Elaine Lambert, W J. Jones, Boyce L. Jones, Elmer Henry, R. M. Cocton, E. J. Kidd, G. E. Chorn, Sam Houston, Joe Eicke, Carmen Hobbs H. G. Gafford, and Jesse Koonsman.

GOUNDS OF SUIT

The election was contested on the grounds that 482 persons, named in the plaintiff's petition, had voted in the hospital bond election but were not entitled to do so.

That the qualified electors in precinct No. 2, Cottonwood Flat, did not vote because voting equipment was not delivered to them.

That the election was conducted in such a manner as to constitute a violation of secret ballot laws

That the proposition, as stated on the ballot, does not specify distinctly the maturity date of the bonds.

That the petition calling for the bond issue election was irregular in the following points—it was not dated; and it did not designate the time within which the election should be called by the commissioners court.

Four Die From Cold Exposure

(By The Associated Press)

A new blizzard and cold wave knifed into the snow-plagued upper midwest region today leaving at least four victims frozen in Western Canada and Montana.

The storm, accompanied by intense cold, scudded across Western Canada and Montana and pushed into Wyoming and the Dakotas. Cold wave warnings were issued for Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas.

A mother and her two children perished during a horseback ride from their stalled car in the Montana blizzard. More than 35 passengers of three stalled buses were marooned overnight in 20 degree below zero cold in Alberta, Canada. In British Columbia, the frozen body of Mrs. A. Weisner, 40 was found a short distance from the spot she left a midnight bus during the storm.

The storm — third in the midwest in seven days — cut visibility to zero and sent the mercury skidding far below zero in Montana and North Dakota. It brought the week's storm death toll to at least 20.

Cold Wave Is Fizzling Out

The celebrated cold-wave express that was highballing out of Canada and through Montana yesterday, and threatening to hit Snyder with icy blow tonight, was sidetracked in Kansas this morning.

And by the time the Arctic limited creeps into Snyder late Wednesday night or Thursday morning, the weathermen say, it probably will be cut down to a few barely-freezing freight cars with no locomotive.

MAY BE DELAYED

After inundating Montana and the Dakotas in blizzardy weather, its leading edge moved into warm, cushioning air, and lost most of its drive from shiftings of its low-pressure areas.

Now it won't get into Snyder until late Wednesday or early Thursday, and probably won't go much below freezing, the weathermen surmise. They can tell more about it by morning.

Meanwhile, Snyder will be partly cloudy through Wednesday with no important changes in temperature through tonight. A creditable high of 78 degrees is predicted for this afternoon, a low tnight of 55, and a high again Wedesday of 74. A few drops of rain fell here yesterday.

TEXAS ESCAPES

All of Texas should escape the full force of the big cold wave in the Midwest, the state weather bureau advised.

It's moving east, instead of south into the Lone Star State.

Some cold air will spill down into North Texas tonight and tomorrow, but the main mass of Arctic air has veered away.

Lowest temperatures forecast tonight were 22-30 in the Panhandle; 28-34 in the South Plains, and near freezing in the upper Red River Valley. A few snow flurries also were indicated for the Panhandle late tonight and tomorrow.

There was no indication of a third great ice storm like the others Texas has suffered this winter.

However, the weather will feel considerably cooler because of high temperatures the last few days.

Avenue B Crossing Over Santa F Discussed At City Council

Several residents of East Snyder last night described a new crossing over the Santa Fe tracks at Avenue B as a convenience now and a necessity later, but representatives of the railroad told councilmen the location was a dangerous one and would inevitably lead to accidents.

The council in its regular monthly meeting, heard arguments favoring and opposing a petition signed by 98 residents of the area north of the tracks near Avenue B.

OLD CROSSING

The crossing once existed, but was closed many years ago.

H. O. Wagner, superintendent of the Slaton division of the Santa Fe, described the location as hazardous.

"Our engineers are accused of whistling too much and of not whistling enough," he continued. In the Slaton division since 1941, the Santa Fe has paid $200,000 in crossing accidents and $20,000 for such mishaps in Snyder alone.

"Automatic signals, which are not a guarantee against accidents, are very expensive. We are ready to install one at Avenue S near the station, at a cost of $10,291. It would be too expensive to install them at every crossing in Snyder.

"Crossings impose speed restrictions which not only retard trains but increase costs in labor and fuel."

RESIDENTS SPEAK

R. J. Chadwell, 116 Twenty-fourth Street, asked Wagner how the opening of another crossing would increase the danger, since the same number of people crossed the track whether at one crossing or two.

D. J. McCarter, 111 Twenty-fifth Street, explained to the council that at present residents of the area must go west to the Avenue E crossing, enter the highway at a dangerous intersection, and if they are going east, they must double back. He also said the opening of a new school in Southwest Snyder would necessitate opening a crossing on Avenue B.

With McCarter were B. O. Greenfield, 104 Twenty - fifth Street, and F. A. Karr, 113 Twenty-fifth Street.

No action was taken by the council. It was suggested by Greenfield that members of the council inspect the crossing to determine if it is a dangerous one.

Mayor F. G. Sears stated his position as follows: "The conditions in that neighborhood have changed and the crossing is needed and will be needed more when a school is built. On the other hand, I can see the railroad's point that every crossing is a potential hazard."

PARKING METERS

Jack Inman, parking meter maintenance man, met with the council to discuss recent drops in revenue received from the meters.

Receipts last week were up over previous weeks and were about $400. The peak, recorded several months ago, was $600 a week.

Inman explained that he did not have a satisfactory place to repair the meters which can be quickly clogged by dust, and it was agreed to make a place for him on the second floor of the city hall.

Inman told of hearing recently that "half the meters in town don't work."

"I made a check right then," he stated, "and found only 17 out of 374 were in need of repair."

Inman was approached on the possibility of his making collections from the meters and giving parking tickets, as well as maintaining them. He agreed to make collections, but stated that he could not give tickets and do justice to the maintenance job.

R. L. Terry stated, "I've never seen a town where a patrolman wasn't in evidence downtown all the time. The presence in Snyder of a patrolman in the business section will be more effective than all the six-shooters in Texas."

Other councilmen commented that the police department was making an inadequate effort to enforce the parking ordinance.

SHORT OF MEN

Chester Bairrington, chief of police, explained difficulties on the police department due to the small force.

"I am running only one patrolman to a car, and it's a dangerous practice," he said. "When a patrolman has to handle some of these drunks around here, he ought to have another man with him."

Mayor Sears recommended that fewer cars be run, particularly at night, in order that patrolmen could cruise in pairs.

Bairrington added that last week end was the roughest since he had come to Snyder. Both the city and county jails were filled over the week end.

PAVING PETITIONS

Th council received two paving petitions both from groups living in newly annexed territory not originally included in the program now under way.

The council stated the policy that if scheduled paving units were abandoned because property owners would not sign up, the areas where property owners desire paving would be given priority.

The first petition was for paving Thirty-second Street from the corner of Avenue Y to the east city limits. It was signed by Billy Boren, Joe E. Love, Leland Herod, E. L. Floyd, John R. Joyce, Scott Casey, Harrie Winston, and Elizabeth Cornell.

The second, petitioning for the paving of Avenue U from Thirty-fifth to Thirty - sixth Streets, was signed by J. J. Dyer, Jr., J. O. Littlepage, John H. Hamble, W. E. Holcombe, H. O Beard, L A. Berry, Leighton Griffin, and Bryan Jordan.

Drive To Pass Bill To Draft 18-Year-Olds

WASHINGTON, March 6. (AP)—Administration leaders drove today for early Senate passage of the bill to draft 18 year olds, with the old issue of universal military training at stake.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) lined up with Sens. Bricker (R-Ohio) and Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) in an effort to knock a UMT provision out of the manpower measure.

The administration's bill would set up the machinery for universal training, although it would not go into operation until the President certified that the need for compulsory service had passed.

NIGHT SESSION

Sen. McFarland of Arizona, the Democratic leader, said the Senate will hold a night session tomorrow if necessary, to get final action on the measure then. The House has not yet acted; its armed services committee is still holding hearings.

However, Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex), floor manager for the bill predicted confidently that the Senate will beat down the UMT opposition. He also predicted the Senate will defeat an amendment by Taft to limit operation of the manpower measure to four years.

"We got over our toughest hump in defeating the 18½ year old draft proposal," Johnson told reporters.

He alluded to the Senate's 55 to 31 vote yesterday scuttling an amendment by Sen. Morse (R-Ore) to fix 18 years and six months as the lowest induction age. That left intact and thus indirectly approved the committee's proposal to drop the draft age from the present level at 19 to 18 years old.

Morse won something of a victory, however, when Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Armed Services Committee moved a surprise compromise on another point

Morse had sought to cut the length of service from the 26 months provided in the administration bill to 21 months, announcing that if this move lost he would propose a two-year limit. Russell accepted the two-year proviso and the Senate approved it on a voice vote. The Pentagon had asked for 27 months' service.

