Sutton Couple Slain

As of noon Tuesday no trace had been found of the person or persons who were responsible for the death Monday of a Sutton County couple. The couple, Teodoro Perez and his wife, Maria Garcia Perez, were apparently shot to death early Monday morning as they were preparing to eat breakfast. Uneaten food was still on the table and the stove in their home.

The 77-year-old man and his 72-year-old wife were found shot to death at their home on the Joe Stroube ranch about 20 miles east of here. Perez had worked on the ranch for the past 48 years, formerly employed by the Bundy family.

Sutton County Sheriff Pryce Taylor said his office was first notified about 1:30 p.m. Monday that the Perez' car was overturned on a road about two miles from the scene of the killings. Investigation found the car, which had been run through a fence, overturned and was resting on its top, and when officers went to the Perez home, the bodies were found.

Taylor said apparently the killers stole the Perez car after shooting them in order to get away. In the process of driving out of the ranch, the car was wrecked.

GRASSROOTS OPINIONS

NEW ROCKFORD, N. D. TRANSCRIPT: "More and more it is becoming evident there is a small band of revolutionaries who spare no effort to disrupt everything from prisons and colleges to firemen and law enforcement activities. Because they're few in number we tend to take their nonsense in stride. Maybe we should be more interested, Fidel Castro... told an American interviewer that not even one percent of the people in Cuba were real revolutionaries when he took control of the government. That's not too many either, is it?"

STAYTON, ORE., MAIL: "We got a chuckle from this little editorial item... 'Male New York school teacher are protesting the district's maternity leave program as sex discrimination. Not true. Any man who can qualify is eligible.'"

ATOONA, PA., MIRROR: "As the issue of gun control heats up in the Congress again... the current position of every senator and congressman assumes fresh interest and importance. You need to know where they stand and they need to know where you stand. It could be vital to the future of legitimate gun ownership."

BENNETTSVILLE, S.C., MARBORO HERALD - ADVOCATE: "Stop worrying about your competitors and start worrying about your customers. You've got a lot more customers that competitors, and your competitors never give you a nickel's worth of business and never will."

HOUSTON, TEX., TRIBUNE: "Perhaps we pay too much attention to the things that are wrong with our country, and too little to the things that are right about it. We might well pause to reflect now and then upon two facts: In recent years between 300,000 and 450,000 persons have immigrated into the U.S. yearly (besides a large number who entered illegally). They came here to better themselves, and because there were more things wrong with their native lands than with ours. And, on the other side of the coin, can you think of anyone who is keen on leaving this country to live anywhere else?"

NEWTON, MISS., RECORD: "Most people talk too much and listen too little, creating a communication gap. After we blurt out things that should have been left unsaid, we agree with this theory. On the average a person spends 30 percent of his communication hours in speaking, 45 percent in listening (including television time), 16 percent reading and 9 percent writing. These are averages, while many persons talk more, read less or none, write none and listen less."

VIEWPOINT

BY T. DRISKELL

You can find writings reaching back to a millennium B. C. in Egyptian, Greek, Roman and Gaelic all berating the fact that the younger generation is degenerating. The generation gap is real, and it has been with us throughout recorded history. Gap, however, is a somewhat feeble word to describe a vast gulf in language, thought patterns, behavior, and social standards.

Before we drape the blanket of condemnation over their deviation, let us take stock of our own generation. We began as the richest nation in the world. Now the interest on our national debt is about 30 million a day or 12 billion a year, take your choice. Our individual personal debt is both staggering and astounding.

We began with the dollar as the soundest currency on the world's money exchanges, and now unless we make urgent reforms we can paper outhouses with it. We consistently refuse to recognize these reforms, so our currency remains at the mercy of the Germans and Japanese, and they are not too long on mercy. It's a sore subject, so let's pass it with the notation, "Economically, we ain't been too astute."