Maj. Leonard Lowry, 31, of Dunkerton ,Ia., received his 15th combat wound in recent action in Korea. Bleeding from wounds he led a bayonet charge against an enemy position on the central front. A descendant of America's once warlike Cherokee Indians, he collected a 14th cluster for his purple heart medal.

State Their Reasons

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 6. (AP) — Mrs. Leontine Schreyer, 72, and Harry Wilson, 75, both residents of a Jewish home here, filed marriage intentions yesterday.

Said Mrs. Schreyer to reporters: "I'm no Grable but I can still get a man."

Wilson's comment to reporters was: "I wouldn't be getting married if I were getting a mother-in-law."

Chinese Third Army Is Moving Up to Support Other Red Field Units

TOKYO, March 6. (AP) — Parka-clad American Marines attacking over new fallen snow drove slowly ahead today in Central Korea. The Chinese Reds resisted bitterly.

The Leathernecks were pushing toward the key communications hub of Hongchon, 15 miles north of recaptured Hoengsong. Some of the Marine elements were 11 miles from Hongchon.

The Chinese Reds are believed to have concentrated their largest frontline forces at Hongchon. Gen. MacArthur said another big Red force — the Chinese Third Field Army — is moving toward the front from Northeast Korea to support the Communist Fourth Field Army.

STILL LARGE

Despite losses of an estimated 22,250 troops since the United Nations resumed its limited offensive, Feb. 21 the Chinese and North Koreans are believed to number 300,000 below Parallel 38 in South Korea.

On the battlefront, a six-inch snow fall slowed the determined allied push Tuesday through the craggy mountains and rice-paddied valleys across the peninsula east of Seoul.

The snowfall limited ground action in most sectors. Allied fighter planes were grounded.

AP Correspondent Tom Stone, on the east-central front, reported that American doughboys — unable to find Korean Reds — battled each other with snowballs. But he said they kept their weapons handy.

Units of the First Marine Division took Hill 336 three miles northeast of Hoengsong Tuesday after other elements punched to points four miles north and northwest of east of Hoengsong Tuesday after other elements punched to points four miles north and northwest of the rubbled town Monday.

FALL BACK

The Reds pumped artillery, mortar and machinegun fire into the Leathernecks Monday but fell back. Air spotters reported an estimated three Chinese battalions directly ahead of the Marines, from five to six miles north and northwest of Hoengsong.

In the east-central front, Korean Reds fought bitterly from log bunker dugouts on rugged ridges near Taeoi, a mountain stronghold from which they were routed Monday.

Taeoi is 10 miles northwest of Pangnim, eastern job junction of one of the main east-west highways running to Hoengsong and Seoul. The Reds' new positions were under assault by the U. S. Second and Seventh Divisions.

Political Committee Of Labor Meeting With Johnston Today

WASHINGTON, March 6. (AP) — A delegation from the United Labor Policy Committee met today with Eric Johnston, economic stabilizer for the first time since the labor chieftains broke with the mobilization administration a week ago.

Sitting with Johnston at the peace talks was Charles S. Murphy, special counsel for President Truman. Murphy has been assigned by the White House to try to patch up the differences between the labor policy group and the mobilization and stabilization officials.

LABOR TALKERS

The labor conferees were Secretary-Treasurer George Meany of the AFL, General Counsel Arthur J. Goldberg of the CIO, George E. Leighty of the Railway Labor Executives Assn., and Al J. Hayes of the machinists.

At the Capitol, meantime, a group of senators considered what might be done about the situation. Democrats and Republicans were sharply split as to what would be the effect of labor's walkout from the mobilization set up.

SOME WORRIED

Calling a Senate labor subcommittee together, government officials together, Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) said the fate of the whole anti-inflation program hangs in the balance.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), a member of the group, told a reporter he thinks a mountain is being made out of a molehill of disagreement over manpower controls.

Taft criticized labor leaders who he said are trying "to divide the country into classes when there should be no classes in the mobilization effort."

5-Year Plan to Demilitarize Germany Would Offer Hope

By WALTER LIPPMAN

In their latest note to Britain the U.S.S.R. have something to say about almost everything, and for the most part they say it in that style which to Western minds is as unconvincing as it is exasperating. The style is quite plainly the authoritarian or dictatorial style. But it is unadorned, as was Mussolini's by grand opera or, as was Hitler's by a grand lunacy. The Soviet style is the flattest kind of deadpan assertion. It does not aim to please or to persuade. It is a style suitable for the instruction of robots. It rests on the assumption that those who are being addressed will not argue back. In every phrase it expresses the assurance that what it says is so when it has said it, and that nothing has to be proved because only the enemies of the Soviet state would dispute it.

This style is peculiarly unsuited to talking with countries like our own, where not only the President but apparently everyone else comes from Missouri. The Soviet style of authoritarian declaration can lead, and experience shows has often led, us into sterile debates where we find ourselves shouting that black is not white, as the Soviet delegate has just said it was a slander on the Soviet Union to say it is not, but that it is black, as he very well knows.

A debate of this sort could easily develop out of the exchanges over the comparative size of the Soviet and Western armed forces. The Soviet note contends that the "numerical strength of the armed forces of France, Britain and the United States" has attained a "two - fold superiority compared with the U.S.S.R." and that since we are working to expand them further, Great Britain, the United States and France are preparing not for defense but for aggression, for unleashing a new world war."

* * *

This contention should be met I believe, not by equally dogmatic and unprovable contradictory assertions but by an invitation to examine the level of armaments (1) inside Germany, (2) inside continental Europe, and (3) globally. But the invitation should make it clear that the prospects of agreement about general disarmament must wait upon an agreement about armaments inside Germany.

The Soviet government itself laid the basis for another meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers by asking for a discussion of the rearmament of Germany. The fair and useful rejoinder is to say that the question of rearming Western Germany cannot be separated from the question of all other armaments—East German, Soviet, and Atlantic—inside Germany.

* * *

From that position we could come forward with an affirmative proposal for the regulation, the reduction, and the eventual withdrawal of the armies of occupation. In my view it is imperative that we identify ourselves affirmatively and clearly with a policy which is designed to end the partition of Germany and to end the attempt to absorb the two divided parts into two hostile military coalitions that have their front lines in the middle of Germany.

Our Germany policy was on the verge of disaster when Gen. Eisenhower stepped in and put German rearmament on ice. Our German policy is still leading to great trouble and disappointment because with more zeal than wisdom we have allowed ourselves to become identified with the impossible notion that the western part of a divided nation can be made into a reliable and effective military ally against its eastern part and the nations beyond. The policy has jeopardized critically, if it has not wrecked, the prospects of a Franco-German parliamentary union. It has provided no German divisions to compensate for these political losses. But the policy has muddled up the relations between France and Germany. It has provoked a meeting of the Big Four in which Germany instead of being in close relations with France and through France with the West, is once again on the loose.

* * *

It is not impossible, I think, to imagine affirmative proposals which would repair our German policy and—against the background of our increasing power to prevent a general war—could give to Germany and to all of Europe the design of a constructive hope.

For example—and only as an example which others who are more qualified could certainly improve radically—we might offer to discuss in the Council of Foreign Ministers, and then with the Germans and with their European neighbors, a five-year plan to end the occupation and partition of Germany. The general principles of the plan might be, I suggest, first, that inside Germany the Soviet and Atlantic forces should be brought to parity, and second, that they should be progressively reduced over a period of five years while the forces at the disposal of an all-German government, essential to the maintenance of its authority and its independence, were being brought to an agreed level.

With a plan of this sort the occupation would not be terminated suddenly with all the risks of internal collapse and subversion. Nor would the occupation be prolonged indefinitely with all the risks of revolt and civil war. Such a regulated reduction and withdrawal covering a period of five years would give ample opportunity to test the good faith of all concerned. It would nevertheless offer the people of Europe a definite prospect towards which to work and with it a rational hope. It would work, or at least it could be made to work, in such a way as to ease the dangerous and difficult transition from the two hostile German governments to one German government.

If in addition the occupying governments could agree to move their forces—or at least the main body of them—away from the center of the German nation to the border regions, the new all-German government would, while it was still protected against violence become less like a puppet or satellite and have a chance, therefore, to claim the loyalty of German patriots.

* * *

We should not, I believe, go into a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers without some constructive plan—one that is at least as attractive as the Prague proposals and is more realistic. No one could say that such a plan would be accepted, or that if it were accepted, it would be observed and enforced. But still we must not remain in a spiritual blind alley where our whole preoccupation seems to be on the one hand to pile up armaments and on the other to dash all hopes of peace.

Anticipate Highest Quality Calves Ever In Junior Stock Show

Plans are shaping up for Scurry County's Junior Livestock Show March 16 - 17, Oscar Fowler, county agent, said yesterday.

"I believe that the top calves in this year's show will be the best ever exhibited here," he said.

Classs have not been set nor entries made formally, but Fowler said that there would probably be around 30 to 35 calves in the show.

Prizes are to be the same as at last year's show, he said.

Many 4-H boys will have calves in the dry lot light and heavy classes to be judged, he said.

Some of the calves to be shown here were shown in the Sweetwater show recently. One calf weighing in a 825 pounds, took sixth place in the Sweetwater class of 40 entries for its owner Glen Thompson.

Thompson, Sonny Thomason, Doug Sawyer, James Sawyer, Billy Green, Bob Jordan, and Delbert Hataway will be among the boys entering calves in the contest, Fowler said.

Jobs in Civil Service

The U. S. Civil Service Commission is seeking applicants for the position of accountant, salary $3,825 per annum; auditor, $8,880 a year; stenographer, $2,650, and dictating machine operator, $2,450 to $2,650 per year.

Additional information can be obtained from J. O. Littlepage, local secretary of the commission at the Snyder post office.

Improvements and Cash

The city, unlike the county and the school district, is not rich in taxable valuations. Its income still is insufficient for its needs.

The importance of this fact—that the city is broke most of the time—does not sink in on many of us.

It has been suggested that the candidates running for city council on programs of ambitious civic improvement do not realize there is no money in the till.

It is further suggested by some of the present councilmen that those citizens who are loud in their demands for rapid and extensive city improvement have not grasped this rather elementary truth: there is no money to work with.

All of us should realize that the present tax rate on present valuations scarcely keep the city's breeches patched. Obviously, we must have more money if the city is to have a completely new suit of clothes.

We are vitally interested in some of the frills of community life—parks, a swimming pool, a library, a city manager really adequate fire protection, an expanding and continuing paving program, and so forth.

As businessmen, we are interested because skilled workers are reluctant to live in Snyder, which offers practically no advantages when they can live for less in a more attractive city. Any businessman who depends upon skilled labor knows this to be true.

The same argument applies on a community-wide basis. We cannot keep the sort of physicians, the lawyers, teachers, professional men of all kinds in our city unless we make it a pleasanter place to live, where business can be conducted under advantageous conditions and leisure spent profitably.

Those interested in a better town must have a realistic approach and begin with the fact that there is no money. We have to make up our own minds to pay more in taxes and convince our fellow-voters that it is the only solution.

No matter who is your choice for the council posts, you have to give him some money to work with, or his program never can be carried out.

Services in Hermleigh For J. B. Jenkins, 65

Funeral services for J. B. Jenkins, about 65, of Houston will be held at the Baptist Church in Hermleigh at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon. The Rev. Bob Creswell will officiate, assisted by Charles E. Leslie.

Mr. Jenkins died Sunday in Houston. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Roy McFarland, 3118 Avenue T, Snyder, and a daughter, Mrs. Juanita Golden of Brownfield.

Burial will be in the Pyron cemetery under the direction of the Bolger - Barnes Funeral Home.

Man Hired As Dog Catcher

The city council last night voted unanimously to hire E. D. Allen, present manager of the city dump, at a salary of $100 a month to pick up stray dogs and dead dogs. Allen is to furnish his own pick-up and gasoline.

A month ago J. T. Hillyard was dismissed as city dog catcher, and since that time Allen has been serving in that capacity.

Allen stated that he would not make any investigations for violations but would answer calls about stray or dead dogs.

Chester Bairrington, chief of police, suggested that a "leash law" making it unlawful for any dog be at large except on a leash would be the only sure control of dogs.

Such a law would require a man employed full time to look for dogs which were not licensed and vaccinated, but the revenue from fines and licenses, the chief said, would pay for the enforcement of such an ordinance.

Boston Common, a tract of nearly 50 acres, was set aside in 1634 to be used as a cow pasture and military training field.

P.-T.A. Urges Parents to Visit Schools During Special Week

Officers of the Parent - Teacher Association units from the five schools in Snyder met at noon yesterday at the Village restaurant to outline plans for the observance of Public Schools week which began yesterday.

Mrs. Myron Roe, president of the city council of the P.-T.A., stressed the importance of urging citizens to visit the schools during the week. This, she explained, was in keeping with the resolutions adopted by both the state legislature and the state school board, where in both bodies went on record as believing that each citizen should become better acquainted with the programs and accomplishments of the educational systems.

The resolution of the board of education proposed "to encourage local administration officials to interpret their schools to the public by inviting the citizens to visit classrooms; by planning programs aimed at giving pupils and parents a better understanding of the school activities; and by working with the Parent-Teacher Associations and other related organizations to promote Public Schools Week."

T. D. Wiman, principal of the Snyder high school, however, said last week that as far as the school administration was concerned, no special observance of the week would be made.

Forest G. Sears, mayor, yesterday issued a proclamation for the city in which he proclaimed the week here and urged the visiting of the schools by the citizens.

Mrs. Harold Brown, president of the P.-T.A. unit of the Central Elementary School, said: "We are proud of our advancements made in the schools in the face of many handicaps of the boom and we want all the people of Snyder to visit the schools and become acquainted with the institutions and their programs."

"We want the new people of Snyder to visit the schools, too," Mrs. Harry Ward, secretary of the city council of P.-T.A. units, said. "They are welcme to see the school's in operation and we want them to become acquainted with the schools."

Among other association officers attending the meeting yesterday were Mrs. B. M. Bruce, president of the junior high school unit; Mrs. Garrett Harrell, president of the high school unit; Mrs. Ovid Lawlis, president of the primary school unit; and Mrs. Lloyd Kownslar, president of the northwest elementary school unit.

Drunkenness Leads List Of Police Arrests

Intoxication led the list of 134 arrests by the police department in February, the monthly report to the city council showed last night.

There were 95 intoxication arrests, 20 disturbances of the peace 15 bookings on vagrancy charges 14 on reckless driving, one escape from work party, two arrests for burglary, breaking and entering four petty theft, one simple assault, and one swindle by worthless checks. There were also two arrests made for other jurisdictions.

Average age of persons booked in the city jail by the department was 37 years old.

During the month the department's radio equipped patrol cars traveled 8,588 miles using 955 gallons of gasoline and 49 quarts of oil. They answered 328 calls.

Traffic violations resulted in 75 citations being issued for the offender's appearance in the corporation court which brought the total number of charges for the month to 235.

During the month the department investigated 161 criminal cases. Two suspects wanted for forgery by other jurisdictions were apprehended.

The department investigated 28 traffic accidents during the month which occurred within the city limits of Snyder.

Fines collected in corporation court for the month totaled $4,354.

Chester Bairrington, chief of police, said that although the report indicates a decline in the number of total arrests, there has been an increase in the number of major felony offenses within the city, requiring more investigative time on the part of the department.

GM Profits To High Mark

NEW YORK, March 6. (AP — General Motors Corp. made a profit in 1950 of $834,044,039, the highest in story for any cohiir oprton,t hena-a history for any corporation, the annual report to stockholders discloses.

The giant manufacturing concern which made 45 per cent of the cars and trucks produced in the United States and Canada, in 1950, had record sales of $7,531,086,846.

It had payrolls of $1,809,218,043. Its 1950 taxes amounted to $1,119,000,000 — or $2.38 for each dollar in dividends paid to stockholders and 63 cents for each dollar of payrolls.

Despite the records earnings, C. E. Wilson, president and Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., board chairman, said 1950 net income amounted to 11.1 per cent of sales compared with 11.5 per cent in 1949. They attributed the decline primarily to higher taxes.

The 1950 earnings were equivalent to $9.35 a share of common stock compared with $7.32 a share on $656,434,232 earnings in 1949, after payments of preferred stock dividends. That is on the basis of present shares. GM made a two-for-one stock split last Oct. 2, and has more than 88 million shares outstanding.

Give Germany Foreign Office

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD
(Associated Press Staff)

BONN, Germany, March 6. —The Western Allies early tonight will publish a new occupation statute for West Germany giving the Bonn government formal permission to set up a foreign office.

As a result, Germany's first effective foreign minister since the Nazis Joachim von Ribbentrop is expecte to be West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Political circles in Bonn, expecting the 75-year-old chancellor to keep the portfolio in his own hands, predict that he will nominate Prof. Walter Hallstein as permanent he of the foreign office. Hallstein is leader of the German delegations to the Schuman and Pleven plan conferences in Paris.

SHORT DELAY

The new freedoms for Bonn to be announced today were agreed upon over five months ago by the big three foreign ministers. German delays in accepting responsibility for the prewar debts of Hitler's Reich held up action until now.

The changes have been long awaited but are not likely to cause much German elation. Already they have been overtaken in importance by the prospect of a treaty between Bonn and the Westrn Allis.

At Brussels in December the allies promised to talk over putting their relations with Bonn on a "contractual basis."

These further talks are believed to be the reason Adenauer is keeping foreign affairs in his own hands. He wants to keep continuity in his relations with the allies at least until he has obtained the treaty. Allied officials say that will not be before the end of this year.

Until then supreme power will remain in allied hands.

Reds' Disregard for Human Life Displayed in Their War Tactics

By JIM BECKER
(Associated Press Staff)

WITH U. S. THIRD DIVISION, Korea, March 5.—The odds are different, but the Chinese Communists are not.