Our foreign policy would become Leichtenstein (a small city state with the sale of postage stamps as a principal income). We represent throughout all social levels the greatest economic revolution the world has seen. Yet we consistently get caught with our trousers at half mast supporting an oppressive incumbent. The lists begin with Chiang, Rhee, Diem etc.

We have allowed ourselves to be painted as reactionary by the Communists when actually by comparison, they are the reactionaries. Top this with a "buy friends" policy and you can only conclude that diplomatically we blew it.

If Harvard, as they say, is the nest of American diplomacy, we must conclude from the results that even a weekend visit to that campus should bar an individual for life from diplomatic participation in our behalf.

We kill 50,000 a year on the highways, assisted by lunar studies through the bottom of a bottle. Yet, still we have taken no positive action to get the drunk driver off the road, so that slaughter goes on.

We loudly condemn youth for its lack of morality, yet intuitively one suspects that lack of discretion is the major offense. Remember even in the Continental Army days, camp followers often outnumbered the Revolutionary soldiers. Our past certainly has not been lily white. But we have been long on discretion which might be deemed hypocrisy.

We have a system of justice which seems somewhat economically biased. Somehow it seems that an individual with vast resources is not as heavily penalized for infractions as a poor man is. Yet we sit back and convince ourselves that all is well.

We have a tax structure where a man who makes $15,000 a year pays about $2000 and yet a man who makes $150,000 per year pays no taxes. Congress knows this and yet is extremely reluctant to correct the inequity. One wonders if that reluctance is significant.

Summing up my generation, its outstanding characteristic is a tendency toward stumbling incompetence, liberally seasoned with hypocrisy. We have not done so well, except in telling ourselves about it. We talk one game and play another. If you are looking for the source of the youth narcotic problem, that might be a good place to start.

I confess some worry about the ovine behavior of our youth, but my reference (my generations behavior) leaves me in doubt. I certainly cannot be sure it is a bad characteristic. Of only one thing I can be certain, if the next generation during their adult lives does not perform better than we did--God help them. In any case the generation gulf is necessary, and inherently I believe it is a blessing.

The Devil's River Philosopher Sez.... He Uncovers An Odd Consequence About Grain Failure in Soviet Union

Editors note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on the dry Devil's River discusses the weather this week, we guess.

Dear editor:
As everybody knows, Russia had a crop failure last year and consequently had to buy a billion dollars worth of grain from the United States, and I have found out another result of that failure.

Despite the fact that the failure was caused by the weather, the Russian leaders took what for them was the logical step. They fired the Minister of Agriculture.

I don't know how such things work over there, but I have an idea the next candidate for the job, before he accepts, will be giving close study to the long range weather forecasts.

And even then his future may be shaky. I was listening to a weather forecast out here the other day and the forecaster, in predicting why a cold front with rain didn't show up as he had predicted the day before, said, "It didn't move in according to schedule."

That's no way of putting it. Whose schedule? Under that system no forecaster can ever be blamed for being wrong. All he has to do is set up a schedule and if the weather goes the other direction it's the weather's fault, not his.

But back to Russia. When she decides to buy all that grain from the U.S. she sent her buyers over here and they quietly and cannily bought up all they needed at modest prices before the world found out how bad the weather had been over there and how short their grain crop was and how much U.S. grain farmers could have gotten for it if they'd known about it.

This year, reports are that the weather again is off schedule in Russia and the grain crop may be short.

But nobody knows, and this is what gets me. You mean to say that with our far-flung and expensive C. I. A. spy system we can't find out what the weather's like in a country that big? You mean the C. I. A. can tell us how many missile-firing submarines Russia has but can't tell us she needs a rain?

What have our men been doing listening to Russian weather forecasters instead of looking out of the window?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Six Flags Park Sets Opening

Six Flags Park Texas will launch its 1973 season March 17.

The St. Patrick's Day opening is the earliest in the 12-year history of the theme park. Attendance figures - 2,062,000 in 1972 - rank the multi-million dollar entertainment center as Texas' top tourist attraction.

The park, located in Arlington is midway between Dallas and Ft. Worth and has played host to more than 20,000,000 visitors since 1961.