They are exhibiting the same fighting way they showed against the Japanese and later against the Chinese Nationalists. And all of them are borrowed from the Russians, who trained and now advise their leaders, says Maj. Gen. Robert H. (Shorty) Soule.

The general left China only last May after serving as military attache to the Communists. Presumably because he knew too much about them and their tactics, they didn't want him to depart and held him under house arrest for a time.

The stocky, cocky Soule now is fighting commander of the U. S. Third Division.

SAME TACTICS

Even though the Chinese have vastly superior manpower in Korea, whereas they were outnumbered by their former foes, they are sticking close to the principles they have always used in warfare, Soule said.

"As Mao Tze Tung, the Red leader, has said, the Communists always attempt to mass their forces so they outnumber the foe five and six to one," Soule said.

"Even when the opposition had superior overall numbers the Reds probe for a weak point and then throw overwhelming masses at that simple point. If they are stopped they withdraw to regroup.

"These are exactly the tactics the Russians used against the Germans in World War Two. They attacked in deep columns and shoved new troops in as fast as the front ones were mowed down.

BIG CASUALTIES

"These also are the tactics of Communist armies all over the world. That's because Red armies have no regard for human life. Both the Chinese and Russian Reds take terrific casualties with their 'sea wave' tactics but the number of men lost means nothing to them."

Soule pointed out that the Chinese tactic of hitting the enemy while he is on the move is another of the basic principles expounded by Mao Tsetung before the Korean war began. It is being used here.

The general has distributed to his officers a manual of Russian field tactics in which it also is listed as a basic principle.

"They accomplish this by infiltrating forces behind the line to cut lines of supply and communication," Soule said. "When this is accomplished the unit has to move. That's the time the Reds want to hit.

JUST SEND MORE

"If they lose men who try to infiltrate they just send some more."

The Chinese Reds also have the same theories on artillery as the Russians, Soule said. "They have artillery regiments as do the Russians and like to use artillery the same way the Soviets do. They just haven't as much of it."

The ex-paratrooper general said the whole Chinese Red Army is modeled after the Russians.

"Even most of their training manuals are translated from the Russian manuals," he said.

The allies facing these Chinese-Russian tactics in Korea have departed from the war methods employed by the Japanese during their effort to conquer China. The Japanese tactics never succeeded in wiping out either the Reds or the Nationalists.

"The Japanese held the main lines of communication—the roads and railroads," the general said. "They didn't worry about the people 20 miles away from the roads. In fact they never went out after them.

"On the other hand we are pushing slowly forward, aiming to eliminate the Reds everywhere. We don't want to leave a lot of them around."

MUST MOVE

With the Chinese tactic of massing large numbers of men at a single point and shoving them through in waves, it is necessary to move large numbers of men and masses of supplies.

Soule said the Reds in Korea move supplies in a few trucks, carts drawn by oxen or cows or Mongolian ponies, or on the backs of soldiers and civilians.

"It's a motley lot but it is fairly effective," the general said.

Soule said in China the Reds used two-wheeled carts to haul their supplies. "I've seen as much as a ton and a half loaded on one of those carts and as many as 12 ponies pulling," he declared.

"And those ponies can go almost anywhere a man can."

Soule agrees with the estimate of Army Maj. Robert B. Rigg who said early in 1949 that 30 of these carts are equal to 12 United States 6 by 6 trucks.

The general said the Chinese have unveiled no new weapons in the Korean campaign. He said the whistle blowing and bugle tooting of the Chinese shows a lack of good communications between units.

"They have a series of bugle calls to attack, withdraw and so forth," Soule said. "When you attack the way the Chinese do, shoving one unit right through another in long columns, your units get scrambled easily.

"I imagine though that some of their men forget what the bugle call means when the going gets hot."

Soule said the manpower advantage enjoyed by the Chinese in Korea has led them to adopt only one important change in their tactics.

"They use stronger defensive tactics now," he said. "They hold a position a little longer before withdrawing, presumably to find out the strength of the unit opposing them."

Florida Plans Low-Rent Homes For Aged Persons on Pensions

(By The Associated Press)

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 3.—Florida is hoping to give thousands of America's pensioned workers an inexpensive place in the sun.

Gov. Fuller Warren and the State Improvement Commission are working out plans for "retirement villages." These would be privately financed communities of dormitories and small homes especially built to meet the needs of the aged.

Improvement Commission Director Walter Keyes points out that industrial pension plans are just beginning to benefit large numbers of retired workers. That creates a new class of unemployed but income-drawing citizens.

These incomes aren't very big, though. They average around $125 a month. So a definite danger to Florida exists if thousands of elderly and not very well off pensioners flock to the state—as they're confidently expected to do—to spend their last years in the sunshine.

If they have to spend $50, $60 or $70 a month for rent, it would leave very little for other living expenses. That would mean a tremendous added burden of Florida's welfare rolls once the oldsters had been in the state long enough to establish residence.

$19 MONTHLY RENT

The state wants to see dwelling places provided which would rent for as little as $19 a month, not including utilities. Warren and the Improvement commission vision communities of about 1,000 family units each.

The state itself would not build or control such settlements. It merely offers the benefit of special research and suggests an investment of $6 million in one of the settlements could draw 2½ per cent interest and be repaid in 40 years at rentals of $19 a month.

The state hopes large industries with big retirement funds will adopt the plan. Keyes said engineers for at least one internationally known concern are in the state making studies which may lead to establishment of such a community.

Gov. Warren's announcement of the plan some weeks ago drew instant response from old people all over the country.

From Baltimore, for example: "...you have no idea how much hope and enthusiasm your plan has stirred in the hearts of aged people."

From Portage, Wis.: "...A God-send to many who can still enjoy a few years of happiness."

INVESTMENT OFFERED

Some of the oldsters offered to invest money in the undertaking. All are being told the project is still in the planning stage.

Florida has hired Irving Webber, former sociological research worker at Louisiana State University, to work on the plan.

He's drawing up such recommendations as use of ramps instead of stairs, waist-level ovens, wide doorways to admit wheel chairs, rounded corners to make housekeeping easy and elimination of easy-to-trip-over threshholds.

Just retired and still energetic pensioners could live in cottages which would have enough ground around them to permit gardening, chicken raising and such activities.

As they grew older, they might move closer to the center of the community, perhaps to dormitories which would take less housekeeping.

The question of furnishing the living quarters would be up to whoever finances the villages. The improvement commission notes, however, that most people of 65 have acquired furniture and a good many other possessions they will wish to have about them.

Present plans are for retirees with small pensions. The commission will explore later the possibility of similar settlements for people with bigger incomes.

Canada Plans Units In Both Korea, Europe

OTTAWA, March 6. (AP) — Canada expects to put army brigades of about 6,000 men each in both Korea and Europe this year—and to do it entirely through voluntary enlistments.

The Canadian goal is 115,000 in the armed forces by 1954, — including women — something the 14 million-population dominion has never tried in peacetime. The army, navy and air force now total about 66,000 men.

Military conscription, a bitter pill for French Catholic Quebec, is expected to come only with the start of any general war. Government sources said last night if recruiting holds up at anything like the present tempo the services' manpower requirements can be met without it by the spring of 1953.

Canada's Korean contribution, when the brigade gets into action within the next two months, will rank third in number among the national forces there. The United States and Britain will exceed it.

Mercy Asked For Two Yanks

TOKYO, March 6. (AP) — Sei Shibai, sister of a Japanese killed last week, has asked Gen. MacArthur's mercy for two American Army officers held in connection with his death.

Capts. Robert W. Hessler of Pueblo, Colo., and Willard W. Wise of Columbia, S. C., are undergoing examination. No formal charges have been filed yet. Hessler and Wise are both Korean war veterans and are in Japan undergoing medical treatment.

On Japanese, Ryonosuke Shibai, was shot and three other Japanese wounded Feb. 26 at a hotel in Atami, resort town 75 miles south of Tokyo. The Newspaper Asahi reported the dead man's sister wrote the following letter to MacArthur:

"The death of my brother plunged our family into dismay. However, we understand the two captins have their own families and that they have gone through the tortures of war. They must have lost their heads. We believe my brother would be pleased if they were to be released as soon as possible and given a chance again to fight for the cause of the United Nations which we Japanese are not at present given a chance to support."

West Coast Greyhound Bus Driver Strike In Tentative Settlement

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6. (AP) —Tentative settlement of the four-day strike that has stopped Greyhound bus operations in seven western states was announced early today by Federal Conciliator Omar Hoskins. Terms of the settlement were not announced.

Hoskins issued the statement after a mediation session that lasted until almost 2:30 o'clock this morning.

He said that from the "longuoge of the agreement" as drafted he is hopeful the buses will be running by Friday morning.

Hoskins' announcement was the first cheerful note in the almost constant peace talks that began last Friday when some 3,600 Greyhound drivers and station attendants walked out in a wage dispute.

The government negotiator said the two factors meet again this morning for a final check of the contract's language. Then the agreement will be submitted to the union membership for ratification.

Earnest Thompson Fights Cut In Oil Depletion Allowance

ERNEST O. THOMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 6. (AP) — Cutting the oil depletion allowance would jeopardize the nation's ability to defend itself, a Texas expert on oil said today.

The speaker was Ernest O. Thompson, senior member of Texas' oil regulatory body, who testified against a proposed reduction of the oil depletion allowance before the House Ways and Means Committee.

"I respectfully suggest and recommend to you that you do not change the present 27½ per cent depletion allowance," Thompson said in a prepared statement.

PREPAREDNESS

He said a third world war can be avoid d only if we are "amply prepared to defend ourselves, and we cannot be amply prepared to defend ourselves unless we have ample oil supplies."

"Ample oil supplies will not be obtained, in my opinion, if you tamper with the 27½ per cent depletion," Thompson stated.

The 27½ per cent figure is the amount people in the oil industry are allowed to deduct from gross income in figuring their taxes. The allowance is granted because of the hazardous nature of the business of trying to find and develop oil fields.

Thompson emphasized the importance of imported oil.

COULD BE SHORT

"If these imports were denied us by an enemy who by submarine action could sink these tankers, we would be short of oil in the United States today, because our reserve producing ability, such as it is, does not in any way compare with the 936,000 barrels of oil which we are importing from foreign countries," he said.

He described the nation's oil stocks as dangerously low, attributing the situation to an unexpected and unprecedented increase in the use of heating oil of 24 per cent this year over last year.

Four other persons charged with liquor law violations are to be tried by jury Thursday, Merrick said. The 69 charges were filed against 21 persons. Three cases were filed against Davis, two of which are yet to be brought to trial.

Reds' Course Is Predicted By Evangelist

"Russia is not yet ready to fight the United States," Dr. Dan Gilbert, nationally-known evangelist and newspaperman, said in an address last night at the North Side Baptist Church.

"Red Russia has some other nuts to crack first," Dr. Gilbert said as he read from the Book of Ezekiel the names of European countries listed in the 38th chapter to be taken by flatteries before "gorth," actually wages war.

MAGAZINE STAFF

Dr. Gilbert, staff member of an anti-Communist magazine published in Washington, spoke last night on the subject "Where Will Red Russia Strike Next?"

"Russia is planning to use Communist Germans to drive America out of Berlin," the commentator said. "She will then take Yugoslavia from Tito in a bloodless war, either by perfecting her attempts to assassinate him or by some other means allowing her to avoid actual warfare," he said.

The 36 - year - old speaker then mentioned a number of other steps in Russia's plan to clear a marching path between her country and Palestine, which he said she would try later to take with help from the East, "a thing she is working for now."

Russia has not thrown her own soldiers into the Korean war, he reminded his audience, "and she will not use them in this war because she is saving them for World War III."

WRITER OF BOOKS

Author of numerous books on world conditions, Dr. Gilbert mentioned several past predictions he had published prior and during World War II, which had been accurately fulfilled.

Tonight he is scheduled to speak on "Bible Light on World War III." Dr. Gilbert also spoke to the Lions Club at their luncheon today and is scheduled to speak at the high school assembly and other groups during the week.

Twice each night, Dr. Gilbert speaks by transcription on programs called "Inside Washington," which are broadcast at 9:30 o'clock and at 10:15 over the Mexican station XERF.

Boys Face Charge Of Breaking Into Church Here During the Night

Two juveniles were in custody of the city police department this morning for investigation in connection with a theft from the First Methodist Church early last night.

Police said that one of the boys, a 14-year-old, was on probation on a charge of automobile theft.

No estimate of the damages at the church caused by the youths has been made, police said.

Tracks leading to windows and doors showed that entry was tried unsuccessfully at two winows and one door in the new education building of the church before entry was finally gained through an unlocked window in the auditorium.

Police said that a preliminary check of the building last night revealed that a thorough ransacking of the building had taken place in the burglars search for money.

Police were called to the scene by a resident who lives near the church and heard the noise.

When they arrived they took into custody a 13-year-old boy, who was released before they learned that the church had been entered.

He and another youth were taken into custody about 10 o'clock this morning. Police were checking the possibility that a third juvenile was with them.

PEARL RIVER, N. Y., March 6. (AP) — A hunter aimed at a crow, pulled the trigger — and up went the fireworks factory.

A small fireworks plant blew up, windows and dishes were shattered for a mile around, communities 15 miles away were rocked.

Air raid wardens came running, an police and firemen sped from nearby New York and New Jersey towns.

The frightened hunter, Frank Perkins, Jr., 24, forgot his crow. He jumped in the river, he was so scared.

Ambulances raced to the scene but nobody was injured.

Employees at the fireworks plant had finished their day's work 20 minutes earlier.

When the fires were extinguished and a dripping Perkins related his shot at the crow, police decided the shot had hit a building of the Barnabas Fireworks Co.

Rio Grande Citrus Output Shows Increase

(By The Associated Press)

The Texas Citrus Commission reports that two damaging freezes did not stop the Rio Grande Valley from producing almost 2 million more boxes of fruit this year than last season.

O. M. Joyce, Texas citrus commission tax collector, said yesterday his figures indicate about 85 per cent of the crop had been harvested before the freezes.

The commission estimated the Valley produced about 10,500,000 boxes of citrus this season, compared to 8,674,437 last season.

Kentucky, Tops Sooner Aggies For No. 1 Spot In The Nation

By JOHN CHANDLER
(Associated Press Staff)

NEW YORK, March 6. — The University of Kentucky Wildcats won No. 1 rating today as the nation's best college basketball team for 1951 in the final weekly Associated Press poll. But, it was only by the skin of their teeth — a bare 26-point margin over Oklahoma A&M.

It was the second No. 1 ranking for Kentucky in the three years of the AP basketball poll of sportswriters and sportscaster. Kentucky, the top team of 1949, rated third a year ago when Bradley captured the lofty honor.

SOONERS UPSET

However, Oklahoma A&M, which suffered a stunning setback last night at the hands of Detroit, 62-52 actually received 10 more first place votes than Kentucky.

This upset matched the Kentucky debacle of Saturday, when underdog Vanderbilt clipped the Wildcats, 61-57, in the Southeastern Conference tournament finals. Voting in the poll was completed yesterday before the Oklahoma A&M-Detroit game.

Kentucky, which has clinched a berth in the NCAA tournament, has been voted the nation's top team for the last seven weeks. Oklahoma A&M must beat Houston tomorrow to clinch the Missouri Valley title and a NCAA berth. The Aggies (26-3) end the regular season against Kansas in a non-conference tilt Saturday. Kentucky (27-2) has ended its regular season.

FEW CHANGES

The poll showed only a slight change from last week. Two teams traded places, all the others remained pat. Bradley, (28-4) in the No. 5 spot last week, dropped to No. 6. Illinois, (19-3) which clinched the Big Ten title last night by beating Michigan State, 49-43, advanced from sixth to fifth.

The other teams held firm, with Columbia, the nation's only unbeaten major outfit (21-0), in third Kansas State (21-3), Big Seven champs, fourth; Indiana (19-3), No 7; North Carolina State (28-4) Southern Conference kingpin, No 8; St. John's of Brooklyn (22-3) No. 9; and St. Louis (21-7), No. 10.

First Round Of Playoff Today

WACO, March 6. (AP) — Texas Christian and Texas A&M clash tonight in the first round of a playoff that will furnish the Southwest Conference's representative in the NCAA regional basketball tournament at Kansas City.

While Texas — the other team in the playoff — is anticipating [illegible] will get together in the [illegible] tomorrow.

It is a "sudden death" affair. The winner tonight meets Texas starting next Saturday night in a three-game series.

The three teams tied for the conference championship. The conference champion automatically goes to Kansas City but only one team can go, thus the three-way playoff.

Tonight's battle brings three of the all-Southwest Conference players into action. A&M has two of them — giant Walt Davis, center and Jewell McDowell, the pernetual man in motion at guard. Texas Christian has Harvey Fromme hard-working forward.

Texas Christian and A&M split the two games played this season each winning on its home court.

If TCU wins it will meet Texas at Fort Worth. If A&M wins it will take on Texas at College Station In either event, Texas gets the remaining game or games at home.

Second Round Starts Tonight

Two games last night ended the first round in the independent basket ball league, and set the stage for the opening of the second round tonight.

In the first game last night the Snyder Tiger Exes capably retained their share of first place by downing the Gonks 65-49.

Paso-Tex Pipeline and the Jaycees battled for the sport of the event in a game that ended 40-2 in favor of Paso-Tex, but decided nothing in the way of league standings.

The Exes, Ira, and Continental Supply ended the round tied for first place. Each has six wins and one loss. The Gonks trailed in the next slot with four wins, three losses. Paso-Tex won three and lost four for the first round, West Texas Concrete lost five, won two the Jaycees won only one and lost six games, and the Western Co lost all seven of their games.