A new, 5-acre section is being added for the 1973 season. Called "Good Time Square," the addition includes a game area, two major rides, a miniature circus, and other attractions.

Among other new features this year are a new fleet of miniature sports cars on the Happy Motoring Freeway, a strolling brass band, and entirely new shows in all of the park's theatres.

Six Flags will be open Saturdays and Sundays only until May 26 when daily operations begins the summer season. Springs and summer hours are 10 a.m. until 10 p.m.

A Bishop Looks at Life

LET US BEGIN

By Everett H. Jones, Retired Bishop of the Episcopal Church

LIFE IN BALANCE

No human custom continues thru the centuries unless it has great practical value. This thought comes to mind as we begin again the season of Lent.

One of the values of Lent is that it helps us put our lives in balance. To get this help we must first see how unbalanced we are.

We get unbalanced in regard to the claims of the body, the mind and the soul. God never intended the body to be our first concern but it has rightful demands that must be met—in terms of rest, exercise, moderation in food and drink, and recreation. Let your resolution be according to your need.

Often we give our minds such a poor diet they suffer from malnutrition. The least we can do for them this Lent is to read at least one thoughtful book with solid nourishment in it. As a suggestion I recommend "Journey Inward, Journey Outward" by Elizabeth O'Conner (Harper and Row), a book about the balance needed in our religious life today.

Certainly our souls are often neglected to the point of starvation. Someone has said many of us could be described in these words: "Soul dead—body well alive." There are available all the time-tested sources of spiritual food in church, Bible study and prayer—as well as many new forms of prayer cells, renewal conferences and retreats, and services of lay witness.

Even those of us most active in good works, both in the Church and in the community, need to look at our balance. Are we taking quiet time for meditation and self-examination? Are we so busy we are neglecting our homes and families? Do we have the right priorities?

We shall be helped this Lent if we consider anew the balance in Jesus' life—how he alternated between prayer and action, between withdrawal and involvement, between the word "Come" and the word "Go." To regain this kind of balance is to experience what he called "wholeness of life."

Hospital Auxiliary

GM RECALLS CARS

DETROIT -- General Motors has recalled 3.7 million 1971 and 1972 cars to correct possible steering lock-ups. Full-size 1971 and 1972 Chevrolets, Buicks, Oldsmobiles and Pontiacs were being recalled.

BLOSSOMS OF EVERY KIND are evident around town. Makes one wonder what Mother Nature has in store for the fruit crop this year.

TIME and TIDE

Curious, isn't it, how people look at life so differently? To some there is an irresistible desire to cope with the tides of life by escaping from dullness to new lands and faces. To others the answer seems to lie in the foaming breakers, with the sinister desire to end existence completely. And yet to others the waves of life speak of plan and order and a sureness and perfection in creation.

And so it is with time! One person begrudges every second as a relentless march toward the end of life. Another sees the sands of time as a slow and painful journey. And to still another, it is the golden passing of each day ordered and well-planned.

What shapes these different viewpoints? The Christian sees, in the certainty of seconds and the regularity of tides, a revelation of the order and beauty that God perfects in His works.

Every man needs God and His Church to give his life its noblest point of view.

Natural Resources--Meeting the Needs of People

Our country is utilizing its natural resources much too quickly. Every day more and more resources are used. In my opinion, using the natural resources cannot be evaded, but I am sure we can use them more wisely. One of our natural resources which needs conservation is water. Our water is becoming more and more polluted every day and our people are often careless in the way they use the water because they take it for granted. Already, some cities are rationing their water because of the lack of it and the need of conservation.

Soil is another resource which needs conservation. Soil is being washed away every day by erosion. Directly or indirectly, our soil is responsible for all of the food we eat. If it were washed away there may not be enough food for our growing population. The conservation of timber is needed badly in our country. Timber is our people's greatest source of building material and has many other important uses. Each year forest fires destroy large portions of our timber supply because of careless citizens. Our people need to stop being careless and start being conservative.