Ernest Kinney was high pointer in last nights games scoring 2[illegible] for the Gonks. Stahls was high for [illegible]

Shiflet To Head Coach

Training Camp Notes

By the Associated Press

S. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 6.—Carroll (Whitey) Lockman, the quiet efficient flychaser of the New York Giants, will open the season in left field—and nobody is happier about it than Whitey.

Leo Durocher's noble experiment to convert the mild-mannered North Carolinian into a first baseman, thus paving the way for Monte Irvin's return to the outer pastures, apparently is over.

After watching Whitey's abortive attempt to master the strange first base position for two weeks and end up by spiking himself in the left ankle, the fiery manager of the Giants told Newsmen yesterday:

"Lockman will be back in left field opening day. Irving will return to first."

SARASOTA, Fla., March 6 — Manager Steve O'Neill today said slugger Ted Williams would be held out of the Boston Red Sox' opening exhibition game against the Cincinnati Reds here Saturday.

"Ted's injured left elbow needs more time," O'Neill explained.

TUCSON, Ariz., March 6.—Ever an ambitious young man, Pitcher Bob Feller may be outdoing himself this year.

The season opening next month will be the 13th in which the big righthander has gone to the mound for the Cleveland Indians.

Judging from his list of what he'd like to accomplish, Feller must feel No. 13 will be his lucky campaign. But, let him tell you—

1. "I'd really like to get a third [illegible]

[illegible] both offensively and defensively."

PHOENIZ, Arix., March 6—Tommy Byrns, last of the New York Yankee holdouts, capitulated today and joined the club at its spring training camp here.

The veteran lefthander, who won 15 games and lost 10 last season, agreed to terms by phone from his Wake Forest, N. C., home. It is estimated he has received a contract for $20,000, an increase of $2,000.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 6.—Big Bill Nicholson apparently has regained his old swish—and that's good news for Manager Eddie Sawyer and his Philadelphia Phillies.

The big rightfielder who was sent to the hospital last August suffering from diabetes, is swinging his bat with much the same gusto of old. He and his fielding are highlights of the daily workouts.

I had two chances to win a World Series game and I couldn't do it. I came pretty close once, but I still got beat. I really would like to win a World Series game for the Indians this year.

3. "If I have the same stuff I had last year, I think I can win 20. We'll have a better ball club—

Bridge, Sewer Program Nearing Completion Engineer Reports Here

Snyder's bridge widening and sewer expansion programs will be completed within a month, James V. Curnutte, engineer on the projects, said today.

Curnutte's firm, retained by the city to oversee the programs, has been in charge of the bridge building and storm sewer expansion program.

The bridge on Twenty - seventh street across deep creek to replace the one which collapsed with a truck last fall will be finished in about one month, but a curing period of about three weeks on the last pours of concrete will be necessary, Curnutte said.

One long storm sewer remains to be laid near the high school and central elementary school, but that too should be done within the month, he said.

Featherweight Is On Comeback Trail Again

NEW ORLEANS, March 6. (AP) — Former Featherweight Champion Willie Pep heads back to Florida today with another victory and hopes for winning back the title he has held twice.

Pep said after his 10 - round decision over Carlos Chavez here last night that he may be ready in June for a shot at the title now held by Sandy Saddler.

Boy Scout Drive Has Raised Sum To $4,750

Approximately $4,750 has been collected in the Boy Scout fund drive, Edward Bolger, finance chairman, said today.

There are still a few workers who have not reported back on their work, Bolger said. The council hopes to have complete reports and be able to end the campaign early next week, he stated.

Colonial Invitational Tournament In May

FORT WORTH, March 6. (AP) — Plans for the sixth annual $15,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament here are under way.

Last night the Colonial Country Club's board of governors voted to hold the tournament May 23-27.

J. Max Highfill, tournament chairman, indicated the first group of invitations for the select field of 36 players may be made at the Master's Tournament April 5-8 at Augusta, Ga. Play in the tournament is by invitation only.

Ten Places Still Left Open In The Two Big Tournaments

By JOE FALLS
(Associated Press Staff)

NEW YORK, March 6. — Illinois and St. Bonaventure have been added to the growing list of tournament teams, leaving 10 berths open in the NCAA and NIT basketball championships.

Illinois clinched the Big 10 title and an automatic post in the NCAA playoffs last night by outlasting Michigan State, 49-43.

Earlier, St. Bonaventure had agreed to participate in the NIT. This left only one place open for the Madison Square Garden tourney—probably for Oklahoma A&M.

The Aggies blew a chance to qualify for the NCAA by losing to Detroit, 62-52. It also prevented them from sewing up the Missouri Valley title. Now they'll have to win against Houston tomorrow night at Stillwater.

So here's the tournament picture following last night's games:

NCAA — Illinois (19-3), Columbia (21-0), Arizona (24-4), Brigham Young (24-7), Kentucky (27-2), North Carolina State (28-4) and Kansas State (21-3).

NIT — NC State, (28-4), Beloit (18-4), Lawrence Tech (20-2), Dayton (23-4). Arizona, Brigham Young, St. Louis (21-7), LaSalle (22-6), St. John's (32-3), Seton Hall (22-5) and St. Bonaventure (18-5).

There still are nine spots open in the NCAA. Six will be filled by independent teams, and three by the winners of the Missouri Valley, Southwest and Pacific Coast Conferences.

The NIT opens here Saturday with afternoon and night doubleheaders involving the eight unseeded teams.

Eliminations in the NCAA will be held in Kansas City, New York and Raleigh, N. C. The playoff game is set for March 27 at Minneapolis.

4 Texas Teams Vie For Crack At Tournament

By The Associated Press

Four Texas teams are left in the running for two places in the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament.

North Texas State, champion of the Gulf Cost Conference, was shoved out of the race last night when Southwest Texas State, champion of the Lone Star Conference, whipped the Eagles 79-57.

Southwest Texas State and Texas Tech, top Texas team of the Border Conference, get together today to decide the site and date of a playoff that will furnish one of the teams in the NAIB Tournament at Kansas City March 12.

The other spot will go to the winner of a game between Austin College, champion of the Texas Conference, and East Texas Baptist College, top independent team. They play at Greenville Thursday night.

Southwest Texas had little trouble winning over North Texas last night. The Bobcats were behind only once — in the first five minutes. They led at the half 40-31. Pat Kelly of North Texas was high point man with 21. J. C. Mayes paced the Bobcats with 17.

NMMI, Miami Go To Polo Semi-finals

NEW YORK, March 6. (AP) — Princeton will play Yale in a semi-final match in the National Intercollegiate Polo Championship tonight. The University of Miami which has won the title the last three years, will go against New Mexico Military Institute in the other semi-final Thursday, with the final slated for Saturday.

School Head Changes

GREENVILLE, March 6. (AP) — Ray D. Brown, superintendent of schools at Mt. Pleasant, was named head of Greenville schools last night. He succeeds J. A. Anderson who resigned to become superintendent at Lufkin.

The Matthews family has long been prominent in the cattle business in the section around Albany and Fort Griffin. It is a pioneer family of West Texas.

Unions Asking The Impossible For Defense Mobilization Men

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Nature must take its course. That's about what President Truman has decided is the way to meet the latest crisis in the defense program — the strike ordered by the major labor organizations against membership by labor members on any boards in th Office of Defense Mobilization.

This means that the President will await the opinion of the country. Do the rank and file members of the labor unions approve of the action taken by their leaders? Do the soldiers in Korea approve of the action taken by their leaders? Do the soldiers in Korea approve of any group which deliberately boycotts the defense operation and refuses to aid it after having been so requested by the President of the United

Do the American people think the American Federation of Labor, the CIO, and the railroad union representatives are acting patriotically in refusing to sit on government boards when they have been formally invited to serve?

The statement issued by these organizations gives as the main reason that they do not like the decisions and rules made by Charles E. Wilson, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization. A bitter attack is made upon him as being "arrogant" and unwilling to see the needs of labor as the unions see them.

This is tantamount to saying that the labor groups feel they can dictate who shall operate the defense program. It is apparently of no concern to them that the President, after canvassing the possibilities, came to the conclusion that Mr. Wilson, by virtue of his experience as president of the General Electric Company and in management positions for many years, was the man best qualified to do the job. Can any mobilization program really succeed if the President of the United States cannot choose his own executives?

RESIGNED

Mr. Wilson severed all business connections and resigned from his company to accept the position he now occupies. The labor unions claim that they have nobody on the top-level staff but, when Mr. Wilson invited them to name a man, they refused to do so apparently because one of the conditions stipulated was that the labor man should sever all connections with his labor union.

and became a full-pledged servant of the government of the United States and not of his private business.