Air pollution is one of our country's greatest problems. Every day factories and cars release harmful pollutants into our air. The factories and automobiles must find another way to produce power and until they and other sources of air pollution do we will not be safe from air pollution. Our large population is growing too fast for our resources to catch up. Statistics show that every three seconds a baby is born in this country. If our population continues to grow, resources won't be plentiful. Our resources will meet the needs of our people if we use them more wisely, but when our resources go, we go!

Natural Resources Meeting the Needs of People

What if there were no soil? Imagine the land without trees, water, or air! Where would fish swim or birds fly? Or even worse, what if it did not have animals? What would the world do then? Conservation protects all of these natural resources so the world will have them not only now but later. Soil is one of the most important natural resources for, as you can see, without soil there could be no beginning. Soil is just finely ground rock mixed with decayed plants. That does not sound like much, but have you ever thought of what spectacular thing it can do? Why it can grow from little grass to huge trees.

Water is as important as soil. Without water, how would the soil produce plants? Water has many uses. Water helps to operate huge factories and machines.

It is also used for drinking purposes. And as you know, your body is 89 percent water. Just think of the millions of tons of cargo that cross rivers, lakes and seas each year.

Plant life comes next in importance, for without plants, many things we take for granted could not happen. For one, the soil would wash away; for another, man could not live because he would not have any food. And just picture what our world would look like without plants!

Wildlife is very important too because of its beauty to the world and because of the balance of nature. Many wild animals are dying out, some because of a lack of food or shelter and still others because of the hunting craze. In recent times, more interest is being put on wildlife conservation. There are now laws that limit the number of animals one can kill.

Another important natural resource is our minerals. There are many kinds of minerals in many different places. One of the places is under the soil. Some of them are coal, copper, gold, iron, petroleum and many more. Minerals cannot be replaced like so many other natural resources!

There are many conservation problems, but pollution is one of the biggest. For it can ruin all of the other natural resources. It can fill the lakes and rivers so that the fish die because there is no fresh, clean water. The birds cannot fly because of the smog and pollution that has filled the sky. So to help "Keep America Beautiful", keep it clean. Don't let America get polluted. Keep it beautiful.

There is soil! We do have water to drink! There are plants and animals. We do have minerals. There is recreation! We do have beauty. All these we need badly for many purposes! Pollution takes away from all of this, but we can overcome anything if we work together to keep America beautiful. Let's remember--"Together we stand, divided we fall!"

Contract for Lifetime Care

"You get everything I own. In return, I get complete care for the rest of my life."

In effect, this was the agreement that an elderly widower made with a retirement home. And when he died a few years later, the management put in a claim for his remaining assets.

However, the man's relatives went to court with an objection. "This was gambling, pure and simple," they argued. "No one knew how many years he would live. No one knew how much property he would have when he died. And gambling contracts are illegal."

But the court saw nothing illegal about the contract. Finding it no more of a gamble than an insurance policy, the court said the law had no objection so long as both parties understood what they were doing.

In most cases, contracts for lifetime care have been upheld as lawful and reasonable. Courts say they serve a useful purpose for those who want the security of a safe haven in their declining years.

Nor does the contract become invalid just because it happens to work out better for one side than the other.

In one case, a retirement home got a financial windfall because a relatively young resident, after paying a large membership fee, died within a few months.

In another case, a retirement home tried to back out of its contract after paying hospital expenses for an ailing resident for more than four years.

But in both cases, despite complaints, the courts ruled that a deal was a deal and had to be carried out.

Still, a contract might be invalidated by deception. One retirement home carefully avoided telling an incoming resident that he was signing over all of his property.

In this case, after the man died, his property was held to belong to his children, not to the home. The court said it could not fairly enforce an agreement on which there was no "meeting of the minds."

Natural Resources: Meeting the Needs of the People

"Once I filled my hand with mist. Then I opened it and lo, the mist was a worm. And I closed and opened my hand again, and behold there was a bird. And again I closed and opened my hand, and in its hollow stood a man with a sad face, turned upward. And again I closed my hand, and when I opened it there was naught but mist. But I heard a song of exceeding sweetness."

Kahlil Gibran was aroused by the metamorphic nature of man and man's intuitional dependence on the body of the earth. At the time when Gibran held the mist in his hand, man was indeed a monumental existence, and it was indeed obvious that man existed from and by the earth. Man felt that his death would replace the elements that had erected him.

Today man is threatening himself by squandering not only the elements that carry on his existence, but also the natural "mist" that developed him. Today man is raping himself of his air, his water, his soil, his food, and his life. Starving in greed, man grabs more than he needs from earth, losing most of it to a spacious nothing. His soul feels a spark of guilt, but his ferocious, rapacious body continues to reduce the earth to a barren, sterile rock.

Man can no longer afford to indulge carelessly on the earth. He must now begin to achieve a re-creation; he must replace soil for soil--not concrete for soil; he must replace a tree with a forest, not with a house; he must have a sea of water, not of tears; he must breathe air, not dust; he must be made of "mist", not a filthy fog.

I pray that man will never become so inept that he would allow nature to escape into space. He has forever manipulated nature at his will, but only now is nature compelling man. Those souls that feel the guilt will continue the species of man. Those bodies that feed heedlessly on the earth will come to a timeless, and camal end.

Shamrocks For Dystrophy Planned

Members of Sonora Future Homemakers Chapter will be downtown next Friday asking you for donations for the Muscular Dystrophy drive, announces Mrs. A. E. Prugel, who is in charge of the drive. The drive is a special project of Future Homemakers and they send all money they have collected to the Muscular Dystrophy Association which sponsors research into the cause and treatment of this disease. Each person who makes a contribution receives a green shamrock pin. "Wear a lucky shamrock so some child will be lucky to have received your help in his fight against muscular dystrophy," the girls say.

Mike Mansfield, Senate Majority Leader: "We should try to work within that ceiling outlined by Mr. Nixon."

Broncos Run To Second Place In Cactus Meet

Sonora thin clads chalked up 125 1/2 points Saturday in the Cactus Relays at Iran good for the runner-up trophy. Rankin won the meet with 144 points as they had more team depth than did the Broncos.
 Bruce Kerbow led his team with a whopping 34 total points and has been selected as "Red Hoss" of the week. Bruce finished 1st in the 120 high hurdles in 15.5; first in the 330 intermediate hurdles, 42.0; first in the high jump, 5'10" and ran a 52.6 440 leg of the second place mile relay.
 Steve Street turned in an outstanding performance with 25 points. Steve led the field to the tape in the 100-yard dash in 10.0 and then fairly blazed to a 22.4 clocking in the 220-yard dash. He also ran a good second leg of the first place 440 relay.
 Wesley Richardson did his usual good work in both relays as he anchored the 440 relay to victory finishing far ahead of the pack. He also ran a neat 52.0 anchor leg of the mile relay. In the 220, Wesley found that Street had run the curve exceptionally fast and had built a four-yard lead coming out and this lead was too much to overcome as Wesley finished in a good 22.5 clocking just a step behind the fast stepping Street.
 Ladd Turner found his confidence and pushed the shot 46'-7 1/4" for second place. He threw 48'5" Monday, so maybe Ladd is coming into his own as a shot putter.
 John Brown keeps getting stronger and stronger and has his eyes set on the district championship in the mile run. He ran a 5:09.3 in high winds Saturday, good for a third place. Look for John to be down below 4:50 this week.
 OTHER RESULTS:
 Wade Richardson—100 yard dash 6th, 10.6; 220 yard dash, 6th, 23.6; pole vault, 3rd, 10'4"; first leg of 440 relay.
 Johnny Gonzales Miliken, 5th, 5:13.5.
 Larry Cade, pole vault, 6th.
 John Weston, Long jump, 4th, 17'2"; 2nd leg of mile relay; 3rd leg of 440 relay.
 Jimmy Galindo, 880, 4th, 2:15.3; first leg of mile relay.
 This Saturday the Broncos will be in the Plateau Relays at Eldorado. Drive up and give a cheer!