Labor unions are entitled to a voice in public affairs but, until they come up with a man good enough to do a management job such as Mr. Wilson has on his hands, they can hardly expect to be given the responsibility for directing the entire program. But they will be the first to concede That they don't want the responsibility. So it all boils down to the fact that labor-union leaders still think of Mr. Wilson as they think of all big businessmen — just someone to insult and denounce, someone to characterize with invectives, and someone to harass at a time of world crisis when the responsibility of such a man is bigger than that of anyone else in the government, with the possible exception of the President.

REASON FOR QUESTION

If that's a sample of the kind of co-operation America is going to have from its economic groups, then maybe there is reason to be the mobilization program. For, when the leaders proclaim dissension as their slogan, the rank and file takes up the cry and concerned about the success of America is in for precisely the kind of internal disimity on the labor front which Communist agents would give their eyeteeth to bring out.

The labor-union leaders say they will let their representatives return to another kind of wage stabilization board but they openly threaten the government unless such a new board is set up as they want it. The penalty they prescribe is refusal to sit on any other boards in the war effort, even though those boards are not at all connected with the issues stabilization policy.

It certainly is a novel development — something unprecedented — to see the nation's foremost labor-union leaders telling the government they will not serve it anywhere else unless they can have their way on a matter of self-interest materialism. Such a challenge will not go unanswered either by the government or by the patriotic citizens of America, including the workers whose sons are among those who will do the fighting with the weapons and supplies which the Office of Defense Mobilization has been expected to assemble.

When Nasty Colds Leave You WEAK AND RUNDOWN HADACOL CAN HELP

If Your System Lacks Vitamins B_1, B_2, Niacin and Iron, Which HADACOL Contains

When a nasty cold leaves you in a weakened and run-down condition, HADACOL can help build you up if your system is lacking in Vitamins B_1, B_2, Niacin and Iron, important elements contained in HADACOL. Many folks have found that this fine family formula helps overcome these deficiencies and soon they feel good again.

Mrs. A. Jiminez, 141 East 13th St., Port Arthur, Texas, gave HADACOL to her young son, Floyd, after he had recovered from a bad cold when she heard how HADACOL was helping folks suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Niacin and Iron. It helped him so much in regaining his strength and energy that Mrs. Jiminez says she is always going to have HADACOL on hand for Floyd.

Here is Mrs. Jiminez's statement:

"My son Floyd was very subject to colds. He's eleven years old, and he was rundown, didn't seem to have an appetite at all, and just simply lacked energy. I heard about HADACOL on the radio, and it was about this time that Floyd was just recovering from a siege of a bad cold.

Floyd Jiminez

He was very rundown, lacked an appetite, and I started giving him HADACOL. After about a bottle and a half I could notice an improvement. His appetite picked up and he had increased strength. I think HADACOL has done wonders for Floyd, and can't praise it enough. I have continued to give him HADACOL and intend to always have it on hand for Floyd."

Men, women and children of all ages are praising HADACOL for supplying Vitamins B_1, B_2, Niacin and Iron which their systems lacked. Don't let that "After-Cold Run-down Feeling" drag you down—HADACOL can help you, too, if you suffer such deficiencies.

Sold on a strict money-back guarantee. You'll feel great after the first few bottles you take or your money back. Trial size, $1.25; large family economy size, $3.50.

Prison Tunneller Recaptured In Baltimore Holdup Attempt

BALTIMORE, March 5. (AP)—A radio jazz band blared out over the prison broadcast system. The brassy music disguised the steady chink, chink, chink of a chisel against concrete.

That was 20 months ago.

Joseph Holmes, 39 year old Maryland Negro, was on the first lap of a 70 foot tunnel to freedom; freedom that lasted only 13 days.

He was recaptured Saturday night when he tried a $5 holdup under the shadow of the Washington Monument in downtown Baltimore.

And today he'll be arraigned in city police court on "several charges" connected with the wild gunfight that preceded his arrest.

NONE HURT

No one was injured in the shooting.

Prison officials are still gasping over his fantastic escape.

The story of it goes like this.

For eight years he paced back and forth in the narrow confines of his cell, serving a 20-year sentence for burglary. Then in the first part of 1949 he began to worry about going "stir happy."

So he conceived a fabulous plan to dig himself free.

With a nail on the end of a stick he cut a rectangular trap door in the late floor of his cell. The cutting was accomplished, by punching tiny holes very close together.

That took about 40 days of painstaking work.

Next came 10 inches of concrete. A stolen chisel and hammer, wrapped in cloth to deaden the noise of the pounding, were brought into play.

RADIO HELPS

And the noisy prison radio helped.

It took about six months to chisel through the concrete. Each piece had to be pulverized and flushed down his cell toilet.

There were cell inspections twice each month. But Holmes stole cement from the prison workshop to disguise the outlines of his trap door.

Once through the concrete, he dug straight down through dirt for a distance of six feet.

Digging with stolen pieces of scrap metal he angled his tunnel as he expertly sighted toward the prison wall. Small amounts of dirt were carried each night in bags made of old clothing back into his cell where they went down the toilet.

KEROSENE LIGHT

Stolen kerosene in stolen bottles with cloth wicks provided light for his mole-like efforts.

Water seepage caused some trouble. But he dug an underground drainage pit, then carried the water out of it.

Twenty months after he started digging, Holmes burst through the sod in the prison yard.

With extra clothing in a hand-sewn bag and $152 he made running a numbers game in the prison, Holmes scaled a seven foot fence and dropped into the night—and freedom.

13 days later he was behind bars again.

Honest Harold Ickes Changes His Mind About Property Law

BY ALLEN DUCKWORTH
(Copyright 1951, Dallas Morning News)

"Honest Harold" Ickes' quick-change act is a curious angle in the "Big Garb"—the Federal Government's attempt to seize undersea oil lands from the states.

Changing is a part of Ickes' political nature.

He was supposed to be a Republican, but Ickes has worn the Bull Moose coat of Teddy Roosevelt, the Republican coat of Charles Evans Hughes, the Democratic coat of James M. Cox and Al Smith.

All were losers in presidential campaigns.

"Honest Harold" finally made a political touchdown in 1932 when Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected President. Roosevelt put Ickes in high cotton with a cabinet appointment to Secretary of Interior.

Now, for the oil angle.

Around the turn of the century it became known that oil could be found under the ocean bed. California pioneered in this exploration. Later, Texas and Louisiana came into the tidelands drilling picture.

Texas has taken in eight millions of dollars for its state school fund by leasing under - water lands to oil prospectors.

It was considered a matter of settled law that the states owned the land, and could lease it as htey saw fit.

Even "Honest Harold" Ickes thought the states had undisputed ownership on Dec. 22, 1933.

A fellow by the name of OLIN S. Proctor of Long Beach, Calif. wrote to Secretary Ickes and asked if he could lease some submerged land from the Federal Government.

"Honest Harold" told Proctor he couldn't get federal leases.

In a letter dated Dec. 22, 1933 "Honest Harold" quoted a Supreme Court of the United States opinion to Mr. Proctor to make it wuite clear to Mr. Proctor.

Ickes said it was a matter of "settled law."

"Title to the s oil under the ocean within the 3-mile limit is in the State of California.", wrote Ickes. He said the land could "not be appropriated except by authority of California."

This is amazing in light of later events.

Somehow or another "Honest Harold" changed his mind and the "settled law" became unsettled.

Just to refresh your memory, this happened.

The "Big Grab" plot was taken to Congress. California oil lands Congress was told, must be declared part of the federal domain. Only Congress had the power to do that it was argued. Suggestions that it could be made a court matter without consent of Congress were disputed then by the "Big Grab" crowd.

Congress refused to confiscate the California lands. It refused to grant permission to the attorney general to sue California.

It was then that the "Big Grab" plotters decided it was a court matter afer all — regardless of what Congress thought.

Later, when Congress decided to take action in favor of the states President Truman vetoed the resolution on the grounds that the matter was before the Supreme Court and Congress should not interfere.

In other words, it was a congressional matter only if Congress would rule their way.

But let us return to "Honest Harold's" quick-change exhibition.

Ickes admitted at a congressional hearing in 1946 that he had told Mr. Proctor that the Federal Government didn't have control of the underseas lands. Ickes said his mind began to change. He explained that "applicants (for federal leases), and their lawyers continued to insist that the United States does own the land and oil and that the Department (of Interior) does have the power to grant them oil and gas leases."

It is only natural that one would wonder who were the "applicants and their lawyers" who were able to sway "Honest Harold" from the "settled law."

A search through official records throws a bit of light on the identity of at least two applicants and one lawyer.

The evidence shows that Ickes was friendly to one applicant and took a personal interest in his application.

Robert W. Kenny, at that time attorney general of California, at a congressional hearing, introduced documents to show that

On May 17, 1944, Fred W. Johnson, land commissioner in Ickes' Department of the Interior at the time, wrote to the branch office in Los Angeles, Calif., and said he would like to have quick action on any oil and gas leass application presented by W. W. Chapin of San Francisco or C. P. Ritter of Los Angeles.

On June 24, 1944, Commissioner Johnson prodded the Los Angeles office with a telegram and urged that the Chapin-Ritter application be air-mailed to Washington if it had been filed.