THE 7th, 8th and B-TEAMS won all three divisions of the track meet held here last Friday. The 8th grade team proudly displays the trophy they won for the team's tremendous effort. Coach Bill Harle predicts great things for many of this year's tracksters, including the high school age group.

Accent on Health

If you sneeze and sniffle during the ragweed season, if you have cramps, diarrhea, or rash after eating a particular food or drug, if you wheeze or itch when around a cat, a horse, chicken feathers, or some other substance--then you may be suffering from an allergy.
 An allergy is an unusual reaction to a substance, an abnormal behavior of the body to it. Half of the people in the world sneeze or sniffle, wheeze or itch, suffer intestinal disturbances or other uncomfortable symptoms because of their allergies. Half of the adult population in Texas and one-third of our children are afflicted, say state health officials.
 In some it occurs only at certain seasons of the year, in others at fairly long intervals, while in many it is a daily problem.
 When the allergy-producing substance enters your system and comes in contact with the antibodies in the cell, that union produces dramatic effects. The best known of the results of these miniature explosions is the release of the chemical histamine from the cell. Normally, presence of histamine stimulates production of adequate amounts of antihistamine which would of course cause no symptoms to develop. Sometimes enough antihistamine is not produced to counter the levels of histamine.
 Histamine is perfectly harmless when inside the cell, but once released outside the cell it produces undesirable changes. It dilates and congests blood vessels so that fluids from your blood stream leak out into the tissue, causing swelling.
 If this change takes place in the skin the result is hives. If this reaction occurs in the nose, the membrane swells and you have a condition known as hay fever or "sinus." Another action of histamine is to contract or put into spasm involuntary muscle fibers--muscles not controlled by your own will, such as stomach, intestine, urinary bladder, or the uterus. If this muscle effect takes place in the muscle fibers around the bronchial tubes, asthma is the result; if in the intestine, cramps and diarrhea may be the effect.
 At least one in three Texans who have untreated hay fever will develop asthma, say state health officials. In many cases, seasonal asthma may fail to subside with the end of the season and may become chronic.
 Among the most common forms of respiratory allergy is "pollinosis"--a respiratory reaction to pollens. Tree pollens cause trouble from about the middle of March to the middle of May, grass pollens from May to August, and ragweed pollen from approximately the middle of August to October. Because they come in direct contact with the tissues, only small amounts of pollen are required to produce symptoms.
 The severity of hay fever varies in different part of the country, from season to season and day to day. It is largely dependent on the weather conditions during the growth of the plant, and the temperature, humidity, sunshine and wind velocity during the pollination time.
 Molds commonly grow on plant life, and the seeds (or spores) are microscopic in size, many of them being even smaller than pollen. The kinds of molds which produce hay fever and asthma are particularly prevalent on grains, such as wheat, oats, rye and corn. Next to pollen, molds are the most common causes of seasonal hay fever and asthma.
 Then there is contact dermatitis. If you go for a hike in the woods you may suffer an inflammation of the upper layers of the skin, varying from redness to blisters and also accompanied by itching. It is an allergy caused by direct contact of the causative substance. Poison ivy dermatitis is one of the best known examples of this kind. Poison ivy is not a poisonous plant. No one is affected by it the first time he touches it. Only on subsequent exposure does an allergy show up in about half or more of the persons. But many other plants and common substances in use in the house can produce this disease.

 Three factors may play a part in the production of allergic illness. Susceptibility is one. Only certain people have the ability or the background to become allergic. Granting you have this background, you still must become sensitized to a special substance and then be re-exposed to it. If you avoid either of these steps, you will have no allergic illness. A third factor is what might be called contributing factors. Various conditions--temperature, chemical irritants, dust, emotional disturbances, etc.--may aggravate allergies or trigger their attacks. But by themselves they do not cause allergic symptoms.
 If there is a family history of an allergy either on the father's or mother's side, then the disease frequently manifests itself in the offspring. But the allergy they develop will not necessarily be the same type as their parents'.
 Specific allergy tests can be given by your doctor to discover the substances to which you are reacting. Specific desensitizing treatments may be given to build up immunity gradually. Prevention and avoidance of the offending substance, if possible, is the most effective means of dealing with an allergy.

Homemaker's Notes

Consider sheets when decorating on a budget... they're economical, colorful and versatile. Today's sheets are available in a wide variety of colorful solids, prints and designs.
 Home decorators should find several possibilities to fit family tastes and fancies. Sheets make numerous decorating accessories... indicating their versatility.
 For example, they make excellent cafe curtains and full draperies. In fact, a home decorator can achieve complete window coordination by cutting a motif from a sheet and applying it onto a windowshade.
 Chair and sofa cushions, extra pillows and throw pillows covers all can be constructed from sheets.
 They're ideal covers for oval and round tables since they're wide enough to form circular, floor length tablecloths.
 Turning to bedroom accessories, dust ruffles add a decorative and dressy appearance. To make dust ruffles, cut an old sheet the size of the box springs. Cut the ruffle from a new sheet, allowing enough width to reach from floor to top of the box springs. Attach ruffle to old sheet and place between springs and mattresses.
 In addition, sheets can make attractive quilts. A decorative sheet is used as the quilt top, with machine stitching around the major motifs, as in doing quilted upholstery.
 A luxurious appearance can be accomplished simply by creative thinking and little effort.

Youths To study Horsemanship At San Angelo Clinic

What makes a rider and his horse, as the saying goes, really click?--both in competition and for pleasure?
Sutton County youths can seek the answers at a day-long clinic this month in San Angelo, as experts demonstrate, for example, the art of western pleasure riding.
Scheduled from 9 to 4:30 March 17 in San Angelo Coliseum is the 4-H Horse Clinic for District 7 of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and despite its 4-H base, the clinic is open to everyone.
Sutton County Extension Agent Clint Langford said purposes of the March 17 clinic are three-fold: to promote the area 4-H program and riding clubs, to help adult leaders help 4-H members carry out horse projects, to help anyone interested in the practices of good horsemanship.
Those to be in San Angelo from Sutton County include about 20 4-H members and adult leaders. Billie Galbreath, local 4-H horse leader, will be in charge of the Sutton County 4-H group.
Instructors are to be two Extension horse specialists out of College Station, B. F. Yeates and Dr. Gary D. Potter, teaching those practices related to showing the animal at halter, training it in basic maneuvers to western horsemanship, to competition in reining and in such timed events as barrel racing and pole bending, and to western pleasure.

Beef Herds Grow

Most cattlemen would have to have a good memory to recall the last time they bought a cow for $200. Today, higher calf prices are continuing to expand the demand for breeding cows and heifers.
Of course, this demand is showing itself in the increased size of beef cow herds.
"On January 1 of this year we had about 6.3 million breeding cows and heifers in Texas--that's a 16 percent increase over the year ago level," explains Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "The rate of growth in Texas is ahead of the rest of the country. This emphasizes the increased reliance of the feeding industry upon Texas as a source of feeder animals."
What effects will the larger cow herds and increased production have on prices for the rest of the year?
Uvacek offers these predictions:
Beef cattle marketings in the first quarter should be moderately larger than a year ago, but not large enough to cause any severe price reductions.
Supplies of finished cattle by the second and third quarters are expected to be near or below year earlier levels, thus holding prices up.
Marketing for the fourth quarter will probably be up from last year, and will cause a little price weakness toward the end of the year. However, placements of cattle into feedlots during January, February and March will greatly affect the marketing levels in the third and fourth quarters of the year.
"Feeder cattle prices will be reinforced by a strong demand feedlots for replacement animals," the specialist adds. "Spring price gains this year may again be substantial and will, undoubtedly, record new record high levels."