When the reply came from Los Angeles, the lease application "Filed by C. P. Ritter, president of Consolidated Petroleum Company" for tidelands rights was enclosed.

With the application was this information

"Mr. Ritter presented a letter from the Secretary of Interior (Ickes) suggesting that he file an application and stating that he would get to the bottom of this matter pertaining to the tidelands."

Ickes testified at a later hearing that before the Ritter application was filed he had talked several times with Chapin. Ritter also called to see Ickes.

"He (Chapin) frequently came in to see me, usually when he was in Washington," Ickes testified.

Ickes said that Chapin's lawyer George Bush of Los Angeles, "was firmly of the opinion that the federal government, rather than the state of California, held the title to those tidelands."

Said Ickes "Mr. Chapin talked to me on two or three occasions about this. And, subsequently, Mr. Ritter came in. He went over the same ground." Chapin sent Ickes some letters written by Bush.

"Then I made up my mind that I thought the courts ought to decide this, since it was a legal matter," Ickes stated.

When Olin S. Procor wrote "Honest Harold" back in 1933 it was a matter of "settled law." But after conferences with Chapin and with Ritter, the law became unsettled.

Another interesting angle in the various testimony that Ickes gave about changing his mind involved the White House.

In 1946, when Ickes recalled about the beginning of his "doubts" he credited those doubts to lease applicants and their attorneys.

Two years later, he added the White House touch.

Ickes told congressmen that he had luncheon on April 27, 19[illegible] with President Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins and "the President raised the question as to the ownership of oil found under the ocean."

The late Ed Moore of Oklahoma, then in the United States Senate, was curious. He asked Ickes why he didn't say anything about Roosevelt raising the tidelands question in his former testimony.

Ickes said he had forgotten about the luncheon with the President of the United States and had just recently refreshed his memory by reading his diary.

Regardless of whether Roosevelt was interested, the record will show there was no dash to the Supreme Court by the "Big Grab" boys until after Roosevelt was dead.

Another item from Ickes' diary was questioned. It was in Ickes' testimony at a hearing in 194[illegible] when he referred to Hatton Sumners of Dallas, then in Congress and chairman of the powerful House judiciary committee. Ickes said he had talked to Sumners back in 1938 about California tidelands and Sumners was of the opinion "that the United States already has title."

Sen. Pat McCarran of Nevada went out and telegraphed Sumners who was in New Mexico. Sumners replied by wire

"I never entertained or expressed an opinion that the United States has title to tidelands and that suit ought to be instigated against California or any other state."

Texas History Written in Brands

BY JOHN M. HENDRIX

The T41 was used by Dunn and Bob Houston in Gonzales County in the early '70s, principally as a road brand. The T41 also had an outfit in Dickens and Motley Counties which they sold to the Matador Land and Cattle Company in 1880. Bob Houston was a noted trail driver and sent thousands upon thousands of Texas cattle north annually, having bought them from Texas coast cattlemen who preferred to sell their cattle, rather than make the long drive themselves.

There is mounted atop the city hall at Gonzales, Texas, an almost life-size steer of brass bearing the T41 brand. The bronze steer was purchased nearly three-fourths of a century ago by Bob Houston and was mounted on top of his residence in Gonzales as a tribute to Texas cattle and to the business in which he was engaged. When the old home was torn down the steer was mounted on top of the town's leading bank and when that building was remodeled the steer went on top the city hall as a weather-vane, where it is today. Prevailing winds keep the steer's head pointed due north most of the time and gives one the impression that the old fellow is gazing out over the long trails to Kansas and the Northwest over which so many thousands of his kind went in bygone days.

Luciano Denies Charges

Charles "Lucky" Luciano, left, deported New York underworld figure smiles and says talk of his being the czar of the underworld is "just a lot of baloney" as he arrived in Rome from Milan. At right is George Palmer, AP correspondent. Luciano was named by the Senate Crime Committee in Washington as the czar of a vast and secret underworld.

Czechs Under Fire From Red Bloc Countries

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER
(Associated Press Staff)

NEW YORK, March 6.—Unconfirmed underground reports received here last night from Czechoslovakia said that former Foreign Minister Vlado Clementis had been slain trying to flee his Communist captors and that President Klement Gottwald and Premier Anton in Zapotocky were under house arrest.

The special committee of free Czechoslovakia—a group of political exiles from the Red ruled Czechoslovakia—made the reports public.

OPPOSE DEMANDS

They said Gottwald and apotocky had opposed Russian demands that some of Czechoslovakia's heavy industry be dismantled and shipped to Poland and the Soviet Union. The two top officials were also said to have refused demands to send skilled Czech workers to factories in the Soviet Union.

The report said that Foreign Trade Minister Antonin Gregor had been removed from office and arrested in the same nationwide purge of "Titoist plotters" charged with putting national interests above those of the Soviet bloc.

BIG PURGE

Recent direct official announcements in Prague have said that more than 200 persons, including top Communist officials, have been arrested in the current purge. The government said Clementis was taken in custody for plotting to bring Czechoslovakia into the western camp.

There have been recurring rumors that Gottwald, too, was in Communist disfavor. As recently as 12 days ago however, he appeared before the Communist central committee in Prague and attacked Clementis as a tool of Western Powers and the leader of an anti-state plot

Farm Group All Out For Aged

By DAVE CHEAVENS
(Associated Press Staff)

AUSTIN, March 6. — The House Agriculture Committee did all it could last night to give Texas old folks a bigger cash crop minus mortgages.

It unanimously recommended passage of a proposed constitutional amendment removing the $35 million annual ceiling on state welfare spending.

As approved, the proposal includes no provision for a state-held lien on pensioners' property. Such a mortgage plan had been suggested in the House Constitutional Amendments Committee.

But last week the House took the measure away from the constitutional amendments committee and turned it over to the agriculture committee. When it did so, the mortgage proposal automatically withered and no effort was made last night to revive it.

To remove the ceiling, the Constitution would have to be amended. Submission of an amendment to the voters requires a two-thirds vote of both the House and Senate. During the 51st Legislature the ceiling-removal proposal was approved but it died on the last day of the session when the House and Senate deadlocked over mortgaging the old folks property.

4 Nominated By VFW Post

Four candidates have been nominated for the position of commander of Scurry County Memorial Post No. 8231, Veterans of Foreign Wars for the 1951-52 year at a post meeting last night at the Legion-V.F.W. clubhouse, according to Don Adams, post commander.

The four nominees include Claud Lyoyd Wilbur Ellis, Ed Chapman and [illegible] E. Clark, Jr.

Others nominated were Ray Neidecken and Truman Franks for senior vice commander; Harold J. Kru[illegible] junior vice commander; Leon Andress, Harry Chapman, Gilb[illegible] Fields and Hulen Stanfield for quartermaster; Ed Chapman, Wilbur Ellis and J. W. Holden for judge advocate, Frank Stephenson for chaplain; Ches Horsley and M. M. Clark for three-year term trustee; J. C. Williamson, Leon Streling, Claude Grey, J. B. Early, Jr. and Carl Taylor for two-year term trustee.

The annual election of officers will be held on the night of March 19, said Adams.

Jaycee Business Left In Tentative Stage At Meeting Last Night

Last night's Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting was devoted to discussions on a number of projects for the club, but all were left in a tenative stage, Dick Roberts secretary, said.

The club voted to locally endorse the Sweeney Diabetic Foundation, and are to invite a leader of the organization to appear here next Monday night, but have not contacted him with the invitation yet.

Discussion of sponsoring a baseball league was held, but no action taken.

The sponsoring of a talent show here by the club was decided against, Roberts said.

They also voted to have the United States Navy band appear here under the auspicies of the Jaycees, but later learned that an engagement could not be booked this year because of the band's full schedule.

Much discussion was devoted to the club's possibility of being selected as the leading new club of the state, and of its scrap book which will be submitted as evidence in the selection of the leader. A new Junior Chamber of Commerce club at Rotan is one of the Snyder club's strongest competitors for the honor, Roberts said.

Coin Sought To Escape On Ship

BALTIMORE, March 6. (AP)—Joseph Holmes, the tunneling convict, returned to Baltimore after his escape with the idea of getting "a ship out of the country."

Holmes said he has visited New Haven, Conn., Philadelphia and several other cities during the two weeks he was free.

The 39-year-old convict was caught near downtown Baltimore Saturday night after a $5 holdup in the vicinity of the Washington Monument.

He pleaded guilty in police court yesterday to carrying a gun and robbing Mrs. Mary Ruiz. But he denied he tried to kill Patrolman Frank Plunkett during the ensuing chase.

Holmes is held on a charge of being an escaped felon. He faces a maximum sentence of 42 years, besides the 10 years still pending on the 20 year burglary term for which he was serving time.

Holmes spent 20 months digging a 70-foot tunnel beneath his cell which led to freedom outside the prison wall. He made his break Feb. 18 but was captured less than two weeks later.
